TARTARS INVEST BAKU

Revolt in the Caucasus Fanned by Turkish Emissaries.

Situation is Desperate—Governor of Baku: Telegrams That His Troops Are Surrounded by Tartars and That They Will Be Overwhelmed Unless Immediately Relieved—Victims of Fighting Number 1,000, a Thousand.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 8.—Through the despatch from Tiflis and current reports in St. Petersburg say that the oil works and tanks at Baku have been entirely consumed, and the town practically wiped out, according to a despatch to the Nobel Co. from Baku, this is an error, and the loss, though enormous, is not complete. This despatch stated that the firing in the town had ceased, and that the incendiary had been checked. The fate of the tanks and works, which are not yet on fire, depends on the wind, which is blowing a hurricane.

The St. Petersburg press attacks the Government for its inaction in handling events in the Caucasus, and its neglect to take measures to reconcile the Armenians and Tartars, and declares ruin of one of the most important industries in Russia, and immense losses to industry and commerce are the fruits of the Government's disregard for years of the most legitimate and practical suggestions of the oil men, especially the Government's refusal for authority to establish a local organization for self protection against the excesses of the natives.

Taken by Surprise.

The authorities of the Caucasus would seem to have been taken completely by surprise by the magnitude of the Tartar rising. There is not the least doubt that it had long been planned and carefully organized, and connected with the separatist movements. The officials of Tiflis say that they have unmistakable proof that the revolt has been fanned by Turkish emissaries and agitators bearing a green standard who are raising the whole country. The Tartars, the officials add, intend laying a regular siege to Baku, Shusha and other places.

They have laid many villages in ruins, and have pitilessly massacred the inhabitants. Unless sufficient troops are available to suppress the outbreak in the Caucasus, which the news from Baku would show not to be the case, the whole of that part of the country will be devastated, and the populations of the towns and villages butchered.

Situation is Grave.

The situation is viewed in St. Petersburg with the most alarm. The managers of the oil works at Baku, despairing of the arrival of reinforcements of troops, have telegraphed direct to the Emperor. The latest despatches from Baku give gruesome details of the carnage. Pillaging and murdering have been going on everywhere. In the Caucasus bands of peasants have organized against the nobles, and are invading their domains and seizing all the fire arms.

The desperate condition of affairs at Baku is shown by a telegram from the Governor of Baku, who has sent an urgent despatch to Tiflis, saying that his troops are surrounded by Tartars, and will inevitably be overwhelmed unless immediately relieved.

Baku is Terrorized.

Baku, Sept. 8.—The situation here to-night could hardly be worse. The terror-stricken inhabitants are fleeing from the city. Martial law has been proclaimed here. Nobody is allowed on the streets after 8 p. m., and inhabitants of houses are held strictly responsible for anyone going out at night. Artillery was employed at last one house from which shot were fired. The walls were breached, the house was stormed and all the people inside were killed. There is a general panic here. Reinforcements of troops are arriving daily.

Victims by Thousands.

Baku, Caucasus, Sept. 8.—The principal fighting is not in Baku itself, but at Balakhan, where hundreds have been shot by the infantry and artillery, and where 1,000 were killed or wounded during a desperate attack on the military camp and provision depots. The troops sustained few casualties.

A large number of workmen barricaded themselves in the Balakhan Hospital, and the soldiers began the attack with rifle fire, and then stormed the hospital, and completed their work with the bayonet.

Artillery Despatched.

Tiflis, Caucasus, Sept. 8.—All the naphtha works at Baku have been destroyed, and all the factories and other works there are closed. The military authorities are hastening measures to cope with the desperate situation at Baku. Artillery has been despatched from here by special train. The present supplies will be exhausted in a few days.

All the spirit distilleries and silk weaving works in the district of Shushan have been burned by Tartars. Part of the workmen succeeded in escaping to the mountains. The remainder were killed. Orders have been given to send wheat to Shusha to relieve the starving.

The Town of Tiflis is full of refugees from Baku, who have abandoned all their belongings. A deputation from the great petroleum works has asked military protection for 25 million pounds of combustible liquids contained in the reservoirs at Baku.

Miss Grace Holmes, of Detroit, who has been spending a short vacation as the guest of her cousin, Miss Edith Holmes, Victoria avenue, returned home to-day.

Martial Law Proclaimed by Imperial Ordinance in Tokio—Mob Destroys Ten Christian Churches—Partial Wrecking of a Printing Office—Soldiers Are Guarding the Foreign Legations.

Tokio, Sept. 8.—Tokio was quiet yesterday, Gen. Sakuma, commander of the Tokio garrison has issued a proclamation warning the populace against disorders.

Martial Law in Tokio. Tokio, Sept. 8.—(Delayed in transmission.)—An Imperial ordinance establishes martial law in Tokio. Disorder was resumed to-night.

Churches Destroyed. Tokio, Sept. 8.—A mob destroyed ten Christian churches and one mission school Wednesday night. The people were not injured.

The only serious disturbances yesterday morning was the partial wrecking of a printing office, which was assisting The Kokumin Shinbun to publish its edition of yesterday. A crowd of people attempted to enter Hibaya Park, but the soldiers prevented them. Soldiers are guarding the foreign legations. Apparently the outbreak is not due to anti-foreign sentiment, but the Government is anxious to prevent injury to any of the legations or members of the legations. Foreigners, however, who are caught by the mobs, are roughly used.

threatened and the Marquis Ito, president of the Privy Council, has been stoned by mobs. Neither of them was injured.

What Komura Thinks of It. New York, Sept. 8.—Baron Komura said yesterday that his coming interview with the United States Secretary of State Root would be purely a formal exchange of courtesies.

"The present disturbances in Tokio," he said, "cannot in the slightest degree influence the Emperor's determination to ratify the treaty when he receives an official copy of it."

Baron Komura reiterated his opinion that the disturbances in Tokio were directed against the local branches of the Government.

Czar's Thanksgiving. St. Petersburg, Sept. 8.—A Thanksgiving service commemorative of the conclusion of peace was celebrated at Peterhof yesterday in the presence of Emperor Nicholas and the State dignitaries.

CUSTOMS RETURNS

FEAR FOR STR. GOLSPIE

May Be a Victim of Lake Superior's Big Storm on Sunday.

Wreckage Found on Point Abbey, Mich., That Carries With It Grim Preboding of Disaster—Old-Osceola Name Boards May Be Canadian Vessel's—Str. Huronic Passengers Wore Life Preservers.

