Measures Are Taken at Skagway to Insure Protection From Smallpox.

BILLS OF HEALTH NOW BEING ISSUED

To All Passengers Before They Are Allowed to Leave.

NO FEAR IS EXPRESSED

That an Outbreak of the Dreadful Disease Will Occur—Special Accommodations Provided.

Skagway, June 19.—Not only all boats but all passengers on trains are given clean bills of health here before being permitted to leave and foot passengers are not allowed to pass the summit without one. This is a mere precautionary measure and will not affect travel to or from Dawson. Even should there be reason to quarantine this city, of which there is no present indication, through passengers from Dawson would go by rail direct to the wharf in fumigated cars, where hotel accommodation would be provided while awaiting steamers. In fact every precaution is being taken by the Canadian customs officials, transportation agents and the local authorities and an outbreak of smallpox is impossible.

I. G. Morgan Arrives.

Mr. I. G. Morgan, representative of the New York Mutual Life Insurance Co., returned to Dawson last evening on the steamer Yukon after a year's absence.

Mr. Morgan has spent the past winter traveling throughout Canada and reports the country in a very prosperous condition. In Manitoba he says, the wheat crop is estimated this year at upwards of 20,000,000 bushels and other crops both in Manitoba and the Northwest territories are in an equally prosperous condition.

Back to Dawson.

E. F. Botsford, general manager of the Ladue company arrived on the steamer Whitehorse. He will stay in Dawson for the rest of the season looking after the interests of his flourishing company.

The best cooked meals, of the purest materials, and plenty of them, for 75 cents, was having a great run at the Standard Library refreshment room.

NINTH DAY OF TRIAL

Prisoner O'Brien Visibly Changing—Prosecution Continues Forging Fetters—Pennycuik and McGuire Testify Today—That Tell-Tale Axe.

This (Wednesday) morning opened the ninth day of the trial of George O'Brien, charged with the murder of Lynn Relfe.

O'Brien looked more dejected on stepping into the prisoner's box this morning than during any previous stage of the trial, having the appearance of loss of sleep and greatly perturbed mind. All his former look of confidence had disappeared and he looked like a man who had a corner on sober reflection.

