GREATEST COMBINE KNOWN

All Bituminous Coal Companies in Greatest Coal Producing States Have Consolidated Into One Gigantic Syndicate Representing Three Hundred Million Dollars

Pittsburg, Sept. 3, via Skagway, Sept. 10.—The Daily Post will say tomorrow morning: "All the bituminous coal companies owning and operating mining plants or owning undeveloped coal lands in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, West Virginia and Kentucky have been formed into one gigantic corporation by the merging of the interests of the various syndicates. Upwards of three hundred million dollars are involved in the combine which is the longest now in existence from a financial standpoint. The big combination is one of the direct results of the strike now on and which has very seriously effected the coal dealers."

Whether Blaine is in Washington or British Columbia... Vancouver, Sept. 4, via Skagway, Sept. 10.—It is currently reported now that the international survey will throw fully one-half of the town of Blaine, Whatcom county, Washington, into British Columbia. A joint national survey of the international boundary line will be made next year and until then nothing definite will be known.

QUESTION OF ENDURANCE

Is Now Condition of Strike at Pittsburg... Pittsburg, Sept. 3, via Skagway, Sept. 10.—The strike is now becoming practically a question of endurance of the two factions. The Labor Day demonstration failed to give the strikers any material advantage. Steady gains are being made by the manufacturers and many mills are resuming work.

BIG CUT IN RATES

Manager Calderhead Slashes to $20 and $15... Manager Calderhead of the Klondike Corporation Co., created consternation in steamboat circles this morning by announcing on his bill board and by the criers on the street that the rate to Whitehorse on the next trip of the steamer Flora which will be due in a couple of days would be $40 first-class and $15 second-class. The rate war which was announced a few days ago as being declared off has sprung to life again with more force than ever and the result is watched with great interest.

THE WINTER OUTLOOK.

Many men who have had lucrative employment during the past summer are preparing to leave for the outside to spend the approaching winter. For the most part they anticipate that the savings of the summer will enable them to pass the season of cold weather in comfort...

In respect to this condition of affairs it may be said that the teachings of experience are all to the contrary. The same contentions were made last year, that no winter work would be done, but operations were conducted upon a large scale all winter long.

Stroller's Column.

In glancing through a Southern exchange a few days ago the Stroller came upon the following:

"An Oklahoma editor, who is a deep thinker, has fixed a table of rates for publishing things, 'not as they seem,' says the Jefferson (Tex.) Jimblets, as follows: 'For calling a man a successful citizen when every one knows he is lazier than a government mule, $2.75; referring to a deceased citizen as one who is sincerely mourned by the entire community when he knows he will only be missed by the poker circles, $1.08; referring to some gallivanting female as an estimable lady whom it is a pleasure to meet, when every business man in town had rather see the devil coming, hoof, horns and all, than to see her coming the squib and mildly inquired what was wrong with it.

"I want to know, sah, if you think that sufficient notice to give a membah of the family of Bubbon when that membah goes off on a visit, sah, and especially, sah, when it is the first time a membah of the family has been outside the county fo' five yeas? Now, sah, take yo' pencil and write another notice fo' my daughtab which you will publish tomohrow in yo' papah. Write as I dictate. Three minutes later and in a trembling voice the Stroller read for his visitor's approval the following:

"Miss Arabella Bourbon, the beautiful, charming and accomplished daughter of Colonel Bourbon, our distinguished fellow citizen who is the per-towards them, $3.19; calling an ordinary pugpit founder an eminent divine, 50 cents; sending a tough sinner to heaven with poetry, $5."

When the Stroller ran a newspaper in the South he considered himself fortunate if he got off by saying nice things about the people at their bidding and without any extra pay. Early in his newspaper experience in the land where the gentle foot of the aligator is heard the Stroller learned why nice things about people without getting bills for it afterwards. He learned to felicitate himself on every issue of his paper that did not come him to be shot at or chased back in his office by a razor every time he started to the postoffice. To speak of the leading citizens with respect was one of the first things he learned after entering the area of Southern journalism. One day the office devil remarked that the big, gawky daughter of sonification of all that is embodied in that almost hallowed expression, 'Southern gentleman,' left yesterday on a two weeks' visit to friends in St. Augustine. Miss Arabella will be much missed in local society circles in which she is the acknowledged leader and that her appearance in the Ancient City will be the event of the season goes without saying. Our own city will be prosaic and dull pending Miss Arabella's return."

