Twenty-Eight Men Meet a Terrible Doom-Details of the Disaster.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 29.—A special to the News from Iron Mountain, Mich., says: It is reported here this morning that the Mansfield mine, a few miles from Crystal Falls, caved in last night and killed 40

being soft, and the probability of rescaing any of the unfortunates alive is very poor. The scene around the cave in is heart-rending. A rescuing party is doing every-thing possible to reach the men with very little hope of doing so in time.

CORRECTED ACCOUNT OF THE DISASTER. CRYSTAL FALLS, Mich., Sopt. 29.—With a terrific rush the water of the Michigan river broke through a bed weakened by mining into the Mansfield mine between 9 and 10 o'clock last night, drowning 28 men who were at work directly under the cavein.

There were 46 men in the mine when There were 46 men in the mine when the accident occurred, but eighteen of them who were working in the lower levels, managed to escape. None of the bodies have been recovered and it is believed it will be necessary to divert the channel of the river before they can be secured. It is believed to have been the worst disaster that ever occurred in the Lake Superior region.

When the night shift went on duty it was noticed that more water was coming into the mine than usual, but no alarm was felt by the men at the pumps as they managed to keep the drifts free. The miners pursued their work as usual, Sudners pursued their work as usual, Sudwas a loud report and rush of water, and the men felt themselves overwhelmed by an the men felt themselves overwhelmed by an avalanche of mud and water. So fast came the flood that it is doubtful whether the men on the upper levels had time to drep their tools and run for their lives to the old shaft. Had any of them reached the perpendicular opening, however, it would have availed them nothing for the shaft known as "old No. 1" collapsed as soon as the water reached and undermined its base.

This occurred at 9:30, and it was then known to those in charge of the mine that the men in the upper levels had been trapped and drowned like rats by an accident which had long been expected. The men at work in the lower levels were warned men at work in the lower levels were warned in time to escape.

The news of the disaster sped on switt wings throughout the little hamlet, and a wild cry of alarm was voiced by the inhabitants as they rushed from their homes and gathered about the shaft just as the last one of the eighteen men was brought to the surface. There was a call for volunteers, which was as once answered, to descend the only available shaft and succor, if possible, any miners who might possibly be found alive. But it was of no avail, for the waters had reached the lower level shaft, and the angry roar which greeted the would-be-recuers as they peered over into the dark channel at once precluded all hope of rescue, and the 28 men were of rescue, and the 28 men were

Most of the men lost are Cornishmen. It is safe to say that nine-tenths of the victims are men with large families, which lends additional horror to the disaster.

Hooper arrived here early this morning, hired a rig and drove to the office of Undertaker George, saying he wished to have the body of Mrs. Hooper exhumed and embalmed.

The work had only been half accomplished when Mr. George, sen., interfered to prevent any meddling with the body without the coroner's authority. Coroner Corbett was not-fied and placed a man in charge of the grave. The husband of the deceased woman then requested Dr. Corbett to hold an inquest and deposited funds to defray expenses. The coroner consented to this after securing consents of the county crown attorney.

SERIOUS RUNAWAY.

Mr. William Thompson Probably Fatally Injured

By a Runaway on Dundas Street This Morning-His Brother Uninjured -A Well-Known Persenage.

A runaway occurred on Dundas street yesterday, from the effects of which Mr. William Thompson, of Derwent, formerly city editor of the ADVERTISES, may die. westerday, from the effects of which Mr. William Thompson, of Derwent, formerly city editor of the Advertiser, may die. Mr. Thompson, accompanied by his brother James, was driving into the city with a spirited team of colts. Near Maitland street they took fright and bolted off, upsetting the light rig at almost the first bound. Mr. James Thompson was thrown clear, and immediately gathered himself together unburt. The wagon was traveling on the side now, and the nearly maddened animals were swaying from the sidewalk to the car track in their wild flight. Mr. Thompson looked around for his brother, but could not see him; then he realized that he must be tangled up in the rapidly-moving mass up the street that was now commencing to break up from repeated knocks and jolts. The center of the convent fencehad been reached before Mr. William Thompson was disentangled from the debris and thrown violently against the curb. When picked up he was almost unrecognizable. He was unconscious and to all uppearances had been so from the time the wagon overturned, as he uttered no cry when being dragged along. From the tappearance of his face and head that part of his body must have borne the brunt of the knocks and bruises caused by repeated contacts with the pavement. Blood was welling from his ears and nostrile and his face was frightfully swollen and livid. Kind hands carried him into O. I Bridle's store access the way and in a nostrils and his tace was frightfully swollen and livid. Kind hands carried him into O. J. Bridle's store across the way, and in a short time three doctors were on the scene. The ambulance was at once telephoned for, and Doctors Niven, Jarvis and Stevenson set to work on the injured man. Some ugly scalp wounds were found, but from a superficial examination no fracture of the skull could be discerned. That internal injury had occurred to the head was shown by the stream of blood from the facial organs. The left side of the face suffered most, and a nasty bruise at the temple locked ominous. The ambulance had been telephoned for again, and the doctors had finished their casual examination long before it hove in sight. After 30 minutes had elapsed it arrived, and Mr. Thompson was then taken to the hospital.

Mr. Thompson was well known and highly esteemed in this city. He came to the ADVERTISER when a lad fresh from the farm, and started in as junior reporter. He had risen to the position of city editor when his bealth became such as to necessitate his retirement from active journalism. Of late years he has devoted himself to the study of agriculture and for [some time edited the agricultural department of this paper. Great Ball Game Expected on Tecumseh Park.

Which May Decide the Championship of -The Alerts Return-Luck Was Against Them

The Alerts arrived home Thursday night

The Alerts arrived home Thursday night weary after their long journey and their two straight defeats. The latter is something they are not used to, but they intend to redeem themselves this afternoon on Tecumseh Park.

"It was terribly bad luck that beat us at Cobourg," said a member of the team. "Not only that but we were not in condition. We left here at 3:30 a.m., Wednesday, and arrived at Cobourg at 2:45 in the afternoon. We were driven to the hotel, had to snatch dinner and then started for the ball grounds. We felt more like going to bed than playing ball, but we hotel, had to snatch dinner and then started for the ball grounds. We felt more like going to bed than playing ball, but we did the best we could under the circumstances. The errors made were very costly, two of them letting in runs. It was a day off for our first baseman, but the rest of the team played a game it would be hard to beat. Hutchinson, Hynd and Ball, the outfield, were in good trim, Hynd catching a low liner over second which no one thought it possible for him to get. He has a very spore hand over it. Johnson and the old-timer, Jack Player, were in good trim, the latter having no less than four hits to his credit and no errors. Bob Quinn caught an errorless game, and it was no fault of Hiscott that they were defeated. His pitching was good and fielding splendid. But we had the hardest kind of luck. "Our defeat in Toronto? Of course that was an exhibition game and it does not matter so much. We were tired and had an off day. That must have been the case when Player made five errors. Bert Sheere was in the box and up to the fifth inning held the Dukes down to three hits. Then the Alerts went to pieces in the sixth and Bert followed suit. Vocations of English Working Women. Some interesting facts may be gleaned by the English census returns concerning the struggle of the sexes for professional supremacy. The present showing demonstrates that it is in the lower ranks of professional life that women are numerous. Excluded from the clergy, they are found considerably in excess of the men in the subordinate fields of religious work. In the medical profession there are 100 practitioners, 345 dentists, and two veterinary surgeons. In the legal profession women figure only as clerks, while as teachers their number is more than double that of men; 660 women journalists, with 127 reporters, figure in the lists, with 69 merchants, 3 bankers, 765 brokers and agents, 165 icommercial travelers, and more than 17,000 clerks. FERRIS WHEEL INCIDENT.

A Man Becomes Crazy While Making the Circuit.

Iron Ears and a Weman's Dress Skirt Prevent a Tragedy.

[Chicago Inter-Ocean]

The strong iron Lars protecting the windows of a car in the Ferris wheel alone prevented a tragedy yesterday.

A gentleman and his wife, who later gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Wherritt, of Covington, Ky., bought tickets for a ride around the wheel. It seems that the gentleman had hesitated about making the trip, as previous experiences in ascending to great heights had always affected him strangely. After the first sickening, fainting sensation he always became possessed of a desire to throw himself off into space. The doctors had told him that many people under the same circumstance were similarly disposed—in fact, that the desire sometimes became uncontrollable. They classed it as a distinct brain disease.

