Dramatic Testimony of Edward Bull's Four Children. Three of Them Saw Him Murder Their Mother.

An under-sized wretch with a face as mean as ever bore the mark of Cain, was sent to the New Jersey State prison last week for twenty years.

Bull had murdered his wife in the presence of three of their four children and then had cut his own throat.

Bull's children are 16, 14, 11, and 9 years of age. His wife was 40. He is 42. He is an Englishman, and from all that came out on his trial was evidently one of those who believe in the 'old-time' religion.

Attempted murders and a partially successful jail delivery have caused much excitement at the United States penitentiary on McNeill's Island, Washington. Ward-Palmer and four guards had a remarkable escape. The prisoners, led by John Wade, a notorious smuggler, secured powder, and placed it in the food of the warden and his assistants. But for the fact that the prisoners used too much powder, none of the intended victims probably would have escaped. All were made very sick. During the excitement which followed, four of the prisoners with Wade at their head, made their escape from the island and have been at large since. The prisoners intended to kill the guards and then set all the men in the prison, fifty in number, at liberty.

THE HERALD.
FREDERICTON, OCTOBER 13, 1894.
AFRAID OF THE PEOPLE.

No such political backdown has ever been witnessed in Canada as the Dominion Government have exhibited with regard to the opening of Carlwell. Mr. White, the M. P. for that county, for two years, has had the promise of the Montreal collectorship of customs, and has been urging his appointment, but so far the government have not dared to accept his resignation and open the constituency. A few weeks ago they sent Mr. White into the county to arrange for his successor, but the Tory convention forced the government nominee aside and made their own selection notwithstanding Mr. White's presence. His active canvass for the government's man, the Mr. Carthyites in the meantime made their nomination, but the government seeing certain defeat if the election was called on, crawled into their hole, and now the announcement of a semi-officially made from Ottawa that no constituency will be opened until the general election. Mr. White must therefore wait for his appointment, and the Montreal custom house continues to be run by the subordinates.

A similar condition of affairs exists in Lisgar, Manitoba. Hon. Dr. Shultz's natural term of office as governor has elapsed, and Mr. Ross, M. P. for Lisgar is slated as his successor. Mr. Ross wants the appointment now—has been expecting it for some weeks, but it is the same story as in Carlwell—the government dare not open the constituency. Mr. Laurier's campaign in the West has aroused the people to the inequities of the administration, and no government candidate can count with any certainty on being elected in that country. So Mr. Ross, like Mr. White, must wait.

Then there is Quebec West, which has been vacant since Hon. John Hearns' death nearly nine months ago. The constituency is close and the chances for an Opposition victory excellent, but the government, as in Carlwell and Lisgar, are afraid to call an election. Surely such political cowardice was never before witnessed in Canada.

AN INCOME TAX PROPOSED.
The Ottawa Journal, a newspaper with Conservative sympathies, suggests, possibly under inspiration from the government, that the time is rapidly approaching when Canada will be compelled to levy an income tax to assist in paying the interest on the public debt, and to preserve the equilibrium between revenues and expenditure. The Journal points out that the Dominion revenue and expenditure for the first three months of the present fiscal year have been a million and a half worse than last year, which means a deficit at the end of the year of five or six millions in current expenditure alone. Besides this, there will be a big output on capital account. Last year there was over four millions, and for the first three months of this year has been $841,000. The Journal thinks it quite possible altogether that the net public debt will swell by eight or nine millions by the end of the present fiscal year.

It claims that there is no likelihood in the early future of either an increase in customs or duties on exports, and that to meet such deficits, and suggests that Canada should follow the example of Great Britain and the United States by imposing an income tax. The British income tax, it says, brought in seventy-five million dollars last year without touching the poorer classes. The United States income tax is estimated next year to produce thirty millions, although payable only by people having incomes of more than four thousand dollars a year.

It will be a great shame if Canada in the present generation at least, is compelled to levy an income tax. This country is sufficiently burdened already with taxes, and the ambition of the people is to lower them, instead of seeking new methods of adding to the burden. If the reckless extravagance of the government at Ottawa could be driven out of office, there would be no need of talking up new methods of grinding the people with taxes. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been squandered during the Conservative regime in the past sixteen years, the debt has increased to an enormous amount, and now the organs of the government are feeling the public pulse as to how much more taxation Canada can stand.

THAT SENATE VACANCY.
The Globe thinks that Mr. Temple's chances for a senatorship just now are not very bright, and that the government expect him to help them win another victory in York before going to the upper chamber. It also calls attention to the fact that there is a great deal of indifference among Mr. Temple's friends as to whether he gets the appointment or not. Apart from Mr. Temple's alleged "claims" on the ground of party service, the fact stands that he is too old a man to appoint to office. Mr. Temple is nearing his seventy-sixth year, and might reasonably be laid aside from public duty. There are enough old men in the senate already, plenty of utterly useless old men, without adding Mr. Temple to the number. The Herald possesses the deepest veneration and respect for old age, but we cannot see the sense of making legislators of octogenarians. If Mr. Temple must be provided for, give him a pension and appoint some live, active, intelligent man to the senate from this vicinity. We have never had a representative in that body since its organization. The late Senator Odell who was supposed to hail from these parts lived in Halifax. Surely the Conservatives are so hard up for senatorial timber, as the talk of Mr. Temple's appointment would suggest.

