The Eastern Trust Company.

A few reasons why an estate can be better administered by the Eastern Trust Company than by a personal executor or administrator: 1. The Company affords the estate absolute security; it has a paid-up capital of $951,000.00, and a reserve fund of $229,300.00. 2. It has a long experience in the work of administering estates; it is incorporated for this business of acting as a trustee, and, unlike many other trust companies, it does no other business. 3. Its existence is perpetual. Your estate, in the event of the death of a personal executor or administrator, must look around for a substitute, and the work of administration is impeded during that time, and the new executor is unfamiliar with the policy of his predecessor, and confusion results. This company's existence is perpetual, and there is a continuity of policy in its administration that the death of its officers does not break. 4. It possesses the confidence of governments, universities and prominent charities and administers their funds. 5. A number of other advantages which will appear in due course.

'Margaret,'

The GIRL ARTIST,

OR,

The Countess of Ferrers Court.

CHAPTER XXIV.
"Yes," laughed Florence. "For if it is nonsense, it is his nonsense, for I heard him say after you left the room; and he said it almost gravely, as if he were sad rather than otherwise. Now, why should he be sad?" she went on, looking up at Margaret's face thoughtfully.

"Isn't it rather too late for guessing riddles, dear?" suggested Margaret. "Late! Who could sleep after such a night?" exclaimed the princess, with the sublime contempt for repose belonging to her age. "Why should he be sad dear? I know he admires you, for when the countess asked him if he thought you pretty—pretty! What impertinence!—he smiled and said, 'No!' and he meant that he thought you more than pretty—lovely!"

"Do you think it is quite fair to construe his thoughts?" said Margaret. "Oh, everything is fair in love and war—" She stopped suddenly and looked up at Margaret, and her face flushed eagerly. "Oh! Do you know, a thought has struck me. Only think, if Ferdinand should—" She stopped, and clasped Margaret round her waist. "Why, I believe he does already. Oh, dear! It seems almost too good to be true. But fancy, if you should, some day, become my real sister!"

Margaret's face crimsoned, then gradually grew pale and strained. "Princess," she said slowly, "never jest on such a subject again—for my sake and your own."

Gently as the words were spoken, they frightened the young girl. "Oh, what have I said!" she murmured. "Was it very wicked?" and her lips began to tremble.

Margaret forced a smile, and caressed the ruffled hair tenderly. "A philosopher who was also a wit once declared that a thing was worse than wicked, it was absurd," she said; "and that is also my answer, and now go to bed, dear, or you will appear at the breakfast table and frighten all your friends, for they will think they see the ghost of the Princess Florence."

The girl thought that her incautious speech had struck some discord in her dear friend's heart, and, kissing her penitently, stole from the room.

"Yes," said Margaret to herself, "I must leave them—I must go into hiding again. Oh, Blair, Blair, you have not only ruined my past, but blighted all my future! It is not only that no love can ever visit my heart again, but you have made even peace impossible!"

Meanwhile the prince strode up and down the terrace, smoking his cigar and glancing now and again up at the windows of the room which contained the woman he loved.

Prince Rivani, the descendant of a noble race, was young, handsome, a favorite at court, a gallant officer, a popular young man all round, and yet he was neither vain nor a fool—which is singular.

To say that he had fallen in love with Margaret the first time he saw her, when he nearly rode her down, would be to say too much; but when she came to live at the villa, and he

I OWE MY HEALTH

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Washington Park, Ill.—"I am the mother of four children and have suffered with female troubles, backache, nervous spells and the blues. My children's loud talking and romping would make me so nervous I could just tear everything to pieces and I would ache all over and feel so sick that I would not want anyone to talk to me at times. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills restored me to health and I want to thank you for the good they have done me. I have had quite a bit of trouble and worry but it does not affect my youthful looks. My friends say 'Why do you look so young and well?' I owe it all to the Lydia E. Pinkham remedies."—Mrs. ROBT. STROPIEL, Moore Avenue, Washington Park, Illinois.

We wish every woman who suffers from female troubles, nervousness, backache or the blues could see the letters written by women made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If you have any symptom about which you would like to know write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for helpful advice given free of charge.

saw her day by day, her beauty and grace, and that sweetness which is given to so few women, but which she possessed so abundantly, grew upon him until he awoke one day to find that his heart had left him, and that he loved the young English girl, of whose past he knew—nothing!

King Copetua and the beggar girl is a very pretty story, and no doubt the king was very happy with his bride for a time, but the story does not go on to tell us that they were happy ever afterward, and as a matter of fact we may conclude that the monarch who marries a beggar maid commits a remarkable rash act. Such matches are not always happy ones.

Prince Rivani knew that he was expected to marry a lady of his own rank, or at any rate, of his own class. He knew that there were at least half a dozen beautiful women at the court, from whom he might choose a wife, and from whom he would be expected to choose one. "To marry beneath him," would, if it did not quite break her heart, make his mother, the signora, very unhappy, and would probably ruin his promising career.

He was a gentleman, and he was not a fool, so he went off to court determined to cure himself of the passion which had assailed him, and to forget the lovely English girl with the sad look in her dark eyes, and the sweet smile which made him long to keep it on her face forever.

It was a task beyond his strength, this forgetting her, but he had hoped that he was out of danger, when he returned, and lo!—discovered that her love had taken too firm a hold upon his heart to be rooted out. The girl he had left unknown and of little account in the world, had suddenly, in a night, become famous. The glamour of her beauty, which had so affected even strangers, exercised a fascination for him, and he had spoken and avowed his love.

And she had refused him—or something like it. It was this refusal he was pondering over as he paced up and down, smoking cigar after cigar, long after the rest of the villa was hushed in quietude, if not repose.

Should he accept her refusal? No, he would not, he could not! She had become part and parcel of his very life; all his thoughts centered in her.

At night he lay awake and called up her face; at day he thought of and longed for her. And to lose her at a word! She had said "No," because he had startled her. He had been too sudden and too abrupt!—the very first night of his return to the villa. He should have waited and prepared her by his attentions for the avowal he had sprung upon her last night.

No, he would not relinquish the hope which made life sweet to him so easily; he would win her even against herself if need were.

So, with one more glance at the window, the prince went to his room, to lie awake and watch the dawn creeping over the fair city which his race had helped to make illustrious.

