1364 Went To Death With The Lusitania

Many Americans, Some Are Prominent; What Will Washington Do Is Question Now

Believing Great Ship Would Float Till Help Came, Many First Cabin Passengers Lost Lives—Captain and First and Second Officers Saved—Four Torpedoes Fired and Two Found Mark—Only Some 700 People Saved Out of 2,067—German Devils Rejoice Over Fiendish Work

London, May 8.—Fifteen hundred persons lost their lives, the British Admiralty estimates, when the Cunard Line Steamship Lusitania was torpedoed yesterday afternoon off Old Head, Kinsale on the Irish coast.

In addition to the living brought ashore, the bodies of forty-five who died of injuries or were drowned have been landed at Queenstown. Five more are at Kinsale, and it has been reported that an armed trawler, accompanied by two fishing boats, has picked up 100 others.

NO WORD OF PROMINENT AMERICANS
The United States Consul at Queenstown can account for only fifty-one Americans out of 188, who were aboard.

Washington, May 8.—General denunciation of the sinking of the Lusitania appears in the newspapers of the United States. The act is repeatedly stamped as piracy.

WASHINGTON MUST ACT
The Herald says:—Henceforth it is international anarchy to be the controlling factor in marine warfare.

AMERICA REMEMBERED THE MAINE
The Tribune says:—From this tragedy we shall now turn to Washington. More than a century ago when this nation was weak and its people were lacking in all the resources of a great power, it made answer to the pirates of the Barbary coast.

BRITISH PRESS COMMENT
London, May 8.—Even before the crude details are known, the British press is asking editorially what the United States will say to this event and how she will hold Germany to the "strict accountability" mentioned in previous diplomatic correspondence.

MUST ACT, SAYS ROOSEVELT
Syracuse, N. Y., May 8.—Theodore Roosevelt late last night said:—"This represents not merely piracy, but piracy on a vast scale of murder than any old time pirate ever practiced."

PATHEPIC INCIDENTS
Two Children Died, Clashed in Each Others Arms—Woman Finds Husband a Corpse

PROMINENT CANADIANS
Montreal, May 8.—From cables advice to the Star and from personal messages to relatives, it is learned that at least ten Montreal passengers on the Lusitania have been saved.

SEVEN PEOPLE ARE KILLED IN TORNAO
Atlanta, Ga., May 8.—Seven persons were killed in a tornado in South Carolina early today.

All Eyes Turned To Washington

That Action Must Be Taken is Opinion of Papers in States — The Maine Recalled

New York, May 8.—General denunciation of the sinking of the Lusitania appears in the newspapers of the United States. The act is repeatedly stamped as piracy.

GERMANY ARRANGED BY "WORLD"
The World says:—"The circumstances and the consequences of the destruction of the Lusitania by a German submarine call for all the self-restraint and self-possession that the American people can command."

WASHINGTON MUST ACT
The Herald says:—Henceforth it is international anarchy to be the controlling factor in marine warfare.

AMERICA REMEMBERED THE MAINE

THE GHOULS

London, May 8.—The Exchange Telegraph Company has received today following from Copenhagen—"Berlin newspapers print the news of the sinking of the Lusitania in colossal type and hail the successful torpedoing of the ship as a new triumph for Germany's naval policy. The general impression is that England has got what she deserves."

LATEST FIGURES

London, May 7.—An Admiralty statement given out in London this morning placed the number of the Lusitania survivors at 688. There was received later a report from Ireland that forty-five survivors had been brought into Queenstown. If these were not included in the 688 the total up to the present time is 733.

The best available information sets forth that the Lusitania had on board 1231 passengers, and that a total of 2,967. The known survivors being 733, the list of dead would consequently be 1,234.

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN CHARLOTTE STREET THIS MORNING

Notwithstanding the rain this morning five 1,000 boys collected from Hunt's clothing store in Charlotte street—object, free pop-guns. This firm advertised that they would give away 1,000 Hunt's pop-guns at 9.30 a.m. As early as eight o'clock the boys were on the job, all eager to get a gun. There was a merry time when the distribution started. Two of the staff tossed the guns from the upper windows, while five others passed them out in the store. Only the efficiency of the police officer prevented the blocking of traffic and possible injury to some of the youngsters.

These guns seem to be so popular with the boys that the firm has decided to give another lot away on Saturday morning next.

THE OCEAN HORROR.

Today's news concerning the loss of the Lusitania shows that the loss of life was very much greater than was reported by last night's cables. If the Admiralty estimate of 1,600 lives lost is correct the tragedy is utterly appalling, and calls for swift vengeance upon the perpetrators of the devilish deed.

CANADA'S LOSS

Up to midnight last night the names of 2,988 Canadians who were killed or wounded at Tyne had been given out. Of 297 officers, 73 were killed, while the casualty list thus far given out contains the names of only 97 privates killed.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER

The Times learns on excellent authority that the resolutions whitewashing Mr. J. K. Fleming were not sprung upon the members at the last moment, but that they were thoroughly discussed and approved in caucus, and that therefore Premier Clarke and his colleagues, as well as all their supporters in the house, deliberately acknowledge Mr. Fleming as their ideal of a high-minded statesman and approve of his political methods of doing business.

THE LUSITANIA

Only cowardice or self-interest of the basest sort could prevent the United States from bringing Germany sharply to account for the destruction of the lives of American citizens when the Lusitania was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine.

When the news came last night that the Lusitania had been torpedoed and that instead of those on board being saved, as had been at first reported, many hundreds, perhaps even more than a thousand, lives had been lost, the world was stunned because there was nothing in the recognized rules of warfare to warrant such an atrocious act as the sinking of this vessel, having on board more than two thousand people who were non-combatants, and who included women and children, as well as many people of prominence in Canada and the United States.

RECENT DEATHS

Thomas F. Granville.

The death of Thomas F. Granville occurred last night at his residence, 48 Adelaide street, in the seventy-fifth year of his age. He leaves, besides a wife, one son, Stanley D., cashier of the Standard office, and two daughters, Alva E. at home, and Edna M. of Providence (R. I.). Two brothers and two sisters also survive: Elijah, Duncan, Mrs. John Collins and Mrs. James Flower, all of Queens county. The late Mr. Granville had been ill since last fall. He was well known in the North End and was a prominent member of the Main street Baptist church, in the activities of which he always took marked interest.

SAVED BABY'S LIFE

Mrs. Jos. Derosiers, St. Albans, Que., writes: "I cannot say too many in favor of Baby's Own Tablets, as they saved my little one's life. Before giving him the Tablets he was greatly troubled with worms and was like a skeleton and cried day and night. The Tablets soon expelled the worms and now baby is the picture of health."

WAR AND THE BIRTHRATE

If the war is sifting out of the possible parent-stock of the future a larger proportion of those who are relatively more fit from an evolutionary or eugenic point of view, what is possible in the way of countermeasures? Among the revelations after the war may we not expect some changes of public sentiment in regard to eugenic ideals, some more marked disapproval of selfish forms of celibacy, some more cordial encouragement of those desirable people who marry chivalrously while it is still springtime with them, without waiting till the bridegroom has secured twice the income his father had?

son of the possibilities of checking the decline differentially. There is need of more plasticity in the ideal of "getting on," but it can hardly be regarded as a bad sign that there appears to be continual increase in the number of parents of good type who keep their families small because they do not wish their children—especially the girls—to run the risk of thwarted and unhappy lives. These risks have to be lessened, and that without making sickness feasible. In another connection we are all agreed that the lowering of the still far too high death rate among healthy infants must continue.—Professor J. Arthur Thomson in The Popular Science Monthly.

CHURCH PAPERS PROTEST AGAINST ELECTION PLAN

Toronto, May 8.—In taking a firm stand in this week's issue against a general election, Dr. Creighton, editor of the Christian Guardian, is backed by a strong letter of protest from Rev. Dr. Chown, general superintendent of the Methodist church in Canada. "It looks as if we had been living in a fool's paradise," begins the Guardian editor, "after paying a high tribute to Premier Horner, the Guardian proceeds: 'The bringing of an election now means the laying of an unnecessary and wicked burden upon the people. It will be a cruelly embarrassing and will put us in a false light before the whole world. In the name of all that is decent and honorable in public life we protest emphatically against it.'

Appeals to Better Element. "His hope even at this late date that the better elements in the Conservative party will lay hold of the situation with a strong hand. If the present crisis is the history of the British Empire, and of the civilized world were of any ordinary or common significance we might as well give up the idea of writing these words in the columns of a Christian paper, but the situation is so grave that it is the duty of frank speech also is allowable."

