Security Pact

The discussions between French and British representatives in London on the question of the security pact went much more satisfactorily than was expected during the days previous to the conference. The King is apparently taking a hand in helping to smooth matters over between the two late allies, for Foreign Minister Briand had an audience with the King at Buckingham Palace just before the meeting with Austin Cham-berlain began. Briand emerged "wreathed in smiles." Later he expressed confidence at the outcome of the meeting. A strong effort is being made to interest the United States in the pact to make the possibility of war more remote and it is believed that United States investments in Europe may eventually induce Washington to lend a helping hand there.

Something They Miss
The rich, however, never know the joy of paying the last installment on something.—From the St. Thomas Journal.

Turnover in New Brunswick The Conservative victory in the New Brunswick elections continued the success which now claims for them the government of the three Maritime provinces, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Before the election, the Liberal Government held 29 seats, the Conervatives 12 and Farmers 7. Now the Farmers party has been wiped out and the Conservatives hold thirtyseven seats and the Liberals eleven. Hon. Dr. J. M. B. Baxter the premier-designate, was formerly Minister of Customs in Premier Meighen's government. The Conservative vicory was rather more of a surprise in New Brunswick than in Nova Scotia as about forty per cent. of the population of the province is French Canadian and matters of race might have been expected to influence their political decision. Premier Veniot is himself of Acadian stock. The interest in the federal struggle is growing more and more keen, and rumors are afloat of a Dominion election in October.

May Be Coalition The political situation in Great Britain has also taken on a new complexion since the settlement of the strike trouble, and there are rumors to the effect that Lloyd George may once more make his appearance upon the political stage in new coalition government. It is recognized by all concerned that Brit-ain is about to enter a struggle of big proportions in spite of the temporary truce with the miners, and that the real issues must be faced within a year. Curiously enough at the same time came a despatch reporting a speech made by Premier Baldwin at Bwedly in which he went out of his way to express his admiration for Lloyd George whom he characterized as "the greatest of all Welshmen."

Freight Rate War
W. T. R. Preston has just returned to Canada from Europe and has some interesting things to say concerning the ocean freight rates and immigration transportation rates. He discovered that the flow of imigrants from Europe is to South America because the rates of transportation to that continent are less than to Canada. The cost of an emigrant's passage to Canada has risen from $27.50 before the war to around $80 today. He declares that a rate must be fixed at no more than $40. He also suggests subsidies to enable Canada to control ocean freight rates on the Atlantic Ocean Trip in 35 Hours A proposal has been made in London to inaugurate a trans-Atlantic airship service which would make the trip in thirty-five hours. Monster triplanes would be used propelled by nine horse-power engines. Each ship would require a crew of thirty-eight men and would carry 150 passengers. The fare for the trip, it is said, would be under three hundred dol-lars.

Royalty in the Movies

An ex-empress in the movies is the latest development in the realm of the silver sheet. It is said that ex-Empress Zita of Austria-Hungary who is almost destitute of funds, has consented to play in a film depicting the downfall of the Hapsburgs. The plan depends upon Hungary and Austria granting her permission to return to those countries to play the scenes upon the historic places. Belgium Pays Her Debts Gallant little Belgium is once more in the lime-light in view of the negotiations which are now being carried on in Washington over her war debts to the United States. No one will begrudge King Albert's people any advantage they can attain in the settlement of their financial affairs but the country is in a unique position because during President Wilson's regime at Versailles it was agreed that Belgium would not be expected to pay her pre-armistice debts except out of war reparations. Of course the United States did not endorse the terms which President Wilson had made at the peace conference and so Belgium has still to find out whether Washington accepts that agreement in principle. Belgium believes the moral obligation of the arrangement should be recognized at Washington, Germany extracted from Belgium in tribute and in the exchange for worthless currency two billion dollars. A Washington correspondent writes, "It is a foregone conclusion that in the case of Belgium, France and Italy, much more lenient terms will have to be extended and approved by Congress.'