Mrs. Wherritt had on a previous visit to the fair been up in the wheel and she declared to her husband that the floors were level and the ascension so gradual that it was hard for her to realize that she was going up. She also expatiated upon the loveliness of the scene from the windows and its extent, and advised that he try it. So yesterday they both tried it. They obtained seats in the car and placidly moved along until the upper turn was reached, when Mr. Wherritt complained of feeling ill. He almost fainted, but there was no way of stopping the wheel. The car was half full of people, principally women. The man became crazed with excitement, and began to pace excitedly up and down the car, driving the women, whom he had no intention of hurting, before him like scared.

He jumped up on the sides of the car repeatedly and was so powerful in his paroxysms that he actually bent the iron bars. The attendant—one goes round with every car—grappled with him, and assisted by two or three other men, attempted to hold him, but their strength proved inadequate for he threw them off easily and made for the door, which fortunately is always locked. He shook it violently, but only succeeded in breaking some of the glass.

Mr. Wherritt continued unmanageable until the car had almost reached the landing, then he became calmer, and breaking down completely, laughed and sobbed convulsively.

The wheel always makes two revolutions before the occupants of any car are allowed to get out. The attendant thought that as the car went by the landing he would open the door quickly and shove Mr. Wherritt out, but the motion was too rapid and the passengers prepared for another scene and struggie.

Mr. Wherritt out, but the motion was too rapid and the passengers prepared for another scene and struggle. Some of them said afterward that Mr. Wherritt's terror was appalling when he realized that he was going up again. He implored that the car be stopped and then begged that they throw him down and hold him. There was some hositation in doing this, as the men in the car had had experience of his strength during the first trip. The three men grappled him, however, and strained every nerve before there was any occasion for force, while women huddled in a corner and looked at him.

The delegation representing the organization from which these practical questions came were composed of Mrs. John Ashcrott, Mrs. A. Cross and Mrs. A. Watt, Wiarton.

Two other questions were submitted to the Premier, but he failed to answer them; they were:—"Do you consider it an honorable act to take Port Elgin out of the north riding of Bruce and place it in an adjoining constituency for political purposes."

"Doyouintend to repeal the Franchise Act."

But Sir John did answer at great length the inevitable demand for an explanation of the Conservate Government in referring the application of the Manitoba minority to the Supreme Court. He repeated but somewhat amplified the statement he has made on the subject elsewhere, and he introduced an argument that he had not as yet employed in Ontario. He sought to justify his treatment of the Roman Catholics of Manitoba for a remedial order by stating that when the Protestant minority of Quebec applied for relief after the refusal of the Government to veto the Jesuit Estates Act the same course would have been pursued had not the applicants come to a settlement with the Provincial Executive and thereby terminated the proceedings.

He jumped up on the sides of the car repeatedly and was so powerful in his paroxysms that he actually bent the iron bars. The attendant—one goes round with every car—grappiled with him, and assisted by two or three other men, attempted to hold him, but their strength proved inadequate for he threw them off easily and made for the door, which fortunately is always locked. He shook it violently, but only succeeded in breaking some of the glass.

The wheel always makes two revolutions before the occupants of any car are allowed to get out. The attendant thought that as the car went by the landing he would open the door quickly and shove Mr. Wherritt out, but the motion was to rapid and the passengers prepared for another scene and struggle. Some of them said afterward that Mr. Wherritt's terior was appalling when he realized that he was going up again. He implored that the car be stopped and then begged that they throw him down and hold him. There was some hositation in doing this, as the men in the car had had experience of his strength during the first trip. The three men grappled him, however, and strained every nerve before there was any occasion for force, while women huddled in a corner and looked at him.

A marvelous cure I A wonderful rescue from death! These are the expressions used by the friends of Mr. P. J. Kilbride, postmaster, of Inverness, P. E. I. Months of agony were endured; medicines of the ordinary kind produced no good results; all was dark despair until nature's great medicine was used. Then true life dawned, hope was brightened, and in due time a perfect cure was effected. Mr. Kilbride writes as loilows:

-Rev. Dr. John G. Paton, the vener able missionary to the New Hebrides, who thrilled audiences in this city some months ago by the recital of his wonderful experiences among the cannibals, has now completed his American tour, and will sail for Europe to-day. After listening to Dr. Paton no honest man can refuse to aid the missionary cause on the plea of the noneffectiveness of missionary effort.

But is not prepared to backslide because his on it in a straightforward manner. atanding up for the principle, now that Sir would result in his leaving the distillercontrolled Cabinet.

-At the banquet to the Governor-General in Montreal, Hon. Mr. Daly, a member of the Dominion Government, paid a graceful tribute to the sterling worth of Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, the leader of the Liberal party, whom, he said, "Conservatives recognized as a man whom anyone, irrespective of politics, could honor, respect and revere." The evidence of Mr. Laurier's popularity in the commercial capital of the Dominion was betokened by the great cheering with which this testimony

Such an insult to a devoted Christian missionary and his wife, both British | Home Rule Bill. The new Governor-Gensubjects, should not be lightly passed over. Shame on the men who are eresponsible for the act!

-Hon. Wilfrid Laurier spoke, as he always does, unexceptional English in pairing in favor of the measure with a lord Ontarie; Sir John Thompson essayed to epeak in French in Montreal; and Mr. Foster undertook to give a few sentences in German in Waterloo. It was observed, however, that while Mr. Foster talked the Germans present looked on in astonishment, while one was overheard asking his pointed out how thoroughly in accord with neighbor, "Is the man talking Italian?" It is understood that in one of his "moments of weakness" Mr. Foster was claiming that

IN A PECK OF TROUBLES. It would have been well for Sir John Thompson if he had taken the candid advice of the Conservative editor of Toronto Saturday Night. Therein it was pointed out to the Conservative leader that it was not politic for him to follow the example set by the Liberal leader, because he could not fail to make a poor comparison with that statesman, and was sure to put his foot into it up to the waist before he had pro

Sir John Thompson has already verified he prediction of the astute writer. He has antagonized the principle of the plebiscite, which is upheld by every progressive temperance man in Canada. He desires to to the will of the distillers and brewers, which is to prevent any action being taken that shall show where the people of Canada stand with reference to the traffic in intoxi-

The Conservative leader argues that the olebiseite would be unconstitutional, but Sir Oliver Mowat, the victor in every con stitutional struggle he has undertaken, has given his adherence to the plebiscite. He knows that a popular vote throughout the Dominion no more violates British constitutional principles than does a popular vote m the municipalities. It is indeed ridiculous for Sir John Thompson to assume this attitude in view of the success of the popuar vote in the restricted area, where all parties have hitherto been accustomed to egard the popular vote as not only constiutional, but in accord with common sense On this vital question, the Cabinet is divided, and it cannot stand unless there is a sacrifice of convictions on the part of some one. Hon. Mr. Foster has already put himself on record as being entirely antagonistic to the views put forward by his chief, In an article in the himself as decidedly in favor of the plebis cite. There is no hedging in this declaration. As a specimen of his sentiments we cull the following: "The people should have an opportunity of weighing the matter and deciding it without the introduction of any distracting claims of this man or that party, without a thought of how it may affect one side of politics or the other. "Yes' or 'No' to the proposition of prohibiting the liquer traffic is what each elector should be allowed to write on his ballot, not that either party leader may make of the question a tail to his political kite."

Could the democratic plea for a popular

Could the democratic plea for a popular vote be put more strongly? The plebiscite is simply a determination to trust the pec ple to give an unbiassed verdict on a great the other day he was the warm friend of social issue, and no man who has faith in the popular vote. It is to be hoped that he the people should be afraid to let them vote

Another matter in which the reactionary John Thompson autocratically spurns it, attitude of Sir John Thompson has been evidenced is his defense for interfering with the Manitoba school law. At Walkerton he contended that the Government was right in shirking responsibility for leaving the act alone, whereupon someone in the audience asked: "Have you not the right to deal with that?" Sir John Thompson replied that the Government had the power, but not the right, to decide the question - equivocation which drew from another elector the astonished rejoinder: "You cannot have the power without the right."

With such weak and vacillating apologies for the line of action adopted by his Ministry-such antagonizing of the popular will as is here exemplified-it is denounces the outrage committed on Rev. | easy to see that it was true friendship that dictated the earnest counsel of Sir John Thompson's newspaper admirer who urged him not to go on the stump, but to remain house officer, who demanded that a poll in the seclusion of his private office at

Lord Aberdeen started for Canada before the vote in the House of Lords on the eral, however, exhibited his sympathy with the movement for conferring local regard for Britain's Grand Old Man, by pairing in favor of the measure with a lord who was against it. —Lord Aberdeen received addresses from the St. Patrick's Society and the St. Andrew's Society of Montreal Thursday. The Governor-General, who was accompanied by Lady Aberdeen, made most happy replies. To the Irish society he de:

"Home rule is the movement of the age. Patriaments for England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, with a representative Imperial Parliaments, is one of our first necessities. The present House of Commons is hopelessly out of date. Its procedure is altogether at fault, envolving enormous waste of time. It does with a thousand things that would be much dealt with by local bodies, and the needs of cities and municipalities."

