A Terrible Disclosure;

What Fools Men Are!

CHAPTER XXII.

Edith Drayton gathered her habit skirt in her hand.

"Let me go with you, please," she said. "I should like to see the horse I am going to ride."

Several of the party accompanied them to the stables, and Lord Edgar walked down the stalls, looking for a suitable horse; but suddenly Edith Drayton stopped at a stall.

In it stood the mare which she had exchanged for Lord Edgar's horse.

"This is the horse I should like to ride," she said, quietly. "That is, if I may."

Lord Edgar shook his head.

"No," he said, curtly. "You know the horse. It is not safe."

She laughed—a hard, cold laugh.

"Not safe! You are not very complimentary to my equestrian powers, Lord Fane. I am not afraid. I will ride it, if you please."

Lord Edgar looked embarrassed, but a groom came up and touched his hat.

"The mare's quite quiet now, my lord. She was well exercised yesterday. If the lady gives her her head, she'll be as safe as a house."

"You see!" said Edith Drayton. "Let me have my way, please, Lord Fane."

Lord Edgar frowned, but a small crowd was gathering in the stable, the huntsman was anxious to be off, and, after conferring with the groom for a minute he nodded his consent, and the mare was saddled. Half a dozen hands were eager to assist the beautiful Edith Drayton to her seat, and, with a dash of color on her face, she rode out of the yard and on to the lawn. Lord Edgar found time to reach the pony phaeton, and, bending over his wife, murmured:

"Why did you not let me send her away, Lela?"

But Lela shook her head, her pure, clear eyes fixed lovingly upon him.

"Why should we do that, dear? What harm can she do? I do not hate—I pity her!"

The next moment the hounds were away, and Lord Edgar hastened off to the front.

It was a keen scent, and a dog-fox, and there was every promise of a good run.

Lord Edgar and half a dozen of the best men went to the front, and took the Panerth hedges in admirable style; and he grew so eager in his work that he quite forgot the unlooked-for presence of Edith Drayton until he was sharply reminded of it by finding her close by his side.

The hounds were going fast, the country was difficult, and the field had dwindled down to three or four, and he and she were almost alone, neck and neck.

"Well!" she said. "Have you repented, Lord Fane?"

He half turned his head. It cost him an effort to speak to her.

"Repented?"

"Yes," she said; "or have the sweets of married life not begun to cloy?"

He did not answer, but tried to get ahead of her; but she struck the mare, and kept pace with him.

"You will not speak to me? You despise me?" she said, with clinched teeth.

"What is there to be said between us two?" he said, gravely. "I had hoped that we should never meet again. Your presence here to-day is a blot on my happiness, and you know it."

"Is that so?" she said. "Am I still unforgiven? Ah! it is a hard world! My presence here is a blot on your happiness! And your happiness, but for my presence, would be so complete! I am so sorry that I came. And yet, no. I wanted to see with my own eyes whether you were still bewitched by that baby face, and I have seen. I am satisfied. Lord Edgar, my presence shall not again render you uncomfortable! Rest assured of that. I will leave you to your happiness—and to her! Look! The fox is heading!" and she raised her whip and pointed to the fox going at right angles from the field.

Lord Edgar uttered an exclamation. The hounds were making straight for a disused gravel pit, a certain death-trap for any one who did not know the country by heart.

"Ah! Stop! Pull up! There is danger, there—"

But, instead of pulling up, she shook her head savagely, and looked around upon him, with a defiant smile. The mare sprang forward, flinging the foam from her lips, and Lord Edgar, striking the spurs into his horse, rode after her, calling to her rider.

"Stop! Stop! The pit! For Heaven's sake, stop!"

She heard him, for she looked around, with the same set smile on her white face.

"Good-by, Lord Edgar!" she called back. "I shall not trouble your happiness again! Good-by!"

With a cry of horror, he tried to overtake her, but her weight was light and the mare fresh, and, with a low cry on her lips, she rose at the trail fence on the edge of the pit and disappeared.

They found her lying, quite dead, in the shallow water, and they carried her to the nearest village.

"The mare had bolted." That was the explanation offered and received, and only Lord Edgar, who never repeated a word of her last, despairing words, knew that she had died the death of a suicide.

They buried her—her, the beauty and queen of two seasons—a long time, an' you please—in the country churchyard of the parish where she died, and Lord Edgar attended, at Lela's special request.

As he stood over the grave from which all but he had turned, a tall, thin figure dressed in black, approached, and, utterly regardless of Lord Edgar's presence, knelt down upon the edge boards and gazed down at the flower-covered coffin.

Lord Edgar drew near; then started, for he saw that the man was Clifford Revel!

He stood and waited, and, after a time, Clifford Revel arose; as he did so, Lord Edgar went around to him, and extended his hand.

"Clifford," he said, in a broken voice, for he was much moved—"let us forgive and forget—"

Clifford Revel raised his white face—which was haggard and wan—and glared at him, with a nameless hate and defiance; then, striking Lord Edgar's extended hand aside, covered his face with his hands, and moved slowly away.

It was the last time they met this side of the Final River. From that moment Clifford Revel was lost to the world. He disappeared so completely that he might have been buried with the woman whom he loved so dearly, and for whom he had sinned so deeply.

THE END.

Ruled Destiny!

CHAPTER I.

A PLEA FOR JUSTICE.

"There are the costs of these last two trials, Miss Carlisle," and they amounted to a little over five thousand pounds!"

The blow for which he had been mercifully preparing her was struck at last.

Floris stood quite still for a moment, then she went and laid her white hand tenderly and soothingly upon her mother's shoulder.

"Five thousand pounds!" she murmured, in a low, distinct voice, that quivered for all her effort to keep it firm. "We have to pay that?"

The lawyer inclined his head.

"Each side to pay its own costs," he said. "Yours will be quite that sum; but don't be alarmed, Miss Carlisle—"

She did not hear him. Her eyes were fixed on the floor, her heart beating slowly and heavily.

Five thousand pounds! She knew what it meant! Five thousand pounds! It would nearly ruin them! In a moment she saw the lovely view, lying bathed in the sunset, fading slowly away, giving place to some squalid London street, the comfortable apartment was transformed to a miserable parlor in a dirty lodging house! This, then, was what this man had come to tell them! That they were ruined!

Her hand shook upon the feeble shoulder, and her parted lips quivered as the tears gathered slowly in her eyes.

Mr. Morrel had stopped abruptly as he saw that she was not listening; but now he went on again, his dry, sharp voice striking on her ears discordantly.

"Don't be alarmed, Miss Carlisle; you have not heard me out, yet. I have still some intelligence to communicate."

She turned her head toward him very slowly.

"I beg your pardon," she said, quietly; "I was startled."

"No doubt, no doubt," he sniffed. "Every excuse; my fault, Miss Carlisle, I ought to have told you first what I am going to tell you now."

She listened with pale, sorrowful face.

"At the close of the trial, immediately after the decision of the judges, we received a communication from Lord Norman—through his lawyer, of course."

"Yes?"

"It was a communication which surprised us; surprised us very much. We had no right or reason to expect an offer of such a kind from Mr. Norman, and it does him the greatest credit, the very greatest."

"An offer from Lord Norman?" she repeated, dully.

"Yes!" snapped Mr. Morrel. "Immediately upon hearing that he had won his cause, his lordship sent and offered to pay your costs for you."

There was a silence while one could count twenty. The lovely face turned to the window was white and set. The hand resting on the feeble woman's shoulder shut tightly; the soft, firm lips closed with a close compression. Mr. Morrel was too much taken up with his own satisfaction to notice the effect of his announcement.

"It was a remarkably generous offer; extraordinarily so!" he said, wagging his head. "I was never more

PAINS IN BACK AND SIDE

Yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Kansas City, Kansas.—"I suffered from pains in my back and side caused by a functional derangement. I was nervous and had headaches most of the time. So many people recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me, I tried it and after taking six bottles I am well. I do not think the Vegetable Compound can be beaten for women's ailments."—Mrs. L. THURMANN, 3011 N. Hutchings St., Kansas City, Kansas.

Women who suffer from headaches, nervousness, backache, the blues and other symptoms of a functional derangement should give this famous root and herb remedy a trial.

For forty years it has been overcoming such ailments of women after other medicines have failed.

If you want special suggestions in regard to your condition, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of long experience is at your service, and your letter will be held in strict confidence.

surprised in my life; never! Such a new experience for me, I assure you! I have often known of offers of compromise before cases have been finally tried, but never after. Why, it is a clear gift of five thousand pounds. I congratulate you and your mamma, Miss Carlisle," and he made a little bow, which broke off short as Floris' voice rose clear and full, though low, with the single word:

"Stop!"

Mr. Morrel looked up at her with a start. He had expected, if not a gush of gratitude, at any rate, an expression of thankfulness and relief; but the "Stop!" sounded anything but that.

"You say that Lord Norman has offered of his own free will to pay these costs; to give us, you said, this money?"

