THE STORY IN THE LONE INN.

CHAPTER XV.

"My name's Rowlie, sir," said the host of the Mermaid, in his slow and solemn way. "Mister—Robert—Edward—Rowlie, general dealer in lickers and refreshment for man and beast."

"Well, Mr. Robert Edward Rowlie, how many other guests have you at present in the house?"

Mr. Rowlie looked severely at the bedpost nearest him a moment in deep thought, and then shook his head:

"We hadn't got any at this present; no—not any. It's quiet here—remarkably so."

"So I should say. But there was one—Captain Tempest—is he not here?"

Mr. Rowlie looked with increasing gravity at the bedpost again, until he had sufficiently collected his faculties to reply:

"No, sir; he ain't here—leastways, 'sag at present; no—He ain't."

"Do you expect him soon?"

"Well," said Mr. Rowlie, scratching his head, or more properly speaking, his nightcap, "there ain't no saying about that. He might, and then again he mightn't."

"Well, what do you think?" said Dishbrowe, impatiently. "Do you think he will come to-day?"

"Well, now, I really couldn't say," said Mr. Rowlie, with a look of helpless distress. "There ain't never putting any dependence onto him. He might, and then again—"

"He mightn't," interrupted Dishbrowe. "Perfectly satisfactory! There you may go now, my intelligent friend; but should he come, will you just leave the goodness to present him Captain Dishbrowe's compliments, and let him know he hopes to have the pleasure of horsewhipping him within an inch of his life the first time they meet. There—go; I'm going to sleep."

To have seen the expression of Mr. Rowlie's expressive countenance on hearing this sanguinary announcement, with his mouth and eyes opened to their widest extent!

A faint smile broke over Dishbrowe's face as he waved his hand for him to go; and the horrified host of the Mermaid took his departure accordingly.

"Where is that?"

"Just a small piece below; and it's always been called after us."

"There was a boy with him—a young Spaniard. Do you know anything of him?"

"Oh, that uncommon handsome little furriner! No; he hasn't been here for a long while now. I asked old Nick once where he was, and he told me he had gone to the—you know who; but I don't believe a word of it. He was a great deal too good-looking," said Mrs. Rowlie, laughing.

"Do you know if there is any chance of my getting a passage shortly in some craft going from here direct to New York?"

"Oh, bless you! yes, sir. Day after to-morrow Bill Briggs comes down in his wood-boast, and he would take you. You wouldn't mind going in a wood-boast—would you?" said Mrs. Rowlie, doubtfully.

"No, sir. Lor, how should I? It ain't more than three or four years since I seen him first, altogether, and he had no wife then that I ever heard on. He might be married a dozen times, though, for me."

"How came he and this old Grizzle Howlet to be so intimate?"

"Don't know," "cept that it is that birds of a feather flock together everywhere."

"And this child who lives with that old woman—little Orrie—do you know anything of her?"

"No, sir—not a thing. I've heard she was the old woman's gran'darter, but I don't believe that, somehow. My 'pinion is that that there old Grizzle ain't no better than she ought to be."

"You might swear that without fear of perjury, my worthy hostess. Have you anything here I can read to kill time this long day?"

"Yes, sir," said Mrs. Rowlie, departing with alacrity; and presently reappearing with the whole library of the Mermaid, placed it on the table beside him.

"There was the 'Pilgrim's Progress' 'Watts' Hymns,' the 'Melodies of Mother Goose,' and 'Robinson Crusoe,' with the beginning and end torn out. Dishbrowe smiled slightly at the attractive catalogue; and lighting a cigar, leaned back and tried to beguile time alternately reading 'Watts' Hymns' and 'Mother Goose.'"

That long day seemed endless in the dull Mermaid. No one came the livelong day except the "navvy" of Mrs. Rowlie, who was immediately packed off in a horse and gig to Fontelle for the young soldier's luggage. Half a dozen times Dishbrowe started up in desperation, resolving to mount Saladin and ride to the old inn and see Jacueta once more, in spite of them all, and as often checked himself, and paced up and down the little room like one insane. Night came, and brought with it a calmer mood, but it was a night spent in feverish dreams. And he arose next day more restless and miserable than before.

Toward noon this feeling of restlessness grew unsupportable, and, unable to remain inactive longer, he ordered out Saladin, sprang into the saddle, and dashed off in the direction, where heart had been since he left Fontelle. In less than half an hour, the old inn came in sight, looming up dark, and dismal, and forbidding in the solitary waste. No one was in sight, but a horse stood at the door, which he recognized immediately as the one he had often seen Frank ride. Could it be that Frank was there?

NERVOUS BREAK-DOWN

Pains in Back and Legs Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ford, Ontario.—"I had a nervous break-down, as it is called, with severe pains in my back and legs, and with fainting spells which left me very weak. I was nervous and could not sleep nor eat as I should and spent much time in bed. I was in this state, more or less, for over two years, before Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me by my neighbor. Before I had taken five doses I was sitting up in bed, and when the first bottle was taken I was out of bed and able to walk around the house. During my sickness I had been obliged to get some one to look after my home for me, but thanks to the Vegetable Compound I am now able to look after it myself. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine in turn with the Vegetable Compound, and I certainly recommend these medicines to any one who is not enjoying good health. I am quite willing for you to use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. S. SAMPSON, 180 Jos. Janisse Avenue, Ford, Ontario.

Nervousness, irritability, painful times, run-down feelings and weakness are symptoms to be noted. Women suffering from these troubles, which they so often have, should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. All druggists sell this medicine.

When I plied a pick and shovel in the days of long ago, and resided in a hotel, my ambitions vaulted low. I remarked to divers callers, in a tone of hopeful pitch: "If I had a thousand dollars I'd be feeling pretty rich. If I had a thousand smackers I could wear a stovepipe hat, I could drive a span of rackers, smoking stogies dark and fat." Then my aching back was lathered with the sweat of honest toil, and I earned the plunks I gathered and put down in olive oil. When a thousand were assembled did they seem to stack up tall? Naw, I walked the floor, and trembled, since my assets were so small. "When I have five thousand dollars that will be a goodly pile, and with gentlemen and scholars I can travel for a while. But a thousand is a meagre and a pica-yoush roll," and I labored, strove, and sagged hope abiding in my soul. When five thousand bucks were picked in the strongest kind of brine, was I satisfied and tickled. Dread was in this heart of mine. I remarked, with great dejection: "I must strive to gather more; such a wad is no protection if the wolf comes to the door. I would be the butt of joshers if my bundle's size were known; when I have ten thousand washers I can call my soul my own." Now I'm old and bent and stricken, I am foolish as of yore, saying, while the shadows thicken, "I must gather in some more."

My medical men are paying more attention to the danger of over-eating than they formerly did. Fat men and fat women are poor insurance risks. The very worst. There is lots to be said for the old saw, "A lean horse for a long race." Insurance statistics go to show that people ten or twenty pounds under average weight in their forties have a five per cent. lower death rate than those of average weight, and that as one grows older there is all the more reason for keeping under weight, rather than allowing the fat to accumulate.

Overweight, unless the person is subject to some special disease, is brought on by overeating. Most people eat too much and many far too much. In consequence they put on weight, advance their blood pressure above normal and then one fine day away they go, and their friends remark, and so young too.

How often one sees a man of sedentary habits, wearing a seventeen collar and a paunch that would shame a hard working navvy. Or a woman, carrying fifty more pounds of flesh and fat than the laws of health allow, digging away in a candy box between meals.

Medical men point out that over-eating is so common that most people expect to increase in weight as the years go by. Indeed they accept it as normal and quite the thing. As a matter of fact it is contrary to nature and unjustifiable.

What we want is a little restraint in respect to overfilling our stomachs, and as far more people die of over-eating than do of overdrinking some of our prodigious friends might take the matter up. If we are going to have people from their own immediate appetites, let us begin at the beginning. Here is some real work for our reformers.—Saturday Night.

A package of tissue paper is handy in the kitchen. Use it for grinding cake tins, wiping off the frying pan, etc.

COMPARATIVE WEALTH.

WALT MASON

When I plied a pick and shovel in the days of long ago, and resided in a hotel, my ambitions vaulted low. How About a Law for Fat People

My medical men are paying more attention to the danger of over-eating than they formerly did. Fat men and fat women are poor insurance risks. The very worst. There is lots to be said for the old saw, "A lean horse for a long race." Insurance statistics go to show that people ten or twenty pounds under average weight in their forties have a five per cent. lower death rate than those of average weight, and that as one grows older there is all the more reason for keeping under weight, rather than allowing the fat to accumulate.

Overweight, unless the person is subject to some special disease, is brought on by overeating. Most people eat too much and many far too much. In consequence they put on weight, advance their blood pressure above normal and then one fine day away they go, and their friends remark, and so young too.

How often one sees a man of sedentary habits, wearing a seventeen collar and a paunch that would shame a hard working navvy. Or a woman, carrying fifty more pounds of flesh and fat than the laws of health allow, digging away in a candy box between meals.

Medical men point out that over-eating is so common that most people expect to increase in weight as the years go by. Indeed they accept it as normal and quite the thing. As a matter of fact it is contrary to nature and unjustifiable.

What we want is a little restraint in respect to overfilling our stomachs, and as far more people die of over-eating than do of overdrinking some of our prodigious friends might take the matter up. If we are going to have people from their own immediate appetites, let us begin at the beginning. Here is some real work for our reformers.—Saturday Night.

A package of tissue paper is handy in the kitchen. Use it for grinding cake tins, wiping off the frying pan, etc.

Children's Velvet Hats. Made of Black Velvet, lined throughout. Only 15c.

Ladies' Fall Coats. Only a few now on hand, made of English cloth. Each $4.98.

Ladies' Umbrellas. Good quality, taped-edge, American Taffeta, Black handle with cord strap. Each $1.98.

Children's Sweaters. Very pretty patterns, in Lawn and Blue, nicely trimmed, to fit up to 12 years. Each $1.49 to $1.98.

Job Sheeting. Here is a worth while value. The saving which one accomplishes by making sheets and pillow cases at home is even greater when you take advantage of these good values. Featured in this special selling are sheetings of standard quality, at prices below the average. Per Pound $1.25.

Princess Slips. Embroidery sounce, top trimmed all round with ribbon—drawn, embroidery and Val insertion with sheering; in Purple, Black, Navy, Brown and Green. Each 98c. and $1.98.

Household Notes. A very delightful thought, when sending flowers to a mother, is to include a tiny nosegay for the newborn babe. Steel pins with round, black heads, are excellent for pinning patterns. They are sharper and more easily picked up.

Sew a tiny tape on the wrong side of a garment before you embroider a buttonhole scallop. This makes a firmer finish. After squash has been prepared for baking, garnish it with partially broiled slices of bacon, before putting it in the oven.

Green pepper cases boiled, and drained, are nice stuffed with thickened saute mushrooms, and bread-crumbs and baked. For an evening's simple refreshment, serve individual apple pies ped with sweetened whipped cream, with coffee. Caramel Spanish cream is delicious. Increase the amount of sugar, and melt it until caramel in color, before adding it to the scalded milk. Powdered silver polish can be kept in a salt shaker near the sink, and spoons that have been badly stained can be cleaned when they are washed.

Dirigible Begins Trans-Atlantic Voyage To-Day

$2,000,000,000 Loan Agreement Signed in London—30 Persons Killed in Manila by a Typhoon.

LOAN AGREEMENT SIGNED.
LONDON, Oct. 10. An agreement covering the issuance of the $2,000,000,000 loan to Germany, provided under the Dawes Reparation Plan, was signed here today, following negotiations between the German delegation and British, United States and Continental Bankers.

DIRIGIBLE WILL BEGIN TRANS-ATLANTIC TRIP SATURDAY.
FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 10.—Saturday morning is the time set for the departure of the dirigible ZR-3, for Lakehurst, New Jersey, provided the Atlantic weather clears sufficiently to indicate to observers that no storms will be encountered in the early stages of the flight.

