Breakfast Cereals for every taste.

Whether you are one of those who eat a light breakfast or a full meal, some Breakfast Cereal will form at least a part of the meal. Now tastes differ very largely. Some prefer Shreded Wheat; others Malt Breakfast Food, and still others Rolled Oatz, and so on through the list. Do you know that Cereals contain food elements absolutely essential to body-building? Do you know of an easter way in which these elements can be taken than in the form of a crisp, light Breakfast Cereal? We have such a selection as will please every taste, and the prices are low enough to suit every proketbook. Buy by the dosen and you will make a good saving. Our Stock of Cereals is New, and consequently is crisp, which in these foods is most essential. Here are some of the prices:

If Lillian rest any casappointment she showed none. "Poor old thing!" she said softly. "Try to sit here by me and we won't bother about anything. She made a place for him beside her and as he dropped into it she took his hand and patted it sympathetically. The touch was soothing, and he bore it patiently enough. After a moment she lifted the hand with a little exclamation of reproof.

"You degenerate person! You have ceased to manicure. What has become of my excellent training?"

Chilcote laughed. "Run to seed," he said lightly. Then his expression and tone changed. "When a man gets to my age," he added, "little social luxuries don't seem worth while. The social necessities are irksome enough Personally I envy the beggar in the street—exempt from shaving, exempt from washing"— Lillian raised her delicate eyebrows.

The sentiment was beyond her percepion.
"But manicuring," she said reproachfully, "when you have such nice hands.

It was your hands and your eyes, you booked down at her own inters, gut-tering with jewels.

But the momentary pleasure of her touch was gone. Chilcote drew away his hand and picked up the book that lay between them.
"'Other Men's Shoes," he read. "A govel, of course?"

She smiled, "Of course. Such a fantastic story-two men changing identi-Chilcote rose and walked back to the "Changing identities." he said. with touch of interest, "Yes. One man is an artist, the other a millionaire. One wants to know what fame is like, the other wants to know how it feels to be really sinfully rich. So they exchange experiences for a month." She laughed.

Chilcote laughed as well. "But how?" be asked. "Oh, I told you the idea was absurd. Fancy two people so much alike that neither their friends nor their servants see any difference! Such a thing couldn't be, could it?" Chilcote looked down at the fire.

"No," he said doubtfully. "No. I suppose not."
"Of course not. There are likenesses, but not freak likenesses like that."
Chilcote's head was bent as he spoke, ut at the last words he lifted it "By Jove! I don't know about that", he said. "Not so very long ago I saw two men so much alike that I—I"— He stopped. Lillian smiled.

He colored quickly. "You doubt me?" he asked. "My dear Jack!" Her voice was del-"Then you think that my—my imagination has been playing me tricks?"
"My dear boy! Nothing of the kind.
Come back to your place and tell me the whole tale?" She smiled again, and patted the couch invitingly.

But Chilcote's balance had been upset. For the first time he saw Lillian as one of the watchful, suspecting crowd before which he was constantly crowd before which he was constantly, on guard. Acting on the sensation, he moved suddenly toward the door.

"I—I have an appointment at the house," he said quickly. "I'll look in another day when—when I'm better company. I know I'm a bear today, My nerves, you know." He came back to the couch and took her hand. Then

"Goodby," he said. "Take care of yourself—and the kitten," he added with forced gayety, as he crossed the

That afternoon Chilcote's nervous condition reached its height. All day he had avoided the climax, but no svasion can be eternal, and this he realized as he sat in his place on the opposition behaves during the half hour of whitry twilight that precedes the turning on of the lights. He realized it in that half hour, but the application of the light hour during the half cation of the knowledge followed later, when the time came for him to ques-tion the government on some point re-lating to the proposed additional dry dock at Talkley, the naval base. Then for the first time he knew that the suf-ferings of the past months could have a visible as well as a hidden side—could isorganize his daily routine as they had already demoralized his will and

