With reference to the question of overwork in the public schools, the committee reported that they were officially informed by the Inspector that the home work at present assigned to the papils in our schools is not too great in amount, and that due allowance is always made for those who, for constitutional or other reasons find the lessons too hard. They had had no evidence submitted to them to show that overwork exists or has existed during the past two years in the school, except in rare cases, which have always been promptly dealt with. They added that they would be glad to investigate any further cases of supposed overwork which might be submitted to them.

Mr. Lee explained that the report was not intended to end the matter, but was all the committee could say with the evidence at present before them. The withdrawn as it looked like shelving the did not cover all the ground. Dr. Ogden said there were a very few complaints of examining or overwork. Most of the complaints he had heard were that the children were not being pushed on fast enough. After some further discussion the report was adopted.

"The judge's eyes at least were not at all to blame," added Mr. Wentworth, laughing, and looking at Mildred so kindly and admiringly that the color which was stealing into her face deepened rapidly. "Well, to come down to business. Roger and I have been to see your employers, and we talked to them rather strongly. While they insisted that they were misled and not to blame, they fels remorseful, and we struck while they were in their regretful mood. They give you week's vacation, and send you twenty-five dollars as a small compensation for what you have suffered.

"I don't want it," cried Mildred indignantly.

she covered her face with her hands and she covered her lace with her hands and sobbed, "But papa, papa. Mr. Wentworth, since all know it now, you must know the truth that is worse than death to us. I feel as if I wanted to hide where no one could ever see me again; I fear we do Mr. Atwood a wrong in permitting him to Mr. Atwood a wrong in permitting him to

Mr. Atwood a wrong in permitting him to be so friendly."
Roger towered up until he "looked six feet six," as Belle remarked afterward, and, coming straight to the speaker, he took her hand and said, "Miss Jocelyn, when I'm ashamed to be seen with you and Belle, I'll strike hands with Bissel in the smeak-thieving line. I ask for no prouder distinction than to be trusted by your mother and by you."

your mother and by you."
"Roger has settled that question, and shown himself a sensible fellow," resumed Mr. Wentworth, with an emphatic and approving nod. "Since you have spoken of a subject so deeply painful, I will speak plainly too, There are plenty of people, I admit, who treat the families of wrong-deers as if their unspeakable misfortune doers as if their unspeakable misfortune were their fault; and in a certain sense, this tendency is wholesome, for it has a great restraining influence on those tempted to give away to evil. But this tendency should not be carried to cruel lengths by any one, and there are those who are ency should not be carried to cruel lengths by any one, and there are those who are sufficiently just to discriminate and feel the deepest sympathy—as I do. While it would be in bad taste for you and Miss Belle to ignore finis trouble and flaunt gaily in public places, it would be positively wicked to let your trouble crush out health, life, and hope. You are both young, and you are sacredly bound to make the best and the most of the existence that God has bestowed upon you. You have as good a right to pure air and sunshine as I have, and as good a right to respect while you maintain your present character. It would do your father no good, it would break your mother's heart, if you followed yeur morbid impulses. It would only add to your father's remorse. I fear his craving for the poisons that are destroying him has become a disease, and that it is morally impossible for him to refrain."

TO BE CONTINUED. REST AND COMFORT TO THE SUFFERING "Brown's Household Panacea," has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago, and any kind of a pain or ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25cents a bottle

THE GLOBE AND THE MANUFACTURERS. The Globe is terribly wrathy with the manufacturers of Cobourg because of their alleged i nterference in the West Northumberland election. It first assures them, with the air of one better acquainted with their par-ticular buisnesses than they can possiblybe, that really the tariff is an enquiry to them rather than a benefit, and then threatens them with the vengeance of the farming community should they persist in daring to have opinions on the trade question which do not coincide with those held by the Globe.

In the first place the manufcturers may fairly be supposed to know quite as much of the needs of their own buiness and of the effect which the tariff is having on it as the members of the Globe staff who innecent of all knowledge of manufacturing except the manufacturers of alleged free trade facts. In the second place the figures of elections held since the general election, do not bear out the Globe's assumption that the agricultural portion of the community are they were in 1878. It is all very well to gasconade about "deceived" and "be-" farmers, and "tariff-tortured Canada, " but all the evidence obtainable goes to show that the principle of protection is at least as popular among the farmers now as it was in 1878. If the it could not advance the cause of the Cobden club better than by giving that information to the public. Bald [nnsupported assertion will not do. If it knows the in 1878 and who are now free traders, let the public have the names. For our part nd we have just as good opportunities not believe that the Globe could name a score of such converts among farmers. There is much more and better evidence that the Globe is treacherously desirous of stranding Mr. Blake and his party on the rock on which Mr. MacKenzie made ship