Detective Ralph Lynn McGuire was called to the witness stand immediately after court opened. The witness said he had been acting for the police in the case on trial; on March 1st he and Corporal Ryan visited O'Brien's tent and on the floor found a pearl handled, three bladed knife which he identified when produced—also eyelets, buttons, rivets, buckle and charred cloth in the stove; witness kept a diary of his daily investigations, from March 2d to 12th witness and police searched the trails on both sides of the river; the tent mentioned was located about three-quarters of a mile back from the Pork trail; two or three cups, two plates, two each knives and forks and a double bed indicated that two men occupied the tent; witness identified the tell-tale stand as the one found in the tent; witness and police continued to search the trails from the 14th until the 19th. Capt. Scarth and Constable Pennycuik left for Selkirk and witness continued the search on snow shoes; on the 19th he found the trail leading from McKay's cache to the Pork trail and from there to the tent, reaching the right and side of the trail; on the 20th witness found a trail leading from the Pork trail to the river; he followed it and saw that some branches had been cut from trees and a few trees were blazed; the branches had been cut and broken by a dull ax; witness saw sled creases in the snow and by removing the snow found sled marks and foot tracks in the old snow; witness had two dogs with him and by one of them shying off the trail at certain place witness thought something strange so shoveled away the snow at that point and found a large pool of blood; later samples of the blood were taken and sent to Captain Scarth of Selkirk; witness described the prominent point of the river bank from a plain view of the down river trail; on March 22d witness and Pennycuik began a close search on their hands and knees around the vicinity of where the blood was found; Pennycuik that day found two threads from clothing on the roots of a blow down tree by the river bank; in passing threads back to Pennycuik by witness they were blown away and lost; witness told of the sections of the log fence, identified as O'Brien's, when taken out on the trail and told to go home; the dog ran out on the trail and was found lying by the tent; witness and police searched around the tent, finding a double bladed ax; also a lime juice bottle; witness showed Captain Scarth the pool of blood on March 22d; on the 23d witness and Pennycuik began to shovel snow away from the locality in which they had become confident the murders were committed, clearing the trail a distance of 12 yards; on the 23d they found two 40-82 Winchester shells and another on the following day, the 24th, on which, where one man is supposed to have died, they found portions of skull bone to which was attached a piece of sinew; the search was continued on the 25th when a cartridge and piece of rope were found; the rope was 50 1/2 feet from the river and seven feet from the trail; on the 26th witness took the lime juice bottle found to Minto and Capt. Fussell identified it as coming from his place; the 27th Pennycuik went to Selkirk and witness and soldiers continued the search, finding a ft. ball No. 312, 378 Dominion of Canada, 97 feet 7 inches from the river; three cigars were found 50 feet back from the river bank; on 28th, 29th and 30th witness and soldiers continued to search the trail; on the 31st, Pennycuik having returned from Selkirk, the camp was moved from the express cabin to near the scene of the work and that day the crown of a double tooth was found about 40 feet back from the trail and by the pool of blood where Relfe was supposed to die; another piece of rope was found that day; a piece of copper ore was found 50 1/2 feet from the river and 8 1/2 feet back and 2 1/2 feet to the right of the trail; on April 1st eyelets and buttons, charred clothing were found in the ashes in front of the tent; that day fragments of skull bone were found where Clayton fell, chewed paper where Olsen fell and another tooth where Relfe fell; the search was continued on April 2d; on the 3d witness and Pennycuik measured distances with a surveyor's chain; on the 4th and 5th they searched trails and cut ice in the river; on the 7th receipts given Olsen by Fussell for board and bank was found; the receipt had been chewed up into almost a round ball; it was back from river and near where Olsen's other effects were found; the search of the trails for effects and the river for the bodies was continued for several days; on the 16th the ice on a bar was blown up with dynamite; on the 17th a bottle of Dr. Thompson's electric oil was found near O'Brien's tent; this is bottle Olsen is supposed to have carried here; on the 18th for starting fire, one electric belt was found five feet west of the open fire; two belt buckles, one shell—40-82—one softwood bullet were found that day; the belt buckles were 70 feet away from the tent in a clump of bushes; a dog chain was found 15 feet from the tent; a memorandum marked "P. A. R. N. Co., Diamond Creek, Dawson," was found near corner of tent; one pen-knife was found 30 feet away and a key marked "L. J."; search was continued every day and on May 2d a 40-82 shell was found on the edge of the ice near the main trail on the river; on the 3d and 4th stumps cut with dull ax and ends of tent logs evidently cut with the same ax were secured; witness explained to the jury the different stumps in evidence; on the 4th a key marked "S. M. T." was found near the tent; the search was continued until May 9th when it was discontinued; witness said the first bullet fired was from the ice and was the one which cut the limbs; a person on the point of the river bank by the scene of the murder could see a mile down the river; witness said that early in the winter of '99 there was about two feet of dry snow, but when the search was conducted the snow had melted and by shoveling away the fresher part pressed snow and balls were found beneath; where Olsen was supposed to have fallen there were several pools of blood which might have been made by moving the body or during the struggle before Olsen fell; the bullet found in the frozen ground in the pool of blood where Clayton is supposed to have fallen was fattened; on June 11th or 12th witness with a man called "Long Joe" and when below Hellgate met Corporal Hales who said a body had been found over on a bar; witness went with Hales for the body, took it to Selkirk and later on to Dawson where it was identified as the body of Lynn Relfe. Witness never saw the prisoner until he saw him at Tagish.

On cross-examination, Mr. McGuire said he had been in the detective business seven or eight years in Minneapolis; in '96 he came to Juneau and had an investigation at the Treadwell mines; in '98 witness came to the Klondike to mine; Will Clayton first employed witness at Skagway in January of '99; witness was coming to Dawson and Will Clayton asked him to see if he could find his missing brother or his body; later witness was employed by the N. W. M. P.; witness was employed on wages and got no reward; persons who found the bodies got the rewards offered by Clayton's and Relfe's families; there was no open place in the river between where the bodies were supposed to be put in and a point four miles below in locating the trails under snow witness used his bare hands in finding the surface of the old trail where the snow would be pressed or packed harder than the surrounding snow; witness has had considerable experience following trails in Alaska and the east and in winter and summer; on the main trail and on back to the tent, also on the Pork trail marks of a sled were found; witness did not know until February of 1900 that O'Brien was suspected of the murder; witness, Capt. Scarth, Pennycuik and Buxton were present when the dog traces were first to go home and he went along the Pork trail to junction of tent trail and turned off and went back to the tent.

This completed Detective McGuire's testimony, he having by his straight forward and plain story, made a splendid witness for the prosecution.

Before leaving the stand, Mr. McGuire explained some maps and photographs for the benefit of the court and jury. Court took a recess until 1 o'clock this afternoon.

SAM DUNHAM IN DAWSON.

Has Been for Several Years in U. S. Census Service.

