Mr. John Dillon denounced Timothy Healey's scheme of guaranteed dividends, characterizing it as unfair, unbusinesslike, and not altogether honest or honorable, and declared that this was the last day he would ever serve as a director. Mr. Healey retaliated with equal warmth and vehemence, and vigorously denounced Mr. Dillon's calamitous and barefaced meddlings in the board as the cause of all the difficulties with which they were confronted.

Kossuth's Funeral.

TURIN, March 28 .- The funeral services over the remains of Louis Kossuth were held in the Evangelical Church today. The city was crowded with sightseers and the streets presented a most remarkable appearance, owing to the immense number of Hungarians, in full national costume. The streets through which the funeral procession passed were lined by the municipal guards, and on all sides were to be seen mourning emblems and crepedraped flags.

The coffin inside the church rested upon a handsome catafalque and was covered with flowers. Near the catafalque were the sons of Kossuth, his sister and his nephews.

After the simple ceremonies the coffin was placed upon a funeral car, drawn by four horses, and the procession moved alowly towards the railroad station.

CLEVELAND DOES IT.

Vetces the Seigniorage Bill Passed by the Senate-His Reasons.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—President Cleveland has vetoed the Seigniorage Bill. He reviews the financial conditions, and says the recovery being so well under way nothing should be done to check convalescence. The present perplexities and embarrassments of the Secretary of the Treasury ought not to be augmented by devolving upon him the execution of a law so uncertain and confused. He closes by urging the desirability of granting to the Secretary of the Treasury better power than now exists to issue bonds and to protect the gold reserve. It this could be done he thinks the bullion seigniorage now in the Treasury could be sately coined.

A DYING CONFESSION.

Stole Crown Regalia and Jewels - A Euried Treasure.

LONDON, March 29 .- A soldier who was engaged in Burmah in 1885, recently when dying in London confessed that himself and a comrade named White had committed burglary in King Theebaw's palace in Mandalay and had looted the crown regalia, including many jewels of immense value. Fearing detection they buried their plunder outside the palace grounds. White was a pensioner residing in Southampton. The Indian Office guaranteed not to punish him, and he confessed that the foregoing story was true. White is now on his way to India, traveling at the Government's expense. He has great confidence in his ability to discover the treasure. The Government has promised White 10 per cent. of whatever he discovers up to 100,000 rupees and 5 per cent. of anything beyond that amount.

Mr. Balfour's Pharmacy Bill Passed the Committee Stage-The Assess. ment Act Discussed.

[Special to the ADVERTISER.] PARLIAMENT BUILDING, TORONTO, March 28. - Mr. McColl (Elgin) began a somewhat extensive discussion this afternoon in moving for a return respecting the action of certain license commissioners in St. Thomas. He charged that one of them, Mr. O'Donough, was owner of a licensed hotel, and that the three commissioners had refused to give J. G. Nunn a license on political grounds. His intention seemed to be to create the impression that the GARFIELD, Ohio, March 28 .- Coxey's Government grants licenses for the purpose of gaining prestige.

house prior to his appointment as a commissioner, had transferred the property to his wife before entering upon the duty of the office. In regard to the charge of partisan action respecting Nunn, Mr. Harcourt stated that a license was actually issued to Nunn, who personally had the document transferred to another man. Mr. Harcourt then read two letters from St. Thomas Conservatives which placed Nunn in an unenviable light. The first was from the owner of the hotel which had been leased to Munn. It stated that the latter was not a proper person to run a well-appointed hotel, and that if the commissioners had been instrumental was commendable. The second letter contained the remark that Nunn was "a

WHEAT AND THE WEATHER.

Prices Go Up as the Mereury Drops Down-A Jump of Three Cents and a Scramble Among Market.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 28 .- There was a senational and rapid advance of 3 cents in wheat to-day, due wholly to the anxiety of the shorts, who feared further damage to the crop by the cold wave scheduled by the signal service to arrive to-night. The weather map this morning was not reassuring to the bears. There were snows turning into rains in some parts of winter wheat region and rains in others. In the far Northwest there was an area of low temperature, and it was pointing toward the wheat country. All doubt of its course was removed when the Government weather bureau indications came to hand.

The opening of the market was common place enough, with prices a trifle higher than they were at the close last night, They dragged along for about half an hour, fluctuating 1.16 cent at a time, with no warning of the approaching bulge. It was a few minutes after 10 o'clock, when some small buying orders appeared in the pit. Bids to fill these orders met with no response in the shape of offerings.

The bulge to-day was accompanied by one feature which is especially disquieting. The commission houses were full of country buying orders for the first time since the weather turned cold. The previous absence of such orders had much to do with the skepticism felt on 'Change as to the extent of damage the growing winter wheat plant. The appearance of country business to-day give a new direction to thought and had an important bearing on the course of the market.

EIGHT HOURS A DAY.

fully in His Big Works.

The Men Work Cheerfully-The Government Asked to Adopt It.

LONDON, March 29. - Wm. Mather, M. P. for Gorton division of Lancashire, and the senior member of the firm of Mather & Pratt (Salford iron works), has made a report of the experience of his firm in the first year's experiment of giving its employes an eight hour day instead of nine hours, without any reduction of wages. Mr. Mather, whose works employ a large number of hands, reports that the experiment has proved in every respect a complete success. The output of the works has been greater than ever before without an increase of expense, despite reduction of hours.

The 1,200 hands employed in the works have worked cheerfully in double shifts during times of pressure upon the works, due to large orders, but they have never been paid, nor have they expected overtime, the reduction of regular hours and retention of regular wages offsetting that. Converts to the eight hour system, Mr. Mather says, have invariably been permanently won over. Mr. Mather has furnished the Government with full details of the working of the experiment in the Salford iron works, and recommends its adoption even tentatively in the Government arsenals, dockyards and other public works.

The Pall Mall Gazette urges a trial of the plan in every factory in the kingdom, but deprecates the application of coercion in its adoption. The success of Mr. Mather's experiment, it says, is due to a teeling of mutual good-will, without which that or any other plan would have failed.

The Globe says the fact that Mr. Mather has not found it necessary to enlarge his force of employes shows that adoption of an eight hour system does not increase the area of employment, and consequently falsifies the prophecies of labor agitators and politicians in sympathy with them. The Star and other afternoon papers also discuss the question of Mr. Mather's

Graham Gets a Verdict for $500 Against Delaware Township

For Damages Received Through Being Thrown Out of His Rig-Other Cases Dealt With.

Wednesday Afternoon.

VERDICT FOR $500. Court resumed at 1:30 and sat until 6:45, when the evidence in the case of Graham vs. Delaware township was all in and the addresses of counsel and judge were completed. About fifteen witnesses were examined. Physicians who had attended the plaintiff described the nature of his injuries, and expressed the opinion that Graham would not have the proper use of his arm for a year to come. A civil engineer was examined for the defense in respect to the road, while the township also had on the stand Reeves Elson, of London township, and Gilmour, of North Dorchester, to testify that the highway was in as good condition as the average country road. Mr. John Mc-Keown, a councilor from Delaware, said he had done what he considered right for the Robert Ness, Howick; sixth, A. C. Mc- township, as he thought it his duty to look after the interests of his constituents. On cross-examination witness admitted that he had a list of jurors in his possession for two or three days before the trial. This gave counse! for plaintiff ground for some sharp remarks. When the evidence was finished Mr. Osler addressed the jury for half an hour, giving a clear and concise review of the facts as stated by the witnesses.

