THE WHEAT CROPS

London, Aug. 16.—The Mark Lane Express, in its weekly review of the grain situation, says: "The Freech wheat harvest overyield is estimated at 3,000,000 quarters, though excellent judges say it is not so much. "The German yield is expected to be 1,000,000 quarters below that of 1896. and anyor Leouters, ways it was terribles.

It appears that Prince Henry's sword was bent by a button of the Count's trousers. But for this chance it cens there is little doubt that the Count's the sword was bent by a button of the Count's the seconds thought this dangerously wounded. In fact the doubt chrs and seconds thought this pad happened. When Frince Heary received the wound in his abdomen he clapped his hands to the spot an Leoutieff. He then rolled upon the ground, exclaiming that he could do no more. The dectors fear that the wound may be complicated by peritonicis, and there is need of extreme care for a few days.

The news was not generally known through Paris ill about 10 o'cleck, when there was a rush of visitors to the residence of the Duc de Chartres, but only Major Leontieff was allowed ac-in Abyasinia, which began last February.

The particular statements to which the Italian press and public, as well as the Italian officers, took exception, were published on July 4 last. The words of the Prince were as follows:

"Naturally the subject which was most often discussed was that of the war (between the Italians and the Negus), and the captivity of the Italians. I am bound to say that I am no longer indignant but simply disgusted at what I hear each day about them. Out of respect for a nation witn whom we were friendly I should have been silent if the Italian should not have shown, in regard to ourselves, the most reprehensible conduct. Have they not confessed that had they entered Addis Ababa victoriously they would have given no quarter to any Frenchman, not even the small tradesmen? They added, however with an ironical air, that they would not have inflicted the death penalty on the "Frenchwönen." Mrs. Orr's Disappearance Has Been Accounted For.

an ironical air, that they would not have inflicted the death penalty on the Frenchwomen.

"Even this did not permit them to accomplish their wishes. Although they came to the capital as prisoners they do not seem to realise it. Some of their officers were not assamed to take part in the celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Adowa; others wore as cuff buttons coins with the image of Menelik. It was Albertone himself who, drinking a toast to the health of the great Emperor, turned towards one of our fellow-countrymen and said: 'Are we not courteous?' to which the Frenchman repieled: 'Mon Dieu, sir, I never saw a Frenchman drinking to the health of the Emperor William."

The Count of Turin is a Prince of the Italian blood royal, and therefore of Prince Henry's rank. He is a member of the house of Savoy-Aosta, and was born at Turin in 1870. He is the son of the late Duke of Aosta, a nephew of King Humbert, and holds the rank of major in the Italian covariy. His challenge created a rather anomalous situation; for the Count, being the brother of the present Duke of Aosta, is the brother-in-law of Prince Henry's cousin, Princess Helene, whom the Duke of Aosta married in 1895.

Prince Henry of Orleans was born Oct. 16, 1867, and is the eldeet son of Prince Robert Philippe d'Orleans, Duc de Chartres.

It is evident that the crime is one of premeditated murder, as everything points that way. The intention of the murderers must have been to bury the body of their victin in the freshly-made grave found slug in the swamp about 300 yards from the house. But a probable disturbance in their work caused a change in their plans.

The body was removed to a shed, where a jury empanelled by Coroner Radford, viewed it and adjourned until Wednesday at 1 o'clock in the council chambers at Galt, when the result of the postmortem will be given.

What the motive for the murder could have been is a mystery. Two arrests have already been made, a young man named Allison, who was employed on the farm, and a medical student named the laterers who resides in Galt. The Rome, Aug. 16.—The population of Rome, which followed the various phases of the great duel with much interest, has welcomed the result with great enthusiasm. Many leading houses have displayed flags, while the papers have flooded the streets with special editions, which were eagerly bought up.

Last night military bands in the public squares played the foyal march, amid frantic-applause from the spectators.

The police authorities, in order to avoid any demonstrations against the French. Have told off a large body of armed meny to guard the French Embassy, while many French firms and establishments are also carefully protected. Similar demonstrations of earthusiasm have taken place in almost all the chief Italian towns, priscipally Naples, Milan, Florence and Palermo.

There is much fear that these march talling relations, which have become more cordial since the fall of Urispi's Gabinet.

The Minister of Justice, Signor Costa. have already been made, a young man named Allison, who was employed on the farm, and a medical student named Treleaven, who resides in Gait. The former has been interviewed several times and it was evident that he knew more than he cared to tell.

The gun was found hidden in the barn, but it had not been used and was evidently taken with the object of throwing suspicion from the guilty parties.

Mr. Orr, who, during the past week has been in terrible suspense, was somewhat relieved when the true state of affairs was made known and many kind friends and neighbors are with him togeometria in the comfort him in every way possible.

Besides the husband there are a daughter and son left.

The scene of the tragedy was visited by hundreds from Gait and the surrounding country. This afternoon there was a continual stream of curious people heading in that direction from the time the finding of the body was known until evening.