Sam C. Dunham, one of the best known of Alaskan travelers and writers was an arrival on the steamer Whitehorse yesterday. Mr. Dunham for several years past has been engaged by the U. S. government in the Alaskan census work and only recently submitted his final reports. He is now a free lance again and is returning down the river to home on private business.

Mr. Dunham is the author of a volume of poems descriptive of frontier life a number of which deal with the hardships incident to the settlement of the northern gold fields.

He is one of the best posted men in respect to the resources and possibilities of Alaska and is confident that Uncle Sam's big territory has a great future ahead of it.

Mr. Dunham will remain for a short time in Dawson when he will proceed on his way down the river. He is stopping at the Regis.

OGILVIE HONORED

Splendid Banquet Tendered Last Evening to the Retiring Commissioner.

BOUNTIFUL SPREAD WAS SERVED.

Pioneer Hall Was Transformed Into a Bower of Plenty.

ELOQUENT SPEECHES MADE.

Commissioner Ross Has Money to Spend for New Public Buildings and for Roads.

The farewell banquet tendered by his friends to Hon. William Ogilvie, last night at Pioneer hall was an occasion which will live long in the memory of those who gathered around the board to bid God speed to the once commissioner who will soon leave for the outside.

The hall was tastefully dressed in gay hangings and the tables were most attractively decorated. Caterers Griffin & Boyker of the Northern Cafe supplied the feast and in all probability never in this country was a more elaborate and carefully served meal placed before any one present than that which was discussed last night. The tables were arranged in the form of a huge horse shoe running the full length of the hall. Owing to the tardiness of some of the guests the assembly was not seated until almost 9 o'clock. At the head of the table Chairman H. T. Will's took his position with the guest of the evening on his right and Commissioner Ross on the left. The menu was as follows:

- Manhattan cocktail.
- Soup.
- Consomme.
- Roast turkey.
- Roast beef.
- Roast chicken.
- Roast lamb.
- Roast pig.
- Roast veal.
- Roast mutton.
- Roast beef.
- Roast chicken.
- Roast lamb.
- Roast pig.
- Roast veal.
- Roast mutton.

Those present were: Hon. William Ogilvie, Commissioner Ross, H. T. Will, Justice Dugas, Louis Stone, Edgar Minton, L. R. Feltz, Sam Stearns, R. C. Hason, Joe Burke, W. Bennett, George Byrne, George M. Allen, H. J. Fitzpatrick, Harry Hershberg, C. Bennett, Alex. McDonald, James McGee, Tom. McMillan, April Stasi, Joe Bayle, J. L. Thomas, A. T. Stephens, Thos. O'Brien, Harry Jones, Capt. Gray, J. J. Deasey, Henry Hansen, Dan McPherson, F. Condon, A. G. Smith, W. Stetson, John Gray, T. McGowan, Messrs. Pettallo, Mass. Sayers, Messrs. Spitzer, Fredstrom, Hays, John, Clayton, Taylor, Nichols, Watson, Thibodeau, Cowan, Chisholm, Lindsay, Simons, W. W. W. Williams.

After the health of the king and the president were toasted, Commissioner Ross proposed "Our Guest" in a very pleasing manner. After a number of complimentary allusions to Mr. Ogilvie's administration Mr. Ross made several important statements in connection with his own duties as commissioner.

"I can say," said the commissioner, "that we now have the sum of $200,000 at our disposal which amount we shall expend on public buildings in Dawson. We shall also begin the work of erecting a building and a good road will be maintained upon every producing creek in the district."

Referring to local matters Commissioner Ross stated that he proposed to IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

Two important announcements were made by Commissioner Ross at the banquet tendered ex-Commissioner Ogilvie last evening. Commissioner Ross stated that he was in a position to say that the government will proceed immediately with the work of carrying out an elaborate system of public improvements. Chief among these will be the expenditure of a sum approximating $200,000 on the construction of public buildings in Dawson, and another large sum in the work of building roads which will give all the producing creeks of the district easy access to Dawson.

The first announcement is an important one for Dawson particularly. The distribution in this city of the large sum received will give an impetus to all lines of trade which undoubtedly will prove decidedly welcome. Added to this also the fact that the government purposes investing that amount in public buildings, indicates a degree of confidence in the future of the camp which will leave a very healthful influence.

The government's example will certainly encourage investment in the town and the district generally, and investment, intelligently directed is what the territory requires.

As to the proposed system of roadways, it has been and still is, a crying necessity, and one to which attention has been called by this paper on numerous occasions. Good roads are next to good claims in importance and the public will applaud and approve every effort that is expended in improving them.