Sir Adolphe Caron, who is quite as deep in the slime as Sir Hector Himself, is still a member of the Government. Judging by appearances, the McGreevy-Connolly case is about to collapse owing to lack of vigorous prosecution. And, had not Owen E. THE CONSERVATIVE BANQUET TO A DISTILLER AT BELLEVILLE.

(Hamilton Templar.)

A prominent Conservative prohibitionist furnishes us with a view of the affair which did not appear in any of the papers. He says: "The Corby demonstration here furnished occasion for some of the most disgraceful scenes witnessed in Belleville for many a year. Drink seems to have been as plentiful as water. It did not show itself so much during the day, but towards evening there was no hiding it. The banquet became an orgio, and the ball which followed was another. The superintendent of the Bridgo Street Methodist Sunday school and an English Church minister rode in the same carriage in the procession to the honor of the distiller, whose whisky destroys the work of their hands. The boys, many of them but a few years out of Sunday school, if not yet pupils, went staggering home from the ball in their dress suits, and others more fortunate were driven home, hopelessly intoxicated. Of course there was nothing done to bring prohibition to the front.

Of course, as we all know, the alternative use of the French language, in certain public proceedings, is provided for by law, but I am referring, also, to the spontaneous and voluntary adoption of this method on such occasions as the present. Surely such a practice is by no means to be regarded as obsolete between the different elements of your population. On the contrary, it may be justly regarded as a symbol of union. No doubt it is absolutely desirable that for purposes of business or of social intercourse each should study to understand and to speak the language of the other with facility; and that remark, as you have properly observed, conveys a hint to myself, which I hope to profit by; but the recognition of each other's language as a matter of courtesy is, when righty considered, a thing to cherish and be proud of, for it declares the great and noble principle that, no matter what may be our language, we all enjoy equally, by the character of our citizenship, the rights and privileges of that constitution. It records the fact that its principle and its practice are fundamental throughout the British Empire. It records the fact that, when French-Canada became part of the ompire her people received a guarantee of the application of that principle, and over since they have been firm to their loyalty and in their attachment to the British connection. It is when twe must recognize that the practice is in full accord with the spirit of the Christian civilization and of humanity. It is from that point of view spirit of the Christian civilization and of humanity. It is from that point of view that I venture to commend the practice in

"And all history, all experience of human nature, declare in trumpet tones that any attempt, however honest and sincere in its aim to check or abolish a privilege of this kind, will inevitably tend to an effect opposite to that which is desired. Gentlemen, what we need more than unity of language is unity of purpose in the grand, the sacred work of building up and confirming the fortunes of this fair in the grand, the sacred work of building up and confirming the fortunes of this fair land; and, if this is to be done, we must be inspired by what has justly been described as a broad and unselfish partiotism—a patriotism which, while maintaining the fullest right to individual cpinion and expression, will yet be prepared to subordinate personal predilections or interests, and especially the insidious promptings of partisanship, when needed, in order to forward a common cause."

It discusses the policy of the United States with regard to other nations and the acquisition of territory, and is a plea for continental union and non-interference with neighboring islands. It will be followed in the November Magazine by an article on "Arbitration" by Frederick R. Coudert.

The hitherto unpublished poem by Sir Walter Scott, which we find in 'Black-wood," is chiefly interesting as a specimen wood," is chiefly interesting as a specimen of the poor work which an eminent author can sometimes produce. It served suitleently well its purpose as a personal and private tribute to the dead Chief of Glengary and Clanronald, and as such was properly cherished by Glengarry's widow and children. But it adds nothing to the poetic fame of the great writer—witness its concluding lines. concluding lines:

Nothing could be more in the interest of public morality than that offenders of this conspicuous sort should be made to pay the penalty of law-breaking like ordinary rascals. Nothing would go farther to rid the country's business of the blight of suspicion and distrust.

Eveduced fares will be given on all railway lives. Each delegate will purchase, on attring, a regular single fare ticket to Toronto. He will also procure from the bicket agent at the same time a standard fertificate, filled out, showing that he has purchased said ticket. This certificate extended said ticket. This certificate extended the fewer than 300 delegates holding such certificates (which is very improbable), in which case the return ticket will be issued at one-third the usual rate.

AMERICAN WORKINGMAN

Must Compromise With His Em ployer, or Emigrate, Beg or Starve.

The Right to Live Must be Conceded by the Owners of the Land.

Editor CANADA FARMERS' SUN

Editor CANADA FARMERS' SUN:

In view of the facts given in an article in a late number, entitled "The End of the Land," it will be well for "un as Canadians to study the history of the United States in relation to its land policy; and to consider whether we cannot profit by our neighbors' mistakes, and so avoid having to have experience deally corrected.

neighbors' mistakes, and so avoid having to buy experience dearly ourselves.

It is not many years since Unele Sam began in good carnest the distribution of his public land. It was preclaimed throughout the world that land was waiting for everyone who would cultivate it, and thousands yearly poured into the United States and took possession of their allotments. Enormous tracts also were granted to railway and other companies, and by these means millions of acres have been passing annually from the possession of the Government into the hands of individuals and companies. The grand distribution is now companies. The grand distribution is now about to cease, simply because everything has been given away; and from this time on the thousands who will yearly be born in the country, or who will emigrate to it from other places, will have to obtain the right to live there from people whe already own the land.

Hitherto wages have been high in the United States, as compared with those paid in Europe, because the free lands of the country were always available to those who failed to make a satisfactory bargain with employers. Lately, however, the headlong rush into newly opened territories has shown that this great competitor with employers for labor is out of the field; and now the workers of the United States have only these alternatives before them—make terms with the land-owners for the right erms with the land-owners for the right o get at the land, take the wages offered to get at the land, take the wages offered by employers, emigrate, beg or starve.

This is the condition of the working classes in the land to the south of us; and why! Because land is scarce? No. There are only three persons to each cultivated acre in the United States, and there are many millions of acres not yet tilled. The true reason is because vast tracts are keps out of use by railway companies, land companies and individual speculators, and it pays them to do it.

Let Canadians awake; the tide of emigration must soon pour over our gration must soon pour over our country, and there is nothing in our position, laws or constitution to prevent country, and there is nothing in our position, laws or constitution to provent us traveling exactly the same path that our neighbors have tred, and to the same end. Let us take warning by them and devise a policy that, while making our lands easy of access to the workers of the country, will keep them out of the gresp of speculators. In devising ways and means for compassing this end we must remember that the two classes of people referred to want the land for entirely different purposes. The farmer wants to use it for raising crops and cattle; his labors tend not only to his own benefit, but to that of the whole people. It is to the interest of the country that no drag or discouragement should be put on his industry and therefore he should be entirely relieved of all taxation on his houses, barns, fences, crops, stock, etc.

The speculator, on the other hand, holds land not to use, but out of use. He stands there, backed up by the power of the Governmen, waiving off all comers until the crowding people in their competition for a place to live and work on consent to pay his price. We encourage this by taxing unused land more lightly than land that is put to good use, and so make it profitable to keep it idle, often for many years. This policy should be reversed; the speculator's interests are not the best interests of the country, and should not be considered in the matter. Improvements should be entirely —The West End Single Tax Association in Torento has decided to petition the city council for a plebiscite at the coming municipal election on the exemption of buildings, personality and income from taxation. The lecture committee reported that arrangements had been made with Louis E. Post for a lecture on Oct. 20 next. After a discussion the meeting decided to hold a regular series of meetings in different parts of the city during the winter.

Liberal Tariff Platform.

We, the Liberal party of Canada, in cons-vention assembled declare:
That the customs tariff of the Deminion should be based, upon as it now is, upon the protective principle, but upon the require-ments of the public service.
That the existing tariff, founded upon an unsound principle and used as it has been by the Government as a corrupting agency, wherewith to keep themselves in office, has developed monopolies, trusts and combina-tions;

itions;
It has decreased the value of farm and other landed property;
It has oppressed the masses to the entrichment of the few;
It has checked immigration;
It has impeded commerce;
It has discriminated gainst Great Britain.

In these, and in many othor ways, it has occasioned great public and private injury, all of which evils must continue to grow in intensity so long as the present tariff system remains in force.

That the highest interests of Canada demand a removal of this obstacle to our country's progress, by the adoption of a second fiscal policy, which, while not doing injustice to any class, will promote domestic and foreign trade and hasten the return of prosperity of our people.

