THE FAIR IMPOSTOR.

CHAPTER XX.
Over the Toast and Tea.
(Concluded.)

HAROLD, with more than half his attention fixed on the white, slim figure at the piano, answered in the same tone, but very soon sank back and gave himself up to enjoyment.
'Ask her to sing,' he whispered.
'Sing something, Miss Ethel, dear,' said the dame aloud.
There was a moment's pause; then the exquisite voice rose softly into an old, English ballad.
Harold covered his eyes with his hands, and listened with all his heart. Never, in all his life, had a voice so touched him; and yet he had heard most of the great singers of the day, from Titens to Nilson.
Sweetly and softly, the fresh, young voice sang the simple, old world song, with no straining after effect; no elaborate notes; no ear-piercing trills. It was just sweet, pure melody.
Without moving, Harold said, quietly:
'Once more, Miss Ethel,' and was quite unconscious that he had called her by her Christian name.
With a little flickering color, she touched the notes, and sang another song, this time that immortal air from "Trovatore," which, hackneyed though it be, is always fresh and moving.
There was a moment's silence, when she had finished, and left the piano.
Harold thirsted for more, but could not summon up courage to ask for it.
Not a word did he say, but, as he rose and stood, hat in hand silent and abstracted, both might have seen that the weary, troubled look had left his face, and the old, frank, serenity had come back to it.
'With something like a start of reluctance, he said, looking at his watch:
'I'm afraid I must go; I'd no idea it was so late! Good-night, nurse!' and, with that unaffected simplicity which so well becomes a man, he bent his handsome head and kissed in his eyes, so quiet and grave, instead of bright and sparkling. They used to look so when anything crossed him or puzzled him, long years ago. My heart ached and yearned to ask him; but what could I do—a poor, old woman? And he'd have put me off with a light word and a saucy one.

'He did not seem unhappy,' said the quiet, musical voice, thoughtfully. 'Why should he be? He is young, handsome—'
She paused; the dame nodded.
'Handsome—ay, that he be—my Harold!'
'And rich; with best of friends—'
'And a Woodleigh!' said the nurse, summing up; 'that's enough to make a man happy. What was it he said about Miss Lillian, dear? Ah, I want you to see her! Talk about handsome, now! There's a beauty, bless her heart!'
Ethel struck a chord or two, softly.
'Tell me about her,' she said, in a low voice. 'Is she so very beautiful? What is she like?'
'She's lovely, Miss Ethel, dear; and what's she like? Ah, how can an old woman like me put it into words? She's an angel!'
'Is she dark or fair?' asked Ethel, playing a soft, floating melody.
'Dark, my dear; but not one of your black women! Oh, no! Dark, with the loveliest hair, and eyes that shine like diamonds when you look at them one moment, and look soft and smooth as a fawn's the next. And such a beautiful mouth! Not small, like a doll's, but with reddest lips and the prettiest curves. Ah! and the old dame paused a moment, musingly; 'I've seen some beauties in my day, Miss Ethel, but none so beautiful as Miss Lillian.'
'How happy she must be!' murmured the listener, her words scarcely audible above the soft music.
'Happy! Yes; and so she should be, bless her heart, with everything

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

It was a perfect delight to take her on a picnic or an excursion because she simply bubbled over with enthusiasm every minute of the time.

She is grown up now. At least she thinks so. And I fancy myself that she is older now than she will ever be again.

I happened to be with her on a jolly little excursion the other day. Her ennuï was pathetic.

"I remember when I was a little girl and used to come up here; what a fuss I used to make about going out on the lake in one of those wretched life boats," she reminisced in the manner of very old young folks.

"Why, now I'd want to be paid just to get into one of the dirty little things," and then, with an air of evident pride, "I've certainly outgrown my enthusiasm."

Her air of pride ought to have been an air of regret and sorrow, I think. There is nothing to be proud about in being bored. Absolutely the contrary.

"I've reached the age when one begins to prefer sherbet to ice cream, and orangeade and moxto to ice cream soda," a whimsical young man remarked to me the other day.

It was a rather clever characterization and I suppose it is symbolic of the attitude that most of us get into as we advance in our twenties.

But, oh! I love the people who don't—the dear folks who still childishly delight in ice cream and ice cream soda.

And I think the rest of the world loves them, too.

It laughs at them once in a while but just as it loves a child so it loves "that child's heart within the man's."

Despair and Despondency

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured completely upset the nerves if long continued.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Honest medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing to urge upon you as "just as good."

It is non-secret, non-alcoholic and has a record of forty years of cures. Ask Your Neighbors. They probably know of some of its many cures.

If you want a book that tells all about woman's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 31 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers. In handsome cloth-binding, 50 stamps. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

A liberal use of hot soda water and a scrubbing brush will insure a clean sink for the tidy housekeeper. If the sink becomes black a bit of paraffin rubbed on will remove the stain.

To remove grass stains from children's clothes, rub the spots thoroughly with a little fresh lard a short time before washing. Then wash as usual and the spots should come out.

Don't pour water in which cabbage has been boiled down the kitchen sink while it is hot. If it is allowed to cool first the unpleasant odour that follows when it is poured will be avoided.

To make ginger and nut sandwiches, cut up one part of preserved ginger to two parts of nuts, moisten with syrup of the ginger or with thick cream and spread between slices of bread.

A novel ham sandwich is made thus: Chop very fine some lean, cold ham, mix with a little salad dressing or cream, season and spread between the slices of white bread, cut thin and buttered.

