Proceedings of the General Assembly at Portland, Ore.

Rev. Dr. Briggs' Case Comes Up-Work of the Foreign Mission Board.

PORTLAND, Orc., May 27.—At Wednesday's session of the Presbyterian General Assembly the regular order of the day was foreign missions. The report says: The Board of Foreign Missions last year asked for $1,000,000 and made its appropiation on the basis of $1,000,000. The receipts amounted to over $930,000. The board maintains 210 ordained American missionaries, 165 ordained and 255 licensed active workers. sustaining 284 churches with 30,aries, 165 ordained and 255 licensed active workers, sustaining 384 churches with 30,497 communicants. Additions to the mission churches have aggregated 3,430, lay workers number 1,494. Schools are also supported containing 29,000 pupils, with 167 candidates for the ministry. The contributions from native churches have amounted to nearly $40,000. The missions of the heavy are located in fifteen different countries.

The report of the theological seminaries committee stated that in view of the action of the Detroit assembly, the retention of Prof. Briggs in his chair must be regarded as not only a failure to comply with the expressed action of that assembly, but also an agreement in compact of '70, and in view of this the chair of biblical theology was still "daine vacant." Resolutions countries. view of this the chair of biblical theology was still "dejuce vacant." Resolutions were also offered that the assembly regard the maintenance of the existing supervision by the general assembly of the character of the instruction in the theological seminaries as vital to the welfare of the Presbyterian Church.

The minority report approves the representation of the majority as a correct representation of

of the board are located in fifteen different

The minority report approves the report of the majority as a correct representation of the facts viewed in the light of the last assembly's interpretation of the compact of '70, but expresses the conviction that some relief from the present difficulties should be had. As the directors of the Union Seminary express a desire to be honorably released from the compact of '70, the report suggests that it be allowed to withat without the compact, and, further, that draw from the compact, and, further, that a committee be appointed by the assembly to confer with all the theological seminaries, touching their views of the compact of '70 and any new compact that might be devised and to formulate a new compact with a view to happily uniting all the seminaries, the same to be submitted to the next general assembly.

After some debate it was decided to refer all the papers back to the committee of theological seminaries and that the committee immediately meet for consultation.

THE HORSEMAN.

The horse that has nothing but speed is

A horse has a small stomach and active digestion. The food, therefore, should be of the highest nutritive quality, with as little waste matter as may be.

Big head, heavy ears, big bones, coarse hair, mark coarse meat and slow feeders in cattle and dull, awkward, slow-gaited horses. The larger the animal the larger the ration. But difference in form makes a difference in the ratio of increase. The offal costs most to grow. Love for the sheep marks the good shepherd; how much more should the good horseman love his horse for its use, its in-telligence, and the fondness it exhibits for telligence, and the fondness it exhibits for its owner, who sometimes little merits such affection. This noble animal deserves study of all concerned; there are so many things in regard to it that the study should be close and constant, as a matter of dollars, as well as of kindness and justice. By good treatment a horse will last 30 years in profitable use; therefore, when one is put under ground at the age of 15 the owner has lost the value of a new purchase. The foot is always to be studied with care; otherwise the shoeing cannot be properly done. "No foot, no horse," and the most trouble with horses is the injury to the feet done by bad shoeing. Every owner should mark his horse in some conspicuous way. This would do more to abolish horse-thieving than all the protective associations, good as these are in any neighborhood.

At the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council it was resolved to devote the season to consider the Free Library question. There was quite an animated discussion, and the following resolution was passed:

If evidence of their sympathy with the board were needed to urge that body on to renewed effort we are sure they must feel satisfied and encouraged at the united and unwavering aupmort accorded them in this stage of the they must feel satisfied and encouraged at the united and unwavering support accorded them in this stage of the library's history. We desire as a body to place on record the esteem in which the members of the Trades and Labor Council hold the delegates who represent them on the Library Board. We know they are capable and self-sacrificing and we are sure their best reward will be to know that their fellow-members of this council are certain it would be impossible to fill their places with better men. As a body we shall accord the Library Board our hearty support, and we believe it will be in the best interests of the citizens at large if the City Council will aid a work that was undertaken amid great difficulties, but is meeting with such deserved success.

"We regret exceedingly that the London Ministerial Association should have cast such reflections on the Library Board. Had they understood the difficulties these men have surmounted, how unselfishly they have devoted their time to the development of this work, and how largely the labor organizations have subscribed funds from their treasuries, we are sure they would kave hesitated longer before passing the resolution they did. We trust they will yet set this matter right before the public and acknowledge they acted under a misapprehension of the facts.

"Further be it resolved, that we trust workingmen everywhere will learn a lesson that if we are to succeed in any undertaking we must act united and harmonious and depend forsuccess on our ownexertions, to resent at all times any false reflections cast on those who represent us, and so

A BOY'S BRAVERY.

Hamilton Bendelari to Got a Royal Humane Society's Medal.

