MR. CUSTOMER,—

Probably you've economised by doing without your usual suit and overcoat during Fall of 1914. Are you going to have that down-and-out look in Spring 1915? The Allies have millions of men on the firing line, each requiring thirteen pounds of wool every six or eight weeks. The British Government are keeping British Mills turning out army contracts. Spring quotations for wools are sky high. We have on hand a particularly fine range of Serges, Tweed Suits and Overcoatings. Order now as you will have to pay considerably higher in the Spring.

Plot That Failed; OR Love That Would Not Be Denied.

CHAPTER XI.

"I'll take my oath I saw it," he muttered. "It's gone, and I mayn't see it again. But I saw it, I'll swear! Ah!"

The sharp, smothered exclamation was caused by absolute fear.

It had come again.

There, so plain and distinct that he could see every fold in the white robe, was the White Nun!

Jem's face turned pale and his teeth shook.

He had a sensation as of cold water being quietly poured down his back, and his mouth felt dry and hot.

The ghost stood motionless with its back to the window, and a horror seized upon Jem that if might perhaps turn, see him, and—and—he did not know what else to dread!

The horror was not ill-founded. The ghost turned.

Jem saw the hideous white, bleached skull-face, and as the gleaming eyes seemed to pierce him through he fell on the ground, stricken by that nameless horror before which the strongest man must succumb.

How long he lay there he did not know.

When he felt consciousness he found himself covered with dust, fearfully cold, but with no tangible injury.

He rose, shuddered, and striking the dust from his clothes with a shaking, uncertain hand, walked slowly on, averting his eyes from the dreadful window.

"Shall I tell the captain what I've seen?" he thought. "No, he'll swear at me, and say I was drunk, and I should think I was, only I know it 'ud take more than three pints of beer to knock me silly. Ugh! I shan't get the sight of that thing's face and eyes cut of my head till I'm as dead as she was. This is a rum, unearthly sort of place, this is, and if summat uncommon queer and nasty don't happen afore long I'm a Dutchman."

CHAPTER XII.

The morning which had been fixed upon for the riding party was as fine as the many which had preceded it, and there was, as a slice of luck, a fresh breeze blowing from the sea that glittered beyond the cliffs.

Lecester had given his friend Bertie the choice of his stables, and Bertie had selected a rakish-looking chestnut mare, because, as he said, it winked at him as he entered.

"Humour should be encouraged in a horse," he said, with a laugh. "I'll ride this comic old lady."

"And I," said Lecester, "will give the Black Knight a spin."

The Black Knight was a tall, black hunter, a special favorite of Lecester's, and a good but somewhat willful horse.

"I'm afraid the ladies will be burned up," said Mrs. Dodson. "Won't you have a white scarf over your neck, Mr. Fairfax? I can't persuade Lecester, but perhaps you will be more prudent."

"No, thank you, Mrs. Dodson," said Bertie. "I am rather anxious to get tanned, to tell you the truth, but I'm sorry Lecester won't wear one, because if he gets any darker he'll be as black as his horse."

And with that parting salley the light-hearted young fellow rode off after his friend.

When he reached the Park, Violet was standing in her habit on the lawn, with Leo making frantic dashes at her and altogether in insane delight.

"Isn't it hot?" said Violet, as they bent over her hand. "I'm afraid La-good-by she bade them start.

IN THE EVENING TELEGRAM

Although the great lady had been very gracious and smiled her sweetest, all the young people felt an indescribable sense of relief when they had got clear of the great iron gates, and the formal avenue. Ethel, who always seemed quieter and more reserved in her parent's presence, broke into a merry laugh which almost matched that of Violet's, who was telling her some anecdote concerning Leo, who trotted by her side with his great tongue out and his faithful eyes turned up to her with a look of admiring devotion.

"And now for the cliffs," said the captain, raising his white hand toward the sea. "I long for a breath of salt air. Mr. Fairfax, shall we put the horses to a little spurt? Mr. Lecester and my lord, you will look after the ladies?"

And so, much to Bertie's annoyance, he divided the party.

"How beautiful the sea looks," Violet said.

"Yes, the cloth of the field of gold with the jewel side uppermost," said Lecester. "But you can get a better view of it from that promontory yonder. Will you come?"

"Yes," said Violet. "Will you, Lady Boisdale?"

"No," murmured Ethel, in a low voice. "Not if you call me Lady Boisdale, but I will go anywhere with you if you will call me Ethel."

"I will call you Ethel if you call me Violet."

"That I will," said Ethel, and the bargain was struck.

On the way homeward Captain Murpoint did a little expert manoeuvring. The captain, with infinite art, engaged Mr. Lecester in conversation, and by dint of stopping every now and then to ask questions concerning, or to dilate upon, the beauty of the scenery, kept Lecester back while Lord Fitz and Violet went on in front.

As the gentlemen entered Violet said, quickly and with a slight flush: "Hush! do not let us talk about it any more."