Regarding Liberal prospects in York, we shall have something to say later. But this much we can say now, that there is every prospect of this constituency returning to its old time Liberal allegiance, the first opportunity that offers. The persons who bore the party down with the weight of their unpopularity, are not now counted in the Liberal party. They have ratted, and their new found friends are welcome to them.

Hon. EDWARD BLAKE has written to the West Durham Reform Club that the reciprocity resolution passed at the Dominion Liberal convention at Ottawa has ended the difference between him and the Liberal party.

BRUTALLY TREATED.
There is a chance for our friends, Professors Duff and Hatt, to exercise their influence with the faculty of Pardu University, Lafayette, Indiana, of which they are now members, to abolish the senseless and brutal pastime of having which is pretty thoroughly obsolete in many of the best universities in the land. An instance of the brutality often shown in this cruel pastime comes directly from Pardu. The victim was a young man named Parker and the injuries inflicted on him may result in his death. Parker is only seventeen years old and delicate in his make up. He had just got through the high school after making a brilliant record in scholarship at the head of all his classes. This fall his father sent him to Pardu University, and he easily entered as freshman. One evening recently he was returning to his room rather early, when he was seized by three masked men, supposed to be students, and forced into a carriage. The trio carried Parker to a secluded spot several miles into the country, where a halt was made. He was ordered to take off his clothes. He refused, and every garment he had on was torn from his body until he was perfectly naked. His tormentors secured a candle and beat him, forcing him to dance in the cold night air in a nude state. Then they ordered him to mount an old stump and sing them a song; when he refused he was cut with the switches. He was forced to declaim as loud as he could talk and tell his family history as far back as he could remember. He complained of the cold. They had some candles, and after lighting them, allowed the hot melted tallow to run down over his flesh. Then they poured red ink over him and shaved half a watermelon rind over his head. Then they fled away and he was left in the dark to clothe himself and find his way back to his room in the University. The next day he was taken seriously ill.

Parker's father is very much incensed and will demand an immediate and searching investigation by the faculty and full punishment meted out to the assailants of his son. The probability is that the grand jury will be put in possession of the facts and indictments insisted upon. It is to be hoped that the authorities will make an example of young Parker's tormentors, such an example as will prevent any further brutality of the kind.

A NEEDLESS MISSION.
Canada pays High Commissioner Tupper a salary of $10,000 a year and expenses to represent her at London, and the Dominion Government have financial agents in the same city, but when the Government want to borrow money on the pay of floating indebtedness and to construct public works principally to purchase support in the approaching elections, Hon. G. E. Foster must be sent over to England at the public expense. Mr. Foster will do him much good, but he should take it at his own expense. What is the good of Sir Charles Tupper in London if he cannot negotiate a loan for the Government he represents. Possibly Mr. Foster in addition to health seeking, is seeking to get Her Majesty's very slow in recognizing the public services of the Finance Minister. She has up to the present also overlooked one of his ambitious colleagues, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, who for the trouble he took in working up the intercolonial conference, only received an empty note of thanks from Her Majesty.

A gentleman who accompanied Hon. Mr. Laurier on his tour in the western provinces, says that the most ardent admirer of the Liberal leader, or the most enthusiastic adherent of the cause that he advocates, would not have ventured to predict the success that has accompanied him. The people though they have been long-suffering, are now thoroughly aroused in the early future of the hour, and when the time comes for them to speak they will do so in tones so clear and distinct as to leave no doubt upon the minds of those in power as to what their wishes are. They demand freedom of trade and they will have it.

The Ontario opposition are looking around for a leader to succeed Mr. Meredith, but cannot hit on the right man. Hon. J. C. Patterson, minister of militia, was approached, but he declines to give up his position at Ottawa, and his $3,000 salary, to lead a forlorn hope at Toronto. Dalton McCarthy has also been spoken to, but he does not care for the job. How about Dr. Stockton? We might spare him if our Ontario neighbors are really hard up. The Doctor is warranted to fill the bill, and "never would be missed."

GENERAL HERBERT expresses himself as more than pleased with the results of camp Levis. He says that he has never seen men learn more quickly, that his conduct was excellent, and what is more satisfactory than anything else, he never saw a dull or unhappy face the whole time he was in camp. The men worked steadily for five weeks and seemed to enjoy themselves thoroughly. Perhaps there is another side to the story.

An election will be held in Gloucester Nov. 5th to fill the seat vacated by Mr. Blanchard, now M. P. for the county. F. J. Venoit of the Courier, Joseph Poirier, ex-M. P. P., and P. E. Powlin, are mentioned as probable candidates.

St. John citizens who have their summer residences at Westfield, yesterday presented Conductor Joe Henderson and Baggage Master Quilty, of the Fredericton express, with merriment pipes and cigar holders, in recognition of the trainmen's unflinching courage.

Prof. Dixon of the University, delivered his first lecture in the university extension course, at St. John last night, on astronomy. There was a good attendance, and the subject was illustrated by lime light views, making it very interesting.