KILLED BY TYPHOON.
MANILA, Oct. 1. Thirty persons are dead and many are missing as a result of a typhoon which swept over Cagayan Valley, according to a telegram received today from Cagayan Provincial Constabulary Commander.

CANADA'S FIRST TREATY.
OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 10. The first treaty to be signed by a representative of the Dominion of Canada, which does not bear also the signature of the British Ambassador, will pass through its final stage when formal ratifications of the Pacific Halibut Convention are exchanged in Washington on or about October 21, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, who signed the treaty on behalf of Canada, will go to Washington to exchange ratifications with the Secretary of State for the United States or his representatives.

ON THE SHENANDOAH.
U.S.S. SHENANDOAH, Oct. 10. Few voyages in history have furnished more thrills in a short time as the navigation of the first passes of the Rocky Mountains by the Navy dirigible Shenandoah. Driving ahead as a speed of 75 miles an hour with wind that roared through the tunnel like cannons, the giant craft at times rose gradually until between highest peaks it was at an altitude of 6,800 feet, following the new and uncharted course with only the winding white ribbon of the highway and a glistening black railway track as uncertain guides. At other times it skimmed the ground so closely that frequently the jagged mountains wallied in this levitation of the skies.

A STUDENT'S BOW.
KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 10. The Queen's girls may take proceedings through the College Courts against male students who broke into Freshettes' reception Wednesday night. There were some half dozen of the intruders with handkerchiefs concealing their faces and blankets over their bodies who entered the entrance at the rear. Nearly all the girls pitched into them, and did a great deal of hair pulling. It was a rough time for the unwelcome visitors.

BOMB EXPLODES ON AIRSHIP.
NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Oct. 10. The Army blimp TC-2, the largest non-rigid lighter than air craft yet built in the United States, was badly damaged and several of her crew injured today, when a bomb she was carrying exploded while she was in the air over Langley Field.

PRINCE LEAVES CALGARY.
CALGARY, Oct. 10. Declaring that he had enjoyed his visit immensely, in spite of the inclement weather, H.R.H. Edward, Prince of Wales bade a warm adieu to Mayor Webster and a number of local dignitaries a few minutes before his special train steamed out of the Canadian Pacific Railway Depot at 7 o'clock last night on the first lap of his journey to Eastern Canada.

SEVEN YEARS FOR MANSLAUGHTER.
SYDNEY, N.S., Oct. 10. Justice McKenzie this morning, sentenced to seven years in Dorchester, Murdoch E. Macdonald, aged 19, convicted of killing Kenneth B. Macdonald by a blow with a stove leg at a dance at Aspy Bay, in August. The Grand Jury had reduced the charge from murder to manslaughter and the Petty Jury recommended mercy. Simpson G. Fraser of the same district was given three years, for hitting John E. McEachern over the head with a bottle and five years more for subsequently shooting McEachern in the leg. Fraser's sentences run concurrently.

ELECTION PERSONNEL.
LONDON, Oct. 10. Miss Isabel Macdonald, daughter of Premier Ramsay Macdonald, will conduct the election campaign in Bas-setlaw, Nottinghamshire, for her brother Malcolm, until he returns from the United States where he is now with the touring Oxford University Debating Club. Malcolm Macdonald was the unsuccessful Labor candidate in Basestlaw in the last general election, when Sir E. Hume Williams Conservative, was returned in a three-cornered contest. Oliver Baldwin, son of Stanley Baldwin, former Premier, is the Labor candidate in the Borough of Dudley. J. H. Clynes, son of J. R. Clynes, Lord Privy Seal, is again contesting the Hemel Hempstead Division of Hertfordshire in the Labor interest. He was defeated in 1923 in a three-cornered fight. Both sons of Arthur Henderson, Home Secretary, hope to repeat their success of the last election, Arthur Junior in South Cardiff and T. Henderson in the Trades Town Division of Glasgow. Home Secretary Arthur Henderson is again a candidate in Burnley where he was victorious in a bye-election, after having been defeated in another constituency in the general election.

WAHABIS DEFEATED.
JERUSALEM, Oct. 10. Emir Abdullah, Ruler of Trans-Jordan and a brother of King All of Hedjaz, to-day received a cable from Mecca that the Hedjaz Army had defeated the Wahabi invaders at Cuda, leaving 1500 Wahabis in dead and injured on the field of battle and were following up their advantage vigorously.

THE BEVIS MURDER TRIAL.
HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 10. Lewis Bevis, appearing in the Supreme Court here this morning, pleaded not guilty to the charge of having murdered police officer Charles Fulton, in Halifax, on July 15. The securing of a jury occupied much time, the panel being exhausted after eleven were chosen and twenty-four were objected to. Five additional talsmen were secured on the street the second of whom was accepted.

Famous Recipes for Home Cooking

"TWO-LOAVES" WHITE BREAD.
Miss Allen's favorite recipe for home-made white bread. A recipe which always comes out right! (All measurements level.)
1/2 cake compressed yeast (at night),
2 cupsful water,
2 cupfuls scalded milk or half milk and half water,
2 tablespoonfuls Crisco,
2 tablespoonfuls sugar,
1 teaspoonful salt.
To milk, or milk and water, add Crisco, sugar, and salt; when lukewarm, add yeast mixed with the half-cupful of liquid and the flour. Use an earthen bowl and mix with a knife to a dough. Knead until elastic. Let rise in a temperature of about 75 degrees F. The shelf over stove is not a suitable place. When doubled in bulk, shape into two loaves. When again light, bake about one hour. If you prefer to mix your bread in the morning and make it in the early afternoon, use one whole cake of yeast instead of one-third and follow above method.

In the Kitchen
Three apples, one-half cup sago, one-half cup sugar, any flavoring liked. Soak the sago in enough water to cover it for an hour. When soaked, peel, core, and slice the apples. Put a layer of sago in a buttered pie-dish, then one of the apples, sprinkle in some sugar, and continue this process till all is in. Then pour in a breakfast cup full of cold water, and cook in a moderate oven for two hours. Serve hot or cold. If liked, a few drops of vegetable carmine may be added to this sweet, and when cold, put in rough heaps with a fork, on a glass dish. Serve with cold custard.

WASTED SPACE.
Much room is wasted in cupboards and refrigerators by not having small compact food containers for left-overs. Wide topped taring bowls and plates represent a great waste of space.

Our Dumb Animals.

REPORT FROM THE CHIEF AGENT WEEK ENDING OCT. 10th.

I have been asked during the past week by several teamsters, both truckmen and cabmen, countrymen and private citizens, to see if something can be done for the benefit of the horses that have to walk over the roads that have lately been covered with tar and oil. On Hamilton Avenue George Simmons' horse met with a very serious accident, and the veterinary surgeon has been attending the horse for some time. There have also been several accidents to horses on Waterford Bridge Road and Rennie's Mill Road. Some of these places both truckmen and cabmen have refused to go. It makes good roads I have no doubt, but there should be some protection for the dumb animals. Some time ago the truckmen, cabmen and private horse owners petitioned the Council about this and they did not use tarvia on hills or grades. There are quite a number of horses laid up with sore knees. I saw one which had its teeth broken off where it fell. I hope some one in authority will do something to help the dumb animals the burden-bearers. Tarvia should only be used on the level and should be given a dressing of small stone; or one half the street should be left in natural state for the benefit of animals. Attended to landing of five car loads of cattle at the Railway Station, also to two sales of cattle at the Abattoir Company. Everything very satisfactory. Three horses were sent off the street for treatment. Was asked to humanely put to death a horse for the Union Aerated Water Company. The horse had been sever-

Those boys who are in the habit of tormenting dogs should be warned by their parents and school teachers. I humanely put to death a dog, on Golf Avenue, which had been injured in some way, and left on the road. Another on Merrymount Road which was very old and suffering with a diseased throat. Two small dogs for a resident of Charlton St. and one for a resident of Mundy Pond Road; one for a resident of Power Street was also put to death. I have asked the Road Inspectors to put some gravel at the head of the coves, before taking Water Street. I have also called the attention of the Council to Harvey's Arch. Received forty-two different complaints during the week. All have been attended to promptly. Will the authorities please attend to completing the roadway in front of the War Memorial, before some fatal accident occurs. Winter is approaching and something must be done promptly. Messrs. Hearn & Company's horse narrowly escaped being killed there a few days ago.

Character in Business

London Daily Telegraph: There is perhaps, no other world in which personal character, initiative, ability and courage count for so much as in the world of business. Ninety per cent. of people who go into business are said to fail; failure is a comparative term, and we take it that here it is used to mean rather lack of success than actual disaster. Almost anybody can manage to start a little business and extract from it a bare, dull subsistence; but only one in ten can make a business which, large or small, is a lively and healthy creation. The things which that one man must possess are few in number, and good health, which is the first, is not essential to character though it is more often than not the foundation-stone upon which a fine character is built. But the other three—perseverance concentration on a specific object, and straight dealing—are all fundamental factors in what we call character. Nowadays "the dignity of trade" has been fully established.

Feast of the Tabernacles

On Sunday, October 12th, at sundown, the happy festival of Succoth, of Tabernacles will be ushered in. Unlike American holidays, all Jewish holidays commence at sun-down, because in the Creation story, evening preceded morning of the first day. (Genesis 1-5). The Festival of Tabernacles, or Booths, recalls the period in Israel's history between their departure from Egypt and their entrance into the Promised Land. For forty years the Children of Israel, under the mastery leadership of Moses, dwelt in the Wilderness, being prepared, so to speak, for their future residence in the Holy Land.

Judaism is a religion which bases many ceremonies on the past. Mindful of this eventful era in Jewish history, every year, for a full week, commencing on the fifteenth day of the month of Tishri, Jewish people celebrate the Festival of Tabernacles. The Bible verses relative to this are found in Leviticus (xxiii: 33-44) where it says, v. 42, "Ye shall dwell in booths seven days; All ye that are homeborn in Israel, shall dwell in booths; That your generations may know that I made the Children of Israel to dwell in booths when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the Lord, your God." During these forty years, the Children of Israel dwelt in frail booths, and Jewish people built temporary huts, where the climate is mild enough, so that they may eat their meals out of doors, and think of the divine guidance which protected Israel at all times. The booth must be of slight foundation, easily constructed and just as easily torn down, to indicate that the Jew must depend upon God and upon no human device for his salvation.

The second symbol of this week of holiday centers around the thought of Thanksgiving. The Feast of Tabernacles occurs at the beginning of the Fall, when the farmer had completed his year's toil, and was expected to journey to Jerusalem and enjoy a week's holiday in the Temple of the Lord. As the farmer journeyed to Jerusalem, he carried four symbols with him. V. 40, "And ye shall take ye on the first day the fruit of goodly trees, branches of palm trees, and boughs of thick trees and willows of the brook and ye shall rejoice before the Lord, your God, seven days." This ceremony is observed to this day, all over the world, and during the synagogue service, these four symbols, the date palm, the myrtle, the citron and weeping willow are found on the altar. To emphasize the spirit of thanksgiving for God's bounties, many congregations cover the synagogue pulpit with vegetables and fruits, thus forming a very pretty picture of offering gratitude to God for all his mercies. Orthodox synagogues observe the second day as well as the first by a special prayer service.

Monday, October 20th, the eighth day of the Festival, is called Shemini Azereth, the Feast of Conclusion. Its special significance is understood through a fervent prayer for rain, that God during the winter months, now looming, will provide sufficient rain for the necessary crops. This holiday may be explained through the following parable. A king once invited all his children to come from their several provinces, and for a full week they enjoyed great happiness in the royal palace. All too soon did the hour of departure arrive. The heirs of king and children were sad, till the king urged all his children to remain for one additional day, spending the hours in joy and merriment, after which they should all joyfully go to their respective homes.

