CHAPTER XXII.

A neat maid-servant let him in; and as he went to the drawing room the door opened and Fanny met him and threw her arms round his neck.

"Oh, how late you are!" she complained, but with smiles in her eyes and on her full, weak lips. "I seem to have been waiting days, months! Will you always be so late? It's so lonely, and I seem to have been away from home years, years!"

He soothed her and drew her to the sofa.

"How fine you are—already, my dear!" he said.

She looked down at the ready-made dress she had bought—with the first money he had given her—and bridled with gratified vanity.

"Do you like it? I'm so glad! I want to look like a lady, to be a lady, like what I ought to be. Yes; it is pretty, isn't it? It's a pity some of the folks at home can't see me. What would Susan Parks at the Cross Corners say, and that stuck-up Goodwin at the Court, who thinks nobody's good enough for her, I wonder?"

He kissed her and drew her closer to him.

"And you're quite happy, eh, Fanny? That's right. And you won't feel so lonely after a time. I must take you about. You'll see London—London at last. And you'll forget the past."

"The stupid old past!" she said, half defiantly. "But it won't be easy. D'ye know I've had a letter from my mother—already?" She giggled and nestled closer to him. "She says she hopes I like my situation. Situation! She little thinks I've got a couple of servants to wait on me!"

SUFFERED EVERYTHING

For Years, Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Canadian women are continually writing us such letters as the two following, which are heart-felt expressions of gratitude for restored health:

Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of womb and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully for years, until I began taking your medicine. I can so recommend it for nervousness and indigestion."—Mrs. HENRY CLARK, Glanford Station, Ont.

Chesterville, Ont.—"I heard your medicines highly praised, and a year ago I began taking them for falling of womb and ovarian trouble.

"My left side pained me all the time and just before my periods which were irregular and painful it would be worse. To sit down caused me pain and suffering and I would not bear to see any one or hear any one speak. Little specks would float before my eyes and I was always constipated.

"I cannot say too much for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, for there are no medicines like them. I have taken them and I recommend them to all women. You may publish this testimonial."—Mrs. STEPHEN J. MARTIN, Chesterville, Ontario, Canada.

"They are not more than you deserve. You shall have four, if you like," he said, stroking her hair, but stifling a yawn—already! "You must write a nice, long, dutiful letter. We mustn't let her guess the truth, you know, Fanny. And what else does she say?"

"Oh, there's a lot of news!" she replied. "Miss Veronica's still away, and the earl doesn't seem well. Dr. Thorne has been up to the Court to see him. That's all, I think—Oh, I'd nearly forgot! Mr. Groser, the landlord of the Dog and Owl—you know the public house, you know," she explained, with a contemptuous toss of her head.

Talbot nodded.

"I know. Well?"

"He met mother yesterday and asked her if she'd happened to see a man as had been staying at the Dog and Owl. A man called—I can't remember—oh, yes, Oatway—a man with a bandaged hand."

Talbot's hand stopped in its caressing stroking of her hair, then went on again, but mechanically. She could not see his face, but it had grown white, and his eyes had worn the expression which they had worn in the middle of his speech in the House.

"Well?" he said, and his voice sounded so dry that Fanny moved her head so that she might look at his face, but he pressed her head closer to him, and she sank down again with a little cooling murmur.

"Groser—that's the landlord—told mother the man owed him some money for lodgings and some he'd lent him, and had gone off suddenly, and he wanted to know if mother or any of us had seen him. As if we should know anything about such a low person!"

"As if, indeed!" murmured Talbot.

"But it's rather strange that I should know something," she continued, "for I happened to see him the night before he disappeared; and it was the night before—Ralph Farrington went."

She paused a moment before she spoke Ralph's name.

"Oh!" said Talbot, in a dry voice. Fanny nodded.

"Yes, I—happened to be at the cross-road, and I saw Ralph Farrington and this man Oatway. He'd stopped Ralph, or Ralph had stopped him, and they were quarrelling. I heard the man swear and Mr. Ralph speaking angrily, like as he was threatening, and I thought they were going to fight. So I ran home."

"Quite right," said Talbot. "Always run away when men are going to fight. Did you—did you tell anyone of what you'd seen?"

Fanny thought for a moment.

"Yes, I told mother, and I think I told Mr. Burchett. "Yes, I did; and I mentioned it to Goodwin when she came for the lace."

Talbot smiled grimly.

"In fact you told all the village," he remarked.

She threw her head back and looked at him curiously.

"What's the matter, Talbot?" she asked, with surprise. "You're quite white and your voice is hoarse, as if you'd got a cold. Oh, you aren't going to be ill! Let me get you something—it's brandy and some of that fizzy stuff you like, isn't it?"

"Nothing is the matter," he said, smiling. "I'm rather tired, that's all; I've been speaking in the House of Commons—oh, you wouldn't understand! Thanks! But put your lips to it first, Fanny; it will sweeten it!"

CHAPTER XXIII.

Ralph reached London "in due course," as they say in commercial circles, and put up for the night at a small hotel near the station in the Waterloo Road. He had had plenty of time for reflection during the journey, and his reflections had brought him small comfort.

To be parted from the woman you love, with the prospect of meeting her again and making her your own, is bad enough, but it is worse than bad when the chance of ever seeing her again, to say nothing of getting her for your wife, is so small as was Fanny's.

He was well-nigh driven to despair when he thought of Veronica—and when did he, not think of her?—but he refused to give way to despair, and the next morning he went down to the docks to seek a ship for Aus-

He had very little money and it was his intention to work his passage out; but he was met with the difficulty which is, alas! not an uncommon one in England—the supply of men just then exceeded the demand. He could not afford to remain idle while he waited for a ship, so the next morning he took his place amongst the dock laborers and he was soon engaged. It seemed to him as he toiled at the bales and kegs that Lynne Court and all that had happened there were but the baseless fabric of a dream; but the face and voice of Veronica stood out real enough in the vision, and all day long he thought of her and of the marvellous, incredible fact that she loved him.

His hotel was some way from the docks, but as his room cost but little he decided to remain there until he was fortunate enough to find a berth on one of the outgoing ships.

The days passed in a green and grey monotony, intensified by the terrible loneliness and solitude which oppress every man who lives in London with no friends. But presently he made at least one friend. In the room adjoining his at the hotel were a middle-aged woman and a little girl; a nurse and her charge, as Ralph rightly guessed.

