ONE UNIT OF CANADIAN SIBERIAN EXPEDITION ESTABLISHED IN VLADIVOSTOK

The Canadian Force in Siberia Will be Engaged Principally in Reconstruction - Situation in Russia Compared to the Situation Existing in Mexico - Siberia, Whose Soil, Climate and Resources are Astonishingly Similar to Those in Canada, Holds Great Possibilities for This Country - Dominion Government Has Recognized This Fact in Naming an Economical Commission to Accompany the Military Expedition.

(By W. E. Playfair, correspondent of the Canadian Press Limited.)

Vancouver, Nov. 12—With one unit of the Siberian expedition, from Canada already established in Vladivostok and the remainder of the force mobilized in this country, signing of an armistice with German naturally raises the question as to whether the Dominion will proceed with its plan of dispatching an expeditionary force to the Orient. Military men here say that the latest developments in Europe will not materially affect the Siberian force.

country to its present straits. A so-called government that has repudiated Russia's foreign indebtedness, running into many millions of dollars; allowed the transportation system of the country to fall into ruin and utterly failed to cope with vital problems of the times is not considered a safe administration in Europe, or the world, at this moment.

LAST HOURS OF LANCE CORPORAL EARL DUNPHY

Nursing Sisters Write Letters of Sympathy to Mother of Moran Boy.

The following letters have been received by Mrs. Dunphy, of Moran, relative to the death of her son, Lance Corp. Earl H. Dunphy, who went overseas with the "Fighting 49th" and died of wounds in the Fourth London Hospital on September 14th.

4th London Hospital, London, S.E., Sept. 16, 1918. Dear Mrs. Dunphy: I feel I must just write one word of sympathy to you in your great sorrow. I am night sister and had quite a lot to do with your boy. He was just as good as gold, cheerful, patient, and most anxious to get well, poor boy. He suffered very little pain. He was shot through the spine and was unable to feel his wound. He was truly a true and noble soldier. We just loved him. He was a perfect dear to nurse. Always a smile and "Oh, you fine, Sister." He passed peacefully away on Sept. 14, about 8.35 a. m., after a quiet night. The Canadian Society were most kind in bringing him all he needed, and I know how kind for mothers to be so far away from their children, but believe me, he had the utmost care, and it was our one regret that his life could not be saved.

With my deepest sympathy, A. KING, (Sister). The Chase, Farnham Royal, Berks, Eng., Sept. 14, 1918. Dear Mrs. Dunphy: By now you will have had the sad news of the death of your son. He died yesterday morning, after lingering about a fortnight after he was wounded. Your heart must be broken at his loss, for you loved him, and after coming into hospital in London, where I was his Canadian Red Cross visitor, his only anxiety was to get a word to you. His case from the first was hopeless, for the spinal cord was severed, though the doctors and nurses, who loved him for his kind and unselfish goodness, did all they possibly could to help him. However, God had will—He otherwise. One sometimes wonders why a Merciful Providence does not take such a boy straight to Himself, but I think it must be because in dying he showed us, who were glad to do what we could for him, how great and unselfish a man may be in pain and trouble. He was paralyzed by his wound from the waist downwards, but towards the end, at least, he did not seem to be in pain, as he said to me when I asked him, very tired, and so God took him to rest.

Dear Mrs. Dunphy, I have more than one case like your boy's just now, slipping quietly away to God, and it breaks my heart to write and tell you mothers that in this world you will not see your sons again. I would like you to know, however, that they could not be in kinder care than that of the Sisters and Nurses, and that they want for nothing that their Red Cross can send them. I went often with fruit and jelly to your boy, anything I thought might help him, and he was always grateful. When we knew the end was coming, I told the Sister to call me if he seemed worse. I wanted him to have some friend by him at the last, besides the women who were so kind and nursed him. I know that you would wish to know all that I could tell you. On the Friday afternoon before he died I found another boy of his battalion, and actually of his platoon, in the hospital, and I took him with me to see your boy. He was Pte. Percy Young, and your son was so kind to see him. He quite roused himself for a little, and the two had a talk, but he was too weak to stand much, so we left him with the nurse, and I went on round the ward to see my other Canadian wounded. About 6.30 they sent for me. His pulse was weak and the end seemed near, so I went to him. His hands were cold when I took and held them, and I talked to him and asked him would I write to you and his brothers and give you his love. "Yes," he said, though his voice was weak, "but don't tell her I'm so bad. It pretty near killed her when I enlisted. Say I'm getting on fine." He rallied a little and the pulse grew stronger. "You're tired," I said, and he smiled in that gentle way of his and said "Yes." The boys in the ward kept quiet, and I held his hand and he gradually grew more composed and fell asleep, dozing but peaceful and quiet. Before that he had been so wide awake, and after a while I disengaged myself quietly and went home, for there was nothing more that I could do for him, and we none of us wished to worry him talking. He lingered all night and passed peacefully away about 8.35 next morning.