"Why?" said Ethel.

"Because," said Violet, with her usual candor and openness. "I promised Mr. Lecester Dodson I would try and forget it."

Lecester dropped into the vacant seat beside Violet without any hesitation.

Bertie, taking courage from Lecester, sauntered up to Lady Ethel, and the two pairs were now very comfortable and happy. But their delight was of short duration.

The captain, as he entered, had passed the quartet on the sofa and had stroked his mustache to hide the evil, malicious smile which crossed his face.

Then he went up to Lady Lackland, and in his soft tones laid himself out to please her.

What's Indigestion? Who Cares? Listen!

"Pape's Diapepsin" makes Sick, Sour, Gassy Stomachs surely feel fine in five minutes.

Time! In five minutes all stomach distress will go. No indigestion, heartburn, sourness or belching of gas, acid, or eructations of undigested food, no dizziness, bloating, foul breath or headache.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in regulating upset stomachs. It is the surest, quickest and most certain indigestion remedy in the whole world, and besides it is harmless.

Millions of men and women now eat their favorite foods without fear—they know Pape's Diapepsin will save them from any stomach misery.

Please, for your sake, get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store and put your stomach right. Don't keep on being miserable—life is too short—you are not here long, so make your stay agreeable. Eat what you like and digest it; enjoy it, without dread of rebellion in the stomach.

Pape's Diapepsin belongs in your home anyway. Should one of the family eat something which don't agree with them, or in case of an attack of indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis or stomach derangement at daytime or during the night, it is handy to give the quickest, surest relief known.

A News Budget From London

LONDON, Jan. 18.

While the main Russian army has been busy repelling what the Grand Duke Nicholas in his official report described as a series of violent attacks by Field Marshal von Hindenburg, to break his way through to Warsaw the other Russian forces stormed and have taken Kribibah on the borders of Transylvania and have made further progress in their advances along the right bank of the Vistula toward the German frontier.

The Germans' force delivered seven successive attacks, which developed into desperate bayonet fighting, or the Russian lines on the left bank of the Vistula, and have succeeded in taking one of the Russian advance trenches. Further south there have been similar attacks, in each case preceded by heavy artillery engagements.

The Russians have succeeded in silencing the heavy Austrian guns which from the banks of the Dunaj have been bombarding the town of Tarnow. The capture of Kribibah Pass, through which the roads lead into the heart of Transylvania, will likely have a political as well as a military effect. It will possibly hasten the action of Roumania and will compel the German allies to send troops for the defence of Easter Hungary.

In the west there has been some hectic fighting on many points. The French claim to have made further progress along the coast of Flanders but not to the extent which they have been credited with by unofficial reports. French progress, however, according to their statement, continues east of Rheims and the Vosges, despite the heavy snow storms.

The official German statement estimates the losses of the Allies since they commenced their offensive four weeks ago, at 150,000, including 20,000 killed, and more than 17 thousand prisoners.

An interesting account from German sources, of the battle north of Soissons, says the French defeat was the result of a surprise attack. While the French expected an attack on their left, the Germans attacked on the right and centre, and completely drove the French from their positions north of the Aisne, which had taken them a month to capture.

Earl Grey, former Governor General, reviewing a brigade of the Canadian contingent to-day, told them they would soon be sent to the front.

We are informed from private sources, about two hundred Princess Patricia's were in the heroic charge described in Friday's despatches, and that the enemy made violent onslaught upon them with the result that only 53 returned from the charge while Major Hamilton Gault had a very narrow escape.

In his weekly review on the progress of the war in the Sunday Observer, J. L. Gavin says, England and Canada alike could find deep gratification in the news that the Princess Patricia's had an opportunity of proving their mettle, though it seems almost incredible that Canadian losses in an affair of this kind were alleged as only two killed and fourteen wounded. The Patricia's are mostly seasoned veterans and such a feat would be signal proof that they can recognize an opportunity when they see it.

The achievement will be to spur to emulation the Canadian contingent when the time comes to give a practical account of their patriotism and training.

S. S. Camino

WITH SUPPLIES FOR BELGIANS IS DISABLED OFF ST. PIERRE.

The Harbor Master, Capt. E. English, was apprised on Saturday night that a large steamer, which had signalled by wireless was broken down and needed help, off Cape Race, Capt. English at once got in touch with Hon. W. C. Job to try and arrange to send the Nascope which left here for Halifax in the afternoon, to go to the steamer's assistance. The Nascope, however, could not be communicated with, as her wireless is not in working order. Bowring Bros. were next notified with a view to getting the Fortia despatched from Ferryland. At the same time Mr. Eric Bowring had word from Cape Race that a Canadian Government steamer had been sent from Halifax to the rescue of the disabled steamer. Mr. LeMessurier, Assistant Collector of Customs, received a message that the steamer's name is the Camino, bound from New York to some port of Europe with a cargo of supplies for the Belgians. The Camino's position was given as 250 miles south of St. Pierre. The nature of the ship's injury is not known yet.

