CHAPTER XXXV.

She was sitting by the fire, bending over it, with her face screened, but he saw her bosom heave.

"You are sure," she said, almost indignantly.

"As sure as one can be in the matter of life and death," he said, with a slight shrug of his shoulders. "Yes, sure; I am glad to say."

She shuddered slightly and looked up at him with a mixture of fear and dislike in her eyes, under which the long anxiety had painted dark shadows.

"You are glad?" she breathed, half incredulously.

"Pardon!" he said, as if with surprise. "Why should I not be glad; my friend—my closest friend—"

She rose as if his voice jarred upon her, and stood almost with her back to him.

"I don't know," she said. He assumed a wonderful expression.

"Why should you wrong me by such a doubt, Lady Florence?" he murmured, reproachfully. "Have I not tried to prove myself his friend—and yours?"

She shuddered again. "Oh, yes!" she said, with barely suppressed impatience—"I suppose so."

"Suppose!" he echoed, with raised brows.

"When can I see him—how soon?" she demanded, restlessly.

He seemed to consider for a moment.

"In a day or two," he said. "We must not try him too much at first, and of course your presence would excite him."

"I will not see him until it is safe for him," she said, biting her lip. "Tell him—no, I will write to him. I may do that?"

"Certainly," he answered. "I will be delighted with a letter from you. Your name has been on his lips day and night, Lady Florence."

Vane had scarcely mentioned her name. The color came into her pale face, and she turned her head away.

"It is only the thought of his approaching marriage which has given him the necessary spirit to pull round," he said, softly.

"That—that can not be for some time," she murmured; but there was a touch of hope in her low voice.

"Forgive me, if I venture to suggest that it should be as soon as possible," he said. "He needs a loving and watchful care—such care as only a wife can give. But there; we need not talk of him as if he were a confirmed invalid. Vane will soon be the old Vane again, and then—"

He paused significantly and left her.

"You must get well as soon as you can my dear fellow," he said to Vane, half an hour later; "you've got a big business in hand, you know."

Vane looked at him with listless interrogation.

"Big business?"

"Yes. You don't call matrimony a small one, do you?" said Senley Tyers, lightly.

Vane's face flushed, and he looked down; and though he made no response, Senley Tyers' speech had its effect, and almost the first words Vane said when Lady Florence and he met were:

"When is our wedding to be, Florence?"

"It shall be when you please, Vane," she answered, her hand trembling in his, her eyes cast down for a moment, then raised with a passionate devotion to him.

"Then I'll take the usual invalid's advantage and say 'Soon,'" he said, lifting her hand to his lips. "But for this wretched illness we should have been man and wife before this. If you'll promise to take me—what remains of me, that is—and he glanced down at his thin hands with a laugh—"next month—say the end of February—I shall have something to get well for. I'll talk about it to your father when he comes this afternoon, if you'll say 'Yes.'"

A glad light brightened her face and she let her head fall lightly upon his shoulder and drew his arm round her neck.

"I would marry you to-morrow if you'd promise to get well by the time," she said, with a faint laugh.

friend soon after the earl's departure, was told of the arrangements, and asked to play the part of best man; but to Vane's surprise he smilingly refused.

"I shall have to get you to excuse me, my dear Vane," he said. "It is a part I should play most vilely. I hate weddings, and—well, you see, it wouldn't do. You'll have to ask one of your swell relations to show up on that occasion. How did you come to forget that? You must, you know; it's noblesse oblige; the fashionable world would howl if you didn't."

Vane nodded.

"All right," he said once more. "You, all of you, have it your own way with me. But I suppose you'll condescend to be present?"

Senley Tyers shrugged his shoulders.

"I won't promise even that," he said. "It's not unlikely, we shall see. Lock here, your train goes at ten o'clock to-morrow. I've got the ticket. You go and lie in the sun in Nice for a few weeks; that's all you want now."

So, while Lady Florence was hard at work in that labor of joy—buying the trousseau—the bridegroom-elect was lounging at the Riviera. It is a wonderful place to recover one's health and spirits, and when, two days before the wedding, he drove to the inn at Runnaclesare, the village nearest to the Grange was called, he looked almost like the Vane of old.

But not quite, for, notwithstanding that the strength had come back to his stalwart frame, and the sun had restored the color to his handsome face there was still a look in the eyes and about the lips which had been absent from those of the light-hearted, devil-may-care Vane Tempest who rode to the Witches' Caldron to meet Nora Trevanion.

He reached the inn too late to get to the Grange, but a groom who had been waiting Vane's arrival carried a note announcing it and promising that he would come over on the morrow, and, tired with the journey, he went straight to bed.

When he got down in the morning and stood at the inn door, looking thoughtfully at the sunlit scene and inhaling the sweet spring air, the landlord approached him with a smile of respectful greeting which was due to the gentleman who was going to marry the daughter of the great Earl Warlock, and who was himself a connection of another equally great earl.

"A beautiful morning, sir," he said. Vane nodded, and looked up absently at the sky.

"You know that a gentleman, a Mr. Harold Tempest, is coming to-day," he said.

This was a distant cousin who had been engaged for best man.

The landlord bowed.

"Yes, sir. His lordship, the earl, told me to expect him. Everything is ready, sir."

"Very good," said Vane. "Can you let me have a horse to ride over to the Grange? How far is it, by the way?"

"Near upon four miles, sir," replied the man. "Oh, yes, sir. I've a very good horse, and I think it will be fine, your honor."

"It looks bright enough," said Vane preparing to go in to his breakfast.

"Yes, sir; it's too clear over the Witches' Caldron for rain."

Vane started and stood still.

"What—what place did you say?" he asked, his back to the obsequious landlord.

"The Witches' Caldron, your honor."

Vane turned slowly, his lips compressed, a shadow on his face. Beyond the fact that the Grange was near Runnaclesare, and, like the Witches' Caldron, in Cornwall, he knew nothing of his whereabouts.

"How near is it?" he asked.

"A matter of ten miles, your honor," replied the landlord. "It's a main pretty place, but wild like. It's close to the sea. You can almost see it from your window, your honor."

Vane stood silent and motionless. "In which direction does it lie?" he asked, after a long pause.

The landlord pointed to the east.

"Right in a line with my forefinger," he said. "There's the Grange as you might say, inland to the left; and there's the Witches' Caldron on the coast, a bit to the right. It isn't a sight out of your honor's way, if so be as your honor wasn't pressed for time and 'ud care to see one of the roughest spots we've got."

Head Stuffed? Got A Cold? Try Pape's

"Pape's Cold Compound" relieves worst cold or the gripe in five hours—No quinine used.

Take "Pape's Cold Compound" every two hours until you have taken three doses, then all extreme misery goes and your cold will be broken. It promptly opens your clogged-up nostrils and the air passages of the head; stops nasty discharge or nose running; relieves the headache, dullness, feverishness, sore throat, sneezing, soreness and stiffness.

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffing. Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Accept no substitute.

Fashions and Fads.

Sashes are still wide. The new hats show a touch of fur. The all-black hat is a great favorite. The corsetless figure is now fashionable.

Bodices are flat with sloping shoulders. Smart afternoon gowns are of black satin.

Waistcoats are still worn with smart suits. Eponge is one of the most popular materials.

Lynx and red fox are much in fashion's favor. Butterflies are fashioned of velvet, silk and lace.

The newest neckwear is trimmed with edges of fur. Coats, skirts and gowns have much fur trimming.

Blouses are flat and have the dropped shoulder line. Mustards and yellows are colors not used for street suits.

