Their Fate Tuesday Night.

BAY CITY, Mich., Feb. 5.—It is feated that forty fishermen went to the death in the storm which struck Sathaw Bay Tuesday night. The metawere living in shantles built on the location of the storm burst without warning. It was accompanied by a bilinding swith of snow and the waves crushed the inpose which the fishermen's huts we standing, into a grinding, crunchismass. Nothing has been seen of the men or shantles since. It is known that two were drowned and little hore is expressed for the others.

THE SHADOW OF WAR

Again Looms Darkly Over the Fat ful Balkans.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5. While the Venezuela affair still has precedence as the leading foreign question, says the London correspondent of the Tribune, there is a general feeling in Fleet street that it will be speedily overshadowed by the Macedonian question: A formidable insurrection saginst the Turks is expected in the early spring by nearly all writers who are following the course of events in the Balkans. Predictions of a similar nature have been made year after year, but never with equal confidence since the preliminary stages of the last wair between Russia and the Porte. The Turkish government clearly expects and the Russian and Austrian governments also dread a movement from Bulgaria, which they cannot control, since they cannot agree upon a joint policy.

THE TROLLEY STRIKE.

The Militia Prevented Trouble in Waterbury Last Night.

WATERBURY, Conn., Feb. 5.— All was quiet in connection with the street railway situation this morning. Various military companies continue on guard at the power house and car barns of the Connecticut Railway and Lighting Company, and at the terminus of the company's line in Brooklyn. After midnight, when today was an unexplained pistol firing and an outbreak by a crowd of drunken men, who hurled empty bottles at a passing trolly car in Brooklyn and disturbance of any sort was reported. Cars ran unmolested this morning.

STEAMERS STILL DELAYED.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Of the steamers which should have sailed yesterday, but were detained because their coal had not been delivered, the only one that had departed up to eleven o'clock today was the Hamburg-American liner Motike. The next one to get away probably will be the St. Paul for Southampton. The Amsterdam for Rotterdam will not sail today and the La Lorraine will probably not get away.

Plans for the New Building Accepted This Morning.

At a joint meeting of the Free Pub-lic Library commissioners and the lib-rary committee of the common council this morning, Architect Fairweather's plans for the new Carnegie library, af-ter some amending, were recommended for acceptance by the council. A spec-ial meeting will be called for the pur-lose.

for acceptance by the council. A special meeting will be called for the purpose.

There were present this morning, R. O'Brien, Dr. James Christie, W. M. Jarvis and Ald. Millidge of the library commission, and Aldermen Maxwell, Bullock, Robinson and Christie. His Worship Mayor White presided.

G. Ernest Fairweather, the architect whose design for the building had previously been accepted, was present and exhibited his plans in defail.

The plans were taken up separately and discussed fully, several changes being made in the drawlings presented. The plan of the ground floor showed a general reading room to the right of the entrance, cut off at the back by a partition, which made a couple of small rooms for the use of the librarian. This room would seat fifty persons.

Some of the members thought that the reading room should be larger, and Ald. Maxwell moved that the partition be removed, that the whole length of the building be thrown, into the reading room and that the librarian's rooms be put in the basement. This was supported by Dr. Jas. Christie, Dr. Wm. Christie and Ald. Millidge. This made it a tie yote and the mayor decided it in favor of the change,

According to the plans as amended, the principal entrance is in the centre of the front and admits into a vestibule ten feet: square, passing through which one comes into the delivery room is the changing desk, and back of this the stock room.

To the right of the delivery room is the changing desk, and back of this the left the reference reading room, behind which is the children's reading room.

Two small rooms are provided on the side of the main entrance and contain hind which is the children's reading room.

Two small rooms are provided on the side of the main entrance and contain a ladies' toilet room and the other a staircase leading to the basement, where are gentlemen's toilet rooms and others to be used as special study rooms for the convenience of the librarian.

On the left of the changing desk a staircase leading up to the second story and down to the basement. Up stairs are rooms for commissioner's meetings and an art interchange.

The walls will be built of brick, faced with freestone, and built with an air-space throughout, so that no furring or lathing will be required. All basement and ground floor partitions will be of brick. The steps and ramps at the front entrance will be of greygranite. The store will be covered with copper. All the doors will be of polyshed hardwood with plate glass panels. The store building will be of brick with stone dressings.

The furniture will include one tier of stacks, seven feet high, to hold 17,000 to 21,000 books. An additional tier can be added when required.

The building will be heated with hot water and lighted by incandescent electric lights.

Civil War Threatened in Honduras
—Other States Involved.

