THE LONE LONG-KNIFE.
BY C. W. SMITH.

For years the name of this stalwart hunter was familiar along the borders. He was tall, modest, and simple. He had read no book but that of nature; knew no art but wood-craft, and hated nothing on earth but an Indian, a pole-cat and a coward. He never was known to say "Boys, you do it!"—but always "Boys, come on!"

His rifle was the longest, the heaviest, and the surest on the border. His frank eye was never at fault to mark the distant game; meet the gaze of a savage foe, or smile back truth to friend.

The traditional history of early settlement in the West, contains many a striking narrative of the feats of this famous hunter, who in his capacity of guide, spy, or ranger captain, made frequent forays into the Indian country to the northwest. There seemed to be no possible enterprise too audacious for his enthusiasm—no patience, dexterity, endurance of hunger, thirst, or fatigue, too great for his self-reliance to undertake, and that most frequently alone. Indeed, he appeared to dislike to have other men with him usually, he would say, "they were sure to get to growling like bears with song ears, about their hardships, before the first had even commenced with him." It cost more trouble to take care of them than all their services were worth! then, "the cusses!" they must talk."

This unusual love of solitary adventure caused the Indians to give him the name of the "Lone Long-Knife," and they held his ubiquitous prowess in most wholesome and superstitious dread.

He was the deadly and special foe of the Shawnees, a powerful tribe of the North, who fought over every inch of the "dark and bloody ground" of Kentucky, with the advancing settlers from Virginia and North Carolina.

The Lone Long-Knife on several occasions was known to have entered the villages of this tribe and ascertain their plans by listening around their council wigwams. On one occasion when he suspected a purpose to make a formidable descent upon the settlements on Bear Grass River, he crept into their principal village, under cover of the darkness and laying his ear close to the ground behind the wigwam of the chief he heard every detail of the projected invasion. Disguised by the principal warriors. Among other things which he heard were some as he thought, very complimentary allusions to the value attached by them to the scalp of the "Lone Long-Knife." A reward of five fine horses were offered to any warrior who might bring in his scalp, and such was the effect even the mention of his name had upon the vigilance of the Indians, that a young warrior immediately rose from the council circle and stepped out to walk round the village and see that all was safe from the presence of the ever dreaded Lone Long-Knife.

The hunter saw the warrior approaching the spot where he was crouched, but remained perfectly still until he was in the very act of stepping upon him, when he rose suddenly in his path, struck the Indian a tremendous blow with his huge fist beneath the chin, stretched him speechless on the earth, and plunged away into the grove bordering forest. The heavy fall of the warrior against the bark walls of the wigwam startled the members of the council, with an "ugh!" sprang to their feet and rushed out, arms in hand.

The moon had just broken through the cloud, and they caught a glimpse of the terrible "Lone Long-Knife," as he bounded beneath the shadows with a shrill whoop of laughing defiance. Twenty or thirty rifles rang out in reply, and the balls showed like cutting hail about the hunter's ears as he stretched away on the run for dear life. Though the swiftness of Indian runners had even then passed into a proverb, they had now a runner before them that had often defied their speed. Twenty warriors were instantly in pursuit with yells of ungodly fury—for this was the third time he had thus insulted them by entering their very villages.

In spite of their rage and eagerness the hunter gained so much upon them that by the time the chase had reached the Little Miami river, which was ten miles distant, the great body of the Indians had fallen out and only three were left in sight to continue the pursuit. The Lone Long-Knife took to the river without hesitation, and as he was climbing the bank on the other side, the three Indians stopped on the opposite bank and fired at him. Their balls fell short, and he shouted back his laughing defiance at them as he took shelter behind a tree on the top of the bank. Here, drawing off the water, proof covering of deer's bladder from the lock of his rifle, he prepared to receive them should they attempt to follow him across.

The warriors hesitated for a moment, as it had now grown daylight enough for him to see clearly how to shoot, and they dreaded his terrible marksmanship should he attempt to make a stand there. At this instant hearing the closer yells of those warriors who had fallen behind in the pursuit, they took courage, and with a hoarse cry upon their lips they plunged into the stream.

The Lone Long-Knife lay still as death until they had about reached the middle of the river, which was very much swollen by the heavy rains. Each warrior swam with his rifle between his teeth, his head, therefore forming a very small mark. Notwithstanding, at the first crack of the hunter's rifle the foremost swimmer sank suddenly and forever. The other two hesitated a moment at the sight of the bloody whirl in the waters before them, and they wheeled about for the shore they had left. Before they could get beyond range, however, Long-Knife shot a second one through the shoulder, who, apparently desperately wounded, gave himself up to the current, and was swept swiftly down the stream out of view.

The third warrior, who seemed now to be desperately frightened, executed a series of rapid dives, and by other manoeuvres rescuing those of a wild duck, managed to succeed in halting even the arm of the fatal rifle of the Lone Long-Knife, and reached the shore out of range just as his comrades came in sight.

