PREDICTS A LOWER RATE.

Finance Chairman Peregrine Laughs at Stewart's Notion.

Recent By-laws Driving Pawn Brokers Out of Business.

Contract Not Yet Received From Power Commission.

Chairman Peregrine smiled to-day when he heard ex-Mayor Stewart's pre diction that the tax rate would go up to twenty-three mills within the next two years. "I think the rate can be brought down to less than twenty mills have things nicely financed with that amount, although it may take a that amount, although it may take a little time," said the Finance Chairman. Ald. Peregrine believes that the difficulty is with the inequalities in the assessment. He says the assessment department does the best it can under the circumstances. It is probably one of the matters in which the new Board of Control will interest itself. An assessment of $40,000,000 for a city like Hamilton, Ald. Peregrine thinks, is too low.

Some of the legislation recently enacted by the Markets Committee, the city officials say, is driving those it is intended to govern out of business. By the end of the year there will be only one pawnbroker doing business. The others have thrown up the sponge. The others have thrown up the sponge. The other have requiring them to provide a $1,000 bond and print the rate of interest on the back of pawn tickets, it is said, will drive the others out of business. Already one dealer has quit and others have expressed their intention of doing so, and asking the city to remit the license fee of $60.

So far the city has done nothing in the case of the Hamilton Bowling & Athletic Club, which has refused to pay a license for billiard and pool tables. The other pool room owners say their business is falling off so badly that a number of them will be forced out. One big up-town hotel is arranging this week to close its nool room. spared to enjoy the ease which he had so well earned. But it was not to be. Few then, probably not himself, realized how sick a man he was. He passed away this morning at the City Hospital, to which institution he had gone soon after laying down the reins of office, for a frontal sinus and antrum operation. He was found to be more seriously ill than was supposed, and his death was looked for yesterday and last night.

Mr. Fisher had been connected, with the T., H. & B. in the capacity of general superintendent since the road was built fifteen years ago. He was educated at the U.S. Academy at Annapolis, and before beginning his railroad career held, a commission as lieutenant in the United States navy. Later he was resident engineer with the Pennsylvania road, and then joined the staff of the New York Central, leaving that road to become superintendent here. He

It was expected that the Power Co It was expected that the Power Committee would meet to-day to consider the draft form of contract in connection with Hamilton's application for a thousand horse-power from the Commission. No word has been received at the City Hall from Toronto yet, and the meeting will likely be held to-morrow or on Priday. The Commission met yesterday afternoon to consider the contract for power with Hamilton, and the Commissioners expect to complete the document. power with Hamilton, and the Commissioners expect to complete the document and forward it to the city for approval to-day. Hon. Adam Beck, the Chairman, said he had every hope that the contract would be satisfactory to all concerned. "Several clauses affecting local conditions in Hamilton, and asked for by the city, have been approved," said the Power Minister.

Tax Collector Kerr is greatly disappointed at the way the water rates are coming in. The receipts yesterday were ordy $7,490, compared with $8,825 the corresponding day a year ago. A year ago to-day over $13,000 was received. to-day over $13,000 was received, the less than $4,000 came in this ning. The rates must be paid to-row to avoid the penalty, and as $52,000 is to be paid yet, the clerks looking forward to an unusually day.

It is a fact not generally known that the Mayors who have occupied the chair of Hamilton's Chief Magistrate have been obliged at the end of their term to pay for their photos if they desire to have them placed in the gallery of notables that decorate the walls of the Council chamber. There is a feeling that the least the city could do is to honor the retiring Mayors in this manner.

He denies he is a bigamist saying he got a divorce from his first wife and his second is dead, consequently is free to marry whom he pleased.

FOR A COMMISSION.

TOR A COMMISSION.

The action of Pearlman vs. Forster was tried yesterday before Judge Snider. The Judge said that, although he had no doubt as to the right of the plaintiff in the matter, he would have to look up certain law. The plaintiff claimed that he came to this city as an insurance agent. He had an application signed, but he says, was refused his commission on the first premium, the defendant denying that plaintiff had written the application. Some delay was caused before the policy was issued, and by that time it was not wanted. E. F. Lazier acted for the plaintiff and G. Lynch-Staunton for effendant.

The London authorities still adhere to the theory that the man is insane. Until the Attorney-General's department takes some action the public will be kept guessing as to what the Provincial officers who worked on the case think of Bedfort's story. CLAIMS $12.

Boot Owner Suing J. C. Kerr, Fishery Inspector.

The action of Alf. King against J. C. Kerr, fishery inspector, to secure $12, which the plaintiff claimed was the value of a pair of rubber boots and five duck decoys, which were stolen from his boathouse as a result of the door having been left open by defendant, was to have been tried at the Division Court this morning, but S. F. Washington, K.C., who acted as judge, refused to take up the case. On September 6, Mr. Kerr saw a couple of boys out in the bay shoot a gull, which was illegal. The boys pulled towards plaintiff's boathouse. The inspector endeavored to learn where they had gone and, it is alleged, was told they were in King's boathouse. He demanded admittance but was refused, and, the plaintiff alleges, Kerr forced his way in. The boys had left by way of the back door. The boat was wet showing that it had just been pulled out of the water. Mr. Kerr claims that he fastened the door securely before leaving. Who the boys were is unknown. but S. F. he had been warned not to do so. The inspector has visited a number of stables of rag and old metal gatherers and finds that a number of them provide no bedding whatever for their horses. He has cautioned them and will prosecute any who oftend in this respect after this date. Numerous complaints have also been made to him about men going into hotels and leaving horses standing outside without any protection, food or drink, for hours at a time. He has information of one case where a horse stood seven hours in this way. Prosecutions will follow unless the practice is stopped at once.

Holland, a fellow countryman, too, hustled him in for vagrancy. The tiller of the soil was allowed to go back to the farm.

He went out in the boat alone, as was his custom, and his wife says he generally sailed around the sandbars, near the Smelter Works dock, and that is where she thinks the boat was capsized. R. McKAY & CO.

that while life ran in his veins her torture could never cease.

As she sat there in the silent night hours, Katharine was not giving way to rebellious thought or bitter reproach against the cruel fate that had some upon her; she was praying fervently, earnestly, for strength to be patient and brave; for courage to bear the heavy burden thrust on her young shoulders that, though ail the world should turn and revile her, she might not falter in her heart, but live as she was, in turth and in deed, a pure, good, noble woman.

And even while she was uttering this prayer the deep, gloomy clouds above her head lightened a little, and through the chink, could she have only seen into the future, Katharine would have beheld a faint ray of gold, that spoke of a sun that would shine for her once again.

While she was submitting herself to God's hands the end was drawing near; God's hands the end was drawing near; the end of sorrow and torture, the end

Katharine uttered the words with unutterable sadness. They were so true, so very true. There was only one person in the whole world to whom she could turn in this trouble, and that was Gordon's mother, poor Lucy Smythe, but here, again, she dared not act as she would have done, for Gordon, in his few sane moments, never ceased to impress on her that he absolutely refused to allow his mother to come to him or to be "Well, this is really delightful!"
So declared Lady Blanche Bellairs, rising from her chair in the comfortable room at her hotel to greet a smart young lady who had followed up her card. "My dear Barbara," kissing her affectionately, "have you dropped from the clouds?"

"I've got a wife, what more do I want?" ne said, with a feeble grin. "A most devoted wife, too! Why don't you cut and run, eh, Katharine? Why don't you take your chance of getting away from me? Is it—is it because you are so fond of me that you can not bear to leave me, even for a moment? or is:ti"—and here he laid his hot hand on the girl's wrist, and drew her shrinkingly toward him—"is it that you fear me still! Ay, fear me even when I am lying stricken down? Is it because you know so well that, come what may, if you play me false, I will carry out my revenge, ay, even if it cost me my life?"

His voice, husky and weak from mingled pain and weakness, was indistinct at first, but the fierceness of the last words lent a hideous strength to them, and made Katharine shiver and draw back suddenly from the bed, sick and cold to the heart.

She knew he meant every letter of his threat; she knew if a he were to take well.

you come here, Barbara? It would be so nice!"

"So it would! I wonder if Aunt Mildred would mind? We have sent our things to the Metropole, but we can easily alter that. It is so sweet to be near you again, dear Lady Blanche, that I think I shall urge her to come here!"

"Why not send a telegram? And then you can take off your hat, and have some tea. Marian and I were just going to have ours."

Barbara agreed to this, and was soon ensconced comfortably in the most luxurious arm-chair in the room, chattering away in her clear, high tones that made Marian's every nerve start and jur.

Miss Mostyn's eyes were busy while she talked. She was watching the door eagerly, and wondering whether Ormande would be likely to come in this afternoon; the letters she had received frou Lady Blanche had told her that he was back in town and hard at work, but she imagined, naturally, that he would be constantly with his aunt; hence this sudden urgent business which summoned Mrs. Trevanion to her lawyer and her dentist at one and the same time.

Lady Blanche beamed affably at the cold-faced girl opposite. She was honestly glad to see Barbsra, who always show.

Lady Blanche beamed affably at the cold-faced girl opposite. She was honestly glad to see Barbsra, who always show. She knew he meant every letter of his threat; she knew if she were to take advantage of this illness to slip off her bouds and escape him, that so soon as the old vigor was returned to Gordon's frame, he would relentlessly seek out Ormande, her beloved, and work him the injury he has sworn to do.

But, apart from this, Katharine was, in every sense, a true woman. Evil as Gordon Smythe had proved himself to be in her life, no thought of leaving him, now this calamity had fallen upon him, ever crossed her mind. He was helpless and sick, and her place was by his side. No matter what had gone before, she could not and would not desert him now.