MORNING SUMMARY OF WAR SITUATION

Paris, May 7, 10.20 p.m.—The following official statement was issued by the war office tonight: "Last night the enemy delivered two minor attacks—one at Frise, west of Fes, the other in Champagne around the fort of Beausjour. He was repulsed both by gas fire and the bayonet. The very bad weather this morning stopped all action. During the afternoon there was an artillery engagement of particular violence on the heights of the Meuse." Russian Gain Some Ground. Petrograd, May 7, via London, May 8, 2.06 a.m.—The following official communication was issued this evening: "In the region of Mitau (Couloud), our troops have continued to press the enemy closely. "In the region of Mlava we have continued to develop the success recently achieved. In this district yesterday we occupied the villages of Marcias, and Grayniki and repulsed three counter-attacks. Repeated attempts of the Germans to re-capture the farm of Pomianka were beaten off.

THE MAGISTRATE AND BOARD OF HEALTH

In the police court yesterday afternoon Magistrate Ritchie, in the presence of Lieut. Colonel J. R. Armstrong and T. M. Burns of the board of health, denounced statements said to have been made by members of the board, at a recent inquiry. He emphatically denied that he had discriminated against the health authorities when cases were brought before him and defied Colonel Armstrong, solicitor for the board, to present the record of any such case that he had dismissed. Yesterday afternoon Horace Porter, James Semple, W. E. A. Lawton and Mrs. Dinn were reported for having their premises in an unsanitary condition and as the defendants promised to make the necessary changes the cases were allowed to drop.

is sent direct to the diseased parts by the Improved Shower, Hand-bath, etc. Clears the air passages, stops drops from the throat, soothes and relieves. Cures Catarrh and Hay Fever. Sold by all Druggists. Beware of cheap substitutes. All dealers on Eastern and Southern Shores, Toronto.

FRECKLES

Don't Hide Them with a Veil, Relieve Them with the Othine Prescription. This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by druggists under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely. Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

HEADACHE?

Thousands of persons who have never known a day's sickness in any other form are subject to frequent attacks of Headache that almost drive them mad. Whatever the nature may be and the cause, the immediate condition that produces the pain is a congestion or rising up of the blood vessels of the brain with blood, thus causing a pressure on the brain cells and nervousness. In treating all forms of Headache the first thing to do is to relieve the congestion of the blood vessels of the brain. Abbey's Effervescent Salt is the best agent for this purpose. Sold everywhere at 25c. and 50c. Full blooded people who are subject to frequent attacks of Headache can be entirely relieved by taking laxative doses of the Salt every morning. Headaches from Indigestion and Bileousness are also entirely relieved by continuing the use of the Salt until the normal action of the liver and stomach is restored. Sold by E. Clifton Brown.

SOLDIERS' BALLOTS WERE TO HAVE GONE ON LUSTANIA

Ottawa, May 7.—The boxes containing the soldiers' ballots and affidavits for the voting in the trenches had a narrow escape. Every effort was made to have them ready for shipment on the Lusitania, but certain changes instituted in connection with the copies of the bill sent over for "instructional purposes" with the change from winter to spring. These prove that the long indoor life of winter has had its effect upon the blood, and that a tonic medicine is needed to put it right. Indeed there are few people who do not need a tonic at this season. Bad blood does not merely show itself in disfiguring eruptions. To this same condition is due attacks of rheumatism and lumbago; the sharp stabbing pains of sciatica and neuralgia; poor appetite and a desire to avoid exertion. You cannot cure these troubles by the use of purgative medicines—you need a tonic, and a tonic only. In the Spring Most People Need a Tonic Medicine. One of the surest signs that the blood is out of order is the pimples, unsightly eruptions and eczema that come frequently with the change from winter to spring. These prove that the long indoor life of winter has had its effect upon the blood, and that a tonic medicine is needed to put it right. SIR GEORGE E. FOSTER IS ACTING PREMIER

Ottawa, May 7.—With the departure of Premier Borden for a fishing trip among the Gatineau Lake, election talk has, for the moment at least, subsided. The length of the premier's visit cannot be ascertained, but it is learned that his health is not by any means satisfactory, and that the worries of the past few weeks have made a rest necessary. In his absence Sir George Foster will be acting prime minister. Hon. W. T. White and Hon. J. D. Reid left for Toronto last night. That there has been no increase in the popular approval of the proposal for an election during the past few days is unquestionable. In fact there are many who claim that the government will not again dare revive the agitation. The pro-election members of the government, however, are still "standing by."

Patriotic Entertainment

Judge Forbes presided at a patriotic entertainment in St. Andrew's church last evening, given by the Mission Band. Those taking part were Wesley Stewart, Gordon Wilson, Misses Bessie Forbes, Sylvia Ferguson, Marion Thompson, Helen Wilson, Margaret Wallis, Davis Woodrow, Annie Nixon, Ada Till and Helen Woodrow. Mrs. C. McN. Steeves and Mrs. S. Eskin aided in the direction of the concert.

G. S. MAYES HONORED BY ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY

The members of St. George's Society have bestowed a signal honor upon G. S. Mayes, who was president of the society for the years 1913 and 1914. They have presented to him an emblem in the form of an eight-pointed silver star with ribbon and bar, which has on one side 'Presented to G. S. Mayes, Esq., by St. George's Society, 1913-1914.' On the reverse is a St. George's cross, worked in red in metal, and around it the words: 'Past-President, 1913-1914.' The bar provides a place for engraving also. This is the first time the society has conferred so great an honor to a past president, and Mr. Mayes is naturally very grateful to his fellow members.

ARTIFICIAL LIMB PROVIDED FOR HIM

The Times yesterday received a call from a young man who all his life will remember with gratitude the members of Royal Standard Chapter, Daughters of the Empire. He is Russell Carmichael of Hibernia county. The Times recently told the story of how Mrs. E. A. Smith and the members of the Royal Standard Chapter had been interested, in a young man who had not had the use of one of his limbs since childhood. Mr. Carmichael is the young man in question. He came into the Times office yesterday walking on an artificial limb which had been adjusted on the day before, and which was secured from New York with funds provided by the ladies in question. He desires publicly to express his gratitude to them and the doctors who helped him, and adds that he now hopes to be able to make something more of his life than could ever have been possible under the old conditions.

SEVERAL MATTERS BEFORE JUDGE FORBES

David Hennessy was again brought before Judge Forbes this morning and sentenced to serve the balance of a term in Dorchester penitentiary which he had formerly been allowed out on ticket-of-leave. This amounts to about three years and three months. The parole was granted about two years ago. William Pelley, Robert E. Walker and Joseph Kelly were tried under the speedy trials act on the charge of assaulting Joseph M. Xenos in George Martin's store in Dock street. Kelly and Walker were discharged, and Pelley was allowed out on suspended sentence. Accused in statements made, Walker and Kelly had nothing to do with the affair except that they were with Pelley. H. S. Keith appeared for the defendants. John Lane was sent by the police magistrates before his honor to be dealt with on a previous charge of assaulting Mrs. Lupe. He was allowed to go on condition that he be in the city. Mr. Ferguson prosecuted and J. A. Barry represented the attorney-general in the Hennessy case.

LANCASTER RED CROSS

The work of the Lancaster Red Cross Circle goes steadily on notwithstanding the many other duties which its members. On March 29 an appeal for socks for Dr. J. L. Duval's ambulance corps was laid before the benevolent. All were in favor of sending a donation to these brave fellows, most of whom are from St. John. On Monday, April 5 just one week was the limit set. Great satisfaction was expressed when the time came to find that 171 pairs of socks had been sent in and on Thursday, when the box was packed, there were 202 pairs, 100 packages of cigarettes besides a very generous donation from the Ross Drug Co., consisting of cigarettes, chocolate, throat lozenges and mustard plasters. The ladies of the sewing committee have not been idle either, having made twelve combination suits during the week. These with thirty-six suits of pajamas, forty-eight hospital shirts, thirty-six crutch pads, complete the list for the month.

The urgent need for hospital supplies has given the work a great impetus, and the ladies have to thank the following new knitters for co-operation—Mrs. Isabel McCutcheon, Mrs. Robt. ST. JOHN MAN SEES AIRSHIP BATTLE

French Aviator Sends Enemy Craft to Destruction as Sergt. Major Whitebone Looks On

A letter from E. A. Whitebone, sergeant-major with the 2nd brigade, C. F. A., has been received from France by his mother, Mrs. J. Whitebone, of this city. It gives some interesting news concerning himself and his comrades on the firing-line. He says he was through the big fight at Neuve Chapelle, and writes that his unit came through without losing a man, though the German casualties were heavy. As he was writing, he could hear the German aircraft going overhead, directed at a small town in their rear.