Humane Seciety's Medal.

Toronto, May 26.—One day last summer the little daughter of Bishop-Sweatman was bathing in the lake opposite the family's summer cottage on the island, when she got beyond her depth and was sinking for the last time when Hamilton Bendelari went to her rescue. He got her ashore, and though she was unconscious her life was saved. But in the brave deed the lad nearly lost his own life. own life.

What next? asks the Glasgow Mail. A military service was held last Sunday in York Cathedral, and the band of the Royal Scots took their share in the musical part of the service. A great sensation was created when eight kilted Highlanders of regiment, under the leadership of Pipe-Major Matheson, played a Highland "Lament" as an integral part of the anthem. The effect on the congregation is described as "infinitely touching and beautiful." True, at the first skirl of the pipes there was a tendency to smile, but we are assured it was "instantly subdued by the solemn and pathetic wail, accompanied throughout by the soft roll of the muffled drums."

THE BIBLE SOCIETY TROUBLE.

An Answer to the "Reply" the Resigned Brethren.

The Position of the Methodists Defined by Rev. S. Bend.

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

To the Editor of the ADVERTISER:

The "reply" of those withdrawing from the Western Ontario Bible Society, to the "message" the Methodists sent them, contains much that requires reply. As a Methodist I am not willing to allow these aspersions on our honor to pass unanswered.
Up to this time much has been said on one side and we have been silent.

1. As to the alleged undue ascendency of the Methodists on the board. The message said 21 Methodists and 31 others. This is from an imperfect list kept to guide the secretary in giving notice of meetings. It may or may not be correct. But vhatever the proportion of influence, it has not been by our seeking, it was actually by the perfect of the secretary in giving the second of the proportion of influence, it has not been by our seeking, it was actually by the proposal of those who were not Methodists, and is not greater than the proportion of Methodist support. The last printed report is a better basis of inquiry as to numbers. Here ten are Methodists and seventeen of other denominations, while the office of president, first and second vice-presidents, honorary secretary and treepresidents, honorary secretary and treas-urer are held by those not Methodist. If not urer are held by those not Methodist. If not as many Presbyterians, Congregationalists and Laphists are on the board as are desired by these bodies, who is to blame? Not the Methodists. The appointment has been at the annual meeting, and none will say that attempts have been made to keep them off. The effort has been to get the most prominent and active supporters, and if any failure has existed it is not from causes that justify these unkind aspersions.

2. The use of influence to bring persons to the board meetings. It is said that there exists "more than a suspicion that on more than one occasion influence was brought to bear upon persons not remarkable for the

than one occasion influence was brought to bear upon persons not remarkable for the interest they take in the Bible Society work to be present and vote in a manner quite congenial so the Methodist section of the board." We are at a loss to know what wrong there would be in all this. Is it wrong to get members of the board to attend? Is it wrong to desire them "to vote in a manner quite congenial to the Methodist section of the board?" Did they are improper "influence," and was the Methodist section of the board siming at evil? If such a statement is worth the ink it takes to write it, it must mean one of these things. such a statement is worth the ink it takes to write it, it must mean one of these things. This statement suggests that we packed the meeting, and that for denominational ends. Such a charge, made deliberately by several ministers and two laymen over their own signatures against another body of Chrisatian ministers and people, is too serious a matter to pass unnuticed. Only on the occasion of the election of the permanent secretary and when the proposed change of constitution was considered in the board were there very distinct lines of division were there very distinct lines of division retary and when the proposed change of constitution was considered in the board were there very distinct lines of division between us. What are the facts? As to the former and only occasion worth noting, there were present 38 persons, of whom 6 had no votes and had to retire. Not one of these was a Methodist. Of the 38 present 19 were there for the first time, and of these 3 were Presbyterians, 5 were Methodists and 11 were Anglicans. Of the 5 Methodists 3 were new arrivals of ministers in the city, and one meeting had been held after their arrival. This practically reduces the number of Methodists there for the first time to two persons. So we have this list of persons there for the first time to two persons. So we have this list of persons there for the first time the thodists, 2; Presbyterians, 3; Anglicans, 11. Two of these Anglicans were from parts twelve and twenty miles distant. I submit our opponents are not the persons submit our opponents are not the persons who should make such a charge. If any packing of the meeting was done it was by the meeting

Rev. J. A. McConnell, Presbyterian minister of Wanbuno, preached in Delaware sounds and he may receive a call, as the Delaware station is at present was a call, as the Delaware station is at present was a the prominence given to denominationalism: It has come impronerly and the many receives a call, as the Delaware station is at present.

Word has been received a face and the Anglican was aged, was noon to take proportionate strength on the board. It is charged that we made a "questionable use" of it. It has been complained that we combined to cleet Mr. Ome. As in that vote 30 ballots were cast and only 15 Methodists were present, one ballot was given by some one not a Methodist by the about the result of the most suitable. But and the halt right for an Anglican to vote for a Presbyterian to vote for a Presbyterian? Our vote was cast for the man whom we believed to be the most suitable. All the facts justify this opinion. The Presbyterian was aged and the Anglican was aged, was none of his own ministerial brethren as very unsuitable. Mr. Orme had the necessary qualifications. His competitor had not.