Blanche over again; and Barbara smiled her metallic smile of recognition. "You have not been to see Lady Drumond yet, Barbara, I suppose" Lady Blanche asked, after a while.

The task was terribly hard; had Katharine known how hard, she might have hesitated before taking it up. She had, in addition to the natural worry and anxiety connected with a severe illness, strange and distressing insults to contend against. Gordon had been carried, by his wish, expressed as he was lifted from beneath the wheels of the cab that crushed him, to some rooms which he had used for some time past; and Katharine's first experience had been a half concealed sneer, a wholly contemptuous smile, and a shrug of the shoulders from the landlady as the girl introduced herself as Gordon Smythe's wife. And as it began, so it continued; from one and all, Sister Dora excepted, Katharine received the barest courtesy, and she lived in the perpetual condition of Iseling that she was being degraded and docaved before all the world.

Truly Gordon Smythe's enmity was to be shumned and feared! The girl could not fail to understand that he refused to have his mother with him because, by a long the world wings all the mallip. Blanche asked after a while.

Barbara frowned.

"Aunt Ellen is away, I fancy; "then with a short laugh, "the fact of the matter is, that Aunt Ellen and I have come to loggerheads, Lady Blanche, and are not very good friends just now."

"Dear me, my dear; I am sorry to hear that. I hope it is only a small quarrel."

"Oh, that is a question of indifference to me, quite. I consider Aunt Ellen to be very wrong, and as I have some honor, I told her so."

"We all know that Lady Drummond be very wrong, and as I have some honor, I told her so.'

"We all know that Lady Drummond is rather eccentric, Barbara."

"We must draw a line somewhere," was the answer, given a little shortly.
Barbara paused, and then, looking up, said, sullenly: "I will tell you all about it, dear Lady Planche;" and forthwith she launched out into the whole story of Katharine, imparting a very high color to the affair, and growing quite eloquent. "She positively stated to my face, Lady Blanche, that she was going away with this man Smythe, whateverhappened, although she knew him to have a wife alive! Is there, could there be any justification for such a woman?
And yet Aunt Ellen refuses to believe a word I tell her; she has got some Quixotic, absurd notion into her head, that because this creature's father saved be son's life, she must hear nothing he shunned and feared! The grif could not fail to understand that he refused to have his mother with him because, by so leing, he would undo a!! the malizious injury he had caused Katharine to suffer at one blow. The presence of his mether, and her great affection for the girl, would naturally reinstate Katharine in the opinion of the landlady and others with whom she was brought in contact, and that was not what he interded or desired.

Even in the moment of her greatest mental torture, Katharine would pause to shudder at the unutterable venous of this man's mind: it was to her so horrible, so terrible that, as he lay suffering, and barely out of the reach of Death's cold fingers, his one thought should be of revenge and petty, jealous hatred, that, in place of higher and better things, he should lie and scheme how his plans could best be carried out, and gloat over the undoubted success that had attended him so fart. Not one grain. that because this creature's father say ed her son's life, she must hear nothing against her, no matter how strong the proof may be, that she is all I have voice had grown unconsciously vicious; her mad hatred and jealousy for Katharine were such that she could not let herself mention the girl's name without expressing it: indeed, so strong was her rancor now that Lady Blanche looked some pain; her woman's heart jumped at once to the truth; here was the enswer to the question that had troubled her, here the solution to the mysterious change that had come upon her favorite boy. (To be Continued).

THE SOLDIER'S REPRIEVE.

"My Fred! I can's understand it,"
And his voice is quivering with pain,
While the tears kept slowly dropping,
On his trembling hands like rain;
"For Fred was so brave and loyal,
So true! but my eyes are dim,
Please read it, sir, while I listen,
In fancy I see him—dead;
My boy, shot down like a traitor—
My noble, my brave boy, Fred!"

"Dear father," so ran the letter,
"To-morrow when twilight creeps
Along the hills to the churchyard,
O'er the grave where mother sleeps
When the dusky shadows gather,
They'll lay your son in his grave,
For nearly betraying his country,
He would give his life to save;
And, father, I tell you truly,
With almost my latest breath,
That your boy is not a traitor,
Though he dies a traitor's death.

"You remember bennie wisson:
He's suffering a deal of pain;
He was only that day ordered
Back into the ranks again.
I carried all his luggage
With mine, on the march that day;

"The colonel is kind and thoughtful,
He has done the best he can,
And they will not bind or blind me—
I shall meet death like a man.
Kiss little Blossom: but father
Need you tell her how I fall?
A sob from the shadowed corner;
Yes, Blossom had heard it all,
As ahe kissed the precious letter,
She said with faltering breath—
"Our Fred was never a traitor,
Though he dies a traitor's death."

A little sun-brown maiden, In a shabby, time-worn dress, Took her seat a half-hour later in the crowded night express,
The conductor heard her story As she held her dimpled hand, And sighed for the sad hearts breaking All over the troubled land An over the troubled land.

He tenderly wiped the tear drops
From the blue eyes brimming o'er,
And guarded her footsteps safely,
Till she reached the White House doo

The President sat at his writing;
But the eyes were kind and mild,
That turned with a look of wonder.
On the little shy-faced child;
And he read Fred's farewell letter,
With a look of sad regret.
"Tis a brave young life," he murmured
"And his country needs him yet,
From an honored place in battle
He shall bid the world good-bye,
If that brave young life is needed,
He shall die as heroes die."
—Rosa Hartwick Thorpe.

A Bad Man.

A Bad Man.

Thomas Nelson Pake was talking in the smoke room of the Amerika about the old-fashioned bad men of the West. He laughed heartily.

"We were all seated in the barroom of Tin Can or Dead Cur—some such town. I was the only tenderfoot present. Every man about me bristled with guns and knives like an enraged porcupine. If I refused to drink, I was given to understand I would be turned into a luman pineushion.

"Well, as I sipped a friendly glass of comething resembling wood alcohol, a very bad man indeed rode on a prancing mustang-right into the barroom. He drew up and had a drink. Then, spying nue, he said:

"Whar ye from, stranger?"

"Richmond," said I.

"Not good old Richmond, Virginia?" he exclaimed.

"Yes," said I. 'Do you know it?"

he exclaimed.

"Yes,' said I. 'Do you know it?'

"Know it?' he shouted. 'Know it?'
Blest jail I ever was in!'"—New York Tribune.

The "Thirty Pieces of Silver." The piece of silver," thirty of which were paid to Judas in his trade of bewere paid to Judas in his trade of fe-traying Christ, was of peculiar interest, to the Israelites, and was always spok-en of in their holy books as the shekel of Israel, or holy shekel of the sunc-tuary. It was the amount which cach Israelite between the ages of wenty and fifty was required to pay into the public treasury as a ransom for their de-livery during their sojourn in the wilder-ness.

According to British currency, a shekel was worth 2 shillings 3 peuce 3 farthings, or about 50 cents in United States coin. Money was, however, much more valuable at that time, and the "thirty pieces" were equal, at that day, to about $3,000 to-day. The shekel was somewhat larger than a half dollar, and was smoothed edged. On one side it bore the emblem of Aaron's rod, as mentioned in Numbers, xvii. 8, surrounded with the inscription in Hebrew which is given in the eleventh chapter of Leviticus—with the words, "Shekel of Israel."—

AQUATICS AT THE Y.M. C. A.

A Striking Feature of the Reception Last Evening.

The reception at the Y. M. C. A. last night was very largely attended, it being one of the most successful in the association's history. The crowd began to gather early. By 8 o'clock the gallery around the gymnasium was packed, and before the night was over the parlors and every place available was well filled. Mr. T. F. Best, the secretary, handled the crowd in a very able way with the assistance of the Reception Committee. The corridors, arches and rooms had been prettily decorated for the occasion, and the various booths were also made so attractive looking that very few could resist the temptation of sampling the wares. The ice cream booth especially was well patronized, although the weather was rather cold for such refreshment.

During the early part tof the evening the Y. M. C. A. football team gave an exhibition, showing, the various plays, and were loudly applauded for their good work.

When the crowd had gathered in sufficient numbers to start the programme the first number called out was an exhibition of fancy swimming by Prof. Finney. The room was not large enough to accommodate the numbers who wished to see the exhibition, and many were disappointed in that respect. The ayhi. ciation's history. The crowd began to

The relay race by two teams from the Police Swimming Club was very exciting. The teams were composed as follows: Bettles, Stewart and Fleming: Ruse, Brannan and Yaxley. The second named team held the lead all the way, but at the finish scarcely two yards separated the contestants.

A water polo match was played for five minutes, and was very exciting as well as amusing. The police fancy swimming team gave an exhibition at the conclusion of the water sports. Rev. Edgar Allen acted as judge of the awimming.

Russia's Aerodynamic Instituts.

At Koutchine, near Mosoow, Russia pessesses the most complete laboratory for researches pertaining to aviation now in existence. The work is under the direction et al., and the mony was furnished by a wealthy Muscovite. It has become the centre of much interest since the recent achievements in aerial navigation. Here investigations are made of all questions relating to aerodynamics, and some remarkable results have been obtained, especially in regard to what is called the autorotation of bodies of certain shapes when placed in current of sir. It has already been made evident that there are many phenomena of an unexpected character which, when they have been thoroughly investigated, may materially aid inventors and engineers in the construction of more effective flying machines.

NO LEMIEUX ACT THERE.

