Russian Invasion of Hungary Has Now Begun

NOW RILEY HOME, MAY BE IMPOSSIBLE TO EXTRADITE HIM

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE KNOWS NOTHING ABOUT RILEY'S RELEASE

Stated in Ottawa That Man Sentenced Here Still Behind Prison Bars.

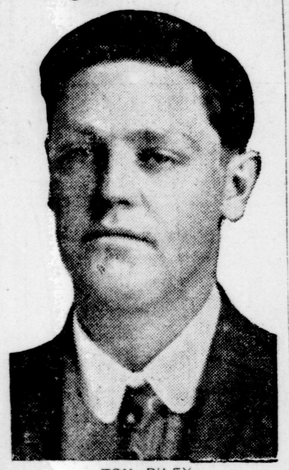

BUT HE IS AT HOME

Letter To Rev. Mr. Bingham Clearly Proves Tom Is in Missouri.

ANOTHER RILEY IS OUT

Man of Same Name Was Serving Seven-Year Term—He Was Pardoned.

Ottawa, April 12. — The justice department says that it has not pardoned the wrong Riley. The man recently released from Kingston was Thomas Riley of Hamilton, sentenced on April 3, 1913, for seven years for killing his wife. He served two years. An examination of the record shows extenuating circumstances and pardon was given. Apparently there has been some confusion between this Riley and one from London. The latter is still behind the stone walls at Kingston.

TOM RILEY.

A report was current in the city Saturday that a blunder had been committed in the releasing of Tom Riley, the young railroader, who shot and killed George Blackburn, bartender at the Cecil Hotel, last winter, and who was sentenced to serve fifteen years for manslaughter. The stories circulated were to the effect that another Riley, serving a seven year sentence for killing his wife, had been pardoned, but that no man answering to the description of the Riley from London had been paroled.

That Tom Riley, convicted in this city, is free is proven by a letter written by him to Rev. H. H. Bingham, pastor of Talbot Street Baptist Church, here, from his home in the southern states.

Discredit Mistake.

Advices received from The Advertiser's Ottawa correspondent last night, discredit such a mistake. The dispatch received states that Justice department officials think there has been no mistake made in the Riley pardon case. The man who deals with pardons declares he has so many cases he cannot speak with certainty, from memory, but he thinks that the Riley referred to served two years of a seven year sentence and was pardoned because of ill-health and because investigation showed there was considerable justification for his act.

Officials will look up records and clear up the mystery at once.

Riley surprised his parents in Everton when he walked into his old home, for his arrival was absolutely unexpected. They had not expected to see him for at least a dozen years.

THEORY OF RELEASE.

The theory that the release from Kingston Penitentiary of Tom Riley, convicted here less than a year ago of the manslaughter of George Blackburn and sentenced to fifteen years, came about through a mistake on the part of the officials as to the identity of the man whose release was ordered by the department in Ottawa, is favored by the police of the city generally.

Chief Williams thinks the facts point to this conclusion. He cannot understand otherwise why the parole board did not communicate with him before the release order was signed.

"Whenever a petition is received by the department asking for the pardon of a convicted prisoner," he pointed out,

LIEUT. GILBERT CHISHOLM HAS BRAIN CONCUSSION

German Shell Exploding in Trenches Caused Injury.

Lieut. Gilbert Chisholm, son of A. G. Chisholm, 202 St. James street, has written that he is in a London, England, hospital, suffering from concussion of the brain, caused by the explosions of high-powdered shells near him, while fighting in Belgium. Lieut. Chisholm is not wounded, and his condition, according to doctors at the hospital, is not serious. He expects to rejoin his regiment in Belgium shortly. Lieut. Chisholm enlisted with the Royal Irish Rifles, at Vancouver, B.C., upon the outbreak of the war.

GLAUBITZ MUST RESIGN HIS JOB

If Not In by Thursday, Will Be Asked For by Commissioner Mitchell.

MANAGER WON'T TALK

Refuses To Say Whether or Not He Will Hand In Resignation as Promised.

"Finis" has not been written to the Glaubitz story yet by any means. The already voluminous document of interesting civic history that has as its hero one H. J. Glaubitz, general-manager of the public utilities commission, has apparently many chapters yet to run, and from all indications these chapters will be just as full of action and vigor as some of the earlier ones that dealt with his original appointment, his little old last year's car, the charges made against him by the city council, the resignation, the reinstatement and the mayor's refusal to sign his checks.

The commission meets again on Thursday afternoon, and it is slated on the order of procedure that the check question is the first Glaubitz item to come up. At the first April meeting of the board, action was deferred on this matter until the next meeting. As the mayor still declines to sign the checks that have been accumulating for Mr. Glaubitz since last February, it is expected that an order will be passed instructing the bank to honor commission checks on the signature of the chairman and secretary only.

Fight Needed First.

This will only be done after a fight, but it will form chapter I of the appendix. Chapter II will be either Mr. Glaubitz's resignation or the demand for it.

Asked by The Advertiser if he would resign and leave the service on May 1, as promised by Chairman Pocock, the general-manager refuses to make any statement for publication. It is a known fact, however, that if he still refuses to have it in by Thursday that it will be asked for.

Two weeks ago Commissioner F. G. Mitchell asked for it, and was informed that it would be submitted in good time If it is not in by Thursday, Mr. Mitchell will not only ask for it once more, but will demand it. As the pro-Glaubitz members of the commission have pledged themselves to see that the general-manager does resign, they will have to back up the demand of Mr. Mitchell.

BRITISH STEAMER TORPEDO VICTIM

Wayfarer Hit Off Scilly Isles —Her Fate Is Still Uncertain.

London, April 12—12:30 p.m.—The Harrison Line steamer Wayfarer has been torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine, according to a message received in London by a news agency. Details of the incident are lacking.

The British steamer Wayfarer was 505 feet long and registered 6,222 tons. She was built in Belfast in 1903, and was owned in Liverpool. She left Galveston January 27 for Liverpool, where she arrived February 17.

Perhaps Not Sunk.

Another message from Liverpool says the Wayfarer has not gone down, but she is making for Queenstown in tow. The vessel was torpedoed off the Scilly Isles, according to this report.

The owners of the Wayfarer confirm the statement that she has been struck by a torpedo, and is being towed into Queenstown. They are not aware of any casualties on board.

WESTERN ONTARIO WELL REPRESENTED

Eight New Names Appear—Two London Girls Will Go.

In the list of nurses who have been instructed to report at Ottawa on April 14 are the names of Miss F. M. McLeod, 420 Park avenue, and Miss I. Wilson, 180 Bruce street.

The list contains eight names in all. In addition to the two London nurses, it contains the following names: Misses H. L. Read, of Stratford; Edith F. Neelin, of Seaforth; Alma Dancey, of Goderich; M. Askin, Myrtle Fielder, and Nellie Gerrard, all of Windsor.

ALLIES' FIRE REPELS ENEMY

Two Violent German Counter Attacks at Le Pretre Fail Completely.

POSITIONS REORGANIZED

Advantage Taken of Lull To Strengthen Meuse To Moselle Line.

[Canadian Press.]

PARIS, April 12, via London—2:55 p.m.—The French war office this afternoon gave out a report on the progress of the war, reading as follows:

"There is little to add this afternoon to the communication given out last night. During April 11 engagements continued the whole day in Belgium, in the region of Albert, also in France, between the Oise and the Aisne and in the Champagne district.

"In view of the fact that no engagements took place between the Meuse and the Moselle after our success of April 8, we have devoted ourselves to reorganizing the positions during the course of the fighting.

"On the western fringe of the forest of Le Pretre we repelled two violent German counter-attacks, which failed completely under the fire of our infantry and artillery."

QUIET, SAY GERMANS.

Berlin, April 12.—(By wireless to Sayville)—The war office announcement of this day follows:

"Sunday was comparatively quiet on the western front. French attacks in the Argonne, against the Combres position, in the Ailly forest and in the forest of Le Pretre were all repulsed.

"Inasmuch as an attack by the enemy resulted in the killing with bombs of three women in the open town of Muelheim, German bombs were dropped on the central group of fortifications at Nancy.

"French officers who have been taken prisoner have informed the German authorities that the cathedral of Notre Dame in Paris, the galleries of the Louvre, and the Hotel Des Invalides are being used for military purposes. They are equipped with searchlights, wireless apparatus and machine guns.

Prisoners Taken.

"In the German advance to the east from Mariampol nine Russian officers and 1,250 soldiers were taken prisoners. Four machine guns also were captured. To the northeast of Lomza the Russians threw bombs which did not explode but which develop asphyxiating gases.

"The Russian authorities officially have circulated a report concerning the mutilation of Russian non-commissioned officers. This is an absurd falsehood, and unworthy of discussion."

SHARP STRUGGLES.

[Canadian Press.]

PARIS, Via London, April 11.—11:45 p.m.—The following official communication was issued by the French War Office tonight:

"To the north of Albert the Germans during the course of Saturday night delivered on attack on the two banks of the Ancre River against our trenches and in the Thiepval Wood, but they were repulsed after hand-to-hand fighting.

"In the Argonne the fighting developed into a very sharp struggle lasting all night and we demolished a blockhouse and captured about three hundred yards of a trench. We have maintained our gain notwithstanding two German counter-attacks.

"Between the Meuse and the Moselle no infantry action has been reported in the region of Les Esparges and Combres since our success of April 9.

"In the Ailly Wood an attack on the evening of the tenth made us masters of a new line of trenches which they had lost in the course of the day. The positions which we won on the eighth remain completely in our possession.

"In the forest of Le Pretre two violent counter-attacks by the enemy melted away under our infantry and artillery fire.

"Our aeroplanes have dropped bombs on the maritime station and foundry at Bruges."

"We took five machine guns and a bomb-thrower April 10 in the forests of Ailly and Le Pretre."

SUBMARINE STOPS DANISH VESSELS

London, April 12.—Several Danish vessels report that they were stopped and examined by a German submarine off Hurnary, on the west coast of Jutland, according to the Daily Telegraph Copenhagen correspondent.

London's Answer to German Despotism Will Be Carried to Trenches at Front

MAJOR MILLIGAN.

LIEUT.-COL. WIGLE.

MAJOR INGRAM.

Advertiser Illustrations.

When the 18th Battalion, Second Contingent Canadian Expeditionary Force, leaves the city it will carry the answer of London, Ontario, to German despotism to the trenches in France and Belgium.

It is another fine human machine, keyed to the highest service, inspired not by a sense of militarism, nor the desire to take human life, but a unit of the British democracy up in arms, which will represent this Forest City, far removed in distance, but not in sentiment, from the mightiest conflict ever waged, mightiest in force of arms, but more tremendous in its cause and justification.

"A Democracy in Arms."

That fine phrase, "a democracy in arms," fits the average Canadian regiment well. In the units that have gone are found the sons of rich and poor, the bank man, the day laborer, the artisan and the professional man. In the 18th there is plenty of regimental spirit and fitting dignity and discipline, but there is no class distinction. There is a man who will fall heir to a vast Scotch estate serving in the ranks; he is not making "any bones" about that, but is trying to pull his shooting up. There are young British-Americans galore, men who have given up a salary of $200 a month in some big American industry in order to strike back at the menace that threatens the freedom found in old Britain and on this continent.

All British to Core.

There are young Scotchmen, Irishmen, Englishmen, some of them that type that has captured many countries for Britain by peaceful means; men who have fought for the adventure of it under Villa, men who have been taking college courses and have truly laid down the pen for the sword of justice; young farmers and city men from the best homes in Canada.

The average of intelligence in the 18th Battalion is high. This is to be found in the attitude of the men on the street. There is little bombast, or swagger, or bullying, or mob-action in this unit. Its members are fair, square men, who have made their regimental name stand for honor and decent living. They have been remarkable in their good nature toward all and their kindness.

Great Shots, Too.

But what can they do? When General Hughes came here a few days ago he merely gave the 18th the "once over." He knew these. They were fit when he saw them before. How can they shoot? Well, they have not been bragging about it, but the 18th, as a unit, is shooting 3.5, which means much better than one shot in two hits the target, and hits it where it counts. They are making pets of their new rifles, and they have some officers who have shot so well that the men felt a great improvement distinctly up to them.

Keen Personal Interest.

The city of London has given scores of her best blood to the 18th. It has the keenest personal interest in the battalion, and there will be a vacant place in the hearts of Londoners when the men go, and go silently without any flare of trumpets or demonstrations.

But the 13th must know that the hearts of London citizens are with them, and that their careers will be followed with the warmest sympathy.

GERMAN RESISTANCE GRADUALLY WEAKENS

Significant Fact That the Enemy Has Made No Retaliatory Move Since Neuve Chapelle Defeat—Confidence Disappearing, Says Official Eye-witness.

[Canadian Press.]

London, April 12, 3:40 p.m.—"It is a significant fact that, although a month has passed since the action at Neuve Chapelle, the enemy has made no attempt to retaliate in any quarter, but has remained inactive, while we have established ourselves securely on the ground won," is a declaration made by the "eye-witness" attached to British army headquarters on the continent in a communication dated April 9.

Continuing, the writer of this report says:

Gradual Weakening.

"Looking back over the past four months, it is instructive to note the gradual weakening of the German resistance on our front. Formerly any offensive action on our part was met with an immediate counter-stroke. This is the first occasion on which the enemy has made no reply at all. This does not mean, of course, that their resistance is collapsing, but the Germans have none the less admitted that, with the troops at their disposal on this front, they are unable to avenge their defeat. Some light has been thrown lately on the conditions prevailing in the area behind the German lines, which served to confirm the impression that the general situation is creating great anxiety."

Referring to the condition bordering on panic which prevailed at Lille during the fighting at Neuve Chapelle, this writer goes on to say:

Enemy Loses Confidence.

"Both officers and men have openly expressed their uneasiness. Apparently a marked change began to occur in the general demeanor of the German troops soon after Christmas. Till then they had been absolutely confident and extremely cheerful, but latterly this feeling has been steadily decreasing.

German soldiers have told French civilians they recognize they would be overpowered by the masses of men Britain was going to place in the field, and they have tried to persuade them that the British were equally bent on ruining France, and that they would grab everything for themselves."

In conclusion, the "eyewitness" mentions the fact that the German war levy at Lille, Roubaiche and Tourcoing during the month of March amounted to 5,000,000 francs ($1,000,000).

Russians Sweeping Enemy Before Them

Descend Southern Slope of Carpathians, Forcing Austrians Back With Heavy Losses—Between Dukla and Svednik Teutons Abandoned Stores.

Lemberg, Galicia, Sunday, April 11—Via London, April 12, 12:20 p.m.—The Russian armies, according to dependable information reaching Lemberg, have made successful advances along the wide front from Bartfeld to Uzsok, the greatest gain being in the direction of Gummenen.

At this point the Russians descended the southern slope of the Carpathians, forcing the Austrians back with heavy losses to the line between Mezolaborcz and Smolnik. At the same time, the Russians advanced along the line between Dukla and Svednik, where the Austrians, unable to make a serious defence, abandoned their stores and transport in their retreat. The most determined opposition on this whole line of battle was on the part of the Hungarians.

NO REINFORCEMENTS SEEN.

Petrograd, April 12.—There are still no indications that the Germans have sent further reinforcements to the Austrians in the Carpathians, notwithstanding the fact that the German forces along the Niemen River, in the north near the East Prussian frontier, appear to be weakening. For this reason Russian staff officers believe the German troops from the north are being removed to some other part of the front. No signs are evident of renewed activity on either side of the Vistula. The conclusion, accordingly, is drawn that the German troops will begin a new offensive movement from some other quarter. This attack is expected by the Russian staff from the direction of Cracow.

Drive From Cracow.

It's "Came!"

It's "came!"

Just as soon as the weather moderates a trifle more, London's finest will blossom forth in neat, white gloves.

At a meeting of the police commission Saturday, Mayor H. A. Stevenson's plan to incase the brawny hands of the police department in purest white materialized.

Hereafter, traffic officers who gracefully regulate the stream of London's autos, wagons and pedestrians at busy street intersections, with crook of finger and wave of hand from wrist, will do so with dictating palm concealed. True, Chief of Police Williams is skeptical as to the worth of the gloves when the patrolmen are making their nightly rounds and "trying" innumerable doors, but even the chief admits that the favorable impression and altogether metropolitan air the "white-finger'd squad" will impart to the department's status is not a negative quantity in the reckoning.

Nothing was done with the mayor's proposal to adopt khaki uniforms for the summer months.

DON'T SING THAT "DON'T SEND MY BOY AWAY" SONG

On Behalf of Many of the Men, Pte. Bartlett Protests to The Advertiser.

BITTERNESS OF PARTING

Song Sung Here "Draws the Tears To Eyes and Makes the Heart Quiver."

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Considerable resentment is being expressed by the large number of soldiers who visited a downtown picture house Saturday night and listened to the song "Don't Take My Darling Boy Away to War." The soldiers don't believe in this extra sentimental stuff that draws the tears to the eyes and makes the heart quiver.

A soldier's whole soul is filled with hope, and it is this great spirit that has built up the mighty British Empire. The soldiers want the songs that will stir up their patriotism, for the fight is on, and the darling boys are face to face with duty. They must go to the war, and, thank God, the noble mothers of these boys are inspiring them on to victory.

We all know the bitterness of parting, alas! only too well; but at a time like this, when our nation is in great peril, we must not dwell on the bitter side or the question, and songs like the one sung Saturday night, "Don't Take My Darling Boy Away to War," should be prohibited." This song has been forbidden to be sung in Toronto picture houses, and London should follow the brilliant example.

Written on behalf of hundreds of soldiers.

VALIANT DEFENCE OF ARMY BOOTS

Chairman Middlebro Would Persuade Parliament Footwear Was Really Good.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, April 12. — The discussion of "Boots" was begun by the Commons this morning. Mr. Middlebro, who presided over the investigating committee, moved the adoption of the whitewashing report prepared by the Conservative majority of the committee.

He had the floor all morning, laboring with explanations. He claimed that the "Valcartier-Salisbury boots" were better than the South African boots. He intimated that they were even better than the British boots. In fact his arguments all tended to show that they were really excellent boots. He seemed to think it extraordinary that, in the face of the evidence, the Liberal members would not agree with this.

He is still explaining.

NOVA SCOTIAN ILL

Canadian Casualty List Contains Only One Name—Additional British List.

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, April 12.—One Canadian casualty is announced today:

Fifth Battalion: Seriously ill—April 10, No. 13230, Private Kenneth Eaton, acute mastoid. Next of kin, Mrs. R. W. Eaton, Kentville, N. S.

BRITISH CASUALTIES.

London, April 12.—4:25 p.m.—Six hundred and eighty-three names, including 23 men who were killed, were added today to the previous casualty lists of the losses in the fighting at Neuve Chapelle last month.

This list brings the total casualties in this engagement to 7,244. Of this number 2,074 were killed.

HORTICULTURISTS MEET. — The Canadian Horticultural Association met this afternoon in the Western Fair office, when members from Montreal, Toronto and other places were present. H. B. Cowan, of Peterboro, presided. The members discussed the program for a convention to be held in this city in August.

BRITAIN AWAITS PARTICULARS OF NAVAL BATTLES

Rumored Engagements Off Coast of Norway and Scarborough, England.

FRENCH STILL PROGRESS

American Relief Commission Waiting For Official Report On Harpalyce.

[Canadian Press.]

LONDON, April 12.—11:10 a.m. — Reports are current here that heavy firing is taking place at sea off Scarborough, indicating that some kind of a naval engagement is in progress.

NO OFFICIAL REPORT.

No official information yet has been vouchsafed concerning the naval engagement reported to have taken place off the coast of Norway.

London, April 12.—No official information yet has been vouchsafed concerning the naval engagement reported to have taken place off the coast of Norway. While awaiting details of this action, the British public has been kept interested by the news of sounds of firing off Scarborough, on the east coast, the scene of one of the most sensational of the German naval raids.

France continues to report progress in the Argonne and beyond the Meuse. At the same time the French authorities admit that the German counter-attacks have been exceedingly fierce, and that one resulted in the recapture of a trench. At Esparges, the French have not advanced beyond the positions captured by them April 9.

Paris admits also that the Germans have recovered some ground temporarily lost by them between Pont-a-Mousson and St. Mihiel, but even there the French claim to hold most of their gain.

Russians Moving On.

The fighting in the Carpathians continues along a 70-mile front with apparently undiminished vigor, with Russia claiming to have repulsed a determined counter-offensive on the part of the Austrians and the Germans. On the eastern flank the Russians are drawing near Touszok Pass. If they carry this position they will command another easy road to Hungary.

Interest in the near eastern situation has been stimulated by the receipt in London of two special dispatches, one of which declares that the recent mission to Berlin of Field Marshal Von Der Goltz was instigated by the Young Turks, who have declared that Germany must send a strong force to invade Servia and threaten Bulgaria, in order that munitions of war might be sent to Turkey; while the other quotes the Prime Minister of Bulgaria as saying a new situation has been brought about by the actions of the Allies in the east, in which Bulgaria sees a possibility of realizing her national aspirations.

Americans Waiting.

The sinking of the Belgian relief ship Harpalyce on her return voyage has created much comment here, but the American relief commission is awaiting official confirmation of the report that this ship was sent down by a German submarine before making a protest.

Interest in prohibition in Britain continues unabated, with the latest material for discussion supplied by a morning paper, which asserts that the Government is prepared to take over the industry of manufacturing light beer, at the same time suppressing all other intoxicating drinks.

SEPTEMBER LIKELY ELECTION MONTH

Scandals Make Some Think June Undesirable—Rogers Is Ready.

[Canadian Press.]

Ottawa, April 12. — Parliament is closing with a conundrum troubling both sides. Will there be a June election, a September election, or another session and no election? Before so much scandal was revealed in committee the June election was a practical certainty.

Hon. Robert Rogers still favors June for polling. His followers on this point have become conspicuously scarce.

Some Hesitate.

It is clear that a majority of the members of the Government are in no hurry to go to the people. They want the test put off until autumn, when they hope that general good crops, general forgetfulness and success on the battlefield may improve their prospects for being returned in power.

September Likely.

It now seems almost certain that September for elections is the best guess. It is clear, however, that the Government today hasn't its mind made up in regard to any date. It is also clear that Mr. Rogers' election machine is ready with a full head of steam on, to be started off in June, if necessary.

SALVATION HEADS OF WEST ONTARIO HERE FOR SERVICES

200 Army Members Hold Rousing Services In City Yesterday.

HIGH OFFICERS ATTEND

Com. Richards Speaks to Younger Workers of Band.

Officers and workers of the Salvation Army to the number of two hundred or more from all parts of Western Ontario peninsula were in the city yesterday for the annual young people's congress, which comprised simultaneous meetings in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium and the citadel in the morning, afternoon and evening.

The speakers included many of the highest officers of the army in Canada, among them being Commissioner W. J. Richards, Col. Gaskin, chief secretary; Col. Hargrave, Col. and Mrs. Turner, all of Toronto; and Brigadier Bettridge, the local divisional commanding officer. The staff band and a male choir from Toronto also were present under the leadership of Major Arnold and gave a splendid musical entertainment at the citadel in the evening as well as assisting at the afternoon address in the Auditorium.

The meetings were all of an inspirational character and six stirring addresses were given.

Speaking to a satisfactorily large audience in the Auditorium in the afternoon, Col. Gaskin gave an interesting historical sketch of the origin and progress of the army, the title of his subject being "Then and Now." It was originated, he said, fifty years ago by William Booth, an itinerant evangelist who had been discredited and practically discarded by the church of his adoption.

This man, the speaker said, had been so fired by the idea of carrying the Gospel to Salvation to men and women who were not being reached by the ordinary religious organization that he dedicated his life to the work and he was loyally and ably seconded and helped in this life work by his wife.

In fifty years the movement orinated by Booth had grown until its ramifications had spread into almost every country in the world and it had become the greatest temperance organization in existence. In this connection the speaker declared that easily 99 per cent of all the members and adherents of the order were total abstainers.

The reason for the army's tremendous success in this branch of their work as in all the other branches was that the motive power was divine inspiration. Other temperance bodies had been well-meaning and sincere, but they had tried to reach their goal without this motive power and had depended very largely on getting men to sign pledges.

Conditions had varied very greatly, said Col. Gaskin, since the early days of the Salvation Army. As an instance he told of his own experiences in a small town after he first became a captain. His headquarters were in a barn, without any floor and without a stove of any kind, while the only pay he got for four months was about thirty-five cents, out of which he was expected to feed a healthy and hungry lieutenant.

He told, also of some remarkable instances of men and women being converted by the army in those early days and declared that these results could not have been secured except for the inspiring spirit which permeated all its endeavors.

Ex-Mayor C. M. R. Graham presided at the meeting, and, in introducing the speaker, declared that the city owed a debt of gratitude to the Salvation Army, which, by its splendid social service work, had bettered conditions in London materially.

The afternoon address in the citadel was delivered by Commissioner Richards especially for young people and those interested in the work among young people. They would not succeed by starting off with a rush and then falling away. A rush at the beginning was all right provided that had the staying power which would enable them to come in strong at the finish.

For every thousand men who started in some life-work, he declared, only one finished. So many young girls were inclined to take up something with tremendous enthusiasm and then loose interest before they had accomplished what they set out to do.

VETERAN BANDSMAN DEAD

Charles L. Teale, Former Member of the 7th Band, Expires at Daughter's Home.

Charles L. Teale, for many years a member of the 7th Regiment Band, died at his daughter's home in Detroit on Friday, after an illness extending over some time. He was 70 years of age. His wife, who, prior to her marriage, was Miss Screaton, of this city, died some time ago.

The late Mr. Teale was born in London, but left this city in 1892. For some years he was a member of Sousa's Band, New York. At the time of his death he was bandmaster of the Veterans' Band, Chicago.

He is survived by one son, Walter, of Simcoe, one daughter, Mrs. S. Wise, of Detroit, and two brothers, Walter, of London, and Christopher, of Simcoe.

The remains will be brought to London on the noon C. P. R. train today. The funeral will be held from the station on the arrival of the train, to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Services will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Flanders, of the First Methodist Church.

LONDON NURSE IS CALLED FOR SERVICE WITH TROOPS AT FRONT

MISS ISABEL WILSON, residing at 180 Bruce street, South London, and a graduate of Victoria Hospital in 1907, has been notified by military authorities at Ottawa to report for duty with the overseas force, on Wednesday. She will be enlisted as a member of the Army Medical Corps, with the rank of lieutenant. Miss Wilson is well known in this city, particularly in hospital circles. She will leave the city for Ottawa on Tuesday.

MILITARY ORDERS FOR 1ST DIVISION

Division order by the officer commanding 1st Division Headquarters, 1st Division, London, Ont., 9th April, 1915.

ADMINISTRATION STAFF.

No. 78.—List of Hospitals Where Members of C. E. F. Are Being Treated.

It is notified for general information that arrangements have been made by which, as far as practicable, Canadians will be sent to the Duchess of Connaught Canadian Red Cross Hospital at Cliveden, Taplow, England, and the director or medical services, C. E. F., suggests that it would be advisable for all comforts and supplies intended for Canadian soldiers who are in hospital to be forwarded through the Canadian Red Cross commissioner, 13 Cockspur street, London S. 33RD BATTALION MEN HEAR SERMON ON WAR

Headed By Bugle Band, Men Parade Streets, While Citizens By Hundreds Look On.

The 33rd Battalion, in command of Lieut.-Col. Wilson, paraded Sunday morning to Askin Street Methodist Church. Both going and coming the officers and men made a very smart appearance, and large crowds of citizens turned out to see them pass. The battalion was accompanied by its fine bugle band, in charge of Sergt. Nanfan.

Rev. W. H. Harvey, pastor of the Askin Street Church, preached a sermon that was greatly enjoyed by the soldiers. He based his sermon on the life of Joshua, pointing out what a splendid soldier he was. Rev. Mr. Harvey emphasized to each man the paramount importance in modern warfare of each individual. He urged all to be ready to give his very best in such a splendid cause.

"This war," he said, "is one of the most just wars in which Britain has ever been engaged."

ELECTRICITY GROUNDED THROUGH HORSE'S HOOFS TO STEEL STREET RAILS

Crouching on steel rails, while a current of electricity from a severed trolley wire grounded through its iron-shod hoofs, a horse attached to a delivery wagon, the property of David Gilmore, a baker, at 51 Blackfriars street, was nearly electrocuted on Dundas street at the intersection with Clarence street, about 5:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The animal was pulled from the rails by a half dozen members of the 18th Battalion who, unmindful of the cries of hundreds of pedestrians to "look out," grasped the bridle, the shafts, or any part of the outfit they could lay their hands on. While fire flew from its hoofs the animal was pulled clear.

The trouble was caused by the snapping of a hydro feed wire of high voltage, carried overhead and crossing the Dundas street trolley wire at right angles. While the downpour was at its height, the wire with a sharp crack broke, falling onto the unprotected street railway wire. In a trice, the insulation on the feed wire was burnt through. There was a blinding flash. Blue flame ripped out from the wire-ends as the current short-circuited. The trolley wire fell to the street amid loud sputterings and into the path of the bakery horse. The animal kicked the "live" end, grounding the flow.

Street car traffic was held up for some time, as a result of the accident. Supt. Harry Humeston rerouted many of the cars while the emergency wagon was repairing the break.

TO INCREASE MISSION FUND.

Desiring a total contribution of $2,900, an appeal for donations towards the mission fund of the church was made at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at both services Sunday by A. E. Silverwood, on behalf of the mission board. The appeal will be followed by a systematic canvass of the members of the church this week with the idea of raising the desired amount.

TO CURE DISEASE, DON'T THINK OF IT

Advice of Christian Scientist In Lecture In London Yesterday.

TELLS WHAT HEAVEN IS

Not a Place But a Mental or Spiritual State, Says Speaker.