Margaret did not appear at the breakfast table; but her absence was not commented on, for it was understood by all that the Villa Capri was Liberty Hall, and that each guest was fit to come and go as he or she pleased. So they made up for her absence by talking of her as they had talked the preceding night.

They were all curious, highly curious, to know something about her; but the signora, when appealed to, smiled her serene smile and shook her head.

"I can't tell you anything about her," she said; "I have never asked her for her confidence. She is a lady, and that is sufficient for me."

And they remained silent, for they could scarcely be so rude as to suggest that what sufficed for the signora did not satisfy them.

The guests dispersed after breakfast, the ladies to their boudoirs and the music-room, the gentlemen to the armory for their guns, for a shooting expedition had been planned.

The prince, as in duty bound, went with it, though he would far rather have remained at home in his study to think of Margaret.

They returned in time to dress for dinner, and the prince, who seemed tired, went straight to his sister's room.

"Oh, is it you, Ferd?" she said; "you have just come in time to coil up this plat for me. My maid has run off to Miss Leslie's room; she is always so anxious to desert me for her. They are all alike—the servants, I mean; I think they worship her," and she laughed with a poor imitation of a pout.

The prince gathered up a plait of the shining hair, and kissed it with brotherly affection as he attempted to arrange it.

"They all love her, do they?" he said; "and you, too, Florrie, eh?" "And you, too, Ferd, eh?" she retorted, glancing round at him wickedly.

He did not flush, but met her gaze steadily.

"And I, too, Florence," he said, gravely.

"Oh, Ferd!" she exclaimed, clasping her hands. "I am so glad!—I am so happy! I thought it was so, but I only thought. And—oh, I don't know what to say—and when are you going to tell her?" she demanded impetuously.

"I have told her," he said, quietly. "And—oh!" for she read the result in his eyes.

"Never mind," he said, gently; "all is not lost yet. But do not speak of it—least of all to her. Have you seen her to-day—has she been down?"

"I have seen her, but she has not been down. She has kept her own apartments, and has been working; and yet only a very little, I think. Oh, Ferd, it can't be because she doesn't love you; that's impossible."

"Thank you," he said, forcing a smile. "You will thrive at court, Florrie."

"But it can't be! There must be something else—somebody else!" His face grew pale and his lips contracted, and he opened his lips to speak, but he remained silent for a moment, then said:

"I must dress, or I shall be late," and left the room.

he bowed and drew a little nearer, and as the servant sped noiselessly away, said in a low voice, full of respect and reverence:

"Miss Leslie, will you forget what I said last night? No, not forget, but remember that I will not speak again without your permission?"

Margaret inclined her head. "You are my mother's guest, as well as the woman I love, and I will keep the silence you commanded! You will honor us with your company at table?"

Margaret could find no words, but she inclined her head in assent, and the prince, with a low bow, which seemed as eloquent of gratitude and worship as the most ardent words could have been, left her.

That night, while the rest gathered round her, vying with each other for a word or a smile, the prince kept away from her side. Only twice did he address her; once to bring her a fan when the room grew hot, and the second time, to lay a shawl by her side when the windows having been opened, the temperature changed rapidly.

The days glided on. Fresh additions were made to the party, but Margaret's popularity did not decrease. Fame, that had been prophesied for her, came, for her picture had been exhibited.

The great Alfero had expressed his admiration, and her name was ringing through Rome as that of the coming artist.

And through it all Margaret's heart was haunted by trouble. Day after day she met the prince, and his conduct toward her was the same. But though he refrained from paying her marked attention, it was evident to her and Florence—who watched him—that he was continually thinking of her.

Others might flock round her with the ready flattery of their ready tongues, courting the young girl whose picture had become famous in the world of art, and her beauty the theme in the world of fashion, but it was he who now and again stood with extended hand to help her into the carriage, or placed some choice blossom near her plate. No woman, daughter of Eve, could be insensible to devotion such as this; it would have touched a heart of stone, and Margaret's heart was anything but stony.

She scarcely exchanged three words a day with him, but she found herself looking toward him when he spoke to others, and meeting his gaze, which seemed to be always wandering toward her, her own eyes would fall and her lips tremble.

On his way he passed the door of Margaret's painting-room, and as he did so the princess' maid came out. She started and stepped back with a courtesy, leaving the door open. Margaret came to the door to say something to the maid, and seeing the prince, stopped short.

For a moment they looked at each other without saying anything; then

STRIVING TO PLEASE.

"We strive to please," the merchant said; his smile was large and loose; he then sold me a cabbage head for which I had no use. He sold me seven cans of peas, five pounds of shredded rice, a section of imported cheese, and mackeral on ice. No doubt when I had left his place, despoiled of hard earned plunk, a smile lit up the merchant's face, since he had sold that junk. But to myself I said, 'I think

DAILY NEWS SAYS GOVERNMENT FACE TO FACE WITH CRISIS.

LONDON, April 30.—"The Government and the countess face to face with the gravest crisis that has arisen since the war," the Daily News says editorially. The Prime Minister yesterday gave the new service bill after a session which served only to reveal every man's hand was again the elaborate compromise broken down at the first trial, and very existence of the Government may be conceivably imperilled by a controversy which is in itself a crisis."

IRISHMEN IN THE UNITED STATES.

NEW YORK, April 30.—A cable to the World from London that papers found on Sir Robert's person implicate Irishmen in a statement made from a confidential source.

IRELAND'S CASUALTIES.

LONDON, April 30.—"Upwards of 100 persons have been killed or injured this far in Dublin," the Daily News reports in a despatch dated last night.

A statement issued to-night by the Official Press Bureau regarding the situation in Ireland, says: "The rebels are surrendering freely. The lack of the rebellion is broken. Another official statement says: 'Messengers have been sent from the Dublin rebels to the British in Galway, Clare, Wexford and Dublin counties, ordering them to surrender.'"

An official this evening says: "Seven hundred and seven prisoners have been taken, including the Countess Markievicz."

Field Marshal French, Commander of the Home Forces, reports that the General Post Office in Dublin, which has been the principal stronghold of the Sinn Feiners, is burned down. Connolly, one of the leaders of the rebels, is reported killed. Many of his have been made prisoners.

