Had a Stroke of Paralysis

And Found a Cure in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is always better to prevent serious diseases of the nerves. There are many warnings, such as sleeplessness, irritability, headaches and nervous indigestion.

Prevention, paralysis and locomotor ataxia only come when the nervous system is greatly exhausted. Even though your ailment may not yet be very serious, there is a great satisfaction in knowing that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will cure paralysis in its earlier stages.

Mr. T. Stewart, 215 Booth Avenue, New York, writes:

"I had a stroke which left me in a weak, nervous condition. He started taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and we saw the good results almost immediately. They have made a new man of my husband and we cannot speak too highly of them."

They Wait for You.

Look not, O friend, with unavailing tears, into the future, all there is in wait.

All that you fought for by the broken gate. The faith that filtered and the fire that fell: The song that died into a hush and knell.

It is all there—the love that went astray, With bitter cries on that remembered day.

The joys that were so needed by the best, And all the tender dreams will fade and rest, Nothing is lost forever that the soul Cried out for all is waiting at the goal.

One Thing Needed.

With few outward signs of stress or strain Canada is passing through a period of depletion and financial reconstruction. The real situation is, however, far from so gloomy as it appears, nor will there be, but many people have been forced to wait warily who have for years floated on the crest of the tide of fortune and almost forgotten the shoals beneath, which become dangerous at ebb-tide.

Over-speculation is the chief evil from which the country is suffering. So large a proportion of the people have been making easy money by selling things bought not for use but for a speculative profit that we have not debited anything like sufficient time and business talents, and capital to meet the needs of the future. And now, having gutted the market for urban lots and floated all sorts of franchise holding propositions, and "acquired" all the natural opportunities in the form of water powers, and timber lands and mining claims that prodigal public administrators let slip out of their hands, it is time for us as a nation to get to work.

The things to be done are so many that they may not be enumerated here. One thing is certain—we must produce far more farm products than we do. In a country of such illimitable area as Canada, with empty grazing land everywhere, it is nothing short of a national disgrace that we no longer make butter enough for our own needs, and that our exports of provisions as a whole are steadily declining. Whatever be the cause of the decline of the rural population—economic or social, the tariff or the lights and glare of city life—it is the most urgent duty of all men in places of power to make rural life compellingly attractive to the Canadian people so that Canada shall be not only one of the world's chief producers of cereals, but also of provisions and fruit.

An English tourist was sightseeing in Ireland, and the guide had pointed out the Devil's Gap, the Devil's Peak and the Devil's Leap to him. "Pat," he said (all English tourists call Irish peasants "Pat"), "just as they call little boys 'Tommy,'" the devil seems to have a great deal of property in this district!" "He has, sir," replied the guide, "but, sure, he's like all the landlords—he lives in England!"

Tramp—"You know the sayin', 'He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord.'"

Mrs. Subbubs—Very true. And since you speak of proverbs I'll refer you to another old saw.

Tramp—"Which one is that, mum?"

"The one back in the woodshed."

Canada's Borrowing.

A London Economist publishes a compilation of borrowings in the first six months of 1913, as compared with the same half of 1912: A flatter contradiction of legends about the declining population of Canadian issues than it contains would be hard to present. In the first six months of 1913 Lombard Street advanced more credit to Canadian borrowers than to those in any other country on the globe, not excluding even the Motherland itself. Issues for British loan purposes amounted to $101,621,000 while Canadian issues reached a total of $102,187,000. Canadian securities absorbed nearly one half the capital distributed in this way within the Empire. Had money conditions been easier, and the London market less choked with undigested securities, the excess of Canadian borrowings this year over those in 1912 would have been much more than the $50,000,000 mentioned. But the extent to which in the midst of most unusual stringency and demands for capital Canada has been favored over other prosperous, progressive countries is no small tribute to British faith in the Dominion.

I was rather disappointed in that gentleman you introduced to me last night.

He—Indeed? How so?

She—Why, you spoke of him as a bridge expert, and he turned out to be nothing but a famous engineer.

Ted—"Cheer up, old man! Absence, you know, makes the heart grow fonder."

Net—"What's worrying me is that I'm not just sure that it's having the same effect on the girl."

System in Feeding.