Separate wraps for street wear are three-quarter length. Purple and yellow are the most fashionable colors for dyed fur.

Fur, lace net or plaid taffeta trim the separate blouses of chiffon. The frocks of serge are brightened by sashes of Roman striped Ribbon.

Skirts are widened by all manner of drapery, tunics, flounces and ruffles. Gowns and wraps are adorned with fringe of beads, silk or metal thread.

Some low-necked evening gowns are outlined with furring trills of tulle or lace. Generally speaking, color combinations are less bizarre and more artistic.

For evening wear, the swathed, boned or draped skirt is reigning supreme. The vogue for the silk street dress not only holds, but seems to be growing in popularity.

Most beautiful are the evening gowns of metal, lace or tulle, stiffened at the lower edge. The buttons of the new street shoes carefully match the fabric in the tops of the shoes.

Beautiful Virol Children.
194, MANOR PLACE, S.E.
GENTLEMEN,
It is with heartfelt gratitude that I write to express my thanks for the great benefits my children have derived from your wonderful preparation.

One of the twins when born was very weak and had no vitality at all, and when 3 weeks old she laid in her mother's arms as a dead child, and she was so thin we could hardly bear to look at her when she weighed under 3 lbs. A friend advised us to try Virol, and I immediately did, and from that time she has got on famously; she is now 9 months old and weighs 19 lbs. After I saw such good results from the use of "Virol" I gave it to all the other children, who were anemic, and they are all fine and healthy now.

Again assuring you of my heartfelt thanks, and that I shall always speak of "Virol" in the highest terms.

friend soon after the earl's departure, was told of the arrangements, and asked to play the part of best man; but to Vane's surprise he smilingly refused.

"I shall have to get you to excuse me, my dear Vane," he said. "It is a part I should play most vilely. I hate weddings, and—well, you see, it wouldn't do. You'll have to ask one of your swell relations to show up on that occasion. How did you come to forget that? You must, you know; it's noblesse oblige; the fashionable world would howl if you didn't."

Vane nodded.

"All right," he said once more. "You, all of you, have it your own way with me. But I suppose you'll condescend to be present?"

Senley Tyers shrugged his shoulders.

"I won't promise even that," he said. "It's not unlikely, we shall see. Lock here, your train goes at ten o'clock to-morrow. I've got the ticket. You go and lie in the sun in Nice for a few weeks; that's all you want now."

So, while Lady Florence was hard at work in that labor of joy—buying the trousseau—the bridegroom-elect was lounging at the Riviera. It is a wonderful place to recover one's health and spirits, and when, two days before the wedding, he drove to the inn at Runnaclesare, the village nearest to the Grange was called, he looked almost like the Vane of old.

But not quite, for, notwithstanding that the strength had come back to his stalwart frame, and the sun had restored the color to his handsome face there was still a look in the eyes and about the lips which had been absent from those of the light-hearted, devil-may-care Vane Tempest who rode to the Witches' Caldron to meet Nora Trevanion.

He reached the inn too late to get to the Grange, but a groom who had been waiting Vane's arrival carried a note announcing it and promising that he would come over on the morrow, and, tired with the journey, he went straight to bed.

When he got down in the morning and stood at the inn door, looking thoughtfully at the sunlit scene and inhaling the sweet spring air, the landlord approached him with a smile of respectful greeting which was due to the gentleman who was going to marry the daughter of the great Earl Warlock, and who was himself a connection of another equally great earl.

"A beautiful morning, sir," he said. Vane nodded, and looked up absently at the sky.

"You know that a gentleman, a Mr. Harold Tempest, is coming to-day," he said.

This was a distant cousin who had been engaged for best man.

The landlord bowed.

"Yes, sir. His lordship, the earl, told me to expect him. Everything is ready, sir."

"Very good," said Vane. "Can you let me have a horse to ride over to the Grange? How far is it, by the way?"

"Near upon four miles, sir," replied the man. "Oh, yes, sir. I've a very good horse, and I think it will be fine, your honor."

"It looks bright enough," said Vane preparing to go in to his breakfast.

"Yes, sir; it's too clear over the Witches' Caldron for rain."

Vane started and stood still.

"What—what place did you say?" he asked, his back to the obsequious landlord.

"The Witches' Caldron, your honor."

Vane turned slowly, his lips compressed, a shadow on his face. Beyond the fact that the Grange was

Can You Blame Her?
BY BUTE CAMERON.

"I don't think there are many mistresses who are so absolutely unfeeling as to act as this woman did, but I think her conduct was more or less typical of the unreasonableness of a large class of mistresses."

"Besides, we read about the mistress side of the case so much more often than I am always ready to print the maid's."

"I am in a strange country, trying to make my honest living which the world owes everyone that seeks it," writes my letter friend, "I am a milliner by trade, but find it impossible to make a living on it, having no home. So I am doing housework, and have been in the place between three and four years. Now I have a gentleman friend that I keep steady company with, and the lady won't allow me to entertain him in our only parlor, the kitchen, so that means I have to meet him on the street corners, which I don't think looks very well. I have seen so much about young girls walking the streets, but what are you going to do in a case like this? If I wanted to lead a single life I certainly would go in the convent, as it is of the faith I profess. While my friend knows I am a good honest girl, he don't approve of having to meet me on the street corner, or walking the streets, and we can't afford to take in the theatre a couple of nights a week for the simple reason of keeping off the streets. Now I am thinking of making a change. The only fault I have with my position is I can't entertain him one or two nights a week in our only parlor, the kitchen. Do you blame me? I feel if I am good enough to do their work, and trustworthy, that I ought to have the little privilege of having my friend one or two nights a week in our only parlor, the kitchen. I don't blame girls for working for starvation wages, rather than do housework, in the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Your Duty.
Nothing to do with the Custom House, good friend. Its only reference just now is to yourself. Let us suppose that you are a man of family with sufficient of the world's goods to keep them in comfort. Very well, you did not reach this satisfactory state of affairs without care and labour—few men do. Suppose you are awakened some night with shouts of alarm ringing in your ears. Too late then to talk of prudence; too late then to say: "If I had only, etc., etc." That "If" means too much to many forgetful people. Is it not always the duty of a self-respecting citizen to protect his home and thus provide for those within it. Is it any more than his duty to those depending on him to protect them as far as possible? Can you call your property your own when it is not insured? The answer to this argument is to carry insurances with Percie Johnson's agency, the most popular office in Newfoundland and the least expensive.

Had Itching Piles For 27 Years
Often Laid Up for Days at a Time—A Wonderful Tribute to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Few people were ever more enthusiastic in praise of Dr. Chase's Ointment than the writer of this letter. When you read the description of his case you will not wonder why Mr. John Johnson, Coleman, Atlin, writes: "Three years ago I was cured of blind itching piles of 27 years standing by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I used to think that death would be the only relief I would ever get from the terrible misery of piles. Often I was laid up for three days at a time, and at other times worked when I should have been in bed. Dr. Chase's Ointment is worth sixty dollars a box instead of sixty cents. I am a different man since using it. I am farming all the acre and never miss a day. Words fail to express my gratitude for the cure this ointment made for me. I cannot tell half as much about it as it deserves. Anyone doubting this can write direct to me." Dr. Chase's Ointment, 80 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Immense Dry Dock to be built in New York
New York, Nov. 2.—Aroused by port improvements elsewhere, particularly in Boston, the dock department of New York has decided upon building a dry dock big enough to accommodate the "forthcoming 1,000 foot ship". The dock will be located on the South Brooklyn waterfront on land that has been owned by the city for several years without bringing any return. The project will cost about $2,500,000, and the dock department is confident that it will prove to be a self-sustaining municipal enterprise. When the space is not used as a dry dock it will be convertible by simply flooding it into a berthing space for general shipping.
Dock Commissioner R. A. C. Smith, in announcing the plan, says: "New York has been far behind the procession in port improvement, but that this will not be the case henceforth,

Backache Vanishes Rheumatic Pains Go
Few Doses of Croxone Ease Stiff, Sore, Swollen Joints and Muscles, Relieving Backache and Bladder Disorders.

