NOTE AND COMMENT

Everyone else has to pay taxes, why shouldn't the Kaiser. Is Me and Gott exempt?

The Canadian Pacific will provide smoking compartments for women in its sleeping cars.

A policy of drift in the matter of next winter's fuel supply may mean hardship, and perhaps loss.

The Financial Post says the tendency is towards the gradual elimination of girls from employment in the banks.

A Wilmington, Del., man found two toads while cultivating his flower bed, and trained them so they not only respond when he whistles, but feed out of his hand.

In the Alberta general elections held last Monday the Stewart government was defeated. The United Farmers carried 36 seats, Liberals 14, Labor 4, Independent 1, Independent Conservative 1.

School teachers in a Pennsylvania city forfeit $100 if they get married before their contracts have expired. But young girls seldom allow a trifle like that to stand between them and true happiness; old girls, never.

Ontario today has exactly 599 newspapers and periodicals of all classes, whereas five years ago there were 745. War conditions and the abnormal costs of production have led to the suspension of 146 papers.

At a recent wedding the bride was Miss Jane Helper and the bridegroom was Mr. Newton Lord. The bridegroom, however, was very angry when he saw in the newspaper an account of their wedding, headed in the usual way, "Lord-Helper."

If Germany pays the Allies' demand for thirty billion dollars by way of reparation Canada will get $30,000,000, or one per cent. of the total. Nobody will suggest that Canada contributed only one per cent. to the victory of the Allied nations.

The highway in Ontario running between Niagara Falls and Windsor is not to be renamed as part of the Roosevelt highway, F. C. Biggs, Minister of Highways, having decided that the present names are good enough. The decision of the Minister gives general satisfaction.

Vancouver Province.—A haystack constituted the speaker's platform at a U.F.O. political picnic in Ontario the other day. Some in the audience did not swallow all they heard but after the speaking was over the horses swallowed the entire platform.

We can remember when a returned soldier said a little swear word on the platform of the Town Hall how we were shocked. That same little word falls trippingly from the tongue of some of our Chautauqua lecturers and they didn't expect us to be shocked. About time to put on the brakes. We seem to be skidding.—Parkhill Gazette.

You know the story of the farmer who was showing a visitor over his place. Away off in the middle distance was a motionless figure that resembled a human being in general outline. "I see you still have faith in that old-fashioned scarecrow," remarked the visitor. The farmer gazed steadily at the object for some minutes. "That isn't a scarecrow," he announced finally, "that's one of my hired hands at work."—Ottawa Citizen.

There are dozens of office managers in New York who, when a girl applies for a position, preface the usual catechism by asking her to remove her hat. If her compliance discloses bobbed hair or peroxidized tresses, her chance for a job is gone. The employer reasons that what is in a girl's head can generally be determined by what she has on it and that a freak coiffeur may not only show she is deficient mentally but also somewhat below standard morally.

Lemons are selling at from 80 cents to $1.00 a dozen while in California the price is so low and unprofitable that growers are cutting down the trees and planting other fruit. The orange, lemon, banana, pineapple and other Southern fruit importing trade in Canada is in the hands of a few commission merchants. According to what fruit retailers say, these merchants consistently arrange prices, their relatively small number enabling easy control of the market. At a dollar a dozen, someone is profiteering at a disgraceful rate. If lemons can be sold at 25 cents in winter the summer demand should not increase their price more than 30 or 40 per cent.

The Paris Pasteur Institute has just handed a stiff blow to the anti-tobacco enthusiasts. In the last issue of the institute's official magazine appears a long discussion on the merits of tobacco—with no mention of any demerits—the writer authoritatively closing the case with a clean verdict of acquittal for the plant that made Virginia famous. Not only he says, does the inhaling of tobacco smoke kill all manner of dangerous germs, but it is a sure preventive against cholera, diphtheria, cerebrospinal meningitis, and is known to have been effective in warding off impending attacks of sleeping sickness.