Description of What Will add Great-

PANAMA, Feb. 4.—A cablegram received from Honduras announces that civil war has broken out in that country. According to the despatch, Gen. Slerra, the retiring president, having retused to give up the presidential post to the president elect, Senor Bontilla, the latter started a civil war.

According to previous despatches the president elect of Honduras, Senor Bontilla, in consequence of General Slerra's refusal to leave the presidency, had retired to Amapala Island, where he had gathered his followers and a quantity of war munitions and was threatening to start a revolution if he did not obtain his rights. The Honduras congress had approved the election of Senor Bondila. The conflict between Gen. Slerra and Senor Bonlila, has involved Guatemala, Nicaragua, and Salvador. President Cavrera, of Guatemala, is in favor of Senor Bonlila, while President Zelaya, of Nicaragua, and President Regalado, of Salvador, insist that Gen. Slerra shall continue in the presidency.

Meanwhile the Salvadoran and the Guatemalan armies, commanded by their respective presidents, Regaldo and Cabrera, were on the frontier, accompanied by revolutionary refugees, and on the point of hostilities. The Salvadoran revolutionists, who were preparing to start a rebellion, were on the Guatemalan frontier, under the command of Gen. Varahoma and Manue Rivar.

Guatemaian frontier, under the command of Gen. Varahoma and Manue Rivar.

The situation in Salvador is growing worse. Troops are constantly leaving the capital for the Guatemalan frontier. Nicaragua is actively helping Gen. Regalado, president of Salvador. The Nicaraguan cruiser Montomobo last week landed at Acaguita, a ceaport of Salvador on the Pacific coast, 1,500 rifes and 300,000 rounds of amminition, which the president of Nicaragua, Zelaya, sent for the Guatemalan revolutionists. It seems that the movement is almed against Guatemalan revolutionists. It seems that the movement is almed against Guatemala and Costa Rica. Central American union will be the ostensible object of war, which is really due to the wish of the presidents of Salvador, Nicaragua and Honduras, to imitate Mexico's president.

MOBILE, Feb. 4— The Norwegian steamer Espana, arrived today from Puerto Cortez, Honduras, bringing news twenty-four hours later than that reported by the steamer Breakwater at New Orleans on Tuesday, Captain Danielson reports that on Friday last there were no signs of revolution but much talk about revolution in Salvador. The opinion at Puerto Cortez was that the trouble between Sierra and Bonilla would be confined to Salvador and Guatemala. Captain Danielson is not aware of any stamped of Americans from Honduras. The trouble in Salvador will hardly take place until March, when Bonilla, will demand the presidential chair from Sierra.

ships in commission in this harbor will be on their way to Amapala, a port on the Pacific coast of Honduras, early next week. The New York, Boston and Ranger are now in the bay ready to start on short notice.

station agent here was mistaken for a burglar and shot to death early today by a policeman.

Two masked men entered the B. and M. station about midnight and held up Thomas McCough, who was in charge. After ransacking the cash drawer they fied on the railway tracks toward Livermore Falls. Captain Colby secured an engine and started after the burglars. Meanwhile policeman Mills and a companion, took a team and drove toward Livermore Falls along the highway. As they approached the falls, Mills dismounted and espied a man on the tracks, a revolver in hand. He called upon the man to surrender, and receiving no reply, fired twice. The tunknown man was Colby, who fell shot through the body and died soon afterwards. He had left the engine and was following the robbers.

THE LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

There is always a disp ninion than provin ial politics. There is, indeed, too little ttention given to matters which very ritally affect the welfare of the people of the province. The provincial government has to do with such questions as those concerning the schools and the roads and bridges of the province, the lumber industry, the encourage ment of agriculture, and attracting ne settlers to develop the great natura ources of the province. These ar nited revenues are expended with oss to the province is very serious.

It is a spendthrift ombination that should be sent abou its business.

FLORAL CULTIVATION.

An ex-president of the Horticultural Society of Ottawa has offered prizes to chool children to interest them in the cultivation of flowers. The Ottawa Free Press thus outlines the proposal:

R. B. Whyte's scheme is to furnish ten children in each fourth form in the city with three packages of seeds, each containing two hundred seeds, one white, the other two mixed of different varieties. The children are to show a certain number of blooms of each variety at the September show. Four prizes are offered for each variety, making twelve prizes in all. The first prize is $2.00 and eighty gladiolus buibs; second prize, a dollar and a haif and sixty gladiolus buibs; fourth prize, fifty cents and afty gladiolus fourth prize, fifty cents and afty gladiolus of Groff's best mixture. The Telegraph has been giving son attention to the affairs of the opposition party in Charlotte. A SCANDALOUS AFFAIR.