Long-Knife who now made off through the woods, heard and replied in a jeering way to the furious howl of the main body of his outwitted and outstripped pursuers when they came up with their frightened runner and heard from him a recital of this last deed of their bloody and unifying foe, the Lone Long-Knife.

Two hours afterwards the hunter in his continued flight—for he expected the pursuit to be held on by his exasperated enemies to the very door of his cabin in the settlement, struck the bank of the winding Miami again. Here he saw upon a pile of drift wood which had collected in an eddy near the mouth of one of the small tributaries of the river, some moving object which he at first took for a large turtle, which was gliding in the sun as it strove to drag its unwieldy body upon the logs to bask.

He stepped to gaze, and imagine his astonishment when he perceived it was a tall Indian who was dragging his body slowly from the water by the help of the drift-wood. The warrior did not see him, as his back was turned to where the Lone Long-Knife crouched, behind a huge tree. The poor fellow had lost his gun in the water, and was endeavouring to stop the bleeding from a bullet hole through his shoulder and breast, with green leaves which he gathered from the bushes on shore.

The Lone Long-Knife felt convinced that this man must be the second Indian he had shot in the water above, who had no doubt let go his gun, and making for the drift logs, of which the stream was then full, had sustained himself above water and floated down with them.

Here was a trying position for a gallant hunter. His life was wounded; unarmed, and helpless. If he saw him again in cold blood, it would look unmanly, and beside, the report might bring his pursuers down upon him at once. He knew the warrior could not be taken prisoner alive, and beside, letting him go altogether was against his creed of frontier duty.

He thought within himself for a moment, and then his resolution was instantly formed. He crept cautiously toward the wounded warrior until he reached a large tree which stood close beside the drift wood behind him. Here the Lone Long-Knife laid down his rifle, tomahawk, and knife, and then stepping suddenly into full view, he raised his hands to show that he was all unarmed.

"Ugh!" granted the astonished warrior, making a quick movement, as if to plunge into the water again. "Lone Long-Knife, please."

He uttered two words in the Shawnee tongue, which caused the Indian to pause and bend his dark, glittering gaze upon him for a moment, as if he searched the bottom of his very soul; then seemingly satisfied, he bowed his head slowly, in token of proud submission to his formidable foe.

Long-Knife immediately assisted the wounded warrior to the bank, and tearing up his own shirt for the purpose, bound up the dangerous hurt with cooling herbs. Finding now that the poor fellow's spine had been so paralyzed by the ball as to render him utterly incapable of walking, the gallant hunter, without hesitation, threw him across his ponderous shoulders and bore him on in his continued flight towards the settlement. He had no further trouble from his pursuers, who seemed to have either lost his trail or not crossed the river to resume it.

The generous hunter having once determined upon aiding his proud foe, was so magnanimous to make a trophy of him by taking him into the settlement and praying him to stay, which he knew would have been a humiliation to the latter. There was to be no half-way hospitality with him, so he carried the wounded warrior up on his back to a sheltered cave of which he knew a few miles distant from the settlement. Here he placed him in security, supplying him privately with food and water at regular periods, until he had recovered the use of his limbs with the healing of his wound.

When the warrior had grown strong enough to travel—for he never made the slightest effort to escape at yet, although there had been nothing to prevent it in the absence of his host and captor but his own honor—Long-Knife gave him a full supply of food, returned him his rifle, and pointing towards the North, said:—

"Go in peace back to your people, and tell them how it is the Lone Long-Knife treats his wounded foe."

The annals of chivalry contain no record of nobler deeds than this, and nobly was it repaid in kind by the grateful red-man; for when Boon a short time afterwards was captured at the Spring Springs with eighteen men, the Shawnees restored their arms to the men and permitted them to return in safety to their station.

THE MAGNET AND COLD.
History informs us that many of the countries of Europe, which now possess very mild winters, at one time experienced severe cold during this season of the year. The Siberian and Russian seas were covered with snow at one time for forty days in that city. The Elksine Sea was frozen over every winter during the time of Ovid, and the rivers Rhine and Rhone used to be frozen so deep that oxen sustained loaded wagons. The waters of the Tiber, Rhine, and Rhone now flow freely every winter ice is unknown at Rome, and the waves of the Euxine dash their wintry foam unchristened upon the rocks.

Some have ascribed these climate changes to agriculture,—the cutting down the dense forests—the exposure of the upturned soil to the summer sun, and the draining of the great marshes. We do not believe that such great changes could have been produced on the climate of any country by agriculture, and we are not certain that any such theory can account for the contrary change of climate—from warm to cold winters—which history tells us has taken place in other countries than those named. Greenland received its name from the emerald herbage which clothed its valleys and mountains, and its east coast, which is now inaccessible on account of the perpetual ice heaped upon its shores, was, in the eleventh century, the seat of flourishing Scandinavian colonies, all trace of which is now lost. Cold Labrador was named Vinland by the Norwegians who visited it in the year 1000, and who were baffled with its then mild climate. The cause of these changes is an important inquiry.