Your loss is great, dear Mrs. Dunphy, but your pride should also be great that you had a son who to the last was unselfish and brave. It is a very noble thought, and I hope will comfort you. I know how you will feel with all the other Canadian boys who have given their lives for King and Empire, in the conviction that they all sleep together, and on the day of the resurrection they will be in the hospital covered with the flag for which he died. Please accept my sincere sympathy. It was a privilege to do anything for your boy, and the Canadian Red Cross works continually for such men as he was. I am, Yours sincerely, IONA V. CARB.

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sickly most of the time. I went to a doctor and he said I had nervous indigestion, which added to my weak condition. I could not stop that, I could not get well. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound upon their time and strength; the result is invariably a weakened, run-down, nervous condition with headaches, backache, irritability and depression—and soon more serious ailments develop. It is at such periods in life that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will restore a normal healthy condition, as it did to Mrs. Worthington.

VICTORY LOAN AND PEACE CELEBRATION AT LOGGIEVILLE

Loggievill, N. B., Nov. 11.—The "doubling up spirit" is characteristic of the Victory Loan Campaign here. This town, which has for some time been flying its Honor Flag has won the fourth crown. The canvassers have good hopes of further contributions. There has already been subscribed here $200.100.

Thursday was a day long to be remembered here. About 2.30 p.m. the mill and boat whistles and church bells were sounded, notifying the citizens that the world struggle was nearing the end. Residences and other buildings were decorated with flags. Employees in stores, mills and other business centres were given a holiday on Friday enabling them to attend the celebration in Chatham. In the midst of all the joy making, many sympathetic hearts went out to the thousands who have felt the toll of war so keenly.

SAYS FOOD HAS ALMOST LITERALLY WON THE WAR

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—"Food has almost literally won the war. It is growing plainer and plainer that it is the final factor, which brought about the submission in turn of Bulgaria, Turkey, Austria-Hungary and Germany," says the chairman of the Canada Food Board. "Four statements from the best sources in today's news bring the facts out into sudden brightness. The German Foreign Secretary, should start at once and inform the Secretary of State of the United States that there is a pressing danger of famine among the people."

"An Associated Press message from New York says: 'Starvation is being worn out empire; Germany's begging not only for peace, but for bread.' Mr. Andrew Bonar Law, Chairman of the Exchequer, asking the House for a vote of credit of £2,000,000. "It might be necessary for the Allies to make an effort to bring foodstuffs to Europe, in which case the expenditure would be great and it would be vital that the close international unity which the war has produced shall prevail while the ravages of war are being repaired. When some men get their heads in this glorious land of the free are in the ex-convict class."

Large advertisement for Victory Bonds. Text: 'As a matter of business, what do you think of the plan? You are a farmer. Canada is a farming country. Canada grows more food than the people of Canada need. To prosper she must sell that surplus food. Great Britain is our best customer for grain, pork, beef, cheese and other farm products. Every practical man must see how important it is to hold the British trade. Canada wants not only the profit on this trade, she wishes to create a goodwill in Britain towards Canadian products and thus assure our export business for the future. At the moment Great Britain asks for credit, asks Canada to sell her the products of the farm, "on time." To hold her trade, it is necessary to give this credit. This takes capital—immense capital. For Britain's purchases from Canada are huge, and these purchases must be paid for in cash. In these times, it is not easy even for a nation as wealthy as Canada to procure money. Certainly, no other country can lend us money. The only way now open for Canada to secure money is to borrow from the people of Canada. This is the reason for selling Victory Bonds. Can anyone deny the sound business sense of this plan of protecting our valuable market? From the standpoint of the man who lends, what better security could he get for his money? Where else could he get a five and a half per cent. return on such security? Where would he find an investment to pay interest so regularly and with so little trouble to the lender? Certainly Canadians have an opportunity to benefit very directly from this borrowing plan. And the money Canada borrows is spent entirely in Canada—a very large part of it for the very crops the farmer has to sell. Therefore, if the Victory Loan is a success, business in Canada must be good, the nation must prosper and so be able to carry on a vigorous war effort in France and Flanders. As a practical man you must approve of the Victory Loan plan. Then help it along. Put your own money into Victory Bonds; urge your friends to buy; work hard among your loyal neighbors to make the Victory Loan 1918 an overwhelming success. Buy VICTORY BONDS—all you can pay for in cash and all you can carry on instalments. Issued by Canada's Victory Loan Committee in cooperation with the Minister of Finance of the Dominion of Canada.'

How Many Crowns for Your Honor Flag?

Of course every city, town and district will earn its Honor Flag. But how about the crowns?

For every twenty-five per cent. in excess of its quota, each city, town and district will be entitled to add a crown to its flag.

Can you do fifty per cent. better than your quota—that means two crowns for your Honor Flag.

But double your quota and it means four crowns.