That to that end, the tariff should be reduced to the needs of honest, economical and efficient government.

duced to the needs of honest, economical and efficient government.

That it should be so adjusted as to make free, or to bear as lightly as possible upon the necessaries of life and should be so arranged as to promote freer trade with the whole world, more particularly Great Britain and the United States.

We believe that the results of the protective system have grievously disappointed thousands of persons who honestly supported it, and that the country in the light of experience is now prepared to declare of experience is now prepared to declare for a sound fiscal policy. The issue between the two political parties on this great question is now clearly The Government themselves admit the failure of their fiscal policy, and now pro-fees their willingness to make some changes, but they say that such changes must be based only on the principle of must be based only on the principle of protection.

We denounce the principle of protection as radically unsound and unjust to the masses of the people, and we declare our conviction that any tariff changes based on that principle must fail to afford any substantial relief from the burdens under which the country labors.

This issue we unless itatively accept, and

This issue we unbesitatingly accept, and upon it we await with the fullest confi-dence the verdict of the electors of Canada.

Saying Good-Bye.

The First Congregational Church Thursday was the scene of a very interesting and pleasing event. The friends and members of the Y. P. S. C. E. gathering together to hid adjust to their master. Personal Property of the Presence of the Saying Cooperation of the Presence and pleasing event. The friends and members of the Y. P. S. C. E. gathering together to bid adicu to their pastor, Rev. Robt. Aylward, who has been an active member in that work. The most important feature was the presentation to him of a handsome and neatly uphoistered rocker, a gold C. E. pin, and an address read by Mr. W. Brock. Mr. Aylward was totally unprepared for auch a recognition. He was wholly overcome and could not reply for some time, and when he did try to utter his thanks his voice was busky with emetion. The following took part in a short programme: Instrumentals, Misses L. Bilton and Mr. Mozon; readings, Miss Mc. Arthur; solo, Mr. Lewis; duet, guitar accompaniment, Messrs Brock and Lewis; duet, Misses Greenwayand Chapman. The president occupied the chair.

STOMACH AND LIVER CURE The Wonderful HEALTH BUILDER & NERVE FOOD

Chronic Diseases are caused by Deranged Norve Centres at base of the Brain.

ATE discoveries have absolutely proven that the Stomach, Liver, Lungs, and indeed all internal organs, are controlled by the nerve centres at the base of the brain. The manufacturer of South American Nervine has studied this subject closely for more than twenty-five years, and has lately demonstrated that two-thirds of our Chronic Diseases, are due to the imperfect action of nerve centres, either within or at the base of the brain and not from a derangement of the organs themselves; hence that the ordinary methods of treatment are wrong.

As all know, a serious injury to the spinal cord, will at once cause Paralysis of the body below the injured part, it therefore will be equally well understood, how the derangements of the nerve centres, will cause the derangement of the different organs of the body which

The wonderful success of SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE is due alone to the fact that it is based on the foregoing principle. The use of a single bottle of this remedy will convince the most incredulous. It is indeed, a veritable Nerve Food and Will Relieve in One Day the varied forms

This class of diseases, is rapidly increasing each year, on account of the great wear our mode of living and labor imposes upon the nervous system. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir, are dependent upon nervous exhaustion, impaired digestion, and a deteriorated and impoverished condition of the blood. The SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE is a great nerve food and nerve builder and this accounts for its mervellent. is a great nerve food and nerve builder and this accounts for its marvellous power to cure the varied forms of nervous disease, such as Neuralgia Nervousness, Nervous Prostration, St. Vitus's Dance, Nervous Choking, Nervous Paroxysms, Twitching of the Muscles, Hot Flashes, Mentai Despondency, Forgetfulness, Sleeplessness, Restlessness, Nervousness of Females, Palpitation of the Heart, Sexual Weakness, etc., etc.,

South American Madicine Company.

GENTLEMEN: I received a letter from you May 27, stating that you had heard of my wonderful recovery from a spell of sickness of six years duration, through the use of SOUTH AMERICAN NERVING, and asking for my testimonial. I will gladly state how I was afflicted and how I was delivered from my pain and suffering. I was near thirty-five years old, when I took down with nervous prostration. Our family physician treated me, but without benefiting me in the least. My nervous system seemed to be entirely shattered, and I constantly had very severe shaking spells. In addition to this I would have vomiting spells, and there would be from eighteen to twenty days at a time that I could not retain anything on my stomach. Many consultations were held by physicians over my case, but they all agreed that I would never leave my bed, During the years I lay sick, my folks had an eminent physician from Dayton, Obio, and two from Columbus, Ohio, to come and examine me. They all said I could not live. I got to having spells like spasms, and would lie cold and stiff for a time after each. At that I lost the use of my body—could not rise from my bed or walk a step, and had to be lifted like a child; all the time suffering intense pain, and taking almost every known medicine. Part of the time I could read a little, and one day saw an advertisement of your medicine and concluded to try one bottle. By the time I had taken one and one-half bottles I could rise up and take a step or two by being helped, and after I had taken five bottles in all I felt real well. The shalding wont away gradually, and I could eat and sleep good, and my friends could scarcely believe it was I. I am sure this medicine is the best in the world. It was a god-s nd to me, and I believe it saved my life. I give my name and address, so that if anyone doubts my statement they can write me, or our postmaster or any citizen, as all are neoqualinted with my case. I am now forty-one

PETERBORO, Ontario, June 27, 1893.

To the Proprietor of South American Nervino.

DEAR SIR,—I have much pleasure in recommending the great SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE to all who are afflicted as I have been, with nervous prostration and indigestion. I found very great relief from the very first bottle, which was strongly recommended to me by my druggist. I also induced my wife to use it, who, I must say, was completely run down and was suffering very much from general debility. She found great relief from SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE, and also cheerfully recommends it to her fellow sufferers.

A TALK TO THE BOYS.

Prof. Henry Drummond is a great favor-swith the boys. He is so original and iteresting. In the course of a talk with a smpany of the Boys' Brigade he referred the wild "animal" in our nature, and id, "Well, when you are tempted to be ree like a tiger, or to be sulky and surly is a bear, or to be a sneaking thing like sorpent, you at once know where that serpent, you at once know where that mes from. You can kill an animal by arving, and you can starve any temptaarving, and you can starve any temptaion in the same way, so that it will have be power. Every boy confessed he has been impted to tell lies, but if the machinery
int works the lie has got so usty by disise all these years, the chances are you ill never tell a lie again. There is a boy ho loses his temper sometimes; if the boy ops feeding it, in ten years he will wonder ever had a temper at all."

ACTORS ON THE ROAD.

Formerly it was expected that every ctor should pay all his own expenses, scept car fare, while on tour, but lately some of the leading men have insisted on a clause in their contracts that shall guarantee their sleeping-car accommodations as well as transportation. The "utility" people, who receive from $10 to $15 a week, otten travel all night without sleep, except such as they can get sitting up, because they cannot afford to hire berths. Among the better companies every member takes care of himself and asks no favors of hotel men, but "fly-by-night" troupes usually put up together, and as they take the poorest rooms and sleep two and three in a room they get reduced rates. Lists of cheap hotels and boarding-houses are to be found behind the scenes in nearly every theater in the country for the guidance of ne of the leading men have insisted on ound behind the scenes in nearly every heater in the country for the guidance of the minor actors and for the chorus and

POTATO HISTORY.

POTATO HISTORY.

I has been proved beyond a doubt that at the time of the discovery of America the cultivation of the potato was practiced, with every appearance of ancient usage, in the temperate regions extending from Chile to New Grenada, at altitudes varying with the latitude. The name of the discoverer of the potato is unknown, but Du Candolle sums up the history of its dis. Candolle sums up the history of its dis-covery as follows: "The potato is wild in Chile in a form which is still seen in our cultivated plants; it is doubtful whether covery as follows: "The potato is wild in Chile in a form which is still seen in our cultivated plants; it is doubtful whether its natural home extends to Peru and New Grenada; its cultivation was diffused before the discovery of America, and was introduced in the latter half of the sixteenth century into that part of the United States now known as Virginia and North Carolina, and the potato was imported into Europe between 1580 and 1585, first by the Spaniards and afterward by the English at the time of Raleigh's voyages to Virginia."

MR. SPURGEON'S POSSIBLE SUCCESSOR.

The Rev. Dr. Arthur T. Pierson, who may fill the pulpit of the London Tabernacle, preached in the Reformed Church of Brooklyn Heights last evening. Dr. Pierson has been much discussed recently as the probable successor of Dr. Spurgeon. Shortly after Dr. Spurgeon's death, Dr. Pierson, who hails from Philadelphia, was invited to speak in the London Tabernacle, and he remained there for a year under a temporary call. He became a great favorite with the congregation, and would in all probability have been made the permanent pastor before this except for a strong feeling among some members of the church that Dr. Spurgeon's son should succeed to the place made famous by his father. In order to test the younger Spurgeon's strength, he was recently installed on a year's trial. At the expiration of this time the Londoners will decide whether they want to keep him or have Dr. Pierson. Dr. Pierson has a fine delivery and is a most eloquent preacher.—[New York Times.