FORECASTING THE WEATHER

TORONTO'S "OLD PROBS" DESCRIBES HOW IT IS DONE.

Mr. Hugh Payne Shows How the Cour of Wind and Rain Sterms Is Traced-About 85 Per Cent. of Predictions,

Is Claimed, Hit the Mark.

The "forecast official" for the Dominion Government at Toronto, Mr. Hugh Payne, known as "Old Probs," was asked the other day, "What is your system?" In reply he said:

Look, there before me lies a large map of the whole North American continent. Two of those maps have to be filled in twice a day, at 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. Do you see those little circles spread at intervals of 140 miles throughout the United States and Canada? See, it makes a regular net work. Here is New York, there New Orleans, here is St. Louis, there New Orleans, here is St. Louis, there New Orleans, here is St. Louis, there Salt Lake City, far to the Northwest is Victoris, B.C., Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg. Then, here agains Port Arthur, Toronto, Montreal, Quebec, Sydney, Halifax and further said post of the Northwest of St. Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg. Then, here again to Port Arthur, Toronto, Montreal, Quebec, Sydney, Halifax and further see pour a few. the temperature is high. In the Nursemi-circle it is cool and the weather fine.
"Now, then, I have got my low pressure area complete, and here comes the most interesting part of our work. That low area as a body is going to move somewhere and bring sits attendant conditions with it. Here, you see, is a map 12 hours later, and the low area is now over the Upper Mississippi Valley, having taken a northeast path. Well, at that rate it will be over Toronto to-morsow if it keeps on in that path; and, as it is increasing in energy, it is about time to warry all lake ports for a gale."
"And the probs," ventured the reporter. "Oh, yes; they will be strong winds and gales for the lakes, with higher temperature and occasional rain, followed to-morrow (as the storm passes as on its way to Montreal) by high northwesterly winds and cooler, clearing weather. And you see by the next two days' maps that is what actually occurred."
"But," said the reporter, "if that is

"But." said the reporter, "if that is all why is it you sometimes fail in your predictions?"

"Ah." said the prophet, "but that is not all; sometimes these depressions disperse entirely just before reaching a certain locality; sometimes these depressions disperse entirely just before reaching a certain locality; sometimes they are absoluted by others or breed new ones which may be more intense than themselves, and they have many peculiarities of shifting their areas of rain, etc. For the overland journey a railway was successed and understand. Our greatest diffusion in this direction of movement, some will come sailing along beautifully in a NE, E, or SE, direction with an average velocity of, say, 160 miles a day, and predictions are made accordingly for places that lie in their apparent path. But here the meteorolosist sometimes the call at start. Here is another with similar redications, but, look, it came direct to Lake Erie and then suddenly took a SE, twist and went off to the middle Atlantic const, and the weather remained beautifully fine in Ontardo, where rain was predicted.

"We cannot account for this. It is an unknown law, the law that governs the absolute path of an area of depression, but when discovered, and it will be some day, a great stride will be made in weather prediction. We have not to feel only with areas of low pressure, of high pressure. In these there is too mach aft, and from them the air is flowing to fill up a farm of the man, are generally attended by the man, "are generally attended by the man," are generally attended by the man, "are generally attended by the man, are generally attended by the man, ar

"You have numerous stations?" akch.

"Yes; our telegraph observing stations stretch from Cape Breton to Vancouve Island. Resides these we have a network of stations reporting by mail. Our storm signal stations cover the shores of the great lakes, the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and Atlantic and Bay of Fundy coasts. Our daily predictions are published by numerous papers, and are posted at every telegraph office in the Dominion, as far, west as Assimbioat, and we are kept busy answering the ever-increasing number of private endutives as to coming weather by telegraph and telephone."

The hope was expressed that the day others were initated.

In 1895 Leontieff was made Russian envoy to the court of the Negus, and in February of last year he went upon a mission to the Abyssainian court. Atthough this last mission was not an official one, it is said that the Russian Government gave the diplomat the most substantial support. Leontieff bore to the Kang and the Queen rich gifts from the Czar. The Czar gave him a decoration, which enhanced in the most substantial to the new year has a large grant of money by the direct order of Russia's Emperor. The Greatest Canal. A New Cabot Document

The Greatest Canal.

The canal which is projected between the Baltic and the Black sea will be 950 miles long, 200 feet wide and 20 feet deep. It will start from Riga, the important scaport of Russia on the Baltic, and follow the courses of the rivers Duna, Beresina and Dneiper, entering the Black sea, near Chorson. The canal will thus be formed chiefly by adapting river courses, and only for a distance of seventy miles, between Dunaberg and Pepel, will an artifical canal be constructed. The whole canal will be lighted by electricity. The cost is estimated at $100,000,000. It will be completed by 1902.

Big Block of Granite.