Hang a Flag in your hall, that for years to come will show that your city, town or district did better than well—

That it was a real factor in the huge success of CANADA'S VICTORY LOAN 1918.

EMPEROR CHARLES

Hungary... Emperor Charles... renounces all privileges and take oath as Hungarian citizens.

Copenhagen, Nov. 13, 3.50 a.m.—The abdication of Emperor Charles of Austria is officially announced at Vienna.

Copenhagen, Nov. 13—A despatch received here contains details of Emperor Charles XVII, of Reuss, of the younger line, has abdicated.

Prince Heinrich was reigning monarch of the house of Prurnbumb of the younger branch. He was born in 1858.

Berlin, Nov. 12—Budapest newspapers reported here contain details of a remarkable ceremony in which Archduke Josef of Austria and his son, Josef Francis, took oath to the Hungarian constitution as simple Hungarian citizens named Japoburg.

The newspapers say this was the first instance in four hundred years when such a renunciation was made. All privileges were given up by the Archduke and his son.

The newspapers also say that the title princely of Liechtenstein, of ten thousand inhabitants, situated on the Swiss eastern frontier, also has had a revolution. The prince of Liechtenstein was forced to leave the country. He was superseded by Dr. Ritter, a lawyer of Innsbruck.

Berlin, Nov. 12—The death of Victor Adler, the foreign secretary of German-Austria and the Austrian Socialist leader, yesterday, in Vienna, was due to apoplexy.

Amsterdam, Nov. 12—A meeting of six thousand Jewish soldiers formed a soldiers' and workmen's council and occupied Leopoldstad, an eastern quarter of Vienna, according to a Vienna despatch which quotes the Jewish correspondence bureau.

The administration of the Jewish community is in the hands of a Jewish national council.

Jewish soldiers' and workmen's councils have been established at Prague, Theresienstadt, Olmutz and other places and have been welcomed by the Czechs. The Jewish communities of Moldavia have accepted the Jewish national programme.

GREATEST VICTORY IN 2000 YEARS OF HISTORY

Messages of Felicitations Exchanged Between Joseph S. Daniels, Secretary of the American Navy, and Sir Eric Geddes, First Lord of the British Admiralty.

London, Nov. 13—(British Wireless Service)—Messages of felicitations have been exchanged between Joseph S. Daniels, Secretary of the American Navy, and Sir Eric Geddes, First Lord of the British Admiralty.

The message of Mr. Daniels said: "This is the greatest day in 2,000 years of history. All of the 100,000 in the American navy send greetings to you and your great navy. One of the things for which we are happiest is that the two English-speaking navies have co-operated to achieve the glorious result."

Sir Eric Geddes replied to Mr. Daniels as follows: "I thank you on behalf of the British Navy for your very cordial message of greetings. The friendship between the two English-speaking navies which the war has brought about is one of the lasting benefits which these terrible years have given us, and the co-operation with the United States Navy will never be forgotten by the Royal Navy."

The message sent by wireless to the Allied high command Monday afternoon contending that the Americans had not ceased hostilities on November 11.

The message sent by wireless to the Allied command was timed two p.m. and read:

"On the front of Stenay-Beaumont, along the Meuse, Americans continue despite decision of armistice. Please order the stopping of hostilities."

The American answer to the German message reads as follows: "Received your radio. Orders have been given for the American activities signalled on the Stenay-Beaumont front to cease immediately."

So the engineers did not blast during the remainder of Monday afternoon. Early this morning, however, they resumed their blasting. The explosions today did not bring any message from the Germans.

TAKES OFF DANDRUFF, HAIR STOPS FALLING

Save your hair! Get a small bottle of Dandruff right now—Also stops itching scalp.

This, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp, of dandruff—that awful scourge.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast.

A little Dandruff tonight—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Dandruff from any drug store. You surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Dan deruff. Saves your hair! Try it!

DISMISSED MARCONI WIRELESS APPLICATION.

Ottawa, Nov. 12—Mr. Justice Audette has delivered judgment on the application of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company of Canada for an interim injunction against the Canadian Car and Foundry Company, restraining the defendants from installing wireless apparatus on ships being built by them in Canada for the French Government.

He dismissed the application on the ground that the plaintiffs failed to show that what the defendants were doing would amount to irreparable injury to the plaintiffs or that it could not be remedied by them at the trial.

PLANS NO REDUCTION IN WAGES UNDER PEACE CONDITIONS

Washington, Nov. 13—The Railroad Administration plans no reduction in railroad employees' wages under peace conditions, and likewise no material lowering of freight and passenger rates, it was stated authoritatively today.

Director-General McArdoo has declared that he would lower rates as soon as it was determined that it would be sufficient to pay wage increases and the higher cost of materials, supplies and other transportation elements. It was explained today, however, that the time when this would be possible is not yet in sight.

KAISER ACCOMPANIED BY NUMBER OF OFFICERS

Von Moltke Among the Generals Who Have Fled Into Holland.

