CHAPTER VI.

"I fear, sir," he said, "you will gain little by a visit to Switzerland. Mr. James Clifford lived in the strictest seclusion. The faithful servant, who died three weeks after his master, served as his establishment. He made no friends—indeed, saw no one but his lawyer, who, sir, has the honor to be at your service."

Clarence Clifford listened feverishly, and suddenly a dreadful suspicion flashed through the confusion of his mind.

Advancing to the table he leaned forward, and with his eyes fixed scrutinizingly upon the lawyer's face said, in a low voice:

"Did your James Clifford bear another name, and was that name—Melchior?"

The lawyer met the piercing gaze without flinching.

"Not that I am aware of," he replied, as cool as ice. "He may have done so, but never during the last ten years, during which I have had the honor of his confidence."

Clarence Clifford, his face still doubtful, snatched at the will and the certificate. He read them both carefully, re-examined the various seals and stamps, scrutinized even the parchment, and most of all the signature, written in a small, weak, trembling hand at the bottom of the deed.

"This is invalid!" he exclaimed, sternly and suspiciously, pointing to the witness' name. "There should be two witnesses."

"Not for the Swiss courts," said Mr. Fibbs, glibly. "One is sufficient."

"And this witness, where is he to be found?"

"In the cemetery of Lausanne, within a few feet of his master. Faithful fellow! It was his last request, and I am sure I judged you correctly when I ventured to give the order necessary to bury him so near the vault."

Clarence Clifford started. The reality of the thing was slowly but surely coming home to him. The lawyer helped the same reality a little farther.

"It has struck me, sir," said he, spreading out the deed and rising, afterwards, to open a small safe near his chair, "that you may be in want of—ahem—ready money. If I am correct in my surmise will you allow me to supply any present insufficiency? The legal matters will take a few days; until they are completed I cannot administer the will nor hand you over the assets for this quarter. Pray oblige me, sir, by accepting a small advance."

As he spoke he drew a check for five pounds, and with respectful politeness folded and tendered it. But to his surprise Mr. Clifford shook his head.

"I thank you; I am not in want of money," he said, with a sigh. "I can wait without inconvenience. What I cannot so patiently endure is the impenetrable mystery and secrecy enveloping the affair. If you can enlighten me—are there any other?"—he stopped abruptly and shuddered—"I know not if I am a relation—are there any acknowledged?"

"No, none," said the lawyer; "that is, so far as I know. Mr. Clifford was, as I have said, a close man, very reserved and uncommunicative; I know nothing of his private affairs, and very little of his monetary. But, Mr. Clifford," he concluded, as the thoroughly baffled Clarence took his hat, "do me the honor of dining with me to-night. I have a few friends, but no doubt can arrange to show you some letters of my late client, the only memorials I have of him."

Clarence Clifford accepted eagerly, not for the sake of the dinner, but to obtain a sight of the letters.

"Thank you," he said, "I will come. They may contain some clue," and he sighed.

"That is right, sir," said Mr. Fibbs. "I trust the recent death of the testator will not weigh too heavily upon you: Five thousand a year is a large sum, Mr. Clifford, and should afford ample means of enjoyment."

Clarence Clifford took the card, shook hands with Mr. Fibbs, and returned to the office, as little elated as when he had left it, and a great deal more bewildered and confused.

But he would not allow himself to think or to speculate. He set his attention to the letters before him, and worked as steadily and swiftly as he had done before the eventful yesterday.

At six o'clock he rose, having eaten nothing, to go home. While he was closing the door the postman brought him a letter. It was directed to him in a woman's hand. His fingers trembled while he opened it and he waited a few moments to regain his composure before he turned up the gas.

"I am calm now," he murmured, after the minute had passed. "What can come to distress or agitate me after what I have heard?"

So saying he tore open the envelope and read:

"My Dear Mr. Clifford: I have met Mr. Besant in town—the marriage is definitely arranged, the day fixed. Will it comfort you to hear that she is well and happy?"

K. L.
 The crisp, neatly written letter dropped on the desk.

"Well! happy!" he muttered, hoarsely.

"And who is not? Only idiots like myself who cry and whine when fate beats them with her iron hand, and refuse to be comforted when she turns smiles and soothes them with the velvet glove! Shame on my manhood! Well! happy! Then so am I. She shall be married to her fox hunter, forgetful of the vows her eyes and heart registered, forgetful of love's true but unspoken pledges. And I will marry—marry the world, plunge fast-locked in its arms into life's stream. Five thousand a year! Well,

I welcome it! It shall buy me forgetfulness!"

CHAPTER VII.

It is quite time we tracked back—to use one of Mr. Besant's phrases—to Rivershall.

We left Lillian with something that was not low fever nor high fever, something that puzzled the good little doctor and confined our gentle heroine to her room.

We left Sir Ralph torn by conflicting love for his daughter and pride for his name and line. But he had sent to bring the unfortunate cause of the contretemps to the Hall, and, if it must be, to the heiress of the Hall, and he waited the result with mingled impatience, embarrassment and utter misery.

Still one good move had been made—Clarence Clifford had been pursued.

Had he but understood the nature of the pursuit all would, or might have gone well. But creeping behind the hedge and baffling the bewildered grooms he wove the web of circumstances into a puzzle.

The grooms returned, unsuccessful. Sir Ralph, who had already begun to regret having sent them, much to their surprise, was delighted with their failure.

He sighed deeply and with relief. Had the tutor returned Sir Ralph would have been committed.

Now—well, young life was elastic as an oak sapling. Give her a month and the beautiful Lillian would grow ashamed of her love for her music teacher. Give her another month and she would be glad to atone for her mistake by marrying Mr. Besant—and joining the estates.

Then, argued Sir Ralph, with that easy-going felicity with which such men always arrange the future, all will be well.

Meanwhile Lillian was very ill, so ill that the doctor—who had consumed twice as much snuff over her case as he had over Mr. Clifford's—grew anxious and consequently more smiling.