The Camino is a three-masted steel screw steamer, owned in America, is 3,368 tons register, built in 1912, and used up to her present mission as an oil carrier.

"VICTORY" FLOUR Made from highest grade Manitoba wheat by latest improved machinery. There is nothing better made at any price. FRANKLIN'S AGENCIES, Ltd. Jan. 12, 15.

"Her Husband" and "The Dancer." At The Nickel Theatre To-Day.

Nickel patrons should not miss today's performance as it is one of the brightest ever given at this immensely popular house of entertainment. There are two big features, each of which is a beauty.

The first is an impressive story by The Vitagraph Co. and is in two reels. It is entitled "Her Husband," and tells of a pretty girl who marries in haste and has to repent at leisure.

The second venture was as happy as the first was unhappy. Clara Kimball Young stars in this picture. Earle Williams, Darwin Karr and James Lackaye are in the leading roles with her.

The other two part film is "The Dancer" by the Thanhouser Co. in which Marguerite Snow is featured. This is a thrilling story of life behind the scenes.

Miss Margaret Ayer will sing another new song to-day.

Wednesday the Vitagraph artists will present a beautiful two reel social drama entitled: "The Price of Vanity." At the matinee on Friday and Saturday afternoons as an extra for the children: "Dick Whittington and his Cat" will be shown. This film is in three parts. There are two hundred people in the cast and it cost over $35,000.00. All the boys and girls should make an effort to see this picture.

"VICTORY" FLOUR You cannot get better at any price. Sweet and fresh while the loaf lasts. FRANKLIN'S AGENCIES, Ltd.—Jan. 12, 15.

"The Devil Fox of the North." To-day the Crescent Picture Palace presents a two reel feature: "The Devil Fox of the North." This masterpiece is produced by the Eclair Company and all the scenes are photographed in the wilds of Western Canada; the story is founded in tradition among the Indians, that anybody killing the Devil Fox will always have bad luck.

All the principal world news is illustrated in a full reel of Universal Animated Weekly.

"Silk and the Indians" is another of the Silm Western Comedy series produced by the Frontier Company.

J. O'Neil Farrell, baritone, sings a popular ballad. This is a very fine programme and one patrons of the Crescent will enjoy.

The Grand New Pantomime

Mr. Jack Rossley has now made the grand pantomime price within the grasp of all. The general price of admission is ten cents, while the few seats at the price. There are no less than seven new jokes in the pantomime without the beautiful, but elegant costumes, jokes, fun, dances, and spectacular effects.

Never since St. John's has been St. John's could we get such a quality and quantity of amusement at the price. The whole pantomime has been revised. Here are a few of the scenes: "Hello, Hello, Hello, Silvery"; "Thunder Man"; "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep"; "Behold the March of the Wood"; "Come to the Ball"; "In the Candle Light"; "Birds of a Feather"; "The Prudent Prudence"; "I Live up Town"; "Just We and the Moon"; "Somebody's Coming to Town"; "Hello, Kitty"; "Oh, the Sea"; and many others. Put Themselves Out of Court.

In dealing with the difficulties which have arisen as to delay to commerce in exercising the right of search for contraband, no petty spirit should be shown on either side, and on the whole it is pleasing to observe the broad and frank spirit in which matters at issue have been set out. By both sides it should be remembered that the war itself is responsible for a shrinkage in the output and purchasing powers of belligerents, and that a neutral country with such big exports as the United States is bound to suffer. That, however, will not prejudice Great Britain or her Allies in the eyes of the people of the United States, who generally speaking regard Germany and Austria as responsible for the war, but it should lead the people of Britain to remember that the United States exporters will naturally enough try to keep up their exports as much as possible, and that they can reasonably expect non-contraband exports to be harassed as little as possible. There are, however, two classes of exporters. There is the exporter of contraband and the exporter of non-contraband. The exporter of non-contraband should in no way be embarrassed and we are certain Great Britain would do everything possible to leave this commerce as free as possible, and we imagine too that the United States government should adopt a course of conduct as little embarrassing to this class of exporters as possible. The exporters of contraband do so at their own risk. They have the right to export contraband. Great Britain, France and Russia are encouraging them to sell to them all the contraband they need. If Germany and Austria could seize this contraband meant for her enemies she would do so. Indeed she has done so, as far as possible, but her power to do so has been curtailed so much by the British Navy that there is no fear now of any of this contraband from the States being seized by Germany and Austria. This is of course to the advantage of Great Britain and her allies, but it is also to the advantage of the American exporters. Exporters of contraband to Germany and Austria however run greater risks of loss. The British Navy rides the seas, stops steamers suspected of carrying contraband, and where it is found makes a seizure. These exporters of contraband take the risk, which is well-known, and do it as a matter of business, and probably find it pays, but they have no ground to expect any special consideration even from their own government. They have a right to make the exports, all powers claim the right of their subjects to make such exports, but they all do so knowing that the opposing belligerent have the right of seizure if they can effect. The United States Government, however, seems to have favoured exporters of contraband at the expense of exporters of non-contraband. They have stopped the publication of manifestos, and put non-contraband cargoes in the realm of suspicion in order to put contraband cargoes in a cloud of uncertainty in order that they may escape detention. In short the Government of the United States have favoured contraband exporters at the expense of innocent exporters. Having done so, they have put themselves out of court if there is extra delay caused to innocent cargoes on this account. To put themselves right, it is up to the United States to revert to the practice of the immediate publication of manifest, or to "shut up" and cry quits.