"Yes, oh, yes; there is no mistake!" replied Mr. Morrel, "and we should have accepted, but thought it better, as a matter of form, to lay the offer before you. We thought that, perhaps, you would like to make something more than a formal acknowledgment of his lordship's kindness."

"Yes, yes," murmured Mrs. Carlisle, tremulously.

"Hush, hush!" breathed Floris, bending over her; then she raised her head and fixed her eyes upon the man of law.

"You did right, sir," she said; and at the solemnity in her voice he started and stared at her. "We should like to make something more than a formal acknowledgment through a lawyer of Lord Norman's kindness!"

With a swift, yet graceful and all too haughty gesture, she glided to a side-table, and, bending, not sitting, wrote hastily. Then she glided back, and with the air of an indignant empress, she extended her white hand with the paper in it.

"There's an acknowledgment of his lordship's offer. Be good enough to read it, Mr. Morrel."

The lawyer held the paper near the lamp, and, in his amazement, read the written words aloud:

"A Carlisle demands justice, not charity, and having received the former, has no desire to become the recipient of the latter, even though it should be at the hands of the Earl of Norman."

Household Notes.

A delicious flavour is given to any simple cake by laying fresh peach leaves in the cake pan before pouring in the batter.

No baked potato will be light and fluffy if it has to wait to be eaten. It should go straight from the oven to the table.

Make a lawn case for fine, heavy blankets if you want them to stay clean a long time. But they should be well aired.

If there is a dark corner in the room, try hanging a mirror there; this will carry a great deal of light into a corner.

Ink can be removed from linen if you place a thick white blotter under it and wash out the ink by means of a damp sponge.

A delicious simple salad can be made of sweet peppers, shredded together with sliced tomatoes and served with French dressing.

"Curtis Bros. Handle Co. is making excellent progress. Partial payment subscribers are requested to meet their payments promptly, otherwise their orders will be cancelled, and stock will be issued for amount already paid. The $12.50 block has been oversubscribed and some $1,440.00 will have to be returned. The $15.00 block is only half the size of previous blocks and is not expected to last thirty days. It is only a question now of closing sales, completing the organization, electing officers and putting the company on a cash dividend basis during the Fall months. The company is swamped with orders and we daily get additional reason to believe that it is going to prove a marvellous dividend payer."

SUBMARINES ON THIS SIDE.

NEW YORK, June 3.

One steamer, one schooner, a two or three other vessels have been sunk off the Jersey coast by a German submarine. The ships were attacked some time during the night according to information which has been received here. Details were not immediately available. The port authorities barred the departure of going ships this forenoon. It is thought here that the submarines are now being dealt with by American destroyers. One of the ships was the Edward H. Cloe, a sailing vessel. It was asserted in shipping circles that it was possible as many as six additional vessels were destroyed, not including those known to have been sunk.

ANOTHER REPORT.

CHEATHAM, Mass., June 3.

A report is current on the Cape that a ship has been torpedoed off Nantucket Shoals. No official confirmation of the report is obtainable.

VICTIMS MOSTLY SCHOONERS.

NEW YORK, June 3.

Germany has carried her unrestricted submarine warfare to the side of the ocean, and at least five vessels have been sunk by submarine attacks off the Atlantic coast. Some reports say the number of victims already has reached 15. Besides the "Cloe" four other schooners are reported as having been sunk. Details of the additional sinkings had not been received up to early this afternoon, but the report was that they had fallen victims to the enemy somewhere off the New England coast. They are the Hattie Dunn, three-masted schooner of 365 tons built in Thomaston, Me., in 1884; Samuel W. Hathaway, a four masted built at Brewer, Me., in 1901; Jacob M. Haskell, also a four-masted built at Rockland, Me., of 1,362 tons; and Isabel B. Willey, of Bath, Me., a three-master of 611 tons.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., June 3.

Narragansett Bay was closed to outgoing vessels this morning, by order of the Commandant of the Naval Station at Newport.

LINER ATTACKED.

NEW YORK, June 3.

A wireless S.O.S. call from the New York and Porto Rico line passenger steaming Carolina, saying that it was being attacked by a submarine, was received here to-day. The Carolina, with 220 passengers aboard and 130 in her crew, was bound for Atlantic port, at which she is expected this afternoon, in twelve hours overdue. Her wireless call for help was received at seven o'clock last night. Shipping authorities estimate that when attacked she was in about the same position as the schooner Edward H. Cole, when that vessel was destroyed by a submarine. The Carolina was commanded by T. R. D. B.

SUBS. WELL ARMED.

SUBS. WELL ARMED.

WASHINGTON, June 3. A Navy Department statement, announcing the sinkings, says: "The Navy Department has been informed that three American schooners have been sunk off the coast by enemy submarines. The steamship Bristol, arriving at New York this morning, reported that the four-masted schooner Edward H. Cole was sunk by a submarine at 6.30 p.m. Sunday fifty miles southeast of Barnegat, New Jersey, and that the Bristol rescued the crew and brought them to port. They also rescued the crew of another sailing vessel which was sunk. The Bristol reported that she encountered a submarine 39 miles off Barnegat at 4.30 p.m. Sunday, and that two submarines were lurking in the locality. The steamship Grecian reported that the schooner Jacob M. Haskell was sunk by gun fire by a German submarine in the same vicinity at noon on Sunday. The crew were rescued. It was also reported that the Isabella D. Willey was shelled by a submarine. Capt. Newcomb, of the Cole, stated that his vessel was attacked by a German submarine, which boarded him, took away his papers, and placed bombs on board. The captain and crew took to the boats. Capt. Newcomb stated that the submarine which attacked him was about two hundred feet long and carried two large guns, one forward and one aft, and a smaller one amidships.

SUB. VICTIMS ARRIVE.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, June 3. Fifteen survivors of three ships sunk by a German sub. off the Atlantic coast and held prisoners for a time on the U-boat, arrived here to-day on an American steamer to which they had been transferred from the submarine.

AFTER THE PIRATES.

NEW YORK, June 3. Scores of U. S. warships were scouring the waters of the North Atlantic coast to-night in search of the German subs. which made their long-expected attack on shipping in home waters late yesterday afternoon. Out of the flood of reports which swept through the maritime district after the Associated Press flashed the news that two cruiser subs. were operating 75 miles southeast of the Highlands of New Jersey these facts stood out. The steamer Carolina, of the new York and Porto Rico Steamship Co., has been sunk. Nothing is known of the fate of the 220 passengers and crew of 130.

U-BOAT REPORTED CAPTURED.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, June 3. Hovering for two days over the sea where the American tanker William Rockefeller had been sunk by a German submarine, a flotilla of destroyers and two seaplanes finally succeeded in capturing the U-boat, according to naval officers, survivors of the liner, who landed here to-day.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.

PARIS, June 3. (Official.) Our troops continued their counter attacks during the night along the whole front between the Ourcq and the Marne, and gained ground at several points. A violent German attack delivered on both sides of the road between Chateau Thierry and Paris was broken up by the French in the southeast of Bour-Esches. The losses suffered by the enemy were heavy and the French took hundreds of prisoners. Everywhere else the French maintained their positions.

FRENCH RESISTANCE.

LONDON, June 3. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.) The story of the fighting of the past two days is a story of increasing heroic French resistance to a desperate German rush. The enemy has shifted the direction of his attack from south to west, apparently not now intending to cross the Marne, and although the nearer to arresting the advance than at any time since the battle began, they have not arrested it. The immediate danger point is the Noyon, Soissons, Chateau Thierry line, where the fiercest fighting is proceeding. During the week end the enemy advance greatly slowed down, thanks chiefly to the tenacity with which the defenders cling to the outposts of Soissons which are the key positions. The German forces are closely packed around Soissons and unable to debouch therefrom. If the French can hold here a little longer, their reserves, whose weight is already beginning to be felt, should turn the scale and bring the enemy to a standstill. Some English experts express the opinion that the enemy is conducting the Marne offensive on such a scale that it is doubtful whether he will be able to manage another offensive simultaneously. Others think a further German advance would be very risky with the powerful French armies in the Champagne and Argonne regions in his rear. Others, again, think that Von Ludendorff, having secured the flank, may continue his efforts in the direction of Amiens. The view of Paris is one of patience and confidence. It is pointed out that the sudden check of the enemy advance is remarkable coming on the fifth day, as compared with the ninth day of the offensive in March, but it is pointed out that the Crown Prince may be calling a halt in order to await the arrival of delayed reserves, and with fourth divisions of the enemy reserves still unengaged, it behooves General Foch to employ his reserves in the most cautious way, otherwise while at grips with the enemy he may find himself held up at another point. The general view in Paris is inclined to be optimistic. A semi-official commentator declares that if complete stabilization is not yet achieved, at least the strategical balance is turning in favor of the Allies.

EQUILIBRIUM ESTABLISHED.