"Human beings give to disease and sin all the power they have and to sorrow and suffering all the power they possess. If we are going to begin to get rid of them we must go to the very root of the matter and take away from our own thought the belief we have had in, say disease. That may seem like a 'large order.' A man may say 'How can I disbelieve in a thing I have actually got?' I answer that question with another: 'Is your disease more real to you than God is?' Suppose this afternoon you could lose your confidence in disease and also suppose you could gain supreme confidence in God and understand Him so clearly that you could know that in His presence there could be no disease, would you be better off or worse? Immeasurably better. Christian Science tends to give you that enlightenment. We may not entirely arrive at the truth, but we are progressing toward it."

These were thoughts given by Bicknall Young, C.S.B., of Chicago, during the course of an address on Christian Science delivered yesterday afternoon in Masonic Hall before a large audience of citizens.

Discovered in 1866.

Mr. Young stated that few people really understood what Christian Science aimed at. Since the time of its discovery in 1866 many people condemned the science without gaining any conception of what it taught. The religious bodies, Mr. Young stated, united in frowning upon Mrs. Mary Eddy's discovery, although they agreed upon practically nothing else. Yet in her doctrine of Christian Science, Mrs. Eddy discovered not only a science based upon unconfutable principles, the speaker said, but also a way of deliverance from evil. Christian Science, Mr. Young stated, justified its name in all its teachings, and in all aspects of its demonstrations. It only required of a human being that he should be willing to study and think.

It was an inborn instinct of the human race to think of a Supreme Being. Unreligious people, materialists, who deny God, philosophers who might be wholly agnostic, all acknowledged a great First Cause of the world, and the human race. The more men thought about God, or the Cause, they realized that He was infinite and internal.

"If we admit the infinity and eternity of God, how can we say that disease and sin are his visitations? When Jesus stated that "there is but one good, that is God," he stated not a religious truth, but a scientific fact. John said: "God is love." How could He be anything else? And if he is, how can anything evil like disease come from him?" asked the speaker.

"If a man believed that disease originated in God, I do not see that he could be justified in ever trying to get rid of it. If he believes that God permits disease for some wise purpose, what right has a human being to try to be cured? Down in our hearts there is something more true than this. The natural instinct in us is to see that evil things do not belong to us. We have striven sometimes in wrong ways whether with disease or sin, to be rid of it. We have ascribed them to God. Many claim that if there is one First Cause, He must be responsible for everything. Christian science teaches us differently, along scientific lines.

Gain By Understanding.

"Instead of taking such experiences as sin, sorrow and disease, and ascribing them to God, Christian science 'unmixes' them, and helps the human being to make a clear cut division between what is natural and what is spiritual. The gospel of Jesus Christ was given to us in order that we might be able to gain divine existence. Ordinarily speaking, people think to gain it by dying. Christian science says that you must rather gain it by understanding. The human race has regarded belief in Christ as a way of getting to heaven. But no one will ever get there in that way. Heaven is an enlightenment, an infinite peace. You gain Heaven by knowing truth and proving it. Heaven is not a place but a mental or spiritual state, that you can gain anywhere or at any time, without going anywhere to get it. As to hell? Many of us do not need to be told that it may be found here on earth, and that many people are living in it today."

Christian Science, the speaker said, in summing up, its doctrines and teachings, was based upon simple scientific truth, which applied to the daily life enabled the person to overcome disease and a tendency to sin. Nearness to God, and a gradual conception of the divine mind, were the great principles and aims of Christian Science, attained by the believer only by careful study into the precepts set forth by Mrs. Eddy. Prayer, and a close study of the scriptures were vital helps along the road.

The speaker was introduced by Peter Mackay. Some pleasing instrumental music before the lecture, was rendered by Miss Bulman.

$3 FOR STEALING COAL

Greek Shoe-Shiner Appears in Police Court.

James Farrow, a Greek shoe shiner, attempted a partial solution of the H. C. of L. problem by taking a bag of coal from the yards of the Grand Trunk Railway. To a policeman who stopped him to ask what he was doing with the fuel, and who was called to give evidence in the police court today, the economist suggested blandly that, if the officer would allow him to go, he would get another bag and secure more coal.

In spite of his ability to converse with the policeman, the accused in court professed not to have a knowledge of English, and gave his evidence through an interpreter. He declared that he did not know he was doing wrong in taking the coal, but his protestations did not save him from a fine of $3 and costs.

COMMITTEE LIKES THE NEW HYMNAL

Presbyterian Committee Commends Changes Made in Book of Praise.

OLD HYMNS THAT GO

Certain of the Psalms That Were To Go May Be Retained.

Toronto, April 12.—The draft hymn book arranged by the committee of the General Assembly has been highly commended by a special committee of the Presbytery of Toronto. In the report the committee speaks of the draft as being "distinctly successful in providing music of a pure quality and great variety, music fitted to be even more popular than that in the present book." It regards the improvement in music to be even greater than that in the words.

In explaining the action of the special committee of the Presbytery, Professor R. Davidson, one of its members, pointed out that it was hardly fair to consider only the omissions that were recommended by the committee, but that there should be taken into consideration the alterations suggested. The committee believed that their suggestions would lead to the inclusion of not only words but tunes which would be of a better quality than those to be omitted.

The report to the Presbytery is arranged to indicate the range of opinion of the committee, from those things which they strongly recommend to those for which they merely indicate a preference or merely suggest.

To Retain Psalms.

It is strongly recommended that the following Psalms omitted from the draft, be retained:

19 (sel. 11)—"The Glory of the Lord."
29 (sel. 22)—"Give Ye to Jehovah."
51 (sel. 38)—"After Thy Loving Kindness, Lord."
112 (sel. 86)—"How Blest the Man."
138 (sel. 110)—"Thee Will I Praise With All My Heart."

It is also thought that the following might well be retained:

33 (sel. 24)—"Ye righteous in the Lord rejoice."
34 (sel. 26)—"The Lord will I at all times bless."
57 (sel. 39)—"Be merciful to me, O God."
68: 7-10 (sel. 48)—"Sing praise to God."
78 (sel. 55)—"The praises of the Lord our God."
137 (sel. 109)—"By Babel's stream we sat and wept."

It is strongly recommended that the following be omitted from the draft:

2, "Why rage the heathen?"
3, "O, Lord how are my foes increased."
5, "O, Jehovah, hear my words." Metrical version of 1909 to be replaced by older version.
11, "My trust is in the Lord."
26, "Be Thou my judge, O Righteous Lord."
30, "O, Lord, by Thee delivered."
38, "In Thy wrath and hot displeasure."
46, "God is our refuge and our strength." Version of 1909.
80, "Hear! Israel's Shepherd."
84, "O God of hosts how lovely."
110, "Unto my Lord, Jehovah said."
134, "Behold all ye that serve the Lord."
150, "Hallelujah! Hallelujah!"

Might Omit These.

In addition the following might well be omitted from the draft:

66, "All hands to God in joyful sounds."
68, Part 2, v.v. 32-35, "O all ye kingdoms of the earth."
85, v.v. 6-13, "That in Thee may Thy people joy."
106, "Give praise and thanks unto the Lord."

It is strongly recommended that the following versions of Psalms found in the Hymnal be taken over into the Psalter:

19 (H. 18), "The spacious firmament on high."
72 (H. 444), "Hail to the Lord's anointed."
84 (H. 387), "Lord of the world above."
84 (H. 389), "Pleasant are Thy courts above."
100 (H. 14), "Before Jehovah's awful throne."
103 (H. 25), "Praise, my soul, the King of Heaven."
104 (H. 22), "O, worship the King."
136 (H. 17), "Let us, with a gladsome mind."

It is recommended that the following versions of Psalms be included: 24: 1-6 (1650); 103: v.v. 11-15 (1564); 130 (Phineas Fletcher); 131 (Montgomery); 148 (Baker).

They also suggest a careful consideration of 23 (Early Scottish, Geo. Herbert); 25 (Sternhold); 66 (Churton); 90 (Burns, Bickersleth); 121 (Vaughan); 122 (Montgomery); 139 (Tale and Brady).

Approving of the revised classification of the hymns, the committee recommends as well, that to each division should be appended a list if other hymns and psalms closely related in thought and spirit.

Save These Hymns.

It is strongly recommended that the following hymns in the present Book of Praise, omitted from the draft, be retained:

33, "Brightest and Best of the Sons of the Morning."
83, "Hark! 'Tis the watchman's cry."
93, "Awake, my soul, in joyful lays."
159, "O for a faith that will not shrink."
279, "I once was a stranger to grace."
322, "It is not death to die."
344, "When this passing world is done."
439, "Christ for the world we sing."
582, "Lead, Holy Shepherd, lead us."

Some have shown a desire to retain the following:

19, "When I survery life's varied scene."
70, "Blessing and honor."
135, "Now is the accepted time."
144, "Return, O wanderer, to thy home."
211, "Saviour, more than life to me."
229, "Gracious Spirit, Holy Ghost."
257, "Jesus, My Savior, Look on Me."
264, "Come Ye That Love the Lord."
296, "Whate'er My God Ordains Is Right."
342, "I am But a Stranger Here."
425, "Fountain of Good To Own Thy Love."
457, "Whosoever Heareth, Shout, Shout the Sound."
525, "I Want To Be Like Jesus."
550, "Rejoice and Be Glad."

Do Without These Hymns.

It is strongly recommended that the following hymns in the present Book of Praise, retained in the draft, be omitted:

112, "Holy Ghost, Dispel Our Sadness."
115, "To Thee, O Comforter Divine."
143, "Come, Ye Sinners, Poor and Wretched."
286, "Lord, It Belongs Not to My Care."
324, "Thou Judge of Quick and Dead."
454, "O, Where Are the Reapers That Garner In."
586, "Gracious Savior, Gentle Shepherd."

The following might also be omitted:

172, Weary of Wandering from My God."
277, "God Is Near Thee, Therefore Cheer Thee."
506, "From Ocean Unto Ocean."

It is recommended that the following additions proposed in the draft be omitted:

236, "Head of Thy Church Triumphant."
408, "O Lord, How Happy Should We Be."
451, "O Holy City, Seen of John."
454, "O Lord of Hosts, the Fight Is Long."
457, "O Thou, Before Whose Presence."
669, "The Shepherds Had an Angel."
671, "All My Heart This Night Rejoices."
705, "O Now Is the Time To Remember Our Creator."

A Matter of Room.

It is suggested, too, that the following might be omitted if room were needed:

203, "See the Conqueror Mounts in Triumph."
224, "Thy Kingdom Come, on Bended Knee."
265, "Break Thou the Bread of Life."
284, "There Is No Love Like the Love of Jesus."
321, "Strong Son of God, Immortal Love."
336, "Jesus, the Very Thought Is Sweet."
339, "What Shall I Do My God To Love?"
376, "Let Me be With Thee Where Thou Art."
403, "Out on Life's Dark Heaving Ocean."
518, "We Come Unto Our Father's God."
536, "Lord, When We Bend Before Thy Throne."
583, "Christ Is Calling. Hear His Message."
596, "Judge Eternal Throned in Splendor."
624, "Sing to the Lord of Harvest."
648, "How Welcome Was the Call."
713, "Jesus, Meek and Gentle."
727, "Looking Upward Every Day."

It is recommended that the following hymns be included:

"O Come, O Come, Emmanuel."
"Come, My Soul, Thou Must Be Waking."—(United States Presbyterian Hymnal).
"Sleep On, Beloved, Sleep, and Take Thy Rest."—(Church Hymns).
"Oh, Thou That Makest souls To Shine."—(Church Hymns).
"Throw Away Thy Rod."—(University Hymn Book)
"Fair as a Tender Flowering Plan."—(Paraphrase 25).

It is recommended that hymns for special occasions, including Christmas and Easter hymns, be set to tunes that will be in common use.

The New Millinery Modes For the Warmer Days Will Be Shown Tomorrow

Second Floor.

The Large, Flat Sailors and Transparent Brims will find much favor as the warmer days come. The Millinery Department is splendidly ready with a superb range of the newest models, many featuring the quill and wing trimmings, others in the lace, flower and ribbon trimmed effects. A new modification of the "Shepherdess" styles, with brims not so flat as those produced earlier, will be seen in the displays. All these and hundreds of others may be seen here tomorrow. The noticeable features are the high character of the styles and the reasonable prices prevailing in Smallman & Ingram's millinery.

EXCHANGE AMENITIES IN THE POLICE COURT

Magistrate Judd Polite But Firm in Resolution — Mrs. Brown Must Leave City.

Mrs. Jennie Brown has been such a frequent visitor at the police court that she is as an old acquaintance to the magistrate and the officers. Therefore when she appeared today to answer a charge of disorderly conduct his worship greeted her with a pleasant "Good morning, Mrs. Brown."

"Good morning, sir," was the sprightly reply.

"A nice morning."

"Yes, except that it's a little chilly."

The amenities concluded, the court got down to business. It appears that Mrs. Brown and a male companion, John Johnston, had comported themselves in the former's house on Saturday evening in a manner which caused the neighbors to believe that a vaudeville performance was being given.

There To Mend Doorlocks.

Mrs. Brown protested that Johnston was on the premises merely to mend the locks on her door, his services having been commissioned because of the fact that various articles had been stolen from the house recently. In a voice of injured innocence, she assured the court that she and the lock-mender were merely sitting and chatting in a friendly way. The noise of which the neighbors complained she ascribed to the activities of a party of rollickers who came knocking at her door, demanding admittance on the strength of their possession of both whiskey and money.

"But I did not open to them," declared the lady in a tone of conscious virtue. "I told them I did not want their money or their whiskey."

His worship was skeptical, and declared that repeated warnings having failed of their purpose, the only thing left for him to do was to send the woman to the Mercer, whereat she broke into pleadings for still another chance to make good, urging consideration for the sake of her "aged mother-" She suggested as an alternative to the Mercer proposition that she be placed on the list.

Plead To Be Made Lister.

"Then if you catch me again, you can send me down for six months." She propounded this way out of the difficulty with a bright smile, and the appearance of one who offers a concession.

At first the magistrate was obdurate, but finally consented to the proposal on condition that the culprit leave the city and return to her home in St. Marys.

Then she wanted time to dispose of "her things," but the court's limit was 24 hours, and, in spite of protests, his worship refused to extend the time, and Mrs. Brown, with a slight shrug of the shoulders, bowed to the inevitable.

COUGHING HORSE DECLARED SOUND

"Doe" Chipman Tells Committee That Knee-Sprung Horse Was Suitable.

MINISTER REID REBUKED

His Threat To "Get After" Some Brings Scolding From F. B. Carvell.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, April 12.—"Doc" Chipman was on the stand first this morning. He was one of the four friends of A. Dewitt Foster, the famous Conservative member for Kings, Nova Scotia. He stated that he examined all the horses he bought. At Kentville he examined 36, and passed 6. At Wolfville he examined 80 or 100 and passed 28. He was paid $10 a day for his work, and got his remuneration in the form of a check from Ottawa.

Explains Cough.

He heard "the horse with the cough," but after several hours' observation came to the conclusion that it was sound. The "knee-sprung horse" had been a neighbor since its birth. It was sprung, not badly. It had been born that way, and was suitable for cavalry work.

Mr. Davidson, of Annapolis, wanted to know if Chipman knew A. B. Harvey, who sold the Government "the kind of horses they seemed to want."

He knew him.

"Would you examine his horses with special care?" asked Mr. Davidson.

Minister Rebuked.

"I should think, from Harvey's evidence, he is the sort of man whose horses should be examined with special care," interjected Minister of Customs Reid. "We intend to get after him," added the minister.

"Such a remark as that ill becomes a minister of this Government," declared F. B. Carvell with heat. "There are some other people whom the Government had better get after."

"We intend to get after them," said Hon. Dr. Rid.

"You would do well to get after Keever and after the missing accounts in this horse transaction," said Mr. Carvell.

"We intend to," said Dr. Reid.

Weird Financing.

There was something peculiar about the financial arrangement which the Foster, M. P.-Keever-McKay-"Doc" Chipman horse buyers had in Nova Scotia.

"Doc" Chipman, on the stand this morning, stated that Keever and McKay presented him with checks made out for signature to the amount of about $20,000, which they told him were to pay for a certain number of horses, which they also told him had been shipped. He admitted that he did not know whether that number of horses had been shipped or not, or whether the checks were for the right amount for the horses which were shipped.

He took their word and signed the checks.

There were no vouchers for doing so. Keever is supposed to have them, and he is still missing.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

"the matter is referred to the parole board, and then to the chief of police of the city or town in which the prisoner lived before his incarceration and where he was convicted. This course is necessary in order that the parole board may learn what the man's general character has been and whether his record is such as to suggest that he would be a safe man to be at large."

Would Have Communicated.

"If any steps were taken to secure Riley's release," the chief went on to say, "the authorities at Ottawa almost certainly would not have acted without communicating first with him, the chief, and the judge who tried the case. The fact that the sentence was one of fifteen years would indicate to the members of the parole board that the case was a serious one, and he thought it very improbable that, without a rigorous investigation into the circumstances, the authorities would sanction the release of such a man after only a few months of imprisonment."

The chief stated that if it were discovered that a mistake had been made, and that Riley had been released instead of another man of the same name, he could be taken back to the penitentiary to serve out his sentence. Whether such a course would be taken he was not in a position to say, but he expressed the opinion that, if it were, it would be terribly hard on Riley after he had been set free and allowed to believe that his prison term was at an end.

Can He Be Extradited.

Whether or not Tom Riley, who is now a free man in his home at Everton, Missouri, after having served only one of the fifteen years at Kingston, where he was sentenced for killing George Blackburn in this city last winter, can be extradited and brought back to Kingston to complete his term there, is forming much discussion amongst lawyers and county court authorities.

That pure unadulterated luck has followed Riley since he was arrested in this city for shooting George Blackburn in the Hotel Cecil, is the opinion of Sheriff Cameron and Ben Waterworth, deputy sheriff and high county constable.

If Riley, who is now in Everton, Missouri, was let out of the penitentiary by mistake, instead of another man named Riley, as all facts in the matter seem to show, can he be brought back?

Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop, who helped prosecute the case against Riley at the county court, before Mr. Justice Keiley, hesitated in making any statement about the affair.

"Murder, of course, is an extraditable offence, but whether Riley can be brought back after having been pardoned, as it has been said, I would not care to say," he said.

Visited Him Often.

High County Constable Waterworth has several times visited Riley at Kingston. Waterworth has covered about 100,000 miles, he says, on trips between this city and the Kingston penitentiary. "When I last saw Riley, he was living the life of a model prisoner, but I am sure that he expected to spend probably ten years more, at the least, in Kingston."

He was mystified as to how such a terrible mistake could have been allowed to happen, or the mix-up which seems to have occurred at Kingston. The fellow who should have been released, was a crazy man, and he was to have been reported to the United States to enter an institution there. Mr. Waterworth believes.

BRITAIN IN FUTURE MAY BUY HER OWN CANADIAN SUPPLIES

Report in Ottawa Says That War Office Will Eliminate the Ottawa Government, Having Heard of Revelations Over Purchases.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, April 12.—Revelations of war purchases of boots, bandages, binoculars and bad horses, apparently have crossed the Atlantic. It looks as if the British Government has begun to sit up and take notice. Soon after the opening of the war the British Government intrusted the Canadian Government with the purchasing of some war supplies in Canada for the use of the British and allied forces. The British Government was to pay the bills.

It is understood that within the last few days the war office or the British Government has cancelled the buying commissions which it gave to the Canadian Government.

It is understood that this does not mean an end to the purchase of supplies in Canada by the British Government, but that war office buyers are on their way to Canada and the United States, and that hereafter the British Government will deal direct with producers and manufacturers on this continent without the intervention of Ottawa.

LONDON'S LATEST PUBLIC SCHOOL OPENS DOORS

"Boyle Memorial" Had 175 School Kiddies Present This Morning.

Boyle Memorial, London's latest public school, opened its doors for the first time today, and more than 175 school kiddies entered their new school home without ceremony or ostentation. Whether or not an official "opening" will be held rests with the board of education, and it is expected that the question will be settled at the special trustee meeting tomorrow.

"Boyle Memorial" is the "twin" to Tecumseh School, now in course of completion in South London. It is the first of last year's two schools to be finished. It was designed to do away with the overcrowding at Lorne avenue, and to replace the old Quebec Street School as well as to provide accommodation for the fast-growing section of East London lying north of Dundas street, known generally as the "McCormick district." In all it provides eight rooms, but of these only five are now in use. The others will be opened later as the need arises.

D. J. Ferguson Principal.

D. J. Ferguson, ofrmerly assistant principal of Victoria School, South London, is the new and first principal of Boyle Memorial. For the time being he will teach a combined class, combining Grades III. and IV. Under Mr. Ferguson are four other teachers, Misses Emma Northcott, Lily Hardey and Schram from the old Quebec Street School, and Miss Mathews, who has been transferred from Rectory Street Kindergarten to take charge of the one that starts at Boyle Memorial.

Has Kindergarten Class.

Public School Inspector C. B. Edwards has arranged the school, so that it will have a kindergarten, two primary of Grade I. classes, one Grade II. class, and a combined Grades III. and IV. class.

While only 130 or so were transferred to the new school from old Quebec street, and 45 came over from Lorne avenue, Inspector Edwards believes that there will be an enrollment of more than 200 in the new school before the end of the month.

WEDDING BELLS

McNALLY—LEWIS.

John M. McNally and Miss Harriet Lewis, both of this city, were married at their home, Duchess avenue, South London, on April 5, by Rev. A. E. Lloyd. Owing to the very serious illness of the bride's mother, the wedding was very quiet, only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties being present.

YOUNGS—STOGGETT.

A quiet wedding was performed Saturday afternoon at the Church of the Redeemer, when Mr. E. R. Youngs, of St. Thomas, was united in marriage to Miss Vera Stoggett, of the same place. Rev. H. Ashby performed the ceremony.

DIXON—LARSCHE.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George H Larsche, 189 Central avenue, was the scene of a quiet wedding this afternoon when their youngest daughter, Nora, was united in marriage to E. A. Dixon, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. R. Flanders, pastor of the First Methodist Church. The bride was for many years a member of the choir of the First Methodist Church, who remembered her with a beautiful gift. They will leave on the evening train for their home in Newfoundland. —30

CAMPBELL—LAKE.

A pretty wedding took place Saturday evening at the parsonage of the Egerton Street Baptist Church, when Lillian Pearl, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Lake, 978 Dame street, was united in marriage to Mr. Richard Campbell, by the Rev. W. C. Riddiford, pastor of the Egerton Street Baptist Church. The bridegroom was supported by Mr. George Andrews, while Miss Verna Nelson made a very charming bridesmaid. Mr. and Mrs. R. Lake will reside at Dame street east, city.

RUSSIANS SWEEPING

observations made by the Russians have convinced them that the Germans have no intention of developing operations at the present time along the Warsaw or East Prussian fronts, with a view to relieving pressure on the Austrians. The only alternative would be a drive from Cracow, and the appearance of a strong German force in this vicinity would cause no surprise here.

Thus far the only aid extended to the Austrians in the Carpathians appears to be that given by Bavarian frontier guards, who were removed to the Austrian front.

Meanwhile the Russians are pushing ahead slowly through all the principal passes of the Carpathians, except along the Stry-Munkacs line, where the Austrians are heavily entrenched.

LENIENCY PROVIDED LEFT LONDON AT NOON

Two St. Thomas Girls Appeared in Police Court This Morning.

Jeanette Rose and Anna Barrett reside in St. Thomas. At one time the former lived in London and, as her character was not so fragrant as her name would imply, Magistrate Judd, after repeated warnings, decided that the city was not large enough to hold her and ordered her away with a strict injunction not to return.

On Saturday, however, a policeman who was called to remove two young women from the waiting room of the traction station after other passengers had complained of their bad language, recognized Jeanette and took her and her companion to the police station.

Owned Up to Words.

This morning they appeared before the magistrate, who told Miss Rose that he proposed to send her to the Mercer on the old charge on which she was allowed to go on suspended sentence. Both girls denied the bad language charge at first, but Jeanette, when it appeared that open confession might secure her leniency, reluctantly admitted that "perhaps she had said one or two things a little out of place." Her companion was less willing to go back on her previous denial, but she also, when his worship told her he would allow her to go back to St. Thomas if she pleaded guilty, followed suit with a confession.

Will Leave at Noon.

Asked if they had any money with which to pay their fares to the railroad city, the girls replied in the negative. Miss Rose volunteering the statement that they had given all their money to a soldier who was their companion at the depot and who had promised to meet them this morning and return it.

PROMINENT MEN FOR SYNOD MEETING OF PRESBYTERIANS HERE

Many very prominent speakers and workers in Canadian Presbyterian churches will speak at the Presbyterian Synod of Hamilton and London, which opens in the New St. James Presbyterian Church in this city on Monday evening, April 26.

The Synod is composed of nine Presbyteries and between 400 and 500 members, ministers, and laymen in about equal numbers. The territory it covers extends from Niagara-on-the-Lake to the Bruce Peninsula, and comprises 376 congregations, besides many mission stations.

Nominations for the moderator have already been sent by a number of the Presbyteries. The moderatorship is one of the highest honors which the Presbyterian Church can bestow. It is second only to the moderatorship of the General Assembly. Rev. Dr. D. L. McCrae of the Hamilton Road Church, the retiring moderator, will preach the synod sermon.

Prof. Law to Speak.

Rev. Prof. Law, D. D., of Knox College, Toronto, who is regarded as one of the most eminent expositionary preachers in Canada, will address the synod on the subject "Preaching," and another subject with which he will deal, will be "Christ's Teaching in Regard to Non-Resistance." This latter address is being looked forward to with interest, in view of the present crisis in European affairs. Other eminent speakers who will be present, are: Rev. Dr. Laird, M. A., of Toronto; Rev. Dr. Dickie, of Chatham; Miss Ratte, of Toronto; Rev. John Griffith, B. A., from China; Rev. Dr. James, Murray, of Toronto; J. K. McDonald, of Toronto; Rev. G. A. Woodside, of Brantford; Rev. J. B. Paulin, M. A., of Hamilton, who will speak in connection with the Sunday School report, on the subject "The Older Boy."

Rev. D. C. McGregor, of St. Andrew's Church, will speak on "Home Missions," and Rev. W. J. Knox, of the First Church, on "What to Read on Religious Education."

All of the synod meetings will be open to the public, and the evening meetings will be great public gatherings to which the public of all denominations are especially invited.

The sessions commence on Monday evening. About five years has elapsed since the last synod was held in this city.

NEW MEMBERS ARE INTRODUCED AT ROTARY CLUB

The Rotary Club held its customary Monday luncheon at the Tecumseh Grill at noon today. Several new members were introduced. The infant daughter of John M. Watt was honored bybeing acclaimed an honorary member.

W. A. Martin gave some information as to the progress on the bylaws and the sending of the new constitution to the international headquarters. Mr. Martindale, of Toronto, gave some information as to the activities of Rotarians in the Queen City and intimated that the London club's presence at an outing to be held jointly by the Toronto and Hamilton clubs at Niagara-on-the-Lake would be welcome. Mr. Martindale outlined some of the benefits derived from Rotary Clubs and gave the new local organization suggestions for unique undertakings.

The minutes of the last meeting and a letter from the international secretary were read by Secretary C. H. Ivey jun. The new members included R. D. McDonald, T. H. Purdom, K. C., A. E. Miller, Wallace Laut and George H. Belton.

STRIKE CONTINUES IN SENATE HOUSE

Speaker Landry Missing From Chair at This Morning's Session.

NO QUORUM AT START

Message From Speaker Gives Hopes of an Early Settlement.

Ottawa, April 12.—The strike is still on. Speaker Landry clings to his apartments when he should be in the chair. Senator Bolduc heads the Upper House. Conciliators have been at work and compromise has been hinted at, but so far the strike is still on.

When Acting Speaker Bolduc took the chair this morning there was singular lack of enthusiasm. Only two senators heard him say the prayers. When they were finished, some more senators dropped in, among them Senator Cloran. He noted the size of the audience and filed a protest. It was bad enough, he claimed, for the senate to do business without a speaker, but he did not see how possibly it could do business without either a speaker or a quorum. Not only was the Senate without head, but apparently it had no body.

Quorum Arrives.

Senator Cloran was assured that the quorum would come and sure enough a count showed that it was there within a few minutes.

Three Government bills were given third reading, one authorizing Government operation of the Transcontinental and two dealing with election trials.

When the famous report of the internal economy committee which has caused so much trouble, was called, it looks as though the olive branch may be beginning to sprout. Hon. Mr. Lougheed, the Government leader, asked that the report stand until the afternoon sitting.

Speaker's Message.

He said he did this at the request of Speaker Landry and intimated that the Speaker might be heard from.

Senator Power sought to have the "noncontentious" portions of the report adopted, but it soon became clear that there were no noncontentious portions and so the whole report was held.

This afternoon another chapter will be added to the story.

LONDON MEN MADE NAMES FOR SELVES AT ARTILLERY SHOOTING

Letter From One of the Boys at Front Has Only High Praise For Officers.

Daniel C. Tanner, of this city, with the British Expeditionary Force in France, writes to Mr. Joe Talliaferro Jun., one of the pressmen on The Advertiser. He declares that the London boys, under command of Major Wood Leonard, have made a great name for their battery, and that repeatedly they outshot other artillery units, especially in practice shooting at Salisbury Plain, England. He tells of the frequent reviews made by the late Field Marshal Roberts, General French and King George. The letter reads:

With the British Expeditionary Force:

March 20, 1915.

Old Friend Joe,—I suppose you are surprised to hear from me. Well, I am here in France at last, and we are right in the thick of the fighting, and we all like it fine, as would you if you were here. I am a driver. We have three teams on each wagon, and have to go up to the guns with ammunition as soon as they need it.