"Now, sah," said Old Bourbon after bearing the article read, "hand that to yo' fohman and ordah him to put it in type at once, and yo', sah, come with me and we will repah to a gentleman's resort and have some Uhuah."

In, after years and when Arabella Bourbon had outgrown her gawkiness and developed into a beautiful young woman the Stroller was wont to spruce up like a freshly laundered snowflake

WHAT THE TENNESSEAN WOULD LIKE TO SEE IN THE YUKON.

Old Bourbon had gone to St. Augustine on a visit and that evening a personal to the paper said: "Miss Arabella Bourbon left today on a visit to friends in the Ancient City."

Before the paper had been on the street 20 minutes Old Bourbon came up the stairs these steps at a time. He had a copy of it in one hand, a big double-action gun in the other and blood in both eyes. "Show me the woman that wrote this!"

"I understand that wrote this!" said he as he landed in the editorial room puffing like an exhausted freight engine.

The Stroller informed him in a hoarse tone of voice that he had written and take her to the theater to see Joshua Whitcomb or to John Robinson's circus.

Only four weeks ago the Stroller received a letter from Arabella. She said she is still single and hinted that age has only served to add lustre and finish to her form and beauty. She closed her letter with: "Keep me posted as to your wife's health."

"Pears ter me zif some mistake has been made in the arrangin' of dis hyer kentry," said the old Tennesseean in the presence of the Stroller a few days ago. When asked on what he based his belief, the gentlemen from the Cumberland mountain country said:

"Wall, I've been in dis hyer kentry night out'er three year and durin at ar time I hafint seed nary possum. An yit ther woods is full o' berries and all etin' wot' possums likes an yit ther aint none hyer; an dat's why I reckon there's been a mistake made in ther populatin' of dis kentry. An' yit I seed sweet taters at a store here tuther day. Think on it! Sweet taters in 'er kentry whar thar aint' no possums, and 'thout possums and white licker, I reckon thar aint' much spice in life. And evolvin' a scheme in his head to transplant 'possums from Tennessee to the Yukon, also to go up the Klondike a few miles and institute a still for the manufacture of 'white licker,' the mountaineer went to his cabin to dream of the ol' 'oman and children far away in a cabin in the Cumberland range, a country which Opie Reid aptly described in his book entitled "The Wives of the Prophet."

Captain Norwood the well known master marine and mining man has not confined his boating to the Yukon all his life; in fact for much of his life he was engaged in whaling in the north seas and many and wierd are the stories he can tell of the days when a two years' cruise was not an uncommon thing in his life. In his vocation the captain came in contact with many odd characters as it is an old saying that whale hunters are about the toughest of all sea-faring men. In reviewing his reminiscences in the presence of a party of congenial spirits a few evenings since Captain Norwood said:

"One of the oddest characters I ever met was a man who shipped with me on a whaling expedition as ship's blacksmith. The man I had engaged disappointed me at the last moment and just as we were ready to sail, and the man I refer to was taken on his own recommendation. There was no need for the blacksmith's services until we were well out on the voyage when one day I asked him to set the forge up on the deck and make some iron pins for use in the ship's rigging. He did so, but as soon as I saw him begin work I thought to myself that he went at it like a novice. He put his after bar of iron in the fire and then blew the bellows until they would melt like lead. I was quietly watching him from around a corner and after he had dropped several stubs of bars overboard, thinking he was unskilled, I went over to him and told him that his extravagance was rather more than my stock of iron aboard would permit and then asked him whether he learned the trade of blacksmithing. He replied that he had never learned it. In my astonishment I said to him 'What are you?'"