If you suffer with backache—have pains in the neck or sides—nervous or dizzy spells—a few doses of Croxone will relieve the congestion and you will be surprised how quickly all kidney, bladder and rheumatic troubles will disappear.
Croxone promptly relieves these diseases because it really does reach the real cause. It soaks right into the walls and linings of the kidneys, cleans out the stopped-up inactive organs, neutralizes and dissolves the uric acid and makes the kidneys sift from the blood the waste and poisonous matter that lodge in the joints and muscles to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism. It soothes and heals the delicate linings of the bladder and gives the kidneys renewed strength so they can filter the blood and keep you well.
Croxone is different from all other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if it should fail in a single case. 888

Could Put 500,000 men in field in Quick Order.
Washington, Nov. 3.—The "war plans" of the army ordnance department are completed, and for the first time in the history of the United States, the country is in readiness at a moment's notice to arm and equip 500,000 men to send in to the field in the event of war with a first-class power. These plans have been worked out during the past six years through the systematic and unremitting labor of Lieutenant Colonel J. T. Thompson, of the ordnance department under the direction of Brigadier General Crozier, chief of the bureau.
Colonel Thompson pointed out that his "war plan" is based upon conditions as they would actually exist in the event of hostilities. The line of the regular army will be increased to its maximum enlisted strength, as provided by law; the entire organized militia of the country would be mustered into the service of the United States at full war strength; and the remainder would be raised by the enlistment of volunteers. The "war plan" as now completed provides that this force shall be armed and equipped at concentration camps before the different units are sent to the scenes of operation.

MARTIN LUTHER born 1483. He was educated for the law, but his deep religious convictions prompted him to retire to the cloister to study the Scriptures, after which he began to lecture on theology and was soon known for the strength of his opinions.

OLIVER GOLDSMITH born 1728. His poetical works are limited, but they are exquisite in their kind; he is one of the pioneers who broke down the artificial barriers which convention had erected against a natural literature. "The Traveller" and the "Deserted Village" belong to the highest order of descriptive poetry. He was enriched by his irregular and careless habits, and his generous disposition, kept him in perpetual embarrassment.

SCHILLER born 1759. German poet and one of the most sympathetic figures in literature. A man of singular purity of character, with a mind ambitious of reaching the highest, he strove, in spite of bodily weakness and the frowns of fortune, to attain the ideal in life and art.

The End of the Contest.

WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

On Saturday we drew attention to the extraordinary anomaly which the results of the election presents. At the time we wrote the article, we had not the result of the polling in Fortune Bay at hand. The return of the Hon. C. H. Emerson modifies the figures slightly, but does not alter their general effect, which shows that the majority of voters and the majority of votes cast were substantially in favor of the Opposition Party, although the Opposition have a minority of members returned to the House of Assembly. From this, it is clear that the Government has sustained a serious rebuff at the hands of the people. Practically they have been beaten at the polls.

And Badly Beaten.

for without reckoning St. Barbe, the voters have recorded over 9,800 votes for their opponents than for them. They have lost the Districts of Bona-vista, Trinity, Port de Grave, and a seat in Bay de Verde. Two Ministers, Messrs. Morison and Blandford, and Mr. Warren, their Speaker, have been defeated. Some of the worst elements in the Government Party have, however, been returned again, and this is the most regrettable feature of the election, for a premium has been placed on boodle and public plunder. The Government relied on the power of falsehood and conscienceless wealth to deceive the people, assassinate the Liberal Party and defeat Justice. They have succeeded in returning a majority of members to the House of Assembly. The power of money, private and public, the examples of graft, and the Tammany methods that have been in operation during the past four years, have shattered the foundations of Responsible Government in the Colony. For four years past the Government of this Colony has been

A Disgrace and a Bye-Word.

Graft, boodle and plunder of the public resources were fully exposed to public view, and it is almost inconceivable that a majority of Tory members should have been returned after the exposure of such a condition of affairs.

The large Protestant Districts may congratulate themselves, and must be congratulated by all honest and intelligent people, for having registered their protest in no uncertain manner, against the past conduct of the Government, and marked an overwhelming vote against the continuance of the Government in power. On the other hand, it is a matter for regret that the majority of our Roman Catholic friends did not rise to the occasion of their duty to the State. They have signified their desire for things as they are, and have made themselves responsible for whatever the future may reveal. At the previous election of 1909, their straight vote for the Morris Government might have been expected. The resignation of the Liberal Government had enabled Governor McGregor to place Sir Edward Morris at the head of a temporary Government, and when a General Election took place a few weeks later, it was perhaps not unnatural that the great majority of his co-religionists should make up their minds to try and keep him there. But in view of the scandalous mismanagement of the country's affairs during the past four years, and of the disgrace and difficulty into which the country has been plunged, it is to be deplored that higher motives than power and position did not influence this vote. We are prepared to admit that the disgraceful sectarian tactics practised in the District of St. John's East, in Placentia Bay and elsewhere, and here we call attention to the protest which we publish today from Mr. Broaders, a Roman Catholic, who is Vice-President of the F.P.U., had something to do in the country. But these were only special means towards a common end, and that end was to keep Sir Edward Morris in power, even at the cost of the best interests of the country.

With the Stampede of the Roman Catholic Vote

Mr. Morison, Minister of Justice, has been very properly punished by a Protestant District for his connection with the Crown Lands scandals. Sir Edward deserved no less punishment, for he protected, excused and condoned the transgressions of Mr. Morison after Mr. Morison had admitted the facts on which the Memorials were based. Sir Edward Morris also denied having "any interest whatever, direct or indirect in the timber lands of the country," until we produced the certificates of the Registrar of Deeds and proved him to be the holder of forty thousand shares in the St. George's Lumber Company. A Prime Minister who could be guilty of such

The SECTARIAN APPEAL.

Mr. Andrew Broaders, Roman Catholic Vice-President of the F.P.U., Deals With the Sectarian Cry of the People's Party.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—Please insert in your valuable paper a statement from me regarding the recent political contest. I have to-day received a copy of the Fishermen's Advocate, and I must indeed state that I am shocked at the aspersion used by some of the Morris Party in their respective districts. The political contest is ended and the Morris Party have won, but by what atrocious methods.

Why, I say, have these men assailed Mr. Coaker in such a disgraceful manner? Did these men ever take it into consideration that W. F. Coaker represented seventeen thousand (17,000) men as President of the Fishermen's Union, and that this mighty organization was also represented by a Vice-President who is ready at a moment's notice to come forward and vindicate W. F. Coaker of such infamous and malicious assertions. Had I contemplated for a moment that these men should have recourse to such cowardly attacks on an innocent man, and raised their sectarian cry so bitterly, I would have visited these Catholic districts myself and proved to the electors the sincerity of W. F. Coaker to uplift the downtrodden followers of his native land, I myself am a Roman Catholic, and you men that made such assertions that the Rules and Constitution of the Fishermen's Union embrace any clause whatever contrary to the rules of the Catholic Church, I throw it back in your throats as a deliberate lie. If the readers of this article doubt my integrity in any way, they can apply to our respected clergyman the Roman Catholic Priest of Bay-de-Verde, and no doubt they will receive my recommendation. Had not these calumniators made these statements on the eve of election, I would have some opportunity to refute them. But let them be assured that they stand before their country to-day

Congregational Church.