The people of Canada, employers and uployed, having had a brief experience with the Lemieux Act and the advan tages it offers for the avoidance o ustrial warfare, are in a good posi tion to compare conditions under it with those which prevail where no such machinery for settling labor troubles is provided. We have had few disastrous abor wars in Canada since it was placed on the statute books, and in the rare cases in which the findings of the conciliation boards provided for by the act vere not accepted the results of the refusals were not long in impressing themselves on those who rejected them The Act has evidently justified itself and this notwithstanding that it is not compulsory, save as to preventing strikes or lockouts till inquiry has been made. Of course it applies automati eally only to a few industries directly affecting the public convenience, but it may be applied to any labor difficulty the consent of the parties.

About nine months ago a great strike of the United States hatters was begun, and it has been waged with great bit terness. The struggle has cost both sides a very large sum of money, esti nated at $4,000,000. The employers have been running some of their shops with non-union labor; they have cleared ut their stocks on hand and worn out many of the men. Now a compromise has been agreed upon, and the men will be taken back very soon. The nonunion men employed are not to be disturbed, and the union label will be placed in hats when the customer's order so specifies; if it specifies that it shall not be used the union shall not hold it to be a grievance to omit the label.

Surely such matters as those could have been settled by three men of common serie sitting as a board of cor ciliation, and such a great waste of time and money might have been saved. measure like the Lemieux Act would, if it had been taken advantage of, have led to many a poor man's toring the winter in comfort, instead of in debt and poverty. The Canadian ple to their neighbors. It is a measure infinitely better than big labor wa funds employers' associations or walking delegates, because it is founded on ideas of justice and fair dealing, and because the Canadians, employers and employed, as a rule are ready to defer to a healthy public opinion.

U. S. WHEAT CROP.

The October crop report issued by the United States Government fully onths of the year and indicates that the world's needs will be well met as far as North America's contribution concerned. The estimate of the return which the United States farmer will have for his labor is:

the figures from the estimates of the last two months, and the experience of recent years gives confidence to the work such a long season of aridity of the Government Bureau of Statistics. This wheat crop has been the largest ever produced in the United States, save on two occasions-1901, when the crop was 748 460.218 bushels, and 1906, when of the last five years may be thus com pared with the estimate of the present

With an increase of 60,000,000 bushels the United States wheat crop and perthe Canadian yield, and a generally in-creased yield of oats, corn and barley, which is offset by no great famine in y of the leading wheat-producing counries, there is promise of bread and to pare in the coming season. A GREAT WORK

Yesterday the last spike in the Na tional Transcontinental Railway line between Winnipeg and Fort William was driven, and trains may now be run from Fort William to Edmonton. This section is not yet ready for traffic, but the laying of the rails indicates that an extremely difficult piece of work has been carried out thus near to comple tion with a rapidity hitherto unequalled in railway building. On this section from 6,000 to 8,000 men have been con tinuously employed and the engineering alone constitutes a remarkable fast, The grades secured are easier than those of easier than was hoped for when the line was first projected, and this will have much value by way of rendering operation of the line easy.

The construction of this section of the line was the most difficult part of the about 1 500 miles of the new road from Fort William to Edmonton is now ready for the engines. THE POLAR DAY.

A contemporary cannot understand why there should be six months' day and six months' night at the North Pole. There isn't.—Victoria Colonist.

In one sense our contemporary right. Many people seem to have conceived the erroneous idea that at the Poles utter darkness prevails for six months, followed by continual day for six months. This is, of course, a mistaken notion. Save at the equator, day and night, as measured by light and darkness, do not for two con secutive days remain the same. Owing to the inscliptic, there is constant change As we near the Poles we find the inequality in the length of the days and nights becomes greater, and at the Poles themselves a day of six months alternates with a night of six months, while light prevails at one Pole, darkness reigns at the other. The Polar circles have one day of 24 hours, and one night of the same length in each year But day and night in the sense of light and darkness is so distributed that ery part of the earth has the sun above its horizon for six months in the year.

NEWS FOR "INDIANS."

The case of the Thamesville licens holder who was fined for selling liquor o a person whose name was on the Indian list settles a point of considerable importance. An endeavor was made to quash the conviction on the ground that the wife on whose application the man had been placed on the Indian list had personally gone to the hotel afterwards and taken down the notice, being contended that her action comstituted a removal of the name from the Indian list. The appeal was heard before Judge Dowlin, of Chatham, and bears disallowed, the conviction being upheld. out the optimistic predictions of the placed on the list by a magistrate under section 124 of the act might be removed from the list by the county judge at any time he thought proper, a name placed on that list by a relative, under section 125, must remain on the

That "murder confession" by Bedfort in London is just near enough to the newspaper narratives of the Kinrade tragedy to give it verisimilitude, with just enough fatal divergencies to give it a very fakey appearance. The Road That Gets There.

The Road That Gets There.

The commanding position of the Grand Trunk Railway System in connection with the transportation service of the Province of Ontario is well illustrated by the fact that in this premier province of Canada there are 14 incorporated cities, every one of which is located on the tracks of the Grand Trunk Railway. There are 100 incorporated town, 25 of which are exclusively on the Grand Trunk Railway and 43 others are reached by the tracks of the Grand Trunk. The incorporated villages number 66, of which 35 are exclusively on the Grand Trunk. It is easy to see how Canada's pioneer double track railway, with its unsurpassed roadbed, high grade pasenger coaches, etc., is the popular Ontario line. Service wins, and the Grand Trunk service wins.

THIRTEENTH PARADE.

The Thirteenth Regiment is having two parades a week from now on. Last night's parade was well attended, about 350 men in all being present. Company drill was practiced in the armories, and the men were given a good work-out. The parade state was as follows: Lieut. Col. Moore, Majors Mewburn and Ross. Adjutant Captain Donwille, Paymaster Captain Herring, Quartermaster Captain Lester, Chaplain Captain Forneret, and about 340 privates, making in all about 350 on parade.

WAS COOK AT THE POLE?

Commander Peary Declares That He Was Not.

Impossible For Cook to Do What He Claimed to Do.

Statement Made by Two Esquimaux Boys With Cook.

New York, Oct. 12 .- The following statement of Commander Robert E. Peary, which he submitted to the Peary Arctic Club in support of his contentio that Dr. Cook did not reach the north pole, is now made public for the first

The two Esquimau boys, I-took-a-sh and Ah-pe-lah, who accompanied Dr. Gook while he was away from Anoratok in 1908 and 1909, were questioned separately and independently, and were coroborated by Panikpah, the father of one of them (I-took-a-shoo), who was personally familiar with the first third and the last third of their journey, and who said that the route for the remaining third, as shown by them, was as described to him by his son after his return with Dr. Cook.

Notes of their statements were taken by several of us, and no one of us has any doubt that they told the truth. Their testimony was unshaken by cross-examination, was corroborated by other men in the tribe, and was elicited neither by threats nor promises, the two loys and their father talking of their journey and their experiences in the same way that they would talk of any hunting trip. Cook while he was away from Anoratok

As he went out, the other boy came in and was asked to show where he had gone with Dr. Cook. This he did, also without making any marks, and indicated the same route and the same de-without making any marks, and indicated the same route and the same details as did the first boy.

When he was through, Panikpah, the father of I-took-a-shoo, a very intelligent man, who was in the party of Esquimaux that came back from Dr. Cook from the morthern end of Nansen's Strait, who is familiar as a hunter with the Jones Sound region, and who has been in Commander Peary's various expeditions for some fifteen years, came peditions for some fifteen years, came in and indicated the same localities and

Then the first boy was brought in again, and with a pencil he traced on the boys stated Dr. Cook had threatened them if they should tell anything.

The narrative of these Esquimaux is as follows:

They, with Dr. Cook, Francke and nine other Esquimaux, left Anoratok, crossed Smith's Sound to Cape Sabine, slept in Commander Peary's old house in Payer Harbor, then went through Rice Strait to Buchanan Bay. After a few marches Francke and three Esquimaux returned to Anoratok.

Dr. Cook, with the others, then proceeded up Flagler Bay a branch of Buchanan Bay, and crossed Ellesmere Land through the valley pass at the head of Flagler Bay, indicated by The Bay, indicated by The Bay, indicated by The Bay a manual returnation of the sequimaux killed a deer, as indicated on the chart.

Dr. Cook, with the others, then proceeded up Flagler Bay a branch of Buchanan Bay, and crossed Ellesmere Land through the valley pass at the head of Flagler Bay indicated by Commander Feary in 1898, and utilized by Sverdrup's "Bay Fiord" on the west side of Ellesmere Land.

Their route then lay out through this fiord, thence north through Sverdrup's "Heuerka Sound" and Nansen Strait.

On their way they killed musk-oxen and bear, and made caches, arriving eventually at a point on the west side of Nanseen Strait (shore of Axel Heiberg Land of Svexdrup), south of Cape berg Land of Sverdrup), south of Cap

Thomas Hubbard.

A cache was formed here and the four Esquimaux did not go beyond this point. Two others, Koolootingwah and Inughito, went on one more march with Dr. Cook and the two boys, helped to build the snow igloo, thes returned without sleening.

Dr. Cook and the two boys, helped to build the snow igloo, thes returned without sleeping.

After sleeping at the camp where the last two Esquimaux turned back, Dr. Cook and the two boys went in a northerly or northwesterly direction with two sledges and twenty odd dogs, one more march, when they encountered rough ice and a lead of open water. They did not enter this rough ice, nor cross the lead, but turned westward or southwestward a short distance and returned to Heiberg Land at a point west of where they had left the cache and where the four men had turned back.