For reply he stepped to a clear place on the deck and to my profound surprise turned a forward somersault, then a back somersault, then he leaped into the air and turned a double back somersault, alighting right at my feet. He looked at me, laughed in my face and said: "I am a circus clown and had been for seven years previous to signing with you as blacksmith."

"Did you knock him down with a baying pin?" asked one of the captain's auditors.

"I did not touch him," continued the old skipper. "I was so taken back by his actions and statement that for once in my life all the characteristics of a master of a whaler deserted me. I simply sent him 'forrad' and put him to work as a sailor and to his credit I must say that he became one of the best men I ever saw before the mast before that voyage was completed. But the fascal had shipped with me as blacksmith merely as a 'lark' and possibly because he had become disgusted with the sawdust ring."

Katherine's Question.

Katherine is 2½ year old. Her father came home the other afternoon after working three days and nights under high pressure, with no sleep to speak of, and lay down with the feeling that he might not wake up for a week. Within five minutes the battle of Manila bay would not have aroused him.

Three-quarters of an hour later, from the depths of his dreams, he heard a clear, small voice:

"Father! Father! Father! Father!"

The sleeper stirred and sank deeper. "Father! Father!"

He stirred again and moaned. "Father! Father! Father!"

He struggled and resisted and floundered and finally raised his eyelids like a man lifting giant weights. When sight came to him, he saw Katherine smiling divinely beside his couch.

"Father! Father!"

"What is it, daughter?"

"Father, are you having a nice nap?"

Management.

"Don't you think you lose patience with your husband on rather slight provocation?" said the near relative.

"I have to provoke him sometimes," was the placid answer, "so that he will lose his temper and then give me anything I want so as to atone for the way he has acted."—Washington Star.

BEWARE OF TAR PAPER

As Its Use in the City May Result Disastrously.

Essence of tar is known to be good for the lungs; but tar cooked into paper and that paper used for a roof instead of shingles, tin, corrugated iron or even real estate, becomes a menace to property, consequently a dangerous substance.

In Magistrate McCauley's court this morning the Standard Commercial Company, by its agent, Mr. Edward Murray, was in the lonesome box on the charge of having a building which a tar paper roof protects from the elements. The charge was preferred by Inspector Bullock of the fire department, who said the menace in question is situated on First avenue contiguous to the buildings of the large companies and that the latter are unable to procure insurance on account of its proximity. The magistrate enlarged the case for a week and ordered the agent to remove the cause of danger immediately which will be done by covering the inflammable substance with a tin roof which is another name for a free drink, because it is on the house.

His Special Graft.

"Don't believe me, hey?" smiled the tough looking tramp who had taken a stool in a Grand River avenue drug store and asked for a free dispensation of some spiritus frumenti as a nerve tonic. "I'm giving it to you straight. I used to run just as nice a place as this in this very street. Got a hard prescription there? If I can't compound it just as well as your own pharmacist, I'll go out of here dry."

Then he entertained the proprietor by reading off the Latin labels, translating them and telling the use of the different drugs as none but an expert could. He was a "sure enough" druggist.

"How on earth did you ever lose your grip?" asked the proprietor after setting out a graduated glass with a double dose of the medicine called for.

"It's one of the strangest stories you ever heard of but it's straight. I was alone in the store about 10 o'clock at night when a well dressed man rushed in and told me in gasps that his wife had taken a dose of arsenic by mistake some five minutes before. I couldn't leave but I gave him an antidote and told him to run for all he was worth and to call a doctor as soon as he had given the medicine. Next day he was back and told me that before the week was out he would give me an evidence of his appreciation that would put me on easy street.

"The races were on and Thursday morning he called, and took me into the back room and put me on to a sure thing at 50 to 1. He was on the inside and was going to put every dollar he could raise. He advised me to do the same, and I did, cleaning out my bank account, getting my wife's savings, putting a chattel mortgage on my stock and making my grateful friend my agent to place the money."

"And the horse lost?"

"Was no such horse. The man's wife never took poison, because he had no wife—nothing but an elaborate confidence game, and I've been hunting him ever since."

