"KYRA,"

OR,
The Ward of the Earl of Vering.

CHAPTER XXIX.
Bygone Days.
Suddenly she looked up at him with her great eyes, and under that look the blood seemed to spring from her heart.

"Well, well, bygones are bygones," said Lillian, in her sweet low voice. "None of us are likely to starve within five miles of Monsieur Bertrand."

This little playful sally cleared, as was intended, the air of all sentiment, as a flash of summer lightning clears the atmosphere of a July night.

Percy hung up the robes, locked the case, and made a brisk bow.

"Thank you, ladies and gentlemen; you can drop your contribution of bonbons and flowers in the vase on the left of the door."

Laughing at this parting salute, they sauntered out into the sunlight again, and were welcomed by the deserters by the appellation of owls and antiquaries.

"Come along," said Lord St. Clare, "shall we have another bout of tennis, Miss Kyra?" But Kyra—wonderful to relate—refused, and preferred to take a seat under the trees and look on Charlie and Percy were soon busy looking after their guests; all were engaged, and all had apparently forgotten her. Was it unnatural that she should be tempted to return to that old oak room, that she should succumb to it? The stained glass window, reaching to the ground, had been left open, and, unobserved, she passed in; as she did so, she stopped with her hand upon the window, for the room was not empty as she had expected to find it; for, standing before her Indian case, was a little, bent old man. So motionless, so much like a relic of a bygone age, so much in keeping with the room and its contents, that by no very great stretch of fancy Kyra might have deemed him another of Percy's curiosities. It was not until she had crossed the room softly and glided up to within reach of him that he heard her.

It was not until she had crossed the room softly and glided up to within reach of him that he heard her.

Then he turned his head abruptly, and as suddenly fell back from her, exclaiming in a low, thin voice: "My God, who are you?"

Kyra started and paused, put out her hand and caught his arm. "Please forgive me," she said, in her sweet, musical voice. "Do you not know me?"

Stephen Gringe drew away and dropped into a chair, from whence he looked steadily at her, his hands clasped on a crooked stick, his lips working.

"Yes, I know you," he said; "you are the Indian girl."

Kyra nodded. "I frightened you coming so suddenly."

"Yes, you came suddenly." Then his eyes shot a swift glance. "I have seen you before—in this house—lady."

Kyra pushed, then turned pale. "Tut," he said, with a gesture of irritation. "Was it for me to betray you? No! At least old Stephen can keep silence—silence. Will you come nearer, lady. I am an old and too favored man. My lord humors me—too much, too much, and I take liberties, you think? No? Then come nearer, lady."

Kyra came close to him, and sat beside him. He moved so that the light fell on her face, then he looked hard at her; then suddenly his scrutiny grew more intense and marked. His eyes wandered round the room, stopping for an instant at the two portraits, and then back again. At last he mumbled:

"You are very beautiful, lady."

Yes, he was right—beautiful. "Hush," said Kyra, laying her small finger on her lip, with a smile; "you must not say that, and who else was so silly as to say it also, pray?"

"Who?" said old Stephen, fixing his eye on her. "Who but the earl himself—ah!" for Kyra's face had brightened into a loveliness almost supernatural, then as suddenly turned pale.

"The earl," she murmured, with lowered eyes and trembling lips, "said that of me—to you."

Old Stephen nodded and bent his birdlike head close to her. "Aye, aye, to me. Has he never said it to you, child?"

She drew back her head with the exquisite attitude of a startled fawn.

"To me!" she murmured. Then her eyes filled and her head dropped.

Old Stephen nodded. "He has not. Ah! he is not a wrinkled old man. No; he is too young to tell the truth to one so young and lovely. Is that so? or do you think him old and ugly enough as it is—eh?"

"Lord Percy old—ugly!" she murmured, turning a proud, indignant gaze upon him, then suddenly sinking her eyes beneath the strange, satirical curve of his thin lip.

"Ah!" he said, in a low groaning, and yet piercing tone. "You'd stop the old man's lips forever, for my very word's a libel on your hero—and your god! Hush! hush! child, have I grown so old as this, and not learned how to read a purple heart like yours? Look at me—listen to me! I have got these white hairs, this wrinkled face, these tottering limbs, in the service of the Verings! I love them better than I love my own flesh and blood—my own kin—if I have any. I love this last of them—Percy—my boy Percy—better than I did any of the dead and gone ones, better than wild Lord John, who lived his life beside mine! I would lay down what remains of my life to bring one hour's happiness for Master Percy!—my lord and master! I love the ground he treads on! I only live within the sound of his voice; and I would do anything that man can do to make him happy! Do! Have I not done! Have I not dared! Ah! ah! What have I said! Tut! tut!" he broke off suddenly, eying the amazed face before him with suspicious scrutiny.

"But you—you owe him something; they say he saved you from death, and has cared for you up to this very moment with more than a brother's care. Come, lady, you owe him something!" and he bent forward.

"I?" cried Kyra, in her thrilling tones. "I owe him my life, and I would give it to him in this room in sight of these." And she darted in perfect awe toward the snow-stained clothes. "I would lay it down, ah! so

IS YOUR HEALTH WORTH $5.00?

Woman Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Lima, Ohio.—"I was all broken down in health from a displacement. One of my lady friends came to see me and she advised me to commence taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I began taking your remedies and took $5.00 worth and in two months I was a well woman after three doctors said I never would stand up straight again. I was a midwife for seven years and I recommended the Vegetable Compound to every woman I take before birth and afterwards, and they all got along so nicely that it surely is a godsend to suffering women. If women wish to write to me I will be delighted to answer them. —Mrs. JESSIE MORSE, 342 E. North St., Lima, Ohio.

Women who suffer from displacements, weakness, irregularities, nervousness, backache or bearing-down pains, need the tonic-strengthening properties of the roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

gladly, to give him a moment's peace and happiness. Oh! if it could only be that I might die for him!" and she strained her clasped hands as she looked up to Heaven.

The old man's face worked, and he hissed in her ear, with sudden energy: "Child, you love him!"

Kyra's head got to her lap, and she turned a white face upon her dissector, her bosom panting and heaving.