Similarly, this Feast of Conclusion. After tarrying in Jerusalem for a happy week, the farmers remained one concluding day with God, and then departed for their several homes, not to return again till the winter season ended. To this festival, orthodox Jews add another day, Simchas Torah, rejoicing over the Law. This is the happiest day in the entire Jewish year. The reading of the Scrolls, containing the five Books of Moses, is ended, and directly after, the Creation story in Genesis is once more read. Happiness rules the hour, and even little children participate in the synagogue service.

Scottish Home Rule

London Chronicle: Scottish people, always intensely conscious of their nationality, have become peculiarly aware of their own special labor problem and their own drink problem, and realize that religion, education and agriculture present to them questions which only Scotsmen can answer and deal with. The Home Rule movement has been a loyal and constitutional movement. But there is always the danger that the discontented elements which are stirred by the special grievances of Scotland may identify themselves more and more with the Home Rule movement, and turn it from its legitimate constitutional aims to separatist and even destructive aims. To ignore the proper Scottish demand for Home Rule is to invite the beginning of a second Irish movement.

Talented Young Newfoundlander

From recent clippings we are very pleased to note that Mr. Joseph B. Murphy, who is studying medicine in Dublin, at the National University of Ireland, has passed this year's examinations most successfully, being one of thirty who qualified, out of eighty-six candidates. To the talented young student, his mother, Mrs. Murphy, of this city, and his brother, Rev. R. McD. Murphy, of the Cathedral Staff, we extend cordial congratulations.

Wedding Bells

TILLEY-TUCKER.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Philip's Church, on Wednesday, the 8th inst., when Stanley Tilley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tilley, of Topsail, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Ethel Smith, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Tucker, of St. Philips. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. Tulk. The bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away, and looked charming in a dress of duchesse satin with silver lace and beaded trimming. She wore a veil of orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of white astors and maiden hair fern. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Maria Tucker, who wore a dress of blue crepe de chene with black picture hat and Miss Minnie Tilley, sister of the groom, who wore a fawn dress of Georgette and hat to match. Also in attendance were little Misses Muriel and Gertrude Tucker, cousins of the bride, who were becomingly attired and carried baskets of pink and white roses. The groom was ably supported by Mr. Ronald Tucker, the brother of the bride. After the ceremony the "Wedding March" was rendered by Mrs. (Rev.) Tulk. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, St. Philips, when the usual toasts were duly honored. Mr. and Mrs. Tilley were the recipients of many valuable and useful presents, included amongst which was a cheque from her brother, gold cuff links, cut glass, silverware, etc. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Tilley wish them many years of happiness. Tourists Collect Souvenirs

EVEN IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY. LONDON, Sept. 26.—(A.P.)—Many of the fine monuments of Westminster Abbey are being badly treated by the tourists who visit London's ancient edifice. Several of the monuments are minus fragments, such as fingers and toes, and from the walls themselves several bits have been broken off to satisfy the souvenir-hunter. The latest loss is the large spearhead from that instrument carried by the figure of Death in the monument erected to the memory of a member of the Nightingale family. The thefts, however, are gradually diminishing. This is due to the scarcity of suitable souvenirs, and the alertness of several new guards placed in the abbey.

IN 30 minutes with SUNSET, the modern fast dye, you can have any color or shade you want!

Think what that means in planning your next dress and the things to go with it! SUNSET makes it possible for you to have the season's most fashionable colors without paying extra for them.

The SUNSET—dye a pair of silk stockings to match a favorite gown—you will be amazed how easy it is.

There are 22 standard SUNSET colors. By mixing them according to directions, you can make any of the newest off-shades. And you finish the whole, clean SUNSET operation in a brief thirty minutes.

SUNSET is entirely different from all other dyes—different from tints because it is fast, different from powdered dyes because it is put up in neat cake form for cleanliness, accuracy and convenience. Another very important difference is that SUNSET dyes all fabrics—silk, wool, cotton and mixed goods—the same color in the same bath.

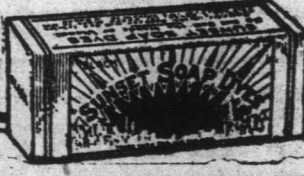

SUNSET is made by a patented process, so it is very important that you make sure of getting genuine SUNSET.

By the year three thousand the habitable earth will afford standing room only, argues Prof. J. W. Gregory, basing his conclusions upon the rate of population increases between 1906 and 1910. If that continues until the year 3000, our planet will have as many folks as it can feed, he says in an address delivered recently before the British Association for the Advancement of Science at Toronto, and, while one newspaper thinks that "the professional dreamers are a bit wild," the Boston Herald takes them rather seriously, reminding us that "the population of the United States advanced from 3,929,214 in 1790 to 105,708,771 in 1920, and it was by no means all due to immigration." Moreover,

"From 1800 to 1900 European Russia's population jumped from 40 to 106 millions, Germany's from 27 to 56, France's from 35 to 39, and the population of Great Britain from 25 to 41 millions. In the course of the nineteenth century the dwellers of Europe doubled in number; for every four people living in European lands at the time of Napoleon's consulship there were more than nine at the outbreak of the World War. And in this race for numbers the blacks, yellows and browns fall not in their competition with the whites, as may be seen from the fact that in a single century the population of India has expanded from 100,000,000 to more than 300,000,000."

The Boston paper then asks, "With a total world population which has already reached 1,849,600,000, what may we expect in the future?" and tells us:

"Dr. Raymond Pearl, Andrew of Johns Hopkins asserts that in the United States alone a population numbering 197,274,000 by the year 3100 may be confidently anticipated, while B. L. Putnam Weale predicts that the statisticians of 1980 will enter on their records the figure of 4,000,000,000 for the planet as a whole. But the really sensational estimate comes from Dr. H. P. Fairchild of New York University, after a survey of conditions in both old world and new. His numbers for America are 550,000,000 at the end of the twentieth century, and for the middle of the next century 'as many people as there are now on the entire globe.' Nor is he content with even this forecast, for he goes on to say that 'increase in the birth-rate and better living conditions should produce in 10,000 years more human beings than could be provided with standing room.'"

"The professor sums up all conceivable ways out from the dilemma, resort to 'skyscrapers' included. But he omits one obvious and comforting, if selfish, reflection—that the 'jam' will not come in our day. And with a hundred centuries at its disposal civilization should have ample time in which to work out just the solution of the population problem that is needed to keep the world a going concern and insure ample elbow-room for everybody."

Further consolation is proffered us by the Newark News, which observes:

"In practice civilization has made for a decreased birth-rate and a higher type of individual. As far as there is a net gain in the world's population, the means of sustaining it have been adequate, and the future looks much better than it did in Malthus's day. The machine age, with all its marvels, is believed to be in its infancy. More food also is produced on less acreage, where science is applied, yet science has barely made a start."

With a view to defining overpopulation clearly, and to sounding a warning, to the Manchester (N. H.) Union points out that overpopulation is not wholly a matter of numbers and of space:

"We could have a condition of overpopulation; for overpopulation does not mean many people, but more people than there are food and shelter. A very small population could mean overpopulation in a desert or Arctic country."

"A condition of overpopulation may temporarily result from transient and removable causes. Though the war-ravaged Europeans may have had their population reduced by the war, because they had their resources reduced even more, because so many of their dwellings were destroyed, they are in a condition of overpopulation at present."

"Provided we increase our supply of necessities, our American population can increase indefinitely without pressure. But if our food supply lessens through either exhaustion of the soil or, what seems more likely, through a great decrease in the number of tillers of the soil, a condition of overpopulation will result—more mouths than food to fill them. A condition of overpopulation as regards housing can result in the same way—scarcity of building material and a lessened amount of work put into building."

As is generally the case this discussion has revived the question as to whether, while increasing numerically, the human race is maintaining its quality. Evidently the white race—or at all events its Anglo-Saxon branch—is faring well, for the St.

Paul Pioneer Press informs us that, at the Toronto meeting.

Dr. F. C. Shrukall, President of the Anthropological Section took a view quite contrary to the sentiment too widely expressed that the Anglo-Saxon race is about played out and that it is on the slow decline, degenerating into decay. Perhaps this idea is cultivated by the more general knowledge of crime, corruption and greed as compared with the knowledge of the existence of obedience to law, honesty and unselfishness.

"Physically, mentally and morally, Dr. Shrukall declares, we are better than our forefathers. This is his scientific conclusion."

"In stature and weight, we average higher than our forefathers. Our general health is vastly improved and our expectation of life longer. Powers of resistance that have not been equalled were revealed in the great war. Mental defects are decreasing. Advances in education are being made. Smaller families are being offset by lessened mortality in childhood."

In the address that started all this discussion Professor Gregory expressed alarm over the rapid increase of the negro race in Africa and South America, and Dr. Edwin E. Slosson, Director of Science Service, reports him thus for the New York World:

"There is double menace in the race problem, we are warned. From one side is the danger of civilization of the rising tide of color, and from the other is the peril of humanity from the rising tide of color prejudice."

"A thousand years ago the whites held only part of Europe. Now Europeans, though only a third of the world's population, rule eight-ninths of the habitable land. But during the past half-century colored races have increased faster than the white."

"Increased disparity in numbers means, in a democratic age, an inevitable transfer of power; while the former prestige of the white man has been undermined by his own beneficent rule, alike in war and peace, and personal authority which the white man held in 1900 has undergone a momentous decline," said Professor Gregory.

"African negroes are increasing faster than any other people in the world. South America is firmly held by a mixed race, and Professor Gregory thinks it most probable that a similar hybrid people will eventually occupy the southeastern section of the United States with some measure of home rule. The whites can only hope to hold in South Africa certain segregated sections, and in Asia only the north and northwest. White colonists have no chance of permanently occupying land near the overcrowded parts of Asia or accessible to the fast-multiplying negroes of South Africa, he said."

Here Dr. Slosson again quotes Professor Gregory verbatim:

"White merchants may find in these regions profitable trading centers and may for a time rule and administer them, but when white enterprise has subdued the land, built railways and utilized the rivers, the colored man will oust the white man from all but the few posts that require experts."

Resuming in his own person, Dr. Slosson says:

"But Australia may be completely colonized by the white race, for the speaker believes that the conquest of tropical diseases will enable the tropics to support white civilization. Australian experience has proved that even in the hot and humid climate of Queensland, sugar-cane plantations can be more successfully worked by white than by colored labor, although black men can usually stand more heat than white."

"Professor Gregory looks to segregation as the best solution of the race problem, for he does not believe in interbreeding and regards coexistence as incompatible with racial integrity and the highest development of either race. As he puts it, the affectionate, emotional negro, the docile, diligent Asiatic, and the inventive, enterprising European, do not work at their best when associated en masse."

The Position of The Labour Leader

The quotations from the New Statesman which appear in today's message dealing with the opening campaign in Britain would seem to indicate that the unity of the Labour Party since its advent to power has been considerably shaken, if indeed there ever was a common school of thought to bind together the various factions of which the party is composed. It would perhaps be more correct to say that the breaches between them have been widened by the policy which the Government followed during its brief tenure of office.

The basis upon which the Labour Party was formed was Socialism, but the principles of Socialism have undergone so many changes that to-day it is a difficult matter to draw a line between those who are its advocates and those antagonistic to it. In dealing with this subject in a recent issue the New Statesman said:

"Nothing is more significant to the world of to-day than the collapse of Socialistic doctrines. Only a decade ago the outlines of the Socialist policy seemed well-defined, and Socialism itself a body of doctrines and a programme as clear as the sun at noon.

"To-day, all that structure of Socialist ideas lies in ruins. Men still call themselves Socialists, probably in greater numbers than ever before. But now, when a man calls himself a Socialist, he conveys by the name little information about his ideas and beliefs."