RELIEF SHIP DISABLED.

HALIFAX, To-day. The agent of the Marine and Fisheries Department here, received a wireless message on Saturday night from Cape Sable Station, that the Belgian Relief steamer Camina, from San Francisco for Rotterdam, via London, had broken her rudder and lost an anchor 850 miles from Halifax and 100 miles south of Cape Sable Island on Saturday. This morning a second message was received by the Department here, asking that a steamer be sent to tow the disabled ship to Halifax. The D. G. A. Lady Laurier was immediately despatched to the scene and will be followed by the U. S. R. C. Androscoquin, which is now coming here. These ships will tow the Camina to this port.

PETROGRAD, To-day. The following report has been received from Tiflis: The Army of the Caucasus has covered its flags with glory by a fresh heroic exploit, having completely annihilated the 11th Turkish Army Corps, with the exception of several insignificant elements, which are fleeing in disorder; we have captured all the artillery of the corps.

CUSTOMS OFFICIALS TO WORK OVERTIME.

LONDON, To-day. There is every indication that the British Foreign Office and Admiralty are inaugurating a vigorous policy for the immediate search and release of all foreign ships suspected of carrying contraband—in many cases Customs officials have been instructed to work overtime in getting contraband unloaded, so that detained bottoms may proceed.

BEING GROUND TO DEATH IN MERCILESS MACHINE.

LONDON, To-day. Granville Fortesque telegraphs from Warsaw to the Evening Telegraph that fighting along Guescha Belmof line shows a definite character. The Germans seem determined to occupy a certain section of the wooded country held by the Russian corps. Their attacks had been aimed at this point for three days, and the opinion seems to be held by Russian General officers, should their assaults continue to fail, with return of severe weather, the Germans must retire to the line they fortified in their rear. Spies report that the line is elaborately prepared for defence. On the Grodelisk-Medvedevsk route of the Russian advance, the Russian army is improving steadily; soldiers are equal to anything in England in physique, and look able to stand the test of trench warfare. Do not be impatient about this forward movement on the part of the German troops. Day and night German fighting men are being ground to death in the machine that feeds merciless demands of German States. Each unsuccessful charge now means an easier task in future. Some detailed reports received regarding Italy's earthquake disaster increases rather than diminishes the list of dead and enormous property loss.

Our artillery compelled the Germans to evacuate their trenches, situated on the Grand Dune and also destroyed the enemy's fortifications and trench works along that line and south of St. George's. At La Besse and Ypres the artillery was busy. At Blangy, near Arras, a sharp German engagement resulted in their capturing Blangy foundry but we regained possession and maintained our hold on the foundry by an energetic counter-attack. The German trench works at La Bousselle was destroyed by our artillery fire. German attacks was also repulsed at Troyon sugar refinery and Beaulne trenches. In Perches, Beausejour regions our advance is progressing in spite of a fierce storm. At La Perche woods near Pontamousson, a German attack was repulsed. In Vosges we progressed west of Orbev. THE BRAVEST OF THE BRAVE.

In a cottage on a hillside, nestling neath the pine-trees' shade,
Pines that wind-swept, make the saddest, weirdest music ever made.—
Sits a woman knitting, knitting, fast
the dim grey twilight falls,
And the shadows' ghostly fingers
"feel their way" along the walls.

Twilight deepens into darkness; by the fire-light's fitful glow,
She is musing, with her stitches memories of long ago.

Look—the dear old lips are smiling, though the tear-mist gathers fast.
Present, future—both have vanished
—left her with the beautiful Past.

Lipsing, childish voices hears she;
pattering feet run to and fro—
Sweetest music to a mother—little lads, she loves them so!

Little lads with paper helmets, wooden swords and spears for shot, Well, they have the soldier spirit; for the rest, it matters not.

Years ago, her two brave laddies to the battle marched away,
And the other young heart, bursting with its longing, chafed to stay.

Ah, the dread, dread news that followed tore the mother-heart in twain
For her two brave soldier laddies, who "would n'er" come home again.

Years ago, But once again the peaceful sky is overcast,
And the thunderous war-note's sounding, and the nation's heart beats fast.