The great Irish orator, T. D. Sullivan, M. P., ex-Lord Mayor of Dublin, is to speak in the city on the evening of November 7th.

White's Cove.
Oct. 8—C. W. White is building a new store, and expects to have it ready to have it completed and filled with goods. Miss Dora Drillon, who was so badly burned a few weeks ago, died on Sept. 30th, and was buried on Tuesday, Oct. 2d. The Rev. Mr. Young is holding special services for the late Mrs. Drillon, there were three converts baptized on Sunday last.

Wallace Ferris has gone to St. Martins to resume his studies in the seminary at that place. Westford Taylor has gone back to Boston to resume his dental studies. Miss Dora White has gone to the Narrows to live with her sister, Mrs. Cox. Miss Jennie Macdonald has charge of the school here, and under her instructions the pupils are progressing rapidly.

Luttwig.
A large crowd gathered at the cemetery of the Ludlow Baptist church on the 5th, just to pay the last respects to a dear departed friend and relative Edhel I. Hovey eldest daughter of Alfred Hovey. Deceased was 23 years of age and has for some five or six years been a member of the church. She died in full faith of her Redeemer. Deep sympathy is felt for Alfred Hovey who has recently lost his wife and a little boy three years old. Rev. E. Bell preached the funeral sermon.

FATHER RITCHIE ON DIVORCE.
He Must Refuse the Eucharist to Divorced Persons. The are Remarried.
With "Divorce" as a text, Father Ritchie recently delivered a sermon at St. Ignace's Protestant Episcopal church, New York. He said in part:
"A large majority of mankind looks upon marriage as a civil contract, which may be broken under certain conditions, non-support, or incompatibility of temper, for instance, but it is not such a contract; it is a divine institution, upon which God sheds the light of his great blessing. The word divorce is looked upon in two ways—separation, which does not grant to either person the privilege of subsequent marriage, while the other alive, and absolute divorce, which means a dissolution of the tie, and carries with it the right for one or the other to marry. Now, so far as the latter is concerned it is, according to the Catholic church, an absolute impossibility. There is no dissolution of the bond save by the hand of death. God's Church does not recognize absolute divorce, except when required by a violation of the laws of consanguinity, which are set forth in the Book of Common Prayer; or in the case of a marriage which has been invalid from its very commencement and therefore no marriage it was. Separation is recognized under certain circumstances to be necessary, but neither one nor separated is free to remarry until the other has died."
"From the wording of the marriage ritual the man and the woman take each other as husband and wife until death does them part, and the minister who performs the ceremony says, 'whom God hath joined together let not man put asunder.' That shows that the prayer book does not recognize divorce. When the Pharisees asked Christ if it is lawful to put away a wife, He told them it was not, but twice in the book of Matthew Christ appears to make an exception to the law of absolute divorce in the case of the great sin against the marriage bond. In Mark and Luke there is no mention of this exception. Almost the whole of the Eastern Church consider it lawful for the innocent person to marry after an absolute divorce on account of this sin, but the Western Church does not recognize such a right." Just before closing his sermon father Ritchie said:
"The Bible and prayer book say that those who sin against God's laws are not to sit at His table until they show signs of repentance. There are those who sin openly, make no effort to hide their evil deeds, and whose wickedness is revealed to all men. These evil doers may be in high authority or high in the social world, and suppose one comes to this altar, is it not my duty to repulse him? Yes, and it is now a time for all Christians to take a stand aloof. The Lord says those who tolerate open breakers of His laws are themselves guilty. The stand for Christians to take is that of the Holy Scriptures, that all dissolvers of the marriage tie are adulterers."

INTERESTING SOCIAL EVENT.
In Which a Young Lady Well Known in Fredericton, was one of the Principals.
The sun shone brightly on Wednesday morning, says the St. Andrews Beacon, in honor of the marriage of Miss Christie Stevenson, only daughter of the late Hon. B. R. Stevenson, and A. D. Wetmore, of Truro, N.S.

Ten o'clock was the hour appointed for the ceremony. At that time, all Saints' church was crowded with invited guests and friends of the bride, who spent their waiting moments in admiring the chaste and beautiful decorations of the church. The chancel was decorated in yellow and white flowers, the altar in pure white, and the pulpit in white and gold. The effect being very pleasing. As the bride entered the church, leaning on the arm of her brother, J. F. Stevenson, she looked quite regal in a costume of white satin on train, trimmed with a profusion of white lace. She wore a white veil, and carried a magnificent bouquet of white roses. Miss Edith Hilyard, of Fredericton, attended as bridesmaid, costumed in cream crepon. She looked very pretty indeed. The many guests were carefully looked after by Mr. John I. Robinson of St. John. The choir sang "Paved with Love," as the bridal party moved up the aisle. Miss Magee playing the accompaniment on the organ. The ushers were Messrs. F. H. Grimmer, M. N. Cockburn, W. Whitlock and E. A. Cockburn.

Rev. Canon Ketchum performed the impressive ceremony which made the twin one flesh, the responses being clearly made by the bride and groom. Mr. J. F. Stevenson gave the bride away. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played as a concluding piece.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the residence of the bride's mother. Among those present from outside were Thomas Temple, Esq., Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Hilyard, Miss Hilary, Miss May Hilary, of Fredericton; Mrs. John Bolton and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Todd, of St. Stephen; Mrs. Douglas Wetmore and Mrs. Stewart, of Truro, N.S.; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Clinch, of St. John, and Mr. C. V. Wetmore, of Houlton.