The evening service yesterday at this church was intensely interesting. It was Temperance Sunday in all the churches, and whilst the topic for the morning service at Queen's Road Church was that of Temperance generally, the evening service was doubly interesting on account of it being also the anniversary service of St. John's Band of Hope. This Society of youthful temperance workers was organized some five years ago by Rev. J. Thackeray, late pastor of the Congregational Church, and has been productive of good results amongst the children of the various denominations. It is now conducted by Rev. W. H. Thomas, as hon. president, and meets every Friday evening at 7.15 in the Congregational Lecture Hall—a cordial welcome being extended to all temperance workers interested in the moral and social life of the young and rising generation. At last night's service the boys and girls of the Band—about 100—occupied the side pews to the right and left of the pulpit, and quite a number of the parents, representing the different denominations, were present thus expressing their sympathy with the movement. After the Offertory, Rev. W. H. Thomas announced as a contribution to a Thanksgiving Service, Maunder's Anthem:—"While the Earth Remaineth," which was beautifully rendered as a quartette by Miss Grace Colton (soprano), Mrs. W. H. Thomas (Rev.) (contralto), Mr. S. R. Steele (tenor) and Rev. W. H. Thomas (bass). The sermon which was most impressive, was based on the words of Nehemiah, ch. 4th and 14th verse:—"Fight for your brethren, your sons and your daughters, your wives and your houses!" In the course of his remarks the rev. gentleman commented very favourably on our temperance legislation here, generally, as compared with that of the Mother Country, but condemned very strongly the treating system in vogue here, incidentally citing this as a matter calling for legislative action in the future. During the service the Band of Hope children sang very pleasingly their Anniversary Hymn, the youthful voices blending nicely together, particularly in the second verse, viz.:—"Tis Drink that blights our English Homes, And makes our mothers sad; 'Tis Drink that fills our prison cells, 'Tis Drink that drives men mad, Then haste the day when Britain shall From every stain be free. When every voice shall sing and say No Drink, No Drink, for me." — C. A. R.

TRY TO RECOVER.—An attempt will be made to try and recover the engine of the ferry boat which was lost in the harbour last week.

AT THE R. C. CATHEDRAL.—Rev. Fr. McDermott preached a powerful sermon at the R. C. Cathedral last evening, which was listened to by a large congregation.

NOTE OF THANKS.—Mr. Thomas Morris and family desire to thank the nurses of the General Hospital for their kindness to his sister during her illness; also, Miss Southcott, Sisters Bowden and Powell for wreaths to adorn the casket.—adv.

LEFT AGAIN.—The American vessel W. C. McKay, Capt. Dean, which rescued the crew of the Maggie Bell, which was abandoned forty miles off this port, as referred to in Saturday's Telegram, sailed on Saturday night with a cargo of fish for Gibraltar.

EVENTS CLUB MEETING.—The Current Events Club held its first meeting for the season on Saturday afternoon. There was a large attendance, including the President Mrs. (Governor) Davidson. Mrs. Gosling read an interesting paper in relation to the education of females in the 18th century.

Should be Careful.

Teamsters and horse owners generally should exercise more care when driving through archways from mercantile wharves. This forenoon a young lady passing up Water Street, near Bowring Bros. stores, was knocked down by a horse that came through the archway; she fell under the wheel of the car but with the assistance of two citizens she managed to get clear unscathed.

The S. S. Portia left Channel at 1 p.m. yesterday, coming east.

Collection at Holy Cross Schools.

The meeting in the Holy Cross Schools, after last Mass at St. Patrick's yesterday, was largely attended. Rev. Bro. Kennedy occupied the chair and outlined the object for which the meeting was convened, and showed the necessity of the proposed annex, the present rooms having only seating accommodation for about two-thirds of the scholars. He also stated that when the building is extended, the teaching staff will be increased, by two additional Brothers from the Mother House. This information was received with great applause. After the introductory remarks of the Chairman, Mr. F. J. Morris, K.C. moved that a subscription list be opened, which was seconded by Mr. T. J. Foran. Messrs. J. M. Kent, J. J. Lacey and T. Jackman also supported the motion, speaking in very eulogistic terms of the grand work that has been done by the Christian Brothers for the boys of St. John's and the plans that are in contemplation for their advancement. A subscription list was then formed, and the magnificent sum of nearly fifteen hundred dollars was realized. Several of the Brothers of Mt. St. Francis were present during the meeting, and at the close Rev. Bro. Ryan the superior, heartily thanked those present for the generous and substantial response that had been made to their first appeal.

The Socialists adopted suffragist tactics and have decided to oppose all Liberal candidates and refuse them a hearing at public meetings until Irish Transport Workers, recently sentenced to seven months imprisonment in Dublin is released.

READING, Eng., To-day.
Unionists were victorious at the by-election made necessary by the withdrawal of Sir Rufus Isaacs to assume the Lord Chief Justiceship. Great interest centered in the contest. Capt. Wilson, Unionist, captured the seat by 5,144 votes. Geo. Peabody Gooch, Liberal, 4,031. Socialist candidate Butler 1063. Socialists made a feature of the Marconi controversy. The Unionists avoided mention of Marconi, and made opposition to Home Rule and the Insurance Act. The Militant suffragettes supported Wilson. Just before the polls closed a squad of militants arrived at the Town Hall where the counting took place. It was strongly guarded by a double force of police while the polling places were carefully watched all day as attacks on ballot boxes were feared. The Liberal candidate Gooch, formerly member for Bath, entered the constituency only on the eve of the contest.

LONDON, To-day.
The Times gives prominence to a dispatch from their correspondent in Dublin, which says the Government is seriously alarmed at recent developments in Ulster. The Dublin Castle authorities dispatch says they have been badly informed concerning the Ulster agitation against Home Rule, as Mr. Birrell, unlike former Chief Secretaries of Ireland, does not keep in touch with the Administration's reports contrary and consequently the authorities are only now awaking to the situation. The meeting of Commercial men on Tuesday last when an enormous sum of money was pledged to the cause, profoundly affected the Government and now it is realized, says the correspondent of the Times, that Ulster can, and will fight if Home Rule is forced upon her head, that well informed persons in Dublin take the gloomiest view of the situation and do not believe that any compromise acceptable to Ulster can be devised, believing that a general election is the only way out of the difficulty.

MEXICO City, To-day.
Government officials, foreign residents and the people of Mexico realize that the relations between this country and the United States are strained almost to the point of war. John Lind who represents the President of the States is ignorant of the intentions of his Chief, and if Huerta is anxious at all regarding what may develop, he does not betray it, although he has sent to the Diplomatic representatives of Foreign Nations, a note which in effect is a defence of Washington. He was conspicuous in safes about town long after midnight and indulged in relaxation in the company of his military friends. In a formal statement to the Diplomatics Huerta said that it was now foreseen that recent elections were null, as to a few precincts which had participated in voting and that therefore the new Congress would annul the elections. A new election would be called and he would continue his program of pacification. More uneasiness is apparent at the American Embassy than at the National Palace. Opinion was freely expressed not infrequently accompanied by sneers, that the States would never intervene in Mexico. Mr. Lind expressed the views that this waiting policy would not be continued for many days. As is known here that he has recommended that all diplomatic negotiations with Mexico be terminated. At the American Embassy it is regarded as logical that Washington perhaps to-day will furnish vital developments in the relations between the two countries.

