KAISER ABDICATES!

THE ABDICATION OF THE KAISER IS OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCED

MAUBEUGE FORTRESS FALLS TO BRITISH; HAIG GAINS A HOLD ALONG THE SCHELDT

Last of the Great French Strongholds Taken By the Germans In Early Part of War Has Been Recaptured.

London, Nov. 9.—The British forces have captured the fortress of Maubeuge, Field Marshal Haig announced today. South of Maubeuge, the British are pushing eastward and are well beyond the Avesnes-Maubeuge road.

The text of the statement reads: "The fortress of Maubeuge has been captured by the Guards and 62nd divisions. We have made good progress south of that town and are well east of the Avesnes-Maubeuge road. "North of Tournai we are established on the east bank of the Scheldt about Herinnes and Berchem." (These two towns are about nine miles apart.)

Maubeuge was the last important French fortress in the hands of the Germans. Before the war it was considered a fortress of the first class, and guarded the Namur-Charleroi route into France by the way of the Sambre River.

The town is situated on both banks of the Sambre, and was founded in the seventh century. Several famous battlefields of French wars prior to 1800 are in close proximity to Maubeuge.

Maubeuge was taken by the Germans after heavy fighting with the British and French, late in August, 1914. The town is within a few miles of the Belgian border south of Mons, which is thirteen miles northward by rail. Namur is about forty miles east-northeast of Maubeuge, and Charleroi is about midway between the two.

MORE THAN 7,500 SQUARE MILES OF TERRITORY HAS BEEN RETAKEN

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—Capture of the fortress of Maubeuge by the British forces, Gen. March, United States chief of staff, said today, marks the severance of the last German army to that sector of the western front, and will make it impossible for the enemy to shift his forces to meet a new attack. Summarizing the allied successes since the inauguration of the forward movement, Gen. March pointed out that the Germans have been driven 64 miles farther from Paris, and the territory they occupy in France has been reduced from 10,000 square miles to less than 2,500. The American 1st Army, under Gen. Pershing, has advanced 30 miles in the last eight days.

AMERICAN ARMY EAST OF THE RIVER MEUSE CONTINUES DRIVE

With the American Army on the Sedan Front, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—The American army east of the Meuse continued to advance today despite strong machine gun resistance.

The Americans went ahead in this region, both north and south of Damvillers.

Along the line of the Meuse, on the front from Sassey to Marlemont, last night was marked by artillery and machine gun fighting.

SERBIANS ON WAY TO SARAJEVO.

London, Nov. 9.—(British Wireless Service.)—In their advance north of the Danube and the Save, the Serbian troops entered Moldava, Bazias, Kubin, Panesova, Semlin, Klenak and Milovitz, according to a Serbian official statement received here.

The Provisional Government at Sarajevo, Bosnia, which has invited the Serbian troops to come to its assistance, the statement adds, is headed by Atanasigje Chola. The Serbians are now on their way to Sarajevo.

ALLIES ENTER SARAJEVO.

Saloniki, Nov. 9.—Allied troops have entered Sarajevo, in Bosnia, according to an official statement issued today by the French headquarters here. It was at Sarajevo that Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria was assassinated just prior to the outbreak of the great war.

FRENCH FORCES RESUME FORWARD MARCH ALONG THE ENTIRE FRONT

Paris, Nov. 9.—The French armies this morning resumed the forward march along the entire front the war office announced today.

The text of the statement reads: "There was artillery and machine gun activity at several points on the front during the night. This morning the French resumed their march forward along the entire line."

BRITISH ESTABLISH A FOOTHOLD ON EAST BANK OF SCHELDT

London, Nov. 9.—British troops in Flanders have crossed the River Scheldt on a wide front north of Tournai, and have established themselves on the east bank, according to Field Marshal Haig's announcement today.

LOCAL TEMPERATURES.

Following were the highest and lowest temperatures recorded in London during the 24 hours previous to 8 o'clock last night: Highest, 55; lowest, 46. The official temperatures for the 12 hours previous to 8 a.m. today were: Highest, 56; lowest, 51.

A VOLUNTEER AT LAST.

The local mobilization centre had a busy day yesterday. One volunteer, G. P. W. Lamp, was examined and placed in B2. Six men were re-examined from the C. A. S. C., and placed in the C. E. F. for active service. Two defaulters also were examined.

$298,279,650 SUBSCRIBED TO VICTORY LOAN

ANARCHY REIGNS IN INTERIOR OF DUAL MONARCHY

Deplorable Conditions Are Reported by Traveler From Vienna.

Zurich, Nov. 9.—Deplorable conditions in Austria are described by a traveler of prominence who has arrived here from Vienna. Along the road the train was invaded by crowds. In places the coaches occupied by Count Leopold von Boudiska, former foreign minister of Austria-Hungary, and the Prince of Schoenburg were taken and the nobles were ejected. Bands of disorderly soldiers installed themselves upon the roofs of the cars.

Stores in villages along the way have been pillaged and foodstuffs have been carried off. The traveler confirms reports that anarchy reigns in the interior of Austria-Hungary. Farms are being pillaged and shops sacked by throngs of deserting soldiers. The bourgeoisie, fearing the Bolshevik movement, desire allied intervention, he says.

"The Greatest Moments of History"

A clock ticks the moments away, and somewhere in France the destiny of the world is being decided. You are living in these few next hours a period that has no parallel in all history.

An expectant world from Glasgow to Hong Kong, from Port Said to Rio Janeiro, from pole to pole, stands on the tiptoe of anticipation.

Millions are watching the hourglass of events, through which the sand runs slowly. When the last grain of German arrogance has filtered down, the hour shall strike!

The world shall be free! Peace on earth, goodwill to men! Sit down and think it over!

CALLS UPON SIR ROBERT BORDEN TO REMAIN HOME OR RESIGN THE PREMIERSHIP

Financial Times in Editorial Points Out the Pressing Need of Government's Head Here During Readjustment Period.

[Special to The Advertiser.] Montreal, Nov. 9.—The Financial Times says today: "Coinciding with the arrival of the German armistice delegation at the French lines, it is announced that Premier Borden and several important members of the Canadian cabinet are leaving at once for Europe to attend the peace conference. We have the utmost sympathy with the desire to have Canada properly represented at this historic assembly, and we fully realize how attractive to a man like Sir Robert Borden, the tremendously dignified attitude of the occupant of a seat at the international green baize table, side by side with the rulers of Britain, France, Serbia, and Montenegro, must necessarily be. But we feel reasonably confident that no other country will send to this conference a statesman, whose absence involves the complete paralysis of its domestic government to the extent to which Sir Robert's absence paralyzes domestic government of Canada last year, and is likely to paralyze it again at this much more critical moment."

United States Not To Send Wilson. "The rulers of European countries do not attend this conference do not have to separate themselves from their parliaments by three thousand miles of sea, and they do not have to leave their respective countries to stagnate without any body to lead and control their national policy. The United States will not send either its president or the head of any section of its Government, and Canada should not do so either. If Sir Robert Borden attends the peace conference, he should do so in the capacity of a diplomatic plenipotentiary, and should resign the premiership and the leadership of the House of Commons."

These positions are necessary for the maintenance of his prestige at the round table. That prestige is amply assured by his personal character and authority, and by the fact that he has held the confidence of the people of Canada for seven difficult years. The business of the Dominion Government, which has never been more important or more urgent or more in need of constant and rapid decisions and authoritative leadership than at this epoch of readjustment cannot be properly carried on with the head of that government three thousand miles away."

Will Delay Parliament. "So long as the head of the Government remains away the tendency will be to delay the summoning of Parliament as long as possible and to keep Parliament marking time and doing nothing after it is summoned. Instead of that, this country needs the immediate summoning of Parliament and the immediate consideration and decision by Parliament (under the best available leadership) of a score of intensely important and pressing questions."

Copenhagen, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—The uprising in North-western Germany, according to the only direct news from Germany early today, is reported to have spread to Hanover, Oldenburg, and other cities. Generally, the revolt is not attended by serious disturbances.

FURTHER TROUBLE IS REPORTED IN HAMBURG.

Copenhagen, Nov. 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Reports from the Danish border town of Vamdrup say that all is quiet in Schleswig, but that further disturbances are reported to have occurred in Hamburg.

ASKED TO FORM CABINET. Madrid, Nov. 9.—King Alfonso has asked Count Alvaro De Romanones to form a ministry. The latter has promised to answer by noon today.

MAXIMILIAN'S RESIGNATION HAS NOT BEEN ACCEPTED YET

Kaiser Still Considering, While the Chancellor Holds Office.

Copenhagen, Nov. 9.—Emperor William has not yet accepted the resignation of Prince Maximilian of Baden, the German chancellor, according to a Berlin message today. The emperor, who has been thoroughly informed by the chancellor regarding the general situation, the message adds, has asked Prince Maximilian to continue holding the office provisionally until the emperor's final decision is reached.

THREE ARE KILLED, TWENTY INJURED IN HEAD-ON COLLISION

Passenger Train Collides With a Soldiers' Special at Aurora, Ill.

WERE GOING TO GAME

Wreck Is Believed To Have Been Due to Misinterpreted Orders.

Aurora, Ill., Nov. 9.—A train bearing hundreds of soldiers from Camp Grant to witness the football game at Chicago with the Camp Taylor squad was wrecked in a head-on collision with a passenger train near here early this morning.

Three dead have been taken from the wreck. The injured will number 20, troop officers say. The Camp Grant football special consisted of fifteen coaches crowded with 1,200 soldiers and the Camp Grant team. The football special had the right of way over westbound passenger, which has been given orders to meet the special at Sugar Grove siding. According to army medical men it did not do so, the two trains meeting head-on, just before the siding.

The wreck of the train carrying hundreds of soldiers from Camp Grant to witness the Camp Grant-Camp Taylor football game here this afternoon will not result in postponement of the contest, E. C. Wetten, chairman of the committee in charge of the game, announced.

Members of the Camp Grant football eleven were not on the train, he said, the players having reached Chicago last night.

INSUBORDINATION IS REPORTED AMONG THE GERMAN NAVAL TROOPS

Amsterdam, Lokeren. Nov. 9.—Cases of insubordination occurred on Wednesday among the troops of the German naval division quartered at Lokeren, 12 miles northeast of Ghent, according to a report from Sas-van-Gent.

ALLIES HAMMER THE HUNS WHILE WHOLE WORLD AWAIT'S FOR GERMANY'S ANSWER

Kaiser's Empire Seething With Revolt While Allied Armies Are Within Short Distance of the Enemy's Territory.

NO WORD RECEIVED YET.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—So far as the American Government was advised late today no word had been received by Marshal Foch from the German high command since the courier of the armistice envoys started back through the battle lines last night with the surrender terms and the ultimatum for their acceptance by 11 o'clock Monday morning.

New York, Nov. 9.—The Associated Press this morning says: Germany's answer to the allied terms for an armistice is not expected to reach Marshal Foch's headquarters until the middle of this (Saturday) afternoon at the very earliest. The courier left for Spa, the German headquarters, immediately after the terms were delivered and the enemy had been given 72 hours in which to send his answer.

Few details of the terms have been divulged, nor have any of the dramatic elements of the scene at the allied commander-in-chief's headquarters been reported. Nothing but the briefest dispatches have told of an event the consequences of which will affect the whole subsequent history of civilization.

In the meantime, the allied armies are grimly sticking to their task of driving the foe from the soil of France. No one can exactly locate the line where the contending armies are fighting today. It is known, however, that the French have reached Metziers, and that the British have captured Avesnes. It is probable that the Germans now hold a strip of French soil not over six or seven miles in width from east of Valenciennes to the south bank of the Moselle River. Further south, the line runs along the frontier, but is nowhere more than a couple of miles west of Germany's domains.

KAISER AT SPA. Bavaria has been declared a republic and the Wittelsbach dynasty headed by King Ludwig III. is deposed. Emperor William's abdication has been demanded by the Socialists, but has been met with refusal from the emperor, who fears to quit office at such a critical juncture in the history of Germany.

The revolution is seemingly rapidly spreading through the great industrial and maritime cities of Prussia, Essen, the site of the great Krupp munition works, being the latest place reported to be disaffected.

RUSSIAN PEASANTS FILLED WITH ABJECT TERROR THAT BOLSHEVIKI WILL CONTINUE TO ROB AND KILL

People Along the Dvina and Vaga Rivers in Fear of Lives—Men Made To Dig Their Own Graves and Jump Into Them By the White Guards.