4. Now, as to the prominence given to denominationalism: It has come improved the strength of the succession promotion to the lend of the strength of the succession promotion of the strength of the succession promotion of the strength of the succession prom nemselves.

TYRANNY PROVOKES REBELLION

Buckle's History of Civilization.]

Those who crouch to those who are above them always trample on those who are below them. A had government, had laws or laws badly administered are indeed extremely injurious at the time but can produce no permanent mischief; in other words they may harm a country but can never ruin it.

As long as the people are sound there is life, and while there is life there will be reaction. In such case tyranny provokes rebellion and despotism causes freedom. But if the people are unsound, all hope is gone and the nation perishes. In both instances government is inoperative and is in no wise responsible for the ultimate result. "WHAT with franchise acts, gerryman ders and Judge Elliots, the minority has been inhumanly used," remarks the Toronto Telegram, which is an independent Conservative journal.

IT is said that another effort will be made to have Newfoundland become part of Canada. There will be time enough to talk business when the right of France to the Newfoundland foreshores is settled by Great Britain. Canada has enough of "burning questions" on her hands now without undertaking the settlement of so grave a national complication as that now existing between France and Great Britain with regard to the right of French fishermen to use the shores of Newfoundland, despite the protests of the Newfound-battalion, and there is also a large territorial army. The report says that the con dition of the military force and of the defenses is unsurpassed, and that they are well worth the cost of bringing them up to their present standard. It all depends.

The workers who have to toil long hours, on the poorest of fare, to earn the taxes that pay for this military display cannot be very well satisfied with the state of affairs that is held to necessitate expenditures of so huge proportions.

THE FREE LIBRARY.

It is now made evident that the dispute between the Board of the Workingmen's Free Library and the London Ministerial Association was the result of a misunderstanding. There cannot be a doubt that the practical outcome will be the drawing closer together of the two bodies. They both aim at the bettering of the human and it should not be difficult for them to co-operate in every forward movement.

The candid discussion of the points upor which the Ministerial Association asked for light cannot fail to help the movement to extend the influence of the Free Library, while it must convince citizens generally that the Ministerial Association can, when it chooses, do a great deal to promote discussion of questions affecting the moral and social welfare of the people.

There were doubts in the minds of many as to the condition of the Free Library; the clergymen have been the means of having these doubts met with full and free explanations by the Board, as well as of bringing forth declarations in favor of the Free Library movement by almost every association of workers in the city. That is a good deal to accomplish in ten days.

WOMEN AND THE CONFERENCE. The question of admitting women hereafter to the General Conference of the American Methodist Church was yesterday practically settled in the affirmative at Omaha. The amendment which carried provides that the word "laymen" as applied to the lay delegates must mean male delegates, and in case this interpretation of the word is not sustained by a two-thirds vote of the annual conferences, and a threefourths vote of the general conference, then the word "laymen" shall mean both men and women as lay delegates. This was carried by 241 to 160. It is well understood that this vote practically admits the women, as the final result does not now

HOW THE SEATS SHOULD BE RE DISTRIBUTED

The Redistribution of Seats Bill, it is now announced, will be proceeded with this session, and the ruthless carving up of constituencies and destruction of county boundaries, begun in Ontario in 1882, is to be continued in every Province of the Dominion, unless better counsels are made to prevail at Ottawa. It is admitted by newspaper supporters of the present Administration that the rearrangement is not made on the basis of providing that the constituencies shall be equalized. They even freely confess that their object is, as far as possible, to give their friends a partisan advantage. They have learned the lesson taught by Sir John Macdonald, who boasted after the infamous gerry. mander of 1882 that he had "hived the Grits," and they chuckle with glee while they count up the partisan gains that will accrue from the dishonest manipulations of county divisions that are found in every section of the new gerrymander act.

Appealed to if they think it is British fair play for the dominant political party to endeavor to stifle public opinion by gerrymandering the constituencies, the followers of Sir John Thompson reply that it may not be that, but if "the Grits were in power they would do the same, therefore it is excusable." Suppose this were true, would it be the right position for an hones man to assume? Surely no decent Con-servative who desires the country to be ruled well, and that the majority shall prevail on every occasion, can uphold such a doctrine, so long as there is ample oppor-tunity for the best men of both politica parties to join hands, and compel such change as shall prevent any political party, be it Liberal, Conservative, or yet unde fined, from using its power to stifle th voice of the constituencies.

Such tactics as is apologized for on the miserable subterfuge that "they all do it," and therefore it is right, would not be tolerated for one moment by British public opinion. Why should Canadians be less chivalrous, less honest, less anxious to let the best men win in a fair field?