PARIS, June 3. An Allied offensive manoeuvre is predicted by Le Matin and Le Petit Parisien. They express the conviction that General Foch and General Petain, who proved themselves good offensive men in subordinate commands, will display the same qualities in the Supreme Commands of the Allied and French armies. All the newspapers, according to a Havas Agency, believe that the equilibrium seems to have been re-established on all points of the front, and that the situations are growing less in extent. The German assaults are still furious and violent, while the French resistance is fierce and energetic with numerous strong counter attacks. On Sunday the French held the enemy in check, and even forced him to withdraw from some points.

RESERVES COMING UP.

FRENCH ARMY HEADQUARTERS June 2. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—The past week has brought many unwelcome surprises and hours of acute anxiety for which no blame is attached to the troops. If the front now shows a tendency to stabilize it is because the arrival of reinforcements has stiffened the line to a point at which it is physically possible to hold. Up to Sunday we could only hold the enemy from hour to hour, and the Germans were able to manoeuvre and go round obstacles. Their numerical advantage vanishes from day to day, and we have now arrived at a stage at which the formation of a continuous line forces the Germans to attempt mass attacks against strongly held positions instead of turning them. La Fere-Milon, the birth-place of Racine, was bombarded and shells are beginning to fall on Villers Cotterets. Our soldiers patrolled the sector during Saturday and the following night dropped 63 tons of explosives on German communications and troops. On Tuesday last an enemy column three miles long was attacked by fifty airplanes which, flying low, machine gunned, bombed and dispersed the troops over the neighboring fields. Sixteen German airplanes were brought down on the battlefield, besides a large number of balloons, five of which were destroyed in the Rheims sector during the day. This evening reports are more hopeful than any since the beginning of the battle, and for the first time since the beginning of the offensive the enemy gained no ground on his westward facing front in the direction of Paris where attack and counter attack falls in quick succession, and the gains of the Germans are at least counter balanced by those of the French. In the centre the enemy extended his front on the north bank of the Marne which is still bounded by Chateau Thierry, evacuated some days ago, and Verneuil and the north of the Marne near Rheims, the line runs practically straight to the northeast. There were no changes of importance in this direction except Rheims, where the Germans have drawn their line closer to-day.

SUCCESSFUL OPERATIONS.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, June 3. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—Our operations in the neighborhood of Vieux Berquin was completely successful and has given us some high ground and two farms which had been converted into machine gun posts. Our casualties were light although the enemy resisted with considerable obstinacy. Our raid to the east of Tilloy on Saturday was a most daring enterprise. We penetrated into the enemy lines to a depth of more than a thousand yards and cleared out four hundred yards of German trenches, bombing all dug-outs and blowing up a heavy trench mortar which had been troublesome. Prisoners estimated that an entire German company was wiped out.

EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS REPRESENTATIVE.

LONDON, June 3. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency.)—In the House of Commons, Mr. A. Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced that Lord Newton and General Belfield would be the British delegates to the Hague with powers of the widest discretion in connection with the Exchange of prisoners of war.

THE U-41 (I)

NEW YORK, June 3. A mysterious carrier pigeon flying from the ocean, alighted on the boardwalk at Coney Island. Around the right leg of the bird was a tin carrier, on the inside of which were the figures 41. A peculiar thing about the bird was that when persons in civilian clothes came near it it would try to attack them, but when a patrolman arrived to take the pigeon to the station house she became very docile, seemingly to recognize a uniform. The navy intelligence bureau was notified.

GAVE BATTLE TO MARAUDER.

NEW YORK, June 3. At least one large merchant ship gave battle to a German submarine off the coast of New Jersey according to members of the crew of the schooner Edward H. Cole, one of the victims of the German raider. The submarine was the victor in this fight and later the same U-boat destroyed another big steamer after several hours fighting in the same vicinity. For 24 hours prior to the Cole's destruction, at four p.m., on Sunday when 75 miles off Highland Light, N. J., the crew saw an unusual amount of wreckage, the sea from this point to the shore also was filled with wreckage the rescue crew report.

TUESDAY, June 4th, 1918.

The King's Birthday.

"God save our gracious King:
Long live our noble King:
God Save the King.
Send him victorious,
Happy and glorious,
Long to reign over us,
God save the King."

To every loyal subject there must come a feeling of pride, when the words of the National Anthem sound in his ears and particularly must this be so in the present day of War and tumult, for no Britisher can hear the opening bars of God save the King, without realising that he is "a citizen of no mean city."

Yesterday the Empire celebrated quietly but nevertheless enthusiastically the 53rd anniversary of the birth of the King-Emperor, His Majesty George V, who succeeded to the throne on the death of Edward the "Peacemaker" in 1910. It was the expressed wish of the King that his birthday be not made the occasion of any demonstrations, in consequence of the war, and right loyalty was the Imperial wish accorded to. Beyond the ordinary keeping of the day as a general holiday there was nothing more to show that it was of importance to Britishers. Flags were displayed everywhere and the unspoken loyalty of the people was perhaps more an evidence of the Empire's determination to win the war than any public manifestation of allegiance and patriotism could have made it. Thus it is with Britons, the world over. Unostentatious in their manner they make no parade of sentiment, yet it has happened on occasions that they have departed from their usual phlegmatic characteristics, and then there has been an outburst of feeling which has surprised the world. Newfoundlanders, yesterday, were not the least of the peoples of the Empire in ac-claiming the natal day of our King, and in the prayer of the line "send him victorious" every heart was sincerely petitioning that the day of victory be not far distant. Whatever we may or can do toward assisting in bringing about success to our arms must be done cheerfully and ungrudgingly. The King leads; we follow, and the example set by His Majesty, may be copied by all his affectionate subjects. No portion of the Empire will more heartily join in wishing His Majesty "many happy returns of the day" than Newfoundland, the oldest of the King's possessions overseas and wherever men of British blood and birth, were assembled yesterday the silent toast of all was

THE KING-GOD BLESS HIM.

Note and Comment.

"When a man hasn't a thing on earth to worry him, he goes and gets married."

If the Germans are beginning to tell their people that another winter of war is inevitable, that is obviously a confession that the great drive is a failure.—Buffalo Express.

The following advertisements appear, among others, in the columns of the Halifax "Morning Chronicle":
"S. S. Sable taking freight, Monday and Tuesday, for West Coast ports of Newfoundland." FARQUHAR & CO. LTD.
"Special steamer sailing from Halifax for New York, June 23rd." G. S. CAMPBELL & CO.
Evidently the censorship is not so very drastic at that point.

In a casualty list of Maritime men, published in recent issues of the Nova Scotia papers are the names of three Newfoundlanders: E. Coombs, Upper Island Cove (Infantry) wounded; P.
Tobin, Ship Cove (Infantry), wounded; A. Noel, Hr. Grace South (Forestry), died.

The Prince of Wales after having been at the front almost since the beginning of the war has been promoted to the rank of Major. They do these things more cautiously in the British than they do in the German Army, where the heir to the throne was appointed at once to high command and has been losing men and betters ever since.—Baltimore American.

"Astronomers tell us," said the statistically inclined individual, "that an express train moving a hundred miles a second would consume several million years in reaching a certain star."

The other person sat silent, wrapped in thought.
"Did you hear me?" said the man of statistics.
"Oh, yes, I heard you," replied the other, "and I was just thinking what a predicament a chap would be in if he should miss the last train and have to walk."

"I would that my tongue could utter
The thoughts that arise in me,
O'er the price of bread and butter
And every necessity.
They might not be fit for hearing,
And even less fit to print,
But truly it would be cheering
To cuss to my heart's content."

The Public Pays.

That the recent increase of thirty-three per cent on second class and twenty-five per cent in first class passenger rates by the Reid Newfoundland Company has no justification legally or economically, is shown in the following article reproduced from the "Daily News" of this morning, with the sentiment and argument of which the Telegram is in entire accord.

RAILWAY FARES.

