DRIFTING TO DISASTER.

No matter how the crisis in the Ottawa Ministry ends, the conviction is everywhere prevalent that those now in power must soon give place to men more capable, courageous and patriotic.

For many months it has been evident that the Cabinet of Sir Mackenzie Bowell was a Government of make-shifts, with no settled convictions of its duty to the people of Canada, and no straightforward policy on public questions. The men in power have been contented to drift along, reckoning their $8,000 a year each, though some of them never earned one-fourth of that sum in their usual vocations. They have been contented to fill the public service with members of families, and to charge their presentation funeral wreaths to the taxpayers of Canada. Take the Montreal collectorship of customs. It has been vacant for years. Not because it is an unimportant post, but because an M. P. has been promised the job, and the Government knows that it dare not give it to him, because that would open the constituency, and to hold a bye-election at present is to court defeat, as was shown by the recent victories for Liberalism and trade freedom in Antigonish and Vercheres.

Chief Justice Sir Francis Johnson, of Quebec, died over thirteen months ago. Judge Barry, of Montreal, died several months ago. No steps have been taken to fill the vacancies, thought the interests of the public suffer by the delay. One-sixth of the seats in the Dominion Senate are vacant. In April last Premier Bowell wrote a letter to Mr. McNeill, M. P. for North Bruce, in which he stated that all the seats had long since been promised. If the Prime Minister stated facts, what interpretation can be placed upon the delay in filling the vacancies? Many believe that if every one of the seats in the hampering and expensive chamber were vacant, and were never likely to be filled, it would be a good thing. But surely it is an immoral policy, and one calculated to bring the Senate still further into contempt, for a Government to keep seats in it vacant for years.

The administration of justice is delayed and Senatorships are kept dangling before kicking M.P.s, because the men in power are utterly incapable of ruling in a straightforward manner, and are compelled to use every artifice, however clumsy, to keep themselves in office.

They passed an order-in-council granting $2,500,000 to the Hudson Bay Railway, though in its present shape they knew that the scheme was conceived in the interest of a few speculators, and they intended to commit the country to this gigantic payment, and to put it through before the general election, only they became alarmed at the prospects of defeat, when they were arranging to hold the elections last spring. When Parliament met, they fully intended to carry out their bargain with the Winnipeg speculators, but they dared not submit it to Parliament—so indefensible was it—and now another expedient is about to be tried.

On the Manitoba school question the course of the Ministers has also been full of twistings, turnings, indecisive attempts and foolish declarations. For five years have they kept this question in a state of unsettlement, now promising everything to the minority, now hedging, now crawling. Is it any wonder that even its own supporters longer refuse to take it at its word, and express alarm as to the future?

There is no anchor-man in the Cabinet with the magnetism or the power of a Macdonald or a Thompson to formulate a line of conduct that will command success. The men in power have departed from the first principles of right government, and have become mere drifters on the tide. The sober-minded electors of Canada demand a change.

Several Conservative journals assert that what is needed is to throw Sir Mackenzie Bowell overboard, and put Mr. Haggart or Sir Adolphe Caron in his place, but no mere Cabinet shake-up will do. Men and methods such as have proved enormously expensive and humiliating to the people of the Dominion must go together, and the decapitation of a Bowell to insure the elevation of a Haggart or a Caron would be no improvement.

C. P. R. STOCK AND FARM PROSPECTS.

With the announcement that there had been ample rain in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories, and that the crops never looked better than they do now, the stock of the C. P. R.

has gone up several points. There is nothing like peace, plenty and progress among the farmers to boom railway stock, and, indeed, to help business everywhere. From the earth we all get our living, and when farmers are prosperous we all prosper. What Manitoba and the Northwest need today is freedom to buy and to sell as best may seem to them. That assured, the present population will soon increase beyond any previous experience, and that without Government subsidies or the bonusing by Ottawa Ministers of professional philanthropists. The contented settler is the best immigration agent.

POINTS.