A pamphlet by John Murray, civil engineer, has recently been published in London, in which he endeavors to account for these changes of climate by the changeable position of the magnetic poles. The magnetic variation or declination of the needle is well known. At the present time it amounts in London to about twenty-three degrees west of north, while in 1859 the line of variation passed through England, and then moved gradually west until 1816. In that year a great removal of ice took place on the coast of Greenland; hence it is inferred that the cold meridian, which now passes through Canada and Siberia, may at one time have passed through Italy; and as it is now doing its old lines in Europe, Rome may once more see her Tiber frozen over, and the merry Rhineland drive his team on the ice of the classic river.

Whether the changes of climate mentioned have been caused by the change of the magnetic meridian or not, we have few facts before us, at present, to decide positively; but the idea, once spread abroad, may lead to such investigations as will not doubt remove every obscurity, and settle the question.—Scientific American.

LATE CALIFORNIA NEWS.
BATTLE BETWEEN THE ALLIED FORCES AND RUSSIANS IN THE NORTH PACIFIC.
The steamship North Star, with California mails to the 16th October, arrived at New York on Thursday, Nov. 9. She had nearly $1,700,000 in specie, and 625 passengers.

A French fleet, consisting of three frigates and sloops of war, had arrived at San Francisco. They had, in conjunction with the English fleet made an attack on the Russian town and fort of Petropaulsk, in Kamshatka, from which the allied fleet were repulsed with a loss in killed and wounded of 200 men. The British rear Admiral Prince, who commanded the English fleet, was killed by a pistol shot during the engagement. It is supposed he accidentally shot himself. Two Russian ships were captured by the allies. The British ships afterwards sailed for Vancouver's Island.

Steamship Yankee Blade, which left San Francisco Sept. 30 for Panama, was lost on the following day. She had on board 800 passengers and her crew and foremen. She struck on a reef of rocks off Point Arguello, 15 miles above Point Conception. About 15 lives, and all the specie on board, about $150,000, were lost. The ship was a total wreck, and in a day or two was broken up by the sea and washed to pieces. A dense fog hung upon the coast, and the captain supposed the ship to be twenty miles from land when she struck. Some terrible scenes of pillage, and it is said, of murder took place on board the vessel after she struck and before the passengers were rescued by the steamer Galah, lying between San Francisco and San Diego. The following are all the names of the lost given in the San Francisco papers:—Four children of Mrs. Long-ston, Mrs. Brennan and child, Mrs. Sumner and child, Mrs. Smith and child, wife of Mr. Smith, firm of Smith, Brother & Co.; Mrs. Moore and child, Mr. Frank Mitchell.

British Patriotism versus Russian Egoism.—On the banks of the Alma the sinner stood on the top of steep heights, tested by 180 cannon and with 6000 to cover his retreat. The Englishman to march up the bank trusting his support of his comrades at his side, the Russian to creep up the bank, and to the Englishman's patriotism, the Russian's egoism, and a more obstinate temper than is to be found in the surf. The Emperor is reduced to the painful necessity of proclaiming a holy war, and culminating two enemies of Christian Europe as the enemies of the faith. Nothing has been done on our side to engender fanaticism, or to provoke a stranger and our armies have usually shown. The British soldier is under no unusual stimulus and no novel belief, he does his duty as usual.—The Times.

Correspondence.

To the Editor of the Standard.

SIR, The past week has been so prolific on Railway absurdities that, instead of sending you the letter which I had prepared on other subjects; I cannot resist the temptation of giving such of your subscribers as may not have heard of them, the same entertainment: that I enjoyed when the news of them reached me.

Extremes meet, as we all know, Mr. Editor: "the ridiculous is but one step from the sublime," and therefore as it is hardly possible for our sapient Directors to climb to a higher round on the ladder of folly, as to perpetrate anything more egregiously silly than they have done within the last ten days, I think we may fairly anticipate something perfectly astounding in sublimity in the next act which shall reach our wondering ears. They must make haste, however, or else the catastrophe of the downfall, which surely awaits them, will take place before they can change their inopportunities for stupidity, to one of a higher or more respectable character.

I sincerely hope my anticipations may be verified; for I really think it would be a sad thing to see "the Father of the Town," among others, laughed at everlastingly by his children for the ridiculous figure which he now cuts.

you, however, anything at all, permit me first to say, that I have been able to do, alone is involved. I am not at all, but most certainly he had no right to apply to me, who merely comment and act as far as they affect the public. X Y Z is a shareholder, and therefore has a right to ascertain the truth or falsehood of any alleged misbehaviour either on the part of the Manager or any other servant of the Company, he should address himself to the Board, who are also his servants, and to the individual accused, when by hearing both their statements, he would be able to form his judgment. I have only further to say in allusion to this matter, that was glad to see the expression of your opinion, which, from all I know, is to be the correct and proper one.

for the fun. Such a hotheaded and unbalanced way of thinking is beyond any way that and will not do, and yet they should be done, and for that purpose time must be given. If no new Board comes into existence till next May, I say the season must inevitably be lost; therefore, for Heaven's sake, rouse the stockholders to a sense of their duty—GET A SPECIAL MEETING CALLED, and let us not pass through the dreary months of winter, without a hope that, with the opening smiles of returning spring, the frowns of fortune on our future prospects may likewise be dispelled.