Yesterday we noted the fact that the Reid-Newfoundland Company had greatly increased their passenger rates on their trains, and pointed out that this was in violation of their obligations under the 1898 and 1901 contracts. The blame for this increase, of course, rests entirely with the Government, for without their consent the Company would never dare adopt the new tariff. Section 12 of Schedule A of "the Newfoundland Railway Act, 1898," states that "the rates to be charged by the contractor for carrying passengers shall not exceed three cents per mile for first-class passengers and two cents per mile for second class passengers for distances more than twenty-five miles." Those

The Daily Star has been closed down for publishing articles that the Government has deemed it inadvisable to set the people against the endeavour being made through the action of both Government and Op-

Haig and our Boys to send every man across we can. The Herald says it is understood the Star will be permitted to publish its generally interest-

these entrusted with the government that it will refrain from the policy complained of. It is not for us to comment now on the articles of the

the ones that led to its suspension. It is not so much what one says, we our-

the man that writes. Brethren of the more of the true patriot spirit. The

The Daily Star has been closed down for publishing articles that the Government has deemed it inadvisable
to set the people against the endeavour being made through the action of both Government and Op-

the call of Lloyd George, General Haig and our Boys to send every man across we can. The Herald says it is understood the Star will be permitted to publish its generally interest-

these entrusted with the government
that it will refrain from the policy
complained of. It is not for us to comment now on the articles of the 23rd and 28th instant, supposed to be the ones that led to its suspension. It is not so much what one says, we ourselves feel, as the spirit that animates
the man that writes. Brethren of the more of the true patriot spirit. The anonymous writers would only sub-judgment, it would be ideal.—Harbor

END OF BUSH REACHED.
WITH THE FRENCH ARMY
FRANCE, June 3rd.—The Allied troops feel that the enemy has reached the vital end of his rush and ground gained only when Allied commands consider it useless to hold it, and combats occur they are fought on an equal basis. The troops have never lost ground, even during the most severe moments, in their retirement, in the ability to prevent a breach in the line and now with British and French reinforcements arriving rapidly the morale of the Allied armies is higher than ever. The Germans, at beginning of the offensive, followed out a system of filtering through the Allied lines, and picked troops would follow their way through thin held sections of the line and then would fire on allied troops held in the rear. This feature of their offensive is being met in most places by attacking in massed formation. The enemy finds it impossible to carry out their first manoeuvre since the Allied troops have received reinforcements.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, June 3.—
The depotions of fifteen survivors of the three ships sunk by German subs were taken by Government officials as they were held in communication on the steamship which remained at anchor all night. The survivors reported that they were on a steamer and two schooner crews, but the names of these ships were not obtainable. It was said that some of the troops would be sent on eleven days aboard the steamer, and then turned adrift in small boats. All of them were picked up by a coast liner. A Government hydro airplane, which alighted near Reichaven, N. J., reported that sighted three lifeboats filled with people, pulling slowly towards the coast.

The crew was landed at the

Some fear was felt for the safety of the 450 passengers aboard the Carolina, a ship of 8,000 tons, running between Porto Rico and an Atlantic had taken to boats. Officers of the place her position at the time she

ENEMY GAINED NO GROUND.

LONDON, To-day.—To-night's report is the most hopeful since the beginning of the battle and for the first time since last Monday it can be said that the enemy gained no ground during the day, says Reuter's correspondent at French headquarters in France. On the West front in the direction of Paris, where attack and counter attack followed in quick succession, until late in the afternoon, the enemy gains were at least counter balanced by the French gains; in the centre the enemy has extended his front along the North bank of the Marne which still holds, and the towns of Chateau Thierry, which was evacuated some days ago, and Vermeuil, are again in French hands.

END OF BUSH REACHED.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, June 3rd.—The Allied troops feel that the enemy has reached the end of his rush and ground is given up only when allied commanders consider it useless to hold it, and when combat occurs they are fought on a much more equal basis than heretofore. The troops have never lost confidence, even during the most serious moments, in their retirement, in their ability to prevent a breach in the line, and now with British and French reinforcements arriving rapidly the morale of the Allied armies is higher than ever. This feature of their offensive is now being massed formation. The enemy has found it impossible to carry out his main manoeuvre since the Allied troops have received reinforcements.

UNITED STATES TAKING PRECAUTIONS.

AN ATLANTIC PORT, June 4.—The dispositions of fifteen survivors of the three ships sunk by German submarines were taken by Government agents, and they were in communication on the steamship which remained at anchor all night. There were reports that two schooners were used a steamer and two schooners were not obtainable. It was said that some of them had been kept prisoners eleven days aboard the submarine, and then turned adrift in a small boat. All the survivors were picked up by a coast liner. A Government hydro airplane, which alighted near Rochavon, N. J., reported that the steamer had been seen with people, pulling slowly towards the coast. The Atlantic Refining Co. tanker, L. Pratt, was sunk four miles off Cape Henlopen Del. by a submarine. The crew was landed at Lewes, Del. It was learned authoritatively that no attacks have been made on American transports off the American coast. All ships were held in ports along the coast however, and a precaution was taken to have a number of American transports off the coast. As many as 15 ships had fallen prey to raiders, but there was no verification of this. There also were unconfirmed reports of battles between warships and submarines.

Some fear was felt for the safety of the 800 passengers aboard the Carolina, a ship of 8,000 tons, running between Porto Rico and an Atlantic port. A S.O.S. call, sent by the steamer at 7 o'clock last night, said she was being shelled by a German submarine and that passengers and crew had taken to lifeboats. Officers of the Company assume she was sunk but have no definite information. They place her position at the time she was attacked, from 125 to 150 miles southwest of Sandy Hook. They are every hope that her boats will reach land. The passenger list of the Carolina was not available here but it was known that among those on board were many American graduates of the Officers' Training School conducted on the Island, Savannah Line officials say they are without confirmation of reports that the City of Columbus, a ship of 5,433 gross tons had been attacked. She had left Savannah Friday, under the command of Capt. Diehl, and was due in Boston this morning. She was a sister ship of the City of Athens, sunk off the Delaware coast in collision recently. The Navy threw a veil of war time secrecy about the steps it was taking to counter the attack of the sea raiders, but Secretary Daniels made the statement that measures have been taken to meet the danger to shipping, while details of naval operations were withheld. It is known that destroyers, fleets of submarine chasers, and other vessels are flashing their searchlights along the coast and far out at sea from Maine to Florida. Hydro-airplanes and airplanes were also searching from every naval station along the Atlantic coast, as soon as the warning was flashed to them, and were seen scouting over waters where it was believed the submarines would be lurking. The regular American fliers are also searching for submarines. There was no lack of men to man the airplanes. A giant hydro-plane went back and forth over the lower reaches of the Hudson River to-night while others scouted over New York. Although there was no fear that the submarines would be able to elude the vigilant guard-ship, standing sentinel at all approaches to the harbor in their flights to-day, aircraft were not armed but in a short time they will be equipped with bomb dropping mechanism and machine guns. Machines pressed into patrol service to-day had been used for training purposes. The main point of discussion on the maritime exchange to-night is the consideration of how many submarines are operating on this side of the Atlantic. The general opinion was that a fleet of them have been sent over, in the forlorn hope of so terrorizing American shipping, that they will be able to check America's flow of troops to France. Naval officials, speaking unofficially, declared there was no danger of such a result, and pointed to the fact that no attacks have been made on transports.

GREEKS TAKE OFFENSIVE.

LONDON, To-day.—The successful Greek attack at Sarakia, Legos, was the biggest since the autumn of 1916, which culminated in the fall of Monastir, says a Reuter despatch from Salonika, dated Saturday. Up to Friday evening the prisoners totalled 1,712. Officers captured by the Greeks did not conceal their admiration for the manner in which the attack was conceived and carried out against a position always regarded as impregnable. The Greeks captured the enemy first and second lines, the second being on a level, if not actually dominating, the first. The first and second lines were powerfully organized with all modern contrivances. The success improved the Allied position considerably on a difficult sector. Several Bulgarian counter attacks were frustrated by the Allied barrage fire, which inflicted severe losses.

REFUGEES POURING IN.

PARIS, To-day.—Refugees from the Alsace and Moselle districts continue to pour into Paris, coming not only by every train, but by means of transportation. The arrivals Monday included the entire population of the village of Limy-Sur-Sarcel, which had spent three days packed into a boat with hastily gathered possessions. All the refugees were desolate and hungry. Thousands were met by Red Cross trucks loaded with food, and as soon as the sufferers had been fed, they were taken to temporary shelters. A most varied array of transportable property is being carried by the refugees. There are alarm clocks, umbrellas, mattresses, family relics, live rabbits and goats, cases of champagne, kegs of sugar, crates of chickens, folding beds and fur coats. These, who made in range of German artillery fire for hours, but the casualties were limited to two babies who fell overboard and were drowned.

EXPLOSION IN FRENCH PLANT.

PARIS, To-day.—Much damage was done by a violent explosion yesterday, in a plant in which materials were being manufactured at Bassens in Southern France, near Allee. A Havas Agency despatch from Marseilles reports that the number of persons killed or injured is large.

WAS EVIDENTLY WRITTEN.

LONDON, To-day.—In the House of Commons to-day, E. S. Montague, Secretary of State for India, was asked whether his attention had been drawn to a letter written to President Wilson by Sir Subbayan Subramanya, denouncing British rule in India. The Secretary replied that the assertions in the letter were too wide and too baseless to require or receive notice from any responsible party.

WOMEN AS AVIATORS.

Latest.

NO MEN UNDER THIRTY-FIVE IN ROYAL HOUSEHOLD.

LONDON, To-day.—King George has put into effect a rule doing away with all men up to thirty-five years of age in the Royal Household. The King previously had released more than 550 men from the Royal Household, for military service, of which 55 have been killed, and 15 wounded. The King's private room in Buckingham Palace hangs a war service roll, giving particulars of the service of all soldiers drawn from the Royal employ. The names of the men who are now to be withdrawn from the Royal Household will be largely filled by women.

PENNY HA'PENNY POSTAGE.