Here they remained four or five sleeps, and during that time I-took-ashoo went back to the cache and got his gun which he had left there, and a few items of supplies.

When asked why only a few cur-

After being informed of the boys parrative thus far, Commander Peary saggested a series of questions to be put to the boys in regard to this trip from the land out and back to it. Thes questions and answers were as Did they kill any bear or seal while out on the ice north of Cape Thomas Hubbard? Ans.—No.

Did they kill or lose any of their dogs while out on the ice? Ans.—No.

With how many sledges did they start? Ans.—Two.

How many dead did they

Ans.—Did not remember exactly,

Then the first boy was brought in again, and with a pencil he traced on the map their route, members of our party writing upon the chart where, according to the boy's statement, they had killed deer, bear, some of their dogs, seal, walrus and musk-oxen.

The second boy was then called in and the two went over the chart together, the second boy suggesting some changes as noted hereafter.

Finally, Panikpah, the father, was again called in to verify details of the portions of the route with which he was personally familiar.

The bulk of the boys' testimony was not taken by Commander Peary, nor in his presence, a fact that obviates any possible claim that they were awed by him.

Certain questions on independent lines from the direct narrative of the Esquiman boys.

Still later, Commander Peary asked the Esquiman boys were suggested by Commander Peary asked the Esquiman boys were only cased to the Esquiman boys.

Still later, Commander Peary asked the Esquiman boys were only greated by the first boy, was criticised by the second boy as being too large and too far to the west, the second boy as the politon of the island was more nearly in line with the point where they had left Heiberg Land (Cape Northeast) and first to the fact that the position of the island was more nearly in line with the point where they had left Heiberg Land (Cape Northeast) and the change of the boys, as he told Mr. Whitney and Billy Pritchard, the cabin boy, that they must not tell Commander Peary or any of us anything about their journey, and nes Land, the Esquimaux alice as indicated on the chart.

The above emphasized portion of the statement of the Esquimaux boys covers the period of time in which Dr. Cook claims to have gone to the pole and back, and the entire time during which he could possibly have made any attempt to go to it.

The answers of the Esquimaux boys to Commander Peary's series of inde-

The answers of the Esquimaux boys to Commander Peary's series of independent questions, showing that they kined no game, made no caches, lost no dogs, and returned to the land with loaded sledges, makes their attainment of the pole on the trip north of Cape Thomas Hubbard a physical and mathematical impossibility, as it would demand the subsistence of three men and over twenty dogs during a journey of 1,040 geographical miles on less than two sledge loads of supplies.

Their testimony was ourshorated by other men in the tribe, and was elicited neither by threats nor promises, the two hoys and their father talking of their journey and their experiences in the same way that they would talk of any hunting trip.

To go more into details: One of the boys was called in, and, with a chart on the table before him, was asked to show where he had gone with Dr. Cook.

This he did, pointing out with his finger on the map, but not making any marks upon it.

W. Wallace, the blind organist, play a programme of organ and piano music, and when the delightful concert was finished every one present must have been greatly impressed with Prof. Wallace's work. His handling of a three manual organ of the size of Knox certainly shows that he is a master. Beyond an almost imperceptible hesitancy in the changing of the stops, one could hardly realize that a blind man was sitting at the consul. His numbers on the organ were works of well-known masters, of which he displayed a musician's intiwere works of well-known masters, of which he displayed a musician's intimacy. Three numbers on the organ were of his own composition, and were well rendered.

At the piano Prof. Wallace seemed equally at home, having delightful touch, and a thorough understanding of what he was playing.

Mrs. W. F. Brennen sang most acceptably "The Publican" and the Knox Male Quartette also assisted. The programme was:

A WORTHY SHOW.

Only a small audience was on hand to see Sam S. and Lee Shubert's presentation of "The Witching Hour" at the Grand Opera House last night. The play is worthy of much better patronage, and those who saw it went away immensely pleased. As a dramatic performance, nothing has been seen here so far this scason to equal "The Witching Hour," and it is the excellent acting of every individual member of the cast that makes the play such a success. The plot makes the play such a success. Howard Gould, as Jack Brookfield, who played the character in the original cast, was as good as ever, and gave a faithful portrayal of the straight gambler, who finally reformed for a woman's sake. Miss Helen Robertson, in the role of Mrs. Helen Whipple, proved herself an actress of unusual cleverness. In the dramatic situations she was particularly good, and displayed wonderful dramatic feeling in the climaxes. Louis Thomas did not handle the role of Clay Whipple with all its possibilities, and his acting was hardly up to the standard of the other members of the cast. The character of Justice Prentice did not suffer in the hands of Harry Leighton, and his magnetic personality brought the audience in close sympathy with him. The rest of the company gave good support, and everything considered the play is a good. company gave good support, and every-thing considered, the play is as good as anything ever seen here this season. BENNETT'S THEATRE.

Good comedy bills seldom fail to please patrons of vaudeville, and, if for no other reason, the Bennett show this week should continue to draw big busi-ness on the strength of the fun it pro-vides. In addition it contains an abun-dance of pleasing singing, graceful dane vides. In addition it contains an around ance of pleasing singing, graceful dancing and considerable novelty. The English Mermaids, who will be recognized as part of the famous Finney troupe, are always a hit on any bill, their pretty swimming exhibition, in which they perform some really startling feats, being entirely out of the ordinary. Another genuine novelty attracting considerable attention is the offering of Luigi Marabim, who, with amazing rapidity, chis els figures out of solid blocks of ice. A an opening number it is an exceptionally strong act, and leaves the audience in a pleasant frame of mind for what is to pleasant frame of mind for what is to follow. The singing of the Dixie Serenaders, two dusky mades from the southland and four colored men, is full of melody, and, milke most "smoke" acts, the staging and other details of this attraction have received care and attention. The vocal work of Zinell and Boutelle, who appear in a comedy skit, is another pleasing feature of a bill that provides two hours of entertaining amusement.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Barry, who will appear here next week in a new farce, entitled "At Hensfoot Corners," are old favorites in Hamilton. They will be remembered for the hit they made at the Savoy at the time of the street caratrike, when they assisted at the benefit given by the union.

Mount Robson.

Meunt Robson.

In a letter received by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway from the Rev. George Kinney, of Keremeos, B.C., who made successful ascent of Mount Robson, the highest peak on the Canadian Rockies, and which fact was chronicled some days ago, he says:
"You are already aware of the value of this wonderful mountain to your road. The last three summers have been spent by me in this work and my discoveries are quite important. I have no hesitation in emphatically stating that from the scenic standpoint, Mt. Robson and vicinity is without a peer. Nothing in the Rockies or Selkirks can touch this one beauty spot; forest fringed emerald lakes, Berg Lake with its icebergs floating at all times on its surface, countless glaciers and towering crags and its "Valley of 1,000 Falls" are but a few of the interesting features of this superb mountain.

Crompton & Co., from whom Mr. Crooks severs his connection on Saturday next as head salesman, gathered to present Mr. and Mrs. Crooks with tangible proofs of their esteem. The presentation took the form of a leather-lined handbag to Mr. Crocks and a handbag to his wife, both of whom have been deservedly popular with the employees and members of the firm. Mr. P. W. Nancarrow made the presentation and an address of eulogy accumpanied the gift. Mr. Crooks made a very feeling reply for the neat remembrances, and expressed regret at his intended departure for Hamilton. Harvest For His Missions Put at $64,000.

Sophia Dances Before Lord After Making Her Gift.

New York, Oct. 12.-"How much do I care for perishing men

The answer was $64,000 in cash and pledges, mostly pledges, given for missionary work in the Orient. while receiving the gift the Rev. Dr A. B. Simpson dedicated it to the Lord, and his hearers and contributors in the Gospel Tabernacle in Eighth avenue sang a hymn.

There were no offerings of jewels on Sunday morning-perhaps they have all been yielded in former years-but all been yielded in former years—but the spirit was still willing if the material was spent. One of the doctor's followers offered herself by written in this city, and not until the last dollar was gone did money begin to come in.

"But God repays," said the doctor; "since then He has sent into this work more than $4,000,000. The whole question is: How much do we care? How much are we doing? Who is our neighbor? How much do I care for perishing men? We see a picture of a lost and suffering world. Notwithstanding what humanitarian dreamers say, the course of mankind is downward. It is not the ascent of man but the descent of man. The devil has been robbing men always and he is busy to-day.

"The devil leaves us when he has taken all we've got. The Church, in the person of the priest of the parable, passed the man by. There is no recuperative power in our sinful nature. All the good comes from God's touch. The social reformers are honest men and are doing a lot more than cowardly priests have done, but their work isn't adequate. They are on the wrong side of help for fallen man. It's not a question of economic adjustment. It's a question of Christ. Get men saved and the temperance question will take care of itself. Get men saved and the question of divorce will be settled—"

"Amen! Praise the Lord! Yes, yes. Glory be to God! O, yes, amen! Glory to Jesus!"

So with Buddhism and the religion of China; there's no help there those beneath; they only say, 'I can reach the heights where I an may be happy; if you do not so the the worst.' But Christianity goes much the worst. But Christianity goes to lost men. It is a gospel of Go! go, seek ye the lost.