"My dear Sir Ralph," he said, one day, in answer to the anxious, burning question of the distracted father, "I think it would be as well if we got Sir Thomas down, yes—ahem—Sir Thomas. I should like to know what all my little girl, L—shem—I must confess I am rather puzzled."

Sir Ralph consented eagerly and Sir Thomas came down.

He was the greatest physician in the world, and had the profoundest air ever seen on mortal man.

He sounded the young lady, felt her pulse, went into a moment's reverie while gazing upon her pale and, alas, rapidly thinning face, and then, descending to the drawing room, authoritatively pronounced his verdict.

The little doctor looked delighted; it had been his opinion all through. Sir Ralph inserted his fifty guinea check into the great man's hand, and the great man suffered himself to be borne away to London, leaving Sir Ralph more distracted than before.

What was to be done?

Lillian settled the question three days after by making a careful toilet, walking downstairs and appearing in the breakfast room while Sir Ralph was sitting mournfully over the morning meal.

"Great Heaven!" he exclaimed, but Lillian stopped him with a kiss.

"Alas! how quiet and spiritless a one it was.

"Don't look so frightened, papa. I am not doing wrong. I am not ill." And concluding with a firmness that was new and strange to her, "I cannot lie upstairs in that silent room longer."

Is Death Really Necessary

Scientists Foresee an Era when Men Will Live a Thousand Years. Amazing Discoveries about the Mystery of Life.

By JOHN E. LODGE.

Present-day man, on the average, lacks 12 years of achieving the Biblical life span of "three score and ten." That is to say, a body born to-day should live for 83 years. That may not strike most of us as a "ripe old age" exactly, yet it is 20 years more than the average contemporary of George Washington lived; twice as long as the average person lived at the time of Shakespeare.

And, thanks to the efforts of science in combatting the ravages of disease, the average span of life is increasing every year.

Are we to expect, then, that in time science will succeed in prolonging the average life until, like Methuselah, we measure our lives by centuries instead of by years?

Eminent scientists have suggested an even more astounding possibility—namely, that science some day may succeed in causing men to live forever!

Professor Fritz Haber, noted German chemist, for example, stated recently his belief that men may learn to live for 100 centuries or more. In the human body, he said, are various essential chemical agents known as "enzymes." These, he said, eventually deteriorate, causing death.

It is more than a theoretical possibility, he says, that science can supply substances that will prevent these important chemical agents from wearing out. Then, he declares, human life can be prolonged as long as the old enzymes are replaced.

A scientist's dream? Possibly, and yet it is because it does exactly what Professor Haber suggests, that insulin, the magic remedy for diabetes, has been acclaimed one of the great scientific discoveries of the twentieth century.

Doctor Raymond Pearl, distinguished scientist of Johns Hopkins University, is another who believes old age may be conquered. Old age, according to Doctor Pearl, may be caused by a still undiscovered chemical substance—a poison—that finds its way into the body and attacks the body cells. Those groups of cells that are weakest, he believes, succumb first, and the particular part of the body that they make up actually dies, while the rest of the body continues to live. What we call death, he believes, does not occur until the various parts of the body have surrendered one by one.

This explanation of the phenomenon of death other scientists have found tenable. Moreover, they have advanced the belief that an "antidote" for the poison of old age some day may be found.

Doctor Alexis Carrel, of the Rockefeller Institute, many times has kept human tissues alive long after the body from which they were taken was laid in the grave. The transplanting of an organ from a dead body to a living one where it has continued to function perfectly, is a feat of surgery performed more or less frequently. Actual death in every portion of the body does not take place, science now believes, until long after the body has reached the grave.

Can science ever replace or repair these dying organs and so prevent death?

Consider the remarkable things that already have been done with adenoids, through the use of which fattening hearts have been kept pumping life-giving blood. Consider that not one, but several scientists, have demonstrated in the laboratory that the cells of living things, properly fed, properly warmed, will live practically forever.

Professor Jerry E. Wodsdalek, of the University of Idaho, has demonstrated an ability to control at will the life processes of certain species of insects. Merely through scientific methods of feeding he has caused mature laboratory specimens to live their lives backward again to the hatching stage! Then he has caused them to redevelop to maturity! He has succeeded also in arresting their development at any age he chose, causing them to live without growing older or younger!

Only a few weeks ago, Prof. C. M. Child, of the University of Chicago, discovered that certain low forms of life, such as flatworms, became physiologically younger under a system-

THE QUESTION,— which is the best and most economical Soap?

Will invariably be answered thus, SUNLIGHT SOAP!

The note of admiration is inseparable from Sunlight Soap, it belongs.

Doctor George W. Crile, professor of surgery at Western Reserve University, is another who has made astonishing revelations. He sees the human body as a great electrical plant. The "vital spark" is an electric spark in fact, he says, that passes through the body over specks of tissue known as "neurons" that make up the nerves. When body parts or functions become defective, the contacts are broken in the bodily electric circuits, and eventually we die.

Various names are used by various scientists in describing processes by which the "vital spark" flames and is extinguished, yet in essence, the theories are amazingly similar—an indication perhaps that science is on the right track in attempting to solve the mysteries of life and death.

Europeans Fleeing From Canton; Several Killed in a Clash

British Miners Will Vigorously Oppose Longer Hours--Fate of Stefansson Expedition Revealed by Snow Exploration Party--Election Day in Nova Scotia.

EUROPEANS KILLED FIGHTING CHINESE AGITATORS.
CANTON, June 24. Several Europeans were killed and many others were wounded to-day when fighting broke out between Chinese agitators and residents of Shamen, the foreign concession here. The women and children are fleeing to the U.S.S. Ashville preparing to leave for Hong Kong to-night. The situation is extremely serious. Five hundred British and foreign women and children left Shamen at 6 a.m. aboard the British steamer Honam for Hong Kong. A British infantry regiment was ordered to stand by in case of need.

USE MACHINE GUNS ON CHINESE.
CANTON, June 23. British and French marines protecting the concession used machine guns to-day against Chinese demonstrators who were parading along the Bund and Shamen, the European quarter. One man was killed and several wounded.