I must tell you something of when we were in England. We had lots of inspections by the King, also Lord Roberts before he died, and general French. We had the whole of the brigade firing for practice on Salisbury Plain, and our battery, commanded by Major Leonard, London, took first prize. We beat all the rest by quite a few points.

Finest of Officers.

We have, without doubt, the finest officers in our battery in the whole Canadian contingent, and that is saying a whole lot. Ex-Constable James Oakley, our corporal, is about the finest there is.

Coming over from England to France, we had a nice trip. The waves washed right over the ship, and she more than rocked, but I did not get sick. Peter Blackwell was ill, just as he was when we were coming over from Canada. He was in his bunk nearly all the voyage.

You should have seen them coming into their breakfasts. They'd sit down, then up they'd get and run to the side of the ship. I was quite lucky. I have never been seasick as yet.

Three nights ago I slept behind my horses in a field, and when I awoke about three inches of snow covered me. I looked like a snowdrift.

My address is D. C. Tanner, 12th Battery, Third Brigade, Canadian Expeditionary Force, France. No. 42404 is my number.

I must close now. Wishing you lots of luck.

MILK SUPPLY IMPROVES

City Officials Base Statements on Result of Recent Tests.

London's milk supply is showing a decided improvement, according to members of the city health department, who base their assertions on the results of the tests made from the second samples secured from those vendors whose supply was under the required 3.25 per cent of butterfat.

"All our samples are now above standard," declared Dr. W. S. Downham, assistant M. O. H. to The Advertiser.

The inspectors of the department will start their cleanliness tests almost immediately. The testers used by them prove whether the milk is kept clean or whether sediment and dirt are allowed to fall into the cans, pails and bottles.

MADE PROVISIONAL LIEUTENANT

GAMBLING NOT BAD AS DRINK TRAFFIC

Drink Habit the Modern Devil, Declares Rev. J. B. Silcox, D. D.

Worse than the gambler, and next only to the white slave traffic itself, is the drink traffic, and the drink habit is the modern devil, declared Rev. Dr. J. B. Silcox, in the First Congregational Church Sunday evening.

"He who votes to legalize the traffic becomes a partner in the crime and curse of the traffic. What would you think of a community that for revenue purposes would legalize the distribution of smallpox germs in the community. The most brainlessly stupid of all municipal financeering is the stupidity of licensing the drink traffic for purposes of revenue. The most financial imbeciles, who ever graduated from a poorhouse would know better than to do that."

"There are some men who say that prohibition does not prohibit. A fire brigade does not absolutely prohibit the outbreak of a fire in the city, but every city knows it is wise to have a first-class brigade. The insurance companies would not take risks in a city that did not have a fire brigade. Laws against theft do not prevent all thieving, but we believe in the laws, and our property is safer where there are stringent laws against robbery.

Works Well in Family.

"Prohibition," Mr. Silcox continued, "will work well in your family and on your farm. If it works well on your farm it will work well on a township of farms and families. If it works well on a township it will work well on a county, a province, and a whole dominion."

Dr. Silcox came to this city recently from Kansas City.

"We are knocking out the saloon at the rate of 40 a day the whole year through over there," he said. "County after county, and state after state, are going in that direction. The barroom is doomed to die. It will die hard, but it with its face downward, so that if it does wake up and begin to crawl it will paw downward and not upward.

Gambler Less Dangerous.

"As I look at the liquor business, the professional gambler is less dangerous in the community than the dealer in drink. The gambler beguiles your money from you, but he leaves you your health and good sense. Sometimes you have got more sense when he is done with you than you had before he began. But the liquor dealer despoils you of health, wealth, reason, reputation, and throws you into the street, ruined for both worlds. The train robber whom we hunt down with the sleuth-hound and for whose scalp we offer big rewards, will hold you up and relieve you of your valuables. When he is through he leaves you with strength and intellect to earn more. This drink traffic insolently confronts its victims and says: 'Give me your gold, give me your business, and home, your character and reputation, your wife's sunny smiles, and your children's loving embraces, and your church membership and hope of heaven. The poor victim of drink gives it all. The traffic out-burglarizes the burglar. It undermines your health, dethrones your reason, despoils your manhood, and it will never cease its malignant work until it has buried you in a grave of blackdishonor. The traffic is cruel, heartlessly, maliciously, murderously cruel.

Resent Odium.

"The men in the traffic resent the odium attached to their business. They try to show that to make and sell strong drink is as lawful and respectable as to make and sell any lawful article of commerce. They argue that to turn wheat into whiskey is as honorable as to turn wheat into bread. They say that the still is as respectable as the mill. But is it? Take a carload of wheat, and let one-half go into the still and the other half into the mill. Take the contents of the still into one community, and take the contents of the mill into another community. See the diverse results. Poverty and disease in the one, prosperity and health in the other."

The speaker held up as examples the King and Queen, Lloyd George, Kitchener, and the others, who as true patriots, have banished liquor from their households.

PERSONAL MENTION

Miss Maybelle Tishouse, of Grand Rapids, is the guest of Mrs. Harry J. Bennett, 775 Waterloo street.

Miss Frances Riley, of Petrolea, returned home Saturday night after paying a visit to her aunt, Mrs. A. H. Birmingham and friends in London.

Mrs. Tom Benson and little daughter, of Piccadilly street, have returned home after spending two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Biggar, Blenheim.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

Mrs. Nancy Thompson.

Mrs. Nancy Thompson, widow of John Thompson, Southwold Township, and mother of Public School Inspector P. J. Thompson, of East Middlesex, died at the residence of her son, 846 Hellmuth avenue, yesterday in her 80th year.

Mrs. Thompson was born in Scotland and came to Southwold early in 1846. She had made her home in London since her son came here some fifteen years ago. In addition to her son, Mrs. Thompson is survived by three daughters, Miss Kate, at home; Mrs. Margaret Crawford, of Strathroy; Mrs. J. D. McVicar, of Derwent, and one brother, and sister, Dougald Turner, of Lawrence Station, and Mrs. Catherine Dewar, of Lobo Township.

The funeral services will be conducted on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. T. H. Mitchell, pastor of New St. James' Presbyterian Church. Interment will be made at Woodland Cemetery.

Frank Leitch.

The funeral of Frank Leslie Leitch, who died at the residence of his sister in Blenheim on Wednesday, was held from the family residence, 10 Dundas street, West London, Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. aCnon Sage conducted the services.

The pallbearers were Messrs. A. Wales, G. Wales, E. Maudsley, G. Winegarden, J. Dunn and W. Godwin.

AMEND BUILDING BYLAWS.—Amendments to the building bylaw and the suggestion of the local architects that amendments should be made to secure blue-printed plans of all proposed work before any building permits are issued, will come up before the board of works at its meeting Tuesday evening. The architects have made a request that they be allowed to confer with the committee in order to explain their requests that all plans and specifications be filed to prevent any unscrupulous builders from taking advantage of the bylaw, as they claim is possible under the present system. This request, it is expected, will be granted without any trouble, as the aldermen want to get the view of both sides.

LOCAL NEWS

DEAN DAVIS ILL.—Very Rev. Dean Davis, of St. James' Church, South London, is seriously ill in Victoria Hospital.

HONORARY LIEUTENANT.—Sub-Conductor S. D. Dewer, of the Canadian Ordnance Corps, has been made honorary lieutenant.

TRUSTEES TO MEET.—A meeting has been called of the trustees of the Protestant Orphans' Home, to be held at the Institution this afternoon.

ACCIDENT VICTIM RECOVERING.—Seven-year-old Henry Welbourne, struck by an auto at Dundas and Adelaide streets Thursday afternoon, and whose skull was found to be fractured when he was taken to Victoria Hospital, is reported to be improving, and hopes are now held for his recovery.

B. Y. P. S. RALLY TONIGHT.—Tonight the annual rally of the B. Y. P. S. of the city will be held in Adelaide Street Baptist Church at 8 o'clock. The church choir will render special music, and the chief speaker will be Rev. Harry Noles, B.A., of Toronto. The meeting will be open to the public.

CONSERVATORY RECITAL. — The recital at Conservatory Hall Saturday afternoon was given by the following pupils: Misses Louise Beck, Eleanor Grant, Frieda Chantier, Marion Grant, Mary Weston, Doris Tanner, Iva Smith; Masters Morley Braddon and Cecil Conley, piano; Miss Margaret Lettney, violin.

FIRE IN FREIGHT SHEDS.—Fire in the office in the C. P. R. freight sheds on Saturday evening gave the fire department a run up north. A line of hose was laid and the conflagration was soon got under control. Most of the damage done was to the books and papers in the office by water. The fire originated from a short circuit in the electric light wiring.

HYDRO CAUSED ACCIDENT.—All communication was cut off between London and Toronto on the C. P. R. last night for about an hour, when the wires on the railroad were burned down by the hydro-electric wires. The hydro wires grounded on the railroad wires during a slight gale. The ground also tied up the street cars for about the same time.

TRANSFERRED TO 18TH.—Corporal J. H. Brown, of A Company, 33rd Battalion, at his own request, was today transferred to the 18th Battalion in order that he may get to the front sooner. Lieut.-Col. Wilson, commander of the 33rd, is this afternoon drafting to the 18th 40 men in order that Lieut.-Col. Wigle's regiment may be kept at full strength. The men of the 18th are busy getting new issues of clothing, shoes and rifles.

WILL OBSERVE MAY-DAY.—Social Democratic party of Canada, Local No. 44, meeting in Sherwood Hall, Market Lane, Sunday afternoon, elected the following executive committee: Alfred Somers (chairman), T. W. Sailes (secretary), C. Thorne, G. Heathcote and V. D. Rowell. Plans were made for a May-dam demonstration meeting on Saturday evening, May 1, and the holding of public propaganda meetings every Sunday afternoon in Sherwood Hall.

PROMOTED TO MAJOR.—Capt. Nelson, adjutant of the 18th Battalion, has been promoted to major, as a special case, and will retain his senicrity in his regiment. Lieut. Hadley, of the Corps of Guides, has been transferred to the Royal Canadian Engineers, with the same rank.

SHOOTING VICTIM IMPROVED.—Gertrude Corcoran, colored girl, who was shot by her husband, Levi Corcoran, colored barber, who afterwards turned the gun on himself, falling with a bullet in his right temple, is slowly recovering in Victoria Hospital from the effects of an operation in which the bullet was removed from her shoulder, last week. The shooting occurred in a house occupied by Fred Harris, at 425 Bathurst street, a week ago Saturday night.

"KERRY GOW" COMING.—The St. Thomas Dramatic Society will arrive in London on Wednesday evening next to present "The Kerry Gow" at St. Mary's Hall, Lyle street. They presented the play here some few years ago, and many will remember Joseph P. Butler, who plays the part of Dan O'Hara. The St. Thomas papers are a unit in declaring him better than Joe Murphy, who made the part famous. They carry a large amount of properties, including everything for the complete blacksmith shop, in which the famous horseshoeing scene takes place.

WILL SPEND DAYS IN JAIL. — Thomas Cake and John Kennedy, two "listers," were in police court this morning charged with being drunk. They admitted the soft impeachment and as neither of them was in a financial position to satisfy the magistrate's notion of what was a right and proper amount to assess them for the lapse from virtue, they will abstain of necessity at least during the next 21 days, during which they will be supplied with wholesome if not luxurious meals, and plenty of water to drink, as guests of Governor Carter. The alternative to this was a fine of $10 in each case.

LONDON, MONDAY, APRIL 12.

A QUESTION OF DUTY.

AT LEAST two Conservative papers see what must be the inevitable result of a supine policy at Ottawa as regards dishonesty in war contracts. Never in Canada's history have there been revelations such as those made in committee within the last few weeks of profiting at the expense of soldiers and the casting aside of every ideal of public life. Members of Parliament have brought the charges close to the responsible heads of Government and the country has stood aghast while the astonishing recital of middleman's huge profits and crippled horses and rotten army shoes has proceeded. Surely such an example should be made of the convicted parties as to purge public life in Canada for many years to come. As it is, the country has a bad taste in its mouth; someone has fouled the nest and sullied the national honor. The Toronto Mail and Empire recommends prompt measures and says that:

"If beyond the reach of ordinary process of law, such offender should be stamped with the brand of public infamy. Men who took up arms in the recent South African rebellion have been deprived of the suffrage. Any man who over-reached the Government or abused our soldiers by dishonesty, merits the same disability."

The rebel in South Africa took the chance attached to his act and now must take the consequences. His was an open fight for his convictions, and he is entitled to respect. But the enemy who attacked the country by weakening the Government's resources was guilty of a treacherous act. There is a wide difference between a rebel and a traitor and the distinction is all in favor of the former.

The Toronto World has printed on its front page an article headed "War Graft Must Go," in which it says:

"The Conservative party as a party must clear itself before the country. They have an active Opposition in front of them, and the people will await an immediate statement and the action that must follow. The system of purchases by way of a patronage list, no matter how long in use, must now be wiped out forever. There must be open competition, and every contractor must be compelled to put in a declaration as to his good faith in every respect to filling any and every contract. War graft of every kind must go, and the World believes the Conservatives have the opportunity and the duty of saying so now."

The Premier has every incentive to take the situation firmly in hand, and he will be commended by the Liberal press for making the judgment fit the offence.

THE NEWS KNOWS BETTER

It is curious and suspicious that so many of the crooked traders in supplies and contracts should belong to the Liberal party.—Toronto News.

IT IS curious and suspicious that the Toronto News must resort to the blackest of falsehoods to protect a Government that is hiding the criminals of all parties, and taking no action to punish the guilty.

It is curious and suspicious that on the patronage list there were 8,000 names of accredited Conservatives, and, unless by error, the name of no Liberals.

It is to the credit of Canadians that most of these 8,000 Conservatives were honest. At the same time being Conservatives did not make them honest, nor did it make the grafters among them dishonest.

And it is true, and the News knows it to be true, that his shade of politics does not make a man honest or dishonest. The News talks as though it were trying to hide something.

Like the Toronto World and the Toronto Mail and Empire, the News at this time should be calling upon the Government to punish the guilty, no matter what their politics. The News ought to do a little hewing to the line.

EUROPE'S DEBT TO THE SLAV.

THERE is a sort of historical justice in the winning of the Carpathians by the Russians, as it was in the fastnesses of this great range the Eastern Slavs, the Russians, made their first European home. Historians find that the Slavs settled in this section early in the Christian era, and by the fifth century they had developed into a strong, virile people, martial yet kindly, mighty hunters and tillers of the soil. It was well for western Europe and Christianity that this vigorous race held the eastern borders, for when the Asiatic hordes swept down they were halted and turned back by the Slav. The dreadful Tartar, most bestial of all the barbarians who invaded Europe, would have set back the progress of Christian civilization in Europe many centuries had he been able to conquer the Slav and get a foothold on the southern and western slopes of the Carpathians. And while England, Italy, Germany and France were expanding under the Rennaissance the Russians were holding off the Turk and the Mongol.

Thus the Slav engaged holding the outposts while the rest of Europe was acquiring rich new life, was left behind along the lines of art, science and poetry. He did not get started as early as others in the advance towards those national and political ideals by which we set such great store. He was too busy fighting for life. Yet through it all, the democratic idea was persistent, slowly spreading the desire and the demand for freedom of thought and action despite the always autocratic and the sometimes despotic rulers. There is a tendency to look down upon the Russian as an inferior, a fine fighting machine, but woefully lacking in western culture. Let us remember that it was the Slav who kept off and smashed those wild savage races whose domination would have retarded for ages the intellectual progress of Europe.

EAST MIDDLESEX IS READY.

THE Liberals of East Middlesex, the worst-treated of all the ridings of Canada in the Conservative gerrymander, issued a challenge to the Conservative party on Saturday to bring on an election. At the best-attended convention they ever held they nominated as their candidate James Murray, of Westminster Township, a man who was elected county commissioner by the largest majority ever given a candidate for any office in the county, a former warden and reeve, with a record that will stand the test of any scrutiny.

Mr. Murray's name was received with cheers, every mention of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's name was greeted with applause, but the tone of the meeting was serious. The men present, including for the first time delegates from Biddulph and Lucan, were there for business. Their one desire seemed to be the nomination of a winning candidate, and they selected him in a "turn-the-rascals-out" spirit. They listened to the vigorous speech of Mr. F. F. Pardee, M. P., seemingly with a determination that the record of misdeeds at Ottawa was a disgrace which they would do their best to wipe out at the first opportunity. They were charged with apathy during the recent by-election by Mr. R. G. Fisher, their candidate, who said that if 90 per cent of the Reform vote had supported him he would have been elected, and the charge is not likely to be repeated. They laughed when Mr. Pardee summed up the aim of the Ottawa Government in the words of the present member for East Middlesex, who said: "How else can we satisfy the manufacturers?"

East Middlesex Liberals have chosen a strong candidate, a successful farmer with a long and notable record as a public man, and one who believes that the duty of a public representative is to serve the public honestly and in every way to the limit of his ability. East Middlesex will do itself and the country a good service by sending Mr. Murray to Ottawa.

WAR GAMBLING.

IT HAS LONG been held that if you wish to know how a thing is going you should watch the professional gambler. Find out how he is betting and you will be able to pick a winner. This of course does not apply invariably, but it does frequently enough to make it worth considering. Just now Lloyds, the great British insuring concern, is gambling on the duration of the war. They don't call it gambling, but that is what it amounts to. Lloyds know that in the old and new worlds alike there is a large dislocation of business and commerce because of the uncertainty as to how long the struggle will last. If the merchant or manufacturer could be sure that at a certain date peace would be arranged, he would go ahead with his business arrangements unworried. This is where Lloyds comes in. It offers to "insure" the ending of the war. It bets you three to one that it will not end by the first of May, two to one that it does not end by June 1, and even money that it does not end in September. Evidently, however, it expects that it will be over before the year is out, for it is willing to wager or "insure" ten to one that December 1 will see the end of the conflict, and it will lay you fifteen to one that the war is over by March of next year.

Lloyds may be wrong. Lord Kitchener expects a three-year war, and by general consent he is a pretty fair judge, but Lloyds never takes a chance for the mere fun of it. Lloyds is in close touch with the greatest financial institutions of the world, and their insuring is based on inside information to a large extent. Therefore it is a good sign when they are so certain that the war will be over before this time next year.

BRITISH TRADE INJURED.

THOSE responsible for the increase in the British preferential tariff say that British goods now have 2½ per cent greater advantage over the goods of foreign countries. As a matter of figures this is quite correct.

Before the war the British goods had an average duty of 25 per cent.

The Borden tariff increased this duty to thirty per cent on the average.

The tariff on other foreign goods, excepting by special arrangement, averages about 35 per cent.

This has been increased to 42½ per cent.

But if one of the importers lives next door, just across the line, and can ship, and does ship his goods, in enormous quantities to their point of destination without once reloading, as the United States, our biggest outside merchant does, while the other has to ship by rail to an ocean port, thence through a submarine-infested channel and across an ocean at highest rates, with another rail transfer and shipment at the port of landing, there is an enormous advantage for the nearby importer, far greater than 2½ per cent, in favor of the next-door neighbor.

The increase in the British tariff was a tremendous blunder. One cannot say it was engineered by selfish interests, because it is hard to believe Canada has such grasping "protectees." But in the face of the dangers and difficulties and high shipping tariffs of ocean travel and the co-operation which should exist to the extent of removing rather than adding to the British tariff, it looms up as the most damning official act of the present Government since the war.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier gave the British preference. He was opposed by the member who then sat for London, and he has been opposed by the London member who sat in the House a few weeks ago and saw the tariff raised without a protest.

That the weakening of British preference may drive British goods from the Canadian market is indicated in the following taken from the Toronto Star:

The proof of the pudding is in the eating. A Toronto importer of confectionery manufactured in Great Britain says that the increase in the tariff on British goods has destroyed his business. The increase of five per cent has made it impossible to import and sell the goods in which he used to deal. He loses his business, the British manufacturer loses that much business, and Canada loses the revenue; for as the goods are no longer imported, a source of customs revenue is cut off.

There is no answer to these facts. An attempt is made to meet them by saying that the duty on foreign goods is increased 7½ per cent. But that is of no use to the British manufacturer. If he cannot sell his own goods, it is no consolation to him to know that his foreign rivals are shut out of our market also. He is in business, not at war with foreigners. He wants to sell his own goods, not to spite his rivals in France or the United States.

The increase of 5 per cent cuts down British trade and cuts off revenue.

OVER THE HILLS.

[New York Sun.]

Oft when the world and I were younger,
Oh, we are old, so old today,
I longed to go over the great hills yonder
Into the world, so far away.
When the years came I met them gladly,
Oh, but they seemed so long to stay,
I hoped that each over the hills would lead me
Into the world, so far away.

Care they brought me, and bitter sorrow,
Long grew the nights, and long the day.
But I dreamed of the path the great hills over,
Into the world, and far away,
"Soon thou shalt seek it," my heart said to me,
"Bide thy time till the happy day;
Thou shalt go wandering the great hills over,
Into the world, and far away."

Ah, but still I bide in the valley,
Darker the nights and longer the day;
And I never shall pass the great hills over,
Into the world so far away.
Many a dream had I of its beauty,
The great, fair world, so far away,
And many a song I wove about it,
I have forgotten them all today!

BACK TO EARTH.

[Washington Star.]

"Just wait till 1916!" said the man who has sudden spells of enthusiasm.

"What'll happen then?"

"Well, come to think of it, I suppose we'll have a few brief months of exhilaration and then we'll settle and wait for 1920."

"FOR THE RED CROSS."

[Punch.]

Ye that have gentle hearts, and fain
To succor men in need,
There is no voice could ask in vain
With such a cause to plead—
The cause of those that in your care,
Who know the debt of honor due,
Confide the wounds they proudly wear,
The wounds they took for you.

Out of the shock of shattering spears,
Of screaming shell and shard,
Snatched from the smoke that blinds and sears.
They come with bodies scarred,
And count the hours that idly toil,
Restless until their hurts be healed,
And they may fare, made strong and whole,
To face another field.

And yonder where the battle's waves
Broke yesterday o'erhead,
Where now the swift and shallow graves
Cover our English dead,
Think how your sisters play their part,
Who serve as in a holy shrine,
Tender of hand and brave of heart,
Under the Red Cross sign.

Ah, by that symbol, worshipped still,
Of life-blood sacrificed,
That lonely cross on Calvary's hill
Red with the wounds of Christ;
By that free gift to none denied,
Let Pity pierce you like a sword,
And Love go out to open wide
The gate of life restored.

OUR POETS OF WESTERN ONTARIO

A Cad and a Cheat!

The world it is filled with all kinds of men,
But for him has Honor a seat—
The fellow who fails in his duty when
His Land must emergency meet?
When the tocsin sounds o'er hill and through glen
And drums of the enemy beat—
The fellow who fails in his duty then—
He's naught but a cad and a cheat.

The world it is filled with all kinds of foes,
But this one we'd rather not greet—
The fellow, who, knowing his country's woes,
Layeth not his strength at her feet:
When the call is heard and the bugle blows,
Who's found in the van of retreat—
While the water runs and the grass it grows,
He's naught but a cad and a cheat.

"LO! THE POOR INDIAN!"

[By Charles E. Van Loan.]

It was the late, never-to-be-sufficiently-lamented Sidney Porter who, in writing about an Indian gentleman named Henry Horsecollar, made use of the following illuminating line:

"Henry never allowed any cigar stores to come up and stand behind him; he wasn't that kind of an Indian."

This sentence exactly describes another Indian, lately sprung to prominence—John Tortes Meyers, according to the figures the best catcher in the National League last season, and the only Mission Indian who ever achieved distinction in this country.

No one, upon watching the Big Chief squatting behind a batter and filling the air with strange war cries calculated to disturb the equilibrium of the said batter, would ever suspect that Meyers is the victim of a secret sorrow.

No one, upon seeing his "lay on to" a fast ball and hit it through the infield like a bullet, would believe that this mighty son of a vanishing race is consumed with vain regrets.

Few would believe him to be a philosopher, yet all these things are true. I have it from his own lips.

According to his own statement, as the newspapers say, John Tortes Meyers gave up the greatest cinch a native American ever had in order to embrace the brief but swift-fading glory of a baseball player's career.

"I'm in baseball, yes," said the Big Chief, "and I'm in it to get everything out of it that I can, but at the same time I can never forget that I swapped a permanency for something which cannot last more than a few years. Listen, and you will understand:

"Away back in the early days in this country a good man named Eleazar Wheelock founded an Indian charity school, the idea being to teach the simple and innocent savage how to read and write.

"One Indian named Sampson Ocum graduated with honors, and in time was sent to England to solicit funds for the carrying on of this enterprise.

"The King of England—one of the Georges, but whether the Third or the Fourth I do not now remember—contributed quite a sum, but the Earl of Dartmouth loosening up a Carnegie-sized contribution, tying a string to it by stipulating that this fund and the interest from it should be used solely for the education of the North American Indian.

"Out of compliment to the earl, and in recognition of his liberality, the school was renamed Dartmouth College.

"This country being run on the plan of the survival of the most unscrupulous, the Indian began to move westward, and he has been moving westward ever since. The rest of us are now sitting on the rocks somewhere off the Pacific coast.

"There were no Indians to benefit by the bounty of the Earl of Dartmouth, and it became a school for white men. Years and years ago Dr. Eastman, an Indian, graduated from Dartmouth with honors, and with his departure the school ran out of Indians. The fund was still there, fattening itself every minute.

"I heard about it, and was advised to study for the examinations, which I did. I burned midnight oil and grubbed among books fifteen hours a day, and at last managed to get by the examining board.

"Now this was the cinch that I had—I was the sole beneficiary of that large fund. My board was paid, my clothes were furnished, and all I had to do was to sit down and absorb knowledge. They were glad to have me there. I was the favorite child of the institution.

"I might have stayed there for forty years, and had everything which is to be gained by study, and see where I spilled the beans! I went into professional baseball and if I break my leg tomorrow I'm all through. I traded a long career for a short one and I've been sorry ever since."

The Indian in baseball is no novelty now. There are many of them.

We have had, for instance, the meteoric Sockalexis, who was no more than a brilliant flash across the diamond; we still have the crafty and resourceful Bender, one of the greatest pitchers of any day.

The Indian takes naturally to baseball, and John T. Meyers was no exception.

While at Dartmouth he dipped slightly into athletics, and went out to make the ball team. John T. is a large Indian, weighing somewhere in the neighborhood of 220 pounds, a solid, substantial Mission style of an Indian, about the size of a Red Hope.

Of course he was slow on his feet, but the Dartmouth coach noticed that Meyers possessed a good batting eye and a powerful wallop which drove the ball into the next county.

The Dartmouth coach, who had been a great outfielder in his day, suggested to the pride of Dartmouth that he might pick up some money over the summer vacation by playing baseball with the Tri-State Outlaw League, and gave him a letter to Billy Hamilton at Harrisburg.

"Billy showed me more money than I had ever seen in my life," said the Chief. "And I took it and let my college career slide. I've regretted it ever since."

Beginning with the Tri-State League, John Tortoise made many changes, until finally he was sold from the St. Paul club to the Giants.

"That year," said Meyers, "I never saw so many young ball players in a bunch as there were at Marlin. And catchers? There were nine of 'em, all working for one job. Roger Bresnahan had gone to St. Louis, and that put it up to McGraw to fill his shoes.

"I took a look at those young catchers—seemed to me that I couldn't turn my eyes in any direction without seeing one or more of them, and it struck me that if I was to get that job I'd have to hustle. I had one talk with McGraw, and all he said—and it's about all he ever says to a recruit—was: 'Show me something—show me!'

"Well, I went to work. I worked all the time. McGraw picked me out of the nine, and we went north."

John Tortes Meyers has had his troubles in the big league.

All through his first season opposing players tried to find "the streak" in his make-up. Every time they slid to the plate they came spikes first, but the chief, fortified them by a pair of "Breschief, fortified by a pair of Bresnahans," blocked 'em off and received them, spikes and all, more than half way. He never backed up an inch.

Having chased the Indian off most of his fertile reservations, some ball players are in favor of chasing him out of the national pastime.

The story is told of a conference between four ball players—a native-born Irishman, an Italian and two German-Americans.

Meyers was the subject under discussion, and the question was raised as to whether an Indian should be allowed on a big league or not.

"I'm not for it," said the native-born Irishman. "I don't think them foreigners should be allowed on a ball team!"

Hammering the Turk Forts

[Montreal Mail-News.]

We began again by closing on to the forts in order to be able to use of 6-inch guns. We closed in to about 6,000 yards and blazed away merrily. By this time we were well within range of the enemy's guns, and their shells were falling all around us. The spray from some of them, which struck the water less than twenty yards from the ship, badly splashed the admiral and captain in the fore conning-tower. Although we were not hit directly, we had a hole knocked through the first cutter and a lump chipped out of the fore lower yard by splinters from the enemy's shrapnel. We had no casualties. Altogether I think we did a good day's work, and if we didn't knock out the forts entirely, I know we must have given some of the Turks in them headaches.

After this the weather was unsuitable for perfect bombardment until Thursday, February 25. Then we began again. The Vengeance, the Cornwallis, and two French ships formed the central figures in the day's proceedings. First of all, however, the other ships carried out a little long-range bombardment, just to waken the Turks up after their six days' rest. This they did successfully; so much so, in fact, that the Agamemnon and Gaulois, which were closer in than the rest, got hit several times. Not much damage was done, however; but three men were killed, five severely wounded, and three slightly wounded in the Agamemnon. The following is an entry in my log, which describes our portion of the fun.