Arrested for Forgery.

To-day, Edward Wakeham, a seventy-one year old seaman, was arrested on a charge of forgery. The accused visited the Bank of Nova Scotia, on Saturday, and presented to the teller there a cheque. It read payable to him (Wakeham) for the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars, and contained the signature of another party. The banker thinking that the cheque was a suspicious one, refused to honour it and thereupon took a description of the cheque as well as the name and a description of the person who presented it. Particulars of the case were given to the police with the result that Detective Byrne rounded up this man this forenoon. At 3 o'clock this afternoon the accused will be tried before Judge Knight.

Was Executed at Dawn.

Spanish Army Officer Shot by Firing Squad.

Madrid, Nov. 2.—A firing squad of Spanish troops at dawn to-day executed by shooting Capt. Manuel Sanchez, a Spanish army officer, found guilty by court martial for the murder of Don Garcia Jalon, a wealthy landowner, last May. Detachments of all the regiments in garrison witnessed the execution.

Capt. Sanchez was tried and condemned for the crime as a sequel to the confession of a woman, Luisa Sanchez, said to be his daughter, who was sentenced to 12 years imprisonment as his accomplice. Jalon was missing for several weeks after he had won about $1,000 at cards, and the evidence showed that he had been enticed to Sanchez's flat and murdered by the officer, who, with the woman, cut up the body and threw it into an adjacent sewer.

Snatched From Death's Door

Hallfax, Nov. 4.—Artemus Oickle, an employee of the Cook Company, to-day while at work directing the movements of the big steam shovel at the south end terminals, was caught in the adjusting wheel of the mammoth machine and held for seven hours in a death grip. His body was in such a position that if the wheel had moved six inches one way or the other it meant death for the man by decapitation. At five minutes past ten o'clock to-night, after seven hours heroic and strenuous work on the part of his fellow workers, doctors and hospital attendants, the pinion supporting the big wheel was filed apart, and amid the cheers of hundreds of on-lookers the imprisoned man was released with no worse injuries than a grazed forearm and bruised and cramped body. The wounded man was immediately conveyed to the hospital and at a late hour to-night was resting easily. Oickle is a native of Bridge-water, aged 30 years, and unmarried.

Banks and Salaries.

Those who do business with the large banking institutions of this country will read with surprise and not without alarm, the statement that tellers and other clerks entrusted with the handling of immense sums of money are paid salaries as low as four hundred dollars per annum. It would be well if some of the money spent in erecting costly buildings, in paying large dividends and in piling up great reserves was used to meet the present day needs of underpaid employees. Even the large sums put away annually for superannuation funds, might better be employed in giving the clerks sufficient to enable them to keep up a semblance of the appearance their position demands. In the light of the information published to-day the occasional fall of a bank clerk, much as it is to be regretted, can hardly be wondered at. In fact the wonder is that more frequent wrong doing is not told of.—St. John Globe.

Cochrane Street Church.

Over one hundred persons were unable to find admission last evening to the above church. Many were desirous of hearing the eloquent preacher, Rev. Alfred Rogers, son of the late Dr. Rogers, while others were drawn by the "Songs of the Sea Service." Mr. Rogers delivered a telling sermon, taking as his subject "The Necessity of Personal Conviction." He spoke of a faith that was for faith in God—a faith that not only believed in God's existence but also shaped the life in accordance with God's requirements. There was also needed a faith in Christ as the Son of God and the Saviour of the world—not merely counting him as a great man and a prophet only. Faith was required at the present day in the Bible—not that we should absolutely understand every part of it, but that we should take it as the Word of God and abide by its teachings and principles. We also needed a firm faith in prayer—that our prayers were heard and answered by Him who is the Creator of the universe and the Father of us all. It was only with such faith and conviction that a man could live a proper life here and face the Judgment Day. In closing he made reference to the presence of so many from the ships in port and likening life to a voyage, he asked if the anchor held in the storm as in the calm—had they faith in the eternal verities. The sermon was listened to with breathless attention by the crowded congregation. During the service the choir rendered several pieces, the solos being sung very sweetly and expressively by Miss Vincent. Miss Herder sang Gounod's "Hold Thou My Hand," and her full rich voice filled the church in the climax when faith gave place to the assurance of sight. The singing by the huge congregation was something not soon to be forgotten and the whole service was one of the effect of which will linger long in the lives of those who had the privilege of attending.

Heavy Damages for man who lives with broken Neck.

New York, Nov. 4.—What is declared to be the largest verdict awarded under the Employers' Liability Act in this city was brought in by a Supreme Court jury yesterday, in favor of Fred C. Neun, who lives with a broken neck.

The jury directed the Harris H. Iron Works to pay Neun $25,000. Neun, an iron worker, had his neck dislocated when he fell ten stories while at work on a downtown skyscraper last March.

Wearing a steel brace around his head and extending down his spine to hold his neck in place, Neun appeared in court as his own witness. His physician testified that any sudden shock, even a sneeze, is likely to result in Neun's death.

Neun is 28 years old and has a wife and three children. He was an athlete before he was hurt.

Threw Pepper at Premier Asquith.

London, November 3.—There was a suffragette battle on Saturday, when a band of four women attacked Premier Asquith as he was motoring from Stirling to unveil a statue to Sir Henry Campbell Bannerman.

The women, who were lined up across the road, forced the car to stop. One of them threw pepper on the occupants of the vehicle while another attempted to strike the Premier with a dog whip.

The assault was ended by the arrival of police detectives who were following in another car. Four women were arrested.

The Premier was besprinkled with pepper, but betrayed no uneasiness. His daughter, Violet Asquith and Lady Graham, who were with him, were greatly alarmed, however.

This is the second time the Premier has been attacked with dog whips.

Governor Faikler has honored the requisition of the State of New York for the extradition of Harry K. Thaw. LONDON, Nov. 9.
The C.P.R. Liner Montcalm, on arrival at Avonmouth to-day, reports having encountered severe weather in mid-ocean, as a result of which derrick was broken and one of the life-boats lost. The falling derrick came in contact with several boxes of phosphorus, the contents igniting and only by the quickness of the men in throwing the burning matter overboard and jettisoning what boxes remained, was the ship's cargo saved. Some men received slight burns, but the ship was almost undamaged.

MONTREAL, Nov. 9.
Has Canada's new island disappeared beneath the waves with suddenness equal to that with which it emerged? This question is prominent by the report made by Capt. Danstrup, commander of the Danish steamer Taysland, which has arrived from Demarara. It will be recalled that after the appearance of the island was first reported, the Hudson Bay Company's steamer Acadia located it for the Dominion Government, as being about thirty miles north-east of Sable Island. Capt. Maskett, commander of the Lines Serrana, which sailed from this port yesterday, believed she must have passed close to the new sand island. He found only 20 fathoms of water when sounding, where, according to his chart, there should be 60. Danstrup reported following the Serrana from Demarara in approximately the same course. He sailed right over the location accorded by the Acadia to the new island. Supposing the reports made by the Acadia and Taysland to be both correct, then the only assumption that seems possible is that the island must have suddenly disappeared after the passing of the Serrana, and before the coming of the Taysland, as otherwise the Danish steamer must have been wrecked.

Madrid.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Slivash." Madrid, the capital of Spain and the center of the guitar, cigarette and bull fighting industries of the world, is situated in the geographical center of Spain, 2,500 feet above sea level, in a heavy draught.

Madrid is noted in literature for its lovers, and among tourists for its climate. The lovers average 123 in the shade as they stand before the barred windows of the Madrid debutantes and sigh, but the climate is more sickle. It varies from 123 in the shade to freezing, and it can accomplish both in the same day. The prevailing Madrid costume in summer is a thin suit, a fan, a heavy woolen blanket and a straw hat.