UNEMPLOYMENT CRISIS IN GREAT BRITAIN.
LONDON, June 24. The prolonged trade depression and consequent steady mounting of unemployment in Great Britain, which have long been the subjects of grave comment, now have reached a point where a crisis is foreseen. The Labor Party mostly put the blame on the Government, which they accuse of doing nothing. The employers cite the high wages and short hours as the chief causes, while the Government ministers seem to adhere to the view that they can only undertake active intervention at the request of both employers and workers. The situation came to a head yesterday with the closing of the joint inquiry by operators and miners' representatives into the coal industry, which has been one of the worst sufferers from the depression. The owners announced they would give formal notice on June 30th of the intention to terminate the present wage agreement at the end of July, and also demanded resumption of the eight hour working day instead of the seven hour now legal for miners. The miners' executive is meeting to discuss the situation preparatory to a national conference of miners' delegates fixed for July 3, when the whole question is to be debated. A special trades union congress has been called for July 24th to discuss the unemployment problem.

POLAR MYSTERY SOLVED.
NEW YORK, June 24. Another mystery of the polar region was solved yesterday when H. A. Snow, big game hunter and explorer, just returned from two years' photographic exploration of the Arctic regions, announced the discovery of the remains of the missing members of the Stefansson North Polar expedition in 1914, on Herald Island. Snow's discovery clears up the 11-year-old mystery of the fate of the five members of the crew, one of two parties in which the expedition was divided, and who quit the ice-locked and sinking Karluk and started out on the long trek back to civilization. The first party led by Stefansson completed the long journey after terrible hardships. The other party led by the ship's doctor was never heard from and relief expeditions found no trace of it. Snow declared he came upon the remains while taking pictures on Herald Island, which is about sixty-five miles from where the Karluk was lost. A half-completed camp attested the ineffectual attempts to build a shelter. He believes the entire party perished of exposure and starvation a short time after they reached the island.

ALL LEGATIONS READY FOR EMERGENCY.

SHANGHAI, June 24. The situation at Ningpo is easier and the crisis has passed, despatches received here to-day said.

ENGLISH MINERS WILL FIGHT LONGER HOURS.
LONDON, June 24. The executive of the Miners' Federation announced after a meeting to-day they would make every effort to prevent the introduction of longer hours and lower wages proposed by the employers in the coal industry.

U.S. NAVY DEMANDED MACMILLAN TAKE WIRELESS.
WASHINGTON, June 24. After the Navy Department had threatened to-day to withdraw from participation in the MacMillan Arctic expedition, the National Geographical Society, joint sponsor of the undertaking, announced that an agreement had been reached and the expedition would be carried through as planned. The Navy's demand that a long wave wireless apparatus be installed on the Peary, and suitable radio equipment placed on the naval planes to enable them to keep in touch with base ships will be carried out, and it was stated that the whole incident was the result of a misunderstanding. MacMillan's two vessels were still at Sydney, N.S., to-day, awaiting the arrival of the United States destroyer, Putnam, with additional wireless apparatus which had been left behind at Wiscasset.

CANADIAN VETERANS UNITE WITH BRITISH LEGION.
OTTAWA, June 24. The fate of the Great War Veterans' Association of Canada lies in the hands of Field Marshal Earl Haig. According to resolutions passed unanimously at the seventh annual convention held here to-day, the organization will subscribe their resources and membership to the formation of the British Legion in Canada, under the direction and leadership of Haig, Grand President of the British Empire Service League.

ANOTHER DIAMOND ROBBERY IN NEW YORK.
NEW YORK, June 24. Two armed bandits held up the diamond store of Marcus Feldman, Broadway, in the theatrical district, this morning and escaped with diamonds valued at between $15,000 and $20,000. The robbers, with drawn pistols entered the store and tied up the two clerks on duty. They then ransacked the counters, piling the diamonds and jewellery into their bags and escaped before an alarm was given. The hold-up occurred about 10.30 this morning when Broadway was crowded.

RIEFL TOWER ADVERTISING.
PARIS, June 24. The French Government's need for additional revenue has induced it to grant a concession permitting automobile manufacturers to use the Eiffel tower for electric display advertisements.

AMUNDSEN SAILS FOR OSLO.
KINGSBAY, Spitzbergen, June 23. Roald Amundsen, and the other members of the expedition which recently made an ineffectual attempt to reach the North Pole by airplane from Spitzbergen, will sail to-morrow from King's Bay for Oslo, Norway. They will take with them the sea-plane which brought them back from the Arctic to Spitzbergen. The first batch of congratulatory messages

THE STRIKE SITUATION.
MONTREAL, June 23. The declaration is made here by William Hayes, representative of District 26 United Mine Workers Union, that the Union is prepared to stand behind the Nova Scotia striking miners indefinitely, and to continue paying ten thousand dollars weekly for strike relief. He pointed out, however, the situation among the strikers were delivered to Amundsen to-day. Amundsen told the Associated Press that he looked upon the expedition just ended as experimental, his dream for years having been to make a fight over the Pole landing in Alaska. For this project he had now gathered much additional and valuable knowledge, but he was unable to say as yet when he would undertake the next flight. He said he believed land exists near the North Pole on the Canadian side which he proposed to discover. His plans for the immediate future have not been decided.

NEGOTIATIONS PENDING.
LONDON, June 23. Official advices received here from Peking says that the diplomatic corps decided unanimously to open negotiations with the Chinese Government in the effort to fix responsibility for the Shanghai troubles and adjust the situation.

BESCO TERMS REJECTED.
SYDNEY, June 24. For the first time since June 11, the town of New Waterford last night was relieved from darkness and received part of its regular light and water supply. The restarting of the plant made possible the starting of the fans and pumps in two of the Waterford collieries which had been without maintenance care. Fans and pumps are now working and maintenance work is being carried on by Corporation officials in nearly all the collieries of Cape Breton Island. Twelve local unions of United Mine Workers have rejected the latest Corporation terms for settlement of the strike. This is one-half of the locals having to do with the corporation.