A good deal has been written and many illustrations printed with the World's Fair But the subject is worthy of as the text. But the subject is worthy of it all, and the pictures in the magazines will be preserved for years in many a remote and humble home, refreshing the recollection as time steals on. If one wanted a pretty complete record of the Fair within one cover, they could hardly dobetter than lay by the September number of the Cosmopolitan magazine.

In the introductory paper, Mr. John Brisbon Walker calls the great exhibition "The World's College of Democracy," and predicts that America's civilization and advance in the liberal arts will be moved forward a quarter of a century as the times with kindly words of information, alert to the necessities of visitors, and determined to make the stay of each in their precincts as pleasant as possible. It is evident, says Mr. Walker, that the burly policeman is likely to be relegated to the niche adjoining that occupied by the volunteer firman.

As to invention, and especially electrical invention, an electrical engineer says:
"You have here everything that was underamed of 25 years ago. You have here the culmination of invention and science. It the culmination of invention and science. It is worth while to note this carefully, because if we should have another exhibit 25 years from now the probability is that not one of the things which seem so wonderful to you now will then be valued. They will have been superseded by inventions so much more useful, so much more wonderful, that it is barely within the compass of any mind to even conceive of what the future has in store for us."

The daily attendance at the fair has in-predicts that America's civilization and advance in the liberal arts will be moved forward a quarter of a century as the result of this marvelous exhibition. Mr. Walker dilates with pleasure on the enjoyment which the throngs of sight-seers seemed to take out of the exhibition; and he notes the absence of ill-nature and drunkenness. "What a change," he exclaims, "has come over our civilization in the last 25 years! Such a crowd anywhere in the United States before the sixties or in the United States who are not cramped by silver or any other sort of financial troubles. Well, it will do them all good! The inventions shown will stimulate many to invent who never invented before, and many who have invented to invent un more. The instruction, the entertainment, the incidental culture and broadening of the bundreds, but of tens of thousands, and women and children could not have taken part in such a gathering without the risk of personal injury."

Equally striking are Mr. Walker's reflections on the Columbian Guards, who convey the modern socialistic idea of gentlemen serving their fellow-men—ready at all sixteen years have brought to the world."

LESSON & FOURTH QUARTER, INTER

Text of the Lesson, Rom. 1, 8-17-Mem qry Verses, 16, 17-Golden Text, Rom. 1. 16-Commentary by the Rev. D. M.

NATIONAL SERIES, OCT. 1.

Stearns. 8. "First, I thank my God through Jesus 8. "First, I thank my God through Jesus Christ for you all, that your faith is spoken of throughout the whole world." Our last lesson in the Acts found Paul at Rome preaching Jesus to all who came to him, but from verses 11 to 18 of this lesson it is evident that he had not as yet been in Rome when he wrote this epistle. He writes as a bond slave of Jesus Christ, set apart to proclaim the glad bidlings of God concerning the Son, and addresses his letter to all the beloved of God in Rome, called saints. By receiving Jesus we become ter to all the beloved of God in Rome, called saints. By receiving Jesus we become saints, He becoming our righteousness, and this being the case we are therefore to live as saints. We are not told how the gospel was first preached at Rome, but there were at this time true believers there to whom Paul wrote this great epistle, emphasizing in the very beginning of it the great truth of the resurrection (verse 4). See how faith in God glorifles Him and becomes known abroad to His honor.

abroad to His honor.

9. "For God is my witness, whom I serve with my spirit in the gospel of His Son, that without ceasing I make mention of you always in my prayers." One of Paul's mottoes was, "God, whose I am and whom I serve" (Acts xxvii, 23), and it was no out-I serve" (Acts xxvii, 23), and it was no outward service as a man pleaser (Gal. i, 10; I Thess. ii, 4; Col. iii, 22), but real heart work as in the sight of God, whom he loved to call upon as his witness (I Thess. ii, 5, 10). It was his custom to pray much for the saints in every place (Eph. i, 16; I Thess. i, 2; Phl. 4), and he loved to be prayed for (Gol. ty, 8; I Thess. v, 25; II Thess. iii, 1). God was his intimate friend, and like a little child he told his father everything (Phil. iv, 6. 7).—What he preached he practiced. the child he told his father everything (Phil. &v. 6, 7). What he preached he practiced.

10. "Making request, if by any means now at length I might have a prosperous fourney by the will of God to come unto you." Outwardly we have seen that as men see things his journey was anything out prosperous, but when we consider his safe arrival and the lives given him (Acts xxvii, 24, 87) it is truly prosperous in God's eight. Joseph in prison under a false accusation was a prosperous man, for God was with him (Gen. xxxix, 2, 3, 21, 23).

was with him (Gen. xxxix, 2, 3, 21, 23).

11. "For I long to see you that I may im part unto you some spiritual gift, to the end ye may be established." He repeats his end ye may be established." He repeats his longing and desire in the end of the epistle (chapters xx, 23; xxxii, 29). He at one time put the Ephesians in mind of the words of the Lord Jesus, how He said, "It is more blessed to give than to receive" (Acts xx, 35, and His whole life is an illustration of the you of imparting spiritual things. The way to be established is found in II Chron. xx, 20, "Believe in the Lord your God, so shall ye be established." See the contrast in Isa vii, 9, and be mindful of I Cor. xx, 58 "He ve steadfast, immovable, always "Be ye steadfast, immovable, always ounding in the work of the Lord."

12. "That is, that I may be comforted to-ether with you by the mutual faith both you and me." In writing to Philemon you and me." In writing to Philemon no faith becomes effective. (Phi. 6) Paul said that the communica-tion of faith becomes effectual by the ac-knowledging of every good thing that is in us in Christ Jesus. Peter speaks of those who have obtained like precious faith with us through the righteousness of God and our Saviour Jesus Christ (II Pet. i, 1). Every believer knows how inspiring is the faith of a fellow believer and how refreshing it is to meet one who can truly say, "I lieve God," or "I know whom I have be-eved" (Acts xxvii, 25; II Tim. i, 12). Con-tence begets confidence both in temporal didence begets confidence both in temporal and spiritual things, so that if in quietness and confidence we are strong in the Lord (Isa, xxx, 15) somebody will get a refreshing.

13. "Now, I would not have you ignorant, to the that oftentimes I proposed to come unto you (but was let hitherto), that I might have some fruit among you also, even as among other gentiles." Our purposes may come to naught, but the purposes of God will stand and all be in due poses of God will stand and all be in due time fulfilled. The way of rest, therefore, is to place ourselves wholly in His hands that He may work both to will and to do. The word "lgt" in this verse signifies to hinder. See R. V. and compare II Thess. ii, 7. See also Isa. xliii, 13, where God says, "I will work, and who shall let it?"

14. "I am debtor both to the Greeks and to the barbarians, both to the wise and to the unwise." He did not take any credit to himself for preaching the gospel, but said, "Necessity is laid upon me—yea, we is me if I preach not the gospel" (I Cor. ix, 16). All who have heard the gospel and have received Christ for themselves are commissioned to make Him known to others.

have received Christ for themselves are commissioned to make Him known to others, for it is written, "Let him that hear the say come" (Rev. xxii, 17). Whether ordined of man or not, they are ordained of God (John xv, 16) and are put in trust with the gospel, which is to be declared, not as pleasing men, but God who trieth our hearts (I Thess. ii, 4).

18. "So, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel to you that are at Rome also." "Ready" was one of Paul's watchwords. Ready to every good work, ready to be bound or to die, ready to be offered up (Titus ili, 1; Acts xxi, 23; II Tim. iv, B). The same word is prominent in the Saviour's teachings with special reference to His coming again (Math. xxiv, 44; xxv, 10). If King David's people could say to him. "Thy servants are ready to do whatsoever my lord, the king, shall appoint" (II Sam. xv, 15), how much more should we say it to our king?