A lot of farmers make money raising good crops of grain and hay, but lose a considerable part of it through lack of system in feeding these crops to their stock, writes H. T. Morgan in the "American Field." This lack of system in feeding is one of the principal causes of loss in live stock production. While agriculture is the most desirable of human occupations, it is one which requires a high order of intelligence to fill with credit. The successful breeder of pure stock represents the highest accomplishment in the science of agriculture.

Not every farmer who is able to procure maximum yields from his land, and who at the same time, through a proper system of crop rotation, is building up the productivity of his farm, is qualified to attain the same degree of success in breeding and feeding farm animals. The feeding problems on the farm are constantly changing. No hard and fast rules can be laid down. The season, the physical condition of the animal, and the kinds of food available all enter into the problems which the stockman must solve, and his success will be measured by his skill in meeting these questions as they arise. In no line of work does attention to details make for greater profit than in the feeding of farm animals.

Upon the feed and feeding depends their health, strength and efficiency. It is only by systematic feeding that one can determine what rations are best suited to the requirements of the individual animal.

Systematic feeding will invariably show a large saving in the amount of food required by an animal. This fact has been demonstrated by thousands of experiments in our experimental stations and upon thousands of systematic farms. There is positive danger in feeding stock before watering, and yet the majority of stock raisers seldom give the animal water before feeding.

This is particularly true where stock is in winter quarters before the morning feed, and in the case of work horses throughout the entire year. A great many men who practice regular hours in feeding their stock are entirely negligent as to the matter of watering.

To allow an animal a full feed of roughage and then perhaps have access to salt before watering is to invite serious loss.

In cold weather, unless the water is of a reasonable temperature, animals are likely to refuse water early in the day. This is not because they do not want it, but because they dread to take it into the system at such a low temperature.

The result is that later in the day, after having eaten a large quantity of food, they drink much more than they should. A considerable amount of food is lost by being washed from the stomach before digestion takes place when an animal is allowed to drink an abnormal amount of water after feeding. All of the above practices are objectionable at any season of the year, but are far more detrimental to stock during the winter months, when the excessive quantity of water taken into the animals' bodies is very cold, which case digestion is sometimes suddenly and entirely checked, with the dire results that follow.

Canada's Creed.

We believe in our country—the Dominion of Canada. We believe in our King, our Flag, our Constitution, our Laws, our Institutions and the principles for which they stand. We believe in our future—we believe in our vast natural resources from the Atlantic to the Pacific, our great possibilities—yes, our wonderful certainties.

We believe in the Canadian people in their honesty, integrity, reliability, genius, in their brain and brawn. We believe that nothing can stand in the way of our advancement and prosperity.

The great thing to remember is that we are all Canadians—in our veins runs the blood of many an old and new world nation. We are kin to each and identical with one only. We should keep ever before our eyes the fact that we are Canadian people with high ideal standards. Let us be true to ourselves, and then we cannot be false to any man.

We who live in Canada should be proud of the fact and live so that Canada will be proud of us.

Canada's Parcel Post.

The present Postmaster General, Hon. H. Pelletier, has shown himself to be both energetic and progressive in the administration of his important department; and among his forward steps, he is now engaged in the exceedingly important work of organizing a new Parcel Post System for Canada. The previous Postmaster General talked about a new Parcel Post System, but all he did was talk; and if Mr. Pelletier could have been frightened by threats of opposition he would not have attempted to pass the requisite legislation in the last days of the session to which the measure had been forced by months of obstruction on other matters. But he was determined it possible to get to work on the new organization and thus the legislation was passed.

Mary: "No, sir; it wasn't him 'twas the milkman!"

"So you are engaged to Tom?"

"Yes."

"My dear, I congratulate you. Tom is the nicest fellow I ever had."

Financial Situation.