"You love him, I say; and he—hush. What if I tell you how you may make him happy—how you may take off the weight that falls upon him day by day?"

"I," muttered Kyra. "Oh, tell me!—tell me!"

"Listen," said the old man with a cunning glance and gesture of caution. "Some one is coming! Ah! ah! my ears are keen, but I've no heart beating like a demon at them. You tremble and shake like a deer caught by the dogs! Go—child. Come to me when the rest are gone or busy, and I'll tell you how to make my lord happy."

As he spoke he waived her toward the window.

She felt that she must obey—something about the old man overwhelmed and awed her. Besides she wanted to be calm, to have time to realize that her clew had been torn from the innermost shrine of her heart, and that the secret, the great truth of her life, only guessed at, wholly feared by her, stood revealed. Yes! It was no sister's, no grateful love that lingered peacefully in her bosom, but a love whose fire burned hungrily in her soul and clamored for something to feed on. Her secret kept so closely from all, from herself, was pierced by an old man's sharp eyes and words—and its aspect alarmed and terrified, while it filled her with ecstatic joy.

Oh, to be alone! Alone, away from all, that she might clasp that secret to her soul again, and hide it from all!

She glided through the window and into the shrubbery just as the stable clock chimed half-past four.

CHAPTER XXX.
The Abduction Charge.

While Kyra was wandering to and fro in the shrubbery, endeavoring to realize the discovery which Stephen

Gringe had forced upon her, wandering carelessly, and vainly striving for composure, the game of cross-purposes was still playing its old contrary way.

The time had arrived when the cup of tea, with which it is the fashion to spoil our digestion before dinner, was to be served out by the fair hands of Lillian Devigne, and Percy and his guests were seated in the drawing-room or lounging at the open windows, talking, laughing, and flirting, and regretting that the little garden party was so near at an end. Charlie and Lady Mary had ensconced themselves in a corner behind a gypsy table and a Japanese screen, and were apparently perfectly indifferent to tea or time. One of the servants, coming up noiselessly, declared down in the servants' hall that he had seen Lady Mary's left hand buried in "Mister Charles's" right; but that as it may, they were satisfied with one cup of tea between them, and were utterly neglectful of the bread and butter.

"What a happy day this has been," whispered Charlie. "It's a pity it can't last forever—draw your hand back, dearest, Lady Devigne is looking around for us, and it is jolly here, isn't it? All right, she's gone now," he added, with a sigh of relief, as he took the little hand again. "I used to hate these screen things; kept out the fire in the winter, and let you tumble over them in the summer; but they're not such useless duffers as I thought. We'll have lots of 'em in our house, Polly, darling!"

"Our house!" retorted Lady Mary, with a tantalizing move of her laughing lips. "And Polly! I won't be called Polly, as if I were a parrot. One would think I had wings."

"So you have, I'll be sworn, you angel!" murmured Charlie, pressing the little hand.

"You're a goose!" murmured the pouting lips. "Don't, Mr. Merivale, I won't allow it! Oh, Charlie!" for, utterly unable to withstand the temptation, the young rogue bent forward, behind the screen, and kissed the pout away.

There were several screen and gypsy tables in odd corners, and doubtless many an angel and goose behind them. Lord St. Clare and Percy seemed the only gentlemen detached. The young peer was wandering round the room staring at the costly bric-a-brac, as if he would rather be looking at something else—as indeed he would; and Percy was seated in the proper place close by the goddess, pondering over the destinies of the tea-cups. Certainly Percy was not happy, though his face was as composed and full of that patrician repose as ever. The fact was, he was utterly miserable. He was jealous of them all, and jealous even of Lillian, to whom he thought Kyra had given her confidence when she should have given it to him.

At 10 o'clock His Excellency the Governor was announced and escorted to the chair by the clerical and lay secretaries, the Synod rising and singing the National Anthem. After being introduced by the Bishop, His Excellency prefaced his remarks by expressing the great pleasure it gave him of meeting the Synod in Session assembled, and in a brief but intensely patriotic address graphically described the war in all its phases from a military and naval standpoint. The conclusion of his address, the Bishop in chaotic and eloquent language thanked the Governor for the treat afforded them, which was vociferously applauded by the Synod. The National Anthem was again sung and His Excellency retired.

Presentation to Rev. P. J. O'Brien

On Friday evening last representatives of the several sections of Tor's Cove parish, including the Holy Name Society, the Altar Society and League of the Sacred Heart, met at the Sanctuary and presented the Rev. P. J. O'Brien with the following address and valuable purse.

ADDRESS
To Rev. P. J. O'Brien, P. P.

Rev. Dear Father,—
It is with heavy hearts we gather here to-night to bid you farewell. 'Tis only now we realize, with deep regret, you must leave us and take up your cross in a more prominent parish with more financial aid to display your architectural ideas. With us the past fifteen years, the prime of your life, you leave us well supplied with churches and public buildings, which but a short time more would have seen the ornamentation of your building program completed.

On our memory will ever be impressed your great devotion and attention in Spiritual matters to those in need. You were a constant visitor to the sick, never taking distance or weather in consideration.

In your leaving us our prayers go with you that God might give you physical strength and Spiritual aid in your new parish.

We would conclude by wishing you a number of years to continue God's work, and three score and ten find you feeling as energetic as to-day. We beg you to accept herewith a small purse of gold as a token of our regard, regretting that the time of year hinders us from doing better.

On behalf of the parish.
Signed,—
P. O'Driscoll, M. Power, L. French, J. Power, T. Melvin, J. S. Romayne, Albert Ronayne, James Brazil.
Tor's Cove, July 7, 1916.

Rev. P. J. O'Brien's Address.