A good way to bleach linen or lace is to put it into a bowl of soapy water and set it out in the strong sunlight. If it is exposed to dirt and dust place a glass over the bowl.

Now that the apple has lost its best flavor by cold storage, it may be made into an appetizing salad with onions. Cut together in thin slices and serve on lettuce leaves with oil and vinegar.

The best complexion cream is buttermilk—several glasses of it drunk every day. Nothing that is smeared on the outside of the face will match it for cleaning and brightening the skin.

A charming bed cover can be made of soft, sheer, pineapple linen, trimmed with lace heading. Through this run ribbon and tie in big bows at the corners. The whole can be edged with Valenciennes lace.

Cambric petticoats will last much longer if a piece of wide tape is stitched flat on the hem of the dust ruffle. This will keep the hem from cutting at the edge and ravelling where the skirt first shows signs of wear.

Fruit jars are best marked with labels cut off passepartout ribbon. Use the white, heavily gummed ribbon and print the name of the fruit in black ink. Thus mistakes as to the contents of the various jars will be avoided.

When the fingers of fabric gloves need mending, use the handle of the stocking darning to darn the holes in the tips. This will prevent the stitches from puckering and the mended holes will look nice and smooth when finished.

When filling fruit jars, care must be taken to expel all air bubbles from the syrup before sealing the jar. To do this, press a teaspoon, hollow side up, down into the fruit, going over the whole surface until the bubbles disappear.

Larding meat is a very simple operation and adds greatly to the richness and flavor of the dish. Get a larding needle and cut a piece of salt pork into strips a quarter of an inch thick and two or three inches long. Slip these one at a time into the larding needle and draw through the meat.

Botwood Notes.

Last Saturday at 10 a.m. the S. S. Triton arrived from England with Mr. and Miss Beaton and seven others or Grand Falls. The cargo consisted of coal and cattle. At 4 p.m. the S. S. Molina arrived with a general cargo for Botwood, Bishop Falls, Grand Falls and Millertown consisting of cement, machinery, builders' iron and furniture for Mrs. Grey's hotel at Grand Falls.

Mr. P. D. Park, Superintendent of shipping, assisted by E. Oke, foreman of the Botwood Works, turned out a private car for Lord Northcliffe. It consists of a sleeper, dining room and kitchen. It has observation windows at the ends and is most elaborately fitted. It is called the "Shawnawethet" after a lake at Millertown.

Mr. Steel, the roadmaster, is a busy man lifting the road between Botwood and Grand Falls.

Capt. Storm who is in partnership with Mr. P. D. Park in the shipping industry, is also kept busy.

Wherever you look about the A. N. Co's premises you see it piled up with pulpwood, and there is also an enormous shed full of No. 1 paper.

Engineers are building tank engine, No. 4. It is about 40 tons weight. George Penney is putting her up under the direction of Supt. Park. It will be used as a relieving or emergency engine.

The Church of England women are starting sewing classes to get money for the new church which is projected.

Mr. Burt, the magistrate, is getting down to business in earnest in constructing a new church which is badly needed.

Vegetation is not very good, except the hay crop which has grown splendidly.

Rev. Mr. Fletcher is working hard fitting his mission which extends from Botwood to Millertown.

We were visited in his yacht by Lord Brassey. He was taken to Grand Falls by a special engine coupled up to the private car "Shawnawethet."

Worst Case Of Eczema

Cure only came when doctors gave up and DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT was used.

Mrs. Wm. Miller, St. Catharines, Ont., writes:—"My daughter Mary, when six months old, contracted eczema and for three years the disease baffled all treatment. Her case was one of the worst that had ever come under my notice, and she apparently suffered what no pen could ever describe. I had three different doctors attend her all to no purpose. Finally I decided to try Dr. Chase's Ointment and to my surprise she immediately began to improve and was completely cured of that long standing disease. That was four years ago when we lived at Cornwall, Ont. and as not a symptom has shown itself since, the cure must be permanent."

This record of cures which Dr. Chase's Ointment has to its credit have placed it alone as the standard cure for eczema and all forms of itching skin disease. Do not be satisfied with imitations or substitutes, 50 cents a box; all dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co. Toronto.

Our Teachers.

The other day we noted that Superintendent Burke complained of the scarcity of male teachers, the difficulty of keeping good ones, and the employment, in default of trained teachers, of those who lacked training.

His comments in this connection are remarkable. He states: "In this particular it is worthy of notice that, out of the large population in the city of St. John's, it may be said that practically not a candidate offers as a pupil teacher. This is especially so with regard to male teachers, and during my term of office, extending over ten years, I know of no male teacher from the city of St. John's to have been employed for one year in a school under my whole superintendence."

The cause is obvious. The inducements to the St. John's boy of his denomination to enter the teaching profession and to teach in the out-ports are not sufficiently attractive. Other calls in life appeal with greater force. This is unfortunate. For it means that the long scholastic training enjoyed by St. John's boys from their early years in the Christian Brothers' schools and St. Bonaventure's College contributes little or nothing, so far as city boys are concerned, to the scholastic life of Newfoundland. The chief thing lacking is the lure to catch candidates for the teaching profession. When that has been done the profession must be kept attractive enough to retain good men. Otherwise the professional training, such as it is, is in the main lost to the schools.

We are glad to note that the professional training of teachers is under the consideration of the Board of Examiners, and that they propose to utilize the additional grant in making better provision for it, apart from the literary or academic course.

