M'EVOY AND BEATTIE NOMINATED TO CONTEST SEAT FOR LONDON

Only a Few People Were Present in the City Hall When the Papers Were Handed to Mr. Ivey.

Mr. John Miller McEvoy, barrister, Liberal, and Major Thomas Beattie, gentleman, Conservative, were today nominated to contest the riding of London in the coming elections.

The nominations were the quietest in the history of the city. There was no speaking whatever, only a handful of people being present at the city hall.

It was expected that there would be a discussion of the issue. Some time ago Mr. McEvoy made a proposition to Major Beattie, that a joint meeting be held to take up the questions coming before the electors. The invitation was evaded, and it appeared that no meeting would be held. At noon Major Beattie announced that he would be present. However, the major did not put in an appearance at the hall, and some of his friends declared that he had again changed his mind.

Mr. McEvoy Present.

When the nominations closed at 2 o'clock, Mr. C. H. Ivey, the returning officer, formally announced that Mr. McEvoy and Major Beattie had been nominated, and adjourned the meeting.

Mr. McEvoy was present at closing time, ready to speak.

Formerly the nomination meeting was the big day during the election campaign. The old city hall would be filled to the roof, with a roaring, cheering crowd. However, things have apparently changed. It must not be forgotten, however, that the Western Fair was an attraction that could not be resisted by the citizens generally, and those who could get away from work are spending their time there.

Major Beattie put his nomination papers in first. They were signed by 42 leading Conservatives in the city.

Well-Known Farmers Sign Dr. Routledge's Papers—The Names on Mr. Elson's Papers.

The East Middlesex nomination meeting held in Evans Hall at Pottersburg was largely attended. As soon as the nominations closed at 2 o'clock, a chairman was selected, and addresses were given by the two candidates, Dr. George A. Routledge, Liberal, of Lambeth, and Mr. Peter Elson, Conservative. Both were given a cordial reception, and spoke for some time.

TO EXTEND JUNK AREA ON BATHURST ST. EAST

No. 3 Committee Heard an Application and Were Favorable.

At a meeting of No. 3 committee held last night, Mr. John Beattie, of 497 Ottaway avenue, asked that the junk area be extended so as to include the south side of Bathurst street from Maitland to William. The members present took a favorable view of the petition, and recommended to the council that the bylaw be amended to include this section. Mr. Beattie is a real estate man, who is representing the owners in the matter.

Superintendent Glaubitz was present, and explained the lighting system. He informed the committee that the best possible was being done to provide lighting for the city. It would take time to build it up to a perfect system, but the commissioners were doing all that could be done under the circumstances. All the lights agreed to had not been placed up, as the commissioners wanted to discover what the system was costing each year.

Raising Wages.

The question of raising the wages of some of the teamsters employed in watering the streets was brought up, and Ald. Wilson moved that they be given $2 a week more. The other members thought that the effect of this should be considered before any definite action was taken, and so the matter was laid over.

Inspector McCallum suggested that the licenses issued by his department date from Jan. 1, rather than from June 1, as at present. He thought that the change would work better. He further suggested that provision be made for the transfer of licenses. At the present time, this could not be done, and he considered that in many cases it was a hardship to citizens. Mr. McCallum and City Solicitor Meredith will amend the bylaw so as to provide for this.

KIDNAPPER OF GLADYS PRICE IS ANOTHER HARRY TRACY

Desperado at Bay Shoots One of His Pursuers and Is Still Free, But Army of Farmers Is Close at Heels.

[Canadian Press.]

Snowflake, Man., Sept. 14.—At bay in the forests along the international border, William Henry Wilson, the kidnapper of Gladys Price, shot one of his pursuers, William Adams, proprietor of the Western Hotel at Snowflake, and firing repeatedly with an automatic gun, again escaped the posses last night. This morning one thousand men on the Canadian side of the line, and five hundred south in the United States have taken up the chase. All are armed and accompanied by bloodhounds. In many respects the man-hunt resembles the great Harry Tracy outlaw escapade. Wilson had sneaked up to the village apparently in search of food, when Adams saw him and fired. The outlaw returned the shot and Adams fell with a bullet through his body. He continued to fire and the members of the posse hurried forward. Wilson fired at them as he retreated into the woods. A drawn battle is anticipated at any moment. All strangers in Southern Manitoba are challenged and required to give an account of themselves.

DR. MACDONALD ON RECIPROCITY

Tonight in the Jubilee Rink, Dr. J. A. Macdonald, editor of the Toronto Globe, will address the electors of London on the subject of reciprocity. Dr. Macdonald is well known to Londoners. He spent much of his early life in this city, and loves to recall his boyhood days when he played around Blackfriars Bridge. Now he is recognized as one of the greatest orators in America. He is certainly one of the foremost Canadians living, and has been for many years a student of political and social conditions. His address will be well worth hearing, and there should be a full house at the rink tonight. Mr. J. M. McEvoy, the Liberal candidate in London, will also speak.

20,000 VISITORS FROM OUTSIDE COME TO LONDON FOR FAIR

It Is Estimated That G. T. R. Alone Brought in About 8,000 People—All the Other Lines Did Big Business Today.

A conservative estimate of the out-of-town visitors at the fair today is 20,000. Today's crowd was an afternoon one, as although many came in on all the morning trains, they were nothing as compared to those that poured in from every direction on the noon and afternoon trains.

Grand Trunk officials state that they handled more than 8,000 fair visitors today.

The traction company estimated that its cars carried 4,000. The C. P. R. brought in 2,500, and the Pere Marquette and M. C. R. about 1,500.

In addition there were easily 4,000 farmers who drove in from all around London.

Every hotel stable was filled up with farmers' horses, and the yards and streets were blocked with buggies.

While the crowd on the grounds at the fair this morning was not any larger than that there yesterday morning, there were many more there this afternoon, and it is expected that today will be one of the very biggest days of the fair.

The Noble Red Men.

Among the visitors today were a very large number of Indians, many of whom came from long distances. A big crowd of them came in on the Michigan Central shortly before noon, along with many other visitors from the south. Oneida and Muncey Indians came in on the traction company cars in large numbers. The biggest percentage of today's visitors came from the east. All Grand Trunk and C. P. R. trains from Woodstock and points east of there carried hundreds of people all bound to the fair.

Another big crowd came down on the Huron and Bruce. Ten big coaches jammed to the roof pulled into London this morning.

Every stage running into the city had all the passengers it could carry.

DUNCAN C. ROSS WILL CARRY FLAG TO VICTORY

Nominated by Liberals of West Middlesex as Their Candidate.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Mount Brydges, Sept. 14.—At the nomination meeting held here today Mr. Duncan C. Ross, barrister, Strathroy, was nominated as the Liberal candidate, and Mr. James Cobban, cattle dealer, Middlemiss, was named as the Conservative candidate, to contest the west riding of Middlesex. There was a good crowd present. When nominations closed, Mr. D. N. McGugan, returning officer, was chosen as chairman.

Addresses favoring reciprocity were delivered by Duncan C. Ross and J. C. Elliott, M. P. P. Mr. James Cobban alone spoke on behalf of his candidature and opposed the pact.

RIVERS WILL MEET WINNER.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 13.—Joe Rivers, whose featherweight champion aspirations were marred temporarily by a knockout administered by Johnny Kilbane, Labor Day, will have a chance of vindication on Oct. 14. On that date Rivers will fight the winner of the Kilbane-Conley 20-round bout, which is scheduled for Sept. 26.

ANOTHER TREMENDOUS CROWD AT THE WESTERN FAIR TODAY

Visitors Include a Gentleman From Clandeboye Who Is 97 Years of Age—Directors Point Out That Number of Protests This Year Is Remarkably Small.

The farmers swarmed to Queen's Park yesterday, and by smashing the attendance records, made it appear that all the tillers of the soil of the district with their families, were at the great exhibition, but when the ticket men opened up at the Fair Grounds this morning they were greeted with a rush that augured well for the breaking of more records.

About as many of the rural population as attended Wednesday, the day specially set aside for them, struck the town this morning, and by noon the park was filled with thousands, but before 1 o'clock the rush commenced in earnest, the city people, including the school children, who have a holiday, today, filing through the gates in thousands.

An Aged Visitor.

A visitor, who has been looked for each year, and who is now approaching the century mark, was again on the grounds today. Mr. T. Collins, of Clandeboye, is the gentleman, and although 97 years of age, he is in excellent health and enjoying himself. He interrupted his work of painting and repairing his home to attend the Fair. While in the city Mr. Collins is visiting at 274 Piccadilly street.

Yesterday it was estimated that over 35,000 people were on the grounds, but it is expected that this number will be exceeded before nightfall by between ten and fifteen thousand.

The Directors Meet.

The Fair officials and directors are immensely pleased with the smooth manner in which the show is proceeding and despite the fact that in other years many protests were received, but one was dealt with at the meeting held on the grounds at noon today.

This was the objection of J. W. Tackaberry, of Merlin, to the judgment in Class 8 of Section 1, aged stallions, Percherons. New judges were appointed to go over this section again, although Mr. Tackaberry was not affected. He had been given second money but only the third and fourth decisions were altered. However, as the protest was sustained his deposit was refunded.

High Jumping Exhibition.

Mr. W. E. Robinson reported to the meeting that arrangements had been completed for a high jumping exhibition before the grandstand on Friday afternoon. The horses which will compete are from the stables of Hon. Adam Beck, of this city, Mr. Smith, of Vancouver, B. C., and Mr. Roche, of Galt. This event is expected to excite the greatest interest, as the contestants are among the foremost in the horse world.

No word has as yet been received from J. J. Ward, the aviator, who started from New York this week on his coast-to-coast flight. It is hoped that he can be secured, and as this extra attraction would prove a great drawing card, the directors are leaving no stone unturned.

Delivered the Goods.

Although several additional attractions have been brought to the fair, the officials are receiving the greatest praise for another reason. It has been pointed out that every advertised fatur has been on the grounds each day since the opening of the show.

The programme is also being run off snappily, and the tedious intermissions which usually mar such performances are not in evidence at the Western.

Those who attended today's meeting were: President W. J. Reid, Secretary A. M. Hunt, Messrs. William McNeil, William Moore, E. Douglas, W. W. Gammage, J. Hale, W. M. Spencer, W. E. Robinson, R. A. Carrothers and Alds. Saunders and Bennett.

Children at the Fair.

The school children are enjoying the fair at its best today, and will have another opportunity to visit the show

Trades Unionists Declare For Reciprocity Pact

Artisans and all workers will be deeply interested in the report of the executive committee of the Dominion Trades Congress on reciprocity. It gives the pact a most energetic indorsation. The committee says it believes the proposed agreement between Canada and the United States is in the interests of the Canadian people.

"Reciprocity has long been recognized in the international trade union movement," the committee adds.

The Trades Congress declared itself in favor of reciprocity before the tariff commission and at the annual meeting in Brockville. The executive urges the congress to do the same thing at the present meeting in Calgary, and it will no doubt agree.

Workingmen will do better to trust to what the executive of the Trades Congress says about reciprocity than to the interested utterances and arguments of Toronto and Montreal trust magnates and their paid agents. Members of trades unions have been associating on close terms with Americans too long to be fooled into believing that their loyalty will suffer by a larger exchange of foodstuffs between the two countries.

CONTEST IN EVERY RIDING DECLARE PARTY MANAGERS

Nomination Day Returns Indicate That Fighting Over Reciprocity Will Be of the Hardest—Liberal and Conservative Prospects.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Sept. 14—There will be contests in every riding in Canada, according to nomination reports received by party managers up to one o'clock.

In a number of constituencies there will be more than two candidates, and everywhere hard fighting is expected. The Liberals claim that the election will result in the return of the Laurier Government with a greater majority than in the last parliament.

Liberal Prospects.

In Ontario the Liberals expect to take forty seats, and possibly forty-three, splitting the province even. The Conservative managers on the other hand, are not willing to allow the Liberals more than thirty seats, and hope to take sixty to twenty-four Liberal.

In Quebec, Liberals at Ottawa say that fifteen Opposition is an outside figure, and the number may be reduced to ten. They do not expect more than six or eight Conservatives to be elected in the Maritime Provinces, and not more than thirteen west of the lakes.

A few wagers have been made here by Conservatives that Laurier will not have more than thirty majority in the country. Such offers have been promptly covered.

In Ottawa, Messrs. McGiverin and Pinard were nominated by the Liberals, and Messrs. Fripp and Chabot by the Conservatives.

In Russell, Hon. Charles Murphy was nominated in the Liberal interest, and J. U. Vincent in the Conservative interests.

In Carleton, D. H. Maclean was put in nomination by the Liberals and Edward Kydd by the Conservatives.

In Prescott, the nominees were Proux (Liberal), and Quesnel (Conservative). In Wright County, Emanuel Devlin (Liberal), and Cousineau (Conservative).

FRIDAY AT THE FAIR

Closing Day. Everything to be left in place all day. Third parade of prize animals. The entire programme will be given both afternoon and evening, concluding with the fireworks display.

Speed Events—2:20 pace and 2:14 trot, mile heats, purse $400. Open wagon pace, mile heats, best two in three, purse $200. In the saddle class a section for horses that have never won a prize in the hunting and jumping class previous to this exhibition. Three prizes.

ENGLAND AGAIN ATTACKED BY MR. BORDEN'S QUEBEC ALLY

Bourassa Says Mother Country Doesn't Want Conscription, Because She Wishes to Foist It On the Colonies—Vicious Attack on Laurier Imperialism.

"Such a man, then is Bourassa, brilliant, cool, courageous, attacking evil wherever he sees it, a Nationalist standing for a strong and vigorous Canada."—London Free Press, Aug. 20, 1911.

Mr. Bourassa again tried to frighten the habitants with the conscription bogey by an address at Laprairie on Sunday in behalf of the Conservative-Nationalist candidate. Here are extracts from his speech as reported in his own journal, Le Devoir:

Imperialism began for good with the dispatch of the contingents in 1899, and consciously or not it was the prime minister who has been the most dangerous agent of imperialism in Canada. He (Mr Bourassa) recalled his own resignation as the member for Labelle in order to protest against this policy. "I know," added Mr. Bourassa, "that a certain number of electors sincerely believe there is no danger as long as Laurier is there. They have a short memory. Laurier was there also in 1899; he was there to declare that the law of the country would not permit him to send soldiers to Africa. And what did he do fifteen days afterwards. He sent the soldiers to Africa. (Cries of "Shame!") "Laurier is there! But if he was able to act contrary to the law in 1899, what will he do when the law permits him to send the navy no matter whether or not he regards it as right.

Laurier is there! But he will not be there always. He has let us have a glimpse of his coming retirement. His successor will be Mr. Fielding, who has said that the navy will be inevitably imperialist in time of war. You may draw your own conclusion.

"They say to you: All is voluntary in the navy. For the moment, yes; but if there are not enough volunteers how are they going to get men to fill these ships of war? My friends, you have seen as I have in the postoffice of your parishes the great placards offering to the recruiters for the navy two dollars per head, just as they do to get rid of wolves in the north part of the province. If the enthusiasm for the navy is so great, why is it necessary already to pay so much per head to get the marines. (Cries of shame!)

"There will be no conscription because there is none in England, they say further. Is it not because England wishes no conscription that she throws it on the colonies? There is no conscription in England, but it exists already in Australia, where they commenced, as here, by a voluntary system."

LONDON MAN SAW THE STOLEN HORSE

If Not He Saw One Exactly Like It.

Mr. K. Moorehouse, of the G. T. R. restaurant, stated to The Advertiser today that while he was on the asylum sideroad on Sunday afternoon he saw a horse answering exactly the description of that stolen from the stables of Dr. Aitkenhead at Hensall on Saturday. The horse, Mr. Moorehouse says, looked very tired. The man in the buggy was about 40 or 45 years of age, dark, and wore a big felt hat. Mr. Moorehouse told the local detectives what he had seen, and it is thought that it was in all probability the stolen animal, as later it was learned that another party searching had traced the horse as far as the Asylum sideroad.

THIRTY OPENINGS IN ETNA'S SIDES

Lava Streams Wiping Out Living of Many Thousands.

A GREAT DISASTER

Sixty-five Cities and Villages Are Threatened With Destruction.

[Canadian Press.]

Catania, Sicily, Sept. 13.—The eruption of Mount Etna is assuming the proportions of a real disaster. The lava stream, whose path crosses the railway line circling the volcano, is approaching the railway stations to the north, and especially threatening the depots of Molo and Alcantara, which were abandoned today.

Squads of laborers were at work today taking up the railroad tracks and removing all transportable material to places of safety, with the idea of minimizing the losses.

The entire crest of Mount Etna appears to be in a state of ebullition. An exact count of the number of fissures is impossible, because of the smoke which shrouds the whole mountain, but there seemed to be more than thirty openings, all belching smoke and lava.

The eruption means great suffering for the peasantry. The slopes of Etna, with an area of more than 400 square miles, support a population more dense than that of any other portion of Sicily or Italy. There are 65 cities and villages in the entire area, and the number of inhabitants, which obtain an excellent agricultural living from the fertile lava beds, totals more than 300,000.

OTTER TO BE FOLLOWED BY GENERAL COTTON

Change in Command of Militia to Take Place Shortly.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Sept. 13.—Changes are likely to be made at the top of the Canadian militia organization shortly. Gen. Otter has completed the term of service which entitles him to full pension, and will retire. He will probably be succeeded by Gen. Cotton, who is now in command of the Western Ontario division. This command will probably go to Brigadier-Gen. Lessard. To succeed Gen. Lessard, Col. Henry Panet and Col. Septimus Dennison are spoken of.

ROYAL WEDDING RUMOR

[Canadian Press.]

London, Sept. 13.—An interesting report current is that Prince Arthur of Connaught, son of the Duke of Connaught, the newly-commissioned Governor-General of Canada, is engaged to marry Prince Irene, daughter of the Grand Duchess Xenia Alexandrovna, who is a sister of Emperor Nicholas of Russia. It is stated that the formal announcement of the betrothal will be made before the Connaughts sail for Canada.

SIFTON'S QUERIES DISPOSED OF

Dr. Macdonald Answers Them in Address at St. Marys.

HISTORY OF THE PACT

Struggle of the Great Mass of the People For Their Rights.

St. Marys, Sept. 13.—Dr. J. A. Macdonald was the principal speaker at a great Liberal rally here tonight. The Opera House was packed to the doors. The fact that Hon. Clifford Sifton addressed a meeting in the Conservative interest on the previous evening added greatly to the interest. Dr. Macdonald replied effectively to the questions by Mr. Sifton printed and circulated, which had been on the hand bills. His address was most powerful and convincing.

Mayor Sanderson was chairman, and in introducing the candidate for South Perth, Deputy Speaker G. H. McIntyre, referred to the fact that Mr. McIntyre's services had received the indorsation of both parties in the House. Mr. McIntyre will in the natural order of events be the next speaker of the House of Commons.

Mr. McIntyre spoke briefly, but delivered a death blow to the familiar "let-well-enough-alone" argument.

An Important Subject.

Dr. Macdonald said that the subject was far more important than the success of any politician or party; it goes down to the very fundamentals of government; it is the struggle of the great mass of people which is going on in English-speaking countries, not for privileges, but for rights. It is part of the same movement which is going on in England, where the landed aristocracy control the opportunities, and in the United States, where the sources of wealth are controlled through a protective tariff system. Today in Canada we have the beginnings of a similar situation. It is our business as Canadians in laying the foundations of a new nation to do something better for democracy, having before us the object lessons of Great Britain and the United States. He gave the inside history of the agreement, and stated that when Hon. Clifford Sifton said that the Canadian Government had been coerced by the United States Government he was either falsifying the facts or was very ignorant of the facts. If the agreement is bad for the Canadian farmer how is it that every farmers' association and agricultural newspaper in Canada favors the agreement, and in the United States the farmers' associations and agricultural newspapers are against it? Incidentally he stated that the annexation talk which Conservative newspapers are using so freely from American newspapers is being taken from newspapers controlled by the large trusts.

Answers Sifton.

Dr. Macdonald read Mr. Sifton's questions and answered them in order. He objected to Mr. Sifton, a lawyer, calling the reciprocity agreement a treaty, when he knew it to be only an agreement. In answer to the question, what he thought of encouraging the farmers to export barley, the speaker said Mr. Sifton was not a farmer or he would see the advantages of getting $1 10 for his barley rather than 67 cents a bushel.