Perhaps the present financial situation in the West is best and most accurately summed up by the New York Journal of Commerce as follows:

"The Dominion has an area of 3,743,000 square miles and comprises one-ninth of the land surface of the globe. With a territory as large as Europe, Canada has a population of only 7,750,000. Her net public debt is within $150,000,000, or only $45 per head of her population, while her annual income from agriculture, mining, forest products, fisheries and manufacturing is close upon $1,000,000,000 or about $200 per head of the population. Deducting $150,000,000 a year as the payment for which Canada is liable in respect of her indebtedness to interest to British and foreign creditors, and there still remains a net income of $850,000,000, or $174 per head. Assuming the national wealth of Canada to be eight times the amount of her net income, and we have the impressive total of $10,850,000,000 or $1,400 per head of the population. Canada, has moreover, a comfortable surplus of revenue over expenditure in her annual budget and her burden of taxation is relatively light. For a country so fortunately situated the bursting of an inflated real estate bubble can only be a temporary disaster and one that can hardly fail to carry with it a valuable lesson."

After some further detailed analysis of the situation, this recognized financial authority argues "that Canada has a solid basis of prosperity and a sure hope for the future after the town-plot bubble has burst and the fever of speculation has been stayed beyond question."

Remarkable Cure of Dysentery.

I was attacked with dysentery about July 15th, and used the doctor's medicine and other remedies with no relief, only getting worse all the time. I was unable to do anything and my weight dropped from 145 to 125 pounds. I suffered for about two months when I was advised to use Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I used two bottles of it and have my permanent relief, writes H. W. Hill of Snow Hill, N. C. For sale by all dealers.

The Present Hell.

There is a great deal of flippant talk about the abolition of hell. It seems to be the impression of many people that the possibility of suffering, symbolized by a material place of torment, has been eliminated from human life. As a matter of fact, hell, in the sense of inevitable and unmitigable punishment, is no day far more of a reality than it ever has been before. Whatever may be the sufferings through which men must go in the future in order to be purged of impurity, there is no question about the sufferings they undergo in this present life. The answer of the man who was asked if he believed in hell, "I do not believe in it; I know it because I am in it," is a terse statement of what may be called the modern view of punishment for sin. It is not a punishment which is relegated to the future; it begins the moment the sin is committed. It is not a punishment which is local and exterior; it is a punishment that is wrought out in a man's nature. It is a thousandfold more than the conception of hell as a place of external torment; for the hell of today gets its more tragic aspect from the fact that the men who are in it are often unconscious they are in a place of torment. It is unexpectably pathetic to see a human being go down the hill of life physically from higher to lower levels, becoming less and less pure and more and more a slave; but the most terrible tragedy lies in the fact that the victim is often unconscious of the increasing degree of his degradation. It is the declining of moral sensibility, the blinding of the moral sight, the decay of the moral faculties, the dullness of vision, that constitute the real moral tragedy of living men and women voluntarily submitting without struggle to temptation; gradually and often unconsciously, losing the power of seeing the difference between health and disease. They cut themselves off from the spiritual world, and are made skeptical by their blindness of vision. They cannot see the mountains nor the stars which to people who have not injured their power of sight are always visible. They are like men and women in a great library who have misused their opportunities, multiplied the books, broken the rules, and because the doors are not locked against them, think they have escaped punishment; while, as a matter of fact there has come upon them day by day the awful tragedy of blindness, and sitting in the midst of the treasures of the world, they are losing their power of seeing them.

The most terrible aspect of the modern conception of hell, is that a man creates it for himself; it is a consequence of his own life. In "Man and Superman" Sartre suggests to a woman, who to her great surprise has found herself in hell, that she ought to go to heaven for a while so that she might find out how uncomfortable she would be; and in response to her question whether she would be allowed to make the experiment, she is informed that the people stay in hell because it is the one place in which they find themselves at home.

People go to hell not because they are sent there by divine decree, but because they belong there. They go as certainly as the harvest follows the sowing, by a law written in their natures. They can no more escape hell if they invite it than they can escape the succession of the seasons. There is nothing arbitrary or abnormal about it. God does not send men to places of torment, they go of their own volition. He does not impose upon them by the use of arbitrary power; they elect to go, and they leave hell behind simply because they have thrown down hope. It makes very little difference what the theological conception of hell is, it remains and always will remain an appalling fact in the experience of humanity. It does not lie beyond the visible boundaries of the world; it does not wait to open its doors until death comes; the world is full of people who are already in hell whether they know it or not. And they are there because they have chosen to go. The pages of the newspapers furnish indisputable evidence that hell is a reality in this life, whatever it may be in the next stage of life, and that foul souls are going about in darkness in the every day world.