The Rev. father thanked those present very cordially on behalf of the community, referring in pathetic words to the glowing and complimentary reference made to him in the address; he said that though the 15 years of his ministry among them were years of arduous labor, the burden placed upon him was made light by the whole-hearted and generous support he always received from the people. Though many buildings of architectural design were required he never troubled about cost, because as his mission was to build up the material and spiritual edifice, including the religious, educational and social purpose, he felt that he had God's help on the one hand and the united support of the people in the other. Now that all was completed, paid for and a sum of about two thousand dollars to the credit of the parish, he knew his future work would be light, and that were he to consider his own ease he would gladly remain amongst the people of Tor's Cove Parish. But as he had been called to another field of labour he felt he should not, for any personal reasons interfere with the dispensations of Providence. "You have not chosen me but I have chosen you that you go forth and bear fruit and that your fruit should remain." He referred to the grave, responsibility now placed upon his shoulders and expressed the hope that the prayers of the good people of this parish always so efficacious, united with those of the people over whom he was now placed would bring help necessary to complete whatever God required him to do. He did not leave Tor's Cove for any advantage the future may offer, but through a sense of duty, and that the people of Tor's Cove Parish would be ever kindly and gratefully remembered by him. He said that he was especially glad that all was so prosperous, and that he believed a bright future was before the Southern Shore.

He concluded by wishing a blessing upon the people and all that concerned them. He knew that his successor, with whom he had been for many years intimately acquainted, would be zealously interested in them, and that if he gave him the same generous support he always received people and priest would be happy. All present were deeply affected, for the people felt that in the departure of Father O'Brien they not only had lost a devoted priest but a true friend.

The S. S. Sagona reached Nain on the 9th inst. Going north the weather was thick with S. E. winds, but was fine returning. Capt. Probably you know just such a girl. Perhaps she is sixteen—good to look at, and pretty—quite interesting because she reflects the graces and charm that give promise of happiness to herself and others. But she is not strong. Are We Rowing Our Weight in the Boat?

Nobody can be blind to the fact that things are at a crisis in Europe. The word is, indeed, a most apt one, though we all use it glibly and half-unmindfully of its real meaning. A crisis is, in fact, a judgment or decision. The two mighty opposing forces, we might say the two great antagonistic principles, are being judged as they never were before since the August of 1914; and the world is on the eve of a decision. We in Newfoundland should realize this as much as any. If we were in need of the lesson, the events of the past fortnight should have taught it. Our great sorrow is our own, but we should learn from it to regard things a little less selfishly, less parochially, than is our wont. And there is one way, before all others, in which we can show that we have learned this lesson. Many of our regiment have fallen in France; many more have been wounded and put out of action; the ranks have been pitifully thinned. We should see that they are filled up again.

We are all apt to take a view of this matter which is misleading, because too general. It may be correct to say that Newfoundland has contributed 5,000 men (or as the case may be); but it would state the case more fairly if we said that 5,000 men have gone from Newfoundland. For the credit belongs to them individually, and to their families. If, as is indeed the case at present, Newfoundland does not play her full part, it is grossly unfair to these men to state it so. For they are Newfoundlanders and have played theirs. It would be more just to state the number that have not.

We have received, and are still receiving a full and eloquent casualty list. We are hearing news such as, in all other parts of the Empire, has invariably sent men flocking to the colors. England's resolution has grown with every day upon it; she has been an Antaeus rising tenfold stronger after every fall. It has been so with all the other colonies. The heavy Canadian losses on the blood-soaked ground of Ypres stimulated recruiting in the Dominion as nothing else could do. The heavy price in human lives exacted from Australia at the Dardanelles merely wrung from her the boast that she was willing to pay a higher one, the highest she was able to pay. In New Zealand they practically have conscription. By these examples, if not by that of every name on our casualty lists, we should be urged to keep our battalion at the front at continuously full strength.

GEO. M. BARR St. John's.

Pro Patria.

Mr. John Cowan received the following message from the Record Office, Ottawa, yesterday: "Deeply regret to inform you that 24,588. Corporal George Tremaine Cowan, Infantry, was officially reported killed in action, June 27th, 1916." Corporal George Cowan left here four years ago for Montreal, where he was employed till the outbreak of the war, when with several other Newfoundlanders he joined the 13th Battalion, C.F.P. Arriving in England, he was shortly after sent to the firing line in France where for the past eighteen months he passed through the terrible ordeal of many a fierce struggle. On June 27th the strong young man was killed in action. Corporal Cowan was an old C.L.B. boy for some time a non-commissioned officer. During his absence at the front his mother passed away. To the sorrowing relatives the Telegram offers deep sympathy.

Message of Sympathy

FROM SIR RALPH WILLIAMS,
14th July, 1916.

Sir, His Excellency the Governor is in receipt of the following telegram from Sir Ralph Williams, late Governor of this Colony, which I am sure will be of interest to those of our people whose boys have done so nobly and suffered so bravely in the present war. The telegram reads as follows: "Please convey warmest admiration and deepest sympathy to the brothers Ayre and all Newfoundlanders 'who have lost relatives.' I have the honor to be,

Sir,
Your obedient Servant,

Colonial Secretary.

Newfoundland Quarterly.

The Summer Number of the Newfoundland Quarterly is a very attractive one. The chief interest will be found in the illustrated supplement which contains some fine photographs of most of the officers reported killed and missing in the late fighting. All of these killed are shown, with the exception of Captain Eric Ayre and Lieuts. Ferguson and Steele. In addition, the volume contains quite a portrait gallery of other officers.

Among a number of good articles are "The Outlook beyond the War," by Dr. Selwyn Brown; "A Garden Wild," an interesting botanical description of our flowers by the same learned author; "Newfoundland Rhodes Scholars in the British Service" and "Newfoundlanders in the British Service," Mr. Evans is to be congratulated on an issue which keeps up the high standard of his publication and is a splendid and timely pictorial record of our Regiment.

News From Three Stranded Barques.

ONE IS RELOADED.

Mr. Tasker Cook had messages this morning concerning the three laden barques, which were stranded at Langley Island near St. Pierre. The Denmark was reloaded last evening by the aid of two tugs and towed to St. Pierre where she now is. The Danish barque Rognhild is expected to be reloaded to-day, but the Norwegian barque Inger is breaking up and will, in all probability, become a total wreck.

Supposed German Arrested and Released

There arrived in the city by train yesterday evening Sergeant Kent in charge of a man named Otto Gover, aged 22 years, who was arrested at Placentia as a prisoner of war, he being alleged to be a full fledged German subject. An investigation was made by the authorities who became satisfied that the suspect was a law student of Halifax, N.S. and thereupon released him.