"Heavens, what luck!" Have another. Put this flask in your pocket."

"That romance grafts 'em," smiled the tramp as he headed down the avenue. "Never knew it to fail."—Ex.

The Old Home.

"Back again to the old home," cried the great emotional actress as she stepped through the wings and stood for a moment until the calcium man got the right focus.

"Back again," she continued, going upon the stage so that her Parisian costume would get all there was in the calcium tank.

"Back to the scenes of my childhood after all these long y'ars."

Be it known that when an actor lady says "y'ars" she shows that she loves her art.

With trembling hand she searched the room saying:

"It must be here; it must be here! I left it here long, long y'ars ago."

The audience held its breath and swallowed cloves and allspices in its intense excitement.

"Yes, yes," she continued, "I have found it! I knew it was here. Ah, those happy childhood days!"

And she brought to view the piece of chewing gum she had concealed under the chair that happy day long, long "y'ars" ago, when Gerald Mortimer had asked her to be his'n.

CAPTAIN SCARTH BANQUETED

Previous to His Departure to Fight the Boers

By His Fellow Officers and Many Friends - Pleasant Compliments Were Passed.

One of the most successful affairs transpiring in Dawson for sometime was the banquet given yesterday evening at the officers' mess at the barracks in honor of Inspector W. H. Scarth, who leaves today for Ottawa preparatory to joining the Baden-Powell constabulary in South Africa, in which he holds a captain's commission. Covers were laid for 50 guests and none overlooked the invitation. The menu was both lengthy and elaborate and with the final course came the speeches and toasts of the evening. If "Billy" Scarth ever had any doubt as to his popularity not only with his fellow officers but with the leading civilians of the city as well, such doubts must have been removed at the conclusion of last night's dinner. Mr. Justice Dugas spoke feelingly of Captain Scarth's fine record as a police officer, his fidelity and faithfulness at all times, remarks which were heartily applauded. Superintendent Primrose followed in a similar eulogistic vein referring to the many good qualities of their departing friend known and seen only by those with whom he is in daily contact. Gold Commissioner Senkler and others responded and the guest of honor was quite overwhelmed beneath the mass of encomiums heaped upon him. Captain Scarth is a modest man whose acts and deeds speak more loudly than words, and in a few well rounded phrases he thanked his friends present for their evident good will, their marks of appreciation and the good wishes bestowed. An extensive musical program was enjoyed during the evening embracing songs by Wm. McKay, Richard Gowan, P. C. Stevenson and Corporal Cobb. The latter rendered a number of patriotic airs. At the conclusion of the dinner a handsome purse was presented to Captain Scarth as a slight token of the high esteem in which he is held. Not since the departure of Colonel Steele has there been a more universally well liked officer of the N. W. M. P. than Captain William H. Scarth.

NEWS OF TWO CREEKS

Events of the Past Week on Eldorado and Bonanza.

The social dance given by Mrs. Primus at her roadhouse No. 33 above Bonanza was largely attended. A very enjoyable evening was spent, and dancing was kept up till the wee small hours of the morning. Some of the finest singers of the creek entertained the guests with songs. All voted it was one of the most successful parties of the season. The Bell roadhouse, 66 below Bonanza has recently been renovated and refitted. Spring beds and everything up to date. Mr. Stevens, the new proprietor, is determined not to be outdone by his competitors. We regret to announce the death of Mr. L. T. Collins at St. Mary's hospital last week. The deceased had an interest in No. 9 Victoria gulch. Mr. W. L. Sampson, of 45 Eldorado, is going to move to 28 Eldorado to work his claim the coming winter. Divine services were held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomson, 43 above Bonanza last Sunday. Mrs. J. D. Hartman, of King Solomon's hill, is going outside on a visit. Look out for another swell affair on the hill in the very near future. Social dance given by Thos. McMullen at the Stockade roadhouse, No. 19 below, Bonanza last Friday evening was largely attended. Although the weather was unfavorable a pleasant time was spent by those present.