Sergt. Major Whitebone tells of having seen a German airship above their position, one day recently, being stock of their guns. The airship was in the air, but could not hit the enemy ship, as she was out of range. Suddenly, as he lay out of the clouds, came another airship, a Frenchman, and after a puff of smoke the German craft was seen to drop rapidly, and the writer adds that that was the end of the airship's usefulness.

SAPPER QUIGG'S LETTERS

Interesting Accounts of Experiences at Front Sent to His Parents Here

Some very interesting letters have been received recently from Sapper L. G. Quigg by his parents who reside at 221 Main street. He has been in France since the early part of February, and his experiences since that time in the trenches and in camp are interesting. A letter dated France, March 20, is one of the best. It reads in part as follows: 'Leaving Bristol (Eng.) 2,000 men and 600 horses set out for the front on February 17. It was rough and the boat was crowded so we did not enjoy the trip. A torpedo destroyer accompanied us all the way. We went through the channel and into the Bay of Biscay where we struck a terrible storm. I never want to go through one like it again. The boat got lost and went 400 miles out of her course. Finally we arrived at a port in the south of France, five days late. We disembarked and our infantry got goal-skin coats and we had our rifles issued to us. 'We were packed into box cars, forty men to a car and we were so crowded that we slept sitting up. We traveled to Belgium where we held some trenches for about a week's time. Then we backed out and came back to France and received a British division in the trenches where we are at. Men present in the trenches are somewhat similar to those seen in the trenches at St. John, only they are somewhat better equipped in front to stop the bullets. Between the German trenches and ours are the narrow dead-end trenches that have been there, some of them, for four months, and they are decomposing. Conditions will be better if there is no rain in advance before the warm weather comes.' In other letters Mr. Quigg describes the life at the front, how the soldiers are billeted and the fare they get. His accounts are brimful of interest.

MAY 8, 1915 Tomorrow --- Sunday Mother's Day. It is scarcely probable that any of us need be reminded of our mothers, yet the thought which inspires the universal observance of Mother's Day is a beautiful one. The founder of Mother's Day is Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia. Its object is to honor and uplift motherhood, and to give comfort and happiness to 'The best mother who ever lived—Your Mother.' To be observed in remembrance of your mother (or her memory) through some distinct act of kindness or letter. The floral badge of Mother's Day is a white flower, preferably a white carnation. Mother's Day always comes on the second Sunday in May; but our salespeople and others on our staff will observe the day by wearing a White Carnation today as well as on Sunday. Get your Spring Suit to wear in her honor! Come in and tell us what you like in cloth, color, pattern or model, and we'll show you just what will please you. GREATER OAK HALL

After Moving. you will surely want a few pieces of new furniture, a rug, linoleum or something else to brighten up the home and place your furnishings more in keeping with the freshly-decorated rooms. There will never be a better opportunity to purchase furniture or carpets than is afforded right now, when our stock has all been purchased at rock-bottom prices, and is being sold on the same basis. Owing to increased cost of production, an advance in manufacturers' prices is inevitable, and we do not know from day to day how long our present prices will obtain, so that a purchase of house furnishings now is sure to prove a profitable investment, and one on which you will congratulate yourself in the future.

Hundreds Die When Germans Sink Lusitania

Near Irish Coast When Pirates Launch Two Torpedoes at Liner

In Half an Hour She Had Gone Down—Boats Take Many Ashore But Early Reports Indicated Very Heavy Loss of Life—Prominent People Passengers

London, May 8.—The Cunard liner Lusitania, which sailed out of New York last Saturday with more than 2,000 souls aboard, lies at the bottom of the ocean off the Irish coast. She was sunk by a German submarine, which sent two torpedoes crashing into her side, while the passengers, seemingly confident that the great swift vessel could evade the German under-water craft, were having luncheon.

The Lusitania was steaming along about ten miles off Old Head, Kinalee, on the last leg of her voyage to Liverpool, when about 3 o'clock in the afternoon a submarine suddenly appeared, and to her surprise fired two torpedoes without warning at the steamer. One struck her near the bows, and the other in the engine room. The powerful agents of destruction tore through the vessel's side, causing terrific explosions. Almost immediately great volumes of water poured through the openings and the Lusitania listed.

Boats, which were already swung out on the davits, were dropped overboard, and were speedily filled with passengers who had been appalled by the desperate attack. A wireless call for help was sent out, and immediately rescue boats of all kinds were sent out, both from the neighboring points along the coast and Queenstown.

But within fifteen minutes, as an survivor estimated, and certainly within half an hour, the Lusitania had disappeared.

Where Great Britain's fastest merchant vessel went down—Old Head, Kinalee—is a landmark that has brought joy to many travelers, and it has always stood as the sign from shore that the perils of the voyage across the Atlantic were at an end. The line whose boat has been that it has never lost a passenger in the Atlantic service, has brought the ship that dodged the lurking enemy off Nantuxet Light the day after was declared and later started the world by flying the Stars and Stripes.

The first definite announcement regarding survivors came after 9 p. m. in a message from Liverpool which was immediately made public. It read:

"The admiralty have a message from Queenstown saying between 500 and 600 landed at Queenstown, including many hospital cases, some of whom have died. Also number landed Kinalee."

(Signed) "CUNARD."

The Lusitania is the third big trans-Atlantic liner lost since the war started. The two others were the White Star liner Oceanic, wrecked off the south coast of Scotland Sept. 8 last, and the North German Lloyd steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, converted into a German auxiliary cruiser and sunk by the British cruiser Hightower, Aug. 27.

A fourth big steamer, the Cunarder Aquitania, was severely damaged in a collision with the Leyland liner Canadian, off the Irish coast, in the latter part of August.

The Lusitania is the twenty-ninth vessel to be sunk or damaged in the first week of May in the German war zone about the British Isles.

Most of these vessels were torpedoed by German submarines, although in some cases it has not been established whether the damage was inflicted by mines or submarines.

During the last fortnight German submarines have carried on the most active campaign of any time since the war began. Sixteen of the twenty-nine vessels were British travelers. There were four British and one French merchantmen on the list. The others were vessels of neutral nations. One of them was the American steamer Gallight, which was torpedoed off Scilly Island, May 1, with the loss of three lives. There were three Norwegian, two Swedish and one Danish merchant vessels in this number.

The German admiralty is reported to have sent newly constructed submarines of large size and high speed for the present campaign. Few details are available as to the specifications of these vessels. It is said they are able to carry supplies for three months, enabling them to remain out for that length of time without putting into a port or having recourse to a parent ship.

Washington, May 7.—Destruction of the British liner Lusitania with the loss of many lives shocked officials of the United States government and spread profound grief in the national capital. Although it was not known how many of those lost were Americans, the view was general that the most serious situation confronted the American government since the outbreak of the war in Europe.

Agile from the diplomatic phase of the case, which were widely discussed in the capital tonight the sinking of the liner brought to light an interesting story of repeated threats and warnings which have reached high officials, for several days past, of a plan by the German admiralty to sink the Lusitania for the physiological effect it would have on Great Britain and the terror might spread among ocean travelers generally.

The government tended to confirm the belief that plans for the destruction of the Lusitania were made several weeks ago. First, the German ambassador was instructed to advertise in the leading newspapers of the United States, warning passengers against traveling on belittled ships. Anonymous warnings of the Lusitania were sent to individuals, who proposed sailing on the Lusitania. Most significant of all were letters received here from officials in Germany by private persons stating that the Lusitania would be destroyed.

A few days ago, American officials heard privately from personal sources that Germany intended to destroy the Lusitania at the first opportunity, to terrorize British shipping and restrict ocean commerce with the Allies. The German admiralty to torpedo the Lusitania every precaution had been suggested to the submarine commander to insure the safety of the passengers. The German embassy here from time to time has declared that the purpose of the German submarine campaign was not to cause a loss of life but to strike a blow at British shipping and commerce.

While the United States note to Germany has not been established whether the damage was inflicted by mines or submarines.

Although it was not known how many of those lost were Americans, the view was general that the most serious situation confronted the American government since the outbreak of the war in Europe.

many has insisted that before any vessel was sunk, passengers must be removed to a place of safety, no case had arisen until the wrecking of the Gallight last Saturday, the investigation of which has not yet been completed.

Should any Americans lose their lives the case would be covered, officials thought, by the warning Germany that she would be held in that event by the United States "to a strict accountability."

New York, May 7.—The sinking of the Lusitania today with 1,960 passengers on board recalls the publication of the following notice in the New York papers the day before the big Canadian steamer was sunk.

"Travelers intending to embark on the Atlantic voyage are reminded that a state of war exists between Germany and Great Britain and that the sea is infested by German submarines and that the safety of passengers is not guaranteed in accordance with formal notice given by the Imperial German government, vessels flying the flag of Great Britain, and of any of her allies, are liable to destruction in those waters, and that travelers sailing in the best answer to the call of duty are advised to do so at their own risk, Washington, D.C., April 22, 1915."

Laughed at Notice.

Many who had read the notice laughed at it as did the Cunard line officials when their attention was called to it aboard ship. The best answer to the German note of warning was that there were ten additional bookings, made in the season shortly before the Lusitania sailed.

At the Cunard line, the German cablegram from Liverpool advised the agents of the Anchor line that the steamer Lusitania was to sail on the afternoon, had been requisitioned by the admiralty and arrangements were made to send the passengers over on the Lusitania.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt was among the passengers. He is a well-known name abroad on business and pleasure and was on the Lusitania with his wife, Elsie Hubbard, and their three children. Canada's Abroad

Toronto, May 7.—With 15 of her citizens on board the Lusitania, Toronto was profoundly shocked yesterday when it was known that the big liner had been torpedoed.

Mrs. G. Sterling Ryerson, wife of Col. Ryerson, now in France with the Canadians, and her daughter, Miss Laura Ryerson, were passengers. Mrs. Ryerson was hurrying to the bedside of her son, Lieutenant Arthur Ryerson, who was wounded at the battle of Langemarck.

Another son was killed in the battle. Frank Rogers, of the Robert Simpson Company, was on his honeymoon trip. He was married the day before the liner sailed from New York.

Miss Dorothy Brathwaite, daughter of the assistant general manager of the Bank of Montreal, was on her way to her sister, whose husband, Captain Brathwaite, was killed in the battle of Langemarck.

Mrs. Josephine Burnside, daughter of the late Timothy Eaton, with her daughter, Miss Iris Burnside, were also on the boat.

27 From Montreal.

Montreal, May 8.—Grave anxiety is felt by relatives and friends of at least twenty-five Montrealers known to have been passengers on the Lusitania.

Miss Alice, with her daughters, the Misses Gwendoline and Anna, were going to England to join Miss Martha Allan, who is doing nursing work.

Miss Dorothy Brathwaite was going to visit her sister, Mrs. Guy Drummond, whose husband was recently killed in the battle at Langemarck.

Mrs. G. W. Stephens was en route to see her son, Lieutenant P. C. Stephens, who is in hospital in England suffering from rheumatism developed in the trenches. Lieutenant Stephens' two children accompanied her.

A well known Montreal business man, P. Orr Lewis, Canadian representative of Vickers Son & Maxim, was aboard bound on a business trip to England.

Master Robert Holt, son of Sir Herbert Holt, was bound to join his mother who is spending the summer in the Old Country.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SUPPER.

An enjoyable supper was held last evening at the Centenary church parlor at which nearly forty young people took part representing the Free-to-Serve and the Loyalty Clubs of the Sunday-school. The heads of the tables were taken by Miss McConnell and W. Grant Smith, the president of the club. After a well served repast short speeches dealing with the work of the club were given by Rev. W. H. Barraclough, B.A., Morton L. Harrison and J. E. Arthur.

The evening's arrangements were under the supervision of L. Hennigar, chairman of the social committee.

Gas was used to replace candles and lamps at a factory in Manchester in 1808, two years before the illuminant was introduced into London.

BRITISH RIFLE FIRE SUPERIOR

ROSS ARM EFFECTIVE

German Mauser Adapted For Sniping But Weak For General Defence—Some Companions

London, May 6.—The following is contributed by Lt. J. B. Neale, of the Royal Grenadiers, Toronto, and of the 3rd Battalion, 1st Division Canadian Expeditionary Force, who is at present in England on sick leave.

It was during the early part of the war that the British Expeditionary Force after its accomplishment of one of the greatest achievements in military history, stood at bay on the Marne. At this period, before the fighting became "stale-mate," before the opposing armies had commenced seriously to dig themselves in and fight continuously from the cover of their trench parapets, the British soldier, by the superiority of his rifle and the demoralizing effect of his rifle fire on the Germans. During this stage of the war we were constantly read of the British soldier being inclined to treat the German rifle as a joke, expressing the mere opinion of Jack Johnson, coal-boxer and black Maria.

German Mauser Adapted For Sniping But Weak For General Defence—Some Companions

During the past few months we have not heard quite so much contempt expressed for our enemy's marksmanship, and many allusions are made in letters from newly-arrived soldiers who are very quick to disabuse the mind of friends at home as to opinions they may have formed from our correspondence and reports.

ALLIES' AIRSHIPS IN SUCCESSFUL RAID

Zeppelins Destroyed, Soldiers Killed and Long Trains Filled With Benzol in German Lines Ruined

Paris, May 8.—An official note gives details of aerial raids by the allied forces, the information being obtained from the aviators themselves and from prisoners. The note says: "On March 28 a bombardment of the railway station at Brieg took place. Damage was done to Conflans, Brieg and Metz where railway deposits were destroyed and the provision was cut..."

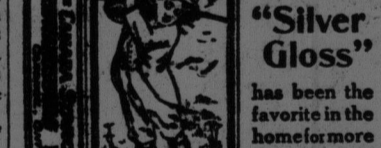

On April 28 in a bombardment the Friedrichshafen hangars were damaged and a Zeppelin was destroyed. Bombs were also dropped at Leopoldshöhe and Lorschach, and on the station at Haltingen. Two locomotives and two express trains were disabled and all traffic between Leopoldshöhe and Haltingen was suspended.

A-SORE WHICH WOULD NOT HEAL

Policeman's Testimony To Zam-Buk

Constable R. B. Nunn, of Vernon, B. C., says: "I would like to bear testimony to the wonderful healing properties of Zam-Buk. For over two years I suffered acutely with a sore on my leg which, despite all treatment, turned into an open ulcer. I tried all kinds of medicines, ointments, liniments, etc., but notwithstanding the wound seemed only to get worse. Finally it became so bad that I was on the point of going into a hospital, when a friend persuaded me to try Zam-Buk. I did so, and the first few applications made the ulcer less painful. By degrees the inflammation went down and there were traces of healing. To cut a long story short, at the time of first commencing to use Zam-Buk the ulcer improved and twelve boxes of Zam-Buk effected a complete cure."

"Although the ulcer was healed, I was still afraid that the healing would be only temporary, and that in a very short time it would break out again. To my extreme delight such has not been the case. It is close on a year since Zam-Buk healed the ulcer, and as there is not the slightest trace of any further trouble, I can safely speak of my case as a complete cure."

The above is but one of many instances where Zam-Buk has proved effective in healing old and obstinate sores after other preparations have completely failed. For eczema, piles, cuts, burns, bruises, chapped hands, cold cracks, and all skin troubles, Zam-Buk is a sure remedy. It is sold in all drug stores, and also by mail from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price, 50c per box. Refuse substitutes.

Thousands Have Been Helped By Common Sense Suggestions.

Women suffering from any form of female ill are invited to communicate promptly with the woman's private correspondence department of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence. Never have they published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never has the Company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which they have to draw from, it is more than possible that they possess the very knowledge needed in your case. Nothing is asked in return except your good will, and their advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. Address Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass.

BRITISH WIRELESS STATION IN JAMAICA

Powerful Plant Now Being Erected on Blue Hills Near Kingston—Might Have Saved Craddock's Fleet

New York, May 8.—Great Britain is erecting a powerful wireless station on the Blue Hills near Kingston, Jamaica, according to the Rev. George B. Stalworthy, a Unitarian minister who has returned after a five months' visit to that island. He said officials on the island thought the new station, which was three hundred feet above the sea level, was intended to enable the Admiralty to send messages to the warships on the south Atlantic station.

Naval officers stationed at Kingston had informed him that if such a plant had been in existence at the beginning of the war it would have prevented the defeat of Sir Christopher Craddock's fleet and enabled the warships on the coast to have picked up the Dresden and Karlsruhe before they sank so many vessels.

Jamaica is raising two squadrons of cavalry, composed of natives with English officers, to send to the front. The cavalry will be equipped and maintained by popular subscription on the island. A battalion of infantry numbering 1,000 men, sailed for England with the Canadian troops, the minister asserted.

Romeo Johnson of Indianapolis once gave this explanation of how he came by his first name. "My father was a great admirer of classical acting," said he, "and was an especial admirer of Edwin Booth. Just before I was born he was in the cast and stayed over a day to see Booth in 'Romeo and Juliet.' The impression was so strong that he named me Romeo. It's a good thing that he left when he did, for the performance the next night was 'Pygmalion and Galatea.'"