"Have we no tears to mingle with those of Jesus for a lost world? Did Christ o'er sinners weep and shall our eyes be dry? Shall we dare to hoard the bread of life while they in the darkness sob their way to the grave? Jesus has paid our debts in advance. Is it fair for him to share our pocketbooks?" "Hallelujah! ing to Canada is to construct a dry dock on the St. Lawrence, and that it is acting in conjunction with Canadian shipping interests in this movement. There are now a half dozen steamers trading to the St. Lawrence which could not be accommodated in the Levis dock. Both the Government and the shipping interests have been anxious to remedy this defect and provide accommodation. A despatch from Quebe, stating that the Canadian Pacific and Harland & Wolff have made extensive purchases of land along the water front, and the fact that a million dollar dry dock company of Quebec is applying to Parliament for incorporation, gives a very clear indication of the Canadian associates of Harland & Wolff, and the site of their proposed dry dock and repair yards. It is stated here that the building of ships is land & Wolff, and the site of their pro-posed dry dock and repair yards. It is stated here that the building of ships is a secondary consideration in the Har-land & Wolff plan, though they expect to go in for the construction of both commercial and naval craft. The estimated loss is about $200,000, of which $50,000 will be borne $200,000, of which $50,000 will be borne by the town's light and water plant, and $150,000 by the shoe factory. Then gradually the cry of fire was heard, and over the face of the town spread the lurid glow of the fiercely burning shoe factory. The entire struc-ture was of wood, as are most of the ture was of wood, as are most of the nouses of the place, and it looked for the moment as if a general conflagration was imminent. Despite the efforts of the fire brigade, the structure was reduced to ashes. The big new barns of Albert Cahoon were destroyed, and those of Thomas Wooster were saved with difficulty. Thanks to the unselfish efforts of the Aylmer Condenser Company, which owns a private water suppany, which owns a private water suppany, which owns a private water sup the fire was put under control and further damage averted.

Then only was it discovered to what extent the electric light and water-works plant was damaged. Where the extensive structure had recently stood nothing was seen but a mass of shattered brick and twisted steel. Two 150 horse-power boilers, two pumps, two dynamos and other machinery were Jury Says Spanelli Murdered Chinese at Haileybury.

North Bay, Oct. 12 .- The high court pened before Mr. Justice Riddell at orth Bay on Monday with a heavy list of criminal and civil actions. True bills for murder were found against bills for murder were found against Saul Gouin, for inflicting wounds on a woman at Cobalt, resulting in her death some time later, and Spanelli, the Italian charged with killing a Chineso in a restaurant at Haileybury last July. The case against Spanelli was taken up and, the prisoner not being represented by counsel, the judge asked Mr. T. W. McGarry to defend him. The prosecution introduced evidence showing that Spanelli, Mirabelli and an unknown companion, three Italians, were in a restaurant at Haileybury on the evening of July 30 for supper, and in leaving an altercation arose over Spanelli refusing to pay for his supper. Ming Shew, the waiter, a youth of sixteen, grasped him by the coat, while two other Chinese tried to prevent the prisoner from leaving the place without settling. Spanelli drew a ten-inch dagger and plunged it into the body of Ming Shew, piercing the aorta and the lungs, death resulting almost instantly. Another Chinese attempted to interfere and was slashed across the hand. Spanand was siasned across the hand. Span-elli ran down the street, but was cap-tured and the dagger found where he had thrown it in making his escape, the weapon still wet with the blood of the young Chinese.

The defence tried to show that Span-elli had not ordered or eaten anything

Judge Riddell charged against the prisoner, and the jury was out only a short time, returning with a verdict of murder. Spanelli understands very little English, and the services of an interpreter were required.

MRS. TURNER

The Baby's Mother Tells Her Sad Story in Open Court.

Toronto, Oct. 13 .- Mrs. Mabel Turner was committed for trial by a jury by a charge of the murder of a girl baby, the newly-born child of Mrs. Annie the newly-born child of Mrs. Annie Authers. The preliminary investigation was conducted by Crown Attorney Crley. Mr. W. A. Henderson appearing on behalf of Mrs. Turner. All the evidence was not heard, that of several witnesses being taken as given at the inquest.

In a scarcely audible voice, to hear which Col. Denison and Crown Attorney Corley had to move close to her, Mrs. Annie Authers, a pretty and fraillooking young English lady, gave unhesitatingly answers to the questions put by the Crown and by the counsel for the defence, and related all the eventaleading up to the birth of her child and the time when it was taken away from her. As she was not very strong, permission was given her to sit down. Mrs. Authers had given no evidence at the inquest, as she was not well enough.

The witness said that she and her daughter had come out from England only a short time, and had been living

"Did you see Mrs. Turner that day?"
"Yes. She came and took the baby away. She asked me not to tell any of the neighbors, as she did not want them to know."

"Have you ever seen the baby since?"

"No." Miss Helen aWnless, a nurse in the hospital, identified the piece of tape with the name "Authers" printed on it, which was shown in court. It was the piece which had been found on the dead body, and Miss Wanless said she had printed the name herself.

Other witnesses whose evidence was taken were Miss Elizabeth Cummings and Miss Laura Gamble, nurses in the hospital; Mrs. Anna Walker, who had nospital; Mrs. Anna Waiker, who had met Mrs. Turner several times, crossing the lake on the Cayuga, and Miss Ada Balmer, employed in the shoe department of a down town store, who identified the box in which the baby was found as one in which she had not a raise.

STORIES OF ESKIMOS WHO AC-COMPANIED COOK.

That Cook Only Went to 81 Degrees and Then Turned South to North Devon Shore.

New York, Oct. 12. -Commander Roert E. Peary to-day backed up his bert E. Peary to-day backed up his many-times repeated assertion that Dr. Frederick A. Cook did not reach the Pole, with a detailed account of the evidence which he says he and his men obtained from the Eskimos who accompanied Cook on his Arctic trip. Dr. Cook, Commander Peary seeks to prove, never got further north than Cape Thomas Hubbard, the northermost point of Axel Heiberg Land, at 81 degrees 30 minutes north latitude. Accompanying his statement Commander Peary furnishes a map on which has been traced what he says was Dr. Cook's actual route. This route was Dr. Cook's actual route. This ro was Dr. Cook's actual route. This route is shown on the map, and begins at Anatok, at 78 degrees 30 minutes, passes west on a general line with the 79th parallel, and then north between Arthur Land and Axel Heiberg Land to Cape Thomas Hubbard. From this "farthest north" Commander Peary seeks to show that Cook turned south again, and that he spent the winter. seeks to show that Cook turned south again, and that he spent the winter of 1908-1909 on the northern shore of North Devon, a little less than 76 degrees north, returning northward to his starting point, Anatok, in the spring of this year. The chart also indicates the points at which, according to the Eskimos, food was killed, and other incidents of the trip occurred.

REACHING THE POLE.

Feat Discouraged by Royal Geographical Society.

London, Oct. 12. - Commander Peary's statement to the Peary Arctic Club in New York, disproving Cook's claim that he discovered the North Clab in New York, disproving Cook's claim that he discovered the North Pole, is displayed prominently in all this morning's papers, but no editorial comment has yet been made.

The view of the controversy taken by all of the English authorities, however, was well indicated by Major Leonard Darwin, President of the Royal Geographical Society in a lecture delivered in Newcastle last night. His topic was "Lieut. Scott's projected antarctic expedition." Major Darwin said, while referring to the North Pole controversy, that it had always been the policy of the Royal Geographical Society to throw that it had always been the the Royal Geographical Society cold water on any such feat as a mere attempt to reach the Pole.

HELD URN AND ASHES

Unusual Case for Customs Officials of Toronto to Decide.

Toronto, Oct. 13.—One of the most peculiar cases the customs officials have had to give a decision upon came up yesterday, when a golden crematory urn ontaining the ashes of Mr. Reginald G. containing the ashes of Mr. Regimild G. Sheppard, who died at Pittsburg six years ago, was held up at the customs house in order to adjust the duty upon it. The customs officers were not aware of the nature of the contents of the urn until informed by Mr. A. W. Miles, undertaker, to whom it was consigned. There was some doubt at first as to whether the wrn and its contents were dutiable, but the officials finally decided to allow the unusual consignment to pass through free. to pass through free.

ITALIAN MOB

Says That Railway's Claim Agent Try to Attack Vatican and Spanish Embassy.

Checked by Infantry With Bayonets and Cavalry.

Rome, Oct, 12.-Over 20,000 person ttended a mass meeting to-day in the Piazza di Campo to protest against the Prof. Francisco Ferrer, the noted Spanish Anarchist, at Barcelona. Those present were mostly laborers and shopkeepers, with a large proportion of the dregs of the population, the unemployed, discon-tented and hooligans, besides Socialists and Anarchists. Violent speeches, hosand Anarchists. Violent speeches, hos tile to Spain and the Vatican, were made tile to Spain and the Vatican, were made, and these were greeted with groans and cries of "Down with Spain," "Death to the Pope," and "Death to Merry del Val." The harangue lasted for over an hour, and then they were interrupted by the sight of a dirigible balloon which unexpectedly appeared, making circles over the meeting place.

unexpectedly appeared, making circles over the meeting place.

The police had taken precautions to guard against disorders, and troops were concealed at convenient places where their services could be quickly called upon. The meeting ended calmly, but when the mob attempted to cross the bridges cavalry blocked their way while infantry were lined eight deep along the street and at the corners lead along the street and at the corners leading to the two Spanish Embessies and the Vatican. When the mob saw these preparations they hesitated for a while and then attempted to rush the lines, They were checked by the infantry with fixed bayonets, while the cavalry delivered charges. Each charge was preceded by a warning bugle call, which created a panic among the crowd and caused a stampede.

A portion of the demonstrators suc-

a panie among the crowd and caused a stampede.