London, Nov. 13—A despatch to the Daily Mail from Maarn, Holland, says that among those who accompanied the former German Emperor was the Queen's consort, the marshal of the court Von Plann and five captains.

After the arrival of the German party General Onnen, of the Dutch army asked all the members to give parole.

London, Nov. 12—(By the Associated Press, 3.30 p.m.)—Blasting by American engineers in a roomed repairing detachment caused the German high command to send a message to the Allied high command Monday afternoon contending that the Americans had not ceased hostilities on November 11.

The message sent by wireless to the Allied command was timed two p.m. and read:

"On the front of Stenay-Beaumont, along the Meuse, Americans continue despite decision of armistice. Please order the stopping of hostilities."

EARLY PULLETS FOR WINTER EGGS

When we take into consideration that the average egg production on the Canadian farms is 75 or 80 eggs per hen and when well managed flocks average 120 to 180 eggs and individual hens even go higher than 200 eggs in the 12 months, it looks as though improvement might be made in the class of stock many keep.

In the first place, pulsed stock is best. They should be from a good laying strain. They should be from good healthy parentage and for winter egg production, pullets only and early pullets should be from a good laying strain.

PEACE SETTLEMENT ONE OF ISSUES IN BRITISH ELECTION

The Mandate of the Forthcoming Election Will Mean That the British Delegation to the Peace Conference Will be in Favor of a Just Peace, Lloyd George Declares.

London, Nov. 13—(British Wireless Service)—"One of the principal issues in the forthcoming general election will be the nature of the peace settlement. It will mean the settlement of the world."

Mr. Lloyd George made this announcement in an address to his Liberal supporters on November 11.

"What are the principles on which that settlement is to be effected?" he asked. "Are we to lapse back into the old national rivalries, animosities and competitive armaments, or are we to initiate the reign of earth of the Prince of Peace? It is the duty of liberalism to use its influence to ensure that it shall be a reign of peace."

"What are the conditions of peace?" he asked. "Vigorous attempts will be made to satisfy some basic, sound, sound ideas of vengeance and of revenge. We must relentlessly set our faces against such a course."

The mandate of this Government, he said, is to bring about a settlement which will be fundamentally just. No settlement that contravenes the principles of eternal justice will be a permanent one. The peace of 1871 imposed by Germany on France outraged all the principles of justice and fair play. Let us be warned by that example.

"We must not allow any sense of revenge, any spirit of greed, any grasping desire to override the fundamental principles of righteousness. Vigorous attempts will be made to satisfy some basic, sound, sound ideas of vengeance and of revenge. We must relentlessly set our faces against such a course."

2 YEARS MORE IN FRANCE FOR PART OF THE U.S. ARMY

Greatest Task of Victory in Demobilization is to Be Done Under Way.

DRAFT CALLS STOP ON OFFICIAL ORDER

Troops Abroad Will Be Used For Many Months in Police Duty.

Washington, Nov. 11—No sooner had governmental departments opened to-day than the greatest problem of the kind this country has ever been called upon to solve came up for discussion—the demobilization and repatriation of the expeditionary forces in France and elsewhere at the earliest possible moment, and the gradual return of the navy to a peace basis.

Neither of these great tasks can be accomplished for months. The last of the American soldiers abroad may not return to their homes for two years, owing to the necessity of holding bases in Germany or doing police duty in Russia and elsewhere.

OTTAWA CONSIDERING RECONSTRUCTION PROBLEMS

Ottawa, Nov. 12—Reconstruction problems are being considered at conferences by leading manufacturing interests and the Re-Construction Development Committee of the Cabinet. A large delegation recently urged on the Government the necessity for steps to develop export trade in view of the probable early cessation of munition orders. It was then decided that a committee should be appointed to work in conjunction with, and to advise the Government.

It is understood that the Federal Cabinet has acceded to the requests of organized labor for the repeal of the non-strike Order-in-Council, the restraint and moderation shown by labor and its representatives bringing the desired result in having this objectionable legislation rescinded.

The ban on the social democratic party has also been removed and organization otherwise legal are now to be allowed to conduct their business in other languages than English and French, as previously permitted.

STATE WIDE PROHIBITION CARRIED IN MINNESOTA

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 12—Official and unofficial returns from every county in Minnesota indicate that the state-wide prohibition was adopted at the recent election by a majority of about 2,000 votes. It was necessary to poll a majority of total votes cast to make the state dry.

MUST EXECUTE ARMINUTE TERMS SIX SOCIALIST VORWAERTS.

Berlin, Nov. 12—The Socialist Vorwarts of Berlin describes the German armistice conditions as "terrible" and adds: "Since the old regime has collapsed the new government must accept the conditions and execute them loyally. The treaties have been signed and must be executed. It will be the task of the new government to conclude a peace which is the best peace possible."

A small number of men in Eastern states commenced entraining at 6 a.m. to-day for continents, and the cancellation came too late to affect their status. They will be considered as in the army, until demobilized.