BRITISH RIFLE FIRE SUPERIOR

(Continued from preceding page.) in the battalion to which I belong we have men who have taken up shooting as a hobby for years. These men have "sniped the sniper," and many a German sharpshooter has answered the call of a Canadian bullet.

After my first experience in the German trenches I formed the opinion that the German snipers were well concealed in the rear of their fire trenches, from which points and at long range they did their deadly shooting. I am now, however, convinced that they are located in their front trenches, and fire from carefully made loop-holes such as I have described. Periscopes, while invaluable for general observations, are of little use in locating these loop-holes, as they can only be held up for a very short time before a bullet smashes the upper mirror. When an enemy loop-hole is successfully located it is only a matter of taking a chance through our own loop-holes before that particular locality is "more sniped than sniping."

PLAYGROUNDS ROUND THE WORLD

We sometimes think of the United States as the only country that considers playgrounds as a civic necessity...

Germany had carried the playground idea to a high pitch of excellence before the United States had welcomed it...

Mr. Carnegie is responsible for the interest in playgrounds awakening at Dunfermline, in Scotland...

It may not seem strange that these highly civilized places should recognize the value of the public playground...

These highly civilized places should recognize the value of the public playground, but it is somewhat astonishing to read of municipal ball-water baths and free parks at Port Elizabeth in Africa...

In view of the long record of what other nations are doing, it is pathetic to read that in all the territory of Russia there is only one public playground...

There is only one public playground in the city of St. Petersburg, near the police barracks, and it was closed because the men complained that the noise of the children at their play was disturbing...

POEM BY ST. JOHN LADY.

Lines written by the late Mrs. A. H. Eaton of Baltimore, formerly of St. John.

Not on the battle-ground, Of martial story, Was this dead cannon found, Mid fame and glory...

Not where the victor stands Enwreathed with flowers, Telling of conquered lands, And fallen powers...

Not as the honored mead, That brought the glory, Does this dead cannon lie, In martial story...

And yet no warrior's sword, Ever wrought such anguish, O'er caused so many hearts, In grief to languish...

No fiery ball of death, In fearful hour, Ever flew with surer aim, Or deadlier power...

New! Is this cannon new? Since Eden's portal Closed upon ruined hopes, And man made mortal...

A cannon, fitly named, Of anguish speaking, Of vengeance weeping, Of blighted, withered hopes...

A cannon, telling tales, Of heartbreaks saddened, Of breaking, bleeding hearts, No sunshine gladdened...

Of early years untraced, By hope's bright finger, Around whose mystic gates, Faith may not linger...

War has its thousands slain On field of battle, 'Mid smoke and shout and shot, And cannon's rattle...

And now with sacred tomes, Their memory keeping, Shrouded in robes of state, Its Death is sleeping...

But thou O mighty foe, Thy victims perish, With scarce one loving heart, Their names to cherish...

On Roll of Honor

SERGT.-MAJOR ARTHUR ADAMS, son of James Adams, of Hampton, formerly of the 12th battalion, who died from wounds received in battle.

LANGEMARCK

(J. C. M. Duncan, in Montreal Herald).
This day that glorifies an age,
So dear and so bright a page,
Shines not in all our story,
As that which in this bloody field
Our sons wrote when, retaking
The captured guns, they would not yield,
And kept the line from breaking.

The human torrents of the foe,
Rolled like a flood around them,
But staunch and firm at every blow,
Their mighty forms around them
Like veterans to the last they stood,
To Freedom's cause devoted,
For Freedom poured their life's last blood,
And died, but not unmoted.

The trumpet of their fame is blown Thro' every land and nation,
With all the heroes Time has known,
They justly take their station.
Their true red valor glories
Our name above the naming,
And clothes the Khaki in our eyes
With pride past all acclaiming.

The Khaki, 'tis the hero's dress,
Now sanctified by duty,
By pride ennobled and not less
By manly strength and beauty.
All praise be to the men who wore
And to the men who wear it,
It grows in honor more and more,
And we are proud to share it.

But, now, our youth, our hope, our might,
Have passed from our proud fields,
But, oh, could we have seen the light,
That shone within their faces!
The smile that Victory set upon
Their brows as they lay dying,
And saw above the field they won,
Their flag, untarnished, flying.

This dulls the sting of death that runs
Thro' our full cup of sorrow,
The death they died today our sons
Would die again tomorrow.
Like stars new-born in heaven, they give
To our young skies new glory,
And, having died for Freedom, live
Forever in her story.

The Quip Modest.

(Manchester Guardian).
There are some jests that have more wisdom in them than much solemnity can boast, and that which "Eye-witness" describes in his latest despatch was one of these. On the 1st of April a British airman dropped upon the quarters of some German troops in Lille what appeared to be a large bomb, and stayed long enough above the scene of his exploit to make sure that the startled enemy, when they were sufficiently reassured to approach what was, as a matter of fact, merely a football, had read and appreciated the message attached to the "bomb"—April fool!

Gott strafe England! The German temper being what they are only too ready to prove it, this must have been a very subtle and successful form of attack.
For, having made a national duty of a joke as heavy as the potato bread which feeds it, it is highly annoying to be laughed at for your pains and to see what should have been the blood-curdling slogan of that hated tossed back to you as an All Fool's Day greeting.
The wisdom of the jest lies in the fact that it embodies what is so very much the best way of acknowledging this gloomy, elaborately drilled, fentonic fury, if it has to be acknowledged at all.
This Quip Modest is vastly more effective than any retorts in kind, if only because the Germans have so abundantly proved themselves incapable of it.

Whereas the Germans, if they hold any communication at all with us, can only give us the Lie Direct and invent fresh and fearful stages of dispute, we, in the intervals of carrying on the war very vigilantly, can yet get back now and then to Quips Modest or even Retorts Courteous. This, apparently, the Germans cannot do, and the failure is not a symptom of strength.

The late George A. Hearn, a millionaire business man and art collector of New York, was noted for his kind and reasonable treatment of his employes.
Mr. Hearn used to smile at the new scientific management craze, of which he once said at a dinner:
"These scientific management people, with their impossible claims of doubling and tripling a man's labor, reminds me of the humble hod carrier's impossible promise."

"A facetious boss said to a new hod carrier:
"Look-a-here, friend, didn't I hire
you to carry bricks up this ladder today?"
"Yes, sir," said the hod carrier, touching his cap.
"Well, I've had my eye on you, and you've only done it half a day today.
Now spend the other half coming down the ladder!"
The hod carrier touched his cap again,
"I'll try to do better tomorrow, sir,"
he said, humbly."

A Song of Sons.

(By W. D. Lighthall).
Like as a lioness, wounded for her whelp,
Britannia stands, in bleeding strong disdain,
And we for whom she bleeds, shall we not help?
Thrills there not in us her undaunted strain?
Yes, Motherland, we haste o'er ocean's
tide,
Eager to fight, and perish, by thy side.

The mad werewolf that covets our estate,
And gnaws his scarlet fangs, shall feel
our own,
Ne'er wert thou more magnificently
thou,
Than when he deemed thee feeble and alone,
We haste, brave Motherland, in joy and pride,
Burning to fight and perish by thy side.

Let those mark well who think to conquer thee,
They with a might and wealth we never emprise;
Must also count, that grows o'er every sea,
And is not weak, and fast to power
doth rise,
We watch, fair Mother, keen o'er every
tide,
At home win or perish by thy side.

We shall not perish; neither yet shall
thou,
Unconquerable is the song of truth.
Freedom falls not. Its star is on thy brow,
And we bring thee the dearest gift of youth.
Yes, Motherland, we haste o'er ocean's
tide,
In love to fight and perish at thy side.

Brave Truine Mother, whence we drew our blood,
Our liberty and every good we share, Whose deeds our parents tell us. Take thee the sword,
Of our hearts throbbing in thine hour of care.

Dear Motherland, we come, we rise like ocean's tide,
From Freedom's cause of old to combat the foe, (Montreal).

If England should go dry, now, en-slavements would be stimulated by adopting as the battle cry: "On to Pilsen."

Is 83 Years Old And Her Heart Does Not Bother Her.

Thanks to MILBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. J. McLaren, Commanca, Ont., writes us under date of February 9th, 1914. "Sixteen years ago I took bad with my heart and nerves, and was not able to do anything. I tried a good many doctors, but they did me no good; in fact one doctor gave me up to die. I heard about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I thought I would give them a trial, and after using a couple of boxes I saw that I was improving. I kept on using them for quite a long time. I am eighty-three years old, and my heart does not bother me at all.

"I am raising a little girl who was never very strong, and the doctor said that she had palpitation of the heart, so I started to give them to her. She is now twelve years old, and they are doing her more good than I can possibly tell you. I would advise anyone who has a weak heart to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, as they have done wonders for us."

