There are numerous uses in every household for Gillett's Pure Flake Lye. It costs very little but gives valuable service in cleaning and disinfecting sinks, closets and drains; softening water, and making laundry soap; destroying vermin; cleaning dirty floors, greasy pots and pans, etc.; removing old paint, and for scores of other purposes. Wealth and Beauty at Stake!

CHAPTER XXX.

"Yes," Mrs. Sarjent rejoins, in a hollow voice, pressing her lips together as if she never meant to open them again—"to a masked ball. What a place for a respectable matron to go to! A masked ball!"

The good woman knows no difference between a fancy ball and the wildest rout of the carnival.

"Can't I go up and see uncle?" Yolande asks, hurriedly. "Is the doctor with him now? What does he think? Mightn't I go up, aunt?"

"Of course you can if you please, child," Mrs. Sarjent answers, with gloomy assurance. "He won't know you from Adam! He's quite unconscious, you know—an epileptic seizure, Dr. Corder says."

And then they go into the quiet room, with the shaded lights showing the lividly-pale, disfigured face lying on the snowy pillows. Grief and dread at the awful unlikeliness to the familiar face she has known—kind as a father's—from her baby days oppress Yolande's heart with a weight too heavy to allow tears to flow.

With sad, fixed eyes she gazes at him, unable even to speak, and conscious only of a dull longing to be left alone with him, to nurse him, and lay those lead bandages on his head, and try to relieve that terrible, labored breathing. But there is a grave, businesslike nurse already at her uncle's bedside, and Yolande has no place there.

She goes away to her own room, changes her dress for a warm, cashmere loose gown and a thick vicuña shawl, and about twelve o'clock quietly comes downstairs once more. The hall lamps are burning brightly, as are the lamps on the staircase—all else is darkness.

From the dining-room, the door of which stands ajar, comes the sound of voices in low, earnest conversation—her Cousin Wilmot is speaking, Yolande can tell. She fancies she hears her own name uttered, but does not heed it, as she pauses under the hall lamp to read again the letter she has just written to her husband.

She has repented of her first resolution, unable to deny herself the happiness and comfort of even telling him her troubles on paper, knowing, too, that, now he is so near, he will surely come at once to see her, if but for a short visit, and she thirats and hungers for a sight of his face. "She has not asked him to come, or even hinted a wish that he may come unless his inclinations bring him. It is only a letter of love, or tender recital of poor Uncle Silas' sudden seizure."

"I know you will feel for me, dear-est," concludes this gentle little letter from a wife to a husband whose conduct has been far from faultless, containing not one word of reproach, expressed or implied—"you know, dear, uncle was like a father to me. Your loving wife,

"YOLANDE."

She slips it back into the envelope, kisses the place his fingers will touch in drawing it out, and fastens down the flap before dropping it into the post bag which it is the footman's first duty each morning to carry to the pillar-post; and then quite suddenly the memory of that other letter starts up before her vividly—the first letter she ever wrote to her husband—just as wifely and tender, just as loving and submissive as this one, pleading humbly, too, for his love and his protection, which he utters disregarded.

A sigh which is almost a sob rises from the depths of her heart; she draws back her letter irresolutely, and puts it into her pocket.

"I will wait until to-morrow," she says.

CHAPTER XXXI.

"Things might have been worse, bad as they are," Mrs. Sarjent is saying in those self-satisfied tones of hers, as Yolande softly enters the room. "It's a good thing now that she hasn't a drag on her in the shape of a good-for-nothing, fine gentleman—Oh, my goodness, Yolande, what a fright you've given me! I thought you were in bed asleep long ago, child!"

"What reason had you to think so, Aunt Sarjent?" Yolande asks, gravely. And Mrs. Sarjent's eyelids, with their scanty lashes, blink nervously beneath the cold light of the dark, clear eyes.

"Well, my dear, I'm only afraid you'll knock yourself up," she answers, in a conciliating tone, fidgeting a little; "and—and—you may have a good deal to try you yet, dear."

The tone is curiously pitying, and Mrs. Sarjent's broad face is full of good nature and sympathy; but Yolande is too resentful of her words and her sympathy to care even to look at her just now. She hears Wilmot Sarjent sigh as his mother speaks, and she grows angrier.

"Get your cousin a glass of wine, Wilmot," Mrs. Sarjent says, in a compassionate tone.

"No, thank you," Yolande declines, curtly. "My maid brought me a cup of tea a little while since."

Mrs. Sarjent is coughing little dry coughs, and nodding with the jet fringe of her dress, and looking about at the walls and pictures and furniture as if she had never seen them before.

"Your poor uncle has had a great deal of trouble and worry and bother of one kind or another lately, I'm afraid, Yolande, my dear," she begins, hesitatingly. Of course there's blame to be laid at some one's door—and great blame, too—there's no use in saying there isn't; it isn't as if people got no advice, nor warnings, nor anything."

"Well, never mind that now, mother," Wilmot interposes, in a low tone, wriggling uneasily and glancing at Yolande. "It's too late to blame any one now."

"Of course it is," Mrs. Sarjent retorts, in a sharper tone, tossing her head; "you needn't tell me, Wilmot, to be careful to avoid hurtin' people's feelings! That's a thing I never do; and it's hardly likely, with sickness and sorrow and maybe death in the house," Mrs. Sarjent says, with a gloomy relish, "that I'm going to speak against any one! Poor Yolande's got enough worry of her own to bear; only 't's an ill wind that blows no good," they say, and maybe it's just as well you've not hampered with a husband and a baby just at this time, my dear!"

Compassion, sympathy and curiosity are shining out of Mrs. Sarjent's broad, fat countenance as she looks at Yolande with a little pitying smile; but the girl's pale cheeks grow scarlet with rage and then pale with disgust and annoyance.

"What on earth are you talking about, Aunt Sarjent?" she demands, with frigid contempt. "I have a husband, I am happy to say—this with her head held very high and proudly, and her eyes shining like stars—"and I have not a baby, I am also happy to say, but I really do not see how that concerns any one else."

"Well, my dear," Mrs. Sarjent says, curtly, "if you're going to show temper about it, I won't mention your husband's name to you—never fear! I know it's a sore secret with you." The good lady can never resist what she calls "giving a cut" when she is provoked. "Ah, I'm going to say that, though you're left alone—neither wife nor widow, neither married nor single—and that's a bad way for any young woman to be—maybe it's just as well now, since you'll have others to look after and others to depend on you, and you couldn't do that if you had a husband and a child, or maybe two," Mrs. Sarjent says, warming with her subject, "hauling about you!"

Yolande tries very hard to be indignant at this speech, but, in spite of herself, her eyes fill with hidden smiles, her cheeks grow warm, her lips grow tender. Her own little children—the children of her beloved—the golden-haired baby sons and daughters who would call Dallas "father!"

"Your poor Aunt Keren'll want you, Yolande," she hears Mrs. Sarjent going on in rather a severe argumentative tone. She's growing very feeble; and at her time of life, too, she's not fit to meet trouble. You must think of her, you know, more than of yourself; and your poor uncle, too, if ever he rises off his bed again, or isn't paralyzed, or a regular invalid for the rest of his days—"

When Photographs Look Funny.

HOW YOU CAN AVOID DISTORTED PICTURES.

Distorted photographs are familiar to most readers. To the man who knows how to do it the trick is easy enough, and sometimes he does it for fun. He produces a picture of a horse with a head three times the size it should be, or a portrait of a friend apparently wearing boots fifty times too large.

Usually such effects are produced by people who do not want them, and they are puzzled to know how the accidents happened. It may be useful to explain how they occur, so that "Trit-Bit's" readers may avoid them in future.

The commonest cases are due to one mistake. The snapshotter would like the object to appear as large as possible on the plate or film, and he approaches as near as he possibly can. Unfortunately in doing so he goes beyond the capacity of the lens.

CAMERA AT CLOSE QUARTERS.

There is a certain point past which it is unwise to approach. Go any nearer and the lens will give an image which is distorted or twisted out of its proper shape, and therefore untrue to life. The objects nearest to the lens are rendered larger than they should be, and the objects farther away are reduced out of all proportion to those in front.

Thus, if we ask a friend to lie on the ground with his feet towards the camera, and then take a snapshot of him at short range, the soles of the boots will take up the greater portion of the picture and the body and head

The Secret of Good Health

When Nature requires assistance, she will not be slow in conveying to you an intimation of the fact. Decline of energy, inability to sleep well, headache, biliousness, constipation, a general sluggishness of mind and body and any sign of digestive "unrest" should impel you to seek the aid of a reliable medicine without delay. There is no better—no surer—no safer—than this proven remedy.