Newfoundland Dog Fast Disappearing.

Homer L. Darrow After Scouring the Island Returns From St. John's With Only 22 of the Breed.

That the Newfoundland dog is fast becoming extinct in the land of its nativity was stated by Homer Lloyd Darrow, of New Haven, a dog fancier and breeder, who returned Friday from St. John's on the Red Cross line steamer Bornu, bringing twenty-two dogs. He went to Newfoundland in May and since then he has travelled all over the island buying dogs. Those with which he returned are all he could buy, and all of these are not pure blooded animals.

"The Newfoundland dog formerly was a very popular breed," he said yesterday, "but like all breeds it has become degenerated since it was dropped by those who had money to pay for full blooded animals. For several years no Newfoundland dogs have been exhibited at bench shows, and it is seldom that one is seen in this country."

"When these animals were in the height of their popularity Newfoundland was scoured and the supply so depleted that to-day one is seldom seen. It is only in the outlying villages, seldom visited by outsiders, that you can find them at all."

"The Newfoundland thinks the world of his dogs, and this stands to reason in the way of buying them now. Most of those which I bought were puppies, for the owners in most cases refused to part with the full grown animals. Also they have been crossed largely with the Eskimo dog, which is brought from Labrador, until the characteristics of the Newfoundland dog have been lost."

"I believe there is a market for them here, and if there isn't I hope to create one. I intend exhibiting them next spring at the show, and believe that the time has come when the dog can be restored to its once popular place in the catalogue.—New York World, Aug. 8.

Was Columbus a Spaniard?

The most interesting contribution to Espanna Moderna, from the point of view of the general reader, is that on "The True Nationality of Christopher Columbus."

The subject is not exactly new, because a controversy has long raged round it, but the present writer brings into relief certain facts which make it interesting. The general opinion is that Columbus was a native of Genoa, and Columbus himself is reported to have declared so when signing a document concerning the succession to his estate; but his son contradicted this assertion at a later date, and stated that his father's place of birth was unknown. Probably La Riegos gets nearest to the truth in his work on Columbus. He says that the discoverer of the New World was of Spanish birth, and born at Pontevedra in Galicia.

La Riegos says that a family by the name of Colon-Fonterosa, residing in Pontevedra, emigrated to Italy on account of the revolts and uprisings in Galicia, about 1444 to 1450, taking their two eldest sons, and, recom-mended by the Archbishop of Pisa, they established themselves in Genoa or in that district, probably Saona. The name of Colombo already existing in Genoa, it was quite easy for Colon to become Italianised, especially as there were two Italian Colombos who were famous corsairs.

The writer shows how Spanish Columbus was in his way of thinking; he gave Spanish names to the places he discovered, and we have to remember his comparisons between the New World and the fields of Cordova, and "so forth." If Columbus were an Italian, then he seems to have been a contradiction; if he were a Spaniard, then all these seeming contradictions vanish, and he becomes quite natural. It was perfectly logical for Columbus as a Spaniard to recollect the beauty of his own country at such a solemn time.

Oregon Woman Returns From Europe With a Mountain of Trunks.

New York, July 22.—Mrs. Queenie Hayes, who is pretty and pleasantly plump and young and a blonde, came home from Europe this morning accompanied by her husband, Frank Hayes, who is in the lumber business in Oregon and is said to be wealthy. In addition to a husband, Mrs. Hayes brought back the following items: Eleven extra large-size wardrobes; Twenty-two hat boxes. Seventeen Paris gowns valued at $10,000 just by themselves. Twenty-two of the dearest millinery creations ever seen in these parts. One trunk full of filmy lingerie, all ribbons and ruffles and stuff and things. The most expensive collection of hat pins yet exhibited on a New York pier. Everything else you could think of.

Mrs. Hayes attracted a lot of attention as she came down the gang plank of the White Star liner Adriatic wearing one of the funnel-shaped French gowns, and a huge scoop-hooped bonnet shaded by a dense grove of ostrich wipers, but she attracted even more notice when the baggage began to pile up in a leather mountain alongside of her and the customs inspectors got busy. Acting Deputy Collector O'Connor and two assistants spent three hours going through little Mrs. Hayes' luggage. They took out blue gowns, green gowns, pink gowns, white gowns until one end of the dock looked like a rainbow. They examined hats the like of which was never seen by the eye of man before, and they checked off 140 hat pins, some with big diamond heads, some with pearl heads and some with knobs on them as big as a man's fist.

Mrs. Hayes declared the 17 gowns at $10,000 and the hats at $2,200. Mr. Hayes declared a new collar button that he bought in Paris and an English umbrella.

Johnson and Langford.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Australia, the place where Jack Johnson first sprang into the championship limelight, will probably be the scene of his next encounter with anyone who seek heavy-weight honours. The champion announced yesterday that in all probability he would head for the Antipodes next summer, following his theatrical engagements in Europe. Jack said that there would be nothing doing in this country for some time, whereas he had a number of flattering offers from Hugh McIntosh, the promoter, and might close a deal, McIntosh is on his way to the British metropolis at present, and will remain there until Johnson arrives. Then he will unfold his plans for a fight in England or Australia. Just who his opponent may be is the last thing the title-holder can think of, but a match, all he need do is to put up sufficient money.

NOTICE!