"Lo, our Empire is in danger! Brittain needs her bravest men!"
And the cry awakes the echoes on the hill-tops, in the glen.

How the old blood seems to quicken!
How the brave old eyes flash fire!
Is she not a soldier's widow? Is there any title higher?

"Go, my son, your country needs you.
Who am I to bid you stay?"
May the God of Freedom keep you, guard you ever! This I pray."

So she sits a-knitting, knitting, in her cottage all alone,
She has given to her country of her life's blood, flesh, and bone.

Aye, our boys are stout and manly,
marching fearless to the grave,
But the bravest they leave behind them are the bravest of the brave.

HIGHEST TYPE OF HEROISM.
The highest type of martial heroism is not the dashing adventurer of romance, but the mud-stained man in the trenches over yonder—the French peasant, the Belgian artisan, the German farmer or University student, the British clerk, or peer or workman; men like ourselves, used to peace and order and decency, who are enduring unimaginable horrors for the sake of their ideals. Their courage proves again that the human spirit still rises superior to any test that fate can devise. Man's genius for destruction has made great flights from the flint war club to the machine gun, from the tube of Greek fire to the submarine torpedo; but not yet has it distanced his courage or produced perils that his spiritual convictions will not lead him to brave for the truth as he sees it.—Philadelphia North American.

Mrs. G. Scales, Cardiff (G.B.), received the following note from her son, Sergeant Barker, Dragoon Guards: "I had a romantic meeting with poor old brother George. I was lying on the ground, my squaddie having just crawled out of the trenches to be relieved by Life Guards. One of their men shouted, 'What regiment is this?' and after the answer had been given George asked, 'Is Sergeant Barker there?' I knew the voice, and was immediately at his side." THE HAITIEN REVOLUTION.

CAPE HAITIEN, Haiti, Jan. 17.

The Haitian revolutionists to-day entered and took possession of Cape Haitien. This followed an understanding between the rebels and the local garrison. There was no disorder during the turning over of authority. General Guillaume, candidate for the Presidency, is in command of the local forces. The Foreign Consuls here have asked the American Consul to request the Washington Government to send a warship to protect the interests of foreigners at this port.

FROM PETROGRAD.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 18.

An official communication issued at 6 o'clock last evening, says: The 11th Turkish Army Corps has been exterminated near Kara Urgan. In the region of Kara Urgan, fighting is developing with the advantage resting with our troops. By a bayonet attack we annihilated the 52nd Turkish Regiment. The survivors, which included the commander and several officers, were made prisoners. In one direction, where we were pursuing the defeated Turkish troops, we took more than 5,000 prisoners, 14 cannon and an enormous quantity of supplies, including nearly ten thousand head of cattle.

AMERICAN RAILROADS—THE UNION PACIFIC.

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Sluash."

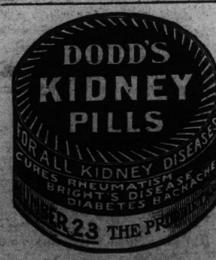

The Union Pacific Railroad was projected at a time when the adventurous American who wished to go to San Francisco had to wedge himself into a pony coach and ride three weeks holding on with one hand and warding off arrows and mountain lions with the other.

No railroad ever began life under such favourable auspices as this one. The government supplied the survey and two canal boats full of money to the builders. It also turned over to them for a right of way a strip of land as wide as a Class B European kingdom. When the railroad was completed from Council Bluffs, Ia., to San Francisco in 1869, high officials met in the desert and joined the rails with golden spikes.

Twenty-five years later the company was hunting for the spikes in order to pawn them for coal.

After hauling the populace across the great west for twenty-five years the Union Pacific gave it up and went broke. There were a great many unpleasant remarks at the time, but in the end a little man named Harriman bought the road at a bargain sale and began revamping it. The original system had been drilled through the buffalo and restless red men with more bravery than science, but Harriman changed all that. He built the road over, dumping hills into valleys and then he went in debt a few hundred millions and bought the Southern Pacific, the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company and so many other loose and miscellaneous roads that it was feared for a time that he might buy in the National Capitol for a Union Depot.

Harriman has since died, but the Union Pacific goes merrily on paying eight and ten per cent yearly. It extends from Council Bluffs, Ia., to Ogden, Utah, and is double tracked most of the way. It also extends to Portland, Ore., and Puget Sound, and operates altogether 7,500 miles of railroad, representing an investment of about $500,000,000. It runs the fastest trains in the country west out of Omaha and yanks the globe trotter

Have You an Itchy Spot?