LONDON, June 4.—Penny postage ceased in Great Britain yesterday, after a life of seventy years. Ordinary letter postage in Great Britain will be three half pence henceforth.

GERMANS ROUNDED UP.

NEW YORK, June 4.—A wholesale raid on German resorts was made by federal officers in this city last night, when a number of spies who were exploiting the U-boat exploits were taken into custody.

ANOTHER SUB VICTIM.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., To-day.—The steamer Texel was sunk by a German submarine Sunday afternoon, sixty miles off the coast of Maryland. The crew of 26 men landed here to-night.

FIVE SUBS OPERATING.

NORFOLK, To-day.—Naval officers here, said, last night, that reports indicated five German submarines had been operating along the Atlantic coast.

NEW FIELD TRACTOR.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The latest production of the army ordnance bureau, a five ton armored artillery tractor, for hauling field guns, was demonstrated yesterday by Secretary of War Baker, General March, Chief of Staff, and many foreign officers present to watch its performance. Hooked to a four point 7 inch field howitzer, the machine ran over the rough muddy ground of Rock Creek Park, which was recently barked by the British tank Britannia. It went through ditches and holes without a stop, cut down trees and climbed over the fallen trunks, dragging the gun behind it, and climbed a 45 degree hill, where the mud was a foot deep as a result of recent rains, and wound up the performance by rattling down a paved avenue at a twelve mile gait, without leaving a mark on the paving. The whole load, including the gun and tractor, was approximately twenty thousand pounds.

GERMAN DRIVE STOPPED.

PARIS, To-day.—The French have stopped the German drive toward Paris, it now may be safely said. It was forecasted when the offensive began that it would last just eight days. The enemy movement is now splitting up into a series of battles for positions, in which the French have the advantage of terrain. The region of Ourcq, where the enemy is making his great effort, forms roughly an arena into which he is marching. On the northern side of the arena the dominating physical feature is the forest of Villers Carterets, and on the south there are hills ranging toward the Marne around Coehel. Both of these hill positions are held by the French. On the west the enemy is confronted by the obstacles formed by the rivers Argonne and Savières, so that he is held on three sides.

Food Control Notes.

During the past week consumers have noted that a substantial increase has taken place in butterine and hard bread. The new prices have been fixed by the Food Control Board, whose reasons for their action is given below. In addition the Board review the sugar and molasses situation.

Butterine—The Food Control Board has authorized an increase in the wholesale price of butterine as follows: First Grade 3 cts. per pound, and for Second Grade 3 1/2 cts. per pound. These increases have been rendered necessary by the advance in the foreign markets of the raw materials. On the application of the Manufacturers for permission to make an advance the Food Control Board appointed the Auditor-General of the Colony, Mr. F. C. Berteau, to make an enquiry into the cost of the production of these articles, and the prices named are based upon his report. It may be said, in connection with this matter, that the price of Toronto to-day, oleo-margarine, which is not of the quality equal to that produced in the United States, is selling for 38 and 40 cents per pound.

Hard Bread—In response to a request from the Manufacturers of Hard Bread for an increase in the wholesale cost of this foodstuff, the Food Control Board has permitted an advance of 80 cts. a bag. This is rendered necessary by an advance in the price of winter wheat flour, the kind used in making the hard bread, an increase in the labor and other costs, etc., and for the same reasons an advance of one cent a pound on the cost of fancy biscuits has been permitted. Before these advances were authorized full figures showing the cost of production were obtained and the advance was based thereon. A claim on behalf of the wholesale provision dealers who act as distributors of hard bread, that they be allowed 40 cents a bag profit thereon, instead of the 20 cents allowed at present, was rejected on the ground, that men who are satisfied to sell a barrel of flour at a profit of 20 to 25 cents are not entitled to more than 20 cents for the sale of a bag of bread which contains only about five-eighths of a barrel of flour.

Sugar—Heretofore this year great difficulty has been found in obtaining a sufficient stock of granulated sugar for the local requirements. This is due to the fact, that while raw sugar has been abundant in the West Indies, ships to bring it to America to be refined have been almost unobtainable. This has been especially so lately when a number of ships previously engaged in this work were withdrawn by President Wilson, presumably to be employed in conveying American soldiers and war materials to Europe. Now, however, there is an improvement in the tonnage outlook, and it is confidently expected that very shortly there will be a substantial addition to the supplies available to the Newfoundland market. The Board by purchasing directly the entire sugar supply of the Colony has been able to obtain it at a lower price, and it is not expected that the advantage thereof as needless competition has been avoided.

Molasses—With the arrival during the past few weeks of stocks of new molasses the Board hopes shortly to be able to carry out its intention to purchase molasses from wholesalers and fixing the price of such goods at a maximum price. It is intended that during the rest of the year, as a fairly adequate supply of molasses of both varieties without exception, except that of a maximum price. This will be 95 cents per gallon for both varieties (which this year cost about the same in the West Indies) up to the end of the present month, and then three quarters of a cent per gallon each month afterwards for carrying charges until the end of March next, when the price will be again revised in the light of the conditions which exist at that time.

Laid to Rest.

On Sunday afternoon all that was mortal of the late Mr. Moses Drover was laid to rest in the General Protestant Cemetery, the remains being followed to their last resting place by a large concourse of mourners, including representatives from the Board of Trustees of Cochrane Street Centennial Church, of which deceased was a prominent member. The casket bore many beautiful floral emblems, including wreaths from the Cochrane Street Church Board of Trustees, and the Women's Association. At the residence, the opening portion of the burial service was read by Rev. Mr. Bond, and prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Curtis, after which the hymn "Asleep in Jesus, Blessed Sleep" was sung. The services at the graveside were taken by Rev. Mr. Bond and Rev. T. W. Atkinson, and the last sad tribute of respect paid to one of whom it may rightly be said, "Friends he had many, but enemies none." The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker J. C. Oke.

His Circus or His Teeth.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

The little boy came rushing into the living room, his brown eyes sparkling, his brown hair ruffled. "Oh, mother," he cried, "we're going to have a circus in Phillip's barn. His dog can do some tricks, roll over and be a dead dog, and things like that, and he says he can teach him a lot more. And we're going to have Roger's rabbits in a box for the lions, and Pete (his own cat) is going to be the tiger, and maybe we can get Dick Jones to ride on his donkey, and I'm going to be one of the clowns, and the tickets are five cents. Will you come?"

He could hardly get the words out coherently in his enthusiasm and excitement. He was boy incarnate and the spirit of youth personified.

His mother was knitting. She laid her work down and surveyed him.

His Mother's Answer.

"Robert," she said, "it doesn't seem to me you've been cleaning your teeth properly lately."

You know how you can feel when you are rushing along, with your head in the air, and don't notice a step down. You know the sudden arresting jolt you get. Well, that's the way I felt at that moment.

I looked quickly at Robert to see if he felt it, too. And the worst of it was that he didn't. Plainly he was used to it.

How can mothers do that sort of thing?

They Get Stale On The Job.

I suppose it's because, like the writer, the cook, the business man, the artist, the shop girl, there come times when they get stale on their jobs, times when the ramesness, the eternal repetitions of life callous them so that they fail to react when they should.

(And that is one of the reasons why I think that the woman who has no definite compelling interest outside her home to shift the pressure, wrongs both herself and her children.)

But it seems to me that almost any part of her job might be better neglected than that of meeting ambition with encouragement, and enthusiasm with enthusiasm.

Isn't that what we go seeking all the world through in friend and in love, someone who shall kindle with our own enthusiasms.

She Will Always Have The Key To Her Child's Heart.

Thrice blessed the mother who can answer that seeking.

Doubtless Robert's mother would have said that his teeth were more important than that circus. True, but surely the teeth could have waited a few minutes. Besides, the show itself was only a symbol of all the hopes and ambitions and plans and enthusiasms of youth.

Enthusiasm is the fairy wand that can transform the commonplace into the magic. How can any mother fail to rejoice and respond when she sees her child wielding it. How can she dare, instead, to rudely break the spell?

To properly pasteurize milk put a gallon of water over the fire in a clean pan or kettle. When the water is boiling hard take the kettle from the fire and allow it to stand on the table for ten minutes uncovered. Then put in the filled and corked nursing bottles and leave them for half an hour, covering the kettle meanwhile with a blanket. At the end of half an hour remove the bottles and cool them as quickly as possible to fifty degrees and put them where they will keep cool when needed.

warm water over the fire to heat. After the baby has finished, the bottle should be emptied, rinsed and filled with cold water. At some convenient hour of the day the mother will wash all the used bottles with soap and warm water, using a bottle brush to clean the inside of them. She should then rinse them and boil them in the same pan or kettle in which they were pasteurized.

Milady's Boudoir.

THE USE OF POWDER.

The proper use of face powder is really an art. Of course, we long ago overcame all objection to its use. Very few of us, indeed, are pleased with skin that is not improved by a judicious application of a good face powder. In the first place, a friend of mine does not hesitate to powder the bridge of her nose. She should not do this because she has a very prominent nose and lightening it with powder makes it all the more conspicuous. A touch of powder on the face is as a high light in a painting. She should not have put any powder on the bridge of her nose. If your nose is very small add of the retoucher order be sure and put plenty of powder on it as this makes it appear larger and straighter.