If evidence is required of the changes which have taken place with regard to Socialistic dogmas, it is to be found in the policy followed by the Labour leaders during the last session, and by the attitude adopted both by Liberals and Conservatives towards certain measures introduced and generally approved.

Perhaps no Prime Minister of Great Britain has ever had so many difficult problems to occupy his attention or so many grave issues to decide upon as those which have arisen since Ramsay MacDonald took office. Regarded with suspicion by a large section of the community, working in an atmosphere of hostility, urged to adopt extreme and untried ideas by a large and vociferous section of his followers, and having to rely for advice and assistance upon a Cabinet composed to a great extent of men unfamiliar with the duties of their offices, he was compelled to rely almost altogether upon his own judgment in domestic and foreign affairs, and in weighty matters which were of vital importance to the whole Empire.

Is it surprising if some of his actions have aroused criticism? Is it not to be wondered at that more mistakes have not been made? Even his bitterest opponents have to admit that whatever his personal feelings may have been, he has certainly adopted a far more temperate attitude than was expected, and that with the assuming of the role of Prime Minister his energy and ability were given unstintingly and unselfishly to the advancement of the country's interests.

Those who have been most deeply disappointed with Britain's first Labour Premier are to be found among his own followers. Some of them had lived for the day when Labour would triumph at the polls, a triumph which they anticipated would be immediately followed by the overthrow of the old institutions, the downfall of the capitalist and the sweeping away of everything upon which the security of the State depended, although they had nothing but vague theories with which to replace them. Their hopes were not fulfilled and in consequence they are in a different camp from that of their former leaders. Ramsay MacDonald himself practically disowned them a short time ago and that action did more to bring the general public to his side than anything else. Whether he will in the present campaign allow motives of a purely political character to lead him from the path which he followed while he was in office remains to be seen, but everything would seem to indicate that the views which he formerly held have been considerably modified during the last twelve months, and that convinced that he has found the right course, he will follow it consistently regardless of the wild men who would turn a law-abiding country into an abode from which order had departed, and make democracy, carried to extremes, result in conditions far worse than those which existed in the darkest days of tyranny and oppression.

To Tell Empire Story

Miss Marguerite Hubbell has arrived in town after a short tour of Conception Bay points where she told her British Empire story with considerable success. Miss Hubbell will repeat her lecture in the city early next week, the date to be announced later. Miss Hubbell while in the city is a guest at the Balmac Place.

Harvest Sunday at Congregational Church

To-morrow, at Queen's Road Congregational Church, is Harvest Festival Sunday, and large audiences are expected at all services. The pastor, Rev. D. L. Nichol, will occupy the pulpit both morning and evening, and his sermons will be appropriate to the day. The choir, under the leadership of Miss Barnes, the organist, will render special music at these services. Harvest Sunday promises to be a helpful and pleasant one for all. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Personal

Mr. Lance Modell of the Electrical staff of the A.N.D. Co., Grand Falls, is at present visiting this town. Quite a large aggregation of electrical machinery is at present being installed at Grand Falls to cope with the demand for power which will be made by the installation of new paper machines and increased tonnage output.

The following witnesses were called and gave evidence:—Messrs. Peter O'Hara, Charles Kelly, George Davy, Philip Wylan, Wilfred Howell, H. B. Chase; Head Const. John Byrne, Sergeant Fitzgerald; Miss Josephine Carew, Mrs. Jennie Cullen and Mrs. Marion Noah. The further hearing was postponed until next week.

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR ACHE AND PAINS.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

October 10th.—Up, and a fair, warm day, such as I have rarely seen it so late in the year, and I went to my summer clothes on going abroad. Meeting Quill, the Attorney, he might be excited, and tells me how the Crown Counsel, that did conduct the prosecutions of Sir R. Squires, do file an affidavit, and the effect of it, that the Grand Jury is irregularly constituted. So the utmost confusion caused and the Grand Jury not required to attend the Court till Monday. Meanwhile, the Justices will to-morrow sit upon the affidavit and give a decision thereon. But Lord, what a pretty do do, since if the affidavit be upheld, all decisions of the Grand Jury are upset and all Bills of Indictment which it did decide must be postponed to the January sessions. My wife this day tells me she will bob her hair, and makes me mad to hear her talk so. Indeed, I was so angry that I did tell her she might go about with a shaven crown for all it mattered to me. At this, the wretched lady a-weeping, and chides me with loving her no longer, which, God help me, is true, yet I would not have her know it. So I do appease her with many promises which I shall trust to her forgetting before I remember them.

Nfld. Athletes Given Rousing Send Off

A large number of sports and friends gathered at Harvey & Company's pier at 1 p.m. to-day to give our local long distance runner Ronald O'Toole, and Manager John Bell a rousing send off by the Rosalind for Halifax. O'Toole, our champion runner, has been sent by the Nfld. Amateur Athletic Association to compete in the Halifax Herald and Evening Mail 10 Mile Road Race which takes place on Saturday, October 25th. O'Toole left here feeling in fine fettle, and with two weeks at his disposal for training in Halifax ought to give a good account of himself. Best wishes were extended to the Newfoundland athletes for a safe and pleasant voyage, and it was the hope of all that O'Toole will be crowned with victory. As the steamer left the pier both O'Toole and Bell were given three ringing cheers with a will. It had been decided to send William Linegar to compete, but he was unable to get away. This caused a big disappointment in sporting circles, as Linegar could be relied upon to hold his own against the "Canucks."

Child Welfare

HEALTHY BABIES. "An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure."

SLEEP—How much sleep does Baby get? Don't forget that sleep is as important to Baby as food or clothes. You would not dream of letting Baby live without clothes, and enough clothes too; so in the same way let him have sleep, and enough sleep too. Sleep is helping his nerves and his mind to grow strong—Let him have 14 hours sleep in the 24 hours—This is not any too much; and justly notice the next few days particularly if he is getting this. See that all the children are in bed by six thirty (4.30 p.m.).

COTS.—It is very hard sometimes to give all the children a bed each but it is never difficult to give baby a cot to himself. A cot carefully made with a pillow on two chairs; a basket with a pillow in it; a cot made from wood of an old packing-case,—all these are most successful. And baby in a cot means Mother sleeps better. Baby sleeps better; and this reacts a great deal on the daily strength of each.

A PRIZE.—Our West End Centre is offering a Christmas prize to the West End Baby who attends our Centre most regularly from this coming week to Xmas. Bring baby every Friday if you can and so let him win this prize.

St. Mary's Church

BEAUTIFUL GIFTS RECEIVED.

During the past few years St. Mary's Church has been enriched by costly gifts from organizations and parishioners. But none excel those received the past week and now standing in the sacred edifice. We refer to a very fine pulpit and altar rail. The pulpit, which is of carved oak, was presented by St. Mary's Women's Association, and the altar rail by the Sanctuary Guild. The pulpit has five sides carved and an oak and polished brass handrail is attached to the steps. The altar rail is of oak with six beautiful polished brass standards very chaste in design. The articles referred to were executed at the workshops of Messrs. J. Wippell & Co., Exeter, whose reputation is world-wide. The furniture was placed in position by Messrs. C. Udle and A. Drover and will be used for the first time on Sunday. The dedication will take place as soon as the Bishop, who is at present indisposed, can attend.

Story of Printing Ink

A cordial invitation is extended to St. John's citizens and all those interested in printing and advertising to attend an illustrated address on Monday evening next, Oct. 13th, at 8.30 in the Grenfell Hall, when W. E. Sharpe, sales manager of Canada Printing Ink Co., Toronto, will give a lecture on the use and manufacture of printing ink. He will use 70 slides, showing a great many of the different uses of the commodity in connection with the merchandising of goods, as well as showing the source of some of the oils, varnishes and colors and the processes of their manufacture into the finished product which has become such an important factor in modern business. Mr. Sharpe with his long experience is well qualified to impart knowledge to all interested or connected with the printing business. The St. John, N.B., Telegraph in speaking of the lecture said: "Mr. Sharpe told of and showed on the screen the source of supply of the oils and colors and other ingredients that go to make up printer's ink, and the processes through which it went before it was ready for the market. He also described the various uses of the product in the many branches of the printer's art, all in very entertaining manner." The lecture is free, and it is hoped that everybody interested will attend.

Proposed Visits During October

H. B. Thomson, Opt. D., Optician and Optometrist will be visiting the following towns, on or about the dates mentioned:—Grand Falls, October 14th to 20th; Deer Lake, 21st to 23rd; Curling and Corner Brook, about October 24th to 30th; Chappell, Belleoram, Grand Bank, Burin during month of November, City office 216 Water Street, over T. Supreme Court

TO CONSIDER CROWN COUNSEL'S OBJECTION TO STATUS OF GRAND JURY.

When the Supreme Court met this morning, Mr. L. E. Emerson made a motion for the quashing of the Grand Jury in the present session, and conditional on the motion being acceded to, that the records of the matter of Sir Richard Squires be amended. His submitted as grounds for the motion, that only 20 jurors were summoned whereas the Act states that the first 23 drawn should be summoned and shall serve. Mr. Emerson claimed that it was the duty of the Sheriff to fill up the panel. It is within recollection that the number summoned to serve on a grand jury has been reduced to the workable proportions of 23, he pointed out. The drawing and summoning of the jury is so managed in England that 23 members must serve. The second point raised by Mr. Emerson was that Sect. 67 of the Judicature Act had not been complied with inasmuch as neither the Registrar nor his Deputy were present when the jury was drawn. The Section reads as follows:—

67.—The names of all persons qualified to serve as Grand Jurors, together with their respective occupations and places of abode, shall be written or printed before the commencement of each session of the Court to be held at St. John's, and at least a day before such Grand Jurors shall be required to attend Court in any other place in the Island, the Sheriff or Sub-sheriff shall attend with the said cards before the Registrar or Deputy Registrar of the said Court, who shall compare the same with the lists of the Grand Jurors furnished as aforesaid; and the said cards containing the names of all the said Jurors shall be put into a box in presence of the said Clerk, and the first twenty-three persons whose names shall be first drawn by the Sheriff or Sub-Sheriff, shall be summoned at least two days before the commencement of each session of the said Court to be held at St. John's, and at least the day before they shall be required to attend Court to be held in any other place in this Island, and shall serve as Grand Jurors during such session. The Grand Jurors summoned to attend Court at St. John's shall if required serve and attend at any time from the commencement of one session to the commencement of the next session.

During the course of the argument, Mr. Emerson referred to the 10th volume Supreme Court, page 478, where it is recorded that on similar grounds the array of the Grand Jury had been challenged and that some of the objections had been upheld by the court. The matter had reference to the Grand Jury in the Bank Director trials of 1895.

Mr. Howley, K.C., on behalf of Sir Richard Squires was heard in answer to Mr. Emerson and submitted that no evidence had been submitted other than the affidavit of opposing counsel, which was only hearsay to enable the court to deal with the matter. On the assumption that the facts could be sustained he submitted that the Sheriff had only an order to summon 23 jurors, so that provided the summonses had been served personally or left at the Jurors place of business he claimed that the Sheriff's duty had been fulfilled. Mr. Emerson here pointed out that the record of the court showed that three summonses had not been served.

Mr. Howley continuing submitted that the question of the number required to bring in a "no bill" did not arise. There was no evidence that there were not 12 or more in favour of a "no bill." He further submitted that if there was any question as to the validity of the Grand Jury it must be raised as the jury comes to be sworn and prior irregularities in the summoning are cured by the taking of oath of office. He then drew attention to the fact that the Jury had brought in a true Bill in the Russell case. Twenty members were then present and accepted by the representatives of the Crown, and the finding of the Jury accepted. He closed by submitting that the Jury should be sustained.

Mr. H. A. Winter followed in support of Mr. Emerson's arguments, and laid particular stress on the importance of the number which constitutes the Jury. Judgment in the matter was not given, but it is expected that a decision will be given when the court sits on Monday.

Fish Laden Schr.