Secretary Daniels announced to-day that no immediate steps would be taken toward demobilizing any part of the naval forces of the United States.

It was hinted at the Navy Department that the United States, the world's richest nation and the least sufferer from the war of all the great powers, might be called upon to do the greatest share of navy police work for enforcement of armistice terms. But the Secretary announced to-day that he did not regard the conveying of shipping to European ports necessary, now that hostilities have ceased.

10,000 From Navy Now in Europe.

About 10,000 members of the naval establishments, including the marines with General Pershing's army, are now in Europe. Mr. Daniels said withdrawal of the marines would be accord with the army's demobilization plans, adding that in all previous wars where marines have been employed they were usually landed in other force.

Early orders withdrawing from service the naval establishments, with the exception of the marines, may be expected, Mr. Daniels indicated. Although there is no doubt that they are not yet completed.

It was pointed out that the navy has been charged with the duty of training crews for the great numbers of merchant ships being commissioned by the shipping board. The Secretary anticipates continuing that work until some new plan is provided. It is a still existent work of demobilization and reconstruction work in Europe, that great merchant tonnage should be immediately available was said to be improbable to Mr. Daniels that any reduction of the naval forces being trained to man such ships could be undertaken in the near future.

The majority of the navy's temporary construction work ashore has been completed, and work on buildings and other shore facilities now in progress is largely concentrated upon the three great naval stations at Newport, R.I.; Great Lakes, Illinois, and Hampton Roads, Virginia. The facilities there will always be needed by the navy, Mr. Daniels said, and no curtailment of this construction work is to be expected.

Secretary Baker later announced that so far as practical, all men who have been called, and who have not yet completed their training, will be immediately turned back to civilian life.

"CASCARETS" WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

For Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Sluggish Liver and Bowels—Take Cascares tonight.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a still barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascarte to-night will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months.

SPANISH INFLUENZA RAGES IN CANADA

Thousands of Cases Reported With Many Deaths.

THOSE WHO ARE MOST SUSCEPTIBLE TO IT

'FRUIT-A-TIVES'—The Wonderful Fruit Medicine—Gives the Power To Resist This Disease.

The epidemic of Spanish Influenza which played such havoc in Europe, has reached this continent. Thousands of cases of the strange malady have appeared and many deaths are already reported; Surgeon-General Hurl of the United States Public Health Service having stated that "Spanish Influenza will probably spread all over the country in six weeks."

Practically every ship which touches our shores from abroad, brings those infected with the disease. Surgeon-General Hurl urges that "the individual take all the precautions he can against contracting the disease by care and personal hygiene." Plenty of exercise should be taken; the diet should be regulated, etc.

Spanish Influenza affects most severely elderly persons and others whose powers of resistance are weakened by illness, work or worry, especially those who are "run-down" or "not feeling up to the mark."

This really great danger from the disease is not so much in the disease itself, as that it often develops into pneumonia. What everyone needs now is a general tonic like "Fruit-a-tives". This wonderful fruit medicine is not a germ-killer. It is a body-builder; a strength-maker; a blood-purifier; a power in protecting against the ravages of disease.

"Fruit-a-tives" regulates the kidneys and bowels, causing these organs to eliminate waste regularly and naturally as nature intended. "Fruit-a-tives" purifies the blood, and naturally enriches the blood. "Fruit-a-tives" tones up and strengthens the organs of digestion, insuring food being properly digested and assimilated.

Everyone can take ordinary preventive, avoid crowded places, and use "Fruit-a-tives" to insure sound digestion, to keep the bowels and kidneys regular and the whole system in the best possible condition. Then we are safe from disease.

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by dealers everywhere at 50c a bottle. Retail size 25c or post paid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

our needs and fold our weaker efforts to stave us. Indeed, they had better look out for themselves. Don't forget we have a monopoly on the potato market of the world. Without proper fertilization, American crops will go on decreasing and decreasing and they won't get any potato until we get ready to let them have it!"

The failure of the Zeppelins from a military standpoint was undoubtedly a great disappointment to the German people at large, who had counted so much upon them to bring disaster to England, but it cannot be said that the Kaiser shared their chagrin. On the contrary, I have reason to believe that he never expected very much from that arm of his military force except as it might be useful to terrorize the civil population.

A day or two after Zeppelin's death, in 1917, a patient of mine, a lady, happened to remark that it was too bad that the count had not lived to see the triumph of his invention, and when I saw the Kaiser shortly afterwards I repeated her remark to see what he would say.

"I am convinced that the count lived long enough to see all that the Zeppelins were capable of accomplishing," was his only comment. It recalled the answer he had given me some years before when both Zeppelins and airships were in their infancy and I had asked him which held the greater promise. "We do not know. Time alone will tell," was his reply.