Detroit, Sept. 8.—Fears are entertained for the safety of the Canadian steamer Golspie and her crew of 10 men. The Golspie left Fort William a week ago and has not yet been reported as passing the Soo.

From L'Anse, Mich., yesterday it was reported that among the wreckage found on Point Abbey were the name-boards of the Osceola. From this it would appear that the steamer Osceola was among the vessels lost in the big storm on Lake Superior Saturday and Sunday. The Golspie was formerly the Osceola, and ran for many years on the Lake Superior line, but was sold to be located at Hamilton.

The name boards found would indicate that the Golspie may still have carried her old name boards as the Osceola. She was of about 980 tons register, 133 feet long and 24 feet beam. She was engaged in supplying light-houses with supplies.

Passengers Wear Life Preservers.

The Northern Navigation Co.'s crack passenger steamer, The Huronic, which arrived at Detroit yesterday, rode through the gale in safety, although the passengers had an exciting time of it. From 10 o'clock Saturday night, 75 miles out from the Soo, until Sunday evening, the steamer was carried eight miles out of her course, the cabin badly wrecked and cargo shifted until she was badly listed. The waves ran very high. Saturday night while the passengers were gathered in the cabin the heavy piano broke away from its fastenings, causing considerable destruction in the cabin.

Many of the passengers wore life preservers until the storm subsided. Food was eaten in a primitive manner, as the dining room was a chaos of broken china, and the cook's gallery was temporarily out of commission. The crew of the steamer acted splendidly during the storm, and did all possible to relieve the distress of the passengers.

Victim of the Gale.

Kingston, Sept. 8.—Word was received by relatives of George Chown, of Kingston, formerly of Amherst Island, stating that he was drowned off a steamer last week on one of the upper lakes. The deceased was 24 years of age. He was married last February. He was a sailor on a steam barge which went down with all hands.

Schooner Wawanosh Damaged.

Port Huron, Mich., Sept. 8.—The Canadian schooner Wawanosh has arrived here with her fore and main topmasts gone, having been caught in the gale on Thunder Bay, Saturday night. She will be changed into a tow barge.

Suffocated Under Sand.

Burlington, Sept. 8.—James Hawkey, a deck hand, employed on the sand hooker Britain, was drowned at W. Kerns & Co.'s pier yesterday afternoon. While unloading sand the pier gave away under the weight, and he went with it. When he was taken out life was extinct, death being due to suffocation. The man is supposed to belong to Toronto. He appears to be about 40 years of age.

Leg Shattered by Shot.

Quebec, Sept. 8.—Alexander McLeod of Rosemont, Ont., arrived from Seven Islands yesterday on the steamer King Edward with his left leg badly shattered by the accidental discharge of a gun. He was forwarded to his home.

Two Children Cremated.

Montreal, Sept. 8.—Fire broke out early yesterday morning in a block of cheaply constructed tenement houses at Cote St. Paul, a suburb, resulting in the cremation of two children whose names are as yet unknown. The occupants of the houses were thrown into a panic by the rapid spread of the flames and in the hurried exits the children whose lives were lost were left behind. They were seven and four years of age.

Hoban Dies of Stab Wound.

Toronto, Sept. 8.—With his sorrowing relatives, his wife, his mother, his sister and brother at his bedside, John Hoban, the man who was stabbed by an unknown Italian outside Gilson's Hotel, in the Ward on Monday night, died last evening in the Emergency Hospital. The knife wound which severed 20 of his intestines was so serious that absolutely nothing could be done with him. Hoban was conscious at the end. An inquest is to be held this morning. Hoban was born in Guelph, but has lived here for some years. He leaves a wife and one child.

The Incident is Closed.

Paris, Sept. 8.—A despatch to the Foreign Office from M. St. Rene Taillandier, Minister to Morocco, announces that the Moroccan Government has given complete satisfaction in the matter of the arrest of the Algerian-French citizen, Boumazin. The Foreign Office here says the repatriation is complete on all points.

Result is Uncertain.

Karlstad, Sweden, Sept. 8.—The conference of the delegates of Norway and Sweden, appointed to discuss the dissolution of the union of Norway and Sweden, adjourned yesterday until September 13 to enable the delegates to confer with their Governments. The result of their deliberations is very uncertain.

Tickets to Toronto Exhibition Sept. 14th, good to return Sept. 15th $3.50, from W. E. Rispin, 115-King St.

NEW DYNAMO

Property Committee Will Recommend the Purchase of One to be Installed as Speedily as Possible

The Property Committee of the City Council, Chairman Westman and Ald. Potter and Edmondson, paid a visit of inspection to the electric light power house yesterday afternoon and, as a result, they will recommend at the next Council meeting the purchase of a new 60-light dynamo and 12 new lamps. Ald. Westman will write at once for prices.

Ald. Edmondson, in speaking of the visit, said:

"If these are purchased Supt. Jones assures us he will be able to furnish the city with good light. That old Thompson dynamo, the one that is continually out of order, is a constant bill of expense. I have advocated discarding those old lights for four years, and if this had been done when first suggested the city would be in enough money to buy three new dynamos."

"If this report is adopted by the Council we will have the new dynamo installed as quickly as possible and try to have it running before the wet weather and the long evenings come. I believe that every alderman will support it, as I am sure the citizens will be favorable to it. They want good light and they are willing to pay for it, but they want what they pay for."

Besides running the present lights there are at least three new ones that are sadly needed. One of these is on the corner of Wade and William streets, one on the corner of Park and Prince, and the other near the Latter Day Saints' Hall.

"Mr. Trotter assures us the engine, with the new dynamo, will do the work for a long time, the old dynamo requiring a good deal more power to run."

SLIGHT MISTAKE

What might have been a serious accident occurred on Park St., near Adeloid, last night. Two autos were coming along the street, one trying to pass the other and going at a fair rate of speed. A buggy was coming in the opposite direction, which collided with the auto which was attempting to gain the lead. The crash of the impact was heard several blocks away, but the buggy escaped with a broken wheel and the auto with the loss of some enamel.

THE ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE

Although no official version of the new treaty between Great Britain and Japan, which, it is said, was signed on August 12, has been given to the public, it is understood that it binds the signatories to assist each other in the event of either being attacked by even a single power. But its operation, it is understood, is limited to Asia and the adjacent islands.

