Chatham Said to Have a Reputation For Meanness

Towards Manufacturers-Some In stances of it Recited by an Old Resident.

The Lake Erie spur into the yards of the Manson Campbell Company has been taken np and put down again. The by-law has been complied with, the track has been moved six feet six inches, and is now six inches off Prince street. The effect of the inches off Prince street. The effect of the change is to make things worse than they were before. The Colborne street property owners have secured no advantage, the spur is not as satisfactory to the Campbell Company as it would have been where it was and is also more inconvenient and dangerous to vehicles.

The feeling about town is that the property committee in making the fuss they did treated the Campbell Company and the Lake Erie most shabbilly. Of course, Ald. Liddy has been fault finding with the railroad so much lately that little attention is now paid to him. But better things were expected of Ald. Fleming. This brings up Chatham's past course towards manufacturers.

Mr. Graham, of evaporator fame, has been here the past day or two. He will run an apple evaporator at Ridgetown this fall as usual but will not reopen his Chatham branch. At the same time Mr. Graham branch. centre but also regards it as the meanest place in Canada a manufacturer can have anything to do with. The treatment he got from the city council two or three years ago was the worst of any of the many places in which he does business. Mr. Graham for all that is strongly inclined to start a vegetable evaporating works here and no doubt would without hesitation but for the city's bad reputation. He thinks it is a first class centre for either a vegetable or pork factory.

SAYS CHATHAM ALWAYS WAS A MEAN PLACE.

Talking along this line an old time "The city councils of the present are not any meaner in dealing with manufacturer than those of past years. Now just take a few instances:

"At one time we had a fire engine factory here. The owner was a good citizen and was making a hard struggle to succeed. The was making a hard struggle to succeed. The factory was a mighty good thing for Chatham, too, but to build up the business was hard work. The place ran behind in its taxes and what do you think? The city actually sold it out for taxes. Brussels then gave the owner a bonus to start there and he is now running a fine factory in that sown and employing a hundred hands. But for the corporation seizing he would never have left Chatham.

"Then take the Harvester works. A lot

"Then take the Harvester works. A lot of citizens lost money in that enterprise but it was a good thing for Chatham. Finally the directors arranged to have the business taken over and continued by a wealthy Petrolea company. The company's representatives were here to close the deal when in stepped the city and seized for a paltry $250 of back taxes. The Petrolea people said if that was the kind of town Chatham was they did not want to do business in it and took their departue. As we all know, the Harvest works then closed up and the town lost another valuable industry.

"Then you have the treatment of Graham a couple of years ago, the treatment of Manson Campbell just now and the treatment of the Sons of Scotland the other day in their efforts to bring people here. "Then take the Harvester works. A l efforts to bring people here.

"There's no use talking, this place head reputation abroad for meanness each successive council seems more to anxious to live up to it. As a result we not only cannot get any new factories but are unable to keep those we have."

FOR GALLANT CONDUCT.

General Hutton has forwarded the names of the following to Field Marshal Commander-in-Chief for their gallant conduct; Lieut. H. A. J. Davidson, superintendant Northwest Mounted Police; Lieut. W. Inglis, late captain of the Berkshire Regiment; Corp. Fred Morden, Lance-Corp. Thomas Miles; Pte. Kerr, Pte. Miles.— World. The Lieutenant Davidson mentioned is a son-in-law of J. G. Chatham, Ont. WHY DO SWIMMERS DROWN?

Why are drownings so frequent? Every day the newspapers) tell us of-good swimmers being seized by cramp and drown. It was not so thirty or forty years ago. Then cramp was rarely felt by a swimmer. Why is it so prevalent now? Has there been a change in the temperature of the wat-the shore.

Dear boy, things are no different relatively, now than they were thirty or forty year ago. percentage of drownings is no larger and the causes, whatever those causes may be, are identically the same. The reason you imagine it is not so now, as then, is that a better newspaper service and a better telegraph service gives you access to more news. As for the causes of drownings, people talk about cramps as they do about heart disease. We do not believe that one drowning, in a thousand is due to cramp. A better explanation might be physical exhaustion causing the swimmer to become "rattled" and thus unable to use his swimming abilities to advantage. As a matter of fact most people, especially adults, over-estimate their swimming capabilities. A bather who is not in daily practice, should take no risks. He should keep within reach of

A FOOLISH BARGAIN.