We sincerely hope that, once undertaken, the work of road building will not cease until every creek in the district is connected with Dawson with a first-class highway.

STILL SPREADING.

A combination has been made by the salmon packers of Puget sound, the object of which is to secure entire control of the salmon packing industry of the coast. The new concern, according to reports, is to be capitalized at $12,000,000 and will operate extensively in the navigation business in connection with the canning industry.

The combination idea is spreading so rapidly in the United States that the great mass of people have scarcely grasped the possibilities which it portends. When the fact becomes thoroughly understood that the great industries of the country which furnish employment to so many millions of workmen, have been handed over to the absolute control of a handful of capitalists, a protest will be heard, such as never before has been raised in the history of the republic.

Sooner or later the fact must be recognized that unrestricted concentration of wealth constitutes a direct menace to the government itself.

When the trusts begin to overshadow the federal authority—and that condition is by no means a remote possibility—the people will begin to awake to a realization of the situation.

There are no difficulties presented which will be found insuperable of satisfactory solution. The ballot is the final court of appeal and through its agency measures may be placed in operation which will contract any evils wrought through the trusts.

As a matter of fact it appears that the trusts themselves are paving the way toward government assumption of their control.

The trusts are demonstrating the practicability of conducting vast enterprises under single managements. They have reduced to a science the problem of securing the highest degree of efficiency at the lowest possible expense, the one stumbling block which has always stood in the way of a realization of the plans of advanced reformers.

The step from the direction of great industries by trusts, to government management of the same is not likely to present insuperable difficulties. In fact many thinkers are already convinced that the logical outcome of the situation is the absorption of all trusts by one gigantic government trust—a climax toward which events seem now to be heading almost with certainty.

THE AXE DESCENDED

On Mr. Gray's Foot Instead of the Block of Wood.

Mr. Gray of the Ames Mercantile Co. met with an accident Monday evening which will lay him up for a few days. Mr. Gray was splitting some wood and by some unlucky turn of the ax handle or a movement of the block he was splitting the ax came down and instead of hitting the wood it struck his foot just below the ankle, cutting a bad gash. The wound will not cause any permanent injury but will compel Mr. Gray to take a short notice vacation for a few days.

Midnight Picnic.

The young people of the Methodist church will hold a midnight picnic on the summit of the dome back of Dawson, on Thursday June 20th. They will take lunch with them, and expect to have a very enjoyable time. They invite all of their friends to accompany them, and will meet at the church on Mission street at 9:30 o'clock.

Heavy Nome Travel.

Steamer State of California, Pacific Coast Company, sailed for Nome early this morning with the largest number of passengers who have left for that part of Alaska this season. Altogether she had in the neighborhood of 510 people on board, all bound for the famous gold fields, and 1,700 tons of freight.

The departure of the steamer was surrounded by picturesque circumstances, an immense crowd being present on the wharf from 8 o'clock in the evening. About half of the people were women. The general air of the crowd was in contrast to those which usually assembled on the docks. Festively and gayly seemed to reign supreme. Under the electric lights the gathering at times had the aspects of a social function.

The passengers had expected to get on board before 8 o'clock, but it became necessary for the company to postpone the hour to 11. Nearly all took the delay in good part. Before dark about 150 people had assembled and a continual stream was coming and going up to a late hour. A strolling musician with a long gray beard sat on a barrel at one end of the wharf and played a guitar. He sang popular songs and was assisted by a boy with a tenor voice. They were bound for Nome and reaped a rich harvest from the throng.

"You have got a good thing there, pard," called out a burly miner.

"I need it," was the quick retort, "I am over a barrel."

In the waiting room a woman with a Swedish accent retained the occupants of the place with a lively description of her adventures at Nome last year, and a droll story of a suit which she had commenced against a transportation company.

"I jumped a claim last summer," she said, "and sold it to a man when the owner was away."

The far-away sound of the musicians, the persistent hum of animated conversation from all parts of the dock, the far-reaching tones of the woman in the waiting room, the concourse of people on the wharf, all combined to make the sailing of the California a unique one in the departures from this port. Right representatives of the police force circulated through the crowd on the lookout for crooks.—P. I., June 6.

A Yeast Garter.

According to the London Chronicle, there is now a garter vacant, and if a plebiscite decided on whom it should be bestowed there is not a doubt but that K. G. would be placed after the name of the field marshal commanding in South Africa, who most certainly merits the distinction quite as much as Lord Elgin, on whom it was so properly conferred by Lord Salisbury. In the last two centuries the Garter has only been thrice given for military services—to Marlborough, Wellington and Lord Anglesey—and, strange to say, no naval commander appears to have had it, not even Nelson.