It was "Tomorrow" in the by-gone days. Now it is "Next January."

Why should men of business be kept dawdling away their time at Ottawa, in midsummer heat, while the incapable Ministers engage in a series of free fights among themselves?

London should have a botanic garden.

No pavement, however good naturally, will take care of itself.

To say that the present Ottawa Administration is a competent one would require a stretch of imagination beyond that of Robert Louis Stevenson.

Lord Salisbury is not quite so hilarious as he was a fortnight ago.

Premier Bowell had a long interview with Lord Aberdeen yesterday. The Governor-General was going fishing, but came back to Ottawa in response to a pressing message. His Excellency, it seems, has been asked to act as peacemaker between the warring elements in the Cabinet. He should have a care, or he, too, may get a black eye.

Some people are lamenting that because President Cleveland's family are all girls, no voter to take his place at the polls is included in it. Not necessarily so. Women will doubtless have a right to a say in the making of the laws which they, in common with men, must obey, long before the three Misses Cleveland come of age.

There are some pretty mean thieves in Chatham. They steal magazines from the public library. If one of them could be discovered and given an exemplary term in jail it would be nothing short of what he deserves. In Chatham, too, readers of library books are in the habit of writing offensive comments upon books. The librarian should be able to put a stop to that, if the rules of the institution are as comprehensive as they ought to be. No one who scribbles on books should be permitted to share in the benefits of the library.

Cornell had a hollow victory on the River Thames. The crew only won yesterday because the other fellows did not start.

The London City Council having, at the instance of those mainly affected, passed a bylaw for the laying of Dundas and Richmond streets with asphalt pavement, it only devolves upon the authorities to give the work to the contractor who is willing to perform it most satisfactorily for the least money. Let us have a first-class job. Mere cheapness in pavements has again and again been proved dear in the long run. And while the streets are torn up, every citizen and public company interested in making connection with drains should have the work done now. They will find it a costly undertaking if they wait till the pavement is put down. To replace broken asphalt is no easy task.

The kicking Ministers at Ottawa have a string to their resignations.

There are few elections of note in the United States this year. State elections will be held on Nov. 5 in twelve States, as follows: Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Nebraska, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and in the Territory of Utah, which, by that time will have complied with all the conditions required to make it a State. Interest goes away beyond these elections. The contests may give some indication of the probable result of the Presidential election of next year, when not only must a President and Vice-President be chosen, but the fate of 23 Senators, whose terms will expire in 1897, will be affected by the determination of contests in their States. There has been talk of a third term for President Cleveland, but his best friends give it no countenance. The result of the attempt to get a third term for General Grant, if nothing else, would move Mr. Cleveland to reject any proposition to consent to another nomination. No President has yet been elected for more than two terms.

WESTERN ONTARIO ADVANTAGES.

In some parts of Western Ontario—notably in Grey, Bruce and Huron—the severe drought that preceded the recent fall of rain did much damage to the crops, besides causing no end of trouble to farmers through the drying up of creeks and wells. The country in some localities, where the soil is light, was literally burned up and the loss to farmers will be very considerable. In this district the damage has not been nearly so great, and there are hopes that the yield will be better than at one time anticipated. This is something to be thankful for. Indeed, in Western Ontario we are always extremely favored when other parts of the continent suffer. Over a wide portion of the neighboring States this week cyclones and floods have prevailed, carrying death and devastation to many a home. These storms in their northern or eastern progress may reach the edge of the great lakes which separate the two countries, but they never come farther. They spend their force before they reach Canada. We escape all the violent weather, and we experience very little of the disastrous droughts by which these cyclonic disasters are preceded. Do we always appreciate our advantages?

The Toronto News Company show much enterprise in securing the right to publish the books of the great authors of the day as soon as written. The

House and Lobby

Crowded Galleries and a Full House—Caron and Ouimet Absent—Mr. Foster Insists that Everything Is Smooth Sailing with the Conservative Craft—Mr. Laurier Raises an Important Constitutional Point—The Premier Has No Explanations to Make.

(Specially telegraphed by our own Representative.)

Ottawa, July 9.—Crowded public galleries, a full house, the animated discussion of various groups of members, and the subtle air of excitement which is present upon all great occasions, were the accompaniments of the opening of the House this afternoon. Nothing like it has been seen within the chamber for over twenty years. More than 1,000 spectators filled the various galleries, and everybody was on the qui vive to learn what was going to happen. Lady Aberdeen occupied a seat on the floor of the House. It was rather expected from the announcement last night that the Postmaster-General and the Minister of Public Works would appear in their places and explain their position, but they were again absent, and remained out of the House all day.

Mr. Laurier, when the orders of the day were reached, rose and renewed his question as to whether certain members of the Cabinet had resigned. Mr. Foster—All I can say is that I have not any authority from his Excellency to make the statement other than this that no resignations have been received by him.

Mr. Laurier hardly believed the statement could be satisfactory to the House, because whether the fact was officially stated or not, there could be no doubt that they were in the midst of a Ministerial crisis. The Governor-General was here, having cancelled a trip announced for some weeks in advance, which was looked forward to with great pleasure in a part of the country he has not yet visited. "And, moreover," added Mr. Laurier, pointing to the Ministerial benches, "there are two seats vacant, and it is quite evident that their former occupants are not in harmony with their colleagues. He also pointed out that Mr. Angers had absented himself from his place in the Senate. Under these circumstances Mr. Laurier thought it would be trifling with the House for Mr. Foster to pretend that we were not in the presence of a grave crisis. He then argued that under our system of government every important member of the Confederation should be represented in the Cabinet, and no administration should dare to discharge the public business in the absence of the representatives of one of the great Provinces. He told Mr. Foster that if the latter were forming an Administration he would not presume to come to Parliament and attempt to transact public business with one of the great Provinces unrepresented in the Cabinet. The Governor-General had no right to ask Parliament for a penny under present circumstances, and he conceived it to be the duty of the House to adjourn and give opportunity to the Prime Minister to fill the vacancies or to confer with his Excellency upon the condition of affairs. For these reasons he moved that the House do now adjourn.

Mr. Foster expressed astonishment that Mr. Laurier should make such a motion upon the strength of mere newspaper rumor or common report. (Deafening cheers from the Opposition.) Even if one of the Provinces was not represented it was all right so long as the Government retained the confidence of the House. Mr. Laurier had no right to assume that because there were vacant seats on the Ministerial benches that the members formerly in those seats were no longer members of the Government or in harmony with the Government. He was wrong in both assumptions. Mr. Foster sought to make a point by reminding the House that Mr. Ives was a Quebec Minister, and he was not credited with having resigned. He continued that it was poor doctrine that every Province must be represented. In due course he would be able to make an authoritative statement to the House.

Mr. Mills said that the House was anxious to know whether there was a complete Administration in existence. Sir Hector Langevin, who was rising was received by loud cheers from the Ministerialists, agreed with Mr. Laurier as to the representation of the Provinces, and said that when explanations were made, if a vote of want of confidence were required, he would support it, but he was compelled to oppose Mr. Laurier's motion now.

After Mr. Dupont had uttered practically the same sentiments in French, a vote was taken, resulting in the defeat of the motion by 72 yeas to 111 nays, a Government majority of 39. There were only three Conservatives who voted for the motion—Messrs. McCarthy, O'Brien and LePine. The latter represents Montreal East.

In the Senate Senator Scott asked the Premier if he was prepared to relieve the tension in the House and the country by making a statement regarding the uncontradicted reports of the resignation of Cabinet Ministers.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell said he was not in a position to gratify the laudable curiosity of his honorable friend. He, however, soon expected to be able to gratify that curiosity.

NOTES.
The committee on banking and commerce further considered the Independent Foresters' Bill. There was strong opposition offered by the straight-line insurance companies to the clause giving power to increase the amount to which a member may insure from $3,000 to $5,000. No decision was reached at adjournment.

