Law practice in East St. Louis is made interesting by events which are uncommon in court rooms elsewhere. Counsellor Grady and Justice Bunyan were enemies, because they had disagreed about the division of some fees. The quarrel was openly resumed white Bunyan was on the bench and Grady was at the bar. They called each other liars and thieves. Then the Justice came down from his bench and there was a fight. Grady drew a knife and stabbed Bunyan so close to the heart that an interposing watch barely turned the blade aside. A mob, chased and tried to lynch him, a hard run only saving him.

The ertiminal statistics for Ireland for 1273 have been compiled. It appears that crime has been decreasing for the last three years. The number of indictable offences is 774 less than last year. It is 32 per cent. below the number in an equal population in England and Wales, and 16 per cent, below the average in Great Britain for 5 years. The excess in the English average is in the more serious class of crimes. Ireland also contrasts favorably with Belgium, which is nearly equal in population. Ulster is compared with Scotland, and so far as marders and attempts to murder are recorded the balance is against breland; but if culpable homfetgles or manslaughter and all offences against human life be added, the crime of Scotland preponderaces.