A portion of the demonstrators succeeded, however, in reaching the centre of the city through side streets. They occasionally penetrated the military cordon and started running towards the Palazzo di Spagna, where the Spanish Embassy building was surrounded by troops eight deep, and the mob's attempts to reach it were fruittless. The police used their fists freely, and the soldiers charged, repulsing the attacks. The mob made similar efforts to reach the Vatican, but they were frustrated in a like manner. Stones were thrown at the cavalry. A few slop windows were broken. The troops are still holding their positions, but the danger of conflicts is considered to be past.

The Tribuna says the Pope intends to ask King Alfonso to grant Ferrer a respite. Lawyers in Rome called at the Spanish Embassy to-day and delivered to the Ambassador a resolution against Ferrer's trial and execution.

Captain Scott Speaks of His Antarctic Expedition.

London, Oct. 12 .- At a meeting at the Mansion House, presided over by the Lord Mayor and attended by a number of other prominent persons to-day, it was unanimously agreed to support the fund recently proposed for the equipment of the South Pole expedition of Capt. Robt. F. Scott. A subscription list was opened, which Sir Edgar Speyer headed with a contribution of $5,000.

Capt. Scott was present, and after outlining his plans, sorrowfully admitted that British pre-eminence in northern exploration had passed in favor of the Unted States, and said that it remained for England only to turn her attention to the Antarctic and plant the Union Jack on the South Pole. In concluding he said: "I do not exaggerate when I say that had not a British subject come forward to undertake this work, we would have found ourselves with a foreign rival in the field, and that before many weeks had passed. of other prominent persons to-day, Montreal, Oct. 12.—It was announced to-day that the new Thomson line steamer Tortonia would ply this winter between St. John and Mediterranean ports. Curiosity as to what would be done with the White Star's new boats, the Laurentic and Megantic, was also satisfied with the announcement that they would replace the Cedric and the Celtic on the New York and Liverpool service, the latter boats going on the Boston-Mediterranean line. The White Star will run a Portland service, with the Canada and Dominion, bi-monthly.

TYRANNY OF POWER

Sane Woman Was Incarcerated in an Asylum.

Quebec, Oct. 12. - Sir Francis Langelier, Chief Justice of the Super-Langelier, Chief Justice of the Superior Court, was called upon to render judgment this afternoon in a case that involved an outrage by a husband against his wife. A French-Canadian named Richard some time ago undertook to get rid of his wife by having her forcibly removed from her home by men who would not allow her even to dress, but who wraped her in a blanket and conveyed her to the Beauport Lunatic Asylum as demented. It appears that Richard had previously gone to Dr. Brochu, Superintendent of the Asylum, and falsely represented to him

Richard had previously gone to Dr. Brochu, Superintendent of the Asylum, and falsely represented to him that his wife was insane, and had attempted to burn their home.

Strange to say, Dr. Brochu, without any preliminary investigation whatever, gave the order for her incarceration. Soon afterwards, especially when Mrs. Richards' friends came to the reacue, Dr. Brochu investigated and found the woman perfectly sane. As soon as Mrs. Richards was released she took action for a bill of separation, which was granted this afternoon. Sir Francis Langelier, in rendering judgment, said he considered that the defendant Richard had basely abused the plaintiff, his wife, and also by false representations had deceived the Superintendent.

STORIES OF ROCKEFELLER

STORIES OF ROCKEFELLER.

Of the many stories that are in circulation about John D. Rockefeller here is one which is not only absolutely authentic, but which throws a curious light upon the character of the famous millionaire. Many years ago Mr. Rockefeller was a clerk in a Chicago house, at a salary of ten dollars a week. He had an ailment which required a simple and harmless operation. He went to a surgeon of high repute in Cleveland and arranged to pay so much a month. Not geon of again reputer in Covenand and arranged to pay so much a month. Not long ago the old complaint manifested itself again, and Mr. Rockefeller sent for the doctor of his youth.

"Oh," said the other, "I am out of practice; I wish no fee."
Mr. Rockefeller stepped to his desk, placed bills to the amount of $1,000 in an envelope, and hunded them over to the surgeon with the remark, "Well, if you don't want to take a fee, perhaps you will kindly give these to some poor you will kindly give these to some poor young doctor of your acquaintance."

Apropos of Mr. Rockefeller's decision to give no more interviews to the press, a very amusing story is told of how he baffled a young New York reporter during the proceedings against the Standard Oil Company last summer. The reporter in question handed him a note, asking "Do you believe you should receive important of the post of the process of the in question handed him a note, asking "Do you believe you should receive im-munity from criminal prosecution for your testimony here should criminal pro-ceedings be brought?" he will confer with the French Government with a view to securing a penny postal rate on letters between Canada and France, similar to that now existing in the case of Great Britain and Canada. A corresponding reduction of rates on newspapers and other mail matter is also contemplated.

The endeavor to secure a cheaper postage service between the two countries is in line with the policy of the department in reducing rates wherever feasible, thus encouraging trade relations and producing a large increase in the volume of mail business done. A penny postal rate between France and Canada would also be a fitting sequel to the conclusion of the new Franco-Canadian trade treaty.

its credit. The game was played with the mercury at 34 degrees above zero, but 17,0% persons braved the chilling temperature and freezing blasts.

The American League cahmpions outclassed their rivals in every department of the game, and the pitching of George Mullir will make one of the brightest hits in the baseball history of Detroit. It is hard to conceive of any pitcher having his opponents more at his mercy than Mullin had Pittsburg yesterday. There was never a -moment when he was not the absolute master of the situation, and he was at his best with men on the bases. Four hits represented the ability of the visitors, and no two of these were made in the same inning.

Mullin performed a feat in the third inning that will live long in the annals of baseball, and was frozen on the minds of those who saw it. In the third inning he struck out the mighty Wagner, with two out and men on second and third. That was a mighty feat, but just previously he had struck out Manager Clarke, a hard hitter, with men on first and second. A double steal on Clarke's third strike moved the men to second and third. That was a mighty feat, but just previously he had struck out Manager Clarke, a hard hitter, with men on first and second. A double steal on Clarke's third strike moved the men to second and third, where they were when Wagner came to bat. Leifield was also a victim on strikes in this same inning, giving Mullin three strike-outs in one session. All told, he struck out the visitors ten times.

STANAGE HITS IN TWO RUNS

STANAGE HITS IN TWO RUNS.

Detroit scored because it was able to hit when hits spelled runs. Stanage, Jennings' young catch, distinguished himself in the second inning by sending Detroit's first two runs across the plate with a drive just out of Miller's reach. In the fourth inning Bush's ringing double into the overflow crowd in left field scored another run, and it was immediately followed by another two-bagger into the same place by Ty Cobb. The slaughter by Detroit in the second and fourth innings drove Leifield, Pittsburg's lefthander, from the slab, and he was succeeded by the veteran Philippi, who was able to stem the Detroit tide, although they pressed him hard in the eighth inning.

Eight hits were made by Detroit, six of which came in the two innings when the scores were made. Only two were wasted.

Outside of Mullin there were no stars on the Detroit team, but their ensemble work was brilliant. Only one fielding slip marred the otherwise perfect perform-cold apparently affected the Pittsburg fielding far more than it did De-troit's. The National League champions put up a miserable exhibition in that di-vision. Six errors was a distribution of the division. Six errors were charged up to fielders, Abstein, Miller and Phillippi each getting two.

Only one of them, however, figured in he scoring. The conclusive victory of hetroit has toppled Pittsburg from its roud position as the favorite in the betting.

The teams left for Pittsburg last night and the fifth game will be played at Forbes Field to-day. The scene will then shift back to this city, where the sixth game is scheduled for Thursday.

WAGNER HELPLESS AT THE BAT

Hans Wagner failed to star as he did in yesterday's game. At the bat he was helpless. The first time up he was lucky enough to draw a base on balls, but was forced out at third. The third inning saw him strike out; in the sixth he sent a hummer into Tom Jones' hands, and in the ninth he was an easy out, Moriarity to Tom Jones I hands, and two put-outs and four assists, but most of them were of the easy sort. His best play came in the fourth inning, when he fumbled a grounder by Stanage for

It's easy to pick the winner of the world's series at this stage. Anyone can do it with two guesses, and the ordinary follower of baseball would have just as much success with a single selection as the sharp. It's anyone's game, and Adams might win for Pittaburg to-day, ever with Wild Bill Donovan on the mound for Detroit.

second game. A majority of them call it a bonehead play, but others are equally insistent that it was a brilliant stroke. So far as we can see it, any play that succeeds is a good one. When it fails, shout "Bonehead."

Jack Johnson seems to be played out

It was not till yesterday that Detroit's new infield showed class. George Mullin makes no secret of the fact that during Friday's game at Pittsburg he missed at least one of the old infielders — the talkative Germany Schaefer. "I know that Delehanty is a better batter and just as good a fielder," said Mullin to-day. "I know the shift that Hughey made in our infield gave us the chance to win the pennant; but, for all that, in the game with Pittsburg on Friday there were times when I would have given a good deal to have had the Dutchman come over and say: "Why don't you pitch ball, you big stiff?" That's the way he used to do, and I know he used to help me with his talking and roasting."

There is a discussion going on among sporting editors as to the wiscom of Ty. Cobb's steal home in the featherweight at all.

Tom Jones grounded to Leifield and Delehanty was run down between third and home by Gibson, Moriarity taking third and Tom Jones second on the play. Stanage then singled past Miller, and Moriarity and Tom Jones scored. Mullin forced Stanage, Wagner to Miller, and went on to second when Miller threw into the crowd in attempting to complete the double play. The inning ended with D. Jones easy bounder to Leifield.

The fourth session netted three more runs for the winners. Tom Jones beat out a bunt along the third base line as a starter, but he was doubled up with Stanage, Wagner to Abstein. Mullin drew a pass and west at this day. Stanage, Wagner to Abstein. Mullin drew a pass and went to third on D. Jones' hit to left. Mullin scored and D. Jones went to third when Bush hit into the left field overflow for a two-bagger. Cobb smashed another double in the same place, sending D. Jones and Bush across the plate. Crawford ended the inning, Leifield to Abstein.

As proof that new style open-play football, brought about by changes in the rules, has made friends among college officials in the south, the announcement is made that at least four institutions have removed the lid which prevented the game being played for several years. Cumberland University authorities at Lebanon, Tenn., consented to leunch as formidable eleven as possible. Milisaps College, a Methodist institution, which has never tolerated athletics of any kind, wil send a squad to the gridiron, and elevens flourish again at Alabama Presbyterian College and Mississippi College for the first time in four years. Dates Must be Fixed This Month.

Montreal, Oct. 13.—Whether Montreal will go after the Minto Cup this fall depends on the answer that will be received from the trustees to-day. Jack Davidson, secretary of the association, was in communication with Mr. P. D. Ross, one of the trustees, over the long distance 'phone to Ottawa yesterday, and Montreal's challenge was there and then given, the formal challenge following by the next mail. It was explained to Mr. Ross that Montreal wished in the event of the challenge being accepted to have dates named for this month. Whether this will be possible or not Mr. Ross is now ascertaining by communication with the other trustees and with the New Westminster club. An answer will probably be received to-morrow morning, and Jack Davidson and some other members of the executive will probably go to Ottawa on one of to-morrow's trains to discuss the matter further with Mr. Ross.

go to Ottawa on one of to-morrow's trains to discuss the matter further with Mr. Ross.

Everything practically depends on the dates to be named. It is not likely that Montreal will be willing to play for the cup this year if dates cannot be arranged for the present month. If the team does not play for the cup this year the matter of issuing a challenge for early next spring will have to be taken up at some future time.

The meeting of players was called off to-night because no definite word had been received with regard to the challenge. President Whyte, however, has interviewed the men personally and they are all willing to make the trip.

The special meeting of the N. L. U. that will take up the matter of revision of the rules and constitution will probably not be held until December, according to a statement made by President St. Pere to-night. It was felt this summer that some changes would improve the present conditions, and that the time to discuss them would be at a special meeting before the annual meeting involves too much business and is too short to allow of proper discussion of such changes as have been proposed from time to time. Many favor the proposal for a paid president and paid Board of Referees. The time has come for both, in the opinion of President St. Pere.

How to Make a Farmer.

The foundation-stone of a nation's success is revealed in an article in All Ireland Review. A friend of the author was in Denmark, and was astonished at the amount of wealth got out of so poor a country by dairies and by farming.

"No doubt," said he to a well-educated Dane, "the children are instructed in the schools as to dairying and farming."

"They are not," said the Dane, "but they are taught the old Danish poems (sagas) in the schools. That makes good Danes out of the children, and then they become good farmers."

Boston Won in the Ninth.

Speaker Scored Winning Run With a Homer.

Boston, Oct. 13. -Tri Speaker, the Boston outfielder, only made, one hit in with the New York Giants when the teams met on the Huntington avenue grounds yesterday afternoon, but it was a four sacker in the ninth inning and gave the locals the run-neccessary to win the contest. For eight innings the Red Sox held the lead on the visitors, but in the ninth Hall weakened and three runs were the result, tying the score at four all. The first two Boston men to come up in the local's half of the inning were quickly retired, McConnell on strikes and Lord on a fly to McCormick. Two strikes and three balls had been registered on Speaker, the third batter to face Crandall. Then he met one squarely and sent the ball on a line to right field. It struck the ground ten feet in front of McCormick and bounding over his head, rolled to the fence. Speaker dashed around the bases and as the ball was relayed toward the place, Schlei moved down toward the third, the fleet Bostonian passing him as the sphere bounced over his head.

The Boston team outhit and outplayed the Giants, the latter being unable to connect with Hall's slow ones at the proper moment. Ten safe hits were made off Ames and four runs tallied before McGraw decided that it was time to do something. So Meyers was sent to bat for the twirler in the eighth finning and Crandall took up the work.

The attendance was 5,862, and the gross receipts $2,834.25, of which sum the national commission receives $282.42, the clubs $1,020.34, and the players divide $1,530.49. The score:

English Billiards.

George Peters, the champion English billiard player, would like to arrange a match with George Cowman. Peters is willing to concede Cowman a handicap of 250 points in a 1.000 point game, the match to be played at the H. B. & A. Club. These gentlemen are quite the cleverest exponents of the game in these parts, and a match between them will create considerable interest.

BOWLING

The Commercial twenty man team will stack up against 20 of the H. B. will stack up against 20 of the H. B. & A. C. players at the latter club to-night. In the last match played be-tween these teams the H_g B. & A. C. won by the smallest of margins, and a great deal of interest is being taken in the match to-night.

LAYMEN'S CONFERENCE.

Charles Lee Hing, who is a Christian and attends Knox Church, Woodstock, denies that there had been any impropriety between him and the girl. He now keeps a restaurant in Woodstock. He says he offered the girl $4 a week and her board if she came to work for him at Woodstock.

'Something seemed to tell me to leave him; that it was wrong to stay,' she said. 'I don't know what came over me to go. Dr. Macklin told me that I was drugged.'

There are letters filed with the court purporting to be from Daisy Reid to Charles Lee Hing, though she denies that she wrote them.

The case comes up for trial at the assizes commencing November 15.

fortune. "I could not afford to lose the money," she said, "and I took no chance. For some time I kept it buried in a can under the house, but I feared some one might have seen me put it there, so I decided to sew it in my bustle. Later, however, I gave the money back to my mother to keep for me."

Mrs. Wolf is suing her sister, Mrs. Maggie Potter. When the mother died, her trunk, in which she kept her valuables, was opened and only a small sum was found. Most of the $950 which Mrs. Wolf guarded so sedulously was missing, and she brought suit for an accounting.

BOY SUICIDES.

No Reason Apparent For Act of Michigan Youth.

Houghton, Mich., Oct. 13.-Reni Likkonen, aged 14, placed a gun to his heart and deliberately pulled the trigger. He was killed instantly. There is no reason apparent for the boy's act. Likkonen with a companion, aged 10, went hunting to-day in the woods back of Hancock. On their return home they started playing and it was then that Likkonen shot himself.

WILL GO FREE.

Frank Fenton, who is now out on bail in Washington, D. C., charged with stealing $1,250 from two Hamiltonians at the Hamilton Jockey Club track last Wednesday, will not be brought here. When his bail expires on October 21 he will be allowed to go. Such is the information given out by Chief Smith. The parties interested will not go to the expense of bringing him back.

Winnipeg Connected With Fort William by Three Railway Lines.

Winnipeg, Oct. 12.-Winnipeg is now connected with Lake Superior by three lines of railways. To-day the last spike was driven in the Transcontinental Road near the crossing of the Wabigoon River. To-morrow it will be possible for a train to run clear through from Winnitrain to run clear through from Winnipeg to Fort William by this new line, far north of the C. P. R.

Two divisional positions will be located on the line, and one of these is at Redditt, 12 miles east of the Winnipeg River, where a substantial roundhouse has been built, the other is at Pelican Lake, six miles west of Superior Junction. A roundhouse will be built there at once.

Towns will be staked out along the line by the Ontario Government, which will supervise the sale of them.

The road opens up a rich mining and timber country as well as a magnificent scenic country.

It is not expected the road will be used for freight or passenger traffic until

It is not expected the road will be used for freight or passenger traffic until next spring, by which time, it is expected, the bridge across the Red River will be completed.

The G. T. P. have practically a completed line from Fort William to Edmonton, some where in the neighborhood of 1,500 miles.

THE WEST WING.

Settling With Companies For Fire in Parliament Buildings.

Toronto, Oct. 13.—It is probable that the final adjustment between the gov-ernment and the insurance companies interested in the recent destruction of the west wing of the Parliament build-ings will be made before the end of this week and the award made early next week and the award made early next week. It is generally conceded that the loss by water will very considerably ex-ceed what was expected. On the other hand, however, the loss to the building will not be so heavy as at first feared. The floors of the damaged wing are be-ing torn out in preparation for thor-ough fire proofing.

DISMISSED IN TORONTO.

Robert Duncan, who was dismissed from the city police last June after 18 months' service, was dismissed from the Toronto force yesterday, where he was on probation. It is alleged that when he joined the Toronto contingent he said he had never been on another police force, but it was afterwards found out he had. Being found out in that falsehood is the reason assigned for his second dismissal.

THE FARM

WINTER LAYERS. In selecting hens and pullets to b kept over for winter layers, be careful to get an even, regular lot, well propor-tioned, strong and vigorous. Pullets that have laid well the last year should continue to lay wel the coming winter if they have been carefully cared for The notion that only pullets first year will be profitable has been largely set aside as the result of experience. But little profit can come from hens

But little profit can come from hens that have passed the second year of laying. It seldom, if ever, pays to keep them over the third winter. They will seldom lay eggs enough to pay their keep, and they will never be worth more as market poultry than they will be this fall.