A revolt in Dublin is on the verge of collapse. In the rest of Ireland, the situation is generally satisfactory. John Redmond has placed himself absolutely at the disposal of the British, and is in constant touch with them. He has instructed Nationalist supporters in all parts of Ireland to hold themselves at the disposal of the military authorities. In many places, besides Dublin, Nationalist voters have already on their own initiative mobilized in support of troops. At Tipperary yesterday "volunteers offered their services."

The General officer, Commanding the British in Ireland, has reported the situation in Dublin much more satisfactory. Throughout the country, the rebels are still much to be done, which would take time, but he hoped the back of the rebellion had been broken. Last night messengers went out from the rebel leaders in Dublin to rebel bodies in Galway, Wexford, Louth and Down, ordering them to surrender. The British and the Royal Irish Constabulary are doing their utmost to disseminate this information. As regards the situation in Dublin the

Had Constipation for Many Years.

The most common ailment and greatest cause of disease and suffering to-day is constipation. Arises from sedentary indoor life and failure to induce torpid sluggishness of the liver, kidneys and bowels. Results in poisonous waste matter accumulating in the system and gives rise to indigestion, headache, neuralgia, rheumatism and aches and pains at every point for serious disease. Infectious and contagious diseases are little known to persons who have their kidneys and bowels kept in a healthy condition. For these are the conditions for disease to arise in. Even common ailments take their start when the system is a constipated, diseased condition.

Ed. Miller, West, Florida, writes: "I can testify that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver cured me of constipation. I had with constipation almost DAILY NEWS SAYS GOVERNMENT BACK TO FACE WITH GRAVE CRISIS.

LONDON, April 30. The Government and the country face to face with the gravest crisis that has arisen since the war be- gan, the Daily News says editorially. The Prime Minister yesterday with- drew the new service bill after a dis- cussion which served only to reveal that every man's hand was against the elaborate compromise had been taken down at the first trial, and the very existence of the Government may be conceivably imperilled by the controversy which is in itself wholly official.

NEW YORK, April 30. A cable to the World from London says that papers found on Sir Roger Casement implicate Irishmen ac- cording to a statement made from an authoritative source.

IRELAND'S CASUALTIES.

LONDON, April 30. Towards of 100 persons have been shot or injured thus far in Dublin, the correspondent at Belfast of the Evening News reports in a despatch dated last night. A statement issued to-night by the Official Press Bureau regarding the situation in Ireland, says: "The rebels are surrendering freely. The rebels of the rebellion is broken." Another official statement says: "Messengers have been sent from the under of the Dublin rebels to other parts in Galway, Clare, Wexford and Dublin counties, ordering them to surrender."

An official this evening says: "Seven hundred and seven prisoners have been taken, including the Countess Markievicz." Field Marshal French, Commander of the Home Forces, reports that the general Post Office in Dublin, which has been the principal stronghold of the Sinn Feiners, is burned down, namely, one of the leaders of the rebels, is reported killed. Many rebels have been made prisoners. The result in Dublin is on the verge of collapse. In the rest of Ireland, the situation is generally satisfactory. System Was Full of Poison; Pains in Side and Back

Constipation for Many Years, but Was Entirely Cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

The most common ailment and the chief cause of disease and suffer- ing to-day is constipation. Artificial and sedentary indoor life com- bined to induce torpid, sluggish action of the liver, kidneys and bowels. As a result poisonous waste matter re- tains in the system and gives rise to pains and aches and affords a start- ing point for serious disease. Infectious and contagious diseases are little known to persons whose kidneys and bowels are kept in normal activity, for there are no suitable conditions for disease germs to arrive in. Even common colds usually take their start when they find the system in a constipated, poi- soned condition. Mrs. Ed. Miller, West Flamboro, writes: "I can truthfully say Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cured me of constipation. I suf- fered with constipation almost ever-on April 7th. The General said he ex- pected to be relieved shortly. He assured the British expedition he would hold out to the limit of endur- ance, but recent reverses suffered by the army which attempted to rescue him, apparently made the situation a hopeless one. The Mesopotamian ex- pedition has been one of the most dif- ficult that any army has undertaken during the war. The torrid climate and lack of fresh water, together with the difficulties of transport, made great calls on the endurance of the troops. Moreover, the positions held by the Turks below Kut-el-Amara, en- trenching and strongly fortified, were most formidable. The original expedi- tion was composed partly of Indian troops, but the relief force for the most part was made up from men from England and the colonies. The following official announcement was made: After a resistance protracted over 143 days, and conducted with gallantry and fortitude that will be forever memorable, General Towns- hend has been compelled by the final exhaustion of his supplies to surren- der. Before doing so he destroyed the guns and munitions. The forces under him consist of 2,700 British troops of all ranks and services, and some six thousand Indian troops and their followers.

GERMAN TROOPS DISPERSED.

PARIS, April 30. After a violent bombardment of the French positions near Avocourt and Hill 304 on the Verdun front, west of the Meuse, German troops were mass- ed for an assault, the War Office re- ports to-day. This attack was pre- vented by French artillery, which dis- persed the German troops. A vigor- ous attack was made on the French trenches east of Thiaumont farm, but the Germans were repulsed with heavy losses.

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

LONDON, April 30. The Germans made a gas attack at Hulluch, but the gas broke back over their trenches clearing a thousand yards and causing many casualties. Four aero battles yesterday on the western front, and resulted in the destruction of two German aircraft be- hind the British lines.

The Germans recaptured trenches southwest of Lake Narpoz by a massed infantry attack.

GERMAN TRENCH CAPTURED.

PARIS, April 30. The capture of a German trench north of Deadman's Hill, with 53 prisoners, the ejection of the Germans from the trenches they had taken there, was said to have been accom- plished in official circles this after- noon.

Amusements.

THE FAMILY DIVIDED AT THE NICKEL.

The opening bill at the Nickel Theatre this week is an elaborate one. The feature film is entitled "The Family Divided." It is a powerful three-part social drama, adapted from the play "The House Divided," by H. S. Shel- don. It is a charming production in which the beautiful actress Edna Mayo and the matinee idol Bryant Washburn play the principal charac- ters. Bert Stanley, the rag-time ar- tist, and Jack Lane, the singer of pop- ular ballads, will be heard in new songs. All lovers of the movies should make an effort to attend to-day's per- formance.

AT THE CRESCENT.

Mr. Frank DeGroot sings "When the Bell in the Lighthouse Rings Ding, Ding," at the Crescent Picture Palace to-day. This is one of Mr. De Groot's favorite numbers. The pic- ture programme is one of the finest there is. A great Edison feature: "The Scar of Conscience" with Mar- garet Prussing and George Wright; a Biograph melodrama is "The Little Runaways"; a strong western drama is "The One Forgotten"; a thousand feet of interesting world news is con- tained in the Selig News Pictorial and a screaming Vitagraph comedy is "Cutey the Frog." The House featuring Wally Van the classy comedian. A truly big show for little money.

FOGGY AT THE CAPE.—It was very foggy at Cape Race yesterday, and nothing was reported to have passed in or out.

Sweets and Bitters.

The news to-day is of a mixed character. The news from Ireland is satisfactory. The backbone of the rebellion has been broken. The so-called Provisional President of the Irish Republic consents all rebellious units in the country to surrender to avoid further bloodshed. The formulating of a Provisional Government, an Irish Republic, with a Provisional President, shows the pretentious character of the rising. The fact that the Dublin Post Office, other public buildings and a section of Dublin could be held for days shows how dangerous it is to allow arms and ammunition to be distributed to persons unauthorized to possess them. The seizing of public buildings seems to support a suggestion made about the Sinn Fein movement in its early days, to the effect that it was supported largely by Government officials. The bright feature of this black time is that the Nationalists, under the leadership of John Redmond, win all the authorities. From the beginning of the war the efforts of John Redmond to promote recruiting in Ireland has been hampered by the Sinn Feiners. There is a gulf between the latter and the Nationalists, and the events of last week will widen it. It should also tend to close the gap between the Carsonites and the Redmondites. Both are deadly opposed to Irish independence in the guise of an Irish Republic, under the protection of the Kaiser. Their policy is, no matter in what other ways they differ, to knit Ireland more closely to the Empire and more firmly attached to the Kaiser.

Turning now to the Tigris, the news is the worst we have received from the East. General Townshend after a four months siege has been compelled to surrender with some 2,000 troops from the Old Country and 6,000 Indian troops. We may feel assured that Major General Townshend did all that mortal could do to hold out. He is an experienced officer, who has seen an exceptional amount of active service and won great distinction for holding out at Chitral fort until he was relieved. Major General Townshend did excellent service last summer and fall along the Tigris and was high commended in General Nixon's despatch of January 1st. The bitterness of the loss of Townshend's forces will put the British on their guard to stiffen their sinews, summer up their blood to put on a more bold and determined front.

Story of a Silver Fox.

The usual quiet of pastoral Codroy has been somewhat ruffled of late by a good deal of talk respecting the capture of a very valuable silver fox, and its subsequent disappearance from the pen in which it had been put for safe keeping, pending its sale to some dealer. It seems that a party of trappers hunting for foxes in April, 1914, secured this splendid animal, and for some reason, not explained, but known only to themselves and the other parties to the transaction, the fox was placed in the care of another, who claims now that the animal escaped from his pen. This explanation was not entirely satisfactory to the trappers who believed that the fox had been sold to another person. Rumor went so far as to say that the fox was sold to one Penny of Sydney, C.B., who came one night to the mouth of Grand River to receive the precious animal. All kinds of stories went round and you may be sure lost nothing in the going. The gentleman who held the animal in trust for the others, it is said, was seen at midnight on the beach with a suit case in his hand, the night the strange schooner came to the entrance of Grand River. This man, who is a member of the Game and Inland Fisheries Board, bargained with the trappers for one third the proceeds of the sale of the fox. For this he was to care for the animal and negotiate the transfer of the property. The end of all the talk was that the matter was brought to the ears of Sergeant Goodwin, who immediately got after the offenders, culminating in the prosecution to-day of the party, both hunters and the member of the Game Board for a breach of the laws. The animal was caught in April, 1914. Two of the party turned State evidence and so escaped fine; the others received the minimum penalty of $250, the official of the Game Board to pay costs.

Missionary Services at Wesley Church.

Though not a pleasant day, the annual services were very largely attended, the attraction being the preacher, Rev. F. S. Matthews, B.A., who has come from Carbonara for the occasion, and who delivered one of the most masterly appeals for missions that has been heard at Wesley for many years. After referring to the many happy associations with the people during his pastorate and which still lingered in his memory and heart, he announced his text from St. Matthew's Gospel 24th chap. 14th verse: And this Gospel shall be preached as a witness to all nations and then shall the end come, and the principal points were first to whom shall it be preached; second when shall it be preached, and third by whom shall it be preached. At the close of the morning service, hundreds welcomed back their former minister. In the evening there was a platform meeting, Rev. H. Royle, the present pastor, conducted the opening worship, and then introduced Mr. John C. Puddister, as the Chairman, who gave an excellent address, greeting Rev. Mr. Matthews and assuring him of the loyal regard with which he is held, and congratulating the congregation on its enthusiasm for missions, as was in evidence by the crowded church and the large increase in subscriptions the past eight years. Rev. H. Royle then read the report of the receipts and expenditure for 1915, and pleaded the continued liberality that those on missions home and foreign might have their salaries in full, and that there may be no retrenchment in the operations of the church in its agencies preaching the gospel, and hospitals, dispensaries, colleges, etc. In the foreign field, Rev. Mr. Matthews then spoke for thirty minutes. To the query Watchman what of the Night? he replied "The morning, with all the day cometh," and in a splendid manner he expounded the truth to others, and the supreme problem of the church to-day was to enter the open doors of the world wide, and win for Christ's kingdom. After the hearty singing of "From Greenland's Icy Mountains," Hon. R. A. Squires, K.C., rose to speak. He could not but be the inspiration of the occasion. It was a pleasure to him to see so many in khaki present; they had responded to the call of King and Country, he hoped others would respond to the call of the King of Kings. The world was not so big as it used to be. India is not now a long way off. Africa is not now filled with wild animals; we can get there in days instead of months, and in a thrilling address he appealed that in this "coming of the world for Christ, all would enlist by effort and giving so that His Kingdom may soon fill the earth. The singing and anthems all day were directed by Mr. Pratt had made grand preparation with his fine choir and collections were probably very good.

We have been handicapped to a degree by the failure to arrive of some of our most important fittings, but we have nevertheless opened on the date we had long set down for the opening. After all, the right kind of drinks and sundae are there, and Mr. Ryan's management will leave nothing to be desired. And the new tables and chairs, and the show cases will arrive shortly, and be put in place promptly after their arrival. If you want something really exceptional in the way of Ice Cream or Soda Drinks, drop into the Center any time to-day or any day.