Mr. Calvin Coolidge, the new U. S. President, was an intimate friend of Mark Twain, and many are the stories he tells of the famous humorist. One that he is never tired of relating concerns an episode in Mark's early life, when he was editor of a small country paper.

He found on his desk one morning a letter from a superstitious subscriber, saying he had found a spider in his paper and asking whether that was a sign of good luck or bad. The humorist printed the following answer:

"Finding the spider in the newspaper was neither good luck nor bad luck for you. The spider was merely looking over the page to see which shopkeeper is not advertising in our paper, so that he can go to that shop, spin his web across the door, and lead a life of undisturbed peace ever afterward."

REVOLUTION IN BARCELONA.
MADRID, Sept. 13. Army officers at Barcelona have revolted and martial law has been declared. The rank and file of the army have joined in the revolt but the navy personnel is quiet. The main telephone exchange here was occupied at four o'clock this morning by a band of revolutionaries who are reported to be led by Captain General Primo Rivera. It is believed the movement will signalize outbreaks in other chief towns in Spain. A document, addressed to all Spaniards and signed by Rivera, was published this morning. It criticized the present Government and professional politicians for seizing power, and annihilating the will of the King. Authorities of the new regime will occupy the headquarters of Communists and Revolutionary Associations, prisons, banks, electric power stations, and points at which water supply is controlled. All suspects will be arrested.

REBEL LEADER REJECTS GOV'T APPEAL.
MADRID, Sept. 13. The Government this afternoon telegraphed Captain General Primo Rivera, at Barcelona, considered to be the leading spirit in the revolt, asking him to abandon his attitude of rebellion and appealing to his patriotism. Rivera replied with an unqualified refusal of the request. The Government thereupon decided upon his demotion as military governor of Barcelona.

Next Week's Big Movie Sensation.

"GRANDMA'S BOY," COMING TO THE NICKEL.
At last the comedy sensation of the season has arrived and will be shown in the Nickel Theatre on Monday next. "Grandma's Boy" is the best picture Harold Lloyd has ever made. It is built up in a logical, concrete manner, with a genuine beginning, a middle and an end, and crammed with laughs galore. Lloyd does the best acting of his career in this picture. While the potent force of the story is such that it could be told in highly dramatic fashion had it been played that way, Lloyd has injected his inimitable comedy into the picture with now and then a touch of David Warfield's pathos, that stamps "Grandma's Boy," the greatest screen comedy.

"Grandma's Boy" is the story of a boy raised by an indulgent grandmother, who grieves greatly that her grandson is such a coward. She presents him with an umbrella handle, which she says is the gift of his grandfather and makes a lion-hearted hero out of whoever possesses it. Lloyd believes in the token with the result that he captures a notorious bandit alone and unaided and goes into town and gives the bully the greatest thrashing he ever had. Ever faint hearted before, he proposes to the girl and with great forcefulness compels her to marry him.

Where Does the Public Come In.

In the perennial and protracted controversies with regard to the coal mining industry there is one factor which never seems to enter into the minds of the disputants, and that is the public interest. There is a shrewd suspicion that while the operators may urge the cause of the public for their own reasons they have no intention of abating a jot of their profits in order that matters may be made easier for the man who has to buy coal or freeze to death. In the case of the miners themselves, public interest is never taken into consideration at all. They rely on the public need as a weapon to enable them to enforce unfair demands. How periodical crises in the coal industry are to be averted is beyond the wisdom of any one to say.

The nationalization of mines to produce coal for national needs seems a plausible enough solution, but it takes for granted that the miners would serve the government with more zeal and a greater sense of public spirit than they now serve the operators. Experience does not justify any belief that the miners would develop any deeper consideration for public welfare under national ownership than they now exhibit. What are consumers to think of the following episode recently recorded in a Wilkesbarre newspaper?

A miner of the Hudson Coal Company in the Plymouth division was recently suspended for five days for the misdemeanor of leading "dirty" coal. Regulations against such practices are of course framed in the consumer's interest, but the local union immediately called a strike tying up five collieries until the period of suspension had expired. The union has decreed that it will not permit the suspension of any miner, whatever his offence against the consumer, for a longer period than two days. This is indeed a worthy attitude for any body of men who seek public sympathy in their incessant demands.

NIAGARA.

Probably few of us, when we admire great pictures, realize what labour and peril have often gone to their making.
Many of Mr. A. D. McCormick's wonderful canvases, for example, have been painted amid the solitudes of the highest Himalayas, with snow-clad ridges and peaks stretching for a score of miles on every side, and with not a vestige of any form of life to be seen anywhere.
This is a feat of which Mr. McCormick makes light, though he pleads guilty to a little pride at having painted a picture a few thousand feet higher than any other artist who ever lived.

"At that height"—he was but 3,000 feet below the summit of the Pioneer Peak, in the Himalayas—he says, "the slightest exertion makes even the strongest man gasp through the air being so rarefied; and when I sat down it required strenuous exertion to cross one leg over the other. At this twenty-thousand-foot-high camping place I did one water-colour painting, which has at least the merit of beating the record as to being painted at a vast height, though I made several water-colour drawings not many thousand feet below."

A VETERAN WAR ARTIST.
Vereschagin was as much at home on the battle-field as in his studio, and would calmly produce his sketch-book and make a drawing while bullets were whistling past his ears and the flash of swords and bayonets was in his eyes. He was wounded many a time while following his art. "I have been hit here," he once said, pointing to his leg, "and there," pointing to his forehead. "I have been wounded all over. But it was necessary. There was no other way to obtain the facts. War painted otherwise is simply an illusion, a myth, a farce."

Among men who pursue their art under difficulties a very high place should be awarded to Mr. Bertram Hills, who produces the most remarkable paintings with his mouth. As a boy of eight he was run over by a Bristol tramcar and lost both his arms; but such was the boy's pluck and love of art that he set to work to model, to draw, and to paint with his mouth. Within two years he had won a first-class certificate for free-hand drawing.
Mr. Charles Felix, the Flemish artist, it may be remembered, was born without arms, and yet, holding his brushes between his teeth, he was able to paint pictures of surpassing merit; and James Carter, whose arms had been rendered useless by paralysis, produced canvases which won the enthusiastic admiration of Landseer himself.

Mr. Holman Hunt spent months in the desert fringing the Red Sea, when he was painting "The Scapegoat," and took with him the very goat he wished to paint. To get local colour for his "Triumph of the Innocents" and other Eastern pictures, he built a house and studio for himself on the outskirts of Jerusalem, and there he spent many years producing his wonderful canvases.
So exacting a critic was he of his own work that he often destroyed a picture on which he had spent months of hard labour rather than allow it to go out into the world branded with what he considered an imperfection.
THE STORY OF "THE DOCTOR."
Before Sir Luke Fildes painted his pathetic and beautiful picture, "The Doctor," he spent several weeks travelling over the country to get thoroughly acquainted with cottage interiors and their tenants, and when the cottage-room he wanted was finally pictured in his brain, he had the room carefully built, exactly to size and perfect to the minutest detail, at the end of his studio, so that he was able to transfer to canvas exactly what he saw, even to the massive rafters of the ceiling.

For the doctor, he says: "Several people sat for me, but I knew perfectly well the kind of man I wanted—that is to say, I had the type in my mind—and I got the brow from one model, an eye from another, the head from a third, until I had my doctor complete as I had pictured him in my mind."
Probably no artist was ever more conscientious in his work than Meissonier. "How did you paint the snowy road in your picture of 'Napoleon in 1814'?" Vereschagin once asked the great French artist, who picked out from under the table a low platform, about a yard and a half square, and said: "On this I prepared all that was required—snow, mud, and ruts. I kneaded the clay, and pushed across it this piece of canvas several times, up and down. With a shod hoof I then pressed the marks of the horses' feet; I strewed flour over it, pushed the canvas across again, and continued to do so until I obtained the semblance of a real road. Then I salted it and the road was ready."
"What did you salt it for?"
"To get the brilliancy of the snow. Why do you smile? How else could you do it?"
BOUGHT A WHEAT-FIELD.
It was Meissonier, too, who, when he wanted to paint a wheat-field in a battle-scene, actually bought a field of growing wheat and got a squadron of cavalry to charge through it.
Speaking of his "Charge of the French Cuirassiers at Waterloo," Mr. Stanley Berkeley, painter of so many stirring pictures of battle and sport, says:
"For the animal pulled on to its haunches by its frantic rider, when I had completed my picture I got one of my own horses and rested its jaw on the head of my groom, in order to see whether I had some details correct about which I was a little anxious."
"Again, with regard to the Wellington boots the rider was wearing, you will recollect that the field of Waterloo was almost a quagmire on the day of the conflict. Well, I went hunting one wet day, and galloping over ploughed fields, got my top-boots liberally splashed with mud. When I arrived home I carefully examined those boots to see how the spatters of mud fell upon them, and then compared those natural mud splashes with those which I had painted upon the boots of the cavalrmen in my picture."
Of Course.
The deep interest taken by the Prince of Wales in the various industrial establishments he has been visiting lately has started a new fad amongst certain up-to-date young women. They have decided that it is the "correct thing" to go and do likewise.
It was one of this type who was being escorted over a big locomotive works, and, of course, she felt bound at least to stimulate an interest she did not really feel.
"What is that thing?" she asked, pointing with her dainty parasol.
"That, miss," answered the guide, "is an engine boiler."
"Indeed! How interesting! But why do they boil engines?" she wanted to know.
"To make the engine tender," replied the resourceful guide.