Mr. and Mrs. Wetmore went to St. Stephen in the forenoon, and took the night train for Toronto and Montreal. On their return from their honeymoon trip, they will make their home in Truro.

LORD ABERDEEN AS ENGINEER.
At Brandon, Manitoba, the other night, a fire broke out in a small house situated in the eastern portion of the city. There was the usual rush to the scene of the fire. In the yard an engine of the C. P. R. was resting noiselessly near the depot, when the engineer in charge, thought to move in the direction of the fire. Just then two or three men stepped on the engine and were promptly and bravely ordered off. One of the strangers, a man about forty-five, appealed to the engineer, stating that he also was an engineer. This was sufficient, so he was invited to retake his position, and according to custom was also asked to take the lever, which he did, opening wide the throttle. The party were soon on their way to the fire. In the meantime the stranger was being taken in by the crew. Imagine their surprise as the glare of the cat-light revealed the features of the Governor-General of Canada. In a few moments the destination was reached. All hands, including Lord Aberdeen, enjoyed the affair.

GENERAL BOOTH AND THE SACRAMENTS.
When General Booth was at Montreal the other day, he explained the Salvation Army's principles to the principal officers of the city. In reply to the question of what the Army's present attitude is towards the Sacraments, especially Holy Communion, General Booth said that it would take a long time to explain, but at the beginning officers and soldiers were recommended to go to church to receive the sacraments. After a company of them had gone to an Anglican church, and the record said that he must draw the line at those who had been confirmed, he studied the matter, and did not recognize that it was a command of Christ to observe the sacrament. The sacraments were not a condition of salvation, and for the present the army had decided not to bother with them. With the class of people they dealt with there would be trouble about water baptism and other things.

George Goodridge Fraser, whose death is reported from India, was a son of the late Dr. Fraser of this city and a nephew of the late W. H. Needham. Mrs. McLeod, mother of Mrs. Dr. Shepard and Mrs. H. H. Pitts, died at the latter's home yesterday, aged seventy-four. She belonged to Springfield, Kings Co. Mrs. James Tibbitts left yesterday to spend the winter with friends in California. She expects to join a party at Boston which will be her first journey's end. His Lordship the Bishop of Fredericton, is expected at Bentons on Wednesday, the 22d inst., when the rite of confirmation will be given to a number of candidates in St. Marys Church. Some unknown person broke a window in the Methodist church Thursday night, and obtained an entrance, but there was nothing there that suited his taste and he left without booty. Mrs. Belle M. Taylor & Co., the St. Marys milliners, will have their opening day next Wednesday, Oct. 17th, and will show the ladies of that locality will swarm the place to see the latest styles. Mr. and Mrs. T. Carleton Allen left for Boston this morning, and before returning Mr. Allen will consult an ear and throat specialist for a trouble from which he has been suffering for some time. WANTED - A capable girl to do general housework; small family; good wages. Must come well recommended. Mrs. F. I. MORRISON, Oct. 13. Charlotte Street, Fredericton. Hon. A. F. Randolph, Rev. Dr. Saunders, H. C. Creed and D. W. Estabrooks have been appointed a committee by the Baptist congregation to arrange the program for induction of Rev. J. D. Friedman on the 24th inst. Mrs. J. C. Miller, Miss D. Sadie Wiley, Miss Jennie Cooper and Miss Bessie McNally were thrown from a carriage on Brunswick street Wednesday afternoon, but all escaped injury except Mrs. Miller, who was badly bruised. The Carleton Circuit court, Judge Van-Wart presiding, opens at Woodstock on Tuesday next, and on the docket will be the criminal libel suit brought by Registrar Leighton against J. H. Crockett, of the Fredericton Standard. The St. Stephen curlers have decided to enter the Maritime association this year and take part in the bonspiel, and to accept an invitation for a game to the Toronto Curling Club, members of which have signified a desire to visit New Brunswick this winter. Inspector Carter knows a good thing when he sees it. At the Charlotte county teachers' institute meeting last week he read to the teachers assembled, a recent editorial from THE HERALD, containing advice to parents in relation to the public schools. Chas. Perry, charged by Mrs. Margaret Eatonman with attempt at rape has been sent up for trial at the next Sunbury Circuit Court, which meets next Tuesday at Burton. In the preliminary examination Chas. E. Duffy appeared for the Crown, and Geo. F. Gregory, Q. C., for the prisoner. Judge Wedderburn was among the guests at the Queen this week. He looks just as jaunty as when fighting the Fraser-Wedderburn government battles in the legislature fifteen years ago. The Judge unions farming with the dispensing of justice and has a charming home at Hampton. M. D. Dixon, barrister of St. John, acting for John B. Gunter, insurance agent, of this city, has issued a writ against Hon. A. F. Randolph, John W. Spurgeon, H. C. Creed, Havelock Coy, John T. Clark, B. A. Everett, and Judson Estabrooks, claiming $10,000 damages for wrongful expulsion from the Baptist church of this city. W. H. Murray, the well known lumberman, who is a Kingsclear man, living in St. John, did a generous act for the ladies who got up Thursday night's concert. He paid the car fare of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra from St. John to Fredericton and returned over twenty dollars, and is entitled to the ladies' sincerest thanks. The members of the orchestra charged nothing for their services. A sad fatality occurred at Burton, Sunbury County, during the thunder and lightning storm Thursday afternoon. The electric fluid struck a barn house belonging to Thomas Lyons, and his nephew, a twelve year old son, of James Fell, of Shirley Settlement, who was in the house at the time, was instantly killed. The horse and man were both badly shattered. Thomas Bolter of Currie Settlement raises big potatoes. He had some at the Stanley fair Wednesday, and John Boyle of this city who went up to take in the show and to shake his feet at the Stanley ball, was so struck with Mr. Bolter's potatoes that he brought a peck of them home and has them at J. Boyle & Sons meat market, King-st. They are black kidneys, and twenty-five of them weigh twenty-four pounds. They are some potatoes sure. J. P. Leaman & Co., the leading butchers and pork packers of Halifax, paid John Edgewood & Sons a great compliment when they ordered two delivery wagons from the latter firm. There are lots of carriage manufacturers in Halifax, but when Leaman & Co. wanted the best article to be had they came to Fredericton. The wagons - two beauties they are with all the modern attachments - were shipped this week and will open the eyes of the Halifax people. The York County Rifle Association held their annual rifle match Saturday, but the weather was unfavorable for shooting and most of the scores were small. Sgt. Duncan won first place with 86 points, Major Leggett was second with 85, P. Burns third with 80, R. T. Mack fourth with 71, Corporal Stewart Campbell, of the Flatfoots, fifth with 66 and Surgeon Bridges sixth with 65. Lieut. Hawthorn and Pt. Masie have killed so many partridges this season (in their minds) that their aim at the target was not as steady as usual. They scored respectively 46 and 39, and Lt. Leek brought up the rear with 32.