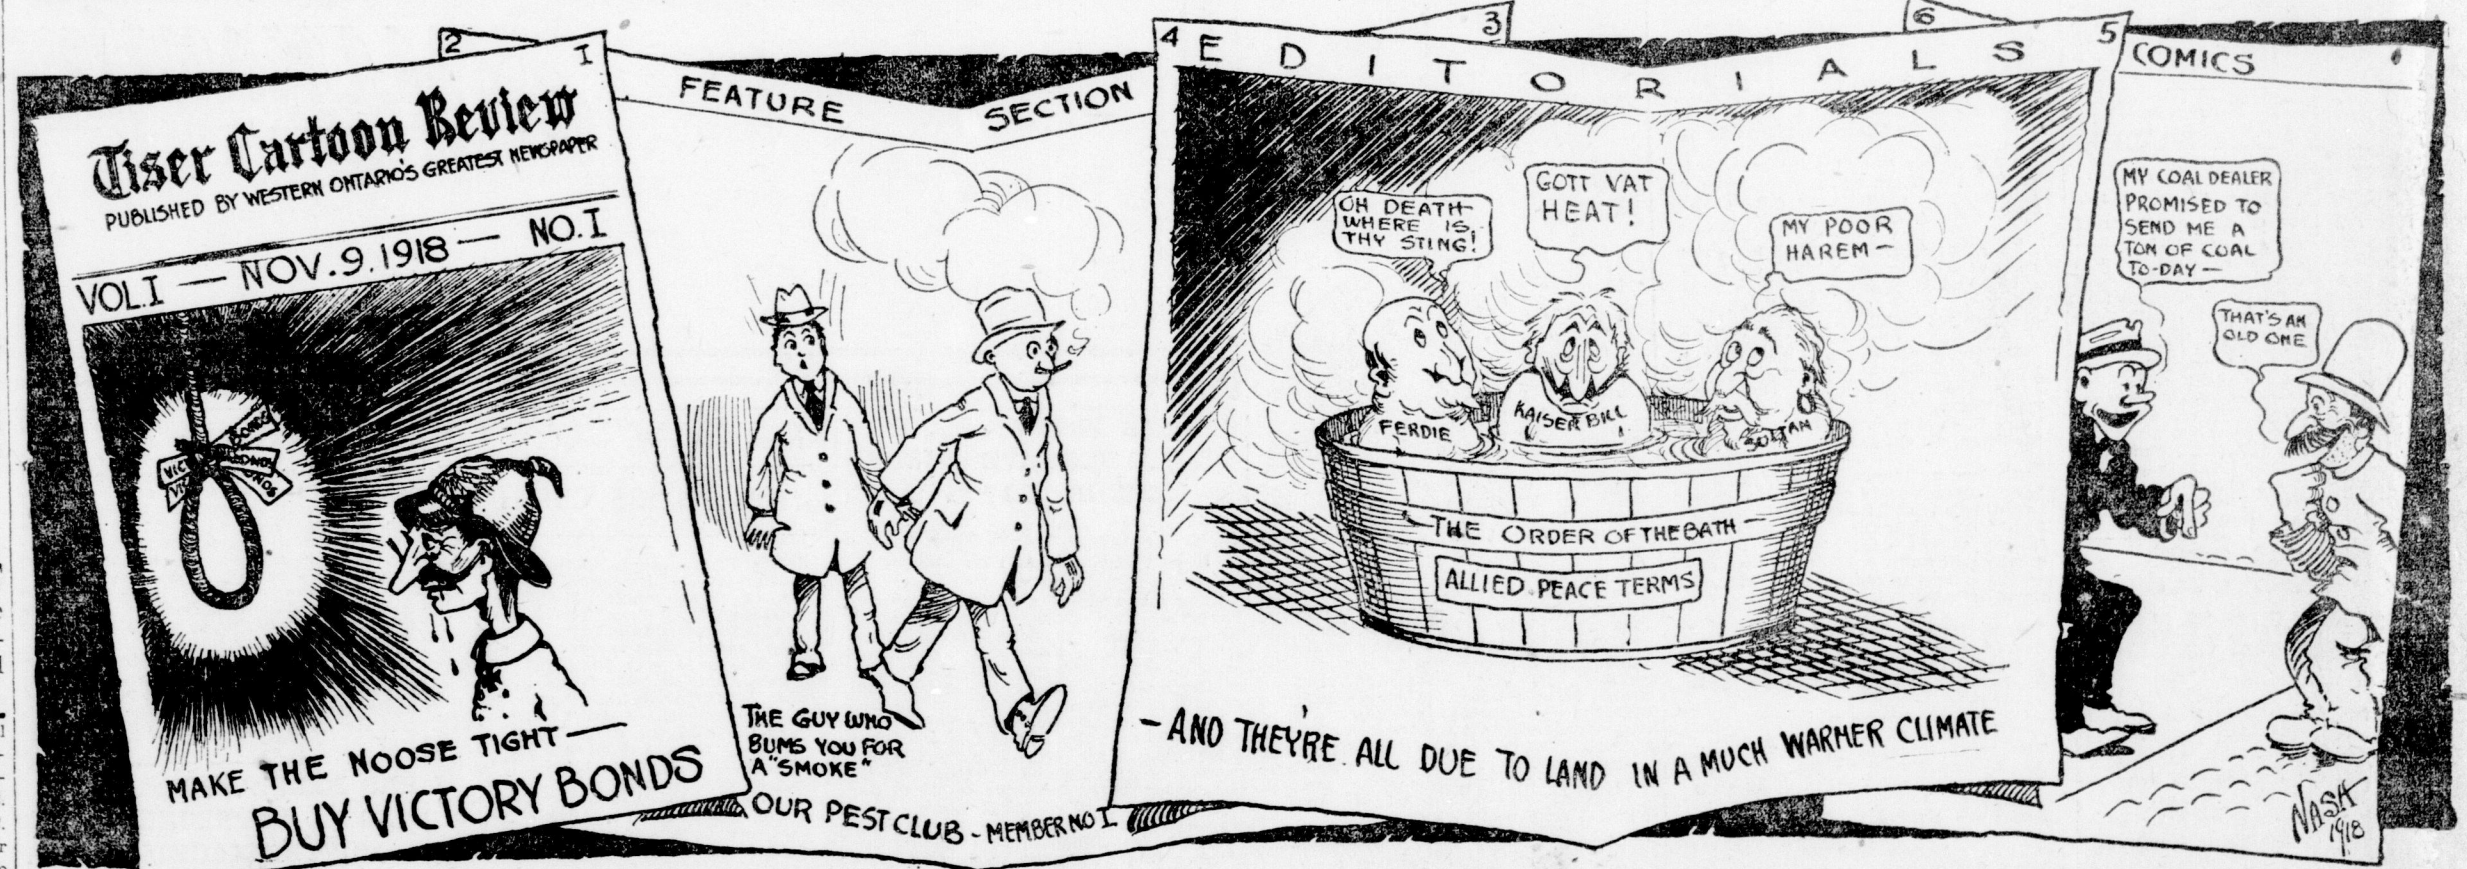

Archangel, Oct. 12.—Abject terror that the Bolsheviks are coming to rob and kill reigns in the hearts of peasants in many little villages on the banks of the Dvina and Vaga rivers back of the allied lines.

The correspondent, who has just returned from the Dvina-Vaga front, found the peasantry full of hatred for the Bolsheviks, but afraid to fight. In many places they have seen their friends shot and bayoneted, or brutally killed by slow torturing methods when suspected of aiding the Allies.

In one little village, it was related to the correspondent, Bolsheviks compelled three peasants to dig their own graves and jump into them to "try them out." The peasant were shot a moment later. This was done, the people charged by white guards.

The peasants say they are the real Russian people, and they want the Allies to send sufficient forces to guarantee a speedy end to the reign of terror by the Bolsheviks, whom the peasants regard as fanatical savages.

Meanwhile poverty in the villages is increasing. There is no kerosene or candles and the people have gone back three centuries, using primitive iron lanterns, in which to burn birch fagots for light. They have had no tobacco for many months, and they are smoking dried moss and leaves.

FOR YOUR TOMORROW THEY GAVE THEIR TODAY. KEEP FAITH! BUY BONDS!

"Fair Co-eds" Are Made Fairer Still By Sophomore Art

Western "U" Freshettes Get Usual Baptism.

The freshettes at the Western University were initiated at 10 o'clock today morning, when by "bubbling" and otherwise, the sophomores managed to get all the "fair co-eds" in room No. 10 and compelled them to suffer various kinds of tortures.

Half-dressing and painting the faces in all the fashionable colors of yellow, green and blue, administering mysterious doses from a black bottle by means of a syringe, were just a few of the tortures endured by the first-year damsels.

They were also blindfolded and made to perform stunts for the edification of their seniors, including the Highland fling, swallowing raw oysters, rolling onions with their noses to the Dead March in Saul, lopping up sour milk, singing "Mary had a little lamb" backwards, and the humiliating of all, learning the war cry of Sam—"Wa-ta-na-Sam," which when repeated very quickly resolved itself into "What an ass I am." It had been planned by the sophomores to take their victims down-town in autos, but the wet weather prevented this climax.

However, all this was but the beginning of the initiation. Later came the long journey, blindfolded, through the corridors of the college building, and finally the removal of the eye bandage in a darkened upper room, where only light proceeded from the white draped figure of "Venus," the patron saint of "21." The freshettes were all made to kneel before this figure and swear allegiance to the sophomore year "21."

A general range of 16 minutes at Professor Brown, newly arrived at the Western University from Columbia, had not been among the initiations.

REHEARSING FOR HIS THRILLING MOVIE STUNT

Local Young Man Works With Vanishing Car Step.

Intending to step unconcernedly from a street car late last night, Vincent Perry suddenly discovered that his car was in close contact with the curb. In trying to explain why he was in such a predicament, Mr. Perry said that when he started to alight from the car the steps seemed to vanish from under him, leaving him without any solid substance which to stand on. He said that the steps of the passenger-car cars fold up when the doors close, but whether this closing took place too soon is not known.

KILLED IN ACTION AFTER FINE SERVICE

Pte. Lemen J. Laur was killed in action on Oct. 11. This was the latest brand, and they're sure to touch the spot. You've got to hurry while the hurrying's good. For the Kaiser's on the run, now don't be slow, come across with the dough. If you want your share of the fun, the tent is up and the big show on, with a good front seat for all, three seats for a dime, at the German swine. With Bonds both large and small, the Bonds are ready so don't hang back. And keep the line a-laggin', buy one for "paw" and two for "maw." Same price both sides of the Buy one for Willie, and one for Pat, and one for sister Kate. For a sledgehammer clout, at old for a shout. And it's your fault if you're late. Now loosen up for there are no blanks. And we need a half a billion, and the Kaiser's mite has a place in the fight. Same as Astorbilt's big million.

Norman Tovell was addressing the ments of the Imperial munitions board, to invest in bonds," said Mr. Tovell, "your stock here is bound to depreciate after the war."

"We make stockings though. How can it," replied one of the girls. "I'm afraid you've made a mistake," came back Norm. "It's the bonds that go into the stockings."

Don't quit because the Germans do.

P. B. Fetterly is the original cash extractor. He headed the list of salesmen Friday, selling 10 bonds for the sum of $10,700. A. Gibbons with 11 applications sold bonds valued at $6,500.

Bond salesmen are returning over their territories and finding that a number of people on account of the exceptionally good war news are doubling up on their subscriptions. This is good business. Why not join them yourself?

It is rumored that Controller Sid Little will speak in the Delaware Church Sunday morning in the interests of the Victory Loan. At the time of going to press this rumor could not be confirmed. It was thought that the controller was out on the farm, in the barnyard gaining inspiration for the speech.

Norman Tovell is full of good Victory Loan arguments. Yesterday, in speaking to the girls of Penman's, Limited, he declared that a few Victory Bonds would be a great help in furnishing a home. "I'll help you," said one damsel, fair to look upon.

"I'm sorry, I'm already married," replied the organizer, regretfully. He promised to send round one of the good-looking reporters.

R. A. Anderson told of a little old cobbler who finally decided that he could buy a Victory Bond to help bring his boy home. Why not buy another yourself?

Following are the men who helped total London's share in the Victory Loan Friday, W. M. B. Boyd, H. Ballantyne, F. W. Joliffe, J. N. Graham, C. E. Silver, F. Hodgins, G. P. Stockton, R. Quick.

Chairman George M. Reid sold a bond to the widow of a soldier, who was turning all her insurance money into Victory Bonds. Her husband fought to the death, and now her money will fight. A splendid example of the carry-on spirit that imbues those left behind.

The Victory Bonds in Ontario Surely multiply and grow! We're easily able to pay the bill—Everyone's buying just like Sam Hill.

P. E. I. The wise folks down in P. E. I. They know a good thing when they see it. And have a patriotic spirit.

NOVA SCOTIA. Nova Scotia has a record. That is mighty hard to beat; She takes every thing that's going. And this loan for her is meat.

"With peace in sight, it is more necessary than ever to buy Victory Bonds. There will be no opportunity to get them later on," declared Chairman George M. Reid today, as he thumped The Advertiser scribe on the shoulder. Believe us, George knows.

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 8.—Word has been received here of the death of H. Shannon, a former resident of this city, who at one time occupied the position of ticket agent for the London and Lake Erie Transportation Company.

Lieut. Shannon was a student at Toronto University when he offered his services with the 34th Battalion at Quebec, with which he went overseas. He served some months in France, but later returned to Canada and finished his course at the university. He re-enlisted with the R.A.M.C. and once more went over to the firing line. Nat. THE CRASH BROUGHT A POLICEMAN, Mr. Kaplinsky and J. J. Dyer to the scene, which soon developed into a movie flavor. The owner of the car was in the auto with two ladies, but not at the wheel. He was anxious to get away from the curious crowd that had gathered around him, but he was told to stop. "I'll only find out about this," he said. "I've sold him a Victory Bond," he said, "I'll get it back as he ambled back into headquarters."

WEDDING BELLS

McCULLOCH-HALLAM.

The wedding is announced in a Pittsburgh newspaper of Frederick W. McCulloch, son of the late Rev. A. M. McCulloch and Mrs. McCulloch of this city, to Mrs. Annie Melville Hallam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Melville of Pittsburgh. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was smartly gowned in a traveling suit of Oxford cloth, trimmed with moleskin, and her dowry was a corsage bouquet of orchids. Miss M. Melville was her sister's maid of honor, and wore a suit of velour cloth with little French hat of beaver. Orchids and Killarney roses formed her bouquet. Rev. I. W. Wishart performed the ceremony. A buffet luncheon was served for fifty guests minus intermarried relatives. Chrystianese were used for house decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. McCulloch left on a wedding tour and will visit old friends and relatives in this city. On their return to Pittsburgh, Mr. McCulloch is a prominent businessman in Pittsburgh.

RETRIBUTION!

(Written for The Advertiser by W. FRANCIS FIRTH of Detroit, formerly of London.)

When I read the account in your paper last night how our boys made a charge in the thick of the fight, I felt I could shout, and my blood gave a thrill. From the soles of my feet to the crown of my head, But, Oh! when I thought of the wounded and dead, Who gave their life's blood that we might be free, My eyes filled with tears, and I scarcely could see To read the long list of the brave men who fell. I tell you, my friend, it was hell—simply hell— That those brave fellows faced in that terrible fight; One never could picture so ghastly a sight.

Oh, ye blasphemous Huns, with your cold hearts of steel, You have trampled the innocent under your heel, You have crucified brave men who fought for the right, In your madness you've lost every sense of the light Which the Christ in His tenderness came to bestow On the poor and the rich, the high and the low. You have called upon God for His aid in your deeds Of most horrible murder; you've long sown the seeds Of vilest corruption, of greed and of strife— A thief, a blasphemer, destroyer of life, A blot on the page of humanity's cause, A liar, deceiver, and breaker of laws.

In thought and in deed you've descended so low There isn't a curse too strong to bestow. The rivers of blood you've so brutally shed, The widows and orphans who mourn for the dead, The lame and the blind, the hungry and mad, The poverty-stricken, with faces so sad, All point to your Kultur and place in the Sun, A Kultur that only is known to the Hun. I wait for a place on this fair earth to dwell, 'Twere best you'd depart for the region of hell, From whence your vile spirits did reincarnate, Usurpers of Freedom and Demons of Hate.

And the price must be paid for the deeds you have done, And the end of your course will soon have been run, The God you have blasphemed has reckoned things right, And when at the end of this terrible fight The Angel of Peace will appear from above, And bring to the earth God's great message of love, All shattered and broken your hosts shall lie, In vain on your "God of Might" you may cry, You will see the handwriting appear on the wall In letters of blood, which will spell your downfall. You have chosen your path, and your course is nigh run, And soon we'll be free from the stench of the Hun.

IN POLICE COURT

Jacob Harris again made a smiling appearance in police court today. He was charged with disturbing the peace by shouting "Hallelujah" and "Jesus Christ" in a public place. He was fined $20 and costs.

James H. Doane, convicted by Deputy Magistrate Bartlett ten days ago of an indecent act, was given a severe lecture by the deputy magistrate this morning. Doane was sent to the Ontario Reformatory for a period of not less than three months or more than two years less one day.