A STORMY SESSION.
PARIS, June 23. To-day's session of the Chamber of Deputies considering the Moroccan question broke up in a free-for-all fight, when white haired Colonel Picot, Deputy of the right bloc, rushed to the rostrum and struck Communist Deputy Doriot squarely in the face, as the latter was attacking the French Government. Doriot staggered, but clutched his assailant. The Communists from the left and Nationalists from the right came climbing up the steps of the rostrum, till twenty-five Deputies were there, whirling around, wrestling and hitting each other wildly.

TEN CENT STORES OWNER'S MATRIMONIAL DIFFICULTIES.
NEW YORK, June 23. His first unsuccessful matrimonial adventure is reputed to have cost S. S. Kresge, owner of five and ten cent stores $35,000,000. Now he is threatened with an expenditure of $7,000,000 as result of his second marriage. His second wife, Doris Myer Kresge has filed suit in the Supreme Court here for $7,000,000 alleging it to be the unpaid balance of 20,000 shares Kresge stock, which he promised her in lieu of dower rights when they were married on April, the paper in CANADA'S REFUSAL.

OTTAWA, June 23. Premier King, replying in the House of Commons this morning to a question by H. C. Hoehen, Conservative, Toronto West, stated that a communication had been received from the Newfoundland Government asking whether it would be convenient for Newfoundland to send delegates to participate in the Canada-West Indies conference. For reasons, however, which must be obvious, it was desired to restrict representation between the two countries concerned. The Canadian Government, in its reply, however, had intimated its willingness to facilitate any conference which could be arranged between the West Indies and Newfoundland.

Obituary

MRS. JOHN HARVEY.
There passed away at Wabana, Bell Island, on Wednesday, the 17th inst., a very estimable lady in the person of Mrs. John Harvey. Mrs. Harvey was formerly Miss Florence Tilley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Tilley of Millgrove, and passed to her eternal reward under very sad and distressing circumstances. She was apparently enjoying her usual good health and happy, buoyant spirit up to Tuesday, the 16th inst., when she complained of not feeling well. Dr. Giovanni was called and found that she had developed scarlet fever, the same was accordingly isolated and the following day Mrs. Harvey passed away, surrounded only by her grief-stricken husband and five little children. Her sudden passing is a heart-rending shock to her husband, family and friends. Mrs. Harvey who was in her 32nd year was favorably known and respected by the people of Wabana, and enjoyed the personal friendship of many on account of her genial, pleasant and hospitable disposition. Interment took place at the C. of E. Cemetery, Bell Island, on Thursday, the 18th inst. The sympathy of the whole community goes out to the sorrowing husband and little ones, who are bereft of a faithful and affectionate wife and mother. —R.H.

In Memoriam

MR. ABRAM DAVE.
The little settler of Riverdale lost one of its most respected citizens on Monday, the 8th inst., when, in obedience to the call of the Master, whom he had served with such faithful zeal down through the years, Mr. Abram Dave passed to his eternal reward. In his 63rd year. The duration of his illness was but one short week, during which time he bore his suffering with that patient, Christian fortitude that had characterized his life. Despite everything that could be done by a devoted wife, an experienced nurse and many kind neighbours, our dear friend breathed his last at 8.30 Monday evening.
The late Mr. Dave was a man possessed of many outstanding virtues. Beloved and respected by all who had a pleasure of his acquaintance and leaving behind him a treasury of good deeds and the example of a good life, he did not die in vain. His earthy character can best be estimated by the respect and esteem in which he was held while alive, and the genuine sorrow felt at his passing. Faithful, faithful and absolutely trustworthy, a good friend, in the truest sense of the word, one's life was richer because of his friendship and association. Those who knew Abe Dave intimately can appreciate the loss that his sad demise entails, the community in which he lived and moved, the friends and neighbours who were in daily contact with him, are all the poorer because of his passing but "Earth's loss is Heaven's gain." As he lived, so he died, his happy death was a fitting closing to a life well spent, and the reward of the Just awaited him. There is no death, what seems so in transition.
The life of mortal death is but a short sojourn in the life Elysian. Whose portals we call death.
"Death's but the path which must be trod
If men would ever dwell with God."
To his grief-stricken wife, sister and other relatives, we extend sincere sympathy. —R.H.

Enterprising Newfoundlander

TO START NEW ENTERPRISE.
Most of our boys when they go abroad and are employed, learn for themselves names and reputations which reflect credit on the country of their birth. Honesty, industry and attention to duty are as a rule the characteristics which get them through and as a rule the appreciative employer, affords them the preference they deserve.
Wm. Murphy, son of Mr. Lewis Murphy, the well known carriage painter and undertaker of this city, who has been employed with the big firm of Lannagan Bros. of Brooklyn, New York. Recently he was appointed by the firm to act as sole agent in Newfoundland for their business and will arrive here in September, accompanied by one of the principals, to start a branch business in St. John's. They manufacture and deal in all kinds of high class stoves, altars, pictures and articles of cotton generally, and do a large business all over the United States. With his knowledge of the country and the people we bespeak for Mr. Murphy a successful business career in his native country.

His Majesty
KING GEORGE V

All Chivers' preparations are of guaranteed purity, and are made in the fresh air of the country under ideal hygienic conditions.

Chivers' Olde English Marmalade

Only Selected Seville Oranges and Refined Sugar, but so skilfully blended as to preserve the valuable tonic properties of the fruit. "Your Olde English Marmalade... makes breakfast worth while," writes a user.

Chivers' Jellies

Flavoured with Ripe Fruit Juices. The family and visitors, children and adults, all delight in CHIVERS' JELLIES—they are delicious, wholesome and refreshing.

Chivers' Jams

Chivers & Sons own 6,000 acres of land, a large proportion of which is devoted to fruit culture. They use each year thousands of tons of fruit freshly picked from their own orchards and preserved as soon as gathered with refined sugar only.

Chivers' Custard Powder

Combines highest Quality with greatest Economy. It creams up into a nutritive Custard of exquisite flavour.

Cup and Saucer Land

Modern Wonders of the Potteries. When, on June 5th, the King visited the Potteries, he renewed his acquaintance with one of the most romantic centres of modern industrial Britain.