SCHOOL OPENS NEXT MONDAY

Temporary Quarters Engaged Until New Building Is Done.

A meeting of the school teachers was held yesterday and it was decided to open the public school next Monday for registration and grading. As the new schoolhouse will not be completed for about three weeks the Salvation Army barracks and the lower room of the Masonic Temple on Mission street have been secured where the school will be opened. All pupils who intend attending school or who anticipate doing so this winter are requested to be present so that they can be placed in their proper grade. Principal McKenzie will meet all pupils from grade seven and up in the Salvation Army barracks building on Monday. Misses McRae and Keys will meet pupils in grades five and six in the Masonic building Monday; grades four and five at the same place Tuesday, and grades one, two and three on Wednesday. The kindergarten department will not open until the completion of the new building. The work of grading and registration will take considerable time but it is expected to have it completed by the time the new building is ready for occupancy so that the school work may be continued without any further delay.

SEASON IS DRAWING NEAR

When Game May Be Killed and Hunters Are Anxious.

As the open season for game approaches many inquiries are being made by hunters and others concerning the provisions of the game ordinance passed by the Yukon council early this year. For the benefit of those who are not familiar with the law the Nugget herewith produces the more important sections relative to the season in which game may be hunted and the number allowed to be killed: Grouse, partridge, ptarmigan, pheasant and prairie chickens may be hunted between the 1st of October and the 15th of January. Wild ducks, wild geese, wild swans, snipe, and pipers and cranes between the 1st of September and the 1st of June. Musk ox, elk or wapito, moose, caribou, deer, mountain sheep or mountain goats between the 1st of October and the 1st of January. No one person will have the right to kill during the same season more than two elk or wapito, two moose, six caribou, two musk oxen, two deer, two mountain sheep or two mountain goats, unless a license is obtained from the commissioner in council granting permission to kill a greater number than is above stated. Any person who shall kill any of the above beasts shall be bound to report himself at the first mounted police detachment on his way to Dawson, or the creeks and to declare his name, the number of beasts killed and the place where he killed them. Any person purchasing the meat of the above beasts for trading purposes shall keep a register showing the name of the person or persons from whom it was so purchased, the quantity and kind so purchased, and also the date of the purchase. Buffalo or bison shall not be shot at, hunted, killed or in any way molested at any season of the year. Indians who are inhabitants of the Yukon territory may kill such beasts and birds, except buffalo or bison as they need for food supply, but not for barter or sale. Explorers, surveyors, prospectors, miners or travelers who are engaged in any exploration, survey or mining operations, or other examination of the territory may kill birds and beasts when in need of actual food supplies. The killing of birds and beasts in the season's and under the provisions of the above sections of the ordinance do not require any special license. A number of applications for licenses for an extension of the limit of the number of beasts to be killed have been made but as yet none have been issued and none can be issued until the return of the commissioner in whom, with the consent of the Yukon council, is vested the power to issue permits. Another section of the ordinance provides that "No one shall enter into any agreement or contract with or employ any Indian or other person, whether such Indian or person is an inhabitant of the country or not, to hunt, kill or take contrary to the provisions of this ordinance any of the beasts or birds mentioned in this ordinance." The sections of the ordinance above quoted give the more important points of the law the violation of which is accompanied by penalties of from $50 to $500 fine or from one to three months' imprisonment.

Green Gulch Nugget.

A nugget weighing $61.50 was recently taken from Mr. Gerard's claim on Green gulch a tributary of Sulphur creek. The gold on Green gulch is very coarse and many nuggets have been taken from the different claims but Mr. Gerard has the distinction of having the largest ever found on the gulch.

Friday Night.

Don't forget the big wrestling match this coming Friday night. The contest is for "blood," best two falls in three. Marsh and Kennedy, the champion of the mat, are the principals. THE THEATRES THIS WEEK

At the Standard "The Charity Ball" Will Be Popular.

The Cast Comprises Sixteen People—House Packed Last Night—"Love and War" at Savoy.