Farmers beware! The following is an extract of a letter received from the Attorney-General's office in Toronto: "Information has reached this department that there is a good deal of buying and selling along the main roads on Sunday from farmers, fruit growers, etc., to motorists in violation of the Lord's Day Act. Farmers are warned that a further violation of this act will be dealt with under the revised statutes of Ontario." There are worse things practised on Sunday than buying a few fresh vegetables or good wholesome fruit, however, when the proposed blue period arrives we can all move down to the province of Quebec.

The legislation enacted last session in Toronto whereby a miscreant sentenced to jail will be allowed during his prison term to earn a living for his family, if he has dependents, has been put in force and the first to benefit is the family of an Oneida Indian. It has been a weakness of our system of punishment that the real sufferers have been the wives and children of those sent to prison. It has seemed to the average man to be inhuman and unfair that because a man committed an offence against the law his wife and family should starve until justice had been satisfied and he restored to them, but there appeared to be no better way out of it. Most people will agree that by the new legislation which enacts that parole officers have the power to allow prisoners out to earn a living for their families, the Drury government, composed mostly of farmers and labor men, has achieved a success for society. It was the second of the great pieces of social legislation brought into being, the other being the granting of mothers' pensions.

It will Prevent Ulcerated Throat.—At the first symptoms of sore throat, which presages ulceration and inflammation, take a spoonful of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Add a little sugar to it to make it palatable. It will allay the irritation and prevent the ulceration and swelling that are so painful. Those who were periodically subject to quinsy have thus made themselves immune to attack.

JAPAN IS SUSPICIOUS

Thinks Conference is Anglo-Saxon Plot.

Far Eastern Power Threatens to Refuse to Take Part in Washington Conference—Tokio Government Will Demand to Know Scope and Method of Procedure Before Consenting to Attend.

LONDON, July 18.—A cablegram from the Tokio correspondent of the London Daily Express declares that the Pacific conference is causing greater excitement in Japan than any other international question for years. Officials are thoroughly alarmed at the inclusion of the war eastern question, fearing that Italy and France will support the United States at Japan's expense.

On the other side is a powerful Liberal group, which demands that Japan enter into the deliberations fearlessly, submitting her wants resolutely, combating for them with confidence, and not opposing just claims. Hagging and bickering, they insist, will ruin the cause of Japan.

Both camps agree that Japan is facing a crisis, requiring tact and largeness of vision. Many members of the Privy Council, according to the well-informed Chugai Shogyo Shimpo, are pessimistic about the conference; they contend that the proposal to discuss problems and policies of the Far East indicates co-operation between the United States and Great Britain in an attempt to settle international questions favorably to themselves, an indication of which was to be seen in the attitude of the English towards the Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

The invitation to China to join in the conference, it is further urged, is additional evidence in support of the theory of a secret purpose on the part of the Anglo-Saxon nations in calling the conference. They argue that China doubtless will strive, with the support of Great Britain and the United States, for a settlement of questions in her favor, resulting in injury to Japanese interests in China. The councillors are quoted as saying: "Japan should make participation conditional on the settlement of all questions between Japan and the United States, including opening the economic door of all territories in the Pacific to Orientals."

BOMBERS AT WORK

Abortive Attempt to Blow Up Building in St. Catharines.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., July 18.—The fourth attempt to blow up buildings here since a year ago last spring was made about three o'clock Sunday morning when a bomb was placed at Titterington Bros. fruit warehouse on Balfour street and an effort made to destroy the building. Two Italians who were caught running away from the building just after the explosion are being held. The bomb, or whatever it was, proved abortive as very little damage was done. It had been placed at one corner of the building. "We have been unable to find any trace of what was used, unlike the other cases," said Chief Greene, "but we are holding two men who may know something about the matter."

A squad of police in the police auto made such a hurried run to the scene of the explosion when it was reported by telephone that they wrecked their car. The car went over and the officers were pinned down. P. C. Ridgeway was seriously injured.

Two attempts have been made to wreck the Co-operative Bakery on Paer Street with bombs, the first a year ago this spring and last summer an attempt was made to blow up an Italian fruit store on Welland avenue. In the case of the bakery the damage last year was heavy, but the second time the bomb did not do the work as was the case Sunday. The police think the same gang is responsible for four outrages.