A MUSICAL WONDER.

Little six-year-old Olivia Murray Plays the Violin Like a Professional.

The concert in the city hall Thursday evening under the auspices of the Women's Aid Association of St. Peter's church, Kingsclear, revealed to the Fredericton public a musical prodigy in the person of little Miss Olivia Murray, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ranney Murray, Kingsclear. Only a year ago the child's musical genius was discovered by J. Fraser Gregory, who has taught her in the meantime to play the violin with remarkable correctness and ability. She reads quite difficult music readily and can play also by ear. Thursday evening she appeared in two numbers and was enthusiastically encored, her performance arousing the astonishment and admiration of the audience. It is nothing more than the truth to say that the child plays as well as any amateur ever heard on the city hall stage, and with continued training she will win her way to the highest standard of professional violinists. The concert as a whole was a great success and kept the attention of a large audience to the close. The program included several selections by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra, two vocal solos by Mrs. Macdonald, Black, one each by Miss Macdonald, niece of Rev. Canon Roberts, and A. E. Massie, Miss Murray's violin selections, a piano solo by Miss Radcliff of Boston, and a quartette by A. E. Massie, A. Tibbitts, Frank Cooper and Gerald McGrath. All the numbers were encored and very heartily enjoyed. The accompanist was Miss Perry. At the conclusion of the program Rev. Canon Roberts, of Spring Hill, returned the thanks of the promoters to the ladies and gentlemen who took part, and to the audience for their generous patronage.

CONDUCTOR YOUNMAN'S DEATH.

Almost Instantly Killed by Falling from a Canada Eastern Train.

Edward Younman, one of the most popular conductors on the Canada Eastern railway, met his death almost instantly this side of Blackville, Tuesday afternoon. The exact cause of his fatal fall will never be known; but the circumstances show that it was entirely accidental, and that no blame can be attached to anybody. The deceased had charge of a special train which carried Alex. Gibson and Supt. Hobson to Blackville, and it was on the return trip that he met his death. He was not a strong man, and it is said was subject to fainting spells. It is supposed that while standing on the car platform he was seized with one of these, and losing his hold he fell from the rapidly traveling train, receiving such injuries as resulted in almost immediate death. The only eyewitness of Younman's fall was the section man, who saw the unfortunate fellow as he struck the ground. The only wound was on the neck which was considerably swollen, and one side of the face was bruised. An inquest was held at Doaktown and the jury returned a verdict of accidental death, and that no blame was attached to anyone. The remains were brought to the Albion hotel in this city, where the deceased was buried, and the funeral took place Thursday afternoon with interment at Marysville. The Organmen of the city and Marysville headed by the Marysville band, escorted the remains to the grave. The services at the hotel were conducted by Rev. F. D. Davidson, of Gibson, and at the cemetery by Rev. W. V. Lodge. A very large number of people were present to pay their last tribute of respect to the deceased. Conductor Younman is highly spoken of by everybody enjoying his acquaintance. With the higher officials of the road and the employes generally, he was esteemed for his many kindly qualities, and by the patrons of the railway who brought him into contact with him, he was regarded with confidence and esteem. He belonged to Gibson, but both father and mother are dead. He was thirty years old and unmarried.