The pedestal for the new statue of Peter the Great, which has recently been erected in St. Peterburg, consists of a block of granite which weighs about 1,217 tons. In order to get to its destination it had to be carried four miles overland and thirteen miles by water. For the overland journey a railway was used consisting of two lines of timber furnished with hard-metal grooves. Spheres of hard brass about ix inches in diameter were placed between these grooves, and on the spheres, the framework containing the block was moved by means of sixty men.

How to Be Happy Though Hot.

Very few understand the art of being comfortable in the torrid season. There would be less comfort and fewer fatalities if the human family would apply a few very simple rules.

Avoid undue excitement. Murder, mayhem and bigarny should be practiced sparingly, if at all.

Diet is all important. Anyone in the habit of eating should not give it up while the warm season is on.

Clothing. If prompted to wear two suits at the same time, when the thermometer is over 90, take no action until you cousult a physician.

Use. care in handling firearms. If necessary to discharge a revolver while there is much humidity in the air, see that the barrel is turned from you.

Do not allow any accounts to run during the oppressive season. Do your dreaming when asleep.

Shus suicide as you would the bubonic plague. Self-destruction is always fatal in midsummer.

Post these maxims where you can read them every day. They will do you no good when it is too late.—Detroit Free Press. How to Be Happy Though Hot.

CHURCHGOING IN ICELAND.

untry Folk Who Travel Man

Miles to Divine Worship.

Jessie Ackerman, in the fourth of her articles on "Three Women in Iceland," in The Woman's Home Companion, tells how she attended a country church in the northern part of the island.

"The Sabhath day was full of interest, for we had not attended service in the rural districts. In the early morning we betook ourselves to the front of the house to watch the country folk assembles. In the distrance we saw them fording the river in a long line, and in the other direction men, women and children rods slowly over the mountains down to the farm.

"Whalf the Sabbath day means to these people few can realize. Some of them members of the family from one church day until the other. What wonder, then, that they began to assemble fully two hours before church time! A peculiar form of salutation prevails outside of the cities. With this we had not yet been made familiar, and our astonishment can well be imagined when we saw the men dismount, embrace and kiss each other. I learned later that this is the only form of salutation among men in the inland districts.

"The hour of service arrived, and, in company with the preacher, who were a high hat, a loose, flowing gown buttoned from chin to heas, and a great white Elizabeth ruff around his neck, we entered the church. From the back seat we had full view of the congregation, and, not being familiar with the language, the time was passed in meditation on the situation. Oideat Bank in the World.

It would probably surprise a good many people to learn that the oldest bank in eristence is the Bank of Naples, which has lately been passing through such troublous time. The British Consul at Naples, in his report for isst year, funnishes some details of the foundation of the bank in the sixteenth century, which The Manchester (England) Guardian mentions, and points out that the earlier banks, the Monte Vecchio of Vensice and the Bank of San Glorgio in Genue, established in the twelfth century, and the Bank of Barcelona, established in the fourteenth century, have all ceased to exist. The report fixes the foundation of the Bank of Naples at 1639, and the institution is therefore, far older than the Bank of England, which was established in 1694. It is in the unique position of having coarseny claim. For the explasation of this curious state of affairs one has to go siderable capital to which no one last the pomp and magnificence, obtained vast pomp and magnificence, obtained vast pomp and magnificence obtained vast beledges. Before the invention of pins, articles of dress were fastened together by means of strings, ribbons, hooks and eyes, buckles, clarps and the like. Skewers of wood, brass, silver ano gold were also in use, but were inconvenient and ill-looking. Pins were first made in England in 1543, but for a long time were so costly as to be beyond the means of any but wentithy persons. A tax, indeed, was laid for the purpose of providing the queen with pins, and hardly any present was so acceptable to a kaly as a few of these useful little implements, or of money to buy them with. Hence the origin of the term "pin money," which by degrees took on the wider sense of money allowed a woman for her private expenses. It is not synonymous with pocket-money or spending-money, because it is limited in its application—and these words are not—to weense alone. main there about six days.

work investigating the question of re-planting the waste lands with timber. It points out that the problem has entered upon a new phase, since exper ience and observation have conclusive-ly proved that the pine forests which are so important a source of our provincial wealth will reproduce themselves in perpetuity, provided only that the ravages of fire can be prevented. The impresssion that has so long and so widely prevailed that the pine when cleared away will necessarily be succeeded by woods of an inferior characceeded by woods of an inferior character, has been proved incorrect. This only occurs when fire destroys the young trees and the seeds in the ground. Such being the case there is no reason why with reasonable precautions our pine supply should not remain sufficient for all demands upon it.

This is all you need in order to make a sinuction.

Take the box and nail down the lid, then cover the whole box with brightly colored tissue paper, in order to make it attractive. Then tack the pins along the edges of the box. Care is required in putting in the pins, this being the parlicular part of the work.

Have some one sing the soprano part of any song, note by note, meantime pounding in the pins—new and straight ones—until they sound exactly like the singing, just as a violin is tuned with a piano. The deeper the pins are driven