Less Troublesome Adjustments

As a rule the adjustment you get on a defective tire, doesn't quite satisfy you. Mainly, we suppose, because we are all human and want a little more than we are entitled to.

But even our most private opinions on the fairness of an adjustment, can find no fault with the method of settling claims on Ames Holden "Auto-Shoes."

You are always right with ourselves and the manufacturer. We personally look after your interests. There is no needless red-tape, delay or argument in fixing our measure of responsibility and your compensation. Ames Holden "Auto-Shoes" are guaranteed against any defect in material or workmanship without time or mileage limit. They are adjusted on that basis without quibble or evasion.

PALE AND NERVOUS SCHOOL CHILDREN

Need Rich, Red Blood to Regain Health and Strength.

Many children start school in excellent health, but after a short time home work, examinations, hurried meals and crowded school rooms cause their blood to become weak, their nerves over-wrought and their color and spirits lost. It is a mistake to let matters drift when boys and girls show symptoms of nervousness or weak blood. They are almost sure to fall victims of St. Vitus dance, or drift into debility that leads to other troubles. Regular meals, out-door exercise and plenty of sleep are necessary to combat the nervous wear of school life. But it is still more important that parents should pay attention to the school child's blood supply. Keep this rich and red by giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and the boy or girl will be sturdy and fit for school. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind is shown by the statement of Mrs. Watson, Grand Falls, N.B., who says: "In the spring of 1919 my daughter Thistle, then 12 years of age, began to show symptoms of nervousness which developed into St. Vitus dance. She seemed to lose control of her limbs and at times every muscle in her body seemed to be twitching and jerking, and the trouble seemed to be growing worse. We finally decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and the result was better even than we had hoped for, and she is now enjoying the best of health."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ANDROCK CORNER

The ANDREWS WIRE WORKS OF CANADA LIMITED

Miss Mary Mansfield is away on her vacation.

Mr. Bate and family are at Lake Huron Beach until August 1st.

Messrs. Peter Garson and Wm. Hollingsworth are taking their two weeks vacation.

We are issuing a new up-to-date catalogue. In this there are several new lines shown and considerably lower prices than those published in our last issue which was in June 1920.

We are now handling a line of Kitchen Knives with stainless blades. These have already been tested and proven quite satisfactory. The price is rather high but the quality of the article is sufficiently good enough to offset the high price.

The Hydro was too low on Friday last to continue in operation and as a consequence the factory was closed until Monday morning. The meeting of the Androck Association was to have been on Friday last, but as the plant was closed it was postponed until Monday at 4.30 p.m.

Mr. Burnett, our Western representative reports conditions as being very favorable. Crop prospects are good and the general trade while not placing large orders for future delivery are giving us very good orders for immediate shipment and trade conditions appear on the whole to be on the upward grade.

We are experimenting on a new style Nose Guard. This will have a different arrangement of braces and will be bound with leather instead of webbing. Samples have been sent to our customers in the West and they have distributed them to several farmers, who report them as being of superior quality and much more durable. This will be another new line for us to manufacture.

Scrub Stock—and BELTS

You may not see any connection between stock and belts—but there is.

Buying cheap belts is just as unsatisfactory as breeding scrub cattle.

A good belt is an investment that brings constant satisfaction and profit, as does pure-bred stock.

Goodyear Klingtite Belts are pure-bred. There is not a scrub strain in them.

Use the same good business judgment in buying belts that you do in buying stock.

We can supply you with any size of Klingtite Belt—quickly.

Cause of Asthma. No one can say with certainty exactly what causes the establishing of asthmatic conditions. Dust from the street, from flowers, from grain and various other irritants may set up a trouble impossible to be relieved except through a sure preparation such as Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. Uncertainty may exist as to cause, but there can be no uncertainty regarding a remedy which has given relief to a generation of asthmatic victims of this scourge of the bronchial tubes. It is sold everywhere.

There is nothing repulsive in Miller's Worm Powders, and they are pleasant to take as sugar, so that few children will refuse them. In some cases they cause vomiting through their action in an unsound stomach, but this is only a manifestation of their cleansing power, no indication that they are hurtful. They can be thoroughly depended upon to clear worms from the system.

Chewing the Corners

By WILLETT STOCKARD

So far as appearances went, there was nothing to indicate that the evening on the Slaton ranch was to be in any way different from countless other evenings at that season of the year. The outfit was hard at work at the time.

After supper they gathered in front of the house and passed away the hour or two till early bedtime in conversation.

Most of them were reclining on the low porch; Carnes and Big Fultz were seated upon the steps; Holmes and another or two were resting upon large flat stones a few yards from the house. Their conversation was casual, as usual.

Carnes had developed an undeserved and unaccountable attack of hiccoughs.

"I'd give $10 to be rid of these things," he remarked as one convulsed his frame.

"You can go to bed and sleep them off," Peters said as he gingerly touched his lips, "but darned if my mouth don't feel like it was as big as a couple of hams."

Big Fultz, who was the veteran of the gang, arose slowly, stretched himself and started into the house.

One by one the others got up, yawned, and prepared to follow him—all of them, that is, with the exception of Holmes.

"I guess I got a little something to say to you all first!" he said.

The others halted instantly and turned toward him, struck less by his words than by the odd note in his voice.

"Well, what's the matter with you?" Fultz demanded.

"I have been studying about this for quite a spell," Holmes began in a constrained voice.

"I been studying about whether to let it drop or bring it up and have a settlement about it. I reckon you all have noticed that I ain't been myself lately?"

"Say, what is it you're doin' all this ravin' about?" some one put in.

"You know I went into town yesterday after that load of salt for the cattle. Well, while I was there I heard something that showed that somebody had been telling lies on me.

"It's somebody on this ranch, somebody right here in this crowd that I'm talking to now, and he's a feller that has always pretended to be a friend of mine."

The others pressed about him, silent and preternaturally serious.

"Well, come right on out with it," Fultz commanded. "Name who you think it was without making all the rest of us uncomfortable about it."

"I don't care to say who told them, as I done said, without giving the man plenty of time to own up to 'em, and I won't say who they were told to; but it was over in town, and it was last Saturday."

"Somebody from this ranch that was in town Saturday," Fultz repeated slowly.

"Jim, you and Carnes and Peters was the only ones from here in town last week."

"You don't mean me, I reckon, do you, Holmes?" Jim spoke up at once.

The other shook his head.

"Was it me, then?" Peters demanded. "I reckon you'll have to say whether you think it was or not."

"No, I didn't think it was you, Peters," Holmes replied kindly.

The situation had become even more tense.

Carnes stepped forward, crowding the rest back, and stood directly in front of the other, only a step away.

"That seems to narrow things down a right smart," he said, in a voice that was even through an effort. "You jest said it was one of us three, and now you let the others out. The way I figure from that, I reckon you must have some intention of hinting that it was me. Am I reasoning right about it?"

"I said I wasn't going to call any names, and I didn't," Holmes answered. "I didn't think you would come out in the open about it, unless there wasn't any way for you to crawl out of it altogether; and since you've acknowledged, we'll just settle the business right here and have it over with."

"I reckon we ain't goin' to have no serious trouble about this, Holmes," Carnes said. "There's a mistake out somewhere, and I'm just as anxious to get at the bottom of it as you are."

"You done right in speaking up about it; but I think we can straighten up any trouble between me and you without argument."

"You might as well cut that out," the other retorted angrily. "If there was any possible chance in the world of it being a mistake, a woman 've taken the stand I do. The goods are on you, and you can't back down in any such way as trying to make out it's all a mistake."

"That's about as far as you go, Holmes," Carnes said, equally as angry as the other now.

"It's got to come, fellers," Fultz said. "Just step back and let 'em have plenty of room."

They arranged themselves in an uneven line half a dozen steps away.

To a man, they exhibited traces of excitement, more so than did either Holmes or Carnes.

The latter had stood for an instant looking at his antagonist as if he could not bring himself to believe he had heard the words that were spoken.

Finally he removed the vest that hung upon him unbuttoned and pitched it aside.

He moved slowly and calmly, although in the moonlight it could be seen that his face was shades less swarthy than common.

"Well, I'm ready!" he announced as he approached Holmes.

"This is a question that's got to be carried to a finish," the latter addressed himself to the crowd as much as to Carnes, "and it will be settled with knives. I'm the one that's been given the wrong deal in it, and I reckon I got the right to name the way we'll proceed."

"We'll settle it with our fists, like a couple of grown-up men," Carnes interposed with a sneer. "Instead of according to some of these moving picture plays."

"That's like you," Holmes returned, also with a sneer. "I'll fight a fist-fight with any man in ten or twelve pounds of my weight either way, but you outweigh me nigh on to twenty pounds—over fifteen, anyway."

"There used to be an old way of deciding arguments out here that they called 'chawing your corners,' and that's the way this shebang is going to come off. I got a knife and you got one!"

"We'll take this here bandanna, and I put a corner of it in my mouth and you take one in yours."

"Then, when some of the boys give the signal, we'll wade in, and we'll keep it up until one or the other unlets go his corner of the rag. That's the only way this question is going to be tended to."

"With knives we'll be on an equal basis—we will be, that is if you've got the sand to stand up to me, which it's my belief you ain't!"

"I ain't been sure for some time that you ain't just about 90 per cent bluff, and intend to show you up!"

For the first time Carnes lost control of himself.

"You nor nobody else can't say that to my face," he exclaimed in a raised tone with a number of oaths; "and if you keep on, it don't matter a cuss with me whether it's knives or guns, or anything else."

He drew forth a knife from his rear pocket, opened it, and snatched one end of the handkerchief Holmes held out to him.

"Slong as you just simply got to have it," he growled from beneath his set teeth, "it's coming to you, and you're going to get it. Come on!"

"Fultz here will count three," Holmes stated, "and we start just the second he gives us the last count."

Fultz instantly began an emphatic refusal to act in the capacity mentioned, but a quick look from Holmes silenced him; and after a slight hesitation he nodded his head.

"All right, then!" he exclaimed.

"Ready?"

Both men stood facing each other less than 30 inches apart, each holding a corner of the handkerchief between tightly clenched teeth, each inclined forward upon the balls of his feet, with a knife in his right hand raised breast high and held near his body, and with his eyes glaring fixedly at the other.

"One!"

"Two!"

A second passed; another; Fultz hesitated, then glanced inquiringly at Holmes.

Suddenly the latter dropped his knife, grasped the bandanna from his mouth and jerked it from the other's teeth with a force that brought Carnes staggering toward him.

Holmes caught his shoulders, and began to pound upon his back and yell with maniacal abandon:

"You owe me ten dollars!" he shouted in a voice that startled some horses a hundred yards away.

"Let me see you—hiccough!"

He danced about, snapping Carnes upon the back, bending double, going from one outburst of wild joy into another.

"Why, you low-down son of a gun!" he roared. "Everybody knows that you wouldn't know how to tell a lie on any one, even if you tried!"

While he entered into another paroxysm of hilarity, the spectators began to recover from their bewilderment and join in the din, although not with such whole-souled mirth as Holmes exhibited.

The transformation had come about so suddenly, and was so unexpected, that they were unable to show their appreciation properly at first.

Even Fultz himself had not entirely recovered from his astonishment, in spite of the fact that before entering into his part of the affair he had caught the almost imperceptible wink Holmes had given him.

"Let's see you hiccough!" the latter was gasping over and over. "Let's see you try it once!"

"Heavens!" Carnes muttered in a voice of utter disgust. "Oh, heavens!"

He had been standing in an uncertain attitude, staring at Holmes foolishly.

Finally he closed his knife and returned it to his pocket.

Once he gave a furtive look about him, as if he had in mind the thought of attempting to escape.

Then the trace of a grin appeared upon his cheek, which had rapidly begun to change to a deeper color.

"I'll give you twenty-five dollars if you're able to hiccough," announced Holmes.