When Mr. Gladstone brought up his Redistribution Bill in 1885, he called in the leader of the Conservative party, and told him the principle upon which he proposed that the constituencies should be re-adjusted, and informed him that he proposed leaving the duty of arranging the new con stituencies in the hands of thoroughly independent public officials. The Opposition leader admitted the fairness of the proposition, and the consequence was that when the scheme was laid before the House it received the unanimous sanction of Parliament, and ther was absolutely no discussion on the prac tical revolution in the constituency boun As it turned out Premier Gladstone's friends got the worst of it, but look at the satisfaction that both he and they

to the redistribution of seats in the Dominion being made by a body as far re-moved from partisan influences as possible. Recent events have, in some measure, shaken our faith in the judiciary, but we would gladly indorse the passing of a law taking the redistribution of seats out of the hands of the partisan and intensely interested Government of the day, whose may be involved in the result, and placing the duty of rearranging the constituencies in the hands of an independent judicial body. The organization probably furthest removed from partisan influences is the Dominion Supreme Court. Its members sometimes complain of having too much to do, but as this work has to be done only once in ten years, and once properly performed, as it has never vet en, the task would be a comparatively light one. Parliament now has the right to delegate to this or to anyother court or body of men the work that in the past has of men the work that in the Pass has been so badly done, has caused so much ill-feeling, and has resulted in positive injustice to one-half of the people of Canada. Why should the present Parliament not make a beginning. Let the court have carte blanche to rearrange the constituencarte blanche to rearrange the constituens are nearly as possible according to the signing of a home rule bill would be a gracecies, as nearly as possible according to the population, taking every precaution to bserve civic and county boundaries. It is not too late to be honest, Sir John Thompson; it is not too late to be just, gentlemen o the House of Commons. Many of us in the west have good reasons to object not only to the present gerrymander, but to all previous carvings and cuttings. No one who desires, as does the ADVERTISER, that the majority shall rule, will object to a non-partisan distribution of seats. In every contest we support certain candidates because we believe in the principles which they profess to be willing to forward; but if in any fairly formed constituency such candidates found themselves in the minerity, then the voice of the people would be respected. It is the stifling of the public voice by partisan manipulation of municipalities that we protest against, and we should be supported by every fairminded elector in Canada. Can any person bring one valid objection against this proposal? PAYMENT OF MEMBERS. The representatives of English labor in session at Leicester resolved to make the payment of members of Parliament a test question in the coming general election.

Those candidates who fail to declare themselves in favor of salaries for members are to be opposed by the influence and votes of organized labor. It seems to be reasonable that the servants of the people should be worthy of some indemnity for the loss of time entailed in working for their country.

At present it is only possible for men of unless their constituents are generous enough to put up the money. Why should the able, but poor, man be debarred from

TOPICS OF TO-DAY.

The Toronto Telegram, stirred up by the rascality in connection with the East York election, and rebelling against the evils of the Dominion voters' list, remarks evils of the Dominion voters list, remarks:

Three Senators, Messrs. Hale, Dolph and Colquitt, discuss the Harrison Administra tion in the June number of the North American Review; they do so interestingly, but it is needless to say that the Senators do not agree in their conclusions. Sir William Dawson begins a series of articles of "Prehistoric Times in Egypt and Pales-tine," and Karl Blind discusses some "Mod-ern Revolutions." Mr. Garner tells of his hopes with regard to the monkeys and their language. Contributions from Murat Hali-stead, Archdeacon Farrar, Mrs. Barr and others make up an exceedingly interesting

Prof. David Swing, in the June Scrib ner's, tells of the flight of his family before the fire in Chicago in 1871; his account reproduces the great fire more vividly than any other attempted description of it. It is the third of the series of "Historic Moments." Prof. Shaler, in his geological series, describes the formation of sea beaches. Mr. A. F. Jaccaci describes a recent ascent of Mount Ætna, his illustrations giving a pointed idea of lava in its native beds, and of the difficulties of the ascent of a little-visited volcano. Mr. William T. Elsing describes "Life in a New York Tenement House," and Mrs. Hodgson Burnett tells of the founding of the "Drury Lane Boys' Club" in London—the club which she assisted in memory of her son, the "original" of Lord Fauntleroy. Mr. T. C. Clarke gives his solution of the rapid transit problem in cities—electricity. He is not the first to reach the same conclusion. QUEEN VICTORIA. [N. Y. Press.]

Queen Victoria was 73 years old yester-day and she is still fairly vigorous and may live for many years longer. Personally she has led a moral and exemplary life, and while not a woman of uncommon ability she has led a moral and exemplary life, and while not a woman of uncommon ability she has exhibited a notable discretion in the performance of political duties.