Then again, my friend put a great deal of powder on her chin and but little on her cheek. This was just exactly what she should not have done, owing to the fact that she had a prominent nose. If she had powdered her cheeks carefully over the cheek bones this would have counteracted the effect of her nose. Her face, too, was rather long and the extra powder on her chin made it appear an inch longer than it really was. But, with the powder transferred to her cheeks it gave her a beautiful oval face.

Another advantage in keeping all traces of powder from her chin was the avoidance of every evidence of a second chin, that dread of all women. The powder she used on it merely accentuated it but, with cheeks lightened and chin darkened by removing the powder, the double chin was not noticeable.

HIS PRIDE.

"I haven't much in the way of wealth," he said with a smile to me.

"But I never have left a dozen men to drown in a wintry sea."

There are things I want that I cannot buy, but I'm satisfied after all.

For I never have bandaged a woman's eyes an' shot her against a wall.

"The papers each morning leave out my name, there is nothing in all I do."

That editors look on as real live-news, or worthy a line or two.

But I'm quite contented the way things are; to my fate I am reconciled.

For I never have landed in a golden court while women were being defiled.

"It isn't much that I've had on earth, but all that I've had I've earned. An' I never have heard old people shriek in grief as their homes I burned."

The only power that I own, down here, is not the power of a golden court while women were being defiled.

"I'd rather be me, in my humble shack, with the little that's mine to own. Than the blood-smeared creature of wealth and power who sits on a Prussian throne."

For I never have crimsoned the ground with blood, nor ordered a wife to die.

Nor men there in the wintry sea, to get what I couldn't buy."

Special Notice

At the end of this year we will give 5 cts. for every 12 Outside Green Wrappers obtained from STAFFORD'S LINIMENT.

We will also give $10.00 to the person forwarding us the largest number, and $5.00 to the 2nd largest.

We will keep a record of every person forwarding us these wrappers from time to time and at the end of the year we will publish the names of the winners.

"STAFFORD'S LINIMENT" is the Strongest and most penetrating Liniment for sale in Newfoundland and is sold in over 500 stores.

It is the best Liniment you can use for RHEUMATISM, LUMBAGO, NEURALGIA and all ACHES and PAINS. Owing to the cost of Bottles and Ingredients used in the manufacturing of this Liniment, we have had to advance the price a little, but the bottle still remains the same size."

"How should one congratulate the bride and bridegroom after the ceremony?" asked Lillie.

"After shaking hands with the bridegroom it is sufficient to simply say 'Hearty congratulations,' supplemented by whatever other remarks the degree of your acquaintance warrants. It is quite proper to wish the bride much happiness in whatever manner you can most graciously word it," answered her aunt.

Report and Application can be sent through the Post Office or may be made personally at the Militia Building to the Registrar.

MAN SEEKING EXEMPTION or on his behalf by his employer, or business partner or near relative.

Application forms will be found at all Post Offices as soon as they can be printed and hurried there by mail.

German People Labouring Under Increasing Load of Debt.

If it is costing Americans more to live in these war days, it is costing the German people very much more.
 The United States Bureau of Labor Statistics has compiled data to show that the enormous economic pressure which the war has thrust upon the civilian population is forcing the average German family deeper and deeper into debt. The average expenditure of the German family having an income of from 100 to 200 marks is now 222.05 marks.
 Food prices have advanced in Germany far out of proportion to the increase in wages. Two separate investigations made by the labor bureau show that food costs in Germany have advanced 42 per cent, while the average in the United States for the last year was 25 per cent.
 Suppose Uncle Sam told you you could spend but twenty-five cents a month for movies, candy and other luxuries? In Germany the average family now has but twenty-six cents a month to be spent in this manner.
 The average expenditures for other purposes are: Food and beverages, $31.51; fuel and light, $1.95; rent, $5.
 41; taxes, 95 cents; clothing and repairs, $4.03; laundry, soap, etc., $1.21; household utensils and furniture, 35 cents; books and newspapers, 69 cents; carfare, 64 cents; physician and drugs, 90 cents; barber and bath, 29 cents; insurance, $1.12; membership in trade unions, 65 cents; gifts, 84 cents; etc. Expenditures for gifts cover postage in sending presents to members of family in the army or navy.
 The family with a large income is also going into debt, the report shows, though not to the same extent as the average family. To obtain even the necessities of life the German civilian must either withdraw his savings or continue to plunge deeper in debt, with food and essentials advancing rapidly.
 If the shoe of Mars pinches a bit,
 Mr. or Miss American, don't whine.
 Your enemy is in worse straits, and you can "freeze him out" with a little more economy and self-denial.

A Minister's Evidence.

That Piles or Hemorrhoids, Can be Quickly Cured—A Justice of the Peace Cured Many Years Ago.
 There has come to us recently these two letters from prominent men who bear unquestionable testimony in regard to Dr. Chase's Ointment as a prompt and lasting cure for piles.
 These men give their evidence freely because they know what it means to suffer from the tortures of piles and then be cured. They feel it a duty and a pleasure to let others know how they, too, may be cured.
 Rev. Frank N. Bewes, Methodist Minister, Priceville, Ont., writes: "In the winter of 1912 I was stationed in Cobalt. I went for a snowshoe tramp one day, and sat for only a few minutes on a cold stump waiting for some comrades to catch up to me. From sitting on the damp stump I contracted piles, and suffered so severely that it caused me great pain to walk.
 A friend recommended Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I immediately purchased a small box, which very rapidly effected a cure. I always keep a box on hand and find it excellent for any kind of wound or sore."
 Mr. W. B. Thorne, J.P., Alderside, Alta., writes: "It was twenty-eight years ago that I became acquainted with the merits of Dr. Chase's Ointment and would not be without it on any account, as it never fails to do its work. I was first induced to try it for piles. Less than one box cured me, and I have never been troubled since. That was twenty-eight years ago, so I think the cure is permanent.
 It is good for sore lips and hands, chafing and, in fact, all sorts of sores.
 You are at liberty to use this statement for the benefit of others."
 You can put Dr. Chase's Ointment to the test in any case of piles with the utmost assurance that you will obtain relief from suffering and ultimately lasting cure. 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Look for the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Rectal Book author, on the box you buy.

"With a Smile."

(From the Milwaukee Journal.)
 A French Boy Scout, going about his peaceful business along a highway of France, was recently hailed by a column of passing German soldiers, who inquired concerning the presence of French soldiers in the neighborhood. The boy knew the French were near, but refused to answer the Germans. He refused to di-vulture information which might do harm to his country. Presently the French opened fire upon the Germans, some of whom were killed. The boy later admitted he knew of the presence of his soldier countrymen. He was ordered shot by the officer of the Germans. In a letter found on the body of a dead German, we read that "he received the volley of the firing party with a proud smile on his face."
 "A proud smile on his face!" Why should he not smile proudly? He had served his country. He had paid the ultimate price of loyalty. He had made himself worthy of the insignia he bore—the Boy Scouts.

Obituary

MRS. MARGARET NASH.
 With deep regret we record to-day the passing of Margaret, widow of the late T. J. Nash, wheelwright, which occurred at her residence, Adelaide Street, yesterday morning, after a brief illness. Deceased was the eldest daughter of the late Capt. James Morrissey, who for many years sailed from Bowring Bros., and was predeceased by her husband three years ago. She leaves to mourn a family of two daughters and six sons, the eldest of the family being 24 years, and the youngest 9 years. One son, J. T., manages the business formerly conducted by his father; another, Thomas, is in the Royal Nfld. Regiment, and another son, Patrick, has been attested and takes up duty with the Regiment during the present month.
 To the sorrowing family we extend sympathy.

ELLEN ROCHE.

There passed away at Placentia on the 29th inst. Mrs. Ellen Roche, at the ripe age of 94. She bore her last illness with great patience and fortitude and always had a bright and cheery word. Her intellect up to two months ago was remarkably clear.
 Her husband, the late Laurence Roche, predeceased her 42 years ago.
 She leaves three sons, two daughters, and a large circle of friends and relatives to mourn a loving, mother and a sincere friend.—R.I.P.

NOT WHAT THE GERMANS DID.

LONDON, June 3. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—Replying to a question in the House of Commons regarding the agreement by the government to bombard Cologne on Corpus Christi day, Mr. Bonar Law states the appeal of the Vatican had been received by the Anglo-French governments, and the reply in terms already announced had been sent after consultation and in agreement with the French government. The staff of the Air Ministry had also been consulted. The action of the Germans in shelling Paris despite our undertaking will not be forgotten in the event of any similar appeal being made in the future, the Chancellor stated. Mr. Hall, "Did the Germans undertake that aircraft used in protecting back areas would not be used for bombing ships and troops on Corpus Christi day." Mr. Bonar Law replied that the Air Ministry was of opinion that German aircraft would not be so used, if only because the idea was too short for an expedition to be made. Replying to further questions Mr. Bonar Law said the decision was taken by the War Cabinet after full consideration of all relevant facts. Mr. Carr, "Was the attention of the Vatican drawn to the Whit Sunday air raid on London, and the Good Friday bombardment of Paris." Mr. Bonar Law: "No. Obviously the government would have been fully justified in view of the Whit Sunday raid in refusing altogether the appeal. It seemed a peculiar example of German mentality that such a request should have been submitted by the Germans after what occurred, but although it was an impudent request it does not follow it was an unwise British decision." Mr. Herbert S. Samuel: "Were the Germans asked reciprocally to spare places behind the Anglo-French lines." Mr. Bonar Law: "No. Had we made such a request it would have implied that we were making a bargain, but we were not making a bargain, but doing what we thought right." Mr. Frederick Whyte: "Has the Vatican made any representations to Germany regarding the bombardment of Paris on Good Friday." Mr. Bonar Law: "We are not aware that the Vatican has done so, but we have drawn the attention of the Vatican to the bombardment of Paris on Corpus Christi day."

A CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS.

DUBLIN, June 2. The Lord Lieutenant issued a proclamation to-night asking for 20,000 voluntary recruits and thereafter two to three thousand monthly to maintain a division. The first call is to men from 18 to 27 years of age and special inducement is offered of legislation to insure that land shall be available for the men who fight for their country.

RAILROADS WANT RATES INCREASED.

WASHINGTON, June 3. Canadian railways to-day asked permission of the Interstate Commerce Commission to raise rates on business done on their line within the United States to the level provided by Director General McAdoo under the recent rate orders for American railways. The Canadian Pacific asked for the three cent rate per mile in Maine and Vermont.

ALWAYS PROVIDING RUSSIA IS FRIENDLY.

LONDON, June 3. The Germans steadily are rushing the tenacles of their economic control far into Central Asia, where they are buying up available crops, including cotton, and placing orders for many years ahead, says the Daily Chronicle. The foundation of these developments is in the German control of Roumania and the Ukraine. "The control of the Roumanian and Ukrainian harvests would provide Germany not only with a complete solution of her food problem," the Chronicle adds.

FINLAND UNDER GERMAN CONTROL.

LONDON, June 3. A secret convention exists between Germany and Finland, which is kept secret from the Finnish Diet by which the Finnish Government undertakes to establish a monarchy under a German dynasty and to place the Finnish Army under German leadership, according to a despatch to the Times from Stockholm, quoting the socialist newspaper, Politiken, which has sources of information among the independent socialists in Germany. Finland, it is added, agrees also not to cede the Aland Islands to Sweden, and to allow Germany to use the islands for a naval base. Germany will be further permitted to use Finland as a way through to the Arctic Ocean. Finland agrees to take efficient measures to combat anarchy. Germany will have the right to maintain a military force in Finland until all the conditions are carried out.

IRISH FISHING FLEET SUBMARINED.

LONDON, June 3. Twelve of a fleet of thirty or forty fishing vessels, which left Irish ports on the night of May 30th, were sunk by a German submarine, says a Belfast despatch to the Daily Telegraph. The submarine suddenly appeared in the midst of the fleet and ordered the fishermen to take to their boats; it then sank the vessels by shelling them. The Irishmen say the submarine was interrupted in its work and submerged, which probably prevented the destruction of the entire fleet. The Irishmen lost all their gear, but there were no casualties.

DRAWN AROUND RHEIMS.

LONDON, June 3. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—The Germans have drawn their line close round Rheims and hold three quarters of an armed semi-circle. The British War Office, on aerial operations, issued a Statement Saturday night, reporting a raid on the station and workshops at Karlsruhe. The statement said that one of the machines engaged in the raid failed to return.

ATTACK ON KARLSRUHE.

AMSTERDAM, June 3. Four persons were killed, six seriously wounded, and many slightly injured when ten British machines attacked the open town of Karlsruhe at 9 o'clock on Saturday morning, according to the Weeser Zeitung, of Bremen. Two of the British airmen were shot down, it is declared.

PARIS AGAIN BOMBARDED.

PARIS, June 3. The bombardment of the Paris region by the German long range cannon was resumed to-day.

LOCAL SUCCESSES.

LONDON, June 3. (Official.) Successful local operations were carried out by our troops last night in the neighborhood of Vieux Berquin and Merris. Our line was advanced slightly at these points, and 193 prisoners and a machine gun and trench mortars have been captured by us. Our casualties were light. Successful raids resulted in the capture of twenty prisoners, three machine guns and a trench mortar by our south east of Arras, northwest of Lens and west of Merris. A hostile raiding party was repulsed south of Villers Berquin.

HUNS ATTACK WITH FRESH TROOPS.

PARIS, June 3. The battle in France was resumed with great intensity during the night and in the course of the day, according to the War Office report this evening. The Germans with fresh troops attacked between the Oise and the Ourcq with redoubled violence. The Germans have been checked west of Soissons, continues the statement and we recaptured Favorelles.

HOSTILE RAIDS REPULSED.

LONDON, June 2. Field Marshal Haig's report to-night from British headquarters in France says: Hostile raids were repulsed during the night by French troops east of Baillet.

AERIAL ACTIVITY.

LONDON, June 3. The official on aerial operations to-night says: Yesterday our airplanes carried out a good deal of observation for artillery and took many photos. Eighteen tons of bombs were dropped by our airplanes and heavy machine gun fire from the air was directed upon a great variety of targets. Eight enemy machines were destroyed in air fighting and fourteen were driven down out of control. Three of ours are missing. On Sunday night we bombed Le Cateau, St. Quentin and Valenciennes railway stations and dropped eight tons of bombs. All our night flying machines returned.

KING REPLIES.

LONDON, June 3. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)—Replying to birthday congratulations from Field Marshal Haig, King George said: "My heart is more than ever with the troops. I know how splendidly they are now fighting. Come what may the national spirit will carry us through to a triumphant end."

RETAINING NEW STORIES OF WICKS AT THE JUTLAND BATTLE.

Our men of the Grand Fleet desires of a change after a long of isolation "Somewhere in the Sea" even the landlubber can find. The weary wait for Fritz come out to give battle is a sore to their tempers, which are not eased by the monotony of the routine and seeing the same old day after day. Love their they do, but they are jolly glad from their backs on them when on sea. Back among "civilization," they are glad to have a chat with the Tom, Dick, or Harry that comes ashore. Even the officer at the outset leave is eager to talk to anyone and everybody, and, touching point, an excellent yarn is told "Naval Intelligence" (Hodder & Stoughton; 6s. net)—not a Blue Book this title is inclined to denote, but collection of incidents and reflections written by a naval man. "Peep into this 'naval curiosity shop,'" and you will realize the sort of life led by the men of the Grand Fleet.

must be a pretty dull sort of life—what?"
"Oh, I had a sort of holiday, sir, recently. I was away from my work for a year. I went into the—the Navy, sir."
"Really," said the officer, his interest aroused. "And how did you like that?"
"Oh, very pleasant, sir, very pleasant, indeed! It made a nice little change, as you might say, though I did miss the sound of the motor 'buses at first, and the—excuse my mentioning it, sir—the girls. Not that I'm what you might call a ladies' man myself, sir. Oh, by no means!
But I like to see 'em about the place.
And you don't see much of 'em in the Navy, sir."
After occurring, the officer asked:
"Then why did you join the Navy instead of the army?"
"Well, sir, I've always had a sort of connection with the sea. My father used to keep a wharf-stall in the Old Kent Road, and one of my sisters is housemaid to an admiral's widow."
What the officer thought of this explanation is not recorded.
"Well, and what made you leave the Navy, then?"
"The—the little affair at Jutland, sir," answered the addresser. "A splinter wound in my leg, sir. I was invalided out."
"Oh, you were at Jutland, were you?" questioned the customer. "In what ship?"
"In the Rodney, sir. I was one of what we call the mess-deck fore party—though you wouldn't understand what that means. But I managed to sneak up and get a peep at what was going on now and then. A small bottle of our Elixir? You're getting a little thin on the top, sir, if I may say so."

"Nothing more, thanks," said the officer, as he got up from his chair, and struggled into his overcoat. "Oh, yes, there's one thing I should like," he corrected, as he paid his reckoning, with a substantial tip into the bargain. "I should like to shake hands with you—with a man!"
"By the way," he added, as he turned away from the astonished addresser, "I was in the next ship ahead of you at Jutland—in the old Hood. Good-day—and good luck to you!"
Here is another story—also about the Jutland scrap—culled from "Naval Intelligence." A sailor's leg was so badly shattered by a splinter of shell that there was nothing else to do but amputate it above the knee.
He was unconscious at the time of this decision, so the surgeons were unable to tell him of their intentions.
Hours later he recovered consciousness, and found himself comfortably tucked up, with the stump propped and bandaged. When he learnt what had happened, he burst into an agonized cry:
"Where's my leg? For 'Evin's sake, and my leg, somebody! It's got all my money in the stocking!"
The author vouches for the truth of the story.

The Crosses.

Just inside the gate of the Catholic cemetery is the lodge of the con-cierge. The concierge is a shriveled little man who will sell you candles to burn for the good of your friends' souls. The Catholic cemetery itself is a very tumble-down place. The little glided Christs have long since lost their gilt; the iron crosses are falling all awry; briars and thistles clamber and sprout everywhere upon rusting ironwork and rotting wood. The artificial flowers rattle dryly in the wind; only a few wild flowers that were not planted struggle to preserve beauty in the wilderness.
Beyond this old portion of the cemetry the ground falls rather steeply to a flat field, and there you see, standing in row upon row, the new white crosses. On the crosses, on little strips of tin, are the names of those who lie beneath. On some there is one name; on a few are three names; on most two.
Here, in this flat piece of ground, skirted by a great highroad which hums all day with the intense traffic of war, the ends of the earth are gathered together. Those who have reached this resting-place have come by devious ways from starting-points as far asunder as the east is from the west, but all, like jetsam on a stream, have been sucked to the centre of the vortex, and now they lie quietly side by side in this flat little piece of land.
The names upon the crosses would furnish forth an atlas of the world.
From the bush of Australia, and from the great rolling prairies of the West; from the hills of Wales and the grey-scattered fellsides of Yorkshire;
from the fields of Scotland and Ireland, from the fields of France and the sad flats of Flanders, they have come. And there are men of strange and unpro-nounceable names who knew the golden days of India, and men from the deserts in Africa. A little apart, like reputations under a shadow, are the graves of a few Germans. A newly-thrown up mound covers an "unknown Chinese soldier," and, strangest of all, perhaps, painted on a board among the thick-strewn crosses of Christ, are the Star and Crescent of the Prophet over the dust of a Mohammedan soldier. One woman lies there—an English nurse who died on active service.
Some of the graves are very new,
and a long, sinister trench, empty as yet, says that the awful appetite of war is not satiated. But already, in a confounding growth of pale blue flowers, each of the older graves is losing, save for its little cross, its individual identity. Nature is at her task of smoothing out and toning down. She seems to be uttering a fatalistic call to forget the past. Yet, standing in this little garden, in the austere presence of the multitudinous dead, one says that when so much urges us to "remember our hate," it may be well to listen to other voices which plead with us not to forget our charity. In this community of death there is something terrible and august in whose presence hate seems a mean and miserable thing and, like a shadow, melts away. In the same moment one thinks of the boy who,
at the bend of the road on a faint September morning, looked back and waved farewell to some girl at a gate in a Yorkshire lane; and of some lad, not less dearly loved, who, at another's call, left his pleasant Rhineland to go back no more.
And Gairmans are not the same;
"The lad ye're sickin' in the name
Fechts no for dewilment or fame,
But just for pride
In his bit decent canty name
By some burnside.
If any, being dead, yet speak, surly they are not voiceless who lie here in this flat little piece of land, skirted by the great highroad which hums all day with the intense traffic of war.

ian.

The Angelus of Strife.

(From the Dallas News.)
There's a little town about sixty miles south of Birmingham, Ala., on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, called Verbena.
The town is well named.
It is redolent of the old-fashioned Southern flower. It is peopled by simple farmer folk. Some substantial citizens of Montgomery keep summer homes there.
There are few sounds about the place. An occasional mule team ruttles down a red clay road drawing an empty wagon to the general stores or bumps pleasantly back toward the Chilton Country hills. Occasionally a gentle wind causes the leaves of the oak trees that shade the town to sigh one of those sighs or content that men breathe after a good meal or a good sermon or a well rendered piece of music.
It's as peaceful a place as can be found in Alabama or any other place.
It might well have been modeled after Goldsmith's "Sweet Auburn." But there's a new sound there now.
It is the Angelus of strife.
It calls the people of Verbena not only to worship, but to deeds.
Every afternoon at six o'clock the bell of the Verbena church rings. It continues to ring for two minutes, and while its brazen song is lifted the people of Verbena stand and pray.
With heads uncovered and bowed,
each man, each woman, each child, each saint and each sinner repeats these words:
"God bless our President, our soldiers and the nation, and guide them on to victory."
When the sound begins the observance of its call is universal. Men halt in the street; wagons are pulled up on the road; women rise from their knitting or pause in their cookery—for they have early supper in Verbena—the plowman halts his work, and each repeats the prayer.
Verbena calls it "The Prayer of the Bell," and it is said that men who have never been known to pray before answer its call dutifully.

The Poplars of Picardy

"Who goes?" the sentinel-poplars cried
To the living waves that passed them, billowing wide, (Hued like streams that roar in freshet to the sea.)
"Freedom's best—come to set the Old World free;
Forsaking men, breed of every race and sun,
But one in our will to beat the Hun!"
"What's your goal?" "The arena in which man
Meets the world-old challenge; the battle's van
Where thy intrepid races bar-Hosts that pass not, and the banded nations are,
There shalt thou see the imperial west
Lift aloft its embattled crest."
"Will ye ebb?" "Ay, when a world betrayed
Breaks its shackles; when is laid This hell-horn that rides a troubled earth;
Not until the judgment—the new birth—
When, robbed in fancy, this sceptred
Cain
Sinks 'neath the waves of wrath, never to rise again!"
—Thomas J. Partridge.

The Same Old Teutons.

A high school boy who has been studying Caesar's Commentaries, points out some interesting parallels between the Germans of 2,000 years ago and their descendants of to-day.
Caesar had much the same experiences with them that the Allies have had. The German king Ariovistus reminds one surprisingly of Kaiser Wilhelm.
The Germans had invaded Gaul (now France) and the Gauls had asked the Romans for help as France asked England in 1914. Caesar decided to do what he could for his Gallic friends, because the German king "had assumed such haughty airs, such arrogance, that he was intolerable." So he went to see him, with an escort of trusted legionaries.
Ariovistus insisted that "he had not made war upon the Gauls, but they against him, that all the Gallic states had united to attack him," and that "as to his having brought a multitude of Germans into Gaul, it was for defence, not to attack the country." All of which was as big a lie as the self-defence talk the world has lately heard from Germany.

The Angelus of Strife.

Caesar wasn't at all impressed.
Thereupon Ariovistus proceeded to violate the truce, held sacred by all barbarians except the Germans, and attacked Caesar. The latter withdrew safely, and after considerable more experience of German treach-ery, brought up his army and drove the Germans back across the Rhine.
One of the many illuminating parallels found in that ancient book is a reference to the German penchant for destruction. Writing of one of the leading German tribes, he said:
"From a national point of view they deem it a credit to devastate the widest possible area of territory outside their borders; they consider that by this is signified the great number of states which are unable to resist their power." Just compare that statement with this boastful utterance from a Berlin newspaper, written after Hinden-burg's "victorious retreat" of last year:
"Great stretches of French territory have been transformed by us into a dead country. It varies in width from ten to twelve of fifteen kilometers, and extends along the whole of our new positions, presenting a terrible barrier of desolation to any foe hardy enough to advance against our lines. No village or farm was left standing on this glacial, no road was left passable, no railway track or embankment was left in existence.
Where once were woods there are gaunt rows of stumps; the wells have been blown up; wires, cables, and pipe lines destroyed. In front of our new position runs, like a gigantic ribbon, a realm of death."
It is thus that Germany has done over and over again, in her periodic marauding expeditions against France against Italy, against Spain and other European neighbors. It's the same old barbarism, only made more menacing by greater capacity for destruction.—Passaic Daily News.

Better than metal.
Certain-teed is fast taking the place of metal roofs, not only because of the scarcity and high cost of metal, but because

Certain-teed Roofing

is superior in every important roofing quality. Metal easily rusts and dis-integrates from atmospheric gases. Certain-teed cannot rust and its asphalt base makes it practically immune to any form of corrosion.
Metal absorbs heat and transmits it to the interior of a building. Certain-teed insulates against heat and cold, and makes the building cooler in summer and warmer in winter.
Metal must be painted frequently. Certain-teed gives years of weather-proof service practically without any upkeep expense.
Metal is noisy in wind or storm. Certain-teed fully deadens sound from such sources.
Metal is not safely guaranteed. Certain-teed is absolutely guaranteed 5, 10 or 15 years, according to thickness, and actually gives longer service than its guarantee.
Metal is a direct drain on military materials. Certain-teed is made principally of waste rags and asphalt—materials which have no military use whatever.
Certain-teed has proved its efficiency and economy for every kind of roofing service—factories, warehouses, hotels, stores, farm buildings, outbuildings, etc.
Certain-teed is more economical and more efficient in service than metal or any other type of roof. Certain-teed is the best quality of roll roofing—it costs no more to lay than ordinary roll roofing and lasts much longer. Sold by dealers everywhere.