Carnes grinned sheepishly.

"I'd give a hundred if I was able to," he said.

Naturally.

ABLE TO DO HER WORK

After Long Suffering Mrs. Peasey Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ont.—"I suffered with irregular menstruation, was weak and run down, could not eat and had headaches. The worst symptoms were dragging down pains, so bad I sometimes thought I would go crazy and I seemed to be smothering. I was in this condition for two or three years and could not seem to work. I tried all kinds of medicines but received no benefit. I found one of your booklets and felt inclined to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I received the best results from it, and now I keep house and go out to work and am like a new woman. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to my friends and if these facts will help some poor woman use them as you please."—Mrs. J. F. PEASEY, 387 King St., Toronto, Ontario.

If you are one of these women do not suffer for four or five years as Mrs. Peasey did, but profit by her experience and be restored to health.

Kent farmers were hit hard by a storm on Thursday evening, when one and a half inches of rain fell. Most of the crops were beaten down, the damage is estimated at $100,000.

A Man is just as Young and Strong as his Blood

No man can fight the battles of life and hold his own if his blood is not pure, for rich, red blood is what strength is based upon. When you see a strong, vigorous man, who never knows when he is licked, you may wager that such a man has coursing through his veins rich, red blood. Many people have thin, pale blood. They are weak, tire easily, become discouraged quickly, and sometimes feel like giving up the struggle. Such folks need Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which is sold by druggists in liquid or tablet form.

RAPIDS KING IS ASHORE

Exciting Time When Steamer Went on Rocks.

Steering Gear Failed to Respond and Vessel Was Driven on Barnhart's Island in the St. Lawrence Rapids—Was Subsequently Re-floated and Proceeded Under Her Own Steam.

CORNWALL, Ont., July 18.—The palatial steamer Rapids King, of the Canadian Steamship Lines, Limited, was beached on Saturday at the head of Barnhart's Island in the St. Lawrence river, about ten miles west of Cornwall, as the result of an accident which befell her about 12.45 p.m. on Saturday. The vessel was, however, gotten off the rocks at 6.30 Sunday evening and went down the river under her own steam. All of her 329 tourist passengers were removed from the ship by the middle of the afternoon. They had been detained on board the vessel from the time the vessel ran aground. When the passengers and baggage had been removed it was found that the boat could be worked off the rocks, and she was safely turned around. The steering gear had been repaired during the day.

The damage sustained by the ship will not be great.

The boat had on board about 329 passengers and a crew of 75, making a total of 404 souls, as well as three or four automobiles. Everything went well from the time the steamer left Prescott, until she was between a quarter and a half mile from completing her trip through the Longue Sault Rapids. Then the steering gear went out of commission, refusing to respond to the efforts of the pilot, and the big boat lurched to one side. The turbulent waters of the rapids caught the vessel and twisted her nose upstream at an angle to the northwest and drove her stern fully twenty feet to the rocks at the head of Barnhart's Island. There was naturally some excitement among the passengers, about two hundred and forty of whom were women, but considering the circumstances and the position the boat was left in, everybody behaved remarkably well. Captain Geo. Batten, who was in command of the Rapids King, is a veteran of the river, and he went about assessing his passengers that they were in no immediate danger, and that as soon as arrangements could be made all would be transferred safely to the mainland and sent on their way. About 1.30 p.m. Captain Batten and the purser, W. M. Bourke, of Montreal, informed the vessels lifeboat launched in the stream, which is estimated to flow at a speed of nearly 25 miles an hour at that point. The attempt was a hazardous one in such waters, but the captain desired to reach Cornwall to communicate the facts to the company's offices in Montreal. Attempts to guide the lifeboat were futile, as the occupants had nothing to do but trust to fate to see them through, with the hope that they would land at a point near Cornwall. The boat was allowed to drift and finally did land west of here in safety.

