HOME TOPICS
Furniture Polish.
Spirits of turpentine, 1 pint; yellow wax, 1/2 pound; alkali root (to color), 1 ounce. Melt and strain; apply with a cloth, and rub with a chamois skin to dry.

Cleaning Liquids.
Water in which potatoes have been boiled exercises remarkable cleaning properties upon sawdust of all kinds especially upon spoons discolored by eggs. Hyposulphite of soda dissolved in water will remove all tarnish from silverware in two or three applications, if applied with a soft cloth wet with the solution.

Eggs in a Mole.
Remove the skin from a green tomato, medium size, and stem up in a saucpan, add a little butter, pepper and salt; when sufficiently boiled beat up five or six eggs, just before you serve, turn them into the saucpan with the tomatoes and stir one way for two minutes, allowing them time to be well done.

Egg Poaching.
Four eggs well beaten; four tablespoonfuls of flour; add to the eggs until a smooth mass; then add a pint of milk slowly, a pinch of salt. Beat all smooth together. Put in a well-buttered dish, and bake about twenty minutes. Eat with sauce made of butter and sugar beaten together to a cream; flavor with vanilla.

Unwaterable Paste.
Take one tablespoonful of flour, add gradually one pint of cold water; boil slowly and stir well to prevent burning until it thickens; keep boiling till it becomes thin, add one teaspoonful of nitro-muriatic acid, and boil till it again thickens, when it is ready for use. This paste is harmless, cheap, and will neither turn sour nor mould.—Scientific American.

Cheese Hamlets.
Grate six ounces of good cheese on a coarse grater; sprinkle among it a tablespoonful of flour; add enough milk to moisten the cheese; then stir in three eggs, previously well beaten and mixed with a cup of milk. These, when mixed with the cheese and flour, should make a thin batter. Butter a small pie dish, fill it only half full with the batter, place a few slices of butter on it, and bake in a quick oven, when well risen in the dish, and of a good yellow color, which ought to be in about ten or fifteen minutes, when it is done, serve at once, before it falls.

Sweetbread With Oranges.
Choose the largest and finest sweetbread you can get, wash it very lightly in two or three changes of water, and well with butter; when this is done, squeeze a Florida orange carefully over it, that some of the juice may get into the crevices, then wash it with water, and dry it in a cloth. The sweetbread is then to be roasted in a little oil, and when done, garnish with thin slices of orange from which the seeds have been extracted.—From Mary Stuart Smith's Virginia Cookery-Book.

Ode Sauce for Cold Meats.
Cut up two onions very fine, and brown them lightly in two ounces of clarified butter, stirring them to prevent their burning; when they are brown, add a little water, and let them simmer for ten minutes, then strain them through a cloth, and add a half-dozen minced chilies, a salt-spoon of salt, and an ounce of dried fish, shredded (had-look is the best for the purpose). Mix and stir these well together for a few minutes and then add, a little at a time, the juice of half a lemon, two table-spoons of tomato pulp, and a little water. Continue to stir the sauce while adding these, and until it becomes like thick paste, when it is ready for use. This sauce will not keep, and should be used the day it is made.—The Caterer.

Delicious Tapioca Cream.
To be eaten cold is made easily. Let two tablespoonfuls of tapioca soak all night in enough sweet milk to cover it, and a trifle more. In the morning heat one quart of milk to the boiling point, beat the yolks of three eggs with half a cup of sugar and the tapioca; when well mixed, add the milk, and boil for five minutes, then remove it from the fire, flavor it with lemon or vanilla. Put it into the dish in which it is to be served. Beat the whites to a stiff froth, or, better still, have some one do so for you, that, while the tapioca is still hot, the meringue may be placed on the top. A tablespoonful of powdered sugar should be beaten with the eggs.

The Cookery of Milk.
is very simple, but by no means unimportant. That there is an appreciable difference between raw and boiled milk may be proved by taking equal quantities of each (the boiled sample having been allowed to cool down), adding them to equal quantities of the same infusion of coffee, then critically tasting the mixture. The difference is sufficient to have long established the practice among all skilful cooks of scrupulously using boiled milk for making coffee and milk. Let it boil for a minute or two, or until you are sure it has all reached the boiling point, then remove it from the fire, flavor it with lemon or vanilla. Put it into the dish in which it is to be served. Beat the whites to a stiff froth, or, better still, have some one do so for you, that, while the tapioca is still hot, the meringue may be placed on the top. A tablespoonful of powdered sugar should be beaten with the eggs.

The best table squash is the Hubbard, which is dry and of fine flavor. The Bush or scalloped variety is the earliest. It is a good plan to grow squashes for storage, to be used in winter.