Mr. E. Meredith followed for the plaint iff, after which the judge briefly instructed the jury and submitted the following questions: 1. Was there any neglect on the defendants' part to keep the road in proper repair? 2. If there was such negligence, was it the consummate cause of the accident and injuries? 3. Might the plaintiff, by the exercise of ordinary care, have avoided the accident? 4. If the plaintiff is entitled to recover damages, what amount?

The jury then retired and an adjournment was made till 8 o'clock, when they brought in a verdict, finding the township guilty of negligence in not making the roadbed the same as before the washout of 1883 and placing the damages at $500.

The court room was crowded with spectators when the court opened at 10 o'clock this morning. The only case taken up was that of Benjamin Fisher, a well-known resident of Mount Brydges, who is charged with having robbed the postoffice at that place, the particulars of which have already been published. It took some time before a jury was selected suitable to both sides, several being challenged. Colin MacDougall, Q.C., of St. Thomas, is acting for the crown and Messrs. McEvoy and Wilson for the defense.

Fred Pearce, assistant, and son of Postmaster Pearce, described the postoffice to the court in a very clear manner. He also told how Fisher, accompanied by Henry Clay, had come to the postoffice after the robbery, bringing with him the box and stating that it had been found in the shed adjoining the Baptist Church.

Thomas Pearce, the postmaster, was also examined, but gave no new evidence.

NOTES. O'Connor vs. Couch, action for $1,000 damages for false arrest at Ingersoil, has been settled out of court. The grand jury inspected the jail this morning and appeared satisfied with the condition in which everything was found. Justice Meredith has entered judgment according to the verdict in the Graham case with costs.

The cases of the Bank of Commerce against the Aylmer Furniture Company and Commerce vs. Frost have been settled between the parties.

A SERIOUS CHARGE

Laid Against James Dunn-Charged With Attempting Criminal Assault Upon a Farmer's

Daughter. James Dunn is now behind the bars at the county jail on a very serious charge. Dunn is a farm laborer, 21 years old, and for the past fifteen months has been a constant employe of John Peaskett, lot 31. con. 11. Biddulph township. He was always looked upon with respect by his employer.

Peaskett has several children, none of them being very old. One of them is a girl named Margaret, who is just 16. On the evening of March 21 Margaret went to the barn to feed the hogs, and while she was in the act of so doing Dunn entered. The girl claims that he insulted her, then threw her to the ground and attempted to criminally assault her. Two of the children happened to enter the barn just in time, and seeing them Dunn went back to the house. The children followed him, and informed the parents of the facts of the case, but nothing was said to Dunn. That evening they had supper together, and the following morning employer and employe went to the bush to chop wood. Dunn apparently noticed a change in Peaskett, and inquired of him whether or not he (Peaskett) was offended at him for anything. To this question Peaskett replied in the affirmativa and stated the reason.

Dunn became greatly enraged, and is said to have attempted to stab his employer with a knife. He was shoved off with the handle of an axe which Peaskett had in his hand, and was relieved of the weapon.

No further action was taken in the case until last night, when Peaskett decided to have Dunn arrested. The information was sworn out before Squire J. B. Smyth, and Constable Logan made the arrest this morning. Dunn was remanded for a week.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

Ida Van Cortland's Engagement_"Gloriana" Coming-"Fanchon" To-Night. A big house greeted Ida Van Cortland and her company at the Grand yesterday afternoon and evening. The matinee play was "Peck's Bad Boy," and the evening "Michael Strogoff," a powerful melodrama, which requires a strong cast to do it justice. Miss Van Cortland is fortunate in having two very good comedians in Messrs. Warner and Streeter, who, as the war correspondents, were the life of the performance and lightened up the sombre background of tragedy and revolver smoke. The production was thoroughly enjoyable. Howard Hall made a stately Michael Strogoff, and Miss Van Cortland showed much emotional strength in the trying role of his mother. To-night the laughable French comedy, "Fanchon," will be given.
Miss Van Cortland is an adept in the humorous, and "Fanchon" is a capital vehicle for the display of her abilities. The engagement promises to be very successful, as was the first one of the season. Her London admirers are many and are pleased to see she has surrounded herself with a company at once large and capable.

There will be a matinee on Saturday. "GLORIANA" ON MONDAY. The famous comedy success, "Gloriana," comes to the Grand next Monday night. "Gloriana" is to be presented by Emily Bancker and a splendid company of comedians, and is said to be very funny in plot and bright in action. "Gloriana" is a andsome and vivacious widow, whose flirtations with a young diplomat before the play opens, make her appearance on the scene, just before his intended marriage to a young lady, very inopportune. So he disguises himself as his servant, and his servant as himself. Thence the complications arise. It is a good plot for fun, and is said to be full of it. Much of the success of the play is undoubtedly due to the excellent company, which includes George W. Barnum, Tillie Barnum, Thomas W. Ryley, George Parsons and Alf. Hampton.

REPUBLICAN BUNCOMBE.

Proposal to Abrogate a Treaty With Great Britain.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 28.-The joint resolution introduced in the Senate to-day by Mr. Dolph (Rep., Ore.) to abrogate the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty reads as follows:

"Resolved, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States, in Congress assembled, that the convention concluded April 19, 1850 and proclaimed July 5, 1850, between the United States and Great Britain relative to a ship canal by way of Nicaragua, Costa Rica, the Mosquito Coast, or any part of Central America, commonly known as the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty, is no longer in force. "The introduction of this resolution," said Mr. Dolph, "does not indicate any opposition on my part to the Nicaraguan Canal; on the contrary, I am in favor of it. Whenever we have made an attempt to do anything in this or similar matters this treaty arises like a bugbear to confront us.

The treaty is not in force and never has been. Great Britain has violated it time and again, and I believe that we ought, by legislation, to set it aside and abrogate it entirely. Then we can go ahead with these projects untrammeled by any conventions of this sort."

LICKED UP BY FLAMES. Destruction of a Grist Mill and Con tents at St. Albert-Other Fires. WINNIPEO, March 28.-George Bull's grist mill at St. Albert, near Edmonton, was destroyed by fire yesterday. Loss, $10,000. No insurance. Five thousand bushels of wheat were destroyed.

Asselstin's jewelry store at Calgary was destroyed yesterday. Loss, $2,000.

McKinley at Minneapolis. MINNEAPOLIS, March 28. - Gov. Mc. Kinley's presence here to-day was in response to his promise to address the annual meeting of the State League of Republican Clubs. There were 24,000 delegates in attendance. Gov. McKinley's address was a sweeping arraignment of the Democratic leaders and a caustic criticism of the Wilson tariff. The hotels were thronged throughout the day with visitors and local enthusiasm had been so thoroughly excited that tickets of admission to the exposition hall commanded prices that would have been astonishing if Patti were to sing. There was a narrow escape from a disastrous panic at the meeting which McKinley addressed in Minneapolis. About 3,000 people attempted to wedge themselves into a single entrance at the same time and the crush was frightful. When order was restored it was discovered that twenty persons were bruised and a number of women had fainted, but no one was seriously injured.

The Successful Contractors-Where Does the Coal Oil Go To ?-An Honest Coal Dealer !- Work on the New Pumphouse Let.

The first view of the room in which the water commissioners met last night suggested an apothecary shop, while the second look gave the viewer the not unpleasant impression of being behind the cashier's counter of a flourishing bank. Tenders were being received for the year's supplies; six barrels of lubricating oil are needed annually, and the tenderers in oil felt called upon to cover the aristocraticlooking marble mantelpiece in No. 1 committee room with samples, bottled and labeled, corked and waxed, the whole having a decided materia-medica aspect.

About 50 tenders in all were received, and, as each (with one exception) was accompanied by check or greenbacks ranging in value from $25 to $500, the amount of wealth on the table during the evening was enough to impress even a water commissioner.

The work of wading through the numerous figures was slow and tedious, and interestin only in streaks. There was difference enough 'n the prices to dissolve any suggestion of combine.

"Whew," whistled Chairman Jones, as he read the tender for coal oil. "They use 22 barrels at Springbank in a year, do they! Well, I'll find out where it goes to or else I'll resign." Commissioner Cowan suggested that the committee take a junket to Springbank and sit up all night and measure the consumption, but Mr. Jones was in earnest.

"This is the most honest man that has tendered to-night," said the chairman, impressively, as he held aloft a coal tender, while visions of trade secrets divulged flashed before the expectant eyes around the table.

"He actually tenders for coal per ton of 2,000 pounds !"

Yet some say the good die young . The most important contracts let were those of the erection of the new pump house. John Purdom secured the carpentering work at $2,320. Geo. F. Blake and Wm. Yates the masonery and brickwork at $8,750, and H .& C. Colerick the painting and glazing at $107. The tenders follow:

New Features in Politics Introduced by an Illinois Lady-And She Won.

Tuscola, Ill., March 28 .- Miss Mamie Bunen, a school teacher, has introduced a new feature in politics here. She wished the nomination for superintendent of schools on the Republican ticket, and won easily over a field of five men. When election time came around she took up her station at the polls, and having secured 200 roses, pinned a dainty bouquet on the lapel of every voter's coat as he came up. Heretofore it has been the custom to deal out cigars and liquors, but the new plan adopted by Miss Bunch worked so charmingly that she walked out of the place with over 100 plurality.

OFFICIAL SALARIES.

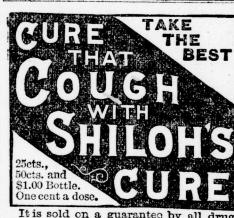

Some Weak Points in the Assailants'

Armer. It is a somewhat strange coincidence that the attack upon the mode of appointing public officials and the salaries which they receive was led by a member of the House who has been himself, as the Empire would say, "a fee-fed" official of the Dominion Government for several years back. Mr. A. F. Wood, M.P.P., who moved the want of confidence motion on this question the other night, has drawn money from the Dominion treasury for many years. The report of the Auditor-General shows that Mr. Wood received the following sums as valuator for the Dominion Government: For the year ending June, 30, 1890, $3,895 09; for the year ending June 30, 1891. $3.236 59; for the year ending June 30, 1892, $4,274 51, and for the year ending June 30, 1893, $2,545 81. Mr. Wood seems to be constantly employed in the Dominion service. In 1890 he charged for 244 days; in 1891 for 189 days; in 1892 for 262 days, and in 1893 for 161 days. By referring to the journals of the session of 1892 it will be seen that during that year the Provincial House was in session from the 11th day of February to the 14th day of April, or a period in all of 55 working days. Mr. Wood must, therefore, have been paid by the Dominion Government for part of the time during which he was drawing his sessional allowance as a member of the Legislative Assembly. The amounts which he has drawn are on the basis of $10 per diem for actual services, $3 50 for living allowance, and the actual cost of railway fares for transport. Mr. E. F. Clarke, senior member for Toronto, also denounced the fee system in the most vigorous terms. At page 231, section D of the Auditor-General's report for 1892-3 we find the tollowing entries:

Services-68 days at $10 per day .. $680 00 Living allowance-79 days, at $4 per day Fares..... 169 34 Pullmans.... Cabs and cartage..... 15 03

Total.....$1,213 77 On page 237, section D, of the Auditor-General's report will be found a copy of a letter addressed to the Finance Department, protesting against Mr. Clarke's charge of a per diem and living allowance for Sept. 4 and 25, on the ground that Mr. Clarke left Toronto late on the night of the 4th, and arrived back early on the morning of the 25th, and, therefore, should not have money. He pleaded guilty and sentence | charged for those days. The Auditor-General, accordingly, ordered a reduction of $28 in Mr. Clarke's account. Mr. Whitney, the member for Dundas, has also drawn upon the Dominion treasury for solicitor's fees of various amounts during the last few

> The inconsistency of the Opposition in constantly shifting ground upon almost every question that has come before the House during the last ten years has been exposed more than once. In their own cases they decline to practice a rule of action which they insist upon as necessary in the public interest for the officers of the Province. If it is corrupt and dangerous, as the Opposition alleges, to have public officials paid by fees, what shall we say of the payment of members of the Ontario Legislature by fees from the treasury of the Dominion ?-[Toronto Globe.

Never bear more than one kind of trouble at a time. Some people bear three kinds-all they have had, all they have now, and all they expect to have. - EDWARD EVERETT HALE.

London, Thursday, March 29.

THE LONDON ADVERTISER, with its morning and evening editions, covers the ground. With one exception, it is THE ONLY EARLY MORNING DAILY IN ONTARIO, outside of To-

-Only those communications to which the writers are willing to have their names appended in print will be published in these columns. Neither the writing nor the pubication of anonymous letters can be justified.

-Though you are taxed, under the new tariff, 6 cents a pound for books of all kinds, you are supposed not to kick. You can get as many anchors as you need, all the diamonds you can afford, and a plentiful supply of egg yolk free of all duty.

-The British bye-elections must be satisfactory to the Liberals. Mr. Thomas Shaw, the new Solicitor-General for Scotland, has been re-elected in the Hawick burghs by a majority of 647 over McLeod Fullerton, Q.C. At the general election Mr. Shaw's majority was only 365.

-Mr. Van Horne, president of the C. P. R., who was interviewed in Toronto yesterday, declined to make any remarks on the tariff changes because, he explained, he is out of politics for good. He, however, points out the lack of consideration for railway interests that is shown in the new tax of 30 per cent. on steel rails.

-On page 69, the Auditor-General calls it the "Liquor" Commission and not the Prohibition Commission. He is right-and every Prohibitionist believes so .- [Moncton (N.B.) Transcript.

Why not split the difference and call it the Whisky Commission? The majority of its members will take good care not to recommend any policy that will embarrass the Government. Watch their report and verify this prognostication.

-The Ontario Government has made an important concession to the mining regions of the Province. In order to encourage the development of the mines, no royalties will be collected for five years to come. The payment of royalty, provided it goes into the public purse, as in this Province, is defensible and proper, but the new arrangement is desirable, because it will give an impetus to mining enterprise in its infantile shape, while injuring no other in--London has had free letter delivery since the system was inaugurated by the Mackenzie Government eighteen years ago, and so have the larger cities throughout the Dominion. There is no reason why the system should not be extended. The United States Government years ago reduced the postage on letters to 2 cents, and now the House of Representatives has adopted a proposal to set aside $20,000 for the purpose of free delivery experiments in rural districts other than towns and villages. The postal system is bound to spread till every user of the mails in civiltzed districts has a daily mail.

-In Halifax, N. S., it seems, the Conservatives rely upon Dominion officeholders to gain their victory. The Herald tells us that in that constituency, which is a little larger than London, the number of Conservative civil servants is 500, and that when they vote they turn the tide of victory from the Liberals. At this rate, the Dominion office-holders in Halifax must be tumbling over each other every time they move in the Government offices. Is it any wonder that in the past Liberals in the Dominion elections have been swamped by the votes of these men, and that there is so strong an outcry against the extravagance that induces so undesirable a state of affairs?

-Canadian newspaper publishers petitioned the Dominion Government for relief from severe and unnecessary burdens imposed upon them. In no instance has the Administration acceded to their wishes. They are told that they must continue to pay heavy taxes on many of their supplies. and probably one half of them will applaud the decision of the men at Ottawa. Is this enlightened selfishness? Certainly no other class in the community sacrifices its interests at the call of political managers when it is possible, by united and persistent effort, to secure a remedy. If Mr. Foster did not trust to the subserviency of the Conservative newspapers, he dared not have lent a deaf ear to the demand of the five Sunday school books of the total value newspapers for fair play. The Govern- of 70 cents. Under the old duty of 15 per ment had only to be assured of the united | cent., the tax would be 101 cents. The opposition of the press till such time as he treated it with ordinary decency, and there would have been phenomenal celerity in acceding to the moderate petition of the publishers. In allowing themselves to be kicked without protest, the Conservative newspaper men make it an easy task for Mr. Foster, by means of his inequitable tariff, to rob every one of them as well as every other publisher in the country.

POINTS IN TAXES. Wholesale merchants in this city engaged in the three great staples-hardware, drygoods and groceries-are generally agreed that though any duties have been changed the reductions are so small that little or no difference can be made to the prices charged by the retailer. In any case where a substantial reduction is chronicled, there will sooner or later be reduction in price, for the wholesale men are unanimous in conceding, what even the leading "protectionist" advocate now admits, that the duty is invariably added to the price. Many of the reductions in taxes, though considerable, will not satisfy the people.

Bar iron, for example, is reduced to 45 per cent., wire nails to 75 per cent, barbed wire to 40 per cent., and rice to 60 per cent. The tax on refined sugar is only reluced by 1.5th of a cent, while the tax on outlery has been raised to 321 per cent.

The railway interests can scarcely be said to be well treated. The tax on coal is maintained, and the tax on steel rails, hitherto admitted free of duty, will in future be 30 per cent.

Since Sir Charles Tupper demanded it a few years ago, the country has been paying the enormous tax of $13 a ton on bar iron. This tax is now reduced to $10, but this is far too high. On puddled bar iron the new tax is $5; formerly it was $9. But in future the taxpayers of Canada will be called upon to pay a bounty of $2 for every ton of puddled iron produced in Canada. To further increase the price of iron to the consumer the tax of $2 per ton hitherto imposed on the imported scrap iron that the mills here made into good iron, has been increased to $3 and on Jan. 1 next it will be advanced to $4. The bounty of $2 a ton on pig iron produced in the Dominion will also be continued. We are told that these bonuses are to encourage the production of iron. So be it. But if we are all to be called upon to pay a bonus to the rich iron producers, surely it is fair for the farmer to ask for a bounty of 25 cents a bushel on wheat, the dairymen a bounty of 5 cents a pound for butter and cheese, and the printer 10 cents a thousand on newspapers. One class of the community has just as much right to demand and to receive a bounty for their products

Instead of receiving a bounty the farmers under the new arrangement will have to submit to a decreased duty on live animals coming into Canada. Duties on animals and on products of which Canada exports a surplus are practically of no value, of course, but the change is noteworthy because these duties have been made so much of by the defenders of the monopolists' tariff. On cattle and sheep coming into Canada 20 per cent. duty will in future be collected, against 30 per cent., the old rate. Live hogs are 25 per cent, instead of 2 cents per lb. Pork is to be 25 per cent. The old duty was 11 cents a pound on mess pork and 3 cents on the other.

as another class. If not, why not?

Through a most persistent lobby, the coal oil men have managed to retain the duty of 7 1-5 cents per gallon tax on United States oil entering this country. The Petrolea producers have hardly been so fortunate, for the tax on gas oil has been reduced 20 cents a barrel in the interests of the gas makers and of manufacturers who use crude oil for fuel. Barrels containing petroleum will in future pay 20 cents duty; for some time past the tax was 40 cents.

Mr. Foster professed belief that further reduction of the tariff would take more revenue away from the treasury than the country could stand, That was a doubtful contention, because experience proves that a tax of 20 per cent. produces more revenue than a tax of 35 per cent. But even if it were true that substantial tax reduction, which would leave much more money in the pockets of the the people than the Foster Bill, would make the Administration at Ottawa hard up, that would not be an unmixed evil. With the men in power at Ottawa, as with the average spendthrift, it is "lightly come, lightly go," and most of the millions that have been partly stolen and partly frittered away in gross extravagance have been abstracted from the public purse because of the ease with which the money could be filched from the taxpayers. The more difficult we make for these men to accumulate surplus taxation to tempt their followers, the better will it be for the country.

BOOKS BY THE POUND. A determined effort should be made to have the duty on books, imposed by Mr. Foster's amended tariff, changed. Formerly the duty collected was 15 per cent.; now it is to be 6 cents per pound, no matter what the value of the book is. Sunday school library books are especially severely dealt with in the amended tariff. A London bookseller, who has been investigating the effects of the change, took books weigh four pounds, and 6 cents a pound, the new duty, will be 24 cents, an increase of nearly 150 per cent. On two books costing 56 cents the old duty would be 81 cents. They weigh 23 pounds, and the duty under the new rate is 162 cents. an increase of nearly 100 per cent.

Even on scientific books that in some cases, according to Mr. Foster, will pay less of a tax under the new tariff than formerly, the increased duty in many cases is considerable. On three books, costing in all $1 13, the duty at 15 per cent. would be 17 cents; the books weigh 31 pounds, and will now pay a tax of 21 cents.

In a cheaper class of works-paperbound-eight volumes cost 52 cents; the old duty is 8 cents, but the weight is four pounds, and the tax now will be 24 cents! On a book costing 65 cents the old duty was 93 cents, but as the book is printed on good paper it weighs 43 pounds, and will in future pay 281 cents tax.

The inconvenience of the new system should also be considered. When a customer desires to order a new book, it will be difficult to tell him what the price will be, because until it arrives by mail its weight will not be determined. Then take the case of a bookseller who gets a case of books, numbering 300 or 400 at one time. These books are of all sizes and weight, and will be weighed en bloc at the custom house, but before he can fairly estimate their sale value he will be forced to weigh every one of them. What necessity is there for causing all this trouble?

Apart from the harassing nature of the system, the new tax will tend to encourage the production of shoddy books and poor quality of paper, illustration, and binding. This is a blow aimed at the production of the better class of illustrated works for Sunday school and other purposes. The tendency will be to import books printed on thin paper, with slim binding, and poor illustrations, in order to secure a reduction in the rate of duty. A low tax, collected on the actual value of a book, is the impost most to be desired by the people. The present change is a distinct retrogression.

MARRIED MILLIONS.

Another Actress Catches One of Jay

Gould's Sons. NEW YORK, March 28 .- Howard Gould and Miss O'Della Tyler, the actress, announced their engagement yesterday. The wedding will probably take place early in the summer. Miss Tyler's contract with Mr. Frohman expires June 1 and she will remain in his company until that time. Mr. Gould and Miss Tyler met for the first time two years ago in Portland, Ore.

Miss Tyler is a widow of 26. She is a Southern girl, her maiden name being Bessie Kirkland. Her father was a general and her people are well-to-do. Howard Gould is the third son of Jay Gould and was born in 1871. He is one of the executors of his father's estate and derives the income of about $11,000,000.

Fought for a Girl.

OMAHA, Neb., March 28. - Irving Gardner, son of the dean of Trinity. Cathedral, and Harry Colpetzer, son of a lumberman, fought twenty rounds in regulation prize-ring style over an Omaha society girl. The ring was pitched in the billiard room of the home of Colpetzer, and the few persons who were present saw the son of the dean knocked out in the twentieth round. Both are proficient boxers. The matter in dispute was finally settled by this contest, and society circles are ringing with the affair.

Sir Richard Cartwright Criticises the Budget.

The New Tariff Simply One of Makeshifts,

And Contains No Elements of Finality.

"Protection and Corruption Are Political Stamese Twins"-Text of Sir Richard's Amendment.

[Special to the ADVERTISER.]

OTTAWA, March 28.—Again to-day there was unusual interest in the proceedings of the House and the galleries were well filled. The feature of the afternoon was Sir Richard Cartwright's speech on the budget. There were some preliminary proceedings. however. Mr. Foster corrected one or two errors in the tariff announcements. Democrats, instead of being classed with farm wagons at 30 per cent., should be in the category of other carriages at 35 per cent. The fish schedule had been omitted altogether, but there was no change in fish or fish products.

Mr. Tupper obtained the first reading of a bill to amend the Seamen's Act by extending the right of lien which a seaman enjoys to the master, and to legalize a practice which has obtained in dealing with the Board of Trade since 1869 with reference to the relief of sick and distressed mariners.

In reply to Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Foster said there were 1,927 employes in the sugar refineries. In reply to Mr. Fraser, Sir John Thompson said the Government had not nor had any member thereof authorized J. G. Forbes, Conservative candidate in the county of Guysboro, to state that he was promised, in case he was elected, to obtain large sums for breakwaters and other public works in the county. Applications were made to some of the Ministers and to himself respecting some public works on behalf of Mr. Forbes, but no promises were made other than assurances that the representations made would be fully considered. Mr. Forbes had written saying he made no such statement, and merely promised to forward any requests and to use his influence and that of hear," from the Opposition. Mr. Patterson told Mr. Mulock that Gen. Herbert's report did not contain the statement that the Canadian militia could not withstand 1,500 regular soldiers.

his friends in support of the applications.

This statement was greeted with "Hear,

In reply to Mr. Landerkin, Sir John Thompson said that Senator Sanford had consulted him about a recent trip to Washington, and he had approved of it. While in Washington Mr. Sanford had written a couple of letters to him, and on his return Mr. Sanford and he had a conversation about it.

Cartwright that the Senate vacancies was a fine of $35 on every $100 worth of would be filled at an early day, and that goods they bought. The value of the none of them had been promised to members of the House. Neither had the customs collectorship at Montreal, vacant ing industries to any country. Speaking member of the House.

Mr. Tupper stated that Samuel Campbell had been dismissed from the position The only good changes—the only improveof lighthouse keeper on Tigonish Island for ments in the tariff-were a transcript of holding out improper inducements for a vote at an election. Mr. Cartwright, on rising to criticise the budget, was loudly cheered by the Opposition. He expressed astonishment at Mr. Foster's inconsistency in blaming the Opposition for describing the late tariff as a burden to Canada and at the same time mutilating and mangling that glorious work of art. The late tariff was the child of the late Sir John A. Macdonald. It was nursed by Lady Tilley-I mean Sir Leonard Tilley-(great laughter)-and was not Sir Charles Tupper its sponsor? The late tariff has disappeared, but the Government had not exorcised the demon of protection. The outward and fleshy tabernacle had altered, but the spirit of protection remained. Sir Richard likened Mr. Foster to a mousing owl hawking at an eagle, and likened the N. P. to the prince in Victor Hugo's story, who was mutilated by a tinker. Dealing with Mr. Foster's assertion that the country was prosperous, Sir Richard Cartwright pointed to the depopulation of the Maritime Provinces in the last ten years, and quoted Goldsmith's "While wealth accumulates and men decay," adding that men have decayed, but wealth had not accumulated, except what had gone into the pockets of members of the judiciary or owners of land adjoining railway stations. He warned Mr. Foster to refrain from jibes at the deficits of the Mackenzie Administration, because he (Foster) was face to face with a large deficit within the recent twelve months. The present Government had one deficit three times as large as any in Mr. Mackenzie's time. Touching on the increase in the national debt from $140,000,000 in Mr. Mackenzie's time to $240,000,000 now, he declared it a burden equal to the debt of England incurred in 100 wars. He accused the Government of keeping in power by corruption and extortion and by grace of a gerrymander under which twelve Ontario counties containing a Liberal majority of 2.000 returned four Liberals and eight Conservatives. Their policy had, therefore, not received the real indorsation of an independent and ungerrymandered electorate. That policy had resulted in not only depopulation and depreciation of land, but it also failed to keep the promise to give farmers a home market and high prices for their products. Mr. Foster had claimed for the N. P. credit for all existing manufactories, but Sir Richard Cartwright pointed out that there were lots of manufacturers before the N. P. was ever heard of. Our exemption from the financial tornado in the United States he attributed to our superior banking system, which he had always defended. He congratulated the Ministers on the indication of returning sanity in waking up to the fact that the prosperity of Canada is closely bound up with the prosperity of the United States. He condemned all petty offers of reci-procity such as contained in two or three articles which suited the Ministerial policy, and he challenged them to come down with a broad scheme of reciprocity with the United States. Sir Richard went on to say that he foresaw an element of uncertainty in business circles in view of the possibility that these changes, made on the eve of the election. might be changed back to the old tariff after the elections, should the Government be sustained at the polls. The new tariff reminded him of the antediluvians who placed their children under their feet in the flood in order to prolong their miserable existence. a few seconds. It was a tariff of makeshifts and contained no elements of finality for a thoroughly revised tariff he never saw more disturbance with more pitiable

Increased expenditure and unfulfilled pledges were used by Sir Richard as texts for a roasting of Ministers on their records since 1878. Sir John Thompson had said that no one but quacks and charlatans would promise farmers to increase the prices of their products. Sir Richard Cartwright agreed with this, and applied the statement to the quacks and charlatans who won power in 1878 by promising what the First Minister now ridiculed as absurd.

Sir Richard remarked on the fact that the budget statement as well as the estimates contained no reference to the fast Atlantic service. The House should know that $750,000 a year was to be added to the expected deficit of $1,500,000. He dwelt on the burdens of taxation, and declared we were overgoverned. What, he asked, did we want with 15 or 16 Cabinet Ministers? When the United States had our population they got along with $22,000,000 of expenditure including maintenance of the army and navy, while Canada spent $37,000,000. Canada needed more than anything else to be made a cheap country to live in and produce in, and needed free access to larger markets, particularly access to the markets of the United States. While with a reasonable fiscal system we could maintain ourselves in some comfort independent of the United States, still he believed full prosperity would never come to us without full access to the markets of North America. Tested by the only correct test—a per capita rate—our total foreign trade which was $57 in 1873 per head had fallen to $50 a head in 1893. In other words we were $50,000,000 a year short of what we were twenty years ago. Sir Richard said he did not propose to go into details of the tariff changes at present. It struck him, however, that only a few insignificant manufacturers had been sacrificed, in keeping with the policy of the Government in sacrificing minor clerks to save themselves. The protective system was to be maintained, and protection and corruption were political Siamese twins. He called for the missing report of the controllers on their tariff interviews last summer. He described the controllers as acting on those occasions as "devil's advocates" to persuade the farmers that they were not being pillaged by trusts and combines. Coming back to the tariff, Sir Richard said the question of freedom or slavery in Canada was brought before them. Were millions of toilers to be bled for the benefit of a few wealthy individuals who furnished their sleeping partners-the Government-with corruption funds with which to debauch the electorate? He failed to see in the new tariff, except in a few instances, any relief to the settlers of the Northwest or Manitoba. The tariff was a great drawback to the settlement of the Northwest, and if it were true, as reported, that the Argentine Republic was prepared to supplyfrom 80,000,000 to 100,000,000 bushels of wheat and lay it down in London at 60 cents or less a bushel, it was a dark outlock for our people in the Northwest, and they were entitled to every consideration. Sir Richard had not concluded at 6 o'clock.

After recess Sir Richard Cartwright took exception to the implied argument that the 367,000 employes of manufacturing industries were benefited by the tariff, and instanced the great burdens laid upon Sir John Thompson stated to Sir Richard | them by the existing fiscal system. There British market was dwelt on and also the value of indiginous and strong manufactursince Jan. 15, 1893, been promised to any of the new tariff, Sir Richard Cartwright complained that the Opposition had not yet been furnished with a copy of the bill. the motions moved year after year by the Opposition and voted down by the Government. As a whole they had got a maximum of disturbance with a minimum of real relief, mostly changes that are superficial and trivial. He suspected the good faith of the Government. He objected to the power of the Customs Department to arbitrarily fix values of imports and ignore 147, 149 and 151 DUNDAS invoices and fix higher values, often at the dictation of some manufacturer. One good thing, however, about the new tariff was that having taken out some of the bricks the whole arch would tumble down. He Controller of Customs authorizes the statewas not so pessimistic as he was said to be. He believed good would come of this evil of protection. Radical reforms were now pos-

the ability of each one. In reply to a demand for his policy Sir Richard said: Our policy is death to protection, war to the knife to corruption, and to strike for liberty and freedom. He therefore moved in amendment that all the words after "that" be struck out and the following inserted in place thereof: "While recognizing in the reductions proposed an admission to that extent of the evils inflicted upon the people by the system of high protective duties, this House is, nevertheless, of the opinion that the amendments suggested, being based upon the principle of protection and not solely upon the requirements of public service, are inadequate to afford satisfactory relief from the burdens of excessive and unfair taxation.

"That the highest interests of Canada demand the adoption of a sound fiscal any class, will promote domestic and foreign trade and hasten the return of prosperity to our people. "That to that end the tariff should be reduced to the needs of honest, economical and efficient government; should have eliminated from it the principle of protection to particular industries at the expense of the community at large, and should be imposed for revenue only.

"That it should be adjusted so as to make free or bear as lightly as possible upon the necessaries of life and to promote freer trade with the whole world, particularly with Great Britain and the United States.

His Excellency Lord Aberdeen occupied a seat on the floor of the House during the Dalmeny Park, near Edinburgh. delivery of a portion of Sir Richard Cartwright's speech.

Sir Richard spoke for three hours. Mr. Haggart replied in a speech of about an hour. He defended protection on the ground that $21,000,000 of revenue had to be raised from customs. The Liberal policy was to wipe out manufactures. Mr. Paterson, of Brant, denounced legislation for special interests because when the object was to give manufacturers a monopoly of the home market revenue was a secondary consideration and merely the incidence. It was not a tariff for revenue with incidental protection. He indignantly repudiated the gratuitous statement that Liberals were opposed to manufactures, and claimed as great prosperity for manufacturers under the former revenue tariff. Mr. Paterson asked general questions for information about tariff changes, but no member of the Government had any answer, and Mr. Paterson denounced them in strong terms for incapacity.

Clarke Wallace moved the adjournment of the debate and the House adjourned.

Those who have made a study of bird habits say that birds of almost all sorts are rather the friends than the enemies of farmers and gardeners. Not only do the song birds by destroying insects earn their right to eat a few berries, but even the crow that generations of farmers have scared and killed, is said to prefer insects to corn, and often to be in the very act of destroying pests when farmers suppose him to be maliciously bent on undoing the work of the sower.

IT may be of historic importance to record that about six weeks ago Mr. Gladstone was thoroughly examined by his medical adviser, who found him to be a wonderfully strong and healthy man for his age, with a vigorous heart, a good appetite, sound lungs, muscular limbs, and a full and deep voice. He was altogether full of vivacity and vitality. Mr. Gladstone informed his medical attendant that he slept excellently, and that in the intervals of work he still found the greatest enjoyment in his literary pursuits.

THE German Emperor recently issued orders directing the weight of German infantry soldiers' accoutrements on the march to be reduced by fourteen pounds. But compared to the soldiers of other armies, the German foot soldier is not by any means overburdened. He now carries weight of 61 pounds, but in future he will only carry 47 pounds, or the same weight that is carried by the Austrian soldier. The burdens borne by the infantry soldiers of the other principal European nations are as follows: British, 62 pounds; French, 62 pounds; Swiss, 59 pounds; Italian, 43 pounds. The Russian soldier is more heavily burdened than any other, for a foot soldier in the army of the Czar carries a weight of over 68 pounds.

A MAGISTRATE of a Liverpool court recently had the odd experience of trying himself for an offense against the law, and inflicting on himself a heavy penalty. A number of names of persons charged with allowing their chimneys to be afire, through neglect of cleaning, came before him, and among them was his own name. He was the only magistrate present, and the clerk said that he could fine himself, and suggested that if he inflicted double the usual penalty justice would be met. The magistrate promptly fined himself to this extent, and caused a smile in court by lecturing another offender of the same batch for his carelessness and warning him to be more careful in future.

Up to the present time it has generally been accepted that the biblical manna was identical with a substance that coze out of the tamarisk branches near Mt. Sinai. This has recently been denied by L. Errera, who. at the instigation of the Belgian Academy, undertook an examination of the "Bread of Heaven," which, in 1890, fell near Diabekir, In May of that year Diabekir and the region of the Tigris experienced a terrible storm, during which, in addition to heavy hail, also a thick coating of an edible substance fell upon the ground. The latter had happened in this neighborhood before, and was called by the Kurds "Bread of Heaven." Baked with flour, they were accustomed to eat it. The consul at Aleppo sent specimens of this find to the Ministerium at Brussels, and these intrusted Errera with the microscopical examination of the substance. It turned out to be a kind of lichen (Lecanora esculenta), which is found, also, in Persia, Palestine and Algiers, and sometimes covers the ground to the height of fifteen to twenty centimeters. The substance examined was of a light brown color. Chemical analysis showed that it contained but little nutritive qualities. He used a broomstick and struck
Johnson in the face twice, barely missing Johnson's left eye. Jailer Morris ordered Prendergast removed to the dungeon as soon as the affair was reported to him. Prendergast refused to leave his cell and was taken out forcibly. The trouble arose because Johnson compelled EAST BUFFALO, N. Y.

Revival of Winter.

CHICAGO, March 28.—A snow storm struck here last night and has raged all day. About four inches of snow fell and the wind has drifted it badly. To-night the snow has ceased and the weather is cold. The revival of winter was not confined to this region, the storm belt extending from St. Paul to Springfield, Ill. The sudden return of cold weather at this season of the year has killed much of the early fruit in these regions and damaged the winter wheat crop.

A Sign of Promise

Every good business man is now studying the signs of the times. General business, although dull, did not prove exceptionally so in 1893 for those who persistently sought it in legitimate way by judicious newspaper advertising. However dull it may be at any time, it will always be dullest with those who fail to advertise their wares.

Business is not dead, but there is not enough of it at present to satisfy every one. Many get less than they need. Some get enough. The latter are always the liberal advertisers. As in the past, so in the future—they will get the lion's share. Now is the time to plan out a vigorous campaign for 1894. We are ready to assist.