We find the following in that excellent Liberal paper, the Montreal Wit-

"The advocates of limiting the marriage rights of Canadians by the ecclesiastical usages of one or other denomination and practically subjecting the laity in this matter to the clergy, have fallen back on the old plea, the last and ready resort in which every ecclesiastical claim takes refuge, that at the time of the cession of Canada to Great Britain there was an agreement between the French and the English king that the latter's new subjects should enjoy the free exercise of their religion. It does not concern us now to examine exactly how much of this understanding is supported by the treaty of cession and how much of it is dependent on an act of the British parliament passed later, seeing that neither act can be considered eternal. As for an act of parliament, the power that made it can unmake it. As for a treaty, it is simply preposterous to hold that a king that could not guarantee the perpetuity of his laws to his own country or even, for that matter, the perpetuity of his throne, should be able to determine forever the laws and customs of a country would think the unreasonableness of such a claim would occasionally occur to the persons who so gravely appeal as often as once a week to the worn-out guarantee of what they call liberty. Those who fought and suffered to make Canada a self-governing country should be the last to appeal to the usages of a regime, which has, happily for France, passed away and which was, as compared with Canada's self-governing liberty, the blackest of bondage." All of which is very true. As a matter of fact, would the people of Quebec themselves consent to have their present privileges circumscribed by the treaty of 1763? Not much.

Calumet, Mich., a town of 40,000 inhabitairts, has built, equipped and is running a municipal theatre. The mayor acts as censor of all the plays produced in the theatre. There's socialism in practice.

The number of excursions to Belle Isle reminds us of the fact that this is an American resort which could be duplicated on a smaller scale at the Lighthouse, where we could spend our own money in our own land. The site is there and the people to patronize it are here and elsewhere in Kent and Essex, but where is the enterprise to develop it?

There is a superstitious idea current that the bodies of drowned people rise to the surface nine days after going down. Along this line an item is floating around among our exchanges alleging that Fred Carey's body was found at Rondeau exactly nine days after his death. This is not so. He was drowned one Sunday and found the next. As a matter of fact the nine-day theory is all rot. The length of time it takes bodies to rise depends on the temperature of the water. In Lake Superior, for instance, the water is so cold that the bodies of the drowned very seldom come to the surface at all. In the warmer lakes and rivers the time extends from three or four days to two weeks or longer, according to the season. The warmen the water, the quicker the decay is in duced. Gases are generated and it is these gases that, failing to escape, bring up the bodies to the surface.

An invention to perfectly restore to roller milled flour its lost wheat flavor is said by the Miller to have been perfected. Since the inception of roller milling, the trade have been discussing the fact that by the new process the delicate flavor which used to characterize the stone-made article has been missing owing to some change in the wheat mixtures. Whether it is the evaporation of an essence, or a volatile oil, ot the absence of small particles of brain, or the lack of the oil squeezed from the germ in stonemilling which accounts for the deficiency in flavor, experts are not agreed, but that modern-milled flour is wanting in the appetising factor which pleasantly affects the palate nobody disputes. Various attempts to evolve a process by which this flavor should be retained or restored have success. The subject is well worthy of investigation, and as flavor is likely to count for much in the future of flour-milling, the process is deserving of further study and adoption.

GOOD FATHER O'LEARY. The Mail.

Of all the chaplains who went with the Canadian contingent good words are spoken: It is of interest to note that Protestants as well as Catholics are loud in their praises of Father O'Leary, the Roman Catholic chaplain. This priest was here, there, and everywhere, and was most kind to all, irrespective of creed. At Paardeberg Father O'Lears buried all the dead, using the Church of England service for the Protestants. One poor fellow, a Protestant, who was wounded and dying, was ministered to by Father O'Leary. The kindly clergyman borrowed a prayer-book and read to him and prayed with him, observing to the soldier from whom he got the book: "It will comfort the poor fellow to hear a few words from some of the prayers of his own church, even if the priest who reads them belongs to another."

"Up at my camp near the Four Peaks," told Jim Bark, the well-known cattleman, "the boys are all handy with a rine. We've a lot of guns up there. The old-fashioned black-powder Winchester has been discarded and nothing but the best goes. Most of the new guns were bought during the Spanish war, when we would experiment all day with tree trunks and rough trenches, learning the art of war at home. We found that a bullet from one of the new Winchesters, driven by smokeless powder, was good for four feet and more of pine timber and for more than an inch of iron.

I thought the boys had done about everything in the shooting line that could be done long ago, but I was nistaken. I sent them up a wagon In hauling down some firewood they broke the bolsters all to splinters. The bolsters hold up the wagon bed, you know. Well, the boys figured out all right the rebuilding of the wood parts, but came near being stumped on the iron fixings. They got some old iron wagon tires and cut them in proper lengths, but had not a way they could see to punch the necessary bolt holes. Finally the question was solved. One of the oys carefully marked the place for the bolts, stood the piece of tire against a tree and put a bullet, 30calibre, through the tire at each place marked. It was a novel sort of blacksmithing, but it worked."-The Arizona Grapevine.

Soldiers on Stilts.

Improbable as it may seem, the French army has lately been making experiments with a view of testing the value of stilt walking. The result appears to be, according to the Leisure Hour, such as to render their adoption by the French army for special purposes highly probable. They are found to be serviceable not only in placing telegraph wires in very rough country, but also as a means of quickly ascertaining where a river can be safely forded by troops. The stilt man, by the aid of his lengthened legs, can measure the depth of the water with great ease and precision. A medical remedy for toothache of great repute is sodium salicylate, and Dr. Frederick C. Coley, in a recent article in The Practitioner states that he knows of no drug to e ual it, especially for those cases where the pain is started by taking cold. The pain is generally promptly relieved by a dose of 45 grains, and if this be repeated every four hours the inflammation may en-tirely subside, leaving of course a decayed tooth, which will need at tention, perhaps extraction, at the hands of the dentist. The addition of belladonna is often advantageous, and it is said that 15 grains of salicylate, with 15 minims of the tincture of belladonna, will often give the patient a good night's rest, when without it sleep would be impossible.

During Wednesday night's storm at Brieau, a good view was obtained through the glasses of a water spout which crossed the Eaut from northwest to southwest. The funnel shaped cloud—and of course no well-regulated water spout would travel except in company with a funnel-shaped cloud, at least no water spout has ever been described which had not one—whirled round and round in its course, lashing the water to foam—this smacks a little of the sea serpent,—and drawing it up in points and ridges. The spout which was followed by a cloud of smoke-like spray, passed out into the lake and disappeared from sight. Supt. Jones got a good view of the spout through his marine glasses. He took it for a sail boat at first, but when it came nearer, he found it was the genuine article. A WATER SPOUT.

She told of Gerald's coming to his father's at an early hour with Walter Herbert to fix carly hour with Walter Herbert to fix the hay track, and how the deceased consented to go to the barn to give instructions as to how the work should be done. Mary said the old man thought there was not inger, as he was not to lend a hand. Her evidence would also indicate that some person had been at Joseph Siton's house during the night, possibly to murder them if they had been there. The key was always put in the same place, the old man told her, but when they arrived between five and six she said the key was in the door. The front the key was in the door. The front door was also unlocked. Nothing in the house was disturbed: The wit-ness also related a number of conver-sations she had with the prisoner. Her evidence was considered of much value to the crown...

A FIGHT WITH COLD TYPE.

By trade I am a compositor. When a young man I emigrated to the West, and was there for ten years. While there I made the acquaintance of a noble red man, and this is a story of my most noteworthy meeting with him.

My first acquaintance with the Apache came about in the most unexpected manner, and at a time when I was wholly unprepared to receive such distinguished visitors.

It was in 1882, I had been in Las Vegas, New Mexico, about six months, working in the job room of the Daily Optic, the leading daily in the Territory. I had not accumulated much money-about the only thing I had acquired was a desire to get back to civilization, and the ambition to become a proprietor of a newspaper. It happened about that time that a big excitement broke out over the discovery of gold at Kingston, near Lake Valley. Then "Russ" Kistler, reporter for the Optic, came to me, and said:

"There is a fine opening for a paper down at Kingston. Why can't we go down there and start one? It won't cost much, and will be a paying invest-

I told him I was willing, if I could see any way to get a press and material to work with.

"That is easy enough," he answered. "There is an old 'Champion' press in this office, which they offer to sell to us cheap on the installment plan, and, if you are willing, we'll go in together, and give the thing a trial."

I readily accepted his offer, and hasty preparations were made to move our traps to the new El Dorado. We took the evening train and went to Nutt Station, three hundred and fifty miles from Las Vegas. From there we had to make our journey by wagon, a distance of forty miles. We hired a wagon and horses at Nutt Station, and, loading in our press and other materials, we set out for the new town with light hearts and bright expectations.

We soon fell in with half a dozen other wagons on their way to the new mines, and though there had been some trouble with the Indians in that ricinity a short time before, we thought that our number would ward off any attack, but in this we were mistaken. I had never met any of the ore, but it was a wild, picturesque place they selected for our first meeting-far from the influences of civilization and the United States

We had camped on a little knoll, on every side of which stretched the unbroken monotony of the sage brush and the dark Mexican thistle.

It was a grand sight that met our gaze that morning. But there was one thing that marred its loveliness and sent a gloom over the party. In the background, coming slowly toward our camp, was a gang of Apache Indians. This went a great way toward destroying the beauty of the wild, picturesque scene. The Optic reporter, who had brought along an opera-glass, climbed upon a wagon and surveyed the advancing host. Then he climbed down from the wagon and commenced to put a bridle on our fleetest horse. "Boys," he said, with the air of one who had come to a foregone conclusion, "I am a man of few words. Those Indians may be friendly or they may not be. If they are friendly, I'll see you back at the station, and if not, I'll get the details of the butchery in the daily papers." Then he mounted the animal, and was in the act of riding away when another gang of Apaches were discovered coming from the opposite direc-tion from the first. This gave matters another aspect to the man on the horse, and he turned about and dismounted. I could see that he was disappointed about sometning, though he said nothing. I thought it strange at the time that two separate gangs of Apaches should happen to meet at that particular spot, but my acquaintance with them since has given me reasons to believe that the meeting was not altogether accidental on their part. We had a hurried consultation to decide whether we should meet them as "friendly" or

'hostile" Indians. The Optic man remarked that if he had his way about it, he would rather not meet them at all, but as we could not avoid it, he was in favor of showing fight from the first. The two lines of approaching Indians halted just out of rifle range, and a solitary warrior rode out from one of their lines and came in the direction

I replied: "Glad to see you, Mr. o: have read of you in the papers. Hope you are well."

"Me want heap to eat," he exclaimed.

"All right," I answered. "Just come up to our camp-we'll have breakfast ready presently."

As I turned and looked in the direction of our camp I saw that the other line of Apaches had sneaked up to our wagons while our attention had been fixed on the chief. Indians are very cunning. He signified to his warriors to follow, and we were all soon back at

There were about ninety of them. and they all stayed to breakfast, and consumed enough to have done our party for two months. Then the chief wiped his mouth, and said:

"Want um horses." We told him that we needed our horses, and did not intend to give them

"Kill um, then!" he exclaimed, drawing a long knife and flourishing it in the air, and his actions were followed by the other eighty-nine war-

We didn't want to be killed-that is, the majority of us didn't-and we told him to take the horses along. I had become very much attached to our horses, but I was also very much attached to my scalp-that. is, it was very much attached to me-and I knew it was of "no value if detached," so I kept silent. After they had helped themselves to our horses, the chief approached me, and said:

"Gimme um watch." I gave him my watch without further parley. I didn't want to hear those words "kill um" again, if I could

He next asked for my coat and a pair of red braces I had on-in fact, he asked for everything he saw with a child-like confidence that was touching to behold. It was very fortunate he met us when he did, for he seemed to be out of everything that was necessary to make life happy. After he had taken everything we had that he could carry away, he still seemed dissatisfied, and went through our boxes again smelling at the vinegar, the pepper, and the sauce bottles in a vague sort of a way.

Then he called his braves and rode away. When the Indians were a few yards away, Kistler, of the Optic, turned to us, and said:

"Are those friendly Indians?". "Yes," answered the man who had advocated a peace policy; "they are evidently friendly, and it is our duty to report their actions to the Indian

Just then, before we could prevent it, Kistler, who had grabbed a gun, sent a bullet into the ranks of the Apaches. In a moment the wildest excitement prevailed, and with a series of savage yells they whipped up their ponies till out of range, and then wheeled about and began circling around us, yelling and firing as they rode. It was fortunate for us that most of our arms and ammunition, being concealed in the hay in our wagons, had escaped being found by the Indians, or we should have been wholly at their mercy. There was nothing left for us te do but fight, now that it was commenced, and a moment later every gun and pistol belonging to our party was brought forward and put into service, and a telling fire was poured into them as they swept past us. Kistler kept perfectly cool, loading and shooting as fast as he could. Again and again the Indians charged us, and each time from our breast-works behind our wagons we poured a deadly fire into them, sending them back with one or more of their number dead on the ground. The guns in our party were doing deadly work; but presently it was announced that our supply of shot was exhausted.

Kitsler said nothing at this, but took a hatchet and broke open the box that contained our type. Then he took a handful of "long primer" and loaded his gun. His example was followed by the others, and when the Indians charged us again they were greeted by a dose of cold type which seemed to make a great impression on them. 'Again and again they charged us, and each time we distributed a shower of cold type among them. For the next

EVERY FARMER SHOULD READ THIS-

There are unprincipalled agents who will make all kinds of statements to the farmer to induce him to purchase their goods. We sold the Columbia Corn Harvester last sesson and are selling it this year again and the opposition agents have stated that we sold one last season to John Little, of Raleigh Township, and after he tried it he refused to keep it, but was compelled to do so, as we threatened to sue him if he did not settle. Rather than have a law suit he paid for it and in consequence we lost his custom. This is what the opposition is saying, now read what Mr. John Little says and after reading it the farmer can form some estimate of what to think of such disreputable methods as are being practiced by our opposition.

GEO. STEPHENS & CO., DEAR SIRS :

Replying to your enquiries about the Columbia Corn Harvester we purchased rem you, would say: We are well pleased with it and have no desire for anything better, and anything that may be said to the contrary by any agents of other Corn Harvesters we most emphatically deny. We were quite willing to settle and pay for it after it had been tried and do not nor never did regret buying it.

Yours truly,

GEO. STEPHENS & CO., DEAR SIRS :

The Columbia Corn Harvester I purchased from you last season I started in a very irregular field of corn, some being long and some short, and I experienced no difficulty whatever in handling nor placing the band in proper place. The team used in cutting did not weigh more than twenty-three hundred pounds and did the work with apparent ease, having no side draught or neck weight. I have seen other Harvesters work, but believe this to be the best in market. Yours truly, G. W. CUNDLE.

earnestly always to put by a little each week for the rainy day which invariably comes to most of us soon or late.

Many a man owes his start in life to the prudence of a saving wife. A quarter spent here and a half dollar there seems but a trifle at the time. But in the course of a few years you can scarcely realize the small fortune which they amount to—quite enough to start many a man in a little business of his own.

There were never truer words then those of the old proverb which assures us solemnly that "Wilful waste makes woful wast."

To expend money that is worked hard for is little short of a crime.

All women love beautiful surroundings; but they should never be procured from the amount which should be put aside for the rainy day.

There is nothing in this world more pitiful than to be in want in one's old age. And those who work may come to this if they do not guard wisely against it. You cannot eat your cake and have it too, the Scotch asy.

When you are young and strong and able to bring in plenty of menay from your labor, "To enjoy life and have a good time, letting the future take care of itself," is the motto of many.

"Why werry over or cross the bridge until you coine to it?" they say. This is not true philosophy. In prosperity we should do our best to guand against possible adversity."

When we are young and the lifeblood bounds hot, bold and strong through our vains, we give never a thought to old age and the sorrows and helplessness which surround it.

That is the time when every half dollar is worth two to us, and the little sum which has been put faithfully away by us week by week, month by month and year by year, without even missing it at the time, seems a godend direct from heaven. GEO. STEPHENS & CO.

To Remove Their Poles from King Street-They Will Therefore Stay There.

The lot of an alderman is anything but a pleasant one just at present. No sooner is one difficulty disposed of than another crops up and claims his attention. Following the much talked of sput trouble, come the dispute between the council and the G. N. W. Telegraph Company arising from the fact that the council was determined to have the talegraph poles taken off King street. The company objected and a special committee composed of the Mayor, Alderman Scane, Stephens and the board of works, was appointed to effect a settlement. This committee met Superintendent of Construction Smith on Wednesday, at the city Hall. Ald. Scane was not present. Mr. tee met Superintendent of Construction Smith on Wednesday, at the city good legal advice upon the subject and that if the city attempted to remove the poles by force, the courts would certainly be called upon to decide the dispute. Moreover, if the poles should be removed to Wellington street, poles 60 feet tall will be required in order that the wires may be above the trees, and it would take six weeks in which to get poles of that description allow the company to move the poles into the sidewalk on consideration that they permit some of them to be used for the electric light wires. At

In the way of attendance the I. O. O.

F. excursion to Cleveland yesterday was a great success. The boat carried per full limit of passengers. Owing to the crowd there was considering to the crowd there was considerable delay leaving the Eau, and Cleveland was not reached until three o'clock. The start back was made at o'clock. The start back was made at 6.45, and those aboard had a beautiful midnight sail. The seating accommodation was insufficient, which was a drawback and the supply of refreshments at the booths was so limited that both going and coming they were cleared out in no time. The committee in charge had a carload of chairs taken down, but these failed to meet the requirements. The members of the committee, however, did all in their power to make the trip enjoyable, and the Lake Erie trainmen and Shenango officers were most courteous and obliging to all. On the return the boat reached Rondeau about 11.30 Then there was a most exasperating was a drawback and the supply of Then there was a most exasperating delay until after one o'clock.

THE POLES WILL STAY: The board of works and the property committee met in joint session on Wednesday night to discuss the re-Mednesday night to discuss the removal of the electric light poles from King street. There are at present but two poles off this description on the street, one near Dingman's book store, and the other at the market square, and these are used to support lights. The wires are strung along square, and these are used to support lights. The wires are strung along the telephone poles. Upon consultation with Superintendent Jones this morning, it was decided just to move them into the sidewalk, as it would be quite impossible to hae the lights on the street if the poles were not there.

A STORM BOUND PARTY. A STORM BOUND PARTY.

There were several very anxious mother's at Erieau on Wednesday night when the Baden-Powell, which had taken a party of 21 gtrls between the ages of eight and eighteen, over to the government park in the afternoon. did not return on account of the terrific storm which began about seven o'clock. The Baden-Powell salied by Commodore W. R. Phillimore and E. R. Smith, arrived at the park before the storm came on, but could not get back in the face of it. So the cottagers there housed them for the night. Great anxiety prevailed on the Eau bar till the morning, when the Baden-Powell was seen beating her way back.

"The crowds, the weather and the financial returns were all that the most sanguine anticipated. We think, besides being the largest, it was the best natured and orderly crowd that ever left Chatham We would also like the public to understand that the committee were not in any way responsible for the series of vexatious delays that occurred, nor for the unfit condition in which we found the boat. The committee had requested and urged the railway to provide transportation for almost to a man the number that actually went. To assist them in this endeavor we proffered for a small consideration the use of our auditorium chairs. We were given to understand that the boat would be put in the best condition possible and that the chairs, etc., would be all on board awaiting us.

"Regarding the delay on the railway, if this was the first excursion the L. E. & D. On Account of its Appearance but all Colors Wear Equally Well.

Ald. McKeough, chairman of the place like Chatham, where the streets were clay, he said all that was necessary was good drainage and a foundation of about eight inches of sand well board of works, took a civic deputaexamine the pavements there and see how the brick compared with that being sent to Chatham. There were in the party besides the chairman, Ald. Stephens, Ald. Marshall, Ald. Mc-Coig, Water Commissioner Sheldon, City Solicitor Wilson and Engineer Shackleton. On the arrival of the delegation at Ohio's Forest City they were met by Mr. Hipp, representing the Massillon Company, and during the afternoon driven around the city on a tour of inspection. City Engineer Ogden, off Cleveland, accompanied the visitors. Pavements laid with Massillon brick filled in with both tar and cement were driven over, and pavements in course of construction on sand foundation were examined. All agreed that the cement filling was the best and made the smoothest

"What effect on the wearing qualities of the brick has the color?" Engineer Ogden was asked.

"None," he replied. "Light and dark wear equally well. My preference however, is for a light colored brick, on account of its appearance."

The committee produced three bricks from Chatham of a reddish color. They had been picked out by a man who thought they were not up to the sample

"How will these wear ?" Mr. Ogden was asked.

"Just as well as the others, There s no difference. Will I break one?" Mr. Ogden thereupon took a heavy brick from the Cleveland pile and ham-mered the two together until they both collapsed. There was apparently little difference in the staying quali-ties.

"Now," said Mr. Hipp, "I'll tell you how this difference in color comes about. Of course streaks in the color of the shale have something to do with it, but the main cause is the atmos-phere. If we burn the brick on a bright, clear day with a good draft we get light colored bricks. If the day is "Now, don't think Chatham different from any other place," said Mr. Hipp, laughing, "because there are kickers everywhere. We find them in every town when the first pavement goes down. They will come from the surrounding country to tell you what's wrong, and all kinds of people will have all kinds of complaints to make, but after you get your first block down you will never hear another whimper. You are just at one of the stages which every town has to go through. If you pay attention to all you hear it will turn your hair grey," "Mine's almost turned now," remarked Ald. McKeough dolefully.

"Mine's not," said Ald. Marshall. "Let 'em kick away."

"who wouldn't be on the board of works."

The deputation made a large number of inquiries from both Mr. Hipp and Mr. Ogden, which went to show that they need not lose any unnecessary sleep over the brick question.

Speaking about brick pavements to The Planet, Engineer Ogden said that for residential streets, where the traffic was not too heavy he could strongly recommend vitrified brick on sand. This would effect a saving over concrete of from five to seven cents a square fgot, and if properly laid would last for many years. For a place like Chatham, where the streets

WOMEN VOTERS IN THE YEAR 1914.

By Mrs. Rux ell Sage.

If I read the signs aright, the women of New York State, at least, will cast a ballot on Election Day in the year

I specify that year in particular, because that is the year of the next Constitutional Convent on. Amendments to our Constitution can be made only once in twenty year; and the last convention was held in 1894.

MRS. RUSSELL SAGE.

In fourteen years from now I firmly believe that the suffrage movement will have advanced to the point where the accessary amendment to the Constitution, urged by a monster petition of women who own property, will be passed by the legislative bodies of this State. And when once the women of the Empire State go to the polls, the women of all the States of the Union will be given the same right. These prophesies, of course, are rendered subject to "reasonable doubt," and to possible changes in public sentiment.

I need not now spell out the signs, nor translate them. They can be read between the letters of the significant word Progress.

word Progress.

But if a doubt exists in the minds of some people that the woman suffrage mevement which flowed like a tidal wave over the country in 1894, has subwave over the country in 1894, has subsided so much as to be harmless, I can only say to people of such belief—wait until 1914. The question lies at present in silence, I grant, but it is a silence that is portentous. This is the period of preparation, the period of thought upon which action is sure to follow.

Meanwhile it seems too bad that women who own real estate and pay taxes are not allowed to cast a ballot. Why, the men of this country themselves went to war because of taxation without representation. The women of New York State alone pay taxes on $1,000,006,000 worth of real estate, yet they are not allowed a voice in the practical government of the State to which they contribute so much revenue.

I will not now rehearse all the good things that will result from woman suffrage, but among others, I cite that of the reclaiming of national and municipal buildings and thoroughfares from the present uncleanliness. This unof the recialining and thoroughfares from the present uncleanliness. This uncleanliness the number of the present uncleanliness the house-keepers are men, at present. But in the nation and the municipality, as in the home, the house-keeper should be the woman. Therefore, I foresee that when women vote there will be a national house-cleaning such as no nation ever saw. Once armed with the ballot, then the mop, the broom and the bucket will be decidedly more in evidence in the places in which they are most needed.

To-day is not too soon to invite the attention of every American woman to

To-day is not too soon to invite the attention of every American woman to the fact that every possible recruit should be enlisted in the appealing army of 1914. It is not too soon to begin work. The fact that there are still fourteen years in which to enlist the interests of all American women in this question does not make the present moment less important. On the other hand, if every moment is counted as precious and the women at once begin working hard for the end in view, the left that there is plenty of time in which to war assures success.

Meanwhile, I cannot say that I believe in the somewhat sensational methods of some of the professional women suffragists. These do the cause more harm than good.

In this movement women do not need a leader. Let each woman taken for believelf and consider the question well

In this movement women do not need a leader. Let each woman think for herself and consider the question well before she ignores the great petition to which, in a comparatively few years, she will be asked to add her signature.

JUSTICE ON A RACECOURSE.

The race meeting at Ascot is the only one in England and the world where a police court is held. Justice is frequently assailed as tardy, and sarcastic remarks made about the length of her arm, which prevents speedy recompense to ill-doers being meted out. At Ascot such reflections cannot be made. A pickpocket, say, is caught by the police pursuing his nefarious trade at Ascot during the races. He is promptly escorted to a little room on the drive leading to the Royal stand. There sits Sir John Bridge, from Bow Street, supported by a J.P. of the county of Berkshire—provided no race is being ridden. The charge is stated, the policeman gives evidence of arrest, witnesses are called. "Three months," laconically says Sir John. The prisoner is removed, and the magistrates hurry out to see the next race.

How is it that Bow Street's magistrate is thus able to combine duty with the service? The custom dates back to JUSTICE ON A RACECOURSE.

How is it that Bow Street's magistrate is thus able to combine duty with pleasure? The custom dates back to the end of the last or the beginning of this century. A member of the Royal family was assulted and robbed at the race meeting. His assailant was arsested, but Royal anger fretted against the day's delay in punishing him. He ordered, to provide for a similar contingency in the future, that a magistrate should always be in attendance at Royal Ascot. This was done, and when the Indictable Offences Act was passed in 1843 the custom begame law, a large being inserted that the chief migistrate of Bow Street should be enrolled as a J.P. for Berkshire to enable him to sit in an occasional court dursing Ascot races.

THE GIRL'S CORSET,

By Harriet Hubbard Ayer.

When a girl gets to be fourteen years of age she has sufficiently developed in most cases to require some sort of sup-most cases to require some sort of support or stay.

I mean a stay, not a stiffly boned corset, to be drawn in at walst and hips and bust after the common idea of corset wearing.

But a flexible, elastic girdle that will yield to the young form and will support the tender breasts and relieve the walst and thighs from the painful and harmful dragging and pulling of skirt bands and strings.

A stiff, hard-boned corset is an abomination for a woman or girl at any age.

abomination for a woman or girl at any age.

But my little fat friends should certainly be permitted to wear either a very well-fitting corset waist or, better still, in my opinion, one of the low girdle-like French corsets, supple and pliable, which leave the bust and hips quite free and unrestrained and are drawn in ever so slightly at the waist. Corsets of the so-called American cut are too often much longer at top and bottom than they should be.

A corset that comes up above the bust and reaches far down on the hips cannot be comfortable, and no human being can possibly look other than being can possibly look other than stiff and ungraceful in such cramped guarters. But the little French girdle, with searcely any bones, soft and light as possible, will work a marvellous improvement in a clumsy girl's figure, and will, far from proving detrimental, be found healthful in giving a needed support and often will correct the tensupport and often will correct the ten-dency to double up or telescope, which the stayless girl exhibits particularly if she is of the meal-bag type. So my honest opinion is, my dear lit-tle girl friends, that you should be per-mitted to wear an innocent little soft quasi-boneless corset that meets ly about your waist without lacing.

STRANGEST OF LAKES

Three Thousand Feet of Water n a Long and Narrow Mountain Chasm. The result of a survey of Lake Chel-

an in the northern part of the State of Washington has been given by Gen. Merriam, commander of this department. He says in his report: "The cliffs on each side of the lake were most percipitous, towering up in many places to a height of 1,500 or 2,-000 feet. But it is the lake itself that is the greatest marvel. Its waters are clear and blue, and by actual soundings have been found to be of an average depth of 3,000 feet. This seems almost incredible, but it is the truth. The width of the lake varies from a mile and a half to two miles, but the length is the most remarkable of all. "When I pointed up toward what appeared to be the head of the lake and asked the Indians if the lake was not about three miles long, they laughed and shook their heads. They said it was a three-days' journey for a fouroared canoe. I determined to see for myself, so the next morning my engineer and I and two Indians started up the lake in the largest canoe the natives possessed. "It was impossible to go on the lake shore as in most places the mountains ran sheer down to the water's edge. We rowed along until we came to the northern confine of the lake and there we found that it made a big bend to the right and stretched on and on. The next day we started out again, and on the third day at nightfall, just as the Indians had said, we reached the head of the lake On the return trip we measured the distance and found the length to be a fraction over sixty-five

"This curiously narrow and deep body of water was cut right down through the mountains by the glaciers of bygone ages. At the foots f, the take is a great moraine."

> Wild Animals I Have Known. THE LION.

I've met this beast in drawing rooms Mong ladies gay with silks and plumes He looks quite bored, and silly, too, When he's held up to social view. I think I like him better when, Alone, I brave him in his den. THE BEAR.

I never seek the surly Bear, But if I meet him in his lair say: "Good day, sir; sir, good day," And then make haste to get away. It is no pleasure, I declare, To meet the cross, ill-natured Bear. THE PIG.

This animal I've seen on view In dining rooms and street cars, too He wants the most, he wants the best He makes himself a perfect pest And (though I think it to their shame) Many give him a grosser name. THE GOOSE.

I know it would be of no use To say I'd never met a Goose. There are so many all around, With idle look and clacking sound; And sometimes it has come to pass I've seen one in my looking glass. THE DUCK.

This merry one, with laughing eyes, Not too sedate nor overwise, Is best of comrades, frank and free, A clever hand at making tea; A fearless nature, full of pluck, I like her well-she is a Duck. THE CAT.

The Cat's a nasty little beast; She's seen at many a fete and feast She's spiteful, sly and double-faced, Exceeding prim, exceeding chaste, And while a soft, sleek smile she wear Her neighbor's reputation tears. THE PUPPY.

Of all the animals I've met The Puppy is the worst as yet. Clumsy and crude, he hasn't brains Enough to come in when it rains. But with insufferable conceit He thinks that he is just too sweet! THE KID.

Kid are the funniest things I know; Nothing they do but eat and grow. They be tesome, and it is said They can cans and it is said
They ear cans and are not dead
Nm not astonished at that feat.

John McCorvie, chairman of the committee on the installation of a fire alarm system in the schools, reported as follows: We are unanimously of the opinion that an electric fire alarm system properly worked would lessen materially the dunger of accidents to the pupils in emptying the schools in case of an alarm of fire occurring during the school hours. Owing to the unusually heavy rate that was requirto be struck by the city council to meet the necessary expenses of the city, we would recommend that the installing of such a system be postponed until would recommend that the installing of such a system be postponed until next year. We would emphasize strongly that the board impress on the principals of the two schools the necessity of adopting (if they have not done so already) some system of fire drill, so that they may, in case of fire, get the pupils out as quickly and orderly as possible. Report adopted.

A NEW PRINCIPAL Chairman Wilson said that the board had now come to the question of settling the principalship of the Central school. Through the action of the department, the Central school had been deprived of its principal. (Whatever the board intended to do, they had to dreat once, as according to the School the board intended to do, they had to do at once, as, according to the School Act, the principal of the Model school must also be principal of the school. Two courses were now open to the board. They could appoint a principal and let matters be as they were before, or the board could adopt the plan in use in St. Thomas, and appoint to Aylmer on civic holiday and succeeded in defeating the Aylmer team by the score of 103 to 66. The batting of W. B. Wells and Dr. Tye was the feature of the game. The former made 21 runs and the lattere 28. plan in use in St. Thomas, and appoint an assistant city inspector, who would have the principalship of both schools. It would probably be best, however, not to make any change until the end of the year. It was now so near the opening of school that it would be the opening of school that it would be hard to get many applications and all the good men would now be engaged. Therefore Mr. Wilson, thought that a principal of the Central school should be appointed protem.

Dr. McKeough said that he agreed with the remarks of Mr. Wilson espewith the remarks of Mr. Walson especially as regarded hiring a principal until the end of the year. There was one applicant, however, known to the majority of the board, Mr. Plewes, of Wallaceburg. He was a good man and his record showed success. HARWICH LADY HONORED

Miss Rose Morrison Presented with an Opal Ring and Pis on her Departure from McKsy's Corners.

On Monday evening a number of young Harwich friends gathered at Dr. McRitchie's to surprise Miss Rose Morrison. Miss Pearl McKay read the following address, while Miss Priscilla Parsons presented her with an opal ring and pin. After spending a very pleasant evening in games by moonlight and music, they dispersed with the singing of "Soldiers of the Queen."

THE ADDRESS "We are assembled here this evening to show our esteem to one who has endeared herself to us by her bright manner, and her willingness to help in all work in connection with the church. Her presence has always with the church. Her presence has always been a source of pleasure to us, and we wish to show our gratitude to Miss Rose Morrison, who has so long and ably filled the position of organist without a murmur of discontent. Her absence has been rare, and we wish to reward her faithfulness, and show our appreciation of such, by asking her to accept this small token of our regard. "It is unnecessary to add that she will be sorely missed from among us, but we hope to still retain her part of the time; should it not be so, her name will always linger pleasantly with us.

"We all join in wishing Miss Morrison every possible success."

There is war to the knife between Leamington and Essex as far as baseball is concerned. A few weeks ago our boys went up expecting to play a friendly game with the Essex boys, but were confronted with a team composed chiefly of Detroit players, and Leamington was defeated by a score of 6 to 5. Last Wednesday the return game was played here and as the Essex team was disappointed in getting their Detroit contingent they were defeated by the score of 48 to 8. The third and deciding game was played yesterday, the Essex team having a battery and whole infield from Detroit. So sure were the Essexites of winning that they spent all their loose change in supplying themselves with tin horns, tin pans and everything that would make the field hideous. The Leamington boys, however, put up a grand game and defeated the Essex-Detroit combination by the score of 6 to 5. The whole of Essex turned out to see the Leamington club wiped out, and a more disgusted crowd was never seen. They have put away their horns for use when they play with the Gesto or New Canaan clubs.