A remarkable story comes from Sydney. It is stated that a number of refined English girls, who were induced to come to Sydney to be educated in colonial life on the farm of Capt, Horsfall, near that town, have appealed to Mayor Crowe to get them away from what was more of a prison than a school. Their education in colonial life, they say, consisted of doing all the work of the home and the farm, caring for cattle and poultry, sawing swood, carrying water and doing house work. The advertisement had promised instruction in marketing, gardening, dairying, English, French and Latin, dancing and other accomplishments. The girls made their escape from the dancing and other accomplishments The girls made their escape from the place on Tuesday.

No city in the East presents more charming pictures of Oriential life and color than Damascus; and no other city contains so many magnificent private houses, whose shaded courts and luxurious chambers take us back in fancy to the enchanted period of Oriental spiendor celebrated in the "Abrabian Nights." But, however luxurious the houses, the gardens of Damascus have even greater charm, and they are not only profusely scattered throughout the city, but they stretch for miles around, where the waters have rescued almost a province from the desert. "Damascus," says a writer in the February Cosmopolitan, "has had a larger continuous existence than any city that is standing in the world today. Over this garden spot of the desert there has been eternal conflict, Bloodshed has been its portion, and century after century has witnessed battle without and massacre within its walls." The article quoted is entertainingly written, and it is lilustrated with a striking series of photographs.

BILLS CONSIDERED.

The bills and by-laws committee of the common council were in session yesterday afterneon, with Ald. Baxter in the chair. Bills for the legislature were discussed: To enable the city to issue bonds for water extension in Lancaster; to vest the appointment of the chief of police in the common council; an act for the amendment of the market law to make it apply to the whole city in the way of licenses, and an act to prevent persons acquiring title by prescription to lands already expropriated and paid for by the city in the vicinity of Spruce Lake. The committee have under consideration a bill to regulate dealing in old junk and second hand goods and have proposed a by-law vesting in the chamberlain the collection of harbor revenues. A by-law will also be recommended to the council to prohibit the distribution of dodgers and other similar printed matter through the streets, as well as to license bill boards and bill posters. GREEN GOODS MAN FOOLED.

LEWISTON, Me., Feb. 4.—A Farmington despatch to the Journal says:
Last September George Knapp of this place began receiving letters from New York green goods men. The proposition made to Mr. Knapp was that he send an express order for $200 and in return receive $1,500 in counterfeit bills. Everything worked beautifully, so the New Yorkers thought, and so thought Inspector Boyd of the New York police department with whom Mr. Knapp communicated. The police arranged the details and the Farmington man sent on his order. When the green goods man went to get it cashed he was hustled off to the Tombs. Mr. Knapp was sent for by the New York police Tuesday and left at night. ICE BOUND.

THE RING.
HARD TO STOP ALL COMERS.

Fighters Take Chances if Not in Proper Shape.

When a star pugliist, touring the country, undertakes to meet all comers and stop them inside of four rounds or forfeit a certain amount of money, he takes chances. The best illustration of this truism was Champion James J. Jeffries's experience with the now celebrated miner, Jack Murroe. After Jeffries's experience with the now celebrated miner, Jack Murroe. After Jeffries's experience with the now celebrated miner, Jack Nevember he broke the rigid training rules which had kept his huge frame down to 220 pounds, which is his normal fighting weight. Forming a partnership with Fitzsimmons he went on the road, the lion of the hour. Jeff was wined and dised wherever he went, and feeling that he was rightfully entitled to a good time he simply cut loose. With startling rapidity he took on weight until he simply cut loose. With startling rapidity he took on weight until he same, for he had perfect confidence in himself and did not fear an accident of any kind. Munroe, who was in good physical condition, had nothing to lose, so he sailed in, landing a good stiff punch on the jaw which, according to all accounts, staggered the champion. But after that, eye-witnesses say that Jeffries punched Munroe all over the ring, but lacked speed and strength enough to put him out inside the limit. With these facts in mind, therefore, one can readily appreciate the chances shat the big champion takes when, scaling at 240 pounds, he is willing to meet all comers. John L. Sullivan, when he was meeting any and everybody in four-round bouts, was always in good trim, in spite of, dissipation, for the reason in his palmy days he did not grow how fat and always "had the punch." But he met some tough customers. Little George Dixon, when he was the undisputed featherweight champion, made a practice of meeting all comers wherever he went and selection falled to put them to sleep. But he had several marrow escapes, one of which really resulted in a knockout for him falled to put them to sleep. B

BASEBALL.