FOUR weeks after the date hereof application will be made to His Excellency the Governor in Council for a grant of letters patent for new and useful improvements in or relating to the making of Salvo-Wohle of 22, Great Russell Street, London, England, Chemist. Says Farms Alter the Criminal Mind

Solving the problem of reclaiming criminals by "getting back to the earth" is one of the greatest works of the Salvation Army in England just now, according to Commissioner T. H. Howard, foreign secretary of the Salvation Army, who arrived recently on board the New York, of the American line. Commissioner Howard, who was met by the leading Salvation Army officials here, will go to Toronto on a special mission and will stay but a few days.

"Here in America you have plenty of land," said Commissioner Howard, "and such work as we have attempted would be much easier. We have interested large owners in this movement and have obtained many tracts of perhaps ten acres each, which we first lend to the released criminal and later arrange for payment on easy terms. So far we have aided nine hundred men, and the work is a grand one, for it seems that it changes the whole of the bad nature of a man to get back to Mother Earth."

"These little farms are for intensive farming, the raising of garden truck, which finds a ready market, and so great has the interest become that a committee or Board has been formed, composed of members of various societies for the improvement of the condition of discharged prisoners and the poor. The movement is much more important than it looks, for it will supply a deficit that exists in England's productive agriculture."

"Another interesting feature of Salvation Army work is the fact that the English government has placed whole tribes of criminals in India under our control. These are the tribes that are born to steal, plunder and maybe commit more serious crimes. Robbery is the principal crime, and we have more than one million persons in the northwestern part of India to care for."

Johnson and Langford.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Australia, the place where Jack Johnson first sprang into the championship limelight, will probably be the scene of his next encounter with anyone who seek heavy-weight honours. The champion announced yesterday that in all probability he would head for the Antipodes next summer, following his theatrical engagements in Europe. Jack said that there would be nothing doing in this country for some time, whereas he had a number of flattering offers from Hugh McIntosh, the promoter, and might close a deal, McIntosh is on his way to the British metropolis at present, and will remain there until Johnson arrives. Then he will unfold his plans for a fight in England or Australia. Just who his opponent may be is the last thing the title-holder can think of, but a match, all he need do is to put up sufficient money.

Struck Oil.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 6.—Oil has been struck in the midst of a busy town of this city. Within a few feet of a street where the trolley whizzes by every few minutes, a well was brought in on the north side yesterday, and during the day flowed 60 barrels. Nineteen years ago this location was known as Jock's Run, and at that time oil was struck, but so many wells were drilled that the development was soon exhausted.

The strike has caused a flurry among the neighbours. The oil is of a high grade, and is found in the hundred foot sand. While the Thermometer Hovered at 105 Degrees. El Paso, Tex., Aug. 4.—Frozen dead, with the thermometer at 105 in the shade, was the fate of a Mexican at Maricopa, 300 miles west of here, on the Arizona desert. A carload of ice had been unloaded on the station platform and covered with a heavy tarpaulin. The man, seeking sleep and escape from the terrific heat, crawled beneath the tarpaulin, where he was found the next morning, frozen stiff.

Ran Amuck.

A carman ran amuck at Queen St. last evening a few minutes before six, and created quite a disturbance. A large crowd collected at the foot of Barter's Hill. He wanted to fight all and sundry, but a police officer soon hove in sight and quietened him down.

Fire This Morning.

Sparks either from his own or from Mr. Smallwood's chimney next door set fire to the shingles on the roof of Mr. R. Neyles dwelling on Gower St. west at 8:30 this morning. An alarm of fire called out the Central Hall men, who quickly got to the roof and put out the fire by turning on a stream of water on it. The damage was not great.

Forgiving and Restoring the Offender.

In the "Sunday at Home," Mr. Sidney Grenfell tells the following story of King George's naval life:—

"When Prince George had the independent command of the Thrush on the West Indian station, it fell to his lot to have to convey, as prisoner, a young bluejacket belonging to another ship, who had hitherto been continually on the black list. From his demeanour, however, and by closely observing him, Prince George saw there was in the man the makings of a better fellow; and when the time came for him to rejoin his own ship again, he determined to try and give him a new start in life. He got him transferred to the Thrush, and had him brought before him on the quarter-deck. He told him that he was henceforth transferred to the Thrush; that, as commanding officer, he put him in the first class for leave, and gave him a clean sheet as regards his past offences.

"I do not ask you to make me any promise as to your future behaviour. I trust to your honour and good feeling alone. But remember that, by the rules of the service, if you offend again in any way, or break your leave I have no option, but am bound to put you back again to that class from which I now remove you. Your future is in your own hands. You have had no leave for twelve months. Go ashore now with the other special leave men. Your pay has been stopped, and no money is due to you. There is a sovereign. I trust you not to mispend it. You know as well as I do what you may do, and what you may not do. God help you to do the right and keep you from the wrong!"

"The man was completely overcome," he answered nothing, of course, but saluted and was marched forward again."

The Name "Mary."

In his monthly article entitled "The Heart of Things," which Mr. Henry Leach contributes to Chamber's Journal, the writer has a little essay on the name of Mary. He thinks the consort of the new King did a wise, discerning, and a suitable thing when she chose to be known to the people as Queen Mary. According to Mr. Leach, Mary is the most beautiful and expressive of all the names of women. Each of the old and well-loved names suggests to us a type, gives us some imaginary picture of the qualities and characteristics that it should be possessed by the woman who has it. The name Mary, he says, stands for a grand, soulful depth, the utmost charm of woman. It is a name for some strength, but essentially of a pure, woman-like kind. It is the name of virtue, of sacrifice, of sympathy, of devotion, of motherhood, of domesticity. It is the most beautiful name. How rarely does the author employ it for his characters, and then only for those near to his ideal of the perfection of womanhood!

One Chance in a Thousand.

Man With Broken Neck Discharged From Hospital After Successful Operation.

Lawrence, Mass., Aug. 7.—With an inch of his spinal column missing, one of the vertebrae having been removed by surgeons when they believed it the one chance in a thousand of saving his life, Alexander Potter, of 34 Myrtle street, Boston, walked from the hospital to-day. His neck was broken in an automobile accident at North Reading, July 10.

A companion in the accident, who at the time was thought to have been only slightly injured, Walter G. Boardman, of North Cambridge, died a few days after the smash. When he was released from the hospital to-day Potter was told that if he was careful how he handled his head and neck, there was no reason why he should ever suffer from any inconvenience from his missing vertebrae.

"Broke," "Broke," "Broke."

Broke, broke, broke,
Dead "stone" broke; ah me,
Would that my tongue could utter
The thoughts that arise in me!

Oh, well for the millionaire's cub
As he shouts with his cronies at play;
Oh, well for the nabobs and princes,
And all who command a good pay.

And the moneyed jobs go on
To those who have got their fill;
But, oh, for the touch of a pen to a cheque,
And the tinkle of coin that is still!

Broke, broke, broke,
Dead "stone" broke; ah me;
And the silvery clink of "dough" that is spent
Will never come back to me.

S. S. Bornu Here.

The Red Cross liner Bornu, Capt. Dalton, arrived here at 7 p.m. yesterday from New York via Halifax. The trip all the way along was very pleasant and the large number of seagoers on board enjoyed the "life on the ocean wave" in northern latitudes, which was a new experience to most of those on the Bornu. They were rather surprised to meet with no icebergs, but the officers on the Bornu informed them that all the icebergs were on the postal cards in the shops of the city, except what still lay frozen up in the imagination of sensational money making magazine scribblers and hysterical newspaper correspondents. Following is a list of the passengers: Mr. Jos. Peirsol, Dr. E. G. Cowperthwaite, Wm. C. Peet, J. C. Gulick, J. McKinley, Dr. J. Henry Clark, Mrs. J. Henry Clark, Miss R. A. ### C. C. C. the Champions.

The game last evening between the C. C. C. and N. H. ended in a victory of 1 goal to nil in favour of the C. C. C. who are now the winners of the championship in the Brigade Division. The match which was one of the hardest fought contests of the season, was not viewed by a larger gathering than usual.

At the start the Cadets made a bold attack on the N. H. goal, but were repulsed. The N. H. shortly after got control, and would have scored only for the vigilance of Walsh in goal who saved beautifully. The game was then held up for a few minutes because J. Walsh, one of the C. C. C. backs, was hurt by coming in contact with another player. Hard playing followed without effect till near the close of half time, Hart passed to Rawlins who sent in the only goal of the evening but which was sufficient for the C. C. C. needs.

In the second half the N. H. played with more vim than before, if possible. They were driven back in all their attacks, for Walsh, in goal, was too alert to allow any ball to pass him. The C. C. C. pressed hard on the N. H. goal several times also but nothing was done. A corner given was well placed, but the N. H. backs drove it out of the danger zone. Several hard attacks followed on each side but no more scoring was done.

The C. C. C. have won the 1910 championship. We extend congratulations. The line up last evening was as follows:—

C. C. C.—Walsh, goal; J. Walsh, Hines, backs; J. Murphy, Hart, G. Byrne, halves; Cull, Murphy, Rodgers, Jackson, Rawlins, forwards.

N. H.—Mitchell, goal; Coffin and Smith, backs; Benson, Smith, Ledingham, halves; McKinley, Rennie, Robertson, Anchenleck and E. Robertson forwards.

Dedicated to Judge Prowse.

"Prince Edward Island, Oh!"

[In the "Story of the North West Passage" the honour of Cabot's Discovery of Newfoundland is transferred to Prince Edward Island.]

Air: "Garibaldi, Oh!"

There's not a man in Newfoundland
That wrote as much as you, Judge,
Again you'll have to take a stand
And to us plainly show
Why John Cabot's Landfall
It was stolen now from you, Judge,
And taken up to "Prince Edward Island, oh!"

We learned it in your history
When we were little boys, Judge,
And to us it seems a mystery,
To-day to learn you, know,
That it isn't Bonavista
Cabot's Landfall now enjoys, Judge,
For they got it up at "Prince Edward Island, oh!"

Mr. Shortis won't let anyone
John Guy's rights deny, Judge,
He backed them with his pen and won
As everybody knows;
So let you do for John Cabot
Now like Shortis done for Guy,
Judge,
Take the Landfall back from "Prince Edward Island, oh!"

'Twas tough enough when writers
here
Against you had a grudge, Judge,
They claimed that Cabot first did steer
To Labrador, you know,
Now you're "up against" the foreigner,
And we know you'll never budge,
Judge,
Till you take it back from "Prince Edward Island, oh!"

"The Deserted House."

(P. J. Kinsella.)

I do not know if the feeling has appealed to others, but I suppose it has, more or less. I never approach an old, deserted country house without experiencing a curious inclination to peer into some of its shadowy panes, and seek revelations of its sinking, destructive decay.