Daring Bandits.

APPEAR TO CARE NOTHING FOR HUMAN LIFE.

The champion hold-up took place in the Alameda Inn at Buffalo, early on a Sunday morning, when a seven-man band of killers held up the patrons, shot two women and robbed a policeman. They secured $25,000 in money and jewellery. This robbery was most barefaced and daring and the character of the bandits was shown when they deliberately murdered a motorcycle policeman who ventured to follow their mad-running automobile, whose tremendous speed excited his curiosity. The hold-up is an example of the lengths to which the modern bandits will go. The men engaged in robbery these days are killed and deserve to be treated in kind. They shoot to kill seemingly for the pleasure of the thing, sparing neither man, woman nor child, and take a seeming delight in shooting down policemen. The only way to meet their violence is with violence, and then when the police get through with these killers the courts should do their duty inflicting heavy penalties. Those men are not to be pardoned with ordinary criminals, do not desire to kill when engaged in robbery or theft. The war has developed a special brand of desperado who needs special treatment. Retlaw, Montreal.

7 1/2 teaspoons of butter fat in every 16 oz. can

Why they call it— "The milk that good cooks use"

"How can I make these things I cook richer, more tasty, and yet keep down the cost?"

Because, like other home cooks, you have asked yourself that question time after time, we know you'll be interested in the milk that thousands of women have singled out as the very best kind for cooking use—the milk that in many localities is generally spoken of among housewives and grocers as "the milk that good cooks use."

Particularly since you can get it now at a nearby grocery store.

7 1/2 teaspoons of butter fat in every can

It's a canned milk, yes. But it's Libby's—and there are 7 1/2 teaspoons of pure butter fat in every 16 oz. can of it!

Butter fat, as you know, is what makes cream and butter such great enrichers.

It's that same enriching substance—7 1/2 teaspoons of it in every can—that has made Libby's Milk the favorite of good cooks everywhere.

"That would make things richer and finer-flavored," you say. "But how can a milk be so rich in butter fat?"

"From famous pasture lands"

Certain sections of this country, as you know, are famous for their dairy products. And it's true of these sections, as you've heard, that dairy-men there are constantly competing with one another to see who can raise the finest herds, produce the richest milk.

The cows, of course, are given the best of feed, in summer and winter, are milked in model barns—and only those are kept that give large quantities of rich and wholesome milk.

It is in the heart of these fine dairy sections that Libby's condenseries are placed.

Receiving this milk daily, we test it ourselves and then evaporate it, removing more than half the moisture, to make it double rich. Nothing is added to it. It is sealed and sterilized in air-tight cans—for only thus can it be brought safely to you who live, perhaps, many hundreds of miles away.

Try it tonight and see what a difference it makes

Get a can of this milk today. Try it in place of ordinary milk in some favorite recipe tonight—in a soup or sauce or dessert.

See what wholly new richness it gives, and what fine flavor. You will know at once why Libby's is called "the milk that good cooks use."

Write for free recipe folder.

We'd like to send you free a folder we've had printed that contains a number of the best recipes sent us by good cooks who use Libby's Milk—practical recipes that show how economical it is to use this richer milk. Write today.

TO-DAY'S CABLES.

Boxing, Thursday.—Finished training this afternoon, Bell and Burnell held their training camp in the gymnasium. O'Toole's training camp in the gymnasium. People don't see past McAuley. Expect to see ten thousand people to attend the match on Saturday. Several records are to be broken, including five from Team feeling happy.

WOMEN'S FIGHT FOR WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP.

New York.—With the removal to-day of legal obstacles that have beset the path of the Dempsey-Firpo heavyweight title match, work was rushed on to the additions to the Polo Grounds arena, advance ticket sales were put on their feet, and the manager put their energy into the closing stages of their training camp for the battle to-night.

The legal entanglements were cleared aside in the Supreme Court. Justice Hargry denied the application of Harry Wills, negro challenger, for a temporary injunction against the championship struggle.

He claimed that he had been unjustly discriminated against by the Athletic Commission and his rights to Dempsey, more than a year ago had been ignored, but the court ruled he had put forward no proof for interference with the forthcoming bout.

In the proximity of the title struggle to-day found an overwhelming majority of the critics of the opinion that Dempsey would quickly end Firpo's title aspirations and win by a knockout. But in spite of the consensus in favor of the title holder, experts have been showing a growing tendency to recognize the danger in the South American's remarkable strength, his stamina and the power behind his right hand punches. Dempsey's superior speed and generalship, and his acknowledged hitting power were the factors regarded as likely to turn the scales in the American's favor.

The tendency to accord Firpo more than a fighting chance, however, was reflected in the gradual shortening of betting odds. One large wager was reported to-day at 2-1 to 1 on Dempsey, as compared with a number recorded several weeks ago as high as four to one on the champion.

WITH OUR ATHLETES AT HALIFAX

We are favored in being allowed to give some excerpts from a letter from Stan Cullen who is managing the Newfoundland athletes at Halifax. It is dated the 10th, and reads:—"We landed this morning in rotten condition. Burnell was very sick the whole trip, and could not eat, sleep, or walk. Therefore most of the time he was in his berth. Bell held out until four on Saturday afternoon when he succumbed to the dread mal-dormer. He stuck to his cabin until Halifax was reached. He wasn't so sick as Burnell but he wouldn't eat fearing he might get worse. O'Toole was "alive" the whole trip, and was in the best of spirits. He would eat solidly even though it meant feeding the fishes ten minutes afterwards. Seasickness seems to bother him only momentarily. E. J. Golden very kindly gave up his berth in the wireless room to Bell, and Bob Knight gave up his berth in Room 66 to Burnell. Both were extreme acts of courtesy in the circumstances, and we appreciated it very much.

Staying at the Y.M.C.A.

We are staying at the "Y" and have three rooms. Burnell and Bell are together; Robertson and Bell in another; while O'Toole and I occupy the third. We reported to Dickie, Secretary of the A.A.U. this morning, and met A. C. Millie who is in charge of the Sports. He gave us a letter to a Mr. Ladline, who is Secretary of the Wanderers. Coke Cahill also looked us up and drove us in his flivver to the Wanderers' Grounds. Here we met Jack Dee (The Wanderer's trainer) who has taken quite an interest in our team. He showed us the shoes McAuley runs in, and then came down town with us and helped us search all the Sporting Goods' Stores for the shoes similar to them but without success. We have been given full use of the track to go on it at any time, and every facility is being given to get in shape and familiarize ourselves with it.

On the Track.

We went back to the track this afternoon, and weighed in. We also tried out our new shoes and got the feel of the grounds. The three boys were all too slack and seedy to do any serious work and it really would have done them more harm than good. So all they did was to stretch their legs a bit. O'Toole's record, unfortunately, is here ahead of him, and Dee appears to know all about him. He asked for him first of all, and we were fondly hoping all along that he knew him not. Bell went from 144 pounds to 140. Burnell from 124 to 122, and O'Toole from 107 to 105. I clocked to-night, and to-morrow they should be as fresh as larks. The track here is certainly wonderful and the boys are delighted with it—Bell particularly. It is an education to see the way the Halifax lads train and to watch the manner in which Dee puts them through their paces. No soft snaps at all, but plenty of hard work; and obedience is the pass word. He is certainly treating us white, and only too glad to show or tell us anything. If you could see the treatment an athlete gets up here you would wonder how any of our boys stand a chance at all, but we'll show them something on Saturday at all costs. I want to say that our three men are splendid ones to handle. It's really a pleasure to have charge of them. Luck was against us on the trip owing to the rough weather, but to-morrow they'll be all right and you can just bet they are eager and willing to run their hearts out.