THE HORILLA AT HOME.
Domestic Habits of Man's Distant Kinsman.

It is said by the natives that the gorilla makes a sleeping place like a hammock by connecting the branches of a sheltered and thick-leaved part of a tree by means of the long, tough, slender stems of parasitic plants, and lining it with the dried broad fronds of fern, or with long grass. This hammock-like abode may be seen at different heights from ten to forty feet from the ground, but there is never more than one such place in a tree. They avoid the shelter of men, but are most commonly seen in the months of September, October and November, after the negroes have gathered in their outlying crops and have returned from the "bush" to their valleys. So observed, they are usually in pairs, or if more, the addition consists of a few young ones of different ages and apparently of one family. The gorilla is a creature of the forest, and is never seen sitting on a branch resting their backs against the tree trunk munching fruit, while the young gorillas are at play, leaping and swinging from branch to branch with hoots or harsh cries of boisterous mirth.

This rural felicity, however, has its objectionable side, for occasionally, if not invariably, the old male, if he is seen in quest of food, is usually armed with a short stick which the negroes use as the weapon with which he attacks his chief enemy, the elephant. Not that the elephant directly or intentionally injures the gorilla, but that the gorilla, by its presence, drives the elephant away from the same source, the ape regards the great proboscis as a hostile intruder. When therefore, he sees the elephant pulling down and wrenching off the branches of a favorite tree, the gorilla, stealing along the trunk, strikes the sensitive proboscis of the elephant a violent blow with his club, and drives off the startled giant trumpeting shrilly with rage.

In passing from one tree to another the gorilla is said to walk semi-erect with the aid of his club, but with a swiftness and alertness that when he is without a club he has been seen to walk as a man, with his hands clasped behind his head, instinctively balancing his forward position. If the gorilla is surprised and approached, whatever the ground may be, he betakes himself on all fours, dropping his stick, and makes way very rapidly with a kind of sidelong gallop, resting on the front knuckles, to the nearest tree. There he moos and pants, especially if his family is near and requiring his defence. No negro willingly approaches the tree in which the small gorilla keeps guard, but with a gun. The experienced negro does not make the attack, but reserves his fire in self-defence.

The enemy of the gorilla is the negro, male and female, is uniformly attacked. Thus when the young men of the Gaboon tribe make excursions into all four directions, they first attack the gorilla, and then proceed to hunt the monkey. They play it in this way: A nice, pleasant man would come to you and leave an order for you to call at a certain address for a trunk which you were to leave at another address. Before the time at which you were to call for the trunk came round, a messenger boy would come running up to you and stand with a note signed with the name of the owner of the trunk, and tell you he had concluded to have the trunk taken to another address, and ordering it left there. You carry the trunk to the address, and it is brought to you, but you haven't seen before, but who tells you it's all right, and you go back to the trunk, and find it is gone, and the trunk comes to a boiling, and wants to know where you've lugged his trunk to. You tell him. He asks you in very strong and plain language, and he says, "I couldn't raise eleven dollars to-day to save my soul from gehenna!"

How She Got Her Bonnet.
"Come, darling," said a pretty young wife to her husband the other day, "you have done so well in your business, and you have bought me so many lovely hats, and they're just too sweet for my use."
"But I could not, Cinderella, I couldn't raise eleven dollars to-day to save my soul from gehenna!" she said coaxingly.
"No, upon my word I couldn't."
"Oh! you could now."
"But I could not, Cinderella; positively I could not."
"Well, then, I guess I'll have to get along without the hat, but I want one of those lovely hats; they're just too sweet for my use."

LONGEVITY.—Last week Alexander ("Alek") Thomas died at Tynish. He was a Negro-Indian. His third wife, now living and by whom he had several children, does not know his age, but supposed him to be near 100 years old. From his own knowledge of his 45 years age as being then an old man, I conclude he must be near the 100. He was really of the Negro race, but from having married an Indian girl (his first wife) and spent most of his life with Indians, he has always been called "an Indian." His third wife is of Irish descent.—Com.

Hereditary Scrofula. Are you aware that in your blood the taint of scrofula has a prominent place? This is true of every one. It is liable at any time, on the slightest provocation, to develop itself in some insidious disease, such as the scrofulous taint, or the outgrowth of this impurity of the blood, Shaker Blood Syrup has a wonderful effect in curing all these diseases and remarkable testimonials we have received unnumbered.