TORONTO VS. SYRACUSE.
Toronto, July 9.—The tail-enders defeated Syracuse today over the Don in a game that was full of features. There was plenty of hitting, including three home runs, nine errors altogether, bases on balls galore, and some sharp fielding. Besides, the contest was close, each club alternately in the lead. Both Day and Gray were hit hard and often. Kilroy pitched two innings, and was no improvement. A single, a hunt, Mincham's wild throw and Galt's long fly produced the winning run in the ninth, with one hand out.

THE YANKEES NOWHERE.
London, July 10.—In the second heat, second trial heat, for the Grand Challenge Cup, the Trinity Hall crew beat the Cornell eight, Trinity won from Cornell with the greatest ease, going over the course in 7 minutes, 15 seconds. The Cornell crew broke down at the bottom of the heat as if dead. The American spectators ashore and afloat were heartbroken at the collapse. The grand stand was filled with brightly dressed Americans, girls, and many of them were crying at the finish. The Brits were wild with delight at the victory. The general opinion is that the Cornell crew were hopelessly over-trained, and that there was no climate or malaria about it.

In the second trial heat for the Grand Challenge Cup the New College, Oxford, eight beat the Eton crew by a length and a half.

MAKING ENDLESS CAR TRACKS.
The Interesting Process of Welding Rails by Electricity.

Tom L. Johnson's welder began operations on the new Jefferson avenue track just east of Dequindre street at 8:30 o'clock last night, and a large crowd hovered around until a late hour watching the interesting process of making an endless rail. The machinery is carried on three cars, which, when seen from a little distance, look like a railroad wrecking train.

The first car, weighing eight tons, is the contracting machine by means of which contraction and expansion of the rails is overcome artificially. The patents covering this machine are owned by the Johnson company, and this is the first time the apparatus has been used in the electric welding of rails.

At the end of the car is a hydraulic jack, which is operated by a band, and develops a pressure of about 100 tons. After the fish plates, which are temporarily put on the joints in order to hold the rails in position, have been removed, the jack is placed over the joint. It is so arranged that one jaw seizes one rail and the other jaw takes hold of the adjoining rail. The pump is started, and the force compresses the rails sufficiently to overcome the contracting effects of cold temperature on iron. Thus in cold weather the rails have a tendency to contract, and the possibility of a defective weld breaking is thus obviated. When the rails are made the ends are cut with a slight bevel to insure a tight fit on the top and bottom. After the rails have been artificially compressed the ends are forced apart from one-sixteenth to one-quarter of an inch, and a section of rail, fitting the opening, is inserted to prevent the rails from expanding again.

On the second car, which is also used for the carriage of tools, are the emery wheels operated by independent motors which receive their current from the trolley. The emery wheels are used in grinding off the rust and scales from the rails, about one inch from both sides of the joint, in order to make a quicker job and a better and more even weld.

The third car is the welder proper. It weighs 32 tons, and contains a lot of electrical machinery. There are two large motor dynamos, one of which is used to increase the voltage of the current coming from the trolley, which varies on the trolley from 400 volts up to 500 volts. From this dynamo the current passes to the alternator, which changes the direct current of 500 volts to an alternating current of 330 volts, at the same time increasing the current from 300 to 500 amperes. The current then passes to the real welding apparatus, which consists of two transformers in multiple, and is filled with copper jaws for applying pressure to the weld after heating the rails. In these transformers the current is changed from 500 to about 30,000 amperes. This current is applied to the ends of the rails, and heats them in five to six minutes to a temperature of nearly 2,500 degrees Fahrenheit. The only thing used in addition to the electric force is powdered borax, applied with a copper spoon, for the purpose of removing any dirt adhering to the rails and aiding fusion. The copper jaws of the welder are kept cool by means of water pumped up from a tank underneath the car. It holds 500 gallons, and is filled from the street hydrants.