The last time I conversed with the Kaiser was on November 26, 1917. Up to that time we had seen over 100,000 troops, according to the figures which have since been revealed by Secretary Baker. According to the Kaiser's information, however, we had only 30,000 men in France at that time and he was of the opinion that we would never have the opinion that we would have.

"America is having a fine time trying to raise an army," he declared satirically. "I hear that 1,000 mutilated other day in New York and refused to get on a transport, and a wave of the North-west complained, especially of citizens of Swedish blood refused to register at all! We are getting excellent information about all conditions in America."

Shortly before this had come the revolution from Washington of the Emperor of Germany, the Kaiser and I knew where the Kaiser was getting the information he referred to. In nearly every case, it appeared, the Kaiser's remarks were misleading.

Each before and after we entered the war the Kaiser was thoroughly convinced that we could play only a neutral part in it so far as man power was concerned and his assurance at that point undoubtedly accounted for his decision to carry through his submarine program even though it resulted in bringing us into the war.

"Do you realize how many tons of shipping it takes to ship a single soldier?" he asked me on one occasion. I confessed my ignorance on that point.

"Well, it takes six tons to the man! To send over an army of 500,000 men, therefore, your country would require 3,000,000 tons of shipping in addition to the tonnage required for regular traffic. Where is it coming from, with my submarines sinking the allied vessels faster than they can ever be replaced? My U-boats are doing wonderful work and we are prepared to take care of all the troops America may try to land in France."

"How foolish for America to have come into the war," he went on. "If she could succeed in landing a vast army in France, what good would it do? America can see how easy it was for me to break through and to capture 600,000 of the Italians, and they must realize that I can break through on the western front and do the same thing there. If America had kept out of the war, she would have gone on making untold profits and when peace came would have declared she would have the most favorable position among the nations of the world. As it is, Wilson will never have a seat at the peace table if I can help it, and no American shall have to pay all the costs of the war."

A man doesn't have to work every day, but he must take care of himself. It is not necessary to get into a military line.

of the war. I should say the world at large would have to content with very little.

How the Kaiser feels now that the failure of the U-boats to intercept American troops must be particularly absorbing to him, and America has so overwhelmingly overcome the shortage of shipping, I don't know, but it is more than probable that for some time to come the real situation will, at any rate, be inconspicuously concealed from the German people. I know that the failure of the U-boat campaign was unknown to the Germans up to the time I left Berlin—in January, 1918.

While the Kaiser and the Germans generally feel confident that we would never be able to meet them on their own terms, they are not so confident as they once were. According to some of the German officers with whom I spoke, even if we landed 2,000,000 men in France it would not be enough to break the deadlock, as the Germans were taking a similar number of trained troops from the Russian front. The only menace of American participation in the war lay in the possibility that we might, considerably to the allied advantage, make power alone, they contended, would never be sufficient to help the allies much, but overwhelming superiority in the air might occasion the German some surprise.

The Kaiser himself had but a poor opinion of the fighting qualities of the American soldier so far as modern war requirements are concerned. "The American soldier would possibly give a good account of himself in open fighting," he declared, "but he is not built for the kind of warfare he will encounter in France. He lacks the stolidity to endure life in the trenches. He is too high-strung and couldn't stand the inactive life which is such an important part of modern warfare. Besides, he lacks discipline and trained officers."

CHAPTER IX. The Kaiser's Plan for World Dominion. The history of modern Germany is, perhaps, in itself sufficient indication of the underlying plan of the Teuton war barons to control the whole of Europe and, eventually, the world. The program has been slowly unfolding since the time of Frederick the Great and the present generation is now witnessing what was intended to be the climax.

"There can be no doubt that if Germany had succeeded in her efforts to gain control of the major part of Europe she would have come into the world toward the western hemisphere and the east."

This program, so fairly indicated by the course of events as history lays them bare, but I have the actual word of the Kaiser to substantiate it. At one of his visits to me shortly after the beginning of the war he was conversing with Secretary Baker's participation in it.

"What hypocrisy the English are!" the Kaiser exclaimed. "They had always treated me so well when I visited them. I never believed they would betray me in this war. They always acted as if they liked me. My mother was English, you know. I always thought the world was big enough for three of us and we could keep it for ourselves—me, my mother, and you. They have now betrayed me and they are carrying on a program even though it resulted in bringing us into the war."

"How long it would have been before Germany would be crushed to wreck, I am sure," he said. "I have seen the world, and with the whole of Europe and the far east under her thumb, America would undoubtedly have gained for herself a moral for this war, but she had no desire to carry out his plan to dominate the world. He said that he believed that the world was "big enough for three," he didn't say it was too big for one.

"What was this in his mind, however, as indicated by a passage in an address he made some twenty-five years ago, in which, as Rev. Dr. Dwight Linnis has pointed out, he said these words:

"I grew up in childhood I have been under the influence of three emperors—Alexander, Julius Caesar, Theodoric II, Napoleon and Frederick the Great. These five men dreamed their dream of a world empire; they failed. I am dreaming my dream of a world empire, but I shall succeed!"