The ugliness of the Potteries is as frank and open as that of the other Staffordshire industrial centre, the Black Country, which, too, owes its existence to the riches beneath it. Nearly all the materials used in the Potteries are brought from a distance—clay from Dorset, china clay and decomposed granite from Cornwall, and so on—but coal in abundance is on the spot.

Most romantic of all the products that flow from afar to "Cup and Saucer Land" is gold in grains just as washed out. It is used for ornamentation. In one of the "pot-banks," or works, there is an isolated spot where enough of the precious metal to make a king's ransom has been ground under the strictest supervision.

A Ceiling of Smoke. It is coal that gives the last touch of hideousness to the district. For pit-banks of unspeakable offensiveness are scattered among the long, straggling lines of buildings and the hundreds of "pot-banks" dotted with ovens like ginger-beer bottles, tall chimneys, and vast "sherd-ricks" (monstrous heaps of broken "wasters," some of them rising a couple of hundred feet above the level), that constitute the Six Towns, over which hangs a pall of thin, grey smoke.

Mr. Arnold Bennett makes the number of towns five; but what can you expect of a man born and bred in a district where a "dozen" is any number from one to seventy-two? All plates are twelve to the dozen, but cups and saucers are thirty-six, and other small ware eighteen, twenty-four, thirty-six, up to seventy-two. For some purposes. This eccentric arithmetic has been arranged to simplify the payment of the oven men; but there are other "counts," and no two are alike.

The Potter's Wheel. There is, however, another side to the picture. Ugly though the area is, it is surpassingly rich in industrial marvels, and it comes into touch with our daily life more often than most of us are aware. The most important pottery manufacturing district in the world, it supplies us with an immense variety of products, from tiles to precious porcelain and statuary, thus ministering to our actual needs as well as to our aesthetic sense.

All over it is the potter's wheel, essentially the same to-day as it was more than four thousand years ago, though it is now operated with greater rapidity than it was by the ancient Egyptians. A good worker will make three or four hundred half-pint pots in an hour.

In some works, too, you may see in course of manufacture every kind of pottery, from the cheapest kitchen ware to valuable porcelain, of dinner services alone, the range is enormous, some—intended, apparently, only for millionaires—costing thirty pounds or more a plate.

Beauty's Ugly Home. Vases also are displayed in the show-rooms, where a gorgeous feast of colour meets the eye. The painting on one may have taken weeks to complete, and it may be a charming example of the work of a ceramic artist—a man of European reputation—who has specialised for years on one flower, such as the orchid or the rose. Still more remarkable are the specimens preserved in the museums, some of which contain masterpieces of the potter's art. For several reasons, the most interesting of these institutions is the one at the Etruria Works. It is the home of priceless possessions, many of them associated with Josiah Wedgwood.

A "wondrous organism," in truth, is the Potteries. Ugly in itself, it yet affords a means of bringing colour and grace into any home, and thus, after all, it does a great work and amply justifies its existence.

Men's Black Crepe Sole Boots, only $5.50 pair at F. SMALLWOOD'S.—June 19, 1925.

The Barber's Decision

The village cricket club were in a nasty position, but the hope of his side, the vicar, had been in all the afternoon, and was still going strong. A sudden shout rent the air, and the hope rose high in the rustic's breasts as they saw a terrific drive of the vicar's go hurtling towards the boundary.

The cricketers began to run, and as they crossed in the middle of the pitch the vicar was heard to remark: "I think we can manage another." But the vicar had reckoned without his host, for just as he reached his crease the wicket was thrown down. Immediately there came a contented appeal from the fieldsmen. The village barber, who was umpiring, gave an emphatic: "Not out!" "Ah," said the clergyman, with a breath of relief, "that was a close shave!" "It was, indeed, sir," agreed the umpire in an audible whisper. "And if it hadn't been that you were a regular customer of mine I should 'ave said, 'Next sent, please!'"

Fads and Fashions

A gay squire design is embroidered all over a Jersey bathing suit. A smartly taffered street frock is essential to the summer wardrobe. For evening the diamond earring is very lovely and exceedingly smart. For the summer camper, pajamas of the linen are cool and very durable.

The silhouette may be straight and boyish, or of a more feminine turn. A characteristic of the afternoon or dance frock is the fluttering movement. Pongee makes up delightfully in the style of the popular balbriggan frock. With the all-white costume one may wear stockings of a pale sunburn shade.

CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES
Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

THE PANSY

There's something in a pansy's face
So touched with beauty and with grace
So soft with lovely pity, I
Can never heedless pass it by.

The richer roses lure me on
With countless charms to look upon,
They seem to say with scornful pride:
"Why for such weaklings turn aside?"

"Why waste your time with such as they?
We are the fashion of the day!
Look, we are roses! Yet you stand
And hold a pansy in your hand!"

Oh, richer rose, with all your pride,
Something to you has been denied;
This humble pansy seems to be
More like my own good friends and me.

I seem to know how hard it tries
To come to favor in men's eyes,
And in its beauty I can find
Soft traces of a gentle mind.

'Tis like an old friend who has stayed
Poor while his neighbours progress made,
And though I know the roses, I
For old time's sake won't pass it by.

Flowers are like men. The proud disdain
Those who in humbleness remain,
Yet in the lowly pansy glows
A soul as ovelly as the rose.

"Ice Ahead"

In 1914 the leading maritime nations of the world came to an agreement that a patrol service to keep a look-out for icebergs should be set up. This conference was the outcome of the sinking of the Titanic with great loss of life after striking an iceberg on the night of April 14th, 1912. The United States Government was asked to undertake the responsibility of the ice patrol in the North Atlantic.

For about four months each year, when the ice is breaking up into gigantic, treacherous masses, the patrol much be maintained. It begins usually in March, lasting until the end of June. The usual procedure is for the patrol cutters, upon sighting a berg to allow themselves to drift with the white mass. For days they may have to keep this position, and the monotony is only relieved when the berg finally dissolves or is no longer dangerous. The patrol boats are each fitted with a 2,000-watt telephone and telegraph transmitter, and all the time they are with the icebergs they send out messages of warning at regular intervals.