Somewhere on your body? If so, attend to it at once. In Eczema—and itchy spots, whether dry and scurfy, or moist and inclined to "weep," are generally eczematous—delays are foolish, allowing the disease to spread and affect more of the good skin. Your best chance for a cure is to use Zylex, which will give almost instant relief, and if used in the earlier stages of the trouble will almost certainly bring a cure, and in any event will greatly ameliorate the trouble. Ask your druggist about it. Price 60c. a box. Zylex Soap, 25c. a cake. ZYLEX, London.

from the murky Missouri to the smiling Pacific in fifty hours. It does a business of over $20,000,000 a year, and after paying all charges and ten per cent on its common stock, it had a surplus of $11,000,000 to worry about in 1913. When Union Pacific officials appeal to the government for relief against ruinous legislation, they have to suck limes "to keep from laughing."

The Union Pacific also owned about $200,000,000 worth of stock in other roads until the cruel government made it sell its Southern Pacific stock. Next to the Lackawanna, it is the most embarrassingly prosperous road in the country.

Fads and Fashions.

Stockings are exceedingly gay. High neckwear is truly with us. Linen blouses are strictly tailored. The first spring hats are brown. Children's coats are mostly belted. The new boudoir caps are made of taffeta.

The less fluffy dress should follow Russian lines? Pointed lace tunics are seen on evening gowns. Most of the new bridal veils are of simple tulle. Ribbons will be used to trim the summer frock.

Evening gowns are fuller and obviously wired. Small round toques have crowns entirely of roses. The new full skirts are much easier to walk in.

There is a revival of the old-time tailored shirtwaist. Millinery will be unusually vivid in color this spring. Fichus are back again, even on young girl's dresses.

Skating costumes are being made with very wide skirts. The barrel and melon muffs continue to be fashionable. The "broken belt" is peculiarly becoming to the stout figure.

Blouses, it is said, will have a record season in the spring.

Scales, Cardiff (G.B.), has the following note from his recent Barker, Dragoon. "I had a romantic meeting with old brother George. I was the 'ground' my squadron crawled out of the trenches moved by Life Guards. One shouted, 'What regiment?' and after the answer had been given, 'I know the voice, and I was at his side.' This was the first meeting of the

The Dish Towel or the Wife?

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

A housekeeper of the old school saw her younger neighbor boiling out a dish towel in a strong washing powder. "You'd better not do that, my dear," she suggested, "they won't last so long."

"Oh, I know that," answered the younger woman, "they won't last so long, but I shall last longer."

"Don't you think it's extravagant?"

"Not at all. I don't think the few cents a year, which is the most I could save by washing those things out by hand, are to be compared with the time and energy I save. We are not very well off, but I'm sure my husband would rather have me save myself than the dish towels."

I chronicle that conversation because I think it strikes the key note of one of the greatest blessings the woman of to-day has to be thankful for—the new attitude towards woman's work.

A hundred years ago the idea that it was as important to save the woman as the materials she worked with, or the cost of her equipment, was an idea unknown to the rank and file.

Favoring the Soapstone.

I can actually remember that in my great uncle's home the womenfolk were not allowed to fasten the clothes wringer on to the set tubs for fear that would wear out the tubs (soapstone and not at all fragile I assure you), consequently every piece of washing had to be lifted out of the set tubs into another tub. This burden of extra work was subsequently proved unnecessary, for since the venerable gentleman's death some fifteen years ago, the womenfolk instead of the soapstone, have been favoured, and the latter still shows no sign of wear.

It would only be a skinflint tyrant who would demand such a sacrifice of women's strength on the altar of economy to-day. Yet my grand uncle was neither a skinflint nor tyrant, but extremely generous in most things and kind to his womenfolk. It just wasn't in the air in his day to question how long the womenfolk lasted if the soapstone and the dish towels were carefully preserved.

Even if we had had electrical devices, and the other household labor savers a hundred years ago, it is doubtful if men would have thought them necessary or been willing to buy them. Witness the beautiful barns, the expensive silos, the latest in farming implements, and the house without a comfort or convenience, which was so common a sight in the country twenty-five years ago.

What the Expressman Said.

Contrast that with a conversation I had the other day with an expressman who brought my trunk. We happened to speak of electric bills. "Mine are quite large," he said, "but you see the wife uses the electric iron and the vacuum cleaner a good deal." And there wasn't the slightest note of complaint in his voice. I regard this new attitude towards women's work as one of the results of the new feminism, and not the least encouraging. I think men are beginning to appreciate women's companionship and to be willing that women shall be human beings and not mere household machines. I only wish that women responded even more readily than they do to this opportunity.

'The Optimists Corner.'

"Opportunity," they say, "knocks once at every man's door," sooner or later. Some quickly open the door, others are too busy doing nothing to heed it, while still another class is too sound asleep to hear the knock consequently a very few comparatively speaking, ever attain the success which is written in capital letters. The meaning of the words opportunity and luck should not be confused, for their difference is as the difference between day and night. Luck doesn't mind dropping in without an invitation—but he's a mighty lukewarm friend to rest your entire weight against. But when opportunity knocks its generally because you've given her reasons to believe that her attentions will be appreciated. In other words we make our own opportunities by paying strict attention as to what Liniment you supply your customers with.