Five youngsters appeared in the juvenile court for tearing down some fence on Hyman street. Their parents had made restitution for the damage done, and the boys were let go with a warning.

He Gets Away With It.

Robert Ovington, who had failed to carry his registration papers, and who was arrested by the military police October 15 and ambled away again, appeared today. Capt. E. B. Buxter explained that there had been a general pardon was allowed to go. He will get his papers fixed up by the proper authorities. He also appeared in Stratford on the same charge some time ago, but managed to wriggle through.

Where Are Your Victory Bonds?

YOU MAY be asked this question when the boys come home. What will your answer be? Here are my scars---where are your Victory Bonds?

THE A. E. F. TO PRESIDENT WILSON:

"If the folks back home fall short on the billions you need, Mr. President, call on us for the balance. We like our pay, but if we have to we can go without it."

Yours For Victory,

IS CANADA TO BE OUTDONE?

The United States over-subscribed their fourth Liberty Loan. What is Canada going to do with their second Victory Loan? Our boys have shown the way on the battlefields of Europe. We must uphold them. They are waiting for our verdict. Let us keep the picture of our little Canada in France constantly before us and thrill the boys with the message we shall send across when this second Victory Loan is closed one week from tonight—that a mighty battalion of 500,000 Canadian dollars has been mobilized to reinforce them at once.

THEY ARE GIVING—WE ARE ONLY ASKED TO LEND.

Here Is the Proposition in a Nutshell:

"I need Five Hundred Million Dollars to help finish up my business over in Europe. Lend me the money for a short time at Five and One-Half Per Cent Interest, payable half-yearly, and I pledge the return of every cent of your loan."

Plan To Take All the Bonds You Can Possibly Pay For. The Payments Are As Follows:

- 10 Per Cent on Application.
- 20 Per Cent December 6, 1918.
- 20 Per Cent January 6, 1919.
- 20 Per Cent February 6, 1919.

GERMAN PROFESSORS IN DOMINION HAVE WORKED MISCHIEF TO POPULACE

R. M. McElheran Thinks They Are An Import Which Should Be Stopped.

"For years we as a nation have been importing two articles from Germany which we should not have allowed," said R. M. McElheran, secretary of the board of education, referring to the action of the board in asking the department of education to change the name kindergarten to an English term. "I do not think that the use of the word kindergarten in any way, but the German professors whom we have welcomed with open arms to the teaching staffs of our best educational institutions have worked untold mischief to our children," he continued. "Now we are beginning to realize that these professors have been teaching our children the poisonous, unchristian doctrines of Germany, and we see the error of our ways."

KAISER WILL NOT ABDICATE MAXIMILIAN RESIGNS JOB

German Emperor Refuses To Voluntarily Surrender His Throne.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 8.—(By the Associated Press).—Emperor William of Germany has declined to accede to the demands that he abdicate, says a German wireless dispatch picked up here tonight.

To the ultimatum of the Socialists the emperor replied through Minister of the Interior Dries that he refused to abdicate voluntarily, on the ground that he could not at the moment of peace undertake the terrible responsibility of handing over Germany to the Entente and delivering up the country to anarchy.

MAXIMILIAN RESIGNS.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—(By the Associated Press).—The Emperor Maximilian of Baden, the Imperial German chancellor, has resigned, according to a German wireless dispatch received here tonight.

The wireless says that Prince Max tendered his resignation in view of the altered parliamentary situation, but that acceptance of it is still outstanding.

SOCIALISTS' ULTIMATUM.

BASEL, Nov. 8.—The abdication of Emperor William and the renunciation of the throne by Crown Prince Frederick manded in an ultimatum sent by the managing committee of the Socialist party at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon to Prince Maximilian of Baden, the Imperial German chancellor, according to the Correspondence Socialiste, the official organ of the Socialist party in Germany.

The managing committee of the Socialist party consider the entire political situation, and its decisions were embodied in the ultimatum, which member of the German cabinet, Philipp Scheidemann, Socialist member of the Reichstag, and Chancellor Maximilian, sent to the emperor.

The ultimatum was as follows:

First—The right of public assembly.

Second—The military and police must be ordered to exercise public reserve.

Third—The immediate dissolution of the Reichstag.

Fourth—The abdication of Emperor William and the renunciation of the throne by Crown Prince Frederick.

The Imperial chancellor was asked to reply by noon today, accepting the conditions. Otherwise the Socialists declared they would withdraw from the Government.

CANADA'S SURPLUS OF FIBRE FLAX SEED IS COMMANDEERED

Is Needed in Great Britain and Ireland to Grow Fibre.

OTTAWA, Nov. 8.—Surplus fibre flax seed has been commandeered. The Government has ordered that the surplus of flax seed in Canada be used for growing fibre needed in Great Britain and Ireland for the manufacture of aeroplane cloth for the Allies. The amount commandeered is over and above the quantities as will be needed to seed an area for each mill in 1919, equal to the area seeded in 1918.

The agricultural department will hold itself ready to supply from the commandeered seed any extra seed that may be needed by actual growers, or they have the equipment and suitable conditions for using the seed to advantage. The price to be paid is $27.25 per sack of 182 pounds net, in carload lots of 400 sacks, f.o.b. railway cars at shipping point for seed returned to a standard to be fixed.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GREY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and No-body Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, grey hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking for any drug store for a bottle of Yew's Sage and Sulphur Compound, you get this famous old preservative, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the grey hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Yew's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

3 Senators (Non-Elective-There-for-Life) in Cabinet. ELECTORS DISTURBED?

Cabinet Reconstruction Does Not Make Much Headway.

(Special to The Advertiser.)

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—The mountain has again labored, and brought forth a much-heralded reconstruction of the cabinet has proven to be a false alarm. True, a feeble attempt has been made to make it appear that strength has been added to the Government. Hon. T. W. Crothers, after nearly 70 years of a more or less active life, has decided to retire from the department of labor. For his successor the Government had to go to that honorable but non-elective body, the Senate, where it has already gone for two other of its ministers, Gibson Robertson and the cabinet with portfolio, not being elected.

Senatorial Trio.

And now there are three important departments of the Government headed by men who have no seat in the Commons, where legislation is initiated and estimates are passed. Under Sir James Louch, and postoffice (under Hon. P. E. Blondin), and the department of the interior (under Hon. J. A. A. Macdonald), the three departments have been transferred to the Senate. The transfer of the interior department to the Senate, which has been a long time in the making, has been a subject of much discussion. MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS

Act as a stimulant to the sluggish liver, clear the furred tongue, sweeten the foul, obnoxious breath, and clear away all the poisonous accumulations from the system by causing the bowels to move regularly and naturally every day, thus preventing as well as curing constipation, sick headaches, biliousness, water brash, heartburn, and all diseases arising from a lazy, slow or torpid liver.

They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take, and there is nothing of the griping, weakening and sickening effects of the old-fashioned purgatives.

Mrs. John Kadey, Chipman, N. B., writes: "I have been using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills for some time and can recommend them to anyone suffering from indigestion and liver trouble. I tried other remedies, but they only relieved me for a short time. I always recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to all sufferers, as I think they are a valuable remedy."

When you go to your dealer and ask for Laxa-Liver Pills, see that you get the genuine "Milburn's." Price 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GAY PARÉE PREPARES TO BEDECK FOR THE END OF HOSTILITIES

PARIS, Nov. 8.—Paris is convinced that the day of victory is near at hand and is preparing to bedeck itself on the arrival of the news of the signing of the armistice. The dealers are displaying bunting and flags of all the Allied nations and numerous decorative devices, including shields and pennants, are being brought out. Large American, British and French banners are on display, which at present are being inspected by anticipatory enthusiasts.

Everywhere eagerness is displayed to hear the news of the armistice. The newspapers are anxiously awaiting the recent word from Marshal Foch's headquarters.

As a further preparation for the prospective festivities stock of delicacies are being brought out of the city's cellars in readiness for feasting.

Nuxated Iron Should Be Prescribed By Every Physician

SAYS FORMER HEALTH COMMISSIONER WILLIAM R. KERR

Attributes his own great physical activity today at over 60 years of age largely to his personal use of Nuxated Iron.

It will increase the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous, rundown states. In two weeks' time, in many instances.

Investigation shows that the advice of Commissioner Kerr is being followed by many physicians and it is conservatively estimated that over three million people annually in this country alone are now taking Nuxated Iron as a tonic, strength and blood builder. Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital, commended on handing out this statement on Nuxated Iron for public print. I have strongly emphasized the great necessity of physicians making blood examinations of their weak, anaemic, rundown patients. Thousands of persons go on year after year suffering from physical weakness and a highly nervous condition due to lack of sufficient iron in their red blood corpuscles, without ever realizing the real and true cause of their trouble. Without iron in your blood your food merely passes through the body, accomplishing nothing.

What I like to come through with rollers so wide the mill can't grind. In my opinion there is nothing better than organic iron—Nuxated Iron—for enriching the blood and helping to increase the strength and endurance of men and women who burn up iron in their nervous energy in the strenuous strain of the great business competition of the day.

Dr. Ferdinand Kling, a New York physician and Medical Author, says: "There can be no sturdy iron in a man without iron."

Dr. Schuyler C. Jacques, formerly visiting surgeon of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, New York, was also asked to reply. Dr. Jacques said: "I have never before given out any health information or advice for publication as I ordinarily do not believe in it. But in the case of Nuxated Iron I feel it my duty not to mention it. I have taken it myself and have given it to my patients with most surprising and satisfactory results. And those who wish quickly to increase their strength, power and endurance will find it a most remarkable and wonderfully effective remedy."

HER FIVE CHILDREN

Had Whooping Cough At the Same Time

Whooping cough is one of the most dangerous diseases of children, especially to those under five years of age. It first starts with a fever and cough, sneezing, watering of the eyes and an irritation of the throat. Later the coughing increases, the child becomes livid in the face, the eyes appear as if they would burst from their sockets, and suffocation seems imminent till relief is brought by the "whoop."

On the first sign of whooping cough we would advise the use of Dr. Wad's Norway Pine Syrup. This famous remedy will clear the bronchial tubes of the child, loosen the mucus and phlegm, and in this way ease the racking cough and in a short time make it disappear entirely.

Mrs. Walter McLaughlin, North Battleford, Sask., writes: "I have five children, the eldest thirteen and the baby two years old. They all had the whooping cough at the same time. I tried two or three cough remedies, but none gave me the same satisfaction as Dr. Wad's Norway Pine Syrup. A bottle of this remedy saved my children. There are young children should never be without it. I will highly recommend it to those who want a quick cure."

There are many imitations of Dr. Wad's Norway Pine Syrup, so be sure you get the genuine by insisting that the package is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c and 50c, and manufactured by T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THREE HUNDRED MILLION FIGURE ALREADY PASSED

Headquarters Has No Doubt Full Returns Will Show This.

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—Canada is nearing the three hundred million mark in the Victory Loan campaign. In fact, if the figures to hand were up to date, there would be no doubt whatever of it having surpassed it. The total actually reported to headquarters here at midnight tonight is $229,014,400. At this stage last year the total stood at $165,012,350. Ontario has subscribed up to date $150,323,400, as against $93,431,200 for the same period last year.

The most striking feature of today's results was the sensational report from the city of Toronto, which turned in $14,182,850, of which nearly four millions was from the canvassers, who take the smaller subscriptions. Another striking feature of the drive is that up to date no less than sixteen Ontario cities have subscribed an average of $101.17 per capita of their population. Many cities, towns and other canvassing districts have won honor flags.

Ontario still leads all. C. H. Wood, Ontario chairman, makes the following comments upon the campaign in the province:

"Ontario still leads the rest of the Dominion, our total being $150,323,400, against $145,001,000 from all the other provinces combined."

Hamilton gave us a fine return to date of $907,660; also Lincoln with $315,000, and Oxford with $447,000. Three units passed the million mark for the first time, namely, Lanark, Hastings and Port Arthur. Four Ontario cities already exceed $100 per capita, as follows: Sudb. St. Marie, $197; Toronto, $120; Sarnia, $108; Chatham, $106.

Honor flags have been won by eighteen additional places, as follows: Brockville, New Market, Mount Forest, Harrison, Fenelon, Elora, Bothwell, Clifford, Drayton, Cheltenham, Cochrane, Bell River, Portmouth, Ridgewood, Ennisville, Egansville and Wilberforce."

Ontario's summary by divisions is as follows:

Division	Subscriptions	Per Cent.
Toronto	$59,435,450	74.29
Ottawa Valley	10,789,650	55.52
Eastern	12,500,000	70.78

GERMANY'S MIGHTY MILITARY MACHINE IS A HOPELESS WRECK

At No Time Has Such Humiliation Come to Proud Prussia as in the Appearance of the Kaiser's Representatives Before Foch's Tent.

By Frank H. Simonds

Author of "The Great War," "They Shall Not Pass." (Copyright, 1918, Tribune Association, New York Tribune.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Since another Prussian king sent his wife to plead with Napoleon in the far off Tilsit time no such humiliation has ever come to Prussia as that comprised in the appearance of the representatives of Prussianized Germany seeking under a white flag to obtain the terms of armistice from a marshal of France. To sign these terms or to reject them would signify little. The crowning humiliation has come with the confession of defeat. Here was the ultimate demonstration of the fact that a military decision had been made in the war.

Waterloo and Sedan. And at the hour when the white flag was brought to the French lines, British armies were passing the battlefield of Mons and approaching that of Waterloo. American soldiers stood victorious in Sedan. French armies were sweeping forward from the Oise to the Meuse, and France was all but freed from the invader's armies.

There will be those who will regret it if the ultimate circumstances of victory, the pursuit of the routed army, the repetition of events on the Venetian plain have not been permitted, and the German army does not—in fact, as in effect—meet its Waterloo. But by the verdict of the future, which will see that the German military power is broken, the German military machine has been reduced to a complete and hopeless wreck.

How It Must End. The war will now end in a military decision. It has not ended until German armies have been expelled from France, pursued over 100 miles of conquered territory, compelled to surrender 400,000 men and 5,000 guns, forced to testify by its conduct to the fact that its leadership has been surpassed, its force broken, its power annihilated in a word, before an armistice comes, the military tradition of the German army, the tradition of Waterloo, Sedan and Sedan, has been destroyed.

Four years and four months ago the German military leadership, confident of its strength, assured of its weapons, arrogant before anything in recorded history, challenged the organized and unorganized forces of civilization to mortal combat. They thrust a German sword through all the covenants and commands of civilization and of justice.

Checked and Cornered. Bursting on an unprepared and unsuspecting world, they were, despite their incredible strength, checked by France in the battle of the Marne, encircled by the British fleets, and, like Napoleon, condemned to ultimate defeat by the last of the forces of freedom. But as their empire was broken, France and Italy, by the sword they created the mightiest military empire since the days of the Romans.

