As most or our readers are aware considerable breeze has arisen in regard to the action of the Minister of Education, in issuing instructions to the mas-ters of the high schools, to stop reading Marmion with their pupils. The unex-pectedness of the order has taken every-body by surprise, and the fact that most of the pupils had just obtained the book has led to considerable irritation.

It may be as well to state how the book came to be put on the list of works to be read in high schools during this

Every five years a committee of the senate of the University of Toronto, is appointed to overhaul the curriculum, to suggest at y important changes re-quiring to be made, and to prescribe the texts to be read in the various departments during the next five years. course the professors of the various departments in University College suggest what should be prescribed, and their wishes, we imagine, are always followed. The latest curriculum was issued in 1889, and although it has been somewhat modified since its first issue to meet the wishes of St. Michael's college, which has been affiliated with the university of Toronto since that time, the course in most departments stand precisely as fixed in 1880. Dr. Daniel Wilson, being professor of English literature, prescribed the course of study in English, and he selected "Marmion" as a worl suitable for junior matriculation. It fell to be read in 1883. Shortly after the high school intermediate was started the educational authorities resolved to prescribe for that ex-amination the text book selected each year for the matriculation examination by the university of Toronto. Hence Marmion was to be read during the coming year for the intermediate.

It will be seen that Mr. Crooks, did not prescribe the work, and it is pretty certain that he would not cause the work to be examined as to its suitability for school purposes. It would seem that soon after the school opened, Mr. Crook's attention was called to certain passages in the first canto as objectionable in point of morality, and to certain others throughout the poem as casting reflections on the Roman Catholic church. Till ends the weary journey, and the light of The result was the now famous order to stop reading the book. Etiquette of Introduction .

It is often said that great caution ought to be exercised in intraducing people to each other, but a somewhat exaggerated importance has been attached to this point. As a ru'e, you are not likely to meet in any house where you yourself visit any person whom you would not be willing to know. It is a graceful courtesy, however, when a gentleman has expressed a wish to be presented to a lady to tell her of it and ask her permission in advance. There is even something in the very fact that the man has desired to know her which would incline a woman favorably toward him. A man is introduced to a lady, or two ladies or two gentlemen the younger is presented to the elder or the least distinguished to the better known. It is always well to give two strangers a slight hint on which a conversation can be based. If you are introduced to Mr. Hardy, it is a name, no more ; but if your hostess adds, 'Mr. Hardy, of whose novels you are so fond," you at once understand the value of your opportunity. It is better to present "Mr. Browne from New York," than merely Mr. Brown-the name of the city may recall the thought of some common friend; at the least it gives you a score of suggestions for the first conversation which between shy people is often an effort. If you know that your interlocutor is an author an artist, a musician, you are thus furnished a key to whatever is most interesting in his range of thought and experience. It would have been hard to forgive a hostess who would have presented Trelawney to you without letting you know it was the Trelawney of Bryon and Shelley; or Severn, without any suggestion, that it was the Severn whom Keats loved. One likes to know every one who has been neighbor to the rose.

It is rudeness, when some one asks to be presented to you, not to use your best efforts to make the conversation pleasant. Merely to bow and say good evening is not sufficient. The small coin of social intercourse is imperatively called for. Especially when you are the hostess and a guest has been brought by a friend, all your social tact would be well employed to make the new-comer feel welcome and at home. In nothing is that good breeding of which true kindliness is the very soul more surely testperceives herself to have come at an inopporture time.

How Alcohol is Made. When barley or other grain is steeped in water till it sprouts, and then carefully dried, it becomes what is termed malt. By this process part of the starch of which the grain is mostly composed has been converted into sugar, and a new substance has been developed, known as disasiase, a nitrogenous body, which immediately, when the malt is mixed with water, reacts on the remaining starch and transforms it also into sugar the liquid consequently soon assuming a sweet taste. We have now, in fact, a solution of sugar, which is known as wort; bnt we may attain the same by using unmalted grain-potatoes, peas, beans, or other starchy materials, which by the addition of dilute sulphuric acid. is converted into a soluble sugar. Having thus obtained a solution of sugar from any of these sources, or still more directly from beet root or "toothsome cane," yeast is added to the wort, and the process of "fermentation," is rapidly set up by which the sugar is decomly set up by which the sugar is decomposed into two chief products, alcohol and carbonic acid gas, and several minor ones, glycerine, succinic acid, etc., 95 out of every 100 parts of sugar being transformed into alcohol and carbonic acid, four parts going to form glycerine, etc., and one part as nourishment to the yeast plant, which has multiplied immensely, and now forms a frothy scum and the object of the next process, the distillation of the fermented wort or mash, is to separate the spirits from the liquid in which it exists. The produce spirits were first obtained .- [Chambers'

ELOQUENT BUT UNAVAILING. - A man dressed in sailor costume was up before country court the other day upon a charge of stealing a pair of boots. As he had no counsel the court appointed a young lawyer to take charge of the defence. The lawyer alluded to his client as "a child of the sad sea waves, a nursling of the storm, whom the pitiless billows had cast a forlorn and friendless waif, upon the shores of time, after a life spent in fierce and heroic contests with the reigning elements." Then the defendant was put in the dock, and the fact was revealed that he was cook on a canal boat, previous to which he had hawked fish. The "nursling of the storm" is now in jail for six months. -

Many of our most celebrated men, whose names are conspicuous in the world of literature, were not renowned in their youth for any special-mental own. briliancy. Some of the greatest dunces of the schoolroom, later on in life, shoot out far ahead of their mates and eclipse quenches the fire of every pain, and only faith can do it. them entirely. The "dull boys," who strive with all their might, long and earnestly, to achieve success, frequently of wrong, has not committed the unparbear away the honors from the companions who outshone them at an earlier day-and develope a mental and intellectual strength that carries them on till great heights are attained.

The celebrated and eloquent Dr Chalmers was exceedingly dull and stupid at his school tasks-so ready for play and prejudiced against study-that his master grew discouraged and lost all his patience with him. At last, denouncing him as an incorrigible "dunce," he ordered him to leave the parish school, and prophesied that nothing could be made of him under the most favorable circumstances.

Remember my boy, says Bob Burdette, the good things in the world are always the cheapest. Spring water costs less than corn whiskey; a box of cigars will buy two or three bibles; a gallon of old brandy costs more than a barrel of flour.

It is related of Sir Isaac Newton 'that he stood at the bottom of the lowest form but one in school, though he atterward went to work with a strong determined the fine arts; while, on the contrary, nothing can be more ungainly than its awkward application. "The remedy is simple, said I; 'always treat your husband with a smile.' The woman thanked me, dropped a curtsey, and went away. A few months after she came again, bringing a couple of fine fowls. She told me, with great satisfaction, that I had cured her husband, and she begoed my acceptance of the fowls in return. This was at once the victory of love and the reward of patience.

THE RAILWAY QUESTION.

The time for definite action on the railway question has arrived. A competitive line is needed at Goderich to develop its natural advantages, and the sooner our public men put their shoulders to the wheel the better. For some time back the railway question has been agitated in the columns of THE SIGNAL, but owing to lethargy on the part of the Railway committee of the Council no conversation, often unconsciously utteraction has been taken. Last year the ed by the speaker, yet always recognized work of agitating for a branch of the in whatever habit of words it may be Credit Valley from Woodstock, via St. Marys, was begun, and Goderich took as a camel, but no trappings can disguise the initiatory work in hand. Delegates its form. And you can depend upon it tween Goderich and Woodstock met at supreme idea in the choicest manner will Exeter, and a practicable scheme was formulated. An application for procuring a charter for the proposed route was brought before the Legislature and acted upon, and everything bade fair to bring about a speedy consummation of the scheme when the bugaboo of the absorption of the C. V. R. by the G. W. R. lays their sentiments about liberty of to let the world known of it. was raised, and the question was allowed speech, freedom of action, and respect to drop. Since that time railway matters have assumed a different shape. The Great Western has allowed itself to be made the victim of tusion with the and who admires noble thought. But Grand Trunk-the would-be gobbler of this did not keep him from turning with the C. V. R. has itself been gobbled by tremendous effect upon an adversary a the G. T. R., and the C. V. It is brief, it is vigorous, but gauge line, but during the past year the it is not scholarly. It runs entire track has been changed to the full regulation width, and the capacity of the road for traffic is now equal to any of its competitors. The line, when in course John's favorite poet, but he must be an of construction, was pushed as far as Englishman, and fond of a pint of Teeswater, with the intention of finding a lake outlet at Kincardine, but failing to obtain bonuses in some of the northern municipalities, the terminus of the road was made, and still remains at that point. The T. G. & B. R. is controlled by Messrs. Hendrie, Edmund Osler and other bitter opponents of the G. T. R,, and we have every reason to believe that an effort on the part of Goderich to divert the line hither would be met halfway by the controllers of the road.

