Family Balsam
Familine.
PROMPTLY RELIEVING
Pain and Inflammation,
FOR EXTERNAL AND INTERNAL USE.

FOR its quick and sure healing properties it has no equal. For its relieving and soothing qualities no medicine has ever been compounded equal to it. It is perfectly safe to use at any time, and a quick and thorough cure from such complaints as Pains in the Chest, Shoulders, Back and Side, Burns, and Scalds, Sprains, Strains, Rheumatism, Rheumatic and Neuralgic Pains, Swelling of the Joints, Stiff Joints, Neck, Contracted Muscles, Spinal Affections, White Swellings, Chafes, Calluses, Galls, Bunions, Chilblains, Chapped Hands, Lips, Ringworms, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Pimples, Itching, Dry Scaly Eruptions of the Skin, Old Sores, Itch Head, Outward Humors of any kind, Hemorrhoids, Piles, Numbness, Worms, Ague in the Face, Erysipelas, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Coughs, Croup.

Familine.
It Relieves Pain. Good for Swollen Limbs. Physicians Prescribe and Use it.
BOSTON, MASS., MARCH 29, 1880.
MR. H. R. STEVENS—Dear Sir: I have lately witnessed decidedly good and striking effects of your FAMILINE in a case of Erysipelas of nearly three years' standing. The patient is a lady of some 60 years of age, she was complaining of a severe swollen condition of her feet; the skin was tense and angry-looking, painful on the slightest motion, and likely to burst at any moment. She had tried many remedies without relief, and my attention was called to your FAMILINE morning and night, and then in a few days the inflammation subsided. With proper care she is now in the normal condition and the inflammation subsided. With proper care she is now in the normal condition and the inflammation subsided. With proper care she is now in the normal condition and the inflammation subsided.

Familine.
For Croup and Sore Throat.
MR. H. R. STEVENS—Dear Sir: I have had your FAMILINE in constant use in my family for some time, and find it an invaluable remedy for the many complaints for which it is recommended, the chief of which, in my family, is Croup. My child seems to be cured. Were it not for your Family Balsam, I should hardly dare close my eyes at night. It is a most valuable remedy, and I can truly say that it has cured many of my children who have tried it with equally good results.
Very gratefully,
GEO. L. AUSTIN, M. D.

Selected Literature.
In the Children's Hospital.
(From Tennyson's New Volume.)
Our doctor had called in another; I never had seen him before,
But he sent a chill to my heart when I saw him come in at the door.
Fresh from the university—Schools of France and of other lands—
Harsh red hair, big voice, big chest, big merciless hands.
Wonderful curls he had done; O, yes; but they said too of him
He was happier when the knife than in trying to save the limb.
And that I can well believe, for he looked so coarse and so red,
I could think he was one of those who would break their jaws on the dead.
And mangle the living dog that had loved him and fawn'd at his knee—
Drem'd with the hellish Orell—that ever such things should be.

How could I bear with the sights and the loathsome smells of disease,
But that he said, "Ye do it to me when ye do it to these?"
So he went; and we passed to this ward where the younger children are laid.
Here is the cot of our orphan, our darling, our meek little maid;
Empty, you see, just now! We have lost her who loved her so much—
Faint at pain, tho' so quick as a sensitive plebeian to the touch.
Her's was the prettiest prattle, it often moved me to tears,
Her's was the gratefullest heart I have found in a child of her years.
Nay, you remember our Emmie; you used to send her the flowers?
How she would smile at 'em, play with 'em, talk to 'em hours after hours!
They that can wander at will where the works of the Lord are reveal'd!
Little guess what joy he got from a cowslip of the field,
Flowers to these "spirits in prison" are all they can know of the spring.
They freshen and sweeten the wards like a waft of an angel's wing;
And she lay with a flower in one hand and the other hand crossed on her breast—
Wan, but as pretty as heart can desire, and we thought her at rest.
Quietly sleeping—so quiet our doctor said "Poor little dear."
Nurse, I must do to-morrow, she'll never see "the little Annie" you see!
I walked with our kindly old doctor as far as the head of the stair,
Then I returned to the ward. The child didn't see I was there;
Never since I was nurse had I been so grieved and so vex'd!
Emmie had heard him; so she called from her cot to the next,
"He says I shall never live through it; Oh, Annie, what shall I do?"
Annie considered. "If I" said the wise little Annie, "was you
I should cry to the dear Lord Jesus to help me, for Emmie, you see
It's all in the picture—the little children should come to me."
(Meaning the print that you gave us, I find that it always can please)
Our children—the dear Lord Jesus with children—pressing them hard.
"Yes I will," said Emmie; "but then if I call to the Lord,
How should he know that it's me? Such a lot of beds in the ward!"
That was a puzzle for Annie. Again she considered, and said:
"Emmie you put out your arms, and you leave them outside on the bed—
The Lord has so much to see to! Oh, Emmie, do not sit in the ward!"
It's the little girl with her arms lying out on the counterpane."
I had sat three nights by the child—I could not watch her for long—
My brain had begun to reel—I felt I could do no more,
That my sleeping night, but I thought that it never would pass,
There was a hundercup once, and a clatter of brass
And there was a phantom cry that I heard as I toot about,
The motherless bleat of a lamb in the storm, and the darkness without;
And sleep was broken besides with dreams of the dear little Annie,
My ears for our delicate Emmie, who scarce would escape with her life
Then in the grey of the morning, it seem'd she stood by me and smiled,
And the doctor came at his hour, and we went to see to the child.