So long as the human spirit gives heed to evil there is no place for it but hell. To such a one heaven would be just as much a place of torment as hell while to a good man hell is in any world would be a mere name. It has no more personal relation to him than the police courts have to the man who never breaks the law. Hell is a torment which comes to us because we invite it, as most things come to us; not suddenly nor tragically but gradually and slowly as the ripening of our own thoughts and deeds.—The Outlook, New York.

THE ACADIAN.

WOLFVILLE, N. S., AUG. 8, 1913.

Editorial Notes.

The Farmer's Advocate makes a good point when it says, "Our rural public school educates a boy expressly for the pursuits of the town, and then we wonder why he goes there."

Premier Borden returned to Ottawa last week, and according to our private information he is enjoying the best of health. The Liberal papers have been telling their readers for several weeks that the premier was almost a wreck physically. It seems necessary to discount very largely all the political stories that appear in the liberal press these days.

In the province of Ontario the sentiment in favor of prison farms rather than jails is steadily growing. On Tuesday of last week delegates from six counties waited on the government to urge the abolition of the ordinary local jails and the establishment of district prisons after the model of the Toronto prison farm. Hon. Mr. Hanna proposed to give the matter consideration.

There are two little words, simple enough in themselves, that introduce untold trouble in the world and are responsible for more gossip, scandal and harm than any two words in the English language. These two words are nothing more than, "They say." They have done more to ruin reputations than all other things. If you never quote what "They say" you may be quite certain you are not a gossip.

It seems to us a law should be passed in making a standard automobile horn. One hears almost every kind of noise now from "work horn" to the piercing siren or percho, so that a person passing by or crossing at a street corner does not know whether the noise hidden from him around the corner is an auto horn or a small child tooting away for dear life. Some of these mechanisms on automobiles called horns produce enough noise and discord to really scare a person when one hears it coming up the street.

Running a newspaper is just like running a hotel, only different. When a man goes into a hotel and finds something on the table which does not suit him, he does not raise his hand with the landlord and tell him to stop his old hotel. Well, hardly! He sets that dish to one side and wades into the many dishes that suit him. It is different with some newspaper readers. They find an article occasionally that does not suit them exactly and without stopping to think it may please hundreds of other readers, make a grand stand play and tell the editor how a paper should be run and what should be put into it. But such people are becoming fewer every year.

It is not likely that many people will leave the Maritime Provinces this year for the harvest fields of the West. Owing to the scarcity of money, and the consequent lack of building operations and other works in Western Canada, there is already a great number of idle men in the prairie cities who are waiting for an opportunity of securing employment of any kind. The Calgary News-Telegram says that unless some provision is made for assisting the unemployed of the cities in finding work in the farming communities there will be great suffering during the winter months. The boards of trade in many of the Western cities have co-operated with the city councils in urging a general exodus of laborers to the wheat fields.

The Minister of Militia is going to enforce sobriety in the permanent force. Those who shouted for "free speech" will likely find fault with this latest restriction also, but Col. Sam. Hughes has become known as the soldiers' minister. He is the friend of the militiaman irrespective of politics, and in abolishing the canteen he has shown himself to be the best kind of a friend. He has brought order into a department where before there was chaos and the country has confidence in his administration because he has the courage of his convictions. The Liberal party says that too much money is being spent on the militia but the present Minister has shown that every cent is for the good of the Department which he has brought in the space of two years to a high state of efficiency.

The Toronto Globe indulges in the following sneer: Every forty-five days during the next eighteen months a new Superdreadnought will be added to the British navy. Is not that fast enough to end Mr. Borden's emergency? This exultation on the part of the Liberal press, that an added burden has been placed upon the backs of the British people, comes badly at the present time. The British people have always treated Canada generously in the way of investment. During the first six months of the present year, Canada got new money on the London market to the extent of over $20,000,000. Could there be better proof of the financial advantage of membership to put it even at its lowest ebb, in the British Empire? It is a grand thing for a new country like Canada to have close relations sentimentally with the greatest nation in the world—the British nation.