PRISON NOT SO BAD SAYS ONE WHO KNOWS

Mrs. Huck Had Herself Jailed Just Mrs. Winnifred Mason Huck, form

erly representative in the United States congress, had a great yearning for experiment. Being a forceful lady with great tenacity of purpose, she decided that she might as well investigate things as not. She had plenty of time.

She arranged for a friend to charge her with stealing an overcoat. The case came to court and Mrs. Huck pleaded guilty. She was given a six months jail term.

Three days were spent in Cleve land surrounded by bums, dopes and bad food, according to the ex-congresswoman's account. The voluntary convict was then transferred to Marysville prison in company with a negress bootlegger. There she residwith female murderers thieves, found them a kindly lot and conditions generally satisfactory.

After a month, she was pardoned and, following a dinner at the executive marsion, set out again with a total capital of $5.00. PASSION PLAY IS STAGED IN QUEBEC

Sacred Drama Produced for First Time in Canada

For the first time in Canada, the Passion Play was produced on Sun-day by residents of the Town of St. Jerome, a thriving industrial com munity set in the heart of an agricultural district close by the foothills of the Laurentians. The sacred drama was enacted on a large scale based on the methods followed by the natives of Oberammergau, and as the story of the great tragedy was unfolded by picturesque and stirring tableaux and gripping narrative, it enthralled a large audience which had gathered from the town itself and all the neighboring communities. The situation of the town lends itself admir reason of its location on the north limb into the charming mountain and then by the fact that people of these communities are intensely religious in sentiment and enter thorough ly into the true spirit of the faith that is theirs. A priest of the parish, Father Jean Davila Ethier, blessed with exper-ience and travel and special training in music and other cultured advantages, in addition to his theological training, suggested the idea of the Passion Play some months ago and it was taken to so readily that today his aspiration became a reality.

Large Cast.
The large cast necessary for the production helped by one or two special friends of Father Ethier, who surrendered their annual vacation to that the week previous to the performance was spent in spiritual retreat, so that each might approach the depiction of the story animated with the highest principles.

The result was a performance most edifying, produced in an atmosphere of sincerity, which left its visible impress on the large audience. Some of the scenes, such as the entry into Jerusalem and the crucifixion, were really marvelous by reason wonderful grouping of hundreds of figurants and the amazing Get a bottle of Rheuma today and Get a bottle of Rheuma today and wear a satisfied smile on your face tomorrow.

WALKERTON EDITOR SIDESWIPED BY LIQUORED "LIZZIE"

While Lorne A. Eedy, editor of e Walkerton "Telescope" and some friends were driving into town last week, a Ford driven by Mr. French Pearce of Paisley, met them east of the C.P.R. crossing and in passing caught their rear fender, smashing it and destroying a couple of club bags on the running board. After side-swiping the Walkerton car, the speeding lizzie then headed to the left for the ditch. With the brakes telephone pole with a bang that smashed in the front of the Ford, breaking the steering gear, front fender and radius rod. Fortunately nobody was hurt. License Inspector nobody was full. Widmeyer who happened along be-fore the crippled car was cleared away, after sniffing the atmosphere decided to lay a charge against the Paisley party.

Auto pushball, said to be more thrilling than auto polo, is the latest dare-devil pastime to be introduced at the Canadian National Exhibition this year. It is played with four cars and a huge rubber ball weighing 250 pounds. It has a spine-creeping effect on the spectators.

The late Robert Burns who was the first postmaster as Sylvan and who left records antedating 1850, states that he vistied Arkona soon after Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Lucas and locating at Sylvan, and it was known amily spent Sunday with friends in than as "Broadway," though he gives no reason as to why it obtained that name. Mr. Burns also left some interesting records of the early settlers east of Arkona. The southeast corner of Bosanquet and the adjoining portion of Warwick owe much to the pioneer settlers of Germanic origin, whose thrift and perseverance the early development of the locality was largely due.

To one of these, Ephriam Brower, belongs the honor of bestowing upon Arkona its name. He was a cabinet maker who resided in the village during the fifties if not before, and as nearly as can be ascertained, the name was given about 1855.