STEROO IS COMING.

INTERESTING LECTURE.—Last night Mr. W. H. Jones lectured to a large audience at the Grenfell Hall on "Other Lands than Ours." He handled his subject in a masterly manner and drew interesting contrasts of the Old World from the New, as they applied to the United States, Canada and Egypt. At the close Miss Eva Jones, daughter of the lecturer, rendered in pleasing voice the solo "O Rest in the Lord."

TO-DAY'S Messages.

10.00 A.M.

THE SERBIAN AND GREEK RAILWAY.

ATHENS, To-day. Replying to a protest from Berlin against the transportation of soldiers over Greek railways, the Greek Government informed Germany, says the Journal d'Athens, the Cabinet recognized that such an act would be a violation of neutrality. This action, the newspaper adds, followed the declaration from Germany that in event of such transportation German aeroplanes would be obliged to bombard railways and transport trains.

VETERAN STATESMAN DEAD.

LONDON, To-day. Earl St. Aldwin, the veteran English statesman, twice Chancellor of the Exchequer, and twice Chief Secretary for Ireland, died yesterday at his country home. He was born in 1837.

SINK ALL IN SIGHT.

ROTTERDAM, To-day. The captain of the Dutch ship Berklestroom, sunk in the North Sea on April 23rd by a German submarine, is quoted by the Nieuw Rotterdamse Courant, as declaring that the commander of the underwater boat told him that the Germans intended to sink all ships of every nationality carrying food to England.

KINGSTOWN, Ireland, To-day.

A proclamation issued by Provisional President Pearce, advising the surrender of all rebels, follows: "In order to prevent further slaughter to unarmed people and in the hope of saving the lives of our followers who are surrounded and helplessly outnumbered, the members of the Provisional Government at headquarters have agreed unconditionally to surrender. Commands of all units of the Republican forces with all followers are ordered to lay down their arms. (Signed) Pearce."

DUBLIN REBELS SURRENDER.

KINGSTOWN, Ireland, To-day. The main body of Sinn Fein rebels at Dublin surrendered during the course of yesterday. There was, however, considerable fighting throughout Sunday at Dublin and suburbs. It was especially severe at Balls Bridge outside Dublin. The rebels in the college of surgeons surrendered this morning. One prisoner taken here was the Countess Markievicz.

BUDGET OF WAR NEWS.

LONDON, To-day. The French and Germans on several sectors to the northwest of Verdun have been engaged in relatively heavy infantry fighting with results evidently in favor of the French. To the north of Le Mort Homme, the French seized a German trench and captured 35 prisoners and to the north of Cumieres made a similar gain in which 30 prisoners were taken. Berlin says strong fighting attacks from Le Mort Homme to the northern part of Chantreaux Wood were repulsed. On the remainder of the French front except for small infantry attacks, notably in Vosges mountains and in the region of Lassigny bombardments alone have been in progress. In fights in the air the French claim their aviators have brought down four Fokkers, four other German aeroplanes, while Berlin says that in a flight over Verdun a French machine was shot down. Except for the Austrian attack at Coldiana which Italians repulsed, only bombardments have taken place on Austro-Italian line. In the region of south Lake Naroz, further success for German arms against Russian, the capture of four guns, one machine gun and 83 prisoners reported by Berlin. Petrograd says fighting in this region is diminishing in intensity. On the remaining northern Russian lines there have been enemy artillery bombardments north of Mouravizkva River region, where the Austrians forced Russians out of trench, but later the Russians in a counter action in which they inflicted heavy casualties, recaptured trench and received the surrender of 600 Magyars, 22 of whom were officers. In the fighting the Russians admit the loss of four officers and 100 men. The Turks in the vicinity of Diarbekar, Asiatic Turkey, took offensive against Russians but were repulsed. In East Africa the British are continuing their successes against Germans having taken near Kondoa, Baravai, munitions, convoys and a large number of cattle suitable for food.

OFFICERS CASUALTIES AT DUBLIN.

LONDON, To-day. The official list of casualties among army officers at Dublin was given out last night and contains 27 names. Of this total 5 are killed, 21 wounded and 1 missing. This list is additional to the one announced on Friday, giving the names of 2 officers killed and 5 wounded.

SUCCESS IN EAST AFRICA.

LONDON, To-day. A British official communication concerning operations against Germans in East Africa, says: Lieut-General Jan Christian Smuts, Commander of the Expeditionary force, telegraphs under date of April 29th, his mounted troops captured in the vicinity of Kondoa Baravai various convoys, including 200 slaughter men, 80 rifles, large amount of ammunition, a herd of 600 mixed cattle, 200 donkeys with saddlery supplies.

UP TO ARMPITS IN MUD.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS, France, Today. (Delayed). The physical difficulty of any extended movement until dry weather sets in is exemplified by the experience of the battalion which took a section of German trenches on the Ypres-Langemark Road. After 2 days spring rains attacking forces sank up to their armpits in morass which was spotted with shell craters, filled with water, helping themselves with their rifles, half crawling and swimming under shell fire. After a trench had been taken the mud dug out the wounded and those stuck in the mire who were not wounded. One Corporal, himself wounded, took two and a half hours bringing another wounded man 600 yards through the bog. German counter attacks caught them floundering in mud and by such gun fire gave up the attempt and withdrew.

PRINCE ALBERT BETTER.

LONDON, To-day. Prince Albert, second son of King George, who has been undergoing a long course of treatment for gastritis disorder, is completely recovered and shortly will resume duties as a middy in the Navy.

TWO MILLION DAMAGE.

DUBLIN, To-day. Although it is impossible to obtain the damage done since the outbreak of the rebellion, it can be placed conservatively at something more than two million.

CONTINUING GUERRILLA WARFARE.

KINGSTOWN, To-day. Although the principal leaders of the rebel movement have laid down their arms and advised their followers to acquiesce in unconditional surrender, there is no doubt that there will still be great difficulty in restoring peace in Dublin and surrounding districts. Numerous small bands of rebels evidently either have not received the leaders' orders or doubt the authenticity of the orders and have at any rate determined to continue guerilla warfare.

HARD FATE OF CREW IN WHITE SEA.