There will be earthquakes in Europe and sunspots in North America. The British Government will be embarrassed, and Ireland disturbed, but some of the threatened evil will be over-ruled for good. Persons born about the 14th June will enter on a busy year. The Czars will be in danger and his armies will suffer defeat. In July there will be earthquakes both in Europe and America. The Czars will be in danger and suffer defeat; there will be a crisis in Spain, and Ireland will be excited by religious disputes. Persons born about the 12th July will be fortunate and those born on or near the 22nd will enter on an active, busy and profitable year.
In August there will be fires and explosions in the United States, Turkey and Paris will be disturbed. The Princess Louise will have honors and improved health, but the King of Spain will have a bad time of it. All persons born on or near the 4th of the month will have troubles, not singly but in clouds, and had better live quietly and guard their health. The month of September will be a great excitement in London, which will agitate the Stock Exchange.

The month of September will be a great excitement in London, which will agitate the Stock Exchange.

October there will be great changes and excitement in the religious world; the Mohammedans will be greatly excited; the Greek church will attempt to proselyte by fire and sword, and the Roman Catholic Church will be excited by the conversion of the publicans. A new sect will arise. There will be a violent movement in Turkey about the middle of the month and there will be accidents and fires in Manchester, New York and Amsterdam. Persons born near the end of the month will feel old Saturn pressing them hard.
In December there will be fires and serious accidents in New York. Robberies and acts of violence will be prevalent. Persons born about the 6th July or 5th January will be in danger. The Prince of Orange and his army will meet with financial success. Persons born about the 28th April or 31st October are counselled to be cautious in their investments.
In December there will be accidents and bronchitis will make the death rate high, especially in Ireland, Scotland and London. There will be a catastrophe in the horizon of England and Scotland about the 27th. This date will be an unfortunate birthday. Persons born about the 11th Sept. or 8th March will be in danger, but it may be overruled. The King of Greece will not have unqualified peace and prosperity.