There is something about every atom and particle of the old deserted house that looks as if it could tell a story of its own, and would, too, if the decayed whole could but speak. The stillness, that reigns unbroken, is most terrible; the very atmosphere that surrounds it seems part and one of the dead character of the house; the groans that he near produce nothing since its master dwelling has fallen to ruin, and the solitary beast which still, from habit, furrows amidst its withered grasses, meditates on the things that once existed. A silent, mysterious, awesome presence is the old deserted house; a sacred memory is the old deserted house. Its broken gables speak of the allotted years to man; its darkened, loose windows tell of youth that could not hold; its tumbling porticoes reveal the family that was, and is passed; its tottering frame is synonymous of all that can never be again.

A sad, passive story tells the old deserted house. To walk around it is to revel in strange antiquity and to build strange fancies in connection with it; to think of it strangely united in its family history with all that was fair and gay is the most true suggestion of its meditative research. "The haunted; all deserted country houses are. 'Tis haunted, they will tell you, and therein, you think, ex-

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, Aug. 11.
Considerable anxiety is felt for Capt. Scott's Antarctic Expedition Ship, the Terra Nova, now 11 days overdue at Capetown. The vessel has not been spoken since she left Madiera. June 17, Capt. Robert Scott, Commander of the British Expedition which set out on June 1 from London for the South Pole, is not yet aboard the Terra Nova, but left July 16 to join her in New Zealand. The Terra Nova stopped at Cardiff to coal and proceeded on June 15 to Madiera from which port she sailed 12 days later.

BILBAO, Aug. 11.
The Catholic Committee explained the abandonment of the San Sebastian demonstration in a manifesto issued yesterday. After stigmatising the Government's action as arbitrary, the manifesto declares that the Catholics fear neither prosecutions nor threats and are ready to offer their lives in defence of the Pontiff.

Gaynor's Condition.

Special to Evening Telegram.
NEW YORK, Aug. 11.
Mayor William Gaynor may be making satisfactory progress as his surgeons persistently maintained to-day and to-night, but there is an undercurrent of doubtful anxiety to-night that runs contrary to the official bulletins. His surgeons say that he had a satisfactory day, that he is cheerful and stronger, and was resting quietly, and more than holding his own against the wound.

Cape Bonavista the Landfall of Cabot.

A great deal of absurdity has been written about this Newfoundland of ours. You and others deserve credit for showing up the gross ignorance and mistakes in our school text books. None of these errors, however, is more flagrant than the statement of John Cabot's landfall in 1497 being at Prince Edward's Island. No intelligent Newfoundlanders can have the smallest doubt that the first land seen by Cabot on his celebrated voyage of 1497 was Cape Bonavista. The evidence in its favour is overwhelming. First, there is the unbroken tradition that Cape Bonavista was the landfall. Not a dubious or loose tradition, but one of antiquity vouched for and verified by the record of Captain John Mason, R.N., one hundred and eighteen years after the discovery, when there were men alive whose fathers had known Cabot and his Bristol crew. Mason's statement is verified again by the independent testimony of a French geographer within a year of the first inscription on John Mason's map.

John Mason was not only a Captain in the Royal Navy, afterwards treasurer of the Royal Navy, but an Oxford scholar. His testimony should be sufficient, but strong as it is we have circumstantial evidence still stronger. The first and only good harbour inside Cape Bonavista is King's Cove. We are told about Cabot holding the Royal Standard and taking possession of the new country in the name of King Henry VII.; so naturally the site of this ceremony would be the "King's Cove" or Harbour, but in all the foreign maps it has a still more significant name, The Royal Port. Our Newfoundland tradition is that our island was discovered on St. John the Baptist day, 24th June, 1497.

In corroboration of this in the old maps there is a river Jordan marked where St. John was baptized, and a Bay of Zacharias called after his father. To Sir Clements Markham the strongest of all in favour of Cape Bonavista was the name Keelt—a designation always given where the ancient ships were hauled up to have their foul bottoms cleaned. Any reasonable man can see that these various coincidences all pointing to one absolute conclusion in favour of Cape Bonavista could not be accidental. There is another point which should always be remembered crossing the Atlantic north about Cape Bonavista is the natural landfall for these old ships, and in clear proof of this we have Cabot's successors, Cortereal and Cartier and a number of others all making their landfall at Cape Bonavista. I could show the reason for this but I think I have said enough, and none of my fellow natives will ever be led astray again by cranks on this question.

J. Parmenter, an employee on the R. N. Co. trains, had his watch stolen from his vest pocket hung up in a railway car on a siding at Clarendville last Monday. Two fellows were seen in the car going towards the place where driver Parmenter's watch was hung. They were summoned before Mr. Turk, J.P. of the place but so far no incriminating evidence has been brought against them. They admitted being in the car and being in the part where the watch was hung, but both deny positively being guilty of taking the watch. One of them is held yet on remand.

GUY TER-CENTENARY AN EXPLICATION.

In the year 1610, John Guy, Master of Bristol Company of Merchant Venturers, acting under the authority of a Royal Charter, landed at Cupar's Cove (now known as Cupids), in Conception Bay, and established the first authorized settlement in Newfoundland. This settlement was known as "Sea Forest Plantation." The people of Cupids, naturally proud of the association of their environment with an event so noteworthy, took steps last year to signalize the landing of their founder by a commemorative public celebration, to take place in this centenary year. To this end they enthusiastically contributed their means and their labour, and placed themselves in communication with the Newfoundland Historical Society. This Society, recognizing the historical importance of the event to be celebrated, very cheerfully accorded its sympathy, co-operation and support to the contemplated function. The City of Bristol gave generous aid to the scheme, and provided a brass tablet, fitly inscribed, to be set into the monument which it was proposed to erect. They also appointed their delegate, the Rev. Wm. Stacy, to make the formal presentation of the tablet.