Their Competitors.

Bell and O'Toole will have to face McAuley, Francis, McLellan, Miles, Ross, Sprague, Young, Rae, and Ladriere. Up here they look upon it as a sure win for McAuley, McLellan and Ladriere are also looked upon as good men. The staff half-miler of Halifax, Money—fold me that he honestly believes McAuley can do the 5 miles under 25 minutes. McAuley is, and has been training in the hardest fashion for the past two months, running every day (Sunday included), and is in bed every night at 9.30. I haven't told either Bell or O'Toole this, and I am not going to. In the 1 mile walk are entered Kee, Mettens, Granville, Siell, Sawley, and Burnell. Sawley, who belongs to Dartmouth, is the star entry. I haven't heard his time as yet, but I think he will have to go some to beat Burnell. They haven't seen our Newfoundland youngster walk yet and don't seem to have a line on him nor do they regard him as a serious entry. As soon as I can get their "tummies" into shape we are going to train them for speed. It's our only hope. They have the endurance from their long distance work at home. Altogether we spent a very profitable afternoon at the track watching and learning, and I can tell you we have a lot to learn. We really know nothing about serious training, and they certainly take athletics seriously here in Halifax. I was informed officially that we are to draw lots for positions in starting so that we lose nothing in this respect by our late entries. We have not been interviewed by any newspaper men and have not called at any of the paper offices. I think it is much better to train quietly and do all our shouting afterwards. We are being treated very kindly. We have everything we want and have only to ask for any help we need. They seem very glad to have us up here. McAuley is living in Halifax and is running for the Wanderers. He seems to know what he is working at, and the one thing strikes me forcibly is that they all seem to have plenty of time for training. You might tell the boys that if I have been noted as a driver when training they should be up here to see Dee gutting his gears through their paces, and you can also tell the folks at home that Bell, Burnell, and O'Toole ask me to say that they are going to do their darndest on Saturday."

FOOTBALL.

The final game at the first round of the Tie Cup Series will be played to-night with the Cadets, and Stars the contestants. This is really the big game of the season for it will be remembered that in the League fixtures the veteran Stars nearly upset the apple-cart when they scored on the champions twice—being the only team in the League to do so. The game should draw an unusually large gate. The lineups will be:—

CADETS.
Forwards	Flynn, Young, Callahan, 2; Meaney.
Halves	Canning, Maddigan, Delahunty.
Fulls	Brown, Kavanagh.
Goal	Walsh.
Halves	Forwards
Doran, Kelly, Kavanagh, Hagan, Hart.
HALVES
Duggan, Hart, Madden.
Fulls	Sullivan, Hart.
Goal	Power.

The Scouts failed to stop Wesley last night in their race for the Junior pennant. The favourites won by a score of 3 to 1. The game was full of action but the Scouts were out-generalled on all the finer points of the game.

The cold-water boys have to go into action again to-night to pit their skill against the Cadets who are also contenders for the championship. The game will be played at the Shamrock Grounds at 6.30.

Following is the standing of teams:

Teams	P.	W.	L.	D.	F.	A.	Pts.

SOME NEW ASSETS IN FIRPO'S FIGHTING.

Atlantic City, N.J.—Three salient points have been developed by Luis Angel Firpo for his world's championship fight with Jack Dempsey to-day. The most important of these is defense. The other two have to do with attack. One of the latter is a shift, said to be similar to that employed by Bob Fitzsimmons, and the other a left hook intended to carry as much power as the South American's well-known right.

Firpo has been studying and working on these points inside his cottage ever since he started training, and what he accomplished was seen in public for the first time yesterday. The change in the fighting methods of the Argentine surprises even his sparring mates.

THE FIGHT DOPE.

To-night at the Polo Grounds in New York City Luis Angel Firpo, challenger for the world's heavyweight crown, will fight Jack Dempsey. Inasmuch as "Knockout" Bill Brennan is the only man who has mixed it with both Dempsey and Firpo and was knocked out by each in the same round—the twelfth—his views concerning the battle are especially interesting. Here's his dope:—

Don't worry, boys.

The kingship in the realm of swatting gloves is NOT going to that dear Argentine, no matter how nice a place the Argentine may be. Jack Dempsey is a cinch to win. If Jack doesn't whip that Luis Firpo boy in four or five rounds, I'm going to hunt up Jack and give him a doggone good spanking for loafing on the job and keeping the cash customers out in the night air longer than is necessary.

I'm the child who fought both those walloping kids—and I know something. Each of 'em made me play the leading part in a stirring drama known as "keesa de kenness"—but Jack did it in a way that was far more spectacular and more effective.

If anybody is attempting to "dope" the winner by using my fights against each as a basis, there are a few little facts which I'd like to supply 'em with so they'll know what it's all about. They are:—

(1)—I was probably in the greatest fighting condition of my whole lifetime the night I fought Dempsey in New York—and I was quite a few jumps away from it the night I mixed it with Luis.

(2)—Dempsey was decidedly "off" in the early rounds of our fight and he didn't get to going as he can go until late in the battle. Without wishing to take away from my modest self the credit for having improved a dozen rounds with Jack, I cannot help but say, in fairness to all concerned, he put up one of his poorest fights against me.

I know Dempsey is a man of amazing gameness. That bird never really cuts loose until he is shaken up and hurt a bit. Then—Wow! He just begins to get started when hit, and the more you sock him the faster he comes in. He wants to get revenge—and I'll say he gets it.

Firpo struck me as a different type. Whenever I'd slam him a few nitties here and there Luis would do some last backing. Whenever he was bounced around he'd do some retreating. If I had been a bit faster that night and could have followed through the advantages I gained when I socked him some stingers I guess I could have won. But I wasn't trained exactly to the plink of condition, and I'm getting a wee bit old, and so Luis would slip away!

When you sit down and figure things out you've simply got to hand the advantage to Dempsey. He has speed, cleverness, a wonderful ring brain and superior fighting instinct. He is the greatest two-handed hitter of all times, and that boring-in style of his, that ceaseless shifting makes him a mighty tough target to slam simply because he keeps crowding a low back out of hitting position.

peccally interesting. Here's his

Firpo can hit, yes. Indeed, boys, he CAN HIT.

Dempsey's Speed Helps.

But so can Dempsey—oh, gosh, yes—and Jack can hit at least as hard with BOTH HANDS as Firpo can hit with his right. Dempsey can hit five times as often, and Dempsey has the speed to get out of danger, which is something Firpo lacks.

If Dempsey instead of myself had been in there that night, mixing it with Luis he'd have slapped Luis overboard very, very suddenly. For Dempsey certainly has greater speed than I had that night, and I'll concede that Jack hits harder than I do. Therefore Jack would have dropped about forty more blows than I did—and with about one thousand pounds more pressure than I put into each of mine.

Firpo doesn't like to be crowded. He likes to carry the fight to the other fellow. I realized that early in the battle and I kept crowding him and forcing in-fighting, which he doesn't like now. I had him whipped a mile on points and would have grabbed the decision easily if I hadn't been swatted that one lucky (for him) righthander back of the head at the opening of the twelfth round.

Dempsey is the greatest crowder in the game. That's his outstanding asset, in my opinion, for he keeps right on top of his man all the time.

So if Jack fights his usual fight against Firpo, I look for him to back Firpo around the ring, feinting out lefts and rights and backing and crowding and hitting and banging until Luis goes down under the terrific pounding which he is sure to get.

THE FIELD, ATHLETES.

John Bell, R. O'Toole, G. Burnell, Newfoundland representatives in the Canadian track and field championships, arrived in Halifax yesterday, accompanied by Stanley Cullen, their trainer. The Newfoundland contingent is the first to arrive and is being warmly greeted.

John Bell, marathon runner, is well known to Halligonians as the plucky youngster who chased Victor McAuley in the Herald and Mail Marathon two years ago. O'Toole is a middle distance runner and Burnell is a walker. All three are champions of Newfoundland.

Yesterday, Coke Cahill, Wanderers athlete, who resided in Newfoundland for two years, escorted the visitors to the places of interest in Halifax and made arrangements for workouts at the local track.—Halifax Herald.

Another Will Q' the Wisp.

Scarcely has the sensation caused by the suggested inauguration of a West India Steamship Service and the erection of Sugar Refineries had time to die out, when another novel scheme, or rather a further development of the original scheme, emanates from the same fruitful source.