What is a Gentleman.
HOW CARDINAL NEWMAN ANSWERS THE QUESTION.
It is almost a definition of a gentleman to say he is one who never injures his neighbor. The description is highly refined, and as far as it goes, accurate. It is mainly occupied in merely removing the obstacles which hinder the free and unobscured action of those about him; and he condescends to their movement rather than take the initiative himself. His benefits may be considered as parallel to what are called courtesy and politeness in arrangements of a personal nature, like an easy chair or a good fire, which do their part of dispelling cold and fatigue, though far from being the essence of rest and animal health. The true gentleman in like manner carefully avoids whatever may cause a jar and a jolt in the minds of men. Scarcely ever does he display his superiority, or collision of all restraint, or gloom or resentment; his great concern being to make everyone at ease, and at home. He has his eyes on the company, he is tender toward the bashful, gentle toward the distant, and merciful toward the absurd; he guards against unreasonableness, and he is quick to sympathize with those who are in pain. He is seldom or never in conversation, and never wearsisome. He makes light of favours; while he does them, and seems to be receiving what he is doing. He is never superior to himself except when he is superior to the best. He is never mean or litigious in his disputes, never takes unfair advantages, never makes personal attacks, or sharp sayings for argument's sake, and interprets everything for the best. He is never mean or litigious in his disputes, never takes unfair advantages, never makes personal attacks, or sharp sayings for argument's sake, and interprets everything for the best. Zadkiel's Predictions for 1881.
Zadkiel predicts that 1881 will be a bad year in Europe. The signs in the beginning of January, Zadkiel tells us, are ominous of disturbances in Selavia by measures of reform. The month of the Bulgarians, Greeks and Albanians will be excited. All persons born about the 31st December will be liable to accidents and ill health. A Cabinet Minister will be one of the sufferers. Several Royal personages, none of them English, however, will be affected. Mine owners are warned to beware of explosions between the 21st and 28th January.
In February, we are told, England will meet with many troubles, especially about the 5th and 18th; Russia will be disturbed on the 23rd, and towards the end of the month the Czar will be in personal danger. Persons whose birthday falls on or near the 27th February will be involved in trouble or ill-health; ladies are especially warned to act prudently. The British Parliament will meet under favorable auspices and the farmers will benefit by measures of reform. In March the political world will be disturbed and England, Germany, Denmark, Turkey and Paris will be liable to tumult, accident, storms and floods. Prussia and Russia will be disturbed and the latter country warlike. The Czar will be in danger about the 6th and the Viceroy of India later in the month. A Cabinet Minister born under Leo will be under a cloud.
In April there will take place the conjunction of Jupiter and Saturn, and great changes will take place in the world's affairs in consequence. Persia, Ireland, Cyprus, Poland and Asia Minor will feel its evil effects. Between the 18th and 22nd great things will happen. There will be popular excitement in Paris, a great crisis in Turkey; in England, Germany and France there will be religious disputes and agrarian outrages in Ireland. Persons born on or near 23rd will have a curious experience in their ensuing year of life; advancement, attended by danger, will be the lot of some.
In May the affairs of Ireland, Poland, Persia and Asia Minor will attract the attention of the world. England and Germany will be disturbed. The Kings of Italy and Spain will be in trouble, but Turkey will benefit by measures of reform. The conjunction of Venus and Jupiter on the 13th May will benefit persons born on or near the 27th April.
In June England will continue to be troubled with foreign questions and home policy. In England and Paris the people will be warlike.

There will be earthquakes in Europe and sunspots in North America. The British Government will be embarrassed, and Ireland disturbed, but some of the threatened evil will be over-ruled for good. Persons born about the 14th June will enter on a busy year. The Czars will be in danger and his armies will suffer defeat. In July there will be earthquakes both in Europe and America. The Czars will be in danger and suffer defeat; there will be a crisis in Spain, and Ireland will be excited by religious disputes. Persons born about the 12th July will be fortunate and those born on or near the 22nd will enter on an active, busy and profitable year.
In August there will be fires and explosions in the United States, Turkey and Paris will be disturbed. The Princess Louise will have honors and improved health, but the King of Spain will have a bad time of it. All persons born on or near the 4th of the month will have troubles, not singly but in clouds, and had better live quietly and guard their health. The month of September will be a great excitement in London, which will agitate the Stock Exchange.
September will bring with it great earthquakes and excitement in the United States, Turkey and Paris will be disturbed. The Princess Louise will have honors and improved health, but the King of Spain will have a bad time of it. All persons born on or near the 4th of the month will have troubles, not singly but in clouds, and had better live quietly and guard their health. The month of September will be a great excitement in London, which will agitate the Stock Exchange.

October there will be great changes and excitement in the religious world; the Mohammedans will be greatly excited; the Greek church will attempt to proselyte by fire and sword, and the Roman Catholic Church will be excited by the conversion of the publicans. A new sect will arise. There will be a violent movement in Turkey about the middle of the month and there will be accidents and fires in Manchester, New York and Amsterdam. Persons born near the end of the month will feel old Saturn pressing them hard.
In December there will be fires and serious accidents in New York. Robberies and acts of violence will be prevalent. Persons born about the 6th July or 5th January will be in danger. The Prince of Orange and his army will meet with financial success. Persons born about the 28th April or 31st October are counselled to be cautious in their investments.
In December there will be accidents and bronchitis will make the death rate high, especially in Ireland, Scotland and London. There will be a catastrophe in the horizon of England and Scotland about the 27th. This date will be an unfortunate birthday. Persons born about the 11th Sept. or 8th March will be in danger, but it may be overruled. The King of Greece will not have unqualified peace and prosperity.