The treaty is held to be a very important one for both Great Britain and Japan. To the former alliance, formed in 1901, Japan owes it that she has had a free hand in the present war. It was this alliance that prevented such a combination as in 1895 deprived her of the fruits of her victory in the war which was brought to a close. "Tremendous, therefore," says the New York Sun in an editorial referring to the new treaty, "is that debt already incurred by Japan to England, which, during the last eighteen months, has said to France and Germany, 'Hands off!' There is no keen-sighted and candid Japanese who does not cordially recognize that the attitude maintained by England during the present contest has given his country an opportunity of working out her own salvation. Yet the service rendered to Japan by the treaty of 1901, great as it has proven, is scarcely comparable with that derived from the new compact. Had the latter been in force two years ago the recent war would never have occurred. Russia would promptly have carried out in 1903 her written promise to evacuate Manchuria, and would scrupulously have refrained from that encroachment on the timber tract stretching along the Korean bank of the Yalu river, which provoked Japan to begin hostilities."

But, of course, Great Britain did not enter into the new alliance solely for the accommodation of Japan. Naturally she expects that her own interests will not suffer. "In Calcutta," says The Sun, "well informed Anglo-Indians will experience a deep sense of relief when they learn of the new treaty concluded between England and Japan."

Whatever confidence they may feel in Lord Kitchener's organizing ability, they are keenly alive to the stupendous difficulties involved in the problem of ruling India with a body of Englishmen, which, including both soldiers and civilians, does not equal one-tenth of one per cent. of the native population. Never before in the history of her rule to the huge Indian peninsula, has England been able to count on a foreign ally. To her foreigners have proved at least as inimical as natives. It required a struggle to acquire even a foothold in the teeth of the Dutch, and three-fourths of the nineteenth century were spent in a desperate contest with Frenchmen for the control of the Decan. Henceforth anxiety will be dispelled by the knowledge that not only will Lord Kitchener have a free hand for adding to the strength, cohesion and efficiency of the British and native forces in the peninsula, but that, should these at any moment seem inadequate, they will be supplemented by scores of thousands of soldiers from Japan. Thus permanently reassured, the Anglo-Indian for the first time in many a decade will sleep well."

The effect upon Russia of the disastrous war and the new alliance must be to awake her from her dream of Eastern expansion. All her efforts to secure an ice-free port in the Pacific have come to naught, and so long as the conditions remain as they are it is unlikely that Russia will waste any more time or money in that direction. That she will endeavor to move in some direction is to be expected; but for the present it will not be towards the east. The Sun thinks that henceforth her objective will be what it has been for many years, that is, Constantinople, and it is pointed out as significant that on the very morning after the conclusion of peace at Portsmouth was made known, a St. Petersburg newspaper published the report that General Linévitch's army would be transferred to Russia's southwestern frontier, whence, after the severity of his experience in Manchuria, that commander should find it child's play to move on Constantinople.

TELEPHONE TALKS.

TO TELEPHONE USERS AND THE GENERAL PUBLIC.

The net result of five years' effort at municipalizing the exchange telephone service of Great Britain is that five exchanges are still in operation. The Municipalities have about 20,000 subscribers, or four per cent. of the total exchange subscribers in the Kingdom. As about half of these have the National Company's service as well, the two and a half millions of dollars that have been spent on municipal telephone plants have given telephone service to only 10,000 new subscribers—an enormous waste of capital in support of a theory.

That there are not more municipal telephone plants in Great Britain is not for lack of agitation, or lack of interest on the part of municipal representatives. Forty-one municipalities have considered the matter, made a thorough investigation of the questions involved, and have decided that a municipal telephone service was an unwise venture.

It must be borne in mind in considering these results that in Great Britain all local telephone exchanges have the same service and facilities over the long distance lines, which are owned and operated by the Government. This refutes the theory that ownership of the long distance lines by the Government would enable successful competition against an established company.

Following the disclosure made in evidence before the Special Committee, of the disastrous results financially, of Government operation of telegraphs, the question naturally arises why the Government should have also taken over the long distance telephone lines. The reason is plain. The long distance telephone lines owned and operated by an aggressive company were encroaching on the business of the already unprofitable Government telegraphs. The Government therefore decided to take control of the telephone service to avert competition.

Government ownership of long distance lines with the local exchanges in the hands of a company having aggravated the condition of Government monopoly, the final step has been decided upon, and the whole exchange business, whether in the hands of a Company or of the municipalities, will be taken over by the Government within a few years. The opinion of experts is that the last state will be found worse than the first or the second stage, bad as they have been.

This is confirmed by the experience of other countries which have a complete Government control of the telephone service, as we shall be able to demonstrate later from the sworn evidence of those who are familiar with the existing conditions in European countries.

HEROIC GIRLS

The heroism of the fair girls who wore fur muffs as garters in the heat of a scorching New York July almost deserves a happier reward than rough handling at the hands of New York customs officers. It appears that Papa Haussmann, a furrier, Mamma Haussmann, and the Haussmann girls returned from Europe recently, and were remarked by the customs officers to be a singularly plump family. Papa Haussmann was accordingly searched, when numerous valuable fur boas were found encircling his person. Then it was, mamma's turn with success as to results, and finally the Haussmann girls went through the distressing ordeal. They were wearing fur boas for belts and muffs for garters, so the accounts say. The customs officers confiscated seven hundred dollars in furs, and let the girls off with a warning.—Life.

ALWAYS BE TIDY.

There Is No Necessity For Going Around Like A Sloven.

There is no need to look untidy even if you are working about the house. You cannot be so cheerful nor so self respecting when you are carelessly dressed as when you are neat and presentable, and even the home worker who has no help with a little good management can be both.

If gloves are worn to do the dirty work in they can be drawn off at any moment and expose a pair of hands free from dirt. A clean cloth wound around the head when sweeping will prevent the hair from becoming dirty and dusty, and it can be easily removed in case of an unexpected visitor.

A good plan for the home workers is to have a large overall to work in, which, when taken off, will display a neat dress, quite free from dust and dirt.

The home worker has a better opportunity of keeping her good looks than the business girl. She has nothing of the strain of traveling, in sometimes dirty cars and through smoky tunnels and often muddy or dusty streets. She can always depend on a properly prepared and cooked meal, while the business girl must put up with what she can get, but there is no reason why she should not pay attention to her dress, the keynote of which should be neatness, and she should be as tidy in appearance as it is possible for her to be.—Detroit News-Tribune.

ARE YOU TOO PLUMP?

Black Is the Thinnest Color a Stout Woman Can Wear.

White makes a woman look innocent, winsome and classic. Clear white is for the blond, cream white for the brunette. Is it not the woman in white who has all the attention and the wide eyed young thing in white with a blue ribbon who captures all the beauty?

"Black suits the fair," a poet tells us. It is the thinnest color a stout woman can wear. Indeed, the woman who wears black to best advantage is she who is stout and has black eyes and black hair. It is well known that in gowns of certain colors flesh seems to shrink, in others to expand.