Miss Elaine Clavering, pupil of Victor Beigel, London, teacher of singing and breathing, has been added to the staff of Mr. Allison Combs, Conservatory of Music, Miss Clavering, in addition to her excellent training in the best academies and from the well known Victor Beigel, has had with satisfaction, he filled the post of instructor in Victor Beigel's own studio. Dr. Huntington Pegler, London, has great pleasure in giving reference in every way satisfactory on behalf of Miss Clavering whom he has known for a number of years and holds in very high esteem. This appointment fills the last vacant post, and places the Conservatory in splendid position for the work of the year.

Something New in Schools.

In casting about for some solution of the problem how to educate country children, the Bureau of Education, at Washington, has selected the rural school at Rock Hill, S. C., for its pattern. After a two-year trial this school without books, classes grades, examinations or punishments, where children not only whisper, but talk out aloud, where play has driven out work, may be called an experiment successful enough to be applied throughout the farming districts of North, South, East and West. The Rock Hill rural school was conceived with the idea of so fitting the boys and girls for their life work on the farm that they would do it well and enjoy it. Although the expense allowance—$650 a year—was not large, yet the choice of a teacher was fortunate, and on the teacher's ability, of course, rests a great deal of any school's chance for success.

The situation faced by this teacher at Rock Hill was tersely this:—There never was before in the whole world such a thing as a school. You have the first school. You have the pupils. Let them learn. Grown-ups who recall troubles of their school days brought on by whispering and other trifling offenses of the children will marvel at the seeming lack of discipline in a schoolroom when the teacher only smiles when the boys whistle or the girls play with their dolls.

The Exhibition in a Month.

The great exhibition at Halifax is now coming within measurable distance, opening as it does on September 3rd. The approach of the exhibition marks the advance of the summer season, with its pleasant outdoor life, and there may be a feeling of regret that the days are shortening, but it recalls the fact that the people of Nova Scotia should be actively arranging for their great annual visit to Halifax and the Provincial Fair from September 3rd to September 11th.

The exhibition will be well worth a visit, more so than ever, and the city by the sea should be seen in these early September days when in many respects it is at its best. The entries in all classes, horse races and departments of the prize list, close on August 16th. Intending exhibitors should bear this date in mind.

The great amusement feature, the sensational event, will be the aeroplane flights which there will be one daily. The machine used will be much larger, more strongly built, and more heavily engine than that used last year. It will also carry two men, that of the previous exhibition accommodated but one.

Stars of Boston Opera Co.

IN ADDITION to bringing new operas our annual policy in the future will be to bring new stars, and in the new company there will be only three of those heard last year, picked to come because of the very favorable impression which they created. The three are Mme. Maria de Gubbi, the dramatic prima donna soprano who sang Marguerite in 'Faust', M. Giovanni Gatti, who played Lionel in 'Martha', and the title role in 'Faust', and Mile. Ernestine Gauthier, who was the able Marguerite in 'Faust' and a charming Nancy in 'Martha'. The new stars include a truly wonderful coloratura prima donna soprano, Mme. Gertrude Hutcheson, M. Pietro Vittone, a baritone of great reputation abroad, M. Heathe Gregory, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera Company as primo basso, and Miss Frances Woolwine, a prima donna contralto who has created a sensation wherever heard. But perhaps as well enjoyed as any of the new aggregation will be the famous M. Umberto Sacchetti, one of the leading Boston Opera Co. tenors, who will alternate with M. Giovanni Gatti in taking leading opera roles, and will always be heard in the concert division of the program.

The British North America tour starts at Yarmouth, on August 28th, and will proceed to Wolfville on the 29th, Windsor on the 30th, and open for Exhibition Week at the Academy of Music, Halifax, on Monday, Sept. 1st. The repertoire of the company includes 'I Pagliacci', 'Cavalleria Rusticana', 'Rigoletto', 'Andrea Chénier', 'Faust', 'Martha', and probably 'Madame Butterfly'. Further announcements will be made from time to time regarding the engagement in this town. One thing is sure—the Grand Opera Festival will be a success, and as long as it is, it will be an annual event here.