BRITISH WORKERS POSTPONE HOLIDAY.
LONDON, July 13. The Government has decided to ask workers to forego their August holidays, owing to the demand for munitions in France. Trade Unions already have suggested that this be done, so that no difficulty is looked for. Premier Asquith announced to the Commons this afternoon that the August Bank holiday would be postponed by Royal Proclamation appealed to all classes to postpone all holidays until the Entente Allied offensive had made further definite progress. The Premier said that happily there was an ample supply of munitions at present, but the daily consumption was enormous.

STRIKE IN PROTEST.
AMSTERDAM, July 13. The Socialist newspaper Tribune asserts that 55,000 workmen employed in munitions factories and on electrical works have gone on strike in protest against the prison sentence on Dr. Karl Liebknecht, the Socialist leader, for participation in the May Day demonstration in Berlin.

ARTILLERY DUELS.
PETROGRAD, July 13. The capture of 2,000 prisoners on the Stripes in Galicia, was announced by the War Office to-day. On the Stokod in Volhynit there has been artillery duels.

JAPAN'S NAVY.
TOKIO, July 13. Despatches stating that Japan has authorized the construction of four super-dreadnoughts, is untrue and misleading. According to press reports, which are contradictory, the navy has submitted to the Finance Department a repletion programme to be introduced in the Japanese Diet involving the expenditure of about 250,000,000 yen in seven years. This programme calls for the construction of three super-dreadnoughts, two battle-cruisers, numerous light cruisers, destroyers and submarines. Officials to-day declined to discuss the programme, saying that the Japanese press accounts of it are surmises.

SINK BRITISH TRAWLERS.
LONDON, July 13. Following the attack by a German submarine on the British port of Seaham harbor on Tuesday night, a submarine raid on the fishing fleet near the English coast is reported by Lloyds to-day. The German submarine attacked the British fleet off the northeastern coast, and sank the trawlers Florence and Dalhousie and several smaller vessels.

QUIET ON THE FRONT.
PARIS, July 13. An official to-night reads: Except for somewhat spirited bombardment in the sector of Souville on the right bank of the Meuse, there is no event of importance to report on the front.

BIG SHARKS KILLED.
NEW YORK, July 13. A monster shark, whose stomach contained part of a human body, was killed at Keyport, N.J., to-day, according to information received at the Weather Bureau here from the Observer.

Long Branch, N.J., July 13.—A shark weighing three hundred pounds, being eleven feet long, was killed near the mouth of Mattawan Creek, N.J., and is undoubtedly the same fish which yesterday invaded the Creek and killed two bathers.

GLASGOW WANTS IT "WET."
GLASGOW, July 13. Prohibition in Scotland is impracticable, in the opinion of the Liquor Control Board. It is stated that this is the substance of a reply to a deputation representing many thousands of women, who signed the petition urging the adoption of prohibition for the period of the war.

SHACKLETON SAILS.
PUNTA ARENAS, Chile, July 13. Sir Ernest Shackleton, the British Antarctic explorer, who on returning from the South Polar zone last April, left twenty-two of his companions on Elephant Island, sailed from this port to-day on a small schooner to rescue them. If conditions are favorable, Sir Ernest expects to relieve the marooned explorers, and return to Chile in four weeks.

RUSIANS DRIVEN BACK.
BERLIN, July 13. German troops under command of General Count Von Bothmer, by a encircling attack, have driven back the Russian forces which pushed forward in the region northwest of Buczacz in Galicia.

A shoe for well-dressed men. Costs enough to insure a perfect shoe, but is as low as a shoe of this character can be sold. Soon beside a cheaper shoe, the difference is unmistakable. Men who want appearance, satisfying wear, and solid comfort should wear the "Invictus Shoe."

In Shoes; Low Prices and Cheapness

Are as far apart as the Poles. Cheapness in Shoes does not depend upon their price, but upon the service they give. To maintain the Low Price of cheap shoes it is necessary to use even more inferior leather than usual. That can only result in one thing—less service—less wear—therefore less economy. No substitution of inferior stock has been made in either of our two Leading Lines for Men and Women.

LLOYD GEORGE'S STIRRED WORDS.

LONDON, Tuesday. Lloyd George, British Minister of War, presiding to-day at an Imperial Conference on equipment, declared that the combined offensive of the Allies had wrenched the initiative from the Germans, never, he trusted, to return. We have crossed the sea, he said, and now victory is gaining to flow in our direction. The change is due to the improvement in our equipment. The Conference, held at the War Office and was participated in by Albert Thomas, French Minister of Munitions; General Felfelf, Assistant Minister of War, Russia; General A. Dall'Olio, Minister of the Italian Ministry of War; and the new British Minister of Munitions, Edwin S. Montagu. Since the Imperial Munitions Conference, said Lloyd George, there has been a considerable change in the fortunes of the Allies. On that date the great Chinese offensive in the west just failed to gain its objective. The French and British armies sustained heavy losses, without the achievement of any particular success. In the east, the enemy pressed the gallant armies of Russia back some 300 miles. The Balkans had just been overrun by the Central Powers. The overwhelming victories won by the valiant soldiers of Russia have struck terror to the hearts of our foes. Coupled with the immortal deeds of Verdun by our indomitable English comrades, and the brave resistance of the Italians against overwhelming odds in the Southern Alps, change the whole complexion of the campaign. Now the combined offensive in the east and west has wrenched the initiative out of the hands of the enemy never, I trust, to return to us. We have crossed the sea, and now victory is beginning to flow in our direction. What are our prospects improved? The answer is, the equipment of our armies has improved enormously and is continuing to improve. The British navy, until recently had absorbed more than half the metal works of the world. The task of building new ships and repairing old ones for the fleet, the fitting and equipping of them occupies the energies of our

What If Means To Speak Well.

And by speak well, I mean to use a wide and well-chosen vocabulary, to pronounce properly, and to place and handle the voice with some skill.

And yet how often we meet college graduates who use a limited and almost childish vocabulary, who pronounce wretchedly and who have nasal, uncontrolled voices!

