As shown in the above photographs taken by The Advertiser staff hotographer this morning, there was no excitement round the doors of any of the branches of the Home Bank in London, which closed today, following its suspension. The defects and shortcomings of the present educational system are no The executive of the Labor party have issued an educational program, drawn up on the advice of practical educationalists, which may be taken broadly as the policy of a Labor government in this matter. It demands a reduction in the size classes in the primary schools, the discontinuance of the employment of unqualified and untrained teachers an increase in the number of free places in the secondary schools, arger provision of national scholarships to the universities, increased facilities for adult education, and the provision of better school equipment and accommodation. There is one present illusion which labor shares in common with other classes which will have to be re-moved; namely, the idea that education should be directed to preparing all promising children for the black-coated professions. The fact is, that these professions are already over-crowded, and the tendency of econ-omic and social evolution is towards reducing the proportion of such posi-tions. The great need in education is to realize this fact, that a libera education should not make a man despise manual labor. An educated man will raise any occupation to the dignity of the learned professions.

Lengthy Discussion. #### Rural Credits.

Washington the practicability of rural credits has been unions would not be allowed to dictate terms as they fully demonstrated by the fact that in the two months the intermediate credit banks have been in operation approximately $5,000,000 has been loaned to the farmers. Much of this money, it is stated, has gone to co-operative organizations, with the best results. A system of rural credits in this country to enable farmers to cooperate in the marketing of their produce would be productive of much good. For example, there is no reason why farmers should not be enabled to look abroad for fresh markets for their stuff and bring it to its destination independently of brokers and middlemen. Take butter and eggs and apples, for instance, not to mention honey and cheese. There is no reason why the British consumer should have to turn to New Zealand for butter, and China for eggs, and Australia for apples when they can be obtained at a cheaper rate and much more quickly from Canada. There is nothing to hinder the farmers of Ontario, in this connection, if aided by over a stile," but lame dogs as a rule have to do their rural credits, from co-operating in the chartering or owning of vessels to carry such produce direct to Britain and put it on the markets there at a price which will not only be a great boon to the consumers but will put money in the pockets of the farmers themselves. Before the war apple growers in Germany used to send ships across the North Sea from Hamburg laden with the fruit, and at the present day onion growers in Brittany find a ready and profitable market for their goods when shipped direct to British ports. This, on a much larger scale, is what might be done by Canadians if proper means were taken. The people of Great Britain would be glad to have apples at 5c a pound in place of paying 12c or more as they do at present, and their ambition, and it was then that the St. Vincent the way to bring this about is for the farmers to cooperate and send them direct. Under present conditions, it is neither the consumer nor the producer who reaps the benefit from abundant crops; it is those who come in between.

The Bad Old Times.

The bad old times of moonshining and smuggling and the evasion of the inland revenue laws generally, which furnished writers of romance with so much material in the past, seem to have been revived in no small degree in this country, judging from the seizures of filicit stills and the other paraphernalia of the defiers of the liquor laws which are taking place from time to time. But somehow the halo of romance that hovered around the doings of the bold, bad men of a century or so ago is not visible in the sordid happenings which at the present day are every now and then being disclosed by the police. Whereas in those former days men used to brew from good barley malt the illicit nectar for the consumption of all who were willing to pay for it, and pay for it cheaply, the practice of the modern moonshiner seems to be to produce weird concoctions with deadly kicks in them for which he charges a fancy price. of his majesty's subjects a secondary consideration. ### London Is Fortunate.

Announcement by representative coal merchants that London's foresight in purchasing fuel early this year prohibits any possibility of a shortage the coming winter will be received with satisfaction. Although the situation in the United States is admittedly crucial, the comforting assurance has been given that, so far as this city is concerned, the prospective strike will have a very negligible effect.

Miners and operators are still negotiating to over come their differences, but the prospect of an agreement is not bright. With the approach of September 1, when the contract between anthracite operators and miners expires, the probability of a strike is by no means diminishing. Consumers all over the United States and the past. in parts of Canada may suffer a stoppage of their fuel supplies completely. At best the troubles of the anthracite consumer will consist of paying through the considered inevitable.