During the early hours, after midnight, when but few cars are running, four joints, or two rail lengths can be made in one hour, but during the day and evening there are too many interruptions, as the trolley connections have to be suspended whenever a car passes. Thus, during fifteen hours' work out of twenty-four, progress is made at the rate of about one-eighth of a mile. Two shifts of nine men each are employed in doing this work.—Detroit Free Press.

JOHN PALMER'S FLIGHT.
Tried to Escape Arrest and Came Out Second Best.

His Head Is in Bandages Now—Palmer Charged With Robbery and Non-Support.

John Palmer, well known in the southeasterly section of the fifth ward, displayed great lack of judgment last night by trying to escape from a policeman. His attempt was not only a signal failure, but ended in his receiving a badly damaged head.

A day or two since Henry Chapman, a farm laborer working near the limits, in Westminster, came to the city. He knocked around considerably, had a few drinks, and finally ran amuck. Palmer on Clarence street, near York. The pair had an interview, when Chapman claims Palmer knocked him down new one, but one with a narrow escape. Palmer was subsequently arrested for being drunk, and on appearing in the Police Court lodged a complaint against Palmer.

Palmer had left the city, and Detective Nickle and Rider were put on the trail. They located their man in Mrs. Seston's house at Lobo village, and late last evening, with P. C. S. Monaghan and Woodway, went to his arrest. Monaghan was guarding the rear door of the place, when Palmer made a bee line for the back fence. He was relieved enough by being pulled a sleeve out of the shirt he wore and on which the policeman had a hold, but was too slow to escape a swinging blow from the baton. It caught him on the head and made him drop. Palmer was brought to this city, and in this morning's Police Court he presented a miserable appearance, his head being wrapped in bandages all stained with blood. He was committed for trial on the robbery charge with Seston, and laid an information charging him with non-support. It comes up in a week.

Palmer has quite a record. He first gained notoriety by being severely slashed in the row with the famous Henderson brothers, of the Hamilton road, about ten years ago. He has served a term in the Central and has been up for non-support. Timmie Jacoby, recently sent to the Mercer for this city, was in the house with Palmer when he was nipped.

Mrs. Elizabeth Shea pleaded guilty to keeping a disorderly house on York street, and was released on suspended sentence. Her sister, Ellen Carey, and mother, Margaret Carey, were inmates. They were similarly dealt with. Julia Carey pleaded guilty to keeping a disorderly house on Van street. She also was allowed off on suspended sentence. Suspended judgment was passed in the case of Daniel Wade, charged with allowing horses to run at large. No evidence was offered against him. Timmie van, charged with assaulting Mrs. Shea, and the case was dismissed. Three drunks were discharged.

THE BIGGEST YET.
Opening of the Christian Endeavor Convention.

An Attendance of at Least 50,000 Looked For.

Boston, Mass., July 10.—To-day is the first of the six during which Boston will be the scene of the largest religious convention the world has ever seen, and evidences of the gathering of the Christian Endeavor hosts are met on every train. The members of the great Endeavor society could not ask for better weather than marks the opening day of the convention. Thirty-thousand delegates have arrived. It is expected that about 15,000 more delegates will pour into the city late to-night and early to-morrow, and the indications are that the anticipated fully 50,000 delegates will attend the various meetings of the convention.

Live News in a Line.

The next International Railway Congress will meet in Paris in 1900.

There was an increase of 530 boats passing the American Soo Canal in June, as compared with the same month last year, and a large increase in registered and freight tonnage.

FRIGHTENED TO DEATH.
Convulsions Caused by the Explosion of a Cracker.

New York, July 10.—Richard Kobach, of No. 109 Hudson street, Kobach, notified the police yesterday that his 4-year-old daughter Frieda had been frightened into convulsion from which she died in a few minutes. Thursday night, by the discharge of a cannon-cracker.

The child was in a baby carriage which stood near the steps of her parents' home, when an unknown young man threw a large cannon-cracker upon the sidewalk. After the explosion little Frieda was found lying dead in the bottom of the carriage.