HALIFAX, To-day. One of the most touching incidents of the war which has occurred so far befell the Captain and crew of the British steamer Suffolk. Only three of the crew of twenty seven survive to tell the tale of hardships endured in the frozen zones of Russia. Those of the crew who did not kill themselves while in a state of despondency caused by great suffering were frozen to death in the heroic efforts to reach land 80 miles from a point which their steamer became stranded. The sorry fate of the Captain and 24 members of the crew who perished after enduring innumerable hardships was told by members of the Newfoundland steamer Bellaventure who returned to Halifax to-day. A member of the crew talked with one of the survivors of the Suffolk. He is a Russian Fin and the only one who was physically able to talk. The Suffolk is a cargo steamer, which while on a trip to Archangel got frozen in the White Sea before Christmas.

THE BATTLE OF VERDUN.

PARIS, To-day. The battle of Verdun, says semi-official statement, appears to be reviving somewhat but with none of its former violence. There is a great difference, the statement adds, between the random attempts which are crushed almost as soon as they are begun and the massed attacks of February 21 and April 9. After 68 days of struggle as tremendous as vain the German efforts cannot renew itself with the same intensity. Not only has the German offensive hitherto failed inasmuch as it has not secured its chief object, Verdun, but it has considerably enfeebled the offensive power of the enemy's fighting forces.

250 SINN FEIN PRISONERS.

HOLYHEAD, To-day. A boat-load of 250 Sinn Feiners arrived at Holyhead this morning. They were prisoners taken in the Dublin fighting. Practically all young men and boys. They were immediately put aboard train for prisons in the interior of England.

SHOT POLICEMAN.

LONDON, To-day. A police constable carrying despatches in the Dundalk district county of Louth, last Monday afternoon was stopped by armed rebels who took despatches from him, placed him against the hedge and shot him to death.

NORWEGIAN SUNK.

LONDON, To-day. The Norwegian steamer Mod has been sunk. She was 663 tons and owned in Christiania.

CONDITIONS NEARER NORMAL.

BELFAST, To-day. Nearly a thousand persons from Belfast who went to Dublin for Easter holidays returned here to-day. They reported the wholesale surrendering of rioters and a general improvement in the conditions in Dublin. Reports from various parts of Ulster indicate that conditions are about normal there. The authorities here are confident that the situation is well in hand throughout the northern provinces.

GUARANTEE BELGIAN CONGO.

HAVRE, To-day. The Belgian Government has received through the French Minister a declaration under which France, Great Britain and Russia guarantee the integrity of Belgian Congo.

Church and Children.

RUTH CAMERON.

"That settles it," said Billy Boy's father. "He says he doesn't want to go to church and he shan't. I won't have him dragged to church until he hates the sight of it as I used to." Billy Boy's mother looked shocked. "I want to form the church-going habit in him," she said.

"That's all right," said Billy Boy's father. "When he gets old enough to understand what the minister says, and to know what it all means, I'll back you in seeing that he goes to church. But not now, when it doesn't mean anything to him except having to keep still while the minister says things that he can't understand any more than you could if he spoke in Hebrew. No, siree, and if you have any respect for the House of God I shouldn't think you'd want your son to think of it as a kind of prison."

Billy Boy's mother was shocked. Billy Boy's mother looked still more shocked. "You do say such queer things, John," she said.

To some people any point of view different from the one they have held is always "queer."

I must say I am glad for Billy Boy that he isn't going to be forced to go to church just yet. His mother will see that he goes to Sunday-school. And that is well. At Sunday-school there will be something he can understand. And by and by when he is old enough to understand what the minister says, he will go to church. And that too is well.

Church is Nothing But An Endurance Test To Him.

But now when Billy is five and church is nothing but an endurance test, I'm right glad he isn't going to be forced to undergo it every Sunday. You see, I watched him one Sunday and my heart ached for him. He is a very active person and keeping still, even at school, where there is much to occupy his mind, is very hard to him. But here, where there is next to nothing to fix his attention, keeping still for an hour and a half becomes torture. He looks through the hymn book; but could anything be more arid than a hymn book when one cannot read?

At Least Give The Child Something To Keep Him Quiet.

The child in front of him has a picture book and the child to his right a pencil and paper. In our day such things were never allowed, but a great many parents nowadays have wisely relented to that extent. Billy Boy's mother, however, is not one of them, and Billy has nothing to occupy his active mind.

My own pleasantest recollection of church in the pre-comprehending days is of the cinnamon my mother used to carry in her pocket and dole out to me as a bribe for keeping still. To this day the smell of dry cinnamon brings back the memory of straight-backed pews and red cushions and the man in the pulpit talking, talking, and myself wondering when I dared steal another look at the clock.

All the energy that my mother expended in getting me to church and all the discomfort I endured and not one religious memory—was it worth while?

Perhaps you think that's a disgraceful confession, but it has at least one merit—it's truthful.

A Pretty Wedding.

A very pretty wedding took place at Western Bay, on the 25th inst., the contracting parties being Miss Annie Fitzgerald and Mr. John Tobin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. O'Brien at the home of the bride in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The bride looked charming in a costume of pale blue satin with wreath and veil to match and carried a bouquet of orange blossoms. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Fitzgerald, who wore pale blue silk and the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Michael Tobin. After the ceremony was performed a sumptuous repast was taken of and the health of bride and groom moved by Mr. Phil. Fahey, the Rev. Father O'Brien responded after which the happy couple left for their future home where a reception was held and dancing kept up till the wee sma hours. We wish the young couple many years of happy bliss. The wedding presents were numerous and costly, amongst them being the following:—A handsome water set from Rev. Father O'Brien; a clock from Mr. Mike Moran; $5 gold piece, John Mackey, R. C. Teacher, Carbonear; gold piece, Mr. Bernard Hogan; wine set, Miss Dwyer and Miss Coleman; silver pickle fork, Miss H. Rumson, Carbonear; toilet set, Miss M. Rowe; China tea set, Mrs. P. Fahey, South; dinner plates, Mr. T. Fitzgerald; table cloth, Mrs. E. Fitzgerald; table cloth, Mr. M. Obituary

MICHAEL J. BARRON.

