CHAPTER XVIII.
Royce stared, frowning at him, and held Madge tightly.
"What, now?" remonstrated Uncle Jake, shaking his forefinger at him with sly playfulness. "Don't get on to your stilt, my boy; it's no use, I tell you. I'm posted up!"
He drew a little closer, but still kept out of the reach of Royce's long arms, and, with an unctuous leer and wink, whispered, huskily:
"My dear children, I was in the little church at Crosby this morning. Always was fond of a church, you know. Saw the door open, and just slipped in. Nice place to have half an hour's snooze in. But I didn't get a nap this morning, Mr. Jack. Something interesting going on. Pretty sight, a wedding; eh, Madge?"
Royce's face was growing dark. Madge, with a low cry, clung closer to him.
Uncle Jake chuckled.
"There, there! Needn't scowl, Mr. Jack. Natural—only natural! Hand some young man and pretty girl; love first sight, and marriage on the sly, eh? But"—he assumed an injured expression—"but why play it low down on the girl's guardian—why not trust old Uncle Jake? That's what I want to know!"
Royce advanced slightly, and Uncle Jake drew back.
"Now, now! keep your temper, Mr. Jack. I didn't complain, and I'm not going to split on you. I only ask, why not trust the poor old boy?"
Royce bit his lip.
"If you are sober enough—"
"Sober?" ejaculated Uncle Jake, indignantly.
"To understand and answer a question," said Royce, "tell me, in a

Beauty

A Gleamy Mass of Hair
35c "Danderine" does Wonders for Any Girl's Hair

Girls! Try this! When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hair brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy—a mass of gleamy hair, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance.
While beautifying the hair "Danderine" is also toning and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Hair stops falling out and standard disappears. Get a bottle of delightful, refreshing "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair becomes.

word, if you were alone, or if any of the others knew our secret?"
Uncle Jake looked at him slyly.
"I'm as sober as a judge before dinner," he said. "No, my dear boy; I was alone, and no one else, so far as I know, is in the swim. And don't you be afraid that I'm going to split on you; I'm mum. I'm going to return good for evil, that is, what I am going to do."
Royce was silent a moment, then he said:
"How long have you been here?"
Uncle Jake understood, and he hesitated for an instant; then he said, coolly, and dropping the heavy father:
"Half an hour, more or less. Yes, I saw your swell people, and heard the confab, Mr. Landon."
Royce started.
"Don't be alarmed," said Uncle Jake. "I've no reason for wishing you otherwise than well, and I'm ready to stand your friend—that is, if a poor gypsy may venture to make such a remark!" and he touched his cap as he shot a sinister glance at them.
His change of manner was so sudden that Royce stood dumbfounded, and Uncle Jake, with a nod, as if to reassure them, drew nearer.
"You did the right thing, Madge," he said. "Beg pardon, Mrs. Landon! A gypsy camp isn't the proper place for you any longer. Nor for you either, sir. And the sooner you clear out, the better."
Royce bit his lip.
"Speak out and say what you have to say," he said. "You know our secret and will trade upon it, I suppose."
"Not a bit of it," said Uncle Jake, coolly. "I'm not quite such a swell as you, Mr. Landon, but I'm a gentleman, or was one time, anyhow, and all I want to do is to give you a bit of advice." Royce listened impatiently. "Go straight away to-night. I'll make things square with our people. Go straight away and keep dark till the week's up—ah, yes! I heard every word, and I know the arrangement that's been come to—you take my advice. I'll explain things to the people and keep 'em quiet. Go up to London—there's a late train at Crosby you can catch—and cut the gypsies' camp once and for all. As I said, it's no place for either of you now."
Royce drew Madge out of hearing.
"He is right, drunk or sober," he said, "and we must trust him, seeing that we can't very well do otherwise. I should have liked to have said goodbye to Mother Katie and some of the others. And you?"
She raised her face to his, her lips trembling.
"Let us go, Jack," she said.

CHAPTER XX.
Madge had been married five days, and on this, the morning of the sixth, as she stood at the window of the London hotel and looked down at the crowded street along which rushed the cabs and omnibuses, and flowed the interminable stream of eager, restless people, she asked herself whether she were awake or dreaming; and, indeed, in her lovely eyes there was a look that was something like bewilderment mingled with the dreamy expression of perfect happiness and joy.
For once Uncle Jake's advice had been followed. Royce had made up his accounts that morning and received his share of the profits, and with this by no means large sum he had started on their wedding trip. He had chosen London because it would be easier to baffle pursuit in that direction, if any one had chosen to make it.
There had been only time on their way to the station for Madge to purchase a hat—the first she had ever worn—and Royce to exchange his rough tweed jacket for a conventional coat, and deer-stalker; but the morning after their arrival, and directly after breakfast, she said, with a blush:
"Jack, will you let me go out for a little while?"
He stared at her.
"Let you go out. Why, dearest, are you going to run away from me?"
"Not yet," she said, softly, the blush deepening. "May I go, Jack?"
"No," he said, with an assumed sternness. "You will lose your way. What do you want to go for?—and alone, I take it?"
"Yes; I want to go alone," she said, timidly. "Why I want to go is my secret, and I won't lose my way. I won't go very far, and I know the name of the hotel and the street."
Royce gazed at her with genuine anxiety.

JOHN STEEDMAN & CO. LONDON

"Why mustn't I come with you?" he asked.
"Because you must not," she said; and she went and laid her head on his shoulder to hide her blushes.
"How long are you going to be away?" he asked. "I shall count the minutes while you are gone. To leave me so soon! I wonder you have the heart, Madge."
She thought a moment.
"Two hours," she said. "Yes, that will be enough." She got his pipe and tobacco from the mantel-shelf and put them in his hand. "There; I shall be back almost before you have finished your pipe."
"It would be a big one to last two hours, Madge," he said, with a laugh that was rather rueful. "I wish you'd tell me what you are after. London's a big place, and you have never been in it before. Better let me go with you." And he tried to look into her face, but she evaded him, and with a shy kiss ran from the room.
Royce felt half inclined to go after her and recall his consent, but there had been an under-current of earnestness and entreaty in her voice which kept him from doing so, and he lighted his pipe and tried not to feel anxious about her.
Madge put on her hat and shawl quietly, and, going down-stairs, asked for Oxford Street. She had noticed, as they drove to the hotel, a big thoroughfare full of shops, and asking its name, Royce had told her it was Oxford Street. The hotel porter, with a curious glance at her, directed her, and she walked quickly up the Strand and through Leicester Square, looking into all the linen-draper's shops as she went with a careful scrutiny. She found one to suit her at last, and going in, asked, with a calmness that barely concealed her timidity, for some ready-made dresses.
The man conducted her to the proper department of the vast and gorgeous place, and there Madge purchased a couple of plain but pretty frocks. One was dark blue, the other a gray. She also bought some collars and cuffs, and was tempted by some daintily made shoes in another department.
These and one or two other things she paid for with some money which she had been saving for years, and took them to the hotel in a cab.

Cataloguing the Empire

We Have Scarcely Begun to Tap the Vast Natural Resources of our Dominions Overseas.

The real wealth of the British Empire does not lie in the bullion in its bank vaults and the "fishers" in circulation amongst its people, but in the wonderful potential resources in raw material, suitable for all kinds of industry, to be found within its frontiers. For some time past a Commission has been at work cataloguing these, and the result of its labours may be seen in a room at South Kensington. A visit to this room, and a study of its contents, is almost equivalent to a trip round the British Dominions. All of them are represented there by some product or another.

Riches We Didn't Suspect.

The number and variety of the raw materials brought together as a result of the Commission's investigations is astonishingly large. We do not appear to have an industry for which "food," in the shape of raw material, cannot be provided by one or the other of our own possessions.

Everybody, of course, knows that all sorts of mineral ores exist within the British Empire. But the real interest in the Raw Materials Commission's collection of samples lies in its revelation of many unexpected sources of wealth. These are almost as much vegetable as mineral.

Many grasses have been found that are also several other vegetable substances of equal utility. Careful research has brought to light a whole host of things whose value was almost unsuspected, and the utilization of which in industry will help to make our manufacturers independent of the foreigner.

Amongst other things it has been proved that the Empire could supply Lancashire with all the cotton needed for its spinning mills; if our possible cotton-growing sources were developed. And there are equally big potentialities in many other directions.

"Professional Swallower"

HAS STOREHOUSE IN HIS STOMACH.

Chicago, March 26.—Two hundred and seventy-five individual objects were taken from the stomach of Wm. Bartell, "professional swallower," in an operation performed by Dr. Max Thorek at the American Hospital, yesterday.

The surgeon's official inventory follows:
Upholstery tacks, 12; nails, 110; nuts, 2; screws, 3; tack-heads, 4; parts of safety pins, 65; whole safety pins, 12; paper clips, 22; bolts, 4; curtain hooks, 1; can-openers, 1; beer corks, 1; washers, 2; cartridges, 2; dimes, 1; button-tacks, 32.

Bartell was taken ill with peritonitis after swallowing a spike at the Logan Square Theatre. The spike penetrated the wall of the stomach.

Left-over mashed turnips can be shaped into balls, dipped in egg, rolled in crumbs and fried.

The Modern Blacksmith

Under a costly canopy
The village blacksmith sits;
Before him is a touring car
Broken to little bits,
And the owner, and the chauffeur, too,
Have almost lost their wits.

The village blacksmith smiles with glee
As he fights his fat cigar.
He tells his helpers what to do
To straighten up the car,
And the owner, and the chauffeur, too,
Stand humbly where they are.

The village blacksmith puffs his weed
And smiles a smile of cheer
The while his helpers pump the tyres
And monkey with the gear—
But the owner, and the chauffeur, too,
Stand reverently near.

The children going home from school
Look in at the open door;
They like to see him make his bills
And hear the owners roar.
And the chauffeurs weep as they deliver their paid that before.

He goes each morning to the bank
To put away his cash;
A healthy balance and big Rolls-Royce
Help him to cut a dash—
But the owner, and the chauffeur, too,
Their teeth all vainly gnash.

The chestnut tree long since has died,
The smith does not repine;
His humble shop has grown into
A building big and fine,
And it bears "Garage" above the door
On a huge electric sign.

"O" Steamers to Call at Quebec

The Royal Mail Steam Packet Company announce that commencing with the sailing of the "ORCA" from Hamburg on April 26th, via Southampton and Cherbourg, their steamers will call at Quebec en route to New York. The Quebec call is mainly for the purpose of assisting in the Canadian Government's scheme of immigration from the Old Country. The ships to be employed range from 15,000 to 19,000 tons gross and include the "Ohio," "Orea," "Ortuna," and "Orbita." These ships enjoy the reputation of being among the most comfortable "cabin" class vessels in the North Atlantic trade. The calls at Quebec, will in no way interfere with the usual sailings from New York. The number of these has been increased to meet the anticipated volume of travel to and from the British Empire Exhibition, which will be open from the first of May to the end of October.

Watch Your Teeth

Sound advice on the preservation of the teeth is given in a pamphlet published by the British Dental Association.

Decay is caused by some kinds of food (chiefly of a starchy or sugary nature) remaining in contact with the teeth. Decay begins on the outside of a tooth and progresses inwards, until the pulp (miscalled "nerve") is reached. Severe toothache follows, after which the pain may cease; the pulp has probably died. A dead pulp frequently causes an abscess at the root of the tooth.

Even if the pain and swelling disappear, the tooth and its root continue to decay, and the septic matter of "pus" is more or less constantly formed. This matter will in time damage the health and digestion.

It is important to remove particles of food which cling to and remain about the teeth and gums after eating. Rinsing the mouth vigorously with water is good, but the use of a tooth brush with water or soap and water is more effective, and usually it is advisable to use a tooth powder paste.

Cheap forms of powder are composed of bicarbonate of soda, or potassium permanganate, or other caustic salts.

Many people like to toast their teeth in slightly salted water, but this is a bad habit and should be avoided.

For the Kidneys

Kidney troubles are frequently caused by badly digested food which overtaxes these organs to eliminate their waste products. Help your stomach to properly digest the food by taking 15 to 30 drops of Extract of Rocks, sold as Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup, and your kidney disorder will promptly disappear. Get the genuine.

Bill Before Canadian Parliament to Abolish Capital Punishment

Mauretania Grounds on Calshot Point—French Parliament to be Dissolved To-Day—Reparations Commission Approves Experts' Report.

DISSOLUTION OF FRENCH CABINET.

PARIS, April 12. Premier Poincare has virtually decided to dissolve Parliament to-morrow. The official notice of dissolution will probably be promulgated to-morrow evening.

REPARATIONS COMMISSION APPROVES EXPERTS' REPORT

PARIS, April 11. The Reparations Commission to-day officially approved of the report submitted to it by the Experts' Committee Wednesday on the German reparations question. The recommendation of the Commission is that the report be approved conditionally upon the acceptance of it by Germany. The Commission was unanimous in registering its approval and will hear the German representatives on Thursday, April 27th.

COURTESY VISIT OR POLITICAL

PARIS, April 11. There is an inclination in diplomatic circles to interpret the toast proposed by President Millerand at the dinner given by King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Roumania last evening, as indicating that there is an important political phase to the visit of the Rumanian "royal couple." The President said he was expressing the desires of his country in expressing the wish that the relations, so ancient and so close, that unite them, be more and more strengthened. Diplomatic quarters will be surprised if an accord of some kind fails to materialize from the present visit of the Rumanian King and his foreign officer.

HONDURAN BABY-KILLERS.

WASHINGTON, April 12. Air pilots of the Honduran revolution forces have begun bombing raids on Tegucigalpa, the Capital, and have killed a number of women and children. Four bombs were dropped near the ground where members of the landing forces of the United States cruiser Milwaukee were exercising, but a despatch to the Navy Department to-day from Rear Admiral Dayton, made no mention of any casualties among United States naval forces.

FIRE AT KAPUSKASING.

KAPUSKASING, Ont., April 12. The remaining part of the old town-site of Kapuskasing, commonly called Stewartville, was totally destroyed by fire this morning at an estimated loss of $20,000, partly covered by insurance. The fire is thought to be a deliberate case of arson.

CANADIAN BUDGET AND FISH.

MONTREAL, April 12. After scrutiny of the budget, H. Brittain of the Maritime Fish Corporation said, "there is no reduction in canned fish, while other canned goods including fruit, have reductions from six to six and a half per cent. This is vital to large packers in British Columbia and even more vital to small individual packers on the Canadian Atlantic Coast. Personally, I think this is merely an oversight that will be adjusted as soon as the Minister of Finance has his attention drawn to it."

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

OTTAWA, April 12. Speaking on the second reading to his bill for the abolition of capital punishment in the House of Commons to-day, Rev. Wm. Irvine, Labor, East Calgary, declared that the law of the tribes, eye for eye and tooth for tooth, must give way to more humanitarian measures. He believed there were better ways of deterring crime. Capital punishment, he said, was degrading, demoralizing and an outrage to the finer sensibilities. It was a failure inasmuch as it did not act as a deterrent. The difficulty of securing convictions for murder, when the penalty was death was advanced by Hance J. Logan, Liberal, Cumberland, as an argument in favour of abolishing capital punishment. He contended that when a jury knew its decision would send a man to the gallows, it was very loath to find that person guilty.

MAURETANIA GROUNDED BUT FREED.

SOUTHAMPTON, April 11. The Cunarder Mauretania, which left Southampton, in tow this morning for Cherbourg, for repairs, is reported to have touched ground, when turning Calshot Point near the Isle of Wight. She was not damaged and proceeded almost immediately, but the report when first received caused wildest excitement until the truth was known.

"MAID OF FRANCE" BELIEVED LOST.

WILMINGTON, N.C., April 11. A wrecked vessel with bodies floating about, reported off shore by wireless from an unnamed steamer, is believed to be the Halifax-owned trolly schooner "Maid of France," commanded by Capt. C. A. Haight of La Have and manned by a Nova Scotian crew. The vessel sailed from Barbados with molasses thirty days ago for here, and is long overdue. F. K. Warren and Company of Halifax are managing owners.

AMERICAN FLYERS AT SITKA.

SITKA, April 11. Warned of an approaching storm off the Gulf of Alaska, the four United States world circling aviators rested here to-day after their three hundred mile flight from Prince Rupert. They were to have hopped off to-day for the 475 mile flight to Cordova, Alaska.

Insuring Against Crowds

Elaborate Tests That Make Our Bridges and Public Buildings Safe For The Million.

The new Stadium at Wembley has recently been the scene of a series of experiments made to test its acoustic properties, to find out how voices carried and whether there was much echo or reverberation. Architects and engineers are very clever. They can calculate beforehand almost to a pound weight what bricks and mortar or steel will stand when formed into a building. Yet, even so, it is not unusual to make tests with the object of trying out a completed edifice. Some years ago the Queen opened great bazaar held at the Albert Hall in aid of children's hospitals, and for this purpose flooring was built up level with the front tier of boxes. The surface of this floor was no less than 24,000 square feet. In order to make quite sure that this floor was as substantial as it seemed, on the day after it was finished a regiment of Guards was brought in and marched around it in order to test its stability.

When the Crowd Packs. The weight of a great crowd is simply incredible. A floor is usually tested up to eighty or even a hundred pounds per square foot; but it has been found that when a crowd packs these pressures are greatly exceeded. As many as forty people may

A Fisherman Voices the General Complaint

April 4th, 1924.

Dear Sir:—In reading your most esteemed paper, I see that some of our most important fishermen, had come to a standstill, unless ways and means were provided to make their voyage more remunerative. I presume they are to no selfish aim, and are making a comment on the matter, we have had many instances in the past where a good voyage has brought to 9 men the sum of $1800. Now to consider we have to make both ends to meet at the finish of a six months' voyage, and support at least 50 per cent. of our population. How can this be remedied? The methods have been suggested by the fishermen which can easily be brought about by reducing expenditures and lifting taxation. Can those in charge of affairs see such a class of men full of energy and pluck, equal to none, be abused by their country and given no thought on admiration? We are making such demands to save our National Industry, which is directly and indirectly the support of eighty per cent. of our population, and furthermore to save our individual properties which are from year to year deteriorating, and in another year, under present conditions, for the want of attention, a great deal of our fishing property will be only fit for the dump. Economy has been a remedy pointed to us by men in charge of public affairs, yet it has not made them care. But the want of intellect on their part in the past, has meant a large deficit to both class and country and our National Industry is heading for disaster and ruin. We have many difficulties to contend with, aside from our financial standpoint, and this one should be shouldered by our Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and it should be the main object of his office to consider ways by which a decent price can be obtained by every fisherman. No men in the world undergo such adventure and have more problems to deal with than the Newfoundland fishermen, and still are ground to the pole as a woodman grinds his axe. Is there any remedy? A speedy one will have to be found, or we will take some other course to earn a living wage. Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor. Yours truly, BONAVISTA BAY FISHERMEN.

A Move in the Right Direction

Yesterday a number of men were engaged at the dock premises constructing a gangway, which when completed, will extend from the main gate to the railway pier. This improvement has been arranged for the accommodation of pedestrians who, passing to and from the coastal boats, would otherwise have to wade through the mud, ankle deep. Freight for South West ports of call, to go by the Prospero, is now being delivered at the dock premises. The Prospero sails 10.30 a.m. on Tuesday next.

Skin Diseases, Anemia, Lack of Blood, Paleness, Impure Blood, Lack of Ambition and Vigor, Debility, Weakness, Tired Feeling, Boils, Pimples, etc.

THERE is no Remedy of more universal application than a genuine true-and-tried Blood Purifier and Blood Builder. A medicinal preparation that will truly purify, revitalize and renew the blood, restores hope and pleasure, ambition and happiness, vigor and vitality. It is of inestimable value not only as a strengthener of the system, fortifying it against invasion of disease, but also as a cure for Chronic Diseases which depend upon an impoverished condition of the blood. Diseases of this nature are usually caused by impurities in the blood deposited through the inactivity of the Liver and Kidneys.

is a genuine preparation scientifically prepared from the best and purest remedies for the purifying and rebuilding of the blood. It should be taken every spring, as at this season the blood is more apt to become impure and impoverished. Keep your blood in perfect condition and you will be prepared to fight life's battles with greater success.

One Bottle of this Blood Purifier is all that you will need to take to produce results.

The Views of an Exile

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Whenever one finds a half dozen or so Newfoundlanders there you will find a copy or two of the St. John's Evening Telegram in the midst of them. Exiled from our native land by the cupidly and injustice of our so-called rulers who have sold our heritage for a mess of pottage to certain Canadian corporations we look forward with pleasure to the arrival of the "People's Paper" from home and enjoy to the full your able editorial remarks on the situation in the land of our birth.

As you very truly remarked in an editorial of some months ago the exodus from Newfoundland is not due altogether to want of employment, falling fisheries or any such like causes, but to the fact that justice and fair play no longer run in dear old Terra Nova but that injustice, discrimination and double dealing have taken their place.

Hundreds of Newfoundlanders here and in other parts of the Union have turned their backs on the land of their birth because of these reasons, but are watching hopefully for a change in conditions. The story told by a young man who arrived here from the West Coast of Newfoundland last spring is a sample of how the rights and privileges of those who have stood by the country and borne their share in its heats and its burdens have been taken from their hands and transferred to those of alien corporations.

The young man in question is a returned soldier, who served through the Great War, was taken prisoner by the Germans and was released only when the Armistice was declared. At the last general election he was a strong supporter of the Government candidate for his district, and was quite open and outspoken as to his political opinions and intentions. Notwithstanding this and the fact that he was a returned soldier and practically out of employment he found that the only way to the ear of the government in his district was through the favour of the employees of a certain corporation.

Being of sturdy native stock he declined, even when proffered patronage from such a source and refused to allow his name to be added to that list of Newfoundlanders who seem satisfied to accept the crumbs of patronage from the agents and employees of a Canadian corporation which, when it has an end to gain, poses as a philanthropic association whose sole object in coming to this country at all was the improvement of the condition of its benighted "natives," so that it may the more easily wrest from its Government, privileges and advantages that would like be denied a body of its own sons doing business of a similar character under like conditions.

This thought occurred to me very forcibly a few days ago on reading over the report of the proceedings of the public Enquiry, now going on at St. John's, when during the cross-examination of Sir William Coaker, who was giving evidence on the matter of cutting timber for pit props by the Debon Trading Co., it was plainly suggested that the man appointed by the Government to scale this timber was an employee of the Company's and had been appointed on the recommendation of Sir William who is the Company's President.

This was a matter pertinent to the enquiry and had the suggestion been confirmed, both the Government and the Company would have come in for a lot of deserved public censure and condemnation. So far so good. Here is a local company that because it is suspected of having, through its president, been allowed from the Government with whom it is under contract to the amount of some $70,000.00, the very doubtful advantage or privilege of having its own candidate or nominee appointed as checker and scaler, would, if the suspicion were proven, be held up to public disapproval, while at the same time a foreign corporation doing business in the country may be granted, without protest from anybody, privileges extending over years and involving hundreds of thousands of dollars. Incredible, do I hear you say, sir? Well, judge for yourself. Here is one instance as told a bunch of us Newfoundlanders in our meeting rooms a few months ago by an intelligent young compatriot of ours here on a visit. "Some twelve years ago," said this young man, "a certain Canadian corporation started a limestone quarry at the port of Port au Port. Some six or seven years after it had been in operation, its agency there seemed to think that it was entitled to a port of entry of its own with the usual outpost customs staff, sub-collector and tidewaiter. Application was made to the Government of the day and within a short time, a second port of entry, with a full customs staff was opened right in the centre of the first, where the customs business of this corporation's agency had been transacted for the previous seven years. Not satisfied, however, with having incurred this unnecessary and altogether uncalled for expenditure contingent upon the opening of two ports of entry in one, or the appointment of two staffs of customs officials for the one and same port, (take the situation whichever way you may and it amounts to the same thing in the end) the Government went a step further, it is said, and appointed as the customs officials of the new or second port, the nominees or candidates of certain resident employees of the corporation. Apart from the injury done the collector of the first or original port, a long service official of whom it is stated that he has never yet been compensated for the loss suffered by him from its unnecessary division, no one lays any blame—in these days when might is right—to the corporation or to its resident officials for demanding from the country all the privileges which they think they may acquire, no matter how preposterous, if the Government be so negligent of the taxpayers interests as to grant them."

Such, sir, is one of the many stories told us of dear old Terra Nova and of her public affairs by our interesting guest.

In a late issue of the Evening Advocate there appeared some interesting notes from Sir W. F. Coaker on his trip to the fish markets of Europe and of Newfoundland's relation thereto. Among other things he deals with the matter of keeping the country's people at home. God knows, Sir William, that some hundreds of her exiled sons right here in this city and its suburbs as well as many thousands scattered throughout this Union and Canada would be only too glad to go back to the dear Homeland and take up life within her borders just where they left off prior to their emigration, but not while the country is ruled as it is, and has been for the past ten or twelve years, not until the unavoury condition of public affairs as revealed by the Public Enquiry now sitting in St. John's has been swept away and replaced by a sane, healthy, wholesome sentiment, worthy of the country and its people.

Culled from amongst some notes contributed to the columns of your Bay of Islands contemporary, the "Western Star" a few months ago is the following, which expresses the attitude of the Newfoundlanders abroad as well as that of the stay-at-home towards the administration of the public affairs of the country:

"Opportunity knocks sometime at every man's door. It has knocked lately at the door of the Prime Minister of this Colony who promptly answered the summons and—throwing open wide the portal and stepping out followed briskly along the path whither duty beckoned and if he 'carry on' he will find at the end a pedestal whereupon his countrymen will place him and there maintain him in honour and justification while and so long as he and his colleagues in council adopt as their motto in the government of the country, Fiat justitia ruat cælum." I am, sir,

Yours truly,
A NEWFOUNDLANDER.

The Connecting File

Through the medium of a bright little magazine appropriately called "The Connecting File," the famous Royal Canadian Regiment are getting in touch with former members of the Corps who during the South African campaign and the late war were comrades in arms, but who since those stirring times have gone on outpost duty in almost every port of the Empire. It is unfortunately too true that the close friendships formed under such circumstances fade as distance separates, but the sight of a once familiar name quickens the memory, and tends to unite in common purpose those who once were exposed to the same hardships, smilingly faced the same dangers, or were partners in the same mad escapades.

ILL FEELING.

The scowfaw hates the spigot-bigo, who closes all the Rum Hole doors, and fain would see him in a frigate departing from these dusty shores. The spigot-bigo grows sarcastic when to the scowfaw he alludes, invoking penalties so drastic they kindle new and fiercer furies. "Let dogs delight," remarked a writer, "to bark and bite—they're built that way; but men should be a lot politer—should shun and not invite the fray." Why can't the spigot-bigo chortle when bidding "Barley-corn aroint, and putting padlocks" on the portal of Charley's Place and Jimmie's Joint? Why can't the scowfaw curb his passion when he surveys the other's games? Why paw the earth in futile fashion, and call the spigot-bigo names? Oh, spigot-bigos, cease to quarrel, with smiles pursue your useful toil; the work you do is highly moral, when it's not marred by scrap and broil. You close the joints where peril lingers, you burn the still and lock the dumb, and gents who suffer for three fingers must get refreshments at the pump! Oh, scowfaws, all the lack's against you, your goose is cooked, you have no chance; the statutes dry have hedged and fenced you, but be good sports and sing and dance.

IN YOUR NEIGHBOR'S MELON PATCH.

There is a certain Chinese proverb which I find myself thinking of about once in so often:

"Do not stoop to tie your shoe when you are going through your neighbor's melon patch or put your hand to fix your hat when you are passing through his peach orchard."

Just as there is no reason on earth why one shouldn't tie one's shoes in one's neighbor's melon patch, except how it looks.

I know a woman whose husband writes a certain type of short story. We were speaking the other day of several writers who write in a similar vein. She had something critical to say of each. This one was so cheap, that one so hackneyed, and wasn't it too bad that the other couldn't do dialogue decently. Presently we spoke of a man who does another type of story. Then her tone changed abruptly. She actually spoke cordially of his work.

I have another friend whose husband is an artist. When the works of other artists are discussed she will either praise or be silent. I objected once that she could not possibly like them all. "No," she said, "but I would much rather keep still than have people think what they would if I ran down some other artist."

Of course what people think is often unjustified. You can defy it if you prefer. But isn't it more sensible to take some other time to straighten your hat or tie your shoe?

Spies of the Racecourse

PEEPS AT THE WORK OF THE TURF "TOUT."

A few days ago I was walking through some fields in the neighbourhood of a well-known racing establishment when I was accosted (writes the T-B. man) by a number of angry-looking stable hands, who, after denouncing me as a "spy," ordered me back to the road, with threats of vengeance if I ventured that way again.

Having assured them that I had no interest in Turf affairs other than that of the average person, I learnt that spies and touts are the bane of a trainer's life, and that watch has constantly to be kept on their movements. These spies, I was told, are usually ex-stable boys and broken-down jockeys, whose experience in the stables enables them to judge at a glance the condition of the horses that are being secretly exercised.

"Touts" Who Make Fortunes. Reports of this kind are valuable to many whose livelihood depends on racing, and the spies make large sums by transmitting their information to newspapers, tipsters, book-makers, and others. Some of the most reliable of these informers earn from £700 to £1,000 a year.

But while Turk watching is nowadays regarded as being a more or less legitimate occupation, the watcher is often looked on with keen disfavour by trainers and other staffs. In one instance a tout, as the Turf spy is generally termed, was crippled for several months following an encounter with some stable hands.

As a result of the risks they run many of the watchers adopt disguises. Lord George Bentinck tells a story of a tout who, garbed as an old woman in search of mushrooms, reported the trials of a certain horse so successfully that the betting dropped almost at once from 50 to 1 to 3 to 1, its owner thereby losing nearly £9,000.

Another tout turned up on Epsom Downs disguised as an artist, with paint-box and easel complete, while another, on a more recent occasion, actually posed as an air pilot looking for petrol for his machine, which, he stated, had landed some miles distant! In each of these cases the spy "got away" with valuable information.

Occasionally it happens that the spy himself is outwitted. A famous owner of racehorses had a colt which he expected to win one of the biggest events in the racing calendar. In the same stable was an older horse whose appearance was as familiar to the watchers as his record on the Turf, for he had a prominent patch of white on his foreleg, which made it possible for him to be identified at a distance. It was with this particular horse that the colt was due to go for its trial.

Keeping Trials Secret.

The trial took place early one morning, and the watchers, concealed behind hedges, noted that the white-legged runner romped home lengths ahead of the other. As a result the betting went again at the colt, whose owner subsequently netted several thousands of pounds in winnings. He had painted out the older horse's familiar white patch and had transferred it, so to speak, to the colt's foreleg, by means of luminous paint, thus completely deceiving the watchers!

On the other hand, not long ago, a well-known turf patron received a telephone message from one of these spies stating that he had witnessed a supposedly secret trial of a certain favorite, and that he was prepared to hold his tongue for a consideration. Asked what was the price of his silence, the spy astutely replied that he would "stand in" with the owner, meaning that he would go shares in the winnings on an equal basis. The owner reluctantly agreed, and the horse won at the "nice price" of 100 to 8!

St. John's, Newfoundland, Saturday, April 12.

There is But One Way to Help the Fishermen.

The Government, we are told by the Advocate, are cognizant of the importance of the encouragement in a practical fashion of this season's prosecution of the fishing industry.

Now with regard to this practical assistance, we have heard certain rumors of the plans under consideration, chief among which are the bonus and the reduction of taxes on supplies.

We have expressed our opinions of the bonus before, but for the benefit of the fishermen who believe it is a remedy for all their troubles we repeat them.

Whatever is given as a bonus must first come out of the fishermen's pocket in the form of increased taxes on something that he and his family eat, wear or make use of in their daily work.

It is simply a case of robbing Peter to pay Paul, where the fishermen themselves will be both Peter and Paul.

It is an easy way for a Government to evade the real issue or to effect a compromise, which, with governing bodies generally, is a very present help in time of trouble.

In connection with the other suggestion, unquestionably the lightening of the taxes imposed on supplies will be of some benefit to the fisherman, but before jumping to the conclusion that it will put him in Easy Street, it is as well to put aside generalities and get down to concrete facts.

The following statement shows at a glance an average list of supplies required for a season, and the prices as they were in 1914, and as they are in 1924. We do not claim that they are absolutely accurate, but they are sufficiently correct for the purpose of comparison, and the figures are conservative:

Table comparing prices of various supplies (flour, salt, beef, butter, etc.) for 1914 and 1924.

The preponderating difference in the total cost only too clearly indicates how genuine is the fisherman's complaint, and how utterly impossible it is for him to prosecute the fishery to-day with any hope of making a profit out of the voyage.

Now supposing for argument's sake the Government gives him his supplies duty free, let us see to what extent he will benefit, and whether or not the reduced cost will materially affect him.

In considering the fisherman's position, it is only misleading to confine oneself entirely to the question of supplies. We have deliberately omitted mentioning his gear, which in calculating his expenses, may or may not be a considerable factor, and in any case would not materially alter the result.

We have referred to the question of public expenditure and taxation before, and we repeat what we have previously said—that the only possible way to ameliorate the living conditions in this country as they apply to those who are directly engaged in the fisheries and to those who are not, is by cutting the cost of running public affairs, particularly as they apply to the machinery of Government, and thereby making it possible to reduce taxation.

Canada is engaged in the same task, and the results were shown in yesterday's foreign message.

The Republic to the west of us, wealthy as she is, finds it imperative to do likewise.

Even in France, although the reverse policy is being enforced with regard to taxation, a system which has never been applied to the same extent as it has elsewhere, retrenchment is the order of the day.

What is the matter in Newfoundland? Are those in charge of our financial affairs incapable of tackling the problem? Or is it nothing to those who govern the country that we are carrying a burden too heavy for us to bear? Or is it that they prefer to live in a fool's paradise, trusting to their ability as occasion requires to negotiate another loan abroad?

Meth. Orphanage Ladies' Aid Formed

A Methodist Orphanage Aid Society was formed at a public meeting held in the basement of Gower Street Church yesterday afternoon. About a hundred ladies responded to the call of Miss MacKay, and Mrs. Harold Ayre and the new Society was launched amid the most auspicious surroundings.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. H. Ayre, and Mrs. Harrington was asked to preside. After a brief and effective address, she called on Miss MacKay, who told the story of the Orphanage since its inception in 1888 to the present time.

The first building used as an Orphanage was a house in Angel Place of Alexander Street, and was opened in July 1888, with two orphan inmates, and Miss Barter, now Mrs. J. Piggott, a member of the Cochrane Street congregation, as Matron.

In 1889 the Rev. George Bond reported on behalf of the executors of the Hon. C. R. Ayre, the bequest to the Methodist Conference of $14,000 for the founding of a Methodist Orphanage, together with two houses in the vicinity of the Waterford Bridge Road.

In 1901 the corner stone of the present building was laid by the late Mrs. C. R. Ayre and the following year it was occupied. The number of orphans at present in attendance is 43, ranging from 6 to 16 years of age.

During recent months many improvements had been made in equipment, though much remained to be done. The children were healthy and happy, and there was an increasing interest manifest.

At the close of her address, Miss MacKay read a letter from Mr. W. A. Baker, Manager of the Eastern Trust Company, which was listened to with interest and gratitude. It had, in effect, that Mrs. Gertrude L. Ayre, the executor, had placed in the hands of the sum of $6,500 as Trustee for the Committee of the Newfoundland Methodist Orphanage, and that according to instructions the interest there was to be paid, for the first ten years, to her to be expended on behalf of the Orphanage.

The meeting manifested a spirit of enthusiasm and sympathy which augurs well for the coming year, and an energetic committee elected as follows: President—Mrs. J. S. Ayre. Vice-Pres.—Mrs. J. S. Ayre. Secretary—Miss Iva Taylor.

The President, Mrs. Mews, told of her visit made by her during her recent absence from the city to a New York Orphan Asylum in New York, which she gathered much valuable information; and several ladies present contributed to the interest of the meeting by brief remarks.

A letter was read from Lady Allaire suggesting the formation of a Ladies' Aid Society. It was pointed out that already arrangements have been made for the formation of a Ladies' Aid Society, and that Miss Annie Hunter, Miss Ruby Roberts were instructing them. In the absence of Miss Roberts, her place was being kindly supplied by Miss Marjorie Thompson.

The Orphanage is inseparably connected with the generosity and active operation of the Ayre family. This beneficence adds another deep note of gratitude, one which may be repaid by the splendid and noble-souled service that the Methodist Orphanage Aid will render to the children in their home, on the West Hillside, and in their lives wherever they may be God's will that they be read, and in whatsoever sphere business they may be called to engage in the years that lie ahead.

"The Chinese Puzzle"

The theatrical event of the Easter Season will be the big play "The Chinese Puzzle," which has been in rehearsal for some time. We have been accustomed to see our talented amateurs in farce and musical comedy for the past few years, so that this ambitious attempt will be a new departure, but we feel sure that those to whom the difficult roles are entrusted will do full justice to them, and that "The Chinese Puzzle" will be a worthy successor to "Abie's Irish Rose," which proved such a phenomenal success. It ("The Chinese Puzzle") took London by storm when it was produced there, with its gripping and thrilling situations, so that we in St. John's will look forward to its production with the keenest interest.

B. I. S. Lecture

Mr. R. J. Power will lecture in the B.I.S. Club Rooms to the members and their friends on Monday night. Taking as his subject "Recollections" the lecturer will deal with old St. John's, relating many of his personal experiences in that quaint and humorous fashion for which he is so noted. All who attend are assured of an absorbing address on an interesting topic.

Wedding Bells

A very pretty but quiet wedding took place on March 25th at the Trinity Church, Boston, Mass., when Miss Mabel Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Johnston of Hunt's Lane, was united in Holy matrimony to Mr. James Squires, also of Newfoundland, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Charles Gibbs. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Charles Johnston, formerly of the Daily Star office, while the groom was attended by Mr. Henry Rowsell. The bride looked very charming in a white embroidered Georgian dress with veil and orange blossoms, carrying a bouquet of white roses and maidenhair fern. The bride was attended by Miss Florence Moore, who also looked charming in a blue satin crepe dress with gray picture hat, carrying a bouquet of sweet peas and fern. After the ceremony a reception was held at their future home, Pearl Street, Chelsea, Mass., where friends of both parties were in attendance and a most enjoyable time was spent by all.—COR.

Monday's Attraction at the Nickel

For the opening attraction at the Nickel next week the Nickel Theatre will offer the irresistible screen star Viola Dana in her latest film, "They Like 'Em Rough." Katherine Trowbridge is the despair of her aunt, Mrs. Curtis. When she finally decides to accept Weathersbee, she is infinitely relieved to have her off her hands, but does not dare show she is pleased as Katherine's perversity would immediately break it off. Katherine finds out on her wedding day that it is the result of her aunt's manoeuvres, so she runs away. She asks the first man she meets to marry her. The second accepts, and she finds afterwards that he is Dick Wells, a rejected suitor, who has grown a beard and looks wild. She is furious, but is forced to go with him and live in the lumber camp. Here he disciplines her, making her cook and keep house for the first time in her life. She hates him, but when he is wounded in a brawl her sympathies are aroused and she falls in love with him. Then the heard comes off and she discovers he is handsome.

"Hearts of the World" at the Star Monday

"Hearts of the World," the production that has attracted widespread attention both among government officials and playgoers in general, and which required more than eighteen months in the making, during which time the producer, D. W. Griffith, worked in France under the auspices of the British and French officials, will be the attraction at the Star Movie Monday. "Hearts of the World" has enjoyed an uninterrupted run of more than eight months in New York City, six months in Los Angeles, six months in Philadelphia, twenty-one weeks in Boston, and has recently broken all known records at Pittsburgh. The phenomenal success of this latest of the big Griffith spectacles is greater than that enjoyed by the same producer's "Birth of a Nation," and in many respects is declared to be far superior.

See Anton Lang for the last time as Christus, in the Passion Play, shown in the Presbyterian Hall on Monday and Tuesdays evenings, April 14th and 15th.

RED PIMPLES ON FACE 3 YEARS

Itched and Burned. Lost Sleep. Cuticura Heals.

"My face was affected with pimples for about three years. They were hard and red, and fastened and scaled over. The pimples itched and burned causing me to scratch and irritate them, and I lost many a night's sleep on account of the irritation. I had read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample which helped me so I purchased more and after using four cakes of Soap with the Ointment, I was healed." (Signed) Miss Martha Teusch, R. 2, Box 45, Vining, Minn.

Our Dumb Animals.

REPORT OF CHIEF AGENT FOR WEEK ENDING APRIL 11, 1924.

Received report of a dog lying on a doorstep on Water Street. Found the animal to be old and blind, took it and kept it for two days. I also advertised and could find no owner. I humanely put it to death. I also humanely put to death 3 unlicensed dogs. I sent in four horses for treatment. Some ordered in last week are better and at work again. I have had the gateways and arches in the different coves attended to. I received a report that Portugal Cove Road was in a very poor condition and in need of attention on account of extra heavy traffic. I called the authorities' attention to this and no doubt they will act. I attended to the landing of about sixty head of cattle, sixteen horses and five boxes of pigs, from S.S. Pesa. The horses were imported by Mr. Geo. Summers; they were all in good condition. The cattle were also, in my opinion, as good as have been here for some time. They were well looked after, carefully landed and taken away. I must say the agents here are very anxious that everything possible should be done for the comfort of the cattle, all something must be done to keep boys and small children off the premises while cattle are being landed. I would like the agents, if possible, to have someone on the gates to allow those only who are on business on the wharf while cattle are being landed. I also received a report from a constable at Manuels stating that some boys there had cut the tail off a cow. I am placing this matter in the hands of the police constable at Manuels. I have done my best to attend to all calls. I warned some teamsters re hard driving with heavy horses on Water Street. All draught horses should be allowed to walk. If teamsters do not take this warning, a test case will be made in court, which I do not want to do. I have delivered to Messrs. M. Peckham & Son the humane killer, imported this week, and this up-to-date firm are very pleased with it, owing to its humane and efficient work, and being a great time saver as well. All butchers that are using it say the animals are better bled and the meat is much better. I have received an order to-day for another humane killer, from the progressive firm of Foster and Shields, Butchers, King's Beach. Phone all complaints to 653.

BEING ENQUIRED INTO—An enquiry into the death of Lawrence Barron, which occurred at Holyrood on March 17th, was begun at the Magistrate's Court yesterday afternoon, when several witnesses were examined.

JONAS BARTER, Chief Agent.

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs

Makes a family supply of really dependable cough medicine. Easily prepared, and saves about $2.00.

If you have a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficulty breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with croup and you want quick help try this reliable home-made cough remedy. Any drug-gist can supply you with 3/4 ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes 16 ounces of really remarkable cough remedy. It tastes good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this talk hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and relieves the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astounding.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming coughs, throat and chest colds. There are many worthless imitations of this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Candid Chats Concerning Crisco

Crisco does not smoke until it reaches 455 degrees, a heat higher than is necessary for frying. You need not wait for Crisco to smoke. Consequently the house will not fill with smoke, nor will there be black, burnt specks in fried foods, as often there are when you use lard for frying. The same Crisco can be used for frying fish, onions, potatoes, or any other food. Crisco does not take up food flavors or odors. After frying each food merely strain out the food particles, and use the Crisco over again.

CHAMPIONSHIP BILLIARD TOURNAMENT—POWER LEADING BY 53 POINTS.

Before a record attendance of spectators the first leg of the championship final, between Messrs. R. C. Power and W. B. Skinner, was played last night, and when time was called the score board showed that Power had a slight lead of 53 points over his opponent on the night's play. The match as witnessed was of the real championship variety, both players showing up to advantage in all stages of the game. Power's break of fifty-six from the very outset of play was a fitting opening to the championship final, and from then on the spectators seated themselves comfortably away and reviewed an exhibition of billiards seldom witnessed in this country. When the game was called the score stood as follows:—

R. C. Power—502, 56, 22, 26, 23, 38, 18, 26, 46, 16, 27, 35, 31, 7, unfinished.
W. B. Skinner—449, 32, 11, 15, 19, 21, 28, 13, 13, 10, 14, 17, 22, 16, 20, 11, 15, 17, 22, 16.

Time of play—3 hrs. 9 min.
Scores at Intervals
Power—84, 105, 159, 170, 221, 267, 233, 302, 401, 444, 475, 495, 502.
Skinner—19, 65, 131, 170, 200, 216, 241, 303, 355, 402, 407, 445, 449.

The game will be resumed at 9 o'clock to-night, when Power will start play from the position in which he last left the balls.

Special accommodation is being made for late shop hands to-night. If those desirous of attending the final game are requested to make reservations at the G. W. V. A. Headquarters. A detailed account of the game will appear in Monday's issue.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE PRO. BOXERS.

NEW YORK, April 5—Before relinquishing his role as manager of Johnny Dundee, to become matchmaker of the Cromwell Athletic Club, James J. Johnson, agreed to match the featherweight and junior lightweight titleholder with Jose Lombardo, Panama featherweight champion, at Panama City, on May 11.

Johnston's withdrawal as Dundee's manager, was done to comply with the ruling of the State Athletic Commission, which prevents any fight manager, from also acting as a promoter or matchmaker. He also relinquished management of Harry Mason, British holder of the European lightweight title, who is now here, and Augie Ratner, New York middleweight.

NEW YORK, April 5—Young Stribling, Macon, Ga., schoolboy, lightweight, must confine his boxing in New York State to six round bouts, the State Athletic Commission decided yesterday in refusing a request of Pa Stribling, his manager, to match his son in a 12-round bout at an Olympic fund benefit show here. Stribling is but 19 years old and the State boxing law prohibits boxers under 21 from competing in exhibitions of more than six rounds.

U.S. INDOOR TENNIS.
NEW YORK, April 5—Vincent Richards, defending the National Indoor Tennis Championship, won his semi-final round match Friday and will play Francis Hunter in the final game which is to decide the title today.

Richards sent back Pery Eynaston 6-1, 6-2, in the semi-final. The match was a mere procession for Richards. Hunter had a hard time defeating Frank Anderson who forced him to a score to 9-7, 8-6, 6-2.

The Shanghai Traffic Regulations

THE DEFINITION OF "PARK."

We publish below a portion of the Traffic Regulations in force in Shanghai, China. They are of a comprehensive nature and in most particulars are applicable to the traffic in St. John's. The definition of the term "Park" was the cause of some discussion in the Police Court last summer. It will be noticed that it is clearly defined as well as other terms in general use but which are often loosely applied:

MUNICIPAL NOTIFICATIONS.

Traffic Regulations.

The following Regulations for the governance, control, direction and facilitation of traffic within the limits of the Foreign Settlement and on Municipal roads or alleyways outside such limits are authorized and are published for general information. Certain Terms and Regulations used in these Regulations shall be defined as under:—
Traffic—Vehicles and pedestrians making use of a highway.
Highway—Any space intended for vehicular or pedestrian traffic.

Synonymous Terms: Road, Street, Thoroughfare.
Roadway.—That portion of a highway intended for the use of vehicles.
Footpath.—That portion of a highway intended for the use of pedestrians.
Kerb (Curb).—The edge of a roadway, whether marked or unmarked.
Safety Zone.—Any portion of a roadway from which vehicles are excluded.
Street Island.—A raised portion of a roadway forming a safety zone. The term includes:—
(a) Traffic Island.—A refuge for the use of pedestrians or a turning or division point for vehicular traffic.
(b) Tramway Island or Loading Platform.—A refuge at a tramway stopping place for the use of passengers entering or leaving trams.
Vehicles.—Any conveyance (but not including a horse). Provided (1) that skates, children's perambulators and invalids' chairs shall be considered as vehicles only when on a roadway but as pedestrians while on a footpath; (2) that in these Regulations the term "vehicle," expressed or implied, shall apply to trams only in so far as their being confined to rails will allow.

KEEPING FAITH

ST. JOHN'S OFFICE—Bank of Montreal Building.

MANAGER — J. A. Paddon.

SECRETARY — E. D. Rait.

Branches in the principal cities in Canada.

Horse.—Any animal used as a conveyance or for draught purposes.

Driver.—Any person who for the time being is in charge of a vehicle on a highway.

Pedestrian.—Any person on foot on a highway. Provided that skaters, children's perambulators and invalids' chairs shall be considered as pedestrians when on a footpath but as vehicles when on a roadway.

Passenger.—Any occupant of a vehicle other than the driver or a servant of the owner of the vehicle actually in the performance of his duty.

Tramcar.—Any vehicle which is confined to rails on a roadway.

Railless Car.—Any vehicle, other than a tramcar, which is propelled by electricity and is wholly or partly dependent on an overhead cable for its power supply.

Motor Vehicle.—Any vehicle which is propelled by an internal combustion engine or by electricity; provided that tramcars and railless cars are not considered as motor vehicles.

To Rank.—To stand a vehicle parallel with the kerb.

To Park.—To stand a vehicle at an angle with the kerb.

Vehicle Stand.—A portion of a roadway or other space specially set apart for the ranking or parking of vehicles.

Every person using a highway, whether as a driver, pedestrian or passenger, shall thereby incur an obligation to facilitate the movement of traffic and promote public safety.

No person shall walk on a highway in a dangerous, reckless, negligent or otherwise improper manner.

No person shall walk on a highway in such a manner as to cause unnecessary obstruction to other traffic.

No person shall drive a vehicle on a highway in a dangerous, reckless, negligent or otherwise improper manner.

No person shall board upon or enter or leave or descend from a vehicle on a highway while such vehicle is in motion or in such a manner as to cause unnecessary obstruction to other traffic, or (except in the case of a tramcar) unless such vehicle is drawn in close to the kerb.

No person shall load or unload cargo or goods on a highway in such a manner as to cause unnecessary obstruction to traffic.

No person shall carry or place a load or any other article on a highway in such a manner as to cause unnecessary obstruction to traffic.

Every driver or pedestrian on a highway shall promptly obey the instructions or signals of police on duty.

No driver shall exceed a safe, reasonable and considerate speed, having due regard to the rights of other users of the highway, to existing traffic conditions, to the state of the road surface and to the presence of dangerous points, whether indicated or otherwise.

A driver shall keep to the left hand side of the roadway—the slower his speed the nearer the kerb.

A driver when turning a corner to the left shall keep as near the left hand kerb as possible.

A driver when turning a corner to the right shall make a wide sweep and shall enter the new roadway (if possible) to the left of its centre line.

A driver when passing a street island situated in the centre of a highway, or to the right of its centre line facing the direction of travel, shall do so to the left.

A driver when passing another vehicle going in the opposite direction shall do so to the left.

A driver when passing another vehicle going in the same direction (except a tramcar) shall do so to the right.

A driver when passing a tramcar whether moving or stationary going in the same direction shall, if practicable, do so to the left.

A driver when passing a tramcar going in the same direction, which has stopped to take up or set down passengers, shall do so at a slow speed and in a considerate manner; or, if necessary, he shall stop until the roadway is clear.

No driver shall attempt to pass another vehicle going in the same direction unless a clear view ahead can be obtained.

A driver shall slow down when passing over a bridge or street crossing or when turning a corner or rounding a bend when a clear view ahead cannot be obtained.

A driver of a motor vehicle approaching a horse on a highway shall slow down or stop if necessary, or if requested to do so.

A driver shall, in the event of an accident on a highway in which his vehicle is in any way concerned, immediately stop his vehicle in order to ascertain the extent of any damage or injury and to render any necessary assistance. He shall remain until notified by the police that his presence is no longer required; or, in the event of no police officer being available, he shall report the occurrence to a police station without undue loss of time.

No driver shall cause a vehicle continuously to overlap or travel abreast of another vehicle on a highway when, by so doing an obstruction to other traffic is caused.

No driver shall cause a vehicle to remain at the entrance to any premises in such a manner as to obstruct access thereto, longer than is necessary for the expeditious taking up or setting down of passengers, or the loading or unloading of freight or goods.

No driver shall back his vehicle or turn it round in a roadway if by so doing he obstructs or endangers other traffic.

A driver when stopping his vehicle in a roadway for any other reason (except in obedience to police signals) shall do so as close to the kerb as possible.

No driver shall cause a vehicle to stop to take up or set down passengers, or otherwise to remain stationary (except in obedience to police signals), between a street island and the certain points specified.

"I am stopping"—Extend the right arm vertically upward; or horizontally to the right and move it up and down.

"I am turning to the right"—Extend the right arm horizontally to the right.

"I am turning to the left"—Extend the right arm horizontally to the left across the body.

"I am going straight on"—Extend the arm horizontally forward.

"Come on," or "Go past"—Extend the right arm horizontally to the right and wave the hand in a forward direction.

In the case of a motor vehicle having a left hand drive, the corresponding signals must be made with the left arm.

No person shall stand or sit on or otherwise occupy the footboard of a vehicle in motion on a highway.

No person who is not a passenger or driver in a vehicle shall hold on to any part of the said vehicle whilst in motion on a highway.

No person shall drive a vehicle on a highway when under the influence of liquor, or when for any reason he is physically or otherwise incompetent to do so.

No vehicle shall be driven on a highway when such vehicle is so constructed, equipped, loaded or unloaded as to be dangerous, to obstruct traffic, to scatter its contents, to unduly damage the road surface, to create undue noise in transit or to prevent the driver from having a sufficient view for safety; or when by reason of inefficient brakes, or other mechanical defect it is not under complete and immediate control.

Any vehicle carrying a load which extends more than two feet beyond its over-all length, including the body or other structure, shall, when taking a bend in a road, turning a corner, crossing a road or turning round, be driven at such speed as will not endanger or cause any undue inconvenience or obstruction to other traffic.

Any vehicle so loaded shall carry, between sunset and sunrise, a red flag at least one foot by one foot in size at the extreme rear end of the load; to be replaced between sunset and sunrise by a lighted lamp showing a red light clearly visible within a reasonable distance from behind and from either side.

The number of passengers authorized to be carried by any tramcar, railless car, trailer or omnibus or in any separate compartment thereof shall be determined by the Commissioner of Police and shall be painted in a legible manner in a conspicuous place on such vehicle. No such vehicle shall carry a greater number of passengers than the number authorized.

Every driver or pedestrian on a highway shall promptly obey the instructions or signals of police on duty.

No driver shall exceed a safe, reasonable and considerate speed, having due regard to the rights of other users of the highway, to existing traffic conditions, to the state of the road surface and to the presence of dangerous points, whether indicated or otherwise.

A driver shall keep to the left hand side of the roadway—the slower his speed the nearer the kerb.

A driver when turning a corner to the left shall keep as near the left hand kerb as possible.

A driver when turning a corner to the right shall make a wide sweep and shall enter the new roadway (if possible) to the left of its centre line.

A driver when passing another vehicle going in the opposite direction shall do so to the left.

A driver when passing another vehicle going in the same direction (except a tramcar) shall do so to the right.

A driver when passing a tramcar whether moving or stationary going in the same direction shall, if practicable, do so to the left.

A driver when passing a tramcar going in the same direction, which has stopped to take up or set down passengers, shall do so at a slow speed and in a considerate manner; or, if necessary, he shall stop until the roadway is clear.

No driver shall attempt to pass another vehicle going in the same direction unless a clear view ahead can be obtained.

A driver shall slow down when passing over a bridge or street crossing or when turning a corner or rounding a bend when a clear view ahead cannot be obtained.

A driver of a motor vehicle approaching a horse on a highway shall slow down or stop if necessary, or if requested to do so.

A driver shall, in the event of an accident on a highway in which his vehicle is in any way concerned, immediately stop his vehicle in order to ascertain the extent of any damage or injury and to render any necessary assistance. He shall remain until notified by the police that his presence is no longer required; or, in the event of no police officer being available, he shall report the occurrence to a police station without undue loss of time.

No driver shall cause a vehicle continuously to overlap or travel abreast of another vehicle on a highway when, by so doing an obstruction to other traffic is caused.

No driver shall cause a vehicle to remain at the entrance to any premises in such a manner as to obstruct access thereto, longer than is necessary for the expeditious taking up or setting down of passengers, or the loading or unloading of freight or goods.

No driver shall back his vehicle or turn it round in a roadway if by so doing he obstructs or endangers other traffic.

A driver when stopping his vehicle in a roadway for any other reason (except in obedience to police signals) shall do so as close to the kerb as possible.

No driver shall cause a vehicle to stop to take up or set down passengers, or otherwise to remain stationary (except in obedience to police signals), between a street island and the certain points specified.

"I am stopping"—Extend the right arm vertically upward; or horizontally to the right and move it up and down.

"I am turning to the right"—Extend the right arm horizontally to the right.

"I am turning to the left"—Extend the right arm horizontally to the left across the body.

"I am going straight on"—Extend the arm horizontally forward.

"Come on," or "Go past"—Extend the right arm horizontally to the right and wave the hand in a forward direction.

No vehicle, except skaters, children's perambulators and invalids' chairs, shall make use of a footpath, or shall enter or cross a safety zone.

A vehicle driven on or occupying any portion of a highway between the hours of sunset and sunrise shall carry one or more lighted lamps as prescribed in the licence conditions. Provided that no light carried shall cause serious inconvenience or danger to any other user of the highway; that in the case of motor vehicles which carry head lamps only in front, a suitable means be provided for reducing the power of the light when meeting other motor or horse drawn vehicles, or when using any highway, the full power of head lights be suitably reduced; and that all lamps carried be subject to approval by the Council. The use of green glass head or side lamps on vehicles using the public streets is prohibited except in the case of vehicles in use by the Fire Brigade.

A motor vehicle shall carry an instrument capable of giving audible and sufficient warning of its approach and such instrument shall be subject to the Council's approval. The use of gongs, sirens, whistles or bells on motor vehicles other than those belonging to the Fire Brigade is prohibited.

A vehicle in the service of the fire brigade, when proceeding to or from a fire (i.e., with the caution bell continuously rung) shall always have the right of way. On its approach all other traffic shall immediately draw into the sides of the roadway where it shall stop, clear the crossings and street islands, until the fire brigade vehicle has passed.

A vehicle in the service of a municipal department or a repair vehicle of a public service company, or an ambulance shall, in an emergency, have the right of way over all other traffic.

No vehicles, other than an electrically operated tractor, shall tow more than one other vehicle; and no tow connection shall exceed a clear length of sixteen feet.

No person shall walk, or drive, or cause a vehicle to remain on a highway or section of a highway in contravention of an order made by the Commissioner of Police restricting or prohibiting the use of such highway or section of a highway by pedestrians or vehicles.

For the better regulation of traffic the Commissioner of Police is authorized, in his discretion and as circumstances may require, to restrict or prohibit the passage of pedestrians or vehicles upon any specified highway or section of a highway, either generally, or in a stated direction, or within certain hours; and any such restriction or prohibition shall have the effect of a Traffic Regulation authorized by the Council.

No person shall cause a vehicle to be ranked or parked at any place on a highway after the receipt of notice from a police officer that such ranking or parking is prohibited.

No vehicle when ranked at the side of a roadway shall have its inner wheel or wheels more than 4 inches from the kerb.

The excessive discharge of smoke from the exhaust of a motor vehicle on a highway is prohibited.

The use of an open exhaust or "cut-out" on a motor vehicle on a highway is prohibited.

No person shall drive a horse-drawn wagon or similar heavy vehicle on a highway at a faster pace than a common walk.

No horse, whether attached to a vehicle or not, shall be left on a highway unattended or in such a condition that it is not under complete and immediate control.

A led horse on a highway shall be led by the near rein against the traffic on the right hand side of the roadway facing the direction of travel.

A person leading a horse on a highway between the hours of sunset and sunrise shall carry a lighted lamp.

A person riding a horse on a highway shall conform generally to traffic regulations regarding vehicles and their drivers.

No horse shall be harnessed or unharnessed on a highway in such a manner as to cause unnecessary obstruction to traffic.

By order,
E. S. B. ROWE,
Acting Secretary.

"I Now Feel Fine"

Mrs. P. G. Murdoch, Box 433, Portage la Prairie, Man., writes: "I was troubled for years with biliousness, constipation, kidney and liver troubles. I tried many different kinds of medicine, but nothing did me much good until I tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I now feel fine, but am never without these pills in the house. Dr. Chase's Ointment has relieved my husband of piles, from which he used to suffer badly."

"What Is The Meaning Of Neuralgic Pains?"

PERSISTENT attacks of Neuralgic or Sciatic pains point to an impoverished nervous system and a weak, watery condition of the blood.

Darting, stabbing pains with intervals of pain or aching are common to neuralgia, sciatica and lumbago.

The pain follows the nerve trunks or spreads to other nerves and there are tender spots.

In the head—neuralgia. In the back—lumbago. In the hip—sciatica.

Temporary relief is not sufficient for the attacks become frequent and more severe as age advances and it is more and more difficult to obtain relief.

Sleep, relaxation, nutrition are necessary to restore the nervous force exhausted by the activities and worries of life.

And in this connection Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the most satisfactory treatment available as a means of enriching the blood, strengthening the nerves and building up the system, so that it is able to throw off ailments of this nature.

Why suffer these repeated attacks of pain and torture when by a few weeks' patient treatment with this well-known and proven restorative you can bring your system up to a condition that throws off such ailments.

With vitality running low you are an easy prey to colds and all sorts of dangerous diseases.

Neuralgic and sciatic pains are a warning to you to fortify the system by the use of such reconstructive and invigorating treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Miss Margaret Conolly, Brantford, Ontario, writes:—"For three or four years my health had not been very good, and especially in the Spring I used to become quite run down. For some months before I started using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I had a tired feeling continually, with pains up the back of my neck and head, and at times felt I would have to give up work. I could not think clearly and often had neuralgia, followed by dizzy spells. I was nearly 'all in' when I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, but after I had completed a treatment of six boxes, I felt better than I had ever felt before."

Dr. Chase's Medicines are for sale in Newfoundland by all druggists and dealers in medicines.

If your local merchant cannot supply you write direct to Mr. Gerald S. Doyle, Water St., St. John's, as he is sole agent for the Dr. Chase Medicine Co., in Newfoundland.

Harbor Grace Notes

Rev. E. M. Bishop, Rector of St. Matthew's Church, Bay Roberts, gave a Lecture in St. Paul's Hall on Tuesday night. It was illustrated with a beautiful series of pictures on the Oberammergau Passion Play. The large number who attended must have been unlifted as they listened to the Rev. Lecturer, and carefully studied the different slides. Many of the pictures in themselves silently speaking to the listeners, and, coming at this season are all the more impressive. At intervals during the lecture, A. L. Collis very effectively rendered "The Holy City" and "Galilee" while Miss M. Chate acted as accompanist. Mr. A. J. Goodland, acted as Chairman. He made a brief speech and referred to Rev. Mr. Higgin, whose non-attendance was caused through being confined indoors. Rev. Mr. Cracknell then addressed the gathering, and very ably proposed a vote of thanks to Rev. Mr. Bishop, including also A. L. Collis and Miss Chate. This was seconded by T. G. Ford, H.M.C. who made a short address and seemed to voice the sentiments of all present. It was put to the meeting by the Chairman, Mr. Goodland, and the audience showed their accord by standing; to which the Rev. gentleman replied, thanking one and all for the appreciation of his efforts. The Benediction was then pronounced by Rev. Mr. Bishop, and the gathering dispersed, feeling inspired to more devotional service, as the "Story of the Cross" came to us again this Holy season. "It was good to be there."

His Lordship Bishop Marsh left here on Monday of last week to connect with S.S. Digby on an episcopal visit to Rome. He was accompanied by Rev. Msgr. McCarthy as Chaplain. Rev. Msgr. Donnelly is acting as Administrator during his Lordship's absence.

S.S. Mary, Capt. Bourne, arrived in port from Bell Island on Friday last, and left for St. John's after a short stay.

Mr. J. Colbourne, of Bell Island, came to town by S.S. Mary on a brief business visit on Friday last.

Capt. A. Anonson, who has been on a business visit to Christians, Norway, was a passenger by the last trip of the "Sivla" and arrived here by Saturday afternoon's train.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Watts and child, who spent the winter in St. John's, returned to town again during last week.

The schooner "Raleigh," owned by Hon. P. Templeman, which has been in Dock here all the winter, has had some repairs effected during the last few days and was launched this afternoon.

Mr. James Walsh passed away at his home, Garland's Street, this evening. Deceased was a comparatively young man, and had been ill only since Monday of this week. He is survived by a wife and four young children, who have the sympathy of the community in their sudden bereavement. Interment will be made in the R. C. Cemetery.

S.S. "Cachet" owned by the Nfld. Whaling Co., which ship has been on Dock during the winter months, has had some painting attended to within the last few days and came off Dock this afternoon. She sails for St. John's on Friday, and is en route to take up the summer's work. We trust that the ship will meet with much prosperity this year.—COR.

A POOR KNIFE is about the peskiest thing that a man lets himself put up with.

Yet it is surprising how many men are careless about pocket knives—so apt to go along with their old ones, unless reminded of it.

Almost every day some of our customers are reminded by the sight of our display of pocket knives, or perhaps by feeling their old ones in their pockets, that they need a new knife.

More often than not, too, they are surprised to find our assortment so complete—so many styles and sizes—bone handles, pearl handles, metal handles, wood handles. And ranging from two-bladed pen knives to four and six-bladed knives, and some with screw-driver, cork puller and small scissor fittings. Mighty handy for a man to have.

TRINITY

WILLIAM ENNIS OF DUBLIN 1796.

In the history of early emigration from the Old Country to Trinity, Dublin in Ireland corresponds with Cheshire in England; inasmuch as of the many boys and men who came from each of, at least a dozen other counties of England, only one came from Cheshire; and all those who came from (Limerick, and Waterford, and Cork and Wexford, and Wicklow and Ulster and Monaghan in) Ireland, only one is registered as having come from Cheshire, the Dublin boy was nevertheless one who gave years to the pioneer work of the country of his adoption, and helped to lay the foundations of individual and family life in Trinity Bight, and thus he is deserving of a niche in our local Temple of Fame, and a page in our history of appreciations.

William Ennis (or Ennes) was born in Lucan, a few miles from Dublin, about the year 1790. After he had been a few years at school, his father decided to move to Dublin; and together with his wife and three children, he settled down on the waterfront, to congenial work that had been secured for him by an old friend, who in the days of prosperity had not forgotten him. It was a new life to the family, and they were very happy in their healthful surroundings. The tang of the salt water of the Irish Sea and Dublin Bay had a large share in bringing back to Mrs. Ennis, the health that had begun to fail her in Lucan; nor was it without a definite effect upon her boy William. It either created, or awakened, within him such a love for the sea, that nothing less than association with it would satisfy him. Though his father and mother could not understand such love for the sea, so mildly represented by Dublin Bay, yet they made no attempt to oppose it; and when he told them that he had agreed to go to Newfoundland with Captain Cassin, on the brig Lester, they gave their consent, and did all that was within their power to add to his bodily comfort during the voyage—on one condition—the promise that he would write to them, at least once a year.

Within a few weeks of his 16th birthday William Ennis landed in Trinity, Newfoundland; and such were the many good impressions made upon him during the voyage and after his landing at Trinity, that with the Captain's permission, he offered his services to Mr. Garland, to whom the vessel had been consigned, to be trained as a fisherman in Trinity Bight. Mr. Garland was glad to have such a healthy, intelligent-looking boy at his disposal, and after giving him a week to look around Trinity, and to enjoy the hospitality of his countrymen from Limerick and Waterford, he apprenticed him to Denis Hone, Dennis Hone was born in Barnet Tree in the County of Waterford. He had come to Trinity some thirty years before, and at this time he was the Agent for the Garlands at their branch business at Salmon Cove, West, (now Champneys) near Trinity. (A story is still told of him—that in one of his duck shooting expeditions, he forgot to remove the ramrod from the gun, and when he fired at a company of ducks, he "skivered" three).

When William Ennis went to live with him, he had already two apprentices of William's age, in his care; viz: Gerald Keefe from Limerick, and John Dolman from Dorset. The boys quickly became the best of friends, and with the kind care of Mr. and Mrs. Hone for their spiritual and temporal life; and their daily work made as pleasant as it could be made, consistent with their practical training, they were as happy and contented as boys could be; and every year as it closed, found them more and more fully developed in every way that had to do with virile manhood.

The winter work of providing wood for the year's fuel, and longers and boughs for flakes, and timber for boat building, etc., from the forest primeval a few miles distant from home, was fraught at first with several exhibitions of the "greenhorn" actions, resulting in some amusing incidents. These, however, soon passed away, and the boys rapidly developed into practical woodmen. As they sat around the roaring fire in the big kitchen the winter evenings, they told the family good natured stories about one another's doings during the day; and then, after family devotions, they retired to rest, and slept the sleep of tired and healthy bodies. The spring, summer, and fall work, followed each other in a more or less stereotyped way; and the netting of seals, and the duck shooting in the spring, the catching and curing of codfish during the summer; and the shipping of it all in the fall; were carried on in such a well arranged sequence, that pleasure and profit were the results thereof. Their frequent visits to Trinity in the big seine skiff for supplies, and at fish shipping times, were days of special enjoyment and real sport. At such times they met with old friends; they brought gingerbread horses for the children; little trinkets for the girls; a kerchief or a pair of gloves for the mistress, and such things as they needed for themselves.

Like as in all other conditions of life in which boys are bound to masters by apprenticeship, there have always been some hard and exacting masters, whose treatment of the boys entrusted to their care, made the boys' lives extremely hard; yet this was the exception in the training of youngsters in Newfoundland, and on the whole the boys were well treated; brought up largely as members of the family, and (as in the case of William Ennis) made members of the family themselves at the expiration of their apprenticeship.

There were born to Dennis and Elizabeth Hone two sons, and two daughters. The sons had gone out and made homes for themselves before their father's apprentices were out of their time. The name Hone is still preserved in Salmon Cove; (Champneys) and a point of land is known there to-day as Hone's Point. The daughter, Elizabeth, became the wife of a neighbour's apprentice, John Sivey; whilst the following entry in the Old Church Register accounts for their other daughter, Mary: "April 19th, 1801—Married, William Ennis of the City of Dublin, and Mary, daughter of Dennis and Elizabeth Hone of Salmon Cove, in this district."

Then they moved to Trinity to live, and to them were born two children: John and Judith, whose baptisms are recorded in 1802 and 1804, respectively. About this date (1804) the name Ennis disappears from the Registers of the Church; and, I presume, that after having thus contributed to the general good of the place, the family left here either for some other place in Newfoundland, or they returned to Ireland.

WILLIAM ALEXANDER, 1813.

I often think of the man from Catalonia who told a stranger some thirty years ago, that the only foreigner in Bonavista was a Scotchman. No doubt he looked upon the Scotchman as a foreigner, because amongst the thousands of people in that locality, the Scotchman referred to was the only representative of his people. Probably that man would have come to the same conclusion if he had carefully examined the old Church Registers at Trinity; and to find that amongst the hundreds of entries, from the first entry in the Marriage Register (1757) to the last one of 1850 there is only one Scotchman mentioned, and he was William Alexander—and hence, he was the only "foreigner" in Bonavista during those years.

The entry in which William Alexander's name occurs for the first time reads as follows:—"July 28th, 1813: Married, William Alexander, of the parish of Campbell Town, Argyleshire, North Britain, and Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas and Christian Newell of Trinity." Mr. and Mrs. Alexander wrote their names, respectively, in connection with the entry; and this is a rare thing to find in marriage entries of those years, and indicates that the persons were above the ordinary in education. The marriage was witnessed by George Skelton, J.P.; and James Pointer Garland, J.P.

Mr. Alexander was born in "North Britain" (Scotland) in the year 1784. He came to Newfoundland about the year 1800; but just how he came or where he landed, I am not quite sure; though from what I have heard from the old people they say he came out as a young man in one of Slade's vessels to Greenspond; and for several years he held a responsible position in connection with Slade's business there. In this position he got a practical idea of Newfoundland business; and then he decided to go into the business for himself in Bonavista, about the year 1810. He employed one Mr. Strathie to build him a dwelling house; and it looks as though Mr. Strathie brought much of his material with him, as the house is still standing and in good repair—and we do not wonder at that, for its frame is largely of English oak.

Then he came to Trinity for a wife in 1812. No family was more highly respected at that time than that of Thomas and Christian Newell; and from that family Mr. Alexander selected the youngest daughter, Elizabeth; and they were married as recorded in the entry that I have already quoted. Then they went to Greenspond to live, and during the next thirteen years William Alexander was a successful business man in the place. During those years two daughters and two sons were born to them. A sketch of Mr. Alexander (now the subject of Rev. Canon Bayly's sermon) was about forty years of age, and died suddenly in England, June, 1888. Mrs. Alexander was seriously ill. One day she grew suddenly worse, and as Mr. Alexander hurried up the stairs to her bed, his haste and anxiety were too much for a weak heart, and he fell down the stairs; aged 44 years.

Mr. Robert Alexander (one of William Alexander's sons) was connected with the business of Messrs. W. Stewart in St. John's for some years; and died suddenly in England, as he was about to leave for Newfoundland. He was always one of the many benefactors in the public good, was a liberal contributor to the building of the Old Home in St. John's. Mrs. Alexander, Graham, of Trinity, in 1823, was the mother of Mrs. William Alexander, in the baptism of a son born to her and Hannah Graham, the name used as a Christian name—Alexander Graham.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.—T.—Your question re the etc. of old St. Paul's Church, was a difficult one for me to answer, were it not that I am in possession of a plan of it. It was 35 feet long, including the chancel) 35 feet wide, and 21 feet to the wall-plate, were 65 pews on the floor space, 32 pews in the galleries. The church was added in Captain Cookesley's and it and the organ were given by the Cookesleys and Mr. A. G. ray. Later the organ was purchased in St. Paul's, Trinity, and placed in the side chapel of the Church, St. John's.

F. C.—There were two persons in Trinity by the name of James Ennis. Both came from the same county in England. I don't know if they were related to each other or not. My Married, James Collins of the County of Knowle, County Dorset, England, and Mary Jenkins of Trinity, were the parents of Richard Ash, Susan Ash, John Hall.

1830—Married, James Collier, Poole, County Dorset, England, Joanna Sabbin of Trinity. The M. E. Bullock, James Lockyer.

Mr. Ralph Pittman, Esq., left last week for work at Grand Falls, and Mr. Hugh Palmer, Esq., left for Ontario, Canada. Each is a mechanic, and will do creditable work in the department he represents. He can ill afford to lose them, but we wish them good success.

Mr. L. Goldworthy and family occupy the house belonging to Ethel Lockyer.

A meeting of the District Lodge, S.U.F., was held in the Lodge Room, Trinity, on Tuesday evening last. This District includes territory from Amherst Cove, Vista Bay, to Ireland's Eye, Bay, inclusive; and every member represented. We were glad to see the representatives, and to present them with the freedom of the Lodge. They registered at Garland Hotel.

To-morrow (April 13th) church year is a day of many reminders, and is replete with interesting lessons coming to us from different view points.—It is Sunday is the last Sunday in Lent; it is Sunday next before Easter; it is Sunday; it is the first day of the week. That week is filled with and sweet memories in the life of the Son of God—for us for our salvation. It is also observed by the Bishop of Newfoundland "self-denial" week, the financial results of which will be offered at the services in church on that day.

"Thou, Lord, hast borne for me More than my tongue can tell Of bitterest agony To rescue me from hell; Thou sufferedst all for me, What have I borne for Thee?"

Mr. Ryan is having the big house in Trinity overhauled, and the tenants. It will be good for eyes to see evidences of life in the historic building, after so many years of vacancy; and with our interest in the building, we shall call at the earliest opportunity.

London Letter

PANTON HOUSE for the Canadian Press.)

LONDON, March 31.—Hitherto the Zoological Society, though it has not shown its patrons any fish seen in its gardens, indeed, when dead specimens provided for the sea-lions and seals, years ago, a range of miniature gardens, known as the "Mappin pieces," were built so that animals should be shown in more natural surroundings, ditch and undercut, taking the place of iron work always intended to confine for the most part the rich man, and the work delayed by the war has now been completed. Marine, fresh-water, and tropical fish will be seen, housed in a series of 30 Old Swan tanks, which are arranged on either side of a 450ft. pier. The marine tanks, which hold gallons of sea-water which obtained from the Bay of Biscay, are lighted from the top, the light being sent down through the Zoological Gardens, and the water is pumped through a 650ft. pipe into an underground reservoir. This water will be filtered, stored, circulated and filtered, with fresh water added to it for evaporation, it will not be used for years.

Average person will be most interested in the collection of eighty kinds of tropical fish, for the most elaborate arrangement have been made to keep their temperature at the temperature that they require. Reading of creatures with romantic names as "mother-of-pearl fish" (Brazil), "opal fish" (India), and "paradise fish" (China), the imaginative desire to behold wonders.

AFRICAN DELICACIES.

Recently a firm of London caterers has expert into the wilds of North Africa to enquire into the secrets of the cookery. At a luncheon the day at one of their restaurants, the traveller's discoveries reproduced. Frankly, we do not see an early revolution in British cookery. Though the British palate is not of such combinations as appear with goose, and red currant with hare or roast mutton, it is likely to take to confectionery with chicken. Some of the dishes from North Africa presented for approval were fowls stuffed with dates and covered with a sauce of honey and apricots, "stuffed" apples and scented with attar of rose and boiled leg of mutton with honey and apricots.

WOMEN'S NURSING AT EXHIBITION.

Women who arrive at the British Exhibition encumbered with children too small to walk the long without fatigue, will find to find an elaborately equipped day nursery where the children can be left in expert care. A question whether the adults themselves will most appreciate the nursery: the first will be able to see night-seeing in comfort, and second will be rested, fed and instead of tramping, tired and round the wonders that they come to see for the first time. The British Nurses Society inspired the idea, and the Central Council for Infant Child Welfare is to provide accommodation for children of all ages seven or eight with organized and equipped nurseries. Only 6 pence will be charged for a four-hour stay for one child. Nurseries outside of this kind are already at some of our summer seaside resorts and very popular they are the nursemaidless mother.

ROYAL PARK GARDENING COURSE.

The Canadian visitor knows, London in parks and public gardens has in all some 19,000 acres of open spaces within her 18-mile radius. Yet it is a little surprising that from all over Great Britain even from the Continent, come to the heart of London to see the professional gardeners show the Royal Botanic Gardens at Kew Park have nearly 30 girls a three years' course in gardening. They are taught every practical operation, from digging to the selection of plants, and how to make a kitchen garden, a greenhouse, a fruit farm, besides botany, horticulture, and so on. At present gardens which take up up 18 of Regent's Park's 473 are care-taking back to health the tropical plants which will make a West garden at Wembley. When the vegetation is wanted in England is usually raised from seed, but, in order to save time, trees and shrubs had to be imported from the West Indies, especially the deck passengers are not quite recovered yet the voyage.

LANCASTER HOUSE.

National Gallery in Trafalgar will keep its 100th birthday on April 2 with a banquet at Lancaster House, the home of the London. This mansion, built in 1825, is regarded throughout the West-End as the most magnificent house in London. It was then known as Stafford House, and was the town residence of the Duke of Sutherland, Queen Victoria, visiting the Duchess, paid to her hostess a pretty compliment: "I have come from my house to your place." Its name was changed to Lancaster House in 1912, when Sir William Lever (now Lord Leverhulme), bought and presented it to the nation. Though it is now a museum, the visitor can easily imagine its former glories, for the Grand decorations remain. The collection staircase and many of the interior decorations remain. The collection which it houses, illustrating the history and the social and domestic life of London, from the Roman period to the present day, is of extraordinary interest.

HOLBORN INSTALLS STREET
 Londoners as well as visitors sometimes grumble because of the absence, in our main streets, of anything corresponding to the signpost of the country road. One of our borough councils, Holborn, has considered the In politics over here the next war the middle of a long street not knowing whither it leads. As its street nameplates need renewing, it will substitute others on these lines:—
GRAY'S INN ROAD
 (— To Holborn. To King's Cross —)
 So excellent an example, one hopes, will be generally followed; and our patient and courteous policemen will have less to do. At present they are everybody's animated guide-posts.

Oil and Poison Gas

In politics over here the next war usually starts before the last war has ended, and between elections there is thus no danger of an intermillennium. Every day the use of oil as poison gas is perfected, and a single drop of this deadly substance on the palm of a candidate, or even on his cheque-book, is enough to kill. From the Republican trenches, Paul Deany, and Daugherty are reported among the gassed, but Coolidge still faces the push with his usual impenetrable mask. In the Democrats dug-out, MacAdoo is endeavouring desperately to convince the R.A.M.C. that he is well enough to go over the top, while Mitchell Palmer denies that his lungs are touched. Intelligence is, I must confess, pressed to an extreme. There is nothing secret that is not made known, and telegrams, bank accounts, phone calls are all collected as evidence. Some messages are expressed in a kind of botanical cipher in which apples, cherries, and other fruits serve as symbols. It is considered to be significant that the code, though otherwise complete, did not include bananas.

It becomes clear that the Republican Party is rapidly losing ground. Everyone now knows that what the League of Nations lacked was oil, which, unlike deals, does not gush at Geneva. If the Democrats can find a dark horse without a carburettor, they may still defeat the Republican automobile with its insistence on gasoline. The difficulty is, of course, that even Democrats, if lawyers, must have clients, and these clients are most appreciative when they are engaged in big business. The reason of this is that big business, in order to be secure, must be "fixed," and the fix is left to attorneys, who know how to break their own laws without anybody else being found out. It is therefore, a hard time for the honesty which is supposed to be the best politics.

Fifty years ago a disclosure of undue generosity in the region of the higher statesmanship would have aroused a genuine admiration for him who gives and him who takes. But to-day the benefactor and the beneficiary thus revealed, are instantaneously dead to the world. This is the encouraging aspect of the present rumpus. Graft is at last a disqualification where previously it was an accomplishment.

Of course, in England, young Roosevelt would have been a Duke; MacAdoo would have been a Marquis by special remainder; and Leonard Wood would have been at least a Viscount. It is however easier to outshine an aristocracy than to create one, and New York has yet to have an Almayor de Gotham. It follows that the second generation in United States enjoys no privilege of heredity, and it is regrettable that, in the three cases named, no one can now discover the certainty of a President. The young Roosevelts, we are informed by the innocence of their experience; and of the Wood boys, one sold oil stock, which is fatal, while the other made a fortune on Wall Street. I am not saying that these lads are losing and sleep over their diminished chances of the White House. There is more happiness outside the White House than within, especially under present circumstances. But if only people would live more simply and do their own cooking, as Mrs. Coolidge did when her husband was governor of Massachusetts, there would be less lust for filthy lucre.

Bumper Variety Bill at the Crescent

ATTRACTED LARGE AUDIENCES LAST NIGHT.
 Last night the Duncan Sisters repeated their big success of the previous performance. The Egyptian dance was the big item of the act, and which received a big ovation. Dan Delmar's comedy sketch had the house in roars of laughter from beginning to end, whilst little Dolly Delmar charmed her hearers by her pretty songs which she rendered in good style.

The film "When the Desert Calls," is an attraction somewhat out of the ordinary. It would not be fair to divulge their separate perils and adventures. Enough to say that the picture offers the best sort of suspense because you don't know what is going to happen next—even in the final scene.

Miss Hemming is effective and beautiful as the wife, and Mr. Frazer's versatility is given full scope as the husband who becomes a fiery sheik in order to redeem himself in the eyes of the world. Deserving of special credit is Tammany Young for his vivid, human portrayal of a British Tommy. Not only is his single scene one of the best in the picture, but it stands out a little gem.

Majestic Theatre Notes

To-night is the last chance patrons have to hear Cameron Geddes sing "Tootsie Good-Bye" and "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep."
 "Somebody Lied" if they say that the comedy under this title is not a laugh producer.

The News Reel is replete with happenings that we have read about in the public despatches.
 A good show that will please all. The Majestic will close a successful season to re-open again on Easter Monday night.

During the coming week a staff of expert painters and decorators will be employed on the interior and entrances.

The silver screen will receive the attention of a capable mechanic, and when completed will reflect the pictures in a manner which will be commendable to all.

Patrons of the Majestic will be pleased with the new arrangements, full particulars of which will be announced at an early date.

A word of advice. Don't fail to secure your seat when the celebrated story, "The Lure of Pharaoh" is exhibited. This playlet is regarded as the last word in the motion picture industry.

VESTA READY MIXED PAINT

is the finest procurable. It is far superior to that usually applied in small lines for household use. Suitable for inside or outside use. It is durable and easy to apply.

DURADIO GLOSS PAINT

has an exceptionally high gloss, enamel finish, is durable and will withstand all climatic conditions. Suitable for all passages, bathrooms, kitchens and wall-cases.

WALPAMUR WATER PAINT is the most serviceable flat wall paint made and is perfectly sanitary and washable, having an oil medium which gives a smooth non-absorbent surface.

MIRABOL THE SUPREME ENAMEL

has a fine, hard gloss surface which makes it very durable. Its use is advised for all doors and interior woodwork, where a high-gloss finish of a distinctive appearance is needed.

Our Montreal Letter.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

THE NEW ST. MARY'S COLLEGE.

Plans have been prepared for the new and greater St. Mary's College at a cost of $2,000,000. The college will be built at Cote des Neiges on Cote St. Catherine Road, facing the Montreal Hunt Club. Construction of the first part of the buildings will be undertaken in a few weeks, so that it may be in readiness for classes in the autumn of 1925. The new building will be for boarders only, while the old College on Bleury Street will be kept for day scholars. Rev. Louis LeTonde, S.J., Rector of the College, read a letter from Archbishop Gauthier, the Apostolic Administrator, in which he gave his sanction and good wishes to the proposed campaign for funds, saying that the members of the order were worthy of general support for the admirable manner in which they had carried on their double apostolate. "It is but simple justice that the community should now recognize what has been done by the order in promoting the great work of education," wrote the archbishop, and he added, "Ask with confidence." In concluding the letter with his benediction on the coming campaign his grace wrote: "Allow me to offer my modest subscription of $500 towards the good work."

The actual campaign has been planned to open on Monday, May 5 next, when a dinner will be given by the old students to his Eminence Cardinal Dougherty, of Philadelphia, who entered St. Mary's College as a student in 1880, and who this year is president of the "Association des Anciens Elèves." His Eminence is to be present at the Church of the Gesu on the previous day, Sunday, when he will pontificate at high mass to terminate a triduum in honor of the beatification of Cardinal Bellarmine, S.J., a famous scholar. It is expected that Cardinal Dougherty will return to Montreal in the autumn to lay the cornerstone of the new building. The date of this ceremony is to coincide with the 300th anniversary of the Jesuit Fathers in Quebec.

St. Mary's College in Bleury street, was founded in 1848 and has been of great service in the matter of secondary and classical education. The demands have grown until during the present scholastic year it was necessary to refuse 200 applications because of lack of class accommodation.

The toll of human lives caused by autos and auto trucks in Montreal is the largest of any city of its size on the American Continent. Last year 116 were killed and over 3,000 injured. In Chicago during July and August 216 were killed. The Safety League of the Province of Quebec have started a campaign in order to reduce accidents on the public thoroughfares to a minimum. Director M. Gaboury, speaking before a gathering of Catholic Teachers of the Centre District at the Bourget Academy, Mountain Street on Friday afternoon, March 28th, asked for cooperation, saying that a five minutes talk to the pupils once a week or oftener, would greatly tend to lessen the large number of accidents, and teach the children to practise "Safety First," "To Stop, Look and Listen," before crossing the streets. Chauffeurs are warned to avoid reckless driving, to sound their claxons at crossings, and to be extra careful when passing near schools. At 7.10 on Friday a little boy of six years was run over by an automobile as he attempted to run across the street to join some companions. The boy died 20 minutes later at his home while a doctor stood over him. The fatal accident happened on Centre Street, Point St. Charles.

FIRE AT THE GREY NUNNERY.
Fire damaged the laundry department of the Grey Nunnery to the extent of $35,000. For a time the blaze looked dangerous and two alarms were sent in. Engines, hose wagons, and ladders were stationed all around the building.

TWO HUNDRED CARS STOLEN IN THREE MONTHS.
More than 200 automobiles have been stolen since January 1st. The new law empowering the police to seize any stolen automobile on sight has been placed on the Statute Book. "We have recovered more than half of the cars reported stolen and that is a fair sample of the average for the past three years," stated one of the officers at police headquarters, stolen automobile department. "We are still under the law which makes us prove to the court that the man driving the car was not the owner. When we get to work under the new Act, the law allows us to take any car driven by a person who does not own it, and give it to the owner. If the car was sold to a citizen who won't help him any with the police. The car can be seized."

HIS EVIDENCE LOSES HEAVY CLAIM.

When a witness in the box shows "bad demeanor, lack of intelligence and reckless inaccuracies" the court cannot evaluate highly the evidence of such a witness. Mr. Justice MacLennan dismissed an action for $13,826.50 against James Stewart Gibb. Robertson stated that he was riding a bicycle on Notre Dame Street, near the corner of Murray, October 29, 1920, when he was struck by a car driven by the other party. He said he was struck once, and as he was getting up, was hit a second time, and hurled directly in front of an approaching tram-car. He received a broken leg as the result. blame was laid by him upon the driver of the car who was accused of speeding, not signalling and being on the wrong side of the street.

In defending himself, the auto driver said he was not going more than four miles an hour, and that the accident was due to Robertson's own fault in trying to cross in front of him "at an excessive and illegal speed." The court held that it was proven that the mishap was due to the folly of the bicycle driver in trying to beat across the auto, and to his own careless conduct.

THE WHIRL OF PLEASURE GETS THEM.

The whirl of pleasure and excitement in the dance halls, cabarets, theatre parties, and hotels seems to be leading a large number of our young girls on the downward path. The Montreal Recorder and officials of the Juvenile Court here are planning a campaign to decrease the number of runaway "teen age" girls. The season when this evil attains its greatest proportions is now at hand, and a determined effort is being made to lessen the number of girls who each year drop from the sight of their families.

A case regarded as more or less typical was cited. A sixteen-year-old girl, having gone out to a dance on a Saturday night, stayed out later than her parents usually allowed. Afraid to go home, she spent the night at the home of a friend. The next day she was still afraid to face her parents, so remained as long as possible with the other girl. Finally, unable to remain any longer she was forced to find food and lodging for herself. Penniless and afraid to go home, having exhausted the hospitality of her friends, she had only one alternative to starving. This she took and when police officers finally located her she had become a moral derelict.

The majority of girls who disappear are between the ages of 14 and 18. These can be brought before the Juvenile Court. When they are over 16 years of age, however, they will be arraigned in the Recorder's Court and dealt with there.

These girls are usually picked up by the police within a fortnight of their desertion, although some are missing for much longer periods. Those who do not return home until forced to by the police will be sent to Reform School. If they go home of their own accord they will be given a chance to reform by themselves.

The Antigonish Casket, under the heading, "Whites Girls are Mistaken," has the following:—

Young women are sometimes heard to say that they are not very eager to adopt the bold and unladylike manners of the day, but that if they do not do so they will receive no attention from the young men and that they will lose their chances of getting married. We do not think so; but it were far better that they should lose the chance of marrying any young man who seeks his life partner amongst drink-swilling, tobacco-smoking, half-dressed, brazen flappers. A marriage that is brought about by such manners and such displays of physical attractions contains but very poor promise for a happy married life. The young man who marries a wife under such influences will tire of her, and go after other flappers who devise some new new-old sort of sensual methods of attracting men. There is no sure basis for a happy marriage which does not include mutual respect between the husband and wife. The young woman who gets a husband by competing with women of doubtful reputation will find, in sorrow and humiliation, that she has bound him with a rope of sand and that she cannot finally win in such a competition, though she can win by declining to compete.

R. J. LOUIS CUDDIHY.

A grocer in a New England town went to a deputy sheriff whose word he knew he could trust for information as to a certain Lew Diggs, who had applied for credit at his store.
"Good mornin', sheriff."
"Mornin'."
"You know Lew Diggs?"
"Yup."
"What kind of a fellow is he?"
"Partly fair."
"Is he honest?"

Chevrolet Brings Motoring Enjoyment to Everyone.

How great the service done for motorists by Chevrolet cannot be estimated. How great the benefits it has brought to us is beyond human ability to reckon.

It has provided at a cost unequalled in motordom, with a means to speed up business, to increase wealth, to better health, to bring friends closer and to open up every part of the whole country.

The fine quality, strength, endurance and full equipment provided by Chevrolet cannot be purchased for so little money anywhere else. Moreover, the owner of a Chevrolet finds a further satisfaction in the savings effected day by day, as he drives his car. No other car built can be run or maintained as cheaply as Chevrolet.

"Oh, sure; I should say so. Been arrested twice for stealing and acquitted both times."—The Visitor.

A WILLING HELPER.

A burglar who had entered a minister's house at midnight, was disturbed by the waking of the occupant of the room he was in. Drawing his knife he said: "If you stir you are a dead man. I'm hunting for money."
"Let me get up and strike a light,"

Knew His Weak Point.

"Junior, you were absent from school yesterday, I believe," Miss Cunningham, the teacher, said.
"Yes, ma'am," Junior answered.
"I had to be away yesterday."
"Well, the school regulations require a written excuse for all absences, so you will have to bring me such an excuse," Miss Cunningham explained.

"Who from?" Junior asked.
"Well you may bring an excuse from either your father or mother," the teacher replied.

"Well, I guess I'll bring one from mother, then," Junior stated. "Papa's an awful poor hand at making excuses."

THE SITUATION.
Business Bureau says: The market is showing a general improvement in financial conditions. Commercial circles more optimistic. The main factor is the winding up of most industries. In many cases it has been a race to production ahead of costs and a consequent faltering of sales has led to a sharp decline in the balance sheet. Credit conditions are not so tight and banks have

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

STINNES POLICIES WILL BE CONTINUED.
LONDON, April 12
Hugo Stinnes' death is not expected to have much effect on the Reparations settlement as Stinnes' influence either for good or evil is likely to be exerted by his able successor, who, it is believed, will attempt thoroughly to carry out his policies.

PRESIDENT OF KING'S RESIGNS.
HALIFAX, April 12.
Doctor T. Stannage Boyle, President of King's University, Halifax, has resigned owing to the condition of his health, his resignation having been tendered and regrettably accepted at a meeting of the Board of Governors of the University held here to-day. Dr. Boyle stated that the condition of his health made it absolutely necessary that he take a long rest from the duties of office and that he plans to spend next winter abroad.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT BILL DEFEATED.
OTTAWA, April 12.
The Bill for abolition of capital punishment introduced by Rev. Wm. Irvine, the Labour member for East Calgary, was put to a division in the House of Commons to-night and was defeated by 92 to 29. Premier King and Hon. Mr. Meighen spoke against the bill.

IT IS NOW UP TO GERMANY.
PARIS, April 12.
What appeared to be the dawn of a solution of the Reparations problem broke over Paris to-night with the unanimous adoption by the Reparations Commission of the report of the Experts' Committee and a recommendation by the Commission that the respective governments accept the findings of the experts. The recommendation was couched in such a manner that it seems practically impossible that interested governments can evade the issue. The action of the Commission in accepting the report

WARSHIP CEREMONIOUSLY SCUTTLED.
SYDNEY, N.S.W., April 11.
With solemn ceremony the veteran warship Australia was sunk to-day twenty miles off Sydney, in accordance with the naval programme under the Washington Treaty, laden with hundreds of floral tributes from the populace. The warship was towed to the scuttling point by tugs accompanied by the Australian and five British cruisers with officials aboard. There her sea valves were opened and she slowly settled beneath the water while the cruisers fired salutes and airplanes circled overhead.

and recommending its approval was greeted everywhere with gratification. A semi-official conference has accomplished what all Supreme Councils failed to do, was the verdict of one member of the Commission to-night. Although no official time limit has been set for Germany to reply to the Reparations Commission's invitation to accept the experts' report, it is said the Reich has been requested to decide within the shortest possible time what action it will take, it being the desire to ascertain Germany's decision before the German elections to be held May 4th. Apparently the situation is up to Germany. The Reparations Commission astonished everybody by its announcement that it had decided to accept the report.

JAPAN LODGES STRONG PROTEST AT WASHINGTON.
WASHINGTON, April 12.
Japan has lodged with the United States State Department a blistering protest against proposals in Congress to apply further drastic restrictions to Japanese immigration to the United States. In a note reaffirming and reducing to concrete terms for the first time the famous "Gentleman's Agreement," the Japanese Ambassador advised the Government that the exclusion proposals now pending appeared to involve "the good faith" of the Government at Tokio. The proposed exclusion would not only "seriously offend the pride of this nation," the Ambassador's letter said, but would "involve the question of good faith and therefore its honor."

ACCEPTANCE VIEWED WITH SATISFACTION.
LONDON, April 12.
Reparations Commission acceptance of the Experts report is viewed here with satisfaction, but as yet there is little press comment.

ROYALIST SYMPATHIZERS ARRESTED.
ATHENS, April 12.
The Government has ordered the arrest of eighteen superior military and naval officers suspected of complicity in a projected Royalist outbreak. The officers were taken into custody in accordance with the Government's orders.

100,000 LOCKED OUT IN SHIPYARDS.
LONDON, April 12.
About 100,000 shipyard workers throughout Great Britain are locked out to-day in consequence of the failure of the striking members of their Union in Southampton to resume work yesterday, in conformity with the ultimatum of the Shipbuilding Employers Federation. The lockout is inoperative only at Southampton, where the yards are being kept open for the return of those men willing to go back to work. When ever the Southampton members of any of the fifteen Unions involved resume labor the lockout against their fellow members in other yards will be withdrawn, the employers declare.

CREDIT ESTABLISHED FOR GERMAN TRADE.
NEW YORK, April 12.
The plans for the establishment of a United States banking credit of between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 for a new German gold and discount bank formed by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht are announced through the International Acceptance Bank acting for a syndicate of New York bankers. While negotiations have not yet finally closed, it was said the credit would be advanced to provide an outlet for German dollar trade bills.

FORMER CROWN PRINCE AND PRINCESS GIVEN A RECEPTION.
BRESLAU, Germany, April 12.
The former Crown Prince Frederick William and his wife Cecilie made their first formal public appearance yesterday since Frederick William returned to Germany from the island of Wieringen.
