"A Terrible Experience"

"I Recall My Experiences with the Burglar with Feelings of Horror!"

"How would you feel if you wakened in the middle of the night with a flashlight shining in your eyes and the gruff voice of a man threatening that, 'If you make the slightest noise, I'll shoot?' That was my experience the end of last March when my husband was away in the woods and I was alone with my three children. Everytime I think of this experience a shudder passes over me and so long as I live I shall remember it. At the time I really thought I would die. It's a wonder my heart did not stop beating. I was so weak that even if I had any desire to move, I could not. I was bedded in a cold, clammy perspiration. Even to recall the shocking details now makes me shudder. It was a result of this shock that I contracted a high fever and for hours at a time I was delirious. I got so bad that the doctor finally gave up hope of my ever recovering, but by careful nursing, I was finally pronounced out of danger. The shock had left me so weak, that, for no reason whatever, I would suddenly burst into tears. All the life seemed to have been taken out of me. I kept getting weaker and weaker, so much so that my husband and children were constantly worrying about me. Doctors prescribed for me and while I willingly tried their medicines, only very few of them did me any good, but unfortunately the good was not lasting. My family asked me if I would try Carnol and I said, 'I was willing to try anything,' but felt that it would not do me any good. Four bottles of Carnol taken regularly, has completely restored my former health and strength and, while I occasionally recall my experience with the burglar with feelings of horror, I am otherwise as well and strong as I have ever been. Carnol is the most wonderful preparation I have ever used for building and restoring health and strength. It has done wonders for several of my friends to whom I have recommended it." Mrs. McC. O.L.

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money.

LADY IRIS' MISTAKE;

Hero of 'Surata'

CHAPTER XXXVI.

She had never even dreamed of winning his love—he was so handsome and seemed so far above her; and then any one could see that he loved Lady Iris. But, when it was known that Lady Iris had refused him, she took heart of grace, and, when he returned, made herself very attractive to him. She believed in the truth that many a heart is caught at the rebound. Everytime he met her Sir Fulke grew more and more charmed with her. She had such excellent qualities, he told himself. He said to her laughingly one day—

"My mother says you manage me so well, Marie; is it true?"

"What do you think about it yourself, Sir Fulke?" she asked.

"I do not quite know. I am not sure if the masculine mind has a clear idea as to what the word 'manage' so used, may mean. Certainly your ways with me are very pleasant; and, if that means management, I am quite content."

The wedding was a grand one—one of the grandest on record in the country; and it turned out to be a very happy marriage. Not many months after it had taken place, the Government again tendered Richard Bardon a baronetage, and he accepted it.

"Are you proud of it, John?" asked the newly-made baronet of his son.

"Of course I am, sir," he replied; but to himself he owned that neither that nor anything else had power to make him happy in this world again.

Do You Feel Like an Old Young Man?

Do You Know That Without Vitamins and Iron You Would Be Dead? Ironized Yeast Builds Amazing Power!

The man with a punch is the man with many vitamins and much iron. The man of drooping shoulders, hazy nerves, is the man with few vitamins and mighty little iron. Ironized Yeast gives you both. It is not a mere mixture of yeast and iron.

See That Nerve-Powered Plant? Get Nerve-Power from Ironized Yeast but is yeast ironized, which is a substance all by itself. This gives back, restores to the body, and builds you up. In your veins, ironized yeast contains, for this reason, Nature's greatest source of brain, nerve and tissue energy. It gives you power plus quick! It does it in half the usual time. No matter how old you are now, you can get a young man's iron, and a young man's vitamins; woman's iron, and a young woman's vitamins. These two things are the twins of human strength, human charm. They mean so you success—social and business. There is only one Ironized Yeast in the world. Be sure that you get it, and beware of substitutes. Each package contains 10 tablets, each tablet is sealed. They never lose their power. Harold F. Ritchie & Co., Ltd., Toronto, Agts. Get the "punch" that comes from Ironized Yeast!

The Heir of Bayneham

Lady Hutton's Ward.

CHAPTER II.

Having no mischief ready-made to his hand, Stephen went out to seek it for himself; he sought and found it in the shape of the gamekeeper's beautiful daughter. Wandering one day through the woods of Brynmar, he sauntered down a broad path to enjoy a cigar. The day was fine and the cigar a good one. Stephen sat on the trunk of a fallen tree in order to enjoy both, and as he sat there a girl, beautiful as a fairy vision, came tripping down the path.

Stephen Hurst saw her with a thrill of delight; he had been idle and listless; here was something to do; here was a beautiful young face, pure, sweet, and happy, he could teach it to blush and to glow. Here was a pure, innocent young heart, he could teach it to love. All that he said to himself as the girl drew near. She did not perceive him until he, to attract her attention, spoke; then Magdalen Burns raised her eyes to his face, and in that one look met her fate. He asked some idle questions as to the nearest way to the Hall, and she replied; then gradually he drew from her her name and her simple little history. Nothing could be better, he said to himself.

There was no one to interfere while he remained at this dull place; it would be a magnificent resource to be able to meet this beautiful, simple girl, out in the bonny woods of Brynmar. He never calculated on Donald Burns' strength of arm or strength of will.

Lord Hutton could not imagine how it happened that Stephen Hurst, who used to complain the whole day long of the dullness of the place and every one in it, suddenly grew attached to it, and absolutely tried to persuade him to prolong his stay.

Brynmar woods could have told him why. There was no day passed that Stephen Hurst did not meet Magdalen under the shade of their tall trees.

What need to tell the story? He wooed, as idle men do who when they have no other occupation, and she learned to love, as the young and happy love when they are so wooed. She thought him a king among men; no one was so handsome, so brave, so kindly; he was like one of the knights of old. Who else spoke so gently and musically? What voice, what face was like his? She never thought of herself; she never asked herself if it were wrong or foolish to spend long hours in these summer woods, listening to the sweetest and falsest words that ever fell from false lips. How true he seemed!—how noble, how good! What had she done that this great happiness should come to her, the priceless love of this greater and nobler of men?

Poor Magdalen! Did she ever see him as he was—mean, false, and narrow, without one good instinct, without one noble quality? Did she ever see him as he was—handsome, with a coarse, animal beauty, selfish, cowardly, and ungenerous. Never, until the time came when all things were made clear to her eyes. The golden veil of romance had fallen over him; he was a hero, a knight, he loved her, and what could she do to show her gratitude for so priceless a treasure as this love? So while the warm, bright summer days lasted she met him under the shade of the tall green trees, and she learned to love him as women love once in life, and can never love again. (to be continued.)

A consultation was held by those in command. There was no means of making a prolonged defense—when ever the attack came it would be almost a hand-to-hand fight, and numbers perhaps would gain the victory. The first thing to be done was to get the women and children out of the way. This did not seem very difficult. Fort George, which was well garrisoned and almost impregnable, was but a day's march from Surata, the women and children would be safe there, and there they must be placed.

"I am no alarmist," said Captain Osburn at the military council, "and I am, I hope, a tender-hearted man; but I would rather our women and children were slain by us than that they should fall into the hands of the enemy. If you will follow me, I will undertake to escort them and place them safely in Fort George, or die in the attempt."

His dauntless men inspired his hearers with courage and hope. After a little while it was decided that he, with a body of picked men, should escort the women and children, with a number of invalid soldiers who were worse than useless, to the fort. (To be continued.)

Fads and Fashions.

The red hat is having an amazing vogue. The pinky beige shade still leads in stockings.

Many French frocks are draped and beltless. The bloused waistline is accented in misses' frocks. Wide bands of chenille trimming give the effect of seal.

In London, satin coats trimmed in moleskin are worn. Metal cloth is used for dresses, turbans and striking bandeaux. Both the draped and fitted plain velvet gowns are extremely good.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap-Book of new patterns. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

GIRLS' DRESS WITH OR WITHOUT FULL SLEEVE PORTION.

4189. The panel and peasant sleeve are new features in this "little girls'" dress. One may omit the peasant sleeve. Gabardine or crepe would be attractive for this model.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 4, 6, 8, and 10 years. A 6 year size requires 2 1/2 yards of 40 inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A Dainty Frock for a "LITTLE TOT"

3802. A "four year old" will ever be true to comfort and ease as shown in this charming model. It is simple in construction and lends itself well to all materials.

Soft crepes and silk, wash fabrics, flannel, challie, check and plaid suitings, gabardine and viole. The Pattern cut in 4 Sizes: 2, 3, 4 and 5 years. A 4 year size requires 3 yards of 44 inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A POPULAR PRACTICAL GOWN

2314—In these days of post-train, a suit of this kind is appropriate. A skirt may be made for ordinary wear, which can be put off easily when required. Drill, khaki, gingham, gabardine, and cashmere are good materials for this model.

The Pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 8, 10 and 12 years. Size 12 requires 4 yards of 44-inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A NEW SET FOR MISS DOLLY.

3061—This attractive group comprises a simple dress, good for lawn, batiste, silk or dimity, a stylish cape that may be developed in satin, flannel, velvet or silk, and a bonnet to match the cape or to be of lawn, velvet, or embroidery.

The Pattern for this set is cut in 4 Sizes for Dolls: 16, 18, 20, 22 and 24 inches in height. Size 18 will require 1/2 yard of 40 inch material for the cape and 1/2 yard of 20 inch material for the bonnet.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or 1c. and 2c. stamps.