"The Charity Ball," David Belasco's great play which is being produced by the Standard Stock Company this week under the direction of Mr. Ralph E. Cummings, is the most pretentious play yet seen in Dawson. This company, by hard drilling, is rapidly reaching a degree of excellence which equals many of the stock companies playing in the coast cities and is certainly a credit to the city of Dawson. That the efforts of the members of the company are appreciated is evidenced by the large audiences which attend the productions and the loud applause which is continued throughout the play. Henry Ward Beecher who witnessed one of the first productions of this play said of it: "David Belasco in the Charity Ball has preached a sermon more eloquent than any delivered in New York today. Such a play elevates the stage and performs and impresses all who attend with its Christian moral. I am better for having seen it." No play could receive a higher recommendation from a better source, and all who witness the play agree with Mr. Beecher in every particular. The play centers around the rectory of St. Mildreds church in New York and is a picture of life in its different phases in this great metropolis. The noble life of those who live to do good to others; the struggle for wealth and power at any price and the final triumph of right over wrong are clearly depicted. The play is a very emotional one, but the strain of comedy running through it relieves the tension and gives the audience a chance to enjoy a hearty laugh. The cast is one of the strongest ever put on the stage in Dawson, and includes 16 people, all of whom are well adapted to their parts. The scenery is excellent, particularly in the second and third acts and has been especially prepared for this production. The cast of the play is as follows: John Van Buren, Mr. Cummings; Dick Van Buren, W. C. Bohman; Judge Peter Gurney Knox, Wm. Mullen; Alex. Robinson, Robt. Lawrence; Franklin Cruger, Alf T. Layne; Mr. Creighton, Harry O'Brien; Mr. Paxton, Fred C. Lewis; Mr. Betts, Harry P. Cummings; Jasper, Chas. Moran; Cain, Calire Wilson; Mrs. Van Buren, Julia Walcott; Ann Cruger, Vivian; Phyllis Lee, Lucy Lovell; Bess Van Buren, Mamie Holden; Mrs. DePey, Daisie D'Avara; Sophie, Gladys Gates.

At the Savoy the stirring military drama "Love and War" is being produced by Harry Sedley and the Savoy stock company. This is also a good play and should receive good patronage this week.

Tonight's Concert.

The following is the program for tonight's concert at the Methodist church given by Miss Mary Case, the sweet singer, who has charmed Dawson with her melody on previous occasions. Tickets may be procured at Cribbs & Rogers drug store or at the church.

Died at New York.

New York, Aug. 28.—The Rev. M. D. Lilly, for more than 30 years father superior of the Church of St. Vincent Ferrer, is dead at his home in this city. He has been blind for the last four years. He was prostrated by heat early in July and grew worse steadily. Father Lilly was born in County Fermanagh, Ireland, about 70 years ago. He came to this country when a young man and lived in Memphis, Tenn., until he joined the Dominican orders a few years later at St. Joseph, Perry county, Ohio. While still a young man he became president of the Dominican college there. This position he held until he came here about 1867. At that time he was made father superior of St. Vincent Ferrer parish. When Father Lilly took charge of St. Vincent's it was in its infancy, but in his hands it was built up and extended until it became the extensive parish that it is today. Father Lilly at two different times presided over the eastern province, as it is known in the Dominican order, which includes all the churches of the order in this country east of the Rocky mountains.

Mad Dog on Sulphur.

A mad dog ran a snuck on Sulphur last week chasing up and down the creek and creating considerable consternation and excitement before he was killed. Men and he six kept out of his way with the exception of a poor little innocent puppy cat which got in the way during his mad flight and was bitten. Both dog and cat were killed before any further injury was done by either.

HIDEOUS YELLS

Awaken Residents About 12.30 Last Night.

Last night about 12.30 the residents of Dawson in the vicinity of Fifth street and Fifth avenue were awakened by a series of yells accompanied by oaths which could be heard for blocks around. The night was so intensely dark that it was impossible to discern from whom the yells came but it was the impression that some one who had been indulging in the noisy brand of hooch was giving expression to his pent up feelings and at the same time consigning some one with him or some one in the neighborhood against whom he had a grudge to regions where it is not necessary to sweep the snow from the sidewalks. After a few outbursts some of which were quite protracted the noisy one subsided and left the neighborhood again in the peaceful stillness of the midnight hour.