Both the Tampa and the Modoc, the principal ships of the patrol, are driven by electricity and carry every kind of measuring instrument, so that they can discover the exact size of each berg they encounter.

Laughs A-plenty in Big Comedy

When James Cruze's admirable picturization of Harry Leon Wilson's novel, "Ruggles of Red Gap," is shown for the first time here at the Majestic Theatre to-night, picture fans will see not only one of the most delightful comedies ever produced, but a cast of players of such merit as has seldom if ever been assembled for any picture production of the current season.

Edward Horton, popular stage and screen leading man, plays the title role of a valet, who is Americanized. He was chosen as Ruggles because he is the ideal type to handle the delicately shaded humor of the part to perfection. Ernest Torrence, famous screen character player, who made an immense hit in "The Covered Wagon," was cast in the equally important role of Cousin Egbert, a rough and ready Westerner who hates the refinements of high society, while Lois Wilson plays Klondyke Kate, the daughter of a saloon-keeper, who has no social aspirations but, nevertheless, becomes the wife of an English Earl.

No man knows better than James Cruze the importance of a powerful cast. Consequently his selections of the other featured players—Pritzi Rigway, Charles Ogle and Louise Dresser—is a recognition of merit of the highest caliber.

Harry Leon Wilson's story, "Ruggles of Red Gap," attained its popularity because of its truly human comedy cloaking a theme of vital importance. It is this theme which, adapted by Walter Woods and Anthony Coldewey, has developed into a picture story absorbingly interesting, always amusing and withal powerfully human.

Dodge Brothers Touring Car

When good weather invites you into the country, you will appreciate more than ever the advantages of Dodge Brothers Touring Car. Open to fresh air and sunlight the Touring Car is healthful and delightful to drive. Moreover, it is common knowledge everywhere that Dodge Brothers product is dependable. One-eighth of the total weight of the car consists of chrome vanadium steel—the toughest and most enduring steel that can be used in motor car construction. This is exceptional. It goes far to explain why Dodge Brothers Touring Car stands up so many years under the hardest usage.

LET'S EFFICIENCY ETIQUETTE
There is a theory that etiquette is a crystallization of the general feeling as to what is most suitable and most desirable. I seem to remember having presented that theory in these columns myself. But as Emerson said: "Do I contradict myself? Then I contradict myself." And to-day I want to sustain that theory. I want to object to it. I think there are certain forms that etiquette bids us follow that are not a crystallization of the most graceful but have been accidentally selected. But Why Do Spoons Have Ends? For instance, we are highly infra-dig if we don't eat our soup out of the side rather than the end of our spoon. Now why is that? Isn't the end of the spoon really the logical place to sip from? Isn't that the main reason why spoons have an end, so that whatever is in them shall be poured out that way? And what would anyone think of us if we used a knife on the lettuce beneath our salad? We must somehow manage to dissect it with the fork if we want to eat it. And how it does resist! To be sure a real salad fork would make that not so hard, but how many people give us a real edged salad fork? Of course we are allowed to tear up lettuce with the fingers but not if it arrives at the table with the dressing on it. Nothing Ugly About a Slice of Bread and Butter. Then I never could feel that there was anything but pure formalism in the rule that one must not cut up all one's meat at once and then proceed to eat it, but must cut off a piece or two at a time, and then lay down one's knife and then pick it up again to cut the next piece. Likewise, in the matter of buttering a piece of bread. Of course the answer is that it is more graceful to do it that way, but barbaric though it may sound, I really cannot see anything ungraceful or offensive about meat cut ready to eat or a whole slice of bread buttered. Wigs to Conceal Hair. As they stand now, while many matters of etiquette are the crystallization of the most graceful and considerate way of doing things, I think many are just accidental. Queen Elizabeth raised a bit of lace to conceal her bad teeth, and presently the whole world was carrying handkerchiefs. And as Alpha puts it: "A bald headed king wears a wig to conceal his baldness and presently all the funkey world are wearing wigs to conceal their hair." I wish manners could be effaced by someone who would consider both common sense and decorum. RICHARD HUDNUT THREE FLOWERS COMPACT With Puff and Mirror Meets the requirements of those wishing an individual box of Rouge or Powder. Supplied in all Popular Shades. A Lord Tells Tales GOOD STORIES FROM A RECENTLY PUBLISHED BOOK. A golfer, on finishing a round, discovered that he had lost a ring on the course. He was upset about it, especially because, he said, his wife had given it to him. The steward was sent for, and all the caddies were despatched to try to find the ring. While the search was going on, the golfer said to a friend: "You know, my dear fellow, I wouldn't have lost it for anything"—and then, after a pause—"it is the third replica I have had made!" Lord Coleridge, who tells the above story in his newly published book, "This For Remembrance," has a good yarn to tell of Mr. Justice Lawrence who, like many another man, had evidently suffered much at the hands of his laundry. He had a gift of genuine spontaneous humour, and on one occasion was extremely angry with a Grand Jury who had thrown out a Bill for murder against a woman. "Why are you so angry?" said his Marshall. "Why?" said the Judge. "Don't you see, she was a laundress, and I have been looking out for one all my life!" When H.M.S. Vanguard was blown up at her moorings, only a few of her crew escaped. One sailor who was in his berth three floors down was blown up through the iron and concrete floors high into the air, fell into the water, and was ultimately picked up. At the inquiry he was asked at what time he thought the explosion took place. He said positively it was 11.30 a.m. Why? Because, he said, his little clock, which was in his berth, was blown up with him, and when in the air he found the face of the clock just opposite to his face, so he read instinctively the time by it!