A SET OF TOY ANIMALS.

2967. These toys will please the "little tots." They may be made of toweling, flannel, felt, plush, velvet, and other pile fabrics. For stuffing cork could be used if one wants a toy that will stand wetting; or one could use sawdust, bran or cotton.

The Pattern is cut in one size. The Cow requires 1/2 yard of 27 inch material and the Horse, 3/4 yard of 36 inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

A NEW DOLL SET.

4196. The little doll mother may not only make dolly's clothes but also the doll, from the models supplied herewith. The body may be of drill, unbleached muslin, oil cloth or satin.

Dressed as a clown this doll is very attractive. The suit may be calico, crumpled or scraps of any fabric. One or two colors of muslin may be used. For the Romper-tonne or singham is pleasing. It will be so glad of the dear little eyes in her bonnet, and "Pierrot" clown will do all sorts of tricks in comfortable costume, if his arms and legs are fastened so as to be movable.

The Pattern comprising the suit and the garments, is cut in 3 sizes: Small—12 inches, Medium—16 inches, Large—20 inches in length. The Hat, 1 1/4 yard of 27 inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

Do You Know?

That Royal Baking Powder is made from Cream of Tartar?

That Cream of Tartar is derived from grapes—rich, ripe, luscious grapes grown in the famous vineyards of southern France?

That's why Royal is so wholesome and healthful, why it gives the food such a fine, even texture and such a delicious, appetizing flavor.

Cape Breton Swept by Hurricane of Wind and Sleet.

Damage and Demoralization Ensnue.

Fire Follows in Track of Storm—Turks Demand For Plebiscite Rejected—Four Hundred Miners Entombed by Explosion.

STORM SWEPT.
HALIFAX, Nov. 22. A violent sleet and wind storm that raged Tuesday night levelled telegraph poles in Cape Breton, cutting off the Island from the mainland by train for twenty-four hours. The storm, established with the Sydney this evening, brings the loss of two hundred thousand dollars to-day in the Crowell block damaged by storm in the Sydney District. The electric light, telephone and telegraph services are paralyzed.

MUCH DAMAGE DONE.
NORTH SYDNEY, Nov. 22. Damage to the extent of thousands of dollars to property and complete demoralization of wire and wireless communication, both on the island and the mainland for twenty-four hours, have resulted from a terrific sleet and storm that swept Cape Breton starting at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. There was no more sleet storm on the Island in the history of the oldest inhabitant. 60 telegraph poles broke off

FIRE LOSS OVER $500,000.

NORTH SYDNEY, Nov. 22. Upwards of half a million dollars, and perhaps over that amount, is estimated to have been the loss caused by the Sydney fire which Tuesday night destroyed the Elman block and badly destroyed the Crowell and the Greenwell blocks on either side. The fire is said to have originated in the Mary millinery establishment on the lower floor of the Elman block, and it is thought it was caused by short circuit electric wires, resulting from the storm which disorganized the electric system of the city. The fire alarms were taken to the city by messenger, allowing the flames to reach considerable headway before the arrival of the fighting forces. The firemen worked all night before they had the flames under control, which was not before the Elman block was in ruins and the adjoining buildings badly damaged and their stocks in ruins.

ONE TURK DEMAND REJECTED.
LAUSANNE, Nov. 22. At this afternoon's session of the committee on territories at the Near East Conference, the representatives of Great Britain, France and Italy all declared their opposition to the Turkish demand for a plebiscite to decide the sovereignty of Western Thrace.

ANOTHER MINING HORROR.
BIRMINGHAM, Alabama, Nov. 22. Four hundred men entombed late this afternoon by a dust explosion in the Woodward Iron Company's No. 3 mine at Dolomite, one hundred and twenty-five have been rescued, some injured seriously. It is thought probable that at least one hundred of those remaining are dead and many injured, but hopes are entertained for the safety of many. Sixty are known to be dead in the explosion and the fate of two hundred and fifteen others uncertain. Fire followed the explosion and is believed to have caused many deaths. Half the victims are white, the others colored. There are harrowing scenes at the pithead as numbers of members of the families of the entombed men wait through the night for news. A broken electric circuit caused by runaway cars is said to be responsible for the ignition of the explosive dust.

70 KILLED.

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 22. Seventy miners were killed and sixty injured, some of them seriously, in the dust explosion in the Dolomite mine No. 3 of the Woodward Iron Co. nine miles from here, this afternoon, which trapped 480 workers beneath the surface, according to an official statement tonight.

HARRINGTON WARNS TURKS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 22. Lt. Gen. Harrington, Commander of the Allied forces here, issued a stern warning to the Kemalists that any further encroachments upon Constantinople would be at their peril.

BLAMES UNITED STATES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22. Georges Clemenceau to-day laid at the door of the United States the blame for the unrest in which Europe is now seething. Speaking before the Chamber of Commerce of the State, the French War Premier declared: "America left France in the lurch" after the war. "It was a great mistake to leave without any proposal for adjustment of matters; it was the greatest mistake and the source of all the evil taking place now."

STILL HUNGER STRIKING.

DUBLIN, Nov. 22. Mary MacSwiney, hunger striking in Mount Joy prison for nineteen days, has declared her intention of refusing the attention of a doctor or nurse until her sister Annie is permitted to see her. Annie has been fasting in front of the prison gates since Friday in protest against her sister's imprisonment, and the refusal of the chaplain to administer the Sacrament.

CUNO TAKES HOLD.

BERLIN, Nov. 22. Chancellor Cuno took over the reins of Government to-day, and devoted the day to installing himself in the Chancellor's palace, and conducting informal conferences with his Ministers.

SHIPPING BILL TAKES PREFERENCE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22. By a vote of 200 to 110, the House to-day adopted a rule giving preference status to the Administration Shipping Bill which will be taken tomorrow and voted on finally on November 29th.

THE NEXT MODERATOR.

LONDON, Nov. 22. Rev. Dr. Davis Cairns, Professor of Dogmatics and Apologetics, of the United Free Church, Aberdeen, a well known authority on religious works, has been unanimously chosen as the next Moderator of the General Assembly of the United Free Church.

LIQUOR LADEN SCHOONER HELD.

SHELBOURNE, Nov. 22. The schooner Dawn, formerly owned at Lockport, and built here thirty years ago, was arrested to-day by the Government steamer Arras and held pending investigation of the existence of proper bonds guaranteeing against the landing on Canadian territory of the cargo of liquors aboard. The Dawn in command of Capt. Thomas of Mahone Bay, is bound from St. Pierre to Nassau with over three hundred cases of assorted liquors.

THE CHILDREN'S MYSTERY.

LONDON, Nov. 22. The Colonial Office this afternoon, denied that Erskine Childers had been sent to Ascension Island in the South Atlantic, but declined to say where he is being held.

Minard's Liniment Co., Ltd. Gentlemen—I have used Minard's Liniment and have found it a good remedy. After the explosion I was pretty well shaken up having quite a number of bruises and cuts, but thanks to Minard's Liniment I am my old self again. It healed the sores and bruises and gave me much relief. It is true to its name as the King of Pain, for it stopped the pain almost at once. I first noticed the ad in the Montreal Standard and decided to invest in a bottle, for which I am not sorry, but can say with truth that I am thankful for it having done all it claimed to do, and in my case much more, and a satisfied customer is the best ad one can possibly find. That is my word of it and I think you will agree with me too.

Yours very truly,

C.L.B. Cadets.

All the fine weather Brigade ranks were absent Tuesday night from parade but the "Old Reliablies" who are on duty rain or shine answered the roll call. The Battalion Chaplain Rev. J. Brinton, read the usual opening prayers and in the orderly room was discussing the huge C.L.B. Camp, he attended in Richmond and Whitley, where the C.L.B. of England sometimes has 1800 lads under canvas.

Topsail detachment reports this week that their greatest difficulty is no hall for the lads to drill. Surely the public of Topsail can arrange this—in the day school or one of the various Society's Halls of Topsail which are not occupied. We hope some arrangements will soon be made for Topsail detachment so they can have their weekly drills.

The Brigade Savings' Bank is doing good service, the Cashier reports. This was founded by Col. R. G. Rendell, C.B.E., many years ago to teach thrift and the habit of putting something by "for a rainy day." One hundred and thirty three lads have deposits there amounting to over four thousand dollars. The Bank's Trustees are Capt. Outerbridge, C.B.E., and Major Williams. The Bank paid four per cent. on all deposits last year owing to having its Reserve in Government Bonds. All lads not having an account should do so at once and "get the habit" of making a deposit and practicing thrift.

Last night the Officers' Mess held their monthly conference—the usual routine business being transacted, and suggestions given for a winter programme and the annual Mess dinner.

Tuesday night 161 all ranks were on duty as per the official records of Acting Regt. Sergt. Major Andrews with following officers on duty, Lt.-Col. Goodridge, Major Williams, T.M. McC., Adjutant, Captains H. O. Outerbridge, C.B.E., F. Miles, Lieutenants, Mott, P. B. Rendell, Fred Reid, George Hunt and Harold Hayward.

Rev. W. Edgar Rogers writes headquarters of the pleasure the C.L.B. management in London have in hearing of the activities of its Oldest Overseas Regiment. It gives them encouragement to hear of Newfoundland progress in C.L.B. affairs and "The Love Flower" a Wonderful Story.