A grant of $500 was conceded by the Government of Newfoundland, and the munificence of St. John's supplied a considerable addition to the fund. Patriotic Newfoundlanders in Toronto sent down a magnificent steel flag staff, which, upon a pyramidal base, towers to the height of 130 feet, and is sustained upon a solid concrete foundation. Accompanying the flag staff they also sent a splendid flag of adequate proportions. A quantity of land, sufficient for the purpose of a public playground or miniature park, was purchased, and on this land (which was unquestionably near the site of Guy's "Habitation") the monument is to be erected.

In the preparation for this commemoration, the Historical Society has worked harmoniously with a Committee of the inhabitants of Cupids. It is intended that the function shall be a ceremonial simple, dignified and impressive, and entirely devoid of all fantastic accessories. Having regard to notices and advertisements, apparently authentic, which have appeared in the newspapers, the Joint Committee of the Guy Ter-Centenary Celebration, representing the Newfoundland Historical Society and the people of Cupids, are compelled to make public the fact that the persons in charge of a proposed demonstration at Harbour Grace, purporting to be a Guy Ter-Centenary Commemoration, are in no wise associated with the official celebration at Cupids. This authentic commemorative function is under the sole control of the Joint Committee referred to above. The people of Harbour Grace have not contributed one cent to the official celebration. They have in no wise co-operated with the Cupids Committee. Either directly or implicitly representing that they were associated with the Cupids Celebration, they have solicited and obtained subscriptions from persons in St. John's, which will be appropriated and expended in their own city and for their own purpose, and this expenditure will not be represented by a single permanent memorial.

The Hr. Grace demonstrators have presumed to advertise the official function which is to take place at Cupids. The insertion of the Cupids celebration on Wednesday next, as a part of the Harbour Grace programme, is as impudent as it is unwarrantable. The Joint Committee have no objection to Harbour Grace existing itself as best it may. Nor are they much concerned to inquire by what methods it has obtained the means to exist itself. But the Committee requires the general public to understand that the Harbour Grace demonstration is arranged and managed by Harbour Grace alone; and that its promoters have from the outset acted in hostility to the official management of the Cupids celebration. The celebration is commemorative of the landing of John Guy at Cupids, with which event Harbour Grace has had no remotest connection.

Castaway's Experience.

A CASE FOR INVESTIGATION

Editor Evening Telegram:
 Dear Mr. Editor,—I crave permission to publish in the columns of your widely circulated paper, the experience of two of our fishermen, belonging to the banking schooner Stella, Capt. Cluett, owned by J. J. Rose, merchant, of this place, who strayed from their vessel on the Banks this summer.

As is often the case with many of their fellows, they left their schooner to haul their trawls, and during a dense fog they got astray. After two days and nights at the mercy of the deep in an open dory, they were picked up by Capt. Pinsent, in the Harry Lewis, about 30 miles S. E. of Cape Spear, in an exhausted condition.

Capt. Pinsent happened to be coming to land for bait, and the poor fellows were well looked after while on board, and landed at Carbonear to which port he was going.

Their case was reported to the Customs official, and in their destitute condition were directed to the Relieving Officer.

This officer received them very coolly and soon got rid of them, saying he could do nothing for them. They were next sent to the Magistrate. This gentleman received them kindly, but said it was not his business to look after castaways, or words to that effect, and consequently sent them back again to the Relieving Officer, who, seeing that he was obliged to take a little trouble, asked them who was the owner of their vessel, if he had any money, who was the member for the district, and such like. Not feeling satisfied, he next advised them to sell their dory, which they refused to do. He was now obliged to wire the owner, J. J. Rose, who directly he heard of his men's distress wired instructions to care for them, ordering to pay them $5 each and send them on to St. John's to join their vessel which was ordered there from Caplin Bay and send him the bill. The message was sent in plenty of time to have been delivered that evening, but owing to carelessness on the part of somebody, or for lack of interest on the part of the Relieving Officer, they were again cast adrift, and were obliged to wander Carbonear Street all night in their oil clothes, a shame and disgrace to any official or community to allow such a thing to happen. Arrest for vagrancy would have been far more preferable to these poor castaways to walking Carbonear streets all night in oil skins. By such inhuman treatment their is little hope for the responsible individual of Carbonear ever obtaining a medal from the Humane Society.

However, they managed to survive the night, and next morning were given a five dollar bill by the R. O., and began to shift for themselves. But after buying a dry shirt and a ticket for St. John's they had little to boot. But their troubles did not end at Carbonear. On arriving at St. John's they found that their vessel had not arrived, and were again obliged to throw themselves on the hospitality of strangers who proved equally as inhospitable as their Carbonear neighbours, as they were turned ashore from Capt. Wm. Martin's schooner, of Old Perlican, who told them to go and live on the Government, as he could not afford to feed them.

Mr. J. J. Rose is an independent and enterprising merchant, and was only too pleased to pay any expense, which the official at Carbonear should have done, as directed. Mr. Rose was a strong supporter of the People's Party, and feels somewhat indignant owing to the treatment his men received. Their dory was shipped from Carbonear on the train, and the Capt. before he could get her, had to pay $10.00, a somewhat high freight rate, when a dory can be imported from Halifax here via St. John's for $3.00. It is time something should be done for our hardy toilers, by way of protection. These men—fishermen—are the bone and sinew of the country, the life of the staple industry, and therefore it behoves our dignified officials, even if exalted to such big positions as R. O., to look upon the men who have to brave the danger of the sea for a scanty livelihood, and regard them as beings of like nature as themselves, and not allow them to wander the streets all night in oil skins after a sad experience of two days and nights adrift in mid-ocean, or equally so, in an open dory, as was the case with Thomas Snook and Alfred Barnes who strayed from the banking schooner Stella, of Harbor Briton.