The thing came upon him with extraordinary lack of preparation. He sat through the twilight with tolerable calm, his nervousness showing only in the occasional lifting of his hand to his collar and the frequent changing of his position, but when the lights were turned on and he leaned back in were turned on and he leaned back in his seat with closed eyes he became conscious of a curious impression—a disturbing idea that through his closed lids he could see the faces on the opposite side of the house, see the rows of eyes, sleepy, interested or vigilant. Never before had the sensation presented itself, but once set up it ran through all his susceptibilities. By an absurd freak of fancy those varying eyes seemed to pierce through his lids, almost through his eyeballs. The cold perspiration that was his daily horror broke out on his forehead, and at the broke out on his forehead, and at the same moment Fraide, his leader, turn

I don't know," he said. "I scarcely believe in it. Lakely put a match to the powder in the St. George's, but 'twill only be a noise and a puff of But Fraide did not smile "What is the feeling down at Wark?" he asked. "Has it awakened any interest?"

"At Wark? Oh, I—I don't quite know. I have been a little out of touch with Wark in the last few weeks. A man has so many private affairs to look to"- He was uneasy under his chief's scrutiny Fraide's lips parted as if to make re-ply, but with a certain dignified retience he closed them again and turned away. Chilcote leaned back in his place and furtively passed his hand over his fore-head. His mind was possessed by one consideration—the consideration of consideration—the consideration nimself. He glanced down the crow ed, lighted house to the big glass doors; he glanced about him at his colleagues, indifferent or interested; then surreptitiously his fingers strayed to his waistcoat pocket. Usually he carried his morphia tabloids with him, but today by a lapse of memory he had left them at home. He knew this, nevertheless he continued to search, while the need of the drug rushed through him with a sense of physical sickness. He lost hold on the business of the house; unconsciously he half rose from his seat.

The man next him looked up. "Hold your ground, Chilcote," he said. "Rayforth is drying up."

With a wave of relief Chilcote dropped back into his place. Whatever the confusion in his mind it was evidently not obvious in his face.

Rayforth resumed his seat there was the usual slight stir and pause; then Salett, the member for Salchester, rose. With Salett's first words Chilcote's hand again sought his pocket, and again his eyes strayed toward the doors, but Fraide's erect head and stiff back just in front of him held him quiet. With an effort he pulled out his notes and smoothed them nervous-ly; but, though his gaze was fixed on the pages, not a line of Blessington's clear writing reached his mind. He glanced at the face of the speaker, then at the faces on the treasury bench, then once more he leaned back in his seat. The man beside him saw the movement. "Funking the dry dock?" he whispered jestingly. "No"—Chilcote turned to him suddenly-"but I feel beastly-have felt ceastly for weeks."

The other looked at him more close-"Anything wrong?" he asked. It was a novel experience to be confided

"Oh, it's the grind—the infernal grind." As he said it it seemed to him suddenly that his strength gave way. He forgot his con position, everything except the urgent instinct that filled mind and body. Scarcely knowing what he did he rose and leaned forward to whisper in Fraide's ear.

Fraide was seen to turn, his thin face interested and concerned, then he was seen to nod once or twice in ac-quiescence, and a moment later Chil-cote stepped quietly out of his place. One or two men spoke to him as he hurried from the house, but he shook them off almost uncivilly, and, making for the nearest exit, hailed a cab. The drive to Grosvenor square was a misery. Time after time he changed from one corner of the cab to the other, his acute internal nains protonged by every delay and increased by every motion. At last, weak in all his limbs, he stepped from the vehicle at his own coor.

Entering the house, he instantly mounted the stairs and passed to his own rooms. Opening the bedroom door, he peered in cautiously, then pushed the door wide. The light had been switched on, but the room was empty. With a nervous excitement scarcely to be kent in check, he enterscarcely to be kept in check, he enter-ed, shut and locked the door, then mov-ed to the wardrobe and, opening it, drew the tube of tabloids from the