Price, 50 cents per box, 3 boxes for $1.25; for sale at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

EMMY DESTIN TO TOUR

After seven years stay at the Metropolitan Opera House of New York, where she was looked upon as the leading prima donna, Miss Emmy Destin, the great Bohemian soprano, will make her first American concert tour beginning next week. During her stay at the Metropolitan she has created many famous roles and one opera, "The Girl of the Golden West," by Puccini, was written especially for her. She was also the first to sing this composer's most famous opera, "Madama Butterfly."

On this tour she will be heard in the arias from the famous operas, and will also introduce many novel songs to the concert stage. She will sing in six languages—Russian, Bohemian, German, English, French and Italian. As an interpreter of the Verdi Operas she is possibly unequalled, her "Aida" being one of her greatest roles. On her tour she will be accompanied by an operatic baritone and a concert pianist.

"What? You're going to marry Tom Speed? Why he's awful!"
"What makes you think so?"
"I hear he's been blackballed by every club in town."

"I heard so, too. That sort of husband won't have much excuse for staying out nights, will he?"—Cleveland Leader.

Eczema Was Cured Twelve Years Ago

Dr. Chase's Ointment Proved to Be a Permanent Cure

The old idea of eczema being a disease of the blood has been pretty well exploded by the record of cures made by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Some doctors still advise internal treatment, but the results are slow and uncertain, and too often a lamentable failure. With Dr. Chase's Ointment it is different. You apply the ointment to the sores parts. It cleanses the sores and soon sets up the healing process. In a few days you can see with your own eyes the wonderful change that is taking place and are encouraged to keep up the treatment until the cure is complete and the sores replaced by smooth, natural skin.

It is wise to look after your general health, keep the bowels regular and the blood rich, but you can depend on Dr.
Chase's Ointment to cure the eczema if you will do your part and apply it regularly.

Mr. W. H. Roberts, Charlottetown, P.
E. I., writes: "I can recommend Dr.
Chase's Ointment to anyone suffering from itching skin disease. I had eczema on my leg and suffered terribly from the itching. I had a doctor treat me for four months without relief, and I was getting worse all the time. A second doctor gave me relief for a time, but made no cure. I tried several advertised treatments, but without relief until I used Dr. Chase's Ointment. This ointment cured me in a month. That was twelve years ago, and I have never had a sign of the old trouble since."

"This is to certify that I am personally acquainted with Mr. W. H. Roberts, and believe his statement regarding the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment to be true and correct."

Peace.

How to Buy or Sell a Home to the Best Advantage

To Save Your Building Costs Means to Increase Your Investment

Own your own home! A large percentage of the people who don't could—if they knew it. It is cheaper to pay a substantial first payment on a good property and then arrange for payments that you can easily meet, than to pay rent all your life. Reliable real estate men will tell you this. But suppose you own your own home and have some money to invest. Nothing better than good homes. The rate of interest is good

A NEW INDUSTRY.

"Canning" Firm in Glass Started by Bangor Firm.

A new Bangor industry that has every promise of success has been inaugurated on a larger scale after months of experimenting by the Alfred Jones Sons Co.—the "canning" of fish in glass, which has just been perfected through the discovery of a new process guaranteeing the original flavor after an indefinite period of time. The Alfred Jones Sons Co. is the first to use this new process, and it is proving entirely successful.

The first experiments with canning of this kind were made by Heywood C.
Jones, secretary and manager of the firm, who began last fall, then employing two girls. Slowly the work went on, and has met with excellent results, until this week when the company thirty girls and several men and boys. Even at a lower rate of output during the past few months, the industry has used no less than five carloads of glass, which gives a slight idea of what the process is when the large crew is well started.

Without giving away any trade secrets, a brief description of the process may be made known here. In the past, attempts to can fish and keep the original flavor have not been entirely successful because when the fish were heated to the temperature necessary to sterilize and make them keep indefinitely, the flavor escaped from the fish and was lost. Under the new process, the fish are sealed under a vacuum, and are sterilized without allowing any of the original flavor to escape.

The kinds of fish canned included finnan haddock, salt cod, smoked halibut, lunch herring and kippered salmon. The canning of finnan haddock was just started this week, and fifteen more girls were taken on to commence its production.

Specimens of the fish canned were sent to Director Charles D. Woods of the experiment station at the University of Maine, who pronounced them perfectly pure. As none of the fish is exposed to tin, there is absolutely no possibility of phosphorus poisoning.

The Jones canned fish in glass are on exhibition at the Panama Pacific Exhibition and orders have been received from all over the United States.

Heywood S. Jones is in entire charge of the work, and is assisted by Irving C.
Baker as foreman of the canning department.

For Bangor people realize what an industry the preparing of fish in the Jones establishment. With the addition of the canning department there are now no less than sixty-five people employed at their establishment on Broad street, and with the possibility of increasing this number in the near future.

The inspection of Bangor people is invited by the Jones establishment, who will be glad to entertain visitors. Everything about the department is perfectly sanitary. Each of the girls employed is furnished with two white aprons, which they must keep spotless, also with neat caps, individual drinking cups, paper towels and other sanitary devices are used.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL NEWS
OF THE WEEK IN ST. JOHN

The truth of the old adage "it never rains but it pours," must have impressed itself on the minds of those whose misfortune it was to change residence on the first of May. Even though they were privileged to remain in the midst of this ready-to-move furniture until Monday, when that day arrived the down pour was as unrelentingly steady as heretofore. Not until Thursday was there the slightest glimmer of sunshine, but then, Thursday was a real May day, well worth the waiting for. The shops were filled with customers buying for the summer days which the balmy spring-like air warns us are near at hand. Other signs of coming summer are the green plots in the public squares now turning from brown to vivid green. To be sure, these are the days which the poets laud and the people meet with enthusiasm, but not always with enthusiasm, because moving, house cleaning and making over one's wardrobe are not inspiring occupations. They are, however, the precursors of joyous days made up of summer sunshine which both young and old will take advantage of to regain the vitality impaired by too close confinement in office, drawing room, or in artificially heated apartments during long weeks of winter weather.

On Friday of last week, Miss Ellen Gillis entertained at a pleasant tea at her residence on Union street, in honor of Mrs. Schofield, wife of Dean Schofield. Spring flowers adorned the handsomely appointed table over which Mrs. John Gillis, mother of the hostess, presided. Assisting with the refreshments were Mrs. Reginald Wright, Mrs. Kent Schofield and Miss Marie Gillis. Included among those who enjoyed the hostess' hospitality were Mrs. Schofield, Mrs. James McAvity, Mrs. Rupert Turnbull, Mrs. Frank Fairweather, Mrs. Fred B. Schofield, Mrs. W. A. Lockhart, Mrs. Eber H. Turnbull, Mrs. Gordon Sanborn, Mrs. J. Lee Day, Mrs. J. M. Teed, Mrs. Harry McAvity, Miss Annie Scammell, Miss Janie Stone, Miss Mary Blizard.

In twenty years the population of New York City has grown fifty-two per cent; that of the city by 90 per cent.

90 per cent is lost

It is a startling statement that of all the money paid by a leading life company to beneficiaries in seven years, 90% of it had been spent or lost. Yet that was proved by a careful investigation to be the case.

THE CANADA LIFE WILL PREVENT THIS LOSS.

Through our Continuous Monthly Income policy your beneficiary will have absolute certainty of an income of, say, $50. monthly, which cannot be tampered with by foolish or designing advisers.

This income is guaranteed for at least 20 years, so that should the beneficiary—presumably the wife—die, it will continue till the youngest child is of age.

There are a number of features which make this the ideal policy. Booklet No. 288 tells interestingly about them. A post card will bring it to you.

THE DEPARTURE OF "B" SQUADRON, 4TH C. M. R.

One sunny morning, late in March the rhythmic tread of feet, and stirring music in the air, drew people to the street.

Commanded by a colonel, the "B" Squadron, 4th C. M. R., The Mounted Rifles, Squadron "B," were marching to the train.

The "Twenty-sixth" with bayonet fixed to the rifle, lined Broad street with their men, each trooper thought who passed that spot.

Perhaps in a country far away, On a shell-wreathed Belgian plain, Where the mighty guns of the cruel Hun Had strewn the land with slain.

In the grand round men pitched in at a lively pace. Powers got in several severe blows on Toie, hitting him in the forehead and the left eye, and inflicting a slight cut.

Both men were loudly cheered as they came upon the platform. This contest was looked upon as likely to be a keen one from the outset.

At 8:30 o'clock the contestants came to the centre of the ring and exchanged the customary shake of the hands. The next instant the first round was entered upon.