KINDNESS
There's someone knocking at the door, a neighbor, bent on kindly things; he's heard that I am sick and sore, and myrrh and frankincense he brings, and wholesome doughnuts from his store, and custard pies and chicken's wings. To bring me victuals in a tub he tolled along the dusty street; what though it be forbidden grub the neighbor's thoughtfulness is sweet; the doc stands by me with a club and tells me what I must not eat. My bus stands idle in the lane, it will no longer deign to choo, and I regard it with a pain, and wonder what I ought to do; for much I hate the stress and strain of tinkering with bolt and screw. The passing motorists survey my bus from which no chugs ascend, and some of them will stop and say, "Is there assistance we can lend? Let us inspect your balky dray, and you sit down and watch us, friend." Sometimes a wind removes my hat, and blows it seven versts or three, which makes me weep, for I am spavined in my off hind knee; and kindly men, perceiving that, soon bring my kelly back to me. Whenever I am steeped in grief, whenever I have woe to bura, my friends bring solace and relief, and see my winning smiles return; and of all dunces I'd be chief if lessons fine I failed to learn. My faith in mankind is restored by some new kindness, every day; my neighbors always can afford to lay their own concerns away, to come and cheer me when I'm bored, inspiring me to romp and play.

BOWRING BROTHERS, LTD.

Up the Shady Forest Trail
Hopped our little bunny.
Knapsack full of lollypops,
And, perhaps, some honey.

I'm not quite sure about the honey, Little Reader, for it was yet too early in the summer for Mrs. Bee to have gathered enough to spread over a little cookie. Well, anyway, as the bunny boy hopped along with a whistle and a song (for he felt very happy this lovely June day) all of a sudden, just like that, quick as the wind that blows off your hat, the big Circus Elephant came rumbling down the Winding Trail, his little red cap tipped over one ear and the ends of the yellow bow of ribbon around his tall streaming in the wind.

"What's the matter?" asked the little rabbit, his pink nose twinkling with fright just like a star on a frosty night. "Did the lion get out of his cage?"

"No, worse than that," answered the big circus animal. "The circus queen has lost her slipper and I'm hurrying to the Three-in-One Cent Store for another. Dear me, what size did she say?" and the perplexed old elephant stopped to scratch his ear with his left hind foot.

"I know," shouted the little rabbit. "Same size as Mother's. Number three with C. Now what do you think of Little Me?"

"It would take me too long to tell you," answered the happy old elephant. "I'll take you with me. You have such a good memory," and picking up the little rabbit with his long trunk, he placed him carefully on his broad back and started off at a rapid rate. "Stop down when you see a low-hanging branch," advised the watchful old animal. "Don't want to lose my memory, at least before I get to the store!"

By and by, after a while and a bump and a smile, and almost a mile, they came to that wonderful shop in Rabbitville, and in less than three minutes the anxious old elephant had bought the slippers and was on his way back to the circus.

"I'll take you right in to the ring," he promised as he trotted up to the tent. "Maybe you can put the slipper on the circus queen's foot just like the Prince in Cinderella."

Goodness me, how the people laughed and clapped as the big beast trotted into the ring, waving the little satin slipper in his trunk. And when the bunny boy knelt down and placed it on the foot of the circus queen everybody rose in his seat and shouted, "Bravo!"

He picked up the little rabbit.

"Here's a bag of peanuts," said the good kind elephant. "You have done us a good turn. I shall tell Uncle Lucky all about it when I see the dear old gentleman rabbit. And that will be very soon for we come to Rabbitville day after to-morrow. Take these two tickets, one for you and one for Lady Love. Come in early and don't be afraid. I'll give you more peanuts and pink lemonade."

"I'll be there with Mother dear," answered the happy little rabbit as he hopped home to the dear Old Bramble Patch. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

With a frock of bright colored silk is worn a hat of the same faced with a contrasting shade.

Made Rich by Rain

When one speaks of weather making a place rich and populous, one's first thought is naturally of health and pleasure resorts where blue skies and sunshine are usual and rain scarce. But there are many places that owe their success to bad weather.

Dufftown, in Banffshire, possesses no fewer than seven large distilleries and is famous for the fine quality of its whiskey. Yet Dufftown is one of the wettest places in Scotland. The average rainfall must be something like 50 inches a year, or much more than double that of London. Now, the quality of whiskey depends largely upon the water used in the distilleries, and probably Dufftown's big rainfall gives the water supply needed for the production of the finest type of spirit.

Manchester and its neighbouring cities have a damp atmosphere that is particularly adapted to the spinning of cotton, and these places would be in a fix if the rainfall were suddenly halved. For similar climatic reasons Belfast has become the world's centre of the linen trade. Belfast has 231 rainy days out of the 365, and this suits both the growth of flax and its manufacture.

Condenser Capacity

EDITED BY JOHN M. CLAYTON.

Time and time again there has been impressed upon the radio public that the correct method of talking of condenser capacities is NOT in the number of plates the condenser contains but of its capacity either in microfarads (mfd.) or in micromicrofarads. And still we hear people buy 1-plate condensers or 23-plate condensers or 48-plate condensers assuming that all 17-plate condensers have the same capacity, which they most certainly do NOT have.

The capacity of a variable condenser depends upon four things. First, the area of each plate. The larger the surface of each plate the higher will be the capacity of the condenser formed from these plates. Second, the spacing between plates greatly affects the capacity of the condenser. If a condenser has a certain capacity with a certain spacing between plates and another condenser exactly similar (having the same number of plates and the same size plates) has a spacing only one-half as great as the first, the second condenser will have FOUR times the capacity. Or, in other words, if the first condenser is a "17-plate condenser" the second condenser will really be equivalent, in capacity, to a 58-plate condenser! Yet both condensers have exactly the same number of plates and the plates have the same area. The third factor which governs the capacity of a condenser is the "dielectric" or the material between each plate. The dielectric constant of air is taken as unity so in air insulated condensers we need not worry about this "dielectric constant" mystery. And the fourth and last factor is the one all of the broadcast fans know—the number of plates in a condenser.

Copyright, 1925, by The American Radio Relay League, Inc.

There are two terms used when speaking of condenser capacity. One is "microfarad" (mfd.) and the other "micromicrofarad" (that queer Green looking sign in our illustration.) It is simple to change from one of these capacity units to the other if we will only remember one thing: 1,000 micromicrofarads are equal to .001 mfd; or, in other words, to change from micromicrofarads to mfd, move the decimal point SIX places to the LEFT:—500 mfd. equals .0005 mfd. and similarly to change from mfd. to mmf. move the decimal point six places to the right:—0.00025 mfd. equals 250 mmf.