Mr. Wilmot's Generosity.

Some weeks ago, a member of the Fredericton cricket club interviewed Mr. Fenety, who is carrying out E. H. Wilmot's wishes in beautifying Wilmot Park, and inquired if Mr. Wilmot would likely consent to the club preparing a cricket ground in the park. Mr. Fenety kindly laid the matter before Mr. Wilmot, and the answer promptly came through the former gentleman, that if the club would select the ground they desired, Mr. Wilmot would consider the matter. A committee was appointed, the site selected and a formal proposition in writing was submitted to Mr. Wilmot through Mr. Fenety. The club expected to pay for the improvements themselves, but Mr. Wilmot's generosity has willed it otherwise, and next season, through his kindness and the good offices of Mr. Fenety, the Fredericton cricketers will have one of the finest grounds in the province. The following letters in reply to the club's proposition, have been received by the member of the club committee, who was delegated to correspond with Mr. Fenety in the matter. Fredericton, Oct. 8, 1894. Dear Sir, - I enclose for the information of the club, Mr. Wilmot's reply, which I hope will prove to be satisfactory. Mr. Dunlap commenced work yesterday, and I think he will make a good job of it. Respectfully yours, G. E. FENETY.

THE GAME OF FOOTBALL.

Notes and Incidents of the Sport as Played in Fredericton.

As a sport, football is booming in New Brunswick this autumn. There is a regular league including St. John, Sackville, Moncton and the University of N. B., and the final winners will carry off a $80 cup contributed by the four clubs. The University claims to have the best team they ever sent into the field, and will make a gamey struggle for first place in the league. They play their first game here on Friday, the 12th inst. at 2 p. m. Tom Powers, a popular senior and a fearless player, is captain of the University team and he is backed up by some very active men - perhaps Armstrong and Markham are two of the best men in the city. The town boys have organized a team primarily to give the University something more practice, and two matches have already been played between them. The first ended in a draw, and the second on Wednesday afternoon resulted in a small victory in favor of the University. It is according to the ruling of Prof. Davidson, the referee. The town team think they were unfairly treated, and say they won't play again with Mr. Davidson as referee. They accuse him of imputing to him malicious decisions against them, but they think he gives all the doubts to the University men. The HERALD confesses to a very slight knowledge of the game, and therefore does not venture an opinion on the referee's rulings. Perhaps the fact that some of his decisions have been questioned will put the referee on his guard in future. Football, according to Rugby rules, is a rough game, and it takes considerable courage, strength, activity and will to successfully engage in it. Some lively scraps have already taken place between the City and University teams. An instance - an amusing incident of Wednesday's play is to the point. A big burly athletic member of the City team, with a broad Scottish accent, secured the ball and was making for the goal with a wonderful burst of speed, when he was intercepted by a University player who was considerably smaller in proportion. The latter tackled his opponent and the big fellow brushed him off as gently as possible, using his right arm for the service. The arm came in sudden contact with the University man's face and sent him sprawling on the grass, while Scotty continued his run for the goal. A foul was claimed. The HERALD thinks unjustly allowed, but that, however, is not to the point. The two men in collision met at a later stage of the game and discussed in a friendly way how it happened. The University player claimed that his antagonist had used his fist not his arm, which the city man very strenuously and truthfully denied. He did not play football with his fist, and then he gave U. N. B. some pointers on how to "neck". "Ah, but you know the difference between a man's sleeve and his bare knuckles," said U. N. B. "You are a clever mistake, or you are telling an untruth," retorted the city player. But the University player would have his way. Finally, as a clincher to his side of the question, the big athletic fellow explained, as he closed the argument, "man, if I had hit ye with me fist, ye would ha'e been lying on the grass there yet." The little fellow evidently felt the force of Scotty's remark, and looked happy in the thought that after all, he must have been mistaken, and he was mistaken, as the HERALD can aver. The big athletic fellow is a tower of strength to the city club, and his play wins the admiration of the spectators. Next Wednesday afternoon, the teams will meet again at Fenety's field, and the friends of both are looking forward with great interest to the game. The city team will be strengthened somewhat, and Capt. Harry McLeod expects that his men will win. So does Capt. Tom Powers, and one of them will be disappointed.

TWELVE YEARS AT DORCHESTER

Mount and Brown Convicted and Sentenced for Burning the Salvation Army Barracks.