This time the proposal is to put Newfoundland on the industrial map as a FLOUR MILLING CENTRE. How many other bubbles of a similar nature will be blown before the awakening comes we know not, but sufficient unto the day. In any case, unless these schemes show on the face of them that they are practically possible that they are not a flagrant violation of the laws of economy, that they are not to be undertaken simply to meet an immediate demand, and that they are not intended to exploit one section of the community at the expense of all the others, so long shall we continue to expose them, and try to make it clear to the public that such wild cat undertakings can have no other effect than to plunge us over the brink and make disaster inevitable.

The site of the proposed mills will naturally be at, or in the vicinity of, Port Union, where the Sugar Refineries will also be built. The machinery and the other necessary equipment will be imported free of duty, and the grain will also be on the free list.

This raises the first question: What is to take the place of the revenue amounting to about $200,000 of which the Treasury would be depleted? Of course from this fertile source of ideas will come another brilliant plan to meet such a deficiency.

Let that pass. The mills are erected and in less than no time along comes the GOLDEN grain, presumably in the West Indian squabron, diverted for the moment from their usual route. Whether they load at Port Arthur or at Montreal is a matter of no concern, but it may of course be possible that the neighbouring Dominion is deepening the Welland Canal particularly to facilitate our shipments from the Lake port.

The wheat is loaded. Which wheat? Are we to purchase the September or October sales? If the former, averaging as it does about 14 per cent. more in price than the latter, how are we going to manage to supply cheap flour from our Union mills? NO, it must be the October wheat that it is intended to import. But another difficulty offers. By the time that grain arrives, is unloaded, transhipped to the mills, ground and put through the various processes that are necessary to produce Number 1 flour, packed in bags or barrels, loaded in the coastal boats and other freighters, it will be found—if the ships have not already frozen to the wharves in Port Union—that winter has descended on the North and driven us to the settlers awaiting their winter supply is impossible.

Let us see what effect this remarkable project would have upon St. John's. The amount of flour imported into Newfoundland during the past twelve months was something over 400,000 barrels. Of this quantity over 300,000 was landed in St. John's. The prospect that the stoppage of this enormous importation presents must be apparent even to the promoter. The steamship lines which ply between St. John's, Halifax and New York would immediately have the amount of freight which they carry reduced by about 50 per cent., and those that connect us with Montreal direct by about 70 per cent. Under these conditions how long would they be kept on the routes?

Depending for their living to a very great extent upon the flour trade is the army of longshoremen, truckmen, coopers, and various other trades. Depending on this importation too are many firms large and small that have bravely stood up to the buffeting of the last few years, and only require such a blow to make them "take the count." Indeed it would appear that the intention of the promoter, uttered not so long ago, to grow grass on Water Street was to be made a reality.

No doubt in many ways the erection of these mills would be beneficial to Port Union and the finances of the Union Trading Company as would the erection of the Sugar Refineries—for the moment. The construction would provide immediate employment for a considerable number of men. But does the President of the Union Trading Company consider nothing but the exigencies of the hour? Does he imagine that the fishermen cannot grasp a self-evident fact? If he is labouring under any such delusion, there is a rude awakening coming. It would indeed appear that, already realizing that he no longer possesses their unbounded confidence, he is rushing hither and thither in a panic to try and avert the catastrophe which is threatening.

Until climatic conditions in Newfoundland change sufficiently to enable us to grow wheat, so long may it be taken for granted that the wheels of the mills of Port Union will remain idle. Other mills, however, are operating, and although the process may be slow, it is certain, "and they grind exceedingly small."

Board of Trade

ARRANGES FOR THE BRITISH EMPIRE EXHIBITION.

A meeting of the Board of Trade was held to-day for the purpose of confirming the appointment of the nucleus of a central committee in connection with the forthcoming Empire Exhibition. The meeting was attended by a fairly large gathering and was presided over by Mr. L. Outerbridge. Opening the meeting the Chairman announced that early in August last the Prime Minister had written the Secretary of the Board of Trade requesting that a committee would meet and discuss with him their views in relation to the exhibition. Accordingly a committee consisting of Messrs. C. Ayre, E. Bowring, D. Baird, Jr. and L. C. Outerbridge met the Prime Minister and reported the result of the conversation to the Council of the Board of Trade. The Council at a following meeting came to the conclusion that the Government would be justified in voting the sum of $50,000 towards the exhibition recommending that the Government expenditure be kept within that sum but in the event of further financial assistance not being forthcoming from private and corporate exhibitors in sum sufficient to install the buildings suggested that tentative plans be modified with a view to restricting the Government expenditure to the sum named or at most $60,000.

The Council considered that it could recommend the expenditure of such a considerable sum on the following grounds:—First and most practical it considered that Newfoundland could not afford to remain outside the Exhibition and must follow the lead of all the other Dominions. Second—Newfoundland would benefit by the advertising particularly in the matter of outside capital. Third—Display of our resources would be helpful should we require any further loans.

The Council meeting also recommended that Mr. Victor Gordon should be appointed the active representative of Newfoundland at the Exhibition and must follow the lead of all the other Dominions. Second—Newfoundland would benefit by the advertising particularly in the matter of outside capital. Third—Display of our resources would be helpful should we require any further loans.

On August 31st the following Committee was appointed to have an interview with the Government:—Mr. L. C. Outerbridge, A. R. Job, W. G. Gosling, Hon. Tasker Cook, E. A. Bowring. At this meeting the following message was read:—Visited British Empire Exhibition grounds yesterday (Aug. 30th) with Hon. Geo. Shea and have approved of site selected by exhibition authorities and which is near to British Government Pavilion and Royal Stand. John Wm. Simpson past President and who is official architect to the exhibition and the British Government has submitted for our approval a design for Newfoundland pavilion.

The design consists of an oblong building somewhat similar to Government House and would occupy 4,375 feet and it would cost, all fees included, $566 pounds. That figure represents the usual proportion allocated for construction. The work on the pavilion would be carried out by Messrs. Calpin's who are doing construction work for the British Government. The Anglo-Newfoundland Development and Farness Companies have informed me they will be applying for space in the Newfoundland building. Other United Kingdom business houses identified with Newfoundland trade such as Messrs. Job's, Howe's, will co-operate in endeavouring to make a successful display.

During the meeting at which the above message was read the matter of representation was discussed. It was decided that the Central Committee should have seven representatives from the Government and Opposition and a like number from the Board of Trade. The Government members named were Messrs. J. F. Downey, G. Grimes, W. W. Halliday, Geo. Shea, Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., M. S. Sullivan and Sir Michael Cashin. The committee from the Board of Trade was selected at a subsequent meeting of the Council and is as follows:—R. B. Job, C. O'N. Conroy, E. R. Bowring, Sir M. G. Winter, Hon. Tasker Cook, D. M. Baird, Jr., L. C. Outerbridge. At the meeting to-day the Chairman explained that considerable consideration was given to the selection of the committee it being the intention not to include any who may be classed as specialists as by including any such their services would not be available on the Special Committee which would be formed later.

On motion of Mr. W. A. McKay seconded by Mr. P. Cowan the appointment of the committee as selected was confirmed.

C. C. C. Band Concert Victoria Park to-night. Thursday's west bound express arrived Bishop Falls 20 minutes late. The incoming express left Port aux Basques 9:30 a.m. The Troopship train went out at 11:30 a.m. taking a few passengers. The Carbonar train arrived on time.

The Earle Spicer Concert.

It was anticipated that the attendance at the Earle Spicer Concert in the Methodist College Hall last night would be large, but it exceeded even the greatest expectations. Among those present were His Excellency the Governor and Lady Allardyce, who had made it possible to be in town to honor the occasion with their presence. The programme was as follows:—

- Piano Concerto—Mendelssohn; Miss Allison Reanle and Gordon Christian.
- (a) The Sands O'Dee—Fred Clay; (b) Come not when I am Dead—Josef Holbrooke; (c) The Heart Worship—Gustav Holst; (d) The Fishermen of Newfoundland—Earle Spicer.
- Violin Solo—Melody—Weir; Mrs. Dunfield.
- Violin Solo—(a) Par of I Hear A Lover's Flute (Indian Air by J. W. Cadman); (b) Volga Boat Song (Russian)—Arr by Bromberg; (c) An Eriksay Love Lilt (Hebridean)—M. Kennedy-Fraser; (d) Kitty my Love, will you Marry me (Irish)—Herbert Hughes; (e) The Crocodile (English)—Earle Spicer.
- Reading—Selected; Mrs. Outerbridge.
- Beyond the Dawn—Wilfrid Sanderson; (b) The Mistress of the Master—H. Lyall Phillips; (c) A Fat L.T. Feller Wid His Mammy's Eyes—Sheridan Gordon; (d) The Gunner (Irish)—Haydn Wood—Earle Spicer.