There passed peacefully away at Dunville, on the 25th inst., in the sixty-third year of his age after a brief illness, Michael J. Barron, who for many years was a prominent business man of this locality. The deceased was the son of John and Mary Barron, the former of whom is now a nonagenarian—one of the good old stock almost all of whom have "shuffled off this mortal coil." Michael J. Barron was for many years a successful master mariner, but finding the avocation of the sea a precarious one abandoned it for the trade of carpentry. He was an artisan of no mean ability, so much so that his services were eagerly sought and many neat and symmetrical structures here evidence of his skill and taste in architecture. For the last nine or ten years he carried on an extensive mercantile business which he conducted with marked ability and honesty. He was remarkable for his kind and affable disposition and for his probity and high principle. He will be sorely missed by many to whom he was a kind and charitable friend. His funeral took place yesterday and was followed by a large concourse of people thus showing the respect and esteem in which he was held. All that was mortal of him was laid in the tomb at Mount Carmel Cemetery there to wait the Archangel's trumpet call. To his sorrowing wife, daughter and relatives the writer tenders sincere sympathy.

The Education Bill.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir,—I am glad that Parent wrote to you on Saturday, directing the attention of the public to the petty conduct of the Legislative Council in relation to the Education Bill. This Bill, we are informed, was framed by the Superintendents of Education. It has been endorsed by the Government and passed by the House of Assembly.

It now appears that the Legislative Council is anxious to pass it unless a clause is inserted in the section dealing with the Council of Higher Education to the effect that the said Council shall not admit to any of its examinations students under 12 years of age, notwithstanding the fact that the same Bill empowers the C. H. E. to make its own rules, regulations and bye-laws for the conduct of its work. One would have imagined that the C. H. E. would have been more competent to determine at what age students should be permitted to take examinations than the Legislative Council. Any way, if the members of the C. H. E. cannot be trusted by the public to make sane regulations concerning such a matter, they had better be replaced by the saner persons constituting the Upper Chamber who apparently regard themselves as better qualified to make such regulations than the present members of the C. H. E.

It is hard to believe that the Legislative Council is as anxious to promote education as to display its vanity when it is ready to wreck such an important measure as an education bill that has received the endorsement that this particular bill has received unless it is permitted to insert this trumpety clause concerning 12 years of age. The Legislative Council has been led by some spunkie to be meddling and in doing so forfeits the respect of which it should be worthy. It exists presumably to guard the Constitution and prevent hasty legislation, not to be petty and meddling. Yours, ANOTHER PARENT. St. John's, May 1, 1916.

From a recent Scotch paper we glean the following in reference to the Nfld. Regiment:
Lieut. L. C. AS RESULT OF BIG FIRE LAST NIGHT.
Last night as the result of a big fire that almost completely destroyed the shop of Wm. Fanning, corner of Barter's Hill and Pope Street, also the adjoining house on Pope Street owned by Mrs. E. Shea and occupied by her son-in-law, Thomas O'Brien, Patrick O'Neil, aged 80 years, now lies cold in death.

Newfoundland and the War.

Aid from our Oldest Colony—Lord Northcliffe's Speech.

Sir Daniel Morris, K.C.M.G., read a notable paper at the Royal Society of Arts yesterday on the forest resources of Newfoundland.

In the chair was Sir William MacGregor, ex-Governor of Newfoundland, supported by Lord Northcliffe. Among those present were Lord Leigh, Marion Lady Des Vaux, Dr. S. E. Chandler, B.Sc. (Imperial Institute), Dr. R. E. Wilson (Royal Botanical Gardens, Kew), Mr. A. Ralph Reed, Mr. M. M. Beeton, Mr. S. Charles Phillips, Dr. E. J. Salisbury, B.Sc., Dr. G. R. Parkis, C.M.G. (Rhodes Scholarship Trust).

Lord Northcliffe, who was received with applause, said he had very little right to speak on the subject of the forest resources of Newfoundland. He was only one of the ploughers of the utilisation of the wealth of that island. The fact that he intended to visit that meeting became known to someone who remarked that he thought that he (Lord Northcliffe) might be more usefully employed in doing something for the war. As a matter of fact, the development of the forest lands of Newfoundland was doing something for the war.

As they knew, one of England's neutral friends had placed an embargo on material which they were getting in great abundance from our oldest Colony, Newfoundland. It was due to Mr. Maxson Beeton and others, who were the real pioneers of the industry and development of wood pulp manufacture in Newfoundland, that the newspapers with which his lordship was associated were not entirely dependent for their supply on neutral countries. He added that one of the reasons they picked upon Newfoundland was that they were certain of the coming of this war.

Dealing with the afforestation in Newfoundland, Lord Northcliffe said the trees grew so thickly in their natural state that the forests were actually improved by cutting them down for their industry. Very few people had ever crossed the island in more than one direction, but those who had had brought back news of very great supplies in the interior.

He had often thought when travelling in Newfoundland that in that Colony Great Britain had a Colony more valuable than any single German Colony. But we had not exploited it any more than we had as yet exploited Australia. They had heard from Sir Daniel how the English miners had been able to follow their calling by help of pit props from Newfoundland. Two years ago that would have been impossible. Nay, even more, he had seen the trenches in France and Flanders supported by pit props from Newfoundland. And so this little Colony, neglected for hundreds of years, had been brought into prominence in a way which no one anticipated by the declaration of war in August, 1914.

Call of the Blood.

There was one thing which anyone who has been to Newfoundland in the island must emphasise, and that was the immense patriotism of the inhabitants. They are almost entirely of English, Scottish and Irish ancestry. A great proportion of them are descendants of Devonshire men, true to the call of the blood. A large percentage of the 243,000 population volunteered for active service.

Only that day he had been pleased to read a message sent to the Governor of Newfoundland from Headquarters thanking him for the splendid men the colony had sent to the war. No one could, perhaps, realise how remote the island is from the war. It is at least 1,500 miles from Liverpool and a great distance from any great American city. It sees very little of English people, and its reading for the most part is supplied by America, New York being but two and a half days by post. The manner in which this Colony had come to the help of the Mother Country was one of the most touching things of the war.

The bravery of Newfoundland's men in Gallipoli, to the climate of which they were entirely unaccustomed, and to which no one but our War Office would have thought of sending them, was magnificent. Their conduct was commended by General Cayley. He had heard that day that, not content with sending one contingent, Newfoundland is now busily preparing another one. When the people of Newfoundland read what Sir Daniel Morris and Sir William MacGregor, who was one of Newfoundland's very best Governors, had to say about their country, they would realize that people in England were at least grateful for the help they gave in material and in men. (Applause.)