Miss Elaine Clavering, pupil of Victor Beigel, London, teacher of singing and breathing, has been added to the staff of Mr. Allison Combs, Conservatory of Music, Miss Clavering, in addition to her excellent training in the best academies and from the well known Victor Beigel, has had with satisfaction, he filled the post of instructor in Victor Beigel's own studio. Dr. Huntington Pegler, London, has great pleasure in giving reference in every way satisfactory on behalf of Miss Clavering whom he has known for a number of years and holds in very high esteem. This appointment fills the last vacant post, and places the Conservatory in splendid position for the work of the year.

The Old Wolfville Cemetery.

MR. EDITOR:—At a meeting of the Town Council in March last the Council considered the repairing and fencing of the grounds of the old Cemetery and appointed a committee consisting of C. K. H. Starr and G. E. DeWitt to carry out the project. On the 31st of March the committee enclosed to the address of the survivors of many of those whose remains lie buried in the cemetery a circular which read as follows:—
"An effort is now being made by those interested in the Old Wolfville Cemetery to repair and fence the grounds. The present condition of the Cemetery is a disgrace, a resort for trespassers and common loafers. The proposal is to ask the survivors of those whose remains are buried there, and others, to subscribe to a fund for the enclosure of the grounds by building a good suitable fence around the sides of the Cemetery and a stone and cement wall on the line of Main street in front. The cost of fencing and repairs will be about $300.00. We respectfully ask you to forward your subscription to W. M. Black, Esq., Town Clerk of Wolfville, who will be the custodian of the funds until they are used for the purpose designated."

The only response to the circular was from two gentlemen of the town who liberal subscribed to the fund. The committee have proposed to secure the third of that amount by scouts to interview those available and ask them for a contribution to this necessary and worthy object. The committee hope there will be a willing and generous response from those interested in the old cemetery so that the grounds may be properly repaired and fenced out later than the coming fall. Kindly be prepared to give a donation in about two weeks time to those who call for this purpose. In the meantime any desirous of contributing sooner may send their donations to the Town Clerk, the custodian of the fund.
Committee—G. E. DEWITT
C. K. H. STARR.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE. The people of Wolfville, and vicinity are to have the opportunity on Saturday night, Aug. 9th, of hearing one of the finest Opera Bouffes ever presented on any stage in Nova Scotia. The cast comprises 50 people including original New York Casino Symphony Orchestra and the same stars will appear here as at the Casino in New York and the Colonial Theatre in Boston. This is a guaranteed attraction and it is only by the kind consent of the Management of the Academy of Music, Halifax, that the company is permitted to appear here before playing Halifax. While of course the style of the opera is entirely different from that presented by 'Noted Stars of Boston Opera Co.,' it will fully equal in every respect the presentation of the latter attraction; the music and songs are attractive throughout and the advance sale has far exceeded the expectations of the local management. The cost of bringing this attraction to Wolfville is something that the local management can't care to talk about, suffice it to say that the guarantee is the largest ever put up by this house, and unless the people appreciate a first class attraction by a liberal patronage, this house may have to depart from its policy of 'only the best at any price' and book lesser and unknown companies of questionable ability.

Tennis.

The tennis tournament last week proved to be a very pleasant and successful affair notwithstanding the rather unfavorable state of the weather. The Bridgetown players arrived on Friday afternoon. Two events were played after their arrival and the other events were played on Saturday. Wolfville won the tournament by thirty five games and evidently the esteem of their opponents as well, one of the visitors remarking that 'it was a pleasure to be defeated by a club like Wolfville. It would be impossible to find a better lot of clean cut sportsman-like players than those playing in the Wolfville team.'

On Friday evening the members of the Bridgetown club were taken to Evangeline Beach where dancing was indulged in, and on Saturday dainty lunches were served at the club house.

The visiting players returned home by the evening train on Saturday and all were enthusiastic over the welcome and entertainment tendered them while here. A return match is expected to be played during the season at Bridgetown.

PLEASE PUBLISH MY TESTIMONIAL

So Other Sufferers Will Take "Fruit-a-Lives" And Be Cured

Gratitude—heartfelt gratitude—prompted this letter. Madame Langlois was so thankful to "Fruit-a-Lives" for restoring her to health and strength, that she gladly allowed her letter to be published.

MADAME VALERIE LANGLOIS

ST. ROMUALD, QUE., SEPT. 23rd, 1912. "I have pleasure in stating that I have been cured of severe Dyspepsia and Chronic Constipation by using 'Fruit-a-Lives' Tablets. I suffered from severe Constipation for many years, and I tried every remedy I heard of, and also was treated by physicians without any permanent benefit. I then tried 'Fruit-a-Lives' and this fruit medicine has completely cured both the Constipation and Indigestion. I cannot praise 'Fruit-a-Lives' enough."

MADAME VALERIE LANGLOIS. Soc. a box, 6 for $2.50—trial size 25c. At dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-Lives Limited, Ottawa.

The Folded Flock.

I saw the shepherd fold the sheep With all the little lambs that leap. O Shepherd Lord, so I would be Folded with all my family.

Or go they early, come they late, Their mother and I must count them eight.

And how, for us, were any Heaven, If we, sore stricken, saw but seven? Kind Shepherd, as of old Thou'rt run And fold at need a straggling one.—Wilfred Meynell, in 'Verses and Reverses.'

What He Made.

"I have made one thousand dollars in the last three months," said a prosperous liquor-seller to a group of men standing near his saloon. "You have made more than that," quietly remarked a listener. "What is that?" was the quick response. "You have made wretched homes, women and children poor, sick and woe-y of life. You have made their mother a broken-hearted woman. Oh, you have made much more than I can reckon, but you'll get the full account some day!"

Evil Effects of Smoking. Tobacco is manufactured from the dried leaves of an American plant, now grown in many parts of the world. It contains a powerful poison called nicotine, which is very harmful to the body in many ways. Nicotine, when pure, is a colorless oil, and one-tenth of it will poison a dog. There is sufficient of this poison (if taken in one dose), in one ordinary cigar, or in one-eighth of an ounce of mild tobacco, or in six cigarettes, to poison two men. When tobacco is smoked, the poison gets into the system, usually producing faintness, nausea, giddiness, loss of power over the muscles and limbs, cold perspiration, and vomiting often accompanied with purging, together with a sinking feeling at the heart. The system may in time get used to the poison, but the ill-effects remain. It is recognized by all who go in for any special athletic effort, and smoking is forbidden to those who are training for swimming, rowing, football, running, jumping, etc.—Everybody's Monthly.

A Young Man's Recreation Cured. I will never patronize an entertainment that brutalizes man or shames a woman. I will always devote part of my playing in the open air.

I will not be merely a lazy spectator of sport. I will taste for myself its zest and thrill.

I will avoid over-ammusement as I pray I may be saved from over-work.

I will choose the amusement that my wife can share.

I will not spend Sunday in caring for my bodily pleasure so much that I forget my soul and its relation to God's Kingdom.

I will never spend on pleasure money that belongs to other aspects of my life.

I will remember to enjoy a boy's sport again when my boy needs me as a chum.

I will recollect that play should be for the sake of my mind as well as for my body; hence I shall not shut those forms of entertainment that deal with ideas.

I will never let play serve as the end of existence, but always it shall be used to make me a better workman and a richer soul.

Cured Diseases of the Kidneys

Once Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are introduced into the family and their efficiency becomes known they are usually found too valuable to do without. For everyday ailments arising from liver and bowel disorders they bring relief promptly, and when complicated diseases of the kidneys and liver develop they often prove a successful cure after doctors have failed.

As an illustration, you may read the following, which was received a few days ago:

Mrs. John Wright, 53 McGee Street, Toronto, Ont., writes: "We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for ten years, and would not be without them. My husband suffered from kidney trouble, and after taking treatment from several doctors without receiving any benefit, tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which worked a complete cure. Since that time we have used them for all stomach and liver disorders."

One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Costly Treatment. I was troubled with constipation and indigestion and spent hundreds of dollars for medicine and operations," writes C. H. Hines, of Whitlow, Ark. "I went to a St. Louis hospital, also to a hospital in New Orleans, but no cure was effected. On returning home I began taking Chamberlain's Tablets, and worked right along. I used them for some time and am now all right." Sold by all dealers.

Home Talking and Reading. "There are two things that held me to my home like a vice," said one of the most successful men of the day not long ago, to hear my father talk at the table, so that I never wanted to eat anywhere else, and to hear my mother read in the evening, so that I rarely wanted to go out. These two things in our home life did more to start us five boys and girls off right than all the education we got in school or college. All of those five boys and girls are now men and women prominent and effective in their lines of work. Through the most effective method of education there is to-day, the indirect method, these children were sent into the world influenced by fine home talk and interesting home reading. And in their soil lie the roots of true home progress.—Edward Bok.