What is a Gentleman.
HOW CARDINAL NEWMAN ANSWERS THE QUESTION.
It is almost a definition of a gentleman to say he is one who never injures his neighbor. The description is highly refined, and as far as it goes, accurate. It is mainly occupied in merely removing the obstacles which hinder the free and unobscured action of those about him; and he condescends to their movement rather than take the initiative himself. His benefits may be considered as parallel to what are called courtesy and politeness in arrangements of a personal nature, like an easy chair or a good fire, which do their part of dispelling cold and fatigue, though far from being the essence of rest and animal health. The true gentleman in like manner carefully avoids whatever may cause a jar and a jolt in the minds of men. Scarcely ever does he display his superiority, or collision of all restraint, or gloom or resentment; his great concern being to make everyone at ease, and at home. He has his eyes on the company, he is tender toward the bashful, gentle toward the distant, and merciful toward the absurd; he guards against unreasonableness, and he is quick to sympathize with those who are in pain. He is seldom or never in conversation, and never wearsisome. He makes light of favours; while he does them, and seems to be receiving what he is doing. He is never superior to himself except when he is superior to the best. He is never mean or litigious in his disputes, never takes unfair advantages, never makes personal attacks, or sharp sayings for argument's sake, and interprets everything for the best. He is never mean or litigious in his disputes, never takes unfair advantages, never makes personal attacks, or sharp sayings for argument's sake, and interprets everything for the best.

Zadkiel's Predictions for 1881.
Zadkiel predicts that 1881 will be a bad year in Europe. The signs in the beginning of January, Zadkiel tells us, are ominous of disturbances in Selavia by measures of reform. The month of the Bulgarians, Greeks and Albanians will be excited. All persons born about the 31st December will be liable to accidents and ill health. A Cabinet Minister will be one of the sufferers. Several Royal personages, none of them English, however, will be affected. Mine owners are warned to beware of explosions between the 21st and 28th January.
In February, we are told, England will meet with many troubles, especially about the 5th and 18th; Russia will be disturbed on the 23rd, and towards the end of the month the Czar will be in personal danger. In the Children's Hospital.
(From Tennyson's New Volume.)
Our doctor had called in another; I never had seen him before,
But he sent a chill to my heart when I saw him come in at the door.
Fresh from the university—Schools of France and of other lands—
Harsh red hair, big voice, big chest, big merciless hands.
Wonderful curls he had done; O, yes; but they said too of him
He was happier when the knife than in trying to save the limb.
And that I can well believe, for he looked so coarse and so red,
I could think he was one of those who would break their jaws on the dead.
And mangle the living dog that had loved him and fawn'd at his knee—
Drem'd with the hellish Orell—that ever such things should be.

mamma! fretted little Frank, as he knelt on the wide old-fashioned window-seat, looking longingly at a great pool of water in the yard.

"If you cannot amuse yourself with your playthings, Frank, get your slate and I will give you a sum," said his mother.

Frank got his slate and looked sulkyly out of the window, while his mother set his sum.

He worked at it some time, but looked a great deal more at the vane on the church opposite. It was a curious vane, made to imitate a little summer-house, with a piazza all around it.

In fair weather, a girl dressed in bright colors danced on the piazza, playing a tambourine; and in stormy weather, an old man carrying an umbrella walked round and round.

"Go into the house, you tiresome old man, with your horrid, disagreeable weather," mumbled Frank, as he struck with his fist against the window-pane.

But to his astonishment, there stood on the outside still a tiny dwarf, clothed in a grey cloak with a huge cape and comical peaked hat that almost concealed his face.

Before Frank could wink, this weird man had opened the window, clapped Frank under a great cape that he used like wings, growling through his teeth, "I'll teach you to scold at the weather!"

Poor Frank! How frightened he was, rushing through the air over the tops of trees and steeples, far out into the open fields!

The Storm-King—for it really was he—slowly descended to the ground near a great tree, and took from his pocket a tiny glass, and placing it against the tree bade Frank look through it and tell him what he saw.

At first he was so frightened that he could not see anything; but he soon cried out: "Oh, how beautiful! I see hundreds of golden streets. They look like threads, and all lead to one spot, that seems to be the heart of the tree; and there is a lovely maiden, more beautiful and delicate than any I ever dreamed of. She has a small bucket, from which she pours something into the streets."

"The little maid is the spirit of the tree," explained the Storm-King; and she is pouring from her bucket the sap through the veins of the tree, or streets as you call them. In the winter she sleeps, and the sap flows down into the roots; but when the long spring rains come, and the frost disappears from the ground, the sap begins to run again. If it did not rain the sap in the roots would dry up this beautiful spirit would die and the tree wither away."