THE WATER WAGON.

WALT MASON

Once again the water wagon creaks along the dusty streets; passengers who have no lag on occupy the upper seats, Rum cashew, but not forgotten, reaches for its victims still, as expectorating cotton, they ride slowly up the hill. "Leave that fierce old jolting wagon," murmurs Boozie, in siren tones; "come and hit a foaming flagon. 'Twill refresh your flesh and bones." Here and there a spineless ruder leaves his seat to go and drink sundry slugs of added cider, or a pint of crimson ink. But the tourists on the wagon who sit tight, are lucky boys; they escape the slimy dragon, and drive on to wholesome joys. Oh, the journey's early stages are the sorest and the worst; then in every breast there rages such a horizontal thirst! But the thirst that meets resistance quits its victims soon or late, while the wagon, in the distance, hits a swift and merry gait. Then at last the wagon reaches good old healthy Hydrant Town, and the tourists, fresh as peaches, from their perches clamber down, full of joy and hope and laughter, all divorced from boozey woes to live happy ever after—drinking from the garden hose.

1,500,000 Pounds Subsidy for Trade.

"Cautiously, but surely, the British people under stress of national need are finding salvation in methods long advocated by co-operators and Socialists," says the Daily Citizen.

"A very striking instance occurs in connection with the manufacture and supply of aniline dyes. The manufacture of these dyes, though the process was actually discovered by an Englishman, has been virtually monopolised by German firms, who supplied nine-tenths of the £2,000,000 worth annually required in this country. Yet the dyes are essential to an industry of something like £200,000,000 a year, on which at least 1,500,000 workmen are dependent."

To meet the situation the Government has promised support to a national movement for making Britain independent of foreign dyes.

The official proposal is:—

- (1) The formation of a limited liability company with a share capital of £3,000,000 in £1 shares, of which 75,000 is expected to be called up.
- (2) The advance to the company by the Government of £1,500,000 at 4 per cent, as a first charge on the assets and repayable in 25 years.
- (3) The appointment of two directors by the Government.

KING ALBERT DIGS IN THE TRENCHES.

London, Jan. 12.—King Albert spent several hours Sunday with a pick and shovel, digging trenches like a common soldier, writes a Belgian from the front to his family in the refugee camp here. "It happened in this way, while inspecting with some staff officers, the king saw a group of his diggers looking very tired. He inquired how long we had been working. Being told, he sent us away for a rest, while he proposed to his staff that they take our places."

Boy's Narrow Escape.

BURIED IN SNOW. A boy named Flynn, had a narrow escape from death yesterday afternoon. He was in a snow house in a lane off George Street. Suddenly it caved in and Flynn was buried. A woman named Gandy, who saw what happened, quickly gave an alarm and the lad was extricated from his perilous plight, though in an exhausted condition. The lad was almost suffocated and a minute longer would

Man Killed

WHILE FELLING TREES.
Deputy Minister of Justice Hatchings has received word from Curling to the effect that Edward Lilly had met with an accident on Saturday last and died as a result of the injuries received. He was in the woods felling trees and suddenly a tree snapped and fell across Lilly, who was picked up some time afterwards in an unconscious condition and attended by a doctor, but the unfortunate man's injuries were so serious that he died within a few hours.

Wedding Bells.

The residence of Mr. Philip Corbett, Otterbury, C.B., was the scene of a very pretty wedding on the 13th inst., when his daughter, Miss Alice, became the happy bride of Mr. Michael Fitzgerald. Rev. Dr. Murphy tied the nuptial knot and presided at the wedding banquet. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Nellie Corbett, the duties of best man being ably performed by Edward, brother of the groom. After a few hours, very enjoyably spent, at the home of the bride's parents, the whole party drove to Fitzgerald's beautiful cottage (on the bank of South River) where a sumptuous repast was partaken of, after which music, song and dance became the order of the night and was freely indulged in by young and old. The groom is the son of Mr. Ed. Fitzgerald, partner in the fishing firm of Edward Fitzgerald & Sons, whose energy and perseverance have won for them a foremost place in the ranks of our successful Labrador planters. The numerous and costly presents which the young couple were recipients of, bore testimony of their popularity and the esteem in which they are held. Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald will shortly move into their future home (Riverview) an elegant cottage at the foot of North River, carrying with them the sincere wishes of hosts of friends for a long and happy voyage on the matrimonial ocean.—Com.

GETTING READY.

Banking masters Lewis and Kennedy, of Holyrood, are now preparing for the season's fishery and will sail on their spring trips about the middle of next month. The auxiliary Metamora, owned by Capt. Lewis, is now being overhauled in dry dock, while Capt. Kennedy's vessel is being put in readiness at Fortune.

Volunteers on Parade.