Nothing could be done in the way of rescuing the passengers before Sunday morning, by which time a lifeboat and two lines had been arranged between the island and the ill-fated steamer. The lifeboat first left the steamer with four passengers at 8 a.m. Sunday, two of whom were George A. Leriche, purchasing agent of the Chicago Joliet Electric Railway Co., of Joliet, Ill., and his wife. The lifeboat was pulled to the island and then hauled back to the steamer again for the next load, the list of passengers being finally increased to eight at a time. The process was slow and rather dangerous, with great care and taken aboard with the swift current to avoid capsizing, and in this connection credit is due Captain Batten and the two wheelmen for the careful manner in which they looked after the operation. When the island was reached the passengers were faced with a climb of 50 or 60 feet up a steep bank before the level of the island was touched. The tourists were then conveyed across the island in automobiles and ferried to the mainland on Clarence Cowell's scow and landed at Maple Grove. Here they were met by motor autos and were brought on to Cornwall and taken to the King George Hotel. By this time the Rapids Prince, a sister ship of the Rapids King, went east about one p.m. Sunday. Sunday about 80 passengers had reached Cornwall. Some of these boarded the Prince to continue their journey, while others, and the later arrivals here, left here by the afternoon trains on the Grand Trunk Railway. J. G. M. Olmstead, ticket collector on the King, came down early on Sunday morning and looked after the wants of the passengers at the King George Hotel and assisted in their transfer to boat and train. Mr. Pomerville, of Montreal, information agent of the company, was also a busy man in this connection.

On Saturday night the officers of the Rapids King gave up their staterooms to the women and children, while the male members of the passenger list made themselves as comfortable as possible on the cots in the saloon and on chairs about the decks, so that nobody suffered for a night's rest.

There were plenty of provisions aboard the boat and more were sent across the span of water by lines, and the wants of all, as regards meals, were well looked after.

Two-thirds of the passenger list was composed of residents of the United States, who were out to enjoy the St. Lawrence and Saguenay river trips. They came from all parts of the republic, even from as far away as San Francisco and California.

U-BOAT COMMANDER GUILTY

Germans Condemn Man Who Sank British Hospital Ship.

BERLIN, July 18.—Sinking of the British hospital ship Llandovery Castle by a German U-boat under Lieutenant-Commander Patzig, and subsequent shooting at surviving refugees in lifeboats, was a gross violation of international law and the laws of civilized warfare, was the verdict rendered by the special Senate of the German Supreme Court on Saturday.

Germany's highest court found Lieut. Dittmar and Boldt guilty as "accomplices in" manslaughter. Each was sentenced to four years' imprisonment, but not in a penitentiary.

The court in its verdict held that Patzig, who was in command of the U-boat, was solely responsible for torpedoing the hospital ship in violation of international law. Boldt was compelled to carry out the commands of his superior officer, it was found, but when Patzig ordered the guns trained on the lifeboats filled with refugees, it was the duty of Dittmar and Boldt to have opposed the command in the most energetic manner. They should have threatened to report the action of their commander to his superiors, it is said.

The court held that in this event, Patzig would certainly have refrained from insistence on the execution of his command and the crime would have thus been prevented.

The verdict awarded that the fact that the commander made no mention of the sinking in the log book and that efforts had been made to wipe out all witnesses, was conclusive proof that Patzig was aware that he had committed an act contrary to the laws of war.

It was further ordered that Boldt be stripped of his uniform and that Dittmar be discharged from the navy. Patzig has not yet been found.

THREE GIRLS DROWNED.

Searching Parent Found Bodies Floating in River.

OTTAWA, July 18.—Three Ottawa girls were drowned Saturday afternoon near the Chats Rapids. No one saw the drowning and there is only conjecture to go on as to how the fatality occurred.

The victims are Miss Alice Roy, aged 24, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Roy, Express avenue, and her two cousins, Yvette Chatillon, aged eight, and Annette Chatillon, aged six, only daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Chatillon of Rochester street. Mr. Roy is a civil servant in the Excise Department of the Customs Department.

For some years Mr. and Mrs. Roy have had a summer cottage on an island near Fitzroy Harbor on the Ottawa. They have been staying there for some weeks. Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Chatillon and their family left Ottawa to spend the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Roy. They arrived at the cottage about two o'clock in the afternoon.