As it stands today the Germans are, for the first time since the tide turned on June 15, in a situation which is critical from the Scheldt to the outskirts of Metz. In the west the British and the French, the united forces of the world, have met the German army, the fourth of their lines stretched from the Scheldt to the outskirts of Metz, and the German army is advancing astride of it toward Bavi and Maubeuge and nearing their first

At Sedan 1870-1918. The entry of American troops into Sedan is something more than the recalling of the bitter memories of forty-eight years ago, now all but abolished by recent events. On the contrary, it may be a significant and decisive detail in a new Sedan, ten times greater than the first, which will establish the empire of Napoleon III, and imposed upon France almost half a century ago.

Their Laurels Withered. The early laurels of the German military chiefs have withered and fallen from recent defeats. In the second Marne, the first Somme, the battle of the Hindenburg line, and now, in the final struggle between Sedan and the Scheldt, German armies have suffered a cycle of disasters which has destroyed the legend of invincibility; those who sought to rule the world by the greatness of their military strength have been beaten.

extricate their armies from the present critical position, then they will be able to draw them back behind the very solid obstacle which the Meuse River constitutes from Mezières to the Dutch frontier and extend this position southward behind the Chiers to the Metz-Thionville system of defenses. In this latter case they will expect to hold their new front until the coming of spring, for the end of campaigning weather is certainly at hand and all advantages of position will be with the enemy, if he gets off now.

We have the three possibilities: Immediate military disaster now with a necessarily prompt surrender, such as Austria has made under similar conditions; a successful escape from the present peril and a diplomatic campaign during the months of military stagnation; finally, after the winter months of the next few hours, the greatest Prussian disaster since Jena, the possibility of a new Sedan, German this time in full view—and Pershing's army is sure to be in at such a death.

The battle now in progress is the fourth in the Foch series, the three preceding have been the second Marne, the Hindenburg line, and the Battle of the Belgium frontier, and it corresponds to the dash to Paris, 1914, which ended in defeat for our Allies and preceded the clearing of France west of the Meuse. It has been a struggle, the last remaining natural obstacle to Allied advance until the line of Antwerp-Namur has been captured. In fact, that the whole northern or right flank of the German has been dislocated and is "in the air."

Maneuvered From South. In the south, in the centre of the front, from the Scheldt to Metz, the French are pushing forward with great speed, ironing out the great bulge into France which represents the surplus of the older system, extending to St. Gobain. Here the German retreat has become almost a flight, owing to the threat coming from the British side.

Finally, in the east, between the Aisne and the Meuse and astride the Meuse, American troops have broken through the second line of German defense and are advancing down the Meuse on either bank, having already eliminated the Maubeuge-Metz lateral railway and thus brought about complete isolation between the enemy's centre and his flanks.

No one will venture to prophesy that the German army is now immediately in a position to make a disaster which has in turn overtaken the Turk, the Bulgars and the Austrians, in fact, the sort of disaster which has made Sedan forever memorable in military history, but the probability of such a fact is that the existing conditions permit one to say that it is not only impossible, but hardly probable.

Dangerous Situation. After four months of defeat the German has now to execute a long and difficult retreat, with both his flanks in peril and his rear exposed, and requiring to be extricated from an exceedingly dangerous situation. Any local collapse will result in a general rout. Any failure on either flank will precipitate a colossal capture of German territory and the substantial elimination of the fighting forces of the German Empire.

It is with this situation in their eyes that the German Government and the German people will receive the conditions of a cease-fire. In a similar situation Austria delayed too long, and the "armistice" which followed after the destruction of her army upon the battlefield. Hesitation in Germany would mean the loss of the final barrier which intervenes between the Allies and a complete military decision.

By contrast, if German generals can retreat, they will be able to execute a long and difficult retreat, with both his flanks in peril and his rear exposed, and requiring to be extricated from an exceedingly dangerous situation. Any local collapse will result in a general rout. Any failure on either flank will precipitate a colossal capture of German territory and the substantial elimination of the fighting forces of the German Empire.

A tale of two Trade Marks

For over 59 years Turnbills have been making good knitted underwear in Canada—and underwear exclusively—They came from the Old Country with the knowledge of how to make good underwear bred in them. They brought out expert workers from the Old Country from time to time as their business grew—thus have always kept their products up to the highest standard, being made with that thoroughness and care for which the Old Country workers are famous.

The reason for this tremendous growth and popularity can be summed up in one word "Quality" first and all the time—

You cannot get away from the fact that Canadians appreciate "Quality" more than anything else—

Turnbills' two brands are

THE MAN FOR THE JOB.

THE REFUSAL of Marshal Foch to grant the German delegates' request for a provisional and immediate cessation of hostilities is good news. It means that the Allied commander-in-chief intends to retain and enforce to any extent he desires the upper hand which his victorious drive has given him. Foch will not be tricked or trapped into concessions that might hamper his campaign. There is not the slightest chance of the enemy "putting one over" on the generalissimo. His action increases the confidence of the Allied world, if that were possible, in his ability to avoid any of the dangers that might wreck the Allied cause in these critical hours. From the moment he took over the Allied command this brilliant little Frenchman has carried the faith of the Entente millions in ultimate victory. The same sang froid, determination and cleverness that ripped to pieces the Hun armies we may be sure will be fully employed by the marshal at any stage of the negotiations in which he has a part.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

THE RECENT perpetration of the "greatest hoax of recent years" by the United Press Service and the newspapers gullible or unscrupulous enough to spread the report and persist in its authenticity does nothing if it does not make the old, reliable, world-embracing Associated Press stand out in great strength as the one dependable news service 365 days in the year. The Associated Press is the Gibraltar among news services, the Bank of England in dignified enterprise in the handling of news—facts that have been proven many times during the progress of the war.

During the early months of the war The Advertiser secured connections with many special news services, but one by one they were discarded as the unreliability of their dispatches was made evident. The public seldom realizes how it may be gullible in the ordinary course of events. News of a sensational character, yet not sufficiently momentous to have a vital effect upon the people as a whole, can be sent out unverified, and it is lost in the events of the next day. But when a critical situation must be faced, the practice of circulating what MAY happen and sending it forth as something that HAS happened, becomes highly dangerous and is indulged in only by the "fakers" of the business. Nine times in ten the news service "guerrillas" may get away with the deception, but when the tenth attempt fails, the effect, when it concerns important news, is disastrous.

The United Press service will have difficulty in ever regaining confidence among the "non-yellow" newspapers of the country. Had its hoax been closely followed by developments bearing out its conjecture, it could have sat back and crowed with its big roosters as to the wonderful connections it possessed for exclusively securing the most important news of the year. It and the newspapers it serves would have attempted to make tremendous capital out of the "hoax." But when Fate plays against the gamblers in great events there is a tremendous newspaper headache to be doctored in the morning.

The Associated Press plays safe. It is often like a lion pestered by the gnats of rumor, and sometimes it appears to be slow. But when the actual event has occurred, it is not slow in flashing facts to all quarters of the continent. The Associated Press is not playing for profits. It is powered in a mutual way by a chain of newspapers. It employs the highest grade newspapermen who can be secured, but it does not sign their names to dispatches. It is too big to be personal, and its policy extends clear to the general manager, Mr. Melville Stone. Mr. Stone is not as widely known to the general public as many a "news service" reporter who parts his name in the middle and sends dispatches richly flavored with capital "I's" from some foreign capital, but Mr. Stone is the man who was asked by Russia to negotiate a peace with Japan. It was largely through his instrumentality that the president of the United States acted as intermediary between those great powers when peace was signed. Mr. Stone typifies the service—he is as keen for news as any man in the business, but he is a rock in a storm when the billows of rumor sweep upon the harassed newspapermen and threaten to topple them from the bridge of calm decision.

The Associated Press can be relied upon to characterize its dispatches as official or unofficial. If it sends out something under its own responsibility it quotes its authority or qualifies its statements so that the charge of deliberately falsifying or misreading the public has never been successfully laid against it. The "A. P.'s" reliability is a thing dear to the heart of an editor. It is like a firm, dependable friend, who does not say things merely to please, but for the good of all concerned.

EXIT THE BOASTER.

IN GERMANY with cartoon and innuendo they are making fun of the Kaiser. Than this nothing more surely indicates the early passing of the Hohenzollern. Nobody that is insincere or dishonest can stand long before ridicule, the more especially those who occupy the seats of the mighty. No monarch has ever so insisted upon his imperial rights as Wilhelm of Germany. Never has he overlooked an opportunity to impress upon his people, and the world generally, his "allmightiness," and so clever has he been in fagging these postings and strutting that his own people swallowed holus-bolus his magnificent pretensions, while a large section of the rest of the world looked on more or less impressed, scared or worried. Wilhelm was always dressed up, always on parade. Never was he caught off his guard in his shirt-sleeves, collarless, so to speak. He glittered and gleamed splendidly at the head of his armies, and he used that power to the limit to exact the last degree of obedience and subservience from his own and respectful consideration from others. The withered arm was carefully camouflaged to look the real thing. The royal scowl, the truculent moustache and the "mailed fist" patter were always and intensely on the job. But make a king appear ridiculous and majestic slips from him like a cloak. Just now the Kaiser, in his own country, by his own people, is being postcarded as wearing a silk hat and traveling bag in hand "beating it" for Switzerland. If we recall what the spiked helmet has meant to Germany we will catch the ludicrousness of the imperial dome silk-hatted.

The supreme war-lord is pictured as in a panic. Gone is the scowl, the moustache droops and in undignified, ungraceful haste he legs it for shelter. The Allied triumph has stripped him of his glory and his own folk with ridicule and contempt are driving him from the limelight he so dearly loves and so well understands. As war-lord, partner of the Almighty and favorite child of destiny, his stellar poses, Wilhelm of Germany is through. The world's prize braggart and strutter looks cheap, cowardly and grimly funny to those who formerly placed him on a pedestal inaccessible high and remote. The Kaiser is becoming a joke to his own, and after that there can be no come-back.

A CHALLENGE TO CANADA.

THE UNITED STATES, having subscribed $866,000,000 over its objective in the Fourth Liberty Loan of $6,000,000,000, has set Canada a high mark in the present drive. It is equal to $62 for every man, woman and child in the United States. What a splendid demonstration of what the people can do!

Canada must not only equal but exceed this high per capita record. On a basis of 8,500,000 people, $62 per capita would mean only $496,000,000, or $4,000,000 less than the required $500,000,000. But as the drive proceeds the public will not be satisfied with the half billion.

So the necessity of keeping up the pace is quite obvious. Things must go even a little faster than they have been going. The American achievement is a challenge to Canada which must be taken up. If Canadians at home are worthy of those overseas they will not rest second to any other country.

THE BRAVEST BRAVERY.

A WORKER at a large grain elevator in Western Ontario was ordered to get on the roof of the lofty building and make some repairs. The man was one to whom the thought of ascending to any great height spelled mental agony, and he said that he was afraid to go up. Another man, whose calling has taken him to dangerous heights, including the scaling of steel work over the East River and the towering frame of the Singer Building, was present when the order was given to the elevator worker. He could not understand anyone being awed by having to work at heights. There was scorn in his tones when he said to the elevator worker, "Here, if you are afraid, I'll go up and do the job."

The elevator worker did not "take him up." Although it was plain that he was suffering in anticipation of his ordeal he simply said, "No, I'll go up."

He scaled the building in a long series of climbs that represented the last hazard of life to him, even if to the other man it seemed merely a day's work. He reached the roof of the elevator, 180 feet from the ground, and did his work for three-quarters of an hour. When he had descended he fainted.

The man who had climbed like a spider over the narrow beams of the East River bridge, 200 feet from the water, turned to those who were nearby and said: "There's the bravest fellow I ever saw in my life."

Life is a series of days, each with its fear to be conquered. Being stoically indifferent to fear is not bravery in its purest form; to live and conquer the realized fear is a greater existence.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

STERN AND RETRIBUTIVE JUSTICE.

[Chicago Tribune.]

The president has solemnly declared for a peace of justice. The American people are absolutely at one with him on this also. But the peace of justice is a stern thing and the German people must abide its decisions. What they have sown under the false leadership to which they consigned themselves and their fortunes, they must now reap.

THE GIRL WITH A SMILE.
[By Gerald St. Etienne.]

It had been a nerve-racking day for Edward Clarkson, managing director of Clarkson's department store, and he was in far from an amiable frame of mind. It was the day before Christmas and the rush of holiday shoppers had made him disgusted. Thank goodness he did not have to be in his office after five o'clock and prepared to leave. On the way out he was held up by a crowd around a newly counter-blickering over trivial articles? How the clerk put up with them was more than he understood. Was it any wonder that clerks grow impatient? After all, was not the custom to blame in nine cases out of ten?—he would take that into consideration when dealing with complaints against his salesmen.

He could not help stopping to take a glance at the saleswoman. Then he stopped still and watched her. Ella Fidler had always interested him. He could catch glimpses of her as she moved from one counter to the other, and exhibited notions to the impatient, errand and often rude customers. There was one thing that impressed him more than anything else—her smile. He had always noticed it, but this time it presented new interest to him.

He had never seen a smile like it before. She seemed to express her every feeling in that smile. To the timid little woman purchasing a handbag for her daughter, she smiled kindly; to the little boy seeking a gift for his mother, she smiled encouragingly as she helped him make a suitable choice; to the haughty young woman buying something to satisfy her own vanity, she smiled tolerantly, and upon the woman who stormed because some unheard-of article was not in stock, she smiled pityingly. How could she smile on all these people? Mr. Clarkson asked with a pleasant smile.

"Why ah—ah—oh, what was it?" His interest in her had driven every other thought from his mind. "Did you wish to speak to me, Mr. Clarkson? A gift for someone?" she suggested.

"Yes," he answered hopefully. "Something for the landlady's little granddaughter."

He seemed lost to know what to purchase, but Ella helped him choose a suitable gift. "I am confident the little girl will like this," she said as she handed over the parcel with the smile she had given the little boy, at the same time writing out a charge slip to go on Edward's account.

"I am sure she will," he answered, making a brave attempt to return the smile.