"We are approaching the entrance, and have opened fire with 6-inch guns, giving the forts rather a rough time. Now we are only 2,800 yards (one and a half miles) from Seddul Bahr and are just making the turn to come out again. The forts have opened fire at last with four shots (9.4-inch, I think). We reply with two 12-inch and salvoes of 6-inch. They promptly shut up, and we retire unscathed, much to everybody's amazement."

I think the Turks imagined we were trying to rush through and were trusting to their mines to blow us up rather than waste ammunition. This would account for their not opening fire until we began to make the turn.

This is how my log goes on:

"It turns out that we have proctically finished off Seddul Bahr. Now the two Frenchmen are beginning. They have opened rapid fire at long range and are quickly closing in. They have approached even closer than we did, and are making us pity the poor forts. They are simply battering them to pieces.

"Now they have finished. Still, the admiral is not satisfied, and the Triumph and Albion are told off to go in and finish them. We are to support them if necessary. The Trimph has selected Seddul Bahr and has closed in to about 2,000 yards (just over a mile). The Albion has done ditto to Kum Kale. They are firing right into the remnants of the forts at point-blank range, and are turning them into smoking ruins. We chip in occasionally with 6-inch, and have been lucky enough to hit one of their big guns, lifting it bodily into the air and throwing it right backwards. The only resistance now comes from a hidden howitzer on the southern side of the entrance, but its firing is rotten and we ignore it. It is getting dusk, and huge fires have broken out in the forts and in Seddul Bahr village and in the barracks to the north.

"The mine-sweepers are now coming up to sweep the entrance, so that we shall be able to go in at daybreak tomorrow and tackle the next set of forts.

Landing Party's Fight.

"We have been lying off the entrance all night, and this morning we have followed the mine-sweepers and the Irresistible right through the entrance.

"The ships are bombarding the next forts and doing considerable damage. We have now withdrawn and are preparing to send a demolition party, supported by a marine landing party of about thirty men, to make sure that the forts at the entrance are absolutely beyond repair.

"They have landed and have just got to the other side of the village of Kum Kale. They have evidently run into some Turkish troops, for a good deal of firing is going on. However, I can now see them at the top of one of the forts and they seem to be all right.

"The ships have suddenly opened fire on parts of the village and on the cemetery, for we can see Turkish troops are concealed there and are potting at our men. We have recalled our men, as they seem to be having the worst of it.

"It turns out to be worse than we thought. There are four casualties, all marines. A sergeant has been killed, another had his shoulder badly damaged, a private has been struck in the right eye by a splinter, and another has a little bit chipped out of his chin.

"But we know that the day's work is officially considered to have been carried out brilliantly and with entire success."

An American Lady Praises London Goods.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Seeing the article in The Advertiser regarding London women buying across the border I wish to say, although I am an American and live in London, I have six sisters who live in Detroit and Chicago. I visit them often and can truly say I never bring home to the amount of five dollars in American goods. I'm only an ordinary citizen, but I am fond of good material, good trimming and good linen. My American friends and relatives often remark, in fact, when they visit me they are surprised at "The Little City of London", as they call it, having such nice window displays and fine stores. One of my friends from Detroit remarked regarding some trimmings she saw that she was surprised at such beautiful goods in London. My husband thought was unkind when I told her that if she wished to pay the price she could buy theh very best in every line in London. Of course, they have a greater variety in those large cities. I have been visiting those places for years and I think I am a true American, but What Canadian women see in American goods that is superior to what they can buy in Canada, except perhaps in variety, is what I cannot understand. I had an acquaintance once who went to an American city to shop. Among the things bought were lace curtains and I positively know that she could have bought the same here for the same price she paid for those. She got up at an early hour, took a tiresome trip and other inconveniences and brought home goods which I thought she could have improved upon right in her own city. I don't know what I'd do if I felt I could get more for my money, but as yet I am sure I can get the quality and quantity right here in London which ought to satisfy any right thinking woman.

Hoping I have not taken up too much space in your column, I beg to remain Yours truly,

MRS. SHARPE.

Objects to the Proposal.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

In regard to a statement in your valuable paper of April 10 as to a grievance of the architects of this city, I wish to say that to revise the building bylaws as stated would be very vexatious and annoying. To compel the citizen who wishes a small job done around his place to be forced to employ the services of an architect, to have plans drawn and blue prints made of some small alteration or addition for which the party himself can give the instructions verbally is most outrageous and would stop many small jobs ever being done at all. And all the good it would do would be to make the work more troublesome and expensive.

Yours respectively,

F. R. LLOYD.

DAILY PAGE FOR ADVERTISER WOMAN READERS

Cynthia Grey's Mail-Box

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letters can be answered privately.]

Received the Clipping.

Dear Miss Grey,—I see by this morning's paper where someone had copied and sent you "Bill and the Widow", for "Blanche." I sent you the clippings for "Blanche" around March 24. Did you not get them? We enjoy reading your page very much and I like to help when I can. We get the morning paper. A READER.

Ans.—Yes, dear reader, your clipping was also received. Did I not acknowledge it in answering your former letter? Sorry, for I am always most appreciative of such responses.

For Auld Reekie.

"AULD PEGGIE"—The verses of the song you ask about, together with the music, may be purchased at the five-and-ten-cent stores here, and doubtless in your town. If not, I could get it for you here upon receipt of your address and stamps.

English Saucepans.

"ELSIE" sends some help to the reader who desired English saucepans. I cannot publish the address here, but would like very much to hear from the inquirer, with her address. Many thanks, "Elsie."

Another Would Like It.

"MRS. B." asks for the remedy for gall stones mentioned in issue of Tuesday, March 30. This has been sent on to the reader desiring the same; would she or the person sending the remedy to me care to let me have a copy so I might forward it to Mrs. B., whose address I hold?

Mrs. B. writes also: "I see where Tom Thum was troubled with bad feet; try powdered rosin—sprinkle in the shoes or boots—no more odor."

Wear Band of Crepe.

Dear Miss Grey,—1. My father died about six months ago. Would it be all right for me to wear brown this spring with colored ties, etc? I don't believe in "mourning," but do not wish to "get in wrong."

2. When a young man takes a lady friend to the theatre, should he thank her for coming—or if she thanks him, what should he say?

3. They say I write like a girl—do you think so? F. C. B. C.

Ans.—1. Wear the colored suit, quiet ties, and a band of crepe on your arm.

2. Don't have stilted things to say—talk naturally. She will probably tell you that she enjoyed the entertainment very much, and you may reply that you have also found it pleasant, but do not neglect to give her the impression that it was so because of her company. "I'd enjoy going anywhere—with you" (this last in most melting tones), is a favorite form of reply.

3. Yes.

As to your other query, why not call up the secretary of the club and find out? I know the scheme is something like you mention, but am not sure as to the figures.

From Across the Line.

Dear Miss Grey,—Although I am not Canadian in heart, there are a few Canadian products I greatly admire. One of the foremost is the hearty welcome one, from a strange country, gets in Canada. None are more hearty than your popular Mail-Box gives to strangers. Don't know whether this stranger will be welcome or not, or whether you will think it all Tommy-rot I am writing, but, at any rate, I'm going to venture in and gladly give what little help I can.

I see in this morning's paper "Mac" asked for the words to "I'm Trying So Hard To Forget You." I am inclosing the same, and would like to ask you if you will kindly print in your old song column "After the Ball Is Over," an old song I've heard my dear old father sing? If you can grant me this favor I'll feel greatly indebted to you and your Mail-Box.

2. Just one more question—suppose you just about know what it is—kindly criticise my penmanship. Respectfully,

UNCLE SAM'S NIECE.

Ans.—Of course you are welcome to the Mail-box; may you always find "us Canadians" cordial to visitors. But if you live in our territory are you not a "Canuck" yourself? "Mac" will be most pleased, I know, to receive the words of the song; will he send address for it? The one you ask for has been published, and I have a copy to send you upon receipt of your address.

2. No criticism necessary—it is excellent.

A Favorite Poem.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is the first time I have ever written to you. I must say we al lenjoy the woman's page very much. I am inclosing an old song which was asked for some time ago. I had it only in my memory, and think it is all right; hope the one who asked for it is not out of patience waiting for it; it is "The Merry Farmer's Girls." If any of your readers have the words of the poem entitled "The House at the Side of the Road" I would be so pleased if they would send it to you to be printed. Yours, AUCHENTORLIE.

Ans.—Thanks for the old song, but it was sent in and published some time ago. The poem you mention is also a favorite of mine, but I have no copy of it. If any reader will send us the words, I shall be most glad to print.

Best Ask a Doctor.

Anxious To Be a Nurse—Regarding your queries as to maternity nursing, osteopathy, etc., I should advise you to consult a doctor as to entering training for the first type of nursing, and also an osteopath if you are interested in this. You would thus get definite information at first hand.

Her New Dress.

Dear Miss Grey,—1. I am 17 years old, have blue eyes and fair hair. What color would you think would be nice for a new spring dress?

2. What do you think of my writing? Yours truly, F. T.

Ans.—1. A Belgian blue shade would be nice for your dress, and I am sure you would also look well in the tan shades, or "sand" colors as they are called.

2. A very excellent hand.

As to your other query, send me your address and a stamp and I shall give you the name of a firm.

She Is Too Fat.

SIMCOE.—You do not say what your height is, but if the "surplus" is anyway evenly distributed, and you are of fair stature, you should not worry much. No, I do not see where you could find time for much more exercise outdoors; no doubt you could walk back and forth to work, and to night school, and this should keep you in fair condition. Many women take Turkish baths daily to reduce weight by profuse perspiratoion, but this is apt to be weakening.

As to dieting, do not eat between meals; avoid strictly sweet and starchy foods of all descriptions; eat sour fruits, lettuce, spinach, tomatoes, bread without butter, no tea or coffee, any meats except pork, fish as allowed, and any root vegetables. Eat sparingly of all

This is about the advice a "beauty doctor" would give you if you consulted one, but living up to it is another matter. Yes, I believe the dumb-bell exercises, practiced faithfully, would help. Sorry I cannot help you more definitely.

Has Headaches.

My Dear Miss Grey,—What will cure headaches?

2. What will give life to the hair roots, as mine must be dead?

3. Could you reprint the receipe for eggless, milkless and butterless cake, as I have lost it?

4. Judging from my letter, am I capable of letting a boy accompany me home from the rink, etc.?

5. Lastly, what do you think of my chirography, as you call it?

Yours truly. GUINEA.

Ans.—1. Should find out the cause; they may result from eyestrain, nervousness, or disordered digestion. Each of the three will require special treatment. Do not allow the condition to become chronic.

2. Are you rubbing the scalp vigorously each day, and then brushing firmly for about 100 strokes? I do not think so, or your hair would not seem lifeless. Do this once every 24 hours, and apply any hair tonic that appeals to you. May take several months to see results.

3. Eggless, Milkless, Butterless Cake—Put into saucepan the following: One cup brown sugar, 1 cup of water, 2 cups seeded raisins, 1-3 cup lard, 1 tablespoon molasses (if desired), ¼ teaspoon grated nutmeg, ½ teaspoon ground cloves, 1 teaspoon cinnamon (ground); boil the above three minutes, and let cool, add 1 teaspoon soda dissolved in hot water, 2 teacups of flour in which ½ teaspoon of baking powder has been sifted; bake one hour in moderate oven. For drop cakes, bake 15 minutes in gem tins.

4. What a weird question! Some girls are capable of anything, to be sure.

5. Very good.

Needles and Shuttles.

Dear Miss Grey,—This is my second visit to the Mail Box, and I must tell you once more how much your page is appreciated.

I noticed a few weeks ago where one member asked if anyone could tell her where she might obtain a "Wanzer C" shuttle, and much to my surprise the information was soon forthcoming, so I am going to ask if anyone could tell me where I could obtain needles suitable for a "Wanzer C" machine, as I have tried several places without success, and if I can return the favor in any way I will be very pleased to do so. Thanking you in advance, I remain,

RED WINGS.

Ans.—I have not kept the address where the shuttles might be obtained, or would send it to you, as quite likely needles for this machine could be purchased there also. Perhaps the reader to whom the address was sent will inform us as to what it is. "Red Wings" has kindly mailed a copy of "Nellie's Prayer," which someone asked for. Thanks.

Who Knows It?

Dear Miss Grey,—I am a constant reader of your page and enjoy reading the letters sent to you.

1. Could any one who knows the song, "Off to the War" please help me to get the words of it?

2. What is the meaning of these names: Charlotte, Leavurn, Everett, Wilson, William, Russell, Earl?

Hope I am not a bother.

A NEW SUBSCRIBER.

Ans.—1. Request referred to readers.

2. Charlotte, a feminine from of Charles, which means strong or manly; William, defender, or protector; Earl, a prince. The remaining names are really surnames, not Christian names.

Your hint re removing freckles is appreciated, but I cannot publish as it is really an advertisement for the preparation you name. Sorry.

Before You Get Your Spring Dress Read About the Newest Notions In Raiment Spied Out In Tour 'Round Shopland.

By Maybelle Mortimer.

I've just returned from a shopping tour, and I saw so many stunning things as I toured about with note book in hand, my weather eye which is my fashion eye wide open for new notions in spring raiment that I must take my pen in hand this instant and tell you all about them.

At the very beginning let me give you four important pointers to stick in your memory when you go a-hunting for your new suit, the suit that will be worn, probably from Easter until early June.

FIRST—Sand color leads all other colors this spring.

SECOND—Pockets on street suits are the latest kink in styles.

THIRD—Buttons are as popular as pockets—and lastly your spring suit must have a side-pleated skirt.

As to the sand colors you hear so much about, they run all the way from dull brown-sugar tints to the pale yellow of a kindergarten sand pile, and you'll find them in all materials, covert, shantung, serge and gaberdine, which is very nice for the girl with rose leaf complexion, but I hate to think of the effect those sandy tints will have on her sister whose complexion harmonizes with her sand color suit—sallowness and sandiness make a combination fatal to beauty. But Fashion's motto seems to be—be fashionable and let beauty take care of itself.

I'll describe one of these models in the new shade which was typical of a dozen others I saw. It was gaberdine, and military in style with close-fitting coat belted in with cartridge belt of mouse color suede. Gold rimmed buttons big as grandmother's thimble, and four large, pleated pockets, two above and two below the belt line completed the military effect. The skirt was cut in straight lines, pleated at the sides.

A much paler shade of "sand" was the severely tailored shantung down trimmed with patent leather collars and cuffs and narrow patent belt. Like most other coats of the season this one was semi-fitted, that is there was just enough of "fit" to it to outline the figure. The skirt had the ultra-fashionable straight panels back and front with flat, inverted pleats at the sides.

Although that mainstay of every woman's wardrobe the blue serge tailored suit is outshone by the new shades of sand and putty, it's still with us greatly glorified this spring with brocaded linings, ornamental buttons, silk sleeves, and silk peplums. Shepherd plaid is exceedingly popular but not exactly practical for the girl who must wear her street suit "every day and Sunday."

BY HER BUTTON-TRIMMED COAT, HER ABBREVIATED, PLEATED SKIRT AND HER TIPPERARY TOQUE YOU MAY RECOGNIZE MISS UP-TO-THE-MINUTE-IN-STYLES.

MAYBELLE MORTIMER SAYS:

The saucy, little covert top-coat, billowing at the bottom like ocean waves, with raglan sleeves and patch pockets, is the coat the up-to-the-styles girl is wearing this spring.

If skirts lose much more length they'll be mere skirt-lets. An inch above the shoe top is the reckless prediction made for summer skirts.

Very small hats of Tipperary toque variety are popular as spring violets. They'll hold favor at least until June.

The colored cloth top shoes decline to be kicked out of favor. They are more popular than ever this spring.

THE BACKYARD GARDEN

CHAPTER 5.

SOWING THE SEED.

When you sow the seed the surface of your bed should be moist, but not wet. The best way to plant seed is to run straight lines the length of your bed, or the width, whichever seems best to you after figuring out how the sun will hit it. For large seed the drills should be an inch or little more in depth. Nearly all seed packages give instructions as to the right depth. Finer seed should be put in very shallow drills and the finest seed should be scattered on the surface.

Cover the drills with the finest dirt and press down lightly, but firmly. Where the seed is scattered over the surface take a board and press the soil down evenly all over. This will set the seed into Mother Earth, assisting germination.

After planting your seed moisten the soil, but do not deluge it. The soil should be kept in a moist condition until the seedlings begin to come through. There are some soils which dry out to a considerable depth in the middle of the day under a hot May sun. To keep them from getting too dry while you are away at work put newspapers over the seed bed in the morning. Sometimes straw or hay is scatterel thinly over the beds. But whatever scheme you adopt be sure that the roots, when they first peep out, don't peep into dry soil. Similarly they should not peep in a soil so wet that it is mud.

You are now waiting for your little plants to come through the surface. From now on until you pick your crops you should do some work every single day. This daily work will often consist of nothing more than watchfulness. There may be frequent rains. A hot sun after a single shower will soon form a cake on the surface and dry out the moisture from below. This cake should be broken up as soon as you can get at it. If you can get to work on that caking while the surface is still moist, but not muddy, it will be better for your plants. Keep the surface loose. This means all the time, spring, summer, until harvest.

Wheel Tools

If the backyard gardener finds he has more space than the average householder, he may economize labor by purchasing more tools. To cultivate a fairly large plot on hands and knees is to cultivate the backache. The light wheel tools now so popular are invaluable. One tool with the various accessories such as seeders, weeders and cultivators, which go with it will do much to lighten the labor in the large garden.

LONDON ADVERTISER COOK-BOOK

Recipes Supplied By Cynthia Grey's Readers.

Glencoe Reader.

Ice Cream Candy—Three cups sugar, crushed or cut loaf, a little less than half a cup of vinegar, 1½ cups cold water, piece of butter size of a walnut, flavor with extract vanilla. Boil until it hardens, then pull until white.

Date Cake—Cream together 1 cup of brown sugar, ½ cup butter, 2 eggs, ½ cup warm water, 1½ cups flour, with 1 teaspoon Magic soda in flour, 1 pound chopped dates, ½ cup English walnuts (chopped), 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Spiced Grapes—Pulp and seed 5 pounds of tart grapes and put them over the fire in a porcelain-lined saucepan, with 4 pounds of granulated sugar, 2 tablespoons each of cloves and cinnamon and a pint of vinegar; cook slowly for half an hour after coming to a boil, then pour into jelly glasses. You can do gooseberries just the same.

The tendency to a close fit shows in coats as well as dress bodices.

Shed Your Winter Complexion

Winter weather and Spring winds have roughened and harshened your skin and it requires care and proper treatment to bring back its rosebud freshness and softness. "Your Complexion" is the title of a most useful Book just issued by the Nyal people and obtainable free from any Nyal Agency Drug Store. It tells all about this most important subject, care and treatment of the complexion, including full directions for massage.

Nyal's Face Cream is the one great toilet necessity for every woman. Greaseless, oxygenated, refreshing, it is the very best emollient. Get a 25c or 50c jar of Nyal's Face Cream and gently rub this deliciously perfumed cream into the face. It quickly cleanses and leaves the skin soft and fragrant, removing any irritating, burning sensation. All the injurious effects of unkind windsare permanently eradicated by its touch. Nyal's skin preparations, soap, powder, etc., are first aids to good complexions.

Call or telephone the nearest Nyal Agency Drug Store for your copy of this useful book. You'll know the Nyal Agency Store by a special window sign. Nyal Preparations mean quality. 117

TEA.

Tea from the quaint-graved silver pot,
Tea from the cups rose-wreathed about;
We in the sweet warm indoor dusk,
Rain in the holly tree without.

I came over a-weary and worn,
Sombre of mood and half-way blue;
But all that goes like smoke from the fire,
When I take tea with you.

Old Songs and Poems

GRANDMA'S FIRST BEAU.

One day my grandma said to me:
"When I was young, my dear,
Girls did not carry on with boys
The same as you do here."
'Oh, I don't see," I said, "the harm
Of schoolgirls having beaus."
My gracious, how my grandma looked,
As fast her anger rose.

"No harm!" she cried, "for girls to flirt?
Why you are just sixteen,
And on my word you do not try
Your love for boys to screen.
I've seen you when from school you came,
Oft with those goslings walk,
You make me stare, old as I am,
The way you laugh and talk."

"Well, tell me, grandma," here I ask,
"Be sure you speak what's true,
The very first beau you had,
How old, grandma, were you?"
A soft, sad smile swept o'er her face,
And for a moment she Paused to recall her younger days,
So full of joy and glee.

At last she spoke, and something like
A flush came o'er her cheek,
"You don't know, child, how strange I feel
When of those days you speak.
Both boys and girls in that old time
All went to Allen's Green,
And when I think about it now,
But yesterday it seems.

"We romped and played so merrily
Upon the open green,
Young Godfrey Keith was my first beau,
I was about thirteen.

Back in her chair my grandma sank,
"I've half a mind to say
Things haven't changed so much, I'm sure
Since I was young and gay."
And as she softly sped away,
I read upon her brow
That fifty years ago girls loved
The boys as well as now.

INTERNATIONAL HOLDS BIG MEETING TODAY

Adoption of Schedule Is Coming Up.

NEWARK TAKEN OVER

James Callahan, Former White Sox Manager, Reported To Be Newark Leader.

NEW YORK, April 11.—James McCaffrey and Lawrence Sollman, of the Toronto International League Club, headed the advance guard into this city tonight for the annual schedule meeting of the International League, which is to be held tomorrow.

In addition to the adoption of the schedule, which is a more important procedure this year than heretofore, on account of the baseball war, and the clash of the league's interests with those of the Federal League in Newark and Buffalo, several other matters of importance are expected to come before the magnates. While President Edward Barrow would not make any statement of the question tonight, it was reported that the Newark Club had been taken over by a Newark syndicate, the members of which were to be made public tomorrow.

An unofficial report had James Callahan, for several years manager of the Chicago-American League Club, as the leader of the Newark team.

STRATFORD FOOTBALLERS HOLD MEETING TONIGHT

City Will Not Have Team in Junior Series This Year, But Will Have Good Senior Aggregation.

STRATFORD, April 11.—Local football enthusiasts will meet on Monday night to discuss the situation here and in all probability the City League will be gotten under way. In regard to the W. F. A. it is certain that Stratford will not be represented in the junior ranks, which championship they have held for the past two years, but the seniors will be strong, despite the fact that their ranks have been depleted by the war. Only a very few of last year's junior aggregation are here, the best of them having enlisted with one of the three contingents.

TWO-MEN TEAMS HAVE LARGE SCORE TO BEAT

New York, April 12.—A score of 1,232, set by Walter Smith, of Rutherford, N. J., was the mark which the two-men teams aimed to beat when bowling was resumed today in the national tournament. A large number of five-men teams were on the card for tonight's events with the Atlantics, of Brooklyn, at the head of the list with a score of 2,915. As the alleys were rapidly improving under the constant bowling, the contestants hoped that some of the strong teams to bowl this week would be better the 3,035 record for the national tournaments set by the Geneseees, of Rochester, N. Y. Howard E. Chickering, of this city, headed the singles list with a score of 748.

New York bowlers were confident that the board of governors would select this city as the place for the 1916 tournament, as that choice was reported to be favored by the majority.

Bobby Heck Is Strike-Out King of Canadian League

Whiffed on an Average of 5.53 Batters Every Game —Cy Reidy Was Best Fielding Outfielder in the League.

The strike-out king of the Canadian League last season was Bobbie Heck, of London. Bobbie whiffed on an average 5.53 every game. Louie Schettler sent more men back for a drink than Bobbie, but he worked in six more games. The "Joe Lill" of the league was Bill Donahue, of Hamilton, who walked on an average 3.19 men every game. Donahue also beamed an even dozen in the bargain. Graham, of Toronto, had nine wild pitches in 21 games.

Little attention is paid in baseball records to the number of flies caught in the outfield, greatest stress being laid on the scarcity of slip-ups in the outer pastures. Last year Curly Blount, the little centre-fielder of the Peterboro team, was the boss fly-catcher of the season with 249. Curly slipped up on but eight, and while he ranks second to Cy Reidy, of London, as the best fielding outfielder in the league, Reidy nabbed only 137. Dawson, of Erie, was only one behind Blount in the number of flies caught, but he blew on 20 of them.

Tom Jones, Picker of Champions!

How a Saloon Keeper Made Titleholders of Willard, Wolgast and Papke.

[BY LEFT HOOK.]

Tom Jones, picker of champions!

Champions may come and champions may go, but Tom Jones, the loquacious, the garrulous, the noisy, always manages to tie to one of them. Jess Willard, champion of the world, is the THIRD titleholder the talkative Thomas has had, with hardly a brea k between.

Billy Papke, the Illinois thunderbolt, was under the Jones wing when he caught the great Stanley Ketchell off his guard, and sent him crashing to the canvas for the long count and acquired temporary possession of the middleweight title.

Ad Wolgast, the Michigan bearcat, took his orders from Jones when he battered the great Battling Nelson to a pulp and won the lightweight championship in 40 rounds at Point Richmond.

Jess Willard, the Kansas cowboy, knocked out the great Jack Johnson, for the championsh p of the world, because the cool Jones sat in his corner and made him wear down his opponent instead of mixing it wildly and going the way of all others who had faced the black man.

Back in 1906 Cherokee Tom Jones was running a saloon in LaSalle, Ill., down in the soft coal country, which has produced so many tough fighters. In Spring Valley, a few miles away, the toughest town in the section, where everybody fought with their meals and between meals, Billy Papke, a powerful boy, was mixing up his daily operations in the mines with a Saturday night battle whenever the opportunity offered. Sometimes he got $10 for them —more often nothing.

But Papke soon cleaned up all the ambitious miners of the neighborhood, and Jones, learning of his record, wiped off the bar, locked the saloon door and went down to meet him. A couple of months later Jones sold the saloon.

He imported tough middleweights for Papke, and Central Illinois saw some beautiful battles. Jones took him out of Illinois, and Papke kept on bowling them over.

In 1908 Jones saw promise in Ad Wolgast, the Cadillac, Mich., boy, who had been fighting on the coast at the time of Papke's battles with Ketchell.

A few good fights under the Jones guidance, and Wolgast was the logical contender for Bat Nelson. He met Bat and then ensued one of the greatest lightweight fights of all times. The great Nelson, cut to ribbons, and blinded by his own blood by the horrible punches of his younger and smaller opponent, was so helpless in the 40th round that the referee stopped the fight and awarded the decision to Wolgast as a knockout.

Then, two years ago, after Wolgast had lost his title to Ritchie, and Jones saw he could not continue as a great fighter, he annexed Jess Willard, who, at the time, was anybody's fighter. Jess would have fought for anybody who would get him a fight. Jones led him up to the greatest championship of them all.

Jones' principal hobby is having enough suits of clothes so he can change two or three times a day and not wear the same suit twice in a week. He is the butt of much humor because of the boasting he does on behalf of his fighters and his alleged unwillingness to separate himself from the price of a drink. Much of this is greatly exaggerated. In appearance Tom Jones is a serious-minded businessman in the early forties, and his methods have enabled him to pile up a nice bundle of real estate, which will keep Tom Jones pretty comfortable after he quits the fight game.

TOM JONES AND HIS GRIN.

London Hunt Club Has 28 Members Serving the Colors

Twenty of These Are Active G olfers—List Provided by Captain H. F. Skey Shows Big Percentage of Members At Front or Going To Front.

Twenty-eight members of the London Hunt and Country Club are now serving the colors, according to a list provided by Capt. H. F. Skey. Twenty of these are active golfers. In sending in the list to the sporting editor of The Advertiser, Capt. Skey says: "It may be of interest to you and to the subscribers of your paper, to know just what the London Hunt and Country Club is doing in furnishing fighters in this war of wars.

"I inclose a list showing twenty active golfers, members of our club, who are now serving at the front or going, and a further list of eight members, who while not active golfers, are also members of our club. This gives a total of 28 members of the London Hunt and Country Club now serving the colors, which is a pretty good illustration of the spirit of the members."

"Buck" Freeman Will Umpire in the International

Famous Home Run Hitter With Canadian League Last Season Lands Big Berth.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Edward Barrow, president of the International Baseball League, has announced the make-up of his umpire staff for this season. Four new men have been signed. William B. Carpenter, Robert Hart, John Mullen and Peter Harrison have been retained, while the new umpires are A. J. Cleary and Edward Eckman, who officiated in the New York State League last year, Frank Brown, from the Three-I League, and "Buck" Freeman, from the Canadian League.

Mullen who umpired in the international last season was graduated into the American League, while Finneran signed with the Federal League, Rorty resigned to go into business and Cottiflower was not offered a contract for this year.

Mr. Barrow has completed the league schedule, which is expected to be adopted at a meeting in this city on Monday and will be made public the latter part of the week.

Beginning of a Great Star

"When I first arrived on the Pacific coast," says Joe Levy, the fight promoter, "the old Chicago club, then managed by Frank Selee, was training, and with them was a skinny youngster who was trying, in a feeble way, to play the infield. He was worried and discouraged; said he didn't think he was quite ripe for the big league, and asked Selee to leave him on the coast so he could get a year's added experience. Selee consented, and offered him to the Los Angeles club. Los Angeles refused him, asserting that the kid was about Class Z, 23 quality. Selee took him back east—and his name was Evers."

Jess Willard Gets Big Reception in New York City

Champion Shows Marked Improvement Over Previous Showing in Exhibitions.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Jess Willard, world's heavyweight champion pugilist, arrived in New York late last night and was greeted at the railroad station by a large and enthusiastic crowd, in which were many women.

The throng, which had been waiting about two hours, paraded behind the champion up Seventh avenue to a local sporting club, where Willard sparred three and a half minute exhibition rounds with sparring partner Walter Monohan, and demonstrated the blows he had used in conquering Jack Johnson. In his exhibition, the cowboy-pugilist showed marked improvement in his work in comparison to the bouts in which he had participated here.

APPLEGARTH CHAMPION OF 220-YD. SPRINTERS

SANFORD, Eng., April 11.—W. R. Applegarth defeated Jack Donaldson, of Australia, in a 220-yard race here Saturday for the world's professional championship for that distance, held by Donaldson. Applegarth's time was 22¼ seconds. Donaldson got the best start, but Applegarth pushed to the front, when half the distance had been covered and won handily by a yard.

In November, 1914, Applegarth wrested the world's 100-yard professional championship from Donaldson in a race at Manchester, England.

CANADIAN LEAGUE NOTES

[Hamilton Herald.]

We are still wondering what the Hamilton ball club will be dubbed this year. We don't mean what the fans will no doubt call them every time they perform below standard.

Hamilton's Canadian League club should show the most new faces this summer. Ottawa will have practically the same outfit, minus Bullock, Lage and Nill; London loses Linneburn, Beebe and Bierbauer, and Brantford and St. Thomas will be shy only a few of their last season's pastimers. Hamilton will have to do without Jack White, Harry Corns, Bill Cunningham, George Shears, Red Fisher, Jack Pendry, Patsy Dougherty and Donohue. It's a practically new club that will represent this city.

And it's to be hoped that the gang under Billy Cristall show considerably more life and game-winning ability than those that have summered here in past seasons.

Two Big Lacros e Leagues on Verge of Amalgamation

D. L. A. and N. L. U. Will Get Together and Form One Union With Two Sections.

Montreal, April 12.—President A. L. Caron, of the National Lacrosse Club, announced this morning that the Dominion Lacrosse Association would meet some time this week to discuss the future of the organization. Two plans are to be considered. One is to merge the D. L. A. with the National Lacrosse Union, and the other is to have two sections of the D. L. A., one in Toronto and the other in Montreal. In Toronto the clubs would be Toronto and Tecumsehs and in Montreal the Nationals and Irish-Canadians, local parties having announced their willingness to finance the latter club.

The feeling after the N. L. U. meeting on Saturday was that the amalgamation of the two leagues would likely be arranged, the resultant organization to be semi-professional.

President Caron said this morning this was "the most likely indication at the present time."

Ottawa Team Will Play Post-Season Series at the Fair

Shag's Senators To Meet New York State Champions or All-Star Canadians.

OTTAWA, April 10.—Baseball will probably be among the added attractions at the Central Canada Exhibition in September next. There was a conference yesterday afternoon at the Exhibition Association office at which an offer for a special series of post season games was made by President T. C. Bate. Manager Frank Shaughnessy represented the Ottawa Club and the suggestion was made that the Ottawas stead, baseball and horse racing will, if present arrangements go through, constitute the program. In the event of the Ottawas not being able to bring a New York or Central League team here from the Canadian League will be brought along. The offer of the Exhibition Association is now being considered and it is probable that a favorable decision will be given in the course of a week or so.

NATIONAL LEAGUE UMPS GET INSTRUCTIONS TODAY

New York, April 12.—National League umpires were here today to receive their assignments for the season from President Tener, who had arranged to greet them at the local headquarters. The league president intended also to give them their instructions, and an informal discussion was to follow.

BRAMPTON CHALLENGES CALGARY FOR MANN CUP

Calgary, Alta., April 12.—The Excelsior Lacrosse Club of Brampton, has forwarded through Joe Lally, a challenge for a series of games with the Calgary Chinooks for the possession of the Mann cup.

WHEN RHEUMATISM STRIKES THE HEART IT KILLS—"NERVILINE" THE CURE

Effect of Nerviline on Chronic Cases Is Almost Magical.

Exposure to wet or cold is apt to bring on an attack.

The muscles stiffen, the joints swell, and exertion brings on excruciating twinges.

Often the pain shifts from one part to another, and this is dangerous, as the heart is apt to be attacked. Death as a rule follows a heart attack.

The pain of rheumatism is quickly rubbed away with Nerviline.

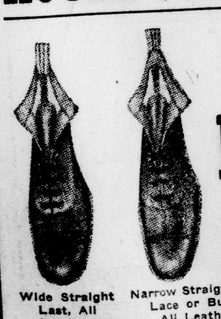

This is a swift, lasting, and safe way to cure rheumatism. You can depend on Nerviline. It has the power, the penetrating force, the control over pain that is so essential to a rheumatic remedy.

Lots of testimony to prove Nerviline's certainty to cure.

The following letter is from Mr. E. G. Sautter, Port of Spain, Trinidad: "Last year I was severely troubled with rheumatism. I had it in my arms, shoulders and knees. The pain was at times excruciating, and laid me up so that I couldn't work. I went to Smith Brothers' Drug Store and was advised by the manager to use 'Nerviline.' That was excellent advice. I used Nerviline as directed and was cured, completely cured of every trace of my old enemy.'

Once you use Nerviline you'll realize it's different from all the others—that it contains something that gets right "at" the pain the minute you rub it on. CANADIAN GUNNERS CAUGHT GERMANS AT THEIR DINNER

Thirty Shells Fired at Them and Air Was Thick With Frying Pans and Dishes—Men Getting Used To "Whistling Willies," "Black Marias," "Jack Johnsons," etc.

The following letter has been received from Gunner A. F. Coleman, 10th Battery, C. F. A.:

"I am getting quite used to the 'Whistling Willies,' 'Black Marias,' etc., although we have not been introduced to any 'Jack Johnsons' yet.

"We have figured quite successfully in one important battle, and the rest of the time we have been content to register our ranges and drop a few rounds by surprise in their trenches, and blowing down their observation towers. We caught them napping at dinnertime the other day, and sent about thirty shells in on them. Our observation officer said all you could see was frying pans, mess tins, hard-tack, and Germans going up in the air.

"Our guns are so carefully concealed that they have not been able to locate us yet, and until we start to advance all they can do is fire at random, and, believe me, they make some pretty good guesses, although they don't know it. They have not done any damage to us yet.

"Our worst danger here is snipers; they are busy all night long, and you cannot go very far at night without some of them taking a pot at you. They got one of our drivers through the leg the other night, but he is getting along all right.

"The signallers and telephonists have it worse than us gunners. They have to go to the infantry trenches every night, and they get peppered pretty hot sometimes, as the star shells light up everything for a minute, and the snipers take advantage of it and fire on everything in sight.

"It's fun to watch the aeroplanes try to get over our lines to find our guns. The moment they get close enough our aeroplane guns go after them, and you can see the shells bursting all around them, but we have only seen one come down since we've been here."

DIFFICULT POSITION.

Pte. H. W. Warren, fighting with the 8th Battalion, writes as follows:

"The position which we are holding is a difficult and important one. Being very exposed, no movement in daylight is possible, consequently all the work of bringing rations, improving the position, and sending relief parties has to be done between sunset and sunrise. Can you imagine what we look like after a night of this work? Mud knee-deep awaiting any unfortunate enough to slip off the narrow plank walk, or having to drop flat on one's tummy immediately a brilliant flare shoots into the sky, often in water, and always in mud. But in spite of it all we are wonderfully happy. To hear the boys laugh when somebody falls into the mud and just escapes a shrapnel, or when a sniper happens to plug the mud very close and makes you duck your napper, one would think it was just sport. But really it's a serious sport. A sport where a good shot means a human life, instead of a goal, and a sport in which there are no fouls and no referee's whistle. The trenches here are only 150 to 200 yards apart, and it's funny at times to hear the Germans trying to sing in English, answered by our boys with 'The Watch am Rhine,' amid much derisive laughter. They are humorous devils, these Germans. One I spotted was busy pumping water from his trench and just exposed his arm as the pump rose and fell. I had a couple of shots at his arm. On each occasion he cheerfully waved a miss! It's very strange how men will get the very most out of life on every occasion now. Practically all the grumbling that was heard on Salisbury Plain has entirely disappeared. I think the Canadians have created a very good impression among the British Tommies, and, personally, I think that once they get going no power on earth will stop them; they are a fine bunch of boys—perhaps a little too keen and reckless in exposing themselves unnecessarily, but better so than otherwise. I have had the good fortune to meet my brother-in-law, who left Saskatoon last August, as a reservist. He is on divisional headquarters as a dispatch rider, and has had the good fortune, with my brother, of winning the distinguished conduct medal for rescuing a barnful of wounded men under heavy shell fire. There are now six of us serving the King, two of whom have been awarded the D. C. M. Some family record, eh?"

VISITED CANUCK LINES.

Sergt. W. J. Gow, 2nd Infantry Brigade, writing under date of March 18, says:

"You will have seen from the newspapers by this time where we are. That is information which we are not allowed to send out, although the Germans know us now, and call out to us in trenches. The artillery simply tore the ground up to pieces in our last engagement. We all feel we are superior in all branches. Our boys are doing fine, and have been commended by the general. There will be big doings before long; there is a spirit of hope and buoyancy everywhere. The list of casualties was heavy, and the Scottish regiments suffered a great deal. Shells are exploding around our headquarters almost daily. Mr. Winston Churchill was over the day before yesterday, and Gen. French also rode along the lines, with the Prince of Wales driving his car. You do not see many soldiers; they are all either in their billets or in the trenches, but you may see a few playing the camp at football now and then. The other day the boys had to change their field of play, as the Germans had got the range, and dropped a few shells in the field where the play was going on."

TORONTO SOLDIERS INSURED IN HARTFORD

Hartford, Conn., April 12.—Through the city of Toronto, insurance has just been taken out with a local company, it is learned, on the lives of 1,150 Canadian soldiers. The amount on each man is $1,000. For three years the city of Toronto will pay the aggregate premium of $45,000, acting also as trustee for the beneficiaries of the soldiers. After the three-year period the men will be expected to pay the premiums themselves, if they wish the insurance to remain in force.

BERESFORD APPRECIATES JAM FROM WYOMING

Red Cross Society Will Double Efforts in Behalf of Tars.

[Canadian Press.]

WYOMING, April 11. — Wyoming branch of the Red Cross Society is considering new methods of adding to the good work. Owing to letters expressing thanks and appreciation, received by the secretary, Mrs. W. C. Sheppard, from Hon. Charles Beresford and others regarding the acceptable donation early in the winter of jam and fruits for the sailors in the North Sea, it was decided to again ask the public for contributions for the same cause. Announcements were read from the various pulpits on Sunday and the public notified of the request.

Contributions will be received at the E. C. Rice book store on or before Thursday.

THROTTLED BY SATAN SAYS BILLY SUNDAY

Noted Evangelist Listened To By 15,000 In Yesterday's Services — Exhorts Many Students—Varsity Suit and Frat Pin Don't Make Successful Man, He Declares.

Paterson, N. J., April 12. — "Billy" Sunday spoke yesterday afternoon on the "Restoration of the Church." His text was taken from a passage in the 28th chapter of Second Chronicles. His sermon follows:

"The difference between the 28th and the 29th chapters of Second Chronicles is the difference we sometimes see in the church. There are periods of great enthusiasm and then again there are times of depression.

"When the burnt offerings began the Lord began. There are times when the pulpit is discouraged and the pews are the most deserted places in the world. To forget God seems to be the most familiar thing in the church, and the people, especially if they have increased in wealth, begin to seek out the haunts of the devil.

"I have known individuals whose names were synonymous with everything that was good, and I have known individuals whose names were synonymous with things opposed to God and the teachings of the Scriptures.

"Ahaz, the king of Judea, was an idolator of the grossest sort. For sixteen years he followed the abomination of the devil. But the judgment fell on him as it did on others, and so it will today on the church, with all its culture.

True Humility Needed.

"Nothing can stay the judgment of God's hand but true humility, and repentance from sin.

"Ahaz gathered together the vessels of God and gave them to another god. He shut up the doors of the house of the Lord and burnt incense to a strange god. He built altars in the groves and on the street corners to idols. He did everything to forget God and to divert the attention of the people from God.

"And the devil is doing the same thing today. He is not doing it in the same way, but it is the same old devil, and I think it is a pity that men and women of intelligence follow everything the devil suggests.

"And when Ahaz died they buried him in Jerusalem, but in another graveyard. He had lived such a godless life that they wouldn't disgrace the kings and his father by burying him with them.

"Hezekiah, the son of Ahaz, who succeeded him on the throne, had one thing in his favor—a good mother.

"Ahaz was one of the most disreputable, good-for-nothing scoundrels who ever held down a throne. Hezekiah was up against it in the paternal end of his parentage. He had a good mother, a godly woman, who saved him from being utterly damned.

Saved By Their Mothers.

"I know a lot of boys like Hezekiah, who have sticks for fathers, but whose mothers are on the square—sweet-souled, pure-minded ladies, who save their children from perdition while the old man is hanging around stale beer joints.

"I've known a good many boys to succeed who had good-for-nothing fathers and godly mothers; but I never saw one boy reach the pinnacle of righteousness who had an empty-headed, low-down, gum-chewing, society-quibbling, theatre-going woman for a mother.

"An act never goes higher than the motive, and God's will acts according to your motive. God gives you credit for the motive and not the act. I know a brewer in Indiana who built a library for the people. He did it to create sentiment and fool the people to get them to vote his way. He didn't care a rap about education or anything good.

"He won't fool God. Not on your tintype. He won't even fool me, so I know he won't fool God.

"Why are there so many lives in the church today without song? Because of the acts, the desires and the motives. Do you come to hear your sins rebuked?

"There is a cause for everything. Find out the cause and remove it and there will be no further trouble. One of the worst things is self, the pronoun 'I.' It is 'I' all the way down.

"Not a Grafter Then."

"Be willing. Be what God wants you to be, willingly. Several years ago I could have gotten any money for playing ball, but was then connected with the Y. M. C. A. in Chicago and wasn't earning enough to pay my house rent. The people didn't call me a grafter.

"I tell you preachers! I believe the time has come to say to your people, 'Get right with God or get out.' You preachers are keeping a lot of people out of the church because of some you have in it. . .

"Hezekiah opened the doors of the church after they had been shut up for sixteen years. He then had the priests sanctify themselves so that they might clean up the church.

"You preachers have been set aside to preach the Gospel of Christ, first clean your lives and then clean the church.

"You shut up your house for sixteen years and see how the dirt accumulates. Shut up your heart for sixteen years and see how the filth, sin and corruption will creep into your bodies; shut up the churches for sixteen years and I tell you this old town would rot into perdition in sixteen years.

The Power of Song.

"The church now has no song of salvation as it used to have, no song about the power of God. There is nothing so powerful as song.

"Hezekiah began with the priests. Let us begin with the preachers. If God could convert the preachers and get them to stop their fighting and transforming the phrases of the Bible to suit their parishioners we would see the greatest revival the world has ever seen.

"If I were a preacher and was afraid to preach the truth, I'd resign and farm for a living. I don't want to be subsidized by a gang of mutts or a dirty bunch.

"And if old Paterson falls on her knees in prayer, the song that must be part of her religious revival will not start in a booze joint or a brewery or in the red light district. It has got to start in the temple of God—in your heart.

"Are you going to make your hearts the temple of God? Stand up and show me that you are.

"Now, Lord, I know that you are going to do great things for Paterson.

"Ho! Ho! I don't wonder you are turning pale, Mr. Devil; that your teeth are chattering. You're worried, Mr. Devil. You've had your heel on the neck of Paterson for a long time. You've blighted enough lives. You've broken enough hearts of men and women by the waywardness of their boys and girls.

"Choking Thoat of N. Y."

"You've sent enough persons home with stinking breath early in the morning, vile enough to drive a polecat from its hole. You've stood long enough choking the throat of New York until you have driven out every semblance of decency; until you've driven them commercially crazy and drunk. Until they are immune from God's wrath.

"You have throttled New York, Brooklyn, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Boston, Minneapolis, Chicago, Pittsburg, San Francisco, Los Angeles and other cities.

"Ha! Ha! You stood with your hands clutching Philadelphia until they stood up and tore loose your old grip and told you: 'Back to hell with you.'

"Come on, men and women, we will show you that old Paterson will do the same thing—'Back to hell with you, Mr. Devil.'"

PREACHES TO YOUTHS.

Billy Sunday spoke last night to the young men and women of Paterson. He said in part:

"Listen, you boys, when you go into the world it takes something more than a mortar board cap, a varsity suit, a frat pin, a bulldog pipe and rah-rah-rah to make a successful man.

"It is like a girl, when she is about seventeen, and her mother introduces her to some young man. She says, 'Mamma, mamma, who is he?'

"When she becomes twenty-four and her mother introduces her to some young man, she says, 'Mamma, mamma, what is he?'

"But when she is thirty-five, she says: 'Mamma, mamma, for God's sake, where is he?'

"But, girls, none of you are up against the 'where is he' yet.

Listen: you know Squire Jones is Squire Jones in the little town where he lives because everybody in the town helps to make the squire Squire Jones, and magnify the Joneses.

"But take the squire to New York and let him rub elbows on Broadway, and you see what happens; Squire Jones is just an ordinary brand of Jones.

"We have the greatest nation in the universe, and the greatest opportunity to become something in all the world, and if you can't do something you are a mutt, a molly-coddle, excess baggage, and nothing but a mere cipher.

Tired of Being a Molehill.

"Now, young folks, I want to say something with the hope that I can induce you to put your life in italics. This element in us, this hope for something better, is nature clearing the ground. That is why the young man goes West; he is tired of being a molehill and wants to be a mountain.

"Branch out and make yourself larger than you now are in character. A midget in body can be turned into financial account in a dime museum. Ringling Brothers will pay well for a physical monstrosity.

"A midget in character, and a midget in morals is pitiful.

"I tell you, you can't look up and admire a runt in mind and a runt in character unless you are married to the runt, and then you do it under protest.

"The humility is no good that wants to remain little simply because it is easier than to draw your sword and pull off your coat and fight with your sword and go out into the world's strife and drive that sword to the hilt into the putrefying poison.

"Now, boys, girls—excuse me for calling you boys and girls; you are young men and women, but I tell you boys and girls—you have got to have a desire to grow and develop. You have got to feel your need to grow, just like a miser wants money, or a politician wants office, and like a hog wants slop.

"And I will tell you, it is a great deal like watering a horse. A rawnecked, pigeon-toed, red-headed, cross-eyed, freckle-faced kid, with a stone-bruise on each ear, can ride a horse to water, but a college professor with mutton-chop whiskers can't make a horse drink, if the horse don't want to.

"We can tax the people, build schools, build colleges, build universities, hire teachers; we can give you the opportunity, but we cannot inculcate in you a desire to learn.

"Building schools is one thing, education is another. One thing is up to the taxpayers, the other is up to you.

"Some fellow says he will never get married, but when he meets the right girl, he will fall so dead in love with her that his breast bone sticks out two inches—abnormally—some girl with eyes like a raven, hair like the midnight, teeth like pearls behind lips of coral.

Will Dig Through Mountains.

"And if some young fellow don't cut him out in six months, he will be looking for a flat, and in less than a year he will be tacking down carpet and hanging the pictures.

"When desire comes, he will build a tunnel through any mountain that impedes him.

"A good, manly, God-fearing, sober young man is worth more than a cursing, beer-soaked, cigarette-smoking little fiend that walks up and down our streets.

"I hold it is better to feed our boys and girls schools, colleges and churches than to feed them gambling, grog shops and the institutions that draw them under.

"Listen to me, boys, they will go up a back alley and they will pick up a dirty rag that a billy goat would pass up like a pay car does a tramp, and they will turn that dirty rag into glucose, they will turn the glucose into booze, and they will turn the booze into young men, and turn the young men into the penitentiary or the electric chair, or put his head in a noose, and send him into a premature grave, staggering, muttering, maundering and on down to perdition.

"Manhood and womanhood do not depend on muscle. Apparent size is one thing, real size is another. If you don't believe it try to stop a hornet with the end of your nose when he is going a mile a minute.

The Good in a Smile.

"You know a plant grows by taking from the air and sunshine and ground that which it needs to build itself up and grow and develop. The farmers of the country are learning that it pays to raise corn at so much a bushel, feed it to cattle and sell the beef at so much per pound. You know a good fat porker is worth more than a little weazened, slop-drinking runt.

"Another thing—look on the bright side of life. Over in Spain there is a sun dial, and it reads, 'I mark only the bright hours.' So look on the bright side.

"Every time you smile you put a crimp in the undertaker's business; keep the hearse under the shed, embalming fluid out of your body, and keep the quartette from singing 'Lead, Kindly Light.'

"Listen to me. If I could just get you to look on the bright side and smile an hour a day during the weeks these meetings last when I would get through I would hardly know you, or your parents either, like the street barker who stood on the street selling soap. He said: 'Ladies and gentlemen, give me your attention. I got the finest brand of soap to offer for your consideration that was ever manufactured. An old farmer bought a cake of it and took a bath, and his own dog bit him.'

"Just remember, boys and girls, you can't have everything."

HAD DYSPEPSIA

So Bad Could Not Take a Drink of Water Without Suffering.

Dyspepsia is one of the most difficult diseases of the stomach there is to cure. You eat too much. Drink too much. Use too much tobacco. You make the stomach work overtime. You make it perform more than it should be called on to do. The natural result is that it is going to rebel against the amount of work put on it. It is only a matter of a short time before dyspepsia follows.

That old, 40-year-old remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters, will cure the dyspepsia and will cure it to stay cured as we can prove by the thousands of testimonials we have received from time to time.

Miss Sarah McRae, Newfield, Ont., writes: "I write to say that I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters, and have found it the best remedy I have ever used for dyspepsia. Two years ago I had stomach trouble so bad that I could not even take a drink of water without suffering. I took six bottles of B.B.B. and have been entirely cured, and can now eat anything without any bad after effects.

Burdock Blood Bitters is an old and well-tried remedy, but on account of the many substitutes we would ask you to make sure that our name appears on both the label and wrapper, as this preparation is manufactured only by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PREPARED WHEN 'THE HOUR' STRIKES

With Prospect of Departure in Near Future, 18th Men On Qui Vive.

ALL ARE GOOD NATURED

Men Have Never Lost Sense of Humor — Had Hair Close Cropped—Much Jesting.

With the prospect of departure in the near future, the men of the 18th Battalion, who have endeared themselves to citizens, are busy with regimental and personal preparations. There is a mighty serious side to the bustle and stir, but the spirit above all others is that the hour has struck for duty, and all are on the qui vive.

But with all the calm seriousness, there is a feeling of good nature and a desire for innocent, boyish jest that proves the good fellowship of the unit.

Holds Sense of Humor.

D Company has never lost its sense of humor, and this was made plain at Wolseley Barracks, where the company is quartered. It was decided by a large number of the soldiers that it was absolutely necessary for every man to get his hair cut, and not with a pair of scissors, but with clippers. In due time the little machine was brought into operation, and a number of men passed through the ordeal safely but with bald heads that baffle description and bore some resemblance to the war-scarred maps of Europe, the trenches and mountain ranges and forests being represented by patches that the teeth of the relentless mower had missed. It was suggested that the collective result would have furnished an excellent picture for the movies, upon which one of the men replied that nothing could get a hold now, let alone move.

"Anything that lights now will starve to death," he said.

Declinations Caused Fun.

But some of the men declined to have their pates uncovered, and the fun commenced. The recalcitrants were taken in hand by force and were rushed to the "death trap," as they called it, where they were shorn of their much-prized locks, curly and straight. Now they belong to the bald-headed brigade.

When the heroes appeared on parade on Saturday evening, the officers, although they are strictly regimental, could not refrain from laughing.

The Advertiser's correspondent suggested that a picture be taken of the gallant bald-heads, but he was emphatically told that there was nothing doing, and he thought it dangerous to press the question, valuing, as he did, his scalp.

When some of the squad went to the moving picture shows Saturday they went to the "gods." Some of the soldiers, who will bravely face gun and bayonet, quail before the calculating female eye.

LOSES HIS COTTAGE IN NORTHERN WOODS; SEVERAL BOATS BURN

St. Thomas Barrister Gets Bad News —Dr. Ryerson Declines Call.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

ST. THOMAS, April 11.—W. K. Cameron, the well-known St. Thomas barrister, received word today that his summer home at Falding, in the Parry Sound district, has been burned with all the contents. The loss is placed at $2,500, which is covered by insurance.

Comparative Food Values

1 pound of rib roast beef [redacted]
1 pound of Grape-Nuts food [redacted]

Comparative Cost per Pound

1 pound of rib roast beef [redacted]
1 pound of Grape-Nuts food [redacted]

It would be difficult to find a food that affords the same abundance of true nourishment, at so low a cost, as does the famous wheat and malted barley food—

Grape-Nuts

At less cost, a package of Grape-Nuts supplies nearly one-third more nourishment than a pound of rib roast beef. And besides, in buying a roast you pay for about 20% refuse, and there's a shrinkage in cooking.

Grape-Nuts food comes ready cooked and every particle in the FRESH-SEALED package is good to eat. Its rich nutriment includes the 'vital salts that are necessary for brain, bone and sturdy muscle. Grape-Nuts is delicious—easily digested—economical.

Thinking people everywhere are more and more adopting Grape-Nuts—

COULD NOT GO TEN STEPS

FOR THE PAIN IN HIS KIDNEYS.

When you get a pain in the back you may rest assured that it comes from derangement of the kidneys, for were there not something wrong with the kidneys the back should be strong and well.

Doan's Kidney Pills regulate the kidneys, and there is no further excuse for any kidney trouble to exist. What more needs to be said? While Doan's Kidney Pills are not a "balm for every ill that flesh is heir to," they are a positive, never-failing remedy for every disease that has its inception in the improper action in those delicate little filters of the blood, the kidneys.

Mr. Adelard Cleroux, Eganville, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with my kidneys for four years. They were so bad at times I could not go ten steps for the pain they caused me. My doctor could not do me any good. A friend advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I bought five boxes, and now I have been cured for over three years. I will recommend them to whoever may be suffering from kidney trouble."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c per box; 4 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering direct specify "Doans."

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH RECIPE FOR CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES.

If you know someone who is troubled with head noises, or Catarrhal Deafness, cut out this formula, and hand it to them, and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. Recent experiments have proved conclusively that Catarrhal Deafness, head noises, etc., were the direct cause of constitutional disease, and that salves, sprays, inhalers, etc., merely temporize with the complaint, and seldom, if ever, effect a permanent cure. This being so, much time and money has been spent of late by a noted specialist in perfecting a pure, gentle, yet effective tonic that would quickly dispel all traces of the catarrhal poison from the system. The effective prescription which was eventually formulated, and which has aroused the belief that deafness will soon be extinct, is given below in understandable form, so that anyone can treat themselves in their own home at little expense.

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (Double Strength), about 75 cents' worth. Take this home and add to it ¼-pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar, stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

The first dose should begin to relieve the distressing head noises, headache, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., while the hearing rapidly returns as the system is invigorated by the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms that show the presence of catarrhal poison, and which are often entirely overcome by this efficacious treatment. Nearly 90 per cent of all ear troubles are directly caused by catarrh; therefore, there must be many people whose hearing can be restored by this simple home treatment.

Every person who is troubled with head noises, catarrhal deafness, or catarrh in any form, should give this prescription a trial. There is nothing better.

ENJOY LIFE! YOU NEED CASCARETS

Be happy! A 10-cent box keeps liver and bowels fine for months.

Feel bully! Don't stay bilious, sick, headachy and constipated.

It's springtime! Clean your torpid liver and sluggish bowels with good, harmless Cascarets. They don't gripe or sicken. Give your insides a good "spring cleaning" and rid yourself of headaches, bilious spells, dizziness, sallowness, bad breath, stomach, sourness, gases, etc. Cheer up! Get a 10-cent box from any drug store. Best cathartic for children.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little into your hand and rub well into the scalp with the finger-tips. By morning most, if not all, of this awful scurf will have disappeared. Two or three applications will destroy every bit of dandruff; stop scalp itching and falling hair.

FOR A BAD COUGH.

Here is a fine old-fashioned recipe for coughs, colds or catarrh trouble that is absolutely unequalled. Get from your druggist 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

No more racking your whole body with a cough. Clogged nostrils will open, air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. It is easy to prepare, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has a stubborn cough, hard cold or catarrh in any form should give this prescription a trial.

Tide of War to Turn In June Says Hilaire Belloc

Noted Expert Points Out That Key of the Problem Is the Extent of Germany's Resources.

(By Hilaire Belloc.)

[foremost Military Writer in Europe.]

There is all the difference in the world between saying that the critical moment in this war should arrive near such and such a period, and naming that period as "the end" of hostilities. There has been in every military operation in history a point, not always exactly defined, but lying within fairly narrow limits, after which the end was in sight; but how long the journey would take before that end was actually reached depends upon many factors.

All that I am trying to do in these notes is to gauge the critical moment which, if it is successfully passed, will put the end of the war in sight.

Upon the side of the Germans we have three elements to consider—always excluding the unknown chances of neutrals joining in. These three elements are what Germany has to put forward of trained and equipped men and when; what Austria-Hungary and what Turkey.

Germany, over and above the men she trained and equipped for the first efforts of the war—her regular forces—commands a maximum reserve manpower of perhaps more than three millions and certainly not less than two millions and a half.

There is only one other point upon which we must linger, namely the proportion of military efficients kept back for civilian employment. It is obvious that great masses of the necessary work, both agricultural and industrial, can be done by men who would not pass the doctor. But a very considerable amount of absolutely necessary work can only be done by men who certainly would pass the military doctor.

800,000 Every Three Months.

How many of this reserve has Germany already put into the field?

To judge that, let us note that two considerable bodies of newly-trained men, whether drafted into existing formations or forming new units, have already been noted, and their numbers are roughly estimated in the field. The first batch came in with the late autumn of last year. The last batch have begun to appear with the more recent operations of the late winter—and here let me add that I am revising and somewhat changing here upon later information earlier estimates of my own, which were based upon insufficient data.