There is reason to believe that President Coolidge's administration will be prepared to act decisively if necessary to prevent a coal famine. Just what will be done cannot be foretold, for no one knows as yet what right and proper solution of many difficulties. the operators and miners will do. Upon the outcome of the renewed discussion scheduled for Monday may depend, in great measure, what the policy of the United winning the first round against the striking coal miners. But there are ugly signs that the representatives of the miners do not wish to see a peaceful common sense in taking advantage of the Richmond adjustment. The Alberta possible if the workers' representatives will drop the man declares that the plan is effectually preventing the demand for unionization of the fields and the further demand for installation of the check-off system, The wage question, according to operators, has been sub-other difficulties of national scope.

The coal miners are believed to be anxious to precipitate a condition which will bring about government ownership and operation. If they play this for the sake of organized labor they are shortsighted indeed, for no government would ever agree to the closed shop for coal mining or anything else. The miners, under In the opinion of the federal farm loan board at the government, would receive good wages, but their do to private operators.

If worst comes to worst, there are always a number of good substitutes to be used for anthracite in the United States. London, according to merchants, is not susceptible to the unfortunate conditions that may become general in other cities this winter owing to their wisdom in storing bins early. And, of course, there is always the possibility of receiving large shipments of Alberta coal should the situation become so acute that no other recourse is in sight.

In any event, with the situation as grave as it is in the United States, it is comforting indeed to know that citizens are already pretty well prepared to brave the low temperatures of the snowy season.

Helping a Lame Dog.

There is an old saying about "helping a lame dog own jumping. Nevertheless a fine example of the equally trite saying that "a friend in need is a friend indeed," occurred at Montreal the other day when seven young Scottish stowaways were taken in hand by the St. Vincent de Paul Society and given the means of reaching their longed-for destinations among the harvest fields of the West. The usual procedure with stowaways, as we know, is to send them back to where they came from "with a flea in their lug," but the fine bearing and obvious good qualities of these young Scots so impressed the judge before whom they were brought that he sought means of enabling them to carry out de Paul organization stepped in.

Not every man who steals a ride on a freight train or hides himself away among the cargo on an ocean liner is a criminal, and it seems a pity that some discrimination cannot be used in dealing with such. In our school books we read of the orphan boy who stowed himself away on an emigrant ship with the object of reaching a relative in Halifax, and how he narrowly escaped being strung up on the yardarm by the first mate through his natural goodness and intrepidity; well, like this small boy there may be other heroes with laudable ambitions which they have no means of gratifying who are tempted to risk their reputation in an endeavor to reach their goal, who fall into the hands of the authorities and are sent to fail instead. How much better it would be if their antecedents could be sifted and, if justifiable, something done to set them on their feet. There is an old world atmosphere of Chris- So winsome and sweet from her head tianity and Good Samaritanism about the action of the Montreal society which others would do well to imitate.

Planting Trees.

"If ye have naething else tae dae, plant a tree; it will grow when ye are sleepin'," or words to that effect, Sordid gain appears to be his main object, the poisoning are uttered by the worldly-wise Laird o' Dumbiebykes in Scott's "Heart of Midlothian." This precent is as sound today as it was a hundred years ago, for if any country is robbed of its timber and no trees are planted, it is a disastrous thing for that country. Canada, especially This is a strange phenomenon, which can only be summed the eastern part of it, is beginning to awaken to this up in the sapient words: "There is something wrong fact, and the forestry departments, both at Ottawa and somewhere." But the mere love of gain is evidently not the ruling passion of all who traffic in unlawful refreshtion to the matter. It is to be hoped that some permators to the matter of the matter nent good will result from the meeting of forestry ward man who has just appeared before the county experts in this country. As chief of the clan Fraser, Lord Lovat has a special interest for Canada and Canadians, for it was the Fraser Highlanders, most of whom were drawn from the ancestral estates in Inverness-shire, who scaled the heights of Quebec and enabled Wolfe in his dying hour to plant the British flag firmly on Canadian soil. It was he also who organized the famous Lovat Scouts, who rendered such excellent service in the South African war, and again in Gallipoli. This celebrated corps of mounted infantry was mostly recruited from the ghillies, foresters and gamekeepers in his own service.

It is to be hoped that Ontario will take up the matter of systematic tree planting to make up for the thoughtless waste of its best lumber-producing trees in turn route around the paths just eight times.

Tecs Maul Ham Hurlers For Easy 8 to 1 Victory

Delman Kept Seven Hits Scattered-London's Came in Bunches.

A pair of Ham bingles thrown together in the third and seventh caused Del and his assistants some real cause for worry, but in both cases some fast work relieved the situation, without allowing runs. In the second Rust got on on a scratch to Getsie, and Hasty singled to center. Gray forced Hasty at second, while Rust went to third. Carlin was passed, cramming the bases. Stuz's best attempt with the willow resulted in a double play, as Delman took his bounder, cut Rust off at the plate, and Mackey's throw to Beatty beat George to the sack.

Three force-outs upset the Hams' chances to score in the seventh.

The Hams' lone tally in the fifth resulted from Gray's triple, with Rust on first, and only ground rules separated Carlin's crew from two tallies. The drive curved to the foul-line in deep right, bounced off at an angle under the ropes and rolled to Dundas street fence. Gray beat Schaeter's relayed throw to the plate by inches, but Umpire Doyle sent him back to the hot cushion under the ground rule. Carlin ended the frame swinging, in a vain attempt to rescue Gray.

Maybe you will recall something about Rioux. He is the giant lumberman, Trios Pistoles, up in the lumber district, who was discovered by Dr. Gadbois of Montreal while in search of a superman to build into a world's champion box fighter. For a year now Rioux has been working at the Circle Outremont, one of the leading Montreal clubs, under the eye of Emile Maupas, the club trainer. Now he is working out with Dempsey to sharpen him to fighting edge.

Dashing around and seizing his assailant, Rioux drew him from the blankets, and, using him as a batteringram, cleared his way to the door. Here he threw his human bludgeon out into the snow, picked up the Swede and tossed him out too. Then closing the door, he picked up an axe and invited the other lumberjacks to come on, but they declined. Peace reigned.

It was the news of this battle trickling out into the settlements that brought the attention of Dr. Gadbois, superintendent of the municipal division of public amusement, to this wild battler of the woods. Dempsey should gain plenty of experience of the ways of wild men in his work with Rioux. Dares Whole Camp.

BIG TIME HURLERS BEHIND VETERANS

None Likely To Enroll Selves Among Mighty Winners of Past.

KAUFMANN IS BEST

By JOHN B. FOSTER. Copright.

New York, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The base-ball year is far enough along to make it evident that no pitcher in the big leagues is likely to enroll himself among the mighty winners of the past. Not a man can come up to the 30 victory mark unless there are superman performances between now and October. Until the Giants played in Cincinnati last time it appeared that Luque, the Cuban, might do it, but his chances of making a record this year or anything making a record this year or anything like it vanished with the two defeats plastered on him by the world's cham-

Kaufmann is Best.

The best pitcher in the Nationals is Kaufmann of Chicago, and he is not much of a kid. Most of the youngsters are away off. Rixey of Cincinnati, who was dubbed a championship go-getter, is running behind his 1922 form like a sleepy man chasing a trolley car.

Sherdel, who was the howling sensation in St. Louis last year, is falling to win this season. He has picked up only nine games in 20 starts. Doak of the same club has won five in 15 starts and seems to be about through. He is a registered spit baller, and the spitters are slumping badly. Lee Fohl said Henry was only an ordinary pitcher, and his judgment seems good, for Henry has won two games for Brooklyn. Kaufmann Is Best.

Helen Wills Crushes Eleanor

Goss At Forest Hills.

HAS GOOD CHANCE

Associated Press Despatch.
Forest Hills, N.Y., Aug. 17.—For the second successive year Miss Helen Wills. 17-year-old tennis marvel, of Berkley, Calif., will attempt to wrest the national singles championship from Mrs. Molla P. Mallory of New York. But where a year ago the "coast wonder girl" proved no match for her veteran Norse rival, the brilliancy her game has reached this year prompted critics tonight to the belief that she will give the titleholder one of the hardest struggles of her career with at least an even chance of triumph. Today when Miss Wills and Mrs. Mallory won decisively in the final matches on the turf courts of the West Side Tennis Club, proving conclusively their superiority over an international field of 61 players, the pick of United States and British stars who started play in the tournament last Monday, Miss Wills flashed the most spectacular game she has shown all week to crush Miss Eleanor Goss of New York, 6—4, 6—4, 6—2.

Both teams gained their final round brackets easily, and promise a pretty struggle for honors tomorrow. The British pair disposed of Mrs. Helen G. Lockhorn of Mamaroneck, N.Y., and Mrs. Natalie Morris of New York 6—0, 6—2, while Miss Goss and Mrs. Wightman gave a remarkable exhibition of court strategy in eliminating the youthful combination of Miss Ceres Baker of Orange, N.J., and Miss Lillian' Scharman of New York, 6—1, 6—1.

Miss Wills was faultless in her manoeuvring and unerring in her powerful driving game, chasing Miss Goss from side to side as she bombarded the New Yorker's court relentlessly.

Mrs. Mallory also demonstrated that she is at the top, of her game in defeating Mrs. Clayton. The champion drove with all her customary power and accuracy and won by her sheer aggressive force of attack.

EXPECT SUSPENSION LIFT.

Special to The Advertiser.

Tillsonburg, Aug. 17. — A delegate from the local O. B. A. A. management spent the day with the secretary of the executive committee, and it is fully believed that Moyer and Stillwell, who were suspended before the Ingersoil game on Wednesday, will be fully reinstated for the semi-final game with Guelph here this Saturday afternoon, when a large crowd is assured. The strength of the visitors is an unknown quantity here, but the locals will make the visitors go all the way to pull out a win, and it will be a very snappy affair.

Down the Line In All Sports

A humorous angle developed in the fifth inning of yesterday's game at the west-end ball garden. While the teams were changing in the field Blake and Schaefer exchanged rapid-fire wit. Blake's parting shot referred apparently to Jawn's ability in the field, and it aroused the latter's ambitions to volplane a liner where Blake wouldn't reach it-and nearly all in the stands guessed it—as Schaefer strode to the plate.

Schaefer bumped the ball straight for Blake. It was a hot liner, but it suddenly developed a tendency to drop heavily, and Blake rushed in on the gallop. He reached a spot a few feet away from the ball in time to stoop and get both hands on it right on his shoe-tops, but it was too heavy to hold. Blake's hands might well have been tissue paper.. Only for the obstruction his feet afforded the ball might have rolled to the fence.

While the stands laughed with Jawn, and at Blake, Mackey sacrificed, and Churry singled the run in. Blake couldn't see the joke.

From White Sulphur Springs, Saratoga, Dempsey's training camp, W. O. McGeehan writes:

From now on Mr. Jack Dempsey will forget about his coal mining interests and his social engagements. Despite the fact that there is considerable skepticism among the experts as to the fighting ability of Senor Luis Angel Firpo, the heavyweight champion does not underestimate him. He is quite as gravely concerned over this bout as he was about the Willard bout. When he fought Willard he was working for the heavyweight championship. This time he seems to be figuring that he will have to work hard

Mr. Charles Thorley, who has followed fights since the days of John L. Sullivan, also was gravely concerned over matters in general. Mr. Thorley is one of those patriots who fear an international calamity if the heavyweight championship should be taken from the United States.

"This must never be," said Mr. Thorley as he waved a silver-mounted cane made from the horn of a rhinoceros. "The title must remain in North America. It behooves Mr. Dempsey to do his best to keep it here."

Mr. Dempsey assured Mr. Thorley that he would behoove as much as possible from now until the night of September 14. Just before the moon rose a dark figure approached White Sulphur Springs with a bundle on its back. It was none other than Bob Armstrong, the venerable Negro heavyweight.

"I'm moving in," announced Mr. Armstrong. "I always moves in with the winners."

Mr. Armstrong has his own way. He is in.

SUGAR

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Aug. 17.—The early raw sugar market was a little steadler, with prices 1-16c higher to the basis of 4c for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to $5.78 for centrifugal. There were sales of 11,000 bags of Cubas at 4c, cost and freight. The raw sugar futures market showed declines of 1 to 10 points at the opening under renewed liquidation, out quickly firmed up on scattered covering and trade buying, prompted by the sted dier feeling in the spot market, and prices at midday were 6 points net higher. The market for refined was unsettled, and prices were unchanged to 15 points lower, with fine granulated quoted at $7.60 to $7.75. The demand, however, was light, with buyers rather cautious, owing to the recent declines. Refined futures were nominal. Canadian Press Despatch.

Week's Closing Session Was BUSY SESSION STAGED AT SATURDAY MARKET

Supply of Vegetables Heavy With Prices Holding Quite Firm.

The local market presented an exceedingly busy appearance this morning. The supply was heavy and the attendance one of the largest of the season. Prices displayed a tendency to fixmness in most lines, in some cases slight advances being the rule.

Tomatoes were not as heavy an offering as had been expected, and the prices were generally higher at 60c and 75c a basket.

Green beans also advanced to 50c a basket.

Green beans also advanced to 50c a basket.

The following prices are about the average of the market:
Potatoes, $1.10 to $1.25 per bushel and $1.50 to $1.75 a bag; tomatoes, 50c for No. 2 quality and 60c and 75c for the choice grades; carrots and beets, 40c per dozen bunches; green anions, 30c to 40c per dozen bunches; green anions, 30c to 40c per dozen bunches; dry onions, $2.50 to $3 per bushel; shelled peas, 35c to 40c per quart; eggs, 28c to 30c per dozen; peaches, 50c for 6-quart basket; blackberries, 30c box; crab apples, 30c per basket; plums, 90c for 11 quarts, and 60c for 6 quarts; apples, $1.50 to $1.75 per bushel; butter, 38c to 40c for dairy; chickens, 90c to $1.25 each; green corn, 12½c to 15c per dozen.
The square itself and all the adjacent streets were almost impassable, owing to the large number of cars and vehicles taking advantage of the parking privileges, and the session was undoubtedly one of the busiest of the season. The quality of the season's crop of vegetables is of the best, and, taken altogether, Saturday's market was almost a record-breaker.

TODAY'S OPENING PRICES.
Chicago, Aug. 18.—Owing largely to an unexpected advance in Liverpool quotations, the wheat market here showed an upward tendency today during the early dealings. Firmness of the New York stock market counted also as a bullish factor. On the other hand, notice of French government regulations to continue restricting imports of wheat into France, acted somewhat as a check on buyers. Opening prices which varied from unchanged figures to 5% higher, were followed by a slight sag and then a new upturn.

Corn and oats were firmer with wheat and as a result of smallness of receipts After opening quarter to half higher the corn market eased a little, but remained above yesterday's finish.

Oats started unchanged to 5% higher, and later held near to the initial range. Futures opened: Wheat—Sept. $1.00%; Dec., $1.04%. Corn—Sept., 79%; Dec., 63%. Oats—Sept. 37%; Dec., 39%.

DELAYS DECISION IN MACBRIDE CASE

Magistrate Buskard of Brantford Reserves Judgment in Assault Charge.

EVIDENCE CONFLICTS

Special to The Advertiser.

Brantford, Aug. 17.—Judgment was reserved by Acting-Police Magistrate W. G. Buskard in the charge of common assault laid against John Blakney, junior, by M. M. MacBride, M.L.A., when the case came up for a hearing in today's court. Evidence was given by complainant, accused, and also several witnesses, and the hearing required about an hour and a half.

Evidence was conflicting as to the assault taking place, Mr. MacBride testifying that he was struck by the accused, while Mr. Blakney contended that he made no assault on the complainant, but his actions in assisting the member for South Brant to his feet after, he said, the latter, had fallen were misconstrued for an assault

The alleged assault on Mr. Mac-Bride took place about one week previous to the recent June election, when he was proceeding to address an openair gathering on the Market Square. He claims that Blakney left his car when about to attack him. He had run across the street followed by the accused and was struck behind the head and knocked down. He testified that his assailant was about to jump on him when he grabbed him about the legs and held him until Alderman J. McCann, who lives here, ran out. He asked McCann to phone for the police.

Denies Assault.

Mr. Blakney, in the witness box, denied assault, also profane language charged by the complainant. On account of Mr. MacBride having called him a thief and a bootlegger from an election platform, he admitted he was provoked, and on the evening in question he purposed asking the candidate to forbear using his name in his public utterances, but that the plaintiff had left him and slipped in running across the street, and that his intention was that of raising him to his feet, when Mr. MacBride pinned him.

Mr. MacBride asserted he consid-

Mr. MacBride asserted he considered the alleged attack was made to get him embroiled in a street brawl for political purposes, and he refused to be drawn into such to be drawn into such.

Mr. Ross McDonald, solicitor for the accused, declared that it was wrong for a man of Mr. MacBride's standing to make such slanderous slams about any man from a public platform. His client admitted, he said, serving time for offences, but his penalty having been served it should not be held against him in this fashion.

Mr. Duff Slemin, for the complainant, admitted that his client's remarks might have caused provocation, but he claimed the evidence showed that an assault had taken place with premeditation in the action: also that Mr. MacBride had done right in calling for the police.

WANT AD TIPS

"Never-Done-Before" Want Ads

"I had never seen such a Want Ad before," related the advertiser, "but it seemed to me it was a good thing to say, and I said it." Results bore him out. This man had a house lot which he was reducing to street level. Most of the unneeded "land"-it was an excellent grade of gravel-he had sold to the city for street purposes. A little was left, for which, at the time, there seemed no demand.

What the advertiser put in his Want Ad was this: "Poultrykeepers, make that wet poultry yard well-drained and dry, and get more eggs. Gravel it. Excellent gravel for the hauling at 66 Summer St.'

Poultrykeepers came and hauled away the gravel, and the advertiser's lot was level with the street, ready for building operations.

The assertion that there is nothing new under the sun does not hold for Want Ads. Every day, almost, some advertiser pushes ahead without precedent, and cashes in. Who was the first Want advertiser to be besieged with applicants because she put in her Want Ad on a "room to let" the two words, "radio equipped"? Historically speaking, the fact is not settled. This point is certain, though-whoever the advertiser, she sensed what an appealing consideration radio equipment would be. So she used a "never done before" Want Ad, and got splendid Stored away in the attic where they had been for years, a family had a kitchen stove of a long obsolete model, and various odd pieces of old furniture. A spirit of enterprise seized the housewife. While this old stuff would not interest town people, it would be splendid for a river-bank or mountain camp. So she said in a Want Ad, just at the season people were fitting out camps: "Sound and substantial, excellent for summer camps." And quickly sold the things. What a relief to have them out of the way!-and how good the cash obtained seemed!

Although she had never known it to be done before, this housewife went ahead and got Want Ad results. Her example is a good one. Use "never done before" Want Ads without hesitation. There's great profit in them,

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR AUGUST 19. STEPHEN THE MARTYR.

Stephen, the Martyr.
Scripture Lesson: Acts 6:8-15; 7: 6:8.—These two go hand in hand. Men of power are men of faith, as much in the twentieth century as in the first. The only foundation upon which were can build a reble character.

Would you be willing to die rather than renounce your religion? Is the Christian religion more precious to you than life itself. It was to Stephen. These questions suggest another: Would you be afraid to die? So many people are, yet Stephen was not. Why? Because he had "the telescope eye" which enabled him to see right into heaven itself, Acts 7:55-56. All who have the eyes of the soul open become men of far vision. And to all who are really children of God, death is no longer a fearsome thing. death is no longer a fearsome thing, rather it is but the opening of the bruised with stones; But looking upward, full of grace,

A man attempted to enter the dance When she prayed to God for a son, she promised that if God would give floor without having a ticket of admission. He claimed he had paid his her one, she would give him back to fare, but upon being told he had not God for His service. God answered her prayer and she kept her promise an argument started.