Yours fraternally,
 CASTAWAY.
 Harbor Briton, July 30th, 1910.

MINARD'S LIMEWASH CURE DISTEMPER.

Auto Driver Injured.

Mr. R. B. Job's chauffeur, a young man named Amuson, met with a dreadful mishap last evening about a quarter to six when driving along Queen's Road. He and John Williams were driving east and when near the foot of Long's Hill the two occupants were suddenly shot high in the air and the car turned over. Amuson fell under the car and was horribly bruised. Williams fell on the other side of the car and escaped with a few slight wounds. The accident was caused by a rut in the street near the trolley car track, where the wheel caught and resulted in the overturning of the auto, which was going at a high rate of speed at the time. Supt. Grimes and Dr. Rendell, who were on the scene quickly, did whatever was possible for the wounded man, who lay long unconscious on the cushions of the auto placed under his head on the street. As is always the case in such accidents a large crowd gathered and the police had all they could do to keep them back. After Dr. Rendell had examined the wounds he ordered that the injured man be sent to Hospital. He spent a fairly good night but the doctors are unable yet to say what will be the outcome. He is badly hurt internally.

The Municipal Council.

Editor Evening Telegram:
 Dear Mr. Editor,—Would you kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to publish the following:—

The people on the South Side are almost famishing for water, some parties cannot get sufficient fresh water to wash enough clothes to wear. Last summer the Council sent over a water cart to the South Side with water which was, although muddy and rusty half the time, very much appreciated and would also be this summer. The Council tried to improve the water supply last summer, which they did, while the men were there, but it was never proven to be satisfactory, and we think that the new Council should step in and try to arrange a better water supply system to the citizens of the South Side. During some parts of the day there is not less than at least fifteen waiting for their turn to get sufficient water for the household use.

Another thing the people of the South Side would appreciate very much indeed, would be a light placed in the locality between Messrs. Bowring Bros. fish dryer and Morey's Bridge, or if the light at present in front of Bowring's gate be moved to the eastward it would make a great improvement as the thoroughfare is almost impassible by night. Let the Municipal Council try to improve the state of the city.

Yours truly, Mr. Editor,
 A THIRSTY ONE.
 St. John's, Aug. 11th, 1910.

The Black Punt Rescues the Motor Ferry.

Editor Evening Telegram:
 Dear Sir,—The motor boat which has been so much talked of has again broken down, as she has every other day since she has been put on the Gut. The despised black punt had to go to her aid on several occasions, and one time, I am told, she went out of the Gut altogether, and if there had been a heavy sea on the result would have been serious. If this boat remains on the Gut during the winter months, during which time the loose ice runs in and out in the tide with terrific velocity, I fear you will have a terrible marine catastrophe to chronicle. The idea of a motor boat on this Gut was never popular with the working fishermen who understood the situation, and nine-tenths of them to-day would vote for the improved ferry system inaugurated by Messrs. Jackson, Bonia and Sullivan. The idea of a motor boat was never appreciated by the people who understood the tide and ice conditions of the Gut. It emanated from a few people with creased pants and starched linen, who were disappointed because they could not procure a sinecure office from Jackman. Nothing, sir, except a bridge over the Gut can compare with the late ferry system—a system which has been so much despised by a few disgruntled politicians here, has been in vogue, I presume, since the occupation of this town by the French in 1660, and the fact that there has never been a drowning accident for so many centuries, which could be attributed to the ferry service is convincing proof of the excellence of the service in one respect at least.

The motor boat, it is said, must have cost the colony about three thousand dollars. The Daily News in commenting on her said she cost about fifteen hundred dollars, but it is the opinion of a great many here, as so many had a "finger in the pie," that she cost in the neighbourhood of three thousand dollars. The boat is about the size of a trap skiff, which can be built for $50, and is it not a shame, to say the least, if this be correct, as the cost of this little boat would furnish every trapman in Placentia Bay with a trap skiff. This flagrant extravagangance is all the more shameful in view of the fact that the roads and bridges in the suburbs and adjoining settlements are a disgrace to civilization.

But, sir, this is not all that has been spent extravagantly in Placentia. It has got five hundred dollars for the Blockhouse breakwater, and two hundred dollars for Wyse's breakwater; four or five thousand dollars for a fog alarm on the Downs, and two hundred dollars a few days ago to erect wharves for the useless motor boat. This, sir, with the creation of sinecure offices for party followers, small sums to private individuals, and the erection of the wharf for Bowring's boat will swell the expenditure on Placentia proper into thousands of dollars. Is it any wonder, then, that every town, village, and hamlet in the district is crying out that Placentia has got the lion's share, whilst their roads and bridges are in a disgraceful condition. The motto should be equal rights to every portion of the district; special favours to none.

In conclusion, I would suggest to the impartial Auditor General that when the expenditure for Placentia comes up for audit that he keep in mind the motor boat.

Yours truly,
 WILLIE FOGOTA,
 Jersey Side, Placentia, Aug. 9th, 1910.