The girl was a pretty little thing with all the charming ways of childhood; and once or twice Ralph had met her on the stairs and smiled at her, receiving a nod and a bright smile in return.

One evening when he was going out to stroll about the crowded streets in the hope of forgetting himself and his lost love, the woman came out of the room with a basket on her arm, and stopped, with the door in her hand, to soothe the child who evidently did not like being left.

"I sha'n't be long, Ada," she said; "and now you be a good girl and play with your doll till nurse comes back; and perhaps nurse will bring you some sweeties!"

She closed the door but stood listening, and Ralph heard a stifled little sob from within the room.

The woman uttered a click of annoyance and distress.

"My little one don't like being left," she said to Ralph, as if in explanation. "And I must go out and get some things."

"It's natural," said Ralph, sympathetically. "Solitude is not pleasant, and it's harder for children to bear than grown-up people. Is she an orphan?"

"Oh, no, dear, no!" replied the nurse, still listening to the sounds of grief from within. "She's got a father, and he's coming by the next ship. Ada and me had to leave before him through an accident—and, oh, dear, I wish she wouldn't cry! I can't bear to leave her, and I can't take her with me, because she's got a slight cold, and I wouldn't have her ill when her father comes for anything."

"See here," said Ralph. "I've got nothing whatever to do, and was only going for an aimless stroll; suppose I take your place while you're away?"

She and I have met on the stairs now and again, and I'll try and keep her amused until you come back."

"Oh, I couldn't think of troubling you, sir," she said; "not that she's a troublesome child, and she have took quite a fancy to you—the big man she calls you; but—"

"Oh, that's all right," said Ralph. "I'm fond of children; you can leave her in my charge safely enough. You won't be gone long, I daresay."

The nurse hesitated for a moment only as she glanced at the handsome, bronzed face, then nodded gratefully, and opening the door, said:

"Ada, here is someone who will keep you company."

"I don't want no company," sobbed Ada; but she came to the door, and when she saw Ralph her pretty little face brightened.

"Oh, it's the Big Man!" she said, with sudden cheerfulness.

"Come along, little woman, let's keep each other company," said Ralph, with his infectious smile; and before the nurse had left them the child was sitting on Ralph's knee and completely engrossed in a wonderful rabbit, which, though composed only of his handkerchief, actually pricked up its ears, cleaned itself with its paws, and nibbled at her frock. It was not only a wonderful rabbit, but it had apparently a most romantic history, which Ralph told in a manner so captivating that Ada leant her head against his breast and gazed up at him with all her little soul enthralled.

When the nurse returned she found Ralph seated on the stairs with the child asleep in his arms.

"She's just gone off," he whispered, stopping her profuse thanks. "I'll carry her in, if you'll let me; it's a pity to wake her."

He carried her into the room and laid her down on the cot, and the nurse followed him out to express her gratitude.

"I'm sure it's very kind of you, sir," she said. "And I'm sure her father will thank you when he arrives. It's wonderful how she's took to you, for Miss Ada is rather a particular in her likes and dislikes."

Celebrated Norwegian Jigger

Fishermen should use these Jiggers and rig them with swivels same style as in Norway, then the Jigger acts like a minnow and when spinning attracts the fish, so that instead of jiggering they really snap the Jigger and in this manner you never fail to catch them. Ordinary leads can be used, but the Norwegian style seems more simple and easily made. Our fishermen should try this great Norwegian fish killer.

Penalizing Good Temper.

By RUTH CAMERON.

"How I dislike that man," a young matron declared after the departure of a caller. Her husband looked at her in a s t o n n i s h m e n t. "Dislike him," he echoed. "I should never have guessed it. I thought you were putting yourself out to be nice to him."

"I was," his wife admitted. "And yet I dislike him. He is cynical, he thinks all women are fools, he has a disagreeable manner, and very seldom condescends to be even as gracious as he was to-night. And yet I always find myself making more of an effort to please him than I do for the people I like. Isn't it queer?"

Queer, yes, but only as life and human nature are queer.

There are people like that in every neighbourhood. Nobody really likes them, yet everybody tries to please them. Perhaps it is because they are so difficult to please that we feel a sort of triumph in accomplishing the feat. The difficulty is a challenge and a spur. Or perhaps it is because they are so disagreeable that we are afraid of them.

Easy going, easily pleased people never do seem to get as good treatment as the people who know how to make themselves disagreeable if they are not pleased.

The butcher does not keep his best cuts for the most agreeable and accommodating customer. On the contrary. He unloads the tough roast, the thin steak, the skinny chop on him; and keeps the tender, toothsome meat for the irritable quick-tempered customer who will raise the roof if he doesn't get just what he wants.

Two women employ the same washerwoman. One of them has taken an especial interest in the woman; she has given her money; she has often paid her in advance; she has waited patiently for her clean clothes when it meant a great deal of inconvenience to her. The other woman has been just an ordinary employer. When the clothes have been late she has spoken with considerable impatience and threatened to take her work elsewhere. It is not hard to guess which employer the washerwoman favours when she is delayed with her work for any reason.

Really when one sees how good temper and complaisance are penalized all along the line, and how unamiability is rewarded, one wonders—

No, of course I don't really mean it. Of course it is moral treason even to think that, so I will finish my sentence another way. One wonders if one cannot be more careful oneself to reward amiability in others as it deserves.

Boys Lay Dynamite to Blow up Cars

Montreal, July 17.—Police reports show that George and William Whitlerman, the two boys who were injured by the explosion of a dynamite cap in the rear of 70 Boulevard St. Street yesterday morning, had been playing with dynamite caps and placing them on the car track to see if the cars would explode them. Only for the happy advent of a policeman, who gave chase, lives might have been sacrificed and property damaged by the foolhardy youngsters.

How the dynamite came to be in the possession of the boys has not yet been definitely determined. They claim that they found the explosive and that it went off with a big bang when they attempted to fire it with a match.

The police, however, state that along with another boy the two brothers had filched dynamite from cement works in Longue Pointe.

That thousands of dollars worth of damage was not done and lives lost before the dynamite did its fell work is considered a matter of luck. The two boys, who are ten and seven years of age respectively, are resting quietly in the hospital. Their case is not considered serious.

Prehistoric House Found In London

London, July 15.—Excavations on the site of the new Chronicle building in Fleet Street, led to the discovery of the bones of prehistoric animals at a depth of 30 feet below the present level of the street and about 20 yards from the spot where prehistoric remains of a woolly rhinoceros were found in 1912. The present find includes what Drs. Smith, Woodward and Andrews of the Geological Department of the British Museum describe as "a beautiful piece of arm-bone of a lion." But there is some difference of opinion among other experts on the subject. The remains which belong to pleistocene times also include a bone of a mammoth and the hip bones perhaps of the same animal.

Premier Cook's Many Planks for General Election.

London, July 18.—Premier Cook of Australia last night outlined the issues upon which the general election in September would be fought. He announced an important departure of policy in proposing alterations of the constitution to deal with combinations and monopolies, to establish a uniform Federal Companies' Act, and to amend inter-State wages boards and an appellate tribunal.

Electoral reforms include placing the Senate on a basis of proportional representation, and preferential voting in the House of Representatives. In tariff matters the Liberal party is pledged to the maintenance of a protective policy, but is in favor of amendments of the tariff on the lines of the report of the inter-State commission on reciprocal trade relations with other dominions.

The Defence Plans.

As regards defence, the Premier stated that the Government proposed to carry out General Sir Ian Hamilton's recommendations.

An interesting new item in the Government's programme is the formation of an expert advisory board comprising representatives of the producers. Other matters include an Imperial naturalization measure on the lines of the British Act, the placing of the post office under the control of permanent commissioners, and the re-organization of the Government departments.

Large Fishing Company goes to the Hammer

Vancouver, July 15.—Justice Clement of the Supreme Court, today confirmed the sale here of the assets of the British Columbia Fisheries Co. for $300,000. Paper assets of more than half a million dollars were thus disposed of. The sale was made to an Englishman named Dovereaux. The company was promoted several years ago by Sir George Doughty, of Grimsby, lately deceased. British Columbia creditors of the concern to the extent of $100,000 will get nothing out of the settlement to-day for the $200,000 obtained in the sale will not nearly satisfy the preferred debenture holders in England.

Fish as a Health Food.

J. J. Crowie, who has compiled a volume showing the value of fish as food, has seen his work issued and given official prestige by the Marine and Fisheries Department of the Dominion of Canada. Among the points made by Author Crowie, favoring fish as a health food, are quotations from Sir James Crichton Browne, M.D., D.Sc., of England. To quote: "Sir James Crichton Browne, M.D., D.Sc., etc., of England, has said: 'It cannot be too strongly insisted on that for working people of all classes fish is an economical source of the energy necessary to enable them to carry on their work; and that for children and young persons it furnishes the very stuff that is needed to enable them to grow healthy and strong. It contains what is called proteid, the nitrogenous constituent which is mainly concerned in the formation of the tissues of which the body is composed, and it contains fat, one of the main sources from which the energy of the cells is derived. 'That fish should displace butchers' meat in the dietary of the people of this country is not to be expected; but it is felt there is a vast room for a substantial increase in the use of fish. The majority of people habitually eat too much butchers' meat, and could, with benefit to their health, reduce their meat allowance and increase their consumption of good, sound, fresh fish. 'Fish, as a food, is recommended for its easy digestibility. It, of course, differs greatly in this respect, the lean kinds being more quickly disposed of than the fat, while the hardened fibers of salt fish prevent it from being so readily digested as fresh fish. 'Fish is an unsurpassed food for brain workers who lead a sedentary life. It has a smaller proportion of nitrogenous material than meat, and is, therefore, less stimulating and exciting, an important matter in these strenuous, nervous days. 'But the digestibility and nutritive value of fish depends greatly on the manner of its cooking."

Destroyed 400 Hogs to Check Cholera

Ingersoll, Ont., July 18.—Their whereabouts having been traced and every animal of the big shipment from Western Canada destroyed, together with others with which they came in contact, it is believed that the outbreak of hog cholera in Detchem township has been effectually checked. Dr. Tennant, London, Government Inspector, who conducted the investigation, strictly enforced the regulations and in the neighbourhood of hundreds of hogs have been destroyed. The Inspector was fortunate in tracing every hog that was sold in the district from the western shipment and the car has also been located and quarantined.

Haldane on Education.

Southampton, July 13.—Lord Haldane, who opened Southampton's new University College buildings at Highfield, referred to the opportunities of education for the people.

"In these days," said Lord Haldane, "the old notion that capital is the monopoly of a few people and that the working class never can get access to it is gone. The real monopolist is the man with the trained brain. 'The new class that is growing up is the educated class, and if democracy wishes to get its share of the new things that are coming, and we are at the beginning of great changes—democracy will have to take advantage of the chance of education.'"

Stocking silk can now be bought by the yard by women who like to have their undergarments made at home. It is amazing the number of hot colors that are in vogue for this summer—raspberries, purples, strong yellows.

Once Upon a Time

there was a Mississippi steamboat with a whistle so big that every time it blew, the boat stopped. The whistle took all the steam.

There are lots of people today who exhaust all their energy every time they "blow their whistle."

The trouble is, they have no reserve to carry them through the average duties of every-day life.

Human strength and energy are obtained from food. And it is plain that it must contain the vitalizing elements which the system can take up and store as reserve power for occasions, not only ordinary, but extraordinary.

Grape-Nuts

is the food for strength and energy.

"There's a Reason"

Made of wheat and barley, it contains all the nourishment of the grain, including the vital mineral salts—a combination that builds brain, brawn and nerve.

Grape-Nuts is the ideal hot weather food. Concentrated—easy to digest—easy to serve—crisp—delicious!

Home Rule Conference

The summoning of a Conference of party leaders at Buckingham Palace under the presidency of the Speaker of the House of Commons seems to have stirred the ire of a number of Unionists, Liberals and Labour men. It is somewhat remarkable that these reports relate to members of the English parties, and that the Irish parties are not reported as averse to the Conference. This is illuminating. The Unionist and Liberal ire appears to be purely partisan. They seem to be unable to rise above party spite, vengeance and advantage. The hostile Unionists fear that Asquith may prove too slick for them, and that he may be able to preserve his party from defeat for another year by aid of this Conference. In other words, they prefer the chance of preferment and power to the settlement of an issue which threatens civil war. The hostile Liberals on the other hand want to hit back at the Lords, whatever the chances of civil war may be. A plague on your politics may well be the cry of those outside the English political arena. Even if the King has taken a new departure he has taken this course to avert a crisis. He is not attempting to impose any line of settlement on the parties, but he is asking them to avoid fratricidal strife, and come to a peaceful settlement. His speech to the delegates was noble and high-minded: "We have in the past endeavoured to act as a civilized example to the world, and to me it is unthinkable, as it must be to you that we should be brought to the brink of a fratricidal strife upon an issue, apparently so capable of adjustment, as those you are now asked to consider, handled in a spirit of generous compromise. Throughout the Empire and indeed the civilized world the prayer of His Majesty will find an echo in many a heart. I pray God in His infinite wisdom may guide you and your deliberations, so that they may result in joy and peace and an honourable settlement."

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, To-day.
King George, in receiving the conference at Buckingham Palace, made the following speech: "It is with a feeling of satisfaction and hopefulness that I receive you here to-day, and I thank you for the manner in which you have responded to my summons. It is also a matter for congratulation that the Speaker of the House of Commons has consented to preside over your meetings. My intervention at this moment may be regarded as a premature one, but the exceptional circumstances under which you are brought together, justify my action. For months we have watched with deep misgivings the course of events in Ireland. The trend has been surely and steadily toward an appeal to force, and to-day the cry of civil war is on the lips of the most responsible and sober-minded people. We have in the past endeavoured to act as a civilized example to the world, and to me it is unthinkable, as it must be to you, that we should be brought to the brink of fratricidal strife upon an issue, apparently so capable of adjustment, as that you are now asked to consider, handled in a spirit of generous compromise. My apprehension concerning such a due calamity is intensified by my feeling of attachment to Ireland and of sympathy with her people who have always welcomed me with warm-hearted affections. Gentlemen, you represent in one form or another, the vast majority of my subjects at home. You also have a deep interest in my Dominion. Overseas which are scarcely less concerned in the prompt and friendly settlement of this question. I regard you in this matter as trustees for the honor and peace of all. Your responsibilities, indeed, are great; the time is short, and you will, I know, employ it to the fullest advantage. Be patient, earnest, conciliatory in view of the magnitude of the interest at stake. I pray God in His infinite wisdom may guide you and your deliberations, so that they may result in joy and peace and an honourable settlement."

Reception to the Archbishop.

The officers of the several Roman Catholic Societies of the city met at the Episcopal Library last evening to arrange a welcome for His Grace Archbishop Howley who is due to arrive on the S. S. Stephano to-morrow morning.

Rt. Rev. Mons. Roche, V.G., presided, and briefly explained the object of the meeting.

Hon. J. D. Ryan was moved to the chair, and Dr. V. P. Burke was appointed Secretary.

On motion of Mr. W. J. Ellis and Mr. J. L. Slattery it was agreed that the Societies meet His Grace upon arrival, and that on behalf of the Societies and the Roman Catholic community an address of welcome be presented to the Archbishop on the Cathedral steps at 8.30 Thursday night.

A committee of ten, one from each Society, was appointed to make arrangements, the following gentlemen being the Societies representatives: B. I. S., J. L. Slattery; Mechanics, Jas. Lahey; T. A. B. S., W. J. Ellis; Star, J. T. Martin; K. of C., J. Fenelon; H. N. (Cathedral), J. C. Chafee; H. N. (St. Patrick's), J. Barron; St. Vincent de Paul, M. J. Walsh; St. Joseph's, J. T. Fitzpatrick; C. C. C., Major Kent.

At a meeting of the above committee, held after the general meeting, Mr. J. L. Slattery was appointed Chairman who with Mr. J. J. Fenelon and Dr. Burke will draft the address. The following programme was then arranged:—

The officers of the Societies to meet at 6.30 a.m. to-morrow, and proceed to Harvey's wharf and meet His Grace on arrival.
All the Societies to meet and parade at 8 o'clock Thursday evening to the Cathedral grounds, accompanied by the C. C. C. and T. A. bands, where the address will be presented to the Archbishop.
A display of fireworks will follow during the night.

Fishery Reports.

July 11th.—From A. Stone (Barr'd Island to Change Islands)—The total catch is 6,000 quintals and for last week 1,500. No dories or skiffs but 250 boats are fishing and 180 traps are out. No bankers or schooners from the grounds have arrived. Prospects with traps are fair, but poor for hook and liners. There is caplin in abundance since June 25th. The lobster fishery is very poor, and the best packer in the district has only 5 cases. The above estimate is based upon information obtained from the fishermen and would be under rather than over the actual catch. It does not embrace the Straight Shore and Wadhams Islands.

July 18th.—From A. T. Keats (Plantia to Long Hr.)—Twelve traps are out and have landed a total of 1,199 qts., with 150 for last week. Thirty boats' catch is 2,380 and 600, and that of 20 dories and skiffs, 245 and 25. Four schooners arrived from the grounds. Prospects are fair and there is plenty of bait. Very little is being done with lobsters. There is a good sign of fish for cod nets, but dogfish are hampering our men considerably. Big trips are coming from Island Head and vicinity and prospects for Golden Bay are fairly bright.

July 18th.—From W. Ward (Mosquito Point to Bryant's Cove)—Prospects are not good but there is plenty of caplin bait. The total catch is 1,572 qts., and for last week 372. Nineteen traps are out and 48 dories and skiffs fishing.

July 18th.—From T. Hogan (Carboner to Western Bay)—Caplin is plentiful but there is no cod with hook and line. The total catch is 905 quintals and 335 for last week. Forty-five punts and 43 traps are fishing.

July 18th.—From R. Lawton (South Head of Keels to Knight's Cove Point)—The catch to date is 240 with 80 or 90 for last week. Ten traps and 20 skiffs are fishing. Prospects are a little better, but still poor. Caplin is plentiful but very little was done with lobsters during the week. The traps are getting from 1 to 2 qts. a haul, but very little is being done by hook and liners who did not get more than 20 qts. for the week. Dogfish are numerous.

More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferer and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Percie Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at small expense. Have you enough insurance?

GOES TO SYDNEY—The S. S. Beothic sails to-morrow for Sydney to load coals for here.

FAILED TO FLOAT STEAMER.—Yesterday afternoon an unsuccessful attempt to float the s.s. Stella Mgris was made. Two powerful pumps were kept going for three hours, but it is apparent that all the openings have not been closed.

Pleased With Girl's Department.

(COPY). Government House, St. John's, Nfld., 17th July, 1914.

My Dear Mrs. Job,—
Permit me to convey to you and your colleagues on the Ladies' Committee which controls the Girls' Department of the King George the Fifth Seamen's Institute, the cordial compliments of the Duke of Connaught.

His Royal Highness was deeply interested in the movement of which you are the President, and returned to the subject frequently in subsequent conversations.

His Royal Highness also paid a tribute to Miss Bennett, in holding that the popularity and efficiency of the department must be largely due to her tact and ability as manager. Believe me to be, dear Mrs. Job, Yours sincerely,
(Sgd.) W. E. DAVIDSON.

Obituary.

Mr. Edward F. Cummins, passed away at his late residence Queen's Road, yesterday afternoon after weathering the storms of 93 years. The deceased was a native of Carlow, Ireland, and came to Newfoundland about 70 years ago. He was thoroughly conversant with labor and trade conditions, and his opinions regarding these matters proved to be a valuable asset to the firm of which he was a faithful employee. Mr. Cummins was never married, and having invested his savings carefully he managed to accumulate many thousand dollars. He leaves no immediate relatives in the city. The funeral takes place to-morrow afternoon.

Another Win for Collegians.

The Collegians defeated the Casuals in last night's football match by a score of 4 goals to 2 after an exhibition that at times savoured more of a wrestling match than Association Football.

From the start it could be seen that the Collegians were more than a match for their opponents, and only towards the end of the second half did the game become at all interesting.

The game opened with the Collegians playing up field, and in less than five minutes from the start No. 1 goal was landed within the twines by Maddock, of the Collegians.

Upon the ball being again put in play the Collegians made an onslaught on their opponents' goal, and Noonan, seizing a good opportunity at the correct time landed No. 2 for his team.

Then came an exhibition which bore very little resemblance to real football, being characterized by a series of fouls in which both teams were offenders. Excepting a few off-sides, nothing worthy of note took place during the remainder of the first half and when the teams crossed the line with the score 2 to 0 in favor of the Collegians.

SECOND HALF.

The second period opened rather briskly, but was not very interesting as the Collegians kept the ball on their opponents' danger zone from the start. A few minutes had elapsed when Hutchings, of the Collegians, sent in a beauty that beat Noseworthy, and recorded No. 3 for his team. After a good exhibition of individual play Hutchings again found the net before Noseworthy had time to clear.

With the score 4 to 0 enthusiasm ebbed fast as it was thought the Collegians had a clean walk over. The tables, however, were soon turned and about five minutes before full time the Casuals spurred and Chancey drew first blood for his team with a beauty from the right wing. The fouls ceased hastily, and for a time the excitement was intense as the Casuals put up a splendid game and were masters of the situation. Just before full time No. 2 goal was landed by Chancey, and when the last whistle sounded the score stood 4 to 2 in favor of the Collegians.

Mr. E. S. Pinesent acted as referee, and the line up was as follows:—

COLLEGIANS.—Quick, goal; Ayre, Barrett, backs; H. Barnes, Pike, E. Barnes, halves; Fenwick, Noonan, Hutchings, Smallwood, Maddock, forwards.

CASUALS.—Noseworthy, goal; Bradbury, Hartney, backs; Stevenson, Goodie, Marshall, halves; Chancey, Squires, O. Chancey, Sullivan and Kendrick, forwards.

Re-Admitted to Bail.

CHARGE BEING CONSIDERED.

The preliminary hearing into the serious charge preferred against an East End tailor was concluded yesterday afternoon. The accused for whom bail was renewed will be arraigned before the Magistrate to-morrow.

WORST FOR YEARS.—Judging by the reports received from all quarters the lobster fishery will be the worst for many years.

Baseball This Afternoon.

The much talked of game between the Wanderers and B.I.S. will be played this afternoon at 5 o'clock in the St. Bon's practice grounds. The first match between these two teams was annulled by the League owing to a misinterpretation of the rules by the umpire-in-chief, and it was therefore decided that the game should be replayed. The winners to-day will have to play off with the Red Lions at Mount Cashel on the day of the Garden Party for the Cup presented by Mr. H. D. Reid, and the gate receipts this afternoon will be devoted entirely to the Orphanage funds. As the game does not start until 5 o'clock the fans will have the opportunity of taking in both the Highland Games and Baseball Match. The line up is:—

The Labor Question.

DEADLOCK CONTINUES.

The wage problem between the Employers' Association and the Longshoremen's Union yet remains unsettled and no solution of the difficulty appears to be in sight. As a result of the new rules put in operation of knocking off at 6 o'clock in the evening, the coopers working on mercantile premises allege that they have lost considerable money which they would have earned through overtime if the laborers continued to work at night time, same as usual. We understand, however, that the main reason responsible for the present deadlock is the large increase asked for by fish culcers.

Harbor Grace Notes.

Rev. Mr. Magner, of St. Andrew's Church, was at Bell Island last week and had a most enjoyable visit. The Rev. gentleman also took in the celebration at St. John's.

Hon. Donald Morison and Mrs. Morison were in town yesterday, as was also R. A. Squires, Esq., Minister of Justice.

Rev. Ernest Davis took charge of the service at the Methodist Church here last night, and delivered a very forceful address. His brother Mr. Frank Davis, who is manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Bell Island, was also in town yesterday.

Miss Florrie Hutchins arrived from St. John's on Saturday, on a visit to friends.

A large number of our citizens spent last week at St. John's and enjoyed the celebrations in connection with the Duke's visit.

A man bound to the post office a few nights ago to post a letter, and while in apparently deep thought, he passed by our up-to-date post office, and attempted to put the letter in the letter slot at the old post office. The officials, no doubt, anticipating something of this nature, had the cover tacked on. Realizing his mistake the poor man turned to the right about, and made for the new post office, glancing around at the same time to see if any person had noticed his blunder.

 Dear Sir,—I have analyzed a sample of Sulphate of Ammonia made at your Works and I found 20.5 per cent of NITROGEN, Sulphates of Ammonia and Nitrate of Soda are the two principal Nitrogen manure.

Sulphate of Ammonia is less soluble than Nitrate of Soda, consequently it is a safer manure to use during a wet season.

Dropped Dead at Steel Plant.

Alex. Cameron, an employee in the nail mill of the D. I. & S. Co., dropped dead while at work about nine o'clock this morning, apparently the result of heart failure. Deceased was missed from his usual place of working and on investigation by his fellow workers his lifeless body was found a short distance away. He was aged 25 years, and is survived by his parents, three brothers and one sister, who reside on Devonport Road. Previous to working at the steel works he was employed by the Record as assistant pressman.—Sydney Record.

WIRE WOUNDS.

My mare, a very valuable one, was badly bruised and cut by being caught in a wire fence. Some of the wounds would not heal, although I tried many different medicines. Dr. Bell advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT, diluted at first, then stronger as the sores began to look better, until after three weeks, the sores have healed, and best of all, the hair is growing well, and is NOT WHITE as is most always the case in horse wounds.

Regatta Notes.

Another large gathering attended the lake side last evening.

Another crew of amateurs, the fourth, have signified their intention of competing in the races.

It is expected that the new C. C. C. boat will be launched on Monday next.

The Casuals are the favorites in the football race.

We understand that there will be no Society race.

"Joe" Boone is again entering a Trade crew. They will have to buck up against the Shamrock and the C. C. C. new boat.

Three crews of Juveniles are now practicing. The age rule is being more strictly enforced this year than ever.

Torbay, Outer Cove and Logy Bay will enter a crew in the Fishermen's race.

We are glad to see some sort of an improvised bridge erected at the head of the pond.

The Factory race promises to be the most interesting for the day.

So far, we learn that the Shamrock will take part in four races.

An Enquiry.

A magisterial enquiry into the death of Peter Hall, who was drowned on the local fishing grounds last Saturday, began before Judge Knight yesterday afternoon when the evidence of Richard Hall, brother of the deceased, and Garland Porter, who was on the scene at the time, was taken.

NEWS BY CABLE.

Special to the Evening Telegram.

LONDON, July 21.

So deep is the interest taken by the public in the crisis which has arisen over the Home Rule question that crowds gathered to-day outside Buckingham Palace to witness the arrival of the various party leaders participating in the conference inaugurated by the King.

The first to put in an appearance was the Rt. Hon. J. W. Lowther, Speaker of the House of Commons, who presides over the conference. The eight men who represent the various parties came in cars with the exception of Lord Lansdowne who walked. The King received the statesmen in the chamber of meeting, and shook hands with them all. This was probably the first time that Messrs. Redmond and Dillon ever exchanged greetings with the King, as it had been the practice of the Nationalist members to remain away from all functions where members of the Commons were likely to be brought into contact with royalty.

After a brief conversation His Majesty withdrew from the meeting about noon, leaving the representatives to their deliberations. After being in session for about an hour and a half the conference adjourned until to-morrow.

For the first time in his reign King George is being criticized strongly, though respectively, by some important Liberal newspapers, which express the belief to-day that, if His Majesty forced the holding of the conference on the Home Rule question, he overstepped his constitutional duty as a limited monarch, and interfered with the rights of Parliament, and the responsibility of the cabinet. The Manchester Guardian says that any such transfer of substantive responsibility and initiative, if it has actually taken place is a course to be deprecated. The Daily News takes a stronger attitude saying that there are profound misgivings in the Liberal benches where impatience at the obstacles put in the pathway of the Government is reaching the breaking point. It asks whether the story of the past two years is to be the experience of Parliament whenever a Liberal Government is engaged in passing Liberal measures.

The official organ of Labour under the heading of "Buckingham Palace" again denounces the alleged interference of the Throne, and says that the House of Commons and not some private room in the King's Palace is the proper place for a debate to settle political differences.

A Liberal caucus summoned, as one of the leaders put it "to buck up the British Government," was attended by upwards of a hundred Liberal members of the Commons. A resolution was passed to the effect that its members unswervingly supported the claims of Ireland, as put forward by the Nationalists, and embodied in the Home Rule Bill. The gathering showing determination to see the cause finally won. The meeting further expressed the opinion that it was the duty of the Government to complete its whole programme before making an appeal to the constituencies.

A Vast Difference.

There is a vast difference between the codfishery on the north and south coasts this year. In the latter centre the voyage promises to be a blank. While on the south side of the coast the fishery looks to be an unprecedented success as in most places the fishermen are devoting their time to curing.

For women going north for their holiday, the cloth suit is an indispensable part of the wardrobe.

Divorced Life

By Helen Hanson Fuesate

Marian Peddles Her Wares.

The cheerless, almost chafing face of the "Cheering Hour Magazine" was tucked away at the end of a gloomy hallway in a dingy office building on Union Square. Gillis was its editor. His squeaking swivel chair and creaking, asthmatic voice were music to Marian's ears on the two occasions when she had made bold to visit his sanctum.

One day she pulled herself out of Fifth Avenue's brisk current of pedestrians for a third intrusion of the editor's office. In her handbag reposed a laboriously written manuscript. She had originally resolved to make an effort to sell her wares to the "Cheering Hour Magazine" because it looked to her like one of the humblest and most approachable private in the formidable army of New York publications.

She dodged into the entrance of the building with bated breath, and the hesitating elevator hoisted her dubiously to Gillis's floor. She found him dragging wearily at the stub of a cigar. His big, heavily-shod feet were deposited like clumsy cacti at the edge of the desert of disordered manuscript and his trained eyes traveled rapidly through its pages. When he had finished he blinked at her kindly and not without a look of pity through the horn-rimmed spectacles astride his enormous red nose, and said:

"There's something missing in your stuff. But you just keep coming. A beginner as got to sweat blood. One of these days your work will begin getting by, and then you'll have smoother sailing."

Marian's hungry soul devoured the crumbs of comfort that were tossed her by this royal chief of literature's kitchen. "Just what seems to be lacking in my work?" she asked, depression settled upon her. To be a jobless divorcee, she realized now, was anything but a school girl's trouble.

To-morrow—The Ingenue Again.

Attempted Plan to Kill the Czar

St. Petersburg, Russia, July 15.—Details of a plot to assassinate the Czar and his family at Odessa are published here. A well-dressed, well-mannered stranger arrived at the leading hotel on the eve of the Czar's visit, and at 9 o'clock next morning, one hour before the Czar was expected to reach the hotel, took up his stand in the hotel entrance. He was arrested but nothing suspicious was found in his baggage and he was about to be released when a waiter told the detectives that the stranger immediately after his arrival gave him a box to keep on ice, saying it contained food. The box was opened and found to contain two loaded bombs. The man thereupon confessed that he had been sent by the revolutionary committee and intended to throw the bombs at the Czar as his majesty passed through the streets.

Ponderous Personages

RICHARD THE LION-HEARTED.
 By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "A Good Old Swash."

Richard, the Lion-Hearted, was the son of King Henry II. of England and lived something more than seven hundred years ago.

This was a time when there was no more peace in Europe than there is in Mexico to-day and the man who knew how to play a good broadsword shot was sure to become famous if he kept his health. Richard was born a prince but he did not waste any time enjoying the emoluments of office. He was as big as a house and he liked fighting better than eating. Year after year he practiced on the enemies of the kingdom and when the supply ran out, he got up tournaments and let daylight through his personal friends—so that when he became King of England in 1189 he was the best two-handed fighter in Europe and when he charged down on the enemy sword in hand, whole companies broke for the nearest shelter.

Nowadays a king stays at home and goes over figures and reports at a desk, but that was not the kind of a king Richard was. As soon as he was crowned, he sold off whatever he could get rid of, including several miscellaneous smaller kingdoms and raised an army. Then he set off for Jerusalem. Palestine at that time was swarming with hostile Turks and afforded the finest fighting imaginable.

Richard got to Palestine and had a beautiful time slicing up vast numbers of infidels, battering down city walls, toasting women and children, fighting duels with brave enemies and indulging in all the glories and delights of war. He was the hardest fighter who ever invaded the country and all Europe rang with his exploits—which didn't make Richard mad at all.

Richard didn't capture Jerusalem, but made peace when his provisions were exhausted and started for home alone. He was captured in Anafra and lay in prison for a year while his managers in England pawned everything movable to raise his ransom.

Finally he arrived in England just in time to discourage his grabby brother from stealing the kingdom and after getting a new suit of armor and a few hearty meals, he hurried off to France to fight Philip with all the eagerness of a downtrodden business man getting out to the golf links on Saturday afternoon.

Richard was killed in 1199 while fighting in France. He made a great reputation as a soldier and as he did absolutely nothing toward governing his country, he made a good reputation as a king, too, and people shed tears over his death.

Out of Debt.

At breakfast time, at eve, at noon, I eat a cabbage and a prune, as oft I've done before: I smile and chortle as I dine, for what I eat is strictly mine, and paid for at the store. No man can say to me, "You ought to pay me for that prune, before you eat the same;" no man has mortgage, claim or lien, upon the cabbage, rich and green, with which I pad my frame. A cup of water from the rill tastes better than a pint or gill of grapejuice bought on tick; and when I've chewed my victuals down, I'm the sereneest guy in town, with conscience smooth and slick. Oh, better far for any man, a can of soup, a ball of bran, and have the merchant's look salience, and tell you that your name is Fance, when you drop in to buy. The worst old scheme invented yet is that of going into debt; it keeps the people broke; within my means I always keep, and while the others wall and weep, I sit in peace and smoke.

Fads and Fashions.

Collars and gimpes are so much alike this season it is hard to tell the two apart.

Tango color, purple and turquoise are a surprising color combination seen in silks.

Outing and motor coats frequently have the big, loose cut of the summer circular.

Pastel tinted taffeta frocks will enjoy a considerable vogue throughout the summer.

Awning stripes are much used for the skirts of the afternoon dresses in either silk or wool.

An indispensable part of the summer lingerie dress is its little separate coat of tulle.

Many brides this year are wearing long sleeves and no gloves with their wedding gowns.

Skirts of the newest are trimmed with circular boucés, sometimes piped with plain colors.

Young girls are wearing the sweet pea shades, and older women choose the deeper colors.

Thin sheer materials call for classical treatment when they are chosen for wedding gowns.

Drowns When Running Rapids.

Blind River, Que., July 16.—Owing to the disobedience of a foreman's orders four lives were imperiled and one lost at McGanley's chute on the Missisauqua river last night.

A party of five men returning from the lumber drive on the river attempted against orders to run the rapids. Their boat struck a log and capsized.

The occupants were thrown into the stream and with difficulty four scrambled and swam to safety, one, August Chentier, 20 years of age, disappeared, and being drowned. His body is still missing.

The young man's parents live at Athabasca, Man., and much sympathy is felt for his untimely end.

Sergeant-Major Under General French

Veteran of Boer War Who Lost Health on the Veldt Tells Experience.

Good Advice for All Who Have Indigestion or Stomach Disorders.

In his home at Waldegrave, N. S., no one is better known than Sergeant-Major Cross, late of the 4th Queen's Own Hussars. Speaking of the ill-effects of a campaign upon a man's constitution, the Sergeant-Major writes: "I served under General French during the late Boer war, in the capacity of Sergeant-Major. It was perhaps owing to a continued diet of bull beef, hard tack, and bad water, but at any rate my stomach entirely gave out. I was in such a state that I could eat nothing without the greatest suffering. The army doctors did not help me much, and since leaving the service I have been very miserable. Some few months ago, a friend told me he had been a great sufferer from indigestion until he tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they cured him. I confess it was without much faith I bought a box, but the first dose made me feel better than I had been for a long time. Dr. Hamilton's Pills completely cured, and now I can eat everything and anything. I have recommended them to others and in every case the result has been similar to mine."

Quick, sure results attend the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They cure disorders of the stomach, correct indigestion, make you feel uplifted and strengthened. To renew or maintain health, Dr. Hamilton's Pills always prove a good prescription. 25c. per box, five boxes for $1.00. All Dealers, or the Catarthozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Volcanoes Continue Active

Redding, Cal., July 18.—Black smoke belched a mile high from the crater on Lassen Peak to-day, and then drifted southward before the wind in a banner ten miles long. The amount of falling ashes was small compared with the great eruption of June 14, although the volume of the cloud was fully as great and the duration of the disturbance greater. The first violence of the outbreak began to dwindle after two hours, though the mountain still belched smoke. To-day is the eighteenth eruption since May 30.

New Quebec is Rich.

UNGAVA POSSESSES UNTOLD NATURAL RESOURCES.

Surveys of Vast Territory Which Makes Up the Labrador Peninsula Go to Show That Water Power, Forests and Minerals Are of Immense Value—Cataracts Are the Country's Chief Feature.

The territory of Ungava, or as it has been called, "New Quebec," comprises the Labrador peninsula, and some idea of its enormous extent may be formed from the fact that its coast lines—leaving altogether out of the calculation the seaboard of the Newfoundland strip of the main land—are of a greater length by many hundreds of miles than the crossing of the Atlantic from Liverpool to Quebec. From Quebec to Blanc Sablon there is a coastline on the south of 1,160 miles. From Cape Chidley to Cape Wolstenholme on the north, the coastline of Hudson Strait measures 1,170 miles, and from this latter mentioned point to the head of James Bay, the coastline on the west is 1,280 miles long, making a total length for these three coastlines of 3,710 miles.

The interior of Ungava is a high plateau, pour themselves over its more than a few miles of the coastline to a varying height of from 1,500 to 2,500 feet. As a consequence, the numberless big rivers draining this plateau, pour themselves over it more or less precipitous cliffs on their way to the sea, in a variety of cataracts and waterfalls of varying heights, affording innumerable water powers.

Dr. Low, the late head of the Geographical Survey of Canada estimated that a million and a half horse power could be obtained from the Hamilton Falls proper, and over three millions from the whole twelve miles of falls in the river. Other authorities are satisfied with a claim of 300,000 horse power for the Hamilton, not to calculate upon other great rivers for the moment.

It is probable that no other country possesses such a number of extraordinary cataracts as are to be found upon nearly all the large rivers of Ungava.

One of the most picturesque rivers for rapids and waterfalls in the entire Labrador peninsula is the Caniagsow, the principal tributary of the Kobsak or Ungava river, which almost three hundred miles before its waters reach the ocean, descends with a fall of thirty feet into a gorge varying from thirty to one hundred feet wide, with perpendicular, and in many places, overhanging, jagged, rocky walls that rise three hundred feet above the rushing torrent.

On the Nottawa river, the Iroquois Falls, which are seventy feet high are capable of producing 400,000 horse power, and two other falls of forty feet. No doubt this great natural phenomenon will be found to possess a great commercial value some day. Wherever there is a sufficiency of forest growth for the extensive manufacture of wood pulp, the water-powers of the far north will doubtless be developed in the not far distant future, especially when they are approachable by steamboats or where prospective industries may warrant the construction of railway communication. It may be, too, that mineral development will in many parts of Ungava call for the employment of electric energy generated by water power.

According to the latest report from a surveying party the entire forest along the Nottawa River, only covers an area of 75 square miles. The surveyors, estimating the supply at ten cords to the acre, make a total return of three hundred million feet, board measure, which would supply a pulp mill for fifteen years using twenty million feet, board measure, of pulp wood per annum.

It is probable that the largest forests of the interior of the Labrador peninsula are those along the valley of the lower reaches of the Hamilton River, which contains splendid timber where not burned over. The high hills which enclose the lower portion of the valley of Hamilton are wooded to their summits, but as the upper level is approached, the trees become small and stunted. Black spruce forms over ninety per cent. of the wood, the remainder being made up of larch, or tamarac, white birch and balsam fir.

In the valley, on the contrary, the growth of timber is always good. White spruce trees, two feet in diameter, and more than seventy feet high are not uncommon, and a large number of ships' spars have been cut from them. The black spruce does not grow quite so large as the white, but is still large enough to afford good commercial timber, and the same may be said of the larch.

Near the junction of the Minipi River with the Hamilton, the forest produces spruce trees running from twenty to twenty-four inches in diameter and sufficiently long to furnish three logs each.

While the country about Ungava Bay in the extreme north of Labrador is treeless, the northern limit of forest growth being a little south of the bay, there is considerable pulpwood on the banks of the upper portions of the rivers flowing into that bay; and in the more southern part of the peninsula, the forest is continuous, except where the country has been swept by forest fires. Explanatory surveys will doubtless, ere long, bring to light something like an approximate idea of the value of the forest growth in the great tree-producing regions of New Quebec.

It will probably take a number of years to determine where the most valuable mineral deposits of Ungava are likely to be found. Only a very few trails have yet been made through this enormous territory.

A London Favourite

AT ROSSLEY'S.

Geo. Scully is going to become a big favourite in St. John's as he was in London. Last night he was a little better acquainted with his audience, he worked twice as good as he did on Monday night. Scully is naturally quiet and reserved. But his work last night was something splendid, full of vim, clean, breezy and refreshing. The rag time craze has had such a sway all over that to see a real performer giving something away from it comes as a treat; he had to respond to several encores and the large audience kept up the applause until the next picture was well under way, and what's more Scully does not do his act on a newspaper or his letter head; he is an artist of the English Halls. The pictures, the best in the film market, will be changed again to-day when some splendid pictures will be shown.

Where Responsibility Lies.

No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that its Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is modernly and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-VERMOREL CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. Big Sensation.

LOSS OF OCEAN LINER AT THE NICKEL THEATRE.

Mr. De Witt C. Cairns, the new vocalist at the Nickel Theatre, was heard by hundreds of new admirers yesterday, and he delighted them. He was most enthusiastically applauded at each appearance. All present were charmed with his excellent singing. For to-day there is a superb program one of the best that has ever been given. That thrilling story "The Next Generation," which is perhaps the most wonderful film ever given will be seen. "Nothing to equal it has ever been seen in St. John's before. The story is of a young marine architect who discovers a flaw in the plans of his uncle, for a big ocean liner. The uncle is jealous and the ship is launched; disaster overtakes her when there are hundreds of passengers enjoying themselves and fearful scenes are witnessed. The pictures are thrilling, and no one should miss seeing them. The other subjects for to-day are also the best obtainable.