Miss Roy, who had been at the cottage for some days, took her two young cousins out to pick flowers. They returned to the cottage about four o'clock in the afternoon and presented Mrs. Chatillon with a beautiful bouquet. They left, expressing the intention of picking up another bouquet for Mrs. Roy. This was the last anyone saw of them alive.

Sunday morning about five o'clock Mr. Chatillon, who was still searching, espied the body of his niece, Miss Roy, floating near the shore. A short time later, the bodies of his own two daughters were found by a neighbor. They were floating also near the shore, but about 300 feet farther down stream.

Rub it in for Lame Back.—A brisk rubbing with Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil will relieve lame back. The skin will immediately absorb the oil and it will penetrate the tissues and bring speedy relief. Try it and be convinced. As the liniment sinks in the pain comes out and there are ample grounds for saying that it is an excellent article.

After all is said and done there is nothing that will take the place of good Glasses. McCALLUM—WALKER

Maple Grange, the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Colin Walker, con. 9, Brooke, was the scene of a very pretty wedding which took place on Wednesday, June 29th, when their eldest daughter, Sadie Emma was united in marriage to George L. McCallum, son of Mr. John G. McCallum of Glencoe.

At five o'clock to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by the groom's sister, Mrs. D. Hagerty, of Glencoe, the bride, leaning on the arm of her father, took her place beneath an arch of evergreen, white bells and streamers where the wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Wm. McIntosh of Napier. The bride looked charming in a gown of white duchess satin and georgette with blue and silver trimmings, and wore a silk embroidered veil caught in by a cornet of orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a sunburst of pearls, gift of the groom. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and sweet peas with shower of ribbon caught with roses. Miss Margaret Walker, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, wearing a gown of maize satin with overdress of georgette and sky trimmings and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses. Mr. Mac McKeller of Strathroy, ably supported the groom. Little Miss Margaret Hagerty, niece of the groom, winsomely performed the duty of flower girl, daintily attired in a fluted frock of shell pink and carried a basket of sweet peas and roses in which the ring was concealed.

After the congratulations and during the signing of the register Mr. D. D. Livingstone sang in his usual splendid manner "O Perfect Love."

The guests numbering over one hundred sat down to tastefully decorated tables where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served by girl friends of the bride; at the conclusion of which toasts were proposed to the bride and replied to by Mr. Mac McKeller and Mr. Leslie Oke, M.P.P.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a crescent of pearls, to the best man, gold cuff links, to the flower girl a lavalier and to the pianist a cameo pin.

The evening was spent in music and dancing until the wee small hours after which the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes by motor for London, Hamilton, Niagara Falls and points east. The bride travelled in a suit of navy serge, heavily embroidered and beaded, with taffeta hat and veil to match.

Many and beautiful were the gifts received by the bride.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. McCallum will reside on the groom's farm near Glencoe. They will be home to their friends after August 1st.

H. R. Deihl officiating. The ceremony was performed under a pretty arch of ferns and daisies, Miss Gretta Richardson played the Lohengrin's bridal chorus as the bride entered the drawing-room with her father, who gave her away. Very winsome was the bride in her shimmering gown of white satin and georgette, her net veil falling from a Juliet cap held in place by a bandeau of pearls worn by her mother on her wedding day. Her bouquet was a shower of white roses and maiden hair fern. Her bridesmaid, Miss Anna Belle Cran, cousin of the groom, wore a pink organdie frock with touches of filet lace, picture hat of white mohair, and corsage of sweet peas. Mr. Clare Richardson, cousin of the bride, was groomsmen. Following a dainty wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Cran left by motor for Strathroy, and are spending their honeymoon in London, Port Stanley, Cleveland and Detroit. The bride travelling in a navy garb and suit with smart blue hat. Returning, Mr. and Mrs. Cran will live on concession 6, Brooke. Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

GUARD BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SUMMER

The summer months are the most dangerous to children. The complaints of that season, which are cholera infantum, colic diarrhoea and dysentery, come on so quickly that often a little one is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly to banish them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