The Kaiser's plan to dominate Europe included the control of Turkey, and he made every effort to strengthen that country so that she might be a valuable ally in the war to come. Europe had not forgotten the Balkan war before the Balkan war. I mentioned to the Kaiser how opportunely Italy had acted, but the Kaiser dismissed my remark with an exclamation of "displeasure," realising, of course that Italy's loss was in a sense his own since he had planned to make Turkey his rival.

To that end he had sent German officers to train the Turkish army and had supplied them with guns and shells. With an eye to the future, too, he had constructed the great Bagdad Railway.

When the Balkan War broke out in 1912 the Kaiser had great confidence that the German-trained Turkish army would secure itself creditably and thus in the conquest of Asia, creating for himself a new world empire. He had planned to attack Turkey in the war.

"I had planned to make Turkey his rival."

was a map of the war area placed in his motor and that with eyes he followed the fortunes of the fighting army. He was not in the habit of leaving his motor, and he was not in the habit of leaving his motor, and he was not in the habit of leaving his motor.

The Turkish army was naturally a great disappointment to him. "These Mohammedans, Germans and Bulgarians are wonderful fighters," he confessed to me shortly after the war, "but they have the strength and stamina which fighters require. If they keep on the way they are going they'll be in Constantinople in a week! Confound those Turks! We furnished them guns and ammunition and they didn't even make them. We've done our best!"

The defeat of the Turks lessened their value to the Kaiser as an ally, and he immediately and late effect, he intended to increase the German standing army from 600,000 to 800,000—to restore the balance of power, they said. For this purpose a "war-trap" or increased armament tax was levied on Germany, and, incidentally, I was informed that I would have to pay my share. The idea of paying a tax to uphold the German army, which was already so powerful that it menaced the peace of the world, did not appeal to me at all, and I spoke to Ambassador Gerard about it. He advised me to pay it under protest, agreeing with me that there was no reason why an American should be required to contribute to the German war budget. However, I had to pay it.

The German efforts at colonization, which were more or less of a failure because the Germans refused to inhabit the German possessions, and the measures adopted to conquer the commercial markets of the world were an important part of the program of world domination which Germany planned for herself, and it is not unlikely that if she had continued her efforts along those lines she might have progressed further along her chosen path than she has as advertised by bathing the world in blood.

"I have nearly 70,000,000 people," the Kaiser said to me on one occasion, "and we shall have to find room for them elsewhere. When we became an empire England had her hands on nearly everything. Now we must fight to get ours. That is why I am developing our world markets, just as your country secured Hawaii and the Philippines by stopping the flow of trade to the markets of the far east, as I understand it. That's why I developed the wonderful city of Kiao-Chau."

His plans in this connection were changed somewhat apparently by the developments of the present war, for he told me that when the world was an empire England had her hands on nearly everything. Now we must fight to get ours. That is why I am developing our world markets, just as your country secured Hawaii and the Philippines by stopping the flow of trade to the markets of the far east, as I understand it. That's why I developed the wonderful city of Kiao-Chau."

"No more American emigration for us after the war," he said. "My people will settle in the Balkans and the Philippines and other wonderful countries. I have been down there and I know it is a marvelous land for our purposes."

The Kaiser's vision of the part he would take in the reconstruction of Europe after the war was indicated by a remark he made to me in 1916 when I was visiting him at the army headquarters at Ploeg. "Here I am nearly sixty years of age," he said, "and most people would think I should be at the head of the parade. But I have the honor of being the victor of the world. I have seen the world, and with the whole of Europe and the far east under her thumb, America would undoubtedly have gained for herself a moral for this war, but she had no desire to carry out his plan to dominate the world. He said that he believed that the world was "big enough for three," he didn't say it was too big for one.

Although the Kaiser so freely admitted his designs on the world at large, he was impatient of any expansion on the part of other nations. He often spoke of England's "grabbing" property and virtual subjugation of the annexation of Hawaii and the Philippines and our development of Cuba after the Spanish-American war. He professed to see in our new policy a striving after world power which was inconsistent with the principles upon which our government was founded.

"He objected to our interference in Mexican affairs, although, as was disclosed by the Zimmerman note to Von Eckhardt, he was making every effort to have Mexico interfere with us. "What right has America to insist upon the Monroe doctrine of America and to mix in European affairs? Let her recognize also a Monroe doctrine of Europe and keep her hands out of this conflict."

"There is no doubt that the Kaiser imagined that the great army and navy he had built up would enable him to carry out his ambitious program without effective resistance. The one power he most feared, but for which he professed the utmost contempt was England. He had an idea that England would never dare to measure swords with Germany and that he could provoke a war when the opportune moment came without much fear of English intervention."

In 1911, when the international situation over the Moroccan affair was particularly acute as a result of Germany's having sent a gunboat to Agadir to demonstrate that she was serious in her demands, the Kaiser had great hopes that war with France might be provoked, and he was confident that England would keep out of it.