Summer Complaints Kill Little Ones. At first sign of illness during the hot weather give the little one Baby's Own Tablets, or in a few hours he may be beyond cure. These Tablets will prevent summer complaints if given occasionally to the well child and will promptly cure those troubles if they come on suddenly. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in every home where there are young children. There is no other medicine as good and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that they are absolutely safe. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

If the King were to renounce the throne and resolve to become an ordinary citizen he would be called George Wettin. How does the name Wettin come to King George's surname? This is the answer:

Queen Victoria married Albert Duke of Saxony-Coburg-Gotha, of the senior branch of the House of Saxony. The family name by which this house, dating from the middle of the tenth century, was Wettin, and this was and is the surname of both branches—the Ernestine and the Albertine—of the house of Saxony. The name comes from the Castle of Wettin, near Meissen, which claimed Wittkind as their ancestor of race.

The Burdens of Age. The kidneys seem to be about the first organs to wear out and fall to properly perform their work. The result is weak, lame, aching back, rheumatic pain and falling eyesight. Many people of advanced years have recovered health and comfort by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They cause the healthful action of liver, kidneys and bowels.

Old Lady (to beggar at door)—"What's that soiled paper? You'll have to tell me what it says, for I haven't my glasses."

Beggar—"Please, mum, it says I am deaf and dumb, and can you spare me a few cents?"

Hardy Upton (trying on a new suit): "Ah, this suit looks very creditable—very creditable indeed!"

Isaac the Tailor (excitedly): "Oh, no! Creditable! Do suit never leaves his shop without ready money!"

Paralyzed Limbs. T-day is it sleeplessness, headache, digestive trouble and irritability. Next thing you know some form of paralysis has developed. Mr. Alex. Homburg, of New York, writes: "Nervous trouble developed into paralysis of the limbs so that I became helpless. Doctors failed me, but by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I resumed work, and now feel better than I did for 20 years."

On many pretty garden hats appear frills of puffed tulle.

ROMANCE OF SUIT CASE

Porter Proved to Be a Millionaire.

By MIRIAM FOSTER.

Hazel Huntington paid her bill at the desk of the Windsor hotel, and then turning to the clerk, said: "Do you know of anyone who will carry my suitcase to the depot?"

"The chap over there," answered the young man, pointing to one on the other side of the spacious lobby.

"Thank you." Then walking toward a great big man, who looked at the girl with a surprised air as she spoke, she asked him: "Will you take my bag to the W. & Y. station immediately?"

He hesitated for a fraction of a second, and then nodded his head. "Yes; where is it?"

"Over at the desk with the monogram A. H. on it. Please be quick about it. There is no time to lose."

The young man grabbed the suitcase with a vigor as if his whole future existence depended upon his making a little extra money, and followed Hazel down the street, catching up to the girl, who was neatly attired all in brown from head to foot. He commenced in a genial tone: "That building over there is the new library, and that—"

"I beg your pardon," replied Hazel, without looking back, "I asked for a porter, not a guide."

"Oh, I won't charge anything extra for a little information," persisted the young man, as he went on to tell about the different landmarks as they passed them; and Hazel found herself against her will listening to him.

As they approached the train Hazel started to take her suitcase, but the young man, as he went on to tell about the different landmarks as they passed them; and Hazel found herself against her will listening to him.

"No, miss, I'll take it right into the car. It's too heavy for you to carry, but finally when the engine started to whistle "all aboard," Hazel handed him fifty cents.

"Much obliged, miss," Laurence said, taking the coin. "This is the first money I've earned today."

Then the car sped on, but Hazel's thoughts would constantly turn to the splendid fellow with the earnest face and quizzical smile.

"Not one of our set to compare with the strength, health and temper of the housewife or servant. Hazel itself from the inside with gasoline or denatured alcohol better and cheaper than gas or electricity. No wires or tubes in the way. No changing irons or fusing with half-cold flat iron. No endless walking from hot stove to work. No slipping or waxing."