Masonic Meeting.

A special meeting of the Masonic lodge is called for Thursday evening, June 20 at 8 o'clock at Masonic hall. J. A. DONALD, Sec.

FABLE OF GALLUS BARKER.

A highly respected pastor had a son who was a bad egg. They could not drag him to camp meeting and when they called the roll for Thursday evening prayer meeting, son was non est. He liked to wear a red sweater and read the life and battles of John L. Sullivan. At last, he sloped between two days and his father did not see him again for many snows.

One day the pastor wandered down to the open lot back of the school house to take a sort of a side glance at the greatest show on earth. The pastor was only human, and he certainly did hone and banker to go in and study the sacred animals, such as the Behemoth of Holy writ, the leopard that couldn't find anything to take out the spots, and camels of Egypt, where the Israelites came from. But he didn't dare to go in, because all the members of his congregation were in there and they would have been shocked to catch him taking a shy at any worldly pleasure. They were early at the ticket wagon and stuck for the whole shooting match, including the grand concert, but the shepherd of the flock had to stand out by the cook tent and listen to the band. That was the best he got.

There was a large commotion in front of the side show and the reverend gentleman edged around that way to investigate the speles in the blue box, who was delivering an impassioned eulogy on the ossified man, the Cuban lady weighing the enormous weight of 750 pounds, the hairman from Madagascar and beautiful Juju, queen of the serpent world. The barber addressed the pack of humanity as neighbors, and he gave them a come-along song that brought the currency right out of their clothes. When the pastor drew near, he was amazed to discover that the Bally-Ho artist with the fog-horn voice was none other than his long lost son.

As soon as the crowd had rushed into the annex, the grief stricken divine confronted the triant and began to roam him for being in such a business.

"Let up, father," said the orator, coming down from his perch. "Is this the welcome you have framed up for a young man who comes back after making his way in the world? It seems to me that I am entitled to the glad hand and a Dewey arch. I am now the mainstay of this congress of wonders, and it is a swell money maker. You always wanted me to take after you and blossom into a word weaver, and here I am. Thanks to my stage presence, easy flow of language and convincing manner, all inherited from you, I have developed into a peachertine. I jump from town to town, scattering my flowers of speech and bring happiness to untold multitudes of Hiram and Hatties. The side show is one of our country's cherished institutions, the same as the public school system, or the Skipworth League. It is not sectarian in its organization, I will admit, but it has an educational value and exerts a moral influence, as you will see by casting your eye over the large blue banner just this side of the lemonade joint. Our exhibition of the marvels of nature is intended to stimulate the mental activities and enlarge the understanding of every yahoo who buys a yellow ticket. Therefore, although our exposition of strange and curious peoples is not under the auspices of any particular denomination, we claim that it is more diverting and has a greater charm for the young than the tableaux and charades frequently given in the lecture room for the benefit of the home missions. If there is any doubt on this point, I am willing to leave it to the kids."

"But do you play fair with the public?" asked his father. "Are all the attractions on the inside exactly as you represent on these jim-jam banners? I notice that the stout lady is depicted as being about the size of a load of hay and the boa constrictor is at least three times as long as a telegraph pole."

"It's getting so it's no use to advertise unless you scare them," replied his son. "A man has to holler these days or nobody will hear him. Besides, these banners don't fool any one. They are as harmless as campaign pledges. We put up these colored supplement pictures in order to preserve the traditions. I don't mind telling you on the Q. T. that the wild man from Madagascar is a coon whitewasher that we picked up in Louisville, but if we placarded that fact, it would dispel the pleasure of seeing him tug at his chain and no one would think better of us for owning up. They would simply say that we were not running an old-time, hang-up side show such as they drove in to see. Suppose the boss deacon in your congregation put it in the paper that he is letting his entire stock go at below cost. No one swallows it, but is the deacon called up for a church trial? Nay, nay, Pauline. On the contrary, every one says that the deacon is a foxy gazabo. But if he printed that he sold goods for all he could get and hoped to skin every one who came into his place, then people would say that he had the willies and ought to be locked up in the wheel-house. It was Mr. Barnum who discovered by experiment that the American public likes to be humbugged, and since then over 1,000,000 schemers have stolen his process. Our

