For Her Sake; The Murder in Furness Wood.

CHAPTER XXVII

The day broke the arrival of which Diana had longed for, yet dreaded. Her father was engrossed with one topic, and that was the coming of the Duke and Duchess. They were coming; and his great ambition was to put forth all the resources of his establishment. His wife endeavored to convince him that an undue exhibition of magnificence would be in bad taste, and sought to induce him to allow everything to take its usual course; and thus, in the midst of rebuffs, he forgot all about Diana. Lady Cameron never intended that her step-daughter should be consulted as to the arrangements, nor did she furnish her with any particulars concerning the coming dinner party. In the great perplexity of her heart and mind, Diana was almost glad not to know; in that case she was not compelled to be present. She longed to see Sir Lisle, yet dreaded the hour. Her heart beat fast, her hands trembled, her face flushed when she thought of his coming, of how he would greet her, and what she should say. She yearned to see once more the dark knightly face so noble and so true; and yet she was filled with scorn and abhorrence when she remembered that he was a Scarsdale and beloved by her foes.

Diana still retained the use of her pony-carriage, which, considering all the reforms that had been introduced into the household, was remarkable. Lady Cameron's great aim being to reduce expenses where they brought no satisfactory results, and to be more lavish in matters of outward appearance. Diana resolved to drive over to Lady Colwyn's and spend the greater part of the day with her, returning in the evening to dinner and to meet the expected guests.

The kissed her father and bade him good-morning as she prepared to depart. He who once had thought only of her, now asked no questions as to whether she was going, said nothing about missing her society, and only remarked that he hoped she had a beautiful dress for the morrow.

"Poor papa," sighed Diana, as she drove away, her ponies' bright harness shining in the sun—"poor papa! What a sad defect in an otherwise noble character! What can he see in the Duke and Duchess more than in the rest of the world? He has sacrificed his happiness and mine to know them."

She went away angry, bitter, sad at heart. She hated this worship of rank and position. It was both foreign and repugnant to her nature, and she could neither understand nor make allowance for it in others.

Kindly Lady Colwyn saw that the girl was depressed and unhappy. Tears came to her eyes when she thought of the time when Diana sang of the sunshine and roses and wondered why every one did not find the life as fair as she herself then did.

There was little said about the home troubles. Diana was too proud to complain, and Lady Colwyn was too well used to make inquiries. The girl spent a few happy hours with her old friend; and in the afternoon she drove back home.

The expected company had arrived. She saw that at once, and made her escape to her own rooms. Where pretty Susanna awaited her. Lady Cameron had sent several times to know where Miss Cameron was, and had at last dispatched a message begging Miss Cameron to wear one of her prettiest dresses and her diamond necklace, the one brought from Paris.

The old rebellious feeling rose with intensified vigor at this display of maternal authority on the part of her ladyship. What business was it of Lady Cameron's how she dressed? She would allow no such dictation; she would dress according to her own taste. As for the hated diamond necklace, she had never worn it, and she never would. She wondered what could be Lady Cameron's motive for taking an interest in her dress and appearance. That Lady Cameron had desired her to make an elaborate toilet seemed to Diana a forcible reason why she should make a perfectly plain one; and, though beautiful costumes lay near her in profusion—some from Madame Elise, some from Worth—she did not even look at them.

"Put away my jewels, Susanna," she said; "I shall not wear any this evening."

The maid looked surprised, for Lady Cameron's injunctions about Miss Cameron's dress had been very strict.

Yet, if her young mistress was really so indifferent about her dress, why was she so difficult to please? No dress satisfied her, until at last she saw one that was the perfection of elegant simplicity.

White silk shot with palest gold. Although simple, it was superb. "I will wear that," said Diana; and she wondered why her heart beat so quickly, why her face flushed, why her hands trembled as she touched the beautiful laces.

"No jewels with this dress, Susanna," she said, while in her heart she was asking herself over and over again: How would Sir Lisle greet her? What would he say? "No jewels," she repeated. "The dress is simple; but it is rich enough in itself. There is so much light about it that it needs no more—nothing but laces and flowers."

"White heath and maiden-hair fern" suggested Susanna.

"Pale geraniums," said Diana; "and I will wear the same in my hair."

She was so fair a picture of youth, grace, and loveliness as eyes could wish to rest upon. Her desire to disobey Lady Cameron had led to the most perfect result.

In her own heart Diana would have preferred to meet Sir Lisle alone. She had as a rule thorough self-command, but it was an ordeal to meet him in the presence of others. As she went down the grand staircase, a glittering vision of white and gold, a thought came to her—how different it would have been if she had had a mother living, a loving mother, who would have taken her by the hand and led her into the drawing room, would have shielded her, would have understood her shyness and hesitation!

"Royal will be there!" she said to herself; and she found comfort in this thought.

Royal was there. The love which had in it no element of self told him that she would need a friend; and he knew that of the visitors one was the man whom Diana loved. He was the first to greet her, and in the shelter of his friendship Diana felt safe.

One by one they came to her. Lord Clanronald led Evadne's side, and his passionate adoration could be read in his eyes as he warmly greeted the young heiress.

"He loves her," thought Sir Royal, as he heard the compliments the young lord lavished so profusely on her.

Then came he of the knightly face, grave, tender and handsome; and in the shining lights and shadows of the autumn evening Sir Royal discovered the secret. Diana's face grew pale, as with a great and almost dread delight, whilst her lovely eyes fell, and she stood for a moment silent and motionless.

"She loves him," thought Sir Royal. Looking at Sir Lisle, he could not wonder at it. He drew aside, and left them together; and in the nobility of his heart he said to himself, "He is worthy of her."

It was Sir Lisle who lingered by her side, and Sir Lisle who took her in to dinner, and it was he who charmed her with his pleasant conversation. Sir Royal saw, too, that, although Lord Clanronald spent most of his time with Evadne, it was Diana whom his eyes followed, and Sir Royal guessed accurately that it was Diana whom he really loved.

The heiress was more her old self on this evening than she had been since her father's marriage. Despite her perplexities, she was in high spirits; and there was a touch of the old sweet imperiousness about her which delighted Sir Royal and charmed Sir Lisle.

The dinner hour passed pleasantly enough. There was looking her best, and to Diana's surprise, she talked most amiably to Richard, at which no one seemed more surprised than Richard himself.

The moonlight shone in silvery radiance through the windows as the gay party returned to the drawing-room. Sir Lisle, anxious to be by the side of her he loved, sought Diana.

"I should like to see your terrace by moonlight," he said. "Mr. Cameron has been telling me how proud he is of it. Should you think me very presumptuous if I asked you to show it to me? I see these windows open on to it."

"I shall be delighted to show it to you," answered Diana; "it is my favorite spot. We often enjoy its beauties by moonlight."

"You will need a cloak," said Sir Lisle, with an admiring glance at the fair white arms.

Susanna brought one of dark, rich velvet, and never had Diana's stately loveliness been seen so greater advantage than when it was thrown over her shoulders.

All the young people preferred the terrace to the brilliantly illuminated drawing-room. They hastened to Richard

LOOK!

If you were told of a new discovery for the treatment of coughs, colds and bronchitis, as certain in its action on all chest troubles as anti-toxic is on diphtheria, or vaccination on small-pox, wouldn't you feel like giving it a trial?

Peps is the discovery. Peps are little tablets, containing certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and are at once breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps lanes get there direct, and at once commence their work of healing.

FREE TRIAL. Cut out this article, write across it the name and date of this paper, and mail it (with 1c. stamp to pay return postage) to Peps Co., Toronto. A free trial packet will then be sent you. All druggists and stores sell Peps, 50c. box.

that she would like a chat with him; and he was much pleased and amazed at the intimation.

"There must be more in me than I imagined," said honest Richard to himself, "if a fine lady like this condescends to be gracious to me!"—and he remained during the rest of the evening in a state of pleasant bewilderment.

Sir Lisle and Diana went to the end of the terrace, whence they could obtain a view of the moon shining on the distant waters. They watched in silence, lost in the beauty of the scene.

"How beautiful this place is!" he said at last. "I have often heard of Furness, but I had no idea it was so picturesque. How you must love it, Miss Cameron!"

"I do," she answered quietly.

"You were sole mistress here before your father married again, were you not?"

"Yes," was the brief reply.

Then she found his dark eyes fixed on her with passionate love and anxious concern.

"Has it made much difference to you, this marriage, Diana? I have asked you a question which you may deem an impertinent one," said Sir Lisle, as his eyes looked inquiringly into hers. "When I heard of my relative's marriage," he continued, "I was delighted for her sake; I looked at it only in her interest. At first I did not know that there was a daughter and heiress, and even when I heard it I scarcely gave a thought to the fact."

"Every one said," interrupted Diana bitterly, "that it was an excellent thing for me."

"So I thought," he added; "but now I am beginning to doubt it. Tell me, Diana, has this marriage been for your happiness or not?"

"I must think before I answer your question," replied Diana.

"Do not think, Diana," whispered Sir Lisle; "answer me with your usual frankness. You are not given to long pauses before you answer a question. Had this marriage, as he repeated, "been for your happiness or otherwise?"

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Miss Kelly Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Newark, N. J.—"For about three years I suffered from nervous breakdown and got so weak I could hardly stand, and had headaches every day. I tried everything I could think of and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she told me about it. From the first day I took it I began to feel better and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compound ever since and give you my permission to publish this letter."—Miss FLO KELLY, 476 So. 14th St., Newark, N. J.

The reason this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, was so successful in Miss Kelly's case was because it went to the root of her trouble, restored her to normal healthy condition and as a result her nervousness disappeared.

Enthusiasm Ran High For Liberal Progressive Candidates Last Night at Outer Cove --- Higgins, Vinnicombe and Fox Will Get Every Vote in This Thriving Settlement.

Never within the memory of the voters was there a larger or more enthusiastic meeting than the one held by the Liberal Progressive candidates for St. John's East—Higgins, Vinnicombe and Fox—at Outer Cove last night. In the afternoon the Fighting Trio drove out to the settlement and spent some time conversing with the people on matters affecting that portion of the district. The school was packed with voters when the candidates arrived, and their entrance was greeted with such rounds of applause as was never heard in Outer Cove before. Mr. Patrick Hickey, one of the oldest and most respected planters of this industrious settlement, was appointed to the chair and conducted the meeting with ability and satisfaction. Greeted with round after round of cheers, Hon. Mr. Higgins addressed the meeting and in beginning expressed his thanks to the people for the wholehearted reception tendered himself and colleagues. He referred to the seriousness of the matter of selecting good, incorruptible candidates, and to the care necessary to elect only those best fitted by experience and ability to look after the country's interests in the Legislature. On the voters would fall the responsibility of making the best selection. None but men of strong, upright, convictions should be endowed with administrative powers. At this juncture the loud and prolonged applause showed in no uncertain manner that the District's popular representative, the Hon. Mr. Higgins, fulfilled all these requirements. The clean cut, honest policy of Newfoundland's first fisherman-Premier was then freely and frankly discussed, and that his manifesto sincerely appealed to the reason and intelligence of the voters of Outer Cove, was evidenced as section after section was explained in detail. His masterful address was punctuated with lusty cheering, the whole audience rising on each occasion to their feet. Mr. Higgins' six years stewardship received the seal of approval and it must indeed be very gratifying to one who has done so much for the District to find his efforts appreciated in such a tangible manner, despite the insidious propaganda which is inspired by the Cypriotes and their hireling, who is posing as an Independent. The close of his speech was the signal for the most enthusiastic cheering which made the rafters ring. Chairman Hickey then announced the second member of the team, who required no introduction to the people of Outer Cove, as his many everyday acts of kindness are too well known to them. Councillor Vinnicombe excorated in no uncertain terms, the low-down methods of their opponents, who were leaving no stone unturned to introduce the most deplorable methods in what is manifestly a vain effort to secure votes. As announced at the beginning of the campaign, the "Fighting Trio" were out for a clean fight, and it cannot be gainsaid that they are living up to their resolves. Absolutely on their merits they are soliciting the support of the electorate, and on this platform they are prepared to stand or fall, feeling sure that their intelligence and reason will compel them to do the right thing. It was the case all down the shore and on Bell Island, the most vociferous applause was tendered Mr. Vinnicombe at the close of his speech.

Mr. Fox on being introduced expressed his warm appreciation of the whole-hearted enthusiasm with which his colleagues and himself were received, and sincerely thanked the audience for the evidences of loyalty, co-operation and support which made both the reception and the meeting such a noteworthy success. Following he dealt with qualifications of his leader, his ability and his experience, convincing elements which entitled him to so justly assume the responsibilities of Premier Minister, and the justice of his claim to the title of Newfoundland's first Fisherman-Premier. He then described the plan of campaign inaugurated by the "Fighting Trio" and how consistently they had pursued their original idea, to carry through the cleanest fight ever fought in St. John's East, and compared their praiseworthy methods with the nefarious practices undertaken by certain sections of the Opposition. He closed by appealing to the electors for a straight ticket vote for the Liberal Progressive team, and rendered his thanks to the audience and feasted them of the pleasure he felt in being privileged to address such a large and representative gathering.

With the singing of the National Anthem and cheers for Chairman Hickey and the Fighting Trio, the meeting then dispersed. The consensus of opinion is that there is not one split vote and no vote for the Opposition in this progressive little community, and they are determined to have as their representatives the team that has been universally admitted as the strongest ever sent to the district. All through the evening the settlement was ablaze with bonfires and house illuminations, making a continuous roar of musketry made the hills reverberate with a sound that could be heard for miles around. Nothing has ever been seen in St. John's East

Obituary.

There died at his post of duty, yesterday, one of our most capable and trustworthy pilots, in the person of Francis O'Leary. For the past twenty years he has been in the service, his kindly disposition endeared him to all who came in contact with him. When the summons came he was on board the schooner Emanuel, and had just brought her to port. Dr. Carnell was called, and had the remains conveyed to his home on York St. A widow, three sons, and two daughters, are left to mourn, to whom the Telegram extends its sympathy.

Hair Soon Too Short to Do Up.

A LITTLE "DANDERINE" STOPS YOUR HAIR COMING OUT AND DOUBLES ITS BEAUTY.

To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a small bottle of delightful "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter for a few cents, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After several applications the hair usually stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff. Help your hair to grow strong, thick and long and become soft, glossy and twice as beautiful and abundant.

Dolls as Old as Adam.

There is a pretty legend to the effect that dolls were first recognized in the branches of the trees of the Garden of Eden. The earliest authentic records, however, seem to go back to the days of the Romans, when they made quaint, Spink-like, jointed dolls from ivory—patterns which modern doll-makers have since copied. That the Roman children had their dolls, which they offered up to Venus when they grew older, was vouched for on one occasion by the historian Macaulay.

There is ample evidence that the use of dolls as an assistance to the operations of the young mind dates from the most remote times. Among the native tribes of Africa it was the custom of married women to carry a doll with them until they had a child, when the doll was discarded. Kings were wont to play with dolls, and talking and walking dolls, which even to-day are regarded as novelties, date back a century. At a French exhibition held in 1823 dolls which could say "Papa" and "Mamma" were exhibited, and three years later dolls which could walk were shown in the shops. It was about the same time that dolls added to their many accomplishments the power to open and close their eyes.

FRENCH ATTACKS SINN FEIN GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, Oct. 23. Speaking at Wallasey, Cheshire, last night Field Marshal Viscount French Lord Lieutenant of Ireland made a bitter attack upon the Sinn Fein Government of Ireland. Among other things he said "self constituted illegal and insane Sinn Fein Government is possessed of a great secret army called Irish volunteers to which are attached Assassins whose business it is to murder police and soldiers who question their depression in any community. People are frightened into screening offenders and courageous efforts on part of police are abortive. We are anxious to give self determination and to be faithful and just to all, but little can possibly be done until law and order are established. When the people hear of "coercion" I hope they will consider matter in a just light.

THE BATTLE IN RUSSIA.

LONDON, Oct. 23. Krasnaia Corka fortified city on the southern shore of the Gulf of Finland about thirty miles west of Petrograd has been taken by anti-Bolshevik troops according to Hellogtors advices. South and southwest of Petrograd the northern Russian army seems to be making slow progress. Advances received here however would appear to indicate slight advance by General Yudenitch during the last few days it is being said a severe struggle is in progress six and one half miles south of the city. Soviet forces are reported to have arrived at Petrograd from Moscow and to be engaged in battle.

AN ACT OF HOSTILITY.

LONDON, Oct. 23. Wireless despatch received from Moscow says that Bolshevik foreign Minister to Tchitcharin has notified the German Government that participation by Germany in a blockade against Russia as has been requested by the Entente will be regarded as a deliberate act of hostility. The Foreign Minister expresses the hope that Germany will reply to the Allied request by an emphatic refusal to acquiesce.

DEMANDING ARRESTS.

STATE CONTROL OF RAILROADS.

LONDON, Oct. 23. Sir Eric Geddes the Minister of Transport it is reported by the Central News is preparing a scheme for state control of railroads and canal. This became known after the conference of delegates of the National Union of Railwaymen with Premier Lloyd George which was resumed today. Conference of the railwaymen with the Government regarding the future administration of the railways had been interrupted after the settlement of the recent railway strike.

FLYING OVER NEW YORK.

MINEOLA, N.Y., Oct. 23. Governor Runyon of New Jersey, started on a flight over New York today in rear Admiral Mark Kerr's Atlantic, the big British Hanley Page plane which flew here recently from Farrisboro. Several other passengers made up the party of guests of the Admiral.

At the Majestic.

Little Miss Wallace, the graceful danseuse, received a splendid ovation at the Majestic Theatre last evening, when she was encored at both shows. The audiences at this artistic house can appreciate a good thing when they see it, and for that reason gave the clever performer an enthusiastic reception last evening.

To-night's show is an excellent one, one that will be sure to appeal to every lover of good pictures and features. In response to the oft-repeated requests of many patrons, the management has agreed to put on a British production, and to-night "The Gamble For Love" will be screened. "Quaint Quebec," a scenic, will also be shown. A really funny comedy, "Skirts," complete the picture show. A song will also be offered patrons, and altogether an enjoyable night is assured all who are present.

"Sheep That Lay Golden Eggs."
"Begorra! some of the best Irish bulls are English," said an Irish M.P. not long ago, and he was right. When the Gladstone umbrella was all the rage, an Opposition candidate was heard to declare: "We, too, have an umbrella, and its voice will soon be heard; and when it speaks, it will speak with no uncertain sound."

Quite as good was the assertion of an M.P. who said: "I see a vision before mine eyes. I see the car of progress, rolling along in its majesty, gnashing its teeth as it rolls."

A better known M. P. is credited with the statement that "the British lion, whether it is roaming the forests of India or climbing the forests of Canada, will not draw in its horns nor retire into its shell," while another speaker averred that "all along the untrodden paths of the future we can see the hidden footprints of an unseen hand."

It was a politician, too, who some time ago declared that "the Government keep cutting the wool off the sheep that lays the golden eggs."

Another speaker once stated that the Union of England and Ireland would turn barren hills into fertile valleys.

But one M.P., speaking on total prohibition, rather overstepped the mark when he said: "The glorious work will never be accomplished until the good ship Temperance shall sail from one end of the land to the other, and with a cry of 'Victory' at each step she takes, shall fly her banner in every city, town, and village of our country."

THE HAPPINESS
A friend of mine has just gotten a davenport she has wanted for two years and had on order many months. She got it installed and there called me in to see the effect. It certainly had ded 100 per cent to the room. said so. "Doesn't it," she breathed with the sight of one who has wanted one such for an improvement to his favor it. "I think the room looks just as I want it to now."

"That is," she added, "it will be soon as we get that old desk done over. I can't hardly wait. It will be perfect then."

Her Husband Laughed at Her. "Oh, no, it won't," laughed her husband, "at least, you won't think so. You'll be saying it will be perfect as soon as we get something else. You'll never be satisfied."

"Perhaps," said the Author who had also been summoned in to see the effect of the new davenport, "that's why she's always so happy."

"Do happiness and discontent go together?" asked the husband.

"I didn't mean happiness and discontent, I meant happiness and eagerness," said the Author.

"One can be eager without being discontented," said the Author.

The husband looked distinctly convinced. He is that sort.

Emerson's Warning to Thoreau
As for me, my mind flew strangely enough (or not strangely) to something John Burroughs tells Thoreau. "All through his writings says Burroughs, "Thoreau tells us some mysterious and beautiful warbler which he has often heard and which he cannot identify."

"Emerson," Burroughs goes on to say, "told Thoreau that he must be ware of finding and booking it. If he had nothing more to show him."

Another example of eagerness for happiness, is it not?

"If It Were It Wouldn't be So Beautiful"

Years ago we lived one summer in a little house which was set on a tidewater river. Once in a while when the tide was just right, the river would rise in a shining expanse which covered all the grasses and flowed almost to our door steps. At such times looking out of our living room windows we seemed to be in the saloon of a ship for we could see no land at all. Whenever these tides came I would revel in the beautiful nearness of the river and would say, "Wouldn't it be beautiful if it were like this all the time." And then my mother would say, "If it were, it wouldn't be so beautiful."

There are five lines of verse which though written by a very humble writer seem to me to catch the spirit of the happiness of eagerness very well. I shall be glad if you like them.

A Stern Fight For Success.

A LABOURER'S SON WITH SIX HUNDRED SHOPS.

Sir Jesse Boot, Bart, head of the greatest firm of chemists in the world, is a remarkable example of how a man may succeed in spite of severe handicaps.

He is a cripple, and has to be carried about in a chair. One can scarcely credit that this man, with his long white hair and drawn face, controls six hundred shops, large factories and laboratories, and over ten thousand workpeople!

It is the result of indomitable pluck, the same tenacity and determination which have brought him to the pinnacle of business success. For his life has been a long struggle, a bitter fight against adverse circumstances.

On the Bottom Run.

Sir Jesse Boot did not start with the advantage of having influential or wealthy parents to help him. He is the son of a man who began as an agricultural labourer and eventually became a herbalist. It was in that herbalist's shop that the ideas first took root which ultimately led young Boot to establish the great firm of which he is now the head.

Nearly sixty years ago his father died, and it became necessary for the boy to seek some means of bringing grist to the mill. His mother continued her husband's business, and he became her assistant. But his ambitions soon soared beyond the retailing of herbs; young as he was, he saw immense possibilities in a higher vocation. Devoting every minute of his spare time to the study of pharmacy, his keen brain quickly enabled him to master its mysteries, and then he decided to become a chemist on his own account.

Boot opened his first shop in Goose Gate, Nottingham, and by patient hard work he won through to prosperity. But he was by no means content. He conceived the idea that there was room for something really big in the chemist's line, and that by purchasing drugs and chemicals on a huge scale a great business could be built up.

The favorite expression of Sir Jesse's is: "Humanity is for everyday use." He acted on the motto. The world, in short, was his field. His new experiment quickly proved successful, and before long he formed the limited liability company which now bears his name.

He Never Forgets.

Sir Jesse himself sets an admirable example of industry. He is a stern up-

SONG OF MANHOOD.

Oh, some there are that gold must cheer, some want to drink life's glory clear,
And some think happiness is told in wearing fancy dress;
And some would filter out of life its care and grief and nips of strife To spend the fruitful years of time in drowsy idleness.
But grant to me the men who say: "We'll meet whatever comes our way."
We'll take life's pleasure and its pain, its bitter and its sweet;
We'll gladly work and gladly play and live our lives as best we may,
The road that leads to victory leads also to defeat.

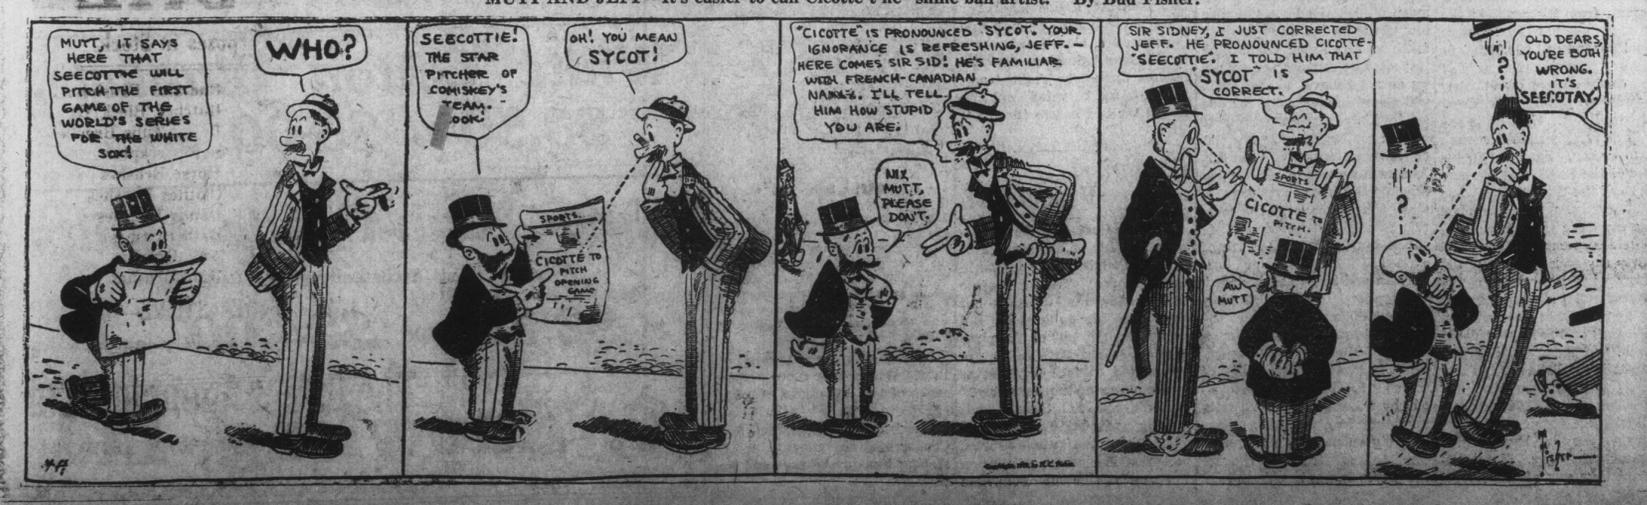

Oh, some there are that sigh for fame, and some the heights of skill would claim,
Some grieve and fret and frown because the sun has failed to shine;
Some will not let themselves be glad until some far-off joy is had.
In all the splendor of to-day their eyes see nothing fine,
But grant to me the men who cry: "It is not yet our time to die!"
The cup of life is in our lips and we may drink its brew!
We'll trudge the rain-splashed road to-day, to-morrow we may rest and play,
For who would dine with happiness must sup with sorrow, too."

Oh, some would live from year to year and never shed a single tear,
And some would dull their palates with the juices sickly sweet;
Some would not run the risk of pain one hour of added joy to gain,
Nor put their courage to the test by venturing with defeat.
But grant to me the men who shout: "No less can put our faith to rout,
We'll take what comes of good or ill as fate is pleased to give;
We'll gladly work and gladly play, for pleasure here with pain we'll pay,
And when at last it's ours to die, we'll say 'twas good to live."

The Railway.

Ammunition almost gone, the Opposition press reverts back to the Railway and tries to frighten the voters by imagined evils resultant from their (the Opposition) own distorted minds. The railway needs repairs. This is undeniable. Now let us, however, consider how the Opposition, as stated in Squires' manifesto, propose to deal with the repairing. In Squires' manifesto we read, "The railway line will, with reasonable despatch, after the election of my party to office (when will this be?) be put in running order. . . . Further down we read, "It is vitally important that at the earliest moment possible, the railway situation be dealt with by a body of men who will truly and firmly represent the people of this Colony. . . . Now voters, for a fraction of time, study this carefully and note first of all how non-committal Squires is. He has talked, and is talking of the dominance (?) of the Reids over the present Government, but he has said absolutely nothing of how he proposes to relegate the Reids to their proper place, as he styles it. The Opposition is dealing with the railway question by its absence of argument, and profusion of abuse show their actual policy towards the repairing of the railway. Squires and Coaker to-day have no idea whatever of how to deal effectively with the Reids, and their words are a mere bluff given to the electorate, for were Squires and Coaker capable of dealing with the Reids, doubt not but that the Post, Star and Advocate would have heralded it forth ere this with a flare of trumpets, instead of issuing only, publications reeking with abuse. . . . Coaker, ere he got into the National Government, was death on the Reids, but when he was ensconced on the Government side, how quickly he changed. Care for the country's interests was immediately lost in the comforts of Reid's private car which Coaker so often travelled in. But apart from his travels to and fro in private cars, trips abroad, etc., Coaker, before the dissolution of the National Government, from his seat in the House, stated that the country should spend $1,000,000 or more on putting the railway into condition. Now Coaker proposes to deal effectively with the Reids. How he is going to do it he is careful enough not to betray. Squires, in his abuse of the Reids, and the negligence of the Government, has not always been so outspoken or so emphatic in denouncing the Reid corporation. What did Squires say about fixing the railway when he was in the Government? Nothing, except that he took $9,516.00 for some small work on the Bay de Verde franch, and then, it is said, thought it too little for his services. Furthermore he has not denied taking $5,000.00 from Reid, nor the statement that Reid financed the launching of the Star newspaper. More important than any of the foregoing, however, is the outstanding fact that Squires is as silent as the grave re the alleged statement that W. D. Reid is financing the present Opposition campaign to the tune of upwards of one hundred thousand dollars. When did W. D. Reid express such great love for the Government or people of this country that he was willing to spend his private fortune in a political campaign for the mere purpose of giving to us a doubtful reform Government? Squires has showed by his secretiveness that the allegations made contain more truth than he is willing to publicly admit. In his manifesto Squires also says that he knows he won't be bribed. Easily said, and yet he has not explained why Coaker accused him of taking the $5,000.00 from Reid, when on a commission investigating certain charges against the Reids. Squires' undenied conduct in accepting such a sum and his reported attempt to get Reid to sign a note disclaiming the payment of such, is poor proof of his self-styled incorruptibility or impossibility of bribery. We wonder what Sir Joseph Flavell will say when he reads the foregoing. . . . The railway needs the serious attention of our representatives, but Squires and Coaker have both shown by their actual dealings, as well as by the alleged and undenied accusations made against them in reference to the Reids, that they are no more to be trusted now than they were in the past. The confederation talk by the Opposition is a bluff put up on the electorate. It would be more politic and more to the interest of Squires were the Opposition writers to show how Squires intends, or rather has planned to carry out his boasted reforms and drastic measures. Will he ask for another $5,000? Voters, such are the men who boast to you of their anti-confederation, of their anti-Reidism. "By their fruits ye know them." Are you content to listen to the sophistries of Squires, and the Bolshevistic preachings of Coaker and Grimes, et al? The answer is ready, and in a few days' time will be blazoned forth to all that neither one nor the other is acceptable, but that Cashin and his followers, the men of the hour, are back!

Big Talkers.

It has evoked much comment among the workers of St. John's, to find Hon. John Anderson, reported as persuading, or rather trying to persuade the people to vote for Hon. R. A. Squires. Much might be said of Mr. Anderson, good, bad, and indifferent, but giving him all the credit due him for his interest in the workingmen, etc., it is a noteworthy fact that the gentleman in question is a lover of long speeches and longer writings. We presume therefore that he has been much taken with the manifesto of Hon. R. A. S., simply because the latter uses up quite a bit of space in saying, not nearly as much as contained in Cashin's few words on the same subject. Much as Mr. Anderson may be respected by some of the voters, we do not believe any of them will take him seriously or be led by his counsel, especially in such a matter as the exercise of the franchise. We wish Mr. Anderson success in his housing scheme, and hope that soon a start will be made in the erection of the first house, but we advise him nevertheless to be careful of the "love of long phrases and indefinite sayings," and Squires' talk on the many things he plans to do for the navy and army is mainly comprised of abuse of the Government, and any definite policy of treating our heroes is conspicuous by its absence. Loud talking and long-winded phrases look big on paper, but rarely come to any fruition because the people do not trouble to read them. Cashin's policy—short and clear, read by everyone, has won the majority of voters, and "empty vaporings of the Opposition" will be discarded on November 3rd.

The Firebugs!

The sectarian firebugs—Squires and Mosdell—have been more than busy during the last few weeks pouring the vilest kind of literature into the outports, especially Burin, Fortune, Burgeo and the Northern Districts. Their one object is to set friend against friend, neighbor against neighbor. Those who are supporting Squires in St. John's, would hardly believe him capable of such low tactics. Mosdell, is of course, capable of anything. That scurrilous article of his about the Penitentiary, is not forgotten, nor is it likely to be. Such beings live for nothing else but to create religious discord. Surely they will be men for once, and try to rise above their debased feelings. It is such scandalous and degrading booklets and posters as are being sent to some of the outports at present that lead to riots, with perhaps bloodshed. What are such men capable of when they stoop so low to defeat political opponents? What explanation is the Guppyite Squires going to give to the voters of St. John's West? Will he deny that he is flooding the Northern and Western districts with the worst kind of circulars? Residents of St. John's, of all shades of political thought are against such conduct, and on Polling Day, Mr. Squires must answer for his conduct. We have had trouble in the past, let us have no more. SQUIRES CAN'T BE TRUSTED neither can Coaker or his associates.

Can't Be Trusted.

Newfoundland needs strong men at present to guide her clear of the dangers ahead. She needs men of the type of Sir Michael Cashin, Hons. Hickman, Crosbie, Bennett, White-way and their associates, men who have interests in the country and who are not likely to be carried away by such as Coaker, who knows a lot about creating strife and discord, but is ignorant of matters concerning the best interests of our Island Home. Newfoundland cannot afford to jeopardize her future by giving control to such men as Messrs. Coaker, Squires, M. L. Farrell and John T. Meaney. Sufficient of them is known to kill their chances of leading Terra Nova to her financial doom. Coaker is so erratic that he does not know at one moment what he did the previous one. Squires, in spite of his polished tongue, cannot be trusted. By their deeds they shall be judged, and the fruits of the Opposition leader's past has shown that he is not the man to be placed in charge of such an important country as this. There are too many dark stories connected with Squires' name—his present political bed-fellow, Coaker called him the BLACK RASCAL and he knows. No, voters, those of us who hold our native land dear must vote against Squires and Coaker. To elect such men would mean ruin for all. Squires Cannot be Trusted now and he must be voted out on November 3rd before it is too late.

Coakerism Vanquished.

Did Mr. Coaker, while at Salvage, end his political tirade of abuse by advising the people in these words: "When Morine comes, allow him to start, but don't allow him to finish?" Did not an old resident of the place answer: "Why, Mr. Coaker, are you afraid to face Mr. Morine on the floors of the Assembly?" And did not Mr. Coaker exit quickly without answering? What about the whole-hearted reception Morine is getting on the south side of Bonavista

Squires Cries "Boo Man."

AND PUBLISHES THE REID LETTER BUT THE PEOPLE ONLY LAUGH.

If Squires thought he was going to create a sensation with the publication of Mr. H. D. Reid's letter written to his brother Sir William in the spring of 1918, he must have had the surprise of his life. The letter appeared in the "Star" last evening and in the "Post" of this morning, but far from creating the sensation which Squires worked so hard to attain, it did not arouse even mild interest among the public. Most people read it out of that curiosity which the publication of private letters creates, but as it was merely a rehash of the extracts that have been appearing in the Squires' organs the past couple of weeks, and there was nothing new in it, the majority of readers wondered just what Squires was kicking up all the racket about, and why he went to the trouble and expense of having such a harmless document photographed and prepared for publication.

The "Reid letter" is merely a private note from Mr. H. D. Reid written to his brother Sir William (a notorious confederate) when the latter was in Montreal in 1916 and using every means in his power to bring about the Confederation of Newfoundland and Canada. Mr. Reid wrote Sir William just as our brother would write to another, and gave him his private opinion with regard to the question of Confederation. These came as no surprise to the public. If Mr. Reid holds such opinions there is no earthly reason why he should not express them, and we do not think our readers will claim that there is any harm in his doing so.

Three years have elapsed since the letter in question was written, and if Confederation had been desired by the Government, they have had ample time in which to bring it about. They have not done so, they have not considered the question at all, and nobody has been worrying about the matter until Mr. Squires secured this letter, and now springs it on the public in the hope that they will be gullible enough to believe that Confederation threatens, and that the Government intends to bring it about.

Mr. Squires forgets that the public will naturally enquire as to how he came by this private letter. Rumour has it that Sir William Reid is heavily backing him in his election campaign. The fact of Mr. Squires having this letter in his possession would indicate as much. If Sir William Reid is backing Squires, he is doing so for a purpose. Sir William Reid has two ambitions. One is to get back his position as President of the Reid Newfoundland Company, and the other is to effect Confederation.

To achieve these objects he is willing to spend any amount of money. He has already gone through a large part of his private fortune and has spent money like water in an endeavour to bring about Confederation through the agency of his friends, detective bureaus, relations with prominent Canadians, interviews with Premier Borden and innumerable other channels. If he could attain his ambition he would be happy. He now sees a chance of bringing about his plans through the agency of Mr. Squires and Mr. Coaker. The latter, as everyone knows, was enticed to Ottawa by Sir William Reid about the time the "Reid letter" was written in order to be educated in Confederation. Coaker in fact was so enamoured with the idea that he wanted Sir Edward Morris to invite Sir Wilfred Laurier down here. With willing tools like Squires and Coaker in control, Sir William Reid hopes, first, to be reinstated in his position as President of the Reid Nfld. Company, and then to bring about Confederation. He is shrewd enough to realize that if Coaker can, as he positively states he intends to do, enforce his scheme for guaranteeing fish prices, the result will be the ruin of the country and enforced confederation. Then his life-time ambition will be realized.

This is the menace that confronts the country just now. The best guarantee that the present Government is totally opposed to Confederation is found in the fact that although Mr. H. D. Reid's letter was written nearly four years ago, there has been no talk of Confederation since that time, nor has any one been crazy enough to try to bring it about.

But if Sir William Reid obtained any power or influence in a Government, as he undoubtedly would in the event of the Squires-Coaker party obtaining control of our affairs, all his power and influence would be bent on the union of this country with Canada, and if Sir William is backing Squires, as report has it, Bay? Will Coaker concoct messages of lies and abuse, in an effort to prove otherwise? Coakerism is dying rapidly, and Coaker sees the ghastly truth staring him in the face and he wilts.

then he will be able to enforce his will upon the formulation of the Bolshevistic policies, and our people can look for a Confederation scheme being put through, that is if Canada will be willing to take us in after Coaker has wrought his will upon the country and brought his people to beggary and destitution. If anyone yet doubts Sir William Reid's sentiments with regard to Confederation, let him read the following extracts from Sir William's letter to Lord Shaughnessy, which shows that not alone was he working incessantly to attain this object, but had actually arrived at terms with Premier Borden.

SIR WILLIAM REID'S LETTER.

Reid Nfld. Co., Office of the President, St. John's Nfld., Dec. 19th, 1917. Dear Lord Shaughnessy:—

"Let me now refer to a matter which concerns not merely the fortunes of the Reid-Newfoundland Company, but of the country where that Company operates,—a matter of confederation of Newfoundland with Canada. You will remember that you were in possession of my views concerning the terms on which Confederation could be arranged between the two countries, and that I had requested you to conduct the negotiations leading up to that consummation with the authorities at Ottawa. You will not forget that though these negotiations occupied you for a space of four or five months, nothing came of them, and the question seemed as far from solution as ever. When I heard that you were leaving Canada for England I made it my business to join you on the train and take up the matter with you. I suggested that during your absence I should myself undertake the negotiations, and I asked you for a letter to Sir Robert Borden, intimating that I was in a situation to discuss terms with him. It was not at all necessary for me to have this letter, as my relations with Sir Robert Borden enabled me to approach him with the certainty that my views would be received with respect, and as a matter of fact, I never delivered your letter to him, but approached him at my own instance, and not at all as your representative. But I wished in view of your connection with the Company, whose fortunes were so intimately bound up with this question of Confederation, to have the benefit of your endorsement of any action which I may take at the end. And in addition, I was willing that your previous efforts to arrive at terms of union should not be regarded as futile, but that you should have the benefit of the success that I believed that I was able to achieve. Perhaps you know the result of my negotiations. Suffice it to say that in the course of a month I brought the matter to an issue which promises complete success. The terms approved by Sir Robert Borden were formulated by me and by me alone; all the modifications that were arrived at were made by me, and by me alone, in the interests of Newfoundland and of our Company.

After the nomination the large gathering of supporters of the Liberal-Progressive Team who were in attendance assembled on the King's Beach, where from the steps of the C.C.C. Hall, Messrs. Higgins, Vintcombe and Fox in turn thanked them for their splendid demonstration of loyalty and support. The demonstration, by comparison with the little funeral-like parade of their opponents was certainly an indication of what is going to happen in St. John's East on November 3rd. Cheer after cheer resounded for the team and the leader of the Party, Sir Michael Cashin. St. John's East is won. It is now only a question of what the majority will be.

Liberals of Terra Nova!

Look to the Winter Ahead, and the Future Before You.

We are now well into the autumn season and so nearing the hard, cold winter months, the period of the year that bears most heavily on a large number of the population. The elections, now about to take place, will have such a bearing on these wintry times to come, and to all the future as well, that it is the duty of every voter to seriously consider as to how he should mark his ballot. To-day, on the eve of the election, all the industrial and manufacturing establishments of the country, with the present able Government in power, are working full time, and overtime in many cases, and to the full capacity of all their plants, thus affording plenty of employment and at good wages. The return of the Government means then a further continuance and expansion of all this work with the consequent demand for more help and the distribution of more wages to all employees. The approach of the wintry season then will have no terrors for the working people, and a brighter outlook for the future will cheer us in our work. The election of the factions now opposed to the present Government, would blast these prospects and chill the hopes of the people by a reversal to the inevitable stagnation sure to follow. The wintry season, then, would see people thrown out of work with no means to subsist on, for the wheels of industry would be stopped fearing the disturbance to trade that would be sure to follow the advent of a Government in the hands of Squires controlled by Coaker. The designs of Coaker have been exposed to the full, for he is out to use the public revenue of this Dominion in a manner that no business man will submit to without protest, or that none who have any industrial undertakings or manufacturing interests in the Dominion will hearken to, because involved in such a control. The upshot of all this will be that the wheels of industry will be dislocated, that factories and all manufacturing concerns will shut down for a prolonged period, awaiting the outcome of the hazardous risks and dangers that Coaker plans upon the public revenue of the Dominion. You have this issue then before you. Liberals of Newfoundland, upon what side do your interest lay? Are you going to vote so that there shall be no disturbance of present conditions with plenty of employment, under the present Government, or are you going to sacrifice all this to be cast out upon the street in the rough and rugged wintry weather, seeking employment that none will give? Are you going to prevent your families from obtaining the ordinary comforts of life and debarring your children from being reared, as you would desire them, just merely for the sake of catering to the whims of Coaker united to the hypocritical vapourings of R. A. Squires. This is the pair who tell you to turn, what they absurdly term, the grafters, out, but if you accept their advice you will only be letting in a pack of political wolves who will devour everything their capacious maws can swallow. They will be the means of stagnating trade, and then surely you will see the wolves at your door, not in imagination, but in substance and form. Disregard then all "baboo" cries such as those about the Reids, about confederation and all the other worn-out, stupid, impotent vapourings of factions who would tear each other to shreds before a year would be over, leaving nothing in their wake but the wreckage of broken homes and the shattering of all your hopes. Don't pursue a course that will drag you towards such a precipice of desolation; don't have your wives and helpless boys and girls upbraided you in the wintry days to come that you were bamboozled, that you fell for the slick tricks of Coaker and Squires, and disregarded the interests of your own homes and families; don't bring yourself to this brink of ruin and fall headlong over it, for it may be that your nerves will be so shattered by the fall thereof that you will be unable ever again to get upon your legs and work for your home and family. Think over the words of our solemn and sincere warning; think not for the moment only, but for the days and years to come, of what you are about to do on the third day of November, and if you think seriously of it as we wish you to do for your own special benefit, we have that faith in the honor, the sense, the intelligence of the Newfoundland voter that we believe you will do what is right, right to yourself, right to your mothers, right to your wives, right to your daughters and right to the sons you are rearing to follow in your footsteps and to come into your inheritance. Your well-considered verdict then will be, we guarantee and pledge our faith, that you will vote, not for the candidates of Coaker and Squires, exponents of Toryism and Coakerism, but for the candidates of the present Government, the representatives of true Liberal principles.

Going to the Next Dance? DO and Make a Hit!

I don't know, feel sort of indifferent, could not get a proper dress, one that I feel is just right. She that black satin dress she had at the last dance? Would like something similar, she MADE SOME HIT. This is being said daily, remarked her friend. Do you realize, sayeth she, that at New York on Water Street, at the Grace Building, there are on display 650 Dresses, of Satins, Georges, Crepe de Chines, Serge and every other kind of dress made, and where she got hers, where you will get yours and make a hit, because every dress has been designed by an artist with individual ability. LONDON, NEW YORK & PARIS ASSOCIATION OF FASHION, 288 Water Street, St. John's. oct.23.31

Winter is Coming.

Already the chilly days of Autumn are here, and you should not risk the chance of catching cold in a house where the fires die out, or where a great delay of time is necessary to start them on a frosty morning. A little Gas Heater, Gas Grate, or steam radiator will furnish you with just as much heat as you require, and just as little, by simply turning a tap. We have Radiant Fires, Chill-Chairers, Set-in-Grates, Steam Radiators, and appliances to suit all requirements of the Home. ST. JOHN'S GAS LIGHT CO. Sept. 25, 1919

"Syrup of Figs" Child's Laxative.

LOOK AT TONGUE! REMOVE POISONS FROM STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

Children love its delicious fruity taste. Full directions for child's dose on each bottle. Give it without fear. Mother! You must say "California."

Britons All!

A SONG FOR THE TIMES. (By Arnold Galsworthy.) We've got to stick together now the Peace flag is unfurled, For there's a lot of work ahead for us to do; We've got to put some patches on this maimed and battered world, And that's a job for all of us, for him—for me—and you! Our King and country need us as they needed us before, We've got to make amends for what has gone; There's a motto for the workshop and the study and the store— It's the one the soldiers gave us—"Carry on!"

Refrain: So let us roll our sleeves up, every one, And finish off the job that we've begun, We are not going to forget, And we'll show the old world yet That Britain's watchword still is—"Duty done!"

We can have our fun to-morrow, but there's work to do to-day, And it's up to all of us to see it through; We've got to help each other and to stick it anyway, Though it's not perhaps the work we want to do, But the land we love is calling us each one to do his bit, Though thorny be the path we tread upon, So give a British cheer, and show your good old British grit, And about a glad "Ave, Sir!" to the order, "Carry on!"

Church Lads' Brigade.

The Battalion paraded at 815 sharp. Lieut. Col. R. F. Goodridge in Command, Major Halsey, M.C., Adjutant, Rev. J. Brinton, Battalion Chaplain, Captains Outerbridge, A. Goodridge; Lieuts. Miles, Rendell, Fred Emerson, (Educational Dept.) Paymaster Ash, Sgt. Major Reid were on duty. A few recruits were sworn in by the Battalion Chaplain. The following officers have been recently promoted: 2nd Lieut. Frank Miles, Phil Rendell G. House, Rev. E. H. Fletcher, W. Colley, to be Lieutenants, Corporal Hammond has been transferred to the Recruiting Department, Mr. W. Anderson, late of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment, to be temporary Lieut., attached to E. Co. Mr. French to be Sgt. of E. Coy.; Mr. O. Feaver late of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment, to be Sgt. of E. Coy.; Mr. W. White, late of the Royal Newfoundland Regt. to be Corp. in charge of drums of E. Co. The last news we had from Bell Island is that F. Co. paraded on Oct. 6th, for Divine Service, when an appropriate sermon was preached by Capt. the Rev. Clayton. The Wabans C. L. B. Armoury is now having the ceiling and interior fittings completed in an up-to-date style. The anniversary celebration committee met last night and finalized arrangements for 11th, Nov. next. The lady holders have promised to provide for 360 lads' teas on Armistice night.—Q.

About Your Bones.

Do you know how many bones you have? Probably not; for we have such little curiosity about ourselves and our composition that we generally know very little beyond what we can see. You possess two hundred and forty-six bones from tip to toe. They are distributed about you as follows: Your ears have six (three each). Your head has eight. Your face has fourteen, and your teeth comprise thirty-two. Your backbone with its base, has twenty-six bones, and so has the area of your expansive chest. Your legs and your feet have sixty-two, your arms and hands sixty-four. The grand total is reached by the addition of eight small movable bones. There are more muscles in your body than bones. They number 527. If you are curious for further knowledge regarding your bones, you will be interested to know their composition. They include phosphates of lime, carbonate of lime, phosphate of magnesia, fluoride of lime, chloride of sodium, cartilage, and blood-vessels. The next time you say you "feel it in your bones," you might remember this!

Naughty Nations.

A novel inquiry has lately been held in America. Which is the "naughtiest" of all the foreign nations represented in the United States?

The method adopted to decide this question has been to take a census of all the people who have been imprisoned for breaking laws, and the fairest record is held by Switzerland. Only 0.31 per cent. of the Swiss in the United States have been to prison.

Mexico is the bad boy of the family, with 2.3 per cent., or just over one in fifty. Ireland is only a fraction better, 2 per cent., and Scotland is third from bottom with 1.2 per cent. Following these, each country being better than the last, come Austria, England and Wales, Canada, France, Italy, Russia, and Denmark.

What about Germany? Prepare for a nasty blow. Omitting Switzerland, Germany comes top!

THE DAILY DOPE

BY THE CUB-EDITOR

THE SCRIBBLER'S LAMENT.

I venture, Mr. Editor, to offer you the lay of a sadly-unappreciated journalist. Who has now begun to ask himself "Does journalism pay?" Having failed to sell a word of his infernal list.

I have studied all the writings of the literary great. From Chaucer down to Sims and all the rest of them; yet my ebullitions steadily at home accumulate. I've kindled fires with several of the best of them.

I have written of adventures with imagination's aid. Tried the paragraph, the story and the storyette. But something seems to check the cheques I understood were paid. And I've had no unremunerated glory yet.

I've dealt with social functions and cases at the courts; The Arts and the Drama I have criticized. Of accidents and incidents I've made minute reports; And on anything and everything have "witticized."

Exclusive information re the Famous I collect. How B. gets bald, and S. is getting stout again. I "fire" them into editorial drawers without effect. They invariably quibble fire them out again.

From the "dailies" to the "quarterlies"—I give them all a turn—My manuscripts come back with notes rejecting them. The notes are mostly grateful—I've a grateful still to burn; But they don't contain a hint about accepting them.

I've written on philosophy, the holiday and love. On what we need and what we ought to fight about; And lastly, Mr. Editor, I've written the above. Because there's nothing left to me to write about.

THE CANDID INVENTOR.

The New York World has had an interview with Keely, the mysterious motor man. The inventor very frankly told the reporter the whole modus operandi of his wonderful discovery. Here is the pith of the whole matter as divulged by Mr. Keely himself:

"There is a triple sympathetic order of vibration diverting the positive polarized centre; this rotary action is continuous when sympathetically associated with the polar stream."

One of the distinguishing characteristics of Mr. Keely is his plain, blunt way of saying a thing, so that any gump can understand it. We see no reason why any man cannot make a motor that will mot as well as Keely's.

ATTA BOY, HOFMANN!

A man thought he would have some fun with Josef Hofmann, the pianist. One evening Hofmann was at a dinner, and, after he had passed, his friend, the wag, called:

"Hello, Hofmann! Wait a minute. Come back."

The pianist obligingly retraced his steps, and several in the vicinity waited to see him get caught.

"The wag whispered to Hofmann: 'I just wanted to ask you how far you would have gone if I hadn't called you back'; and the company, in on the joke, laughed."

Hofmann never moved a muscle of his face. But, straightening up, he said, so that the entire table could hear him:

"My dear fellow, there's no one in the world whom I would rather oblige than you. But to tell the truth I haven't got five dollars in my pocket."

The only animal that is really dumb is the giraffe, which is unable to make any sound whatever.

The balance wheel of an average watch makes 300 vibrations every minute, 18,000 each hour, 432,000 in a day, or 157,752,000 per year.

HED' BEEN THERE!

A war correspondent was dining in a Paris restaurant with a novelist who had been to the front. "I went to the front," the novelist said, "to write, spear's shoe-black—just to have lived in his house, just to have worshipped him—to have run on his errands, and seen that sweet, serene face.—Thackeray.

THE VICIOUS-LOOKING CREATURE

The governor of the prison was escorting a party of lady visitors through the building. They entered a room where three women were busy sewing. As they turned to leave, one of the visitors said:

"What vicious-looking creatures! What are they in for? They really look capable of committing almost any crime."

"Well," slowly replied the governor, much embarrassed, "you see they have no other home. This is my private sitting-room, and they are my wife and two daughters."

HERE'S RESOURCEFULNESS FOR YOU!

A jovial Roman Catholic priest recently told this story in a company gathered around the camp-fire: Aaron Isaac's store was in a Catholic neighborhood and wasn't doing well. Isaac concluded that his creed was the trouble and went to the priest. The priest admitted him to the Church and christened him MacIsaac. A short time afterward MacIsaac invited the priest to dine with him. A fine roast duck graced the board. The priest raised his hands in horror. "Why, MacIsaac," he said, "this is Friday, and a good Catholic eats only fish on Friday."

"Oh, father, forgive me, I forgot," said MacIsaac. "What can I do—we'll have no dinner!" The priest thought a moment. "Mac," he said, "we won't sacrifice our dinner. Duck, duck!" he exclaimed, extending his hands, "I christen thee haddock!"

AS FOR FIELD MARSHALLS.—NIX!

One day after the Civil War a man who was riding through the farming districts in the Middle West stopped by the wayside to talk with a farmer. Several men were working in the field, and the traveller was interested to learn that most of them had been soldiers in the war and that among them were some who had been officers.

"That man over there," said the farmer, "happens to have been a private, but the man next to him was a corporal; that chap over there was a major, and over in the next field is a man who was a colonel." "Indeed," said the traveller; "What kind of workmen are they?" "Well," said the farmer, "the private is a first-class man, and the corporal is a pretty good worker." "How about the major?" "He's about so-so." "But the colonel?" persisted the traveller. "Well," said the farmer, I ain't a-goin' to say a word against any man that fit in the war to save the Union, but I notify you right here and now that I ain't going to hire no brigadier generals!"

THE FAMILY MODERN.

Friend of the Family—Where's everybody, Bennett? The Butler—Well, sir, the missus and the young ladies is up in the sky learning to fly and the master's in the submarine in the ornamental lake; it's very seldom you catches them on Terry Firma these days.

—The Cub Editor.

More Funny "Ads."

Further Examples of Queer Requests in the Papers.

There is a rich mine of humour in the advertisement columns of newspapers for those who take the trouble to do a little prospecting.

There is, for example, a delicious vein of humour in the following advertisement of rooms overlooking a cemetery: "TO LET—a sitting-room and bedroom, with a superb view of an immense garden, much frequented, planted with large trees, brilliant with flowers, and decorated with numerous statues and other works of art."

And this advertiser had by no means a poor rival in the author of the following announcement:

For Feathered Ladies.

"NOTICE—If B—, who is supposed to be in C—, will communicate with his friends at home, he will hear of something to his advantage. His wife is dead."

"A young lady wanted to sleep in a clerk, in a fishmonger's desk," runs an advertisement in a Yorkshire paper, which no doubt was as innocent in intention as that of "Two flende—cook-housekeeper and housemaid—who wish to go to Australia with a family returning there."

In a Scottish newspaper we see this sample of unconscious candour: "Now fashionable shape, tabicentres, trimmed chifton, 6s. lid. each, worth half-a-crown."

"Wanted," runs another advertisement—"tall, strong, strict woman, able to lift. Institution experience preferred; to supervise a young man." A doubtless serious lady advertises for a husband "with a Roman nose and strict religious tendencies"; and another, no less plausibly inclined, states her need of a "young man to look after a horse of the Methodist persuasion."

"Ladies who have old feathers," an advertiser assures us, "can be re-dyed and made equal to new"; and a lady whose humanity and honesty are no doubt equally beyond suspicion, introduces herself to the public at large as "a plain and fancy sewer—cruel,

Some Real Gems.

In the bargain columns we find such gems as the following: "To be sold cheap, a mail-phaeton, the property of a gentleman with a movable head, as good as new." "To be sold, an Erard grand piano, the property of a lady about to travel in a walnut-wood case with carved legs"; and "To be sold cheap, a splendid grey horse which would carry a lady with a switch tail."

How unreasonable some advertisers are is shown by the following, among countless similar examples: "WANTED.—An energetic young man for a retail store, partly out-of-doors, and partly behind the counter."

"TO LET.—bed and sitting-room for single gentleman with folding doors, 24 ft. long.

The candour in some of these advertisements is most refreshing. Thus, in the "Times" we read not long ago: "A HOPELESSLY INCOMPETENT FOOL, with no qualifications, social or intellectual, totally devoid of knowledge on any conceivable subject, thoroughly indolent and untrustworthy, is desirous of obtaining a remunerative post in any capacity. Address—"

"Office-boy Wanted at once," runs another unfatteringly frank notice: "One who has thoroughly rested himself and is not too intellectual." While another reads: "WANTED, A YOUNG MAN as sub-editor of a financial paper must be a practical financial journalist, not a theoretical idiot."

Good for Business.

"TO RENT.—a bed-room for a single woman 8 by 12 in."

Nor is an element of grimness lacking in the humour of such announcements as the following: "WANTED, a competent chemist to undertake the sale of a new patent medicine which will prove highly lucrative to the undertaker."

This calls to mind the undertaker who, wishing to dispose of the goodwill of his business, thus described its advantages: "Sanitary arrangements much neglected; mortality from fevers excessively high; total death-rate, 10.7 higher than any town within radius of 50 miles; one trade competitor—carpenter—only. Excellent opening for energetic man willing to put his heart into the business."

Kitchen in the Clouds.

FEEDING AN AIRSHIP'S CREW.

The average housewife would hold up her hands in horror at the thought of cooking and providing for thirty men during a four day's aerial voyage.

Yet this was one of the tasks, and by no means the most important, which confronted the organizers of the R-34's trip to America and back. When it is remembered that the menu had to conform to the rigid limitations of the accommodation, the task assumes even more formidable proportions.

While the provisioning of the crew takes a back place, relatively, when compared with the navigation and other scientific arrangements, diet was nevertheless, a subject requiring the most careful consideration. The digestive organs, if impaired, react at once upon the nervous system, and in an enterprise of such a daring character as the flight, nerves had to be tenderly nourished.

The medical department of the Air Ministry was early consulted, and devised a menu consisting mainly of meat, bread, cheese, chocolate, tea, eggs, and potatoes.

Then came the problem of cooking, and the R-34 has surely the strangest kitchen existing. Instead of fixing an electrical or other usual type of stove, the hot exhaust gases from one of the motor engines were trapped, and led around a receptacle shaped for boiling or frying, the heat thus obtained being sufficient to meet all the requirements. There were three of these boilers provided altogether—in the fore car to hold three pints, and one in each wing car to hold one and a half gallons. By means of these, soups and hot sustaining drinks were able to be made.

The type of flying clothes provided for the crew is another example of the attention paid to detail to give the flight every chance of success. Each member of the ship's complement was provided with two complete suits of silk underclothing. Over this woolen gear, similar to that provided for submarine crews and divers, was worn.

HEALTH REPORT.—A case of diptheria was reported to the health authorities yesterday, the patient, a girl of 11 yrs. living on Rennie's Mill Rd., was removed to the Fever Hospital. A girl of 15 years, residing on Leslie St., was removed to St. George's Hospital yesterday suffering from Smallpox.

FOREIGN PRESS OPINION

AMERICAN.

Love in London.

Shortage of men and the high cost of living are responsible for the husbandless plight of a least 2,000,000 British maidens.

The swain finds that diamonds have advanced 75 per cent. Wedding rings have advanced in price in almost the same ratio as engagement rings. What is still more ominous for the man who is inclined to become a husband is the fact that the average British maiden eats more than she did before the war. War encouraged large appetites, but long endurance of bully beef, larders, and stews and forced acquaintance with Irish and other varieties of stews have made those formerly delectable dishes somewhat unpalatable to the maiden who during the time of the war was stimulating her energies with plain "grub."

It is argued, too, that most girls have become bigger eaters as the result of the enforced curtailment of diet during the submarine era.

A box of chocolates that used to cost 50 cents now fetches $1.25 to $1.50 a pound. In the frostiest movie theatre they get 60 cents for a fairly good seat that formerly was sold for 25 cents. To obtain a decent balcony seat in an ordinary theatre one must pay $2, and for a first-class "stall" down stairs, $3.

When it comes to after-marriage expenses the intending husband finds that the household furniture has gone up at least 200 per cent. A piano costs $500 or $600. A respectable baby carriage sells for $40 to $60. Shoes are $12 to $15 a pair. As to rent, if a man cannot buy furniture at its present exorbitant price he must pay $40 to $60 a week for a small furnished flat or a house, in the latter case

CANADIAN.

A Bit Doubtful.

A novel reason is given by a correspondent for the sudden settlement of the British railway strike. It is that the strike stopped the transportation of beer, and the British workman simply wouldn't stand having his beer supply cut off. But maybe this is merely a specimen of "dry" humor.—Hamilton Herald.

Liquor Sales in Quebec.

When Quebec decided to cut off the sale of strong liquors but to permit beer and light wines, the experiment naturally aroused widespread interest. Everybody could see, without being told, that the experience of Quebec would have considerable influence on the course to be followed by the other provinces in dealing with the liquor trade.

What, then, is the record to date? The answer comes from Montreal where the "drunks" in police court still average about fifty per day. Drunkenness is practically just as common in Montreal as when the city had three hundred old-fashioned saloons.

This state of affairs can have only one interpretation. Montreal is "wide open." Whiskey can be had by the glass sufficiently able-bodied to wink with either eye. The liquor inspectors claim that they are enforcing the law "to the best of their ability." Probably they are. The trouble is with the law and not with the inspectors. The beer and light wines are on the shelf where they can be seen. The whiskey is out of sight, but always within reach.

How will the other provinces be impressed when they contemplate this spectacle? Do the moderates regard the Quebec system as satisfactory?—Vancouver Sun.

Wise Men Say—

That a groove can become a grave. That if you want knowledge you must toil for it. That economy is the art of making the most of life.

That no man can be happy in this world without tolerance. That we have a right to say what we think only when we are thinking that which it is right to say. Many thoughts are too warped by selfishness and unkindness to stand that test.

That one point of weakness in much of our resolving is that we try to grasp too much of life at one time. We think of it as a whole instead of taking the days one by one. Life is a mosaic, and each tiny piece must be cut and set with skill.

That no one, however great his genius or high his position, is all important to the world; his work will go on without him. This truth may be painful to personal vanity, but it is comforting to every generous soul who cares more for others than for self.

That there is not in human nature a more odious disposition than a proneness to contempt, which is a mixture of pride and ill nature. Nor is there any which more certainly denotes a bad man, for in a good and benign temper there can be no room for this sensation.

DELLECNAC ENQUIRY—The enquiry into the loss of the S. S. Dellecnac was continued yesterday afternoon in the Magistrate's Court. The Chief Engineer, Arthur Wells, was examined. The further inquiry was postponed sine die.

St. John's Man Gains 28 Pounds Taking Tanlac

H. F. Rollings is Surprised By Rapid Improvement — Troubles End.

"The best proof I can give that Tanlac is the right thing for me is the way it is building me up," said H. F. Rollings, of 92 Flower Hill, St. John's, Newfoundland, while in Connor's Drug Store, recently. Mr. Rollings came to St. John's from England in 1900 and was employed as carpenter by the Reid Mid. Railway Company for ten years, and is respected for his honesty and integrity by all who know him.

"At the time I began taking Tanlac," he continued, "I only weighed one hundred and twenty-two pounds and was still losing. But I weigh one hundred and fifty pounds—have actually gained twenty-eight pounds in picking up, both in weight and strength, every day."

"I had been in the worst kind of a fix for some time and could get nothing to do much good. My appetite went back on me and my stomach was in such a bad fix that I could not eat meat or any of the more substantial foods. I had severe headaches and was so run-down and weak that I could not do justice to my work. I would get so weak, faint and dizzy that I was actually afraid to mount the scaffolds. I was very nervous and all my strength just seemed to be gone so that my legs would hardly hold up my weight. One day while crossing the railroad track I felt one of those dizzy spells coming on. I managed to call for help, but I fainted dead away, and the next thing I knew I was home. I could never get a good night's sleep and that tired, worn-out feeling was with me all the time."

"I had taken special treatment and tried other medicines, but got no better until I began taking Tanlac. My improvement since I began using this medicine has certainly surprised me. My appetite returned after the first few doses and by the time my first bottle was gone I could eat and digest most anything. Then I commenced to pick up my weight and strength and get rid of that tired, worn-out feeling. The headaches, dizziness and nervousness have all left me and I sleep so soundly that I have to be woken up in the mornings. My appetite is so big that I can hardly get enough to eat and I never have the least trouble with my stomach any more, and when it comes to work I can keep up my end with the best of them. I am convinced that Tanlac will help anyone who tries it and I am glad to make this statement for what it may be worth to others."

Here is another instance of the wonderful reconstructive powers of Tanlac. Mr. Rollings is only one of many thousands who have taken it with the same remarkable results. Tanlac proved of great benefit to him because it contains certain medicinal properties which start the blood and promote a healthy appetite for nourishing food. Tanlac has been very successful in overcoming nervousness and sleeplessness, not from a quieting effect on the nerves, for it has no such effect, but by strengthening the nerves and bringing back the normal state of health through its effect on the appetite and nutrition of the body.

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors, under the personal direction of a special Tanlac Representative—adv.

LIFE'S EVENING.

When a man is waxing old, and his whiskers change from gold to a sort of bridle gray, when his pep has slipped away if he's fixed so he can rest, letting work go galley west, he will find life's gloaming a very cheery day. In my younger years I toiled till my gallus were spoiled, and I salted down some scads, saved the dollars of my dad's; when six dollars came to me I would pickle two or three. Now I'm in the yellow leaf I am free from dread and grief. I don't have to work a bit when I am not feeling fit. I can run around and play with the dachshunds all the day; in my stately limousine I am having gasoline, for I saved it all over wheels when the pep was in my heels, and I do not care a darn how much money I may burn. It is dire to see old lads going forth to earn some scads; it is sad to see old gents counting up their meager cents, trying hard to pay their way, when they should be out at play. Age comes on us, swift and sure; then it's beastly to be poor. You'll be old yourself, full soon; therefore, save the bright doubloon.

Money in Seaweed.

All along the coast of Norway seaweed is gathered and burned. This seaweed grows in veritable forests, and is not of the common grass variety. In fact, there are actual trees of it five or six feet high, with stems like ropes and leaves tough as leather.

They begin to sprout early in the year and cover the ocean bed with a dense, impenetrable brush.

As a source of income the seaweed industry now surpasses the fisheries, and is more valuable than agriculture, even in one of the leading farming districts of Norway. Owners of land abutting on the sea shore reap a great harvest.

After the weeds have been burned the ashes are exported to England, where valuable chemical substances are extracted from them. The most important of these products is iodine.

The East End Guppies.

(By MIKE CAULEY.)
 Then up spake brave Dan Curtin,
 The leader on the flats,
 "To every man upon this earth
 Death cometh soon or late,
 And how can man die better
 Than by facing fearful fires,
 And putting out the chestnuts
 For that Trusty Patriot Squires,
 With Gillet's 'Eie I've pulled 'em
 And scooped shekels with each hand,
 But there's much more easy money
 In the Squires-Coaker brand.
 Three thousand East End voters
 Can be easily bluffed by three,
 Now who will stand on either hand
 And put up a bluff with me?"
 Then up spake Harry Bartlett,
 A foxy bird was he,
 But his head had swelled up lately,
 As every one could see:
 "I have before drilled workmen,
 And never did they dream
 That while they looked the skin-milk
 I gobbled up the cream.
 And how they'll rally round me,
 Such fools these workers be,
 So I will stand on my right hand
 And put up the bluff with thee."
 Then up spake Les Carter,
 A hero bold and true,
 "I am the boy who led the trail
 Of the far-famed caribou,
 Come one, come all East Enders,
 I'd rather fight than eat,
 Though the dampness in the trenches
 Caused a chilliness in my feet,
 My spine is buddy-rubber,
 And thus it happens so
 I am the fool for any side
 That has sufficient dough;
 And though this cod beats Banagher,
 As all the world can see,
 Yet I will stand at thy right hand
 And cod the crowd with thee."
 And Cashin and his vanguard
 Cast one glance on their foes,
 And from the scribbled ranks behind
 A shout of laughter rose.
 It was heard at Cape St. Francis,
 It was echoed on Bell Isle,
 And from Pipersock to Beck's Cove
 Men could scarce repress a smile.
 Now neighbors in their doorways,
 When their daily work is done,
 Speak of Higgins, Fox and Vincincombo,
 And the victory they won.
 And round the peaceful firesides
 The tale is often told
 How the Liberal forces triumphed
 In the fair brave days of old;
 And how the Squires-Guppies
 To oblivion got the sack,
 And how Squires got snowed under
 And how CASHIN—HE CAME BACK.

Exonerates the Survivors of the Onato.

Captain and Mate Buried When Cargo of Salt Shifted—Men to be Sent Home to Newfoundland.
 PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.
 The four survivors of the crew of the British schooner Onato, who were charged with mutiny by Captain Sullivan of the American steamship Zirkel, were exonerated by T. P. Porter, the British Consul, after an inquiry into the charges. They will be sent to their homes in Newfoundland in a few days as shipwrecked seamen. Mr. Porter was assisted at the enquiry by H. A. Ford, and T. H. Fox, vice consuls, and Captain Joseph Legge, of the Newfoundland schooner, David, now in port.
 The four survivors, Thomas Nicholls, Earnest Tizzard, Douglas Mcholls and Lorenzo Ash, drifting helplessly in their little craft, were picked up by the Zirkel in mid-ocean on October 3. At the schooner's request, Captain Brushett, master of the Onato, and his brother, Ernest, the first mate, had been killed. Believing there had been a mutiny on board, Captain Sullivan of the rescue ship, placed the survivors in irons and turned them over to the authorities upon his arrival here last Thursday.
 After the inquiry, Mr. Porter stated he was satisfied there were no grounds for the allegation of foul play, and that the testimony had convinced him that Captain Brushett and his brother were killed while working in the hold of the vessel in October in a heavy storm, in an effort to free the pumps. The little craft was battling against a heavy gale, he said, and the cargo of salt shifted and buried the Captain and mate. Nicholls also was buried to his waist, but managed to extricate himself. Three days later, according to the testimony, the others four members of the crew opened the hatch and found the bodies under seven feet of salt. They were buried at sea.
 As to the supposed fight Capt. Sullivan claimed to have seen when he was approaching the disabled schooner, the survivors testified that they believed the Zirkel, which had broken its steering gear, was going to abandon them, and their frantic efforts to attract the attention of the steamer probably had the appearance of a fight. All members said they had been close friends of Captain Brushett and his brother for years.
 Mr. Porter has sent a letter of thanks to Captain Sullivan and other members of the Zirkel crew for rescuing the sailors.
 The Onato was bound from Oporto, Spain, for a Newfoundland port.

Has It Ever Occured to You

That in Newfoundland there is a valuable coal field worthy of the attention of every serious investor in the country.

Millions of tons of coal of the highest quality lay buried in the earth in the South Side of Bay St. George.

The operations carried out during the past eight months exceed the most sanguine expectations.

Are you going to be one of those who shared in the greatest mining industry ever developed in Newfoundland.

We want every man in this Dominion to be a shareholder in the success of this venture.

Of all the poisons taken into the blood, the germs and pus contributed by diseased gums (Pyorrhoea) are the most destructive to the human system. If every red blood cell is forced to fight against numbers of germs to the cell, the blood cannot attend to the building up of the body, and if allowed to continue the system is bound to break down and eventually you are an invalid. Kidney, stomach, heart trouble, rheumatism and many other diseases are brought on by diseased gums and teeth.

MOTORISTS!

I have just purchased the Highlanders' Armoury and have storage space for 100 cars. In order to facilitate quick repairs and the most up-to-date service, I am leaving for the United States and Canada about the 27th and while abroad will purchase the finest service station equipment obtainable, also a line of repair parts and accessories for Briscoe, Ford and Chevrolet cars, and can guarantee first-class overhauling and repair work. When you are finished with your car send it in and we will overhaul it and put it in first-class condition for next season. One part of my new equipment will be an electric drive motor test stand where engines will be thoroughly tested under their own power before being put back in the car, where oil or other leaks can be detected and rectified, thereby insuring a good and lasting job. Parties storing their cars at my garage will be supplied with a key so that they can get their car at any time; cars will be so arranged that there will be no necessity to move other cars to get any one car out.

Thanking my customers for their past patronage and assuring those and others I am doing the best possible to obtain quick repairs and prompt service.

TESTIMONIAL!

The White Clothing Mfg. Co. Ltd. Oct. 15th, 1919.

GENTLEMEN—We received your bill and the 59 Suits O.K. and let me congratulate you and the working people on the workmanship of the clothes.

I inspected the Suits and they were done to the "point." You can show this letter to your workmen as they deserve it. I just came from the States and I consider the style and fit wonderful, and we can assure you that as long as we receive work as good as these you can be assured of our trade.

Hoping you will do all of our work like this, and thanking you very much,

I am, respectfully yours,

We received the above testimonial from one of our most particular outport merchants. We value his opinion and pass it on to our many customers.

Testimonies like the above have helped us to overcome the many difficulties essential to the starting of a new industry.