I am, Sir,
Your obt. serv't,
CIVIS.

To the Editor of the Standard.

SIR, In the last number of your valuable paper, I read with much surprise, the official letter from the Sec'y of the St. A. & Q. R. R. Company, ordering the discontinuance of "the Standard," both for the Board in this Province and that in London. I say it with much surprise that I read this letter, as I (with many others) scarcely gave the "public" men who compose the Board, credit for being so "thin skinned," (even if the shafts levelled at them by your many talented correspondents had struck home,) as to discontinue subscribing to your paper, because you and your contributors' views differed from theirs; and to what other cause can their sudden order for stopping the Standard be attributed? except indeed it be for economy, and the saving of 30s. a year for the two copies, would, I think, scarcely induce them to take such a step! Now, Mr. Editor, would statesmen or public officers learn if their political views in the one case, or their actions in the other, were approved or condemned by the Public, except through the public Press? and where I ask you, will you meet with an instance of an honest, impartial, and straightforward newspaper being discontinued, because it exposed the follies of the one or the abuses of the other? Were such the general rule, then indeed might the "mighty thunder" of "the Times," soon number its subscribers by tens instead of by thousands.

I do not wish to anticipate any remarks which may, according to your promise, fall from your more able pen, on this subject, but it has occurred to me, that the more manly course for the Board of Directors to have pursued, would have been to have contradicted (if possible) by letter, any statements put forth by "Civis" or others, thus correcting any erroneous impressions which may have got abroad thru your columns, and as I am, as an inhabitant, greatly interested in the welfare of the town, and feel that in a small community (particularly with an undertaking in hand which will benefit all, more or less), "UNANIMITY" should be our motto, I call on the Board of Directors, even at this late hour, to refute, (if it be in their power) all events to palliate, (if such can be truthfully) their many acts which have so much "out of door talk," and led to being so much taken up with R. R. Should they not respond to this, I confidently ask, the Public if they are not condemning themselves by their thereby increasing that want of which is now so keenly felt in all if any of the individual Board have discontinued subscriptions to yr. paper, but in order that there be no excuse for their not seeing this letter, I beg you to continue me in yr. list of subscribers, and to send yr next number to the President & Directors at their office instead of to me.

Agreeing with you in your desire to see "Fair Play" I beg to subscribe myself,

Yrs. truly,

AUDI ALTERAM PARTEM
[To the Editor of the "Standard"]

SIR,—I thank you for the frank expression of your opinion on the subject of X Y Z, and as you very liberally allow of your columns to reply to all myself or your kind consideration it would have been more for publishing them, unless indeed, we had refused insertion to their replies if any had been offered; and more shrewd men, remembering the old adage "forewarned forearmed," would have felt the desirableness of knowing what their opponents said of them; and at all events have avoided the self-convicting confession that they could not bear to read the truth about themselves, for it would be "heard to suppose that any other motive."

But these men are so sunk that they are callous to the promptings of a liberal spirit, and incapable even of the commonest artifices to hide their wincing under the lash which chastises them.

If the increase or decrease of our subscriptions can be taken as any test of what the public think of us since the first of Civis' letters appeared, we have much pleasure in stating both to the Board and their three or four satellites who have thought proper to withdraw their subscriptions, that for every withdrawal we have obtained at least three accessions; and it may perhaps also be agreeable to the Directors to know, that we shall treat with the utmost contempt their impertinent and presumptuous forbiddance, to supply the London Board with a copy of the Standard.

I am, Sir,
Your obt. serv't,
JULIUS THOMPSON
St. Andrews, Nov. 17, 1854.

[FOR THE STANDARD.]

Mr. Editor,

There is a report in Town, that Mr. J. Wilson wished to make a difference of 50 per cent on the traffic of the Railroad, between Chamcook and St. Andrews. I trust you will give me space enough to explain the matter to the public.

When the letter regulating the traffic was written for the Contractors to sign, Mr. Wilson at first, made the difference between the two places 5 per cent. Some member of the Board remarked that it should be 10; Mr. Wilson then, (as the letter was only a rough draft) drew a 1 over the 5, and put an 0 after it. I believe every member of the Board, who was then present, will agree with me in this matter.

A lover of FAIR PLAY.

Fredericton Road Store, Nov. 20
MR. EDITOR,
Dear Sir,

Having noticed in your last week's publication, that it is the intention of the St. Andrews & Quebec Railroad Board, to put the quintus on you, by withdrawing their subscription for two copies of your paper, we, a few of the poor unpaid officials, at "Dumbarton Castle," commonly called the Fredericton Road Store, request you to forward us the two copies they decline, so that you may keep up your number; and we trust you will still continue to publish all correspondence connected with the Railway.

By publishing the above you will greatly oblige your Obedient Servants,
A. B. C.

THE STANDARD.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 22, 1854.