In addition to the above, and in response to prolonged encores, Mr. Spicer sang several other selections from his wonderful and varied repertoire. It is altogether too seldom that a St. John's audience has the opportunity to indulge in such a treat of music as that to which they were entertained last night. Mr. Spicer's marvellous voice, equally effective in its soft notes as in the louder and more thrilling tones, held the audience throughout, and the fact that his selection of songs was of a simple nature gave equal pleasure to all.

The encores which Mr. Spicer filled last night presented difficulties not only to himself but also to his talented accompanist, Mr. Gordon Christian, owing to the fact that he did not arrive in town until yesterday afternoon from Halifax. Both artists, however, made light of the difficulties and it could never have been guessed by the audience that it was not all plain sailing for them. Mr. Spicer is leaving by the Digby and takes with him the good wishes and appreciation of St. John's not only on account of his generous assistance in furthering the work in aid of the widows and orphans of our sailors. Mrs. Outerbridge who never fails to entertain was at her best, and her humorous selections were thoroughly appreciated. Mrs. Dunfield made her last appearance, at least for some time in St. John's, and the sweet notes of her violin will be missed in future by our music-loving public.

In response to the demands of the audience for an encore, she played "Auld Lang Syne" with touching effect, and the prolonged applause which followed fully indicated the pleasure she had given and the regret which was felt at her departure. At the conclusion of the programme Dr. J. Alex. Robinson expressed his appreciation on behalf of the P.M.D.F. Committee of the generosity of the talented performers who had so well fully given their services in aid of the fund, and at the same time afforded such pleasure to the audience.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

THE CROWD FROM THE FOUR CORNERS OF THE WORLD AWAITING DEMPSEY.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14. Jack Dempsey the king of the squared circle for the past four years will go into the conflict to retain his crown to-night at the Polo Grounds. An overwhelming favorite against the grim visaged South American Firpo. But while most of the experts predict a decisive victory for the champion, others who have followed the meteoric rise to fame of Firpo believe that the mighty right that has cleaved his way to the second place in the heavyweight world, may bring the ultimate glory to the wild bull of Pampas. The influx of fans who have come from the four corners of the world including some from Australia and about one hundred Argentinians from Firpo's homeland has crowded the hotels close to their capacity and it is estimated that thirty thousand more will arrive to-day.

ITALY WILL EVACUATE CORFU SEPT. 27.

PARIS, Sept. 14. The danger of peace of Europe from the Italian occupation of Corfu ended to-night when after a difficult session the ambassador's council came to a full agreement and Italy agreed to evacuate Corfu about September 27. The agreement also provided that if on the date of evacuation the inter-Allied Commission of Inquiry reports that Greece has not done all possible to apprehend and punish the assassins of the Italian members of the Boundary Commission, the fifty million lire deposited by the Greek government shall be paid to Italian government.

SPAIN IN THE THERMS OF A REVOLUTION.

MADRID, Sept. 14. Spain is in the throes of a revolution. The military coup originating in Barcelona has spread rapidly through various districts and provinces of the country and started the deepest concern to the government. The captain general of Barcelona is at the head of movement, Primo Rivera, a man of strong influence and powerful associations. Behind him are officers of the army who have been chafing many months under indignity of Moroccan campaign and with the officers are the rank and file who are ready to follow their leaders to the end. Primo Rivera told the government that the revolt was against the same measures that body has passed. Captain-General Primo Rivera said his object is to relieve the country of the policies of the present government, and declares that troops in Madrid and throughout Spain hope for a decision by the king, removing the ministry which is prejudicial to the nation. No disorders or fighting has occurred, and life in Spain on the surface presents its normal course. King Alfonso is at San Sebastian but is said to be returning at once to Madrid.

SPANISH CABINET RESIGNED THIS MORNING.

PARIS, Sept. 14. The impelling cause of the seizure of power by the Military in Barcelona and other points in Spain is understood here to be due to the treatment of the army by the Spanish Cabinet and Parliament following the military reverses in the campaign against Moroccan rebels. Public opinion calling for punishment for those charged with failure, the civil Government undertook to punish the officers who were held responsible while refusing, it is alleged, to act against the civilian contractors and dependencies in various Governmental departments for furnishing inadequate supplies to the military forces in Morocco. The Military Junta or officers' committee of the army accused the civilian officials with corruption in quality and in quantity of war materials, dilatory deliveries, and general incompetency in providing the army with the means for fighting, so that commanders at Melilla were forced by orders from Madrid to launch attacks while in no condition to do so resulting in great loss to Spaniards. The Spanish Cabinet resigned this morning.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE GOVERNING BODY

The annual report of the Governing Body for the year ending December 31st, 1922, adopted at the Annual Conference held June 21st, 1923, signed by the Rev. Edgar Rodger, Brigade Chaplain General, is a very interesting document. It refers to the governing body is happy to be able to record the splendid progress of the N.M. Regiment, which more than sustains the tradition of many years. The Brigade is doing great work amongst the coloured boys of West Africa. The Brigade movement is confined to the West Indies, Ireland. It has been necessary to release aspirants members. A new issue of the pocket book guide was issued during the year. A feature of the Northumberland Shield was that it was won by the G.L.B. members of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, Newcastle. Headquarters receive the million shilling fund for movement has progressed well as shown by the Ordination Candidates. This latter account helps to the G.L.B. lads for the service of the Church, and has been well supported. Thirty-two representatives of the Brigade from all over England made an official trip to the old battlefield. The Belgian Government officially welcomed them and had one of their staff officers attached to the party who acted as guide and interpreter. Everywhere the G.L.B. members went municipal receptions were given to the party. A memorial service was held in the cemetery at Ypres and a Corporate Commission was issued. No Brigade list was issued owing to the cost of the new being a thousand. 1282 platoons are on active service and the strength is greater today than in the days "before the war" and 893 training corps companies are active. Old Comrade Lodges are doing good work everywhere, and the report says, "Indeed in Newfoundland old members made a magnificent contribution to the funds and help to relieve financial anxiety."

In England, contributed the sum of twenty-five shillings to assist in the expenses of Headquarters. Everywhere the G.L.B. members are active. Old Comrade Lodges are doing good work everywhere, and the report says, "Indeed in Newfoundland old members made a magnificent contribution to the funds and help to relieve financial anxiety."

The Archbishop of Canterbury writes to the Church Lads' Brigade in the following terms: "The boys who are sent to the front are the best of the country; but I think we remember too seldom and certainly respect too inadequately the forces, which are quietly and steadily working to remodel this plastic mass of boyhood of this country into a good and Christian type. Amongst these Church Lads' Brigade boys, these years have had a special and honorable place. Within memory of everyone in this room, memory which will abide with them as their lives, the manhood of our Nation was put to a great test, and found true, and it is a matter of knowledge to all of you that the testing of British manhood was here few who stood the test. It is not only the men who were trained at the C.L.B. who are to be remembered, but the C.L.B. more than held its own, and heard a great deal, and we cannot say too much of the place, which was during those great years by the boys who were trained at our Public Schools or Universities."

It is to be said that you could not expect anything else of them. The country has given them credit. They were trained in the highest of military discipline. What that we have boys and lads and young men from their country had given so much to the life of the Empire, and the very time when the other boys were being sent to school, and yet, when this call came, they were ready to go, and in the place which the G.L.B. so nobly have been found true, and I think this evening we ought very specially to commemorate one, who had indeed a searching test on board the liner Egypt, who proved himself in circumstances of extraordinary valor, when the Egypt went to the bottom. We proudly remember how the wireless operator, Arthur W. Hadwick, a Church Lads' Brigade boy, instead of seeking his own safety refused the chances and sail to one who offered it: "Yes, sir, I must stay here, and he went to his death standing steady at his post."

"What is the real work of the Church Lads' Brigade? It is the production of a Christian character. Everything else is subordinate, the drill and the physical training are only methods moving towards that end. The uniform, which is worn, is only a symbol of a higher aim, towards which the CLB urges to inspire the lads who belong to it, and the reason why we have such faith in the Church Lads' Brigade is because it makes use of all these methods for the one great end, the training of our lads in Christian character with a view to their fulfilment of all that is good in the standing Army of the Church of Christ."

To these splendid words the governing body would only add this. They must record another CLB hero. In August, H.M.S. Raleigh was wrecked off the coast of Labrador. Henry Bashford, a first-class stoker, volunteered to swim ashore with a line to save his shipmates. He perished in the attempt but the splendour of his self-sacrifice remains. He was only twenty-one, and had but recently left his platoon, St. Mark's, South Norwood.