A subdued shade of blue, heliotrope and olive green with black, of course, are the colors under which flesh seems less ostentatious, while Wedgwood blue, pale gray and almost any shade of red are to be avoided. Mauve and the highest shades of green are the two colors that in decoration about the throat and shoulders are especially helpful in diminishing the effect of flesh.

CHEMISTRY MADE EASY.

An Interesting Experiment Which Any Girl or Boy Can Make.

Fire is simply a chemical change.
When you strike a match it lights.
Matches are little pieces of wood with phosphorus and sulphur on the ends of them. Oxygen unites with phosphorus very easily, indeed, and with sulphur almost as easily. Rubbing the match makes it hot enough for the oxygen in the air to take hold of the phosphorus, and that makes heat enough for the oxygen to get hold of the sulphur, and that burning makes heat enough to set the wood on fire,
and so you have a lighted match.
Every time you strike a match you perform a chemical operation. If you

WATER MADE BY FIRE.

strike your match in carbonic acid H won't burn, nor in nitrogen, nor in anything but oxygen.

If you put a match into pure oxygen
it will burn without striking; so, you see, fire is just a chemical change. It is the oxygen of the air uniting with the wood or paper or whatever you burn. When anything burns, the carbon in it unites with the oxygen and makes carbonic acid, and the hydrogen in it unites with the oxygen and makes water. Take a short piece of candle and light it and then turn over it a large jar, putting some bits of wood under the edge of the jar so as to allow the air to get under, and presently the water made by the fire will collect in drops on the inside of the jar and run down the sides. That is a very pretty experiment.

It is hard to realize that water,
which will put out a fire, is made by fire, but it is so. Water is a very wonderful thing when you come to examine it. It is composed of two gases—oxygen and hydrogen. There are two barrels of hydrogen to one of oxygen, but the oxygen weighs eight times as much as the hydrogen. If you take nine pounds of water, eight pounds of it are oxygen and one pound hydrogen. These two gases have a very strong affinity for each other. If they are mixed—two parts of hydrogen and one of oxygen—it makes a very dangerous compound, for if a light gets to it the gases will unite with a terrific explosion. It is very hard to separate them, but it can be done with electricity.

A Breathing Exercise.

To take breathing exercise, stand erect and relaxed with the hands falling at the sides and a cane held crosswise in front. Then inhale slowly, drawing a deep breath, at the same time raising the cane gradually until the arms are stretched above the shoulders, when the inhalation shall be completed. Then, with a sudden letting go of the breath, drop the cane quickly to the back of the neck and pause a moment.

This exercise is of great value to girls and boys with narrow chests or delicate lungs.

"Traitor."

A small flag is placed in the center of a flowerpot filled with earth or sand.
Each child in turn then has to remove a little sand from the pot on a stick without upsetting the flag or at all impairing its upright position. At each attempt they all cry "Take care!" The interest toward the close of the contest grows most exciting, and the one who upsets the flag pays the forfeit of a "traitor" who degrades and insults
the flag of his country.

A Serious Matter.

Mother—What's the matter, my dear? Why are you crying? Harry (between sobs)—I left my taffy on that chair and the lady's sitting on it.

What Dolls Think.

It is true we're stuffed with sawdust
and can never learn to walk;
It is true we have no organs
and can never learn to talk;
It is true we're only dolls
and dolls must remain dolls.
But we're free from faults and follies
That might cause our mothers pain.

Can you tell us when you ever Saw our faces spoiled with frowns?
And we're sure you never heard us
Make a fuss about our gowns.
Then we do not tease the kitty.
We are always kind in play.
And we think 'twould be a pity
For a doll to disobey.

When the parlor clock strikes seven
Not a fretful word is said
As our little mothers tell us
It is time to go to bed.

So you see, though we are dolls
And dolls must remain dolls,
We are free from faults and follies
That might cause our mothers pain.

A French Face Cream.

An old French recipe for an almond face cream which spoils too soon to be sold in the shops is as follows:
Blanch four ounces of sweet almonds and rub until reduced to powder. Mix with the yolks of three eggs and thin by adding half a pint of cream or rich milk. Boil just as you would a custard and stir constantly until it thickens, when it must be removed from the fire and flavored with some favorite perfume. Seal while hot and keep in a cool place. This will be found an excellent skin food and is pleasant to the face.

Old Walnut Furniture.

If you have any old walnut furniture keep it by all means. It is becoming rarer and more valuable all the time.
Most of the pieces are ugly, because when walnut was in fashion taste was at a low ebb. An old bureau, table or chest of drawers may be made a thing of beauty with a little expenditure. In the first place, the wood must be scraped of its disfiguring varnish and brass or glass knobs put on. Some pieces may have to be entirely remade, but this is frequently done with mahogany
and other valuable woods.

The Ruffled Kitchen Apron.

The man who discarded the two buttons on the back of his coat as soon as he discovered that he could not tell why they were placed there might have scorned the ruffle with which a certain wise cook invariably trimmed the bottom of her kitchen apron. However, when asked why she took so much trouble the cook answered that the ruffle was meant to catch any chance drop of grease or similar dropping and to prevent the same from attaching to her always immaculate skirts.

Caramel Pudding.

Make a custard with a pint of milk
and two eggs and one tablespoonful of sugar. Soak half an ounce of gelatin in a little drop of milk and stir in the hot custard until dissolved. Make a caramel by browning over the fire
two ounces of sugar, one tablespoonful of lemon juice and two tablespoonfuls of water. Be careful that it does not burn. When ready stir into the custard. When cold and beginning to set beat in half a cup of whipped cream.

Large Hands and Sleeves.

The woman with an unduly large hand should be careful to wear sleeves
that are long and wide at the wrist, no matter what the vogue may be. The apparent size of the hand decreases as the width of the cuff increases. That is why in the old portraits of bishops
they always seem to have small hands.
They were filled cuffs of large size.

Grilling.

Grilling is similar to broiling, save that the gridiron is placed over the fire instead of in front of it. The fire must be bright and smoldering, or the food will be either burned or smoked. The gridiron should be clean, hot and well greased before the meat is placed on it.

THE ATTRACTIVE GIRL.

Much has been written about "the American girl" and her reasons for being preeminent in the world. It is the most attractive girl in the world. In bringing up girls mothers care to be careful to let their daughters develop all their natural charms to the utmost.

The crucial epoch of a woman's life is the change from maidenhood to womanhood. It involves the whole body and manifests itself in the nervous disposition at this time.