We know, again, that the number of men Germany can train at any one time is limited to a certain maximum. Her machinery of instructions, including ground accommodation and instructors, permits her to produce, in successive relays, batches of no more than 800,000 new soldiers, say every three months.

This calculation gives us much the same critical date—the early summer—which we found in discussing the first factor. It is upon an examination of the reserve of man-power, as upon an examination of wastage, the early summer that should provide the critical moment. After that moment the man-power of the Germans cannot be increased or recouped appreciably.

For Austro-Hungary we have data far less certain. Such vague and general indices as we have got may be put very briefly thus:

As the Dual Monarchy trained and armed originally a smaller proportion of its total population, a larger margin remained theoretically available. On the other hand, the Dual Monarchy had nothing like the organization for the rapid training of large masses of men in rotation that the German Empire had, and we are putting the figures very high indeed if we allow a reserve yet to appear proportionate to the German reserve, and if we admit a further 600,000 as available for Austria-Hungary at the same date.

Of Turkey, all we can say, knowing the difficulties in equipment and the total different social conditions one has to deal with, as well as the hopeless variety in recruitment, is that this branch of the Germanic alliance will hardly put forward in the near future any considerable bodies beyond those already in the field.

We may sum up and say that the key to the understanding of all this factor is the German recruitment, that this has been studied fairly carefully, and that if a further million can be provided thence by the early summer we have in that figure the limit.

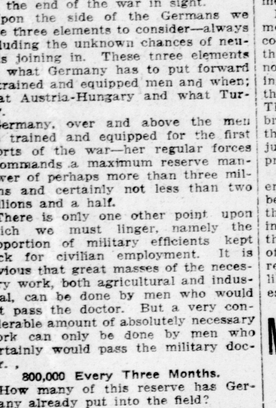

The Allied Recruitment.

Against these figures we know that the allied recruitment is of three kinds. There is the training of the French new class already completed. We have next the new British armies, and we have lastly the enormous Russian reserve of men, whose presence in the field demands one thing only—equipment.

Now the problem of Russian equipment, which we have touched upon in connection with the ice-bound ports of that power, is affected by two efforts now in progress. The first is the forcing of the openings to the Black Sea, the fortune of which is not yet decided. The second is the completion of the broad gauge line to Archangel, on which the Russian news officially passed has just informed us that it is in progress, provided with rolling stock.

To put the matter in the most general terms, it would seem that by the beginning of May, at the earliest, by the end of June, at the latest, and with increasing force in the interval between, the crisis of the war, so far as reserves of power are concerned, should be reached. In that period something like a balance in men might well be established and the tide begin to turn.

MORGAN'S DAUGHTER IN ANTI-TIPPING CRUSADE

Miss Anne Morgan

Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of the later J. P. Morgan, inherited a big slice of the Morgan millions, but even so she doesn't believe in spending her wealth in restaurant tips. So she started an anti-tipping crusade by opening a no-tip restaurant.

With the assistance of several other well known women Miss Morgan is financing a popular-priced cafe on the roof of the Strand theatre in New York. It's not a rendezvous for society, just a popular-priced, well-managed "eat shop" run like other restaurants, except that it is against the rules to tip the waiters.

MAD THROUGH PAIN, MAN ENDS HIS LIFE

Kincardine Resident Found Dead In Cistern By His Housekeeper.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

KINCARDINE, April 11.—Suffering from an intense pain that was making his life one of perpetual misery, Donald Kerr, aged 79, got out of bed at his home about midnight and drowned himself in a cistern near the house. The body was found by his housekeeper, Mrs. Gocel, and a son, John.

It was stated tonight that no inquest would be held.

The housekeeper declared that late at night she had heard Kerr moving about, and knowing that he was not well, she had gone to his room. A hasty search showed that the room and adjoining rooms were empty.

Alarmed by the man's strange disappearance, the woman roused the son, who occupied an adjoining room. Together they went through the house and then into the yard.

A glance showed that the cistern cover had been raised. The two hastened to the opening and, looking down, saw the head of the man just under the surface of the water. The body was pulled out almost instantly, but death had already resulted.

Kerr, who was a retired farmer, had been a resident of Kincardine and the surrounding district for many years. A staunch Presbyterian, he came to this country with his family from Assynt Parish, Sutherland, Scotland, and settled in Zora in Oxford County.

SAYS LOVE OF WIFE DROVE HIM INSANE

French Captain Acquitted For Shooting Wife, Who Followed Him.

PARIS, April 11. — Capt. Jean Herail, an officer in the French cavalry, was acquitted Saturday by a court-martial, which tried him for killing his wife at Compiegne last November, because she persisted in following the army in order to be near him. Previous to the shooting, orders had been issued by the military authorities prohibiting officers and soldiers from receiving their wives during the campaign. It was brought out during the trial that Capt. Herail became mentally unbalanced through worry over the possible results of his wife's refusal to obey this law, and leave him.

Seldom has a more pathetic scene been witnessed in a Paris court than that of yesterday, when Capt. Herail took the stand in his own defence. The soldier wept as he told of the great love he bore for his wife, and how, when she steadfastly refused to return home, and he believed that he would be cashiered he became "absolutely mad and was driven to the last extremity" of killing his loved one.

WANTS ELECTION ON SENATE ISSUE

Rogers Declares People Are Calling For Dissolution of House.

UPPER HOUSE IN THE WAY

Minister Angry Because He Is Losing Chances To "Put Something Over."

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, April 11.—A declaration that there shall be an election, was made to Parliament Saturday. It was made by the Hon. Robert Rogers, who is known as the "Minister of Elections." It was apparently directed at hesitating Conservatives, ministers and members who have been frightened by recent scandal revelations. Premier Borden sat smiling beside the master of the administration during his speech, and seemed to indorse the declaration.

The issue which Mr. Rogers has chosen is not boots or binoculars, but the Senate.

The speech was made on amendments by the Upper House to the Government's senate enlargement bill. This year, as last, the Senate declared that there should be simultaneous enlargement of the two Houses of Parliament. The Commons will be enlarged by the application of the redistribution bill at the next general election. Under the Senate amendment, the Upper House will be enlarged at the same time.

Rogers Is Hungry.

Last year the Government refused to accept this amendment and declared that the Senate had killed the bill. This year the Government has accepted the amendment, but Hon. Mr. Rogers, hungering for election and believing the Senate to be unpopular, made a speech.

"Wherever one goes," he declared, "the cry comes in tones louder than thunder that Parliament shall dissolve so that the people can put an end to the present condition of affairs." He proclaimed the House of Commons, representing the people, had been set at defiance by the Senate.

Why Rogers Is Angry.

That the Senate had been endowed with its authority by the fathers of confederation, was the reply made by the Hon. Frank Oliver. In this case the Senate had only amended a proposal which dealt with itself. Mr. Rogers was angry only because he found when to "put something over on the people" there was a constitutional barrier in his way.

That the Senate sought to stand in the way of all progressive legislation, was charged by Mr. R. B. Bennett.

The reply to this by Mr. E. M. MacDonald was that it was arrant nonsense to say that the Senate should have no views on a constitutional amendment affecting itself.

Issue One of Expediency.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that in this case the Senate had expressed views which differed from his own. However, the issue raised by the Minister of Public Works was one of expediency and not of principle. If there was to be a double chamber system in this country it was not to be expected that the upper chamber would be merely the recording chamber for the Commons.

Sir Robert Borden replied with some heat that it was worse if the Senate should degenerate into the recording clerk for the minority in the House of Commons.

"The Senate did not record the will of the minority in this case," replied Sir Wilfrid.

37 Cents Worth For $1.50

[Beck's Weekly.]

"Gee! this town is awful full of rubes," Kid Burns remarks in pure Cohanesque in "Forty-five Minutes From Broadway." He does not refer to Montreal, but to New Rochelle. However, Montreal could wear the shoe. We must have quite a share of rubes else some of the theatres would have been without patrons many a week in seasons past.

This reflection—it's a reflection upon the shows of past seasons, not upon the present-day offerings—is caused by the performances at the local theatres this week. Montreal theatregoers are lucky, if they only knew it. If the theatrical potentates down in New York hadn't got the idea into their heads that Montreal is a poor theatrical chance this season they would still be paying one dollar and fifty cents for about thirty-seven cents' worth of amusement—or doing without amusement altogether unless they fell back upon a menu of movies alone. As it is they are getting their money's worth and a little to boot. Yet I have seen them crowding to shows at high prices which were not a whit better than the stock productions which they are privileged to enjoy now at the commendable price scale commonly known as "popular." Yes, there must be a few rubes in Montreal.

FROST IN GROUND KEEPS BACK TILLING

[Special to The Advertiser.]

INGERSOLL, April 11.—That it will be a week at least under favorable weather conditions before much work is attempted on the land, was the opinion of farmers in town Saturday from the adjoining districts. There are isolated cases where work has been commenced, but in these instances the land is very high and dry.

Frost, however, was encountered which made plowing a slow process, and better time could be made by leaving the work for the future and going ahead with other matters on the farm which demand attention with the coming of spring. Many of the farmers who have "bushes" have been giving attention to syrup-making, as the high prices this season have made the pursuit profitable when worked extensively. The season is rapidly drawing to a close, and many of the farmers will suspend operations at once, as they have supplied their regular customers, and put into the cellars a supply sufficient for their own use.

"Increased production" will probably have much influence amongst the farmers of Oxford during the coming season. War-time prices carry their own logic, and it is believed that there will be a material increase in the acreage under cultivation.

ONE TO HANG.

TORONTO, April 11. — Thomas Cikoski, under sentence of death for the murder of Bongero Trendo, in Moore Park, a couple of months ago, will serve 20 years in the penitentiary for the crime. A telegram has been received from Ottawa commuting his sentence to imprisonment. Jan Zioiko, the other Pole concerned in the murder, will pay the death penalty, the petition of W. A. Henderson, counsel for the two Poles, being refused in his case. During the trial Zioiko admitted that Cikoski did not have as much to do with the killing of Trendo as he did. Zioiko will be hanged on Wednesday.

CONSIDER PLANS FOR FUTURE PEACE

Delegates From Many Countries Hold Conference At The Hague.

[Canadian Press.]

The Hague, April 11, via London, April 12.—For three days there has been a private discussion of peace here by a conference consisting of about thirty delegates from Holland, Sweden, Norway, Britain, Germany, United States, Belgium and Switzerland. The conference came to an end today with the drafting of a program for action in the various countries. Only a short record of the work of the conference has been issued as follows:

"The object of the meeting was not to suggest steps to bring the war to an end, but to consider by what principles the future peace of the world would best be guaranteed. After a full discussion a minimum program was unanimously adopted.

"The action to be initiated in the different countries will ultimately be supplemented by an international propaganda. A central committee for a durable peace has been created as a link between the national organizations. The committee of the Dutch anti-war council, supplemented by members from other countries, will serve as the executive."

MUST ALL LICK STAMPS TO ATONE FOR LOSSES ON BOOTS AND HORSES

Archie McCoig Has It Figured Down — Liberals of East Elgin Hear From Duncan Ross of Broken Pledges —W. G. Charlton Nominated

[Special to The Advertiser.]

AYLMER, April 11. — Despite poor weather conditions and the fact that the farmers are now getting busy on their land, there was a large attendance at the East Elgin Liberal convention in the town hall Saturday, when Rev. W. G. Charlton was again unanimously nominated as federal candidate.

Walter Lewis presided, and after the preliminaries, the 1914 officers were re-elected, namely: President, Walter Lewis; vice-president, Wilson H. Mills; secretary-treasurer, Walter Rogers; ward conveners, Blake Millar and D. McCredre; committee on resolutions, M. Gray and Mr. McCredre, of Yarmouth.

Mr. Charlton, the candidate, was prevented from being present owing to illness in his household.

Two vigorous addresses were delivered by Duncan Ross, M.P. for West Middlesex, and Archie McCoig, M.P. for Kent.

Knows Graft When He Sees It.

Mr. McCoig devoted his time to proving that the recent inquiries conducted by the public accounts committee into the expenditures for war contracts were proof positive of graft. He dealt in detail with the revelations in the army boot scandal, and the purchase of horses for military purposes. To wipe out the monetary losses to the Dominion caused by these deals, every man, woman and child in Canada would have to lick one and a fraction stamps. It would take 8,210,000 stamps to meet the losses.

He declared that the positions held by 2,000 Government officials, who had resigned or been dismissed since 1911, had been filled by 10,000 men.

A strong indictment of Hon. Martin Burrell, minister of agriculture, was made by the speaker, who declared the minister was away on a pleasure trip when the interests of the country demanded his presence in the House.

Vows That Are Broken.

Duncan Ross declared that the Conservative Government had been false to its pledges, and to every principle of purity of government.

"We admire Premier Borden, but not the coterie of men with which he has surrounded himself. He is too soft. He has not the rugged honesty of Sir James Whitney. As a leader he has failed to keep his pledges. If the claims of Sir Robert Borden are correct that the expenditure of $90,000,000 in 1911 was proof of corruption and graft, what can we say of an expenditure in 1914 of $140,000,000? It appears to be absolute proof of corruption."

Mr. Ross dealt at considerable length with the C. N. R. matter, and said that Mackenzie and Mann were two of the most persistent parasites on the Government in Canada.

The speaker attacked the chartered banks, whom, he said, were not taxed as they should be by the new budget.

In conclusion he declared it to be the duty of every Liberal to support Great Britain to the utmost in the present war.

SUGGESTS SAFEGUARD FOR SOLDIERS' VOTES

Sir Wilfrid Would Send Two Commissioners to Handle Ballots.

OTTAWA, April 11.—The Liberals want the soldiers' votes recorded, but they do not want the soldiers votes stolen by the party responsible for boots, bandages, binoculars, and bad horses. Every discussion of the "soldier vote" bill makes this clear.

Saturday the measure was under discussion. The Opposition pointed to possibilities for unfair dealing under the bill. They also suggested safeguards.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier intimated that he would have an amendment which he hoped the Government would accept. One of its provisions was to be for the appointment of two commissioners to go to the front with the approval of the war office, take the vote of the soldiers and return with the ballots. One of the commissioners would be named by the Government and the other by Opposition. The commissioners would act as a check upon each other, and an honest taking of the vote would be insured.

Hon. Judge Doherty, the minister of justice, said that the proposal was worth the consideration and would receive consideration.

DECOMPOSED BODY FLOATING NEAR CHATHAM

CHATHAM, April 11.—The body of an unknown man was found floating in the river near Bagnall's school house yesterday afternoon. The body was that of a middle-aged man and was badly decomposed.

It was brought to the city, but has not yet been identified.

It is supposed to be the body of a farm laborer who had been working for James Fleming, down the river, in Dover Township.

The Torpedo---A Miniature Submarine Carrying Death and Destruction

Advertiser Illustrations

The torpedo, which brings death and destruction to almost everything it hits, as has been proven in this war, is nothing more than a miniature submarine in itself. A torpedo has its own power plant, its own rudders and propellers, and costs between $2,500 and $4,000. Its delicate engines, which are operated by the compressed air tanks amidships, are sufficiently powerful to propel the torpedo accurately up to a distance of 2,500 yards. The gyroscope insures the machine keeping its course, regardless of the condition of the water through which it travels. Forward is the charge of high explosive, capped by a long, spike-shaped striker. When the torpedo hits the side of a ship, the impact drives back the striker with force enough to explode the charge and blast a hole through the armor plate. The whole machine, which is launched through a tube, weighs close to 1,000 pounds.

JAMES MURRAY IS LIBERAL CHOICE IN EAST MIDDLESEX

Selected As Standard-Bearer In Federal Election—Big Meeting On Saturday.

LONG IN PUBLIC LIFE

Former Warden and Ex-Reeve Who "Believes in Doing What Is Right."

East Middlesex Liberals have a new standard-bearer in the field to contest the next federal election for the riding, and East Middlesex Liberals have unbounded faith and confidence in their ability to get behind their man and elect him as the next M. P. for the constituency.

At a nomination convention, held in Hyman Hall on Saturday afternoon, James Murray, Westminster Township, ex-warden of the county of Middlesex, ex-reeve of Westminster, and for more than a score of years a township councillor, was unanimously chosen and named by the 300 and more delegates present. His was the only name that even went to the convention, every one of the other dozen nominees withdrawing from the contest without a vote.

The new candidate's popularity throughout the riding is no uncertain quantity. He is one of the best known and best liked farmers of the district, but it was only with the greatest difficulty that he was persuaded to allow his name to stand. Time and time again, in the past, the candidacy has been offered him, but he has always declined. Saturday, he was prevailed upon to run and he accepted.

Candidate Deeply Affected.

When he was selected as the unanimous choice of the meeting, Candidate Murray was deeply and visibly affected by the honor. He was overcome and could only thank the delegates in a few brief words.

"I can hardly collect words to express my thanks to you gentlemen for the honor you have done me," said Mr. Murray, as he came slowly to the platform. "I am no speaker, you know that, but I want you to jump right in and do what you can. I promise you that I will work hard and I know that you will do the same. However, before I consent, I want you to know that I will reserve certain rights. I reserve the right to vote for a good cause, no matter who brings it in, either Grit or Tory, and to work for anything that I consider is right, irrespective of politics."

"That's right," heartily echoed Thomas Ramsay, of Hyde Park, president of the East Middlesex Liberal Association and chairman of the meeting.

Not a Narrow Politician.

"I am not a narrow or a bigoted politician," continued Mr. Murray. "I believe in doing what is right in all cases. I have always done it, and I will always continue to do it."

Cheers greeted this speech of their candidate, and when, on motion of Mr. Ramsay, seconded by Dr. G. A. Routledge, of Lambeth, the nomination was made unanimous and carried by a standing vote, enthusiasm and cheering were unbounded.

Optimism Unbounded.

For optimism and enthusiasm the convention has seldom, if ever, had an equal in the history of the East Middlesex Reform Association. Though the time of calling the meeting was short, Hyman Hall was well filled. Farmers predominated in the delegates and every one of them is ready to get behind their farmer candidate for a farming community.

Delegates from Biddulph and Lucan, added to East Middlesex by the last gerrymander, were present for the first time and were officially welcomed by President Ramsay.

Aside from the selection of the candidate, the feature of the meeting was the address by F. F. Pardee, M. P., chief whip of the Liberal party in the Federal House.

Makes Great Impression.

Mr. Pardee made a wonderful impression on his hearers. There was no attempt at rhetoric in his hammer and tongs fighting speech, but his forceful arguments went home with a punch. While deploring the necessity for politics at the present time, a necessity forced on the country by reason of the Conservatives' determination to have a general election, Mr. Pardee flayed the extravagance of the Conservative administration, its debauchery of public office; held up to ridicule the Tory plea of "loyalty," showing its incongruity with facts and its distance from the truth; branded the libels against Sir Wilfrid Laurier as damnable, and gave a resume of the broken promises, the shortcomings and the scandals of the Borden Government during its three short years of power.

The address was received with rapt attention that would have been flattering to any speaker and an attention that showed more clearly than words the interest Reformers of East Middlesex are taking in the present political situation.

In all, the names of a dozen were placed in nomination. In order, the nominations were:

James Murray, Westminster.
R. G. Fisher, London.
Alf. Bailey, West Nissouri.
Dr. G. A. Routledge, Lambeth.
Police Magistrate S. H. Chown, Lucan.
Dan McKenzie, ex-M. P., Hyde Park.
Thomas Ramsay, Hyde Park.
J. H. Elliott, Westminster.
Lieut.-Col. Bart Robson, London Township.
J. W. Laidlaw, Westminster.
Dr. Percy Banghart, Dorchester.
Dr. Banting, Lucan.

As is customary, the nominees were take in reverse order. One by one they declined until Mr. Murray's name was reached.

Dr. Banting, in declining, declared that East Middlesex was the worst gerrymandered riding in the Dominion. He paid the Government some compliments anent its horse purchases in Nova Scotia, where horses were bought, for war purposes, that had been traded for two ducks and a drake.

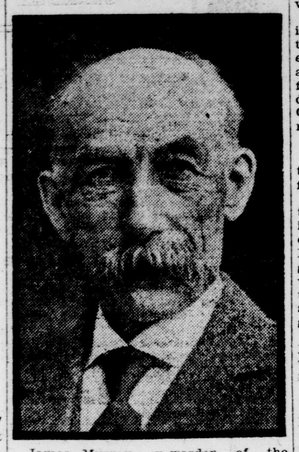

J. H. Elliott scored the "patriotism and production" cry of the Government.

"They are appealing to us farmers to be patriotic and produce more so they can have a little more money from the export of our grain," said Mr. Elliott. "Then there is this 'Made in Canada.' Well, let the manufacturers put up the articles and we will see that they are sold, all right." (Applause.)

Tories' Direct Taxation.

A warning against the flag-waving tactics that will be pursued by the Tories was uttered by Thomas Ramsay.

NOMINEE OF LIBERALS FOR EAST MIDDLESEX

James Murray, ex-warden of the county, ex-reeve of Westminster Township, and for 22 years a councillor of the latter municipality, who was on Saturday the unanimous selection of the East Middlesex Liberal convention as its next Federal House candidate. Ex-Warden Murray is a resident of the third concession of Westminster, and is not only one of the best-liked and best-known farmers of the district, but is purely a "home product."

He is the son of Andrew Murray, who in 1831 left Aberdeen, Scotland, for a new home in the west, and who settled on the second concession of Westminster, where the present candidate was born. His Scotch-Presbyterian ancestry is something of which the candidate-elect is proud, and is a record of pioneer days that has few equals in the riding.

In 1890 Mr. Murray commenced his public career, being elected then to the township council of Westminster. For 22 years he has served in that capacity and in 1900 was elected warden of the county of Middlesex. His long municipal career both on township and county councils makes him an ideal candidate, for it has been an apprenticeship that has familiarized him with every requirement of the district he will represent in the House of Commons, if elected.

Dr. Routledge declared that there never had been a change in the principles of Liberalism. There should be a change in the Government, however, and the Liberals should be returned to power. They had always endeavored to keep as far away as possible from direct taxation, but to this the Conservatives were returning, at present, to the detriment of the country.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier will be the next prime minister of Canada," declared the doctor.

"Sure he will," cried a voice from the crowd.

In declining the nomination, R. G. Fisher, who at the last by-election carried the Liberal standard, declared that it was the apathy of the Liberals as well as the debauchery of the riding by the Conservative money bag that had caused his defeat. He referred to the fact that cabinet ministers, members by the dozen and others had been brought into the riding to fight for Glass.

Liberals to Blame.

"Notwithstanding all this and the fact that on the Saturday before the election even the Conservative leaders did not concde the election of Glass, the money bag went out. But this was not the only thing that counted in my defeat," declared the speaker. "It was the apathy of our friends who did not cast their vote. If 90 per cent of the Liberals had gone to the polls, as they should have, I would be your present member."

Mr. Fisher bespoke the heartiest support for Mr. Murray and urged that every man go to the polls and record his ballot. It was not a helpless fight, he said, and it was up to true Liberals to go out and vote, not simply sit at home and neglect their franchise because they thought there was no chance.

Mr. Murray was the next to speak. After he had been unanimously selected by the standing vote, Mr. Pardee was called on. The latter's name was greeted with cheers as President Ramsay invited him to the platform.

E. Middlesex's Handicap.

At the outset of his remarks Mr. Pardee referred to the redistribution handicap that is staring East Middlesex in the face.

"I was a member of the redistribution committee and I know that when the Conservatives succeeded in gerrymandering this riding it looked like almost a hopeless case and that East Middlesex was dead to Liberalism as a result, but I want to tell you that I never saw a 'dead' riding so much alive as this one and never a candidate that received better support than Mr. Murray," said Mr. Pardee.

"James Murray is the kind of hard-headed man that is wanted in the House of Commons today. We don't want talkers. We want businessmen, businessmen like Mr. Murray, who knows from the bottom up the needs of the great producing community—the farmers. (Cheers and applause.)

Real Test of Liberalism.

"The real testing time of Liberalism is here, gentlemen. Not since 1896 has there been such a crisis. It's up to every Liberal, every Liberal who is a man and who is not a Liberal in name only, to refuse to back up in the harness, but to go up into the collar and work. There never was a time in the history of Canada when good men and true were needed to carry on the work as they are needed now.

"You men are not here to cheer rounded sentences and candidates. When you go home don't merely say that you have been to a convention. It is your bounden duty as Liberals to get out and work, not merely to talk, but to get behind your candidates and see East Middlesex once more back in its proper column, behind Sir Wilfrid Laurier. (Cheers).

Deplores Election Now.

"It is rather incongruous, I think, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, that I should be here talking politics at such a time as this when the Empire and Canada are at war. So far as my views go, it does not fit in. (Applause).

"This is an Empire crisis, and the political parties and above all others the Government should have said: 'We stand here for the administration of affairs for the best interests of the country.' There should have been no party lines. Politics should have been placed to one side and there should be no election. (Cheers).

"That, gentlemen, was the stand and view of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. (Applause).

"He had arranged a political tour, a tour of politics of necessity, but when war was declared he cancelled that tour in order that he might devote his energies to the solution of the problems of the Empire. He put politics on one side. (Applause).

"I ask you did the Conservative party do the same thing?

Tories Appeal Refused.

"War was declared on August 4, 1914, but at the beginning of November did the Conservative party take the same view? No. Not to the least extent. They said: 'Here is a chance for a khaki election and they asked the Governor-General for a dissolution, a dissolution that the Governer-General very properly refused. (Cheers).

"Though we are opposed to it, there is to be an election, and what are we to do? I do not believe in letting the enemy keep their powder dry while we are not prepared for a fight and therefore the Liberal party will have a candidate in the field in every riding of Ontario and in every riding in the Dominion.

Will Fight For Rights.

"An election is coming. It has got to come and it will. We will fight for our rights as we always have done.

"Has the Conservative party been true to its trust? Has it been true to its promises of 1911? With a flourish of trumpets the Halifax platform of R. L. Borden was announced. Extravagance was rampant and everything wrong in the decalogue was attributed to the Liberal party. Once let the Conservatives be elected and Canada would go on its way rejoicing.

"Canada has gone on its way, but I ask anyone, Grit or Tory, if that way has been smooth since 1911 as it was prior to that time.

Borden's Great Fear.

"Let us look to extravagance. R. L. Borden said that the extravagance of the Liberal party was appalling. 'Let the Liberal party continue to expend the same amount that it is spending now and it will drag Canada down to the depths of despair; depths from which she will never recover', said Mr. Borden, and everyone trembled. The oracle spoke. And what happened? In September, 1911, we were defeated and R. L. Borden went in.

"In the last year of the Liberal administration the expenditure of the Dominion amounted to $89,000,000. That is the amount that Borden denounced as profligate, an amount that he declared would plunge us all into debt. What do we find today? In the returns and estimates that were brought down last week do we find that expenses have been curtailed? Has the Government lived up to Borden's professed fear and cut off the expenses?

Essence of Extravagance.

"The Minister of Finance brought in a budget of $140,000,000 for 1914-1915. Is that what you call the carrying out of promises? It is the essence of extravagance.

"It is the old, old story of Conservatives coming and telling you something in order that they might mount to power. It is their old tactics of hoodwinking the public. Can anyone show me any great work or great policy brought down that would justify such an expenditure? What do we find? We find that extravagance is mounting up. We find appointments to political office that stagger even the Government itself.

Liberal Party's Aims.

"From time to time the Liberal party, while in power, has had as its aim, and I must say that it has not accomplished as much as it would like to, a desire to lower taxation and reduce the burdens of the people. It introduced the British preference first and a lower tariff all around generally after. This latter was carried out to such an extent that many articles were on the free list in 1911, the citizen of Canada was paying less taxes than ever, and we were keeping up with the ordinary expenditure. (Applause).

"From this where do we find ourselves? By reason of its enormous extravagance the Borden Government has found it necessary to put on a horizontal tariff of 7½ per cent all down the line and has taken 5 per cent from the British preference. The Government has said that this has got to be done because the expenses of the administration have been so much augmented by the war.

"THERE NEVER WAS, NEVER WILL BE A LAMER EXCUSE THAN THIS THAT THE WAR IS THE PRIME NECESSITY FOR THAT 7 1-2 PER CENT INCREASE AND THAT 5 PER CENT REDUCTION.

"At the beginning of the war the Government was voted and borrowed $50,000,000. This was done in ten minutes in August and at the session just closed another $100,000,000 was borrowed from the motherland for paying the war expenses of Canada. It didn't come out of your pockets, yet the Government is levying that 7 1-2 and that 5 per cent for which there is as much need for war purposes as two tails would be to a cow. (Applause).

Where Money Goes.

"Since it has been in power this Government has dismissed some 8,000 employees and has added some 20,000. When you come to consider you will find that every department has been increased since 1911. In the postoffice, the public works, the department of justice, the custom and so on, the mere routine expenditure has been increased by millions so you know what this 7 1-2 per cent and this 5 per cent mean.

"The Government has been providing offices for every one of its heelers, who are today a burden on the citizens. Public works have been built in Tory constituences only as a bribe. They are not needed but they are a bribe to the constituents as are these extra offices. This increased tariff of 7 1-2 per cent means that every one of you farmers who invests in the ordinary stock of implements worth $2,000 will pay $153 extra duty. Is that what the farmer wants or is the Government making things easier for him?

Appeal for Blood Suckers.

"Then along comes the finance minister, White, a very practical farmer is Mr. White, having come direct from an office in Toronto, and he says to you farmers: 'Pay a little more, have a little more patriotism and a little more production and pay more blood money in order that the suckers may be kept going.'

"Then of this 5 per cent. The Tories have been shouting 'Loyalty.' They always have. They have the only simon pure brand of loyalty concealed about them. The Grits are disloyal. They want annexation. They are not British subjects.

"The Tories did not oppose reciprocity on economic grounds—they couldn't, —so they came to you farmers and said that while reciprocity would give you bigger markets and betters prices you should not vote for it because if it carried it would weaken the bonds of the empire and Canada would become annexed to the United States.

"They waved the flag. They called themselves the paragon of loyalty and called on Ontario to look at them. Ontario did look and it must have been through a magnifying glass for we were left with a shattered 13. However, I have no fault to find. It was foolish but every man's destiny is his own. Ontario was afraid of the bugbear of loyalty.

"How loyal are the Tories of today?

Slap Britain in Face.

"The very minute they get into a bad corner, through their extravagance over-reaching their revenue they slap Britain in the face insofar as her trade goes.

"Britain is at war and what is her greatest asset? It is her trade. She is carrying on her war herself, is lending money to Canada, is lending the Allies. Where does this money come from? It is from her enormous trade, that is where it comes from.

"AND THE TORIES OF CANADA SAY TO THE MANUFACTURER AND THE PRODUCER IN ENGLAND: 'IT IS TRUE THAT YOU ARE KEEPING THE EMPIRE IN A POSITION TO LICK THE GERMANS BUT WE WILL TAX YOUR GOODS 5 PER CENT AND YOU SHALL PAY IT.'

"IS THAT GOOD LOYALTY?" (Applause).

"Now, I want to say a word to the British-born. During the last election Arthur Hawkes, whom I might call the leader of the British-born in Canada, stumped the country, against reciprocity, declaring it to be disloyal. How do the British-born like the Conservative party, that they voted for, coming in and weakening Britain? I would like to ask them if their loyalty will stand the test? If they voted against us because they said we were disloyal will they vote against the Conservatives for the same reason? What have they to say?

Loyalty Arguments Don't Go.

"What do the Conservatives say? Do they show consistency? Their arguments of loyalty don't go. Their arguments that they are Tories from the ground up are accepted. They called on the British-born not to support the Liberal party because it was disloyal and would not support the British Empire. What will the British-born do now?

Glass' Lame Excuse.

"Last week I heard your present representative, S. F. Glass, endeavoring to justify the seven and a half per cent increase. He said: 'If it wasn't for this how would we satisfy the manufacturers?' (Laughter.) In that one short sentence the whole trend of the policy of the Tories is shown. It is 'fatten up the manufacturer and don't worry about the farmer. He will come.'

"Do the people of Ontario want such a policy as that? Do the mechanics, the laboring men, the farmers, the producers want it? If they do all well and good. There will be no one to blame but themselves, but I want to say that if they want to stand for the party that simply goes in to administer for all parties alike then the Liberal is that party. (Cheers.)

"Every act of that party proves this assertion to the hilt.

Back to Falsehoods.

"The Tory party is satisfied insofar as the tariff, its administration generally, and the scandals under Sam Hughes, so that the country is sick of it, and it is right. Knowing this, the party is going to Ontario with its old appeal. It is calling on the Orangemen to rally to its support and to stand up and denounce Sir Wilfrid Laurier because he is French, because he comes from Quebec, and is therefore disloyal, and they are prepared to back this assertion with the usual miserable falsehoods and misrepresentations that have done such good services for it in the past."

Mr. Pardee produced a copy of the now famous poster that was run off in the Federal Printing Bureau at Ottawa, in which the assertion was made that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had declined to aid in recruiting in his native province of Quebec, and which ends with the catch slogan "Borden Backs Britain."

Borden Backs Britain?

"Yes, 'Borden Backs Britain' all right," said the speaker. "He backs it by taking a slap at British trade. Not a single cabinet minister went to Quebec to stimulate recruiting among the French Canadians. There was only one man who went there, one man who addressed two enormous meetings in Montreal and who gave life and vigor to recruiting, in Quebec, and that man was Sir Wilfrid Laurier. (Cheers.)

"Any party so fallen by the wayside, so decrepit, with so little faith in itself that it would resort to lies so damnable on the face of them, should have the fate it deserves. The Tory bosses are helpless to supply legitimate discussion, so they are endeavoring to force on Ontario this miserable stuff.

Denial Precedes Lie.

"As to that lie contained in the poster, the denial travelled ahead of it. It can't do its duty. I call on you men, not as Liberals or as Conservatives, but as good, decent citizens, what do you think of a party that would stoop to traduce a man of whom even the Conservatives, when an election was not in sight, have said was the best man Canada ever produced? (Applause.)

"The whole thing betokens the helpless attitude of the Borden Government, an attitude that is one the people of Canada will not stand.

Unexcelled Examples of Graft.

"In the public accounts committee these past few weeks we have been hearing of samples, that have never been excelled, of graft and debauchery. We have had examples of men high up in the Conservative party accepting graft for the production of shoes for the soldiers in the trenches, shoes the soles of which wore off after two or three days, and compelled the soldiers to bind their feet in rags and shingles. Such an example of miserable, petty graft has never been equalled.

"You have heard of Slater, this man who received a rakeoff of 50 cents per pair on thousands of pairs of boots supplied the Government; the man who was put on the patronage list by no less a person than Sam Hughes himself.

That Drug Episode.

"You have heard of the Conservative member from Carleton, who introduced one Walters, a clerk in his drug store, to the representatives of an American drug firm, who got him appointed its agent in order that he could sell drugs and bandages for the wounded soldiers at an advance of 40 per cent, and who made $9,500 out of the Government graft. The revelations made the member from Carleton so ashamed of himself that the other day he walked into the committee and returned $6,500 of this money."

Another Judas.

"Another Judas!" cried a voice from the audience.

"Yes, another Judas," echoed Mr. Pardee, who paid his respects to Foster, the member from Kings, Nova Scotia, the man whose horse-buying exploits have become history. He reviewed the instances of the purchase of horses too old for the South African war, animals that were traded for two ducks and a drake, and so on. He also touched on the McQuarry case.

"Every single thing that has been touched has been so utterly bad, so much to the detriment of the country, that the Government must and shall be held responsible. (Cries of "Hear, hear.")

"Last week in Toronto George E. Foster endeavored to shift responsibility. He said to the people there, 'I know that there has been a little grafting, but is the Government responsible for that? Can we help a few grafters creeping in?'

Government's Responsibility.

"I tell you that the Government is responsible. It is the essence of responsibility. If a government goes in and its agents take contracts and money is squandered, as it has been by the present one, then that government must stand up and take the results. If it can't run the business affairs of the country, then let it step out and let someone else in, who can do it. (Cheers.)

"Now, just a word before I close, on the Canadian Northern. In the first session of 1911 a proposition was brought in for the Government to give $15,000,000 to the C. N. R. We fought it, but it went through. We had the assurance, from no less a person than the Minister of Railways himself, that the $15,000,000 was to complete the system. In the last session of the House, not the short one in August, but the one before that, we saw Sir William Mackenzie haunting the corridors of the House, and we knew what something was up. It was. There was a request for the Government of Canada to guarantee $45,000,000 of the bonds of the C. N. R. Again we fought it, but again we were defeated.

Will Have to Pay.

"That makes a gift of $60,000,000 to the C. N. R. You may say that the last $45,000,000 was merely a guarantee of its bonds, but I tell you that as sure as there is a sun in heaven, Canada will have to pay.

"When the people of this country have paid in their $60,000,000 they will have to take over the road. The line is not completed. It will take millions upon millions to finish, and I am absolutely opposed to the Government ownership of any such system as the Canadian Northern. It is not a good thing to have it. However, it will mean that when that much has been put in there will be more to go, and finally it will be up to the Government to take it over, and a worse burden than ever will be imposed on the people of Canada.

All for Political Influence.

"And, why, may I ask, was this $60,000,000 given to the C. N. R.? Simply because the Government desired to secure the Mackenzie political influence throughout the west. Is a government that would do that fit to be trusted?

"In the three short years that it has been in power it has done things, the tale of which would take me hours to tell. Its record shows that the people are not in accord with its policies, its squandered moneys, its scandals, and its shortcomings. Therefore it is up to you to show your displeasure, for unless you do, the same kind of thing will go on, but it is up to you men to do your duty and to again place Sir Wilfrid Laurier back in power." (Cheers.)

Confidence in Laurier.

As soon as Mr. Pardee's address was completed, J. H. Elliott, of Westminster, introduced a resolution expressing the confidence of the East Middlesex Liberal Association in the policies, aims and acts of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The resolution was carried by a standing vote, and with three cheers for the great Liberal leader.

Immediately after a vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Pardee, and the meeting broke up with cheers for the candidate and King.

Claude Sanagan, newly-elected secretary of the association, read the minutes of the annual meeting, and made a brief address.

STRIKERS KILLED; OTHERS WOUNDED

Result of Street Fight in Newark, N. J., on Sunday.

[Canadian Press.]

Newark, N. J., April 12.—Two strikers were shot to death and three other men, two believed to be strikebreakers, and the other a bystander, were dangerously wounded yesterday in a street fight in the densely-populated foreign section of the city. The shooting, according to the police, followed an attempt by strikers to intercept a party of alleged strikebreakers, who were on their way to the fur dying works of A. Holmander & Sons, where a strike is in progress.

The dead are Morris Rubins and Abram Novak. The wounded were shot in the head.

POPE'S BROTHER DEAD

[Canadian Press.]

London, April 12.—The Marquis Jules Della Chiesa, a brother of Pope Benedict, is dead, according to Reuter's Genoa correspondent.

ESSEX BUGLER BOY UNDER GERMANS' FIRE

ESSEX, April 11.—Bugler William Souray, who is seated at the left in the accompanying illustration, writes an interesting letter home. It is dated from France, March 14. He says: "I received your letter the other day, but had to wait till I got out of the trenches to answer. You must not grow impatient for an answer from me. It takes a long time to get from one end to the other. Your letter was mailed February 15. I got it March 10.

"Well, we have had it a little excitable, but our casualties were few. I cannot expose too much news, but I was just off sentry duty in the trenches and lying down in a dugout when a shell burst on the parapet and blew the top off. But I was not hurt. I don't recollect much, but some of the boys started to swear. I expect we will get something good and lively in a day or two. I would like to send you a picture of myself after a spell in the trenches. If I come through I will tell you all about it. I do not know when the war will be over, but I am beginning to long for Canada again. It is beginning to get a little warmer and look like spring, and I suppose you see we are making fine progress along the line.

"If I come through I will try and fetch a few souvenirs back."

HEARS RUSSIA IS AFTER HOLY LAND

The Vatican, Disturbed By Rumors, Consulting With Prominent Frenchmen.

[Canadian Press.]

Rome, April 11, via Paris, April 12.—The presence in Rome of Gabriel Hanotaux, ex-minister of foreign affairs of France, and a member of the French Academy, is causing much comment here. He has had audiences with Pope Benedict and Papal Secretary of State Gasparri, and subsequently M. Hanotaux was visited by a prominent prelate of the papal secretarpship of state. A feeling exists in Rome that negotiations, perhaps totally unofficial, are proceeding with the object of bringing about an understanding between France and the Holy See, which is considered more than necessary as Russia's successes increase.

Trough France, the Vatican, it is understood, hopes to bring influence to bear on Russia in connection with her treatment of Polish Catholics. Another question which has attracted the attention of the Holy See authorities is contained in a report published in Rome to the effect that Russia in the event of victory "would not be satisfied with Constantinople, but would claim possession of the Holy Land, because it is visited by 50,000 Russians yearly."

CHARING CROSS PASTOR ACCEPTS HENSALL CALL

Hensall, April 12.—Rev. J. Knight, B. A., B. D., of Charing Cross, has accepted the invitation of the Methodist board to become pastor for the next three years.

Whilst many have purchased lots and contemplate building some will not go on with the work till next year, when it is thought prices for labor and material will take a drop.

The area of onion land will be larger than ever this season. A good onion yield means much to the people and merchants of Hensal.

E. S. Hardy, dentist, Guelph, who has been practicing here and at Zurich a portion of each week, proposes to move here with his family, and intends renting or purchasing a residence.

The cellar is being dug and preparations made for the erection of Mr. Drydale's new bungalow.

A. McPherson is still very ill, but is showing satisfactory signs of recovery.

About 350 tons of onion sets have been shipped from here this season.

PROMINENT PASTOR OF R. C. CHURCH DEAD

[Canadian Press.]

New York, April 12.—Right Rev. Monsigneur Des J. McMahon, pastor of the Roman Catholic Church of the Epiphany, and general supervisor of Roman Catholic charities for the Diocese of New York, died at a local hospital yesterday from hemorrhage of the brain. Monsignor McMahon was stricken Friday. He was 59 years of age, and was a prominent figure in affairs of the church in this diocese.

KITCHENER CALLS FOR CANADIANS

Second Contingent Wanted, and Will Soon be On Its Way.

BORDEN'S ANNOUNCEMENT

Cheers Great News Given To House of Commons By Premier.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, April 11.—Kitchener has called on Canada for a second expeditionary force. The news was given Parliament Saturday night by Premier Robt. Borden. He said that the call had been expected for some time.

Three months ago Kitchener was informed that the force was ready in Canada to board troopships and sail for Europe. Premier Borden said that since that time the war office had been kept fully informed on its training and has from time to time made suggestions which had been followed with absolute precision by the Canadian authorities. Now that the summons had come the second expeditionary force would go forward at an unrevealed date in the near future to join the first expeditionary Canadian force now at the front. The Canadian second expeditionary force had not been summoned sooner "for reasons which commend themselves to the head of the war office and reasons which are generally recognized." He noted the fact that with an enormous number of men under training in Britain it was not an easy task to provide accommodation and training for the various contingents from the overseas dominions.

The announcement of Kitchener's call was received with cheers by both parties in the House of Commons.

Progress of Enlistment.

Premier Borden followed with a statement of the progress Canadian authorities have made in raising, arming, training and dispatching troops since the opening of the war.

It showed that in the Dominion and abroad 101,560 men are on the payroll of Canada bearing arms or performing military service. Officers and men numbering 35,420 have been dispatched as the first Canadian expeditionary force and as reinforcements for it. The Royal Canadian Regiment, 982 officers and men, were sent to garrison Bermuda. A detachment of 100 officers and men was sent to garrison St. Lucia. In Canada the second expeditionary force numbered 22,272 officers and men. Reserve infantry battalions and the Canadian Mounted Rifles numbered 27,079. There are recruited and organized for overseas service but not mobilized, 3,600. Thus the number so far enlisted for overseas service totalled 89,353. In addition there were in Canada units of active militia on garrison and outpost duty numbering 9,777 and a permanent training force of 2,430.

There have been established in Britain training depots for each arm of the Canadian service.

Will Require 150,000 Men.

"So far as at present can be forseen," said the Premier, "a total number of about 150,000 men will be required should the war last another year. That is to say an original force of 50,000, plus 50,000 sent overseas for reinforcements, plus 50,000 in Canada, under training.

Two armored machine gun units are being mobilized, one at Toronto and one at Montreal. It has not been decided if they will accompany the second division abroad.

The Mounted Rifles are being mobilized in thirteen regiments for service in Egypt.

Compared With Waterloo.

"In order," proceeded the Premier, "to enable the House to estimate the numerical strength of that force I may point out that numerically it constitutes four times as many men as were under Wellington at Waterloo, and it is nearly double the total force of either Wellington or Napoleon at Waterloo. I think that the House and the country may congratulate themselves that in a period of not more than eight months so great a force as this has been organized, to a very considerable extent armed and equipped, and to know also that the number of guns which went abroad with the first Canadian contingent considerably exceeds the total number of guns that Wellington had at his disposal at the battle of Waterloo. Of course this is not a great army compared with the enormous armies that have been marshalled to the plains of Europe, but, considering the fact that this country has never intended nor desired to possess a great military organization, I venture to say that the results which have been achieved during that comparatively short time are such as may be regarded as thoroughly satisfactory, in view of the conditions under which the undertaking was carried on.

"To summarize, there have been sent abroad 36,000 odd men and in fulfillment of the program laid down last autumn there are in training in Canada for the expeditionary forces, about 52,000 men, or if account is taken of the units of the active militia on active service and of the permanent force, there are in Canada now in training under arms over 65,000 men."

The Premier paid high tribute to the character and quality of these men.

Location of Troops.

Premier Borden gave a statement of the location of corps as follows: The Princess Patricias Canadian Light Infantry and the first division under Gen. Alderson and a number of administrative units are in France at the front. The Royal Canadian Regiment is in Bermuda and a detachment of Canadian artillery are in the West Indies. The Royal Canadian Dragoons, Lord Strathcona Horse and the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery have been included in the mounted brigade which, under the command of Gen. the Rt. Hon. J. E. B. Seely, remains in England. The second Canadian contingent with certain units required for administrative purposes, is still in Canada, but as soon as it can suitably be accommodated in England, it's embarkation will proceed.

Backed by Liberals.

Premier Borden's announcement was frequently interrupted by applause from both sides of the House. When the statement had been completed, Hon. Frank Oliver, who was leading the Opposition for the moment, gave expression to the Liberal feeling.

"We Canadians are not outsiders in this fight," he said. "It is our fight, too. It is not only a fight to preserve the neutrality of Belgium, but to preserve the British Empire and all it stands for. Only in the months to come will we be able to realize the sacrifices it will be necessary for us to make. But we will stand earnestly prepared to face whatever may come with a courage and devotion that will ultimately bring victory."

NURSE OF STRATFORD IS CALLED TO COLORS TO ATTEND SOLDIERS

Miss Helena Read To Report on Wednesday.

PTE. J. REGAN IS HOME

Back From Salisbury With Injured Knee—Britain Not Excited.

STRATFORD, April 11.—Miss Helena Read, professional nurse of this city, has been accepted as a nurse with the Army Medical Corps, and has received orders to report at Ottawa on Wednesday.

Miss Read is a native of Stratford, being the daughter of Mrs. John Read. She is a graduate of Berlin and Waterloo Hospital, and a post-graduate of the New York Polyclinic.

With a badly crippled knee, Pte. Regan has arrived home from Salisbury. He enlisted with the first Canadian contingent, but an accident while on guard duty in England prevented his going to the front.

"Business is extra good in England, not only with the concerns dealing in war munitions, but in every line. There is a scarcity of labor and necessarily that effects the manufacturer to some extent, but as far as I could see, trade was just as good as in former years. If it were not for the fact that there are so many soldiers about, one would not realize that England was at war at all."

"So spoke J. L. Bradshaw, of this city, on his return from his forty-third crossing of the Atlantic. The passage, Mr. Bradshaw states, was free from excitement. "The voyage to and from England was the most peaceful I have ever made," he said.

APPALLING RAVAGES OF TYPHUS IN SERVIA

Active Army Suffers Little, Disease Being In Cities.

[Canadian Press.]

London, April 12.—The Daily Telegraph's Athens' correspondent gives some details of the appalling ravages of the typhus fever in Servia, but declares that the active Servian army has suffered little as the disease is largely confined to overcrowded towns and is seldom serious in the country districts. On 12,000 cases of the fever have occurred among the 400,000 troops.

Quebec, April 12.—Five months after he left home on a business trip, J. A. Gingras, of Desfosses street, Quebec City, was found yesterday afternoon, frozen stiff in a huge cake of ice, on the bank of the St. Charles River, by firemen who were on their way to their tugs.

SCARE OF SMALLPOX CLOSES AYLMER SCHOOL

Difference of Opinion Among Medical Men, But No Chances Taken.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

AYLMER, April 11.—Owing to a scare of smallpox, the public school and public library will be closed next week. There are several cases of illness which have been pronounced by Dr. McKillop, of St. Thomas, as smallpox, though the local physicians are not inclined to the same opinion.

However, as a precautionary measure, the authorities have decided to close the above public institutions

WELL-KNOWN EDITOR DEAD.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, April 12.—News was received here last night of the death in Pleasant Valley, N. Y., of Donald Michaelson, former managing editor of the New York Tribune. Mr. Michaelson was born near Heylake, Eng., 1834, the son of a Scotch sailing captain. He was a graduate of Christ College, Cambridge University. After a period of teaching in English schools, he came to this country, and became secretary to the late Whitelaw Reid. Afterwards he was made managing editor of the Tribune, from which position he retired in 1905.

WANT GERMAN ARMY TO RUSH ACROSS THE DANUBE

Young Turks Made Demand On Berlin To Intimidate Bulgaria.

[Canadian Press.]

London, April 12.—The mission of the German Field Marshal Von Der Goltz and Hatil Bey, president of the Turkish Chamber of Deputies, to Berlin, says the Times' Sofia correspondent, was to urgently demand on behalf of the Young Turks the dispatch of a German army of 300,000 men across the Danube for the purpose of rushing Servia and intimidating Bulgaria, in order to open the road for the dispatch of munitions of war to Constantinople. In case of the refusal of Germany to comply with the demand, according to the correspondent, the Young Turks have threatened to negotiate a separate peace with the entente powers.

BRITAIN BUILDING HUGE BATTLESHIP

New York Hears of One Which Will Revolutionize Naval Construction.

SPEED OF FORTY KNOTS

In Length She Will Exceed the Queen Elizabeth By 150 Feet.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, April 12.—According to a report from London received by the Tribune, Britain has laid down a new battleship of amazing proportions, which will be by far the most powerful craft afloat. It will mark a change in battleship construction, exceeding that which came when the first dreadnought was built. It will necessitate the adoption of new methods in battleship construction by all nations, and will halt the construction program of all nations, and will halt the construction program of the United States. It is impossible, in view of the absolute secrecy surrounding all British naval construction, to verify absolutely the facts about this new sea monster, but the Tribune's information comes from a trustworthy source. It is stated that this great new ship will be 800 feet in length, will carry six 15-inch guns and have the wonderful speed of forty knots.

At present the Queen Elizabeth, now at the Dardanelles, stands as the most powerful engine of war afloat. She is, however, only 650 feet in length, but carries eight 15-inch guns. She is oil-driven, as the new ship will be. In the craft now planned armament is sacrificed for increased speed. The increased length gives the great boiler and engine-room capacity needed to produce such speed.

STEAMER STRIKES ROCK OFF JAPAN

Minnesota Badly Damaged, But Passengers and Crew Safely Removed.

WIRELESS BROUGHT HELP

Most of Travellers On Board Were Americans For Japan.

[Canadian Press.]

Kobe, Japan, April 12.—The steamer Minnesota, plying between Japanese ports and Seattle, struck a rock at half-past nine o'clock last night off Iwajima, near the southwestern entrance to the inland sea.

In a wireless message Captain Garlti has asked for a salvage steamer. He says all the passengers and crew are safe.

The Minnesota sailed from Nagasaki Sunday morning, bound for Kobe, Yokohama and Seattle. She passed through the Straits of Shimonoseki safely, and was in the inland sea when the accident occurred.

May Be Floated.

It is believed the Minnesota can be floated, though the amount of damage is not known. A steamer, the name of which is not yet known, responded promptly to the wireless call. This probably is the vessel which took off the passengers and mail and conveyed them to Shimonoseki. The number of passengers on board the Minnesota is not known here definitely. They had just finished dinner when the crash came. A salvage steamer, with a tender and divers has been sent from Moji, and will reach the scene of the wreck tomorrow morning.

A report has been received here that the Blue Funnel Line steamer Canfa, from Seattle, rescued the passengers of the Minnesota.

American Ambassador Guthrie, of Japan, has cabled all the available details of the accident to Governor-General Harrison, of the Philippine Islands, in the belief that Mrs. Francis B. Harrison, wife of the governor, with two children, was on board the Minnesota.

From the details which came to hand later in the day by telegraph, it would appear that the Minnesota mistook her course during a storm. The thick weather prevented her from sighting the lighthouse. The point where she went ashore is the most dangerous in the Inland Sea. It is south of Yamaguchi.

Cruiser to Rescue.

The impact ripped a hole 120 feet long in the forward part of the steamer. The captain at once ordered the closing of the water-tight compartments to stem the inflow. At the same time, wireless signals for help were sent out. The Japanese cruiser Yakumo heard the calls and speeded to the rescue. She arrived on the scene and found the entire crew of the Minnesota working desperately at the pumps.

According to a newspaper dispatch published here there were 135 first-class passengers, mostly Americans, on board the Minnesota, together with 22 second and 44 third-class passengers. The crew of the steamer numbered 277 men. Twenty-nine of the first-class passengers were bound for Japan.

It is believed that the steamer which took off the passengers will bring them into Kobe. The Minnesota took a Japanese pilot on board at Nagasaki.

KITCHENER TEAM TIED WITH SASKALTAS AT TOP

By winning their last game in the McClary Foundry Carpetball League from the Garrys on Tuesday, and the fact that the Saskaltas only captured one point in two games this week, finds the Kitchener leading the Saskaltas by one point, while the Marinas are almost sure of third prize. On Monday the Fairy Queens just beat the Marines by one point, 24-23, and on Tuesday the Kitcheners outscored the Garrys by 41-18, while the Saskaltas could only tie with the Radiums, 17-17. Thursday saw two good games, the Pandoras defeating the Gladonas by 32-23, and the Marines put one over on the Rob Roys by 31-24. On Friday the Garrys did the Kitcheners a good turn, when they easily beat the Saskaltas by 29-19, while the Famous just beat the Bell Oaks by 27-25.

The following is the league standing up to and including April 9:

Looking Down Oxford Street, Showing Bond Street on Right

Advertiser Illustrations

Strange as the title of this picture may seem, it is nevertheless quite true. In the majority of cases the trenches occupied by the British forces at the front have been given names, and needless to say the names of London streets figure largely on the direction posts.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

THE LOCAL MARKET

The very limited offering of produce on the market square today sold at Saturday prices. Hay and straw were decidedly scarce, on account of the condition of the roads.

Eggs, late Saturday, showed greater firmness than they had all last week. The retail price remained at 20 cents a dozen, however. Butter was sold at a good demand, in large quantities.

Live hogs and dressed hogs are so far unchanged in price. Dressed hogs are selling at $12 to $12.25 per cwt. Live hogs bring from $8.40 to $8.55 per cwt. The market is still rather unsettled.

Oats were so scarce that the high price they brought today, $1.89 per cwt., will not set a figure when the grain is on the square in greater quantity. The price will probably remain at $1.85 or $1.87 per cwt.

The hide market shows weakness, and a further decline is looked for by the dealers.

GRAIN.

Winnipeg, April 10.—Wheat opened ⅝c to 1⅛c lower; oats ¼c lower for May, and flax ⅜c to 1¼c lower.

For some little time prices were weak, but strength gradually gathered on reports of export sales being carried through in the south. The war news had little or no effect on today's market. Local inquiry was fair, while prices were out of line. In cash circles offerings were said to be light for spot wheat, while there was fairly heavy offerings on the market for opening of navigation, but buyers disinclined to trade. Flax was dull.

Wheat futures closed ¼c to ⅝c lower after a fluctuation of 1c to 1¾c. Cash wheat lower for contract grades; oats ⅛c to ¼c lower, and flax ¾c to 1¼c lower.

Total inspections yesterday were 286 cars, as against 444 cars last year, and in sight today were 350 cars.

Cash Grain: Wheat—No. 1 northern, $1.50⅞; No. 2 northern, $1.50; No. 3 northern, $1.47⅛; No. 4, $1.42⅛; No. 5, $1.38⅞; No. 6, $1.34⅞.

Oats—No. 2 Canadian western, 62⅞c; No. 3 Canadian western, 60⅜c; extra No. 1 feed, 60⅛c; No. 1 feed, 59⅛c; No. 2 feed, 58⅝c.

Flax—No. 1 N. W. C., $1.73½; No. 2 Canadian western, $1.70½.

Chicago, April 12.—Wheat prices here advanced sharply today, induced by higher quotations at Liverpool and by a decided falling off in the amount of wheat on ocean passage. A leading export house was conspicuous in the purchase of options.

Transactions were for the most part confined to small lots. After opening ⅜c to 1⅞c higher, the market scored material further gains.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE.

London, April 12.—The money market was not affected by the payment of £18,000,000 ($90,000,000) of the war loan today. Discount rates were quiet.

American securities were again the feature on the stock exchange. A large business was transacted over parity, and especially in Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and United States Steel, and New York appeared to absorb the stock freely. Canadian Pacific was below parity under liquidation. The market finished steady. Rubber stocks and Kaffirs were the most active in the other sections, and the short supply of stocks held prices firm. Copper stocks were in good demand, and especially Anaconda and Amalgamated Copper.

Closing prices were:

WALL STREET.

New York, April 12—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Resumption of stock dealings today was in marked contrast to last week's. Instead of further advances the list evinced a reactionary trend, with numerous losses of a point or more. Trading was again extensive, however, United States Stele, Reading, Southern Pacific and Baltimore and Chio being offered in lots of 1,000 shares or over. Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific and Reading were among the heaviest issues. In keeping with its recent action, Bethlehem Steel pursued a contrary course, losing a point at the outset, and soon advancing 3. Secondary prices showed general improvement.

Noon.—The business of the first hour was well in excess of 300,000 shares, which constituted a record for that period, except last Saturday, when over half a million shares changed hands. Early losses were largely recovered, despite persistent realizing, but towards midday the list fell back again, Reading and a few other leaders going under initial declines. Selling was mainly of local and European origin, but commission houses reported further out-of-town buying on a more moderate scale. Steel was under restraint, because of its unsatisfactory March tonnage statement, but Bethlehem Steel scored a maximum rise of 5 points. Bonds were firm.

1:30 p.m.—The precipitate fall of the motor stocks featured the early afternoon dealings. Studebaker dropped 3½ and General Motors 4 points. Elsewhere prices also sought lower levels, but the leaders showed renewed strength.

WAR ON BLACKBIRDS TO START IN BERLIN

BERLIN, April 11.—Berlin sportsmen are out to protest the songbirds from the onslaughts of blackbirds, which are a pest in this community, and are causing songbirds to become more and more extinct each year. An organization has been formed, known as the Berlin Game Protective Association. They have secured permission from the city council to carry on a war against the blackbird, and they will start operations on Tuesday morning. It is estimated that there are thousands of blackbirds in this city.

TORONTO POLICE CATCH MEN FOR BRANTFORD

BRANTFORD, April 11. — Traced to Hamilton and then to Toronto, where they were arrested, Robert Hunter, Roy Black and Ray Rowley were brought to the city today by Detective Chapman, charged with the theft of bicycles from the front of the Y. M. C. A.

They admit the charge.

BERI-BERI DROVE RAIDER INTO PORT

Cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm Also Short of Coal and Provisions.

HAS ONLY FOUR CANNON

Captain Hopes To Get Free Again But Is Likely To Intern.

[Canadian Press.]

Newport News, Va., April 12.—The German converted cruiser Kronpinz Wilhelm, the second of the commerce raiders of the seas for German arms, lay at anchor off here today, after a dash through the lane of Allies' warships, which have been hovering off the Virginia capes waiting for the expected seawar dash of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich. The Kronprinz Wilhelm occupies an anchorage in the James River almost identically the same spot selected by the Prinz Eitel when she reached here March 19.

Got Half Request.

The Kronprinz Wilhelm was being coaled and provisioned today. Although Commander Thierfelder, of the Wilhelm, had asked for three hundred tons of coal and supplies for three days, the United States authorities allowed him 150 tons of coal and provisions for three days. Before she began taking on coal and supplies the Kronprinz Wilhelm had less than 25 tons of coal and scanty provisions for the crew of 500 men and 61 prisoners from British merchant ships destroyed by her in the South Atlantic.

Repairs Needed.

Captain Thierfelder had been given 24 hours in which to leave port unless he needed coal, provisions and time to make repairs. He was unable to determine what repairs were needed and naval officers will make an examination. Whether the Wilhelm will make another dash to sea could not be learned here early today, although Commander Thierfelder expressed the hope that he would be able to do so. It is generally believed, however, that he would intern his ship.

Thrilling Tales.

Officers and crew of the Kronprinz Wilhelm recounted today thrilling tales of sea raids and destruction that rivalled her predecessor, the Prinz Eitel. During her long voyage through the southern seas since she slipped out of the New York harbor August 3 last, The Kronprinz Wilhelm was forced to ships which with their cargoes, are valued at $7,000,000. Nine of the vessels were British, four French and one Norweigian. Nearly a thousand prisoners were taken. This was accomplished with only four guns, two taken from the German cruiser Karlsruhe and two captured from a British merchant vessel. The commerce raider evaded hostile warships many times, the Kronprinz Wilhelm was forced to come into port because of an outbreak of the dread Beri-Beri and for supplies and repairs. Sixty-six of the crew and prisoners, ill of the disease, were to be taken to the hospital today.

Provisions Ready.

One hundred and fifty tons of coal, fifty tons of fresh water, and three days' supply of fresh meats, fruits and vegetables were loaded on barges during the night and were alongside the cruiser at sunrise. These provisions were allotted the raider by Collector of Customs Hamilton, after conference with the Washington authorities.

Arrangements also were under way early today for removal from the ship of sixty-one British sailors taken by the Kronprinz Wilhelm, from the steamships Tamara and Coleby, destroyed in the South Atlantic.

Asks for Time.

Lieut. Commander Thierfelder, commander of the cruiser, has asked for time to survey his ship, and to submit to examination by a board of United States naval officers before making a formal request as to the time he wishes to remain in American waters for full supplies and repairs.

British Vice-Consul C. E. Kenworthy is in communication with Collector Hamilton concerning the disposition of the prisoners. It is the intention to send them back to England on the British steamer Casandra, now in this port. The Casandra is fitted for carrying passengers, but has been engaged in the freight-carrying trade of late.

The provisions taken on by the cruiser were for use in this port only.

TO FOLLOW PRECEDENT.

Washington, April 12. — Without awaiting formal application from Captain Thierfelder, of the Kronprinz Wilhelm, for a board of naval officers to survey his vessel and determine the repairs necessary and the amount of coal and provisions to which she is entitled, Secretary of the Navy Daniels has instructed Admiral Fletcher at Hampton Roads, to follow the precedent established in the case of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, just interned at Norfolk. If the captain asks for repairs, the extent of the overhauling as well as the time required, will be kept a strict secret by the officials of the treasury, navy and state departments, under whose authority the ship will remain until her status is determined.

FOUR BRANTFORD BOYS CHARGED WITH ROBBERY

Found With Revolvers and Other Things—Store Broken Into.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BRANTFORD, April 11.—Four boys, George Lynn, Ray Potter, John Jennings and Wm. Lawson, with ages ranging between fourteen and sixteen years, were arrested today by Detectives Pickels and Borthwick, suspected of breaking into Ballantyne's hardware store.

The strange conduct of the quartet attracted the attention of Detective Pickels before it was known that the store had been entered by means of a back window.

The boys had a number of revolvers, chisels, saws and hammers, valued at about $50. They were on the G. T. R. tracks.

The sleuth worked his imagination and hurried to the store and found the window broken. He called Borthwick and went back for the boys, who took to their heels.

Lynn and Potter have admitted the theft and the other two claim they had no hand in it. All were allowed out on bail this evening, parents going the sureties. They will be charged with robbery.

ASK COUNCIL TO REVISE THE BUILDING BYLAW

London Architects Have Grievance They Are Airing.

London architects are asking the council for revisions of the city building bylaw which, they claim, will prevent any unscrupulous builders or owners from using material and workmanship contrary to the terms of the bylaw. To accomplish this they are asking for submission of blue printed plans of all proposed works, even alterations and additions, together with authentic copies of the specifications for this work before any permits are issued.

In their request for the changes, Messrs. John Moore and Arthur E. Nutter, the two members of the Local Chapter of Architects, who are acting as the representatives of that body, refer to the fact that penciled plans of alterations, such as are now being used, can easily be altered. They ask for all plans to be blue-printed and then stamped with the offical stamp of the city before permits can be issued.

The board of works will deal with the matter, and will grant the architects their request for a hearing in order that the whole question can be gone into fully.

To Absorb Freckles And Other Blemishes

Every spring numerous inquiries are made by girls seeking some reliable recipe for removing freckles. Last year very favorable reports were received from many who had used mercolized wax during the freckling season. The wax seems to possess unusual properties, which completely absorb the freckles, with no harmful effect. The complexion improves wonderfully, becoming as soft as a rose petal, and as delicately tinted. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at any druggist's, spread a thin layer of it over the entire face every night for a while, washing this off in the morning. For rough, spotty skin, sallowness, blackheads, pimples, and all cutaneous blemishes, this treatment is superior to any other.

Springtime also brings wrinkles to many sensitive skins that are much exposed to winds and changing temperatures. To a half-pint witch hazel add 1 ounce of powdered saxolite, which quickly dissolves. Bathe the face in it; the effect on a wrinkled skin is remarkable.

RUINED FARMS AWAKE DESIRE FOR REVENGE

Canadians Need No Other Urging Than the Scenes Around Them.

BEANS PLEASANT CHANGE

Officers Evidently Fare No Better Than Privates At Front.

The following letter from Lieut.-Col. George T. Bennett, formerly superintendent of colonization roads for the Ontario Government, and who is now at the front with the Canadian contingent, has been received. Col. Bennett was a major in the 57th Regiment, Peterboro, but so anxious was he to get to the front that he accepted a captain's commission at Valcartier. After arriving at the front he was made major, and has since been promoted to the rank of battalion lieutenant-colonel. The letter was dated from his dugout, the "Royal Cecil," on March 15.

"It was with great pleasure that I entered my 'Royal Crawl-in' apartments at 2:40 this morning and found a letter from you and Major Walker. I was very tired, and, of course, dirty, but these things don't go for much here. Goodness, how I would wallow in a bath if I had a chance! They promise us a bath when we get out for a 'rest' (Heavens, what a name!) and a clean suit of underwear. Some of that we have will soon be able to carry us around. I am living high these few days. I had beans for dinner yesterday, and beans again for supper. My boy Brunton foraged for them in a beanstack. They were slightly blue-molded, but they were a change from bully beef and hard tack.

Good-bye, Mr. Rabbit.

"I saw a rabbit last night. Good-bye, Mr. Rabbit, if he sticks his ears up when I get after him today. One of my subs got a chicken the other day. He deserved the V. C.

"We have long ago forgot principles in this war. Principles be hanged. It is very hard to make the uninitiated understand, but if you people at home could take but one look at the devastation, destruction and suffering of the poor inhabitants of this beautiful, peaceful country—and it's getting worse and worse the further we get into Belgium, caused so wantonly by the Allemandes — you would need no further reason to urge us on than revenge. It may be uncivilized to be vindictive, but God only knows why he allowed these people to be simply crucified by the Germans. Beautiful homes—and they are beautiful in every sense of the word — splendid old red brick buildings, churches, fields, cultivated away beyond the comprehension of a Canadian farmer, a land blessed with plenty and a contented and industrious people, positively ruined. Not a building but it is smashed. It would make your heart sore to see the waste, never, never to be restored. Who wants to talk principles? Not me. I'll give it to these destroyers in whatever form it may come, and give it hard and quick.

Good Tidings All Along Line.

"We have good tidings all along our lines. Captured about 500 yesterday and took the town of N. C. (Neuve Chapelle). We are now awaiting orders to go forward. Let it be soon. One of my lads got badly hit yesterday. He went out in front and got a volley, hit twice in the leg, bone badly broken. No deaths last night, thank God. I have been out tonight trying to get some makeshift carts to haul in our supplies. This has been done by carrying on the back, and it is very hard work. I was poking around an old abandoned farmhouse when I ran across a new Massey-Harris binder with Toronto in big letters on it. I could scarcely refrain from cheering, it was so near home. The Toronto boys enjoyed looking the thing over carefully.

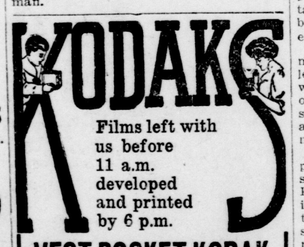

"I was dodging along a communicating trench to respond to O. C. call, when a German battery got shelling our dugouts. It was great fun for us as the shots went high and burst over our heads. A few splinters fell near me. We had a splendid view of an aerial battle yesterday. The Germans were shelling British planes. They never got one."

DESERTER IS TAKEN BACK

Charles Appleby Arrested by Local Detectives Goes to Toronto Under Guard.

Charles Appleby, of Toronto, who deserted from a Toronto battalion and who was arrested on Dundas street Friday afternoon by Detectives Egelton and Down, was taken back to the Queen City, by a detail of guards, yesterday.

With only a description of the man to go by, the London officers spotted him while on the street and placed him under arrest. Appleby was held in the cells until the arrival of the guards from Toronto, yesterday, when his identity was established as the much-wanted man.

POLICE DISPERSE ITALIAN MEETINGS

Both Parties Try To Hold Gatherings—Hatred Shown Austrians.

[Canadian Press.]

Rome, April 11, 9:15 p.m., via Paris April 12.—Notwithstanding orders issued by the police, attempts were made today by persons, both for and against intervention, by Italy in the war to hold public meetings in all parts of the country. The crowds which gathered were charged and dispersed in nearly every instance by carabineers and troops, but few persons were wounded, although some arrests were made, among those taken into custody being Prof. Benito Mussolini, the Socialist leader, who favors a continuance of neutrality, and Signor Marinetti, the futurist leader, who is urging intervention.

The central sections of Rome were occupied until late tonight by troops who guarded the approaches to the Villa Malta, the residence of the German ambassador, Prince Von Buelow, and the Quirinal. The building most strongly defended, however, was the Austrian embassy, where troops and mounted carabineers charged the demonstrators, who evidenced by their shouts the animosity they felt for Austria and their desire for Italy to begin hostilities.

PROTESTS AGAINST WAR INCREASE IN GERMANY

AMSTERDAM (via London), April 11.—The Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant says that pamphlets, signed by the German Socialists, Dr. Liebknecht, George Ledebour, Otto Ruhle, Franz Mehring and Rosa Luxemburg, have been circulated in Holland, stating that the proletariat does not agree with the pro-war section of the Socialist Party and that protests against the continuation of the war are increasing in Germany.

SOON TO START LAYING RIDOUT ST. GUTTERS

First Departmental Work This Year Begins Next Week.

Weather conditions being favorable, city council curb and gutter gangs will start laying the curb and gutter on Ridout street south this week. This will be the first departmental work undertaken this year in connection with the big paving program it is proposed to enact.

City Engineer H. A. Brazier's department has already secured the proper levels, data, etc., for the Ridout street work and the street has been staked out preparatory to paving. It will be some time after the curbs and gutters are in, however, before actual pavement laying will commence.

Bids are now being called for the paving of Colborne and Maitland streets between Queen's avenue and King street. These two jobs, authorized by the council of last year, will be the first to go down this year. William street, for the same distance, has been now authorized by the council and bids for this third cross street will be in before long.

KINCARDINE.

German Duplicity and Cowardice Made Apparent

Advertiser Illustrations.

A story of German duplicity and cowardice is contained in a letter received by Corp. Fred Hodson, of the band of the 18th Battalion, one of four brothers now serving the King as soldiers, from a brother in the home defence forces in England, who obtained his information from a third brother who was wounded in the head at the battle of Neuve Chapelle.

This last brother was in the Canadian West when war broke out, and was recalled to the colors as a reservist. His regiment, the 2nd Bedfordshires, was in the thick of the great battle, he stated in writing home. A regiment of Germans, he said, hoisted the white flag, and he and his companions went out to take them prisoners, but had hardly left their trench when the white flag was dropped, and the Germans opened fire, dropping a great many of the men, himself among them. However, the survivors of the treacherous slaughter charged the Huns who, when the Britishers closed in with their bayonets, threw down their arms and surrendered.

Corporal Hodson is more than ever keen now to get into contact with the cowards who wounded his brother. Although he was married only recently, since his enlistment in fact, he is anxious that the battalion should be sent to the front as soon as possible.

Besides the wounded brother, another brother is now in the trenches, having come to the front from Australia, where he went from England a few years ago. The youngest brother also tried to join the overseas forces in England, but his mother wrote to the commanding officer of the regiment in which he attempted to enlist, advising him that the boy was under the minimum military age, and he was not accepted. Determined to have some part in defending the Empire he then enlisted with the territorials.

The picture shows Hodson, his three brothers and sister, and his father and mother. Corporal Hodson is the tallest of the four, the one on the left of the picture is the Australian, the one who was wounded is standing on the right, and the youngest is sitting down in front of him.

RELIEF SHIP SUNK IN THE NORTH SEA

Harpalyce, From New York, Lost, With Probably 26 Lives.

[Canadian Press.]

ROTTERDAM, April 11, via London.—The British steamer Harpalyce, the first relief boat of New York State, and under charter to the commission for relief in Belgium, has either been torpedoed or sunk by a mine in the North Sea.

The Dutch steamer Elizabeth, on its voyage from Rotterdam for New York, picked up 22 of the crew of the Harpalyce seven miles northeast of Noordheimer lightship, and brought them back to Rotterdam. The Dutch steamer Constance Catherina picked up five men and took them to Nieuwe Waterweg. The steamer carried a crew of 53 men, 26 of whom, it is feared, have been drowned.

Those rescued by the Elizabeth included the second mate and the second engineer, the latter in a wounded condition.

The Harpalyce, under its charter to the Belgian Relief Commission, has a permit securing immunity from attack.

SAW PERISCOPE.

LONDON, April 12.—2:35 a.m.—The Daily Telegraph's Rotterdam correspondent gives an interview with Third Officer Llewellyn, of the British steamer Harpalyce, who was on the bridge in command of the steamer at the time the vessel was sunk by an explosion in the North Sea.

"Suddenly I heard a tremendous explosion," Llewellyn is quoted as having said, "and the ship heeled over. I looked down her side, and saw a tremendous hole, as if half the side of the ship had been blown out. The Harpalyce began to settle down very fast.

"I could see no trace of a submarine, but two minutes afterwards I thought I saw a periscope some distance away, going from the ship in a northwesterly direction."

The captain of the Dutch steamer Elizabeth related the following story of the disaster:

"I was on the bridge of my ship a mile astern of the Harpalyce, and could clearly see the flag of the American Relief Commission flying from the jib stay. Suddenly there was a cloud of smoke and a tremendous explosion. I put on full speed for the ship, and then saw the periscope of a submarine within a hundred metres (about 300 feet) of the Harpalyce, going away from the sinking vessel."

The Harpalyce, 3,691 tons, was a comparatively new steamer, owned by J. and G. Harrison, of London. She sailed from New York on March 7 with more than 11,000 individual gifts for the relief of the Belgians and arrived at Rotterdam on March 30. It is presumed that the Harpalyce was on her return voyage. She was commanded by Capt. Frank Wamn.

French Boat Torpedoed.

PLYMOUTH, England, April 12.—3:22 a.m.—The French steamer Frederic Franck was torpedoed off Start Point, in the English Channel, Sunday, but was towed into port here by Government tugs. No lives were lost.

The steamer Frederick Franck is a small vessel and belongs to the French Line. She was built in 1875.

TO MAKE GASOLINE AT 4 CENTS PER GALLON

OTTAWA, April 11. — After a decade of experimenting, a Hull, Que., scientist claims he has found a substitute for gasoline, and at a test before several officials of the public works department Saturday, two tablespoonsful of the liquid, mixed with two quarts of water, proved sufficient to run a 2¾-horsepower engine for an hour and a half without stopping. The discoverer, who is Mr. Gideon Charbonneau, of Hull, claims he will be able to manufacture the liquid, which he calls "charbo-oil," in any quantity at 4 cents per gallon.

The liquid does not give off any smoke and the inventor asserts that it will revolutionize the automobile and other industries.

POPE COMPOSES PEACE PRAYERS.

ROME, April 11. — Pope Benedict has issued a decree for the recital of prayers for peace in Roman Catholic churches over the world during the month of May. The prayers were composed by the Pope.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO RAISE POTATOES AS A "WAR CROP"

TORONTO, April 11.—The Department of Agriculture is organizing in Ontario 22 rural school fairs, which will include participation by over 45,000 children. The suggestion to the children regarding the advisability of their growing this year a potato war crop, and that the proceeds from the sale of the crop will be applied to some patriotic cause, has met with gratifying response. From present indications it is a safe estimate that between 45,000 and 50,000 bushels of potatoes will be grown by the schoolchildren for this purpose.

Cunard Company Is Ready To Quote Rates to Constantinople.

LONDON, April 11.—6:10 p.m.—Evidently in the belief that the Dardanelles straits will be forced by the combined military forces of the Allies, the Cunard Steamship Company today announces that it is prepared to quote prospective rates for traffic to Smyrna, Constantinople, Odessa and Batum.

BRITAIN REJECTED YOUNG TURK OFFER

Would Not Quote Peace Terms To Enemy Through Diplomat.

LONDON, April 12.—2:05 a.m.—Abdul Hamid, former sultan of Turkey, is now in Smyrna, in the house of a former leading British inhabitant of that city, which is now occupied by the military commandant of Smyrna, says the Daily Telegraph's Athens correspondent.

"Abdul Hamid is being cherished with sedulous care," the correspondent adds, "so that he can be used in case of a revolution in Constantinople. At present, the situation in Constantinople is excellent and the secret police have the situation well in hand.

"The Young Turks a few days ago agreed to ask the neutral diplomats to ascertain from the Allies their terms of peace. A diplomat attempted this mission, but Great Britain rejected it and nothing came of the effort. The Young Turks attempted to agree upon a program to be put in force in case the Allies capture the Dardanelles, but after a discussion it was decided to await advices from Berlin."

ALLIES' FRONT EXTENDS OVER 1,656-MILE AREA

PARIS, April 11.—3:15 p.m.—Troops of the Allies today occupy battlefronts whose length total 1,656 miles, according to a compilation made by the Matin.

In the western arena, according to these figures, the French occupy 540 miles of trenches, the British 31 miles and the Belgians 17 miles.

In the eastern theatre, the Russians face a front of 851 miles, while the Servians and Montenegrins are fighting along a line which measures 217 miles.

GREAT CAMPAIGN TO HELP KITCHENER'S ARMY

LONDON, April 11.—7:50 p.m. — A great patriotic campaign to secure recruits for Field Marshal Earl Kitchener's new army was opened in London today. The campaign is to be carried on for a fortnight.

Meetings addressed by Liberal, Unionist, Labor and Irish members of Parliament, were held in Hyde Park, Trafalgar Square and other centres of the capital, while recruiting sergeants distributed pamphlets, showing the pay, separation allowance and other advantages given to soldiers of the King. As a result of the Trafalgar Square meeting, 200 recruits registered at the chief recruiting office nearby.

During the fortnight's campaign 1,500 meetings will be held, when troops will engage in street marching.

ANOTHER STEAMER MAY BE SUBMARINE VICTIM

PLYMOUTH, England, April 11, — 11:23 p.m. — The small steamer President was attacked today by a German submarine. The crew of ten men were rescued by a torpedo boat destroyer. It has not been learned as yet whether the President was sunk.

RUSSIANS CAPTURE CARPATHIAN HEIGHT

Troops Advance To Southern Slope of Mountains, Defeating Fresh Force.

[Canadian Press.]

PETROGRAD (via London), April 11.—11 p.m.—The following official statement from general headquarters was issued tonight:

"West of the Niemen, isolated actions continue in the region of the river Szeszupa.

"In the Carpathians, the enemy, on April 9 and the following night, attacked in serried columns, strongly supported by artillery, our troops who had advanced toward the southern slopes of the principal mountain chain. These attacks were repulsed with enormous losses to the enemy, and we captured a battalion with 23 officers and machine guns.

"In the direction of Uzsok, after a stubborn fight, we carried several heights, capturing 1,000 men, 22 officers and four machine guns.

"In the direction of Stry (East Galicia), the enemy's attacks have continued. On the other sectors of our front there has been no marked change."

Saturday Night Statement.

The following Russian official statement was given out last night:

"To the west of the Niemen River at dawn on Friday, we attacked the German positions between Kalwarya and Ludwinow, and after a stubborn bayonet fight, captured two lines of trenches. We took 600 prisoners, among them several officers and eight mitrailleuses.

"In the Carpathians in the direction of Mezolaborcza, we took the offensive from positions near Czaboloca, and dislodged the enemy from Wirawa. At Uoliamicsova, we captured Height No. 909, which means that the enemy has been driven back along the whole extent of the principal chain of the Carpathians in the region of our offensive.

Reinforcements Repulsed.

"In the direction of Rostoki, the enemy received considerable reinforcements Thursday and made violent counter-attacks. We repulsed them and captured a thousand prisoners, including twenty officers.

"Our offensive from the line Nijnia-Lestuszica-Volosate-Bukowicz toward the south continues, notwithstanding the excessively difficult local conditions.

"Forcing their way through snow more than seven feet deep, our troops at several points approached within four miles of the Uzsok Valley. Near Rosochace and Rozanka the enemy made two attacks which were blocked.

"There is no important change in other sectors of our front."

NEW BULGARIAN PLANS NOT NEUTRAL KIND

PARIS, April 11. — The Petit Parisien's special correspondent at Sofia has been authorized by Premier Radoslavoff to say that Bulgaria has thus far observed strict neutrality, but that a new situation has arisen in view of the action of the Allies in the east.

Bulgaria saw a possible realization of national ambitions, but Premier Radoslavoff formally declared that the latest turn of affairs necessitated new plans. Bulgaria's duty, the Premier added, was to realize its national program.

VERMIN SPREADS TYPHUS AMONG TROOPS IN EAST

BASLE, Switzerland, April 11. — The Germans are transporting typhus patients from the east in specially equipped hospital trains. Each train consists of twelve hospital cars and one disinfecting car, the latter marked "Infectious" in huge letters. The attendants and train crew wear special cloaks, which are disinfected frequently.

The first symptoms of the malady are small red spots, which cover the body, and a high fever. The plague appears to be spread by vermin, which crawl from the sick to the well.

Two hundred railroad cars filled with German wounded passed through Leopoldshoehe, near Basle, on Tuesday.

W. NISSOURI MAN DEAD.

GET INFORMATION FROM GERMAN FOE

36th Peel Officer Complimented For Daring On Firing Lines.

LOCATED GERMAN POSTS

Fired Upon, But Escaped Without Injury—Canadians Praised.

The following letters have been received from Lieut. Harry B. McGuire, 36th Peel Regiment, by his parents at Orangeville. Lieut. McGuire is a son of the editor of the Orangeville Banner:

"March 9—Friday night last we marched from our billets to the trenches and took our place there for four days. We found our section of the trenches in a deplorable state, lots of water and mud, and the fortifications shelled down, affording poor protection for us. We set to work immediately and kept at it all night. I had one hundred men and the building of their trenches to look after. Hundreds of sand bags were used. We had to do all our work by night, and my section was only 130 yards from the Germans. Part of the men kept watch and the rest worked hard. By morning we had the parapet built to a fairly good protection, and the parados built up a little. The wire entanglements in front of our trench were also strengthened. When morning came and everyone was standing we were very tired, wet, and covered with mud. Parts of the trench had water and mud over our knees. During the night flashes, searchlights, and flares are constantly being thrown upon us, as also we do on the Germans. During these periods the snipers get a chance at us, but by little tricks we fool them a little.

Got Valuable Information.

"All day long there is continual firing, sniping, and artillery. We have some good shots, who prove to be good snipers, and many of their snipers were bowled over by us. We can get a good view by means of telescopes and periscopes. Their artillery is vastly superior. Lieut. Miller and myself took patrols out each night we were in. This takes us out into the black, beyond our friends—into "no man's land," as it were. We managed to get valuable information, though. I got over one hundred yards in front and located German listening posts, patrols and locations. The second night I was fired upon, but the shots went wild. We were wakened early this morning by the artillery. The enemy's shells fell thick enough to get us, but somehow missed our billet. Their exposives seems to be getting weak.

Platoon's Narrow Escape.

March 12—I have been very busy since coming out of the trenches. I was given the job of constructing a bathhouse for the battalion. We had to make tubs out of beer barrels, and "rustic" boilers and stoves from ruined houses. We go to the trenches again tomorrow night. The town is being heavily shelled, and frequently shells burst nearby. One hit the bathhouse corner just as I had got inside the door. Our billets here are constantly being shelled, though the shells seem to go just wide enough. Company C had a narrow escape while marching along the road. An 55-pound shell fell near them and pierced the ground 16 feet and did not explode. It is so big it would have wiped out a whole platoon had it exploded. The brigadier personally sent a congratulatory message to Capt. Collins, Miller, and myself for our patrol work and information obtained in front of the German lines the other night.

Located Sniping Posts.

"March 16—We are in the trenches for four days again, or probably longer this time on account of the advances. On our right and left there has been some very heavy fighting and vast advances. We are holding our own here. All day today I have been locating the enemy's sniping posts by means of high-power glasses. Some appear very bold, and we could distinctly see them. I had a sniper on my right, who would fire on the objects I located, and we got them in this way several times. Gen. Alderson says we are full of resource. If you had seen us marching to the trenches you would have thought so. The boys were laden down with supplies—coal, coke, etc., for brazier fires, and cabbages, carrots, and potatoes, which they located somewhere. The canned beef, or bully beef, is cut up with the vegetables and soup powders, which the boys cook over the braziers, and a splendid mess they have, too. At night parties go out for wood, water, rations, etc."

FEET BURNING IN LIVE COALS, AND IS ASLEEP

Hotel Manager, Attracted by Odors, Discovered Porter's Plight.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

BRANTFORD, April 11. — In some kind of stupor, George Clemont, a middle-aged porter of the Butler House, allowed his feet to get into the door of the hotel furnace last night, and burn so badly that it will be necessary, a doctor states, to amputate at least one of them.

The almost unbelievable part of the incident is that the unfortunate man did not seem to experience pain, and the discovery was made by the manager of the hotel, who was attracted to the basement by the smell of burning flesh.

Manager Kirkpatrick found Clemont sitting asleep in a chair, with his feet in the fire and burning.

Clemont had fallen asleep apparently with his feet propped up against the front of the furnace, and they had dropped down and into the fire-box.

It has not been ascertained if the man was extraordinarily intoxicated, though it is stated that he had been drinking.

He was sent to the hospital and is being attended by Dr. McColl.

Comfort and Cure for Baby's Skin Troubles

Dr. Chase's Ointment Cured When Baby's Body Was Covered With Distressing Eczema.

If every mother could try Dr. Chase's Ointment for the chafing, skin irritation and resulting eczema which tortures so many babies, what a blessing it would be for the little ones.

This letter will give you an idea of what a wonderful work this Ointment is doing in the way of bringing comfort to children who are so unfortunate as to contract eczema. It is so easy for this trouble to develop from chafing or irritation caused by the clothing, and so difficult to get it cured, that Dr. Chase's Ointment is appreciated when once its healing qualities are known.

Mr. M. L. Duclos, postmaster, Dugnayville, N. B., writes: "I believe it is my duty to recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as a cure for eczema. My baby was seized with eczema and his face and arms were covered with this terrible disease. After trying all sorts of ointments the disease continued to spread until it covered the entire body. When the itching became bad he would scratch himself and was sometimes found in his cradle covered with blood. Hearing about Dr. Chase's Ointment I bought two boxes and before this was all used the child was cured. That was a year ago, and there has been no trace of eczema since. I recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment to all who suffer from eczema as being the best treatment in the world for itching skin diseases."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is for sale by all dealers at 60 cents a box. It is a good idea to keep it at hand along with the bath soap to be used for roughness of the skin, chafing or irritation. Prevention is so much better than cure. Powders clog the pores, but Dr. Chase's Ointment cleanses the pores and thereby keeps the skin soft and smooth. Sample box free if you mention this paper.