The reign of Queen Victoria has witnessed the progress almost to culmination of a revolution of vastly greater importance than that which placed Cromwell at the than that which placed Cromwell at the head of the English nation. The common people of England have gradually shaken off the shackles which bound them as serfs oil the shackies which bound them as seris to the aristocracy, and have, step by step, mounted to nearly complete political control. The suffrage, from being confined to property owners, is now practically universal, and every man who has a name and a large and the property of the state of a home can obtain enrollment on the voting list. The shell of feudalism remains, but list. The shell of feudalism remains, but it is only a shell, and would be crushed but for the fact that, like the Roman walls of Chester, English feudalism does no harm and is interesting as a curiosity. The House of Lords, to take an American simile, will be spared as long as it plays the opossum. Whenever it gives a sign of actual life and possible mischief the lion in the hearts of the English people will soon put an end to it. At present the lion rather disadians to attack an apparently inrather disdains to attack an apparently in

Queen Victoria's reign has witnessed the effacement of religious intolerance in British laws, the disestablishment of that edifice of injustice, the Irish Church, and the admission of the Hebrew to the Parliasigning of a home rule bill would be a grace ful rounding out of one of the greatest of English reigns.

MR. C. C. HAUN.

The following remarkable facts are fully certified to as being undeniably correct in every particular. Mr. Haun is well known in the vicinity, having resided here over fifty years, and is highly respected as a man of the strictest honor, whose word is as good as his bond.

As will be seen from his letter, four bhysicians had attended him, and it was ally after he had given up hope of cure had he decided to try Burdock Blood witters on the recommendation of a neighbor who had been cured of a similar disease by its use. Mr. Haun writes as follows:

disease by its use. Mr. Haun writes as follows:

DEAR SERS,—I think I have been one of the worst sufferers you have yet heard of, having been six years in the hands of four of our best doctors without obtaining permanent relief, but continually growing worse, until almost beyond hope of recovery, I tried your Bitters and got relief in a few days. Every organ of my body was deranged, the liver enlarged, hardened and torvid, the heart and digestive organs was deranged, the liver enlarged, hardened and torpid, the heart and dispestive organs scriously deranged, a large abscess in my back, followed by paralysis of the right leg, in fact the lower half of my body was entirely useless. After using Burdock Blood Bitters for a few days the abscess burst, discharging fully five quarts of pus in two hours. I felt as if I had received a shock from a powerful battery. My recovery after this was steady and the cure permanent, seeing that for the four years since I have had as good health as ever I had. I still take an occasional bottle, not that I need it but because I wish to keep my system in perfect working order. I can think of no more remarkable case than what I have myself passed through, and no words can express my thankfulness for such perfect recovery.

acquainted with Mr. C. C. Haun for the last 20 years, and have always found him a very reliable man. You may place the utmost confidence in anything he says with regard to your medicine. He has on many occasions within the last four years told me that it was marvellous the way the Burdock Blood Bitters had cured him, and that he now felt as able to do a day's work as he ever felt in his life. Although quite well he still takes some B. B. B. occasionally, as he says, to keep him in perfect health.

CLOSING DAY Of the Turf Association's Spring

Fair Weather, a Good Track and Large Attendance.

Meeting.

Four Races on the Card and Plenty of Sport-A Successful Windup.

The thousand or more people who spent Thursday afternoon at Queen's Park witnessed some fine races. It was the third and last day of the London Turf Association's spring meeting, and it was a success in every sense of the word. Every event was keenly contested and there were no was keenly contested and there were no serious mishaps. The track was in excellent condition as a result of the good work done with the harrows and scraper during the morning and first part of the afternoon. The Cavalry Band was present, and their selections were enjoyed during the intervals between the heats. Much credit is due A. W. McElroy, of Chicago, starting judge, for the capable way in which he controlled the drivers of horses. He was neither too lenient nor too severe, but just let them understand that they had to observe his instructions. He makes an admirable starter. At 2 o'clock the first race was called.

For the special race, trotting, mile heats.

admirable starter. At 2 o'clock the first race was called.

For the special race, trotting, mile heats, best three in five, purse $300, divided, there were four entries—John L, Lady Rooker, Texas Jack and Dick Smith. In the first heat the struggle for first place between Dick Smith and John L was very exciting. At the three-quarter pole John was slightly ahead, but on the home stretch Dick pulled up and passed him within a few rods of the wire, winning the heat. Texas Jack and Lady Rooker broke on the start—the latter badly. Jack made a good third and Lady Rooker a poor fourth.

The second heat was very exciting. John L took the lead from the start and kept it for five-eighths of a mile when he broke and was passed by Dick Smith, who won handily. Texas Jack and Lady Rooker were close for third place, Jack beating the mare a short distance and making a good third.