Continuing on from where the evidence of ex-Constable Pennycook was published in the Nugget of Tuesday, the witness said that 50 feet from the tent they found a soft-nosed bullet, which near the tent found a pocket knife and a key on which the number was 1111; the key was 30 feet away from the tent; a dog chain was found on the other side of the tent, and a paper numbered "P. A. R. N. Co., Diamond Cross, Dawson," on April 18th and other charred cloth, a piece of suspenders and eyelets were found in the tent; dimensions of fire had been taken four feet in diameter and had been all large logs a good sized campfire; on April 19th they discontinued cutting ice from the river; on the 20th and 21st they resumed search on the trail but found nothing; the snow having disappeared, witness found a shell on May 2d lying on the shore ice and he could see that it was fired from that point that had shot through the limbs on the bank as an upward angle; on May 4th the samples of wood in evidence were collected and another visit to the tent resulted in the finding of the other part of the electric belt and another key bearing the mark 5 L U 12. Witness identified all the articles mentioned, also a piece of human skin found in the supposed Olsen pool; witness identified a bottle containing nearly a pint of blood which was obtained from the first pool and where Clayton's effects were found; also a bottle taken from the second pool and where Relfe's effects were found; the blood and snow were thawed in a pan and afterwards bottled and sent to Dawson; the sack of cartridges found was tied up with a rawhide line, the same kind of string as several sacks had been tied with at the woodpile camp below Hellgate where witness searched it for stolen goods. Regarding the appearance of the man witness saw at the woodpile, camp he was dressed in a gray suit, small mustache, a week or ten days' growth of beard, a short, brown parky and a Cockey accent, was a rapid talker and used considerable slang. Witness saw the bodies of the men after they were found and they had no coats or parkies on and one of Relfe's suspenders was missing; this, he said, would account for the charred clothing being found in the sleds by the tent. This closed the direct testimony of the witness, its taking consumed about seven and a half hours. On cross-examination, witness Pennycook said he was 20 minutes or half an hour searching the camp at the woodpile; he was positive as to the accent of the man he saw there being English; witness said: "I am an Englishman myself and I certainly know an Englishman when I see and hear him talk." Witness did not think the man talked like a New York Irishman as Capt. Fussell had said; he was certain as to the class of string with which the sacks at the camp were tied; witness was certain as to the accuracy

Ironworkers' Strike.

The latest developments in the strike of the metal workers is the complication in which the transport Rosecrans has become entangled at Tacoma. The contract for the repair of the vessel, it will be remembered, was let by Major Ruhlen to the Tacoma firm, J. O'Neil & Co., the only large establishment on the Sound which has conceded to the demands of the striking metal workers. Having no boiler-makers working in their shops, the Tacoma firm sub-let a contract to William Norton. Things went on smoothly enough until Norton joined the Metal Trades Association. On learning this action, his employees packed their tools and walked out. The government became cognizant of the delays on the repair of the big ship and yesterday ordered the work, through Major Ruhlen, the local quartermaster, to be completed by the government.

The latter action opens the field for further complications, which, from the reports of the boiler-makers today, will undoubtedly, ensue. As the boiler repairs became an unfair job when the Tacoma men walked out, it necessarily follows that Bremerton boiler-makers will not be allowed by their unions to touch the work. As the sub-contract is not officially known by the government, preparations are being made to receive the work at the navy yard. Officers of the local union state that as soon as asked to do work on the Rosecrans, the Bremerton boiler-makers, members of unions, will put in their requests for their time and refuse to do the work. For the delays and costs on the work, it is stated, the Tacoma contractors will be held responsible.

The Metal Trades Association held a long meeting at the Butler last evening, hearing and passing on the reports of the various committees. The meeting was executive, as usual, and those in authority state there was nothing to give out to the public. It was definitely stated, however, that no concessions or compromise had been granted. The Moulders' Union is still in trouble with the Olympic Foundry and a secret meeting of the body was held this morning, when it is believed some immediate action was directed. The complaint against the foundry is that they are doing work for members of the Metal Trades Association, thus lengthening the strike. A committee was to call on the company officials this afternoon, and try to gain the concessions demanded. If the company does not abide by the moulders' request, the latter will place the shop on the unfair list and call out all union moulders and pattern-makers.

The executive committee of the machinists union held only one meeting today, and the officers state that there is nothing new in the situation. A number of machinists and helpers went over to Bremerton this morning to join the other mechanics at work in the navy yard.—Seattle Times, June 6.

The Hunker Creek Road.