THE HERALD last week told of the conviction of Brown for burning the Salvation Army barracks in this city. His accomplice, Jeff Mount, was tried in the county court Tuesday and the trial closed Wednesday with a verdict of "guilty." The same witnesses were called against Mount as testified in Brown's case, but Brown himself, told a different story. When Brown found that he had been convicted, he evidently made up his mind that he would not go to Dorchester alone, so when he was put on the witness stand against Mount he turned Queen's evidence, and left the jury, if they believed his testimony, no other alternative than the conviction of Mount. Brown's Evidence. Brown testified that he was at the fire with Jeffery Mount. He was there when the fire was set. On Tuesday night he left the barracks at ten. Walked up and down the street. Was going down King street. He heard some one cry "New York." He found it was Mount. Mount offered him a drink. He said he was going to burn the barracks. While they were talking the officers were talking in barracks. After they went out when the fire started, Brown was on the outside. There was whistling going on for signal purposes. The signals were arranged beforehand. Mount came out of the building and they walked towards the shed in the rear towards Brunswick street. They stood near a fence. Mount asked him about Jess James and Buck and Jim. Buck was using and Jim got clear. That meant who was on duty was to stand the brunt of it. Mount went into the building the second time. He immediately returned and said that it was burning brightly. They ran to Brunswick street and down to Carleton. They were the alarm at the Methodist Church. Witnesses had one drink which Mount gave him. When Mount entered the building the first time witness was standing near the ladder. Mount thought the fire was going out so went back the second time. Witness had on dark clothes and straw hat with black band. He saw Mount throw the drum and witness put it where it was afterwards found. The story he told on Friday was this. Mr. Van Wart then called Jeffery Mount to give evidence on his own behalf, which was practically the same as at Brown's trial. He knew nothing about the conversation between himself and Brown as heard by Chas. Wright. Brown's evidence is false and "Brown's liar or any other man that says so." He had not seen Brown since the previous Tuesday. He knew nothing about the events as given in Mr. Howard's evidence. He was not one of the persons who saw. Brown's evidence was absolutely false. He was trying to bring the witness into it to clear some one else. Convicted and Sentenced. After some further minor proceedings the jury retired at 5 p. m. Tuesday. They were out two hours and returned with a verdict of "guilty." Mount and Brown were arraigned for sentence at 3 p. m. Wednesday, and the court room was filled with people when Judge Steadman accompanied by Judge Vanwart took his seat on the bench, and J. H. Barry, for the crown, moved for sentence on the prisoners. His Honor first addressed Brown, pointing out to him the serious crime of which he was now convicted, and sentenced him to twelve years imprisonment in Dorchester penitentiary. In addressing Mount, Judge Steadman was visibly affected. He referred to the prisoner's former respectable life and to the bad associations which had brought him to the penitentiary. He said that he was sorry for Mount's respectable mother, sister and friends, but he had no help for them. The law gave him no power to impose a life sentence on both prisoners, but he would not exercise his prerogative to the full extent. He then sentenced Mount to twelve years at Dorchester. So far as outward appearances went, neither of the prisoners were affected by the sentence, and as they were led off to jail by Deputy Sheriff Hawthorn and Constable Smith, they said good-by to their friends. The prisoners were taken to Dorchester Thursday by the Deputy Sheriff.

SELECT STORY.

A CRUEL WRONG.

By the author of "That Fair Face," "She Knows Best," etc.

CHAPTER III.

It was the aunt's turn to laugh now,
and look amused.

"My poor child," she said, "what do you know about your father?"

"You shall have what you require;
yours is no very extravagant demand."

"My dear friend," she remarked to Denise's mother, "your niece seems to have sprung into a woman all at once."

"There was method in her complaint now—she wished to see what effect it would have on her son; she was not at all pleased to remark a glad light springing into those expressive eyes of his."

"Do take my little cousin about the grounds, Mr. Kerrison, she has never been to Kingscote before. I shall owe you my eternal gratitude if you amuse her, she so revels in floral and sylvan beauties."

and the marvellous Chief-Jesses they had been collecting for centuries. Sir Giles was a worthy descendant of a noble race; he would not despise—the rather added to the hooped-up treasures.

The gallery was extensive and well-filled. It was no small office to be certain to Denise, who lingered before the smallest picture, asking pertinent questions, begging for history of noble knight and lovely dame. Sir Giles' heart was in his employment. Never had he found this girl he dubbed coquette, so engaging;

"Oh, how awful!" exclaimed Denise, shivering and drawing closer to Sir Giles, her golden head near his shoulder, she clinging to his arm. "Were you ever in a storm?" she asked, in an awful whisper,

"Another and another tale she craved, so he went on from grave to gay, watching the ruby lips, sometimes rippling with smiles and dimples, then changing to solemn awe, her breath panting, her bosom heaving. He had no idea she was so enthusiastic, even his mother had not spoken of this similarity in their art tastes."

"Let us look at the living picture now," she exclaimed playfully, drawing him towards one of the windows. There was a view of the grounds below, they thought to see it filled with gay dresses, a joyous, laughing crowd; it was deserted, not a soul upon the lawn.

"Not much need to inquire the wherefore, rain had begun to fall; as they looked, a vivid flash of lightning flashed before their eyes, almost blinding in its brilliance, filling the whole gallery with its electric light—Denise drew closer to him, with a tiny scream, shading her eyes beside his broad shoulder; when the rumbling thunder had stopped rolling,
she said, childishly—

"Do you know, I fear—a chestnut tree or so, all the rest nuts and undergrowth. It was but an ordinary tree, the great Kingcote woods, Noreen so loved; yet as the thunder crashed around him, and the lightning forked the dismal sky, he shuddered at the aspect of the place."

"Noreen, Noreen, my love! Cannot you hear me? Oh, my darling!"

"He stood still and listened, dashing the water from his face and eyes. No sound but the maddened rivulet, the rain pat-tering heavily on the tree tops."

"And then, was Providence merciful?
Did he really hear a low moaning, the sound of stifled sobs?"