Everywhere throughout Western Ontario-in the homes, on the news-stands street cars, depots, railway trains; in fact, whenever and wherever people have time to read, they have the people's favorite paper, The LONDON ADVERTISER, with them. Its motto is-"First of all, the news." The AD-VERTISER is bright and clean, and will always be found sustaining its position abreast of all that is best in legitimate journalism.

The WESTERN ADVERTISER (our weekly edition) has been increased in size to 96 columns, and is everywhere recognized as the leading paper among the few big Weeklies in Ontario.

The combined circulations of our daily and weekly editions are not equaled by any journal in Ontariowith but one Toronto exception.

Keen business men all over the country find it pays them to advertise in the ADVERTISER. They get good results, and so will you.

"Turn to the Right.

You know the Rue St. Denys, M. de Marsac? Well, go down it, keeping the Bleeding Heart' on your left. Take the second turning on the same side after passing the inn. The third house from the corner, on the left again, consists of a gateway leading to the Hospital of the Holy Cross. Above the gateway are two windows in the lower story, and above them two more. The knot lay below the first window you come to. Do you understand?"
"Perfectly." I said. "It is something to be a clerk, Simon." He looked at me thoughtfully, but added nothing; and I was busy tightening my sword-hilt, and disposing my cloak about the lower part of my face. When I had arranged this to my satisfaction, I toook out and counted over the sum of 35 crowns, which I gave to him, impressing on him the stance? necessity of staying beside my mother should I not return; for though I proposed to reconneitre only, and learn if possible whether mademoiselle was still in Blois, the future was uncertain, and whereas I was known to my enemies, they were strangers

Having enjoined this duty upon him, I bade my mother a silent farewell, and, you!" leaving the room, went slowly down the stairs, the picture of her worn and patient face going with me, and seeming, I remember, to hallow the purpose I had in my mind. The clocks were striking the hour before noon as I stepped from the doorway, and, standing a moment in the lane, looked this way and that for any sign of espionage. I could detect none, however. The lane was deserted; and feeling assured that any attention is lead my appropriate who was a constant. Sempt to mislead my opponents, who probably knew Blois better than I did, must fail, I made none, but deliberately took my way towards the "Bleeding Heart," in the Rue St. Denys. The streets presented the same appearance of gloomy suspense which I had noticed on the previous day. The same groups stood about in the same corners, the same suspicious glances met me in common with all other strangers who showed themselves; the same listless inaction characterized the townsfolk, the same anxious hurry those who came and went with news. I saw that even here, under the walls of the yer. "No, sah, de jury am al palae, the bonds of law and order were want to challenge the judge." strained almost to bursting, and judged that if there ever was a time in France when right counted for little, and the strong hand for much, it was this. Such a state of things was not unfavorable to my present design, and caring little for suspicious looks, I went resolutely on my way.

I had no difficulty in finding the gateway of which Simon had spoken, or in identifying the window beneath which he had picked up the velvet knot. An alley opening a most opposite, I took advantage of this to examine the house at my leisure, and remarked at once, that whereas the lower window was guarded only by strong shutters, now open, that in the story above was heavily barred. Naturally I concen-tracted my attention on the latter. The house, an old building of stone, seemed sufficiently reputable, nor could I discern anything about it which would have aroused my distrust had the knot been found elsewhere. It bore the arms of a religious brotherhood, and had probably at one time formed the principal entrance to the hospital, which still stood behind it, but it had now come, as I judged, to be used as a dwelling of the better class. Whether the two floors were separately inhabited or not I failed to decide.

After watching it for some time without seeing anyone pass in or out, or anything occurring to enlighten me one way or the other, I resolved to venture in, the street being quiet and the house giving no sign of being strongly garrisoned. The entrance lay under the archway, through a door on the right side. I judged from what I saw that the porter was probably absent, busying himself with his gossips in matters of

And this proved to be the case, for when I had made the passage of the street with success, and slipped quietly through the half-open door, I found only his staff and charcoal pan there to represent him. A single look satisfied me on that point; forthwith, without hesitation, I turned to the stairs and began to mount, assured that if I would effect anything single-handed I must trust to audacity and surprise rather than to caution or forethought.

The staircase was poorly lighted by loop-holes looking towards the rear, but it was clean and well-kept. Silence, broken only by the sound of my footsteps, prevailed throughout the house, and all seemed so regular and decent and orderly that the higher I rose the lower fell my hopes of success. Still I held resolutely on until I reached the second floor and stood before a closed door. The moment had come to put all to the touch. I listened for a few seconds, but hearing nothing, cautiously lifted the latch. Somewhat to my surprise the door yielded to my hand, and I entered.

A high settle stood inside, interrupting my view of the room, which seemed to be spacious and full of rich stuffs and furniture, but low in the roof, and somewhat dimly lighted by two windows rather wide than high. The warm glow of a fire on the woodwork of the ceiling, and as I softly closed the door a log on the hearth gave way, with a crackling of sparks, which presently broke the luxurious silence. The next moment a low, sweet voice asked, "Alphonse, is that you?"

I walked round the settle and came face to face with a beautiful woman reclining on a couch. On hearing the door open she had graised herself on her elbow. Now, seeing a stranger before her, she sprang up with a low cry, and stood gazing at me, her face expressing both astonishment and anger. She was of middling height, her features regular though somewhat childlike, her complexion singularly fair. A profusion of golden hair hung in disorder about her neck, and matched the deep blue of her eyes, wherein it seemed to me, there lurked more spirit and fire than the general cast of her features led one to expect.

After a moment's silence, during which she scanned me from head to foot with great haughtiness—and I her with curiosity and wonder-she spoke. "Sir!" she said slowly, "to what am I to attribute this-visit?"

For the moment I was so taken aback by her appearance and extraordinary beauty, as well as by the absence of any sign of those I sought, that I could not gather my thoughts to reply, but stood looking vaguely at her. I had expected, when I entered the room, something so different from this!
"Well, sir?" she said again, speaking sharply, and tapping her foot on the floor. "This visit, madame?" I stammered. "Call it intrusion, sir, if you please!" she eried imperiously. "Only explain it, or begone."

"I crave leave to do both, madame," I answered, collecting myself by an effort. "I ascended these stairs and opened your door in error—that is the simple fact—hoping to find a friend of mine here. I was mistaken, it seems, and it only remains for me to withdraw, offering at the same time the humblest apologies." And as I spoke I bowed low and prepared to retire.