I once overheard the following conversation among three college girls: "I wish you wouldn't go," said A. "Yes, don't," said B. "Very well," said C. "I wanted to, but in deference to your prejudices, I'll give it up."

"Think of Anyone Talking Like That!"

A turned to B with a laugh. "In deference to your prejudices," she quoted. "Think of anyone really talking like that!"

At a college graduation which I attended recently I was surprised by two things: First, the unusually interesting nature of the students' speeches. Second, the wretchedness of their pronunciation. One pronounced patriotism with a short "a."

Are all but a few hundred of the tens of thousands of words in the dictionary to be relegated to use in written language alone? We are not surprised when we find such phrases in books. We expect them there. But when real, live people use them we are apt to think they are affected.

Words That Are Not in the Recognized Four Hundred.

Reading widely and well will give anyone a good vocabulary. But many people who gain such a vocabulary use it only to understand with. That is, when other people use words that are outside the recognized four hundred, they can understand, but they never think of using them themselves. That's a mistake. A very wise little school girl of whom I know makes it a rule to find the exact meaning and pronunciation of every new word she meets and then use it the next day. Think what a vocabulary she will have!

Of course someone will remind me that the simple, common words are best. So they are, but is it kind to overwork them? I think a society for the prevention of cruelty to common words might well be formed.

one of their principal platforms in the "New Charter." Sanitation means health to the community and the people of the aforesaid street are loud in condemning the absence of the sprinkler in that street, whereas other streets where up-to-date sanitary reforms have already been completed, are daily supplied with this most essential fluid. The women of Brien Street are constantly compelled to strain the water they draw from the fountain before it is suitable for use for drinking or cooking purposes, as the dust fills the bucket to the brim before they reach their respective homes. This street has always been neglected, both in summer and in winter and now that the "New Board" are considering ways and means as to how best to improve the sanitary condition of the city and to protect the inhabitants from sickness and other inconveniences, the people of Brien Street would gladly herald the inauguration of the sprinkling system as is done in other parts of the city. There are quite a number of little tots who have no other playgrounds than the front of their parents' houses and to them the inhalation of accumulated dust and noxious gas must be appalling and noxious, not to mention the most important subject of all, their little lungs and the conse-

Dear Sir,—On several occasions you kindly have granted me the privilege of voicing the sentiments and complaints of the poorer classes of our community and I sincerely trust that you will not deny me space in your most esteemed columns to draw the attention of our "New Civic Board" to the serious grievance for which the people of Brien Street (off Hamilton Street) are for years clamoring for redress.

Constant Headaches
When the nervous system gets run down one of the most persistent symptoms is headache. Nervous headache has been described as the cry of the starved brain for more blood. Because of its remarkable blood-forming and blood-enriching qualities, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food ranks first as a means of overcoming nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, headache, indigestion, sleeplessness, irritability and all the annoying symptoms of nervous breakdown. It is not a mere sedative, but a powerful curative for irritable and recurrent neuralgia, the wasted and depleted nerve cells.

In conclusion, dear sir, I trust that our new fathers will see their way clear at an early date to have this most obnoxious obstacle removed, before the taxpayers of Brien Street will be compelled to sign a formal petition in the shape of a protest or complaint.

Most respectfully yours,
E. K.

A politician who was seeking the votes of a certain community in Ohio to the end that he might be sent to Congress thought it worth while to make mention of his humble origin and early struggles. "I got my start in life by serving in a grocery at three dollars a week, and yet I have managed to save," he announced. Whereupon a voice from the audience queried: "Was that before the invention of cash-registers?"—New York Times.

A certain curate in the course of conversation at a dinner party some time ago remarked to a friend: "I had a curious dream last night but as it was about my vicar I hardly like to tell it." On being pressed, however, he began, "I dreamt I was dead and was on my way to Heaven which was reached by a long ladder. At the foot I was met by an angel, who pressed a piece of chalk into my hand and said, 'If you climb long enough you will reach Heaven, but for every sin you are conscious of having committed you must mark a rung of the ladder with the chalk as you go up.' I took the chalk and started. I had climbed up very, very far and was feeling very tired when I suddenly meet my vicar coming down. 'Hullo!' I said, 'What are you going down for?' 'More chalk,'—South Africa.

No Improvement in Fishery North.

AND PROSPECTS ARE POOR. The latest reports received by the Board of Trade are:— July 8th.—From C. J. Rendell, (Heart's Content to Winterton).—The total catch is 2,035 qtls., with 880 for last week, 15 traps having 1,130 qtls. and 140 boats for fishery operations. It is favourable for fishery operations and trapping was good the past week but practically nothing was done by hook and liners. Caplin bait is plentiful and much cod is reported as seen on the grounds.

July 8th.—From A. J. Hoffe, (Change Islands to Rocky Bay).—About 40 traps and 100 dorries and skiffs are fishing. There is no improvement in the cod fishery since last report, but caplin and squid are plentiful. Quite a few men have gone with traps to Rocky Bay and are doing well, taking from 10 to 20 brls. a haul. They report cod plentiful there and about Carmanville. Most of them are sailing the fish in the boats and on shore. Squid struck in yesterday and is plentiful there.

July 8th.—From C. Renouf, (Bank Head to Highlands).—The catch to date is 3,583 qtls., with 600 for last week. Prospects are very poor and trap fishing is about ended here. Fifty traps and 46 dorries are fishing. There is little bait as caplin has struck off the shore.

July 8th.—From P. J. Wade, (Salmon Cove Pt. to Collier's North Pt.).—The fishery in this vicinity the past week has been the best in many years and some of the traps did very well. The hook and line fishery, however, is slack to date. There is plenty of caplin but the lobster fishery is poor. Ten traps and 20 dorries and skiffs are fishing and the total catch is 580 qtls. with 300 for last week.

July 8th.—From J. White, (Colinet Island to Head of Salmonier).—The latest arrivals from the outer and inner grounds report no improvement since last report and prospects are very poor. The catch to date is 2,100 qtls. and for last week 300. Caplin continues plentiful and 14 traps, 50 dorries and skiffs and 20 boats are fishing.

LLOYD GEORGE'S STIRRING WORDS.