A Mystery of the Seas.

One of the most curious finds ever made from the sea was that which came to the Azores in 1858. The island of Corvo was then in the possession of two runaway British sailors. One morning there drifted ashore a craft which had evidently been frozen in the ice for a long time. It was an ancient and battered brig, without masts, bulwark or name, but the hatches were on, the cabin doors fast, and the bulk was buoyant. She had little cargo, and that consisted of skins and furs in prime condition.

No papers were found in the cabin, but it was figured that she was a sealer or trader, carrying a crew of 10 or 12, and that she had been provisioned for a year. The flour was spoiled, but the beef was perfectly preserved. She had been abandoned when frozen in an iceberg and drifted for years. The date of the letter found in the fore-castle showed that the brig had been abandoned nearly half a century before. The two sailors got out the furs, which eventually brought them $4000, and two barrels of beef and then set fire to the wreck. No traces were ever found of its name or owners.

Held Up the Banker.

The man thrust himself into the banker's private office. There was a hunted look upon his features. He plumped himself into a seat beside the surprised banker's desk. "Two thousand," said he hurriedly and hoarsely "ought to suffice." "Eh?" said the banker, dropping his pen and gazing hard at his visitor. "I said," repeated the latter, still in the quick, nervous tone, "that about $3000 ought to be enough for the present." From the manner with which the banker leaned back in his chair and stared at the man it was obvious that he was in a mood for temporizing. "Two thousand, eh?" he said after a pause. "And for what, pray?" "Well," he replied, "I've been hounded a good deal of late by my tailor—a matter of $500 or so, I believe, that he's clamoring for." "Uh-huh!" put in the banker, glancing out of the tail of his eye to the door. "I don't know whether the bill is straight or not, but I do know that the tailor is threatening to sue me and all that rot, and he's got to be paid." "Five hundred to a tailor, eh?" said the banker, a flush of great trepidation crossing his countenance. "Go on." "Well," continued the queer visitor, "there's a haberdasher chap that's been making my life perfectly miserable of late with his importunities. Claims that I owe him $300 or something like that for shirts and cravats and pyjamas and such silly things. Says the account's two years old, most of it, and he all but shakes his fist in my face, confound him." "Shakes his fist in your face! Go ahead," repeated the banker, endeavoring to reach one of the electric buttons under his desk. "Wait a minute; I'm not through yet," said the banker's odd visitor, putting out a restraining hand. "There's a livery stable keeper who's been thrusting an itemized account into my face so frequently lately that I'm almost afraid to walk on the street, and it would seem from the count that I'm indebted to him for the sum of more than $400." "Four hundred for livery stable keeper!" repeated the banker, who gradually growing purple. "Yes," said his visitor. "And there are odds and ends, such as hats for hats and wines and shoes and all that sort of gear, that'll make $2000, and I guess I can get along with the present with about that amount." And the man leaned back in his chair and fastened a narrow gaze upon the fidgeting banker. The banker gazed hopefully at the entrance to his office for the last time. Then he picked up his pen, grabbed his check book and wrote a check for the amount demanded by his visitor. "But just you see to it that you come to me for any more, than $500, growled the banker, shaking a warning finger at the man, who smiled a satisfied smile. Extraordinary proceeding! Well, not so very. The banker's nervous visitor was his only son, who had recently figured as the hero of a university boat race, and the old man was rather proud of him. Got Fifteen Years. Martinez, Cal., Aug. 28.—Jack Walters, the man who got away with $200,000 in gold bullion from the San Francisco Smelting works and afterward sentenced today to 15 years in Folsom. The prisoner took his sentence coolly, and asked that he be sent to San Quentin but the request was refused. The prisoner was sent to Folsom this morning and his night will be in stripes.