On the way out he looked back to see if she was smiling after him, but instead she was smiling on the customer that was engaging her attention. "What out having any sense of direction. "Why, Mr. Clarkson!" It was Ella's voice, and his heart seemed to stop beating. "Miss Fidler!" he cried, as he took her outstretched hand and pressed it eagerly. "But isn't Miss Fidler now, is it?" "What else is it, then?" she laughed. "The children call me Nurse Fidler, but I haven't any right to the title." "Aren't you married?" he asked. "They told me you were at the store," she smiled. "Of course I am not married," she smiled. "I left the store to take charge of a ward at the orphanage. I felt that I could do so much good there. I am just taking some of the children for a walk to the park. Won't you join us?" "I will only be too glad to," he replied, noting for the first time her little charges. "It was a wonderful brisk winter day, covered park they chatted gaily. Ella told him of it in glowing terms. "I wish I could join you in your work," he said regretfully. "I don't know what I will do without your smile at the store." "My smile?" Ella cried in wonder. "I didn't know I had one." "Why you have the most wonderful smile in the world, he began, and kept right on until he had told her all that was in his heart. "But your work comes first, I know," she sighed. "I would not have to give it up for me," she answered, as she slipped her glove. "I thought how wonderful it would be if ever such a thing were possible that you and I could go through life together doing good where it is most needed, and I decided then that you were the only man I could ever love, and now I know it." As Edward looked down into her eyes he saw the most glorious smile of all.

You'll Find Old Dixieland in France

EVERYBODY loves to sing this wonderful song—not just because it's a rollicking can't-get-away-from-it melody, but because it's terrible news for Berlin. Yes, sir—it sure is bad news for Hindenburg. Dixieland—fighting Dixieland—is in France! You'll love the snappy words and great music of this new Yankee song-hit—try out the chorus—you'll like it.

The Rose of No Man's Land

A NEVER-to-be-forgotten tribute to the Greatest Mother in the World—the Red Cross Nurse. The tender, beautiful words and the inspiring melody will tug your heartstrings as never before. Truly, it is the most magnificent of our war songs, one that will live forever, and make the work of "the one red rose the soldier knows" immortal. Learn it now—and you'll learn to cherish it always.

I Ain't Got Weary Yet

WHEN war makes you a wee bit tired—sing out "I Ain't Got Weary Yet." The new—Where Do We Go From Here?—by the same writers. If Liberty Bonds and W. S. S. pinch your pocketbook—if you can't drive your car on Sunday—join the Boys in the trenches and sing out "I Ain't Got Weary Yet." It's a wonderful song—a song the Yanks sing back at Fritzle when the mud's muddy, the rain's wet and the bullets are pecky. A wide-awake melody and live-wire words.

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR

A small bottle of "Danderine" makes hair thick, glossy and wavy.

Removes all dandruff, stops itching scalp and falling hair.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair, soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is a matter of using a little Danderine. It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a small bottle of Danderine. Danderine now—it costs but a few cents—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair, but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp. Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.

Smart Simplicity in Suits

Characteristics of the Season's Newest Devices in Useful Dress Novelties.

(By MME. FRANCIS)
(The Famous Creator of Fashions, New York City.)

"Service" is the spirit of the hour. Men and women who sought only the beautiful, material things of life, before the great catastrophe came upon civilization, have been called on for service and sacrifice they never dreamed of. Now service is the first requisite of human kind. The spirit of serving has reached through every stratum of society, from the man in the front line trench to the little errand girl who smilingly carries the message and packages necessary to the workings of a great fashion establishment.

The modern dress, society women and those of the stage, are devoting themselves, body and soul, to the winning of the war. The psychology of their service is swift and sure. It reaches far. It has radiated from the souls to the things which concern their bodies, because, in order to give their bodies freely and efficiently to the great cause, their clothes must be constructed with an eye to the work under which they must "stand up." These clothes must be durable in color, simple in line, warm in fabric. Without displaying extravagance, they must speak assurance. The woman who knows that she is fittingly and becomingly clad can demand more, and on account of her personality is apt to receive more, in the way of subscription, donation or the general "give and take" in the world of war business which the great conflict has opened to women.

What woman could not be a better parliamentarian at a committee meeting when clad in a frock of blue serge, such as the following one-piece dress, which is a dress of serge which is strapped horizontally with black silk bands, including waist, sleeves and skirt. This simple dress gives additional warmth to the dress and is the ideal companion for the short fur cape. The back of the coat laps toward the front. A row of black buttons outlines the "dunghill" front of the waist, which is, of course, cut to one with the tunic. There is a strong leaning toward pink fur as a dress trimming. An interesting color and cut of pink and blue is shown in a model in which the unusual line of the coat gives an opportunity to display its lining of shimmering black tulle. I especially recommend the following hat to be worn with this coat. It is a simple, smart and the day through. Band and brown dusters strike a pleasant note. QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

16. Verses 23-25—What did Isaac's blessing conferred upon Jacob actually consist of?

17. Isaac's idea of true blessedness at a time seems to have been wholly material, temporal and physical, but what is the supreme wish blessing which a cultured spiritual, Christian father, when on his death-bed, for his children?

18. What are the relative advantages for this life, of great earthly possessions, and of great spiritual visions and companionship with God?

Golden Text: Speak ye truth each one with his neighbor.—Ephesians, xxiv, 25.

"LATTERY IS WICKED. There is a way to tell the truth as to give offence, and this should be your aim. It is not always wise to tell a man bluntly what you think of him; if you wish to help him you must manage to do so with tact and discretion. In this way you will accomplish your desire. But to praise a man when you know he is to blame, or to condemn a man when you know he is innocent, will work very great injury both to him and yourself. It is right to speak sympathetically and encouragingly to people who are doing their best, so as to help them to do better. It is wrong to speak of their faults in a way that will injure them in a serious way."

An excellent fabric for this purpose is wool back satin. A suit of that material which is trimmed with black velvet, is not only to economy and efficiency as well as beauty, because it is designed for wear with variety of colors, black, grey, oyster white or midnight blue chambray satin.

In this suit there is a departure from the usual round neck-line. This coat is built to show the beautiful curve of the neck where its column begins to rise from the shoulder. One of the loveliest curves in the body is found in this place. Too often it is covered up or lost in a faulty neck finish. Black silk bands mark the belt line above the apron of the coat. In a point at the front, a deep border of fox weights this apron into lovely lines about the hips. Fox is a becoming fur from the regulation "double-breasted" coat. Made of navy tulle, it has many points to recommend it. It is a woman of refinement in search of something new, but not startling. The collar of white tulle is finished with black tie like a little boy's "Windsor" tie. Two rows of black bone buttons on the cutaway panel give the keynote of the whole suit. Similar rows of buttons parallel the skirt and outline the pockets. A sharp color note is sounded by a band of black and white checked linen, bound with turkey red linen. A belt of patent leather carries an oval motif of grey suede, studded with steel nail heads. The motif is repeated at the back. A circular turned-back cuff is the sleeve finish.

A stiff hat is the only type of millinery in keeping with the simplicity of this suit. Black velvet, rather high crown sailor, over whose brim is curled a grey ostrich tip is ideal for the general wear for which this suit is designed.

These four models represent an interesting combination of style and adaptability. They are adapted to the average thin, medium or full figure. The woman who wears any one of them will "come in at the finish" of a long, useful day looking as trim and neat as when she set out.

Advertiser Patterns

A SMART DRESS FOR MANY OCCASIONS.

2585—Black satin was employed for this design with self-covered buttons for decoration on the bodice. One could have a touch of color in lining or piping on the sleeves of the dress. The skirt is mounted on a body lining. The bodice is finished separately. This is nice for serge, with matched silk or satin, in some pretty contrasting shade. Jersey cloth, suit, ingrain, gabardine and velveteen are also suitable.

The pattern is cut in three sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 requires 5 7/8 yards of 40-inch material. The waist measures about 1 1/2 yards at the foot. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

Name

Town

Province

Age (If child's or miss's pattern)

Measurement: Bust.....Waist.....

Caution: Be careful to include the waist measurement. When the pattern is sent, you need only mark 34, 36 or 38 on the waist line. When the waist measure is 22, 24, 26, or whatever it may be, if a skirt, give waist and length measure. When miss's or child's pattern, write only the figure representing shade. It is not necessary to write "bust" or "waist." Patterns cannot reach you in less than one week from the date of application.

Good for Chest Troubles.

Dear Miss Grey—Having read The Advertiser I saw the letter of a reader telling how to make onion politics. I thought I would tell the readers how I make them, and I can assure you they are good for chest troubles.

Onion Politics—Take two quarts of onions and put them through a meat grinder; add one pint vinegar and half a cup of water; beat well; add a spoonful of mustard, salt and pepper to taste. When ready to use, add a spoonful of vinegar and a spoonful of mustard. This will cure any lung trouble.

Ans.—One can readily understand that such a combination of the three old remedies—onions, linseed and mustard—should prove efficacious in chest away pains and aches. Many thanks indeed for sending in the formula.

The Adventures of the Little People of the Great Forest.

THE BEAVERS BEGIN TO MAKE A NEW MIRROR POND.

You ought to have seen the Beavers at work, early that morning, to make a new Mirror Pond, and to rescue the little people who were stuck fast in the deep mire! Father Beaver was a great engineer at that work, and Tom and Jerry were his helpers. And Mother Beaver was the hard worker. And all the little Beavers worked as hard as they could. It was a wonderful thing to see the swiftness and skill of these workers!

Father Beaver gave these commands at the very start. "No one will step on the bottom of the pond, until Tom and Jerry have cut down some bushes to lay on the deep mud, close to the dam, to walk on. I want no accident to happen to any member of my family."

They filled their arms with the bushes and carried big armfuls to make a walk.

MARGERY MILLS MAKES BOLD TO ASK STIRRING QUESTIONS

Explains That Manufacturers and Retail Dealers Get Big Profits, and Not the Farmers.

This time I would like to formulate a set of questions for the serious consideration of U. F. O. and U. F. W. O. clubs and others as well.

(1) The cost price of raising wheat in Ontario, as per report of Guelph Agricultural College, being $2.50 per bushel, and the gain (?) of the farmers of Ontario, individually and collectively on the wheat crop of 1917 and 1918, at the present time, do you know?

(2) Give the reasons, if any, why the farmers of Ontario (for any other province), should raise pigs at existing prices in order that the Big Interests may make 80 per cent on pork?

(3) Account for the fact that the decrease in the price of meat for public consumption, never accords with the decrease in the price of hogs and cattle to the farmer?

(4) Account for the rise in price of any commodity when a tax is imposed on the interest producing it?

(5) How is it that the price of flour increased when the price of wheat decreased?

(6) Why should the price of all manufactured feeds be so disproportionate to the price of the grain of which they are composed?

(7) What is your club doing to acquaint farmers with the facts which are the answers to the above questions?

(8) What other class in Canada would agree to legislation that, according to official figures sent out by the Government, involves a direct loss to those most nearly concerned?

(9) What steps should farmers take immediately after the war to make known their appreciation of the title of "privileged profiteering class," so generously accorded them?

Farmers Do Get Pork Profits.

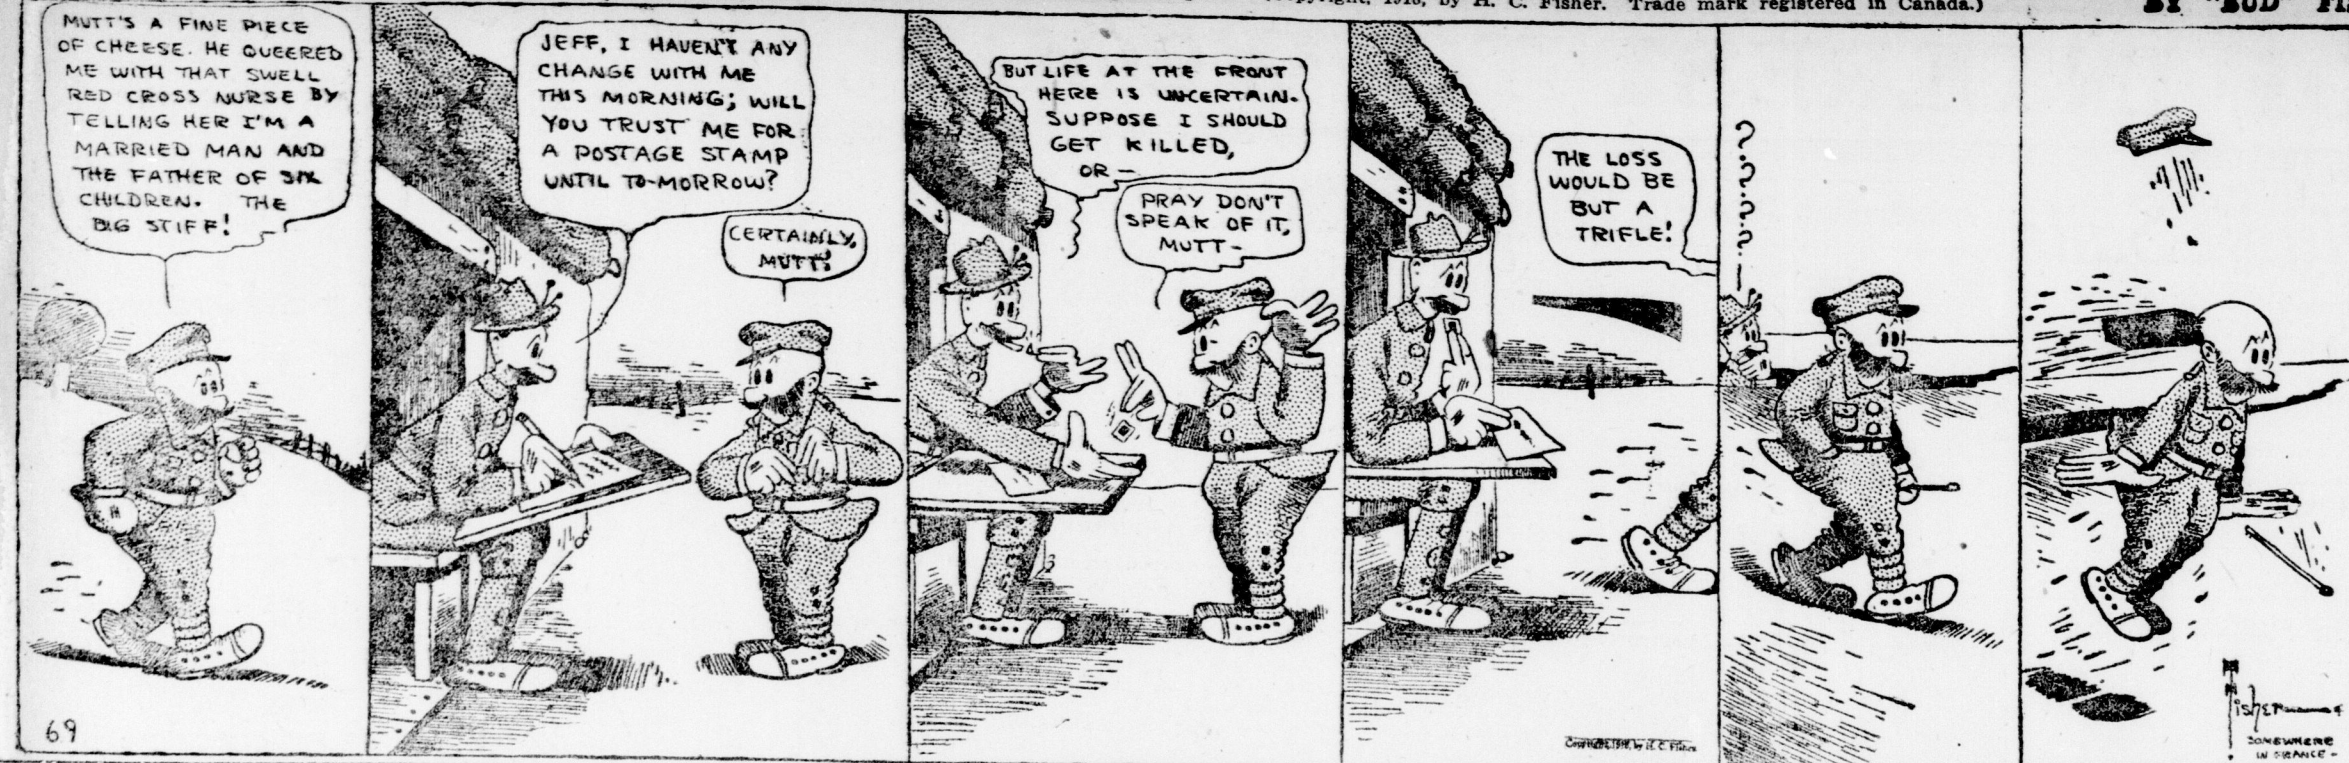

After the above was written my eye fell on an article published in The Advertiser of October 5, and of course, in many other papers, of pork and dairy products shipped to England. Folk had better eat plenty of the proverbial "salt" with the statement that $30,000,000 or any fair share thereof goes back to the farmers.