SPECTATOR, EFFU SPECTABERE.

Shakespeare has said that "conscience makes cowards of us all," and every succeeding age has served to prove how intimately he knew the workings of the human heart. Certainly none are such arrant cowards, as those, who recklessly pursuing their course of wickedness and wrong, shrink conscience stricken, from an open discussion on their acts, or a free examination by their fellow men; and who defacing their own ears to the censures they feel they merit, vainly endeavor by every mean and petty artifice, to prevent the honest outbursts of public indignation from reaching the ears of others. Such are the men who now direct—readers, forgive us, who mis-direct the affairs of the Railroad, and by such means alone do they cling to, and hope to retain the office they fill so unworthily; but the bursting of the storm which has long been gathering round their heads, cannot be long delayed, and then, like the drowning man who makes one last effort before he sinks forever—so will they sink, be forgotten, and despised, notwithstanding all their struggles to prolong existence.

We have been led into these remarks by the snake-like wriggings during the last fortnight of this miserable set. Do they think that the withdrawal of their patronage and subscription (for the payment of which by the way, we have generally had to wait for many months) can turn us aside from a straightforward and independent path? Or do they imagine that any consideration or thought, either of their individual or collective support, crossed our mind to influence us in the discharge of our public duty, regarding the publication of the letters which have lately appeared in our columns?

More liberal men would have respected us the more for publishing them, unless indeed, we had refused insertion to their replies if any had been offered; and more shrewd men, remembering the old adage "forewarned forearmed," would have felt the desirableness of knowing what their opponents said of them; and at all events have avoided the self-convicting confession that they could not bear to read the truth about themselves, for it would be "heard to suppose that any other motive."

But these men are so sunk that they are callous to the promptings of a liberal spirit, and incapable even of the commonest artifices to hide their wincing under the lash which chastises them.

If the increase or decrease of our subscriptions can be taken as any test of what the public think of us since the first of Civis' letters appeared, we have much pleasure in stating both to the Board and their three or four satellites who have thought proper to withdraw their subscriptions, that for every withdrawal we have obtained at least three accessions; and it may perhaps also be agreeable to the Directors to know, that we shall treat with the utmost contempt their impertinent and presumptuous forbiddance, to supply the London Board with a copy of the Standard.

I am, Sir,
Your obt. serv't,
JULIUS THOMPSON
St. Andrews, Nov. 17, 1854.

The Hon. S. L. TILLEY, Provincial Secretary, was re-elected on Wednesday last, without opposition as a member of the Assembly for the City of St. John. We regret that want of space prevents our giving a synopsis of his admirable address.

The Hon CHARLES FISHER the new Attorney General, was re-elected on the 13th inst., by a show of hands, as a representative in the Assembly, for York—this we fully expected, as the constituency of that County, well know, the hon. gentleman's ability, independence, and integrity. We trust that it will be in our power within a few weeks to record a similar result in the case of the Hon. Mr. Brown. We cannot doubt that "the pride of Duquesne" will walk the course alone, but should "opposition" come forward, it will be "distanced," if we can believe voice of the county.

HON. JAMES BROWN.

We learn from the Patriot that a Public Meeting was held at St. Stephens on the 14th inst., pursuant to a printed notice of the Hon. James Brown, stating that he had been offered the office of Surveyor General, but had declined to accept it, until he could ascertain the opinion of his Constituents and requesting them to meet at Thompson's Hall at half past 6 o'clock on Tuesday Evening, in order to advise him with regard to the acceptance, or not, of the office. Our columns were filled, before we received the report of the proceedings but we will insert it in our next. We have only space at present to state, that the meeting was an enthusiastic one, that Mr. Brown's explanations gave entire satisfaction, and that the meeting by the following resolution approved—(we are happy to say,) of Mr. Brown's accepting the office, and a better qualified, more independent and honest man could not be selected.

The following is the resolution:
Moved by W. T. Rose, Esq., seconded by Wm. Todd, Esq., and Resolved,—That the action of the subsisting Government of this Province in tendering the office of Surveyor General to the Hon. James Brown, meets with the approbation of this meeting, that in the opinion of the meeting, he should accept the same; and electors present pledge themselves to support him in the election that will ensue upon the acceptance thereof.

Whereupon, the Chairman, testing the Freeholders on the said resolution—it was adopted and recorded—"unanimous"

Our correspondents, "The Patriot," takes a plain common sense view, with regard to the Railroad Board having "stopped" our paper; and very properly suggests to the Directors to refute (if possible) the statements put forth by our correspondents; or even to palliate (if it can be done with truth), their acts, which have caused so much "out of door talk." Our columns are, and have been open to them to do so; but it appears to us, they are either indifferent to public opinion, or cannot contradict the charges.—We will comply with our correspondent's request, and shall be pleased to hear from him again, as we like to "hear both sides."

We commend "Civis'" suggestion to "get a special meeting called"—to the serious and immediate consideration of the Stockholders, there is no time to be lost.

European Intelligence.