The third heat was also an interesting

For the 2:50 trot, mile heats, best three in five, purse $300 divided, Mamie S., Canada Southern, jun., Pete Curran and Little Jake were entered. In the first heat Mamie S. and Canada Southern collided at the start a faw rook from the vice of the start a faw rook from the wife. Little Jake were entered. In the first heat Mamie S, and Canada Southern collided at the start a few rods from the wire. At the quarter pole Canada Southern's cart went to pieces. The race was close for first place between Mamie S, and Peto Curran. Both trotted admirably, Pete winning by a few feet. Little Jake was away behind, and came galloping under the wire. Canada Southern and Little Jake were distanced.

The second heat developed a keen struggle between Pete Curran and Mamie S. Pete took the lead at the start and kept it throughout, winning by a length. Both trotted well.

The third heat was a variation in the programme. Pete Curran broke at the first quarter pole and Mamie S, passed him. He was recovering his ground when he broke again. Shortly after the horses got away in the first heat Cap Sheaf ran mto the ience, smashing the cart and throwing the horse. Grey Tobe got mixed in it and his cart was also smashed and the horse stopped. The race was close between Blackstone and Corneracker for first place. Blackstone broke three times, but kept the lead and finished first with Corneracker close behind. The other three horses came in well, keeping their places from start to finish. Placks

Blackstone broke three times, but kept the lead and finished first with Corneracker close behind. The other three horses came in well, keeping their places from start to finish. Blackstone won the heat, Corneracker second, Sorrel George third, Charley G fourth, St. Patrick fifth, Cap Sheaf and Grey Tobe were declared distanced.

The judges reconsidered the case of the latter horses, and as the accident was purely accidental, allowed them to enter in the second heat. The driver of Corneracker was fined $10 for improperly using his whip in the first heat. The driver of Blackstone complained. The second heat was very close between Sorrel George and Grey Tobe at first, but Blackstone and Corneracker passed Tobe as the first heat enteresting one stretch and came galleping under the wire. Sorrel George was given first place and the others in this order: Blackstone, Corneracker, Grey Tobe, Charley G, Cap Sheaf, St. Patrick. Grey Tobe's driver was fined $5 for starting ahead of the pole horse.

The third heat was an interesting one teleween Sorrel George and Grey Tobe for first place. The former was the pole horse and kell behind to third place. Corneracker was a going fourth. The two leading riders will bear lances, from the tops of which will flutter the colors of the United States and the Salvation Army. The rear of the cavalcade will be brought up by a light two-horse wagon that will carry the camping outfit, musical instruments, baggage and ammunition in the shape of tracts, singing books, etc. There will be ten brass instruments which the company will play entering towns, riding two and two; and also banjos, guitars, tambourines, and an organ for "dismounted music." Major Kyle said to-day that the army had never had anything like this. He proposed, also, to send two mounted men through the sparsely settled districts to preach, as has been done in Australia and New Zealand.

An Old Soldier's Sudden Death.

Many Londoners will remember the frequent visits of Sergt. Thomas Faughnan, late of the British army, who in recent years has come round selling books of his own writing, describing life as a soldier at home and abroad. He will come no more. He went to the Market Hotel, Waterloo, on Monday, and hired a room. He was suffering from a very serious disease and succumoed to it the same night. His remains were shipped to Picton, Ont., which was his home. Faughnan fought in the Crimean war. He was present when Sebastopol was taken and witnessed the charge of the Light Brigade.

A dispatch from Dakar, Senegal, states that the British steamer Port Douglas, of 2,744 tons, from London, for Sydney, N. S. W., struck an unchaltered reef off the Cape de Verde Islands on Tuesday night last, and a large hole was made in her bottom and she filled and settled on the reef. She lies in a bad position, and there is little hope of her ever floating again. A schooner which went to her assistance could do nothing towards floating her. The schooner took the passengers' baggage on beard, intending to land it at Defa, but she was afterwards lost. When the passengers who were taken off by another vessel were landed they were in a destitude condition.

It was mininght, and a bright star, nearly in the zenith, seemed to hang precisely above the summit of the great white pyramid at the mouth of the gore.

"It was here that we stopped," observed Semtzin. "We tied our horses among the skebbery round yonder point. Thence we must go noto. Follow me."

She struck her heels against her horse's side, and went forward. The long ride seemed to have wearied her not a whit. The lean and wiry Indian had already betrayed symptoms of fatigue; but the young princess appeared as fresh as when she started. Not once had she even taken a draught from her canteen; and yet she was closely clad, from head to foot, in the doublet and leggings of the Golden Fleece. One might have thought it had some magic virtue to preserve its wearer's vitality; and bossibly, as is sometimes seen in trance, the energy and concentration of the spirit reacted upon the body. She turned the corner of the pyramid, but had not ridden far when an object lying in inner path caused her to halt and spring from the saddle. Kamaiakan also dismounted and came forward.

The dead body of a mustang lay on the ground, crushed beneath the weight of a fragment of rock, which had evidently fallen upon it from a height. He had apparently been dead for some hours! He was without either saddle or bridle.