16. "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto sales."

of Rings 16. "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salwation to every one that believeth—to the Jew first, and also to the Greek." It is called in verse 1 the gospel of God and in verse 9 the gospel of His Son. It is also called the giorious gospel of Christ and the glorious gospel of the Blessed God (II Cor. iv. 4; I Tim. i, 11), yet many preachers today have become ashamed of it or III Cor. iv, 4; I Tim. 1, 11), yet many preachers today have become sahamed of it or else seem to think it has lost its power, for they preach anything and everything but the good news concerning Jesus. They surely seem to forget Mark viii, 38. There is no benefit from the gospel unless we believe or receive it (Heb. iv, 2), and receiving it we receive Him (John i, 12) and thus become the children of God. If today, as in the days of the apostles, we gave more heed "to the Jew first," might not the blessing be much greater?

heed "to the Jew lirst," might not the diess-ing be much greater?

17. "For therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith, as it is written, The just shall live by faith." Our own righteousness, which is only filthy rags, is opposed to the righteousness of God and must be laid aside before we can enjoy the perfect righteousness of God. enjoy the perfect righteousness of God, which is Christ Himself (Isa. lxiv, 6; II Cor. 21; Rom. x, 3, 4). This complete and otless righteousness was wrought out r, 21; Rom. x, 3, 4). This complete and spotless righteousness was wrought out wholly by Christ and becomes ours by simple faith in Him—or, in other words, by our receiving Him (Rom. iii, 21, 22). "The just shall live by faith."

NEW VARIETIES OF PLUMS.

Some Have Proved Valuable and Promise to Become Popular.

Of new plums there is no end. The great demand seems to be for very early and late sorts in the main, with some other letter sorts to appear to appear the old. other better sorts to supplant the old midseason varieties like Lombard and others. Of these newer ones we have the Field, a seedling of the Bradshaw, 10 days earlier, otherwise resembling its parent in size and general appearance. It is very hardy, productive and promises well. Guii, Hudson River Purple Egg, Prince of Wales and Peters' Yellow Gage Prince of Wales and reteral are all desirable and cover the ground well at their season of ripening, while Stanton Grand Duke and Monarch aid in extending the plum season late into September and early October and are september and early October and are wanted in all markets because of their size and style. The Black Diamond for beauty and productiveness is unex-celled. It ripens about Sept. 10. The illustration of the Grand Duke, from American Gardening, shows the general shape of both fruit and leaves, but all greatly reduced in size.

So far the newly introduced Japanese varieties show themselves very hardy and productive beyond our powers to describe. The name Botan seems to be a general name for a family, of which we have a number differing quite materially in character. The earliest, which has been styled No. 26, is the poorest in quality, and yet by reason of its est in quanty, and yet by reason is the carly ripening (July 15) meets with ready sales in our city markets. Botan (Abundance, as it is often called) is very good, but not equal to True Sweet Botan or the Yellow Japan, while as regards productiveness Burbank Japan excels them all. To those interested in growing Damsons, Mr. S. D. Williard—from whose report the foregoing is an extract—says that the French Damson is superior in health and productivene any of this family out of seven or eight varieties that he has tested.

The Newer Strawberries. The members of the Western New York Herticultural society gave their views for and against a number, which have become widely known. The followin may be mentioned as fairly re-liable: Parker Earle succeeds well in most localities and fairly in some. The ob-jection is that the plants promise heavy crops, which are not always borne, and the berries are not quite large enough. The Greenville has nearly one united voice in its favor. The Lovett, erroneously called Lovett's Early, is generally commended for its value. Warfield has done well and would be good for market if its color wage not so dull and dark. if its color were not so dull and dark, Haviland is generally approved, as well as Beder Wood. There are others as good in the localities suited to them, and Evergreens are wholly unfit-ted for these situations. Only deciduous shrubs can be employed. Among the best of these are the various varieties of privet. They stand dry ground better than almost anything else. It is not so much the shade which injures the hedges in these situations as it is the drying of the trees. the ground by the roots of the trees.

In Germany every servant girl, by order of the Emperor, is obliged to own a little blank book for stamps. Each week the mistress pastes in the book a five-cent stamp. RED HAIR IS ALL RIGHT.

Don't be ashamed of your red hair. The scientists say that it means that there is a superabundance of iron in the blood. And the analyst says that it is the matter that enters into red hair that imparts vigor, the elasticity, the great vitality, the overflowing, thoroughly healthy animal life which runs through the veins of the rundy-haired, and this strong, sentient animal life is what renders them more intense in all their emotions than their more languid fellow-creatures. Philosophers notice it as a peculiar fact that red-haired maids are very rare; they seem to have some very strong attractions. RED HAIR IS ALL RIGHT.

WEEP NO MORE.

Those women who weep when weeping is proper should weep no more. Weeping has gone out. It no longer has, among the smart set, the place it has held from time immemorial. When you sprain your ankle or lose your loveliest ring you mustn't dare to shed tears. You should pucker up your lips, make your chin quiver a little, wink to shed tears. You should pucker up your lips, make your chin quiver a little, wink your eyes and choke desperately, as if keeping back the tears were a heart-splitting effort. Then Harry Horner, or whoever else happens to be with you, will say to himself: "The poor, dear girl! She is so brave. I suppose her foot pains her dreadfully." Kissing away damp tears is a dismalialitre. A girl usually looks about as kiesable as a pet alligator when she cries. If she could only weep without making such dreadful faces, dislocating her teeth and getting a nice, bright, vermilion-colored nose it would be different. As long as she can't, she had better try the deep-suffering, strong-hearted method. It's much more strong-hearted method. It's much more satisfactory in the end. Besides, it is more fashionable now, and what fun would there be in weeping when it isn't fashionable?

TALMAGE ON WOMEN'S RIGHTS. TALMAGE ON WOMEN'S RIGHTS. I know there are women of most undesirable nature, who wander up and down the country—having ne homes of their own, or forsaking their own, homes—talking about their rights, and we know very well that they, themselves, are fit neither to vote not keep house, writes the Rev. T. De Witt Talmage in an article headed "Male and Female Created He Them" in the September Ladies' Home Journal. Their mission seems to be to humiliate the two sexes at the thought of what any one of us might become. No one would want to live under the laws that such women would enact, nor to have cast upon society the children that such women would raise. The best rights that women on which children that such women would raise, thildren that such women can own she already has in her possession. Her position in this country at this time is not one of commiseration, but one of congratulation. The grandeur and power of her realm have never yet been appreciated; she sits to-day on a throne so high that all the thrones of earth piled on top of each other would not make for her a footstool. Here is the platform on which she stands. Away down below it are the ballot-box, and the congressional assemblage, and the legislative hall.

If sometimes she be listless and even frivolous, when once her attention has been caught and her conscience stirred, she is quick to atone for her heedlessness and ready to acknowledge her fault, and is a most loyal disciple. The Sunday school depends upon her for that elder sisterly teaching and affectionate persuasion which win the little ones to listen to the Gospel message. Management of a Boar.

Much the most common way is to let the boar run with the sows indiscriminate. nately during the breeding season, but it is not the best way, nor is it best (al-though better) to have him shut in a pen or lot that is in sight of or alongside the inclosure where the sows are kept. So long as he is where the sows can be seen or come near, especially when any of them are in heat, he is constantly in a wearing, tearing fever of excitement, wearing, tearing tover to extract on his feet and using his energies and ingenuity to break out. At such times it requires a strong pen to keep him in place, and he should from the first be accustomed to one that there is no probability of his breaking down, for if he once discovers that he persequence he can tiscovers that by perseverence he can get away he is thenceforth doubly trou-desome, and in some instances keeping im in place is almost an impossibility. He should have a comfortable lot, arge enough to permit plenty of exerise and some opportunity to root, a well heltered, dry, sunny sleeping place and be given two or three times daily as anch wholesome feed as he will clear p, and it should largely be something besides corn. Oats or rye, ground, with ome wheat bran made into a slop, help along with some corn to make a feed that is healthful and a much better balanced ration in every way than is possi-ble in any single article. Of course he is not to be deprived of as much fresh vater as he wants, and I would season water as he wants, and I would season his slops with as liberal proportions of salt as I use in my own food, notwith-standing the belief held by so many men that "salt is pizen to a hog."

In most of the hog raising states it is scarcely prudent, owning to dangers of sudden cold and storms, to have pigs farrowed until the warm days toward the middle of April, so that about the middle of December-not earlier-is a favorable time for the breeding.

Sows that are being bred for the first time can as well be coupled a little later than old ones, because the old sow will usually carry her pigs from 112 to 115 days, while a gilt may farrow any time between 100 and 110 days after service. It is a common belief among many breeders that service of a sow at the beginning of heat will result in a large proportion of temale pigs, and that if coupling is not done until the last hours of it more of the pigs will be males, but I have never been able to satisfy myself of its correctness.-Exchange.

Its Prospects In the Middle Section of the Union.