Those families with the location of Arkona have often noticed how it is built upon a hill in a hollow, so that when it is approached from the north east, west, its a lesser degree from the south, a good view is obtained of the village by day and its lights by night when still a long distance from

The original Arkona from which our Lambton village takes its name is a promotory on the northeast coast of the island of Rigen in the Baltic Sea, and upon whose crest is a light-house. Vessels from Stettin to London, Hull and Leith pass within the compass of its lights which cast their beams over the sea for a distance of 35 miles. Nearby are the ruins of a medieval stronghold. Lovers of the old village will be glad to know how appropriate was the name chosen for it by Ephriam Brower. Arkona is without doubt a very old congregat-ing place and its rapid rise and sub-sequent importance was due to no outside influence, but rather to its ideal location for a country village, the sterling character of its citizens and the natural resources and fertil-

The onions exhale along with their familiar and distinctive odor, an essence of either chloroform or opium. Mr. Williams is not sure which but it's effect is to produce a dreamless repose which is most refreshing and also stimulating to personal pulchritude. As long as one keeps busily engaged working among the onions there is no danger of being overcome by the subtle aroma, but let rest, and he is due for a long slum ber. An onion field is the last place in the world to lie down on the job.

Hundreds of tourists have been at tracted to Mr. William's farm this summer and many have been moved to tears at the sight of so many onions. This is perhaps only natural. Onions have been known to have this effect. But, on the other hand, it is, just possible that some kind-hearted visitors cannot refrain from weeping at the thought of so many little onions so young and so green soon to be sent forth into a hard-boiled world where by the law of averages two-thirds of them will be "in the soup" before the winter is half over. and where all of them will be but a fragrant memory long before another summer rolls around.

NAPIER

Billy, not very fond of Sunday chool, was promised a dime every time he remembered the sermon. For he expressed great interest. "Just think, daddy, it was about fly-ing machines." "What?" said daddy, "you're mistaken." and he answered
"No sir, I'm not. The teacher said Esau sold his heirship to his brother Jacob."

Alvinston's Island Grove was the mecca for hundreds of citizens of both town and community on Sunday night of last week when a special song service ad program of music was put on immediately after the church services. The churches of the village all took part, and the immense congregation entered wholeheartedly into the singing of the old hymns, which had been printed on a special sheet for the occasion.

The English Channel again defied wimmers when Miss Gertrude Ederle the 18-year-old American girl, was forced to abandon her attempt to swim across from Cape Griz Nez to Dover on Tuesday. Miss Ederle seemed to be on a fair way to beat all records for the channel crossing, when her stomach rebelled because of the salt water she had swallowed. She had made two-thirds of the 20mile crossing in less than nire hours, and her trainer said she could have made the rest of the distance to Dover in four hours.

Edward W. Browning, New York millionaire, whose adoption of "Cinderella" Mary Louise Spas was annulled recently, fled from a roof garden when chorus girls kissed him, and shouted "Oh, there's my Cinderella man." The millionaire realtor, who was dining on the roof tried to retreat when two dozen girls encircled his table and asked him to adopt them. Then a blonde ingenue circled his neck so strongly that it was a minute before her arms could be pried loose. Other diners took up the pried loose. Other diners took up the cry, "Won't you adopt me, Mr. Browning." As he started to leave an other chorus girl took him by the arm and induced him to dance but he soon broke away as the orchestra played "If that's the kind of a girl you are."

Toronto Mother Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ontario.—"I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a splendid medicine to take before and after confinement. A small book was put in my door one day advertising Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines, and as I did not feel at all well at the time I went and got a bottle of Vegetable Compound right away. I soon began to notice a difference in my general health. I was full of aches and pains at the time and thought I had every complaint going, but I can truthfully say your medicine certainly did me good. I can and will speak highly of it, and I know it will do other women good who are sick and ailing if they will only give it a fair trial. Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills are splendid for constipation. You are welcome to use my letter if you think it will help any one."—Mrs. HARRY WESTWOOD, 543 Quebec Street, Toronto, Ontario.