"England would be afraid to war with us," he said on the time, "for fear of losing Egypt, India and Poland. Any nation that has such a large empire and fighting in Europe, she would not dare to risk the loss of her overseas colonies."

When the Kaiser's confidence in England was broken, he was not in the habit of leaving his motor, and he was not in the habit of leaving his motor, and he was not in the habit of leaving his motor.

Truth is mighty—mighty inconvincible to the horse thief. All is not gold that glitters in the glittering mine, opportunity.

Without a superior army and navy, his whole plan would have to be abandoned, and the dream of a world empire would be abandoned.

On one occasion when I was discussing the German plan to invade the British Isles, the Kaiser said to me that he had a map of the war area placed in his motor and that with eyes he followed the fortunes of the fighting army. He was not in the habit of leaving his motor, and he was not in the habit of leaving his motor.

Look at the history of our nation! Look at the history of our nation! Look at the history of our nation! Look at the history of our nation! Look at the history of our nation!

GERMAN HEARTLESSNESS CONTINUED UP TO THE LAST

With the British American Armies in the Field, Nov. 4.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Instances of German mistreatment of the civil population of villages in France which have just been taken by the British-American armies are numerous, but perhaps some shows the cold and calculated heartlessness of the Hun more than the following story that was related to the correspondent by one of the inhabitants of the little town of St. Souplet, near St. Quentin.

An attack by the British and American forces was impending. The Germans expected it and informed the population that if they gathered in the local church and put up a white sheet as a flag, they would be spared by the advancing Allied troops. They did so. The Germans soon were driven out by the British and Americans.

HARD HIT BY "FLU"
In addition to the death of Harold Lockwood, of Metro, and J. Warren Kerrigan, of Paralta Pictures, the screen-folowing public will be sorry to learn that Viola Dana's husband and director, John J. Collins, has died of the influenza. Mrs. Dana is still critically ill herself and does not yet know of her spouse's demise. Lottie Pickford, Mary's sister, is slowly recovering after a narrow escape from the malady's worst form. Owen Moore, Mary Pickford's husband, is also convalescent. Recent theatrical journals to hand give long lists of ill performers in the dramatic, operatic, vaudeville and picture professions, many of whom are already familiar to Newcastle audiences.

NEWCASTLE CELEBRATES DOWNFALL OF HUN

Thanksgiving Services Took Place This Morning and Parades are Being Held This Afternoon.

The glad news that the war was over reached Newcastle about five o'clock on Monday morning, and despite the carliners of the hour, spread rapidly and as soon as daylight made its appearance the public and members of the town pealed forth their chorus of victory. Owing to the provincial holiday being proclaimed for Tuesday, no public parade was held in the town, but the small boy with his noise-makers and flags was in a vidence in all parts of the town.

On Monday evening a band concert was given in the Square, and short addresses on the Victory Loan delivered by the Mayor, Mr. Norman McGloan, of St. John, and others.

This morning thanksgiving services were held in all the churches of the town, and a public thanksgiving service in the Square at 11 o'clock, while this afternoon a parade of citizens and hosts will be held, with a bonfire in the commons in the evening, a full report of which will appear in our next issue.

In the afternoon the main part of the celebration took place. Just before the procession was formed up, the band rendered the Dead March in memory of the boys who had given their lives overseas.

The procession, which was almost a mile long, was headed by Police Magistrate Lawlor and Ald.-Charles Sargeant as marshals. The order of the procession was as follows:

- Citizens' Band
- Returned Soldiers
- Floot—For those who paid in Flanders' fields
- Red Cross
- School Children
- Citizens on foot

The foot "For those who paid in Flanders' fields" was very favorably commented upon, and consisted of a large white cross rising from a green field strewn with poppies.

After the foot parade, a parade of decorated autos took place, upwards of one hundred cars being in line, and they attracted much of the time that in the evening the band gave a very enjoyable concert in the Square, and a committee appointed supplied the music.

The rejoicing was carried on until a late hour.

WEST NORTHUMBERLAND MUST SPEED UP LOAN

Only Four Days Left to Make Allotment of $350,000—Almost $100,000.

There remains but four days in which to purchase a Bond in Canada's final Victory Loan, and West Northumberland will have to show more interest during that time than has been manifested during the earlier part of the campaign if we are to be the proud possessors of an Honor Flag.

Already three districts that raise its objective—and there is no reason why we should not.

The objective of West Northumberland is $350,000. To date about $250,000 has been subscribed, leaving about $100,000 to be raised during the remainder of the week.

Already three districts have gone over the top—Blackville, Dorby and Renous—and have been awarded the coveted flag.

In East Northumberland upwards of $400,000 has been raised, and Chatham and Rogersville have won flags, while Loggieville has the proud distinction of so less than four crowns in their Honor Flag.