Lost on Herring Head Rocks

The loss of the schooner Montague with a full cargo of fish, whilst on the way to St. John's is recorded in the following message received to-day from the Sub-Collector at Herring Head:—

"Schooner Montague, John Dominee master, fish laden from Grois Islands bound to St. John's, got becalmed at Herring Tickle last night. The tide swept the vessel ashore on Herring Head rocks. There was a heavy ground swell running and the vessel sank almost immediately. After striking, the captain, crew and six passengers landed safely. The vessel and cargo are a total loss except for a few casks of codfish which floated off the deck and were picked up by boats."

Identifying the Best Bread.

A housewife was asked to tell the kind of bread she preferred. She said:

A bread that's light, bright and flaky—open grained in texture, evenly baked. A bread that will not tear or crumble when I spread it. A bread that's rich and made of wholesome ingredients.

That is why so many women serve regularly

WASHINGTON SENATORS WORLD'S BASEBALL CHAMPIONS.

Defeated Giants 4 To 3 In Final Game. WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Washington won the World's Baseball Championship to-day, defeating the New York Giants, four times National League Champions, 4 to 3, in the twelfth inning of the seventh and deciding game, one of the most spectacular ever played. McNeely, the young outfielder, drove in "Muddy" Rube with the winning run with a double to left field in the twelfth after one was out. The credit for the final victory went to Walter Johnson, the great veteran, who went in as relief pitcher with the score tied in the ninth innings and held the Giants scoreless for the rest of the game. The wildest and most frenzied demonstration that ever followed a world's series victory came with the winning run. Most of the vast crowd of 35,000, which included President Coolidge, swept down field in a joyful outburst over the climax to Washington's first pennant victory. Her first world title, and around the dugout where the Senators' team were wild with delight over one of the greatest achievements of baseball; the crowds warmed and went wild, throwing hats, cushions and spirits to the winds in their frenzy.

DAD GIVES AN EXAMPLE.
Father—"I hear, my boy, that you have lately told your mother several falsehoods. This grieves me to the heart. Always tell the truth, even though it may bring suffering upon you. Will you promise me?"
Boy—"Yes, father."
Father—"Very well. Now go and see who is knocking at the door. If it's the rate collector say I'm not at home."

THEIR CAPACITY.
A visitor to a Sunday school was asked a address a few remarks to the children. He took the familiar theme of the children who mocked Elisha on his journey to Bethel—how the young ones taunted the prophet, and how they were punished when two she-bears, came out of the wood and ate forty and two of them.
"And now, children," said he, wishing to learn if his talk had produced any moral effect, "what does the story show?"
"Please, sir," came from a little girl in the front row, "it shows how many children two she-bears can hold!"

TEX RICKARD LOST MONEY ON FIRPO-WELLS BOUT.
TRENTON, N.J.—Tex Rickard lost $5,000 in promoting the Willis-Firpo fight in Jersey City, according to a statement filed with State Controller Newton A. K. Bugbee, who is also State Athletic Commissioner. Actual expenditure as set forth by Mr. Rickard in connection with the bout, was $467,855 and the total income was $462,859. Firpo received $156,211 as his share of the receipts and Willis $150,000. The Federal Tax was $46,000.

along which would make it worth while for the champ to go into heavy business. Gibbons might make a suitable indoor opponent for Dempsey. Renault is another who could face the champ in an indoor bout. Each man is clamoring for a crack at the title, and if the right inducements are offered I will accept either match for Dempsey. Otherwise the champ will remain idle, so far as the ring is concerned, until next spring or summer.

WALTER JOHNSON FAILS TO STOP GIANTS.
NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Walter Johnson, the old master, buckled on his armour to-day in a final fight for the glory of the world's series, the victory he has sought for eighteen years, but fate, with the mighty bats of his foe, turned him back. Unleashing a furious, ruthless attack, the New York Giants battered the great veteran to defeat for the second straight time, captured the fifth game of the series from the Senators by a score of 6 to 2, and left to-night for Washington with the 1924 world's championship within their reach. The Giants, coming back to-day with the powerful type of attack that carried the Senators to triumph yesterday, now hold a formidable lead of 3 to 2 in games.

DEMPSEY-GIBBONS BOUT THIS FALL.
And Jack Renault May Get Chance At The Heavy Championship.
New York.—Speculation on the question of whether Jack Dempsey will await the coming of next spring before again defending his world's heavyweight, or will accept an indoor bout against one of the less dangerous of his challengers, was revived the other day when the title holder without any previous announcement of his plans, started light training at Stillman's Gymnasium, on Eighth Avenue and Fifty-Third Street. Dempsey went through the equivalent of 12 rounds, occupying himself with shadow boxing, working the pulleys, punching the inflated bag and hanging the heavy stuffed bag.

All told Dempsey was in the gymnasium for perhaps 40 minutes in a mid-day workout. When the title holder concluded his drill he stepped on the scales which showed his weight at 199 pounds. He looked in excellent condition and seemed to delight in the return to gymnasium work. While the resumption of training would indicate that Dempsey is keeping himself in fighting shape for an indoor battle, it was impossible to get definite information as to whether this really was the motive, which indicated the champion's departure from the career of vacationist, he has followed since his arrival here. Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, would not admit that he planned a winter bout for Dempsey. He made the significant assertion that "something is liable to pop up and I want the champ to be ready if he is called on."

Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight, and Tom Gibbons, St. Paul veteran, who enjoys the distinction of having survived 15 rounds with Dempsey in the memorable battle at Shelby, are the candidates whose names have been mentioned prominently in discussion of the champion's plans since Dempsey's arrival here. Efforts to obtain definite information as to whether Dempsey would defend his title indoors against Renault or Gibbons, however, have invariably met with response that the champion will not defend his title again until next year, when he plans two matches, one of which will prepare the title-holder for a proposed battle against Harry Wills. Intentions point, however, to a bout between Dempsey and Gibbons if the champion boxes this winter.

Discussing the champion's plans, Manager Kearns refused to be pinned down to any definite statement. "I know the champion was scheduled to work out to-day or attend a golf match," said Kearns. "His purpose in starting light training is to keep himself fit for a fight if one should develop. I don't know yet whether the champ will undertake some theatrical work or do some fighting during the winter. But it's certain he'll be occupied with something. Dempsey will be ready to defend his title in an indoor bout if suitable inducements are offered. Right now I have not received an offer which appeals to me. But something may come

THE MAN LIFE Passed By
BIG FEATURE AND VAUDEVILLE ACT AT THE MAJESTIC.
Perhaps one of the greatest pictures that has ever been shown in any local theatre, will be screened at the Majestic Theatre next week, when the famous production, "The Man Life Passed By," will be exhibited. The ever popular Hobart Bosworth is in the lead, assisted by Jane Novak, Cullen Landis, and three other stars. "To say the least, "The Man Life Passed By," is a dramatic thunderbolt, that will appeal to the hearts of all lovers of drama. It is not too much to say that it is the best story of its kind, released in 1923, and is the biggest classic so far produced by the Metro people.

The public are advised to look out for announcements on Monday. Strad and Legato have an excellent programme arranged, including popular selections such as "Cavalleria Rusticana," as a violin solo; "Sunshine of your Smile," tenor solo; "Glow Worm," as a duet, and a smart finish, "Can't you see I love you?" from "The Newlyweds." Ever catering to the wishes of the public, in view of the stores opening, there will be two complete shows at the Majestic nightly. The Vaudeville "Strad & Legato" will appear 8.45 and 10 p.m. In short, look out for Monday's announcements.

Shutten-button length gloves of white or cream colored suede are correct for the street.

Our Montreal Letter

(From Our Own Correspondent).

TERRIBLE CONFLAGRATIONS IN TWO VILLAGES.

Within twenty-four hours two great conflagrations broke out within the Montreal District; the first practically wiping out nearly half of the whole village and the second ninety per cent of the place. The first took place at St. Constant. The fire started in a wood yard in the early hours of the morning and was caused by a spark from a passing engine. Help was summoned from St. Lambert and over twenty miles the Montreal firemen did not arrive until 5 in the morning when the whole place was ablaze. The large and beautiful church together with the presbytery, were destroyed. The inhabitants of the place were aroused from their slumbers by the ringing of the church bells. A young lady sent the SOS signals by telephone, and stuck to her post until the flames were beginning to burn a window right near the telephone booth. That the entire village of over one hundred houses was not completely wiped out, was due to Miss Aline Longtin, Bell Telephone operator at St. Constant, who rang every telephone in the little town to spread the fire alarm, and then summoned help from Laprairie, St. Lambert and Montreal. One woman was seriously burned, one hundred people were rendered homeless, and the damage was estimated at over half a million dollars. The church alone was valued at $200,000, with only $60,000 insurance. The fire destroyed, besides the historic church, over a dozen houses and an equal number of stores, factories, and the Post Office; also the Telephone Exchange. Owing to a very high wind the flames, and were obliged to work until late the next night to save the remainder of the village.

One of the greatest bells in the tower of the St. Constant church, which was destroyed by fire, survived the general collapse of the church masonry, and, suspended from a loose beam high up in the shattered tower wall, tolling, as it seemed, the death knell of the house of worship.

The second great conflagration took place at the village of St. Urbain, 25 miles from Montreal. Some twenty places have been burned and the loss is $1,000,000. The church was saved. The fire started at midnight in the rear of the Dubuc Hotel and was discovered by a man who was engaged at his radio. He smelt smoke and on coming from his house ran across to the hotel, and aroused the proprietor who, with his family, had barely time to escape. The village had no fire-fighting apparatus and the water had to be obtained with buckets from a pond. So the fire practically burned itself out.

The Morning Sun, a new daily just launched, speaking of the St. Constant fire says editorially:

The story of the little telephone girl of St. Constant, Aline Longtin, who sat at her switchboard calling for help to save her beloved village from the devastating flames should never be forgotten.

While the flames were eating at the very windows of the telephone office, Aline Longtin, fired by the heroic courage of eternal France, sat at her post, finching not, and forgetting self. Clad in night attire, she had previously run through the streets to give the alarm to her fellow villagers and, having done so, she tried to warn all whom she could reach by phone of the danger to them and their homes, and to send out across the wires her earnest appeals for the help that seemed as if it would never come.

If there be a society for recognizing and rewarding courage, Aline Longtin should be awarded its medal. In any case, The Morning Sun pays its humble tribute of admiration to this little French girl who did her duty bravely and well and proved herself truly a heroine.

Hats off to Aline Longtin!

EVEN COMPILERS MAKE MISTAKES.

Perusing a geography used in the Catholic Schools throughout the Province, and compiled by members of a religious teaching Order of Men, I find the following paragraph:

"Newfoundland is an island located in the East of Canada; it is largely covered with rocky hills, and the soil is not very fertile. Newfoundlandian has a population of fishermen; the chief export is coal, which is very abundant."

The Only Remedy Says This Doctor

"The treatment of skin diseases (eczema) and diseases of the scalp is known to be difficult," writes Dr. W. L. Randolph. "However, there is one remedy that is known to be equally effective in all skin diseases and troublesome diseases. I refer to D. D. D. Prescriptions."

If you have never tried D. D. D. for skin diseases, whether a small spot, or whether one of the dreaded forms—the treatment of eczema or the hard scales of psoriasis—get a bottle at once on our guarantee that if it does not relieve, your money will be refunded. It is a bottle. Try D. D. D. Today.

Black satin is quite good. Not only is it used for full-trimmed ensemble costumes, but pieces of it are used as trimming.

MOTHER SAVES HER CHILD IN TIME.