Everyone seems to agree that next to perfection in production, the chief requisite for a perfect motion picture is a real honest-to-goodness story. It's that type of a dramatic tale that David W. Griffith has based his latest photodrama on for United Artists' release, and this wonderfully dramatic production, "The Love Flower," will be a feature at the Majestic Theatre to-day.

The story has to do with Stella Bevan, whose father returns from serving an undeserved sentence in prison.

Bevan meets the man, Crane, who sent him "up" and Bevan and his daughter decide to go away and start over again. On their way Bevan is informed of his wife's infidelity and goes back to prove the charge. During a quarrel, the man in the case is shot. Crane immediately determines it a murder and intercepts the daughter on her way to the hotel, but Bevan coming up from the rear makes a captive of the detective, until he and his daughter have embarked. They land on a South Sea uncharted island, where Stella meets a young chap on his way to the port from which she and her father had fled.

The Boy, Sanders, arrives at the port and Crane arranges passage back with the unsuspecting Sanders on his cargo vessel. On their arrival at the island, Stella, seeing Crane, refuses to talk to Sanders, believing that he has brought Crane there deliberately. She sinks Sander's boat and attempts by various means to murder either Crane, or both Crane and Sanders.

During the time the three men and this girl are marooned on the island, a complete understanding is reached between Stella and Sanders. No end of excitement is created when Crane attracts the attention of his assistants on the faraway mainland. But in a tremendous battle, Crane believes he has killed his man. Bevan saves himself and with the detective the happy pair sail away only to return later as man and wife to join him on the island.

Fishermen's Movement Good for St. John's.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir—I am another of those who would like to offer my congratulations to our fishermen over their success. Although I was a great supporter of the Squires' Government, yet like thousands of others, I am now disgusted with them. It is no more than to hear people talk about the state of the present. I know it from experience. At all the time that are being the streets to-day. Who are they and what are they? Laborers and tradesmen, as usual. Out of all the hundreds that are out of work you will never find one that is from the Civil Service. Well Sir, why should the Civil Servants be kept in their jobs if the service is already overcrowded? Are they any more than I and hundreds of others who have to walk up and down the street? Now talking of cutting down high paid Government officials, have we a man in this country of ours who, if elected Prime Minister, has pluck and courage enough to cut the wages of the big chiefs? I doubt if he have. It is a true saying that Governments are what the people make them. The drawback in this country is that the people are so scattered. If they were closer together as regards distance, there would certainly be a clean out of this crowd that has the grip on us now. In conclusion, Sir, I wish the Fishermen's Movement success right through their programme, as it is good for the people of St. John's as well as for those outside it. If we wish their success we must all work together. It is a duty we have to perform.

Yours truly,

Chinese Murder Trial.
The King vs. Wo Fen Game.

(Yesterday afternoon.)
 At the hearing yesterday forenoon, towards recess hour, counsel for the defence, Mr. L. E. Emerson intimated that he would oppose putting in a statement made by Wo Fen Game at the Hospital, before Mr. Justice McCarthy and the Inspector General. Both these gave their evidence in the forenoon. The hearing in the afternoon began shortly after 2.30 o'clock.
 Inspector General Hutchings recalled that both he and Mr. McCarthy were in civilian clothes when they visited the Hospital to take the prisoner's statement.
 The next witness called was Kim Lee. Examined by Mr. Winter, he gave his age as 43 and said he came here 24 or 25 years ago. He came from China to Canada where he stayed a few months. He was born at the village of Tong Wo but was never at the Su Tang village.
 Prosecutor—"Did you know the men that did live at the Murray Street laundry?"
 Witness—"Yes, I knew them well. We were not related and only friends. I visited them frequently, but not much this past two years. I saw the prisoner down town and knew him to speak to him."
 Prosecutor—"Did you know where Wo Fen Game's room was at the Murray Street laundry?"
 Witness—"No."
 Prosecutor—"Did you know of any trouble between the prisoner and the others at the laundry?"
 Witness—"No."
 Prosecutor—"Did he ever say anything to you about wages?"
 Witness—"No, except last Christmas when we met at a shop on New St."
 Prosecutor—"What did he say?"
 Witness—"A dozen of the men were all talking about Wo Fen Game leaving Murray St. laundry."
 Prosecutor—"Did you say anything to Wo Fen Game?"
 Witness—"Yes, I told him it was a poor time to leave, as he would not get another job. I also told Hong Kim you got him here and have to get him back to get your money."
 Prosecutor—"Had Wo Fen Game any set hours at work?"
 Witness—"No."
 Prosecutor—"Where were you on the night of May 2nd?"
 Witness—"I was at the nickel and then to my shop, where a police officer came and called me to go to Murray Street. When I got there, there was a lot of people present. I saw the bodies of Hong Leon, Hong Kim Hi and So Ho Kl. Hong Mun was there and I interpreted for him."

 Prosecutor—"Do other Chinamen come to you much for advice?"
 Witness—"Yes, sometimes for a talk, that's all."
 Prosecutor—"Do you remember going to Hospital after the shooting, with anybody?"
 Witness—"Yes, we went and saw Wo Fen Game, he was in bed sleeping, so I think."
 Prosecutor—"Did you speak to Wo Fen Game when you went in?"
 Witness—"Not before the screen was put up. The other men told me what to say."
 Prosecutor—"What did they say to you?"
 Witness—"Mr. Hutchings told me to ask Wo Fen Game if he killed the men up in Murray Street last night."
 Prosecutor—"After you were sworn, do you remember what McCarthy told you to say?"
 Witness—"He told me to ask Wo Fen Game if he killed the men up in Murray Street."
 Prosecutor—"Was Wo Fen Game sick?"
 Witness—"Yes, he appeared to look sick."
 Prosecutor—"Did he say anything to you about his condition?"
 Witness—"No, I don't remember."
 Prosecutor—"Did Wo Fen Game speak to you in Chinese?"
 Witness—"Yes."
 Prosecutor—"What did he say to you?"
 Mr. Emerson here objected to the question and Mr. Winter submitted that as witness was not quite clear he should be examined, as the other Chinese witnesses were through the court interpreter. The court did not grant permission and the examination in English continued.
 Prosecutor—"Did you see Mr. McCarthy write?"
 Witness—"Yes."
 Prosecutor—"When it was finished, what did he do?"
 Witness—"Wo Fen Game signed his name after it was read over to me and I interpreted to Wo Fen Game."
 Cross-examined by Mr. Emerson witness said there were over 30 of the Hong family here and about 70 or 80 Chinamen altogether in town.
 Mr. Emerson—"Last Christmas you say Wo Fen Game left his work and you advised him to go back. Did Hong Kim Hi take him back willingly?"
 Witness—"Yes, I only had to say a few words."
 Mr. Emerson—"How long has Charles Dean been here? What is his name?"

 Witness—"He is here two years, his name is I think Hong Fen. I don't know if he is leader of Hong family here."
 Mr. Emerson—"Did you have conversation with Charles Dean the night of the shooting?"
 Witness—"No."
 Mr. Emerson—"When you went to Hospital did you tell Wo Fen Game that the two men with you were policemen?"
 Witness—"Yes."
 Mr. Emerson—"Did you get the statement by asking Wo Fen Game questions?"
 Witness—"Yes, I asked him questions, I made him understand what the officers said."
 Mr. Emerson—"Did you interpret what Wo Fen Game said to the court, or was it as near as you could get?"
 Witness—"In so far as I understood English I translated."
 Mr. Justice Johnson—"Was it a statement by Wo Fen Game or an examination by Mr. Hutchings or Mr. McCarthy? Did the beginning come from Mr. Hutchings or Mr. McCarthy?"
 Witness—"They told me to ask a question to Wo Fen Game."
 Mr. Justice Johnson—"Did you ask Wo Fen Game questions?"
 Witness—"Yes."
 Mr. Justice Johnson—"Was Wo Fen Game's statement all answers to questions?"
 Witness—"Yes."
 Mr. Justice Johnson—"Was what Wo Fen Game said, of his own choice?"
 Witness—"When I asked a question he answered every word."
 Mr. Justice Johnson—"Did the statement come by question and answer?"
 Witness—"Yes."
 Mr. Justice Johnson—"Then the statement was not a free and spontaneous statement from Wo Fen Game?"
 Mr. Emerson again objected to the statement being put in. His objections were based on the following grounds:—(First) That the statement was taken as a dying declaration and the declarant did not die; (second) The interpreter was not sufficiently familiar with the English language to correctly interpret, and (third) The declarant was not cautioned that it could be used in evidence against him.
 At some length Mr. Winter, for the Crown, pointed out the various reasons why the statement should not be objected to.

Berlin Students Cannot Find Lodgings.

BERLIN.—Hundreds of students attending the University of Berlin, are without lodgings, according to the rector of the institution, who has issued an appeal to citizens of Berlin to take in the homeless young men who have gathered here to attend the fall term. The enrollment at universities in Germany this year has reached a total of 90,000, the highest since shortly after the armistice. Forty thousand students last summer engaged in manual labor to meet their living expenses, fifteen thousand of them finding employment as miners.

Famed Old Lincoln's Inn.

FIVE HUNDRED YEARS OLD NEXT MONTH.