Territorial Engineer W. Thibadan returned Saturday after completing the survey for the proposed road up Hunker creek. The route surveyed, Mr. Thibadan says, is the most practical, has the easiest grades and will eventually take the place of the ridge road, to Dominion and tributaries, as it is also much shorter. Commissioner Ross was seen this afternoon and said that as soon as Mr. Bartoom, of the public works department, who is now en route, arrives, he would know just what funds are available from the federal government, and would also figure what money can be spared from the local funds and would then know just to what extent the road building can be carried on. The Hunker road will be the first built, and as much more will be done as the funds available will allow. Mr. Ross is very enthusiastic over the road building question and pledges the commitment of the work as soon as possible.

OVER THE DIVIDE.

By Ed. A. Hering.

There are some people who are born lucky and almost everything they touch turns out successful. More often it is due to good management, but sometimes both are combined.

Mr. Joe Barrett of Dominion creek, through good management, has secured several rich claims and is operating them on a large scale and very profitably. But luck was with him when he staked and recorded hillside, left claim, 12 above lower, Dominion, adjoining his creek claim. He wished the hillside simply to protect himself from unpleasant neighbors who might record, and then the hillside was a pleasant spot for cabins, woodyards, etc. As the creek was worked out good pay was found on the rim and work continued from rim to hillside. At present five men are shoveling from a ten foot face, and wheeling the dirt from the moss down to bedrock, into the sluice box. Twenty-four hours of this work showed a cleanup of 110 ounces.

The recent reopening of Dominion creek has proved a great thing for the creek and Dominion will be the scene of active mining operations.

Several creek claims between 100 below lower and the mouth have located good pay and below the mouth of Gold Run rich pay has been located on three different claims. Property from 235 below lower down, is booming and those lucky enough to have recorded some during the big stampede have a home-stake in sight.

Jack Felix, better known as Happy Jack, is working the rim of his creek claim, 112 above lower, ground sluicing and shoveling in. Jack says he has been working for glory for two years and if the water holds out he will make his winter's grub to say nothing of an extra case of Eagle milk for the baby.

James Kelly of 22 below upper, has sold his boiler and closed down for the summer. He will buy heavier machinery and operate extensively next winter.

Andy Larson, of 31 Gold Run, has closed down for the summer. The bulk of his pay is in the creek and must be worked during the winter. He has moved to Dominion and with Judge Moffatt will ground-sluice hillside 5 and 6 above lower which property they have recently purchased. A large plant is on the creek and water will be pumped to the hillside.

Messrs. Pat McNamee and Ed Tetrem have purchased the Johnstone property, 22 above upper and have started summer work. The claim is well up the creek, but contains good pay.

Mr. J. Jenote is working the shallow hillside of his claim—creek claim to below lower—in a manner worth investigating. He has a six-inch duplex pump on the creek and pumps water up the hill under 75 pounds pressure, in steel pipes. From here a common fire hose reduced through a three-inch nozzle throws a stream into the earth that does the work of a dozen men with an ordinary sluiceway.

The muck and gravel is washed to the creek through long sluice boxes and the good lodges on bedrock. The boxes are then set down into bedrock and the bedrock itself shoveled in. All owners of hill-sides should investigate the work.

Artless Soul.

"Of course," the young wife said, "I never expect to be a living or to try to sell any of my work."
"Then you study art for art's sake," they suggested.
"You've guessed it exactly. He wanted me to study it, and I'll do anything to please Arthur."—Chicago Tribune.

ANOTHER MAN DROWNED.

Lost From Scow While En Route From Whitehorse.

Scow Belongs to Rouse & Wrenn—Name of Party Not Yet Known—Was an Employee.

Another disastrous scow wreck on the Yukon river is reported this morning. No particulars have been received in Dawson yet other than the following telegram which was received at the office of J. A. Rouse the freighter yesterday evening.

"Big Salmon, June 18.—Rouse wrecked 12 miles below. Scows sunk; lost one man."

Mr. Rouse was on his way in with two scows bringing 14 head of mules besides a heavy cargo of wagons and other material. Just to what extent his loss is or who the man drowned is not known and probably will not be until the arrival of Mr. Rouse. It is thought at his office that the mules were probably saved but from the telegram it would appear that the whole outfit was lost.

Mr. Hubrick who sent the wire has been in the employ of Mr. Rouse during the winter on Dominion and is now enroute to the outside.

OUTING UP RIVER

On Steamer Whitehorse With Agent Rogers' Compliments.

The B. V. N. Co.'s new and palatial steamer Whitehorse presented a very pretty appearance as she glided from the wharf last night, taking more than 200 of Dawson's elite for a cruise on the river. The steamer Whitehorse is undoubtedly the finest passenger boat which has ever traveled on the river and many were the praises heard concerning her last night after the excursionists had made an examination of her state rooms, dining hall, social halls and other accommodations.