CYNICISM.
The poor drunkard lay in the gutter, while the thoughtless crowd jeered. Along came the good-hearted citizen and placed the unfortunate in a standing position.

A Musical Crowd.

A Big Influx of Visitors to London

For the Annual Festival of the United Choirs.

Special Trains from All Points—The Competition at Queen's Park.

There was a big crowd in town to-day, and a musical one, too.

The streets were thick with happy strangers, and as the large majority were choir members they were mostly young and charming. Red and blue badges, fringed with gilt, were conspicuously displayed on coat lapels and blouses. The badge designated the residence of the wearer, and the choir to which he or she belonged. Judging by the weather and the crowd, the fourth annual festival of the Western Ontario Choirs will be a grand success.

Excursion rates prevailed on all the roads, and regular trains brought in unusual numbers from all points in the compass. In addition, the Grand Trunk ran five special trains to London. The first arrived from Sarnia at 8:55, bringing in choir members and friends from the Tunnel Town, Petrolia, Watford, Wyoming and intermediate stations.

At 9:30 the Goderich train brought a large crowd from all points on the Huron and Bruce. At 10:10 a big crowd came from the east, as far as Hamilton. At 10:20 perhaps the largest special of the day arrived on the Stratford branch, conveying scores of enthusiastic singers from Waterloo opposite the excellent band of the Waterloo Musical Society. At 10:40 excursionists came in gratifying numbers. The M. C. R. and C. P. R. swelled the visiting stream.

A great many brought lunch baskets, and after seeing the sights of Dundas and Richmond streets, made a bee-line for Queen's Park to dine under the shady pines in picnic style. The W. C. T. U. dining hall, which was under its usual excellent management, did a rushing business. The visitors were highly pleased with the beauty of the park and the arrangements made for the open air concert in the horse ring.

The Waterloo band, one of the finest in the Province, paraded the streets prior to the grand concert, which commenced shortly after 2 o'clock.

At 5:25 p.m. about 500 choir members took the Port Stanley train to enjoy a glimpse of London's charming lake and the "Clock" corner, Richmond and Dundas streets.

Tomorrow those who remain in London will hold a grand picnic at Port Stanley.

When the concert commenced there were over 2,500 people on the grand stands, and many were still arriving. The singers and orchestra were stationed on a large platform opposite the grand stand, and numbered several hundreds in all. The mixed choruses are to sing "The Departure" and the male choruses "Home, Sweet Home" in the competition.

The judges will announce their decision in Princess Rink tonight.

A BRILLIANT EVENT.

The Rendition of Haydn's "Creation" in the Princess Rink—A Brilliant Audience.

The musical festival of the Western Ontario choir was ushered in brilliantly last evening at the Princess Rink. There were between 2,000 and 3,000 people in the big edifice, despite the coolness of the weather, which doubtless kept many at home. Such an attendance displayed not only an intelligent appreciation of classical music in London, but a proper acknowledgment of the self-sacrificing efforts of the local music lovers to furnish the public with works of the highest standard. Their interpretation of Haydn's sublime "Creation" justified the splendid patronage, and must have inspired citizens with pride in London's musical material.

The immortal oratorio was rendered by the London Choral Society of 250 voices, and the London Symphony Orchestra of 60 pieces, assisted by Mrs. Martin Murphy, of Hamilton, soprano; Mr. Fred Jenkins, of Cleveland, tenor; and Mr. Fred Warrington, of Toronto, bass. The performers occupied tiers of seats at the south end of the rink. The ladies were uniformly dressed in white, and the gentlemen in black, and the large group presented a pretty and imposing appearance, as did the large audience attired in the various hues of summer garb. The excellent acoustics of the building carried the music with beautiful clearness to the farthest seat.