Nervous or sick women are afforded the opportunity of a lifetime, for the makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now offer $500 reward for women who cannot be cured. Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform success, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women has ever attained, the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money
of the United States for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"I cannot praise your medicine highly enough," writes Mrs. Jennie Hippenhamer, of Hunkertown, Indiana. "I began taking Dr.
Pierce's Favorite Prescription and took it regularly for six months. I was not once sick at stomach, never vomited once. Took the Favorite Prescription three times a day and when I saw my baby girl came last August she was healthy. She is now eleven months old. Am thirty-eight years old and never got through so easily in all my life. Why should women suffer when they can get through so easily? I am able to do quite a washing and ironing which I could not do for eight years before."

As a tonic for women who are nervous, sleepless, worn-out and run-down, "Persian Prescription" is unequalled.

For constipation, the true, scientific is Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Mild, harmless, yet sure. No other pill can compare with them.

TARTARS HAVE CONTROL

Troops Forced to Retire From the Suburb of Balakhan.

Inhabitants Who Did Not Accompany
the Troops in Their Withdrawal Were Massacred—Fighting is Desperate and Soldiers Are Using Artillery—Baku on Fire, and Armenians Supported by Villagers.

St. Peter Sept. 7.—The news from Baku is a gloomiest character. The Armenians and Tartar war-rings are to be entirely beyond control. The streets of Baku seem to be the theatre of the inhabitants who did not accompany the troops in their retirement.

The Viceroy of the Caucasus has despatched reinforcements from Tiflis, but owing to the conditions
throughout the western Caucasus, it is thought that even with these reinforcements the troops will be inadequate. In the suburban region the fighting is desperate and the soldiers are using artillery.

Representatives of the oil industry here declare that more than half of the industry in the Baku region has been wiped out and that the fire is making inroads into the remainder of the oil territory.

Cannonading is heard from time to time. In the Moslem quarter the patroles have been fired upon. Balakhan is on fire and the Armenians are surrounded by armed villagers, apparently Tartars, and the cannonading there is unceasing. The fire continues in "the black town" quarter and in Bibia.
Energetic measures are immediately necessary.

"EMPIRE" SINKS A STEAMER.

11 Men Have a Close Call—All Over in Five Minutes.

Montreal, Sept. 7.—The Government steamer Hosanna was run down and sunk Tuesday night off Longue Pointe at 7.45 by the passenger steamer Empire from Toronto, owned by Capt.
Gillespie of Cornwall.

The Hosanna was almost shorn in two, and the crew of 11 men only escaped by a miracle, as she sunk within five minutes in 22 feet of water.

So close were the boats for a moment that the engineer of the Hosanna jumped aboard the Empire. The rest escaped in their own boats.

Sarnia, Sept. 7.—Blame for narrowly averted disaster to the Port Huron-Sarnia Ferry Omar D. Conger and 500 passengers on Thursday, August 24,
has been laid on the shoulders of Capt.
William S. Major and Engineer William Waugh. United States Vessel

John Burns in Prison.

Kingston, Sept. 7.—John Burns, M.P.
for Battersea, England, who is making a study of penology and criminology,
at 6 o'clock yesterday morning visited the penitentiary to see the prisoners preparing to go to work. He stated that there was more democracy and freedom in the prisons here than in the old land.

Re. Printers' 8-Hour Day.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 7.—The United Typothetae of America is now down to business. The first session of the general body was held yesterday morning, when Mayor O. W. Cutler extended an address of welcome. The response was made by former President Frank of Drayton, Ohio. President C. H. Ellis of Boston made his annual report. Referring to the demand of the journeymen printers for an 8-hour day, he said that no word
of his was necessary to show that no backward step could be taken by this convention, and that if the united typographic stands firmly together the struggle against the printers' demands
will be successful.

Detectives Raid Lottery.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Provincial Detective Greer of Toronto, in company with Chief Detective Mains
of the Ontario police, and Detectives Macnamara, McKelly and Greenwood of Niagara Falls, Ont., raided a lottery game at Fort Erie yesterday morning and placed under arrest six men, and two boys. The men under arrest are William Hunt, the alleged operator, Henry Helme, James Morris and William White of Buffalo; C. E.
Harris, John Wright, Charles Wright
and Stanley Lighthouse of Fort Erie.

150 Lose Their Jobs.

Montreal, Sept. 7.—The Dominion
Transport and Sheddon Co. dock laborers, who have been on strike for the past few days, returned to work yesterday morning. There were about 400 in all, and of these about 150 will be unable to get back.

Barcelona in Panic.

Barcelona, Sept. 7.—A panic prevails
here over the anarchy agitation.
Tourists are abandoning the hotels and leaving the city. The police have seized a Socialist paper for applauding
the recent bomb explosion here.

NOT LOST

Report that Steamer Golspie was Lost is Fortunately not Confirmed

It has been learned that the reports chronicling the loss of the steamer Golspie, carrying lighthouse supplies, is not confirmed. The steamer has not yet been reported, but it is hoped she is safe.

The Golspie called at the Eau quite recently and carries as passengers Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Goodeve, the latter a sister of Mrs. Jas. Fleming and St. Stephenson, of this city, with their two children. Miss Dolly, their little daughter, who is taking a prominent part in the Parada production, left the steamer at the Eau to visit with Mrs. Fleming.

At 3.15 this afternoon Mr. Stephenson received the following telegram from Toronto:—
Toronto, Ont., Sept. 8th, 1905.—S. Stephenson, Chatham, Ont.—Owners of boat in Hamilton contradict report Golspie lost.

LAST NIGHT

Saturday Evening's Performance of Parada to Comprise New Burlesque Features

The house which greeted Parada last night was slightly larger than that of the preceding evening. Each individual performer did his or her best to make the production once again a success, and that they succeeded is attested by the spontaneous plaudits and enthusiastic praise of those presiding martial choruses from the clockwork and this, coupled with the nightly increased efficiency of the choruses, contributed towards the most successful performance yet—as viewed from an artistic standpoint.

There will be no performance to-night, but there will be a matinee to-morrow and a performance to-morrow evening at popular prices.

Several entirely new features will be rung in to-morrow night. When replying to encores the choruses in which the men take part will burlesque several of the leading songs and dances. Those who have seen the black faced Mandies know how ex-cruciatingly funny they can be and will, doubtless, turn out again to see them.

The county constables, with James Trotter as soloist, appeared last night and made a decided hit. They sang the dashing martial choruses from the "Czardas of Penzance." On Saturday evening these also will introduce special burlesque features.