Yesterday morning the Second Contingent, numbering 400, under command of Capt. A. E. Ayre, held another church parade, the various sections attending service at St. Thomas's, R. C. Cathedral, Gower Street and the Kirk. After service the battalion paraded through some of the principal streets before returning to the C. L. B. Armoury. The military appearance of the Volunteers was favourably commented on.

YOUR KING and COUNTRY WANT YOU

The above is one of the most popular of the many fine patriotic songs now being sung wherever the British flag flies. It has a sweet, pathetic melody and a tender appeal in the simple words. This song has been sung specially by Miss Maggie Teyte (the greatest British Prima Donna) for the Columbia Graphophone Company, who are paying a royalty on each record sold to the Prince of Wales' Patriotic Fund.

We have just received a shipment of 2,000 Columbia Records direct from England—the largest consignment ever received in Newfoundland at one time—consisting chiefly of Patriotic Anthems, Marches and Songs. Among these are:—

God Save the King. La Maresillaise. Arrival of the British troops in France. Russian National Anthem. Belgian National Anthem. My Bugler Boy. Follow the Drum. Bravo, Territorials. Soldiers of the King (new version). My Volunteer.	By Military Bands:
By Harrison Latimer, Baritone.

Come and hear Miss Maggie Teyte sing "Your King and Country Want You" at the

The Finest Novel
RALPH CONNOR HAS EVER WRITTEN.

"The finest thing Ralph Connor has done, and when we remember his past achievements that is no mean praise. His style throughout is strong and forceful, he has an intimate knowledge of what he is writing about, and his inspired descriptions of the heroisms of the North-West Mounted Police make one glow with the same feeling of pride as do the accounts of our heroes in the battles that are raging now. Ralph Connor shows us what magnificent men and what brave, noble women, the sons and daughters of the Empire, are. It is a joy to meet some of our old friends again, and in the dangers and anxieties they undergo they more than ever show of what pure gold they are made." RALPH CONNOR, THE PATROL OF THE SUN DANCE TRAIL. Cloth 80c, Paper 60c. See the New Magazines, the New War Pictures, the New War Papers and the New War Books.

Public Notice!

CENSORSHIP OF TELEGRAPHS, CABLES AND WIRELESS STATIONS.

By direction of the Chief Censor, London, the following Regulations will be in force on and after Friday next, January the 15th, namely:—

1. Cablegrams in authorized editions of A.B.C., Lieber's, Scott's and Western Union Codes only may be exchanged between British, Allied or Neutral Territory on extra European Telegraph System, on one side, and British or Allied Territory, wherever situated, on the other side.
2. The term "Extra European Telegraph System" means the places outside the Telegraph System of Europe. Beside the places in Europe proper, the following are also counted as being on the European Telegraph System, namely:—Russia in Asia; the following French possessions in North and West Africa, namely:—Algeria, Mauritania, Senegal, Upper Senegal and Niger; and French Morocco. The Island of Cyprus is regarded as outside the European Telegraph System.
3. Until further notice cablegrams in the following three Codes, namely:—Meyer's Atlantic Cotton Code, Thirty-ninth Edition; Bentley's Complete Phrase Code, not including Separate Mining and Oil Supplements; Broomhall's Imperial Combination Code, not including Special Rubber Edition, are allowed only between United Kingdom and places in Extra European Telegraph System.

N.B.—As all messages sent under the above Regulations have to be decoded and censored, the carrying out of this work will be greatly facilitated if persons sending such messages would hand in at the Telegraph Office, at the time of presenting the message, the translation of the same.

The Kaiser When A Boy.

Even when a child the Kaiser was a very precocious youth. The late Mr. W. P. Frith, the famous painter, used to tell a story of the Kaiser's childhood. Wilhelm, when a little boy, was staying with the artist, and on one occasion wiped so much color on his face when in the studio that Mr. Frith had to remove it with turpentine. This painful process annoyed the rebellious young prince, and at its conclusion he administered a violent kick to the surprised artist and then flung himself under a table, where he yelled until he was tired.

While Mr. Frith's method of removing paint from the Kaiser's face was not altogether unlike our process of Dry Cleaning, we are exceedingly grateful that our patrons do not adopt the Emperor's way of showing their appreciation of our good services.

The Eastern Trust Company.

The Eastern Trust Company directs attention to the public to the advantages offered by its Safety Deposit system of boxes.

In the vault in its office there is installed a nest of deposit boxes of the latest design and of the greatest strength. These boxes can be opened only by the customer. A room is attached where the customer may examine his securities at leisure. The price of these boxes vary according to size. The smallest box in the nest is capable of holding conveniently the papers of the ordinary investor. The larger sizes are suitable for professional men who hold documents in trust for clients.

The prices are:—

Size No. 1	$4.00 per year
Size No. 2	5.00 per year
Size No. 3	10.00 per year
Size No. 4	20.00 per year

This system is capable of supplying the needs of every class of person desirous of ensuring the safe deposit of securities.