"Do you know him? desanded Semitzin.
"It is Diego," replied Kamaiakan. "I know him by the white sar on his muzzle. He was ridden by the Senor Freeman. They must have come here before the earthquake. And there lie the saddle and bridle. But where is Senor Freeman? "He can be nowhere else than in this valley," said Semitzin, confidently. "I knew that I should find him here. Through all the centuries, and across all spaces, we were destined to meet. His horse was killed, but he has escaped. I shall save him. Could Miriam have done this? Is he not mine by right?"

Could Miriam have done this? Is he not mine by right?"

"It is at least certain, princess," responded the old man rather dryly, "that had it not been for Miriam you would never have met the Senor Freeman at all."

"I thank her for so much; and some time, perhaps, I will reward her by permitting her to have a glimpse of him for an hour—or, at least, a minute. But not now, Kamaiakan—not till I am well assured that no thought but of me can ever find its way into his heart. Come, let us go forward. We will find the treasure, and I will give it to my tord and lover."

"Shall we bring the pack-horse with us?" asked the Indian.

"Yes, if he can find his way among these rocks. The earthquake has made changes here. See how the water pours from this spring! It has already made a stream down this valley. It shall guide us whither we are noting."

this valley. It shall guide us whither we are going."
Leaving their own horses, they advanced with the mule. But the trail, rough enough at best, was now well-nigh impassable. Masses of rock had fallen from above; large fissures and erevasses had been formed in the floor of the gorge, from some of which steaming vapors escaped while others gave forth streams of water. The darkness added to the difficulties of the way, for, although the sky was now clear, the gloom was deceptive, and things distant seemed near. Occasionally a heavy irregular sound would break the stillness, as some projection of a cliff became loosened and tumbled down the steep declivity.

would break the stillness, as some projection of a cliff became loosened and tumbled down the steep declivity.

Semitzin, however, held on her way fearlessly and without hesitation, and the leastly and without hesitation, and the loosened to help a moment of the slight, girlish figure in front of him. At length she disappeared behind the jutting profile of a great promontor of him. At length she disappeared behind the jutting profile of a great promontor which formed a main angle of the gorge. When he came up with her, she was kneeling beside the prostrate form of a man, supporting his head upon her knee.

Kamainkan approached, and looked at the face of the man, which was pale; the eyes were closed. A streak of blood, from a wound on the head, descended over the right side of the forchead, "Is he dead?" the Indian asked.

"He is not dead," replied Semitzin. "A flying stone has struck him; but his heart beats; he will be well again:" She poured and bent her canteen over his lips. "He breaths," she said. Slipping one arm beneath his neck, she loosened the shirt at his throat and then stooped and kissed him. "Be alive for me, love," she nurmured, "My life is yours."

This exertion seemed to have some effect. The man stirred slightly, and emitted a sigh. Presently nurmered, "Is and then stooped and kissed him." "Be alive for me, love," she nurmured, "My life is yours."

sigh. Presently he muttered, "I can—lick him—yet,"
"He will live, princess," remarked Kamaiakan. "But where is the treasure?"
"My treasure is here!" was her reply; and again she bent to kiss the half-conscious man, who knew not of his good fortune. After an interval she added, "It is in the hollow beneath that archiway. Go down three paces; on the wall at the left you will leel a ring. Pull it outwards, and the stone will give way. Behind it lies the chest in which the jowels are. But remember your Kamaiakan poor." Samaiakan peered into the hollow, shook his head as one who loves not his errand, and stepped in. The black shadow swallowed him up. Semitzin paid no further attention to him, but was absorbed in ministering to her patient, whose strength was every moment being augmented, though he was not yet aware of his positon. But all at once a choking sound came from within the cave, and in a few momonts Kamaiakan staggered up out of the shadow, and sank down across the threshold of the arch.

"Semitzin," he gasped, in a faint voice,

"the curse of the gods is upon the spot! The air within is poisonous. It withers the limbs and stops the breath. No one can touch the treasure and live. Let us go!"
"The gods do not love those who fear," replied the princess, contemptuously. "But the treasure is mine, and it may well be that no other hand may touch it. Fold that blanket, and lay it beneath his head. I will bring the jewels."
"Do not attempt it; it will be death!" exciaimed the old man.
"Shall a princess come to her leave."

I would not fear to have him choose between us?"
With these words, Semitzin stepped across the threshold of the crypt, and vanished in its depths. The Indian, still dizzy and faint, knelt on the rock without, bowed down by sinister forbodings.

Several minutes passed. "She has perished!" muttered Kamatakan.

Freeman raised himself on one elbow, and gazed giddily about him. "What the deuce has happened?" he demanded, in a sluggish voice. "Is that you, professor?" Suddenly, a rending and rushing, noise burst from the cave. Following it, Semitzin appeared at the entrance, dragging a heavy metal box, which she grasped by a handle at one end. Immediately in her steps broke forth a great volume of water, boiling up as if from a caldron. It filled the cave, and poured like a cataract into the gorge. The foundations of the great deep seemed to be let loose.

gling, with her assistance, to his feet. "I have read fairy-tales, but this... Kamaiakan, too!"