Now, see here. The highest price farmers received for pigs during these last twelve months was $20.25, and that price lasted but a few days. The price of pork in the market was $1.10, but the factories boast to waste only the surplus, and the rest may judge by the sound of some of the motor horns even that may be utilized these few times. Is it not a pity that the published 80 per cent profits? Did you hear of this being turned over to the farmer? Is it not a pity that a farmer who is realizing 8 per cent on the pig and cattle has fed during these twelve months? If, address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

Dealer Profits on Butter.

And, as to butter. Well, the dealer is allowed to keep up the price of creamery, other than a co-operative factory operated by its patrons, pays for everything he buys, accepts a dividend that as its patrons receive. Dairy butter has, as far as possible, been pushed up to the market. We are told these profits are taxed. The consumer. The manufacturer has sense enough to increase the price to meet any additional expense, and still keep up the old-time percentage of profits or a high price, while the farmer pays these prices for everything he buys, accepts a dividend that as its patrons receive. MUTT AND JEFF—Mutt Took It Just the Way Jeff Meant It.

London Defaults Series To Sarnia Rugby Squad

Arthur Gillies Injured Leg in a Practice Game on Thursday, and Is Out of Game for Season—Sarnia Has a Good Chance for District Honors.

The London Collegiate Rugby team this morning defaulted the Junior O. F. C. series to Sarnia Collegiate squad.

Notified Sarnia. "Dunk" McLean, captain of the local team, notified Capt. Ferguson of the Sarnia High School team at 11 o'clock this morning that the London team would be unable to play at Sarnia this afternoon and that they were forced to default the series.

Arthur Gillies, right wing player for the locals, injured his leg in a practice game with the Western "U" team at Tecumseh Park on Thursday afternoon and will be out of the game for the season. He also notified the captain that he would be unable to go to the Tunnel City with the bunch.

By defaulting the series to Sarnia this will put the local team completely out of the Rugby circles this year, and it is very doubtful if the lads will even play an exhibition game now.

Capt. J. J. Syme received word from Sarnia this morning that the weather was not very favorable for a game, but if the London team arrived they would be willing to play.

Sarnia Has Chance. Sarnia will have a good chance now to play in the semi-finals and win the district honors, as they have an exceptionally strong team.

FREDDY WELSH IS NOW AN OFFICER

Will Be Unable To Attend United Sport Drive, But Is Doing His Bit Elsewhere.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The Tribune says: "The committee that is going to conduct the monster boxing carnival at the Garden on Saturday night, November 16, received a telegram from Freddy Welsh, the former light-heavy champion of the world, yesterday, in which he said he would be unable to appear at the Garden, owing to 'official duties' that will keep him in Washington."

"Welsh, whose name out of the ring is Fred Hall Thomas, wired from Washington that he had just been promoted to a first lieutenant in the sanitary corps, and detailed to instruct wounded soldiers at Walter Reed Hospital in curative exercises. This removes a great attraction from the Garden, but adds a very fine officer to our army, so none should complain."

WOODSTOCK HOCKEY CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Billy Breen Will Handle the Lads in the Junior O. H. A.

WOODSTOCK, Nov. 8.—Billy Breen, who will coach and train Woodstock's Junior O. H. A. team this season, arrived in the city today and met the executive tonight. He assumes his duties on December 1st, and everything in the way of preparatory training was left in his hands. At Mr. Breen's suggestion the local club will enter the competition put on by the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association of Toronto, open to Junior O. H. A. teams. The proceeds of these games go to help defray the expenses of the Christmas tree put on in Toronto for soldiers' dependents by the Sportsmen. Tomorrow Billy inspects the local arena and will make suggestions as to alteration necessary for training.

CANADIAN HORSES AT NATIONAL HORSE SHOW

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Coming across the continent to compete for a blue ribbon at the National Horse Show for the benefit of the Red Cross, in Madison Square Garden, beginning November 11, the 4-year-old chestnut mare Sunshine Grace, owned by Miss Helen W. Farrell of Portland, Ore., has arrived in New York, and is now at Durland's Riding Academy. Miss Farrell, who is the daughter of John D. Farrell, one of the big railroad men of the Pacific Northwest, is stopping with relations at No. 1014 Madison avenue. Sunshine Grace holds the record for long distance entries in this year's horse show, although Netherhall's Pride, harness horse entered by Miss Isabelle Wamamaker of Philadelphia, was shipped all the way from Edmonton, Alta., which is almost half-way to Alaska, for the National Horse Show of 1918, where Miss Wamamaker purchased him to make a tandem leader. His former owner exhibited him as a hackney stallion.

FRANK TROCH LEADS THE TRAP SHOOTERS

Tillsonburg Man Up High in the List.

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—The latest batch of trapshooting averages, compiled by the Interstate Trapshooting Association, show Frank Troch of Vancouver, Wash., who starred at the national exhibition shoot here in September, leading the amateurs, and Homer Clark of Allen, Ill., topping the professionals. Troch is the only amateur with a mark better than 97 per cent, while Clark has an average of 97.52. The averages of all Canadian amateur shooters who have shot at 2,000 or more targets are appended:

J. E. Jennings, Toronto, Ont.	2,130	2,009	.9431
S. G. Vance, Tillsonburg, Ont.	4,150	3,892	.9354
N. R. Gooderham, Toronto, Ont.	2,300	2,114	.9191
A. F. Healy, Windsor, Ont.	3,338	3,064	.9187
W. H. Gooderham, Toronto, Ont.	3,389	3,017	.8899

GOING TO FLY

THOMAS MASCARA, better known to the local fans as "Tom," who has been on the Royal Air Force reserve for the past few months, has received official notification to report at Toronto on November 21. He played with the Junior O.A.A. champion team the past two seasons, and was the organizer of the Catholic Athletic Club. We all say, Good-bye and good luck, Tom.

REGINA TO HAVE SIX-MAN HOCKEY

Manitoba Also Likely To Follow O. H. A. Lead in Amateur Game.

REGINA, Sask., Nov. 8.—It looks like six-man hockey for the Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey Association this season. When the annual meeting of the body is held in Moose Jaw on Friday, November 15, this change will be recommended. This is a radical departure, but should work out well in this province, for the size of the average rink favors hockey of the abbreviated brand more than they do the seven-man game.

This change was recommended by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association last spring, and Saskatchewan is falling into line with a recommendation to the moguls of this association.

Reports in Winnipeg papers would have it that the Manitoba Association is opposed to the six-man game, but nothing official on this line has been said by the Manitoba men. If all the other affiliated associations decided to play six-man hockey (which is a sure thing), then it seems a certainty that Manitoba, too, will follow suit.

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS SEEK SAILOR PLAYERS

Faircloth and Other Stars of Great Lakes Wanted by the Cards.

GREAT LAKES, Ill., Nov. 8.—According to "Rags" Faircloth, Western Association pitcher with the Great Lakes club during the last season, he has been offered a job with the St. Louis Cardinals next year if war conditions permit of resuming baseball.

Faircloth, a big right-hander, held a conference with Manager Jack Hendricks in Chicago recently, at which Hendricks, he said, offered him a contract. It has previously been reported in baseball circles around the station that "Rags" was in line for a job with Connie Mack.

With McAllister, a year ago Faircloth won 38 games and lost eight. His best box score in a job uniform was against the Norfolk club, piloted by Bill Jacobson, in the navy championship series. He blanked the seaboard club with two hits. He also hurled several one-hit games for Great Lakes, one against the strong Rock Island Arsenal team at Rock Island, and another against the Racine, Wis., team with Dick Crotcher, ex-Babe, flinging opposite him.

When the station team closed several weeks ago, Faircloth was assigned for sea duty aboard a mine-sweeper in the Atlantic fleet. He carries a yeoman rating, third class.

"Rags" is a splitter, fields like a shortstop and hits well over 200 in the sailor circuit.

Another sailor reaching an agreement with a big league club is Joe Doyle, known as the "Babe Ruth of Great Lakes," who has promised to play with the same club. Doyle actually has actually signed up. He affixed his moniker to a contract while in St. Louis on a furlough.

Doyle is a third baseman, a big, rollicking amateur who hits 'em a mile. In one regimental game during the last season he fanned a ball clear over the Camp Dwyer drill hall, a drive that corresponds to a blow over the Cubs' left field wall.

A special type of contract was made for Joe by the National Commission. It specifies his baseball services are at the disposal of the St. Louis club after he is mustered out of naval service.

VETERAN BALL PLAYER DIES AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—"Silent Mike" Tiernan, famous batter and outfielder of the New York Nationals in the early '90s, died of tuberculosis in a hospital here today, under an assumed name. Not until his widow claimed his body did his identity become known.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

Protect Your Body Properly
If You'd Have a Lovely FaceBy DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSBERG,
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University)

You would hardly call a yellow skin pretty or a pair of sunken eyes beautiful. You would not say that a red nose is handsome, nor that a pair of trembling blue lips are sweet. These conditions are natural and for that reason have not the beauty characteristic of callosities and corns.

These parts of the human mechanism sooner than other parts are ready to show the effects of a poorly managed costume. If the anatomy, for example, feels chilled, it is through a sense that the organism condition is usually expressed. After a number of seasons, the hands and feet must be applied more often and the skin of the nostrils becomes irritated. Soon the eyes commence to water and the voice to get hoarse. After the lapse of a day or so, it is hardly possible for the individual to tell where she took cold.

Protecting the skin. It is chiefly during the period between autumn and winter that such conditions occur. At these seasons of the year the weather is very variable and the air changes rapidly from cold to warm and warm to cold. It is at these times, therefore, that proper clothing should meet the demand in the body which work against the beauty of a woman's features and complexion.

The cutaneous covering of the human machine has for one of its functions the secretion of superfluous moisture, and heat in the form of perspiration. It is essential, because of this process, to protect the skin from too sudden contact with the changing atmosphere. If this is not done evaporation becomes too rapid and the surface of the mechanism becomes suddenly chilled.

Some Complexion Genitals. The tiny fibres of the skin are not deprived of their due of the vermilion stream when there is a garment against them which prevents heat or cold from penetrating too rapidly. Such a garment as flannel, for example, is an excellent non-conductor of heat or cold and protects the mechanism against the effects of a rapidly changing climate.

It is due largely to the use of muslin underwear by the falsely heroic women that brings about a red nose, sore throat or complete loss of voice. It is similarly due to the untimely use of very thin hose if the complexion loses its natural color—the skin becomes pale and puckered like goose flesh and the lips become blue and trembling. The lack of sufficient protection for the skin thus brings about a condition serious and dangerous to appearance and personality such as could be avoided by the proper precaution in the use of flannel undergarments during certain seasons of the year.

Answers to Health Questions
MISS C. Z. Q.—Kindly advise what to do for heart skips.
A.—When a heart skips a beat it is due to some irregularity in the heart. It is not serious, but needs medical attention.

M. S. Q.—Kindly advise what to do for a bitter taste in my mouth.
A.—Gall stones and gall bladder troubles may cause this. Also constipation and ulcers. A stomach analysis should be made before any treatment is begun.

O. S. Q.—Please give me something for pimples.
A.—Apply a little of the following to the affected parts:
Sulphur loti 2½ drams
Balsam peru 15 drams
Camphor 15 drams
Green soap 15 drams
Lanolin 15 ounces
Vaseline 15 ounces

MRS. H. Q.—Kindly give me something for sleeplessness.
A.—Sleeplessness may come from need of glasses, kidney disease, lack of muscular exercise, constipation, overeating, anemia, and many other disorders, all of which must be searched for and eliminated. A blood, kidney and intestinal test ought to be made.

BETTY'S TRIP WITH GOCOMBECK.
Betty pulled her chair up before the fireplace and opened her study book. Pretty little girl in gay colored gown smiled at her from the pages.

"Oh, dear, I wish Gocombeck was here," sighed Betty. "I'd like to know if they really do dress that way."

"You would?" laughed a merry voice, and Betty turned to see her little friend sitting on the arm of her chair.

"Oh, hello, Gocombeck," laughed Betty. "Please, let's wait our little Hungarian cousin. Does she really wear clothes like these?" pointing to the picture in the book.

"Sure they do!" replied Gocombeck. Before Betty could blink her eyes, she was whisked through the air and set down before a queer, little thatched cottage built of unbacked bricks.

"This is where that little girl lives whose picture you have in your book," whispered Gocombeck, and as he spoke the little girl herself came running out the door to greet them.

A little, tight, short-skirted, red velvet reached down to her waist, and under it peeked a pretty white chemise gathered into many folds at the shoulder, with wide sleeves, tied at her elbows with bright-colored ribbons. Her many little short skirts flared like the petals of a gayly colored flower.

Gocombeck introduced the two children, and Betty smiled and asked her name.

"Sure They Do!"
"Gracia," laughed the little Hungarian girl. "But why are you laughing?"

"I was just wondering if you were going to some masquerade all dressed up like that!" Betty answered.

"Why," laughed Gracia, "this is my Sunday frock, and I'm going to church."

"And you always wear so many skirts?" asked Betty, counting 10 little skirts on the little girl.