In the second round the men pitched in at a lively pace. Powers got in several severe blows on Toie, hitting him in the forehead and the left eye, and inflicting a slight cut.

The third and fourth rounds were tame, as compared with the second, the third of which was contested with a slight advantage for Toie, while the fourth might be considered even.

The following account was taken from one of the New York papers regarding the race in which F. W. Craft of this city won the amateur championship title in Hoboken, N. Y.

"That nothing succeeds like success" was never more clearly exemplified than during the tournament of the National Amateur Skating Association, the last of which was contested at Schermer's rink in Hoboken, on Thursday, January 27.

The thirteenth annual curling match between the Thistle and St. Andrew's curling clubs was played on January 21, 1887, and resulted in a win for the latter by a total of 141 points to 122.

A report about the day follows—"Of all the Canadian winter sports curling is undoubtedly the most popular. In every city, town and village, almost in Canada the lovers of the good old Scotch game are banded together and through many long hours of the winter days and nights pursue with zeal and skill their favorite pastime.

The annual contest between the two clubs came off yesterday in both rinks and after a day of sport which has never been exceeded, resulted in a victory for St. Andrew's.

Readers of the newspapers and followers of the course of the war must long ago have become convinced that the situation grows more and more intense and critical day by day.

OLD TIME SPORT NEWS

F. W. Craft's Skating Victory in Hoboken, N. Y.—Stirring Finish to Annual Match of Thistles and St. Andrew's

Many local boxing enthusiasts will in all probability recall the night in April, 1887, when Joe Toie and John T. Power met in the Roller Rink, and engaged in a match which caused considerable interest throughout the city, but which was not finished on account of the police.

The sparring exhibition, which has for some time engaged the attention of the sporting fraternity, came off in the Roller Rink last night. It was estimated that upwards of 1,600 people assembled to witness the event.

Both men were loudly cheered as they came upon the platform. This contest was looked upon as likely to be a keen one from the outset.

With such a state of affairs existent it hardly remains to explain to any thoughtful Canadian how best they can fulfil their manifest duty and show the burden-bearers how completely they possess their sympathy.

Germany's Hold on Belgian Coast

American Correspondent Visits Middelkerke, Where Sailor-Cavalry is on Duty—Shells Reach Town—Church Hit, and Germans Also Point Out Hospital That Was Not Spared

With the Germans fighting on the coast, March 31—(Staff correspondent, New York Times)—As a permanent antidote to the morning fog I unhesitatingly recommend an anti-fog ride on the fast road that skirts the shore from Ostend to Nieuport, for when you speed at forty miles an hour toward "distant cannonading" it gets unaccountably close almost before you know it. Five American war correspondents came to a dead stop in the once pretty seaside town of Middelkerke—the past tense being due to the English "Long Tom"—while Captain Kliever of the great general staff went on a "Schleich Patrouille" to stalk some sort of a general with a view to obtaining permission for our further advance on Nieuport.

Your own correspondent, bedded between two middle western journalists, had just dined off amid the luxurious upholstery of the Kaiser's military touring car when a bicycled ordonnance came peddling along as if it were out to beat the world's record, but mistaking us for officers, stopped to salute and report that an allied aeroplane had just bombed the town being bombarded. Alarms and excursions—Easant was correspondents from automobiles.

When you hear the big bass drum of the heavy artillery and little new-fangled aerial bombs dropping into town you become automatically athletic; you decide to take the joy riding kind out of your legs; you "wear up" like a candidate for marathon honors; you become restless as a flea. You speculate on your chances of joining the immortal and look for the nearest bomb-proof cellar. You don't have to look far.

Every cellar in Middelkerke is as near bomb-proof as German ingenuity can make it. Barricades of sandbags are piled up on the sidewalks in front of the cellar windows, to keep the light and the shell splinters out. I found an ideal one in which to be "under fire"—twenty feet under ground, a cosy sub-cellar with salt water percolating through the floor. The Germans had dug it out in their spare moments, walled it with heavy beams, and upholstered it with cushions, to serve as a reasonable shelter for the anonymous general and his staff when the pace gets too hot for even professionals. As I might as well have been sitting in jail as in that comfortable sub-cellar staff cell, for practical purposes of carrying an honest living, I brushed aside my personal preferences and emerged into the bright sunlight for a stroll around the fire-swept streets of Middelkerke, punning for human interest and "vivid visualizations" for the edification of bomb-proof Times readers.

Work of the Shells
Here, on one corner, was a three-story brick building with the roof all away. A big square, dirty-white cotton banner still draped the front, and he who can still read in red letters that the Sisters of Mercy, somebody were here running a relief station for starving Belgian children, saw no red letters on the premises and the "children" at the windows had pale, unshaven faces. It was now a red and conspicuous station for the Kaiser's fighters who are "overcome by the heat." The sisters had evidently forgotten to take their shells from the Red Cross flag were from the professedly sanitarian.

Half way down a side street I saw above the portals of St. Joseph's Church a statue of its patron saint, set in a niche in the wall, with a weather eye looking out to sea. Did the English, looking through their marine glasses, mistake the statue for a German aerial spy observer on a church? Did they think the plastered saint's hand raised in benediction held a naughty telephone instrument? Heaven and somebody on an excited British cruiser only know. I only know that a shell bored a gaping hole through the brick wall close to the statue, almost literally "cutting the ground from under his feet." But the slightly damaged statue continues to occupy its dangerous perch, teaching the lesson that allied shells are no respecters of churches.

I learned that not even the fathers themselves, officers and men, were allowed to go any further down the fire-swept highway and across the country to the "ultimate front" in the day time unless imperatively necessary; that the new shifts went to relieve the old ones in the trenches under cover of night; that ammunition supplies, hot soup in field kitchens, reserves, everything was brought up at night. The relentless of the artillery struggle here on the coast, tenses than anything I had found in Poland, or along the front in France, necessitates the new "night life."

Comfort in Trenches
A company of soldiers, more or less caked with dried mud, who, I was told, had come out of the front trenches at dawn, looked so unhappy hanging around town as to be worth investigating. Had their morale been badly mauled by the Belgians or the British cannon? They certainly did not look up to Paris, nor what one expected of the Kaiser's fighting men. They were thinking regretfully of their happy homes in the front trenches! The men here, I learned, hated to quit the firing line, and go back into reserve in the villages, because it meant packing up and leaving their comfortable de luxe trenches! For the trenches, which have been inhabited for so long as the bomb-proof underground "cottages" have gradually been "furnished" until they are now the last word in firing line comfort.

Most of the furnishings of the Palace Hotel at Ostend, whose proprietor had apparently made the mistake of fleeing the coming of the Germans, are said to have found their way to the front—bath-tubs are to be found in the trenches and the shelters that honeycomb the sand dunes—veritable "dive" day room and bath propositions.

The roof of a skyscraper hotel on the shore front was tipped up at an angle, and quite) would have afforded a magnificent view, but a manoeuvre in that direction was nipped at the bud. The look out of an upper window. "An enemy observer would be sure to spot us." We were made to be circumspect, and harem beauties, and if necessary, put a bag over our heads and peer out between closed blinds, but wouldn't take our chances on our acting like magnets to "Anglo-American shells."

The seeming excessive caution practiced here gave you a vivid feeling of just what it meant for the Germans to be constantly exposed to the dangers of a flank attack from the Channel while putting up a stiff front against the Belgians on the coast. You felt your back how the Germans were extending themselves to the limit, straining every nerve and sinew to hold the coast against heavy odds.

Sailors on Land Duty
The "watch on the Channel" is being held, though not exclusively, by sailors and marines. The marines wear field-gray uniforms and are to be spotted only by their curiously shaped bonnets. The land sailors, though, wear regulation navy blue toggers, dapping, wide-topped trousers, caps with two black ribbons streamers down the back, rolling back and all—big, bronzed fellows, most of them, many with neatly trimmed Van Dyke beards. They are the finest light-cas I have seen on either coast, east or west. Sailors navigating the sand dunes ashore are one of the novelties offered here; sailors with cavalry boots and spurs! They are picturesque figures, these sailor cavalrymen—particularly when you see them motoring, horse and man, holding solitary vigil on top of a sand dune. Sailor patrols riding bicycles, rifles strapped to their backs, are another curiosity I saw here on the coast.