The steamship Atlantic arrived at New York on Monday. She left Liverpool on Wednesday morning the 1st inst.

The Niagara arrived on the 30th. The Niagara brings nothing relative to the Arctic's passengers.

THE WAR NEWS.

The siege of Sebastopol is progressing favourably. Two outer forts have been destroyed. A breach had been effected, but it was not yet practicable to storm.

MARKETS.

Flour declined 6d. and Corn 2s. Flour declined 2s. Provisions unchanged. Consols unchanged.

New York, Nov. 16.

The Steamer Asia arrived this morning. News from the seat of war obscure. Russian advances say Allies have suffered two severe defeats, viz: French batteries taken and 16 guns spiked.

British Cavalry defeated, with loss of 500 horses and many men.

It is confirmed that 30,000 Russians attacked the Balaklava, and captured the Forts when a great battle ensued. Allies remaining masters of the field.

British accounts say siege of Sebastopol is progressing favourably.

It is stated that Col. Upton (the son of the engineer of Sebastopol) has afforded valuable information in regard to the fortress, and no doubt was entertained that it would fall very shortly after the attack was opened.

Paris, Oct. 20.—The Monitor says that intelligence has been received at Varna, brought by a French steamer, which left the Crimea on the 1st, confirmatory of the news that the two outer forts had been destroyed, and that the batteries had effected a breach. The allied armies were watching the opening of a second breach in order to commence an assault.

MARKETS.—Flour declined on the week 1s. Wheat 2d. to 3d. Corn 1s. Little change in other markets.

"ANOTHER RIOT IN WILLIAMSBURG.—Attack on a Catholic Church.—New York, Nov. 10.—A serious riot occurred at Williamsburg last night. The funeral of Mr. Harrison, who was killed at the polls on Tuesday, took place yesterday, and was productive of considerable excitement, but quiet was maintained until half past 10 o'clock, when a procession of about five hundred men was formed, all armed with revolvers. They marched through the principal streets, and badly beat some Irishmen with whom they came in contact. Numerous shots were exchanged, and one young man named Bennett was wounded in the shoulder. At about 12 o'clock an attack was made on St. Peter and St. Paul's church, in Second street. A cross was torn down, windows smashed, and a call was made for RIOT and matches to fire the edifice, but the mob were prevailed upon to desist.

About one o'clock another party gathered around the church, with the avowed intention of burning it down, but the military, who had been called out, were furnished with ball cartridges, and marched to the scene of disturbance, and the rioters quietly dispersed, and the streets were soon after deserted.

Mayor Wall and Mr. George H. Andrews, of the Courier & Enquirer, frequently addressed the crowd, urging them to disperse and retire, and were doubtless the means of preventing much bloodshed and destruction of property.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.—For the Cure of Sick Headache, Bile, and Weak and Disordered Stomachs.—These Wonderful Pills have been the means of restoring to health many persons pronounced incurable by the faculty in all parts of the World. They may be taken with perfect safety, and a certainty of effecting a cure, by persons suffering from general debility, sick headache, diseases of the stomach, bile or liver complaints, and those who are predisposed to dropsy, cannot use a more effectual remedy than Holloway's Pills, for acting as they do upon the main spring of life, disease cannot easily resist their influence. Their effect is mild, yet speedy, and as a family medicine they are unequalled.

THE HYDROMAGEN, OR
WATERPROOF, ANTI-CONSUMPTIVE, CORK SOLES.

Manufactured by
HARCOURT, BRADLEY & CO.,
44 MARKET ST. MANCHESTER,
Principal Warehouse, 103 Wood Street,
Liverpool, London, England.
American Establishments, 25 Ann Street and 102 Nassau Street, New York,
United States.

The Hydromagen is a valuable discovery for protecting the feet from damp or cold, and therefore a preventive of many Lung diseases, and all other diseases of the feet. The Hydromagen is in the form of a sole, and worn inside the boot or shoe. Its medicated character is a powerful antidote to disease.

For Gentlemen it will be found agreeable, warm,
and healthy, to wear in the coldest or rainiest
weather, as the foot cannot become wet if the Hy-dromagen is inserted. Ladies may wear the lightest soled boots or shoes in the most inclement weather with impunity; while Consumption, so prevalent among the young of our country, may be thwarted by their general adoption. They entirely supersede deer-shoes, as the latter cause the feet to perspire in a very unhealthy manner; and, besides, are not dangerous wear to pedestrians in very weather, like India rubbers. While the latter cause the feet to appear extremely large, the Hy-dromagen, being a mere thin slice of cork prepared, peculiarly placed inside, does not increase the size of the foot, or cause the foot to appear unduly. To Children they are extremely valuable, as they may engage in exercise with comfort and healthily effects. Their expense is so slight as to scarcely need mention; besides, those who patronize them will find their yearly doctor's bills much diminished thereby.

As the Hydromagen is becoming more known,
its sale is increasing to an almost incredible extent.
Last year in London, Manchester, Birmingham, Liverpool, Glasgow, Leeds, Dublin, Paris, Antwerp, Hamburg and Berlin, our sales reached 17,342,400 pairs of Cork Soles. This year the number will far surpass that.