FAUST TO-NIGHT

Excellent Production Assured for the Chatham Grand This Evening—A Good Company

Porter J. White's production of Faust to be presented at the Grand to-night is universally acclaimed as one of the finest masterpieces that ever toured Canada, and from all accounts a genuine treat is in store for Maple City patrons this evening.

The entire production is liberally staged by Mr. White with special scenery properties, electrical apparatus, etc., for each act. Faust is at once always old and always new. Man's soul still chafes within the iron restraints in which it is bound; still seeks, as then by supernatural influence, so now by means of theosophy, spiritualism, and what not, to escape from the narrow field of human knowledge and endeavor, to attain at a bound the innermost kernel of things. This type has always existed, whether under the name of Faust, Prometheus, Titan, or whatever it may have been called, and so in this sense Faust may still be considered true for us, and always will remain true.

PRESENTATION

The home of Mr. John Langford, Kent Bridge, was the scene of a pleasant surprise party on Tuesday evening of last week, when the choir and congregation of Knox church gathered to express regret on the occasion of Miss Rena Langford's resignation as organist of the church, a position which she has so efficiently and faithfully filled for the past three years. The following address was read by Miss Lila Gregory:

Dear Friend—It is with mingled feelings of regret and pleasure that we, the members of the congregation and choir of Knox church, have assembled here in your home this evening.

As we view in retrospect the years during which you have so willingly given your great talent for the advancement of church and choir, our words fail to express our deep regret at the thought of your departure. With great pleasure we recall the years which, are marked by your able and faithful service as organist and choir leader, and we have felt that we could not but embrace this opportunity to offer some tangible recognition of your untiring efforts in the past, as well as to convey our best wishes for the future.

It is noteworthy that your example, as well as precept, has established a high standard that has been conducive to establishing proficiency as well as a feeling of confidence and good fellowship. Your earnest endeavors to advance the interests of the church and the cause of God's Kingdom will not soon be forgotten. Therefore, on behalf of the congregation and choir, we ask you to accept this desk as a slight token of our affectionate esteem and highest appreciation and gratitude.

Let us conclude by hoping that you may experience the deepest joys of life, and that your future may be even brighter than the past.

Signed on behalf of congregation and choir.

FLORENCE WILLIAMS,
EMMA SMITH.

Kent Bridge, Aug. 29, 1905.

At the conclusion of the address Miss Rena was made the recipient of a handsome escutcheon in quartered oak, which was suitably and feelingly acknowledged.

The formal presentation being concluded, the evening was given over to fun and enjoyment, and an impromptu program of songs was sung by several members of the choir. Supper was served about midnight, shortly after which the party dispersed to their several homes.

Milk Cows.

This week opened with a good demand for choice to prime quality milkers and forward springers, which fact we have mentioned in our reports more than once lately. But we never stated that common or inferior cows were wanted. About 40 milkers and springers were offered, the bulk of which were of poor quality and slow of sale. Prices ranged all the way from $25 to $35 each. But it will be seen that there were few that brought in the latter price or even $30. Mr. Hooper has been here all week, but failed to get the number of good cows that he needed.

New Calves.

The calf market still keeps firm. Receipts have been moderate and demand strong. Prices are firm at $3.50 to $4.50 for inferior light, and common to medium heavy calves, but good to choice sell readily at $5 to $5.75 and even $6 per cwt. for something prime.

GOOD PROGRESS

The grading on the Wallaceburg & Lake Erie electric road has been completed to Wallaceburg and about ten miles of steel laid, starting from the city limits. The wiring has been done for quite a distance and is progressing rapidly.
In a few days the company expects to have several cars here, built by the Ottawa Car Company. When these and the new twenty-ton engine arrive the work will proceed much more briskly.

BOOKBINDING.

Orders for bookbinding should be left at this office. It is surprising how nice a volume can be made of these magazines, even though they are somewhat soiled from much handling. Books, magazines or periodicals bound or rebound in any style at very reasonable prices. Blank books, such as journals, ledgers, day books with any kind of ruling, made to order. All work warranted first class.

It takes three people to keep a secret properly, but two of the three must be dead.

PREMIUM NIGHT
AT THE GRAND

The Ladies Aid of the General Hospital are receiving the congratulations due them for having given the people of Chatham the opportunity of enjoying such a beautiful gem of perfection, as is the universal opinion of those that have witnessed the various performances of "Parade,"
which has been holding the boards
at the Grand all this week. In view of the fact that the performance
from a musical and artistic standpoint is one of the best ever presented in Chatham, the management has decided to make Saturday night a premium night, and will offer all seats at popular prices of 25c and 35c. This will be the last performance of Grand Parade in Chatham.

Quail are reported plentiful, but it is expected that the shooting this season will be limited to about a week, although two weeks are being asked for.—Tilbury Times.

CHILDREN AND MEAT.

A Combination That Does Not Produce the Best Results.

I am asked what to do with a small child who wants to eat meat all the time. I certainly would forbid the little daughter meat for awhile and later allow her but a small portion once a day only.

If you allow a child meat its appetite for the foods best suited to a growing child becomes less, and it may soon turn away from milk, cereals, vegetables, etc.

If a mother realized that the stimulating effect of meat produced in the child a distaste for all less satisfying foods she would soon understand that her child was forming a dangerous habit.

Dr. Joseph E. Winter tells us that meat by its stimulating effect produces a habit as surely as does alcohol, tea or coffee. He further tells us that the foods which the meat eating child eschews contain in large proportions certain mineral constituents which are essential to bodily nutrition and health and without which the processes of fresh growth and development are stunted, says Mary W. Butler in the Philadelphia Press.

Dr. Winter declares there are more so-called nervousness, anaemia, rheumatism, valvular diseases of the heart and chorea at the present time in children from an excess of meat and its preparations in the diet than from all other causes combined.

The nervous system of a child is a most delicate one, and to its overstimulation, through the free indulgence in the meat habit, are due many future ills. Would we have a stronger race? Do we wish to spare our little ones many unnecessary aches and pains? Then let us look to their eating and daily habits while they are young.

The little girl or boy of ten or twelve whose lunch consists of a few pieces of beefsteak and a cup of strong coffee is not to be envied. Oh, could but the mother see into the future, what miseries her guarding care, watchful eye and quiet "no" might prove the means of sparing the little one!