The officers of the boat are all able and experienced river navigators. Capt. Wm. Turnbull is a well-known river boatman as is Pilot Geo. Shaver. Mr. Sharp the purser and Harry Drake the steward as well as Mr. Crosby chief engineer are all thoroughly competent men in their respective positions.

The evening was perfect for a ride on the water and everything was in proper accord for making the trip in every way an enjoyable one.

The departure of the steamer from the wharf was witnessed by a large crowd who lined the wharves and river bank and exchanged cheers and handkerchief waves with those on board.

For two hours the steamer plowed her way through the water and stopped some ten miles up the river where a landing was made and everyone went ashore. Everyone was feeling so exuberant that an expression of some kind was absolutely necessary, so that when they went ashore whistles were made from the young saplings and were tooted with a vim. Another stop was made a couple of miles farther up the river where wood was taken aboard during which time the excursionists were invited down to the lower deck where the large freight space had been made in readiness for a dance. The floor being new was in fine condition and for two hours the light fantastic was tripped to the music of a violin and harp played by C. A. Jacobs and Johnny Anorala. Harry Drake the steward acted as floor manager and under his skillful guidance the dance was made a perfect success.

Light refreshments were served which greatly added to the enjoyment of the occasion. The return trip was made in a very short time and at 2:30 this morning the boat tied up at the dock and the excursionists went to their homes expressing thanks to Mr. J. H. Rogers, agent of the company for the enjoyable trip.

STEAMER ELDORADO

Arrives This Morning With Lower River Freight.

The steamer Eldorado arrived in Dawson and tied up at the Aurora Dock about 11 o'clock this morning from Hootalinqua. The disaster which was so freely predicted during the winter would happen to her when the ice broke up this spring, was not experienced and she glided into the water from her winter quarters just like a duck, so the purser said this morning. The Eldorado brought down another consignment of U. S. freight for the lower river from Hootalinqua, the cargo being brought to that port from Whitehorse on the steamer Clara. Her cargo all told amounted to more than 200 tons including several large boilers and other heavy machinery.

Man Compared.

If man grew as fast in proportion as a silk worm, he would be bigger than an elephant in two months. If he could navigate as fast in proportion as the average house fly, he could cross the Atlantic and back in the time it takes him to eat his breakfast. If he had as many eyes in proportion as the butterfly, he would have 40,000, to say nothing of an extra pair in his head for skylights. If he could spring as far in proportion as the spider, he could jump over the tallest tree in California, and it wouldn't bother him in the least. Man isn't the whole thing after all.—Freeport Journal.

Artificial Sponges.

Artificial sponges are made in Germany by treating pure cellulose with zinc chloride. The product swells in water and on drying becomes hard. But to prevent this action alkalis are used. A pasty mass is thus obtained, which, being treated with rock salt, is then placed in a mold. When removed, it appears to be traversed by canals in all directions, and after having been washed in alcohol and water the sponge is ready for use.

Mr. T. S. Lippy the Eldorado magistrate, departed for the outside today on the steamer Whitehorse taking with him the result of the winter's cleanup on 16 Eldorado variously estimated from $250,000 to $300,000. Accompanying Mr. Lippy is Mrs. Lippy and sister. Mr. J. J. Patrow, manager for Mr. Lippy, was also a passenger on the Whitehorse.

How It Happened.

"How did Mr. Holdover get the reputation of being such a deep, intellectual person?"

"Well," answered Farmer Cornstossel, "we all listened to his speeches, and we judged by his actions that he understood every word he was saying. We concluded from that that he must be a most extraordinary smart man, so we didn't have no more words about it, but sent him right along to congress."—Washington Star.

"But," said the soldier lover as he kissed her good-by, "suppose I should return maimed—minus both arms, for instance—wouldn't you hesitate to marry me?"

"I'd marry you at once," she replied. "It would be useless to prolong our courtship."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

GIANTS TO MEET

In the Roped Arena on Saturday, June 29th.

Slavin and Billy Bates are matched to meet at the Savoy theater on June 29th. Bates is a strapping fellow with lots of steam and scientific boxer. It is said that it was partly through him that Devine made such a poor showing against Slavin, as while sparring with the former, Bates threw in a body blow a few days before the contest which broke Devine's ribs, consequently when he appeared he was an easy mark for Slavin. Money was offered last night even by Tummie McDonald at the Exchange that Bates would get the best of the match.

Slavin is said to be in his usual fine physical condition and has written Charley Meadows of the Savoy that he will do Bates inside of eight rounds.