Mr. Sifton claimed that the export trade of the Canadian millers would be ruined. Dr. Macdonald replied that the Minneapolis millers are taking away the export trade now, because they can export it to England and have 99 per cent of the duty rebated. "What is the use of Mr. Sifton trying to talk nonsense to men?" asked the speaker.

Mr. Sifton wanted to know if it would be a good thing to have our pulp forests thrown open to the American mills. Dr. Macdonald replied that the pulpwood agreement has nothing to do with reciprocity. It became law on Aug. 1 and is now in force.

Mr. Sifton asked if it will be conducive to the prosperity of Canada to have one hundred million bushels of wheat diverted from Canadian railways. Dr. Macdonald quoted Sir William Whyte, to the effect that in ten years Saskatchewan alone will produce enough wheat to supply Great Britain three times over. Sir Donald Mann is not the slightest bit afraid of competition. If the American roads will carry one hundred million bushels cheaper it will not smash the empire.

A great problem was the one which baffled Messrs. Borden, E. B. Osler and Sir James Whitney; how can reciprocity benefit the farmer and benefit the consumer? These gentlemen have forgotten that the agreement has two sides, that two duties are knocked off. Thanks to certain gentlemen the farmer at present receives six cents a pound for hogs, while the consumer in Toronto pays twenty-five cents, the same identical bacon being sold in London, Eng., for sixteen, because it has to face the world competition.

PLACING COUNTRY BEFORE THE PARTY

Some More Conservatives Who Have Come Out for Reciprocity.

William Haley and his two sons, Martin L. Haley and Melbourne H. Haley, Springford P. O., South Oxford, breeders of champon Holstein cattle, Conservatives all their lives and still affiliated with that party, express in interviews, their intention of voting for reciprocity, adding that in their constituency scores of other Conservative farmers will do the same.

Simeon H. White, of Sussex, one of New Brunswick's industrial leaders, a Conservative by heredity and training, is using his influence and vote to help along reciprocity.

Mr. Frank Clements, of York County, the "potato king," of New Brunswick, who has always been a Conservative, says: "I can rent land in New Brunswick for potato growing at $2 an acre; just across the line in Aroostook, the same land demands $20 an acre. A hundred acres farm in Kent County will sell for $1,800 to $2,000. In Aroostook a similar farm brings $3,800 to $4,000, same kind of land, same kind of farmers, only difference is the market. Reciprocity will give us that market.

E. Sutton Clarke, of Charlotte County, the largest fish dealer in New Brunswick, is strong for reciprocity, though he has always voted Conservative.

Dr. R. F. Quigley, K.C., of St. John, as well known as a scholar as lawyer, says he has always favored reciprocity as a Conservative, and he cannot change, even if his present party leaders do.

ENGLAND OUT OF WATER

Prolonged Drouth Causing Great Inconvenience to Farmers.

London, Sept. 13.—The prevalence of cholera in certain continental countries has caused increased precautions to be taken by the British port authorities. Extraordinary vigilance is being exercised regarding the possible arrival of passengers from any infected areas.

In many towns and villages of England, as a result of the prolonged drought, water is entirely absent, and supplies thereof are being taken around in carts to the inhabitants.

Farmers are not only without water for their stock, but are finding it almost impossible, owing to the total absence of grass, to obtain enough food for their animals to keep them alive.

The root crops are an entire failure, and the prospect for stockkeepers during the coming winter is a grave one.

LOST BOTH ARMS.

Lindsay, Ont., Sept. 13.—A terrible accident happened to Mr. Alex. McGee, a farmer, of Fenelon Township, yesterday, when he had both arms so badly mangled in a cutting-box that amputation was necessary. It appears that McGee had gloves on, and one hand became caught in the machinery, and he endeavored to extricate it with his other hand, both members being dragged into the knives, with the above result. He is in a hospital, and doing as well as can be expected.

LONDON, THURSDAY, SEPT. 14.

THE CRAZY-QUILT PROGRAMME.

If a map of Canada be spread out and colored according to the local Opposition policies it will look like a crazy quilt. Earlier in the campaign the individual patches stood out clearer, though of late the colors have run, with some rather sorry effects.

Right in the centre of the mosaic you see a big Orange belt. Some of the names inscribed in this section, Hughes, Sproule, etc., have a curious interest about them. They stand for violence of language, for surly exclusion and non-intercourse, anti-this and anti-that, but particularly anti-Catholic, anti-French and anti-American feeling.

Small daubs of purple distinguish Toronto and Montreal, with perhaps a dot or dash at one or two other places. Here reign the millionaires, the climbers, the admirers of old country old-fogeyism and deprecators of old country Liberalism, the Hiloyalists, loyal to nothing but oligarchy, pocket and privilege, always on the make, money-mad, kid gloved people, who will not give the farmer his turn. Race and religion are, of course, nothing to these gentry. As for the navy, that is simply leverage for a deal.

Put a good strong green over British Columbia, where a corner in fruit is advocated, and Mr. Barnard, Conservative candidate for Victoria, demands a bigger and costlier navy, built and stationed on the Pacific Coast. Pink will do, as a complementary color, for Nova Scotia, whose Conservative voices do not call for a British Columbia navy but one stationed on the Atlantic coast.

Over the prairie country there is a fine rich splash of red. "Go at the tariff with an axe," chants the Winnipeg Telegram. Mr. Bradbury, Conservative candidate for Selkirk, Manitoba, has some interesting things to say. Down here in Ontario there seems to be a general agreement on all hands that the enormous profits of the middlemen will be cut down by the pact; Mr. Flavelle and Mr. McEvoy agree that far. But Mr. Bradbury makes the interesting assertion that "the middleman will simply increase his profits and that is all there is to it." He objects to the pact, that it "means free trade to the producer, but the great manufacturing interests are taken care of." That is not the sort of talk that we hear from the Siftons, the Bordens and Fosters down east. No wonder Mr. Sifton does not go to say anything in his own country; his particular brand of opposition is not wanted there.

A more vivid red distinguishes the Alberta riding that lately did itself the honor of sending Mr. Herron to Ottawa. He is becoming really quite an enthusiast for reciprocity, and may yet advance to the higher stage of full-fledged Liberalism if he is not careful.

It is in Quebec, however, that we have the Joseph's coat of shot and changing colors. The rouge of those seven ridings in the Montreal district whose Opposition candidates take their stand for reciprocity is overlaid to some extent with Nationalist whitewash, with here and there a tricolor stamped on. There are scattering bits of the old-fashioned "bleu," sadly whitened or rouged as the case may be. You cannot tell what to make of this Quebec patch-work, except that nowhere is there any love for Great Britain on the part of the Conservative-Nationalist organization. There is also a clerical touch of black, an ultramontane contrast to the anti-Catholic Orange of Ontario.

Latest touch of all in this sad botch is the scarlet, rouger than the rouge, of the Montreal Star's free implements and farmers' party programme. This unique departure from the National Policy sets off well the old royal blueing of Major Beattie's 20 per cent. increase or protectionism.

Could anything be more variegated than the Conservative circus of this campaign? Barnum & Bailey and all other merely three-ring shows are left far in the rear.

A REFERENDUM IMPOSSIBLE.

The volume of Conservative opposition to Canada's taking a share in imperial defence continues to grow. To the Quebec candidates, Messrs. Pickle and Davidson, are added now two Ontario candidates, Messrs. Geo. Gordon, former member for Nipissing, and W. R. Smyth, former member for Algoma, who pledge themselves to aid the Nationalists in repealing the navy law and in securing a referendum on the question.

The referendum apart from an election, except on sumptuary questions such as prohibition, is foreign to Canadian and British political theory and practice. It does not harmonize with the representative system which we have inherited from Great Britain. It tends to weaken the authority and responsibility of parliament and cabinet, presupposing a want of confidence in the very men whom the citizens have selected to govern and legislate.

But leaving general principles aside, how can a referendum on the Canadian navy question be satisfactorily carried out? If the question put were "Are you in favor of the Government's Canadian-imperial policy or no?" those who believe in doing nothing would unite with those who advocate imperial contribution and possibly defeat the Laurier policy. The only result would be the undoing of something done, not the doing of something else. This is the Nationalist game, but if successful it would not give effect necessarily or probably to the wish of the majority of the whole people. Thus the only use that may lie in the referendum would be defeated.

Supposing that the question referred to the people were couched in triple or quadruple or quintuple form, thus: (1) Are you in favor of the Laurier policy? or (2) a money contribution, or (3) of a contribution in ships and men? or (4) of all kinds of contribution, of this or that combination of selected kinds of contribution?" or (5) of doing nothing at all?" Nothing could possibly be settled by the answers to such a problem. It might be impossible to secure for any single proposal an absolute majority of the votes cast. Many of the people would simply give up and not vote, saying, "Leave it to experts." That is just what the representative system of the British constitution does with all such matters, puts their settlement in the hands of political experts chosen by the people, but responsible to the people also. That is what the referendum cannot do. It can never settle the question of Canada's part in imperial defence.

The referendum on the navy law now proposed by Mr. Borden and his followers in order to gain the Nationalist vote is no more or no less laudable than the other positions that he has successively taken up on this matter of imperial defence. He is at his usual game of any trifling or juggling to avoid action. A referendum on the navy question, as the Nationalists shout in glee, can end only in a do-nothing impasse.

MAJOR BEATTIE'S 50-YEAR-OLD "ARGUMENTS."

Conditions have changed for Canada since the days of Sir John Macdonald, say the leading Conservative spokesmen. What was good for her infancy is not good for her now. In effect they contend that, thanks to Laurier, an improved tariff and British preference, Canada no longer needs reciprocity with the United States in natural products. Conditions are changed. Sir John A.'s advocacy of reciprocity 20 years ago, they assert, has no bearing upon the situation today.

Where, then, is the relevance in Major Beattie's continued maunderings on the treaty of 1854-1866? That treaty has got on his mind and he cannot get away from the obsession. Not twenty years back, but fifty years back, generations back, does Mr. Beattie carry his hearers. What Sir John thought till his death in 1891 makes no difference in this enlightened and progressive age, but it is of great importance that the treaty of times when Canada had scarcely a railway, as Mr. Beattie says, was a dismal failure. So he gives his reminiscences free play. Forget the 90's, but remember those dreadful 60's, is his cry; and his audiences for the life of them cannot remember.

In his detailed "argument," however, the Major makes it plain enough to everybody but himself that the treaty times were good times. His own mind gets the fat years of the treaty confused with the lean years which followed its lapse, while his audiences have no trouble in gathering the true state of the matter. Mr. Beattie's organ informs its readers very distinctly that under the treaty of 1854-66 Canada was well off, yea, too well off, alas! Some friend with a good ear should try to tighten the candidate's strings into tune with the party organ.

As it is, a number of the faithful will hardly know whom to follow, those who say that by-gones have no relevance to the present issue, or Mr. Beattie, who insists that they have. Sir John Macdonald, who considered the treaty of 1854 a good thing for Canada, or Mr. Beattie, who holds in spite of his "argument" that it was not. Which is the true and which the false prophet, Sir John, who was premier during part of the period covered by the treaty, or Mr. Beattie, who was part of that time Master Beattie in knee breeches, and had not even in 1866 attained to the measure of the fullness of the stature of his intellectual prime? Sir John has the disadvantage of being a "dead Conservative," and pygmies dance on the platform where once he reigned. Better, said the ancient poet, be a slave on earth than dwell a king among the shades. That is so much to Mr. Beattie's advantage. And yet, after all, modestly, without being dogmatic, may we not throw out the suggestion that the authority of the august dead may on this subject of the treaty of 1854-1866 be preferred to the confused utterance of the robust living? Let us perhaps just this once put a founder of Confederation before the vice-president of the City Gas Company.

Beattie, Borden and Bourassa.

Can anyone name half a dozen Liberal farmers who are against reciprocity?

Mr. Borden's latest naval policy must be a submarine. It is under the surface.

Mr Beattie's present opinion of the British preference is still locked in his own bosom.

All reports from East Elgin say the head of the canning trust will be canned on the 21st.

Mr. Beattie, like all of us, is for the British navy, but he objects to any Canadian reinforcement.

The Canadian heads of American trusts waving the old flag at Toronto are curious election exhibits.

Mr. Voter, see where all the combines are in this election, and then mark your ballot accordingly.

This is the eighteenth day since The Advertiser asked the Free Press to tell the truth about the lumber duties.

Divided in everything else, the enemies of the Government are united in one aim: "Anything to beat Laurier."

Mr. Lewis, of West Huron, has discovered that reciprocity is more popular than Mr. Lewis. As a result he is trying to be all things to all men, and all men have found him out.

Mr. Borden, Mr. Beattie, and the rest of the Opposition choir are ready to sing "Britannia Rules the Waves," but not ready to vote a copper to help her rule the waves.

If the Opposition told the truth in the last election about Clifford Sifton he is unfit to associate with honest men. Yet he is the unofficial leader of the Opposition in Ontario today.

The Eastern States consume more food than they produce. Consequently they want to buy it from the nearest producers, who are Canadians. There is the case for reciprocity in a nutshell.

The London Free Press again attacks Mr. McEvoy because he opposed the Niagara power project. If that is an issue in this contest, Mr. Beattie is equally open to attack. He made no secret of his opposition to Mr. Beck's scheme. After all, why should the vice-president of the City Gas Company be expected to take off his hat and cheer for a business competitor?

What a fearful hash these pro-reciprocity, anti-reciprocity, pro-British, anti-British, Borden-Bourassa candidates make! But wait and see what anotner hash the electors will make of the hash next week.

Farms in Ontario command over 100 per cent. higher prices than in the United States.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

The Mail is presuming on the fact that there is no statute against lying.

The owner of La Presse, the great French-Canadian daily, was offered $250,000 to oppose reciprocity. The enemies of the Government have a full barrel. Where did the money come from? Largely from the combines on both sides of the line.

WHY THE "OHIO FARMER" IS AGAINST RECIPROCITY

London Township Man Draws Out a Cleveland Journal—Say All the Benefit of Reciprocity Will Go to the Canadian Farmer.

The Ohio Farmer, a journal with a large circulation, published at Cleveland, is violently opposed to reciprocity. With the object of influencing Canadian opinion against the agreement it printed a series of articles, contending that reciprocity was a step toward annexation and circulated them broadcast in this country. A London Township agriculturist who received a copy, wrote the publishers protesting against these tactics, and inquiring what "outside interests prompted the offensive articles. His object was to draw out the journal, and he succeeded admirably. He elicited the following reply:

"Replying to your several questions of Aug. 28, will say that had you followed the editorials that have been published in the Ohio Farmer for the several months past you would probably not have felt called upon to ask whether or not we were influenced by various outside interests, which you say are trying to make 'catspaws' of the farmers. We assure you that the farmers of the United States opposed the ratification of the reciprocity pact just as heartily as the farmers of Canada are favoring it, and for trade reasons which are obvious without further mention.

"The leading reason, however, was the principle which permitted the drafting of an act of this kind without advising in any way with the interests most seriously affected; but most important of all which removed all protection of any kind from the products of the farm while retaining a degree of protection upon the things that the farmer has to buy. You certainly must agree that if adopted, the pact will be to the great benefit of Canadian farmers, else why the enthusiasm in favor of it on that side of the line.

"No, we do not think that the reciprocity pact is worthy of our support in its present form, and we wish to assure you that no outside interests prompted or even suggested the publication of the editorial concerning which you are so much concerned."

The attitude of the Ohio Farmer is that of every agricultural journal in the United States. It reflects the overwhelming sentiment of the American farmers. On the other hand every agricultural journal in Canada, whether owned or edited by Conservative or Liberal, supports the reciprocity agreement. Isn't that pretty convincing testimony for the Canadian farmer?

THE WHEAT HARVEST.

[London Daily News.]

The board of agriculture and fisheries have issued particulars of the harvest of some of the principal corn-producing countries which have been communicated in a telegram from the International Agricultural Institute.

In regard to wheat, the production is estimated as follows:

Great Britain	33,505,000
Canada	114,449,000
United States	356,040,000
British India	198,380,000
Prussia	46,199,000
Spain	83,890,000
Hungary	100,557,000
Italy	108,822,000
Roumania	51,164,000
Japan	11,016,000

In these countries it is anticipated that the production will be about 5.6 per cent above last year's output.

BRITAIN'S LEAD.

(London News.)

The important fact is brought out in the tables published by the Board of Trade Journal that in the first six months of this year British oversea trade increased much more considerably than that of either of our two greatest foreign competitors—Germany and the United States. In respect of imports the totals of each of the three countries in the first half of this year, with the amount of increase over the totals for the corresponding period in 1909, may be shown in the following way:

	1911.	Increase over 1909.
Germany	£228,233,000	£23,570,000
United States	159,268,000	9,683,000
United Kingdom	279,237,000	24,138,000

The increase of exports is even more marked:

	1911.	Increase over 1909.
Germany	£187,319,000	£37,880,000
United States	201,800,000	40,402,000
United Kingdom	223,668,000	46,734,000

The figures are the more remarkable in view of the difference in population—Germany with 62 millions, and the United States with 92 millions, as against the United Kingdom with 45 millions.

APPEAL TO THE BRITISH-BORN.

[Woodstock Sentinel-Review.]

"An attempt is made to round up the British-born in this country against the reciprocity agreement. Such an attempt must look peculiar to those who recall the persistence of the British-born at home in preserving their right to buy untaxed food and to sell wherever they can do so to best advantage."

KANSAN'S HANDY WILD GOOSE.

[Junction City (Kansas) Union.]

Ed. Bickenhauser has lost a wild goose, and the boy who returns it will get a reward. Several years ago when Ed. was on a hunt he shot and wounded a goose and after a while he got another one. The two have been on parade up at the Bickenhauser home, and have become domesticated. They can foretell the eather, come in handy to keep intruders from the home, as they can make a terrible noise when startled at night, and they are taken out during the hunting season and used as decoys.

ENGLAND TAKES MALTA.

[Rev. Thomas B. Gregory.]

One hundred and eleven years ago—Sept. 5, 1800—the island of Malta, with its splendid harbors, grand strategic advantages, beautiful hills and valleys and most ancient and honorable history, passed into the hands of England, to be kept by her so long, in all probability, as she figures in the politics of the world.

Most of the world-girdling possessions of John Bull have cost him heavily in the way of blood and treasure, but the gem of the great Blue Sea came to him gratuitously, as it were. That great grabber of things terrestrial, the First Napoleon, laid his hand upon Malta in 1798 and made it a part of France, but the Maltese, not fancying the ways of the great Corsican, voted their island and themselves under the protection of England.

The Maltese did not know that British protection meant British ownership. Englishmen have always claimed (very rightly, perhaps) that whenever they are invited to "protect" a given area of the earth's surface they should have full swing in the premises, so that the protection may not be interfered with from the outside.

And so, for considerably more than a century, England has held the famous island in the Mediterranean, very much to her advantage in the great game of international politics.

Owing to its commanding position, Malta is of the utmost value toward keeping a clear highway to the east and to India. It lies right in the line of sea travel from the Atlantic to the Nile and the Red Sea, and, in the hands of a great sea power like England, it dominates the whole central and eastern Mediterranean. With plenty of coal stored up in Malta and plenty of battleships to use it England is able practically to block up the great sea if she so chooses. It makes her virtually the mistress of the Mediterranean.

It was as good as settled with the acquisition of Malta by Great Britain on that September day, 1800, that Englishmen were to become the rulers of the east, not only of India, but of Egypt, and ultimately of Arabia, Syria and the entire Orient.

EVEN AT PRINCE RUPERT THEY SEE IT.

[Prince Rupert News.]

It is significant to find the number of Conservatives openly supporting the Government on the reciprocity issue.

CHEAP FLIMFLAMMER IS PARKHILL MAN

Refused To Pay For Meal He Ate in Local Restaurant.

According to Chief Williams, Daniel Campbell, of Parkhill, is a cheap type of flimflammer. Campbell was arrested last night on a complaint of a restaurant-keeper, who alleges that he came into the eating-house and ate everything on the table, in addition to what he was served, and then, remarking that he had had a very fine supper, proceeded to walk out.

The proprietor wanted 25 cents, but Campbell, it is said, put his hand in his pocket and pulled out a cent.

"My, I'm sorry," he said. "I thought I had a quarter, but this is only a cent. It's all I've got, too."

The proprietor thought of the havoc that Campbell had wrought among his provisions and then had him arrested.