TAKE MY CURE, WHEN CURED YOU PAY ME

The fear that you could not be cured may have deterred you from taking honest treatment, or you may have been one of the unfortunate who have been treated in vain by inexperienced physicians, free treatments, free trial samples, patent medicines, electric bells and other similar devices. Such treatments cannot and will never cure you, nor will these malades cure themselves. When I offer you a cure, and am willing to risk my professional reputation in curing you, and have such faith and confidence in my case, which I give you free of charge. I want to hear from patients who have been unable to get cured, as I guarantee a positive cure for all chronic blood and skin diseases, such as rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles, blood poison, physical and nervous debility, lack of vitality, stomach troubles, etc. All medicines for patients are prepared in my own laboratory, and the requirements of each individual case. I will send a booklet on the subject which contains the 14 diplomas and certificates, entirely free. Address simply:

DOWN OLD PINE KNOB

By M. J. Phillips

Copyright, 1905, by M. J. Phillips

March had come, but winter is tenacious in Massachusetts. There were few signs of a breakup. The tops of the hills were still covered, no tinkle came from the frozen creeks.

Tom Mowbray, ascending to the top of Old Pine Knob, after a coast of nearly half a mile on his stout sleigh, looked on a fairy world. The evergreens were loaded with snow and bearded with hoar frost, the dark green boughs standing out between like wondrous carvings in frames of purest white. The air was like honey and diamonds. Everything glittered blindingly beneath the sun, which shone, brilliant and hard, from a cloudless sky.

Panting, Mowbray paused a moment on the top of Old Pine before dropping upon the sled for another dash down the road, a creamy ribbon between smooth white hills. It was a goodly stretch of country he surveyed. On the right of the road and halfway to the foot of the hill stood his own home. From the kitchen chimney a column of smoke, un-ly on the railroad track he glanced sadly at the towering hill and stopped.

The girl chuckled impatiently and jerked at the reins. Duke planted his legs immovably and laid back an ear. Miss Boone laid the whip across the horse's broad back apologetically, with no result. Then, the gray eyes flashing and the lips crossed together until they were a mere scarlet line, she struck right heartily. Duke never budged.

Mowbray, unobserved by the girl, stood on the hilltop and enjoyed the affair immensely. "She's got grit, all right," he observed to his sled. "At first she thought the old boy was tired. Then it occurred to her that he was a soldiering. How she swings that gad! Shucks! Who'd thought her little fist could grip the gad that way? And that Duke villain is just enjoying himself!"

More from sheer vexation than fatigue Miss Boone ceased to ply the whip and looked helplessly about. It did not occur to her to look upward. Mowbray felt that she was on the verge of tears and was about to reassure her with a cheery cry when a sharp whistle froze it in his throat. The Boston express!

The girl's danger was imminent. At this point the track, sunk in a deep cut, described a sharp curve to the left. A train for these reasons was not visible until within a short fifty yards from the crossing. The cutter, its lovely freight unconscious of the death swooping down, stood squarely between the rails. Miss Boone was a stranger in the neighborhood and paid no heed to the whistle, if, indeed, she heard it, so great was her anger at Duke.

Meanwhile Tom was thinking frenziedly. A cry of warning would not do. The train was scarcely farther away than was Mowbray himself. The girl might not understand. If she did, the lumbering robes and blankets in which she was swathed could not be torn off in time for a leap to safety.

In his agony and horror Mowbray gripped the sled until his muscles creaked. That gave him an idea—the sled, the sled!

The train had not gone its length so rapidly did these thoughts flash through the young man's mind. Raising the coaster, he took two or three quick steps and flung himself face downward upon it. Responding to the impetus, the sleigh rushed madly down the hill.

The flexible runners creaked and sprang. The wind whistled weird tunes in Mowbray's ears. At the back of his brain something prayed that he might be in time, but all his faculties were intent on keeping the sleigh upright. Once for a second—ay, an eternity—it rose on a single runner. Again as they followed a sharp angle it slowed the width of the road. But Providence rode with Mowbray that morning, and catastrophes could only threaten.

Twenty feet from the cutter he jerked the head of the coaster suddenly into a snow bank. His own momentum carried Tom straight ahead. Rolling like a frightened caterpillar, he crashed into the cutter. Something snapped, and a horrid pain stabbed him, but he scrambled blindly to his feet. Somehow he snatched the girl from the cutter, and they fell to the roadside in safety as the train thundered by, hurling fragments of the wrecked vehicle high in the air. Duke, uninjured, but thoroughly cured of his balking, galloped clumsily up Old Pine.

"Of course," said Tom in telling the story afterward, "I broke an arm, but, with a proud and tender glance at the blushing Mrs. Mowbray, 'if I had as many arms as an octopus I'd break 'em all for a wife like her!'"

Willing to Pay For His Contempt.

The following anecdote is told of General Gilman Marston, a once famous New Hampshire lawyer:

General Marston was attending court at Dover, when a young attorney made a motion that was denied by the court. The young man remonstrated against what he thought was the wrong ruling of the judge. So vehemently did he remonstrate that he was fined $10 for contempt of court. An older attorney took the matter up, and he was fined a similar sum. Still another, who thought he stood a little better with the judge, endeavored to straighten the matter out, but he, too, enriched the coffers of the state by paying a "ten spot" for contempt.

General Marston was then seen to rise in his seat and advance to the clerk's desk. Taking his long pocket-book from his pocket, he took out two ten dollar bills and laid them on the desk.

"What is that for?" said the court.

"I want you to distinctly understand," said the general, "that I have just twice as much contempt for this court as any man here, and I am paying for it."—Boston Herald.

A Hole For Each Peg.

An officious little country station master recently discovered a gentleman enjoying a cigar in a compartment not reserved for smokers.

The traveler wore a top hat, and the little station master approached him in all humility.

"You should not smoke, sir," he began.

"Indeed!" ejaculated the traveler. "That is what my friends say."

"You misunderstand me, sir," returned the station master. "You must not smoke."

"So my doctor tells me," responded the other.

The station master was rapidly losing his temper, and, assuming the most severe attitude he could command, he roared:

"But it's against the regulations and you shan't smoke, sir!"

"Dear me!" exclaimed the unmoved offender in grave tones. "That's my wife to a tee."—London Globe.

RE SNATCHED THE GIRL FROM THE CUTTER AND THEY FELL TO THE ROAD.

troubled by vagrant wind, rose straight in the air. A few rods beyond the house the railroad track crossed the road. At the bottom of the little valley the iron bridge over Winkos creek marked the end of his coast.

Tom was twenty-four and stood a full six feet, but he still loved, boy-like, to cruise at breakneck speed over courses that would have frightened expert tobogganists. The road down Old Pine was treacherous, icy from the warm noonday sun and the mid-night frosts. It was full of quick dips and turns, which sent many a youth careering over the snow crust on head and shoulders while his sled followed a path of its own in another direction.