LONDON, To-day. Lloyd George, British Minister of War, presiding today at an Allied Conference on equipment, declared that the combined offensive of the Allies had wrenched the initiative from the Germans, never, he trusted, to return. We have crossed the watershed, he said, and now victory is beginning to flow in our direction. This change is due to the improvement in our equipment. The Conference was held at the War Office and was participated in by Albert Thomas, the French Minister of Munitions, General Bellieff, Assistant Minister of War to Russia, General A. Dall Olio, member of the Italian Ministry of War, and the new British Minister of Munitions, Edwin S. Montagu. Since our last Munitions Conference, said Lloyd George, there has been a considerable change in the fortunes of the Allies. On that date the great Champagne offensive in the west just failed to attain its objective. The French and British armies sustained heavy losses, without the achievement of any particular success. In the east, the enemy pressed the gallant armies of Russia back some 300 miles. The Balkans had just been overrun by the Central Powers. The overwhelming victories won by the valiant soldiers of Russia have struck terror into the hearts of our foes. These, coupled with the immortal defence of Verdun by our indomitable French comrades, and the brave resistance of the Italians against overwhelming odds in the Southern Alps changed the whole complexion of the landscape. Now the combined offensive in the east and west has wrenched the initiative out of the hands of the enemy never, I trust, to return to his grasp. We have crossed the watershed, and now victory is beginning to flow in our direction. Why have our prospects improved? The answer is, the equipment of our armies has improved enormously and is continuing to improve. The British navy until recently had absorbed more than half the metal workers of this country. The task of building new ships and repairing old ones for the gigantic navy, the fitting and equipping them occupies the energies of a million men. Most of our new factories are now complete; most of the machinery has been set up, and a hundred thousand men and women hitherto unaccustomed to metal and chemical work, has been trained for munitions making. Every month we are turning out hundreds of guns and howitzers, light, medium and heavy. Our heavy guns are rolling in at a greater rate. We are turning out nearly three times as much ammunition in a single week, and what is more, nearly three times as much heavy shells as we fired in the great offensive in September, although the ammunition we expended in that battle was the result of many weary weeks of accumulation. The new factories and workshops have not yet attained one third of their full capacity, but their output is now increasing with great rapidity. Our main difficulties in organization, construction, equipment and labor supply re-adjustment have been solved. If the officials, employers and workmen keep at it with the same zeal and assiduity as they have hitherto employed, our supplies will soon be overabundant. I cannot help thinking that the improvement in the Russian ammunition has been one of the greatest and most unpleasant surprises the enemy has sustained. Still, our task is but half accomplished. Every great battle furnishes additional proof that this is a war of equipment; more ammunition means more victories, and fewer casualties.

WORK FIRST, PLAY AFTER.

LONDON, To-day. The Allied offensive on the western front is only in its beginning, declared Premier Asquith. In announcing to the Commons that the Government had decided to ask workmen to forego their August holidays, because of the demand for munitions in France, he expressed the conviction that the workmen would co-operate in this plan so as to make it plain to the Allies that the offensive in its present intensity of bombardment and assault would, if necessary, be continued indefinitely. The Premier also announced that by Royal Proclamation August Bank holidays would be deferred until further definite progress in the offensive had been secured. Representatives of the Admiralty and Ministry of Munitions, he added, would meet the representatives of the workmen and employers to secure their co-operation. He is sure this would be forthcoming; that the forces in the field would be given encouragement and the enemy discouraged by the present intensity of bombardment and assault will, if necessary, be continued indefinitely.

IN MESOPOTAMIA.

LONDON, To-day. The British expedition in Mesopotamia is still at Samarra, about 110 miles below Kut-el-Amara on the Tigris, according to an official statement issued to-day, which says the British have been subjected to an ineffectual artillery attack.

LANDSDOWNE'S APOLOGIA.

LONDON, To-day. Landsdowne replying in a written statement to-day to Redmond's charge that his speech in the House on Tuesday was a declaration against Ireland, announced that his speech was made after consultation with Asquith and other members of the Government. In making his statement, he writes, as to the permanent character of certain provisions amending the bill, I did not intend to go, and I do not consider I did go beyond the declaration made by the Prime Minister in the Commons, that the union of the six counties with the rest of Ireland could only be brought about during the interval which must elapse between the present moment and the passing of the Amending Bill represented what I believe to be the views of the Government, were made after consultation with the Prime Minister and others of my colleagues. In the Marquis of Lansdowne's speech on Tuesday, he declared that the amending bill would make structural alterations in the Home Rule Act of 1914, while other provisions were merely temporary. This statement evoked a passionate protest from Redmond, who declared that it indicated a gross breach of faith, and was a gross insult to Ireland. Redmond asserted that if this speech be taken as presenting the attitude and spirit of the Government toward Ireland, there is an end to all hopes of a settlement.

11.00 A.M.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

LONDON, To-day. A British official issued last night says, artillery on both sides was active throughout the day. As a result of sharp infantry fighting we are not only maintaining our pressure on the enemy but have appreciably advanced our line at various points on the battlefield. In one sector of the front we captured some German howitzers with a quantity of ammunition. These will be used against the enemy at suitable times.

KOVEL THE PRIZE.

LONDON, To-day. The most violent fighting of the great Allied offensive is on the eastern front, where Brusilov's tremendous blows are being continued without apparent lull or hesitation. Temporarily at least the Austro-Germans appear to have halted the Russian advance along the Stokhod. Both sides are reported to be hurling huge reinforcements of men and guns into this titanic struggle, of which is the immensely important strategic town of Kovel.

PRINCE BLEUCHER KILLED.

BERLIN, To-day. Prince Gohardt Bluecher Von Walbstat, grandson of the first famous Prince Bluecher of Waterloo, was killed as the result of a fall from a horse near Breslau.

THEIR ONE STANDBY.

BERLIN, To-day. The agitation over unrestricted submarine warfare continues to be conducted energetically by the press, of the extreme right. The Kreuzer, a paper in which carries on an increasingly active propaganda of this sort, publishes articles which are not only editorial in character, but also news, but at the same time must be taken as a manifesto of the conservative party. The article demands that the German Government in respect of the war of submarines against commerce, make use of the freedom of decision which is reserved for itself in its note of May 4th, which has actually been conceded in a manner which amounts to a direct insult by America's answer and her enemies abrogating the declaration of London. The article declares that the campaign proposed is a proper and indispensable means of the rapid and victorious ending of the war.