"This man came to the Fair two years ago," Chief Williams told Magistrate Judd, "and tried the same game then, and had trouble because he would not pay."

Campbell said he was here two years ago, but didn't have any trouble.

"Well," said the court, "I am going to get to the bottom of this. You can't come in here and eat everything off a table and then walk out without paying."

He was remanded.

How to Wash your Face

A Little Beauty Talk by Mrs Anita Norris

Do you long for a beautiful skin, milk-white and smooth as satin? If so, it behooves you to keep it as clean as friction, pure soap and hot rainwater can make it. Peaches and cream complexion of which we hear so much, and see so little, cannot be yours unless you realize the value of superhuman cleanliness.

If milady refuses to scrub and scour her face in the manner approved of by specialists on hygiene, the many tiny pores will become torpid and clogged with poisonous matter. The result? Why, a large crop of particularly lusty pimples and blackheads, of course, or a yellow, blotchy complexion.

Now let me give you my idea of how often the up-to-date woman should take this beautifying face bath.

Three times daily is not any too often to shampoo the skin, as dirt has a disconcerting way of accumulating, and the longer it is allowed to remain on the skin, the more havoc is wrought.

I am hoping against hope that all of my readers will find it possible to substitute rain water for hard water. As you value your good looks, taboo the latter. Hard water contains mineral salts which, when combined with the fatty acids in the soap, affect the skin in such a way that it grows yellow and rough, while the pores, in a valiant effort not to be outdone, enlarge and crack.

You will be spared all these beauty woes if you will but pin your faith to rain water. It contains no earthy matter, and is credited with giving one an apple blossom complexion.

There are many strenuous arguments advanced against the use of soap, but I know that the application of a mild soap, preferably a vegetable oil soap, to the face at least once a day makes for beauty of skin.

"What is a vegetable oil soap?"

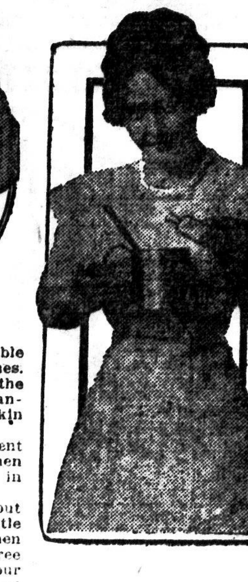

It is chiefly composed of vegetable oils, and has peculiar cosmetic values. It not only cleanses the pores of the skin in an unusually thorough manner, but quickly renders the skin velvet smooth and lily white.

It has a great vogue in the Orient as a beautifier, and will, I think, when known, become even more popular in this country.

cakes of this unique toilet soap, put one quart of olive oil into a kettle and place over a gentle heat. When the oil comes to a boil, add three pints of boiling water, in which four tablespoonfuls of refined potash have been previously dissolved; stir constantly while mixture boils slowly—do not allow it to burn—until it thickens like jelly when cooled on a plate. The stirring should be done with a wooden spoon, and when soap has been allowed to cool, before hardening at all, scent it with two drachms each of oil of lavender and cloves. This soap is all the better for being kept for five or six months.

As your object in washing the face is to get it clean, hot, not cold, water should be used. Hot water is in itself a splendid cosmetic, as it improves a defective circulation and refines the skin.

When giving the face its daily bath, rub the flesh with upward circular movements of the wash-cloth or towel.

Downward pressure causes the muscles to sag, and crow's feet and a flabby double chin are the inevitable result.

After the skin has been scrubbed and rubbed and scoured in delicious hot lathery water until it is immaculately clean, take a rough, dry towel and rub the face with it until the skin is perfectly dry. When water is allowed to dry on the face, the skin assumes a cracked, parched appearance, which is far from becoming.

Don't be afraid to friction the skin, as it enjoys being rubbed and smoothed, and shows its satisfaction by growing rapidly younger and prettier.

WHITE ROSES

By KATHARINE HOLLAND BROWN.

"I beg your pardon, ma'am." The deep, clear voice softly entreated. He leaped from his saddle and stood before her, abashed by her sudden chill of manner, yet keen and eager. His voice shook a little. A slow red was rising under his tanned skin. Certainly he was very young indeed. "My name is Court Morgan. I notice you're some strange here, and I'll count it an honor if you'll permit me to be of any service to you——"

"You are very kind, Mr.—ah—Morgan." Corinna's tone was level as her glance. "I thank you. But my friends will come soon. Meanwhile I need nothing whatever. Nothing."

"Oh!" The man looked steadily back at her. His face did not flinch; but his eyes grew black with hurt astonished question. "You mean—I understand. I beg your pardon. I wish you a pleasant journey, ma'am. Good-day."

The pinto wheeled to his beckoning hand. The mesquite closed in a brown rippling furrow behind his long retreating gallop away.

"Now, why should he want to hurry off like that?" argued Corinna, uncomfortably. "Silly thing, how astonished he looked! He stared at me like a great, grieved puppy, who can't imagine why you've cuffed its ears." That dark face, with its look of a boy rebuffed and utterly bewildered, swam before her eyes, she turned from it, resentfully. "Surely he knew that I couldn't accept his self-introduction, even—and he had a rather nice face too. Of course, he's just a herder, or something. But I do wish he hadn't looked so forlorn. As if I'd stamped on all his higher feelings, at one swoop. Goose!"

"Buenos Dias, Senorita!"

Corinna turned again. In the green tin shack doorway stood a small dumpy gentleman in somewhat crumpled splendors of white duck and flaming orange tie. His brown moon-face widened with drowsy yet hospitable smiles.

"You arrive upon the turr-rain?" he murmured. "You come as guest unto the Senor Leonard at the Camp of Construction at Madrilena?"

"Yes. Haven't they sent over for me? Won't their carriage be here soon?"

The moon-face sauntered to his desk, with a deep, important sigh.

"Your telegram, proclaiming that you come, is yet here," he announced cheerfully. "Myself, I am Juan Teraz, operator of the telegraph. Last night I have designed to ride to Madrilena and carry your message, but I have remained late at the dance, thus it escapes my thought. No matter. After some hours comes Pachecho, he who drives the mail coach. With him you can proceed to Madrilena. Your friends expect you not. Therefore, to the pleasure of your arrival is added the joy of the s'prise."

The joy of the s'prise was somewhat poignantly reflected upon Corinna's ingenuous countenance.

"You mean they don't even know that I'm here? You forgot to deliver my message? The very idea! Why didn't you telephone them?"

"Tailphone?" the moon-faced echoed, blandly amused. "Upon the desert, sees one tailphones, not. But what matter? Here are you most welcome." He swept his piano-box mansion with a deep, hospitable salute. "Accept, Senorita, until comes Pachecho. And myself your servant!"

Corinna viewed the situation with a glassy eye.

"Myself, if you require not my presence, will continue my repose." He bowed low, stepping backwards into the single tight apartment; his smile, ever broadening, seemed to hang suspended in the doorway, even as the smile of a Cheshire cat. "I am much sought in the dance last night. It is a weary thing to be popular, not so?"

Before her unbelieving eyes he sank calmly on the pinkrose carpet lounge, and drew a florid bandanna over his face. Even as she fled to the step there came a long-drawn peaceful note. The weariness of much popularity had claimed its own.

"I dare say you'll call this an adventure," remarked Corinna to the horizon, there being nothing else in sight to address. "But, after this I'd rather see than be one. 'After some hours comes Pachecho,' he sounds like a buccaneer in top-boots. And eighteen miles, in a bumpy stage coach—who cares? Look at that sunrise and those flowers and be glad you're alive and here!"

She stepped from the platform into the deep sweet grass. Beneath the golden eastern light, the prairie glowed with sheets of bloom, white, lavender, dew-jeweled. Plucking right and left, tempted farther and farther, she did not dream how far she went, till she found herself suddenly dizzy and tired. She looked back at the cabin, dismayed How could she have wandered so far?

It was a long tramp back through the high, hot sunlight. Fagged and shaky, she reached the cabin and peeped eagerly at the clock. Surely Pachecho would come soon.

Half-past seven, and she had thought it nearly noon!

The next two hours were a dazed and aching nightmare. The sun blazed high and higher; a tiptoe search of the cabin revealed neither water nor food; the operator snored on tranquilly. Hot, drowsy, giddy with hunger, Corinna wrapped herself in her long silk dust cloak, and curled up on her huge wicker dress-basket, a forlorn, stylish little anachronism, in the face of the hoa white desert, the blue eternal fires of sky.

Presently she struggled awake from her wretched doze. Vaguely she heard the muffled thud of a horse's feet, then a step on the platform.

She opened her eyes. She sat up with a jerk.

Beside her stood a boy in battered riding clothes, a slight, dark, young fellow, hardly older than Corinna herself. His pose was graceful apology embodied. But there was a gleam in his dark, heavy eyes, a tone in his drawing voice, that made Corinna wince and feel hot. She hastened to check his sweeping deference with a glance of haughty unconcern. However, it was difficult to achieve hauteur with her haa lurching sidewise over blinking dazzled eyes, and both feet tangled in her long cloak.

"A million pounds, Senorita," sighed the intruder. Insolent amusement kindled in his narrowing gaze. "I have paused, unwitting, for the moments rest in the shade. Never can I forgive myself, that I disturb your angel repose."

DO YOU DO THIS?

When making pancakes put a large tablespoonful of olive oil in the batter. The taste cannot be detected, gives a delicate brown and does away with greasing the griddle.

When applying stove polish, whether of the liquid or paste variety, use a small paint brush. It does not soil the hands, and reaches all the corners and the little seams so hard to get at any other way. The brush when not in use should be kept in a cupful of water to prevent it hardening.

HOW TO CURL YOUR FEATHERS

Always be sure that every stitch is secure before attempting to clean or dye a feather. It is quite certain to come apart in the water or dye unless every loose portion has been fastened.

A plume is usually made in three or four layers, the outer layer having an unbroken quill from tip to the stem. The middle layers are made from pieces.

If the feather is broken through the quill, the wire stem should be removed and the top layer ripped off. Then sew a piece of ribbon wire over the break on the middle layer, cut through the break on the outer layer, and scrape one end very thin on the other side. Lap a quarter of an inch, sew it to the rest of the feather with fine silk, making only a single stitch at the top, and fastening over with a button-hole stitch.

Do not turn the feather in sewing. Bring the needle up on one side of the stem and bring the eye down on the other, so there will be no slack thread to catch in the flues.

When the sewing is done, replace the wire stem, tying it with the wire or thread and wind tissue paper around it as a finish.

To curl feathers a regular curling knife should be used. The blade of this knife is very dull, and it has a curve to fit the thumb.

Hold the feather over the spout of a kettle, which is only half filled with water, so that the steam will come out of the spout and not the top. Steam thoroughly from the under side of the feather, allowing the steam to come through while smoothing the flues until the feather falls into a good shape.

Commence at the wire stem to curl a feather. Hold in the left hand with the quill lying along the forefinger, and curl as many of the flues at one time as can be drawn between the thumb and the curling knife.

If curled too tight, stem out again. The tip should be made thicker by pinching up two or three flues until they fall close to the quill.

Do this to old feathers the whole length of the quill, being careful in handling, because old feathers are liable to fall apart.

Dear Miss Grey—1. What will bleach the cream-colored mohair braid on a white duck coat? 2. What can I do to get rid of bedbugs in the walls of my house? A READER.

A.—1. I fear the case is hopeless. Better rip the braid off entirely, or else be satisfied to wear it the way it is. 2. Tear the paper off the walls of the rooms infested and plaster every crack. Then re-paper and varnish all the woodwork. Be lavish with the varnish in the crevices where the bugs might be hiding. Scour the floors and varnish them. Then go over every piece of furniture carefully to be sure they are free from the pests. Finally burn a sulphur and formaldehyde candle in each room which has given trouble, after closing all doors and windows. Follow directions which come with the candles. These candles may be bought at a drug store, or the druggist will order them for you. Your motto must be "Eternal Vigilance."

Cut stale bread in thin slices, put together in sandwiches with a thick filling of the paste, then trim off crusts and cut in pieces two by four inches in size. Beat together two raw eggs and mix with a quarter of a cupful of milk, a pinch of salt and sufficient sifted flour to make a drop batter. Dip each piece in this, then drop into deep, smoking hot fat and fry golden brown. Drain for a moment on soft paper and serve spread on a dish; do not heap on one another.

GERMAN EDITOR CLANKS GREAT WAR SWORD

Declares It Is Time for the Kaiser to Punish French Impudence.

Berlin, Sept. 13. — How military circles in Germany really feel is best expressed by the following extract from an inflammatory article in the Deutsche Armeeblatt, the organ of the society of inactive officers of the German army:

"The question may be asked, Is the present time favorable for war against France and England That question can be answered absolutely in the affirmative. The popularity of such a contest even such moderate press organs as the Koelnische Zeitung and the National Liberal here admitted by stating that the threats of leading English ministers have greatly excited the national German feeling.

"For the sake of Morocco, perhaps, the Kaiser would not draw his sword, but surely to punish certain French and English impudences. We have great confidence in our navy, and know that it would relish the opportunity to throw itself on the English naval colossus. For German domestic conditions war would be well, as we are becoming effeminate and war frees the good and noble qualities in people."

The fearful class prejudice which still exists among German military people is demonstrated by the tragic suicide of a lieutenant in Wurzburg, who was much in love with a sales girl in Hamburg. His relatives and fellow-officers objected to the match and he was placed under the alternative of either quitting the military service or giving up the girl.

On this the pair decided to commit suicide. They rented a boat on the Bodensee, and the lieutenant tied himself to the young woman, then shot her and himself. A letter written by the young woman was found, in which she said:

"As we cannot be united in life we will be joined in death."

But even this sad consolation was not granted, for the relatives of the officer refused to have the lovers buried in one grave, as the young people wished.

TRUMPET CALL TO FARMERS BY FARMERS' WEEKLY SUN

They Must Fight the Big Interests Opposing Reciprocity—Benefits of the Agreement—How Farmers Are Losing Every Day by American Tariff.

[From the Farmers' Weekly Sun.]

Distance is in our favor, as against the Western States in supplying the great consuming market in the Eastern States. The only handicap against us is in the form of the American tariff wall. That handicap will be wholly removed if the Canadian people, on the 21st of this month, approve the reciprocity agreement which is now before them.

During the year ending March last duties to the amount of nearly $5,000,000 were paid to the United States Government on exports from Canada to the United States in lines covered by the agreement now awaiting the judgment of the Canadian electorate. If the Canadian people declare in favor of the agreement these duties will not have to paid next year.

Take one concrete case as an illustration of what this will mean. Last year $1,200 was paid in duties to the United States Government on turnips shipped from the one station of Burford, in the county of Brant—turnips gathered from a territory within a radius of three or four miles. If the reciprocity agreement is approved on the 21st, no duty will have to be paid on the turnips shipped from Burford next year. And what holds true of the turnip shipments from Burford holds true of the shipments of turnips, of hay, of butter, of eggs, and other farm products from scores and hundreds of like railway stations in this province.

Not only will existing trade be relieved of burdens at present imposed, but trade which does not exist now, which is prevented from being created by tariff handicaps, will spring into being, and greater prosperity will follow as a consequence.

$450 LOST WEEKLY.

Take another concrete case for the purpose of illustrating this point: About 30 cattle, averaging 1,000 pounds each, are shipped from Flesherton weekly. These go to Toronto, where prices have been running lately about $1 50 per hundredweight, or $15 per head, below the Buffalo level. This because they are barred from the Buffalo market by the United States tariff. If these cattle, shipped from Flesherton, could enter Buffalo free of duty, and obtain the prices lately ruling there, $450 more than now would be realized on these weekly shipments. The United States duty will be removed this fall, if the farmers of Canada vote for their own interests on the 21st, and there will as a consequence be more money to distribute weekly among the cattle feeders of Flesherton district. And there are dozens of Fleshertons along each line of railway in Ontario.

THE CASE OF BARLEY.

Another case in which approval of reciprocity will spell increased prosperity for the Ontario farmer is found in barley. We ship practically no barley to the United States now, because a duty of 30 cents a bushel stands in the way. At one time we exported eleven and one-half million bushels to the United States in a single year at an average price of 90 cents a bushel. There is no reason why we should not do the same again, provided Canadian farmers vote for themselves on the 21st, because barley is now selling in Buffalo well above the dollar mark.

Reciprocity means not only greater profits on trade now existing; it means a very profitable trade where there is no trade at all at present because of tariff barriers.

TWO CONCRETE ILLUSTRATIONS.

There are two familiar instances which always come to mind when speaking of the effect of the existence or removal of artificial barriers on trade between Canada and the United States.

In the late nineties our cattle were barred from the United States, not only by a tariff, but quarantine regulations, which held them up at the border. There came a great shortage of feed one year, and Ontario stockers went down to about the price of the hides. Then Hon. Mr. Fisher, by negotiations with the United States, succeeded in having the quarantine regulations removed, and in three years our exports of cattle to the United States jumped from less than 2,000 to over 90,000 a year.

Up to 1909 no cream was exported from Canada to the United States. Then the American duty was reduced from 5 cents per pound to 5 cents per gallon, and now we are exporting some two million dollars' worth of cream to the United States a year.

As it was in stocker cattle in the late 'nineties, as it is in cream now, so it will be in all lines with the reciprocity agreement in effect. New and profitable trade will spring into existence all along the line, to the great advantage of the Canadian people.

There is another familiar illustration of the value of the American market to the Canadian farmer. It is afforded in the case of pure-bred, registered breeding stock. We have free trade in that line now. Any American farmer can come to Canada, purchase such stock, and take it into the United States without payment of duty. What has been the effect? At all the big sales of Shorthorn and Holstein cattle held in Ontario most of the big prices have been paid by American buyers.

Is it not reasonable to suppose, does not every farmer know, that like results will follow upon the application of free trade to all lines of live stock?

WHY THE OPPOSITION?

Still, in the face of all these well-known facts, journals like the Mail and Empire, and alleged statesmen like Clifford Sifton, would have us believe that under free trade in agricultural products the markets of Canada will be flooded with the products of American farms. Do such journals and such alleged statesmen take the farmers of Canada for fools? Journals which contain such statements, in large type, on their front page, give on their back pages, very inconspicuously it is true, market reports which belie what they shout through the megaphone of their front page.

Common sense tells us that we must gain by obtaining the right to sell freely in the great block of consuming states lying right at Ontario's door, consuming states now fed by distant Western States. And what common sense tells us is borne out by market reports showing higher prices in almost all lines of farm products in these nearby states than prevail here.

Why, when the advantages are so obvious, is there such bitter opposition? Selfish interests and political opportunism explain the most of it.

Maltsters, like W. D. Matthews, see that while farmers stand to gain by the opening of the American market to Canadian barley, maltsters will have to pay more for their raw material in the form of barley than they do now. Pork packers, like J. W. Flavelle, know that while farmers will get more for their hogs, there will be no more 120 per cent. dividends for packers. Cold storage men know that with free trade in eggs it will no longer be possible for them to buy eggs cheap in summer—the opening of the American market will run up the price of our summer eggs—and to sell dear in the winter, when eggs are not being produced here. The opening of the door to southern eggs in winter will prevent the exaction of unfair profits at that end of the deal. The canners' combine know that under free trade in fruits they will be unable to exact monopoly prices for their finished product on the one hand, and to depress the price of raw material on the other. The opening of the American market to our late fresh fruits and vegetables will prevent the one; the opening of our market to early American fruits and vegetables will render the other impossible. Buyers of seed peas, grown for the American market, know that with the United States duty of 40 cents a bushel knocked off these there will be more profit for the grower, but they know also there will be more competition for the dealer. Most of all, despite all the assurances given, the whole protected interests fears "the thin edge of the wedge." Hence the antagonism of what has come to be called The Interests.

THE INTERESTS VERSUS THE PEOPLE

The opposition of politicians is based on that of The Interests. All politicians know that The Interests—the great corporations, the subsidy hunters, all the men who profit by privilege—have no politics other than their pockets. One group of politicians apparently entertains the belief that farmers are so saturated with party political prejudice that they will vote for a name regardless of the policy thereto attached. Therefore, they have decided to link fortunes with The Interests, which can be depended upon to support any man or any party which supports them, and to trust to blind partyism to divide the farmers as of old.