Kidnapping is also on the map here. A few days ago an attempt was made to kidnap a five-year-old boy the son of a Police officer. The mother of the child and a passerby fought two men who were about to take the child away in an automobile. The little boy was playing on the doorstep of his home at 449 Leval avenue, when the kidnapers drove up and dragged him into the machine. His mother saw the act from the window and rushing out managed to take the boy from the men, but one of them struck her down with a blow in the face and dragged the boy back into the car. Harry Gotthel, of 1040 St. Dominique, who was passing, sprang into the car and fighting off the two men, placed the boy safely in his mother's arms. The kidnapers made off immediately. It was reported that the detective office has a good clue to the identity of the men.

MANY DULL CHILDREN HAVE POOR SIGHT.

Sixty per cent of children classed as dull are merely suffering from defective eyesight.

This was the declaration of W. H. Wilkins, F.S.M.C., President of the Optometric Association of Ontario, who addressed the opening meeting of the Quebec Optometric Convention at the Windsor Hotel.

Discussing the future of optometry, Mr. Wilkins said: "Ninety-nine per cent of children classed as dull in the past are now known to be physically deficient, and more than sixty-five per cent have been found to have defective vision."

The speaker dwelt upon the increased interest taken by employers of labor in the physical well-being of their employees.

"Vision," he said, "is the most important of physical attributes, sixty per cent of human energy being directed through its operation. Longer life, happier existence, more efficient work, are the natural outcome of the advancement of optometric science."

CRICKET CAPTURES ALL THE HONORS.

The cricket season for 1924 was brought to a close on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 20th, when McGill defeated the All Star team of the city by a score of 157 (for 7 wickets declared) to 117. McGill went through the season without a defeat. They captured all the honors the City Championship, the Challenge Cup, and also retained the John-Ross-Robertson Interprovincial Challenge Cup for the 3rd season. The outstanding feature of the season's work was the growing popularity which the game is fast assuming, every match during the season at the McGill campus being present on Labor Day when Toronto played for the John-Ross-Robertson Cup. The attendance was estimated at over 2,000. The bowling of H. Mitchell, the left hander, who captured 101 wickets during the season. The batting of Godsell, Menro, Hedges, Potter, Saunders and Goodman, who in nearly every match made double figures. It was regrettable, that the "cannon ball" bowler, Potter had a very poor season in the bowling line, but made up for it in his great batting strides. The Champions will shortly be tendered a banquet.

tant all along the coast of the Island. I was not aware of the fact of the "chief export" of coal and of its great abundance all along the coast, until I read of it in the geography. I am afraid that those who compiled this text book, did not apply to the proper source to seek the required information about the exports of Terra Nova.

BURGERS ARE FOND OF STEALING FURS.

Burglers who forced the front door at the premises of Borden & Sons, furriers, 419 St. Paul St., West, at ten o'clock Sunday morning, grabbed several articles near the forced door and made a quick get-away. Five men are believed to have formed the storming party, having been seen driving hurriedly away by a citizen who informed operators from the Dominion Messenger and Signal Company. The value of the stolen coats was placed at $2,000.

"IMP" SOOT DESTROYER

People used to make fire by rubbing two sticks together, it can still be done that way. But time and energy is saved by modern safety matches. People used to hire a chimney-sweep, get up early in the morning to let him in, pay him a dollar or two and spend the remainder of the day cleaning up the mess he made. That can still be done. But for a few cents "The Imp" will do the work thoroughly without disturbing anything or anyone. It also extinguishes chimney fires. 17c. each.

"THE BOO-HOO BABY."

Have you a little cry baby in your home?

If so, what do you do about it? I think it is quite a problem to know just what to do for the habitual crying over every little thing that goes against the grain in a child's life, which makes of it literally a cry baby.

I know one woman who just lets her cry baby "cry it out." (And sometimes that's the best way, Albeit hard on the neighbors.)

The Mother Who Mocks.

I know another woman who cries along with him to make fun of him and that I think is a wrong way. It seldom does any good and usually drives him into an insane passion of kicking and screaming.

Another woman bribes her cry baby. "Stop crying and I'll give you a cookie." I think I've commented on bribes before in this column, so you know what I think about that.

Another woman "gives him something to cry for," and while I am by no means an advocate of corporal punishment, still there are times. But one of the most successful treatments I have ever seen worked out is the one used by a young neighbor of mine who used to be a Kindergarten teacher.

He Can't Help Smiling.

"Oh, mercy, what a funny face! Don't let anyone see you looking like that," she says. "Smile for me. Smile quick before I count ten. Come on now, let's see who'll win. If you don't smile before I count ten, you lose. Now then! One, two, three, four" (rapidly).

But by this time the smile, a bashful, shame-faced smile, is already trembling around the corners of the child's lips.

Of course there is something more to the treatment than this. The mother told me that she drew his attention once to a child in a tantrum and to the expressions of disgust on the faces of the bystanders.

"You see," she said, "No one likes a cry baby. I expect when people are planning a picnic or a party or some good fun like that they may say: 'Oh, let's not ask the Reeds, that child of theirs is such a cry baby.'"

And Bobby Sees the Point.

And thus Bobby is brought to see that he is the loser by such performances.

There's a quaint little etiquette book for children that Bobby's mother got him from in the shape of a little verse which she often recites to her son, only the need for it is less than it used to be. It is such a good natured, sensible, little verse that even a child appreciates it and reacts to the justice of it.

Much of the magic depends on the way you say it. I append some elocutionary suggestions gleaned from Bobby's mother's rendition.

"Boo-hoo baby, what a face!
Look up and smile at me.
(Brightly and pleasantly)
A boo-hoo baby never is
A pleasant sight to see.
Your mother loves you, there's no doubt.
The neighbors love you—maybe.
(Very doubtfully)
Oh, please remember it is hard
To love a boo-hoo baby."
(Sadly)

Callous Friend Tells of Brutal Murder

ITALIAN UNCOVERS BODY OF
CHILD VICTIM IN GARY SAND DUNES.

Gary, Ind., Sept. 29.—(Associated Press).—The body of Annie Tomicki, aged 10, who was kidnapped Monday was found buried in the sand dunes here when police were led there by Peter Vergolini, 30. The child had been attacked, strangled and stripped of her clothing, police said. Her hands had been bound to her sides.

Vergolini, arrested in Chicago and taken to Gary in connection with the child's disappearance, after an all-night grilling confessed, according to the police.

He never had seen the child until Monday, Vergolini told the police. He came from Italy four years ago. Vergolini, according to the police, asked the child to go for a ride in his automobile. After the killing and burial, he went to a moving picture show in Gary and afterwards to Chicago.

Witnesses saw the child enter Vergolini's automobile and for two days he had been the object of a police search.

The girl was the daughter of Polish parents and the eldest of three children. Vergolini lived with his 72-year-old mother.

At the inquest yesterday the man showed little remorse and repeated the details of his confession. Asked if he was sorry, Vergolini said "yes."

The deputy coroner said that the verdict would probably charge homicide, rape and kidnapping.

Vergolini, after leading the police to the child's grave, removed the sand with his hands and disclosed the body. He said he had dug the grave with his hands.

THE ROAD.

The road it where the people fare
And I can see them come and go.
The little children romping there,
And gray, old men whose pace is slow.

Some of the people walk right on
And all its beauties fall to see;
'Tis but a path they tread upon,
But it is more than that to me.

I know the houses at the end,
I know the corners far and near
And all that lies beyond the bend,
I've travelled it for many a year.

Some use it as a shorter cut,
A street like many they must roam;
There's naught to catch their fancy,
But

To me it is the road to home.

It's just a road, in double rows
The houses stand and in between
The traffic of the city goes,
Sometimes unheeded or unseen.

A stretch to drive or walk upon,
Yet every joy and every care
Along that road has come and gone,
Yes, life itself has journeyed there.

I've seen the smiling friends draw near,
I've seen sad faces at the door,
I've seen the solemn hearse appear,
I've watched the children race it over.

Letters from loved ones far away
Find me at last! No joy's bestowed
Upon my dwelling, night or day,
But it must journey down the road.

All-Star Cast in "Palace of the King"

There have been many pictures heralded as possessing "all-star casts" but "In The Palace of the King," the period spectacles which comes to the Nickel Theatre on Monday, boasts as near an "all-star" list of players as any, according to Emmett Flynn, who directed the picture.

Blanche Sweet, one of the most popular and best-known actresses on the screen, is seen in the leading role; that of Dolores Mendosa. Edmund Lowe, noted on both stage and screen, plays opposite Miss Sweet in the role of Don John, brother of the king, and idol of Spain.

Hobart Bosworth a pioneer of the screen, and regarded by many critics as its most gifted actor will be seen as Mendosa, father of Dolores.

One of the most emotional and sympathetic roles of her brilliant screen career is accorded Pauline Starke, who plays Inez, beautiful blind sister of Dolores.

Sam de Grasse, whose work as Judge Stillman in "The Spotters," and whose marvelous interpretation of Prince John in "Robin Hood" won him national acclaim, plays the ruthless, tyrannical King Philip II.

Aileen Pringle, beautiful Goldwyn player appears as the Princess of Ebboli, a plotting member of the royal Spanish court.

Lucien Littlefield, character actor and make-up wizard, plays an eccentric role as Adolfo, court jester. William V. Wong, another prominent player whose work as Merlin in "A Connecticut Yankee" is remembered by thousands, will be seen as the crafty Perez, secretary to the king.

Other members of the large cast are: Charles Clary as Gomez, husband of the Princess and adviser to the king; Harvey Clarke, as Cortez, aide to Don John, and Ena Gregory, as the queen of Spain.

$10,000 Reward Out for Koretz Capture

PROMOTER OF $2,000,000 SWINDLE
IS STILL IN HIDING—MAY BE IN NOVA SCOTIA.

A reward of $10,000, effective until July 1, 1915, was authorized for information leading to the arrest of Leo Koretz by the Chicago Title and Trust Company, trustees in bankruptcy. Present whereabouts of Koretz, who left the city without giving any of his former friends—later his victims—a chance to wish him "bon voyage," are a matter of conjecture. Rumors have reached Chicago since his disappearance in December of 1923 that he has been seen in various parts of the world, but not a single clue has resulted in any definite information regarding him.

At the time of his flight, when he is supposed to have taken with him funds amounting to nearly $2,500,000, a reward of $1,000 was offered for his arrest.

Koretz took large sums of money from a number of people in Chicago, among them his best friends, representing that he was investing the funds in the Bayano River Trust Company of Panama.

Fortunes in oil, he told them, were to be made in Panama, and it was merely a matter of time until they would be multimillionaires. The oil lands were found to be an alligator swamp.

Fads and Fashions.

The new skirts hang slim and straight, but circular cutting renders them full enough for comfort.

For evening one wears a number of bracelets, or one very wide one of gold filigree, above the elbow. Gloves were rather loose—long gloves are crushed around the forearm.

Shark-Fishing in Arctic Seas

PROFITS OF A STRANGE INDUSTRY.

By A TRAVELLER IN NORWAY.

The suggestion of shark fishing at once conjures up visions of sunny seas and sweltering decks; dim memories rise of school-day stories in which figured ship's carpenters, crude hooks and pickled pork, ending in a group of sailor men gloating over the death of their eternal enemy.

But the commercial shark fishery is far from here. It is for an Arctic species which fortunately confines its movements to the cold seas' of high latitudes. Were an 18-foot specimen to show its shape near Blackpool or Brighton it would surely spell ruin of bathing for the season.

Glance for a moment at the map where the north of Norway looks towards the Pole. A little to the west of a line from the North Cape to Spitzbergen the sea bed takes a dip from about 200 to 1,000 fathoms. This is Storeggen—the Great Edge. Except for an occasional sealer, or a grimy collier from the new Spitzbergen coalfields, this is a deserted ocean. True, during brief weeks of summer a tourist steamer may loom up, bearing within itself the comforts of a continent. But for the rest of the year fog, snow, ice and misery reign.

Here the Norwegian shark fishery ply their strange trade. Their harvest is the oil from the livers of the Greenland sharks. So large are these livers that one will at times more than fill a barrel such as is carried for the storage of the catch.