"Yes, indeed," replied Gracia. "And see how lovely and wide they are. Ten good yards, so mother tells me. Funny you don't wear clothes like mine." Gracia as she looked at Betty's little white frock and frowned. "We love gay colors."

Just then a baby's cry sounded from the house. Gracia ran in and brought the little one out to see Betty.

"Poor little fellow! Is he sick?" asked Betty, as she saw the baby was pinned to a pillow by his sleeves and skirt, so he couldn't move.

"No, indeed," laughed Gracia. "All spring witnessed Gen. Foch's counter-offensive, and the steady retreat of the Hun until the contending armies were again on the banks of the famous river. During the fighting on the river's bank a Frenchman was cut off from his comrades, wounded, taken prisoner and carried with the Germans as they were swept to and beyond the river, but he managed to escape from his captors, and on the afternoon of June 3 appeared on the north bank and signalled to those who were in a position to see him. The firing was too heavy at that time for anyone to attempt to go over to the wounded man, so he was told to hide in a certain spot until nightfall.

All that afternoon and evening the river was swept with a hail of machine gun fire, rifle bullets and shells from the light artillery, while the Frenchman hid and the soup bank watched and waited. At any minute the Germans might discover the wounded man, and by a sudden dash either recapture or kill him before the very eyes of his friends. Finally night came, and Lieut. Walter R. Flannery, who had volunteered early in the afternoon to go after the wounded Frenchman, prepared to make the trip.

He tied a rope around his waist, and instructing the men that they were to pull for all they were worth when he had secured the man, he had started on the return trip, he plunged into the water, and with a storm of bullets flying all about him, swam to the other side. Disengaging himself from the end of the rope and tying it under the arms of the wounded Frenchman was the work of but a moment. Then assisting the man to the water's edge and grasping the rope with one hand, Flannery signalled his men to haul away, and the two men dropped into the river.

Immediately the Germans saw them and opened a murderous fire, the bullets fell like hail all around them, and those on the south bank pulled on the rope so hard that both men were submerged most of the time—a circumstance that may have saved them from death by bullets, however—and in almost less time than it takes to tell it the two men were safe on the south bank.

A French officer grasped the hand of the lieutenant and undertook to express his appreciation of what he had done.

"Oh, that was nothing," replied Flannery.

"But it is for just such things that we honor and decorate men for bravery," returned the officer.

And the day following, while French soldiers were lined up and cannons boomed and enemy aircraft flew overhead, Lieut. Flannery was decorated with the French War cross.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY, NOV. 10-11.

Sunday will be an interesting day, largely because of the mental stimulus received from two rather strong Mercury positions. Were this a business day results would be good, especially since Mars is active and Jupiter in aspect. But for this day it will quicken the mental operations, inclining to study, reading and writing, all of which may be profitably indulged.

Those whose birthday it is will have an active and prosperous year. A child born on this day will be clever, active and generally successful.

Monday's horoscope is a most perplexing nature, having the two benefics, Venus and Jupiter, in trine aspect to each other, a position which should warrant the hope of many pleasant and profitable occurrences. But offsetting these stellar advantages is a train of planetary figures discouraging if not portentous, with the greatest adversity threatening from deception, fraud or treachery, a condition operative in the domestic and social realm, as well as in business and in places of employment. The shoals may be avoided by keeping a keen lookout against these treacherous conditions.

Those whose birthday it is should guard against deception and fraud from all angles, and should safeguard their positions. A child born on this day will be proud, ostentatious, but may do well not to venture into business on its own account to win its best success.

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

What Lillian Came to Ask Madge.

"Pills to right of her, bills to the left of her, bills behind her, raging and thundering."

Lillian's dearer familiar voice sounded gaily from the doorway. I sprang up from my desk, scattering check book and nearly doctored accounts as I did so, and embraced her warmly.

In reality, her coming upon this particular day was important, for I was devoting it to the general straightening of our financial affairs, which my father's enormous check had enabled me to manage, and Lillian's presence was distinctly embarrassing.

"Lillian," this is a surprise," I said, and she, with a mischievous twinkle in her eye too late to save my confused tongue from my equally blundering mouth, said: "Where did you come from?"

"New York," she said, "I arrived 11:30. From station on my two feet. Object to see you. Reason, loneliness. Turning my question on my mind, how soon luncheon, or won't you invite me?"

Her gravity was a little too forced, her banter a bit too ready. It was almost as if she had rehearsed a "little piece to say" as she would have put it herself. There was some specific reason for her coming, something which she meant to tell me later.

No use hurrying Lillian Underwood, however. I knew this from long and intimate experience. I snatched her cue, played it off.

"Depends altogether upon your behavior," I retorted. "If you'll sit down quietly and promise not to waken the baby, I'll run out and make us luncheon."

She looked at me curiously.

"As long as you rush the cats I'll promise anything," she answered carelessly.

I flushed as I turned away, confusedly conscious that my "hasten luncheon" probably sounded as primly pedantic to her ears as her slanginess grated on mine. It wasn't the first time that the contrast between our habits of speech

"I beg you to publish my letter."
It is only natural that people write us enthusiastic letters about Gin Pills. Wouldn't you do the same, if, after suffering from backache for years, you found relief? Wouldn't you wish your friends and others to know what Gin Pills had done for you, and what they would do for them? Of course, you would, and that is the only reason that prompts people to write us praising this great remedy.

Read what Isidore Thomas says in part:
"My case was very serious, and I was so near the end of my life, that my death any day. No suffering could be worse than what I had to endure. Eight boxes of Gin Pills were sufficient to cure me entirely. I beg you to publish my letter and tell all the friends of K. K. L. I beg you to publish my letter and tell all the friends of K. K. L. I beg you to publish my letter and tell all the friends of K. K. L."

Take the advice of those who have tried most remedies and found that Gin Pills cure.
Gin Pills are not a cure-all—but a scientific remedy for Kidney or Bladder Troubles. They contain the beneficial ingredient of gin, without the alcohol, and gin has been recognized for years as the most perfect agent for toning up the kidneys and restoring these organs to perform their natural functions.

What will You say?

When the war is over and won,
—when the war worn soldiers come back to Canada and home,

—when the cost is counted, the cost in precious lives, in the limbs, eye-sight and shattered health of our noble fighters in the battle lines—the cost in money, in sacrifice and in self-denial—

What part will you have played?

Will you have the right to cheer and say:—
"I did my best—I saved and denied myself—I lent every cent I could rake and scrape to help my country and our fighting boys—I can claim a full share in the glorious Victory because I did everything I could"

—Or, will you have to slink shamefaced and conscience-stricken away from the cheering crowds to your own mean solitude?

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, DOROTHY DALTON AND VIVIAN MARTIN STARRING IN PHOTOPlays AT MAJESTIC NEXT WEEK

Shirley Mason and Ernest Truex in "Come On In." Showing Today Only—"Jack" King, the Golden-Voiced Tenor, To Remain All Next Week.

The secret machinations of German spies in the training camps in this country are graphically exposed by John Emerson and Anita Loos in the first production for Paramount, "Come On In," which will be shown at the Majestic for the last time today, and which serves to introduce Shirley Mason and Ernest Truex to Paramount audiences as co-stars in motion pictures.

In the development of the story of the photoplay, Miss Mason portrays the role of a patriotic stenographer who is desirous of doing her bit for her country, and who impudently her life in tracing Hun spies. Mr. Truex is seen as a little sergeant stationed at Camp Upton, who loves the stenographer and who cordially hates his rival, a trooper, who is in fact a German spy affiliated with a band of Hun agents who are operating to the injury of Uncle Sam at the cantonments.

Douglas Fairbanks in "He Comes Up Smiling," a Great Photoplay Replete With Comedy and Excitement, at the Majestic Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Optimism, humor, excitement and novelty are the principal features of Douglas Fairbanks' new photoplay, "He Comes Up Smiling," which will be presented at the Majestic Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The farce upon which the picture is based was highly successful on the stage several years ago, but it is said the screen version is even more satisfactory to those who like the ingredients which have been provided by Mr. Fairbanks in his splendid production.

The part of Jerry, who is known by the Knights of the Road as "The Watermelon," is that of a young man, who has ambition, but who is inclined to live a life of vagabondage. Lured by the green wood an irresistible desire to experience new sensations along the broad highway, Jerry is a character which stands out distinctly as one of Mr. Fairbanks' most novel and enjoyable screen characterizations.

The picture is filled with numerous novel situations, and the action is exceedingly rapid. Jerry chases a canary bird over hill and dale, into houses and over rooftops; he is in turn chased by a bevy of bees and he does remarkable stunts in a wild automobile drive across a mountain. The role of the tramp is unique even in his record of unusual characterizations, but Mr. Fairbanks seems thoroughly at home therein.

Marjorie Daw is Mr. Fairbanks' leading woman, and a remarkable list of players has been provided to interpret the other roles. Chief among these are Frank Campeau, Herbert Standing, Bull Montana, Jay Dwiggins and Kathleen Kirkham.

Dorothy Dalton, at the Majestic Next Thursday and Friday in Her Latest Screen Success, "Green Eyes."

Beautiful is one of the most abused adjectives in the language, but it can never be better employed than when describing Dorothy Dalton, the lovely face star whose Paramount picture, "Green Eyes," will be the attraction at the Majestic Thursday and Friday next.

The south is used as a frame for the delectable star on this occasion and advance reports say that it is one of her best pictures. It was directed by R. William Noll and written by Ella Stuart Carson.

Miss Dalton has a myriad of followers who declare she is not only the loveliest thing on the screen, but that she can out-act most stars as well. And what she is the most delightfully naive of young persons, refusing to permit herself to be flattered into egotism.

Dorothy Dalton made her biggest hit, perhaps, up to the time of her entrance into Paramount pictures with "The Flame of the Yukon." But since then she has advanced steadily with such splendid pictures as "The Making of a Hero," "The Kaiser's Shadow," "Love Me," "Tyrant Fear," etc.

Thomas H. Ince personally supervises her production, which is at the earnest of their quality.

Vivian Martin, in "Her Country First," at the Majestic Next Saturday Only.

Vivian Martin's steady growth and improvement are greatly noticeable in her new comedy picture, "Her Country First," which comes to the Majestic next Saturday only. It is a comedy drama, holding the mirror up to the imagination and activities of a keenly patriotic little high school girl in wartime.

The story is as follows: Dorothy Grant's father is a munitions manufacturer. She is intensely patriotic and organizes her girl friends as an independent military auxiliary. She suspects the butler is a spy and watches him. He is a secret service man. The chauffeur is the German agent. He lures Dorothy to the garage and tries to force her to give the password to the munitions plant. She refuses. The butler follows and is shot. Dorothy signals for help, and the spies are trapped. Dorothy falls into the arms of her sweetheart, who has enlisted, and who she believes is in love with her sister.

Best Comedies on the Market Showing at the Majestic.

The Majestic is running a series of big two-reel comedies selected from a number of the best makes on the market, and of stars who have become famous through their ability to produce the silent comedy.

At the Majestic today will be shown an excellent Mack Sennett production, "Friendly Enemies." Next Monday and Tuesday will be shown "Sheriff Nell's Tussle" featuring Dolly Moran, Ben Turpin and a bevy of beautiful cowboys. Wednesday and Thursday Harold Lloyd, with Bebe Daniels, will be shown in another new one, "Charlie Chaplin in 'The Musical Tramp.'" Friday and Saturday will complete an excellent program of comedies.

MARY PICKFORD OFFERED MILLION AND HALF YEARLY

It is reported by good authority that the world-famous star, Mary Pickford, has been offered by a big American producing concern a salary of one quarter of a million dollars ($250,000) for each production for the coming year. Inasmuch as Mary Pickford produces approximately six features in one year at a low average, her yearly income at the new salary would be one million and a half dollars ($1,500,000) a year, about twenty times the amount of President Wilson's salary. Never before in the history of moving pictures or of the stage has any one star been offered such a sum for her talent. A few years ago an income of a million and a half at a low average, her yearly income at will place Miss Pickford amongst the

LOOK AHEAD!

Imagine, if you can, what your situation will be in five, ten, fifteen years, and then study the possibilities for your country---your city.

Do you know what will happen in this country when peace returns?

Everyone will leap back into his work and set the wheels of genuine progress spinning more rapidly than ever before.

Cities, towns and villages will prosper, industry will hum, farms will thrive, mines will boom, labor will strive, commerce will wax to greater proportions than ever before.

While we are looking forward and visualizing the prosperity of our country at large, picture also the future and success of the City of London, the County of Middlesex and this portion of Western Ontario.

Then let us all, from the humblest to the mightiest citizen, bend all our efforts toward the success of the war---toward the dawn of peace.

It is not given to all of us to prove our patriotism by fighting---but it is given to all of us to prove our patriotism by lending---lending our money to the Government by the purchase of Victory Bonds.

Fifty thousand of Western Ontario's bravest sons have gone forth from London Military Headquarters and offered freely their future, their home happiness, their present opportunities---and even life itself---that those who are spared, and you, and we, may enjoy freedom, country and life.

In support of those brave boys, will you do less than they have done, will you offer less than they offered you?

It is not asked of you to fight, or to be maimed, or give up your prospects, or sacrifice your life; all that is asked---all that is wanted---is that you lend to your utmost---that you invest to the limit of your prospects---in Victory Bonds.

The distant horizon is brightening with the dawn of peace; the success of the Victory Loan will hasten the noon hour of the future---and what of it?

In all solemnity let us face it squarely---let us try to see what we owe the boys who will come home; let us try to provide, that the home-coming will be as it should.

Peace---the home-coming---demobilization---readjustment from military to civil life---the re-establishment of our boys in situations that assure their futures---all these must be provided for---a debt that we at home will be proud to share in the payment of.

The means to do it is offered through the Victory Loan---the fifty-dollar bondholder and the million-dollar bondholder may all share in it equally, if they lend to their utmost.

Think---and act. Meet the canvassers more than half-way. Economize their time. Buy promptly and as generously as you can. They are out to make it easy for you to do your part.

We all want to be proud of our part in winning and giving the boys a fair chance in our community upon their return home---it's the Great Brotherhood of Man.

Buy Victory Bonds to your utmost.
On behalf of the City of London.

A conference of the city relief workers was held Friday afternoon in the

The following relief workers were present: Mrs. M. M. Pollock, secretary; Mrs. Matheson, city clerk; Miss Hosack, chairman; Miss Hanson, Long Health association, nurse; Adjutant General, Mrs. M. J. Miles; Miss Board of Health; Miss Barker, W. C. C. Glavin; Mrs. York Miller, Mrs. C. C. Glavin; Mrs. Glavin's church.

The relief committee of the Soldiers Aid Commission gathered in 50 bags of apples at the orchards which they visited yesterday. The pickers were made up of soldiers, some of them returned men. Citizens kindly donated their cars to transport the men to the orchards. It is not likely that the boys will go out again for a few days, as the war peace celebration which might break out at the moment. All farmers who wish to give apples or any kind of vegetables may leave them at Room 12, Market House where they will be looked after and then distributed among the families of the soldiers this winter.