While the cellars of Middelkerke are bomb-proof, conversely the roofs are by no means rain-proof. The skyline has a moth-eaten appearance. I saw no native inhabitants. About the first thing the Germans always do is to ship the bomb-bombardment out of the town whenever possible. It was a deserted village. Even among the German soldiers there seemed to be a tendency to keep off the streets. Not even a chicken would cross the road in Middelkerke unless urged on by a superior officer. You were frankly a "wall flower" much of the time. You longed for the limbs of a fly, and you could cling still closer, for the Germans were bombarding Nieuport and the British heavy guns were talking back. There is a sort of gentlemen's agreement in force here. If the Germans shoot up Nieuport the Allies shell Westende and generally Middelkerke, too, into the bargain, and conversely. And the further the Allies shoot the further the Germans do, too, and vice versa.

Ghost of a Promenade
The seaside promenade, only a block ahead, seems worth investigating, you did it gingerly, though, as if playing the childhood game of hide and seek. You peer around the corner of the deserted seaside hotels, you even get down on all-fours, like a dog, to see the sea! You think you have no overwhelming desire to hear what the wild waves are saying. Your German friends would probably think you were trying to extract information of military value from their monotonous monologue and your allied friends might equally misinterpret your neutral motives. There are infinite possibilities for unpleasant misunderstandings here, since field gray instead of the one-piece bathing suit has come into

RED CROSS EXHIBITS AT THE PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION

ONE OF THE JAPANESE LIFE-SAVING EXHIBITS
A SECTION OF THE AMERICAN RED CROSS EXHIBIT
RED-CROSS WORKER

While Europe feels the greatest struggle in history the efficiency of the Red Cross is being put to the hardest test of its wonderful existence. A larger army is now marshaled under its banner than under the flag of any one nation. It moves silently and steadily amidst the fiercest din of battle, its marvelous effectiveness the result of the businesslike systemizing it has undergone with the years.

Appreciating the endeavors of the Red Cross, the great nations, despite the cataclysm in Europe, have installed wonderful exhibits at San Francisco and have incorporated these exhibits a tribute to the Red Cross. The United States and Japan in particular are devoting much attention to this feature and the result has been most gratifying to the thousands who daily throng the magnificent exhibit palaces of the Exposition. Japan has one of the most exhaustive exhibits along these lines, showing in detail how the wounded are cared for on the battle field and under fire. This exhibit is made vividly realistic by perfect wax models of the human figure, the surgeons and nurses being so true to life that a close study of the figures is necessary to discern from living models. The Japanese exhibit, as well as that of the American Red Cross, is complete in every detail, even to the field telephones used for communicating with the chief surgeons, bases of hospital supplies and the hospitals themselves, which are far removed from the scene of action. The exhibits show, in a remarkably clear manner, the use of the latest surgical instruments as well as the various forms of sterilization with which each field outfit is equipped. The dressing of wounds is brought to the front by the use of lay figures, explaining clearly the care with which the wounded are handled. The most minute apparatus carried in the "kits" of the Red Cross worker are exhibited, showing their use, even down to the patent magnets, used for extracting particles of steel from the eye and thus saving the sight which otherwise might be lost.

Never in the history of world's exhibitions has such attention been given this wonderful organization as at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition and its exhibits are proving an interesting study in connection with the Mine Rescue Service and the wonderfully effective emergency service maintained at the exposition. The use of oxygen and anaesthetics is demonstrated and the Red Cross exhibits as a whole are worthy of the great attention they are attracting. Several other foreign countries will be equally well represented as Japan and the United States within a few days and the completion of all exhibits of this character will add another splendid accomplishment to those already achieved by the directors of the great exposition in bringing to the public displays everything representative of the work of the world.

REPORTING FROM MEMORY.

When Note Taking Was Forbidden in House of Commons.
Holcroft's feat in memorizing the whole play of "Figaro," after hearing it ten times, could probably have been easily outdone by "Memory" Woodfall, who, in the days when note-taking was forbidden in the House of Commons, acquired fame by his extraordinary power of reporting from memory the speeches he heard in that august assembly.

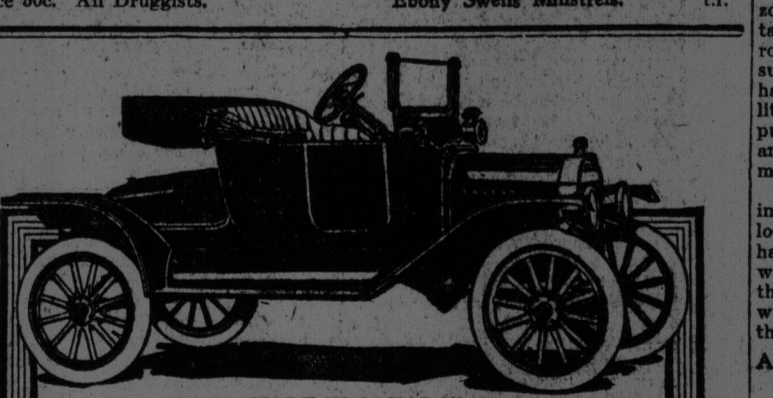

His usual attitude during a debate was to close his eyes and lean forward, with both hands upon his stick, being so well acquainted with the tone and manner of the several speakers that he seldom changed his attitude save to catch the name of a new member.

The speeches thus memorized he printed in his journal, and so wonderful was his memory that he could retain full recollection of a debate a fortnight after, though having listened to many long nights of speaking in the interval. He used to say he could put any speech in his mind for a year.

SAND TROUBLES FOR THE SOLDIERS

Seriously Affect Our Men in South West Africa

Veils or Goggles, He Says, Will Not Keep Out the Dust—Interesting Tales From Scene of Fighting

It is said that eye troubles have been seriously affecting the Union Forces operating in German South-West Africa, and the union government has commended a well-known eye surgeon to report on the subject. He writes to a relative in England a letter from which we are able to give these interesting extracts. He mentions, incidentally, that on the day after he left Garuba a German aeroplane dropped a bomb on the Red Cross hospital camp, destroying the operating tent and wounding nine men. He left by the transport Colonial, and returned to British territory by the hospital ship Imbaba. In the letter, written from the first named vessel, he says of his projected itinerary:

"That will give me time to see what cases there are at Luderitz Bay, and get an idea of their number and character, and also I shall go up to rail-head in the middle of the coast, and in person experience the effects of wind storms and dust and sun. I am taking up every form of goggles and veil, and shall try my impression is that they are over-estimating the difficulties, as all the cases I've seen were very simple; but the fellows sent down are mostly suffering from 'cold feet,' and want to save their faces by exaggerating the conditions."

Beer-Drinking Germans.
We arrived at Luderitz (Ludicrous they call it) Bay this morning, after hanging about outside for some hours. The mist was so thick that the captain turned the ship round and round in a circle till it cleared off and he could see the way in. The bay is a fine one, but the shore, looked at from the sea, is the most primitive looking concern you can well imagine. It looks for all the world as if a child had been making mud pies and, growing tired, had tried to dry unfinished; not a particle of vegetation, nothing but rocks and stones and sun; and nothing distinguished about the rocks either.

We were met by a fine fog and landed. The doctor in charge of the station hospital here carried me off to his quarters. They do themselves much better here than we do; and I found a comfortable room, with a bed, blankets and sheets! The mess is pleasant, and the food good.

The town itself is just spread over the rocks without any plan—no attempt to make streets or roads which are all thick in sand and have no side walks. Trams for trolleys run everywhere. The houses are ugly and shabby, the furniture indescribable, but evidently some of the people were rich, and spent parts of money principally in beer. When our people came they found millions and millions of empty bottles, and the stores of beer, wine, and spirits were prodigious. An ugly people, these Germans, in mind and body.

Fine Troops in the Desert.
Describing the journey by train to Tlankail—a train which includes several large water tanks—the writer says: "There is no water all the way up here—a distance of forty-five miles—it all has to be brought up by rail and every individual rationed on 1/4 gallon daily." The country one comes through is extraordinary; it is desert, and thing but desert without vegetation except in a widely separated spots on some cross very sparse patches of a sort of dry brush and a little withered grass. There is practically no rainfall in this country—about one inch a year! The earlier part of the journey was through pure sand dunes, which drift from place to place with the wind and in some places are several hundred feet high. The sand drifts into the shape of a crescent, the outer side being a gradual slope and quite level underfoot, the inner, concave side being steep and soft, so soft that men have been engulfed in it.

Half-way up the country alters to a wide, flat plain of sand and stones, with great bare-looking mountains forty or fifty miles to the eastward. Here there is a tested case of 4,000 men under General Mackenzie. It is the centre of the plain, and of all the gashly places I have ever been in it is the worst, far worse than the painted desert of Arizona, for there isn't a particle of vegetation to be seen for miles, nothing but rocks and stones and sand and blinding sun. Unfortunately for my purpose it has been fine, with no wind and very little dust. Unfortunately because the purpose of my visit is to experiment and unless there is dust tomorrow my mission will have failed.