If this trust proves well founded; if farmers do vote as partisans; if they reject the thing they have asked for through their spokesmen, the thing which the whole country has been striving for during fifty years, what will be the result? Not only will all possibility of securing the great material advantages of reciprocity be lost, for a generation at least, but The Interests, powerful enough now, will be made the dominant political force in this Dominion. The lesson to all future Governments will be to serve the favored few and ignore the non-favored many. The way will be prepared for the creation in this new Dominion of a despotism of money more galling, more degrading, infinitely more corrupting than the despotism of class against which Lloyd George is leading a revolution in England today.

More than the material advantages which reciprocity will bring in its train is at stake. Democracy itself is on trial. The verdict depends on whether farmers will this time vote for themselves, and at the same time for their country, or whether they will allow the dead hand in the form of party prejudice to cast their ballots for them.

A STICKY MORASS.

New Orleans, Sept. 12.—A flood of molasses swept down several streets leading from a storage warehouse last night, when a tank containing about a million gallons of the Louisiana product burst with a tremendous report. A sticky morass fifteen inches deep covered Market street for nearly a mile. Thrifty residents secured a year's supply by scooping up the syrup with buckets. The explosion was caused by a tank supporting five similar tanks crumbling beneath the tremendous weight. The flow of the molasses was so swift that two boilers weighing fifteen tons and near the warehouse were swept from their foundations and carried across the streets. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

GENERAL SYNOD FOR CHURCH UNION

A Resolution Carried at Meeting Held on Wednesday Night.

THE CHURCH OF ROME

Mr. S. H. Blake Objected to Statement That Church of England Owed Any Debt to Rome.

After debating the matter almost an entire day, the general synod last night carried a resolution expressing their earnest desire for church union, and recommending that both clergy and laity, wherever possible without sacrificing church principles, should avail themselves of every occasion for Christian co-operation. The resolution was moved by Rev. Principal Rexford, of Montreal, in the form of an amendment to an amendment.

The amendment was also carried on the motion of Dean Doull, being practically identical in purpose. It too favored co-operation in Christian work where possible, without sacrifice of principles.

The original motion by Judge Ermatinger, proposed in addition to this, to ask the board of management of the missionary society of the church to give effect to the motion in co-operating territorially or otherwise, with other Christian bodies in the western and other fields.

Mr. Blake's Opinion.

Hon. S. H. Blake expressed the opinion that it was unwise and unbrotherly for the church to enter into fields where other denominations were already at work. It was an unworthy waste of the money of the church to interfere with other Christian bodies proclaiming the common message of Christ.

"We are all wrong," said Mr. Blake, "in that we have been striving after the glorification of the church rather than the glorification of God.

"For twenty years we have been passing resolutions of brotherly kindness, but when we come down to the point and want to do something practical, an objection is raised.

"I have been pained by references today to the Roman and Greek Catholic Churches, and the statement that the Church of England was called into existence because of the abuses of the Church of Rome."

Here Mr. Blake was interrupted by cries of "No, no." "It existed long before."

Before Roman Church.

Mr. Blake said he was glad to hear this denial, and that he objected to the thought that the Church of England owed any debt to the Church of Rome. "The Church of England," said Mr. Blake, "existed before the Roman Catholic Church.

"The Church of Ireland was the mother of the Church of England.

"If the Methodists and other evangelical churches have shown greater gains and greater progress than the Church of England in the last few years, the fault has been with us. We have foregathered with corrupt churches.

"Far better," said Mr. Blake, "to unite bodily with one of the evangelical Protestant churches than to co-operate with the Church of Rome or the corrupt Greek Church.

"When we shook off the barnacles of Rome," he said, "we fixed an impossible gulf between us and the Roman Catholic Church, whose doctrines we have declared to be blasphemous, faithless and corrupt.

"We can co-operate with the Methodist Church, or the Presbyterian Church, but never with the Greek or Roman Churches."

Different Yearnings.

Rev. J. Hinckcliffe, of Chilliwack, B. C., deemed it a mistake to force co-operation or unity before there is a spirit of unity or a common aim between the various churches.

Pres. Powell took an eclectic view of the question. "There are different yearnings of the human heart and different needs of the human soul," he said. Some deem an evangelistic truth the need of the human soul. Some say that a Catholicity of faith and doctrine is necessary.

"And there are needs in the human breast which certain parts of Protestantism can never satisfy.

"The segregation which has been proposed may result in driving into the arms of Rome a certain class who can never be satisfied with what other communions can offer them.

"In all the modern evangelical churches there has been a tendency to come back to the old forms and usages.

"The Church of England has stood for the best in art, in music, in painting, in literature and architecture. We have a contribution in the Church of England which the world may not appreciate at its full value today, but let us hold it."

Some Statistics.

The report of the committee on statistics and the state of the church showed a total of 1,576 clergy, 932 self-supporting parishes, parochial endowments amounting to $185,645; 124,163 church families, 561,577 individuals, 188,176 communicants; 1,897 Sunday schools with 12,119 teachers and officers and 113,614 scholars. In every case large increases being made since 1908. The contributions for the Missionary Society were, in 1910-11, $122,609, and for all purposes $7,289,731.

The tabulated report as presented met with a great deal of very adverse and spirited criticism from the members of the synod. The majority were dissatisfied with the returns, which, they claimed, were incomplete and inaccurate.

It was moved that the report be referred back to the committee. The motion was carried.

Religion in the Schools.

A message was read from the Upper House, expressing anxiety at the absence of religious instruction in the public schools of Canada and asking that the concurrence of the Lower House be granted in the matter of taking steps with the co-operation of other Christian bodies, to have the Biblical principles of Christianity taught in the public schools. The house of delegates voted concurrence.

Another message from the House of Bishops recommended that for the next session of the general synod the services of a competent stenographer be secured to take down accurate reports of the proceedings and that a press committee be appointed to make suitable extracts for publication in the newspapers and church papers, and also, if possible, to have these reports sent out over the Canadian Press wires.

Archdeacon Fortin approved of the recommendation on account of the "meagreness of the reports" given in the newspapers of the present synod.

"Let us go slow," said Hon. S. H. Blake. "We don't want a Hansard with all the additional expense involved."

Afternoon Session.

Rev. Canon Tucker, of this city, was one of the synod members who came out strongly and unreservedly in favor of church union at the meeting of the general synod yesterday afternoon. He said in beginning that he regretted very much the disintegration of Christianity, and hoped that even yet the scattered units of Christendom would not day be gathered together and the unity of the church restored.

"I do not think the historic episcopacy of our church is an insuperable difficulty to church union. The Moravians have an episcopacy, the Swedes have an episcopacy, and one branch of the Methodists have also an episcopacy."

Here Canon Tucker was interrupted by cries of "No.""

"They may not be bishops of the right sort, from our standpoint," admitted Canon Tucker, "but they call themselves bishops. We have been accustomed to think of bishops as belonging to the House of Lords, of bishops as wearing gaiters and living in palaces, but these ideas are not essentially derived from the original episcopacy.

"When we say that without the episcopacy there can be no sacraments, and no orders of the clergy, we close the door to all chance of union and we weaken ourselves.

Promoting Unity.

"Let us remember that unity may be best promoted by practical work. By its part in the recent missionary movement, the Church of England has within the last few years commended itself to Methodists, Presbyterians, and Baptists as never before. Dr. John R. Mott has done more than any other living man to bring together the scattered units of Christendom. He recently held a missionary conference in Constantinople at which there were bishops of the Egyptian Church, the Assyrian Church and even the Roman Catholic Church, all meeting together under the shadow of the Turk.

"Let us aim at an evangelized world; if we are willing it can be accomplished by the end of this century. There are some seven or eight Christian denominations now in the mission field, and at the end of the century we will be one branch of Christianity out of, perhaps, a dozen. Is it likely that the one lean kine will swallow the other eleven. The Methodists are giving far more to missions than we are. Before we can stand up and make claims we have got to accomplish some work.

"It has been said that we have all the 'succession' and the other evangelical churches have all the success. We must step down into the field and into the arena. We must do the work and show other denominations that the episcopacy is not only a fossil representative of some remote relic of the past, but that we are able to step down into the breech and do the work."

Fears for the Future

Archdeacon Renison, of Moosonee, strongly supported the stand taken by Dr. Tucker. "In many small towns of the west," he said, "where there are fine banks, large commercial houses, and public schools, we find for places of worship five little barns, with five little tin-pan organs, and five little under-fed, poorly-paid ministers.

"I fear for the failure of not only the church, but of Christianity as a whole."

Mr. G. Dobbs, of Brockville, was in favor of the motion brought forward by Judge Ermatinger, to arrange with other denominations to avoid overlapping in the Northwest. "Ninety per cent of the Americans coming into Canada, I am told," he said, "have no religion at all. When heathenism and Mohammedanism are increasing more rapidly than Christianity it is not meet that we should be haggling over allowing other churches to do what we are unable to do."

Rev. G. C. d'Easum, of New Westminister, expressed the opinion that the only denomination in Canada sufficiently close in doctrine and forms to the Anglican Church to consider the question of union was the Greek Catholic Church. He objected to allotting certain districts entirely to the missionary work of other Christian bodies.

"We are told," said Dr. Hoyles, of Toronto, "that the only other branches of the Catholic Church in Canada to whom we can look for union is the Roman Catholic Church, which won't look at us, and the Greek Catholic Church, which is a corrupt church. The inference is that Methodists, and Presbyterians are not members of God's Holy Catholic Church. What is the seal and sign of the Holy Catholic Church?"

Degeneration of Morality.

Mr. R. D. Richardson declared that the small churches in the west were resulting in a degeneration of morality. The small churches were not particular as to whom they received into membership and allowed their members to live as they wished for fear of losing their support.

Archdeacon Johnson, of Moosejaw, did not favor Judge Ermatinger's motion. Dean Doull, of Victoria, moved an amendment, favoring co-operation between the different Christian bodies wherever possible without sacrifice of principles. Mr. C. W. Vernon, of Halifax, supported the amendment.

Rev. C. Carruthers, of Saskatchewan, declared that church union was largely a question of aestheticism. The unity to be aimed at was the unity of a house or a tree, not the unity of a pile of bricks. He supported Dean Doull's amendment.

Canon Murray contended that the Church of England must not sacrifice any essentials in co-operating with other denominations. This might be all right in heathen lands, but not in the west, where many churchmen had found new homes.

"The principles for which we stand are above economy," said Rev. E. G. Miller, of Victoria. "In the convening circular we saw notices of motions to change the prayer book, to change the name of the church, and in Judge Ermatinger's motion to change even our principles. Now we are asked to co-operate with other Christian denominations, among whom Judge Ermatinger classes as our so-called Christian brethren, the Seventh Day Adventists and Baptists."

High and Low Church.

Archdeacon Mackenzie thought that before seeking church union with other bodies the members of the synod ought to bring together the high and low church factions within the church itself. He advised the members of the synod to "draw near to each other."

"We can maintain a spirit of unity with other Christian bodies. We detest mariolatry, transubstantiation and the claim of primacy founded on St. Peter, which the Roman Catholics make, but we recognize the spirit of unity in the Roman Catholic Church.

"But we can't co-operate with a denomination who deny infant covenant communion to little children."

"You can't produce uniformity by external force," said Mr. Charles Jenkins. "The schisms which grew out of the Church of England originated because of inherent faults. When we discuss uniformities and limitations we are only groping on the surface instead of going down into the depths."

No Risk.

Canon Plumptree, of Toronto, contended that the Church of England could not enter into any terms which would not allow for the permanency of the episcopacy and the three orders of the Anglican ministry.

He thought there was no risk incurred in negotiating with the other bodies that the Church of England ultimately amalgamating with the other Christian bodies.

Dr. Paterson-Smith, of Montreal, thought the resolution, as moved, was not a safe thing to send out from the general synod. If the negotiations of the Anglican Church were confined to the Presbyterian Church there would be a larger chance of arriving somewhere.

He would like to see in both the Anglican and Nonconformist churches a Sunday each year devoted to prayers for union. But there must be no levelling down.

The Church of England today can reach out to her Roman Catholic brethren on the one hand and her Protestant brethren on the other and claim bonds of unity with each.

A deputation from the Upper House, consisting of Bishop Williams, of Huron; Bishop Richardson, of Fredericton, and Bishop Farthing, of Montreal, addressed the Lower House on the matter of fixing the expenses of delegates to the synod. A discussion arose over the proposal that each delegate should be taxed $10 towards the expenses of the synod and that a limit of $2 per day for dining-car service be fixed in connection with the travelling expenses of the delegates. A motion to this effect was carried.

TECUMSEHS DIVIDE WITH BRANTFORD

London Beaten by Tasker, Who Proved Invincible in First.

THE SECOND WAS EASY

Tasker Attempted to Go on but Conley and Orcutt Finished Bout.

Tasker twirled the visiting Red Sox to a 4-to-1 victory in a regulation nine-round mix at Tecumseh Park yesterday afternoon, but when he returned for the second portion of a bargain day bill he met with a most unexpected onslaught. Richard lasted just two rounds, and was succeeded by Orcutt and Conley, both of whom had nothing puzzling to the home hopes.

Had Keenan's men been able to swat in the preliminary as they did later in the afternoon there would have been nothing to it but a pair for the Tecumsehs, but it took nine innings to warm them up.

Rapp, who came to London a week or so ago, and who won in his first appearance with consummate ease, was touched for nine safeties, which when mingled with three errors, all by Nicholls, produced four runs.

Silcox took the rubber in the concluding number, and while his teammates pounded the opposing twirlers, he held the Red Sox helpless. Bill Lane pulled a three-sack wallop, while Barrett, Brant, Nicholls and Tasker were on the job with double deckers. Despite the cold weather, there was a fair crowd.

The Wind-Up.

Brantford is here again today, and Berlin will conclude the labors of the first season of the Canadian League in melees on Friday and Saturday afternoons.

The London team is in about the best position financially of any team on the circuit, the Old Boys' week having done much to fill the coffers of the Forest City squad.

A couple of other teams are a little to the good, while the remainder will not do better than break even. However, they are all well satisfied, and predict better things for 1912. A meeting of the executive of the league will be held some time after the conclusion of the season to talk over experiences of this season, and possible means of improving matters before next spring.

Browns Trim Sox, While Senators Win From Boston Red Sox.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 13. — The Tigers were set down this afternoon by Kaler, whose efforts all season have been about as much of a failure as any twirler connected with the Cleveland club. Kaler turned the trick without going thirteen innings, as it was necessary for the Tigers to do in their past two victories over the Naps. In the regulation nine innings he kept the Tigers from even threatening Stovall's collection of ball players, and beat them 5 to 1.

Eddie Summers, who went in yesterday and kept the Naps from increasing their score in the overtime, tried to continue today for the Tigers, but in the fourth inning, a double and five singles drove in four runs for the Naps and ended Eddie's stay on the mound. Works relieved Summers and the Naps failed to score on him. The score:

MAPLE LEAFS AND SAINTS ARE TUSSLING

Guelph Hopes to Leave St. Thomas in Cellar Position of Race.

Guelph, Sept. 13.—The Maple Leafs continued their winning streak by beating St. Thomas today by a score of 6 to 3 in a well-played and exciting game. Big Schuman was on the rubber for the Leafs, and pitched another good game, but six hits being made off his delivery, while Killingsworth was no puzzle for the homesters. The features were home runs by Swartz and Wright and the phenomenal fielding of Wagner at second base. The Saints play here again tomorrow, when Guelph winds up the local season, hoping to finish ahead of St. Thomas. The score: R. H. E.

Montreal batted both Dessau and Manser hard, making thirteen hits which netted five runs, while the visitors only got one man across the pan. Ward Miller kept up his heavy hitting, getting a triple and two singles out of four times up. Score:

BISONS BEATEN IN OVERTIME GO

The Maple Leafs Compelled to Battle Ten Rounds to Win.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—It took the Leafs ten innings yesterday before they could muzzle the Bisons, 6 to 5, and make it 4 out of 5 on the series, the extra spasm being required owing to Mueller's wildness in the seventh, when he choked the bases on passes, and then allowed Jimmy Murray to swat the ball for keeps into the deep right-field bleachers for a home run. White doubled after Murray's clout, and Mueller gave way to McGinley, who, outside of Miller's rap that counted White, twirled grand ball, and the visitors never had a chance to land the bacon. CAN'T STOP MORRIS AND FLYNN FIGHT

Dixon Splits With O'Neil and New York Commission Is Deadlocked.

New York, Sept. 13.—After an executive session of the state athletic commission this aftersoon, at which testimony was taken relative to the lease held by Patrick Powers' club on Madison Square Garden, Commissioner Frank O'Neill said:

"I consider the evidence sufficient to revoke the license of the club on the grounds of the lease not meeting with the requirements of the law."

Mr. O'Neill said he would lay the case before Governor Dix, but explained that as the commission is diivded, the only other member, Commissioner Dixon, opposing Mr. O'Neill's course in the matter, no action against the club could be taken until the governor shall appoint a successor to Chairman James E. Sullivan. This means that there will be no attempt to stop the Carl Morris-Jim Flynn bout, scheduled for Friday night.

Frank Ufer, manager of Carl Morris, received a telegram tonight, notifying him that a special train will arrive in New York from St. Louis on Friday morning, bringing a delegation of prominent men from Oklahoma and Kansas to see the contest. In the party will be bankers, lawyers, oil producers and businessmen from Independence, Kansas, and Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Muskogee, Sapulpa and McAlister, Okla.

PASTOR DENOUNCES WELLS-JOHNSON GO

Churches Will Attempt To Prevent the Fight.

London, Sept. 13. — The Nonconformist churches are determined to prevent if possible the scheduled fight between Jack Johnson and Bombardier Wells. The articles call for a championship battle in London on Oct. 2. The Rev. F. B. Meyer is leader of the movement to stop the mill, which he has already denounced from the pulpit. The general committee of the National Council of Free Churches has been summoned to meet Sept. 29 to devise the best steps to be taken by those opposed to the fight and the exhibition of the picture films.

NEW SHIP TO CARRY KING TO THE DURBAR

Many Scenes of Great Splendor Will Market the Event.

London, Sept. 13.—Preparations for King George's visit to India to participate in the Durbar at Delhi on Dec. 12 next, continue.

An idea of the splendor that will mark every detail of the trip is found in the announcement today that the Peninsular and Oriental Company has built a steamship, the Medina, specially for the voyage of the King and Queen Mary. It is an 18-knot boat, 550 feet in length, and with a tonnage of 12,500.

The suite for King George has been built on the port side of the forward spar deck, and that for Queen Mary on the starboard side. These suites have been duplicated amidships on the saloon deck for use in rough weather. Each suite consists of a bedroom, dressing-room, sitting-room and writing-room, all beautifully decorated in royal colors, and furnished in keeping with the tastes of the King and Queen.

In addition to these private quarters many rooms have been specially constructed for the use of the King and his advisers when conducting state business. Powerful wireless machinery is to be installed, so King George can be in immediate telegraphic touch with his ministers at home.

The public dining-room will accommodate 300 persons, which will be none too large, for a large entourage will accompany their majesties. Forty suites of rooms have been provided for the ladies and geneltmen in waiting and other high officials.

Drought Forced Change.

Although the drought with its consequent scarcity of food for men and horses has forced the Indian Government to curtail the programme for the durbar to the extent of abandoning the military manoeuvres, still there is little doubt that a spectacle of enchanting splendor will be provided. Fully 50,000 soldiers, from the Third, Seventh and Eighth Divisions, will rendezvous at Delhi. These, of course, will be augmented by the native princes and their escorts, attired in the gorgeous, even if semi-barbaric, uniforms that made the durbar of King Edward a scene never to be forgotten. It is now thought that 100,000 persons will witness the ceremony and that 250,000 persons will be in the camp at Delhi.

If the Government's plans are carried out, King George and Queen Mary will sail in the Medina early in November, so as to arrive in Delhi on Dec. 7. Receptions to Government officials and Indian princes will take up the next two days. Their majesties will attend divine services on Dec. 10, and the next day witness the polo tournament, which in India is probably the greatest sporting event of the year. Its close rival, the hockey tournament, is scheduled for the following day.

Proclaim Him Emperor.

The Durbar, on Dec. 12, will be carried out in two vast arenas. Governors, chiefs and others will pay homage in one arena to their majesties, who will then go to the other, where the proclamation of the King-Emperor will be held. A state banquet, followed by a reception, will be given in the evening.

A reception to the volunteer and native officers of the Indian army followed by a garden party in the fort and a people's fair below the walls, will make Dec. 13 a busy day, but the night programme is light and limited to fireworks. It is thefollowing day, Dec. 14, that the great military display and review of troops will be held, followed by a football game in the afternoon. An investiture will take place in the evening. The following day there will be a military tournament.

Their majesties will obtain relief from their burdens next day for on Dec. 16 they will go in state procession through the streets of Delhi, and will leave the city that afternoon, the King-Emperor going to Nepaul and the Queen-Empress to Agra.

As at present contemplated the guests ofthe Government will include 150 ruling princes with their suites, and the governors of the Asiatic colonies. Accommodations have been arranged for 100 European and American newspaper men.

The women of Canada are naturally becoming quite alive to the importance of the present campaign.

BERLIN EXPECTS EARLY SETTLEMENT

Does Not Believe the French Reply Will Be Ultimatum.

GERMANY'S POSITION

Not Seeking Any More Favorable Position Than Others in Morocco.

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, Sept. 13.—The minister of foreign affairs, M. De Selves, went to Rambouillet today to submit to President Falleres the French reply to Germany's counter-proposals, looking to a settlement of the Moroccan dispute.

This reply was agreed upon by the cabinet yesterday after a report had been submitted to his colleagues by the foreign minister, and the situation raised thereby discussed by the ministers for three hours.

An effort will be made to so conclude the matter that the French note may be forwarded to M. Cambon, the French ambassador at Berlin, today, or not later than tomorrow.

Berlin Expects Peace.

Berlin, Sept. 13.—During the past few days, both at the foreign office and in social circles, the minister of foreign affairs, Herr Von Kiderlen-Waechter, has expressed implicit confidence in a satisfactory settlement with France regarding Morocco. This confidence is reflected by the staff of the foreign office, who expected that the French answer to the latest German note will be received not later than Monday and perhaps even as early as tomorrow.

The answer, it is believed, will accept a part of the German proposals, leaving others for further negotiations. The officials scout the assertion that the reply of France will amount to an ultimatum. It is explained that Germany's demand for an allotment of 30 per cent in whatever railway and other concessions France obtains in Morocco, has been wrongly interpreted abroad. This division, which Germany also would reciprocate toward France, does not touch the concessions obtained by other countries. The latter are free to get whatever concessions may be obtained without sharing with Germany or France.

The foreign office regards this arrangement as fully within the terms of the Algeciras agreement, and as not infringing the rights of outside powers.

The course continues more optimistic concerning the Moroccan situation. Nevertheless, stocks opened somewhat lower generally today, owing to disappointment over the course of yesterday's market at New York.

ORDERED WOUND UP.

Montreal, Sept. 13.—Mr. Justice Dunlop has issued an order for the winding up of the firm of Hopman Van Den Berg Sons, Limited, dealers in diamonds and other precious stones.

The company was incorporated in 1910 with a capitalization of $500,000.

Mr. J. W. G. Hopman Van Den Berg applied for the winding-up order, claiming the company owed him large sums.

BIG CINCINNATI FIRE.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 13.—Fire early this morning totally destroyed the Cincinnati Veneer Company and several lumber yards and is threatening a number of tenement houses. The loss so far is estimated at $200,000.

FLEECER OF MANY BEHIND THE BARS

Arrested in Chicago, Has Made Fortune Buncoing Would-Be Crooks.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—S. A. Potter, who is said to have garnered more than $1,500,000 from the unwary of two continents during the last few years by means of gold brick swindles and confidence games, was locked in jail here last night.

He was arrested by O. F. Dewoody, division superintendent of the department of justice, after being sought for a year by secret service men and the police of almost every city in the country.

Potter, who also was known as George W. Post, was wanted here on an indictment for swindling returned in July, 1910. Potter and a companion, Edward Starkloff, also are wanted in Philadelphia, where they forfeited a $23,000 bond a year ago.

In view of this forfeiture and the report that the confidence men of whom Potter is said to be the head, continually keep a large amount of protection money within reach, Chief Dewoody will make every effort to keep his prisoner under lock and key until he is brought to trial. A cash bond of $50,000 offered by Potter was refused by federal officials, who declared nothing less than $150,000 cash bond would gain him his temporary freedom.

At Potter's home a great quantity of evidence was found, including what the secret service men termed a "sucker list" and former and prospective victims. The list is said to contain a greater number of names of residents of cities than of rural inhabitants.

After fleeing his $23,000 bond in Philadelphia, Potter and Starkloff are said to have opened an office here and to have flooded the middle west with advertisements of spurious money for sale at half price. The bills, it was declared, were made from plates stolen from the mint at Philadelphia, and were splendid counterfeits. The investor usually received a package of blank paper, and being in the position of having sought to defraud the Government, he would not dare complain to the authorities.

INVENTOR SOUTHER DEAD.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 13.—John Souther, probably the oldest man in the country, who had been engaged in iron manufacturing, died at his home in Newton last night, aged 97 years. During the Civil War the machinery and iron work of sixteen war vessels were turned out by him. The excavating machinery for the Suez and French Panama canals constituted another of his contracts, and for 25 years all the sugar-making machinery used in Cuba was turned out in Mr. Souther's plant. He was the father of the automatic sprinkler, and invented machinery for making ice.

EIGHT FIRMS SUFFER.

New York, Sept. 13.—Eight firms chiefly cloak and suit manufacturing and kindred concerns, sustained practically total losses, the whole estimated at about $100,000, from fire early this morning in the lofts buildings they occupied at 117-119 Mercer street. A considerable portion of the damage was from water.

WORKING FOR BEATTIE.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 13.—The sentimentalists are making efforts to save the life of Henry Clay Beattie, jun., recently condemned to die for the murder of his wife. Governor Mann has received communications praying for commutation of sentence in the case.

MOURNERS STEAL NOVELIST'S RELICS

Take $1,000 Worth of Souvenirs at Myrtle Reed's Funeral.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Mourners at the funeral of Myrtle Reed McCullough, the novelist, who committed suicide three weeks ago, forgot their sorrow long enough to get away with about $1,000 worth of souvenir spoons, jewelry, pictures and de luxe editions. This became known yesterday. The report was verified by Mr. McCullough.

It appears that among the hundreds of inquisitive persons who visited the novelist's home, known as "Paradise Flats," 5120 Kenmore avenue, that there were some who desired a little relic of the departed.

A partial list of the stolen articles is as follows:

12 special bound books by Myrtle Reed.
125 souvenir spoons.
Gold jeweled buckle.
Silver jeweled chain.

Maid Mourns the Losses.

A complete list could not be ascertained, as the personal belongings of the novelist were scattered over her house in a careless manner. Every hour, however, her maid, Miss Anna Larsen, finds something else missing.

"It is hard to say just what is gone," asserted the maid. "There is no doubt many valuable trinkets were stolen. There were many persons that came here shortly after Mrs. McCullough's death, and I believe that more than one person is implicated in the thefts.

There is perhaps no one person who mourns the disappearance of the trinkets and books more than Miss Larsen. Every day she spends hours in search of the lost articles, hoping any minute to find one or all hidden away in the bottom of an old trunk or in an unused dresser drawer.

Miss Larsen was the faithful servant to the novelist, who was remembered with $1,000 in the will. She has been in the employ of the McCulloughs for many years.

"I have enough worries without thinking of my losses at home," exclaimed James Sidney McCullough. "The things are gone, and I have my suspicions as to who is the thief.

"I will be my own detective and keep up the trail. There are lots of things the public will never know regarding my wife's private life."

VARSITY STAFF CHANGES

Dr. Sheard Resigns the Chair of Preventive Medicine.

[Canadian Press.]

President Falconer, of Toronto University, announced today that Dr. Charles Sheard has resigned from the medical faculty as professor of preventive medicine. Nothing was said about a successor, and it may be that preventive medicine will not be continued as a separate department.

The opening of the academic term in a few days finds a number of vacancies on the university staff. Professor F. F. G. A. Davidson, who held the chair of Spanish and Italian, has resigned, owing to ill-health. A temporary appointment will be made for the winter.

Dr. B. A. Bansley, associate professor of zoology, is on a year's leave of absence, during which he takes up research work.

Dr. J. F. McCurdy will take charge this winter of the archaeology school in Jerusalem, and his work here will be done by temporary lecturers.

Mr. F. H. Bell, lecturer in history for the last two years, has returned to England.

Today Principal Hutton, of University College, is representing the University of Toronto at the celebration of the 500th anniversary of St. Andrew's the oldest university in Scotland.

Dr. Graham, a graduate of Varsity, who has spent the last five years in Vienna, has been appointed lecturer in bacteriology, to succeed Dr. Fitzgerald, who goes to the University of California, as associate professor of bacteriology.

SOCIETY GIRL SLAIN ON EVE OF WEDDING

North Carolina Belle Chloroformed and Thrown Into Lake.

Hendersonville, N. C., Sept. 13.—The latest developments confirm the belief of the authorities that Miss Myrtle Hawkins, the pretty 17-year-old society girl whose body was found floating in Lake Osceola, near here, yesterday, was murdered, but the motive is a mystery.

The latest clues show conclusively, according to the police, that the girl was chloroformed to death in the woods overlooking the lake, and that for three days the body lay where it had been thrown.

Haunted by the vision of the slain girl, the murderer revisited the scene of his crime, and in the dead of the night took the body into his arms, tumbled it into a buggy and drove through the dark woods until he reached a bridge at the end of the lake. The bushes at this point show that the body was thrown into the lake and that the horse was driven hastily from the scene.

The condition of the body shows that life was extinct before it was thrown in the lake, and also that it could not have been in the water many hours. Also it would have been impossible for so large an object to have been on the surface of the water without almost immediate discovery, as Lake Osceola is daily encircled by hundreds of automobiles and carriages, and is faced by one of the largest summer hotels in the mountains of Western North Carolina, whose guests' favorite walks are around the beautiful path skirting the lake.

The theory of accidental death is exploded by the statement that Miss Hawkins was an expert swimmer and could easily have swum or waded out of the shallow water at the point where the body was found. The condition of the body, the authorities say, precludes all possibility of suicide.

Miss Hawkins' murder came almost on the eve of her wedding day. She was engaged to Hal Cooper, a prominent young business man of Johnson City, Tenn., and it is said there was some objections on the part of the girl's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hawkins, the parents, are among the most substantial people of Western North Carolina, and their home, at Flatrock, a suburb of Hendersonville, is one of the handsomest in the mountain section.

A KING'S REFUGE.

Barstown, Ky., Sept. 13.—Historic St. Joseph's College, once a place of refuge for exiled King Louis Philippe of France, abandoned as a seat of Catholic learning except for twenty years after the war, was reopened here last night with impressive ceremonies, in which the Most Rev. Diomede Falconi, apostolic dtlegate, participated. Numerous other Catholic clergy as well as notable laymen also had parts in the exercises. The college was founded by Bishop Benedict Joseph Flagel, on the pioneer priests of America, and first bishop of the west. Last evening Mons. Falconi was a guest at dinner at Federal Hall, the house where Foster wrote "My Old Kentucky Home."

CARS RAN AWAY.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 13.—By the breaking of a wire cable, four loaded cars ran away at the slope of the colliery here, and killed four men, besides injuring a fifth, who will probably die.

CHLOROFORMED TO END HER MISERY

Shakers Confess To Killing Dying Member of Sect.

Kissimmee, Fla., Sept. 14.—"We killed our sister to end her suffering, we believe we did right, and we feel no regret for our action."

So say Brother Egbert Gillette and Sister Elizabeth Sears, members of the Shaker colony near here, who have been arrested on a charge of having murdered Sister Sadie Marchant, also a member of the colony.

The alleged crime was committed on Aug. 21, but nothing was known of it until some weeks later.

"Sister Sears and I loved Sister Marchant dearly," said Brother Gillette. "She was afflicted with consumption, and her death was only a matter of time. We cared for her tenderly, and did all we could to alleviate her sufferings, which became frightful, and she begged us to give her something that would put an end to her agony.

"So we procured some chloroform and administered it to our sister and ended her sufferings."

The case has excited intense interest. Public opinion is greatly divided, many holding that Brother Gillette and Sister Sears committed no crime in administering the chloroform to Sister Marchant.

A Friendly Suggestion

often puts the wanderer on the right path

Thousands of former coffee drinkers are now healthier and happier because some friend suggested.

POSTUM

Headache, nervousness and other annoying ills, due to coffee drinking, quickly disappear when Postum becomes the regular table beverage instead of coffee.

KNOWS HOW.

Doctor Had Been Over the Road.

When a doctor, who has been the victim of the tea or coffee habit, cures himself by leaving off tea and coffee and taking Postum he knows something about what he is advising in that line.

A good old doctor in Ohio, who had at one time been the victim of the tea and coffee habit, advised a woman to leave off tea and coffee and take on Postum.

She suffered from indigestion and a weak and irregular heart and general nervous condition. She thought that it would be difficult to stop tea and coffee abruptly.

She says:

"I had considerable hesitancy about making the change. The doctor, however, gave explicit directions that Postum must be boiled long enough to bring out the flavor and food value. His suggestions were carried out, and the delicious beverage fascinated me.

"I observed, a short time after starting Postum, a decided change in my nervous system. I could sleep soundly, and my brain was more active. My complexion became clear and rosy, whereas, it had been muddy and spotted before; in fact, all of the abnormal symptoms disappeared and I am now feeling perfectly well.

"Another friend was troubled in much the same manner as I, and she has recovered from her heart and stomach trouble by leaving off tea and coffee and using Postum.

"I know of several others who have had much the same experience. It is only necessary that Postum be well boiled and it wins its own way."

MISSIONARIES ARE STILL IN CHENGTU

Gathered in Compound Under Protection of Troops.

FIERCE FIGHTING THERE

Entire Province Is in Revolt, but Europeans Are Considered Safe.

Toronto, Sept 14.—"Everything decidedly more hopeful," was the cabled message from Mr. M. A. Brillinger, at Chungking, to Rev. T. E. E. Shore, Methodist general secretary of foreign missions.

Another cablegram was received from the American Bible Society at Chungking to the following effect: "There is not much cause for anxiety. Yangtse Valley quiet. Chengtu and other stations, as far as we know, are quite safe. Missionaries from Luchow arrived yesterday."

The Luchow contingent includes Rev. and Mrs. E. R. Brecken, of Toronto, Rev. and Mrs. C. J. P. Jolliffe, of Rockwood, and Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Ferguson, of Valletta.

London, Sept. 13. — A Shanghai dispatch to a London news bureau says it is reported that the entire province of Sze-Chuan is in revolt. The rebels are expected to declare their independence.

Situation at Chengtu.

Pekin, Sept. 13.—A telegram received today from the British consul at Chengtu, dated September 9, and brought through the besieging rabble by a messenger, states that the viceroy ordered the departure of the missionaries from Chengtu as undesirable and therefore detained five boat loads which were starting.

A test advices received by the Chinese foreign board and the foreign legations indicate that Chengtu, capital of Sze-Chuen province, is under siege, that most if not all, of the missionaries are inside the walls, and that the city is garrisoned by 1,800 troops, who have had several engagements with the besieging forces.

A dispatch from the prefect of Tsu Chaun, whic' lies about seventy-five miles southeast of Chengtu, dated Sept. 12, said that the troops were firing upon the rebels from the Chengtu walls, and that the besiegers had lost many men. The belief is held here that the garrison is capable of resisting the attacks of any number of organized rebels from the outside.

The Canadian Methodist compound within the city has open spaces around its own walls. It is believed that the foreigners have taken refuge within this compound, which is considered the strongest and most easily defended. Pekin missionaries say that whatever Chinese troops were dispatched to guard the mission would be stationed outside the compound, and would not be permitted under any circumstances to get within the gates.

Foreigners here seem confident of the ability of the viceroy to suppress the rising. The southern section of Sze-Chuan continues loyal, although the natives sympathize with the opponents of the railway construction. All gatherings in Pekin in sympathy with the revolutionary movement in Sze-Chuan have been dispersed by the police.

A dispatch from Kiatingfu, to the south of Chengtu, says that the foreign missionaries stationed there have left for the Yangtse. These included three men and their wives and a woman doctor. The foreign gunboats have been unable to proceed above Su Fu.

ST. ANDREW'S CELEBRATES

Quincentenary Exercises of the Great Scotch University.

[Canadian Press.]

St. Andrew's, Scotland, Sept. 13.—The celebration of the quincentenary of St. Andrew's University, the oldest in Scotland, opened today with an imposing procession of delegates from the universities of the world, savants, dons, students and civic representatives of the Scottish cities, through the city to the town church, where the commemoration service was held.

There is hardly a university of repute in Europe, Asia, or America, that did not send a representative, and the multiplicity of picturesque academic robes and varied uniforms made a brave show.

At a subsequent function at North Hall, especially constructed to seat 2,500 persons, brief addresses were made. The chancellor of the university, Lord Balfour, of Burleigh, was the recipient of a message of congratulation from King George. He also received the congratulations and good wishes of the American ambassador, Mr. Reid, and other delegates and representatives of all universities.

NO HARD TIMES COMING.

The argument that hard times will be put on the free list and the Canadian people will pay their good money and import some is obstructionist desperation.

A LADY LECTURER

Feeds Nerves and Brains Scientifically

A lady lecturers writes from Philadelphia concerning the use of right food and how she is enabled to withstand the strain, and wear and tear of her arduous occupation. She says:

"Through improper food, imperfectly digested, my health was completely wrecked, and I attribute my recovery entirely to the regular use of Grape-Nuts food. It has, I assure you, proved an inestimable boon to me.

"Almost immediately after beginning the use of Grape-Nuts I found a gratifying change in my condition. The terrible weakness that formerly prostrated me after a few hours of work, was perceptibly lessened, and is now only a memory—it never returns.

"Ten days after beginning on Grape-Nuts I experienced a wonderful increase in mental vigor and physical energy, and continued use has entirely freed me from the miserable insomnia and nervousness from which I used to suffer so much.

"I find Grape-Nuts very palatable and would not be without the crisp, delicious food for even a day on any consideration. Indeed, I always carry it with me on my lecture tours."

BOURASSA-BORDEN ALLIANCE EXPOSED IN SLASHING ATTACK

Mr. Rowell, in Address, Shows That Conservative Leader's Submission to Nationalist Chief Was Complete.

Ingersoll, Sept. 13.—Mr. N. W. Rowell, K.C., of Toronto, addressed a magnificent meeting in the interest of Mr. Malcolm S. Schell, the Liberal candidate for South Oxford, tonight. The town hall was filled to overflowing, the ability of the speaker, and the keen interest in the subject of reciprocity bringing many from a distance. Like its predecessor in the rink last week, addressed by Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, the meeting was enthusiastic in support of the policy of the Laurier Administration and the candidature of Mr. Schell, and bespeaks victory for him on the 21st of this month. Mr. Rowell confined himself largely to answering the arguments of Mr. Sifton, and in showing up the position of Mr. Borden and Mr. Bourassa in Quebec.

Dr. A. MacKay presided, and the meeting was closed by singing the National Anthem.

A Fertile Imagination.

In part Mr. Rowell said: "Mr. Sifton would render a distinct public service to the whole of Canada if, instead of talking about conspiracies, which are the creation of his own fertile imagination, he would expose and denounce the conspiracy against national unity and imperial co-operation led by Mr. Bourassa, and with which he and Mr. Borden by their silence as well as by their overt acts have now associated themselves.

"You will remember that when the Government of Sir Wilfrid Laurier sent the Canadian contingents to South Africa to take part in the defence of the Empire, Mr. Bourassa resigned his seat in the House of Commons as a protest against this action, and was re-elected on a policy of opposing Canada's participation in such wars, and since that date he has not ceased in his efforts to stir up the racial prejudices of his compatriots against the Government for taking part in the defence of the Empire. When the Government submitted the proposal for the establishment of a Canadian navy Mr. Bourassa's opposition passed all limits, and he has endeavored to terrify the French-Canadian electors with the threat that conscription will be introduced in Canada, and they will be torn from their homes to be the targets for the bullets of European and Asiatic nations. He seeks to incite the people of Quebec on a racial and creed basis and hold the balance of power in Canada.

Bourassa's Aims.

"In order to disarm the people of Ontario as to the real character of Mr. Bourassa's aims, and to reconcile the public to Mr. Borden and Mr. Sifton's alliance with him, the Conservative papers of Ontario have had during the past two months numerous appreciative references to the ability, patriotism and public service of Mr. Bourassa. What is the present situation in the Province of Quebec? What is Mr. Bourassa seeking to do in this election? The Toronto correspondent of the London Times in the issue of Sept 1 states the position clearly and forcibly.

"The Nationalists seem to have flogged the habitants into a dangerous temper. Great audiences applaud Mr. Monk and Mr. Bourassa denounce the Prime Minister, his naval policy, and the general record of his administration. The whole object is to convince French-Canadians that they are neglected by the Government, that they are the victims of militarism and imperialism, that their national and religious rights and liberties are in danger, and that they are gradually being submerged by a flood of foreign immigration.

"All the speeches of the Nationalists are highly flavored with personal attacks on the Prime Minister and his colleagues, and are spoken with a vehemence and anger which could not but impress a more self-contained population unfavorably. But it is impossible to ignore this excited condition of feeling in Quebec, as it is necessary to admit that the Nationalist campaign may seriously affect the election. It is said, and the statement seems to be warranted, that many of the Catholic clergy are in active sympathy with Mr. Bourassa and his allies. But what is their quarrel with Sir Wilfrid Laurier has not been clearly disclosed. Possibly they are actuated mainly by sympathy for the rigid Ultramontanism of the Nationalist leader, and believe that through a Nationalist group in the House of Commons they may acquire yet greater influence in the government of the country. But, whatever be the motive, a Nationalist and clerical alliance against the Prime Minister in Quebec seems to be established. . . . It is likely that the Opposition will contest every seat in Quebec, and probably there will be a dozen Nationalists amongst the Opposition candidates. Conceivably these may hold the balance of power in the next Parliament. The chances are, however, if all should be elected—and that is highly improbable—that they would not be content with an isolated position in the House of Commons if Mr. Borden should carry the country.

"It is currently reported, Mr. Rowell proceeded, that out of 65 seats in the Province of Quebec there are only 10 real Conservative candidates, and that 55 are either Nationalist-Conservative or purely Nationalist candidates. This indicates the progress which Mr. Bourassa and his Nationalist allies have made in their anti-Canadian and anti-British campaign.

Borden and Bourassa.

"The statement in the Times is written by one of Mr. Borden's strongest supporters, a man who is actively engaged in promoting his campaign. What is the significance of this statement? It means, in the opinion of the writer, that the man who stands for this policy, which strikes at the very foundation of national unity and imperial co-operation, may hold the balance of power in the next parliament and may have in his hands the control of the destinies of Canada. What do you think of such a prospect? Should not the very possibility arouse all true Canadians to the peril of the position and unite them in a determined effort to oppose such a policy and to oppose all combinations of men formed to support it.

"What evidence is there that Mr. Borden and Mr. Sifton have combined with Mr. Bourassa in this campaign? You will remember the question of the Canadian navy first came up for definite action in the House of Commons in 1909. On this occasion Mr. Borden and his Conservative colleagues unanimously voted for the following resolution:

"The House will cordially approve of any necessary expenditure designed to promote the speedy organization of a Canadian naval service in co-operation with and in close relation to the imperial navy along the lines suggested by the admiralty at the last imperial conference, and in full sympathy with the view that the naval supremacy of Great Britain is essential to the security of commerce, the safety of the empire, and the peace of the world."

Mr. Borden supported this policy upon the platform both in England and in Canada.

At the recent imperial conference at London a complete understanding was arrived at between Canada, the other self-governing dominions and the motherland for the co-operation of the navies of Canada and the other self-governing dominions with that of Great Britain. I am sure that you will be interested to know what the London Times, the great Unionist and imperialistic organ of Great Britain, says with reference to this agreement. Mr. Rowell then read an article from the Times approving of the understanding.

He proceeded: "This agreement so approved of by The Times, has further incensed Mr. Bourassa against Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and he stated in his address in Hull on Tuesday, Sept. 5:

"There is no doubt that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will place the Canadian [illegible] at the disposal of the British [illegible] and has, therefore, forced Canada to participate in all the wars of the Empire. Mr. Fielding has said: 'When Britain is at war Canada is at war,' and Sir Wilfrid Laurier has ridorsed this by his attitude at the last imperial conference. . . . The Government of Que[illegible] offers a bounty for the men who w[illegible] wolves.

"The Laurier Government offers a bounty to seduce men from their gresides to become food for cannon on warships."

This is Mr. Bourassa's position on the navy. What was his position on reciprocity in February last as set out in a pamphlet issued by himself dealing with the question? Extracts were read by Mr. Rowell showing that Mr. Bourassa then favored reciprocity.

Mr. Borden and Mr. Sifton require the speaker proceeded, Mr. Bourassa's help in Quebec to defeat the Liberal Government. Mr. Bourassa requires Mr. Sifton's and Mr. Borden's help in the rest of Canada to defeat Sir Wilfrid Laurier and to attain his purpose. What is the result? The unholy alliance we see. Mr. Borden in his first election manifesto, issued immediately after the dissolution of the House, did not deal with the navy question. This was not satisfactory to Mr. Bourassa. He demanded Mr. Borden's support in Quebec. In his pamphlet on reciprocity in February he stated:

"Last year when Mr Monk asked that the naval law be submitted to the people before coming into force he carried but seventeen votes with him. This year he forced Mr. Borden and the whole opposition to vote for a similar motion."

A Complete Submission.

Apparently all that was necessary was to bring more pressure to bear upon Mr. Borden, with the result that Mr. Borden issued a new election manifesto, which will be found in The Mail and Empire of August 15, in which he dealt with the navy and in which the following appears:

"It will cost immense sums of money to build, equip and maintain. It will probably result in the time of war in the useless sacrifice of many valuable lives and it will not add one iota to the fighting strength of the Empire. The more it is considered the more does it become evident that the whole navy policy of the Government is an unfortunate blunder."

Surely no taskmaster could ask more complete submission than Mr. Borden gives, but Mr. Bourassa, having got this declaration, apparently asks even more terms until Mr. Borden appears in the Province of Quebec upon the platform with the Conservative-Nationalist candidates, who have spoken even more strongly than Mr. Bourassa himself in the denunciation of the navy, and advocates their election. Mr. Borden having thus completely delivered himself into the hands of Mr. Bourassa, Mr. Bourassa pays the price, and at the meeting in Hull abandons his advocacy of reciprocity and comes out as an opponent, and the two today stand on the same platform in the Province of Quebec opposing the Government both on their naval and trade policies. Mr. Bourassa openly rejoices over his triumph over Mr. Borden. Listen to his statement at Hull:

That Nationalist victory in Drummond and Arthabaska has compelled R. L. Borden to reconsider his position on the navy, and the men who will be sent to Parliament from Quebec will compel him to still further reconsider his policy and make him meet the views of the people against the navy. This is proven by the pledges of the Conservative candidates in Shefford, Missisquoi and Sherbrooke, who have pledged themselves to vote against any navy, and they are but the types of the rest of the candidates in Quebec Province.

The duty of the hour is to elect a sufficient group of Independents to the Commons who will turn out any Government which will not refuse to participate in the wars of the Empire. Fifteen or twenty members from the Province of Quebec, unbound to either party, can dictate the destinies of Canada, and I ask Wright to send Louis Cousineau to be one of such a group.

Mr. Sifton is the chief spokesman and representative of the Anti-Reciprocity League, who conferred with them with reference to their plans, and voiced their sentiments at the great meeting held at Montreal. It has been openly charged by Sir Wilfrid Laurier that the Anti-Reciprocity League and the Conservative organization in Montreal are financing Mr. Bourassa's Nationalist campaign. Mr. Borden and Mr. Sifton have both been appealed to to denounce Mr. Bourassa and his campaign. They have declined to do so. Why? Can there be any other conclusion than that they are in agreement and conspiracy with him in carrying on his unholy propaganda to defeat Sir Wilfrid Laurier? In order to find a parallel in history for such an unnatural and unholy alliance one has to go back to the days of ancient Rome, when Caesar, Pompey and Cassius, with their divergent aims and ambitions, formed an alliance called "The First Triumvirate" to get control of the government of Rome. Will the people of Canada stand for such an alliance? Should not every patriotic citizen support Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his policy to unite the different races and creeds in Canada, to build up a united Canadian nationality and to give Canada her proper place among the nations of the Empire?

Death After a Scratch

Morris Quatzam, an 11-year-old Windsor boy, fell off his bicycle and scratched his wrist. He thought nothing off the injury, but blood-poison set in and he is dead.

Such incidents as these—by no means infrequent—ought to make people realize the danger that may lie even in the smallest flesh wound.

Take a simp'e illustration. When a knife, a rusty needle, a splinter of dirty wood, a barbed wire fence or a thorn scratches the hand, the latter is inoculated with germs, of which the air about us is full.

The way to avoid serious results is to cleanse the wound and apply Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk is a powerful yet painless germ-killer, and when applied to the broken skin is absorbed into the tissue, instantly destroying the germs that spread disease and stopping the pain and smarting. That is why Zam-Buk is so popular with children.

The flesh thus soothed and purified, the wound is made perfectly healthy, and all poison and cause of festering removed. Having done this, Zam-Buk then proceeds to heal the wound or sore, and new, healthy tissue is built up in a quick, painless and perfect manner.

Zam-Buk must not be confused with ordinary ointments. Zam-Buk is a unique preparation, possessing antiseptic, soothing and healing qualities that are not to be found together in any other preparation. It is not only a unique healing balm, but it is also a skin food. For all skin diseases and injuries—cuts, bruises, burns, eczema, chafing, ulcers, ringworm, etc., it is without equal. It is also used widely for piles, for which it may be regarded as a specific. All druggists and stores sell at 50 cents a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Company, Toronto for price. Refuse harmful imitations.

IN FULL ACCORD WITH GOVERNMENT

Hon. Mr. Harty Denies Story in Montreal Star of Opposing Reciprocity.

Kingston, Sept. 13.—Hon. William Harty today telegraphed the following letter to the Montreal Star:

"A dispatch, dated from Kingston, appears in your issue of yesterday stating I had privately expressed to friends that I was not altogether in favor of the reciprocity pact proposed by the Government. Will you please insert in your issue of today my personal statement that the information sent you is incorrect, foundationless and without a shadow of authority from me. I am in complete accord with the Knox-Fielding reciprocity agreement as submitted to the House of Commons of Canada at its recent session, and believe it will be in the interest of the people of both Canada and the United States if put into operation.

"(Signed) WM. HARTY."

MONSTER MEETING HISSES BOURASSA

Mention of Borden's Ally at Montreal Rally Causes Scene.

Montreal, Sept. 13.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, Senators J. P. B. Casgrain and Dandurand, Robert Bickerdike and Ald. L. A. Lapointe were the chief speakers tonight at a Liberal rally held at the Monument National in support of the last-named gentleman, Liberal candidate in St. James.

The meeting was more notable for the attacks of the speakers on Nationalism in general and on Henri Bourassa in particular and for the manner in which a section of the audience hooted and hissed every mention of the name of the Nationalist chieftain, than for discussion of reciprocity or the navy bill.

Mr. Lemieux brought forth a storm of hisses directed at Henri Bourassa when he burlesqued the oratory of the typical Nationalist speaker.

St. Thomas, Sept. 13.—John Moore, a prosperous farmer, living near Langton, was gored to death by a vicious bull yesterday. He left his home to milk the cows, and not returning when expected by his family, he was found dying dead in a pool of blood in a field.

DIRECTORS LIABLE

Five of Sovereign Bank Board Must Pay Up $178,794.

[Canadian Press.]

Toronto, Sept. 13.—A bomb has fallen into the old board of directors of the Sovereign Bank, in the shape of a court of appeal judgment holding five of them liable for $178,794. Others are liable for sums totaling in all $400,000.

Mr. W. E. Stavert, curator of the Sovereign Bank, brought action against the directors upon the collapse of the bank in 1906. He sued on promissory notes given to nominally cover the purchase of stock which was held by the bank itself. Chancellor Boyd dismissed his action, and from this decision the curator appealed. The directors will appeal, and the case will probably go to the privy council.

The action against Donald McMillan was made a test case, four others hinging on the result of this case.

35,000 PEOPLE AT THE FAIR

Tremendous Throng Filled the Grounds at Queen's Park Farmers' Day.

ATTRACTIONS PLEASED

Large Crowds in the Stands Were Greatly Pleased With Programme Afternoon and Night.

Immense crowds were at the Western Fair yesterday. It was Farmers' Day, and as is always the case on such a day, there were thousands of visitors in the city.

In the afternoon the grounds were packed. The grandstand was not so well filled as a year ago, but there were more people on the grounds. The weather was somewhat cool for sitting in the stand, and as a result, hundreds preferred to wander through the grounds, or remain in the buildings. It is estimated that between 35,000 and 40,000 people saw the Fair.

The whole programme was given yesterday. The new feature added was the parade of prize-winning stock. Hundreds of the best animals in Canada were shown visitors, and this part of the programme created a great deal of enthusiasm. There were more animals in the parade, more than is usually the case.

Before the Stand.

The performance in front of the stand was excellent.

The hurdle competition created a lot of excitement. Ten horses were entered, and as a rule they fenced well. The winner was ridden by Hon. Adam Beck, with Mrs. Beck's horse second; T. J. Smith, Vancouver, third, and Robert Emery, fourth. It was a fine competition, and thoroughly enjoyed.

The Kilties' Band put on an excellent programme of music. This band is one of the best musical organizations in the country, and they pleased the large audience yesterday afternoon.

It was a great day for the Midway. The streets were crowded from early morning until late at night. Some times it was almost impossible to work one's way through the crowds. The demonstrations in the Dairy Building were very popular with the visitors yesterday.

Cat and Dog Shows.

The Cat and Dog shows drew well, many going to see these pretty animals. The Dog Show is particularly good, some very fine animals being shown. The bulldogs and collies are particularly worthy of mention, while no finer setters could be seen anywhere.

The Main Building was no easy place to get through yesterday. It was utterly impossible to work against the stream of humanity that pushed its way through the place.

At night there was as large a crowd as in the afternoon. The grandstands were crowded, and all the buildings were just as bad.

A large number of citizens went out in the evening to do the Midway, and they made it interesting beyond question. There are many good shows, and they were liberally patronized yesterday.

The fireworks given by Prof. Hand were good, and created a great deal of enthusiasm among the spectators.

The Races.

There were two horse races in the afternoon. The 2:25 pace was won by Maida, a shifty-going little mare, owned by W. Merryfield, of Tilbury. The first heat was won by Nellie Wood, a Hagersville mare, but after that Maida had it practically all her own way. Monatell, the Strathroy horse, has a great turn of speed, and when he goes to the races in earnest, he should step very fast. He is not ready for a bruising contest at the present time, but he sure has speed.

Fair Hazel, driven by Jack Woods, won the wagon trot without much difficulty. She had the foot of the party, and won handily. The time was not fast. The results:

2:25 pace—

Maida, W. Merryfield, Tilbury	5	1	1	1

of Biscuits and Confectionery is a treat to look upon, and would even be considered such by the most critical housewife who likes good things to serve. This exhibit is made up of hundreds of varieties of the most tasty biscuits, from their delicious creamy "Water Ice Wafers" to the every-day "Cream Soda Biscuits." Amongst a few of their especial tasty lines might be mentioned, "Malto Cream Sandwich." This biscuit has a delicious creamy centre between two Malto flavored biscuits, making a combination that is not only delicious but is nutritious. Their latest perfection in biscuits is called "Opera Fingers," a biscuit that is having a wonderfully large sale, and is apparently meeting the wants of those desiring a delicate thin biscuit. Those who desire something not so sweet can have their wants fully supplied by a crisp and tasty "Cheese Sandwich." Space will not allow the enumeration of more of these delicious biscuits, but those who have not tried them should do so in their next purchase.

The biscuit package display made by this enterprising firm is also to be noted. These packages are attractively and neatly labelled, and being packed in air-tight packages, many of them tin, insures to particular people goods that are preserved in their crisp and delicate quality as well as avoiding any contact with outside dust. Amongst their many lines will be noticed "Lemon Wafarettes," "Ginger Waferettes," "Assorted Dainties," and "Graham Wafers." These are not high-priced packages, but are within the reach of all, as these packages sell from 10 cents to $1 each, according to the quantity.

The candy display made by this firm excels even their past record, which is of the highest, for quality and purity, as well as variety. The same care is taken to procure, not only for their biscuits, but their candy, the purest and best of material. When a statement is made of this kind it is a guarantee that is of some value, when one considers the amount of adulteration on the market today. Their exhibit of candy packages is an example of the high art that is attained in the making up of these packages. The great bulk of these packages are made in Perrin's own factory by London employees, and has become quite a factor in their success in this particular department. Candy is candy to many people, but this firm makes candy and art "to look upon with anticipated enjoyment of the pleasure to come." The exhibit is made up in part of a selection of those delicate satin-finished goods that are marvels of the workman's skill. These goods are put up chiefly in bottles, but can also be bought in other style packages. Although they make a very much larger variety of chocolates than shown, they are so busy in this department it has been impossible to devote more attention to this part of the Fair exhibit this year. Their display of what is called pail goods shows what can be done by expert workmen, and when coupled with purity and high quality, makes a combination hard to beat. The whole exhibit is a credit to the firm, and to the city in which it is located.

Shoe Shine Free.

Stop and get a real shoe shine absolutely free at the big stand of the Nugget Shoe Polishes at the eastern end of the Main Building. Large packages of these beautiful polishes, for either tan or black shoes, can be bought for 10 cents, and with every package is given away handsome and useful souvenirs for every woman and child. A souvenir for each. This is the biggest thing at the Fair, and no one should miss it.

Canadian Order of Foresters' Tent.

One of the most popular spots at the Western Fair is the tent of the Canadian Order of Foresters on Society Row. The order is represented at the tent by Mr. W. G. Strong, of Brantford, superintendent of organization, who is assisted by Organizers George R. Keys and F. K. Wilson; all these officers are well known to the membership and the order in this section of the province, and a hearty welcome is extended to all the brothers who visit the tent.

The Canadian Order of Foresters is making wonderful strides, and there is no place that it is better known or better loved than in the city of London. It was in this city in 1879 that the order was instituted with a membership at that time of 488. This was the first society to confine its business exclusively to the Dominion of Canada, and ever since its organization no attempt has been made to extend the operations of the society beyond the bounds of this great Dominion. From a humble start with 488 members and an empty treasury in 1879, the society has grown until it now has a membership of $6,000, and the amount to the credit of its insurance funds on the list of August of this year was the magnificent sum of $3,686,293.79. Last year the Canadian Order of Foresters paid out in insurance claims $501,582.44, and in sick and funeral benefit claims $147,224.96. Notwithstanding the large disbursements made for insurance and sick and funeral benefits, 1910 was the very best year in the whole history of the society.

Not only members of the order, but all others who care to call, will be given a warm welcome at the tent of this society.

CANADA WEALTHIER BY RECIPROCITY

English Tariff Reformer Approves of the Agreement.

London, Sept. 13.—J. T. Peddle, chairman of the Machine, Tool and Engineering Association, representing 75 leading firms in Britain, says, although an ardent tariff reformer, he is not opposed to reciprocity, inasmuch as the same would tend to increase Canada's wealth, such prosperity increasing proportionately to the increased markets she obtains under the agreement. If an increased preference or abolition of duty to be granted Britain became effective, as outlined by the Premier, it was an opportunity which the industry he represented would quickly snap up. In fact, arrangements already were progressing whereby the British machine tool trade would figure more in Canadian trade.

If reciprocity became effective the advantages to the United States were obvious, as her available food resources were increased, and the labor troubles of the United States today largely evoluted round the cost of food.

Mr. Peddle said the views he expressed were contingent upon the British preference being increased or duty abolished and Canada continuing to produce food products largely beyond her requirements. He was convinced then that Canada, Britain and the United States would largely benefit from the agreement.

FREAK WHIRLWIND IN KENT COUNTY

Traces a Complete "S" and Then Disappears.

Chatham, Ont., Sept. 13. — A peculiar freak of Monday night's storm is reported from Chatham Township. On James Forsythe's place, on the ninth concession, a whirlwind tore the verandah from a newly-built dwelling and hurled it several yards away. The path of the hurricane described a small semi-circle, tearing gaps in fences and hit the horse stable, part of which it wrecked. It then turned another half-circle in an opposite direction and blew down the windmill. No further damage in any part of the township is reported, and the whirlwind at Forsythe's seemed to merely trace a complete letter "S" and then cease operations.

KATE SOFFEL'S SON IS STILL IN DETROIT

Young Man Remembers the Famous Flight of Mother With Biddle boys.

Detroit, Sept. 13.—Roy Soffel, son of the notorious Kate Soffel, who aided the famous Biddle boys to escape from jail in Pittsburg, is ill at a Detroit hospital.

Although he was only 11 years old when his mother forsook his father for the love of Edward Biddle, one of the Amherstburg desperadoes, the young man, now 20 years of age, remembers the escape of the prisoners, the pursuit and the unmasking of his mother which followed.

Mrs. Soffel, through privileges which she gained because of her husband's connection with the Pittsburg prison as a warden, met and became infatuated with Edward Biddle, who at that time was awaiting the hangman's noose in company with his brother. She provided the two men with saws and guns, and helped them to make a sensational escape, accompanying them as they fled. During the battle which followed with a posse, Mrs. Soffel shot herself, but did not succeed in inflicting a mortal wound. She was sentenced to spend two years in the penitentiary, and when released found that her husband had secured a divorce and that she was ostracised by all who knew her. For years she lived in poverty, and two years ago died penniless and alone.

The son who is in the hospital here has little to say concerning his mother except that she did wrong, and that her name is never mentioned.

Word has been sent to the father in Pittsburg, and it is expected that the young man will be removed to his home city.

RIFLE ASSOCIATION IN GOOD SHAPE

Important Amendments to the Rules at Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the London Civilian Rifle Association was held at the office of the McClary Manufacturing Company Tuesday afternoon, and was attended by representatives from the different rifle clubs of the district.

The treasurer's report showed the association to be in good condition financially, and it was decided to hold the next shoot on Oct. 4.

The rules were amended to permit the entry of teams from the County of Oxford, and the secretary was instructed to communicate with them.

Another rule was added to those governing the shoot, to the effect that none of the fancy positions which are causing so much controversy at Toronto and Ottawa be permitted, but that each competitor must have his hand and forearm clear of the ground.

An extra match was added at 200 yards, seven shots, rapid fire, this score to count in the aggregate.

The same officers as last year were re-elected: Mr. J. K. H. Pope, president; Mr. R. J. Miller, vice-president; Mr. J. C. Ross, secretary-treasurer.

A SPANISH VICTORY

Moroccan Tribesmen Routed With Heavy Losses.

Madrid, Sept. 13.—A undated telegram from Melilla, Morocco, which has been delayed, received today, reads:

"The losses to the Spaniards in the action yesterday were 18 dead and 71 wounded. The losses to the tribesmen were about 600 or 700. A complete Spanish victory."

KILLED BY TRAIN.

Toronto, Sept. 13.—Hurled about thirty feet when the pilot of a freight train struck her at Dovercourt road this morning, Mrs. Hannah Wright was instantly killed. She was crossing the tracks, when she stubbed her toe and fell when the engine was but a few feet from her. There is no protection at the crossing, though there is a heavy traffic all the time. The body of Joseph Sarli, the Italian who jumped off the ferry Kathleen, was found today.

KILLED BY EXPLOSION.

Quebec, Sept. 13.—Dr. Dube, a young [illegible] from Lotbiniere, was found dead at the Hotel Dieu Hospital as a result of having been blown up in a dynamite explosion at his home yesterday. There were several sticks of dynamite in a barrel at the rear of his home, and a servant girl emptied hot ashes on them, not knowing what they were. Dr. Dube happened by when the explosion occurred, and was horribly mutilated.

WHOLESALE PADDING BY CON. ENUMERATORS

Over Three Hundred Names of Ringers in Nipissing District.

Haileybury, Sept. 14. — An unblushing attempt to pad the voters' lists of the unorganized district of Swastika was unearthed by the Nipissing Liberal organization before the court of three judges sitting for revision purposes. Over three hundred names of parties from all parts of the country, and non-residents of the polling subdivision in question, were handed by the Conservative organization to the enumerator, and were accepted by him.

According to a rule laid down some years since by the Laurier Government, the enumerators for the unorganized districts are appointed by the district judges, and it is the understanding that the appointments be given to both Liberals and Conservatives in fair proportion. This has been carefully done by the judges in Nipissing, and three of the enumerators for the Temiskaming division of the riding are Liberals and two Conservatives.

The lists compiled by the three Liberals were passed by the judges with scarcely a single appeal, and with but few minor changes, but so unblushingly padded were the lists of the Conservative enumerators that the judges expressed their disgust and their lack of faith in the work in its entirety. The most flagrant padding was done in the Swastika district, where there is a floating population of mining men, and the ringers are therefore less easily detected. Of the 360 names added by the Conservatives, it is known that 250 at least are non-residents, and for the purpose of gathering evidence the Swastika Liberal Association posted letters to the names given, and only six were called for. An exhibit of 244 letters, bearing the post-office returned stamp was presented to the judges yesterday.

The board, however, decided that it would be necessary to give personal and positive evidence in support of the Liberal appeals for the removal of the names, but even so, and in spite of the difficulty of this proposition, the Liberal representatives succeeded in proving the non-qualification of 45 names.

The Liberal organization is hot on the trail of the organized attempt to vote the ringers, and when it comes to polling day will be fully informed. The executive is determined to block the conspiracy, even if it means some arrests.

NO CHINESE TYPEWRITERS

Typewriters are now made for use in nearly a hundred different languages, and they are sold all over the world; but there is still one great nation which, for a very simple reason, has no typewriters that write in tongue. That nation is China.

The English alphabet has twenty-six letters, the Russian thirty-six. The typewriter produced for the Russian market is the largest made; but no typewriter could be made that would begin to be big enough for the Chinese language, which has no alphabet but is represented by sign characters, of which there are about fifty thousand. Of the great number or words found in the English language only a small proportion are used for the ordinary purposes of speech, and the same is true of the characters used in the Chinese language; but the number of Chinese characters commonly employed is still far greater than could be put on any typewriter. So this nation of 400,000,000 people has no typewriter in its own tongue.

But that doesn't mean that no typewriters are sold in China. More and more Chinese are learning other languages besides their own, and Chinese merchants and resident foreign merchants use typewriters, and they are used in legations and in consular offices and colleges and by missionaries, by various people. Altogether there are sold in China a good many typewriters.

YANKEE NOT GREATEST TRADER NOW.

[Congressman Mondell, Wisconsin, April 20.]

"I take off my hat to the gentlemen who, on behalf of the Dominion of Canada, negotiated this treaty. No longer may the Yankee pride himself on being the great trader of the world. I commend to him our Canadian cousin. Those gentlemen knew the trade and industries of their country, and they drew the agreement every line of which gave them the advantage of the wonderful markets of the most wonderful country on earth in exchange for seeming advantages in the markets of a land where, in spite of all preferential tariffs against us, we now practically control all the markets worth while."

SIR GEORGE ROSS FAVORED AGREEMENT ON PRESENT LINES

Wrote Only In Opposition to a Treaty—Ottawa Government Took the Course Which He Advocated.

One of the tricks of the anti-reciprocity press is to represent Sir Geo. W. Ross as an opponent of the reciprocity agreement. The special purpose of this piece of deception is to injure the candidature of his son in East Middlesex.

Sir Geo. Ross has not said a single word in opposition to the Government's policy. Before the pact was announced, and while negotiations between Ottawa and Washington were in progress, he wrote a series of letters arguing, not against an agreement with the United States on the lines now proposed, but against a treaty which would tie Canada's hands for a period of years.

The Ottawa Government took the course favored by Sir George when he wrote as follows last September:

"Theirs (the Americans') is the first move on the commercial chess board. We gave Great Britain a preference without any treaty or negotiations; why should we treat the Americans with greater formality? At the same time, let us receive their representatives with the utmost courtesy. They have proposals to make, we want to know what they are. They should be made as openly as if they were submitted to Parliament. Public opinion should be heard upon them, and there the matter should rest until the United States Congress had given its sanction and approval to the action of its representatives. It would then be the duty of the Parliament to take similar action if in the public interest so to do. Only in this way can we preserve perfect freedom from the possible entanglements of a treaty, which, no matter how carefully drafted, is liable to be misunderstood and misinterpreted.

"An adjustment of the trade relations between the two countries by the independent legislation of both rather than by treaty is the only safe course, as it affords publicity in the first instance and admits of perfect freedom of action thereafter."

The newspapers that print extracts from Sir George's articles take care to leave out the foregoing passage because it would utterly wreck the misrepresentations.

The Taft-Fielding agreement can be cancelled by a stroke of the pen at any moment. In the words of Sir George Ross, it admits of "perfect freedom of action thereafter." It is not a treaty which binds Canada for a period of years. President Taft, like the Canadian Government, did not want a treaty, as it would not have secured the necessary two-thirds majority in the United States Senate, owing to the violent opposition of the agricultural states.

AUSTRIA IDEAL LAND SAYS MR. EDISON

Say There Is a Perfect Balance Between Farm and City.

Klagenfurt, Austria, Sept. 12.—Thomas A. Edison, whose keen observation has noted every significant phase of the life of the peoples he has visited in his motor tour through Europe, has found a perfect balance between city and country life in Austria. It moves him to enthusiasm.

"I believe in rural life as the basis of human happiness," said the great inventor.

Edison stood a while regaling himself with the sight of some of the well-kept farms which greet the tourist in this part of the continent. Then he continued:

Acre for Every Man.

"Every man ought to have an acre of land with three-quarters of it devoted to the intensive cultivation of garden truck. That would provide sufficient food and make the owner independent. That is my idea of civilization. I would have people live on small farms instead of surrounding themselves with artificial urban conditions. In Austria one finds none of the social unrest that exists in so many other countries, for Austria is an agricultural country. Here the population of the city and country is not overbalanced as it is in America, where the cities are overcrowded to the detriment of country communities.

"But even Austria is behind the times. Her agricultural methods are primitive. The Austrians need a quickening of the spirit which education gives. The peasants are healthy and strong, but dull-eyed and slow; schools are Austria's great need."

Mr. Edison was pleased particularly with Austria's appreciation of the automobile as a commercial factor.

"The Austrians are awake to the fact that automobiles bring them trade," he said. "Here one finds no such foolish restrictions as in Switzerland. There hotels prosper and much building is going on to accommodate the increased number of travellers. Nevertheless, high taxes are levied on motorists who pass through the Dolomites, with their magnificent scenery, sharp and ragged peaks, stupendous precipices and secluded valleys. However, travellers are willing to pay for the advantages they get and for the delight in skimming over such perfect roads."

Goes Without a Hat.

Mr. Edison makes a picturesque figure as he wanders about seeing the sights through the streets of small, quaint villages. He often goes without a hat.

"I belong to the bareheaded brigade," he said laughingly.

He spends much time looking at well-known wayside shrines where Austrian peasants worship. He is opposed to this sort of worship, and said today:

"I often wonder what would have been the history of the world if Charlemagne had not been a Christian. Personally I regret to see the pennies of peasants going toward the maintenance of these shrines. I would prefer to see their money spent for schools."

At Meran his party was joined by his son-in-law, Major Oeser, of the German army, and Mrs. Oeser, who will make the rest of the tour with him. At the village of Predazzo troops are quartered for the autumn manoeuvres, among them the celebrated Innsbruck Mounted Guard and the famous Tyrolean Jaeger Corps, trained for mountain climbing.

The party halted at Predazzo. Major Oeser, who is well acquainted with the officers of the regiment, introduced them to Edison, and all joined at mess at the hotel, where Edison's health was drunk with enthusiasm. He questioned the officers with much interest on discipline in the army, and afterward roamed the village for half an hour, examining the quaint houses with sacred paintings on their front walls.

HOW FLIES TRAVEL.

One does not, I think, always realize the extreme mobility of the house-fly. The other day I was in a train which was drawn up at a station on the P. L. M. line in France. There was a fly with me in the carriage and the window was open. Presently the Savoy express went by, its speed reduced for the moment to a crawl as it passed over the points of a junction. As the wagon-restaurant passed my carriage one of the cooks opened the window and put his head out. Instantly my fly left my carriage and flew into the Savoy express; the window was shut, and the train de luxe, with its long line of polished and glittering saloons of the International sleeping-car Company, went on its expensive way. The next stopping-place, if I am not mistaken, would be Dijon; but the fly would probably still be lunching in the restaurant and would hardly alight there.

A mouse or a bird or a beetle attempting to use this means of locomotion would have been observed at once and either killed or ignominiously ejected, not so the fly. It is extremely probable that the same evening he alighted at Geneva or conceivably went on via Modane into Italy. And wherever he chose to quit the train, whether in Switzerland or Italy, this fly, who had spent the morning before in Paris, would find himself equally at home. Without fares to pay or luggage to pack and with the briefest of toilets—standing on four legs and brushing clothes together was at a time—he was ready to fly out and take possession of whichever part of the world he was in, to dine in the most fashionable restaurants or sleep in the most comfortable hotels, and the moment he felt bored, to take flip or train or horse or motor-car or aeroplane and travel the world until he was ready to alight again.

To have this freedom is to have the real kingship and possession of the earth.

FAIRBANK WILL WIN BACK RIDING

Nominated Today to Oppose J. E. Armstrong in East Lambton.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Watford, Sept. 14.—Dr. C. O. Fairbank, Petrolea, Liberal candidate, and Mr. Jos. E. Armstrong, Petrolea, Conservative candidate, were nominated here today to contest the east riding of Lambton for the House of Commons. There was a large attendance at the meeting a great deal of interest taken in the contest.

Both candidates addressed the meeting, and in addition Mr. John Farrell spoke on behalf of Mr. Armstrong, while Mr. H. J. Pettypiece, ex-M. P. P., spoke on behalf of Dr. Fairbank.

The reciprocity candidates had considerably the best of the argument. Mr. Pettypiece particularly chides Mr. Armstrong for his switch on the question. Mr. Armstrong in December was in favor of the pact, but when the party whip cracked, he fell into line, with the leaders, and voted against the interests of the farmer.

Dr. Fairbank is making an excellent run, and his prospects for election are most favorable. Mr. A. Augustine, Arkona, acted as chairman of the meeting.

The Farmers' Advocate, London, remarks that: "We trust none of our readers will charge us with 'offensive partisanship' if we remark that it would be a shame for reciprocity to be defeated, after all the extra barley threshing this year."

(Reported by Charles Head & Co., by private wire to J. J. Tearney.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 14. — (10 a.m.) — Further liquidation is reported from abroad due to the lack of confidence which checks business rather than to any new political developments. German officials still maintain that the dispute over Morocco will be settled amicably despite French counter proposals. The continuance of calling of loans by Paris is noted not only in Germany but in England and United States, but we are in a position to meet such a drain without causing a material strengthening of interest rates. Stock market liquidation and the slack mercantile conditions make for a favorable money situation, though the crop moving demand is now being felt. Reports from the iron and steel industry are not very cheerful, there being less new business noted with price-cutting the order of the day. The talk of strike on the Illinois Central is not taken seriously, the shopmen apparently realizing that their bluff has been called by the Harriman officials, the federation now trying to save its face. The weakness in Missouri Pacific is now explained by the poor results for the year, a deficit of about $3,000,000 being expected, half of which is due to the charging of old debts. We look for more pressure upon the market this morning, and would go slow in taking the long side except on a bad break ,and then only for quick turn.

Business Agent is in City to Make the Arrangements, if Possible.

Mr. H. P. Hill, the business manager of J. J. Ward, the aviator, who has commenced his ocean to ocean flight from New York city for the $50,-000 Hearst prize, is in London today, and this afternoon interviewed a number of prominent citizens with a view to having the birdman stop in London on his journey.

Ward left New York yesterday, but in endeavoring to follow the line of the Erie Railway became sidetracked and found himself lost in a marsh. A considerable delay resulted before he located himself, but Mr. Hill received word this afternoon that Ward had advanced as far as Middleton, N. Y. He left that place at 12:10, and is now on his way westward, with Susquehanna as his next stopping place. If possible he will continue his flight tonight by moonlight in an effort to appear at the Owego, N. Y. fair.

He will then proceed to Lockport and Buffalo. From that place his route is undecided, but both St. Thomas and London are endeavoring to have him come this way. If this is impossible Ward will continue on the American side.

It is now up to the people and to the city if Ward is to come here, according to Mr. Hill. Other places have made up small purses, and of course, such things are factors even with aviators.

Mr. Hill is a Canadian himself, his home being in Toronto, and for that reason he is taking an interest in the claims of Canadian towns.

SPLENDID DOGS SHOWN AT FAIR

Magnificent Collies Are Among Other Blue-Blooded Canines.

A BIG BULLDOG CLASS

Boston Terriers Are Also To Be Seen With Scores of Other Good Ones.

The Dog Show is a very attractive place at the Fair, and lovers of such animals have had much pleasure in inspecting the prize winners.

The number of entries is not up to the standard, but the quality is improved in many of the classes.

There is a fine lot of collies. Col. R. McEwan has some of his best puppies on exhibition. Among them is Holyrood Sombre, a very fine type of a dog. W. H. Taylor has also a fine lot, his best being Ormskirk Oberon, a rough collie of excellent class. F. Shaw also has some beauties.

In the Pointers and Setters, there is keen competition. Mrs. Cas. Waters, of St. Thomas, is a big winner in these classes, taking the larger share of the prizes. She won the sweepstakes for best Setter or Pointer in the show. W. A. Brock has a great Pointer in Lee Blake, and won in his class handily.

The London Hunt Club has a big exhibit of English Foxhounds, and they are a fine lot.

Good Bulldogs.

In bulldogs there are many entries. Victor Jackson has a pair that win well. J. B. Dale has several excellent dogs.

In Airedale terriers, Peter Bawden, of Ridgetown, practically sweeps the boards. His kennel is headed by the imported dog, Caerphilly Mar[illegible], one of the finest dogs of the breed ever imported into Canada. The others are good also.

O'Rourke & Judd, of Hamilton, took the major portion of the prizes in bullterriers. Wentworth Brocton and Wentworth Nell were two exceptionally good specimens.

There is a great showing of Boston bulls. These handsome little dogs are worth while, and there was always a large crowd about their kennels. M. A. Smith, of Toronto, has a big kennel of them, headed by Tom Boy, a very pretty little dog. P. M. Millman, Chas. H. Roos, W. O. Ruse, A. T. Knapp, F. N. Turville and Miss R. Collins have also large exhibits, some of them being as fine specimens as one could see anywhere.

Foxterriers.

Dr. F. P. Drake and his foxterriers take a lion's share of the prizes in these classes. There is a big entry list, and the majority of the dogs are excellent. Kenilworth Rebel is a very handsome dog. Thomas McCarrill, Thos. Harlow and C. L. Mewburn have many entries also.

J. D. Egan and Mrs. G. H. Nichol have the Scotch terrier rizes between them, while Dr. Niven exhibits the only white west Highland terriers. In Bedlingtons' J. H. Kenyon swept the boards, while he took the majority of the prizes in Yorkshires. Mrs. Mark O'Rourke has the only Pommeranians in the show.

Geo. W. Sherlock has some very fine Dalmatians.

Mr. G. A. Henry won many prizes in poodles with his fine zitch Peggy.

Cocker Spaniels are a large class. John Tomlinson, Woodstock, is a big exhibitor and grabs off many of the prizes. Mrs. S. Gamon shows some nice cockers also.

A. L. Klein swept the boards in greyhounds, while Geo. F. Janes has some very fine American foxhounds. Dr. H. A. Stevenson shows Peter Pan, the only bloodhound in the show.

There are many other good dogs, and Lew Sage has no trouble in getting visitors to the dog show.

TREMENDOUS CROWD

tomorrow as the schools of the city have been closed for two days in order that the youngsters may join the throng.

While all branches of the exhibition are filled with visitors from morning till night, the cat show is proving unusually attractive. The judging has all been completed, and the winning felines bedecked with cards appear to relish the attention given them. While all are most aristocratic, displaying well-groomed ears and unscraped noses, a number are usually surrounded by visitors. Bruno, owned by Miss M. H. Coyne, of 375 Maitland street, and shown in the second compartment inside the entrance, displays two blue first cards and three specials in his class. While others have numerous evidences of class, this is about as fine a display as any. Among the exhibitors are Mrs. W. C. Bell, Toronto; E. P. Bucke, London; W. T. Clark, London; Miss M. H. Coyne, London; D. G. Fitzpatrick, Toronto; A. H. Keene,e London; Wilfrid Keene, London; W. J. Kitchen, London Junction; T. C. Knott, London, and others.

London Gas Power Company.