The Breeder's Gazette says:
That there has been a marked falling off in the demand for stallions of the various draft breeds during the past few years is the testimony of all leading importers and breeders. Importations have practically ceased and sales of pure bred horses—except for those of outstanding merit—have been slow and at a materially lower range of values than were current a few years ago. That service fees should have fallen to a low point as a result of the wide distribution of entire horses—good, bad and indifferent—seeking the patronage of farmers, is not a matter for surprise, and with a view toward determining what lengths the demoralization of rates had extended and to ascertain also the general feeling in regard to the style of horses most in request this season. The Gazette put out a short time since a query calculated to bring out the facts.

Several hundred good farmers and stockmen in the states of Illinois, Lowa, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska were asked to advise us as to the kind of horses most generally patronized by owners of farm mares this season and to indicate the range of service fees. It is clear that service fees have fallen to a figure where the stallion keeper has to do some close figuring to "pay out." Those who have been seduced into paying a big price for a poor horse are of course in an uneviable position. The man who pays a long figure for a really titpon horse of fine quality and choice breeding will come much nearer making a profit in the long run than he who brings in a "pelter" simply because he could buy him cheap and stand him at a nominal fee.

Big horses with style and quality are still commanding remunerative prices, as are also fine drivers, trained saddiers and choice coach and carriage stock. It is the great mass of weedy stock—unsound, blemished, poorly built and undersized horses, devoid of finish and quality, such as result from patronizing cheap mongrel or grade sires—that are a drug on the market. The Breeder's Gazette says:

mongrel or grade sires—that are a drug on the market.

If we may be allowed to perpetrate "an Irish bull," the kind of horse most in favor in many sections is the mule. Jacks have done a big season's work in many counties, and we must confess that those who have patronized them have, generally speaking, shown more sense than those who have bred good work mares to scrubby mongrel or nondescript stud horses. The jack is a purely bred sire at least, and one knows just about what is to be expected from his service, and the nule is by no means the worst selling animal of the day. From the scrub stallions you do not know what will come. As between them and the ass the jack is to be preferred every time.

A summary of the reports to The Gazette would make the stallion fee in the states named average about $8. The price ranges all the way from $2 to $50. The reports show extremes of mixed

The reports show extremes of mixed breeding that are enough to drive one crazy. Horses in some sections have been nearly ruined by breeding draft mares to trotters. Many common farmers are attempting to get fast trotters. Not one in twenty succeeds, and a flood of horses no good for anything is poured upon the community, sending the price of them down so low that it does not just at present pay to breed a good horse in those localities. In the midst of the confusion a few fixed conclusions can be arrived at. One is that pure bred, first class draft horses and carriage horses are always in deand carriage noises are aways in de-mand, and trotters to a considerable ex-tent, too, if one can be sure they are go-ing to be fast. The Clydesdales, Perch-erons, French coach horses and trotters are the breeds most popular in the states indicated. There are also some Shires and Belgian drafts, with a faint sprinkling of thoroughbreds. The Hackney is practically unknown. Little attempt is made to develop breeds of saddle horses.

The pigpen ought to have a space of fresh soil that has not been trampled over for several years for the pigs to root in. Such soil helps to correct acidity of the stomach and keep the pig healthy. But where the rooting is over land filled with decomposing pig manure the pigs. with decomposing pig manure the pigs are sure to get some disease, and this is doubtless often the means by which the approved reputation and turned then into his chicken houses with the rest of his flock. He supposed they were all right from the good name of the fashionable breeder. But in a very short time his whole premises began to fairly crawl off with chicken lice. The vermin had been spread by the six fowls bought of the fancy breeder. A man who breed overed with very covered with very constant of the co covered with vermin—well, he is another man that will never go to heaven.

An old overworked horse always puts one fore foot straight out in front of him when he stands still, as if to rest upon it. Such a horse is a pathetic sight.

The most cattle lost by exposure last winter were, curiously enough, in Louisiana. The cattle were left to run wild and got no care, a severe winter came on, and the owners of those animals lost them through pure neglect.

If a calf bunts the pail over when you are feeding it, don't fly into a rage and kick the calf. That is exactly how it bunts its mother's udder to make the milk give down.

The display of horses and cattle, sheep and swine, at the World's fair will continue every day in the live stock pavilion until the close of the exposition, Oct. 28. One of the most interesting features is the fine display of mules and jacks. The fine display of mules and jacks. The state of the projecting window in the bedroom and in angle of bedroom under the main stairs. The hardware is of good quality the fine display of mules and jacks. The opportunity to compare the Illinois mule with that raised in the south will be a good one. It is to be hoped, too, that the attention of farmers will be attractionally the attention of farmers will be attraction. ed more to the possibilities that lie in the working mule. A New Metal Paint.

The discovery of a new kind of paint is announced which, it is claimed, possesses the properties of preserving metals from rust and is unaffected by either heat or cold. When applied to sheet iron, it is found that the coating is not affected by warm water or steam, nor is it at all influenced by the action of acid and alkaline liquids, ammonia gas, hydrochloric acid gas and sulphureted hydrogen gas. The principal ingredient of this paint is a silicate of iron which is found in the neighborhood of natural deposits of iron ores and also occurs in veins of deposits of granite which have become decomposed by contact with the air.—Architectural Monthly.

WYATT & SON,

Lifting the Tubers by Machinery-Two Distinct Methods Worked Up by Inventors The wholesale production of potatoes has demanded machinery for simplifying the original methods of planting, hoeing and digging by hand. This de-mand has been met by our inventors. The potato planter does the work of 10 good men dropping by hand. Any of the good sulky cultivators or light harrows will enable a farmer to sit on a comfortable seat and let his horses do the hoeing for him. There are machines that will throw poisoned water on six rows at a time as fast as a team will walk to protect from potato bugs. The hardest problem has been to produce a digger that will not only throw the tu-bers out of the soil, but screen or lift them from the earth as well. Two distinct methods have been worked up by inventors. One is represented by a large, heavy complicated machine with cog wheels, shakers, chains and many parts. This is to scoop up vines, dirt and tubers, shake out the former and pass the latter out behind on the surface of the ground. These complicated machines do good work, the obctions to them being that they are of heavy draft, expensive and so complicated that the average cost of repairs is quite a large item.

The other plan was to devise a plow with a simple screening attachment without expensive fixtures or heavy weight, a machine that the average farmer with a single team could handle farmer with a single team could handle. Beginning with the shovel plow with spikes or fingers ranged about it, this idea has been developed until we have the arrangement shown in the illustration here reproduced from The Rural New Yorker, already quoted. In some of the diggers the screens are placed be-hind the plow. This leaves the tubers in the furrow. In the machine depicted the potatoes do not fall behind at all. They are simply plowed to right and left, falling upon the long screens which run lightly and easily over the ground.

In a general way, the average farmer is advised to select the least complicated machinery, but it must also be borne in in mind that no machine can give absopotato fields of all sorts and kinds—stor lute satisfaction everywhere. There are ly, weedy, wet, hard, soft. One could hardly expect a digger made especially for work on a level prairie, free from s, to do first class work on a stony New England hillside.

When to Cut Corn.

The ear is the most valuable part of the corn crop for the western farmer, but there is great value in the stover or fodder. Hence it is important to know whether we can obtain both these values ta full, or whether obtaining full value of the one necessitates a decrease in the value of the other. A report from the lowa station, where experiments were conducted to decide when to cut corn so as to get the most profitable returns from the crop, makes it appear that-

The time to begin cutting corn is when the blades and husks have begun to dry, and the cutting should be finished when half the blades and husks have dried up. This gives about 10 days for cutting corn, and the opinion is expressed that the purpose of economy would be better served if the ripening could continue so that the harvest would last but five days instead of 10.

Considering the value of the stover, the importance of having the ears as ripe as possible and the large size of the Iowa cornfields, the crying need of the lowa farmer is a machine that will harvest his corn crop with the same facility as the present self binder harvests the smaller grain.

Open Shed and Grain Chamber

In cold climates many farmers take the precaution to surround their barnyards on three sides with buildings, which adds wonderfully to the comfort of animals that spend at least a portion of each day out of doors, whether it be winter, with its necessary stable feeding, or summer, with its soiling. But to secure the comfort of cows that are turned into the yard in summer an open shed is highly desirable. It is also an important addition to a yard where cows are turned at night in, summer, whether kept in the stable or

ADVANTAGEOUS BOTH IN SUMMER AND

WINTER. the pasture during the day, for sudden storms and showers frequently arise in the night and thoroughly drench the stock that has no shelter it can seek. For sheep, cows, weanling calves and other stock such an open shed has pronounced advantages both in summer and winter. The one shown in the illustration, here reproduced from The Country Gentleman, is combined with a corn and grain chamber, which is entered from the midway landing of the stairs leading from the first to the second floor of the stable to which the smaller building is attached. The grain is thus constantly at hand when needed or the use of the animals and is easily and conveniently housed after being thin hed from the straw or husked from the stalk.