Always in the hour of need the C.L.B. has found the man, because the C.L.B. has trained the lad.

The Governing Body feels that there is no more to say. Great deeds and not faring advertisements count before God and men. By that test the C.L.B. is content to stand or fall.

In common life, in church work, in the Mission Field the C.L.B. is finding Christian men. God give it a splendid future as its glorious past.

Last Night's Big Feature Programme.

POPULAR CRESCENT SCORES BIG HIT.

The popular Crescent Theatre was largely patronized last night, when patrons witnessed the most interesting and most up-to-date programme of pictures and songs heard in a decade. Fat Harrington was greeted by huge applause by his snappy songs and neat dancing. Fat is right there with the classy novelty songs and he sings them with realistic expression. His rendition of that old popular Irish number "That Tumbled Down Shack in Athlone" was, however, the hit of the evening and evoked enthusiastic applause. The music in the capable hands of Al Pittman at the piano, and Jack Cronan, bells and effects, was a distinct feature in itself. The picture programme consisting of that big production entitled "In the Name of the Law," is really one of the biggest dramas of the year. Dan Mason, the eccentric comedian, had everybody in roars of laughter with his latest comedy "The Skipper's Policy."

SIDE TALKS.

By Ruth Cameron.

THEY ALWAYS KNOW A BETTER WAY.

It doesn't matter what it is, she always knows a better way and she is so brightly willing to show it to you. I have a neighbor at my summer home who goes up every two weeks to her town house, opens the house and has the washerwoman whom she employs in the winter come and do her washing. She drives up in her machine, and while the woman is working she does a few errands. She rather enjoys the change, gets a smack of city life as it tastes to the country dweller, and comes back to the quiet and cool of the country with a new sense of its beauty and serenity and her great good fortune in being able to spend the summer there.

a new sense of its beauty and serenity and her great good fortune in being able to spend the summer there.

What I Do.

Now we have a new neighbor who does not approve of this custom.

"I don't see how you can bear to miss a day in this lovely country," says she. "I find the summer all too short; just think we have ten months in the city—and only two in the country. How can you bear to give up a day there? I dug up an awfully good woman to do my washing down here. I think if I asked her she'd take yours. Don't you want me to?"

"Well," explains my neighbor apologetically (goodness knows why she should have to explain herself or take an apologetic attitude, but that is the effect the people who know a better way have on the rest of us), "I like to give the work to that woman at home because so many of the people she works for go away in the summer and she finds it hard to get along and she is awfully good."

She Suggests Another Way.

"Well, that's very thoughtful of you," says the woman who knows a better way, generously, "but I'll tell you what you could do. Get one of these fibre cases and send your washing to her parcel post and let her do it at home. When I took a trip last spring with my husband and we didn't stop long enough to hunt up a washerwoman we did it that way and it worked splendidly."

"I suppose I might do that," says my neighbor weakly, "but she hasn't got a very good place to wash at home, and I really like to get up town and do a few errands. I like to go and I like to come back."

The woman who knows a better way laughs with indulgent superiority. "Aren't you funny," she says. "Why I couldn't bear to waste a day of this lovely country. Of course it you like to rush up to town—"

The unfinished sentence is like a shiver of the shoulders. It says: "Of course if you are so silly I shall have to wash my hands of you. Too bad when I could have shown you a better way."

A Gift To Be Overcome.

At which hand washing my neighbor is profoundly relieved. "I was almost afraid," she tells me afterwards, "that I should find myself doing as she says. She makes you feel so silly somehow if you don't wonder how she does it."

She will never know, my neighbor, because she isn't that type. You have to be born that way to know. Or maybe you don't know even then? You just have the gift, unless you overcome it.

Just Folks.

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE SPIRIT

Hold fast and falter not,
Live out your time,
Nor rust nor rime,
Nor failure's bitter toll
Can scar the soul.

What matters is not loss,
Which men deplore,
The sting of bruises sore
Nor hunger unappeased,
But is God pleased?

Serve not your pride,
That way lies shame,
Bear if you must men's blame
But, high above the crowd,
Let God be proud.

Not what you've won shall count
In life's strange race,
The humblest post or place
May see its hero crowned,
Whom fame has never found.

Glory and hurt are kin,
Forgotten with the years,
Vanish both smiles and tears;
Be you not turned aside—
God knows what you have tried.

To-Night's Attraction at the Star Movie.

Reference to the ad. on another page of to-day's paper will show that at the popular Star to-night, there is going to be shown a unique and novel entertainment, and the management has for its patrons a most entertaining surprise, and one they will surely enjoy.

The picture part of the program is a most varied and pleasing one, the main feature being a Hugh Ford production, with an all Star cast. The "Leather Pushers" which made such a big hit last Friday, will again be in action, and all will, no doubt, be anxious to see Reginald Denny in the second round, which will be even more exciting than last week.

Mr. Tesori has two very pretty numbers, entitled "Heart to Heart" and "Buddy my Buddy," and needless to say in the hands of such a finished artist, they will be faultlessly rendered. Monday is the opening of that sensational picture "To Have and to Hold." In the very title there is romance—there is a thrill in every scene. Here is the love story you have dreamed of and now made into a mighty picture of love and adventure.

Here is romance—here is drama—here is melodrama—here is everything that makes the heart beat faster in a quality that the screen has never shown before. In "To Have and to Hold" you will see a picture that you will talk about for months. Don't miss it Monday.

One of the most extraordinary cases of what may be called an accidental invention is that of the lifeboat. A man named Wouldhave was out walking one day when he was asked by an old woman to help her lift a can of water which she had filled by means of a broken wooden bowl.

The bowl was floating on the surface of the water, and as he talked to the woman, Wouldhave turned it over with his finger. It immediately righted itself. Amused by the antics he repeated the performance; then it struck him that he had made a wonderful discovery. The result of his chance meeting was the self-righting lifeboat, which was designed by him on the lines of the broken bowl.

What he had discovered was that anything made of floating material and shaped like one-half of a basin could float only with its convex surface downwards. A boat made on these lines cannot remain upside down for more than an instant when it is turned over by a heavy sea.

Sagona in Port.

WEATHER HAS MODERATED—THE FISHERY OUTLOOK NOW MORE ENCOURAGING.

S.S. Sagona, Capt. Burgess, arrived in port at 11 o'clock last night, having made all ports of call as far as Hopedale. She brought a small freight and the following passengers:—J. H. Whittier, L. H. Fitch, Jr., Miss L. Gendie, A. Abbott, A. West, R. H. Montgomery, Miss E. R. Goodnow, G. Krumbhaar, Charles Price, B. Basha, Miss Davis, Miss S. Jones, Miss E. Noseworthy, Hd. Const. Byrne, Dr. Thomas, Dr. Boring, D. Kuhlman, Dr. Hoyt, T. Hall, Dr. J. F. Close, D. J. Tilley, besides one second class. The Captain reports that fishery operations have improved during the past few weeks. The weather has moderated sufficiently for the fishermen to get good catches. Three steamers are now loading on the Coast for the Mediterranean, while others are on the way down. Job Bros. has a steamer loading at Hawke's Harbor; Baine Johnstone has one at Battle Harbor; while Munn has one at Flat Islands. Upwards of one hundred thousand quintals will be leaving the coast this season by steamer. Tobias's LeDrew's crew came home by the ship and were landed at Cupida. They lost their schooner at Griffith's Harbor, a few weeks ago and nothing but the fishing gear was saved. The balance of Capt. Jesse Winsor's crew, who met the same fate, also came South by the Sagona. The schooner is a total loss at Assize's Hr. A number of merchant men, en route to Canada, from the Grenfell Mission, arrived at this port, they having completed their work for the season. Capt. Burgess reports two prospectors at Stag Bay, despite the fact that no gold could be found there. Among those who arrived by the ship was a party of Canadian surveyors, who were engaged on the Labrador on behalf of the Canadian Government. A second party also came by the ship and landed at Westville; later gaining the express at Port Blandford en route to Canada.

Ask Your Neighbor.

There is hardly a neighborhood in the United States where women cannot be found who have derived benefit from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For nearly fifty years this botanic medicine has been overcoming some of the worst forms of female ill. As one woman has been benefited by its use she has told others who have used it with the same good results; so the use of this great medicine has spread from shore to shore by the recommendation of those who have found it good. Therefore, ask your neighbor; let her tell you from experience the benefit which ailing women derive from its use.

A Colliery at Wembley.