Pompeian Beauty Powder

Difficult for Fishermen

Half Century Ago.

(H. F. SHORTIS.)

The arrival of so many schooners in our harbours the past week or so, reminds me of my early days, when at least double the number of vessels and crews prosecuted the Labrador fishery during the summer months. Up to the seventies, the great planters utilized their sealing vessels, brigs and brigantines, in carrying out this industry. These vessels were also utilized in conveying cargoes of fish to foreign markets. To my mind, the great gale of 9th October, 1887, struck the finishing blow to our formerly great sealing fleet, engaged in the sealfishery. Many of the best vessels were lost on that memorable occasion on the Labrador coast, and were never replaced. It was on that date that the late famous sealing master, Captain William Jackman, father of Mr. Thomas J. Jackman, H.M. Customs, and Mrs. James J. Maher, proved himself a hero at the Spotted Islands, Labrador, when he rescued 27 persons, mostly females, from drowning, by bringing them ashore on his back, swimming through the surf and removing his own clothing to cover the poor shipwrecked people. They were a noble and fearless race of men in those days, (as they are to-day) to whom self-sacrifice came as second nature, and whose highest ambition was to risk their lives when their fellow-creatures were in peril.

That we have a never-failing source of wealth in our teeming waters has been proven beyond peradventure. Three hundred years bear testimony to that fact, and it is to this circumstance we owe our position in the commerce of the world, and that position is by no means a humble one. There is every indication that the future holds still greater commercial advantages for us. The outside world is at length fully alive to the possibilities of Newfoundland and her great dependency, Labrador, and capitalists abroad are anxious to get a grip on the new Colony. It is a moot question amongst thinking men as to whether the land possibilities of Labrador will not in the near future outstrip the wealth of its waters. We know comparatively little of that unexplored country. I trust that no matter how attractively the future may be, it will not have the effect of lessening the enthusiasm of our people for their legitimate occupation—the fisheries. For no matter how events may shape their course, the genuine Newfoundlanders is by instinct and choice—a fisherman. That daring and exciting occupation appeals to their manhood, and they are by nature eminently qualified and fitted for it. It would be nothing short of a national calamity if any set of circumstances conspired to lessen our people's love for the perils of the deep, and the wealth that they have from time immemorial risked their lives to obtain from it.

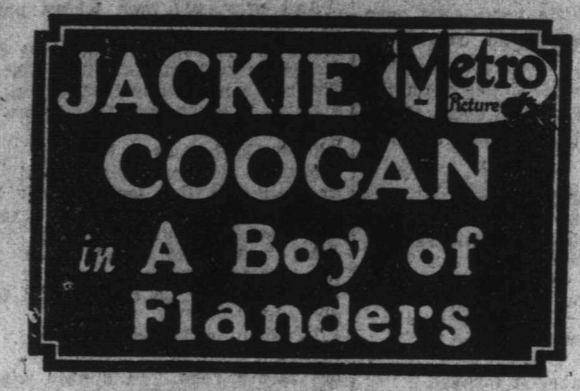

The development of our country, the establishing of new industries would open up new sources of employment and our fishermen could avail themselves of this during the winter interval between the seasons; but by all means let them go back in the spring of the year to ply that noble calling of which their ancestors were so proud. The fishermen should be taught to look upon every new occupation only as a means of supplementing their incomes during the seasons when weather conditions prevent them from engaging in their regular occupations. In the city of St. John we have a melancholy example of the result of the younger generation abandoning the occupation of their forefathers. When I was a boy, on my visits to the city, I well remember the most conspicuous figures on Water Street were the sealing masters and planters, as well as fishermen generally. Those stalwart and brawny vikings were the most prominent figures in the city, and they were looked up to with the greatest respect. They were the builders-up of the country—the men who by their daring, courage and industry were the sources of its wealth and prosperity.

Then could be seen the familiar figures of the Hallerans, Fehans, Powers, Whites, Grahams, Pikes, Duffs, Ryans, MacLeys and scores of others that I can call to mind. Where are they to-day? Gone in the course of Nature, having nobly performed their part, but who I ask remains to represent their deeds of pluck and daring? Alas, no one. They have gone, but their names still live, and will continue to live in the hearts of their countrymen at home and abroad. They possessed little "book learning," although some of them were classical scholars; but they knew their business—and knew it well.

The present generation has no idea of what going to school in those days meant. The school building was no high and imposing structure such as we see at the present day, even in the most remote and isolated outpost. I shall endeavor to describe it, as I now remember. It was usually a part, or at least, an annex of a family dwelling. The room set apart for the teaching of our youthful minds was invariably too small for the number of pupils in attendance. The business was conducted on the general principle of making two pupils sit in a space that was only sufficient for one.

It was no matter of surprise in those days to see pupils proceeding to the school-house during the late Fall, each bearing his "quantum" of fuel—the hardier boy with a wheelbarrow, and the younger ones with bags, baskets, tubs and every conceivable means of bringing coal to the school-room of all during the long and cold fall and winter days. Then we had the large grate with the pot-bar above it, ornamented in many instances with the pots and hangers, and even the bake-pot in which was baked the home-made bread. Amongst the teachers of those days the female sex predominated, and I have in my mind at the present time, a lovable old woman with a full-bordered white cap, and glasses perched on her nose, who, it strikes me, now looking back, must have been a monument of patience, considering the gentle and patient manner she handled the refractory youth who attended her school, and how zealously she labored to store our young minds with such knowledge as she possessed. At the school I have in mind, quite a number of migratory youth received their early training. How we used to look forward to their home-coming! If the vessel arrived during the day, we were sure to be on the wharf to extend to them a hearty welcome, and I assure you the youthful wanderer from the North was by no means oblivious to his importance, dressed in his well-fitting gurnsey, with his Hamburg boots, copper-topped, and surmounted at the top by a red band of patent leather. The honors paid to the embryo planter were by no means of a fleeting nature. The honor was permanent and real. The esteem of his youthful companions never flagged during the long winter months. He was the hero of the school. For him the delectable morsel of the lunch was to be provided, and on leaving school at evening, we all vied with each other in our endeavors to be his companion for the remainder of the day. When, as it sometimes happened, there were two of these youthful fishers attending the same school, we had an easy system of who should be the chief hero. By unanimous consent, the boy who had been furthest north during the preceding summer was voted first place by his class-mates. The hero always had a just sense of his own importance. He looked upon the honors conferred upon him as justly his, and he received silent homage as something justly his due, but never assuming an arrogant tone. He was always pleased when called upon to relate the adventures of the previous summer, which he would do in such a manner as to make even the most youthful abandon their play to listen to his adventures. The popularity of the Labrador migrant with his school-fellows was just as great on his departure in the Spring as on his arrival in the late Fall. (They would seldom arrive home before the 1st November). This was the fostering spirit that produced such men as the Bartletts, Dawes, Duffs, Murphys, Thomes, Ryans, etc., the builders-up of our country, no matter what may come after in the shape of agriculture, mineral or lumbering developments. Before I conclude, I venture to express the opinion that representation for Newfoundland-Labrador must inevitably come in the very near future. We must prepare for that event. Of course this representation in the Assembly will include the hitherto neglected Eskimo. His day is fast arriving, and our young friend, Hon. Speaker Cyril Fox, if he wishes to do justice to his high position, must study the language, and there is an Eskimo dictionary in the Museum, which he can look at. That hardy band of men will no doubt send one of their own race to represent them in the Assembly. He will be a decided addition to the personnel of the House. He may possibly be lacking in dignity, but that will be counter-balanced by his picturesque appearance. I can fancy this hardy son of the North standing on the floor of the House, laying his grievances before the Speaker, a spear in one hand and a tom-a-hawk in the other, in order the more strongly to emphasize his requirements. When civilization shall have introduced amongst these hardy natives such edibles as canned milk and cooked beef, when an attempt shall have been made to supersede the blanket and odorous

Dr. Hemmeon's Address

In a recent issue we gave publicity to an address given by Dr. Hemmeon to the Rotary Club at Halifax, the report of which we took from the Morning Chronicle. As Dr. Hemmeon declares he was misrepresented we publish the following letter which appeared in the Chronicle of October 2. To the Editor of the Chronicle.

Sir,—I am very sure that whoever reported my address to the Rotary Club on "Life in the Wilds of Newfoundland," did not intend to misrepresent me. Some of the discrepancies, however, between what I was thought to have said and what I did say, are so great that I hasten to correct them, lest my friends both in Nova Scotia and Newfoundland pursue me with unwelcome rebukes. Regarding the existence of moose in Newfoundland, I did not make any positive statement. I said that there was a difference of opinion, but that I thought that there are none. Instead of saying that there are 300,000 caribou, and that 1,500 are killed annually, I expressed the opinion—in these matters one can only express opinions—that there are between 150,000 and 200,000, and that 1,200 are killed annually.

I did not make any comparison between Newfoundland and Canada in game laws enforcement, nor shall I. Bearing in mind topographical and social conditions in Newfoundland, the game laws there, which are most excellent, and are admirably enforced by a highly intelligent and capable Game Board. The incident which I gave of a novice in hunting becoming excited and shooting more than his share of deer, is the only case I know of and was introduced for fun. The report is slightly astray in regard to birds. I was speaking against the tendency to multiply speckles among caribou and illustrated the resultant mischief by citing the common quail, which carries hundreds of different markings, as it is followed from Maine to Florida, but forms only one species. Minor differences should not constitute grounds for separate species. DOUGLAS HEMMEON.

Skeleton of Mastodon Found Under City Street

DENVER, Sept. 28. (A.P.)—Eighteen feet below the surface of a street here recently a laborer unearthed bones that were pronounced by scientists to have been part of the skeleton of a mastodon. The teeth and jawbone were intact. J. B. Figgins, director of the Colorado Museum of Natural History, hazarded the guess that the bones were about 2,500 years old. Mr. Figgins said science never had found a complete skeleton of a mastodon, but had pieced together parts found, using the proportions indicated.

American Officers Will Travel in ZR-3
ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.

FR. EDRIKHAFFEN—(A.P.)—Most of the crew of 26 officers and men of the ZR-3, after arriving at Lakehurst, New Jersey, will remain in the United States. Positions already have been obtained for them in connection with the building of dirigibles for commercial purposes.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, president of the Zeppelin airship company and commander of the ZR-3 on the trans-Atlantic trip, however, plans to return to Germany after a stay of two or three months in America. Dr. Eckener has arranged to visit New York, where he will spend a month or so, and from there goes to Chicago, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Detroit and other cities where he will inspect various plants of particular interest to him. Captain Ernest A. Lehmann, executive officer of the ZR-3 on the flight, who was in America last spring, will join the forces of the Goodyear-Zeppelin company.

Dr. Eckener and his crew will have charge of the ZR-3, after arrival at Lakehurst, until the big ship has passed further inspections by American naval officers. When the dirigible has been accepted by the United States Navy, Captain George Steele, who was assigned to make the trans-Atlantic flight as an observer, will take command. Lieut.-Commander S. M. Kraus, U. S. Navy, who is to be engineer officer of the ZR-3, and Major E. M. Kennedy, U. S. Army, also were designated to make the voyage to Lakehurst as observers. These 3 Americans will be the only persons on board outside the members of the crew.

The full list of the German crew which will take the ZR-3 across the Atlantic follow:

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commanding officer; Captain Ernest A. Lehmann, executive and watch officer; Hans C. Flemming, navigating and watch officer; Wilhelm S. Siegle, chief engineer; Franz A. Whittemann, chief quartermaster; Hans von Schiller and Walter Schertz, assistant quartermasters.

Following are the warrant officers: Ludwig Marx, rudder helmsman; Max Pruss and Carl A. Samst, elevator helmsmen; Willy Speck, chief radio operator; Leonard Freund and Johann R. L. Ludwig, assistant radio operators; Gustave E. Bales, chief mechanic; August H. Grosinger, Hermann Pfaff, Emil Martin, Hermann Jabst and Carl Tielmann, assistant machinists. The remainder of the crew will be made up of seven petty officers.