The exhibit of the London Gas Power Company is creating a great deal of attention in the Machinery Building, for it is here that is found the famous London Gas Engine that is fast becoming the most popular on the market. This engine is noted for the fact that it has no tank, no fan, no freezing, no packed joint, and no complications, and the London Gas Power people are enjoying a phenomenal run of sales as a result. Last year they had a record for sales at the Fair, but this year they have sold nearly twice as many in half the time, and their sales up to Wednesday noon were more than those of the previous fair.

They have also just completed negotiations with the Cockshutt Plow Company, of Brantford, whereby this firm will take over the entire retail trade of the London firm, and in future all Cockshutt agents will also handle the London aGs Engine. Since its inception, the plant of the London Gas Power Company has been growing rapidly, and the firm has just installed a large lot of new machinery and extended their plant, one example of the growing popularity of their output.

British Columbia Fruit.

To come all the way from British Columbia to exhibit their fruit and defy the fruit growers of Ontario to produce anything that can compare with them, requires a great deal of nerve, especially when one considers that Ontario is "no slouch" in the gruit-growing line, but that is just what the British Columbia fruit growers did and are doing at the present time. Their exhibit in the Horticultural Building at the Western Fair is one of the chief attractions in this building, and is the centre of admiration of the hundreds of people who gather around it daily. Mr. W. J. Brandrith, exhibition commissioner of British Columbia, who is in charge of this booth, can tell you many wonderful things about the great fruit -producing districts of Britaish Columbia. He can tell you that the bulk of the fruit exhibited at the Fair comes from the East Kootenay district, that the finest pears are grown on Vancouver Island; that the finest plums come from the Fraser district; that there are no finer cherries than those from Kaslo, and that the best apples, apricots and peaches are produced in the Kamloops section. He can tell you all this, and a great deal more, but Mr. Brandrith does not like to do all the talking. He would rather let the fruit speak for itself, and so he points out the different kinds and lets you judge the quality for yourself. And one cannot help thinking that British Columbia, as a fruit-producing country, is about the finest proposition that ever was. The size of the apples and peaches, the size of the plums and pears and the beautiful coloring of each are truly wonderful. One cannot help saying, "Ontario fruits are all right, but, oh, you British Columbia!" And then you wonder why cannot these fruits be produced just as good and even better in Ontario by our own fruit growers. They can, and they will be, for the Ontario fruit growers are just wakening up to the fact that the British Columbia fellows are getting away ahead of them.

The secret of the success of the Pacific province as a fruit producer lies in the fact that its growers are compelled by legislation to spray their trees. They are also, by act of parliament, compelled to pack their fruit into specially-made boxes, and all fancy and No. 1 fruit coming out of British Columbia is packed. Then they have not the moths and bugs to fight as the Ontario fruit growers have, and which are so destructive to the trees and fruit. And then they are very careful as to just how the fruit must be picked and packed, wherein the Ontario fruit growers might take a lesson. This exhibit in the horticultural building cannot afford to be overlooked.

GAMBLING DISCUSSED

General Synod Heard Strong Speeches Against the Evil.

Gambling in connection with racing and in society, the home and elsewhere, was discussed at length in the synod this morning.

Canon Gould referred to the parimutuel machines which were reported to be increasing rather than lessening the evils of race track betting.

Canon Scott wanted the Church of England to be no less pronounced on the question of gambling than the Methodists and other churches. It was tending to make the people indifferent to religion.

Mr. L. H. Baldwin declared that there was quite as much objectionable and as much of the gambling element in church bazars as in many legitimate forms of amusements.

Gambling for small stakes was reported to be on the alarming increase among ladies at social gatherings and in the home.

The very newest goods are being offered in W. B. Lawson's low-priced boot, shoe and leather goods sale at 198 Dundas street. b

LOW WAGES BLAMED FOR FALL OF GIRLS

Economic Conditions Compel Many in Canada To Lead Lives of Shame.

MORMONISM IS BLAMED

General Synod Discussed the Matter and Put Itself on Record as in Favor of Altering Present Conditions.

"That the general synod recognizes the need of altering economic conditions in order that girls shall no longer be forced by the pressure of such conditions to lead immoral lives."

The above resolution in the form of an amendment by Canon Murray, of Winnipeg, was added to the report of the committee on social and moral reform, and carried by the general synod at their session this morning.

The amendment was added to follow a resolution on rescue work in connection with the white slave traffic in Canada.

"Many firms pay so low a rate of wages," said Canon Murray, in support of his amendment, "that girls are virtually forced into lives of shame and immorality."

Girls and Work.

One clergyman declared that girls preferred low wages in stores and factories to domestic service in which they find good homes.

Rev. H. E. Horsey, of Montreal, said that in many cases which had come before his personal attention, the girls owed their fall in the first place to domestic service.

Dean Doull, of New Westminster, was in favor of some legislation similar to what is now aimed at in certain American states, namely, to make a third conviction of participation in the white slave traffic a capital offence.

Rev. Canon Scott declared that the white slave traffic was being carried on under the guise of Mormonism. Hundreds of girls, he declared, were being brought into this country from England for polygamous purposes.

Rev. F. A. Graham, of Nelson, said that Mormonism presented a problem which the whole Christian Church in Canada would soon have to face strenuously.

The Mormon Church.

A thorough and complete investigation was necessary, he believed, in regard to the immorality carried on by the Mormon Church.

"Don't call it a church," said Archdeacon Richardson.

"I firmly believe," continued Mr. Graham, "that the real purpose of Mormonism is the raising of an enormous population in the shortest possible time. Mormonism is a terrible menace to this country."

Another speaker expressed the opinion that Mormonism was "a hellish thing."

Canon Tucker stated that the moral and social reform council were keeping a close watch on Mormonism in Canada.

Chancellor Conybeare did not think that Mormonism was a subject having any direct connection with the white slave traffic, although the Mormons might have immoral practices.

Chancellor Davidson said that Mormon agents were working among domestic servants in Montreal.

A special committee was appointed to consider the question of Mormonism and prepare a clause to be added to the report on moral and social reform. Rev. Mr. Graham, Chancellor Conybeare, Canon Scott and Canon Tucker were appointed members of the committee.

President Powell summed up the question, and expressed doubts of the advisability of co-education.

Poverty No Excuse.

Canon Murray objected to increased stringency being recommended in the punishment of adultery. It was always a failure to attempt to drive out spiritual vice by carnal means.

Canon Scott objected to the amendment, making poverty appear an excuse for immorality.

Canon Starr expressed favor that the church at last was recognizing that inadequate wages were one of the chief causes of girls going astray.

This afternoon the question of moral conditions in the public schools will be brought up.

Music and Drama

Dante's Inferno Pictures.

A return engagement of the Dante Inferno moving pictures will be given at the Grand Opera House on Friday and Saturday, afternoon and evening. The pictures give one a few hours of pleasure and profit. They are excellent films.

Kinemacolor at the Grand.

For five nights next week, with daily matinees, beginning Monday, the famous Kinemacolor moving pictures will be shown at the Grand. Their appearance here a week ago created the most profound interest, and there were hundreds of Londoners who saw the films two and three times, and then did not get enough of the wonders. It is announced that next week there will be a complete change of bill. The pictures to be shown include the royal review at Windsor, where an imposing army passed under the eye of George V. and his staff. In the pictures the uniforms will be seen just as they were in the parade. Then there will be the investiture of the Prince of Wales; Niagara Falls, the crowning glory of America; the fire brigades of Canada, including Chief Aitken and his men of London; animal and bird studies, etc. The pictures have enjoyed a sensational run at the Princess Theatre, Montreal.

A Capacity House.

"The Cat and the Fiddle," a musical extravaganza, was the attraction at the Grand Opera House last night, and drew a capacity audience. There have been few changes since its last appearance here, and they have been for the better.

It is a fair attraction, and the audience showed its approval most enthusiastically. There are several good musical numbers, some attractive ladies, and a couple of clever comedians.

The best of these, of course, is Harry B. Watson, as Happy. He was always excellent in tramp parts, and in this play he has plenty of scope for his fun-making parts. Nellie Watters, as Polly, is a sprightly young lady who works hard all the time, and wins her audience by her energy, if not by her talents.

The remainder of the cast are fair.

The detectives report that so far not a single case of pocketpicking has been reported in the city or on the trains bearing the Fair crowds to London. Notwithstanding, everyone is warned to keep a close watch for the "dips," as they are liable to turn up at any time. The detectives also want to warn people about putting away all valuables before they go out, and leave their houses, and urge everyone to make sure that all the doors and windows are fastened securly.

PREMIER SPEAKS IN LAURENTIANS

Carries Campaign Into Stronghold of Bourassa's Aide.

HEARD BY THOUSANDS

Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Dr. Beland at Montmagny.

Montmagny, Que., Sept. 13.—Flanked by the great Laurentian hills, and centred in a spot of wild beauty, this little town, one of the political anomalies of Quebec, was visited by the Premier today. It returns to the Federal Parliament a Liberal member and to the Provincial Mr. Armand Lavergne, lieutenant of the Nationalist party. Sir Wilfrid, fresh and smiling after the exertions of yesterday, came to support the candidature of Hon. Dr. Beland, who is also running in Beauce County. An enthusiastic reception was accorded the Premier by the crowd of 4,000 people, and he spoke strongly, clearly, and effectively in support of his platform.

Accompanying him were Hon. Dr. Beland, Hon. Charles Devlin, provincial minister of mines and colonization, and Hon. J. E. Caron, provincial minister of agriculture, who spoke out strongly in favor of reciprocity from a provincial and federal standpoint.

Mr. P. O. Lesperance is the Conservative candidate here.

Salutes Macdonald.

The Premier said: "Reciprocity was followed by Sir John Macdonald, Chapleau and the other chiefs of the great Conservative party. I say great Conservative party, and I salute them." At the moment he raised his hat in respect to their memory. But quickly replacing it, he said: "But the present leaders, what are they? Only pigmies." Sir Wilfrid joked about the name of the Opposition candidate, Mr. Lesperancee, and said he thought he would always have "lesperance," which means "hope," of being a member.

He dwelt on the prosperity of the country, and prophesied increased prosperity for Canada, and a benefit also to the United States, and said that all the farmers from east to west are in favor of the pact. He attacked the statements of those who said that the navy would mean increased taxation for the people, and remarked that such speakers were only fooling the people.

Hon. Dr. Beland made his appeal to the farming class against the manufacturers and capitalists. Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the greatest man in the history of Canada, and was not like Sir Hugh Graham, Sir Edmund Walker and Sir William Van Horne, who were laughing at the farmers who desired advantages from reciprocity. After giving well-known reasons for the construction of the navy, the Postmaster-General said he voted against the resolution of submitting the question to the people, on the ground that it would have raised prejudices and turned the English-speaking provinces against Quebec. He said that all the English-speaking provinces would return candidates favorable to the navy, and that they would not repeal the navy bill, and so Mr. Lesperance would have finally to bow his head to the Liberal navy.

Tomorrow night the Premier will speak in Quebec for Mr. Wm. Power, and will leave on Friday morning for Rimouski.

GREAT STRENGTH OF C. P. R. ROAD

Progress of the Company and Its Effect on Canada.

PHENOMENAL GROWTH

Mileage of the System Is Being Rapidly Extended.

London, England, Sept. 14.—The following interesting article appears in the London Statist, one of the most important financial papers in England. It refers to the Canadian Pacific Railway and its great strength:

It is always a pleasure to describe the position of a company which is progressive, and at the same time conservative and well managed, and the affairs of the Canadian Pacific cannot fail to satisfy the most exacting critics.

In our railway section, issued in July, we showed the great progress of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the effect of its progress upon the welfare of Canada. There can be no doubt that Canada primarily owes its great expansion in recent years to the men of enterprise who built the Canadian Pacific and proved that the wilderness through which the railway passed was capable of supporting an unlimited population.

Company's Prosperity.

The prosperity of the company today indicates the harvest which is being reaped, not only by its shareholders, who risked their capital in constructing the railway, but by the people of Canada, who are gaining such immense advantages from the development of the west. The shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway are receiving a dividend of 10 per cent upon their stock, but the rate of interest paid upon the total capital for the construction of the railway is much lower than 10 per cent, as the debenture and preference stocks were placed at low rates of interest. As far as we can calculate, the people of Canada are deriving upwards of 90 per cent of the increased income which the country is deriving from the construction of the Canadian Pacific, and the security holders of the Canadian Pacific are participating to the extent of less than 10 per cent.

Sources of Income.

It should, of course, be noted that a large part of the income of the Canadian Pacific at the present time is derived from the influx of new settlers, and from the business of carrying the goods, machinery and lumber they require for the development of their lands and the erection of their houses, and that the income which the Canadian Pacific derives from the carriage of produce to market and of the goods purchased by means of the produce, forms only a portion, although, of course, the major portion of its incolme, but, however the matter is calculated, it is evident that the people of Canada have derived immense advantage both actually and in proportion to the advantage accruing to the security-holders of the Canadian Pacific from the construction of the railway, and that the building of the line has brought great good fortune both to investors and to the people of Canada. In considering the dividend of 10 per cent which the Canadian Pacific Railway is now paying, it is essential to recollect that the distribution is provided as to 7 per cent out of the earnings of the railway, and as to 3 per cent from the interest received from investments and interest upon the deferred payments of land sales, and that as far as the charge to the people of Canada is concerned, for the services rendered by the railway, the interest paid is only about 4 per cent upon the loan and preference capital, and 7 per cent upon the common stock, an average of just over 5 per cent, certainly not a high return, taking into account the risks that were run, and the advantage which the railway has been to Canada. The extra 3 per cent dividend accrues from investments and from interest on deferred land sales.

The Surplus.

If the proceeds of land sales are entirely excluded, the surplus to profit and loss, and the various reserve funds exceed $70,000,000, and this sum has been almost sufficient to pay for the whole of the company's investments. Thus it will be evident that the company is not unduly burdening the trade of Canada in order to pay a high rate of dividend. It may be said that the advantage to the shareholders of the Canadian Pacific is greater than we have indicated, taking into account the large amount of land which the company received from the Canadian Government, and the cash which was provided by the Canadian Government and the proceeds of the land sales. In other words, the whole of the cash subsidy has been deducted from the cost of road equipment and the whole of the sum received from land sales has been treated in a similar manner.

It will be recollected that up to 1904 the company carried in its balance sheet as a liability a sum of $30,752,000 received as subsidies and bonuses, and that at the time it had received $36,193,900 from land sales, and that in 1905 these amounts were deducted from the cost of railway equipment. Since 1904 an additional sum of $49,258,779 has been received from land and townsites sales, of which $24,116,990 is still due in respect of deferred payments. In making our calculations we have deducted from the cost of the road and equipment, the whole of the bounties and the whole of the sums actually received from land sales, so that the capital has been kept down to the extent of these bonuses and land sales.

After the whole of the surplus land which the company still has for sale is disposed of, the capital account will benefit to the extent in all of about $200,000,000 from land grant and subsidy. To the extent of land sales and subsidies, the capital account will be smaller than otherwise it would be, and the rates and fares need to pay a reasonable rate of interest upon the capital, which will be correspondingly lower than would otherwise be necessary.

A Wise Policy.

In brief, by the wisdom of its policy, it is returning to Canada the whole of the advantage it has derived from the bounties it has received, and the proceeds of its land sales, and is only giving to its shareholders a reasonable return upon the capital they have actually subscribed in cash, either by subscriptions to stock or by appropriating undivided profits to capital purposes.

Including the unsold land and the sums expended out of land sales and bounties for capital purposes, total asset value of the undertaking is about $743,000,000, against liabilities of only $443,000,000. Thus there is a surplus of assets over liabilities of $300,000,000. The Canadian people will ultimately derive the benefit of this great surplus.

By keeping down its capital account in the manner it is doing, the company is able to charge lower rates and fares than otherwise would be necessary, and at the same time to pay a reasonable rate of dividends upon its securities. It should be clearly understood that the ten per cent dividend now being distributed by the Canadian Pacific is because it has kept its capital account down by employing the bounties received, and the lands derived from land sales.

Phenomenal Growth.

The expansion in the traffic and earnings of the railway is of phenomenal extent, and the growth in the earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway of 237 per cent in the last ten years, indicates the remarkable speed with which the business of a young country may develop. Canada has not since the early seventies experienced the great contraction of trade which has come from time to time to her great American neighbor. It should, however, be noted that the relative freedom of Canada from great trade contractions has been largely due to the fact that her progress until about ten years ago was relatively slow.

Although the mileage of the system is being rapidly extended, the growth of traffic is still more rapid in proportion, and the density is steadily increasing. Even in the past year, in which the traffic to some extent suffered from the lightness of the grain crop, there was some increase in density. In ten years the traffic per mile of road increased 141 per cent. The great increase in density and the improvement in the train loading which has resulted, will be evident from the freight train results of the Canadian Pacific.

The outlook for the coming year is a bright one, provided of course that the war clouds in Europe pass away. This year Canadian wheat crop is large, and as the prices it will realize are likely to yield good profits, the country should realize a high degree of prosperity. We are distinctly hopeful that political difficulties in Europe will be adjusted With the maintenance of peace there is every prospect that the flow of British capital to Canada will be maintained, and that with good harvests Canada in general, and the Canadian Pacific Railway in particular, will enjoy a period of still greater prosperity in which its profits may attain to a still higher level.

A LONDON PLAYER WAS LEADING LADY

Miss Gwendoline Anthistle Home After a Successful Season.

Miss Gwendoline Anthistle, of this city, has returned home after spending a successful season with the S. I. Conner company of outdoor Shakespearean players. Miss Anthistle was the leading lady in the two plays, "Midsummer Night's Dream" and "As You Like It." Of her playing in Indianola Park, Columbus, Ohio, the Columbus Evening Dispatch has the following to say:

"Miss Gwendoline Anthistle accentuated the favorable impression she made at her first appearance in "Rosalind." In the role of Hermia, continuously engaging as it is, she reveals a splendid capacity for graceful personation and appealing diction. She has a gracious presence that speedily makes her a favorite with all the auditors."

In addition to Ohio, Miss Anthistle's company played throughout Pennsylvania, Maryland and Indiana. She has accepted an engagement for next season with the same company.

YOUNG MAN IS CHARGED WITH THEFT

Reginald Harris, of Toronto, Arraigned in Local Court.

Reginald Harris, a young man who came to London recently from Toronto, was arrested this morning on a charge of theft, and later was charged by Chief Williams with being disorderly.

It is alleged that Harris stole some articles of clothing from Walter Smith, of West London, with whom he boarded, and that he and Smith had a fight on the street. Smith told the magistrate that Harris had admitted taking the articles.

Harris denied absolutely that he had done so in court. He gave addresses in Toronto and Brantford, where, he said, the police could get information as to his good character, and pending the arrival of this, he was released in the sum of $100 bail, furnished by himself, to appear next Wednesday.

This Fact Counts

When I decided to conduct a piano business on my own account, I received most attractive offers from some of the best makers in the country. While duly honored by this evidence of their confidence in me, however, I chose to sell the MARTIN-ORME in preference to several other really good pianos.

Why? Because I know the instrument and its possibilities, have seen the factory and every detail in the method of manufacture, and as a result, was convinced that the MARTIN-ORME piano would be the instrument that would bring me the greatest credit.

The head of the MARTIN-ORME firm is a man of practical experience in piano-making. Where the heads of other concerns have to trust to the workmen, the guiding hand of the MARTIN-ORME Company is Mr. Owain Martin—ALL THE TIME. It means best results in every department.

The MARTIN-ORME piano is made in Canada—at Ottawa—by Canadian workmen, under the supervision of a Canadian employer.

No makers in the world "have anything on" the MARTIN-ORME people, and they are fully justified in their claim that "The Martin-Orme is the piano of Canada's Century."

Send me your name and address on a postcard, and you'll receive by return mail a pleasing booklet on "the playable piano."

HEAVY FROST COVERED GROUND THIS MORNING

Early Risers Had a Glimpse of Winter in London Today.

The mercury took a dip to 32 degrees during the night and citizens who were up early this morning saw a heavy frost. Many people, fearing last night that the cold breeses would injure their flowers, took the precaution to cover them with papers. As far as can be learned the frost, while general, did not do much damage. Visitors to the fair last night who did not bring wraps or overcoats suffered a great deal from the biting wind.

As usually treated, a sprained ankle will disable a man for three or four weeks, but by applying Chamberlain's Liniment freely as soon as the injury is received, and observing the directions with each bottle, a cure can be effected in from two to four days. For sale by all dealers.