This double relationship is now being illustrated by two Bills which are before the House of Assembly. The first of these is an Act to enable the City of Halifax to cignt. A majority being obtained, the city may offer the company $2,880,000, being the amount of the bonded indebtedness, ($800,000), and the value of its stock at $170 per share. Such, in brief, is the proposition pow before the House, and it should be be. kept. Such, in brief, is the proposition now before the House, and it should be given careful thought, uninfluenced by party rancour or personal feeling. At the same time there is another Bill before the House to incorporate "the Hali-fax Tramways and Power Company Limited." Those applying for this incomparate the control of the c provide lights, or found and run any indus-try or supply power to such; in short, to carry on any business depending upon these motor powers or to supply such power to others carrying on such industries. The tramway service and the illumination of Halifax would be the first and the most important mers in the procuring of power supplied from outside, and of course the claim will be made that the Company's plant in the city will contribute the only ready visible and certain asset, all the others being more or less birds in the bush." Under such circumstances the Halifax holdings of the Company would have to bear the full weight of exploitation of these "birds in the bush," would have to back the bonds, support the espitalization and pay for the develop-ment of these undeveloped outside hold-ings, water and otherwise, and pay the dividends besides. This might be all right in every way, but then again it might not be. Would it not be well for the Company to go ahead and develop their water power, bring the power fem either the Gaspereau or Mersey and then sell if ?—Why count the chickens before they are hatched! Why try to sell the power before a pound of it has been de-ve'oped, a sod turned? The Company would be sure of a customer in the Tramreceivity for return on the cost of the de-relopment?

They hope to geb both fred Taylor and Oarl Kendall, but private advices from the Coast are to the effect that the Patricks have thwarted the National Hockey Association's threatened raid by signing the majority of their stars, including Taylor. Kendall, Johnson and many others for 1914. They may also have Benedick, Ronan and Broadbent, of the Ottawas. Kendall is coming home to be married, but will probably return to the Coast.

THE BASEBALL LEAGUE. THE BASEBALL LEAGUE.

Halifax is sure to have at least one team the coming season, for a new organization, known as the White Sox Professional Baseball Cub is being formed. J. Ahearn, who is working in the interests of the new club, is in touch with several Boston and Worcester College players. The White Sox, Standards, Monton, Westville, Stellarton and Springhill or New Giasgow would make a fine league. It is expected that all arrangements will be made this week in connection with the new league.

McGOVERN THE STAR.

MONTREAL, April 4.—McGOVERN, the catcher of last year's St. John team in the N. B. and M. League, was the star for the Montreal Royals, yesterday, when they shut out the Virginia University team, of to nothing, at Charlotteville. McGovern worked very hard getting two slogles, a pass and was robbed of a long hit by Lille's great catch. He scored three runs. McGovern wants his release so that he can go back to St. John to manage a team in the N. B. and M. League this season.

200 BOMB THROWERS

acrifice their lives in desperate the way for Montenegrins to capture fort. CETTINIE, April 2.— The great Terabosch fort, which for months has held the allies off Scutari, is now practically in the hands of the Montenegrins, thanks to the sacrifice of 300 homb throwers, every one of whom for the life in a last desperate effort to clear the way to the town, for the possession of which Montenegro is ready to give up everything. These bomb throwers were all picked men, chosen from several battalions. Clambering up the mountain side under a murderous fire from the Turkish guns, they cut the wirs entanglements, and getting to close quarters, threw bombe among the Turks, this opening the way for the storming party.

Not one of the bomb throwers returned, but they had accomplished their object, and the Montenegrin infantry, following close upon them, charged the trenthes.

The Turks held their ground and a desperate and bloody hand to hand fight an stud, lasting an hour and ending in a victory for the Montenegrins, who lost 300 men killed and wounded.

Tier after tier of entrenchments had to be taken, but the trops of the southern division, under General Martinovicch, to whom the task had been assigned, overcame sil obstacles.

The tactics following, particularly the folks are asking for Art whom the task had been assigned, overcame sil obstacles.

The tactics following, particularly the use of the bomb throwers, were similar to those adopted in the capture of Adrianople, but in the advance on Adrianople the soldiers who cut and divided the wire entanglements surrounding the forts were clad in cutrassee and provided with shields. At Tarabosch the rough mountain side made it necessary for the Montenegrine to dispense with all impediments. Four Austrian warships arrived in Montenegrin waters early this morning. They are anchored about 10 miles off shore between Antivyri and Dulcigno.

Chair resulted in 19 ages to 11 nays. Mr. Douglas then gave notice of the resolution proposed for discussion. Mr. Margeson, who evidently does not like Agent General Howard, read an attack made upon him by a paper called the "Canadian News" published in London. Hon. Mr. Murray effectively defended Mr. Howard.

The question of "red lining" the electoral lists, as now permitted by the present Towns Incorpasation Act, came up for considerable discussion, when a Bill to amend the present law was reported by the Laws Amendment Committee to be given the three months holst.

The Premier said he had a great deal of sympathy with mayors of towns in their endeavors to raise revenuer. He believed the protest of the Nova. Scotia Society of Municipalities, which body had eent an almost unanimous representation before the Government, should be considered. The Premier did not consider it fair that those who do not pay their taxes should have as equal share of the franchise as those who did. Mr. Murray was strongly supported by Mr. Hall, of Queens, who considered that the weight of public opinion behind the mayors should not be overlooked. The recommendation that the Bill be given the three menths' holst was passed. Investment News Halifax, April 3, 1913. Would a stock with and a quarter

There are in the House thirty-eight members representing a population of about 450,000 which is one member for every thirteen thousand. Taking this proportion into consideration in the case of Halifax, the district should be represented by at least six members. It was decided that a committee be appointed to interview Premier Murray, with a view to securing an increased representation. The committee named were those at yesterday's meeting, viz. Mayor Blish, Halifax; Mayor Williams, Dartmouth; Aldermen McKennie, R. V. Harris and Hattle (Halifax); Aldermen Mosher, Tobin and VanBuskirk (Dartmouth), and Councilors Temple, Reid and C. E. Smith (County). After providing for the 7 p. c. dividends on the Preferred Stock, and allowing for organization expense and depreciation, a surplus of over Four Thousand Dollars was carried forward. The outlook for 1913 is most promising with orders booked which will tax the capacity of the mills for the rest of the year.

Inverness burns with a bright, clear flame, practically without soot, in this respect resembling Hard Coal. It is Coal which does not coke or run together, consequently, it requires no poking. In other words "no coke, no poke." The Coal leaves very little ash, creates no hirsute appendages on stove or range covers, and is a very satisfactory fuel for broiling and toasting. IMPERIAL in name, it is Imperial in its burning qualities. We have Inverness in stock to fill all orders.

DARTMOUTH.

Not big enough for the Premier. Many citizens of Dartmouth do not like the statement of Premier Borden in the the statement of Fremer borden in the House of Commons the other day that the "best site in Dartmouth did not offer sufficient opportunities for necessary extension, and it was also distant from the center of population," when speaking of the location of shipping piers and railway terminals on Halifax harbor. While the latter part of the statement may be corthe location of shipping piers and railway terminals on Halifax harbor. While the latter part of the statement may be correct, there is no excuse for the first part, for the waterfront of Dartmouth is practically all suitable for piers from the Narrows to Eastern Passage.

If the government had good reasons for not building the piers in Dartmouth, they should give a statement of facts. The people of Dartmouth practically elected Mr. Borden to parliament at the last general election, and have given their Support to his party for many years, and when the opportunity presents itself to do something in return for that loyal support, be Premier makes public a statement which is not borne out by facts, when he says that the best site in Dartmouth does not offer sufficient opportunities for expansion. The property through which the railway will be constructed in Halifax will cost much more than property along any part of Dartmouth's waterfront.

Dartmouth people make no objection to the terminals going to Halifax, but when such misleading statements are made regarding the town many of them hold strong objections.

ST. MARY'S NIGHT SCHOOL

The bride, who was preceded by her little nephew and niece, dressed in white and carrying sprays of lily of the valley, looked the most wissome and daintiest of brides, in a charmingly simple gown of white satin and chiffon, with tunic of baby Irish lace edged with ostrich feathers. Her bridal veil of Brussels net was arranged in Juliet fashion, with a band of feather trimming and single spray of orange blossoms. She carried a long sheaf of lily of the valley.

Rev. Dr. J. W. Maomillan, pastor of St. Matthew's Presbyterian Church, performed the marriage service, and the bride was given away by her step-father, Mr. J. P. Fairbanks. The wedding marches were delightfully randered by the Philharmonic stringed orohestra.

A sumptuous wedding repast was served in one of the parlors opposite the drawing room. The table was artistically decreated with white roses; the wedding cake in the centre of the table was a triumph of culinary skill and decorative art, the work of the hotel chef. It was in pyramid shape and finished by a ministure automobile, skillfully fashioned in sweets.

About thirty-five guests, all family connections, where present, and witty speeches and congratulations were the spirit of the festive occasion.

Mayor Biigh tossted the bride and bridegroom replied very happily. Other toasts ware given by Rev. Dr. Macmillan, Jas. P. Fairbanks, Mr. Howard Bligh and Dr. Evart Mathers. During the evening Mrs. Fairbanks held an Informal reception for the guests of the hotel, who embraced the opportunity of congratulating the bridegroom was a first of the recent weddings, and the presents were the energy of congratulating the service and bridegroom. The closing of St. Mary's girls' night hool took place last evening at 8 o'clock in St. Mary's Convent, the schoolroom in which the exercises were held being artis-tically decorated with a profussion of palms and flowers. Archbishop McCarthy presided, and there were present. Chair man Upham of the School Board, the Supervisor of Schools, Dr. Elward Blackadder, Rev. Dr. Foley, Rev. Fr. McQuillan, der, Rev. Dr. Foley, Rev. Fr. McQuillan, P. J. McManus, Alderman Hoben, Commissioner Finlay, John Kelly, J. D. O'Connor, F. W. Smith, G. W. T. Irving, F. Southall, and a number of ladies.

Exercises commenced with a programme of recitations and singing, both of which were marked by pleasingly distinct ennunciation. Addresses were given by His Grace, the Chairman of the School Board, Dr. Blackadder, Commissioners Finlay, McManus, and J. F. Kelly and Ald. Hoben.

The speakers all spoke appreciatively of the excellent work of the School and the advantages afforded those attending the classes during the winter months.

The girls are especially fortunate in being under the supervision of so excellent a teacher as Sister Florence, the efficient Principal of St. Mary's Girls School and her assistants. In conducting this night school the Sisters of Charity were taking part in one of the most important works in the community.

Prizes were distributed by the Archbishop and refreshments were served.

SHIPPING NEWS. The Allan Line steamer Hesperian, with record number of passengers, arrived rom Liverpool this afternoon. She has tion for the guests of the note, who embraced the opportunity of congratulating the bride and bridegroom.

The presents were the most magnificent seen at any of the recent weddings, and filled the four sides of one of the large reception parlors. The list included solid silverware of every description, all of the most beautiful in design and quality; cut glass and cutlery, exquisite china and a profusion of fancy work and linen.

Mis. J. P. Fairbanks' present took the form of a case of sterling silver and a cheque; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bligh, sterling silver tea service; Mayor Bligh, case of silver spoons, and Mr. and Mrs. John Furness, a handsome silver tray. The Furness Withy Company sent a magnificent case of cutlery.

Among the inamerous congratulatory messages received gesterday from friends abroad was a Marconigram from Messrs. R. A. Corbett and G. A. Tracey, on board the Cunard liner Mauretania, relayed in mid ocean.

The bride "golig away" looked verg sweet in a dark blue travelling suit, with white blouse and blue hat with satin crown and touches of cerise.

Mr. and Mrs. Bligh left last night for Naw York, and from there will start on a month's trip through the South in Mr. Bligh's automobile, which had been ahlpped by the Red Cross Line steamer. Both carry away with them the united good wishes of their host of friends for all future happiness and prosperity. Natoms, Sam Pickles, a York for farmer, sold his farmlast month and salled from Liverpool on March 23rd on the Tunisian for St. John. N. B., where he and his family, who had travelled second class, were to have taken the train for Montreal.

Mr. C. H. Haggis, who has been awaiting the missing family since the first of April, when the boat arrived, when interviewed this morning at the Grand Trunk Bonaventure Station, said that Mrs. Pickles was his sister and Pickles was an old friend.

When they did not arrive, Mr. Haggis began to get anxious and had the Grand Trunk passenger department telegraph their agent at Halifax. The latter replied that he had seen and talked to Mr. Pickles at Halifax and was certain that they left that porton the Tunisian for St. John. Since leaving Halifax, however, all trace of them has been lost. The second class passenger list has not been published, and Mr. Haggis, who has been meeting every train, both on the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific, is showing signs of the acute mental and physical strain he has been through, and solicits the aid of the newspapers in tracing his friends.

RABBI BEFORE THE COURT
In connection with the slaughtering of heifer—Question of cruelty to be decided.

The dase of Abraham Levitt, the Jewish Rabbi, was resumed before Stipendiary Fielding yesterday afternoon. He was charged by the S. P. C. with unnecessarily ill-treating a heifer and causing it unnecessarily ill-treating a heifer and causing it unnecessary suffering and pain while being slaughtered.

R. H. Murray appeared for the prosecution and W. J. O'Hearn for the defence, Inspector Williamson of S. P. C. first testified that he went to Shortell's slaughter house on March 19, and saw the Rabbi kill a heifer. The animal was taken into the slaughter house with a rope fastemed round its horns, and passed through a ring bolt in the floor, and then the animal's head was drawn close to the ground. A rope was also attached to the animal's head was drawn close to the ground. A rope was also attached to the animal's head was drawn close to the ground. The windlass was set in metion and as the hind leg, passed over a hook suspended from a block and taokle, and then the endiance have taken and I will keep it up as slong as I have an ounce of strength left in met. The windlass was set in metion and as the hind leg was holsted from the floor, the animal fell over on its back. The rope over the horns was then undone, and the head released from the ring-bolt, turned with the muzzle of the nose up. Then the Rabbje cut the animals throat.

When this was done the animal strongeled, kicked considerably and oppende its mouth and gaped, These actions were kept up for about fourteen minutes from the time its throat was cut.

mouth and gaped, These actions were kept up for about five minutes After a brief rest it started struggling again and continued for about fourteen minutes from the time its throat was cut. In his opinion, most humane way was to first stun an animal before cutting its throat.

Expert evidence was given by Veterinary Surgon Gough, who also saw the animal killed. After its throat was cut he said the belfer struggled 12 to 15 minutes. The slash of the knife would sever skin, museles, wind pipe, arteries and four nerves, among them what was known as the mixed nerve, and the cutting of that would cause great pain, and it would be conscious pain.

The case was continued until next Tuesday.

THE Canada Food Company, Limited, has been organized for the purpose of acquiring and operating the wholesale grocery business of MORRISON'S-LIMITED, Amherst, and MORRISON'S WILLIAMS, Halifax, and the establishing of stores in the undermentioned towns, arrangements having been completed for the taking over of some of the most progressive retail businesses in the province. There will be three stores in Halifax, one in Dartmouth, and one store each in the towns of Windsor, Kentville, Canning, Bridgetown, Digby, Wolfville, Stellarton, Yarmouth, Liverpool, Truro, Westville, New Glasgow, Antigonish, Sydney, North Sydney, Annapolis.

Investors and Customers

The company will from time to time add to and operate stores in other growing centres of the province, and will erect a modern warehouse in Halifax, where also a small up-to-date cold storage and refrigerating plant will be installed. The establishment of stores throughout the province will to the consumer, with the advantage of passing through but one channel. The company's business will be on a cash basis, eliminating bad debts. It will be co-operative, thus affording opportunities to the investor and the customer. ole the produce of

Management

The directors, all of whom are known to the public as successful and capable business men, have been particularly fortunate in securing the services of two experienced men for the WHOLESALE and RETAIL departments, in Mr. D. A. Morrison, now operating wholesale stores in Halifax, Truro, Amherst and St. John, and Mr. A. S. Burgess, who for eight years has been conducting business in Canning, operating and managing The Trading Company. Both Mr. Morrison and Mr. Burgess, who are well-known business men, are admirably qualified to make a success of the enterprise.