The above is sufficient to show that favorable opportunities exist for the obtaining of increased railway facilities by people of the town to take action in the matter. A public meeting should at once be called by the Mayor, and the iron should be struck while it is hot.

Since the above was written we find a special despatch to The Globe from London saying, that "there is good authority for stating that a proposition has been made to transfer to the Credit Valley the charter of the London Junction Railway, giving that company the right of way into the city and ground tor a station. The Credit Valley, it is said, are ready to covenant that the road shall be built and running into the city by the month of May next. It is understood that a line will in the near future be built from London to Goderich, thence connecting by boat with the Canada Pacific Railway and Prince Arthur's Landing for Winnipeg.

THE name of Benedict Arnold is held in execration by the people of the United States, because in the struggle for independence and just government he betrayed his country to the enemy. And what should we think of men who a year ago voted for Ontario's rights and Ontario's soil, yet now crouch abjectly disguised introduction of party politics before the oppressors, and seek to deliver the Province into the hands of her enemies? But Arnold's treachery did not keep a young nation crippled, and known as Pig-heads that will vote for Meredith's baseness will result only in his own humiliation.

An eastern contemporary puts the case very nicely when it remarks : "Care powers of issuing licenses for political should be taken by the politicians of Ontario to see that no injustice is done to Quebec in the matter of the Boundary award. Quebec is a poor, weak, trusting, shrinking little thing, and is too backward and modest to ask for any thing for itself. It therefore becomes the duty of the politicians of Ontario to join hands in seeing that Quebec is not despoiled or that any injustice is done to it. Indeed, judging from the opinions of some of the Ontario journals it would look after the interests of Ontario, but to look after the interests of Quebec."

'A Neat Answer.

The Winnipeg Times says :-"Though repeatedly challenged to do so, THE GLOBE has not yet explained why it condenns Sir Leonard Tilley for having a surplus and applauds Mr Wood for the same oppression of the working man. The reason why THE GLOBE has not explained is simply because the inconsistency is too glaring to admit of any defence."

The Times is mistaken. We have made the explanation asked for. We condemn Sir Leonard Tilley for having a surplus because it is the result of unnecssary and oppressive taxation imposed for the benefit of a small class of the community. The sources of Ontario's revenue are partly the sales of Crown lands, timber limits, etc, which simply realize the natural wealth of the country, but mainly the subsidy of eighty cents per head of the population from the Dominion Government. As the amount of this subsidy is fixed by the British North America Act, it is beyond the scope either of Dominion or Ontario legislation to alter it. It is not increased by the tariff, nor would it be decreased by the control of the control o free trade. The Ontario Government,

The Independent elections, come when they may, will not materially change the existing relations between Mr. Mowat and the people, and though we have every respect for Mr. Meredith, we cannot give him the smallest hope or encouragement as to the convention of Wednesday bringing him any nearer to the Provincial Premiership.

New York, Oct. 10.-While Four teenth street was crowded this afternoon with shoppers, a demented Frenchman ran amuck through the thoroughfare, and with a pair of sharp-pointed carpenter's compasses stabbed right and left, his victims being woman. The wife of a policeman who patrolled the block was one of them, and when her husband arrested the lunatic he did not know that the compasses were dripping with his wife's blood. The lunatic was Earnest Dubaurgne, a half idiotic painter, whose antics for years made him a conspicuous character. The victims were more or less severely injured. The pugnacious physician was angry, but he had sense enough not to show it to the thousand and one applicants for a free passage to Egypt, who kept up the devil's tattoo on his door all day long. There will be little cotton to pick in Egypt this year, but there is plenty in our own South, where good men can earn from 75c to $1.25 per day at this occupation. As wages in Egypt, when times are good, run about 15c. per day, it is difficult to see why so many should want to go to that unfortu-nate country; but the glamor of distance, a free passage, and vague antici-pations of what might be done there which, of course, could not be done here, drew thousands seriously to inquire into the matter, showing that either a great many men are out of employment, that a great many workers are willing to waste their time after an ignus fatuus.

Antumn Leaves.

The delicate gradations of colour and the gentle contrasts in leafage constitut e the especial charm of the early close of autumn, but are only noticed by the close observer. * * * At this incipient stage of decay let those who appreciate the beauty of the early tinting stand under the branches of an oak or beech and look up into the mass of leaves. A thousand may be gathered, and no one will be at all like another in the colour markings. The picturesque disposition of golden yellow, brown and reddish brown upon the normal green will be shown in an endless variety of ways. Though not outvying in variety the colouring of the cak leaves in early autumn, the foliage of the beech is more elegant by reason of the more regular and symetrical contour of the leafy outlines, and of the framework upon which the glossy tissue is spread. The veins running in parallel lines from the "midrib" to the wavy but unindented margin present grooves or channels along which the autumn tinting advances, giving an appearance as of green and amber stripes alternating with each other. Sometimes the advancing colour first tips with red or amber, or it may be pale straw colour,

Hence he regarded the proposition of the Dominion Government to ignore the award and refer the question to a new set of arbitrators, as a wise stroke of "statesmanship" on the part of Sir John. Mr. Meredith has enjoyed the reputation of being more than ordinarily clear headed and intelligent. When he places it on record that he favors the abandonment of the award in order to keep Quebec from demanding "compensation" from the Dominion Government, he invites the belief that he has not been endowed with more common sense than the law allows. Why should Quebec demand compensation? And why should Mr. Meredith ask the people of Ontario to back him up in recognizing Quebec's right to any such demand? It is not a question between Quebec and On ario; and if it was, why should Mr. Meredith be so solicitous on behalf of Quebec, and so exceedingly careless of Ontar o's rights ! Mr. Meredith evidently imagines that it is Ontar io's bounden duty to sacrifice itself whenever Quebec demands a slice from Sir John, but it will find that the people are not so soft headed as to agree with him on that point ?- [Sami: Oserver.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. Ayen's Pills are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AXER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizzk ness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropey, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal. As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal. While gentle in their action, these PILLs are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

Not long after 'Peter' arrived we found that he was suffering from the rheumatism, and in a pretty bad state. Pete was not the only one in the 'Zoo, which had a touch of that dethe 'Zoo, which had a touch of that delicious torture; the lion likewise had it and in fact I was just being cured of a bad case of the rheumatism, myself, by the use of St. Jacobs Oil, the Great German Remedy. I found St. Jacobs Oil an ex-cellent remedy, for it cured me in a short while, and my case was a very aggravated one. I argued that if it cured men it must be good for animals as well;

How I This, DUNLOY. - Several of our farmers helped each other with threshing during the week, and some rare experience in stack building oc-curred. The well-known Yorkshireman, aided by eight others, essayed to build a monster stack, but it suddenly tumbled upon them, almost burying some of the party alive. The engineer and R. D. Morris came up bravely to the rescue and helped the unfortunates out. But, truth to say, every man can build a straw stack better than the man who has the jeb.

Arabi is treated as the commonest convict by his Egyptian gaolers.

It is believed the English counsel sent to defend Arabi Pasha will be denied access to him, the Egyptian Government being of opinion that legal assistance from such quarters would be of no avail, the pleadings being in Arabic.

CAIRO, Oct. 7 .- When the annual car avan which recently departed with imposing ceremonies was journeying to Suez on the way to Mecca, the canopy over the sacred carpet was caught and overturned by a telegraph wire, and the sacred emblem exposed to view. The dervishes in charge were greatly excited by the accident, and it is not certain but that the caravan will have to return, and the ceremony be performed over again in Ottawa, Oct. 10.—The Spearman murder case was continued this morning The court room Joseph Frey, aged 60, a miser who died at Vincennes, Ind., had $4,200 in greenbacks sewed in his shirt. The immediate cause of death was eating green apples, which he got by walking into the country, thus saving the money he would have to spend for food.

Trackel for Maria Spearman, addressed the court. Hon. Mr. Scott, for the Crown, submitted that there was evidence of premediated murder, and reviewed the testimony in favor of this. "I certify that I was troubled with Catarrh in the head, gathering of phiegm in the throat, choking and coughing at night for years, so I could not sleep, often troubled with dull, life-less feelings, pains in the chest and back. After giving hundreds of dollars to doctors, and giving up all hopes, I tried the PRIDE OF THE VALLEY, and am now able to do my work after seven year's sickness."