(From a Correspondent)
NOVEL COAL MINING EXHIBIT.
 A full sized colliery, complete with headgear, pit ponies, underground stables, washeries, and all the most up-to-date paraphernalia of coal-mining, seen in actual operation, is to be one of the many sensations of the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley next year.

A veritable wonder city is rapidly rising from the chaos of concrete, building material and giant cranes. Nothing is being omitted to make the exhibition worthy of its great object—the exposition of the British Empire's wealth in natural resources and human enterprise in every industrial field.

Coal mining, the mainspring of our national wealth, requires to be represented in some special manner consistent with its importance, and the sinking and construction of this working colliery has been the final decision. The idea originated in the Mining Association of Great Britain, the coal owners' organization, which granted the money necessary for the purpose. The cost of plant and construction was estimated at £100,000, but the sum was readily voted. It was felt that so comprehensive an undertaking as the British Empire Exhibition would not be complete without some idea being given of the problems with which the coal mining industry has to deal, and of the enormous progress that has been made in technique since the early days. The Mining Association invited the co-operation of the Institution of Mining Engineers and of the Miners Federation of Great Britain in working out the scheme. A joint committee of representatives of the three bodies has been engaged on this work for some time, and plans are now prepared for the commencement of the operations of sinking the shafts, excavating the underground galleries, and installing the elaborate and costly surface plant which is an essential part of the equipment of every colliery.

One of the principal features of the mine will be an electric winding system which will be able to lower into the workings 2,000 people an hour. Over the top of the shaft, which will be 18 feet in diameter, will be erected a steel headgear 30 feet high. The headgear will be equipped with pulleys fifteen feet in diameter, and will be of lattice work construction.

Next to the winding engine house will be a lamp room containing electric and oil lamps. Adjacent to this will be offices, bath-rooms for miners, a motor-ambulance house, workshops, and electrically driven air compressors. An electrically driven fan will be seen in operation, ventilating the labyrinth of underground tunnels that extend about a quarter of a mile.

After inspecting the surface plant, visitors will be lowered into a two-decked cage to the shaft bottom, and will step into an actual underground workings. The cage by which the public will be taken underground will be an actual reproduction of a colliery cage which lowers and raises the miners daily, and hoists coal to the surface.

The first machinery that will catch the eye underground will be an electrically driven pump busily at work pumping water. Different methods of supporting the ground overhead will be shown, including the use of steel as a main support. Next will be seen a haulage engine which hauls the coal from the workings, which in many collieries are over a mile away from the bottom of the shaft. The public will see the pit ponies in their underground stables where their lives are spent. The manner in which they are cared for will be explained.

Penetrating farther into the mine, the explorers will observe the various methods of getting coal, first by colliers with the pick and secondly by electrical and compressed air mechanical cutters. Mechanical conveyors will be seen moving the coal to pit trams in which it is hauled to the bottom of the shaft, ready for hoisting. Another interesting underground department will be the fully equipped ambulance room where first aid is rendered in case of accident.

After leaving the workings, visitors, having regained the surface, will pass into a large hall, where they will see the progress that has been made in the mining industry during the past fifty years. The primitive tools used by miners will be on view together with the early lamps carried by the miners, and the more elaborate safety lamps of to-day. The visit to the Wembley Colliery will conclude with a cinema entertainment showing miners actually at work underground.

The purpose of the exhibit is to give the general public a glimpse into the highly technical and complicated business of coal mining. It should prove one of the strongest attractions of the whole exhibition.

Dramas of Modern Smuggling.

The drama which occurred recently on the schooner Mary Beatrice, off Sandy Hook, throws a vivid light on the growing traffic of smuggling undesirable aliens who would never be admitted by immigration officials in the ordinary way.

The Mary Beatrice sailed from the Bahamas with a cargo of twenty Chinese, whom the captain had agreed to smuggle into the United States. In return for this service the captain was to receive £100 from each man—£20 down, and the remainder at the end of the voyage.

On arriving off the American coast the captain lost his nerve, and instead of putting the Chinese ashore in small boats he deserted the ship with his share of the booty. The crew of four, maddened by drink, then demanded their money from the Chinese. A furious battle ensued, in which nine were killed.

Human Contraband.
 Fortunes are being made just now in smuggling such unwanted immigrants. The traffic is controlled by powerful people, who have a swarm of agents in every country. These agents are to be found even among ships' crews, and they arrange for the concealment and passage of the human contraband.

In British Columbia, whence Chinese are rigidly excluded, a huge business is done, and each Chinese smuggled into the country is worth many pounds to the agent who has arranged his entry.

The Chinese are by no means the only nationality concerned in the trade. Not long ago a plot was discovered on the Clyde for smuggling unemployed men from this country to the United States.

No fewer than sixteen men were found hidden away on a liner just before her departure for New York. Each had paid five pounds to the smuggling agents, who had arranged with members of the crew for their secret passage. A regular traffic in illegal passages was found to have existed for a long time.

Have YOU stopped to think?

Not one cigarette smoker in a thousand stops to think of what is involved in the making of a good cigarette—

Only expert knowledge of the tobacco leaf from the time it is grown, picked, cured and blended, can produce cigarettes to please the delicate taste of cigarette users—

GOVERNMENT AS USUAL.

Our President, so good and wise, worn out by heavy labor dies. The people mourn, the flags ascend; they've lost a brother and a friend. But government goes on as though there were no sabbat plumes of woe.

Upon a bleak New England farm a rugged toiler lifts his arm and takes the presidential vow; to rule a realm he leaves the plow. 'Twould be a cataclysmic thing if we were governed by a king, to have one monarch leave his throne, succeeded by a prince unknown. But here the people have in hand dominion over all the land, and forward goes the nation's car, without a jolt, without a jar, though statesmen put their tools aside, and lay them down at evening. The great and good man laid to rest would say that this is for the best. Perhaps it's hard for us to know there'll be small ripples when we go. It's natural for us to hope that when we've crossed the sunset slope, begarlanded with shining fame, the world will not be quite the same. Our government is founded well; the tolling of the iron bell that tells the passing of the great, disturbs no function of the state. A printer leaves the guiding helm; a farmer comes to rule the realm.

Grace: "Oh, Mr. Nooyne! How lovely of you to bring me these beautiful flowers! How sweet they are, and how fresh! I do believe there is a little dew on them yet!"
 Nooyne: "Well, yes, there is; but I'll pay it to-morrow."

Pro-phy-lactic Tooth Brush

LOOK at your tooth brush. If the bristles are even across the top, place them against your teeth and look in the mirror. See how they bridge over the spaces between the teeth and how they just clean the smooth outside surfaces.

Now look at the Pro-phy-lactic Tooth Brush. The tufted bristles get between the teeth, and the curved handle makes it easy to reach every part of every tooth.

Regular brushing with this brush and four visits a year to your dentist will insure good, sound, attractive teeth for a lifetime.

Pro-phy-lactic Tooth Brushes come in three sizes—adults', youths', and children's; and in three degrees of stiffness—hard, medium, and soft.

Look for the name Pro-phy-lactic on the handle. Always sold in the yellow box.

OTHER LINES OF FOOTWEAR FOR MEN AND WOMEN TOO NUMEROUS TO MENTION

Parker & Monroe, Ltd., THE SHOE MEN

Fads and Fashions.

The bellless gowns of tube-like dimensions are particularly becoming to the women with small hips. The wide brim of a restaurant hat has slashed all around to allow a matching silk veil to drop.

Some of the dress coats follow the tubelike silhouette, while others feature a dounce below the knee. A long, tight-fitting sleeve with a cuff, or softening full at the wrist, will be smart for the twill dress. The bouffant evening dress will probably stay quite long, as its length is necessary for the desired effect. Brown-thread lace drapes the crown of a small hat of brown panne velvet and ties in a bow at the side. Charming worn with a tan dress of kasha cloth is a cloche of cocoa panne velvet trimmed with a topaz pin. Some furs that are used on the dress coats are mole, beaver, squirrel, caracul, Japaneseitch, fox and gazelle. Fur trimming and embroidery in wool and chenille, brightened with metal threads, are used on the costume suits. Applique stitching in colors is used on the crown of a black velvet poke bonnet trimmed with black moire ribbon. Plaid and striped materials are favored for the sports coats which are collared with red fox, beaver, raccoon and opossum. For general wear there is nothing more desirable than a fur-collared sports coat of English plaid or striped worsted. The return to fashion of the collar is welcomed by the woman who finds a touch of white at the throat and neck so becoming. Rippling diagonally across the front and down the side of a coat dress of dark blue twill is a crepe of beige crepe de chine.