Madrid is not as old as most European cities. Before the 16th century it was only a way station, and wasn't even in a Class D bull fighting league. In 1560 it was made capital of Spain, however, and grew rapidly. It now contains 600,000 people, several of whom do not smoke cigarettes.

Madrid has one of the largest palaces in the world, and a handsome new railway station. It has more fine paintings than New York and more churches than Chicago, but has to get along without roof gardens or Chinese restaurants. It has a university with 5,000 students, but it is a tame affair, not having broken a collar bone or burned a building since the seventeenth century. Madrid has 72 public squares, all completely filled at all times with gentlemen of leisure, including a large number of statues of deceased kings. Madrid has one fine street, two miles long, and a number of street cars, each equipped with fenders in the rear, to protect pedestrians.

Madrid does most of the manufacturing for Spain and is a growing town, about the size of Cleveland, Ohio. In general liveliness it resembles the latter city after 1 a.m. The principal amusements in Madrid are sleeping in the afternoon, promenading in the evening and betting on which precedent the King of Spain will break next. It resembles an American city in only one thing—the street cleaning department seems to require about the same amount of rest.

Headaches and Heart Trouble

Nervous Prostration of Three Years Standing Cured a Year Ago by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Anyone who knows the discouragement and despair which accompanies the helplessness of nervous prostration will appreciate the gratitude felt by the writer of this letter.

Mrs. H. C. Jones, Scotch Lake, C. E. writes: "I suffered from nervous prostration for nearly three years. I had frequent headaches, had no appetite and was troubled with my heart. After consulting two doctors, without obtaining satisfactory results, I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and was completely cured by this treatment. It is nearly a year since I was cured, and I want others to know of this splendid medicine. I now attend to my housework with pleasure and comfort, and am glad to have the opportunity of recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

At least some benefit is bound to be derived from each dose of this great food cure, as day by day it forms new blood, and builds up the system 40 cents a box, 2 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Close to my ear
And listened well
And straightway like a bell
Came low and clear
The slow, and murmur of far distant

Whipped by an icy breeze
Upon a shore
Winged with and desolate
It was a sunless strand that never bore
The footprints of a man,
Nor felt the weight
Since time began
Of any human quality or stir
Save what the dreary winds and waves incur.
And in the hush of waters was the

Of pebbles rolling round.
Forever rolling with a hollow sound,
And bubbling seaweeds as the waters

Swish to and fro
Their long, cold tentacles of slimy

There was no day,
Nor ever came a night
Setting the stars alight
To wonder at the moon:
Was twilight only and the frightened

Smitten to whimpers of the dreary wind
And waves that journeyed blind—
And then I loosed my ear—oh, it was sweet
To hear a cart go jolting down the Forfeited Bond in Montreal.

Alleged Hotel Swindler Has Been Arrested in Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Said to be wanted as a swindler in England, Canada and a dozen American cities "Professor" Charles Dennis, member of the alleged "clairvoyant trust," which was broken up here last spring, is in the hands of the Chicago police, and will face trial on several indictments charging fraud.

Dennis was arrested in Boston October 24, and was held in secrecy until turned over to the Chicago police. He was brought back here last night.

Among the criminal transactions charged against the "professor," and for which indictments have been returned, are:

Swindling five Chicago people, among whom were two employees of the International Harvester Company. Arranging with another "professor" for holding up clairvoyant friends, who had "cleaned up" $6,000 and a $1500 diamond ring in Louisville.

Swindling many persons in New York by card games, wire tapping and clairvoyance.

Assaulting a girl in Buffalo. Forfeiting bond in Montreal.

Arranging two fake horse races in England, one for $25,000 and one for $5,000.

Operating an alleged $10,000 clairvoyant swindle in Peoria, Ills.

Swindling trans-Atlantic and trans-continental tourists.

Dennis is wanted in Chicago as "Professor Callisburry." He is also known under half a dozen aliases.

Woman's ove.

A beautiful thing is a woman's love,
And to think that day by day
Some men are killing a woman's love,
No two in the self-same way!
With thoughtlessness as a wound,
Neglect and spite and scorn,
Till aching souls are cast in gloom
And bleeding hearts are torn!

A beautiful thing is a woman's love,
A sacred thing and true;
Some men are killing a woman's love—
It's an awful thing to do.
An awful thing to do,
For its delicate petals fall
As swift as death in the north wind's breath
On the flowers along the wall.

A sacred thing is a woman's love,
A solemn and a wondrous gift;
Some men are killing a woman's love
With the tide towards which they drift.
Some men are bringing to beautiful lives
Neglect, with its awful sting,
A terrible dart that in the heart
Is the end of everything.

A terrible thing is a woman's love,
For it must have love to live,
And men are killing a woman's love
If they cease their love to give.
It may not die in a moment, no,
Nor yet in a thousand years;
But it takes the happiness out of life
And it drowns the world with tears.

"Saving is the first great principle of all successes. It creates independence; it gives a young man standing; it fills him with vigor; it stimulates him with the proper energy; in fact, it brings to him the best part of any success—happiness and contentment. If it were possible to inject the faculty of saving into every boy, we would have a great many more real men."

When Mary Writes a Letter

When Mary writes a letter, there is something doing that little Ben. Of course before she writes it she has got to find her pen; So she searches all compartments of her desk, and in between the volumes in the bookcase, and her scrutiny is keen. Next she pokes around the mantle and up to the clock shelf, too. Then she goes into the bedroom and she has to rummage through Bureau drawers and also fumble on the dressing table, then She must stop awhile and wonder where she could have left her pen.

Then she goes and finds the children. First she rounds up little Ben. And she says: "Tell me this instant what you did with mamma's pen!" But Ben straightway pleads not guilty, and he goes back to his play; Then she asks the girls about it, though she knows what they will say.

When they've said it they go gladly off to play skipping rope. While she stands there disappointed and almost deprived of hope. But a sudden thought comes to her of an upstairs closet shelf; "That is where it is!" she says, and goes there, smiling to herself.

But it isn't there! She goes on searching high and searching low. On the floor and the piano—keeping up a ceaseless flow. Of conjecture as she searches; next she sits down at the foot of the bed; For he finds a stack of paper just inside a closet door.

Reads, too, of the latest level fashions chosen for the west; Reads of crepe, brocades, and lincens, and of new things in moire. And she puts her letters writing off until another day.

First-Born Children Weakest.

Primogeniture has just received another hard knock. It is several years since Dr. W. C. Rivers, of London, in studying the statistics of a great sanitarium, observed that among consumptive patients the first-born provide a larger number of subjects than any of the other children. Prof. Karl Pearson and Prof. Brahma and Riffel collected a vast mass of statistics in England and Germany and fully confirmed Rivers' observation.

Brahma had been teaching that the first-born children were the strongest, but he proved that the opposite was true. A medical authority states that not only tuberculosis but insanity and criminality show a preponderance incidence among the eldest children, and quotes Prof. Pearson's statement that the earlier members of a family are more likely than the younger to inherit constitutional defects. It adds that a tendency to toddle, pampers and indulge the first child may account for a part of its vulnerability to disease.

INSPECTING COURT HOUSES.—Mr. C. H. Hutchings, Deputy Minister of Justice, and Inspector General Sullivan left last evening's express for Grand Falls to inspect the new court house just completed there.

Temperance Sunday at Cochrane St. Church.