Ask the Faculty their opinion of their value as a preventative for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, ASTHMA, and CONSUMPTION.

MEN'S SIZE, per pair, 35 Cents.
LADIES' do, do, 20 do
BOYS' & MEN'S do, 25 do

NOTICE.—From the Retail Prices we make a very liberal allowance to Jobbers and Wholesalers, so that any storekeeper may make a fine profit on their sale, while they are an article that may be kept in any store, among any class of goods.

The Family Herald

AND
Charlotte County Advertiser.

This Paper will be principally devoted to the leading interests of Charlotte County, the diffusion of the latest, and most important political news of the day, with other useful information, and selections from works of the most approved writers will be carefully made.

It will pursue an honest independent course, neither truckling at the footstool of power, nor joining in the factions of the domagogy.

Agriculture and the staple manufactures of the Province are most important interests and will be upheld with a steady resolution.
A synopsis of the debates in our Provincial Legislature, and all subjects of general importance, whether transpiring in the British Parliament or American Congress will be noticed as they occur.

Public men will be deemed public property, and their sayings and doings fairly discussed; but private character shall be held sacred.

Religious controversies will not occupy the columns of this Paper, neither shall they be devoted to sectarian views, nor open to attacks on any denomination of Christians.

Gross immorality and crime will be held up to public indignation, and the lash freely applied to the offender.

The rights of every man shall be reasoned, whether he be rich or poor.

By JOHN TALLIS & CO. OF LONDON
THE LIFE AND TIMES OF THE LATE
Duke of Wellington;
By Lieut. Col. Williams; (a Companion in Arms, of His Grace.)

Comprising the Campaigns and Battle-Fields of Wellington and his Comrades, the Political Life of the Duke and his Contemporaries, and a detailed account of England's Battles by Sea and Land, from the commencement of the Great French Revolution to the present time, interspersed with Anecdotes, Personal Incidents, and Adventures, etc.

ADDRESS.
The earthly career of Arthur Duke Wellington has closed; one of the greatest men of the nineteenth century, the foremost military commander of any age, has paid the debt of nature. The time has not arrived for giving to the world a History of the Great Captain—of the Events of his Life and Time—a life marked by patriotism, probity and honour, and events the greatest which have ever agitated the civilized world, and whose influence will be felt upon society till the end of time. Such a work must appeal to the best and proudest feelings in the heart of every Briton—the glory of his country, the honour of its name and position among the nations—may his own existence as a freeman, as a recorded name in the annals of the "well-known," and the deadly immortal of all battles and the glorious Wellington and his unfading lau-
rds and honours
and victors' wreath from the deeds of the great Italy, Egypt, and Germany.
To supply such a desideratum in English literature, the publishers of The Life Times of the Duke of Wellington have rejoiced to produce a book which shall entirely to the reader, not only the dry and uninteresting details of a military career, but a comprehensive work showing the contemporaneous history of the Duke and his contemporaries engaged, and giving to the reader
a full narrative of the lives and actions of the Warriors and Statesmen of the nineteenth century; and this from the pen of one who was a companion in arms, of the hero, and participated with him in a well fought field.
In order to carry out their views, the Publishers have determined that the work shall not only be illustrated by Portraits of the Duke and Statesmen of the last half century, but also by a full and complete illustration of the Duke's life and times.

The work will be had in St. John of H.
Hubb & Co., price 2s. 6d. stg.; Halifax,
Messrs. Morrison & Co.; Quebec, at the Petite Office; Montreal, Mr. Dawson,
Bookseller, Dec. 11, 1853-6.

ON THE Philosophy of Marriage and the Secret Influences of Youth and Maturity.
With fifty Coloured Engravings on Steel,
in a Sealed Envelope, price 2s. 6d. sterling.