LONDON (Canadian Press)—Lincoln's Inn, which boasts of the King among its benchers and has provided the native with at least five of its Prime Ministers, will celebrate its quincentenary early in December. "It was in 1422," says the Law Journal, "that the Society of Lincoln's Inn, after occupying Thavie's Inn and Furnival's Inn, began its long occupation of the present site. Here, formerly the Bishops of Chichester had their town residence, and the name of Chichester Rents, a narrow turning in Chancery Lane, much altered in recent years, helps to preserve the old ecclesiastical associations of the place." How it came to be called Lincoln's Inn is related in the Law Journal, as follows: "It was from its earlier settlement in Thavie's Inn that it derived its name. Close to the house of John Thavie—who died nearly 600 years ago—was the Canon House of Holborn, the residence of the Earl of Lincoln, who being a person affected by the knowledge of the laws, brought the professors and students there. "When, therefore, they migrated eventually to the palace of the Bishops of Chichester in 1422 the members of the society continued the name which they had adopted in honor of the nobleman to whom they owed their original settlement in Thavie's Inn." Pitt, Addington, Canning, Spencer, Percival and Asquith are among the Prime Ministers whom members will be able to recall at the commemorative service and banquet to be held to mark the 500th anniversary of Lincoln's Inn. Other great legal names associated with the Inn are Sir Thos. Moore and Sir Matthew Hale. Jeremy Bentham, Lord Macaulay and Sir H. Maine are three of the many famous writers who spent studious hours in the library of the Inn.

Dunfield Club Reception

WELCOME TO REV. AND MISS LIGHTBOURN.

There took place in Canon Wood Hall last evening a very pleasing event, when the Dunfield Club held a reception in honor of Rev. G. B. Lightbourn and Miss Lightbourn. Promptly at halfpast seven the gathering sat down to a hot dinner, which was served by Miss Hattie Wills and her very capable assistants. "Black and Amber," the Club colors, predominated in the decorations. Amongst the guests present were Rev. E. A. and Mrs. Eary, Rev. G. B. Lightbourn, Miss Dorothy Lightbourn, Hon. R. Watson, Councillor Dowden and Mr. G. Cook, the Rector being the chairman for the evening. After dinner the following toast list was taken up:

The King—Prop. the Rector; resp. "God Save the King."

Bishop and Clergy—Prop. E. E. Knight; resp. The Rector.

The Rector—Prop. E. C. Wood; resp. The Rector.

The Director—Prop. Hon. R. Watson; resp. Rev. G. B. Lightbourn.

The Late Director, Rev. (Capt.) Clayton—Prop. E. D. Wills.

Our Guests—Prop. E. E. Knight; resp. Mrs. Eary.

The Ladies—Prop. W. Legge; resp. Miss H. Wills.

Dunfield Club and Bible Class—Prop. Councillor Dowden; resp. E. E. Knight.

In the speeches which were made, great tribute was paid to the former Director, Rev. (Capt.) Clayton. The welcome of the club to Rev. Lightbourn and Miss Lightbourn, was very enthusiastic. In a very forcible speech Rev. Lightbourn promised his support and friendship to the club. He was followed by Miss Lightbourn, who in a very graceful manner thanked the members and also promised her support to the club. A very hearty welcome was also accorded to the Hon. R. Watson, people's warden. Mr. Watson in his remarks made very pleasing reference to the club and its work in the parish. The Rotary Club who are so interested in the welfare of the youth of the city will, we feel sure be ready to support such a club as this which has for its object the training of the youth of to-day for his position as a citizen of to-morrow. During the evening congratulations were tendered to the club's Ping-Pong team Messrs. E. Knight, E. Wood and W. Nicol who secured the Inter-Club Ping-Pong Tournament Cup. The ladies who catered were Misses Wills (3), Coaker (2), Cook, Brown and Mrs. C. Hammond. The management was done by the club secretary, E. D. Wills. The singing of the National Anthem brought the evening's proceedings to a fitting close—One who was present.

Wing Spread of Seagulls

BURLINGTON, Vermont.—The herping gulls of Lake Champlain left for the North earlier than usual this fall, and observers are wondering whether this means a long winter. The gulls are given protection on the Four Brother Islands, where they raise their young, and they are highly valued by the municipality of Burlington because of their usefulness as scavengers at the outlet of the city sewer in the lake. The species of gull seen here is said never to have been found farther south than Albany, N. Y. The islands were purchased by Edward Hatch, of New York, a half century ago for the purpose of protecting the birds, and the Hatch family ever since then has maintained guards to prevent the stealing of eggs and killing of gulls. The average full grown gull here measures between five and seven feet from tip to tip. The birds' shrill cries assist in scaring poachers away. If the nest of a setting bird is visited, the male gull will attack the intruder with his wings, which can deal a powerful blow. Scientists say that one of the gulls which comes to the islands annually is more than eighty years old.

Pancho Villa Defeats Goldstein.

NEW YORK BANTAMWEIGHT GETS GOOD BEATING FROM FLY-WEIGHT TITLE HOLDER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Pancho Villa, Filipino, holder of the American flyweight championship, went out of his class to-night and defeated Abe Goldstein, New York bantamweight, in a 15-round contest at Madison Square Garden. He received the judges' decision after decisively outpointing and outpunching his heavier rival. Villa was the aggressor throughout the first three rounds. Sparring with cat-like grace he jabbed at Goldstein steadily and landed several hard lefts to the body. He drew blood from his opponent's nose in the second round. The pace quickened in the third round and both exchanged hard body blows. Goldstein seemed content to stay on the defensive.

Villa had the better of a rapid-fire exchange in the fourth, landing several slashing lefts to Goldstein's head and body. Goldstein shook Villa with two left hooks to the jaw in the fifth after a slow session of sparring. The Filipino scored with both fists repeatedly in the sixth as he carried the fight to Goldstein who had landed few telling blows so far.

Villa had the better of the fight all the way through and at the end of the 15th round was hammering away with both hands after having driven Goldstein all over the ring with lefts to the face and having shaken him with a right hook to the chin.

Ten Drowned in Fifteen Mile Lake.

SEARCH PARTIES FOUND ONLY FLOATING BAGGAGE AND CLOTHING.

QUEBEC, Nov. 16.—(Canadian Press)—The accident on Fifteen Mile Lake, near Shelter Bay, on the north shore of the St. Lawrence, when a speed gasoline boat went through the ice on Monday night, resulted in the loss of ten lives, among whom were a doctor and a woman, according to late details reaching here this morning. At the present time the Ontario Paper Company, which owns large timber limits at Shelter Bay, has a party of men working with grappling irons and a diver, seeking to recover the bodies. Nothing has yet been found of the boat or its passengers.

Although a search was made all around the lake on land the only thing seen was floating baggage.

According to details reaching this city, the motorboat left the "six mile portage" on Sunday afternoon with a party of ten, after having stopped at a camp at the foot of the lake, for the priest, Rev. Father Tortellier, to say Mass.

The following day was windy, but no ice had been encountered on the lake previously, the party decided to leave on Monday night for the head of the lake, fifteen miles away.

On the following morning, Tuesday, a tugboat and scow, belonging to the Ontario Paper Company struck ice in the middle of the lake, but broke through. On reaching the head of the lake, however, there was no sign that the speed boat had arrived with its ten passengers, so a search party was immediately sent back to the middle of the lake and there it was found that the gasoline launch had struck ice.

The land all around the lake was searched thoroughly, but the only trace of boat or passengers found was floating baggage and clothing. It is certain that the ten passengers perished and indications are that the boat must have tried in several places to get out of the ice before sinking.

Dr. Romeo Yezina, of Matana, and Rev. Father Tortellier, from Penicost, are the only two victims whose names it has been possible to ascertain up to the present, but the homes of the others are given as follows: One from St. Raymond County, Portneuf, one from Tadoussac, one from Bic, a man and his wife from Escoumamin, and one or two from Quebec.

Navigating the Life Ship.

In bad weather, when there are heavy fogs and storms at sea, the navigator is obliged to take his bearings frequently to know where he is. If he doesn't do this, he cannot intelligently direct his course, and is liable to wreck his ship by running into hidden rocks.

Every man is the navigator of a life ship, and if he doesn't early form the habit of taking his bearings, to find out where he is and whether he is going, he may, in middle life, find his ship stranded on the rock of failure. If you would save yourself from shipwreck take your bearings frequently.

Capitalism Versus Communism.

It is hard to understand the mental make-up of those men who, in free states like Great Britain, Canada, and the American Republic, strive to impose upon their own countries the system of sovietism that exists in Russia. The present government of Russia was established in the same name of liberty, but it is a tyranny without a parallel in human history.

A striking comparison is made possible by the case of Trevor Maguire, tried for seditious utterances in Toronto on October 31. It was proved that Maguire said in a speech delivered at a public meeting in Queen's Park that, "In looking around this British Empire (vampire would be a better name), we find it has committed untold atrocities in India, Egypt and other countries, including Canada, and against Soviet Russia."

He was found guilty and recommended to the mercy of the court. A purely nominal sentence was imposed. Suppose Mr. Maguire, living in Russia, had given expression to similar seditious utterances, what would have been his sentence? In all probability it would have been death.

Tens of thousands of the best Russian manhood and womanhood were put to death for saying much less against the Soviets. The policy of Lenin has been the extinction of the cultured and educated classes. A despotism tempered by assassination has been the reigning power of Russia for five years. And yet there are men in Canada who profess a preference for that kind of government as one conducted in British... It is incomprehensible. This point we desire to make... extreme leniency of what the... extraordinary rigor and... rule of the proletariat. It... dom is the goal to which... are struggling, it must be... to it by the British system... Russian method.—The Socialist

NIGHT.
 The day ends,
 The task is done,
 Peace attends
 The setting sun.
 Tired hands
 Come home to rest,
 Life disbands
 Her worst and best.
 Out of line
 Her soldiers fall,
 Bench and mine
 and market stall.
 Great affairs
 And little cases,
 An armistice.
 Vain to ask
 The night to wait,
 Leave the task
 And follow straight.
 Other days
 May come, but this Finished, stays
 The way it is.
 Death, as night,
 Comes when it will,
 Fades the light
 And all is still.
 Vain to ask
 Of Death to wait,
 Leave the task
 And follow straight.
 Grant to me
 When comes the call,
 Prepared to be
 For night to fall.

Empire Trade Policy.

Need of Co-Operation and Better Understanding.

The Great Exhibition and its Possibilities.

BY AUSTIN HARRISON, Editor of "The English Review."

THE great gap made in the capacity of Europe's industry consequent on the peace has not been met. It is a plausible reason that we have lost in Europe the market of Central Europe, representing, say, £80,000,000 a year, has gone, we can sell to the Colonies, and on the proposition looks rosy. Nothing is easier than to compile lists of the supplies of the Empire: tobacco, flax, silk, cotton, wool, oil, rubber, lead, copper, timber, hides, jute, gold, silver, etc., to wheat, barley, maize, etc. In 1924 the British Empire will be able to supply the main, or the Colonies utilize us to aggrandize and enrich themselves. The danger to us of the latter course need not be emphasized.

BUYING, SELLING, AND THE FOREIGN.

Few people would to-day care to dogmatize about economics, which seem to be a theory of qualification, as well as realize at this juncture, even about money and the old fallacy of the immutable value of gold sovereigns. A few examples will show the nature of the difficulty. In 1920 we could not export to Australia because Europe could not buy Australasian wool. Similarly with India's tea, owing to the collapse of the Russian market. Our selling power to the Colonies was dependent upon the Colonies' selling-power to Europe. We cannot finance on the Colonies—that is the point. When the selling power of the Colonies is restricted owing to European difficulties, our exports are restricted to the Colonies. We are a world Empire and trade is independent. The problem narrows down to a self-evident claim of preservation. It is how to fill up the European gap (1) as regards the loss of our European sales; (2) as regards the loss of the Colonies' European sales. In a word, can we so arrange our respective sales and purchases so as to be practically independent of the market? Under Zollverein of course we could. But even as an idea this solution is ruled out because the Colonies will not look at it. Our present theory of Empire died in the war. The word "Empire" is not colonially popular; a better word is "Commonwealth." Certainly the political conception on Roman lines of an Empire centrally run from London, as expounded by a group of pro-Consular theorists, was shot up in the war; the tendency is rather the other way, yet the spirit is strongly cohesive. The bond of speech, of tradition, of culture and civilization, is real and living, and perhaps this link is a deeper intangible power than any treaty of commerce ever could be. We see that in the will of Australia to defeat the exchange problem by pricing all alien exports at the other hand, we have seen in the Canadian cattle agitation an undeniable tendency to finance on Britain, probably not to the advantage of one section of British farming, as we will discover.

LABOR STANDS IN THE WAY.

Again take cotton. On paper we could probably grow sufficient cotton in Egypt, Africa, India, and Australia to free ourselves from the American market. What is the difficulty? It is labor. An immense amount of cheap labor is required. In America the labor is black. Now Australia refuses colored labor. Her policy, economically stated, is that of the dog-in-the-manger. A huge continent remains unpopulated—Japan is pushed into imperial militarism as the result. Were Australia populated in the tropical parts, whole regions of productivity would appear and we would greatly benefit. But Australia is adamant on her race problem. The cotton question thus seems confined to Egypt, where cheap labour is obtainable. Our imperial economics are involved in the human problem; and in India in particular this is the case. Then there is the question of intensive competition. Thirty years ago Germany and Japan hardly counted. Today, Japan is a fierce rival with cheap labour, and Germany, if she is to pay reparations, can only pay by credit, for exports competition; and America. Here another awkward question arises that of output per head. In 1914 Mr. A. W. Flux estimated that the industrial output per head in America was roughly double that shown by the census for Great Britain. We all know what this is—our cash. It has not deteriorated since the war. Its ultimate expression is high prices. Even with the best will in the world, it is very doubtful whether the Colonies will indefinitely buy British goods for sentimental reasons at a higher price than they need pay for foreign goods of equal value; as we know, the South African stores, for instance, are full of stuff from Germany, which we cannot bring to compete with. Thus pianos for a fiver; razors for a shilling, etc., etc. Our standing as regards competition starts gravely handicapped.

In addition to high wages, we have this restriction of output difficulty. The national habit of treating work as unworthy, though this applies chiefly to the South of England, must seriously increase our difficulties in the teeth of the competition run on exchange-dumping, foreign willingness to work, and low wages; indeed the tendency is for both capital and labour to run away from the home competition; the former by foreign investments, the latter by emigration. In 1913 our exports to the Empire amounted to £196,311,399; to all other foreign countries to £229,942,196. In 1921 the total to the Empire was £298,770,872; to other countries £404,425,410. Thus in 1921 over 40 per cent. of our exports went to the Empire.

WILL TARIFF REFORM SOLVE THE PROBLEM?

Now the axiom of trade is to buy in the cheapest market and sell in the dearest, and the fact must be faced that our Colonies are reversing the law by buying our higher-priced goods for sentimental purposes. Can that inversion of economic law continue? If not, and almost inevitably it will not, what is the solution to our problem of Empire developing on the lines of separate competitive units? It looks like De Toqueville's epigram about the ripe fruits. We ought surely to be considering the matter pretty carefully. Tariff Reformers say frankly that the only solution is the rearrangement of the currents of trade, which of course means imperial preference. If, they argue, the European gap is to be filled, we must see to it that the currents of trade are diverted from Europe to within the Empire, just as Australia, since the war, refuses all her lead except that refined in the smelters of Germany. Preference is, of course, a controversial subject and cuts both ways. We experienced its meaning in connection with the Canadian cattle embargo; no doubt there is a great deal to be said for it. But the larger aspect of the question is disturbing. Tariffs lead to tariff wars. One of the worst features of the post-war world is this frenzied tariff barrier system which has largely contributed to the breakdown of financial Europe. Man must co-operate or fight. If the world is to be reconstituted on systems of Protection, it is mere futility to talk of ending war, or peace, or any hope of a "new order," nor does there seem any likelihood of arriving at that harmony of capital and labour essential to prosperity, or any prospect of modifying a system which of necessity degrades and enslaves an increasing number of workers. Our danger is that which confronted Rome from her far-flung dependencies, for that, too, was economic. It is the human factor versus the system. To-day, we are undoubtedly faced with enforced emigration which will for the most part go to the Colonies. Men say, for every hundred colonial settlers we have a hundred potential buyers. That is so theoretically, if we rule out prices of competition. But as the exodus increases, so that in process of time the purchasing-power will lie without the country, in which case our producing-power will diminish. Were we to emigrate 2,000,000 workers this year, wages here would not fall, and it is an open question how long the Colonies will buy dear for imperial reasons. Cynically stated, our interest would be to industrialize the Empire on cheap or coloured labour coupled with a wise emigration policy. The Colonies, on the other hand, want to increase our home purchasing-power so as to develop and maintain their prosperity. The problem is sentiment or good-will versus the cruel laws of economics. It is we who are in straits, not the Colonies. We have this desperate fact to wrestle with. Our exports in 1921 were £703,000,000. Now we have to find for pensions, interest on debts and sinking fund, about £600,000,000 per annum. Faced with that staggering proposition, unless we are prepared to devaluate or write down, it does not look as if we could afford to neglect any market for any reason whatsoever, still less that we can afford to write off the purchasing-power of the world as negligible (amounting to £404,425,410 in 1921), in view of the keen and new competition from countries like France and Japan and of our low output per head, and the unpleasant certainty that we, perhaps alone of the belligerents, are unlikely to refuse the burden of our obligations by "monkeying" with the currency or debt in the interests of our superb credit position.

EMPIRE AWAITS DEVELOPMENT.

At the same time the Empire is there, awaiting development. It can grow everything. Certainly, as regards food supplies, raw materials, and essential industries, the Empire could be made self-sustainable; it would appear extraordinary if we do not set about the job with all dispatch. Europe to-day is a quagmire. If Germany smashes financially, Europe may decline into semi-medieval conditions; it is impossible to forecast the fate of Europe in the slough of bankruptcy threatening the credit system of the world. It would be supreme folly to close our eyes and expect salvation from European "paper," and if politicians will not, or cannot, stop the rot, denounce the war treaties and restart Europe on solid foundations, then of a certainty, unless we turn to the Empire and build up there what we have destroyed in Europe, our decline is inevitable, and as the centre cracks the outlying units will drift apart, as was the case with Rome and Spain, from lack of initiative and vision. In 1924 the British Empire Exhibition is to be opened at Wembley Park, where the new stadium is being built. We shall see gathered there the products of the whole Empire; it will probably be a landmark in our history. Our entire economic future is bound up with the Empire, and if we cannot find ways and means to make the Empire self-sustainable and to obtain the basis of a common economic interest and policy, then there must be something rotten in the state of England. A Conference of Empire is needed to restate the whole position. We can drop the old imperial plan and with it the Procrustean conception of development. The plan should be Empire economics. Can we advantageously finance on one another? If not, what? If we can, and of course a policy could be found, then a great human work lies before us in which our civilization will be tested and proven. The last Imperial Conference ended in pious aspirations, chiefly because the Colonies disliked our Public School Empire position and we shirked facing the real issues.

"There Were Many Things Which I Could Not Eat"

Mrs. H. Robert Wells, English Harbour, Trinity Bay, Nfld., writes:

"I was troubled with nervous dyspepsia—so much so that there were a great many things I could not eat at all on account of the distressed feeling afterwards. I used many different remedies, but they did me little good. Finally I tried Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and was surprised at the relief this combined treatment gave me in such a short time."

IN THE BACK PAGES.

Did you ever notice what a totally different atmosphere you will find in the advertising pages of different magazines? If a stranger, totally unacquainted with our American magazines but with a shrewd mind, should be shown the advertising pages of any one of our magazines, I think he could tell, without looking at any of the reading matter or knowing anything further about the subject, just what class of readers the magazine was addressed to.

In The Men's Magazine.

There is, for example, the magazine which is addressed par excellence to men, though many women read it. It is interesting to note by the way that in a field of perhaps 20 first class magazines this is the only one that is looked upon as appealing primarily to men, though there are about half a dozen that frankly appeal to women. I won't write the name of this magazine but you know what it is, very likely you take it. Turn to its back pages with me and mark the distinctly masculine note of its advertising. Masculine things advertised in a masculine way. Revolvers, automobiles, razors, tobacco, adding machines, locks, life insurance, singles, underwear, roof paint—such articles as these dominate its pages. Automobiles? Yes, but far more than auto-

Constipation Banished

A druggist says: "For nearly thirty years I have recommended the Extract of Roots, known as Hether Seigel's Curative Syrup, for arresting and permanently relieving constipation and indigestion. It is an old reliable remedy that never fails to do the work." 30 drops thrice daily. Get the Genuine. 50c. and $1.00 bottles.

mobiles the parts and accessories—brakes and piston rings and tires, oils and spark plugs and valves. Imagine a maker of spark plugs or piston rings advertising in a woman's magazine!

Now turn to a magazine of distinctly feminine appeal and see how the atmosphere changes. Tapoca, bouillon cubes, hams, blankets, corsets, lingerie, pearls, dish towels, complexion secrets—I turn the pages at random and pass through a sort of combination food shop, department store, and beauty parlor.

Guess Which This One Is.

But the difference in appeal of the various magazines is not only a sex difference. It is far more subtle than that. Enter with me the back pages of a certain magazine and then guess what that magazine's front pages contain. This magazine contains many ordinary advertisements but it also contains an unusually large proportion of this sort of appeal: "From Laundry Wagon to District Sales Manager, the Same Opportunity open to You," "A Big Raise in Salary is Very Easy to Get if You Go About it in the Right Way," "Be Master of a Real Job," "Your One Chance to Earn the Biggest Money of Your Life," "Double His Salary then Doubles It Again," "High School Course in Two Years," "How Good is Your Money?" I will leave you to guess the name of this magazine. Do you remember the catch our big brothers used to spring on us when we were little "Tar, pitch and turpentine, all begins with A." Well so does the name of this magazine.

The Luxury Magazine.

In another magazine the advertising pages of which I much enjoy passing through, I doubt if a single advertisement of this sort could ever be found. Apparently its readers do not need to think about money, except how to make it by the loveliest things possible. The lady who reads this magazine "demands of her undergarments the same correctness she insists on in her outer clothing." She wears shoes that come from "a costume bootery." She lets the complexion salon "restore her to fresh loveliness after the summer's ravages." She sees that "her bathroom reflects her personal taste and appreciation of beauty in form and color in its appointments," and insists upon "long slim lines of unwrinkled flowing grace in her garments."

I like to see how this lady lives and what she thinks as mirrored in the appeal of those who cater to her. I think one can get a better idea in this way of how the one tenth of one per cent. live in almost any other.

Utah Mine Operators Fight Boll Weevil.

The ores of the Western Utah Copper Company are to be treated in a special plant just being finished at Salt Lake City, Utah, for the manufacture of calcium arsenate. This is the chemical compound that is needed to protect the cotton crop of the southern states from the ravages of the boll weevil, says the Engineering and Mining Journal-Press of New York.

In spite of delays in the arrival of machinery and material, it is hoped to begin the treatment of ores about the middle of December. A good demand for the material seems assured, particularly as indications are that the supply of foreign arsenic is not nearly as large as has been estimated. Indicative of the need for the product is the damage to the cotton crop of the South from the pests. The production of cotton has been reduced from 11,000,000 to 6,000,000 bales in the last six months, largely on account of the boll weevil, which can best be combated with arsenic poison, according to the U.S. department of agriculture. Frank K. Cameron is originator of the process to be used and is manager of the plant in Utah.

A Shuttle in the Empire's Loom.

All the way from London to Glasgow, in order to take a trip to Birkenhead on the City of Nagpur preparatory to her first voyage to Colombo and Calcutta; the Thames, the Clyde, the Mersey, the Hoochley. The trip down the Firth of Clyde to the great Laganian docks is short, but imagination is poor indeed if the very name of the city and river do not fire thoughts broad based on Empire itself. An invitation to take a preliminary run in the newest ship of the Ellerman City Line, built by Messrs. Workman, Clark & Co., Ltd., of Belfast, was not to be resisted. And if there has been the smallest hesitation, it would surely have vanished beyond recall when it was known that the Captain of the City of Nagpur is none other than the Commodore of the Line, Sir Jas. Rae & B. Esq.

How Captain Rae has found in his heart to desert his beloved City of Exeter with her record of war and post-war service, is an intimate question which Father Neptune, the Father Confessor of all loyal sailor men, alone is privileged to put. Induce Sir James to talk of the City of Exeter and "the Liner she's a lady" is almost spoken by his eyes. He will tell many stories of her; intensely interesting, though not always on all fours with some that will reach you from less authoritative lips. The story of stories concerns the mine she struck when almost in sight of Bombay; she began to sink; the captain who loved her saw her settling down and the tragic moment when decided to take to the boats had to be made. All are safely away, except the captain and one or two prepared to stay by to the last; then he watches the line he presently comes to the conclusion that she is making no more water, ultimately decides to recall the boats, gets every one back, hoists in six of the eight life boats, but regretfully has to abandon two; slowly the ship makes its way to Bombay, minus only the two life-boats. Then the sequel; some hours afterwards there drifts into port following in his wake, one of the abandoned boats; more hours elapse and the second boat appears. Both have returned to him like faithful hounds! A veritable epic of loyalty in the inanimate! The little ones finding their way to the fold where the badly maimed mother rests. With such an incident in mind, one gets the most eloquent proof of the appeal the new love, in the shape of the City of Nagpur, must have made before her master could steel courage to be off with the old.

Somehow, as I move about this latest of the Ellerman liners—and I know her from bridge to stoke-hole—Rudyard Kipling thrusts himself into memory, and is the more insistent perhaps, because just now the glorious old Cutty Sark, the last word in clippers, has been bought by an Englishman and is chugging comfortably in the Firth. As though to emphasize the contrast between old and new, there, in the early mist-piercing morning sunlight, is an ancient but picturesque schooner standing down the Clyde. The Empire of Commerce of which the Cutty Sark were the builders, has been preserved and extended by the steamships from the Great Western to the ocean greyhounds of today all "twit shuffles of an Empire's loom that weave us main to main." They tell me wonderful things of the engines, the multibular boilers, designed for either coal or oil, the emergency dynamos, the wireless, the cruiser stern which yields to so many extra thousand cubic feet as compared with the old fashioned stern, they show me the tastefully decorated saloons and smokers' and cabins with the conveniences and comforts of a first-class hotel, and I can only hear the echoes of M'Andrews' Hymn:

Lord, Thou hast made this world below the shadow of Thy hand,
An' taught by time, I tak' it so—excepting always Steam.

Here we are moving through the seas, with mighty engines at work, and but for the waters around us, there is nothing to remind us that we are not on terra firma itself. Not a tremor passes through the compact frame of the City of Nagpur to give quills to the most sensitive of animal mechanisms, as Sir Charles Sherrington might say. And one feels instinctively that M'Andrews was wholly justified in his scornful retort to the superior query: "Mister M'Andrews, don't you think steam spoils romance at sea?" "Romance! . . . Why don't poets tell?" "Lord send a man like Robble Burns to sing the Song of Steam." The "orchestra sublime" which moved M'Andrews to poetic utterance was an agglomeration of distracting discords if judged by the subdued rhythm of the City of Nagpur, and how even M'Andrews would have marveled if he had learned that the single wire overhead kept us in touch with the folk on land!

LOWER TARIFF! LOWER PRICES!

Action, Not Arguments Needed

KEARNEY'S Looking Ahead
Takes the First Step!

The people will win! Lower Tariff is coming!—Prosperity is ahead for all! bringing lower prices and lower living costs. Then, will merchants, rising from the oppression of high duties, sell at the oft-wished "reasonable" prices. A great idea! while the people pay the price now. Why wait? Who has the courage to blaze the trail?

