The Rev. J. E. Warner, Rector, of Middleton, says:—

"For more than twenty years I have been afflicted with Chronic Constipation. Have been treated by several physicians here and in the States, and have tried many of the curres advertised through the press without receiving any permanent benefit.

In consequence of the complications arising from this disease I have been obliged to undergo a painful surgical operation, and was compelled last year to give up work. About six months ago I consulted Dr. Miller, who gave me a box of his DINNER PILIS, and I can cheerfully testify that their effect in my case has been little less than magical. Since then I have recommended them to some of my friends, who have experienced like good results from their use and returned me their warmest thanks, and I confidently give them a public recommendation, as I have found them, by far, the best medicine I have ever used."

Day after day and week after week have passed, yet the friends of silver in the senate have thus far been able to block all legislation and prevent what the president and a majority of both houses, backed by an overwhelming majority of the people, so earnestly desire. No vote can be taken so long as any member has the floor, and the silver men announce their ability to occupy the floor till Christmas or longer if necessary. Everything like serious debate has long since ceased, and the time is now mainly taken up with roll-calls, reading of newspaper extracts, and other documents. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

The events now taking place in the United States senate are opening the eyes of the people of that nation to a serious defect in their legislative machinery. It is now two months since the president called congress together in extra session. A financial crisis existed at the time, caused, the president declared in his proclamation summoning congress, by the operation of unwise laws, which it was necessary should be repealed at the earliest possible moment. The president and a majority of both houses favored the repeal of these laws, and at once the president and a majority of both houses favored the repeal of these laws, and at once the president and a majority of both houses favored the repeal of these laws, and at once the president and a majority of both houses favored the repeal of these laws, and at once the president and a majority of both houses favored the repeal of these laws, and at once that it will give satisfaction to the farmer, and be made a financial success.

A New Industry.—Messrs. W. C. Woodworth & Sons of Delap's Cove, Annapolis Co., have commenced the canning of Finnan Haddies. Samples of their work being tested are pronounced of most excellent quality, and the output of their factory will doubtless command an extensive sale. The members of the firm have a practical acquaintance with the business they have undertaken, and are not the men to put an inferior article on the market.

Artizans, mechanics and laboring men are liable to sudden accidents and injuries, as well as painful cords, stiff joints and lameness. To all thus troubled we would recommend Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the handy and reliable pain cure, for outward and internal use.

—A good town to settle in is that in which ou see the farmers patronize the home nerchants, the merchants advertise in the merchants, the merchants advertise in the local papers, the laborers spend the money they earn with their own tradesmen, and all are animated by a spirit that they will not purchase articles abroad if they can be purchased at home. The spirit of reciprocity between husiness men and laborers, farmers and manufacturers, results every time in making a town a satisfactory one in which to do business.

The woman did not speak, but the expression in her eyes was more eloquent than words. Tears were rolling down her cheeks, and the rouge and powder with which she had been covered had been partly washed away by them. Her appearance was certainly grotesque in the extreme, but no one could have laughed at the sight of the terrible heart rending look in the poor mother's eyes.

The ventriloquist understood, and coming nearer on tip toes to the little bed he bent down over the poor white face of his little boy and gazed earnestly at the heavy eyelids, the half-open lips and the transparent skin. The poor child's hand was hanging down, and the father took it tenderly in his strong brown one, kissed it, and then gently placed it under the counterpane.