SELF PRESERVATION: an Analytic cal Investigation of the Physiology and Functions of Marriage, in all the bearings in which that important subject affects the health and happiness of man, with 18 disquisitions, and impediments; tracing their origin to the effects of pseudo-education, or close study; followed by practical remarks, founded on twenty years experience in the treatment of impotence, nervous debility, local weakness, spermatorrhea, syphilis, and all diseases of the urinary and generative system. Illustrated by fifty Coloured Engravings on the anatomy of the reproductive organs, and their relative conditions in health and disease. By SAMUEL LAMBERT, M. D., No. 37, Bedford-square, London, Doctor of Medicine, Mercurius Member of the University of Edinburgh, Honorary Member of the London Hospital Medical Society, Licentiate of Apothecaries' Hall, London, &c.
The essential object of this treatise is to point out, the fearful consequences resulting from certain habits, irregularities and excesses, which have produced more misery in youth, degradation in manhood, and premature decay at all stages of life, than perhaps any other class of disease known to modern pathologists. Its perusal is particularly recommended to persons entertaining secret doubts of their physical condition, and who are conscious of having haz-arded the health, happiness, and privileges to which every human being is entitled.
The contents embrace the origin, effects, prevention and treatment of the deplorable catalogue of maladies connected with nervous debility, exhaustion of the vital energies, prostration of mental and physical capacity local and general weakness, acute and chronic spermatorrhea, and their endless modifications. The treatment adopted is founded on experience gained in the most celebrated schools of medicine, and by the most eminent practitioners, both in Great Britain and Continental Europe. Every peculiarity relating to the physiology, pathology and general treatment of the diseases incidental to the generative system is fully explained, and the means of immediate relief and ultimate cure described in detail. The professional reputation of Dr.
Lambert, who has taken the most distinguished medical and academic honours, at home and abroad, is in itself a sufficient guarantee that those who may place themselves under his care will, in every instance meet with that delicate consideration and unobtrusive secrecy which are so requisite in the treatment of these cases.
Caution.—In consequence of the extensive sale of this work, which has now attained its sixteenth edition, several spurious and imperfect copies are in circulation.
The genuine edition can be had only from the Author or his advertised agents.
The work may be had in St. John of H.
Hubb & Co., price 2s. 6d. stg.; Halifax,
Messrs. Morrison & Co.; Quebec, at the
Petite Office; Montreal, Mr. Dawson,
Bookseller, Dec. 11, 1853-6.

THE ALL-HEALING
REMEDY!!!
Holloway's Ointment.
A most astonishing cure of Scrofulous Ulcers—a case certified by the Mayor of Boston.

Copy of a letter from J. Noble, Esq., Mayor of Boston, Lincolnshire.
To Professor Holloway.
Dear Sir,—Mrs. Sarah Dixon, of Liquor-pond street, Boston, has this day deposited before me, that for a considerable time she was severely afflicted with Scrofulous Sores and Ulcers in her arms, feet, legs, and other parts of her body: and although the first of medical advice was obtained, at the cost of a large sum of money, she obtained no abatement of suffering, but gradually grew worse.
Being recommended by a friend to try your Ointment, she procured a small pot, and a box of the Pills, and before that was all used, symptoms of amendment appeared.
By persevering with the medicines for a short time longer, according to the directions, and strictly adhering to your rules as to diet, &c., she was perfectly cured, and now enjoys the best of health.
I remain, Dear Sir, your truly, (Signed) J. NOBLE.
Dated August 12th, 1853.

An extraordinary and rapid cure of Erysipelas in the leg, after medical aid had failed.
Copy of a letter from Mrs. Elizabeth Yeates, of the Post Office, Aldwick Road, near Bognor, Sussex, dated Jan. 12th, 1853.
To Professor Holloway.
Sir,—I suffered for a considerable period from a severe attack of Erysipelas, which at length settled in my leg, and resisted all medical treatment. My sufferings were very great, and I quite despaired of any permanent cure, when I was advised to have recourse to your Ointment and Pills. I did so without delay, and am happy to say the result was eminently successful, for they effected a radical cure of my leg, and restored me to the enjoyment of health. I shall ever speak with the utmost confidence of your medicines, and have recommended them to others in the neighbourhood similarly afflicted, who derived equal benefit.
I am, Sir, your obliged and faithful servant,
(Signed) ELIZABETH YEATES.

A dreadfully diseased Ankle cured "after being given up by the Faculty at Malta
and Portsmouth Hospitals."
The following important communication has been forwarded to Professor Holloway for publication, by Mr. B. Dixon, Chemist, King St. Norwich.
Copy of a letter from Captain Smith,
Great Yarmouth, dated January 19, 1853.
To Mr. Dixon.
Dear Sir,—I send you the particulars of a cure effected by Professor Holloway's invaluable medicines.—Mr. John Walton, late in Her Majesty's Service, in the British fleet at Malta, had a very bad ulcerated
ankle, and after being in the Malta Hospital for six months, was sent to England as an invalid to Portsmouth Hospital, where he remained an inmate four months, there, as at Malta, refusing to have the limb amputated, he was turned out incurable. He then came to Yarmouth, and was under a medical gentleman for about three months, but his ankle became so much worse that all hope was lost. At this period, by my advice he tried Holloway's Ointment and Pills, which by unremitting application, healed the wound, and restored him to perfect health, and I send you the particulars (Signed) JOHN SMITH.

Surprising cure of a bad Breast, Nervous
Debility, and general ill health.
Copy of a letter from Mr. T. F. Kpr. Chemist, &c., Lower Moss Lane, Manchester, dated Feb'y 12th, 1853.
To Professor Holloway.
Dear Sir,—I have great pleasure in forwarding to you, the particulars of a very extraordinary cure of a bad breast, effected solely by the use of your celebrated Oinment and Pills. Mrs. Martha Bell, of Pitt-street, in this town, had been for a considerable time labouring under nervous debility, loss of appetite, and general ill health, occasioned by ulcerated wounds in the breast. She had much experience for the cure of ulcers, but without any beneficial result, in fact she had nearly lost all faith and hope of a cure being effected. In this distressing and painful condition of body and mind, she was persuaded to have recourse