Sir Daniel Morris in his paper described the history, features and resources of our "oldest colony." The most important and far-reaching event that has occurred in Newfoundland in recent years, he said, has been the establishment of the pulp and paper industry by the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company, followed soon afterwards by the Albert Reed Company, of London.

The Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company, which is known locally by the "A.N.D." Company, determined in 1905 to locate its mills in Newfoundland, having spent three years in seeking an adequate supply of wood pulp and a suitable site. The fine Grand Falls Mills owned by the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company were completed in the autumn of 1905, the first paper being made in Christmas week of that year.

The mills at the time of their completion were the largest in the world, and represented the most perfect assembly of paper-making plant, equipment which engineering skill and experience, backed by ample capital, could provide. They now supply the requirements of four British newspapers. The capital invested is £2,668,653.

2nd Lieut. S.K. Lumsden

Second Lieutenant S. K. Lumsden, of the Newfoundland Regiment, who at the outbreak of the war, was Lance-Corporal in the Princess Patricia Light Infantry C. E. F. and one of the first Canadian Regiments to be in action, is expected to arrive in company with several other officers about the middle of this week. Lieut. Lumsden was wounded at the capture of Hill 60 at St. Elmo prior to the battle of Neuve-Chapelle. It is reported, and we have every reason to believe that the gallant young officer was wounded in an attempt to save the life of Lieut. Cameron who shortly afterwards died of wounds. While recuperating in England he was transferred to the Newfoundland Regiment, and promoted to the rank he now holds.

A Despicable Act.

Some unscrupulous person or persons stopped so low as to tear down a recruiting "poster" in the interior of the General Post Office last Saturday, which reads as follows:—"Have you a reason or only an excuse for not enlisting?" It was well for the perpetrator that he was not caught in the act by some of the older and indignant officials whose sons are playing the game in defence of the Empire.

Honesty.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Honesty is so hard to define that most people do not tackle the job except for the benefit of their neighbours.

The dictionary which is one of our most successful side-steppers, says "honesty is freedom from fraud or guile." It forgets to mention that honesty usually means freedom from money also.

The proverb says honesty is the best policy. It is amazing to see how many people have a horror of playing policy.

The old Spartans admired honesty greatly. Stealing was honest in their eyes, but getting caught with their goods was a great crime. The recent bribery investigations have revealed the fact that the United States Senate is full of Spartans.

Some men are so honest that they will not steal a man's money so long as they can get it by selling him stock in a defunct gold mine. Other men would shudder with horror at the thought of selling decayed mining stock when the same results can be obtained in a perfectly legal manner by borrowing the money and going in to bankruptcy with no visible assets.

Many men are so honest that they will not steal a pin. But they would hold the coat of a personal friend while he stole a battleship. Still others decline to steal anything at all, preferring to leave the job to litigation, which usually gives excellent satisfaction.

There are also men with whom you could trust your watch with perfect safety, but who would take a stock company away from you with a merry laugh.

Some men are honest in small things, because there is no profit in piker pilfering. Others are honest in large things, because there is less risk in small packages.

Thus it is to be seen plainly that the standards of honesty vary as widely as plurality guesses by leaders of opposite parties. Standards vary in legislatures also. In some the members are so honest that they will only sell their votes for political support. In others the members will not accept money and would indignantly return the bundles they find in their pockets if they had time and could remember to do it. In still others, when a member doesn't jawn his desk and chair, he runs for re-election on his good record.

It will not do for us to judge the honesty of others by our own—for others are judging our honesty by theirs and are looking at us with horror as they do so.

SAXON "SIX"

A big touring car for five people

The Saxon high speed motor design gets more power on less gasoline than used to be possible with a bigger motor. To-day in your touring car of course you want a "Six." No lesser motor can give you the same even pull—smoothness—power—flexibility.

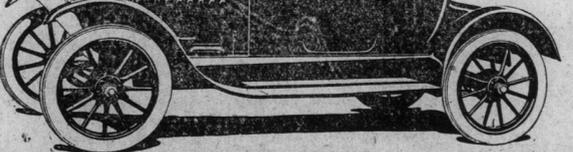

Except for starting the car, shifting is practically unknown to Saxon "Six" owners. The yacht-line body of the Saxon "Six" exemplifies the latest in motor car fashion.

The Saxon "Six" is a big car for five people—plenty of room in driving compartment and tonneau. The long, resilient, cantilever springs assure riding comfort.

If you seek speed the Saxon "Six" has it. "It laughs at hills." The car is absolutely phenomenal in its power and flexibility and our dealers welcome any test you care to invite. We are perfectly confident that the Saxon "Six" for power—speed—flexibility—acceleration—hill climbing—quietness—smoothness—coolness—comfort—economy will outperform any car in its price class. Ask to be shown.

EQUIPMENT—Electric lighting and starting system, two head lights, dash light and tail light, one-man top, windshield, electric horn, speedometer, extra rim, tire irons, tools and jack.

SAXON ROADSTER

The Saxon roadster is absolutely modern and up to the minute—yet it embodies no experimental features. There is nothing freakish about it. It is a tried and proved car. It has been tried in the hands of 30,000 users—in engineers tests—in public contests—and anywhere it has made good.

And do not overlook the Saxon virtue of economy. The Saxon costs the least to run of any car yet produced. It averages 30 miles per gallon of gasoline and 75 to 100 miles per pint of oil. Half a cent a mile is the Saxon average for car operation—one-fourth of a cent per passenger.

Buy an automobile that is stylish and modern, just as you would buy a hat—a gown—or a suit of clothes. There is only one car in the world with these most desirable qualities. That car is the Saxon roadster.

EQUIPMENT—Top, windshield, two gas head lights, oil tail light, gas generator and bulb horn. Electric starting and lighting system, with Exide battery furnished on new cars.

"GOOD CLOTHES."

We all like to wear what we call "Good Clothes." Now good clothes are costly—not dear—but they become dear if they have to be discarded practically unworn. The French Dry Cleaning Process meets the difficulty. We can afford to buy the best and most beautiful fabrics without being extravagant, because of their quality we can rely on being able to have them restored by this process to their original beauty quite often enough to enable them to be eventually discarded without a lament.