The ladies of the North End Red Cross are asked to prepare for the victory parade, to be held in the city in the event of official news of the signing of the armistice between the Allies and Germany. Mrs. C. B. Edwards, president of that branch, asks all the ladies to appear in the official Red Cross uniform, with kerchiefs and Red Cross aprons. It is also rumored that this branch of the Red Cross Association is already preparing a huge banner to carry in the parade.

R. S. BOWTHWELL.—Should I be asked to go to the farm, but must not go to the legacies. You had better ask her for them, but if she refuses you had better consult a lawyer to enforce payment.

SUBSCRIBER.—Are Canada war loans issued in Ontario with a guarantee to be free from all taxes, subject to a death or when to a tax of five per cent, called succession tax? If so, how are they valued, for instance, a bond calling for $10,000 payable in 20 years. Same bond only valued, say, at $9,300 at present time. Will you collect tax duty on $10,000 or on $9,300? If the latter, will I have to pay succession duty on the value of bond at death of owner of same.

LEAF OFF TREE

PLANTED BY "HINDY"
RECEIVED IN CITY

A letter received Friday from France contains an interesting inclosure, the leaf of a tree planted by Hindenberg in 1915 at Montigny to celebrate the sinking of the Lusitania. Beside the tree in the grounds of a sanatorium, which the Germans used as a Red Cross hospital, stands a small monument erected at the same time to commemorate the disaster event.

In the letter a vivid description is given of a scene witnessed a few days before.

"At our last position," says the writer, "I witnessed 3,000 civilians returning after being German prisoners for four years, and it was the most pitiful sight I've ever seen. They were either old men and women, or young girls and boys. They looked to be too hungry to walk and from the expression on their faces they had forgotten how to smile."

"I saw them a couple of hours later going down the lines after having a hot meal, and you would hardly have recognized them as the same people. They were all smiling and throwing kisses to all the soldiers they saw. They were the happiest people I have ever seen."

BOARD OF TRADE WILL TAKE PROMINENT PART IN VICTORY CELEBRATION

The board of trade will take a prominent part in the big celebration to be held when official news of Germany signing an armistice is dashed through. At a meeting held this morning of the campaign committee, John Bridge and E. Hamilton were appointed to secure a float representing industry, labor, education and science.

All manufacturers will be asked to co-operate with the board, and the following firms have already signified their intention to take an active part in the celebration: The Perrin and McCormick Manufacturing Company, George White & Sons, the McClary Manufacturing Company and the Neal Bread Company.

Board of trade banners are being printed and will be supplied to members owing notices. Strangers will also take a prominent part in the decorations, and will be carried by the members, who all are asked to take part in the parade.

We Do Not Want To "Sell" You Shoes; We Want You to "Buy"

All we ask is that you use your own judgment when buying shoes. We are not here to "sell," we want you to "buy." There's a difference. We carry in stock every size and style so that you will find little difficulty in getting just the shoe you want at the price you want to pay. BUT REMEMBER, we sell a standard of quality, and no shoe that falls below that standard enters our doors, for they are not worth the price you are asked to pay. Buy Good Shoes; it pays.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE DEATH OF PTE. STRIDE.

According to press reports, a jury at London decided that a soldier named Stride, "came to his death from pulmonary tuberculosis, accelerated by the usage received by him at the hands of the authorities while in their possession," basing their findings on the sworn evidence of a medical officer who had known the deceased for a long time, the soldier's bereaved parents, (and the auto-mortem statement of the deceased soldier).

Instead of accepting the finding of the jury, the military authorities have formally issued a statement through the public press denying negligence and giving the lie direct to all and sundry, living and dead, who had made statements unfavorable to the military, and spinning the civil courts, which were bound to uphold.

Military discipline can accomplish wonders, but when military authorities assume that "the statements made by a man to his parents, which everyone knows is not evidence," we wish to promptly take issue in the matter.

We have always understood that the dying statement of a person is equivalent to the oath of a person in health. We feel sure that we should be voicing public opinion if we were to state that the dying words of Pte. Stride are of more value in the opinion of the man in the street, than the sworn statements of those who are obviously trying to shield themselves from the truth.

Obviously the jury at London accepted their own value. Shakespeare, whose words we are told, rank next to the Holy Bible, once wrote:

"They say the tongues of dying men enforce attention like deep harm. Where words are scarce they are seldom spent in vain, for they breathe souls that can be felt."

Yours for truth and justice.
FRED YOUNG.

SOLDIERS AT BYRON AND SUNDAY CARS.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I wish to assure you that the soldiers at Byron Sanatorium were more than pleased to receive the car that Sir Adam Beck was at last buying himself to get to a street car service to Springbank on Sundays. There have been several agitators for a Sunday service to our beautiful park, which have all failed on account of pressure being used by certain over-zealous churchgoers against the proposition, but we hope now that Sir Adam has undertaken to loan his influence to assist in the just agitation that those parties who have formerly interested themselves in obtaining Sunday cars to the park will again put their shoulder to the wheel and assist to obtain for us a longed-for car.

The public should know that counting the civilian patients and help at the Byron Sanatorium with the soldiers there over 300 people are here isolated on Sunday. We cannot get in to church services or to visit our families or friends in the city, nor can our friends or families visit us, as not many of our soldiers' wives own automobiles, nor can they afford to pay for a taxi to come out.

Sunday is a long, lonesome, dismal day for us, isolated from the world, and we need much appreciated. Many of us are glad of the opportunity of the Sunday services in the city churches, but many others would be glad to be able to run in and see their friends on Sunday, and as visiting hours are only from 3 to 5 every day, if our friends are working, Sunday is the only day they can hope to visit us. Yet without cars this pleasure is denied to them and we are deprived of the company of our friends.

The London Trades and Labor Council will renew their efforts with increased energy to obtain Sunday cars to the park, and that all others interested will join them in their agitation, and that the Great War Veterans' Association will carry out at once, as with Adam Beck at the helm and a city council that appears to be reasonable, we expect great things from your action, and we think that it would be good business on the part of the new aggressive board of trade to also take up this matter.

I remain, SERGT. E. A. POTOCK,
Byron Sanatorium, Nov. 9, 1918.

LONDON PASTOR TO TAKE CHARGE OF STRATFORD CHURCH

Rev. J. E. Holmes, of the Ridout Street Methodist Church, this city, and president of the London Methodist Conference, has accepted a call to Trinity Methodist Church, Stratford.

The call was extended unanimously by the quarterly official board of the inter church, inviting Rev. Mr. Holmes to become its pastor at the close of the pastorate of Rev. George W. Dewey.

Rev. Mr. Dewey was formerly pastor of the Empress Avenue Methodist Church here.

Rev. Mr. Holmes has decided to accept the invitation and will undertake the work of his new charge in June next. Coming here from Ridgeway over two years ago, Mr. Holmes has shown great energy in the work of his church, and under his direction the pastorate has grown in no small degree.

PROGRESS BULLETIN OF MIDDLESEX VICTORY LOAN

Canvassers' returns are still far short of the daily sum necessary to reach the county's objective. The premature peace news must not be allowed to interfere with the Victory Loan Campaign—in fact, increased effort is necessary. Irrespective of the ultimate conclusion of a Peace with Victory, Canada will require every dollar that can be obtained.

War expenditures to maintain Canada's troops abroad and bring them home will continue for a long time. Financial assistance in large measure must come from the pockets of the people of the Old Country provided with food-stuffs. Also, from an individual standpoint, it is good business to buy bonds NOW. It is improbable that ever again will the present generation have a similar opportunity to buy Dominion of Canada bonds on such favorable terms. Therefore, let new subscribers double up, and those who have already subscribed buy more bonds.

MR. CANVASSER—IT'S UP TO YOU! PUT MIDDLESEX OVER THE TOP!

LONDON'S LOAN TOTAL NEARING 5-MILLION MARK

Saturday's Work May See It Reached and Passed.

MEETINGS IN COUNTY

Effort Will Be Made Next Week to Bolster Up the Middlesex Total.

London is well on the way toward the $5,000,000 mark in the Victory Loan, and it was expected at headquarters on Friday night that tonight would see that point reached. Yesterday $2,115,000 was gathered in by all branches of the loan, the "Industrials" coming through with over $100,000, putting their total over the half-million mark.

Middlesex County experienced another poor day. One hundred and eighty-two county residents subscribed $81,200 instead of the $200,000 that was needed for the county objective of the day to be obtained. The Middlesex total now stands at $831,200.

Several Meetings Soon.

Patric meetings will be held Tuesday night in the Woodman Hall at Hyde Park and in the Oddfellows' Hall at Brompton, at 8 o'clock. Moving pictures and other entertaining features will be put on, as well as a couple of speeches. Meetings will be held all over the county next week, wherever the ban has been removed by the board of health.

Following is a telegram received last night at local headquarters from G. H. Wood, chairman of the Ontario headquarters:

"The peace news today was apparently premature, but we hope only premature, and that a peace with glorious victory will result as soon as possible. When peace comes we must steel our selves, our workers and the citizens generally against relaxing our efforts in the campaign to the slightest degree. In fact we must, if possible, increase our efforts, so that whatever may be the outcome of the present negotiations Canada will require every dollar that can be obtained. The banks have loaned large amounts to the government which must be repaid. Financial assistance to Great Britain must be rendered if we wish to retain our great harvest of this year and other products."

When peace is declared war expenditures to maintain our troops abroad and bring them home will continue for a long period. Sunday the extremely favorable terms now offered may not be available in subsequent loans, so that even our selling grounds for investment purposes our people should buy to the limit. More than half the campaign period is passed. Time is precious. We can well afford to cheer when the fighting in Europe ceases. Our task at home remains unchanged; our battle is still to carry on."

HENSALL

HENSALL, Nov. 8.—Hensall having been so comparatively clear of the influenza epidemic it is thought that our task at home remains unchanged; our battle is still to carry on."

There are no new developments, and schools next week.

Locals here are continuing working overtime and are making large shipments.

The businessmen find in common with others that the influenza epidemic has checked business.

Argument of people have passed through the local postoffice for the boys overseas during the past week.

Villagers learned this Sunday with regret of the death in action of Pte. Angell, who was well-known here. He was among the first to volunteer with the 1st Huron Battalion, had been previously wounded in action, and was only recently out of the hospital.

Regret was also felt by the relatives and friends here of Pte. Wm. Sangster, who early enlisted here with the 1st Battalion, and who was wounded on September 27 in the taking of Cambrai. He is now in Bradford Hospital, England. Pte. Sangster was in business for a time as a tailor, and made his home with his aunt, Mrs. J. Scott and his cousin, Miss M. Sinclair.

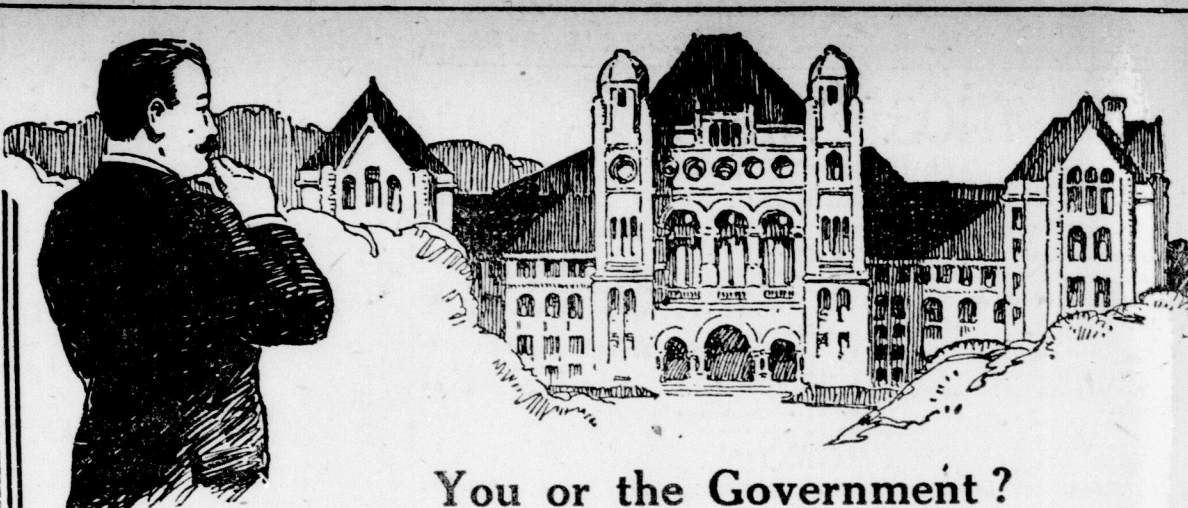

WESTMINSTER TP. THROWS DOORS OPEN

Westminster Township will remove the restrictions on public gatherings on Sunday. The church will open tomorrow and the schools Sunday. The municipality is well under control, according to Dr. Routledge, M. O. H., and Rev. A. J. Blake announced to The Advertiser last night that it had been decided to lift the ban.

WELL-TAIT NUPTIALS.

INGERSOLL, Nov. 8.—A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Colin Tait, of Sarnia, when their only daughter, Mary Margaret, was united in marriage to Ernest Well, of Ingersoll.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Joseph Jones, Ingersoll, in the presence of about forty-five guests. The wedding march was played by Mrs. L. J. Ranger, and Mrs. (Mrs.) Jones sang a solo during the signing of the register.

You or the Government?

Democratic laws give you the right to make your will, appoint your own executor and provide for the distribution of your estate.

If you die without leaving a will, a distribution will be made according to the statutes of the Province of Ontario.

A portion of this law may be interesting to you:

When a Man Dies Without a Will Leaving	His Heirs Share in the Following Proportion:
(1) Wife and children	One-third to wife, balance to child or children.
(2) Wife and father	Half to wife, half to father.
(3) Wife, mother, nephews and nieces	Half to wife, quarter to mother, quarter to nephews and nieces.
(4) Wife, brother, sister and mother	Half to wife, half to brother, sister and mother equally.

Remember, this: The laws will not be altered to meet the individual needs of your family if you neglect to leave a will.

You need for your estate thoroughly experienced, impartial service and freedom from unnecessary costs. This is guaranteed by the appointment of The Canada Trust Company as your executor.

Without cost or obligation to you, our Estates Manager will be glad to have you call and discuss the service we can render.

BAN REMAINS IN LONDON TOWNSHIP

The board of health of London Township has decided that the churches shall remain closed on Sunday, November 10. According to reports received, cases of influenza are still numerous, and precautions were still regarded as necessary. They will probably not reopen until November 17.

A number of churches in the immediate vicinity of London are affected, including Hyde Park, Broughdale, Ballymore and others.