Without waiting for the change I am giving the public the benefit of the Lower Tariff beforehand; clearing stocks, pocket my loss and be ready to start anew. Mark this event! Dependability is its backbone; freedom from the clap-trap of the booster and the bargain scab. The proof is below for the first selling period. No "job" lots, not odds and ends, not imperfect stock, not "shopworn" goods, but fresh, new, dependable lines the very vitals of this Store's stock.

RED BLOOD.

The red blood of these times is much concerned with doom; for passing souls, the church bells toll in a dirge, and graveyards have a boom; the heroes, steeped in gory crimes, are agents of the tomb. The cowboy still infests the scene; and piles his smoking gun, although his grave has long been green, his tribal race is run, and henyears burn gasoline where once he had his fun. And in the north the killers wade through snow, day after day, and dig a pathway with a spade to people they would slay.

and many vengeful debts are paid in blood, the good old way, in murder ships the weapons pop, fired by a pirate crowd, and able seamen reel and drop, all ready for the shroud; this is the hectic sort of storm our schoolboys are allowed. I ask no wishy-washy fare for growing girls and boys; a tactful murder here and there the earthly soul enjoys, but when there's bloodshed everywhere, it wastes and annoys. And kids are prone to say, "Goshook! We had it written down, in wholesome, red-blood, he-men-books, by authors of renown, that blood should flow in crimson brooks, so we'll shoot up the town!" I have three bullets in my shanks, and seven rusty nails, the outcome of scruitat pranks by boys who read such tales, and I am numbered with the cranks for filing, kicks and walls.

Fads and Fashions.

Over a soft green velvet gown was draped a brown marmot lace. A number of sports frocks made by the French houses are braded. Very smart are the black moire handbags trimmed with marcasite. Soft brim effects in small models are the matron's choice in millinery. Among the fabrics being used, printed crepes are especially popular. A virid coat for sports wear combines bright red and green in spots.

Honor to Whom
Honor is Due.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir—The Advocate has in its big line Bonavista District is true to Coaker. Bonavista is loyal. A big column about the price of fish and the Fish Export Tax and brings it to bear and gives Coaker all the credit; but let me say not so, the fishermen and merchants do not agree with the Advocate on those lines. Not a word in the whole column, for the price of fish is no more what Coaker makes it; but let us give honor to whom honor is due, and all will agree Coaker is out of it. Credit is due to the United Fishermen and their legal adviser, Mr. A. B. Morine, and my dear readers, friends and foes, whoever you are, I am sure you will agree with me that the Advocate is far from the truth re price of fish and export tax, and will never make Newfoundlanders believe the tommy rot going through its pages. You will all agree that the Union is done. Coaker is not the man of the hour, and I don't believe a word about reports that Bonavista District is true and loyal to Coaker, not where I belong at least, and places around it far and near have sent a man to the Convention and have not enough Union men to hold a meeting. I know a thing or two, and I speak the truth. Bonavista fishermen, lumbermen, and labourers are in a majority against Coaker and his Union. Fish Regulations, Prohibition, and this Government is like the Union. Only those drawing their salary from both Government and Union, as well got any liking towards it. All over Newfoundland the Government and Union is done, and never again will any Government have so easy a walk over or be so one-sided as to-day. I am glad to see Twillingate, Carbonear and different sections falling in line, and it brings out my statement correct. But we want the whole of Newfoundland sided with this in the United Fishermen's movement, for it is a life and death struggle for our rights. Let us swing off the shackles of one man rule, and tied down conscience. We have nearly gone under, gentlemen, so let us see to it we don't topple over. I believe we are on the road to the higher levels, and if all keep at it and walk straight ahead, never turning to left or right, but march briskly forward and be united, see right done, the House open, and do away with lots of departments, which every one knows we can get along without, and getting the producing spirit and carry on till taxes are reduced, and look and agree in matters great and small, and never fail, never fear, and make up our minds to see it through, and demand the promises re prohibition, education, agriculture and all the rest of it, or turn the whole bunch out and work as well as talk and pray, and each do our best all will come right. I am, Respectfully yours,
MARK FREEMAN.

Sale of Work.
MISSION CIRCLE GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

The Sale of Work at George St. Methodist Church, by the ladies of the Mission Circle was held yesterday afternoon. The affair was opened by Mrs. Soper at 3 o'clock, a large gathering of members and friends of the church being in attendance. As soon as the sale had been declared opened a rushing business followed, and there was not one dull moment throughout the proceedings until practically every article had been bought up. The sale was a success in every way. The usual afternoon and meat teas were served by a number of the ladies. The tables were tastefully decorated, while the good things provided were partaken of with much zest. At 8 o'clock a concert of particular merit was held, and the different numbers were thoroughly enjoyed by a large audience. The following artists took part: Mrs. G. Christian, Mr. A. Russell, Misses Maunier and Soper; Mr. H. Courtenay, Mrs. L. Mews, Miss J. Taylor, R. Steele. The entire affair was most successful and the ladies are to be congratulated.

Error Corrected.

In a report of the meeting of the Law Students' Club of Newfoundland in our issue of yesterday, our correspondent made an error in reference to the winning of the case under dispute before J. A. W. McNeill. We stated that the case was won by Mr. Phelan, whereas we are later informed that the counsel winning the case was his opponent, W. B. Skinner. We offer our sincere apologies to Mr. Skinner and trust that in the future we shall not err again. In passing we might add that this correction is published at the request of the Club.

The St. Bon's College football team were dined by the brothers of the College in the Aula Maxima last night in honor of winning the football championship for this year. Bro. J. F. Ryan the President of the College presided, while a number of old boys were present. During the evening songs were rendered and speeches made. Mr. J. G. Higgins, President of Old St. Bon's Association, Dr. C. J. Fox and G. J. Muir, gave very happy addresses, each heartily congratulating the football team on their splendid win. It is the intention of the Old St. Bon's Association to right royally dine the boys sometime in December.

(Fourth day of trial.)
The fourth day of the Chinese murder trial opened at 10.30 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Winter addressing the court said he had two translations of a letter in Chinese put in evidence yesterday. He suggested that two or three Chinese readers be called to read the letter to the official interpreter, Mr. Hart, who would then interpret the readings, which would be compared before a final translation would be decided upon by the court.

Mr. Emerson suggested that the prisoner should be allowed to hold a photographed copy of the letter, whilst it was being read, so that it would be made sure the reading was correct. This procedure was adopted and the prisoner was also given a pencil and paper to make any corrections.

Kim Lee was called by the prosecutor, but he was not present, whereupon the court retired until this witness had been produced.

Charles Dean was found after about ten minutes and after being sworn stated he was born in China 32 years ago. He could read Chinese. On being shown the letter in Chinese by the Prosecutor he said he could read it. Accordingly it was read to interpreter Hart. The letter was written with pencil on 3 pages of an ordinary pocket book. The interpretation made by Mr. Hart was handed to the judges. Following this Kim Lee was put on the witness stand and asked to read the letter as was done by Charles Dean. The witness in reading the letter could not make out one word in a sentence, as it was blotted. This sentence was marked by the interpreter to be later compared with other translations.

Head Constable Byrne was called and sworn to a translation made by Kim Lee on 5th May. The three translations were then put in evidence, after which the examination of witnesses was resumed.

Charles Fong called, sworn and examined by Mr. Winter. He gave his age as 49 and said he had been in Newfoundland 18 or 19 years. He said he was one of a company that owned the King Cafe. He did not remember how long the prisoner was in this country. He knew those who worked at the Murray Street laundry. He visited the laundry a few times, but was never upstairs.

Prosecutor—"Do you remember seeing Wo Fen Game before the night of the shooting on May 3rd?"
Witness—"I think he visited us on Wednesday."

Prosecutor—"Did you see Wo Fen Game on Christmas last and if so what did he say?"
Witness—"Yes, he came to me on that occasion and he said he was not working, but would like to have a box of candy to make a present to his Sunday School teacher."

Prosecutor—"Did you give him the box of candy?"
Witness—"Yes."

Prosecutor—"Did you see him on other occasions?"
Witness—"Yes, he visited the King Cafe, but only to spend evenings talking."

Prosecutor—"Did you know of any trouble with prisoner?"
Witness—"Yes, he said he did not like people at Jim Lee laundry, and did not wish to work there. On Wednesday before the murder he came to our store, and I asked him what was he doing outside of his working hours. He said wages not sufficient. I said times were bad and he should go back to work. He left and returned to us shortly after and I asked why he came back. He said he (Wo Fen Game) went back to work, but the others would not allow him."

Prosecutor—"Did anything else happen at the Cafe?"
Witness—"Yes, I told him I would go up and talk the matter over with the proprietor. I went up, and after coming back, I told him the result of my mission. We invited Wo Fen Game into one of our meals, and he then borrowed $1.50 from me."

Prosecutor—"What did you say was the result of your mission?"
Witness—"I told him it was not successful."

Prosecutor—"Did he say what he wanted the $1.50 for?"
Witness—"I gave him the money and did not enquire what he wanted it for. I did not see the prisoner after."

Prosecutor—"Did the prisoner say why he was not working?"
Witness—"Yes, he said he was getting bad treatment at the Jim Lee Laundry, and was not getting sufficient pay."