Then away they flew again to a broad field all covered with snow, and there they passed. The Storm-King told Frank to put his ear to the ground and listen. It was a wheat-field and this is what he heard the little seeds in the ground say:

"How comfortable and warm this coverlet of snow has kept us all this winter!" said one seed.

"Yes," answered another; "it has kept us from the bitter frost; and now this lovely rain will melt the snow, and let the dear sun shine on us, so we can burst from our husks out into the warm air."

"Surely the Storm-King is very good to us!" replied several voices together.

"Oh! I did not know the little seed could talk," said Frank to the Storm-King, who was no longer ill-humored, but smiled pleasantly at Frank's surprise, as he tucked him again under his arm.

"You like to go after berries in summer-time, don't you Frank?" he asked.

"Oh, yes! We have such splendid times!"

"Well, if it did not rain, the vines would dry up, and all the beautiful flowers too. The springs could not feed the rivers for the great ships to sail on; and man would die too, for want of food, because nothing would grow without rain."

"Besides all this, the rains carry away much uncleanness, and purify the face of the earth, thus preventing a great deal of sickness."

"I won't ever fret about the rain again," said Frank, wondering at all he had been told.

The Storm-King set him down, and laughingly threw a snow-ball at him. Frank stooped down to make one to throw back. When raising himself again, the Storm-King had vanished, and was nowhere to be seen; while Frank saw he was himself in front of his own home.

That evening it cleared off, and the setting sun made all the windows look on fire. Frank walked through his mother's garden to see if any of the crocuses were up, and there he saw, in the mist which the sun turned to rain-bow hues the little Storm-King. He had thrown aside his grey mantle, and was robed in silver and gold.

On misty summer evenings, you may sometimes see a halo round the moon, a great wide circle of bright light. This is the wall of the Storm-King's palace,—for he is the man in the moon,—and in the depths of that bright orb he has his home.

LONDON, ENGLAND, Dec. 6th, 1880. With frosts at the early part of last week, and heavy rain and unsettled weather towards its close, there has been but little progress made with wheat sowing in the late district, whilst frosts alternating with rain, keep the land in a very wet condition.

There has been a rather more liberal offering of home-grown samples in the London market during the week, but there is no improvement to note in respect to condition.

At Mark Lane on Monday the value of dry samples of English wheat was generally in advance of the quotations of the previous week.

OTAWA, Dec. 20.—Sir Alex. Campbell's bill, to be known, if it becomes law, as "The Documentary Evidence Act, 1881," provides that the prima facie evidence of proclamations by the Governor General and of proclamations, orders or appointments by Ministers or heads of departments may be given in all legal proceedings over which the Parliaments of the Dominion have jurisdiction, either by production of the Canada Gazette or of a copy purporting to be printed by the Queen's printer, or of a copy or extract certified by the Clerk of the Privy Council, Minister, deputy head or secretary of department as the case may be.

Similar provisions apply to provincial proclamations. No proof of handwriting is to be required, and a copy may be in print or in writing or partly in one and partly in the other. The forgery or uttering any forgery of such documents is made felony. The provisions of the Act are not to derogate from existing statutory or common law rules of evidence.

A GOOD ACCOUNT. "To sum up, six long years of bed-ridden sickness and suffering, costing $200 per year, total $1,200—all of which was stopped by three bottles of Hop Bitters, taken by my wife, who has done her own house-work for a year since, without the loss of a day, and I want everybody to know it for their works."

ON THE VERGE OF THE GRAVE. Such was the Condition of Moses no Walker, of Derry, N. H., with congestion to the lungs, chronic Catarrh. Two bottles of the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy entirely restored him to health, and to his own words, "built up my whole system." The Remedy is for sale by all Druggists.

Storm and Floods. New York, Dec. 24.—A cable despatch reports a heavy snow storm in France. Floods are reported in several departments; also in Belgium. Several casualties are reported to shipping on the English coast. A landslide in England at Sea, per lb. The promoters of this bold scheme intend to slaughter the cattle on board the great ship, and for this purpose they have secured the services of the American and English troops of Chicago. The treated and is estimated that 10,000 to 15,000 carcasses of beef, all along equal to 3,000 or 4,000 tons of meat will be shipped each voyage. This enterprise, if successful, will have a far wider bearing than appears at first sight. It will be watched with interest by the public, no doubt, for notwithstanding the large imports of fresh meat we are receiving, retail prices still rule very high. But it will also break down the artificial barrier which, by raising the price of the first food requisites of the people.