TREATMENT OF INTERNED ALIENS.

LONDON, To-day. Baron Newton, Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs, explaining in the Lords to-day how 20,000 German prisoners are being employed in timber camps and quarries making roads and in other duties, and how others have been sent to France to be employed in accordance with the provisions of the Hague Convention, said that as a result of the German Government's refusal to accept the Convention, British prisoners in Russian territory where they were badly treated. He said officials of the American Embassy had been barred from visiting the camps. Lord Newton also commented on the spirit of stupidity and ignorance fostered by a certain section of the Press, by which all attempts to employ more than 20,000 interned aliens had proved hopeless. Baron Newton said he had tried to induce the Government to employ some of these men, but was immediately threatened with a strike by something like 100,000 men. Unless a more intelligent spirit prevailed, Baron Newton asserted, the end would find Britain with thousands of these aliens still behind barbed wire, demoralized and broken in health, constituting a serious problem after peace.

MARTIAL LAW IN SPAIN.

MADRID, To-day. Martial law was declared throughout Spain last night.

BRITISH CASUALTIES.

LONDON, To-day. An official London list to-night gives the names of 425 officers, 99 of whom were killed. The last casualty list of British officers issued for the Somme sector published on July 11 contained 73 names.

NEW AMERICAN FINANCIAL CO.

NEW YORK, To-day. A Corporation to be known as the American Foreign Securities Company will be organized by a group of bankers headed by J. P. Morgan Co. and Brown Bros. & Co. A loan of $100,000,000 to the French Government was formally announced here to-night. The company will have a paid up capital of $10,000,000 and will issue three year five per cent notes to the amount of $95,000,000 in this market. The notes will be secured with a margin of 20% by obligations of the Governments of Argentina, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Switzerland, Holland, Uruguay, Egypt, Brazil, Spain, Provence, Quebec, shares in the Suez Canal Co., and bonds and shares of American corporations.

RUSSIAN SUCCESS IN CAUCASUS.

PETROGRAD, To-day. An important success for the Russians in the Caucasus is announced in an official communication issued to-night. The text follows: After hand to hand combat, the Turks were driven from the heights east of Balburn and are now retreating. Our offensive west of Mamakhatun continues successfully. After a violent night battle we occupied a series of heights southeast of Mamakhatun. Pressing closely upon the enemy we took the villages of Djeljeti and Amlani.

GREAT BRITISH SUCCESS.

LONDON, To-day. British troops in their attack on the second system of German defences, captured Longueval, Bazentin Le Grand and the Trones Wood, says a despatch from the front. The British troops at dawn to-day broke into the German positions on a four mile front in the region north of the Somme, and captured several strongly defended localities, says an official announcement of the War Office. The British attack was delivered in the second system of German defences, says the statement, which adds that heavy fighting continues.

BREAK GERMAN SECOND LINE.

LONDON, To-day. A Reuter despatch which comes from a war correspondent at headquarters, says that following a heavy bombardment of the German second defence line, British infantry attacked at dawn to-day and broke the second line over a front of 5,000 yards. The despatch adds, latest reports state that we captured the unfortunate line of Longueval, Bazentin Le Grand and cleared the enemy out of Trones Woods. The weather was cloudy and cool and favorable to our operations.

PROBABLY CORRECT.

LONDON, To-day. Major Morant, of the Berliner Tageblatt, expresses the opinion that the coming days will be decisive of the issue of the whole war.

SOMETHING BIG ON FOOT.

LONDON, To-day. The departure from Petrograd of the entire Russian Council of Ministers on their way to the Imperial Field Headquarters, has been the cause of much speculation in the Russian capital, according to news received here. The departure from Petrograd, only once before, since the war began, has a similar extraordinary Council been held. At that time the Russian Government was faced with the most important internal conditions, and created a precedent in Russian history. The opinion ascribes the present Council to the situation of Austria. For the second time in the war, Austria-Hungary has met with a crushing defeat. It is a strong feeling in influential quarters that if Austria again throws out feelers for a separate peace they should be welcomed by the Allies.

GERMANS VERY HARD HIT.

LONDON, To-day. The Daily News Amsterdam correspondent learns that of the German warships engaged in the Jutland battle, five dreadnought battleships, the Goeben, the Koenigsberg, the Prinzess Alice, Kaiser and Kaiserin, four battle cruisers, Derfflinger, Seydlitz, Moltke and Von Dor Tarn, two older battleships, the Montanbarr, and three small cruisers are now in the German shippingyards undergoing repairs. The other ships, which had all had their superstructure blown away sank in shallow water while being towed to harbor, but has since been salvaged. The other ships were also severely damaged.

AN IMPORTANT SUCCESS.

LONDON, To-day. The capture of Longueval and Bazentin Le Grand indicates that the British in to-day's assault advanced eastward or northward from Contalmaison, and that they apparently have brought their right wing on a par with the French left, and are thrusting a salient between Peronne and the British movement is reported to be directed.

GERMANS REPULSED.

PARIS, To-day. The Germans made two attempts last night to storm French positions north of the Aisne, at a point south of Villy. The other were checked by the French machine guns.

A $75,000 Bout for Gotch and Stecher.

Omaha, Neb., July 6.—An offer of $75,000 for a finish match between Joe Stecher and Frank Gotch was made here to-day. Stecher accepted the offer but word is awaited from Gotch. The offer was made by Gene Malady, of Omaha, who promoted yesterday's bout between Stecher and Straighter Lewis, which ended in a draw after five hours wrestling. Lewis was an enthusiastic supporter of Stecher, and many of the 15,000 spectators pelted the wrestlers with cushions to show their displeasure.

TERRIFIC LIGHTNING STORM

SWEEPS OVER CONCEPTION BAY
—MR. LOUIS WILLIAMS STRUCK BY ELECTRIC SHOCK.

Last night the whole of Conception Bay was illuminated by the heavy lightning storm that for hours lit up the heavens, and at Conception it was the worst storm ever experienced in the memory of the oldest resident of the town. About 9 o'clock the storm was at its height and started to play havoc with the electric wires and fixtures of the town, and firing further trouble Mr. Louis Williams, manager of the United Towns Electric Co. Ltd., hastened to disconnect the town with the power plant at Victoria Village. While in the act of grasping the main switch he was suddenly stricken to the floor by a heavy electric shock. He was some time after found by his daughter, Miss Lulu Williams, in an unconscious condition. She raised the alarm and several neighbours rushed in, and picking up the unfortunate man conveyed him to his home. Dr. Stentford, who was immediately summoned and responded quickly, ordered Mr. Williams to be placed in bed where the usual stimulants were applied. When the train left Conception this morning the patient showed every sign of recovery. An attempt was made to communicate by phone with the Power House at Victoria Village, but no answer could be got, and all through the night grave fears were entertained for the safety of the man on duty there.

The lightning also played havoc with the home of Mr. John Doherty, and fearing the place would catch on fire the occupants left the house.

Austria is Anxious for Peace

Prisoners Say the Entire Nation is United in Demanding an End to War at Earliest Possible Moment.

London, July 8.—A dispatch to the Times from Lutz says: "Fighting on this front continues day by day with little variations. It is true, however, that the heavy guns of the Germans create great losses and enable them frequently to take Russian positions, which are virtually without exception retained by Russian counter-attacks. Probably the heaviest fighting has been near Raitche, where the Germans had eighty heavy guns so placed as to bear on any point of the Russian line." "The battles here continue without respite, without which we should be of German dead daily, but having no effect on our line. There are indications that the enemy is unable to support this sector heavily with reinforcements, and he shows a tendency to retire increasingly on his artillery superiority, without which we should be able to sweep him back rapidly. The Germans appear to maintain an extraordinary morale in spite of their losses. One sees extremely few prisoners, and the Germans fight until the last. Austrian prisoners are unanimous in statements that Austria is finished and that the entire nation is united in demanding peace at the earliest possible moment."

CHARLIE CHAPLIN REPEATED AT NICKEL.

Crowded audiences attended the Nickel Theatre again yesterday and were highly delighted with the performance, especially the picture of Charlie Chaplin. The opinion of all was that "Shanghai" is one of the funniest comedies ever shown in St. John's. By request it is being shown to-day and to-morrow in addition to the other films. The week-end performance is an elaborate one as there are several magnificent subjects. The Vitagraph artists will be seen in a strange story—"Heredity," ably acted by clever artists. There is another of George Ade's fables—"The Fable of Sister Mae," and a very funny comedy—"He Got Himself a Wife." The matinee to-morrow afternoon will be a big one and Charlie Chaplin will be put on for the benefit of the children.

A patriotic concert was held on board the S. S. Florizel during the passage from Halifax to St. John's. Mr. John West presided and the following programme was gone through:—

Planologue—Mr. Clarke.
Solo (Vocal)—Mr. John Peterson.
Orchestra Selection—Florizel orchestra.
Solo (Vocal)—Mr. Dickie.
Solo (Vocal)—Miss Ellis.
Violin Solo—Mr. Knito.
Recitation—Miss Taggart.
Vocal Solo—Mr. John Peterson.
Speech by Chairman.
Speech—Mr. George S. Campbell.
Canadian, American and Allies' anthems.
God Save the King.
The Chairman gave an address after which a collection was taken up amounting to $56, which will be devoted to the W. P. A. Red Cross Fund. Amongst the performers were pupils of the Halifax School for the Blind.

Parishioners Meet Re New Church.

A mass meeting of the parishioners of St. Joseph's Church, Hoytestown, was held last night in the school-room to finalize arrangements in connection with the proposed new church, which will be built on a site selected at the rear of the present one. There was a large attendance and Rev. Dr. Kitchen, P. P., who was present, addressed the meeting. The initial operations regarding the new building will begin right away, after the foundation stone has been laid by His Grace Archbishop Roche.

ACTIVE CANDIDATES.

A candidate for Pres. now jaunts around to some extent, and makes the welkin ring; he shoots the con to city boobas, and hands out bunk to village rubes, and yaps like everything. The people see him, and they say, "He's just an ordinary Jay, he's much like common men; there is no halo o'er his head, his teeth are bad, his nose is red, his shoes are number ten. His larynx surely needs a rest, there are two buttons off his vest, his necktie's come untied; there is a bald spot on his crown, his linen collar's wilted down, his whiskers have been dyed." And many men who hear him speak find admiration growing weak, and to themselves they'll sigh, "We've always thought our candidate was one majestic, grand and great—he's just a common guy." 'Tis distance the enchantment lends, and on a closer view, we see some great man we've admired, and his appearance makes us tired, our ardors ooze away. Methinks that candidate has sense who round his wigwag builds a fence, and stays behind the same; men will idealize that gent, and praise him till the welkin's rent, and magnify his fame.

Obituary.

MRS. PATRICK O'RIELLY.
There passed to her great reward on Friday, the 7th inst., after a lingering illness borne with Christian patience and fortitude, Margaret, the beloved wife of Patrick O'Reilly. The deceased was in her 53rd year, and during her life was remarkable for her charitable disposition and devotion to duty. Her funeral took place yesterday, and was largely attended. Her coffin was literally covered with flowers—tributes of affection from many friends. She leaves a husband, one son, at present in New York, and a daughter to mourn their loss. Gone from us but not forgotten, Never shall your memory fade; Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger Around the spot where she is laid. Dunville, July 11, 1916.

Dust and Flies.

This is the time of the year when the dirty dust from the streets, and flies are in the air and watching their chance to alight on your bread and bring dirt and disease to your children. Guard against them by buying Lynch's Pan-Dandy Bread, white, and brown, wrapped and sealed by machinery in a dust and germ proof wrapper; it is the only bread in Newfoundland that is made, wrapped and sealed by machinery. Ask your grocer for it. Did you get any of Lynch's Beauty Cake, yet? Oh, what a beauty cake! the best in the land. Ask your grocer for it. June 22, 16.