Yesterday being the World's Temperance Sunday, the pastor of Cochrane Street Church, the Rev. C. A. Whitcomb, M.A., at the morning service preached a Temperance sermon, basing his remarks on Romans 14th chapter and 21st verse. The reverend gentleman said he was appalled at the drunkenness in the city during the past two weeks, and spoke very strongly denouncing the liquor as a sworn destroyer of bodily health, human intellect and of human character. At the evening service an immense congregation gathered, the church was literally packed, chairs had to be placed in the aisles to accommodate visiting friends. The preacher was the Rev. A. S. Rogers, M.A., of Lunenburg, the gifted son of the late Rev. Dr. Rogers. The text was: "Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong." Mr. Rogers made an eloquent appeal for religious conviction. The sermon was a masterly one, the preacher urged all his hearers to stand fast in the Christian faith, to stand by the old Bible, the book of books, and to stand fast in prayer, the chief fundamentals of the Christian religion. At the close of the preaching service the Service of Song was held, the familiar songs of the sea hymns were heartily sung. The service all through was inspiring and helpful and the congregation are very thankful to the Rev. Mr. Rogers for giving them the opportunity of listening to him last evening, the message so faithfully delivered will linger in the hearts and minds of many and will not soon be forgotten. Mr. Mews presided at the grand organ, the sweet notes of the instrument, together with the voices of the large choir added much to the helpfulness of this service.

Fairbanks Morse

TESTIMONIALS.

City, Nov. 4th, 1913.

Geo. M. Barr, Esq.,
Dear Sir,—I must say that the engine you sold me last spring proved satisfactory in every way. I would recommend the Fairbanks Morse engine to any person. I do not think they could get a better.

Very truly yours,
(Sgd.) ARTHUR OAKLEY.

Flar Island, Oct. 8th, 1913.

Mr. G. M. Barr, St. John's.

Dear Sir,—I have much pleasure in saying that the 6-H.P. Motor engine which I bought from you last spring has given me perfect satisfaction. The mechanism is perfect and so simple that a boy of twelve years of age has run it often.

The fuel used apart from a little gasoline to prime her, has been kerosene oil, and I am pleased to say again that I got perfect satisfaction and it has been beyond my expectations.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) L. J. CHOLLETT.

Death in Darkness.

Five People Driving on Private Road near Montreal last night—Struck by Engine at Train Crossing and all Killed.

Montreal, Sept. 26.—Five people were instantly killed by the C. P. R. Quebec Express, ten miles from this city to night, when the carriage in which they were riding was struck by the pilot of the engine. The dead are: Normandas Allaire, 49 years; his wife, 46 years; Wilfrid Lortie, 42 years; Alphonse Lortie, 45 years; and Victoria Lortie, 66 years.

All the deceased lived at St. Elzear, Quebec. The party were driving to their home at St. Elzear over a sort of private road known as Monte du Moulin, which runs from Park Laval to St. Martin. The road is not much more than a rough track, and at the crossing where the accident took place there was no light or sign of habitation. The train was en route to Montreal.

The engine driver realizing that there had been an accident, pulled up and the train crew picked up the bodies of the party, which had been thrown in all directions, one of them being found on top of the engine. The carriage was smashed into splinters.

Four of the victims were dead when picked up, the only one showing any sign of life was Albina Lortie. All were placed on the train and brought into Montreal. Miss Lortie died before reaching the hospital.

Just how the accident happened no one seems to know. The party carried no light, and the engine driver claims that the first indication he had was when he felt the impact of engine and carriage.

THE EASTERN TRUST COMPANY.

The business of the The Eastern Trust Company is to administer Trusts. In this work it specializes, and it does no other. But no kind of trust is foreign to its scope or beyond its power to administer efficiently.

The Eastern Trust Company never speculates. It invests. It depends for its prosperity upon the efficiency of its management of its clients' business and upon the security of its investments.

The Eastern Trust Company executes the office of executor or administrator with unexampled efficiency, and its usefulness in this field is becoming rapidly more availed of.

For instance:—In St. John, New Brunswick, where it has quite lately established a branch, the estate of James Ready, of Fairville, which has been sworn to under $651,300.00, is being administered by The Eastern Trust Company as one of the joint executors of Mr. Ready's will.

In Halifax, Nova Scotia, again, The Eastern Trust Company has just been chosen to administer the estate of Captain William Fleming, which is valued at more than half a million dollars.

The Company now administers many estates which is value amount to several millions of dollars. Particulars will appear in later advertisements.

To-Night Quo Vadis?

"Quo Vadis" the superb photo drama reproduction of Henry Sienkiewicz's world-famous novel, opens at the Casino Theatre to-night, and it looks as though Mr. George Klehe's remarkable production will establish a wonderful record for attendance.

Aside from the many spectacular features there is an undeniable fascination about the story of Vinitius, passion for the sweet Lygia and the adage that the "course of true love never runs smooth, etc." is proven as far back as A.D. 66 and 68 by this very picture romance. It is human and human nature is the same to-day as it was in the days of Nero and all the other Caesars and Roman Emperors. And that is what the public likes whether it is novels, dramas, paintings or photo dramas.

There has been much wonderment at the magnitude and beauty of some of the scenes, notably the interior and garden scenes. But the locale is Italy where landscape beauty is still a world sight. The Cines Company of Italy is composed of many of the wealthiest men of Rome and the Bank of Italy is also said to be largely interested in the company. Many of the wealthy nobility are stockholders and when these pictures were being made the stockholders gave special permission for the use of their gardens and palaces. By this means many of the gorgeous scenes were produced with comparative ease whereas to have built the grounds and palaces specially it would have taken several million dollars and rendered it a business impossibility.

Special permission had to be obtained from the Royal Cabinet for the use of some of the buildings and assurance had to be given that none of the historic arabesques and marbles would be disfigured. Even with all the advantages at the disposal of the Cines Company it is a wonderful achievement which could hardly be duplicated anywhere else than in "Eternal Rome." "Quo Vadis" furnishes amusement, instruction and inspiration and fully merits the great success it has achieved.

His Honor.

I'd hate to be a jurist and listen by the day to lawyers whom a purist would feel desire to slay; to hear their mangled grammar, their pleadings long and dull, and have at hand no hammer with which to bust a skull. I'd hate to sit forever, and watch attorneys rag the witness pert and clever, the witness with a jag; the witness scared and rattled until three-quarters dead, the witness who, embattled, would punch a lawyer's head. I'd hate to sit and ponder of books that bring despair, o'er stupid laws that wander and drive Jose knows where. I'd hate to have to harken to skates who talk too much with intellects that darken all matters that they touch. I'd hate to make decision on knotty points of law, and know the next court's vision is sure to find a flaw. To watch o'er stupid juries with minds upon the blink, would fill my soul with furies and drive me soon to drink. To sit for years and measure out law, upon the bench, and be denied the pleasure of taking monkey wrench and killing ten attorneys, and other headful sport— Oh, gee! I'm glad my journeys don't lead me into court!

Poisoned Girl Kept in Secret.

New York, Oct. 16.—Disappointed in a love affair, Miss Helen Richards, of No. 890 Cadwell avenue, the Bronx, took bichloride of mercury tablets, and although suffering intensely, concealed her condition for more than twenty-four hours. She was found dazed and in pain wandering early yesterday morning in Second avenue near Seventy-fifth street, by James Devine, of No. 150 East Ninety-second street, who escorted her to Bellevue Hospital. On the way she told him her name and address. At the hospital she named as her best friend, Patrick Collins.

Healthy and Unhealthy Lighting.

Gas, it may be said, vitiates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vitate, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:

Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this, amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.

He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilation had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Duffield, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.

I have in my mind's eye, at the moment, a hall which, in the old days, was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience, with comfort, sat through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which, with the march of civilization had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter being employed with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of asphyxiation.—W. B. Lewis, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—nov8.1f of No. 65 East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street.

Dr. Kilington of the Bellevue staff who has specialized in the treatment of bichloride of mercury cases soon decided that this was the poison the young woman had taken. She did not know herself. She had come upon a bottle in her home labelled "Poison" and swallowed several of the tablets it contained. She could not remember how many.

The girl, who is strikingly pretty, and of gentle bearing, begged the doctor to save her life, saying she keenly regretted her effort to destroy herself. When she learned the nature of the poison she became aware through reading of cases in the newspapers, that the result would probably be fatal.

"Oh, I don't want to die," she sobbed. "It was a foolish act. Oh, I don't want to die!" Late last night she lapsed into a semi-conscious condition, and little hope was held out that she could be saved. Dr. Kilington said that if she had received treatment within a short time there would have been an excellent fighting chance, but under the circumstances she would probably die.

Rod and Gun.

Rod and Gun in Canada for November (Publisher, W. J. Taylor, Ltd., Woodstock, Ont.) sustains its reputation as the leading Canadian magazine devoted to the interests of sportsmen. Big game hunting in British Columbia is described in several well written and illustrated articles; "A Labrador Room" is descriptive of a Labrador fishing village; "My Visit to an Alberta Trapper" details a successful day on the trap line; "How to Keep Game from Spoiling" contains some valuable information for the hunter of big and small game; "When Riley Tied Hanlan" is by way of variety and is reminiscent of the famous Barrie Regatta when all the world's big scullers had a try-out for the Championship. The regular departments are well maintained.

Two arrests for Shooting of Gama Warden.

Newburgh, N.Y., Nov. 1.—Benjamin Lucino, whose right name is believed to be Joseph Antonio Lucino, and who is familiarly known as "Henry" Lucino, an Italian, aged 22 years, and Catherine Auer, German girl, believed to be less than 18 years of age were arrested here this noon in connection with the fatal shooting of George Peinboldt, a game warden, near Tappan, N.Y., on Sunday, October 19.

Lucino, who is accused of having fired the shot from a shotgun which caused the warden's death, was taken into custody on a warrant charging him with murder in the second degree. A technical charge of carrying concealed weapons has been placed against the girl, who is being detained principally as a witness, a razor having been found on her person when arrested.

CROCKER-BROWN.

On Saturday evening, at 7.30, the marriage of Miss Jennie Crocker, youngest daughter of Capt. Patrick and Miriam Crocker, of Trinity, one of the most popular young ladies of that town, and Mr. McKenna Brown, youngest son of James Brown, Esq., of King's Cove, B.B., took place in the C. E. Cathedral. The bride, neatly dressed in cream embroidered voile, looked charming in a black hat with willow plumes, carrying an Ivory Prayer Book. Mr. Cater Davis, cousin of the groom, acted as best man. The bridesmaid, who also carried an Ivory Prayer Book, was Miss Sadie DeGrish, of Trinity. After the nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. J. Brinton, the party left the church amid showers of rice, and drove to Wood's Restaurant where supper was served, after which they proceeded to Golf Avenue. They joined yesterday's express for Trinity, where the honeymoon will be spent. The bride wore a handsome pearl pendant, gift of the groom, the bridesmaid an opal ring, and the best man a pearl stick pin. The presents, numerous and useful and many messages of congratulation were received, all of which will testify to the popularity of the bride and groom. They will have the sincerest wishes of hosts of friends for many years of happiness and prosperity in their future home.

Mr. Brown has been in Vancouver for the past few years, where he was held in high esteem for his ability as captain with the "New England Fishing Co."

Address and Presentation.

On Thursday night last at the T. A. Hall, Mr. James Jackman was the recipient of an address and purse on the occasion of his departure for Philadelphia where he will join the Xaverian Order. Below is the address to which Mr. Jackman replied in suitable terms:—

Dear Friend and Brother,— It is with feelings of the deepest sorrow that the Guardians and Officers and members of the St. John's Juvenile T. A. and B. Society learn of your departure from us. Your nine years of continuous membership have earned for you the highest esteem of your associates. Your kind and genial disposition and the deep interest that you have always taken in the affairs of the Society have merited for you the love and respect of your brother members, and you will always live in the hearts that you leave behind you. Whilst regretting your loss, it is consoling to us to hear that you have chosen a holy life and are going to join the Xaverian Order to work in the service of God. That the Almighty will strengthen you in all your resolutions, and bestow on you all the graces necessary for the fulfilment of your holy vows is our sincere wish. In conclusion we ask you to accept the accompanying gift as a slight token of our esteem. Again wishing you Godspeed and bon voyage on behalf of the Society, we remain, Signed.— John Kelly, President; W. Dohany, Vice-President; W. Griffin, Treasurer; D. Power, Asst. Treasurer; Douglas French, Secretary; James Clancy, Wm. Billingsby, Patrick Breen, Wm. Gallivan, J. O'Toole, James Norris, A. Brien, Thomas Dunn, Vice-Chairman; M. Taylor, Thomas Walsh, M. J. Tobin, Chairman; John Murphy, Secretary.

SEAMAN ANDERSON GETS DISABLED.

Yesterday forenoon, a fracas occurred on board of the barquentine Earlshall, lying at the Southside. Two seamen Nelson and Anderson, who were drunk, had an altercation, and as a result the latter got one of his legs broken. Capt. Coward, who was on board at the time, telephoned to the police station. Sergt. Mackey took two constables to the scene of the row and arrested Nelson who had a belying pin in his hand. In the meantime, Anderson, the victim, was taken to the General Hospital. It is alleged that Nelson was flourishing the weapon found in his possession, but it could not be ascertained as to whether he used it on his opponent.

Temperance Meeting.

Yesterday, at George St. Church, a Temperance meeting was held at which Mr. A. B. Morine, K.C., delivered an able and powerful address, for which the audience was deeply grateful. Mr. Watson gave a recitation and Mr. J. Spooner a solo. Both numbers were well received. Mr. C. Ayre, the leader of the Class, closed the meeting by the recital of prayer.

Charge New Series of atrocities in Northern Bolvila.

London, Nov. 1.—Diplomatic communications are now being exchanged between the British and American Governments with reference to what is described as another Putumayo scandal. This time the scene of the alleged atrocities is in Northern Bolvila, and the charges, which are of a most revolting character, implicate a highly-placed official in the service of the Republic.

There is reason to believe that the British Foreign Office, to whose notice the new series of atrocities was brought in the first instance, has so far contented itself with referring the charges to Washington without committing itself to any expression of opinion or declaration of its intentions.

Rightly or wrongly, the inference is drawn that Sir Edward Grey was not only not reluctant to hand over to the American Government the task of investigating the reported atrocities, but considered, especially in view of President Wilson's recent speeches, that it was the particular business of the United States to act as policeman in the South and Central American continent.

A book is in course of preparation by the author of the "Putumayo" and arrangements have already been made for the publication in this country and in the British colonies. The author was in the country at the time Mr. Hardenburg was making the investigations which resulted in the disclosures of the Putumayo scandal, and was well known to him. He possesses many photographs supporting his view that the exploitation of the Indian in the upper regions of Bolvila is of such a nature as to warrant interference by some civilized government.

The accountant's charges in the first instance were taken up by the "Australasian" Protection Society, then placed before Sir Edward Grey, who, as stated, contacted himself, with turning them over to Washington.