The policy of this company has been successful in England, the United States, Ontario and Western Canada. One of these well-known enterprises is the James Butler Company, of New York, which started a few years ago and to-day operates two hundred stores throughout that State. There is no question but that Nova Scotia offers an opportunity equally great for such an enterprise. The Canada Food Company, Limited, with its centralized and capable management, ample capital, the elimination of second and third costs to consumers, the guaranteeing of fresh goods from manufacturer and producer, should prove to be an enterprise profitable to investor and customer.

. Estimated Earnings

It is conservatively estimated that in its wholea net profit equal to 17 per cent. on the issued ferred stock, which is participating as well as cumulative, and is preferred both as to principal and dividend.

French Authority Blames It on Heavy Hats and Improper Diet. Dr. Guelpa of Paris has made son Dr. Guelpa of Paris has made some interesting studies pertaining to the scalp and the hair which have led him to conclude that men are more frequently bald than women for three reasons. First of all, they wear hard, heavy hats; secondly, they cut their hair too short both in summer and winter, and in the third place men usually are greater eaters than women.

Dr. Guelpa points out that the scalp can actually be compared to soil, says The London Evening Standard, the hair to the vegetation springing from that soil. When the soil is poor and tack it and kill off its vegetation that soil. When the soil is poor and improperly looked after microbacilli attack it and kill off its vegetation. Similarly, if the scalp is not properly oared for the hair stops sprouting. Each hair consists of a canal, the root or matrix and the sebum, an cily substance which supplies the hair with nourishment. Under normal conditions the sebum is a liquid oil. In illness or if irritated or unduly subjected to pressure the sebum thickens, coagulates and forms hard little globules which choke up the matrix. The hair is shut off from its source of supply and withers. It will readily be seen that a heavy and hard hat is bound to exert a deleterious pressure. Clipping the hair or wearing it very short leaves the hair at the mercy of atmospheric conditions, of cold, heat and dust. The sebum, like all oily substances, tends to coagulate when the temperature is low, and while the long hair of women affords a protection that is ample against this condition, the short hair of men positively invites destruction of the hair rocts. A meat diet increases the proportion of acids in the blood and consequently also increases the acids in the waste thrown off by the body in the form of perspiration. This acid perspiration is particularly harmful to the hair as it stimulates unduly the flow of the sebum, and as the hair cannot absorb this unusual amount of fluid placed at its command the fluid thickens around the roots of the hair and clogs them up. As obese persons perspire more freely than thin individuals, the explanation is at hand for the baldness which invariably adds to the misery of the fat man.

If men would substitute light felt hats for derbys in winter and wear soft straw hats with which they adorn themselves in summer baldness would soon be on the wane among them.

Both Knew Him.

The conductor of a western freight train saw a tramp stealing a ride on one of the forward cars. He told a brakeman in the caboose to go up and put the man off at the first stop. When the brakeman approached the tramp the latter waved a big revolver and told him to get away.

"Did you get rid of him?" the conductor saked when the train was under motion again.

"I hadn't the heart," was the reply "He turned out to be an old school friend of mine."

"I'll take care of him," said the conductor as he started over the tops of the cars.

When the train had again started the brakeman came and said:

"Well, is he off?"

"No; he turned out to be an old school friend of mine, too," replied the conductor.—London Weekly Telegraph.

An East Prussian Custom.

Midsummer day, or St. John the Baptist's day, is a festival of much importance among the Masur peasant yith a seat Prussia. On this day they each make a wreath, and each in turn tries to throw her wreath so as to lodge it on a fruit tree. A girl must keep on throwing until her wreath steys in the branches, and the number of attempts is supposed to indicate the number of years she will have to wait to get married. When the girls are thus engaged the youngmen of the village stand around chafing them when they miss. The Masurs are Poles who live in that part of Prussia which was once part of Poland.