Semitzin, meanwhile, brought him to the mule, and half mechanically he scrambled into the saddle, the chest being made fast to the crupper. Semitzin seized the bridle, and started up the gorge, Kamaiakan bringing up the rear. The lower levels were already filling with water, which came pouring out through the archway in a full flood, seemingly inexhaustible.

"I see how it is," mumbled Freeman, half to himself. "The earthquake—I remember! I got hit somehow. They came from the ranch to hunt me up. But where are the general and Professor Meschines! How long ago was it? And how came Miriam... Could the mirage have had anything to do with it?—Here, let me walk, he called out to her, "and you get up and ride."

HOW TO BE BUNCOED. This Little Story Will Tell You All You Want to Know.

CORTLAND, May 26.—The examination of Wm. C. Keating, arrested last Saturday at Schenectady by Sheriff John Miller for buncoing George Fitts, a farmer of McLean, out of $6,000 on Sept. 25, 1891, began to-day.

Fitts was on the stand nearly the whole of the day. He claims to identify Keating. He said that on Sept. 25, 1891, a man drove to his house and said he was a nephew of Judge Boardman, a well-known banker of Ithaca. He wanted to buy a farm. Fitts started to show him his sister's farm, and on the way they met a man who said he had lost a pile of money, but would beat the game yet. He showed a roll of bills which he claimed contained $40,000 and then produced a three-card monte outfit. All played, and both Boardman and Fitts won readily. Boardman finally secretly proposed the Victor of the second money and the state of the second mone outfit. played, and both Boardman and Fitts won readily. Boardman finally secretly proposed that Fitts get more capital and then they could win a pile from the stranger, as he seemed to be in hard luck. Fitts came to Cortland, drew $6,000 from the First National Bank and went back and met the stranger near Grove, in a lonely spot. Fitts showed money, which Boardman put into a tin box and then forced Fitts out of the buggy, after which the confederates drove away. Fitts was dazed by the ex-

H. E. Andrews, keeper of the Hotel Kinkelan here, indentified Keating as one of the two men who drove a horse and buggy to his hotel the day Farmer Fitts was buncoed. They left the outfit at the was buncoed. They left the outfit at the hotel with $20 to pay for its return to Groton, where it was owned. The examination will be continued. Pus is at first healthy. By its formation nature seeks to check or cure inflammation; but if the pus cannot find a free vent, it soon becomes septic, when no medicine offers any hope, and even a surgical operation but little. had become uncontrollable and unthruthful.
Detective Rider told of her evil doings in St. Thomas. The magistrate sentenced St. Thomas. The magistrate sentenced the girl to one year and eleven months in the Mercer Reformatory.

the girl to one year and eleven months in the Mercer Reformatory.

The Spectator does not think it worth while to suppose the London case reversed and instead of Judge Elliot being a Conservative judge who gave Hyman's seat to Carling's seat to Hyman, under like conditions. But there is not a man living who does not know that if the cases were reversed Judge Elliot would by this time have been deprived of his gown and kicked off the bench. The plea that the bogus votes were good votes is absurd. If they were good votes the Conservative revising barrister, Judge Elliot's son-in-law, would not have struck them off the list. Even the London Free Press, the partisan as it is, declined to claim the bogus votes as good votes until after the election, when it was found that without them Carling was a gone goose. Judge Elliot has sent many a man to jail for a crime less harmful in its consequences than the theft of Hyman's consequences than the theft of Hyman's seat.-[Dundas Banner.

ANCIENT ORDER OF FORESTERS.

Court Progressive, No. 7,863, Ancient Order of Foresters, was instituted in Clinton on May 7 by A. J. Stevens, organizer, assisted by Bro. Walter Richards, of Court Forest City, of East London, and fifteen members of Court Seaforth. Twenty candidates were on hand for initiation. Bro. Richards read the charter and Bro. Stevens declared Court Progressive duly and legally opened. The officers were then elected and installed as follows: J. Story, C. R.; J. Berry, S. C. R.; C. Overbury, Treas.; F. Jackson, Fin. Sec.; J. Reid, Rec. Sec.; F. Pickett, S. W.; J. Brounly, J. W.; W. Slowman, S. B.; C. Brounson, J. B.; H. Cole, F. Tipling and W. Evans, Trustees. After the installation the brethren adjourned to the Grand Union Hotel, where the visitors were entertained by the members of Court Progressive. A very pleasant time was spent, and songs and speeches were the order of the evening.

A Buffalo dispatch of May 24 says: The headquarters of the State Grand Court of the Ancient Order of Foresters of America were yesterday located in Buffalo. Secretary William Daly, of Brocklyn, will locate at No. 100 Breekenridge street. The remeval was brought about by the election of the Buffalo ticket at the recent convention in this city, the laws of the order requiring the efficers to be in the same city.