"Close beside him was a tiny wooden hut, placed there for the use of the game-keepers. He bent his ear to the low doorway, listening with bated breath, with anxious heart-throbs. Surely it was not imagination, something human suffering there. Could it be Noreen?"

"It did not take him long to push the door back and enter—to fly to a pile of leaves at the other end, whereon lay a graceful figure in white. He flung himself beside her, clasping his arms about the lovely form, turning her marble face to the light. The eyes were closed, the hands limp, only a faint moaning came over and anon from the pale lips."

"Speak to me, darling! Look at me, Noreen!" he implored, straining her to his breast, striving to call back the life that seemed ebbing away. Just low shuddering passed through the delicate frame, a weary sigh issued from the sweet mouth. He had pillowed the girl's head on his broad chest; she lay in his arms like a bird chick!"

"My love, my life!" he whispered again; "my precious woodland lily!"

"Like to a flower opening to the warm sun's rays, so gradually the long, dark eyelashes flickered on the pale cheek, and the white eyelids unrolled, disclosing the dark eyes meeting his, the lightning play, wonder. She was bewildered—could not yet recall her scattered senses."

"Where am I? What has happened?"
she asked in a faint voice.

"Darling, you are in my arms. Will not that comfort you?"

"She tried to raise herself, but fell back, the crimson blood mantling to the waves of her curly hair."

"I know you, Sir Giles," she whispered.
"O, please let me go! Where is Denise?"

SEEKING A DIVORCE.

A divorce case was commenced at Hal-fax, Monday, before Judge Graham. The petitioner is Mrs. Bessie Agnes Lovitt, wife of Dr. Jers. I. M. Lovitt of Yarmouth; and daughter of the late Hon. W. B. Beveridge of Annapolis, N. B. Dr. Lovitt is a son of the late W. D. Lovitt, and inherited a quarter of a million dollars. Lovitt was married in Woodstock, N. B., in 1887.
Two children were the result of the marriage. The wife alleges that the husband has been in the habit of remaining out late and drinking. She also alleges in her petition that her husband became acquainted with a woman who alienated her husband's affections. Mrs. Lovitt alleges that when her last child was born, and when she was greatly in need of professional treatment, her husband refused her a nurse and allowed the house woman who was ignorant of such matters, to look after her.

"Mrs. Lovitt was well known as Miss Bessie Beveridge in Fredericton, some years ago, when her father represented Victoria County in the House of Assembly.—HERALD.]

An absent-minded Southwark woman went to bank the other day to have cashed a check her husband sent her. She endorsed it thus: "Your loving wife, Mary Miller."

Students, and especially those of weak constitution, run a terrible risk in "burning the midnight oil." In long hours of massive health is permanently undermined in this manner. Nature exhausted by overwork, and no pains taken to restore the lost energy. Its great value as a nerve and brain invigorator and health restorer offering to the "weary and overworked" the most instructive and entertaining selection of news, literary, political, financial, art, music and general topics of the day and season.

Patrick McQuinn was brought up before the justice in the morning, and when asked his occupation by the clerk said he was a sailor. "A sailor?" retorted the judge. "I don't believe you were at sea in your life." Well retorted the distinguished Irishman, "how does your Honour think I came over from Oireland
—in a wagon?"

RELIEF IN SIX HOURS.—Distressing Kidney and Bladder Diseases relieved in six or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is and Alonzo Staples.

BETTER THAN ALARM CLOCKS.
Bright Boy—"You don't have to wake up the girl any more, do you?"

"I thought she would."
"Why so?"
"All the files I caught in that fly-trap
I took upstairs and let in her room."

Miss Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for their children while teething. If disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child, Diarrhoea, regulates the stomach, send at once and get a bottle of "Miss Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for children teething. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures Diarrhoea, regulates the stomach, and cures Wind Colic, softens the Gums and reduces Inflammation. Is sold by all druggists throughout the world. 25cts per bottle. Be sure and ask for "Miss Winslow's Soothing Syrup."

"Look here," said the proprietor of the lunch establishment, "this coin has a hole in it." "Well," replied the floundering Mike, "so had the doughnut ye sold me." And he strode haughtily on.

A BOON TO HOUSEWIVES.—One bottle of the English Sparin Lintiment completely relieved a cure from my home. I take pleasure in recommending the remedy, as it acts with mysterious promptness in the removal from horses of hard, soft or calloused lumps, blood spavin, splints, curbs, sweeney, stifles and sprains.

PLAUSIBLE EXPLANATION.
Little Johnny—Aunt Julia, what make those funny spots on your face?" Aunt Julia—(who is very freckled)—I believe it is because I have so much iron in my blood; it is only when I have been out in wet weather, though, that they are noticeable.

Little Johnny—Oh, yes; I know! You go out in the weather and the iron in your blood gets rusted.

"How to Cure All Skin Diseases."

A BRILLIANT PROSPECT.
Every time Tony is taken for a walk he is astonished at the number of persons who exchange greetings with his grandfather, who was charge of the little urchin. After thinking it over one day, with a smile on his face and cheerfully remarked: "I say, grand-dad, won't you have a lot of folk to your funeral!"

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.—South American Rheumatic Cure for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It cures on the one case, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly
