CHAPTER OF PLANS

So it is that fate calmly arranges our lives in our time. Although no details of the coming trip were settled during the recent meeting of our new employees, yet that was their fault and the fault of a singularly premature sunset, rather than that of our new employees.

THE EVENING TIMES, ST. JOHN, N. B., FRIDAY, JANUARY 19, 1906.

THE EVENING TIMES.

ST. JOHN, N. B., JAN. 19, 1906. The St. John Evening Times is published at 27 and 29 Castlereagh Street, every evening (Sunday excepted) by the St. John Times Printing & Publishing Co., Ltd. A company incorporated under the Joint Stock Companies Act, 1887. A. M. BELLING, Editor. JOHN RUSSELL, Jr., President.

CITIZENS' LEAGUE

The executive of the Citizens' League will meet this evening and the discussion of a ticket for the next civic elections will be a feature of the meeting. The executive are understood to desire to have such a ticket presented for consideration at the general meeting of the League to be held as already announced. There will be much public interest in the movements of the League. If it can put in the field a strong ticket of able and energetic citizens, it will doubtless receive general support. Much depends upon the personnel of the ticket. Doubtless the list will contain the names of some members of the present council. It is really more important to formulate the best men as candidates than to formulate policies. Any policy would work out badly unless there were good men behind it.

THE NEW BERTHS

While the report of the transportation commission is still in the public mind, the city council should press with promptness and vigor upon the government the need of continuous dredging on the west side until enough has been done to provide three more steamship berths. The volume of winter trade is increasing, larger steamships are coming, and it is necessary to have the assurance that the work of continuous wharf extension will be made possible by a continuation of the dredging. The city will then be in a position to go ahead with the contracts for new berths as fast as they are required and the progress of the dredging will permit. The council has authorized a delegation to lay the matter before the minister of public works, and it is now up to the delegation. Time is an important factor in the case.

MARSHALL FIELD

The late Marshall Field was born in Conway, Mass., in 1835, the year in which Chicago, where he made his fortune, was founded. Estimates of his wealth vary from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000. Of his public gifts it is said: "Mr. Field always retained his interest in his old home and birthplace, Conway, Mass. He has visited there once a year, and in 1900 he erected there the Field Memorial Library, in memory of his parents. At the close of the world's fair in 1893 Mr. Field endowed with $1,000,000 the museum known as the Field Columbian Museum, for which a home valued at $8,000,000 is soon to be erected in the heart of the city. He later gave to the University of Chicago land valued at $400,000 to be used for athletic purposes, and a portion of it is known today as Marshall Field. He was extremely charitable in other directions."

THEY HAVE THE RIGHT

Despite the Sun's comment the Times begs to repeat the statement that the Aldermen have the right as well as the power to exclude from committee meetings the reporters of newspapers and especially of those which break faith. It is a safe and fair proposition to let the committee decide, especially in matters affecting men's reputation and the interests of the port, what it is judicious to publish. Aldermen may do foolish things at times, and they may commit blunders and merit censure for their failure to conduct civic affairs successfully; but they are the elected representatives of the people for the time being, and they are responsible to the people and not to the reporters. It is, of course, conceivable that there might be Aldermen who would seek to suppress news of importance, but no such disposition has been shown in this case under discussion, nor in the recent history of at least St. John's city council. In the present case a sworn enquiry was being held and a stenographic report being taken, to be submitted to the council. There was no attempt whatever at concealment. If because this was a sworn enquiry the rights of the Aldermen were in any way restricted, their claim to ordinary rights, still held good.

THE CLOUDED SUN

The Sun is pursuing a very petty and foolish course with regard to City Hall matters. Yesterday afternoon a question was to be privately discussed by the board of works. The reporters who were present were given permission to remain and hear the discussion for their own information, and of course for the information of the editors, if the latter cared to know. The Sun reporter withdrew, because that paper could not be permitted to do as it liked with the discussion. This morning the Sun published a totally incorrect and misleading report of what transpired. The Sun refuses to rely on the judgment of the Aldermen. Have not the Aldermen an equal right to distrust the Sun? Let's have a square deal. The citizens would doubtless be glad to read in the Sun a calm and dispassionate review of civic affairs, but attacks based on ill-temper are not likely to be impressive.

The Liverpool correspondent of the London Times writes in the Sun of Jan. 18, 1906, "New Brunswick and Nova Scotia spruce deals are in about the same position as they were in November, the import for December being practically the same as the consumption. Parcels of spruce still continue to come forward by every liner from both provinces. Of course, these are sold as soon as they arrive, or before, and under pressure of these weekly arrivals, the market has weakened to some slight extent." The Globe's fears that some enemy of St. John may rejoice because the ferry steamer Onanogady was steered on a mud-bank is not well based. But if it were contended because she touched ground that therefore St. John harbor was dangerous for large steamers, and the statement was printed in Montreal papers, the enemies of the port might have good reason to smile with satisfaction. It is assumed that the (Atlas mail) contract is on the same terms as the old one in respect to the winter ports. One of the conditions ought to be an undertaking on the part of the contractors not to make an annual request for the privilege of cutting out one of the contract ports, and to refrain from obstructing the port and harbor of St. John. (Daily Sun.)

THE INGLE NOOK PHILOSOPHER OF KENNEBECAS BAY.

"Am I Pollard?" "Well, is it Pollard that is talking to you?" "Oh, no! Pollard is a child of the age, and the age talk through Pollard. Like all the rest of us, he is a sort of walking gramophone. I doubt if he ever constructed a sentence or originated an idea in his life. In fact, I know he never did." "This is becoming offensively personal," said Pollard, with considerable spirit, as he lit his pipe. "Why not say I am an ass, and have done with it?" "My dear fellow," I replied, "We are all asses, though it is six thousand years or more since the light first shone into our eyes. We tatter about like children and talk like parrots, though all the wisdom that has been bestowed on our ancestors is at our command. The other night you misquoted from the Fairy Queen, and you thought you, Pollard, were saying something rather good, and I have often heard you quote Shakespeare, Johnson, Bacon and even some of the Old Testament writers unconsciously. You are an ass, a parrot, a turnip, Pollard, and so we are all."

"I see," said Pollard, "there is nothing new under the sun." "No," said I, "My line," continued Pollard, "extends back six thousand years or more. I descend from thirty-six hundred ancestors. I have been an object of solicitude to all of them. I inherit their strength and their infirmities, their wisdom and their folly, and we have picked up a good deal, especially of the latter, from chance acquaintances outside the family, during all those six thousand years. And how much have we forgotten! One of my ancestors worked on the pyramids at Gizeh, another built the pigments for the decorators of the palaces of Pompeii; another lighted Babylon by electricity and stretched the telephone and telegraph wires from Tyre to Sidon. Then we forgot and centuries later it came to Morse and Edison in their dreams some of these things were done. I doubt if anything good or bad is ever utterly lost. We mislay things, but they are like children crying in the street, and we ever meet them again, as you have hopes and fears, all the joys and sorrows of my thirty-six hundred ancestors, and even though I were an ass, as you are, I would not recall them if I knew how to do so."

"Pollard was still a little ruffled, but he calmed and rebled his pipe." "We have been six thousand years or more acquiring an education, and out of it we are the children crying in the street, like ships at sea without chart or compass. We chase butterflies and when we catch them we find they are mere insects. We run a race the end of which is a stumble, a fall and what? A thorn and have grieved, but very few have ever met have been satisfied by their guesses. Yes," concluded Pollard, "we are like children crying in the night," and, buttoning his coat, he left us to my reflections.

White Head, Kings Co, Jan. 17.

FRANCE AND ITS PRESIDENT

In his work on "The Development of European Nations," recently published, Dr. J. Holland Rose says: "The third republic has now lasted a quarter of a century. That is to say, it rests on the support of a generation that has gradually become accustomed to representative institutions—a generation that its two predecessors did not enjoy. The success of institutions depends in the last resort on the character of those who work them, and the testimony of all observers is that the character of Frenchmen has slowly but surely changed in the direction which Thiers pointed out in the dark days of February, 1871." France "has attained to a full sense of responsibility. No longer are her constructive powers hopelessly outmatched by her critical powers. In her political sphere she has found a new balance between the brain and the hand. From analysis she has worked her way to synthesis."

Clement Armand Fallieres, who has been elected president of the French Republic for nearly thirty years, though he is only about sixty-five years old. He was born in Mezin, Nov. 6, 1841, studied law, was admitted to the bar at Nercac, and was elected mayor of Paris May 25, 1875. At the elections of the following year he was elected to the Chamber of Deputies as a Republican by 8770 votes out of 10,000. He was re-elected to the National Legislature Fallieres joined the group of the Republican Left. He jumped into prominence at once as an orator. After the Act of May 16, 1877, he was one of the 383 Leftists who refused a vote of confidence in the De Broglie cabinet. In the fall of the same year he was re-elected deputy by 8833 votes against 6810 cast for the candidate for the Government. In the new Chamber, Fallieres followed the same political line as the Moderate Republicans. May 17, 1880, he was appointed under secretary of state. He left the cabinet, together with the other members of the Jules Ferry ministry Nov. 10, 1881, having been re-elected to the Chamber of Deputies a few months before.

He returned to power as minister of the interior in the Duclerc cabinet, and when Duclerc resigned as prime minister on account of ill health, Fallieres became president of the cabinet, taking charge of the portfolio of foreign affairs at the same time. He resigned, together with the whole cabinet, Jan. 29, 1883, because the senate refused to accept his bill directed against the pretenders to the throne of France.

When Jules Ferry, minister of public instruction, resigned his portfolio to become minister of foreign affairs Fallieres, Nov. 20, 1883, was called to replace Ferry in the former capacity, but resigned with the rest of the Ferry cabinet in 1885. He served again as member of the cabinet in 1887 in the Rouvier ministry; was called by President Carnot in 1887 to construct a cabinet of his own, but did not succeed; served as minister of public instruction in the Tirard cabinet in 1888, was retained in the Freycinet cabinet of 1889, and was elected in December, 1891, member of the Senate. March 3, 1893, he was elected president of the Senate, defeating M. Constans by sixty-six votes. He was re-elected to this office only the other day.

ALD. FRINK TALKS OUT

Tells Safety Board He Believes Some One is Trying to Block City Lighting Scheme.

That somebody is trying to block the city's endeavor to move towards doing its own lighting is the expressed belief of Ald. Frink. At a safety board meeting he declared he saw at work an influence towards that end. This arose over a discussion as to whether F. W. Holt, C. E., should be included in those to be considered as possible to be employed to give estimates.

Ald. McArthur occupied the chair and Ald. Lewis, Hamm, Holder, Bullock, Frink, Tiley and Sprout were present with the director, Chief Kerr and the common clerk.

When the report of a sub-committee on lighting the city and public buildings was taken up, Ald. Frink reviewed the steps already taken to communicate with competent electrical and hydraulic engineers and referred in particular to the qualifications of R. W. & H. T. and J. M. Gault. The firm named offered to make an estimate of cost and a preliminary survey for $75 a day and expenses or for a lump sum of $800. Mr. Gault, who had been seen by Ald. McArthur when visiting upper Canada recently, quoted $80 a day and expenses.

Ald. Bullock said that taking the two estimates on a basis of details supplied by Messrs. Ross & Holgate they would be a saving of $180 by employing Mr. Gault. The question of employing the same engineer to make the investigation of the falls might have to be considered and Mr. Frink did not favor the suggestion as it was of the utmost importance that there should be no delay in the electric lighting matter.

Ald. Frink referred to a communication from F. W. Holt, C. E., of this city, asking that his name be considered.

Ald. Bullock said the sub-committee had not yet had the letter before them.

Mr. Holt's letter was then read.

Ald. Bullock said that Mr. Holt made no allusion to any previous experience with electric lighting plants and named no figures. He thought possibly the investigation at the falls would be more in Mr. Holt's province.

Ald. Sprout asked if anyone at the board had any knowledge of Mr. Holt's experience with electric lighting. Personally he said, he knew nothing about Mr. Holt but going outside for experts had, he thought, not been all sunshine and Mr. Holt should be given favorable consideration if possible.

Ald. Lewis said the matter resolved itself into a question of cost. Mr. Gault seemed, from his recommendations, to be an expert. "But, I know," added the Alderman, "how much brains he has when I have never measured his head."

A voice—"Smell his breath!" (Laughter.)

Ald. Frink moved that the committee have power to continue the matter until Messrs. Ross & Holgate to have power to act.

Ald. Tiley—"Mr. Holt ought to be recognized. The committee might see him."

Ald. Sprout—"That is the proper course to pursue."

Ald. Frink said he was not opposed to Mr. Holt but he was apparently only a hydraulic engineer. He had no objection to adding his name to the resolution but he could see that it would delay the whole business which might drag on for two or three months and amount to nothing.

Ald. Bullock did not favor including Mr. Holt in the resolution.

Ald. Hamm—"I think we should make an arrangement with Mr. Gault as once 'under the price.'"

Ald. Frink—"Did you move an amendment?"

Ald. Hamm—"No, I did not."

Ald. Sprout said he could not see where two or three months' delay would arise by seeing Mr. Holt.

Ald. Frink—"If you had been on the committee Ald. Sprout, I think you'd be prepared to act on the report."

Ald. Frink's motion with Mr. Holt's name added was then put and question called. Ald. Hamm, Tiley, Sprout and Lewis voted aye. Ald. Frink declined to vote for the motion on the ground that it had been changed after he moved it.

Ald. Lewis—"Did you not accept Mr. Holt?"

Ald. Frink—"I said I had no objection to him. I can see an influence at work to block this whole scheme and I know the men who intend to block it."

Ald. Lewis—"That is rather red hot. We will back you up whatever report comes back."

The chairman said he did not think there was any one with Mr. Gault's experience in the city of St. John.

The press could not ascertain the names of the Aldermen who voted against the motion as they were not called. The matter was referred to but Ald. Bullock moved the adjournment and claimed a motion from Ald. Hamm to reconsider the question was out of order. Ald. McArthur then left the chair and the meeting adjourned.

QUESTION OF IMMIGRATION

Marcus Braun Make Revelations in His Report from St. John.

Marcus Braun, chief inspector of the U. S. immigration department at St. John, makes astonishing revelations on immigration in a report read in the house at Washington Wednesday. Mr. Braun was some time ago given the task of looking into the matter and he went to the European countries from which many emigrants go to the United States. The results of his work are astonishing. A synopsis of the report as sent out from Washington is here given.

Washington, Jan. 17.—In response to the Silver resolution passed by the house, Secretary McCall, of the department of commerce and labor, today sent to the house the report of Special Immigrant Inspector Marcus Braun, which deals at great length with the character of immigrants coming to this country and the attitude of European governments upon the matter.

Mr. Braun declares that he has uncovered evidence that while the number of aliens shipped to this country because of disease is diminishing, immigrants undesirable for other reasons are constantly being brought into the country in large numbers "by the concerted action of some European governments, and its agencies, by bribery and subterfuge of all sorts."

He declares that while these governments have been ostensibly intended to restrict immigration they actually encourage it by keeping alive "the patriotic spirit of the fatherland in the minds of these 'colonists' by representing that unless they adhere to the principles of home patriotism, their governments would leave them without protection in 'baccaric America.' This is especially true, Mr. Braun says, in Italy and Hungary. He cites the fact that $20,000,000 was sent last year from the United States to Austria-Hungary alone from these immigrants. "Not a single promise which the new Hungarian immigrant law guaranteed has been kept. I experienced the bewildering spectacle," Mr. Braun says, "of hundreds upon hundreds of agents lured by the Hungarian government, carrying on and conducting an almost unheard of campaign to get immigrants in direct and open violation of the law."

He states that in order to discourage Hungarians from becoming American citizens, the process is taken to advocate the establishment in the United States of Hungarian homes, schools, churches and institutions, the intention of which is to avert "the terrible danger" of Hungarians becoming naturalized.

Mr. Braun then takes up immigration from Turkey, Asia Minor and Syria. Speaking of the Armenians, he says that they have invented a scheme whereby they can evade the law and at the same time defy Turkish laws. This scheme consists of a large number of Armenians emigrating to the United States and as soon as they have earned sufficient money for their need, they return supplied with American citizenship papers, under which they continually engage in conspiracies against the Turkish government. The same is true in Syria and Palestine.

In Jerusalem alone Mr. Braun found more than 1,000 "American citizens."

He states that 90 per cent of them speak not a word of English and most of them did not know the street of the city in which they claimed to have resided while in the United States.

It is openly stated, Mr. Braun says, in the Export Review, a semi-official organ of the Austrian government, that three-fourths of the immigrants leaving that country for the United States come here under contract.

"There is tendency on the part of the Austrian government," Mr. Braun says, "similar to the policy of Hungary."

Violations of the immigrant law, Mr. Braun declares, are not confined to Europe alone, but are rampant in America. As to the Russian Jew, once he becomes a resident of this country, Mr. Braun says, he stays and his children become among the most patriotic and thrifty of citizens.

IN A SAD POSITION

Pitiful Little Story Connected With Death of Frederick McNaughton.

News of the sudden death of Fred J. McNaughton, of this city, which occurred at Moosemin, Saskatchewan, yesterday, came as a great shock to his friends and relatives, but most of all it will be a severe blow to his fiancée, Miss Betsey Allen, who only arrived in the city this morning on route to Moosemin, where they were to have been married.

Miss Allen, who is a daughter of A. W. Allen, a former member of the firm of Haley Bros. & Co., and now in the lumber business in Middleton, N. S., left here about 5 or 6 years ago, when the family removed to Middleton. She is now residing in Middleton, intending to stay over here for a day and then go to Moosemin, where she was to be married to Mr. McNaughton. At Amherst she was met by Harry McNaughton, who is employed with the Rhodes Cary Co., and he accompanied her to St. John, where they arrived this morning. She is a relative here, however, to break the sad news of Fred's death. She is stopping with Mrs. J. H. Murray, Orange street.

The young couple have been engaged for some years and it was the intention of Mr. McNaughton to have the wedding take place as soon as he had become settled in his western home. Needless to say the news of his sudden death came as a great shock to his bride-to-be, and with sympathy of the entire community will go out to her in her distressing position.

Mr. McNaughton was in St. John last summer, having returned for a visit of several months to his native city on the advice of his physician, owing to falling ill. He returned to his western home much improved and as healthy as Christ. His good reports of his health were received by his father, who was in the office of J. McAvity & Sons. Then he went west and entered business with his uncle, R. D. McNaughton, at Moosemin.

Mr. McNaughton was thirty-one years of age, the son of P. W. McNaughton, of Joggins Mines, N. S., and grandson of the late Captain Jacob Fritz of this city. Besides his father he leaves three brothers, Harry and Robert of Amherst, and Louis at home. An only sister, Miss Jean, is at present visiting in this city.

Other relatives here are, Dr. H. A. Fritz, an uncle; Mrs. E. M. Sippell and Mrs. J. H. Murray, aunts; and R. G. Murray, barrister, a cousin. A. G. Grey is a great uncle.

The body will be brought to St. John for interment, leaving Moosemin tonight and arriving here probably Tuesday or Wednesday next week. R. D. McNaughton will accompany the remains.

Mr. McNaughton was a young man of sterling qualities, and news of his death will be received with regret by his many friends. Before going west he was prominent member of the Riverside Baptist church.

The bride was Miss Blanche Collier, daughter of the late W. E. Collier, of St. John, New Brunswick; and the bridegroom, James Watson, son of Dr. James Watson, Dundee, Scotland. The ceremony was officiated by the Very Rev. Canon Pheasant.

The bride was accompanied by Miss Helen L. Collier, Miss E. Freda Collier, and Miss Missie B. Collier, her sisters; two cousins, Miss Munroe, of Kinross and Miss Mackenzie, Harewaig; and Miss Peggy Gard, a cousin of the bridegroom.

HURT IN A SAW MILL

Bloomfield Man Had His Head and Arm Injured at Queen's Lake.

A young man with his head bound up and his left arm in a sling attracted some attention in the Union depot yesterday. It was learned that his name is Alva Williams and his home at Bloomfield. He has been working at Queen's Lake, Queen Co., in a saw mill operated by W. J. Collicott.

On Wednesday last he was clearing away some stumps from one of the machines when his coat became entangled in the machinery, throwing him up over the pulley. His head was quite badly cut and his arm sprained but otherwise he was not badly hurt and considers his escape from more serious injury very fortunate. He was attended by Dr. Dauley of Hoy's station, and is improving rapidly. He arrived on the Fredericton express this morning and went to Bloomfield on the noon train.

DESERTERS SENT BACK

Mate and Sailors of Schooner Cora May Sent Back to the Schooner.

The mate and three of the crew who deserted from the St. John schooner Cora May, were captured and placed aboard at Portland, Me. but still refuse duty.

The above information was conveyed this morning to N. C. Scott, owner of the Cora May, in a telephone message to him from the British Consul at Portland, who while talking with Mr. Scott over the wire confirmed the report that the vessel had returned to the port. It was found on having been otherwise called within the requirements of the British shipping law.

Mr. Scott advised the consul to instruct Captain Hogan to secure a couple of men to go with them as far as Vineyard Haven where the vessel reports for orders; and told the Times that at present he has no reason to expect trouble and thought it quite probable that the crew would fall in line and complete the trip.

POLICE COURT

In the police court this morning Richard Adams, for drunkenness, forfeited $5 last night on St. John street by Officer McNamee for being drunk.

The prisoner, when arrested, was in a hopeless condition and the policeman, with the aid of a citizen, had to carry him to the lock-up. This morning Madam laid a head dose of "the shaker," and was released after the honor to the prisoner.

The latter must have received liquor while in an intoxicated condition.

Lawrence Totten, John "Navy" George Buckley and a boy named Crawford, appeared in court this morning as the result of a report lodged against them by the I. C. R. police. They were charged with selling papers in the depot, and annoying the passengers there by on the 10th inst. Totten explained that he was not a newsboy, and was not connected in anyway with the others, and was allowed to go.

The other three boys were adjudged guilty and were fined $20 each. They were taken below until their fines are paid. The I. C. R. police have received orders from C. R. Barry, hawker, reported for violating the regulations for hawkers, to allow the square yards of his pavement in Halifax.

ETHIOLITHIC PAVING

An error appears in the report if the board of works meetings, on another page, in which it is made to appear that the square yards of his pavement in Halifax. It has only laid 2000 yards, but has closed a contract for 18,000 yards. It has laid over 32,000 square yards in Glouce Bay.

TO ATTRACT TOURISTS

The Dominion Atlantic Railway Pursues an Excellent System of Publicity.

The Dominion Atlantic Railway is preparing, for the benefit of the hundreds of tourists who annually visit Nova Scotia, a booklet, to contain a detailed list of cottages whose owners are prepared to accommodate a limited number of boarders during the summer months. The booklet is intended to cover the principal towns and villages reached by the railway as well as show a few miles removed from the line, but having stage or other connections. To make the list as complete as possible the company invites those having comfortable farm houses and cottages to communicate with the general passenger agent, giving the name of the town or village, name of house, name of proprietor, number of persons can accommodate, rate per day and week, nearest station on D. A. R. and distance therefrom, local attractions, such as boating, fishing, golfing, deep sea or fresh water fishing, poloing, tennis, interesting drives, historic attractions, etc.

The aim of the company is to open up the country districts to those tourists who desire to spend their vacation amid quiet, restful surroundings rather than in the larger towns, and who for want of the above information have been in the past seasons spending their summer getting in the country districts in New England.
