"Weak Heart"

- Palpitation and irregular action of the heart are due largely to a thin, watery condition of the blood. The heart and nerves refuse to perform their proper work for want of support. Pale, weak, or anamic people should use "PSYCHINE" and avoid heart troubles. "PSYCHINE" makes rich blood, tones the system, regulates the heart action and restores vitality. All weak people should have a bottle handy in case of sudden heart troubles.

While St John and Frederic n are suffering from an epidemic of tydhoid fever caused by impure water and other towns are complaining from a scarcity our service is just as pure and plentiful as at any time

Do our citizens appreceate this? We are afraid not all, otherwise more who depend on private wells, which are subject to contamination, would have the towa's pure water in their homes, and thus not only have a steady supply, but help bear the expense of keeping up the system.

LOYALTY.

We do not know who wrote the any rate and worthy of close reading and of being inwardely dijested. Every citizen should be loyal to his town, but loyalty to a town consists of more than a disposition to throw your hat in favor of everything and to try to uphold all kinds of conduct. The loyal citizen is the one who scorns the idea of giving sanction to anything having a lowering or debasing influence. Carousing, drunkenness and all kinds of debauchery are frowned down by the loyal citizen. It is his duty to aid in cartailing all inmoral practises and to uphold right principles, no matter where they may happen to be found. The man who stands up for right may get hard knocks from doers times much livelier. of wrong, but unflinching persistency will hold the respect of the better classes and, we believe ultimatily will win the respect of those who may profess antiquity. The inconsistent moralist is the one who is sure soon to lose the confidence of everybody, and the world is'nt slow to size up a man at his true value. To be loyal to a town then, is to uphold every good mea sure and try to make it better. He who keeps on fault finding constantly has something in himself that is'nt just right and even should he make noise enough to blow off his head, his influence will extend only to those of his own calibre.

Magezine on the great northward move- Creaghan's. ment of the American farmer. Valancey E. Fuller, editor of the American Agricu turist, says:

The question has often been ask-" What influence will the ed me, American immigration into the Canadian Northwest have on the political future of the country? Will it incite a desire for annexation with this country?" My answer has been, "None whatever." The American settler will find the econemic conditions very similar to those of his own country; he will find the school system even more liberal; the laws more fairly and impartially administered; the laws relating to the liquor question liberal, yet conserving temperance; a people of social habits, imbued with a sense of justice, a high regard for the laws of the land, and with so great a respect for them that they are not only prepared to themselves obey, but to see to it that others do likewise. In a word, the American immigrant will be so well pleased with his materal conditions, with the laws of the land, the customs of the people and the future of his children, that he will as soon as he can become citizens of a count . which guards his rights, his property, and his well-being in a way to command his respect and esteem.

There is a warning and and a lesson for Canada in these facts, and that is to raise the standard of those taking the oath of allegiance and to keep the Canadian Northwest for the Anglo Saxon race if you wish to avoid many of the grave social and political questions some of them full of menace, which now confront the United States; and which may be attributed to the fact that this country is no longer, as stated above, ruled by the votes of its own people, but by those of foreigners. Canadians have a grand heritage in the great Northwest, and it is their daty to see to that it is peopled by those worthy of it, those who, by association, will become their people respecting their laws and adding to the prosperity and honour of the Dominion.

is such a great aid is because it passes so quickly into the blood. It is partly digested before it enters the stomach; a double advantage in this.