BPEEDING BARRED PLYMOUTH ROOK

one Plan of Mating This Variety Bos the Breeders have different plans of mating this variety for best results. Nome advocate mating a standard colored fe male with a light male to produce light females. The result of this mating is some good light females, all very light males and some very dark females. The same breeder, to get his good cockerels, mates his dark females to a very dark standard male. As a result he gets some good cockerels—some lighter and some darker. The pullets are nearly black and worthless. Following is what a breeder writes on the subject in The Poultry Monthly: "My plan has been, as a rule, to mate a standard female and a male of as near the same shade as I can. The barring should be deep on the females, and in the back should have from five to seven bars on each feather. It is not expected to be so good on the males; they usually run lighter in undercolor. This mating, if followed up for a few seasons, will produce more good standard colored males and females than any other plan of mating, and the culls will be few and far

'Of course if this plan is taken up with stock that has been bred from extreme matings the result will not be very satisfactory the first season, but if continued will soon begin to show up in cood shape. If one can get stock that as been bred from the single mating, he is on the short road to success, and it will save him many a bird from going to the block. It is surely much more profitable to raise 80 good standard birds, male and female, out of 100 hatched from standard mating that will sell from $3 to $6 each, than to raise 40 fine pullets worth $5 each and then market 40 nearly white cockerels and 20 black pullets.

"With the other extreme mating 80 per cent of the females are too dark to use as breeders, and 10 per cent of the males are so dark as to be slaty and not saleable, and then one seldom gets that bright blue tinged plumage on males from this cockerel mating. "It will pay any one who has never tried these standard matings to try them and note the results. Give them a good honest trial and do not content yourself with a single year's breeding."

Cultivating a Fenced Garden.

The ideal condition with many perpermitting approach from all sides with horse and cultivator to assist in the cul-tivation of the growing crops and in the subduing of weeds. But a fenced garden is sometimes made imperative by circumstances over which the owner has no control, the "circumstances" being in the nature of his neighbors' cows, pigs, fowls or other animals that are liable on occasions to be at large to the injury of gardens and other cultivated places. The owner's own animals, even when excellent care is taken, may sometimes escape from their allotted limits and in an hour nearly ruin a garden.

For these and similar reasons many are obliged to fence in their gardens and de-prive themselves and the gardens also of the great advantage of the full and frequent use of the cultivator. A plan suggested in American Gardening is given herewith by which a fenced garden may be cultivated with a good deal defining be curivated with a good deal of ease and thoroughness. The ground used should, if possible, be much longer than wide, with everything planted in rows and the rows running lengthwise.

The end fences are made up entirely of gates, as shown in the diagram.

These being set wide open and the rows having been arranged so that a row oc-curs in exact line with each fence post at the ends, opportunity is afforded to cultivate every row in the garden, and that, too, completely to the ends, with no turning of the horse within the limits of the garden, the advantages of which are too apparent to need dwelling upon.

Agricultural News and Notes. The several agricultural congresses of the world's congress auxiliary of the olumbian exposition will be held in Chicago Oct. 16-28.

A still further decline in the condition of apples is made evident by the returns of August to the department of agriculture at Washington.

Oregon wheat will be a heavier crop than last year.

Iowa agricultural bureau says the state promises an average crop of corn and 50 to 65 per cent of an oat crop. The total yield of wheat is estimated at 10, 124,000 bushels.

The Large Cheese and Improved Cushaw are good pumpkins alike for home consumption and market.

Experiments made by Editor Carman of The Rural New Yorker seem to indi-cate very clearly that in order to in-crease our yield of potatoes it is only necessary in digging our crop to expose the hills separately, and then before har-vesting go through and select our seed potatoes from those hills which show the most abundant crop.

....The shipments of Canadian eggs to E goand have tallen off this year. In the British market our eggs have to compete with the pauper eggs of European hens!

KEEPING MILK AND CREAM SWEET. A Very Important Part of the Process Is Cleansing the Milk Utensils.

It is often very desirable to keep milk and cream sweet for a longer period than is possible by the adoption of ordinarily known methods. In warm weath er it is difficult to keep milk sweet for any great length of time, but souring even in the hottest weather may be greatly retarded. To keep milk sweet it should be reduced to as low a temperature as possible at the earliest practi-cable moment after milking. For this purpose aerating machines are made. The milk is conducted over tinned tubes while ice cold water runs through the tubes. In five minutes we have re-duced the temperature of milk in our dairy by this process over 40 degrees. Milk so chilled does not sour so rapidly

The cream from this separated milk should keep sweet longer as a rule than from milk set in pans or cans for the reason that it must always be more uniformly sweet than cream skimmed otherwise in warm weather. Then if chilled at once and set in deep cans sur-rounded by ice water there should be little trouble in keeping it sweet two or three days. A friend of mine made a cooler and aerated his milk in warm weather, and informs me that he has kept milk sweet for 48 hours without using ice. Sixty degrees is not a cool enough temperature in hot weather to set milk in. Fifty degrees is far better. If one can secure cool spring water, let the milk or cream stand in that and have some ice also in the water if pos as that which cools slowly.

In connection with this subject too much emphasis cannot be laid on the necessity for having dairy utensils clean and properly washed. Milk pans should first be rinsed in cool water, then thoroughly scalded, then again rinsed in co water and then well wiped dry. If h water is used first, it will set some of the milky substance to the sides and joints of the dishes, and the trouble will begin right there. No treatment of the mill or cream can prevent souring if thi matter of cleaning utensils is not at tended to. Even the most infinitely small portions of sour milk or cream allowed to remain contain enough bacteria to sour the new contents in a very short time, even though the conditions for their rapid multiplication are made unfavora ble by cooling.-Professor C. S. Plumb in American Cultivator.

At the dairy tests of the World's fair the New Hampshire cows took the high-est award in butter producing. There is a large herd of Jerseys at the fair made up of the best cows from the farms of many breeders, several states being represented. These cows have not given the results which private tests by the owners assert, but they have made fine

The Jerseys do not excel in the amou milk produced, but the richness of the milk is great and the production of butter far beyond what is expected on an ordinary farm. The herd records show that on one day 870 pounds of milk, containing 126 pounds of cream, stood as the performance. From this was secured 50 pounds of salted butter. The cows average two pounds of butter per day when doing well and yield about 15 quarts of milk daily.

The Holsteins have made a good record as butter producers. One result other than the simple record of milk and but.

than the simple record of milk and butter is the demonstration that the cows are doing just what they were bred to do—showing the great improvements that have been made by breeding for a special end. This whole herd has proved this. It is better for a man to have one cow which produces 14 pounds of butter in a given time than two, each of which produces seven. It is cheaper, for the GARDEN WITH END FENCES MADE UP OF cost of one cow, her care and keeping, is that much tax beyond the expense of the other-that is, in the second

Dairy and Creamery. It is possible to feed cows too many

The fair dairy tests prove the Guernsey claim as far as butter color is con cerned. The Guernsey butter has the richest yellow color of any, and seldom needs artificial addition to its hue. Guernsey cows have universally a rich yellow skin, and the color of their hair is orange yellow, shading to red and freely spotted with white.

Squashes are in favor with milk cows as food, but should be chopped fine.

If you doubt about the necessity of nilking cows with exact regularity, try the regular and irregular system on to of your cows and see for yourself. Milk one regularly to the minute each day, let the time vary for the other from half an hour to three hours and see how soon the second cow will fall off in her milk.

Cream much exposed to the air and Cream much exposed to the air and rising upon milk set in shallow pans is thicker and darker in color than that from a separator or deep set cans. But it is not any better nor is there any more of it, and it has a chance to absorb microbes that are hurtful.

One ton of husks and corncobs from a sweet corn canning factory is worth as food for milk cows half as much as a ton of good timothy hay.

The quantity of Danish butter shipped to England has increased from 487,636 dredweight in 1892. This is because Danish butter has the name of being the best that is made. Denmark is rapidly being transformed into a great dairy farm, and its butter factories give employment to a vast number of men and

One of the briefest discourses brobably ever delivered was that of a Prince Archibald of Cologne, who, being appointed to preach before the Court at Versailles one April, ascended the pulpit, gravely bowed to the audience, and, shouting out "April fools—all!" ran down the steps again amid peals of laughter.

But brevity is not always the soul of wit. Canning was once asked by a clergyman how he had liked his sermon, "Why, it was a short sermon," was the reply. "Oh yes," said the preacher, "you know I avoid being tedious," "Ah! but," answered Canning, "you were tedious." short Sermons. TRY