We refer by permission to Mrs. F. Elliott, Hanover, Maine, who was cured by Shaker Blood Syrup of all Scrofula Sores, the severity of which confined her to her bed for six months. She had previously taken Shaker Blood Syrup, but could not get about her room without her bed. Her friends say it is impossible for her to live many months, she was reduced to a mere skeleton. Her cure is really a miracle. There is no doubt that in Shaker Blood Syrup, we have the most remarkable medicine that has ever been produced, and a positive cure for Syphilis and Scrofula in their numerous forms.

Exit Y. L. with a bottle of the fragrant.

—Mr. Pipes' friends regret exceedingly that the fact of his living in "so distant" a part of the Province has so seriously conflicted with his youthful dreams of political eminence. It is rumored that an agitation is about to be set on foot seeking the transfer of the provincial capital to Amherst in order to remove what seems to be the greatest, and any other way, insurmountable obstacle to Mr. Pipes' occupation of a seat of honor at his country's council board. All parties here unite in hoping for the success of said agitation. The opinion seems to be that Mr. Pipes has the ability necessary to a good leader, and that if the seat of Government were only here, his hitherto remarkably latent powers would spring into life with a dazzling lustre to his dispirited colleagues at Halifax. Let Amherst be made the capital by all means!

Bad Drowning Accident.—New Methodist Church. The Lobster Fishing, etc.

—Mr. John B. Read has sold his farm at the Point to Mr. Alexander Kennedy with growing crop and stock for a goodly price. Mr. Read will move into his new house in the village shortly.

—On Wednesday, 26th inst., a goodly number met to witness the ceremony of laying the cornerstone of a Methodist Church at Port Phillip. Rev. Mr. Morton officiated, assisted by Rev. Mr. Darrah, (Presbyterian) of Linden.

—The lobster factory was removed last year from Pugwash on account of the scarcity of lobsters, to O. B. The only factory near here is a small one at Capo Cliff, Gulf Shore, run by Mr. Mackay. Reports say that nearly all the factories are doing much better than last year.

—A bad drowning accident occurred at Pugwash River on Wednesday evening, 23rd inst., by which two boys lost their lives. Frank Black aged 18 years, son of Wm. A. Black, Esq., and a son of the late Peter Stewart, aged about 14, went down to the river at low water to get oysters, wading in and reaching down to get them with their hands. Young Stewart ventured too far and fell into the channel, and, although a good swimmer, seemed unable to help himself. Black seeing him in danger, without stopping to remove his heavy boots, jumped in to attempt his rescue, when he also became helpless, and both were drowned. Cramp is supposed to have seized them, as on recovering Frank's body, a short time after the arms were drawn up with the cramp. The body of Stewart was recovered about eight o'clock Thursday evening. On Friday afternoon a long procession followed the remains to the Pugwash Cemetery where the double funeral took place. Rev. Mr. Morton officiating in both cases. The sad event has cast a gloom over the whole community.

From Amherst.

General Carey's Lecture.—New Book and Stationery Store.—Amherst to be the Seat of Government.

—Rhodes, Curry & Co., have the contract for the new engine house.

—Mr. William Davis, formerly of Dunlap Bros. & Co., intends opening a book and stationery store in Mr. Cyrus Black's new building.

—Joseph Barrill, Esq., of Yarmouth, N. S., of the Division of S. T., addressed a large meeting here on Monday night, in reference to the present standing and the prospects of the order of which he is the head in Nova Scotia. Mr. Barrill is freely spending his time in visiting the double funeral with great success in his endeavors to increase the membership of the existing lodges and in organizing new ones. He is now en route to Cape Breton.

—Gen. Carey's lecture on Friday night was without doubt the grandest effort of the kind ever listened to in Amherst. The attention of an audience crowding Mission Hall was held fixed on the speaker for upwards of two hours. There were no two opinions in regard to Mr. Carey's intimate knowledge of every phase of his subject, and his ability readily to express his views to an audience in a most striking and eloquent manner. His exposition of the Biblical view of the question was particularly able, and his somewhat lively newspaper discussion on the same subject here within the last few years, was especially interesting to an Amherst audience.

—Mr. Pipes' friends regret exceedingly that the fact of his living in "so distant" a part of the Province has so seriously conflicted with his youthful dreams of political eminence. It is rumored that an agitation is about to be set on foot seeking the transfer of the provincial capital to Amherst in order to remove what seems to be the greatest, and any other way, insurmountable obstacle to Mr. Pipes' occupation of a seat of honor at his country's council board. All parties here unite in hoping for the success of said agitation. The opinion seems to be that Mr. Pipes has the ability necessary to a good leader, and that if the seat of Government were only here, his hitherto remarkably latent powers would spring into life with a dazzling lustre to his dispirited colleagues at Halifax. Let Amherst be made the capital by all means!