YOUNG'S DROP BALL.

"Cy" Young's most effective ball last season was a slow one with a big drop on it, and after he commenced using this he had-all of the American League stickers breaking their spinal cords trying to land for sateties. They could not coppect at all, and he wound up the year with a brilliant record of victories behind him, says the Boston Globe. His discovery of this tantelizing ball was almost an accident.

Early in the season the Baltimore club was playing in Boston and big "Cy" had been selected to do the twiring. As asual, he began sending them up so fast that they looked like bird-shot. But the McGraw aggregation had good eyes that day, and everytime a bat was swung it hit something. Singles and doubles were being made with a regularity that commenced to take all the tuck, out of Cyrus. He showed evidences of being weary of the same.

Finally he threw up a slow one, delobbed up lazily, and then all of a sudden it dropped from the batter's shoulders almost down to his knees. He fanned at it. This surprised the pitcher as much as it did the sticker. Again the trick was tried, and again it was successful. The rest of that game Young worked the slow, wide out drop in connection with an occasional fast straight ball, and he pulled a victory out of what looked like sure defeat.

He did not forget the slow ball, and a great portion of his practice work after that was devoted to perfecting it. He made a study of the delivery and before the season was old he had it slown pat.

In Brandon the horsemen have united their interests and have eucceeded in convincing the council that they are worthy of consideration, with the result that the town has the only speedway in Canada and one of the best in America. The Victoria speedway, which is located on the avenue of that name, during the winter months presents a surface on which the owners of the finest racing stock in New York and Chicago would not be afraid to send their mags along, and which is quite as good as the famous drives of New York or Chicago or the scarcely less renowned Woodward avenue of Detroit,

Half-mile, Straight-Away,
The Brendon course is laid out for a half-mile straight-away. It is 86 feet from curb to curb, and early in the fall was carefully levelled for its entire length. When the colder weather came it was iced, and is now as fast an ice track as there is in the world. It is reserved exclusively for speeders, and the city council of Brandon takes drastic measures to show its displeasure in the case of the unwary farmer or the ambitious delivery-wagon boy who encroaches on its glossy surface during prohibited hours. While the action of the council in practically closing the street may not have been strictly legal, the people of the town are sporty enough to see that it is faithfully observed, and so far there has not been a single transgression of the unwritten law regarding its sanctity.

Brandon's most influential citizens are owners of fast going a piece of the coad at better than a 3-minute clip is regarded with mild suspicion by the rest of the population.

In conversation with a reporter for the Telegram, the doctor said he would have no difficulty whatever in bringing out 25,000 Nestorians to this country, as they were anxious to leave their native land, where they were persecuted by other native races on account of their religion. Most of these people have money, while the others will be assisted by philanthropic societies.

Fourteen of the men of the party have secured work in the lumber camps at wages ranging from $25 to $30 per month and their board, and they have written to their wives and friends at the immigration hall, saying that they like the work.

In the party there are six children from twelve to fifteen years of age, whom Dr. Adams wishes to have placed with families for a time. He says they would work for their board, but he would insist on their being permitted to attend the public school, nearest to which they lived, daily, as it was the chief object of the Nestorians to educate their children to make them acquainted with the habits and customs of their adopted country.

Tell your friend you mean to spend your life fighting for money and power, and he will, if he be an average man, applaud your decision; tell him you mean to dwell in the country, gaining a simple livelihood from your labor, and he will either not believe you mean to will either not believe you mean it or, will conclude you are a beater competitor in the city's race.

Most people do not know they are slaves of their modern improvements, so-called. They build houses larger than they can occupy—for show; they pinch and scrape year after year to pay for them and after that continue pinching io pay large taxes, repairs and other maintenance charges. A large house demands expensive furniture. Then fine dress, And the demands increase. The man keeps his nose to the grindstone, the woman wears herself out taking care of the fine feathers. No time to just live and enjoy it; got to make a show first—going to take a real rest, and cut off all the little vanities, mext winter—next summer—some other time, when matters are not quite so pressing.

I am not exactly a loafer, but I like Wait Whitman best of all our American writers, because he had sense enough to "loafe and invite his soul" once in a while. I am tired of hearing the everlasting preachers of the "strenuous" life. Use slower, and you'll go further and enjoy it; better. Duriblive to work; work to live. Bread and butter work. I mean. Leave a little time for the sort of work in which you find your chief pleasure.