Mowbray's long coaster, of stout oak frame, shod with springy steel runners, was paused for another birdlike flight when a vehicle appeared on the bridge, headed toward Old Pine. It was an old fashioned cutter drawn by a ponderous farm horse. A splash of red was visible above the cutter, whereupon Tom's heart beat incontinently. Horse and cutter were the property of John Higgins, Mowbray's neighbor on the north; the carmine was a tam o' shanter, and the person beneath it was Mrs. Higgins' pretty niece from Boston, Miss Jessie Boone.

"Miss Boone going to town with old Duke," mused Tom. His keen eye caught the prim and unaccustomed manner in which the girl held the reins, and he smiled. "Driving's something new for her, but she's safe as a church." Duke won't run away, although—"the smile became a grin—"I don't say 'he won't balk."

Kincaisset, the nearest town, was two miles back of Old Pine. Long years of joggling along the road and over the steep hill had made a misanthrope of Duke. He learned to balk, briefly and unavailingly with Higgins, but where strangers were concerned with entire and disconcerting success.

The balky fits were intermittent. Sometimes he went for months without a protest, mute indignation visible, however, in every line of his sturdy old frame as he approached Old Pine. Duke had evidently been on his good behavior or the Higginses would never have trusted their guest to his tender mercies.

The horse and his idiosyncrasies did not long occupy Mowbray's mind. Miss Boone was a much more agreeable subject for thought, a subject which had been ever present in Mowbray's brain since her arrival a week before.

"She's the nicest girl I know," said the young man to himself with entire conviction. "Those big gray eyes of hers! I wonder, and a flush for which the nipping morning air was not altogether responsible overspread his face, 'if she's got a fellow in Boston.'"

Duke, wise-old equine, knew that no master hand held the reins. From a brisk trot his gait insensibly slackened to a shuffle. When the slope of Old Pine began he subsided to a walk. He gave one or two backward glances in response to urging from Miss Boone's red lips. When the cutter stood squarely on the railroad track he glanced sadly at the towering hill and stopped.

The girl chuckled impatiently and jerked at the reins. Duke planted his legs immovably and laid back an ear. Miss Boone laid the whip across the horse's broad back apologetically, with no result. Then, the gray eyes flashing and the lips crossed together until they were a mere scarlet line, she struck right heartily. Duke never budged.

Meanwhile Tom was thinking frenziedly. A cry of warning would not do. The train was scarcely farther away than was Mowbray himself. The girl might not understand. If she did, the lumbering robes and blankets in which she was swathed could not be torn off in time for a leap to safety.

In his agony and horror Mowbray gripped the sled until his muscles creaked. That gave him an idea—the sled, the sled!

The train had not gone its length so rapidly did these thoughts flash through the young man's mind. Raising the coaster, he took two or three quick steps and flung himself face downward upon it. Responding to the impetus, the sleigh rushed madly down the hill.

The flexible runners creaked and sprang. The wind whistled weird tunes in Mowbray's ears. At the back of his brain something prayed that he might be in time, but all his faculties were intent on keeping the sleigh upright. Once for a second—ay, an eternity—it rose on a single runner. Again as they followed a sharp angle it slowed the width of the road. But Providence rode with Mowbray that morning, and catastrophes could only threaten.

Twenty feet from the cutter he jerked the head of the coaster suddenly into a snow bank. His own momentum carried Tom straight ahead. Rolling like a frightened caterpillar, he crashed into the cutter. Something snapped, and a horrid pain stabbed him, but he scrambled blindly to his feet. Some-

how he snatched the girl from the cutter, and they fell to the roadside in safety as the train thundered by, hurling fragments of the wrecked vehicle high in the air. Duke, uninjured, but thoroughly cured of his balking, galloped clumsily up Old Pine.

"Of course," said Tom in telling the story afterward, "I broke an arm, but, with a proud and tender glance at the blushing Mrs. Mowbray, 'if I had as many arms as an octopus I'd break 'em all for a wife like her!'"

Willing to Pay For His Contempt.

The following anecdote is told of General Gilman Marston, a once famous New Hampshire lawyer:

General Marston was attending court at Dover, when a young attorney made a motion that was denied by the court. The young man remonstrated against what he thought was the wrong ruling of the judge. So vehemently did he remonstrate that he was fined $10 for contempt of court. An older attorney took the matter up, and he was fined a similar sum. Still another, who thought he stood a little better with the judge, endeavored to straighten the matter out, but he, too, enriched the coffers of the state by paying a "ten spot" for contempt.

General Marston was then seen to rise in his seat and advance to the clerk's desk. Taking his long pocket-book from his pocket, he took out two ten dollar bills and laid them on the desk.

"What is that for?" said the court.

"I want you to distinctly understand," said the general, "that I have just twice as much contempt for this court as any man here, and I am paying for it."—Boston Herald.

A Hole For Each Peg.

An officious little country station master recently discovered a gentleman enjoying a cigar in a compartment not reserved for smokers.

The traveler wore a top hat, and the little station master approached him in all humility.

"You should not smoke, sir," he began.

"Indeed!" ejaculated the traveler. "That is what my friends say."

"You misunderstand me, sir," returned the station master. "You must not smoke."

"So my doctor tells me," responded the other.

The station master was rapidly losing his temper, and, assuming the most severe attitude he could command, he roared:

"But it's against the regulations and you shan't smoke, sir!"

"Dear me!" exclaimed the unmoved offender in grave tones. "That's my wife to a tee."—London Globe.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutionally inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot

Mrs. Matthews will Not Allow Mr. Summers' Chickens to Eat Her Precious Tomatoes—Information Laid

Mrs. Matthews, who resides on the corner of Head and Barthe Sts., handed in a complaint to the police this morning, which will be acted upon. Mrs. Matthews has a very fine garden and in it are a lot of luscious tomatoes. Geo. Summers, her next door neighbor, keeps some chickens that have a great taste for ripe tomatoes, and Mrs. Matthews objects strongly to seeing her neighbor's chickens thriving on her tomatoes. The price of tomatoes is very high this year, and if Mrs. Matthews could only get rid of the chickens she could make some money. "I went to Mr. Summers like a lady," said the annoyed woman, "and asked him to lock up his chickens and he paid no attention to me. I then told him I would see Chief Holmes, and he said I didn't care for Chief Holmes or anybody else." An information was laid and Mr. Summers will have to call at the Police Court some morning to answer for the ravages of his chickens. Perhaps when he knows Chief Holmes more intimately he may care more for him.