Hens frequently hide their nests away to escape insect vérmin of the poultry house. This occurs more frequently at this season than any other time. Late broods of this kind can be successfully grown if they are separated and kept apart from the older fowels. If compelled to fight for an existence under foot of older fowls and chicks they will fare but badly, and will not grow as they should.

POULITRY RAISING PAYS.

How many head of poultry should be kept on the average hundred-acre farm, and what should be the gross revenue?

One hundred laying hens are not too many, and they should produce a gross yearly revenue of $300.

The hundred hens should lay 800 dozen eggs in the year. Fifty dozen eggs would be required to produce 300 chickens each spring. From the chickens 50 of the best pullets would be kept to replace 50 hens each fall, and 50 hens would be killed off each year. The flock would therefore consist of 50 pullets and 50 year olds. The former would be the winter layers, and from the latter would be taken eggs for hatching in the spring. The reasons are the services the services of the services of the pullets and 50 year.

COBALT STOCKS.

The mining market in Toronto showed some signs of recuperation yesterday, although trading was not very active. La Rose was again irregular, but showed an upward tendency, opening at 6.35 and going as high as 6.51 on the Toronto and 6.60 on the Standard. Nipissing also showed am increase over Monday's closing, selling at 11.50 for a few lots. Crown Reserve also held strong, and touched 5.09. There was not much activity in the lower priced stocks, but, they maintained prices remarkably well in the face of the slump in the rich issues. Cobalt Central was in demand, and went to 33, while Silver Leaf sold around 16, closing at 165-8. Temiskaming was not doing so well, going back to 881-2. COBALT STOCKS.

Arkansas Diamonds.

Arkansas Diamonds.

Since 1906 diamonds have been found in Pika County, Arkansas, in rock similar to that of the diamond fields of South Africa. It is perficite of Ignenous origin which has been pushed up through carboniferous and cretaceous formations. In some places the rock is very hard and dense, but in others it has weathered to a soft yellowish and greenish material 20 to 25 feet deep. About 600 diamonds have been found in this rock, the largest weighing 6½ carats. The usual colors are white, brown and yellow; but one blue diamond and several black ones have been found. One bore for exploration has been driven to a depth of 205 feet. As to the prospects of more stones being found by degree mining swelch. feet. As to the prospects of more stones being found by deeper mining, geolo-gists only say that the spasmodic ex-ploitation thus far seems to indicate a Lost in Burning Coal.

An English scientist declares that there is an enormous loss of energy in burning coal. With the coal consumption of many countries in the last ten years being greater than in the preceding century, he estimates that less than five per cent. of the total heat value has been converted into useful work. The best power, plants utilize only 10 per cent. of the energy of the fuel, locomotives only 3 to 5 per cent., and electric-incandescent lamps only one-eventh of 1 per cent. To reduce this enormous waste is one of the great engineering problems. Nearly two million horse-power of the wast is represented by gas from blast furnaces. This loss is now being lessened by installation of gas engines.

Transatlantic Record Breakers.

The transatlantic record-makers of 25 years ago are being laid on the shelf, so to speak. The Umbria and Etruris represent the last of the single-screw versels and were the largest and mest ownerfully equipped vessels of their-time, but they cannot compete in economical operation with the vessels of to-day with their two, three and four propellers and those having turbine engines.

What has been done once may be done again, and with the bill collector it generally is.

BEST KNOWN IN DISTRICT.

Captain Andrew Randall Died at Grimsby Yesterday.

Captain Andrew Randall, one of the best known men in the whole Niagara district, is dead. The veteran passed away at the home of his son, James, at Grimsby Village, last night, in the 94th year of his age, and in his passing county of Lincoln loses one of oldest men and the Liberal party one of "Captain" Randall, as everyone called him, although he had the right to be called major, had spent almost a century in and around Grimsby. He was born in New York State on the 26th day of April, 1816, and when but a few months old his father's family came to Canada. They settled in Esquesing township, but soon moved to Lincoln County, to the Woolverton Mountain, about a mile and a half west of Grimsby Village. When but a young man Capt. Randall acquired the mansion house, Grimsby, and was its proprietor for over 60 years. He was known throughout the length and breadth of the land as a straightforward, outspoken, honest and reliable man; a man of more than ordinary ability, a sturdy, patriotic Canadian, and an unbending Grit. His hotel was noted for good board and good accommodation, and was a very popular place. When he was about 40 years of age Mr. Randall had an attack of typhoid fever. That was the only sickness of his life. He retained his faculties and his bright, cheerful disposition up to the last, although he had been confined to his bed most of the time for the past four of five months. 'Captain' Randall, as everyone called light covering, which showed footsteps in the back yard. Going towards the fence, they looked as if they had been made by a person who wore heavy rubbers. Those returning were, the police say, made by a woman's shoe.

Bedfort says he committed the crime about 2.30. Florence Kinrade swore on the witness stand to the best of hey knowledge that her mother left the house about 3 o'clock.

The prisoner talks of the stranger, whom he describes as about 34 years of age, five feet seven inches, medium build, and with heavy, drooping moustache, meeting him here the day of the crime.

The stranger said: "If you can keep all the secrets you learn in the next few The stranger said: "If you can keep all the secrets you learn in the next few days I will pay you well." Bedfort replied: "I'm willing to do anything if there is money in it." Then he gave an account of the negotiations between the two, the stranger saying he wanted him to kill Miss Kinrade for jilting him, and produced two revolvers, one a Mauser, the other old-fashioned.

Bedfort said: "Then you really mean to kill this girl!"

The stranger replied: "No, I want you to de it; that is the reason why I pay you."

to do it; that is the reason why I pay you."

He then gave Bedfort a lot of $5 and $10 bills, and told him to buy a disguise. Bedfort says he bought one black and two ginger beards, a black overcoat and two black caps in the Jewish quarter of Toronto, in turning off Queen street, giving two dollars and twenty cents for the lot. He then went to Hamilton, met the stranger, and gave him the disguises except the overcoat. The stranger then dressed roughly like a tramp. The stranger took back all the money he had already given Bedfort as security that he (Bedfort) would do the work, promising money to take him out of the country, and $400 in addition, after the murder was accomplished.

country, and $400 in addition, after the murder was accomplished.

Bedfort was then given the ginger wig and cap, and told to make himself look as much like a tramp as possible, and was told to meet him at Herkimer street, or something like that, next morning. There the mysterious stranger pointed out the corner house with a balcony, and told Bedfort to be there about 2.30, as only two girls would be there, and then demand money.

about 2.30, as only two girls would be there, and then demand money.

When Bedfort went to the house he saw the man about twelve houses away, and discovered he subsequently came to the door of the house. Bedfort had the door opened to him by a dark girl about 24. She was frightened when he forced admittance, and ran away. Another girl came downstairs, and at her he emptied the revolver, firing five shots. She fell, and he ran through the house, and escapell through a window at the back.

If the stranger accompanied Bedfort to the door of the house, would not Florence Kinrade have seen him? Would it not have been one of the first things she would have mentioned to the police that two men were there? If two men were there, would not Henry Woolridge and George Vallance, the coachman, who were sitting on their carriages, within a short distance of the house, have seen the men?

Bedfort in his confession wakes seen the

the men?

Bedfort in his confession makes no mention of having demanded money from Florence Kinrade. He says that when he forced an entrance the one girl ran away, and the other came down stairs. He emptied the contents of a revolver into her, firing five shots. The police have seven bullets taken from the victim's body, and the medical evidence showed that eight or nine shots were fired.

There are three points in which Bedfort's story agrees in some respects with the one told by Florence Kinrat with

There are three points in which Bedfort's story agrees in some respects with the one told by Florence Kinrade. She says the man who committed the crime was roughly dressed, although he did not look like a tramp.

Bedfort gives a pretty accurate description of Florence Kinrade as the girl who admitted him to the house.

His story that the girl who admitted him ran away and that he shot the other one agrees with Florence's story.

To his mother, Mr. Scott left half of a policy for $10,000 ip the Provident Savings Life Assurance Co. of New York, or should she prefer it the interest on $10,000 during her life. Should she choose the latter, the income will on the death of Mrs. Scott fall to the two sisters of the deceased, Clara and Margaret, or to the survivor, should one of them be dead.

The will also directs that when the estate has recovered repayment in full

INDIA'S UNREST.

Why It Should Be Put Down to the

India has been passing through a pe-iod of unwonted tumult and commotion. riod of unwonted tumult and commotion. She has seen a great and a not unjustifiable popular agitation against the division of Bengal into two provinces. She has seen a vehement and at times a violent demand on the part of the educated classes for more power and influence. She has seen British officials murdered, British goods boycotted, the alienation between rulers ad ruled deepen into overt hostility and hostility develop into sedition. She has seen the expending force of native opinion and ambitions beating upon a devoted, hard-working, but rather rigid and complacent bureaucracy. She has seen the propaganda. of the bomb and the knife countered by stern strokes of repression. She has felt the bomb and the Knife countered by stern strokes of repression. She has felt vaguely the reflex thrill of the triumphs of Japan. She has become dimly aware of a something that may in time prove to be the beginnings of a sense of collective unity among her variegated millions.

millions.

But by far the larger part of all this unrest is to be put down to the credit side of the British account. It is the result of the peace and security that British rule has brought with it. It is der dated July 9, 1900, whereby the railway was directed to install gates, and a watch tower and to pay half the cost of watchmen at the Wellington street crossing in Hamilton. It was urged by Mr. W. L. Cowan, K. C., act ting for G., T. R., that a night watchman was scarcely necessary, and that if he was to be maintained the cost should be apportioned between the G. T. R. and the City of Hamilton. The case was adjourned till this afternoon.