Cross examined by Mr. Emerson witness said it was on Wednesday at 11 o'clock that it was the first time he knew of any bad treatment at the Jim Lee Laundry. Wo Fen Game did not say how they badly treated him.

Mr. Emerson—"When you went to the Laundry, was Wo Fen Game mentioned in a friendly spirit?"
Witness—"All Hong Leon told me was that Wo Fen Game had not salary enough, and did not want to work."

CROWN WITNESSES FINISHED.
Mr. Winter informed the court that the only other evidence was in connection with the preliminary enquiry, held in the Magistrate's Court and he

Man's Mission to Learn What Masonry Teaches.

CANNON SHATFORD EXPOUNDS MEANING OF ROYAL ARCH MYSTERIES.

The mission to make of life a voyage of discovery, to discover for himself and his fellows the great things that God has put into the world for the benefit of mankind, and above all, to discover God has put him into the world, is the outstanding lesson of the Rev. Canon Shatford to a crowded congregation at a Royal Arch service in the Church of St. James the Apostle yesterday afternoon.

The centre of the church was filled with Brethren of the Royal Arch degree in regalia, while the side seats were fully occupied by their friends and other members of the congregation, including the liberal sprinkling of craftsmen wearing the regalia of Master Masonic Lodges.

The service was the regular evening, with the substitution of Psalm 122 "I was glad when they said unto me, 'The hymns were appropriately chosen for the occasion. 'For all thy saints who from their labors rest,' was sung at the close of the service in memory of the men who gave their lives in the Great War.

THEME OF SERMON.
The text on which the preacher based his remarks was one familiar to every master mason who has stretched forth his hand to probe into the further mysteries of the craft: "The stone which the builders refused, is become the headstone of the corner." Ps. 118, 22.

The story of capitol masonry, the preacher said, was the story of discoveries. Beginning with the Mark Master's degree and continuing to the closing point in the Royal Arch degree the story was divided into three chapters, the discovery, the rejection, and the exaltation of the rejected subject. This was also the continuous history of mankind. Capitol masonry stood for an idea which ran through the history of the race, for the history of mankind was nothing more or less than a history of discoveries. Man had always been a seeker, wandering up and down through the centuries seeking the things he knew would minister to the development of his life. The progress of humanity could be traced by his discoveries.

"We have been inspired and thrilled by the various things which men have discovered for us, and what a long role of immortal men we have, the pioneers and explorers of our history, who have discovered for us the things we use every day, and whose value is being borne upon us every hour of our lives. Think of Capernicus, of Galileo, Watt, Darwin, Livingstone, Scott, Marconi and of those other men who have discovered for us those things which make for our happiness and comfort. It would be impossible for us to live under our present conditions were it not for those men who have discovered for us all down the years."

DISCOVERY INDIVIDUAL.
"But it must not be imagined that discovery was the prerogative of men of genius. That was one thing that was specially impressed on the mind of every chapter mason, that the glory of discovery belonged to every individual. For the men who made the discovery in capitol masonry were not the leaders of the craft, not the men of high position or intellectual character. They were craftsmen, the laborers in the quarry, the men who did the manual tasks, the very humblest craftsmen of the order were men who fell upon those glorious discoveries which meant so much to the order.

It belonged, therefore, to every man, to be a discoverer. He might discover some bit of truth, or something that God had put in the world, and he carries it forward for the benefit of all those with whom he is associated. Perhaps the greatest discovery a man could make was the discovery of himself, and there were many people who had not discovered yet the purpose of life, what it was for which God had put them there.

"One of the greatest things that came out of the recent war was what our men discovered over there. Many irresponsible lads threw themselves into that struggle and found their souls there. Many Canadians found in that tragedy over there that there were some things of more value than material things. Men who had stood all their lives for success and wealth, and at the call to arms threw these things aside in order that they might find something of more inestimable value. And I presume that Canada, too, discovered in that hour of immeasurable agony, what it meant to have a soul, and to prize the spiritual things of our life above material concerns."

MAN NOT A CREATOR.
Man was not a creator. The things that were discovered in Capitol masonry were not created by the masons. They had always existed. They were only refound and given their right place in the world of the order. Sometimes men were apt to think that they had created the things that they possessed, and were proud and arrogant. They viewed the contributions of their own day and generation and scorned the generations that had passed. Yet every single one of the things that had been discovered, had always existed. The laws which brought about wireless telegraphy and the telephone, had been in existence in the time of Adam and Abraham, and only after thousands of years had man fallen upon them.

For that reason, the preacher thought it wrong to suppose that God had given man a final system of truth, and that after that there was nothing more to learn. No man had ever yet brought the last message from the lips of God.

There were still uncharted seas, unexplored regions, and guided by God's holy word it was man's task to go on discovering more and more of those things which God had for man. "The golden age is before us. All the heights of the past we value, but we do not hold them as the final gifts of God. There are still immeasurable things for you and for me to discover."

MUST SEARCH FOR BEST.
Capitol masonry taught that the great things that men were seeking were not on the surface. They had to be dug for, as the craftsmen dug for the treasures of masonry. "We sometimes think we understand the whole, but as we go on in the craft we are always finding some new truth in masonry. We come into bigger and more splendid things every year of our masonic existence." God only uncovered his glories to the workers of life. Only the men who toiled in the craft made the discoveries. "God has nothing to give to the man who is not busy." The real things of masonry were not revealed to the mere dabbler in the craft, the superficial brother, the Companion who was found only on parade, but to the brother who searched till he found the deeper things of masonry.

After the discovery, in the Masonic story came the rejection. In the history of mankind, all the great discoveries had seen their discoveries rejected, and themselves penalized. They were rejected because the people could not understand.

There were people in the Masonic order who accepted the truths of masonry in appearance, yet in their daily lives they rejected them. "There are people in the Church of God who are denying Jesus every day of their lives, and there are men wearing masonic regalia who reject the ideals of masonry in their daily lives." To them applied the words of the scripture "On whomsoever this stone shall fall, it shall crush him to powder. Our Lord was kind to those who did not understand, but He had shown Himself severe to the Pharisee, the man who understood, and outwardly pretended to accept, but inwardly and really rejected the stone of truth, and right consciousness.

EXALTATION OF DISCOVERY.
The story of Capitol masonry closed with the exaltation of that which had been discovered and rejected. The stone which the builders had refused had become the head of the corner. It had been thrown out in the rubbish, but they had to fetch it back to occupy the place of highest honor. Such had been the fate of the world's great discoveries and their discoverers. The world had found it could not do without them, and had fetched them back and exalted them to the highest positions.

That which had been discovered, rejected and then exalted in the Masonic allegory was nothing else than the Bible, the Word of God, and it was the foundation of the Anglo Saxon race and of the British Empire.

On Armistice Sunday he wanted to ask whether all those things which the men who fought and died in France and Flanders had discovered, were to-day accepted by the people of Canada and the British Empire, or whether, like the masonic stone, they were being rejected and thrown out among the rubbish.—Montreal Daily Star, Nov. 13.

Were Three "Haidees."

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

S. J. Tucker, in yesterday's Telegram, gives an interesting account of the famous brig which was commanded by his father, John H. Tucker. I am glad to hear that she made the run in nine days. She was indeed a fast ship, and was as strong as iron and copper could make her. I remember she made an- nual voyage to Liverpool, and was the topic of conversation among our sea-faring men for a long time afterwards. The Rev. Bertram of old St. Paul's Episcopal Church, who passed by her, and I look back now, in my mind's eye, to the day when she came from the sea with her crew of the reverend gentleman on board. I know that it was on the 23rd of August, as it was a day—and the wind was South by West—a stiff breeze. I think I can say she made the run in eleven days. Mr. Tucker mentions the second Haidee, a splendid brigantine, built in England. Mr. Tucker says she was lost in the Bay of Fundy. But I wonder how she came to be lost, that she was lost during a terrible hurricane, at St. Kitts or Turke's Island, or elsewhere. Mr. Editor, I do not know as details, but I do know there was a terrible hurricane here, and that the second Haidee was either wrecked or lost, and I can say that I know who was on board, and that is my friend, the late Mr. Tucker. I remember distinctly that I was on board of her before she was lost. I lost all my things and everything else in the world. But here is another bit of information for my friend, Mr. Tucker. The second Haidee was the last of the old Haidees, but that was in the year of the past century. She was compared with the other two, which was colonial built, and for many years was commanded by great old veteran planter and soldier, Capt. Patrick Kelly, Master of Harbor Grace. She was the last of the old Haidees, but I have seen her in the (shortis) list of the old Haidees of times. Capt. Kelly had her employed in the fishery during summer months, and the late Mr. Patrick Kelly, who was the owner of her crew both at the old codfisheries for several years, and Capt. Kelly. Speaking of Capt. Kelly, I remember that he was the earliest days I heard of him, and that he (Capt. Kelly) was the owner of the old Haidee, and that he was the one who intended getting a painting of her by Mr. Patrick Hickey, ship- painter, who is undoubtedly one of our greatest artists at such work, in my kind of artistic work. With the way to spell the vessel's name, I do not need to ask Webster for the Greek mythology, because I have read the name Haidee on the side of the ship a hundred times, and have known it to be the name of the vessel. The Editor of the Telegram's explanation of the question that I am con- sidering of our old ship-owners, and the vessels named after myth- ical characters—Capt. Edward had the Phoenix, and there were others, which goes to show that our ancestors were en- tirely classical in their names.