Hair-Bob War

BAN ON SHORN NURSE IN NEW CIVIC HOSPITAL STARTS WIDE PROTEST.

Ottawa, Oct. 4.—The reign of bobbed hair is challenged in Canada's capital. So much so that at the New Year's civic election it may be the leading issue and will because the authorities of the New Ottawa $2,000,000 Civic hospital have ruled that no girl will be admitted as a nurse for training whose hair is bobbed.

The decree of the hospital trustee board and the officers elected at the civic election polls has raised a storm of protest that is echoing throughout the Dominion and the "bobbers" and "anti-bobbers" are lined up to do battle on whether to bob or not to bob. Those in favor of the bob contend that an attack is being made on two-thirds of an entire civilized species. Male China in untold millions has discarded its germ-incubating pigtail. So the fair sex of Canada are asking whether women of more civilized lands have no rights at all.

Rev. George Bonstead, one of the foremost clergymen of the capital has come to the defense of bobbed haired Miss Canada. Canada has prohibitions enough, according to the eminent preacher, who declares a girl blessed

God of Chinese Carpenter

The Chinese building craftsman worships the God Lapan. In the time of the Chow dynasty Lu was the name of a prosperous kingdom. The skilled mechanic called Pan Lapan is frequently mentioned in the classics as an inventor of mechanical devices. The guild includes carpenters, masons, bricklayers, blacksmiths and painters. The meeting always take place in the Tsing-chung Temple, outside Chienmen, which was erected for the worship of Yo Fei. The latter is the famous patriotic general of the Sung Dynasty. It is not known why the building trade chooses this temple for the meeting place. Daily wages in the building trade in Peking are as follows: Carpenters and masons, 50 cents; painters, 30 cents; apprentices and coolies, 25 cents. Food is also provided for all workers.

Yukon Girl's Ode Takes B. C. Prize

VICTORIA RENDELL.

Sixteen-year-old Victoria Rendell, attending Sacred Heart Convent School here, felt the grandeur of the forests when she arrived from the untimbered lower Yukon district. She wrote a "Song of the B.C. Forests" in the Provincial Save-the-Forests competition and has been awarded the gold medal in competition with hundreds of B.C. school children. Both her father, W. J. Rendell, of the Treadgold Mining Company, and her grandmother, Mrs. T. L. Acock, a Vancouver pioneer, are very well known here.

WINNING ESSAY IN COMPETITION.

Victoria Rendell, 16 Years Old, Did Not Rely on Froze.

More prose was not grand enough to express the feelings of sixteen-year-old Victoria Rendell of the Sacred Heart Convent School when she wrote an essay on "Save the Forests" for the B. C. Forest Branch. Victoria was only one of many hundreds of school children throughout the province who tried for gold medals in the essay-writing competition which closed a short while ago. Three grand prizes will be given out, and Vancouver girls were recently announced winners of two of them. The third goes to an Oak Bay school girl.

Victoria Rendell won the prize open to High School girls of British Columbia, and Eva Firth of the Kingsway West School obtained the medal for senior grade girls. The winner in the intermediate grade class was Sheila Tait, Monterey Avenue, Oak Bay.

Other prize winners in the Vancouver Mainland district were as follows: High School, Edith Campbell, Powell River; Pearl George, Brian, High School; Virginia Bryant, High School of Commerce; Kenneth Neale, Mission High School; Everett MacDonald, Agassiz High School.

Senior grade: Eva Firth, Kingsway West, Burnaby; Mary Jenkins, Model School, Vancouver; Nita Genser, Fairview School; Robert Leisk, Simon Fraser; Josephine Blakamore, Sacred Heart; and Margaret Whalen, Sacred Heart.

Intermediate grade: Elinore Winter, Kingsway West, Burnaby; May Silverthorn, Simon Fraser; Jean Scott, Cecil Rhodes; Jim Brown, Cecil Rhodes; and Wilfrid Hicks, Simon Fraser.

This is Victoria Rendell's prize-winning "Song of the Forest," modelled after Longfellow's prologue to Hiawatha:

CANTO I.

"Ye who love the haunts of Nature,
Love the sunshine of the meadow,
Love the wind among the branches
And the rain shower and the snow-storm,
And the rushing of great rivers
Through their palisades of pine trees,
Listen to this tale of sorrow,
To this tale of desolation,
How our land is devastated
Every year by forest fires,
How our woods are charred and blackened,
And the settler's little cottage
And his thriving land around it
All destroyed and ruined forever!
Then the fire, swooping onward
Drives the birds and beasts before it,
Slaying them in cruel manner,
And for years no living creature
Comes again unto that region
Thus destroyed by forest fire.
All the beauty of our province
Which attracts so many hither,
Gone—and we have naught remaining
But the blackest desolation!
In the Copliano Valley,
If the land be swept by fire,
Then the spring snows, melting quickly,
Will bring floods in early Springtime,
Followed by the droughts in summer.
If the green trees, retaining moisture,
Are replaced by blackened timber,
All the industries depending
On the products of the forest,
All will go, and our fair province
Be a scene of desolation.

CANTO II.

Two-thirds of our richest woodland
Now has been a prey to fire,
A small part is caused by lightning,
But the rest by man's indifference,
Campers, tourists, loggers, hunters,
All, envious of man's desire,
In those forests—then destroy them,
By neglecting their camp fires
Or by throwing their refuse
Carelessly away behind them.
Oh, all ye who love our province,
Love to see it fair and thriving,
Wish to see it with the forest!

Of all in our Dominion—Fight the Fire!
'Tis your duty! Protect this, our fair province,
For the later generations, to be proud of and to cherish!
Ye who love to see our province
Fair and prosperous, proud and busy,
Love to see her shine in splendor
As the Gem of our Dominion,
Hearken to my tale of gladness,
To my tale of joy and laughter,
To B.C. with virgin forests
Comes the call from many countries!
"Give us cedar, give us maple,
Give us fir to build our dwellings."
Shall we then in answer to them,
Say: "We have no wood remaining?"

CANTO III.

Nay, we'll work with greater ardor
To preserve our country's treasure,
Realizing that our forests
Bring unto us many millions,
And beyond this wealth in money
Is the peace and the contentment
After toil to have the pleasure
Of the fresh and perfumed forest!
We will aid the careful ranger,
And the Forestry Department,
Which spends fifty thousand dollars
Every year to fight the fire.
They have aeroplanes and launches,
Auto—all the best equipment
Men, besides, who work with vigor,
Patriotic, for our Empire.
Help them—since they do their utmost,
And but ask co-operation.
Do not leave your camp fire burning,
Stamp the flame from lighted refuse.
Tell your friends who spend their summer
In the forests, to be careful.
Warn them all, the heedless campers.

Of the danger of the fire,
Make B. C. the leading province—
The great Queen of our Dominion,
When we all have done our utmost
Then we'll be her loyal subjects.

The above photo of Miss Victoria Rendell and clipping has been forwarded by our patriotic friend, Capt. R. E. Gosse, of Vancouver.

The introductory note is explanatory of this young lady as known in British Columbia, but I wish your readers to know that this talented young lady is a son of our Newfoundland stock.

Her father, W. J. Rendell, comes from Heart's Content, son of the late Mr. Charles Rendell—her mother was Miss Katie Acock of Harbor Grace, daughter of Capt. Thomas Acock, one of Paterson & Foster's Labrador dealers, and master mariner on foreign voyages. He is still well remembered, and his father, Capt. Mark Acock, and father-in-law master wharfinger, Billie Brown were long and favorably known in the employ of the great firm of Puntton & Munn.

I am mentioning the family tree of this young lady as she is undoubtedly a thorough Newfoundlander, and her numerous relatives and friends will be delighted to welcome her when she visits Newfoundland.

We all rejoice to see her beautiful ode, which is undoubtedly a literary gem.

Yours very truly,
H. F. SHORTISS.

Why the Church-Mouse is Poor

We waste more than we give to the Church, and luxuries take a large toll out of our domestic income, according to a tabulation prepared by The American Education Digest. Living costs come highest in the expenditure, while miscellaneous, that bugbear of the house-holder, also swallows up a lot that leaves no trail. The figures show: for the church, 2 1/2 per cent.; schools, 1 1/2 per cent.; Government, 4 1/2 per cent.; crime, 8 1/2 per cent.; investment, 11 per cent.; waste, 14 per cent.; luxuries, 22 per cent.; living costs, 24 1/2 per cent.; miscellaneous, 13 1/2 per cent. Arithmetic, observes The Christian Register (Unitarian), says we waste eighteen times as much as give to organized religion. "As a writer in World's Work remarks, the item of 22 per cent. for luxuries is high, but luxuries are 'attractions and delights of life,' and not the necessities. They are in a true sense, necessities of life, within bounds."

Sheath gowns of metallic brocades satisfy the demand of the evening mode for sumptuousness.

Keep the Hair Live And Glossy With Cuticura

On scolding, gently rub spots of dandruff and itching with Cuticura Ointment. Next morning shampoo with a soda of Cuticura Soap and hot water. This treatment does much to keep the scalp clean and healthy and promote hair growth.

Labradorite

Always we have prided ourselves on the quality of our Labradorite and refused to place on sale stones that did not do credit to the peculiar beauty that is its chief charm. We have now received the first samples of our new stock and they fulfill in every way our ideas of what Labradorite should really be like when made into jewellery.

Specially selected and extra well polished stone made into an assortment of Pendants—Bean, Oval and Square shape are the chief items in our new selection.

TODAY'S MESSAGES.

WINNIPEG WELCOMES THE PRINCE.
 Winnipeg, Oct. 10.—The Prince of Wales is the honored guest of the city this evening. The Prince of Wales who arrived here at 8 o'clock this evening from Calgary, Alberta, the dinner hour crowd thronged Main Street and welcomed him a very hearty welcome. The Prince proceeded at once to the Garry Hotel, where he will occupy the Royal Suite, until his departure on Sunday morning for Chicago.

MACDONALD'S VANITY BLAMED FOR HIS DOWNFALL.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—The opening of the campaign of the day is universally described as a great election, perhaps the most important incident in the extraordinary career of Premier MacDonald published in the intellectual laborer's review, the New Statesman, the organ of the Independent Labor Party. If the review faithfully represents the feeling of any large section of the party, it is not the outgrowth of some personal feud. It is considered as applying to a serious crisis within the ranks of the party. Paying a tribute to Mr. MacDonald's remarkable gifts as a Foreign Secretary, the article says that one of the highest officials in the Foreign Office considers he has been the best Foreign Secretary Great Britain has had, in a quarter of a century, and that if he is not mourned elsewhere he certainly will be mourned at the Foreign Office. The article proceeds to say that Mr. MacDonald alone is responsible for having brought the country to the present "absurd political predicament" that while he has been an immense success as Foreign Secretary, Premier he has been an utter failure. The writer then trounces Mr. MacDonald because "he missed no opportunity of insulting or deriding those who placed him in power." "This reference is to the statement that Mr. MacDonald consistently refused "to be out of Mr. Asquith's hand" concerning Mr. MacDonald's intense personal feeling against Mr. Asquith and his fighting of 4,000,000 Liberal votes. The article continues, "But Mr. MacDonald lacks generosity. He is jealous of those whose personal ambition he fears. As Prime Minister he seems too thin skinned to live." "With much more in the same vein the article complains of what it terms Mr. MacDonald's ridiculous amour propre vanity and aloofness from his subordinates and says "if he could sink his vanity, and prejudices and admit the possibility of there being other men besides himself he might be in power another year or two." The article then proceeds to lament Mr. MacDonald's failure to co-operate with the Liberals. On this point however, the New Statesman is not concerned in political circles to represent the general view of the Laborites.
