The Christian's Strength.

There is a supply of strength somewhere in reserve for the Christian. There is strength available for him when his need comes-strength which he may have. " As thy days, so shall thy strength be," is the language of One who knows where a store of strength lies, and who sees a way of communication between it and the person he

Ask, then, where the Christian's promised strength lies, where that reserve of strength is which is to come in his future days and carry him to Heaven ; I answer-just where his wisdom, just where his holiness, jast where all the sprngs of his spiritual lie-far God. In God is boundless, everlasting strength; and that is the strength, every page of Scripture tells me, I am to draw on.

and hope in, and look on as mine. It has been placed at the disposal of Christ my Saviour, that it may be mine. This promise does not mean that my own strength shall be kept up, never fail me, hold out to the of strength in store for me, that my strength shall be continually renewed; : nd this be-outen the Tord birty renewed is a dust strength of the city, and picks up little bits of rags cause the Lord himself is become any But these are wabsed and made over and strength, and my sufficiency is of him. There is a communication between the living God on his throne and me in my struggles and sorrows here ; a communication opened by my Saviour on his cross, and kept up by his intercession and his Spirit ; and that communication, that outposting of the Godhead into my heart, makes God " the ever strength of my hears and my portion for-

The strength in reserve for the Christian is sbundantly sufficient for him. He not only may have strength, and shall have it, but he shall have enough of it, enough to will turn them into corpses, and by Christ meet his utmost necessities-strength cqual to his day, be his day what it may. "As when he comes to when a Savionr, if you child! If you love that Savionr, if you thy day, so shall thy strength be"-there shall be a correspondence and proportions between them. Thou shalt have at all times the kind of strength thou requirest, and thou shalt bave as much of it as thou needest .---Rev. C. Bradley.

THE first premium over all other competitors at the Fair of the Massnelusetic Charitable Mechanics' Asso-ciation, of the National Fair, Washington, D. C., also at the Ubio State Fair, held at Columbus, U., was awarded to the Manufacturers.

by means of a new method of Voicing, known only t by means of a new metacol of volcing, known only to themselves, they have succeeded in removing the harsh and buzzing sound which formerly characterized the instrument, and readering the tones fail, cient, and organ-like. The action is prompt and reliable, emabling the performer to ex-ofthe the most rapid music without bur-ing the tones. The swell is arranged to give great ex-cember.

The Pedal Bass (Harmoniums

are designed particularly for Chartmoniations to be a set of the owest eet running an extra higher than the other, and may be used separately, shat thus get in one case two distinct instruments; or by the use of the couplet, two banks may be played at the same time by the use of the front set only. This connection with the Pedal Base will produce the effect of a large organ, and sufficiently heavy to fill a house that seats from 1,000 to 1,500 persons.

The Organ Melodeon

Is designed for parloar and private use. The constru-tion is similar to the Church Instrument, being arrange with two banks of keys, and when used together, by mea of the coupler, is capable of as great power as the churc metrument, when used without the Pedals.

Also, every variety of Melodeons for Parlour use.