The expectant mother is wise if she considers carefully this statement of Mrs. Westwood. It is but one of a great many, all telling the same story—beneficial results.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com-pound is especially adapted for use dur-ing this period. The experience of other women who have found this medicine a blessing is proof of its great merit. Why not try it now yourself?

CHOLERA INFANTUM

Cholera Infantum is one of the fatal ailments of childhood. It is a trouble that, comes on suddenly, especially during the summer months and unless prompt action is taken the little one may soon be beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets are an ideal medicine in warding off this trouble. They regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus prevent the dreaded summer complaints. They are an absolute safe medicine, being guaranteed to contain neither opiates nor narcoties or other harmful drugs. They cannot possibly do harm—they always do good. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Begone a while before, Be now a moment gone before,, Yet doubt not, soon the seasons shall Your friend to you-

He has but turned a corner-still He pushes on with right good will, Through mire and marsh, by hedge and hill.

That self-same arduous way-That you and he, through many a doubtful day, Attempted still.

He is not dead, this friend-not dead But in the path we mortals tread Got some few trifling steps ahead, And nearer to the end.

So that you, too, once past the bend, Shall meet again, as face to face this friend You fancy dead.

Push gaily on, strong heart! the You travel forward mile by mile, He loiters with a backward smile, Till you can overtake; And strains his eyes to search his

THE PASSING OF THE PIONEER

(Written by the late Cameron Kester M.A., editor Elmira "Signet")

Down the last of the trails they are bearing,, In a solemn and glorious line, Through the valley of death they are

With a soul unafraid and divine-With that soul that was ever divine-The old pioneer fathers are passing, And this thing ye shall take for a sign.

For with every white head that is sinking, For with every aged heart that is dead,

Ye are losing gold threads in the linking
Of traditional days that are sped, The dumb epic eternally sped-

With the gift of their stern tribulation Which now carpets the path that ye

There is never a zephyr soft-sighing, Where the primeval forest once lay, here is never a patriarch dying, But a story is passing away—
And a glory is passing away—
Of the humble who founded a nation In the travail and stress of the day.

Though the shanty that crouched in the clearing

Is a ghost in the wrack of the past, Though your pioneer fathers are nearing
The dark trail that is blazoned the

Though they pass down the trail that is last— Yet their spirits will hover above ye, In the wind and the stars they will love ye, For the fight they will strengthen and prove ye,

Till they mould ye the pioneer cast.

'Tis lovely when we rest content I think it's what our Master meant To come and get refreshed His yoke is easy, it is light
When in His service we delight
With full assurance we are right
We lean upon His breast.

For He can use most useless things Yes, honey from a carcass brings And sanitary formed We cannot for a single hour Limit the Almighty's power The wilderness may be a bower And wretched lives transformed.

He never with our will consults We know some glorious results For good has been ordained What we have read in sacred story When this old world gets weak and hoary,

"The Son of Man comes in His glory" Then just rewards are gained. But that must be an awful shock To hear "Depart I know ye not," All on account of sins

"To come" the opposite ensures That the inheritance is ours Ready from the earliest hours The dawn of heaven begins. His kindness supercedes all thought

More than we ever dreamed sought, Or ever could believe
Unselfish acts, and motives pure,
The highest tribute will ensure
Yes something greater, richer, truer,
God's nature we receive.

The cleansing, an essential part The purity of mind and heart Our shadow's mighty long An influence that might excell Far, far beyond where now we dwell Beyond this plane for who can tell

When Laughter Kills.

A man living in the Midlands of England died recently of laughing at a comic film play. To most people the news that laughter has more than once endangered life will doubtless come as a surprise.
One of the earliest known instances concerned a famous Roman philosopher, Chrysippus, who died of an immoderate at of laughter on seeing a moderate at of laughter on seeing a donkey eating some figs intended for his own meal. "Give him a bumper of wine to wash them down!" the philosopher bade his attendant, and then died from excessive merriment.

There is also on record a well-authenticated story of a Greek artist who nainted a portrait of an old well-