The soloists were no strangers to a London audience, and confirmed the good impression made on previous occasions. To their rich and well-trained voices they added the tone of clear enunciation, which made every word distinct. Mr. Roselle Poocke, the conductor, who must have felt peculiarly gratified at the success of his earnest labors, wielded the baton with vigor and precision. The choral and orchestral response was ready, full and well concerted. The fine shading of the tender passages showed sympathetic insight, governed by technical skill, that evidenced long and careful training. The loftier attacks were confident and well sustained. Frequent and enthusiastic applause encouraged the performers.

Mr. Poocke called attention to the grand competition of Western Ontario choirs in Queen's Park this afternoon.

There is no royal road to fortune, but you will find an easy one to it if you will

Mr. Samuel Barker, of this city, who was summoned to England some weeks ago, after the reconstruction of the Grand Trunk Railway board, arrived home this morning. Upon arriving in England Mr. Barker met the new president of the G. T. It has been arranged that the president shall sail for Canada to make a thorough inspection of the entire system on Aug. 17, arriving in Montreal about Aug. 17. He will be followed by Vice-President Pontey, Silk and Mullins by another of the directors. President Wilson will begin his work immediately upon arriving in Montreal. Mrs. Foster, of Kent street, has just recovered from a serious attack of La Grippe. This is the second siege she has had of this influenza, the first of which attacked Mrs. Foster about three years ago, and left her with a very troublesome cough, accompanied with chronic bronchitis, and a complication of other diseases, which made it almost impossible for her to attend church without disturbing the congregation by coughing, and, indeed, Mrs. Foster assures us that so bad were the spasms that she often feared she would burst a blood vessel during one of these severe attacks. It was very natural that under such circumstances numerous friends would recommend as many different "cure alls." She tried Cherry Pectoral, Tar, Linseed and other preparations, but was growing generally worse when a friend who had been benefited by Barkwell's Bronchial Balsam advised her to try that, and in a few days she was out of bed, and the best feature is that she is now entirely freed from all symptoms of the Bronchitis, of which she never hoped to be cured. Mr. Millar, a neighbor, also had a bad cough and was completely cured by the same preparation. zxxv

HONORING THEIR LEADER.

Mr. C. J. Beal Presented With an Affectionate Address by the Members of His Society Class.

The members of Mr. C. J. Beal's class (Dundas Center Methodist) met as usual on Monday evening, but at the close they had a genuine surprise for their leader, who, notwithstanding his numerous duties in connection with church work, finds time to look after the spiritual interests of a large and interesting class. At the close of the regular meeting, Mr. D. A. McDermid stepped forward and read the following address, which speaks for itself:

"Dear Sir and Brother—We, the members of your society class, being deeply conscious of the sacrifice of time and devotion to the interests of the church manifested by you for so many years, deem it expedient that some united acknowledgment on our part would be in keeping with the sentiments entertained by us as individuals.

"Yours has been an exceedingly active and useful life in connection with our church. As recording steward and secretary of the trust, and your services have been invaluable, involving an amount of labor that few would care to undertake. As a member of all important committees, the church has reaped the benefit of your judgment and experience, and as a teacher in the Sunday school you have set an example of faithfulness and assiduity that we would do well to emulate.

"But it is in connection with your services as leader of this class that we are more directly concerned at this time. Although we may not have hitherto conveyed to you in words our appreciation of your services, we have not been unmindful of the fact that we were highly privileged, indeed, in having you as our spiritual guide and class leader. We have ever found you prompt and regular in your attendance, earnest in your desire to make the class helpful and profitable to all, and kindly considerate of our individual feelings and shortcomings. We do not propose to offer you any commendation for your services, but we do ask your acceptance of this copy of the Book of Books, as expressing in a slight degree the high estimate we place on the services you have so cheerfully and efficiently rendered us. May it continue to be your guide and counsel through life, revealing to you 'the unsearchable riches of Christ,' and with you we reverently and untiringly pray, 'Open Thou our eyes that we may behold wondrous things out of the law.' That you may be long spared to lead us in our earnest prayer.

"After the presentation the ladies of the class invited those present to partake of refreshments, which had been provided in an adjoining room, and a very pleasant hour was spent.