Prospects at the Albion Mines. The Pictou Standard, referring to the present condition of affairs at the Albion Coal Mines, says:— "It must be admitted that the outlook is very gloomy at present as far as the Albion mines are concerned. The coal is not nearly so bad as a great many pessimists among us fear. That the Halifax Mining Company will give up mining coal in their Pictou County mines may be doubted as absurd. The recent calamities are grievous, but by no means crushing. The work of emptying the flooded Ford Pit, will be at once commenced. It is probable that the Company will be subbed in a short time through the gas, and also by the flames exhausting their own supply of oxygen, but even if it be found impossible to extinguish this fire, work will be done in the Ford Pit, it being a comparatively easy matter to close the drift connecting the Ford and Caged Pits.

OTAWA, Dec. 20.—Sir Alex. Campbell's bill, to be known, if it becomes law, as "The Documentary Evidence Act, 1881," provides that the prima facie evidence of proclamations by the Governor General and of proclamations, orders or appointments by Ministers or heads of departments may be given in all legal proceedings over which the Parliaments of the Dominion have jurisdiction, either by production of the Canada Gazette or of a copy purporting to be printed by the Queen's printer, or of a copy or extract certified by the Clerk of the Privy Council, Minister, deputy head or secretary of department as the case may be.

Government General and of proclamations, orders or appointments by Ministers or heads of departments may be given in all legal proceedings over which the Parliaments of the Dominion have jurisdiction, either by production of the Canada Gazette or of a copy purporting to be printed by the Queen's printer, or of a copy or extract certified by the Clerk of the Privy Council, Minister, deputy head or secretary of department as the case may be.

Similar provisions apply to provincial proclamations. No proof of handwriting is to be required, and a copy may be in print or in writing or partly in one and partly in the other. The forgery or uttering any forgery of such documents is made felony. The provisions of the Act are not to derogate from existing statutory or common law rules of evidence.

A GOOD ACCOUNT. "To sum up, six long years of bed-ridden sickness and suffering, costing $200 per year, total $1,200—all of which was stopped by three bottles of Hop Bitters, taken by my wife, who has done her own house-work for a year since, without the loss of a day, and I want everybody to know it for their works."

ON THE VERGE OF THE GRAVE. Such was the Condition of Moses no Walker, of Derry, N. H., with congestion to the lungs, chronic Catarrh. Two bottles of the Constitutional Catarrh Remedy entirely restored him to health, and to his own words, "built up my whole system." The Remedy is for sale by all Druggists.

Storm and Floods. New York, Dec. 24.—A cable despatch reports a heavy snow storm in France. Floods are reported in several departments; also in Belgium. Several casualties are reported to shipping on the English coast. A landslide in England at Sea, per lb. The promoters of this bold scheme intend to slaughter the cattle on board the great ship, and for this purpose they have secured the services of the American and English troops of Chicago. The treated and is estimated that 10,000 to 15,000 carcasses of beef, all along equal to 3,000 or 4,000 tons of meat will be shipped each voyage. This enterprise, if successful, will have a far wider bearing than appears at first sight. It will be watched with interest by the public, no doubt, for notwithstanding the large imports of fresh meat we are receiving, retail prices still rule very high. But it will also break down the artificial barrier which, by raising the price of the first food requisites of the people.

Prospects at the Albion Mines. The Pictou Standard, referring to the present condition of affairs at the Albion Coal Mines, says:— "It must be admitted that the outlook is very gloomy at present as far as the Albion mines are concerned. The coal is not nearly so bad as a great many pessimists among us fear. That the Halifax Mining Company will give up mining coal in their Pictou County mines may be doubted as absurd. The recent calamities are grievous, but by no means crushing. The work of emptying the flooded Ford Pit, will be at once commenced. It is probable that the Company will be subbed in a short time through the gas, and also by the flames exhausting their own supply of oxygen, but even if it be found impossible to extinguish this fire, work will be done in the Ford Pit, it being a comparatively easy matter to close the drift connecting the Ford and Caged Pits.

LONDON, ENGLAND, Dec. 6th, 1880. With frosts at the early part of last week, and heavy rain and unsettled weather towards its close, there has been but little progress made with wheat sowing in the late district, whilst frosts alternating with rain, keep the land in a very wet condition.

There has been a rather more liberal offering of home-grown samples in the London market during the week, but there is no improvement to note in respect to condition.

At Mark Lane on Monday the value of dry samples of English wheat was generally in advance of the quotations of the previous week.