"One moment, sir!" she said quickly, and in an altered tone. "You are, perhaps, a friend of M. de Bruhl—of my husband. In that case if you desire to leave any massage.

that case, if you desire to leave any message I will—I shall be glad to deliver it." She looked so charming that, despite the tumult of my feeling, I could not but regard her with admiration. "Alas! madame, I cannot plead that excuse," I answered. "I regret that I have not the honor of his acquaintance.' She eyed me with some surprise. "Yet still, sir," she answered, smiling a little, and toying with a gold brooch which clasped her habit, "you must have had some ground, some reason, for supposing you would find a firiend here?" "True, madame," I answered, "but I was mistaken.' I saw her color suddenly. With a smile and a faint twinkle of the eye she said, "It is not possible, sir, I suppose—you have not come here, I mean, out of any reason connected with a-a knot of velvet, for in-

I started, and involuntarily advanced step towards her.
"A knot of velvet!" I exclaimed, with emotion. "Mon Dieu! Then I was not mistaken! I have come to the right house.

and you—you know some of this! Madame," I continued impulsively, "that knot of velvet? Tell me what it means, I implore She seemed alarmed by my violence, retreating a step or two, and looking at me hautily, yet with a kind of shamefacedness:

"Believe me, it means nothing," she said hurriedly. "I beg you to understand that, sir. It was a foolish jest."
"A jest!" I said. "It fell from this win-

At Death's Door.—Dyspepsia Conquered.—A Great Medical Triumph. GENTLEMEN,-My medical adviser and others told me I could not possibly live, when I commenced the use of Northrop & Lyman's VEGETABLE DISCOVERY for Dyspepsia. My case was one of the worst of its kind. For three years I could not eat meat and my weight decreased from 219 to 119 pounds. All the food I took for thirteen months previous to taking the VEGETABLE DISCOVERY consisted of milk. I am now entirely cured and have regained my usual weight, can eat anything with a keen relish and feel like a new man. I have sold over 30 dozen VEGETABLE DISCOVERY since it cured me, as I am well-known, and people in this section know how low I was, and thought I could not possibly be cured. They are eager to try this grand medicine. It certainly saved my life, as I never expected to recover when I first commenced using it. I am not exaggerating anything, but feel glad to be able to contribute this testimonial and trust it may be the means of convincing others of its merit as a certain cure for Dyspepsia. KIDNAPPED IN ELGIN.

A Clearville Foy Captured by Unknown Men-The Lad Escapes.

CLEARVILLE, Elgin County, Ont., March 28.—A young man, 17 years of age, named John Ferguson, son of Colin Ferguson, went to the lake, half a mile east of Clearville, on Sunday afternoon at about 2 p.m., and the banks being high he went down the ravine up Milton's Creek. As he reached the shore he was seized by two men, supposed to be colored, lashed in a boat with his face down and taken about sixteen miles east to Dunwich, below Conn's dock. On the way down his pockets were rifled and all his valuables taken. He was released and was notified to leave them at his peril. A place was selected to build a fire in the woods near the dock to remain over night, and he was ordered to assist in getting wood. Through strategy he escaped, but was chased by them, and he hid some time under the root of a tree. He succeeded in getting out of the woods, and found a house, pretty well exhausted through fatigue and fright, and was brought home on Monday by a friend. The alarm was given when the boy reached the house in Dunwich. Several parties went where the kidnappers intended camping, but the villains had

The boy's parents believed him drowned, and their grief at his disappearance was as great as their joy when he returned.

The boy is an intelligent young man and well educated, and his story is verified by other parties seeing the boat on the lake going east, and describing it as he does, as quite a large skiff painted green. Warrants have been issued for the kidnappers'

HE WAS 101 YEARS OLD. But Bad to be Locked Up on a Charge of Drunkenness.

New York, March 28.-The oldest prisoner ever seen in Jefferson Market Court was arraigned before Justice Ryan on Monday. He was Ulick Freel, who was arrested Sunday evening for being intoxicated. When the usual question as to his age was put Freel astonished the court by replying, "101 years, your honor." Freel's story was that he was born in 1793 in county Donegal, Ireland. He came to America 80 years ago, and went to the Southern States, where he made a living as a peddler.

When the war broke out he was in a southern city. He refused to take up arms against the Union, and was imprisoned with a friend named Bradford Jones. Jones was shot for alleged treason, but Freel escaped. He then came north and purchased a farm, near Rondout, on which he now lives. His grand-nephew, Manassas Freel, lives at No. 25 New Chambers street. He came to town to visit him Saturday, but could not find him. He was chilled through, and took a drink of brandy, which went to his head. He told the justice he never drank or smoked. He was fined $1, which was paid by sympathizers in court, as the centenarian had lost his money before he was arrested. Freel is a well-preserved man, and looks more like 60 than 100 years old.

THE WALKERS ARE READY

To Take Over the London and Port Stanley Railroad

As Soon as the City Clears the Track by Furnishing Freight Terminals-The G. T. R. Station To Be Used.

Superintendent Woollatt, the able super intendent of the Lake Eric and Detroit River Railroad, the new lessees of the L. and P. S. R., left for home to-day after a conference with the city authorities as to the transfer of the latter road. The outcome seemed to be very satisfactory to both parties, and a few days will probably see London's great and independent rail-experience who have contracted so to do. "We are ready to take over the London and Port Stanley whenever it suits the city's convenience," said Mr. Woollat in reply to an ADVERTISER reporter's ques-"Of course they are obliged to tion. furnish us with the necessary terminals. We wish proper freight accommodation here and they have that matter under consideration now. When the freight terminals are provided I suppose the city will give the M. C. R. the required ten days' notice, and we will begin operations at the expiry of that." "Are the passenger terminals settled?" Mr. Woollst replied that the entire question of terminals rested with the city. He understood, however, that the city had secured the use of the Grand Trunk station for the L. and P. S. R. It was not so, he said, that his company would use G. T. R. rolling stock. They would supply their own and it would be of good quality.

Mr. Woollat denied the report that there were bickerings between the L. E. and D. R. and the M. C. R. over the latter's running powers on the L. and P. S. R. under the new lease. Their relations had always been of the most friendly character and he anticipated no friction. Yes, he thought a steamboat service would be furnished at Port Stanley.

THE CITY MOVING. "The whole thing will be settled within a week," said Mayor Essery to an ADVER-TISER reporter this morning. "The matter of a freight station is the only part that still remains unsettled, and we are busy now making satisfactory arrangements to supply that deficiency. A REMARKABLE DEBATE

Between the A. P. A. Leader and Ignatius Donnolly-The Latter Wins. MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 29.-Over 2,000 interested hearers, among them many ladies, were present last night at the debate on the A. P. A. question between Ignatius Donnolly and the A. P. A. leader, Walter Sims, held at the Academy of Music. Sims attempted to prove that Catholics, as subjects of the Pope, could not be good American citizens, because they could be influenced by the head of the church in their actions as citizens. Mr. Donnolly met the charge by proving that Catholics themselves, wherever the head of the church had grown to be too domineering, had rebelled, as is proven by the treatment the Pope had received at the hands of the Italians, a Catholic nation, and the order of the same Government forbidding the Catholic priests from entering public

Mr. Donnolly was awarded the verdict, A. P. A's. The debate lasted two and a half hours, and no demonstration of any kind was made.

The Horses Returned Alone. Cannington, Ont., March 29.-Last night William Towhy, a young man who resided here, while returning from Sunderland, where he had been yesterday, fell out of the rig, and the horses came back alone. Some parties went to look for him and found him about two and a half miles from town lying on the road dead. Mr. Towhy was about 24 years of age, a painter by trade, and had been a resident of Canningon for several years.

plaint-Three Bottles Royal Crown Remedy Effected a Complete Cure

Now Twelve Years and no Symptom of Return of the Disease—Read for Yourself Mrs. James' Words: LONDON, Aug. 30, 1889.

To Mr. Williams:

It is not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to you and! the suffering world that I add my testimony with the many you have already received. Royal Crown Remedy cannot be too highly praised; it has saved my life. For nine years I suffered extremely with Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint and could not retain anything at all onmy stomach without excessive vomiting. Erysipelas set in, which confined me to my bed. Doctors could do me no good. I also tried many other plans with no success. I was induced by Mr. Issac Williams to try his medicine, which I did after much! persuading, Three botties completely cured me and for twelve years I had no symptons of return. Your medicine is worthy of praise. I advise all suffering humanity to try it for it is the best. It should be used until the cure is complete.