In circuit diagrams when we speak of condensers having a capacity of 250 mmf. remember that that capacity is the same as .00025 mfd., and that it may be a 17 or a 23-plate condenser. The dealer would much rather talk to you in terms of microfarads than condenser plate numbers, and he can and will tell you the capacity of the condenser he sells you. The manufacturers mark the correct capacity on the condenser boxes. Let's use the right terms and get away from this totally inaccurate means of specifying capacity.

 "It's such a relief, dear," replied her husband, "to see women opening their mouths without hearing them!"

TERRIBLE DEATH TOLL IN ONE WEEK END.

Heat and accidents caused twelve deaths in the city ending June 7th. The wave of fatalities swept the city and district just as, "Be Careful," Safety Week was starting. Young and old were included in the casualty list. Five of the deaths were caused by the heat wave. Automobiles, water, gas and matches, the causes of the death of the others.

The dead are: Brother Clarus, teacher at St. John Berchman's School, Marie Ann Street, drowned in North River where he was seeking relief from the heat.

Eltzer Douville, 60, night watchman, found in the water near Black's Bridge. Heat is blamed for the seizure.

Odette Phaneuf, 4, set herself afire with matches and died in the hospital. Patrick Byrnes, 42, Vaudreil, died in the General Hospital of sun stroke.

The baby daughter of Henri Noel, 2688 St. Lawrence Blvd., found dead in bed. Heat is given as the cause.

Unknown man taken from Lechine Canal. Only identification is the inscription W.W. on his watch case.

Richard Schroder, 40, found dead on rear gallery of his brother-in-law's home, 2300 Joliette Street, with a bullet through his heart.

Herbert Godfrey, 34, found dead alongside a gas jet in his room at 1229 Bleury Street. Suicide was the verdict of the Coroner's jury to-day.

Marcel Lapointe knocked down and fatally injured by an auto.

Herve Goyer, of St. Rose, killed in a collision of automobiles.

Brother Clarus, of the Christian Brothers Order, was drowned in the North River when he sank from sight before fellow-religious could rescue him. Brother Clarus, whose civilian name was Sorol, was a teacher in the St. John Berchman's School, on Mary Ann Street. He went with companions to St. Columban. Seeking relief from the heat, he plunged into the North River. He swam for a few minutes, then with a cry he threw up his hands and disappeared.

A verdict of accidental death was returned.

June 9th added five more victims to the already long list. The weather and Fate seem to mock Safety Week. The extra fatalities are:

Mrs. C. Staniszky, of De Gaspe St., heat victim.

Joseph Gagne, 56, of 164 St. Andre Street, prostrated at home.

John Calvert, 28, of 36 Common Street, injured in fall at Alexandra Pier.

Rose Simson, 18, of 1345 Ethel St., fatally injured in auto accident on La Salle Road; Verdun.

Henri Hogue, of 1627 De Gaspe Ave., drowned in Martineau Quarry, Bellechase street, where he dived into pool to escape heat.

QUEBEC LIQUOR INSPECTOR INJURED IN BATTLE WITH BOOTLEGGERS.

Inspector Dionne, of the Quebec Liquor Commission, is lying at death's door with a fractured skull in the hospital at Riviere du Loup, as a result of a battle between Liquor Commission Police and a farmer to whose home they went to search for illicit liquor. Two other inspectors, Parent and Belanger, suffered minor injuries.

The three inspectors left Quebec a few days ago with orders to search the home of this farmer, at St. Pascal de Kamouraska. Late on Saturday night they arrived at the door of the farm house and sought admission. The farmer, evidently warned of the intended visit, answered the door with a bottle in either hand and as soon as he caught sight of Inspector Dionne, let fly with both hands. One of the bottles caught the Inspector over the temple and felled him with a fractured skull.

The farmer then turned his attention to the other officers and managed to strike Inspector Parent over the forehead. The inspector had had time to defend himself so the blow was not so severe as that inflicted on Inspector Dionne, who throughout the battle lay on the floor unconscious. The third inspector, realizing that the lives of his companions were in danger, pulled a revolver from his pocket and fired on the farmer, wounding him in the leg and bringing the fight to an end. Four of the farmer's associates remained seated in the house throughout the encounter and offered no resistance when arrested by the inspectors.

Inspector Parent, injured as he was, managed to aid Belanger in making the arrests, and together they placed the third inspector in their automobile and, with their five prisoners, drove to Riviere du Loup where Inspector Dionne and the farmer were taken to the hospital.

The injured officer was unconscious throughout Sunday and his condition was so grave that a specialist was called from Quebec. Dr. Arthur Stinard responded and operated on Dionne on Sunday morning. His condition is serious, however, and it is doubtful if he will live.

Charges of attempted murder have been laid against all five of the men arrested and they are being held pending an investigation by the provincial police.

CORNER STONE OF THE NEW GAZETTE OFFICE LAID.

The corner stone of the new Gazette building, at St. Antoine, Cathedral and Ste. Cecile Streets, was laid by the Hon. Simon White, President of the Gazette Company, on Monday afternoon, June 8th. In the corner stone were placed current newspapers, coins, records of the Gazette and photographs of the building and officials of the Company.

A PECULIAR ACCIDENT WITH A TRUCK.

A motor truck, loaded with five tons of crushed stone, dashed down the steep incline across St. Catherine Rd., Outremont, over a lawn and through the wall of the home of Arthur Dausereau, 271 Cote St., Catherine Road. The driver applied the emergency brake, but it failed to work, he then jumped and wrenched his right leg. The truck went right through the stone foundation, breaking the water connections and flooding the cellar. The inmates thought the house was collapsing and fled. A domestic had a narrow escape from being killed at the head of the basement stairs. The house had to be specially propped up before the truck was removed.

ROUNDING UP LOST CHILDREN, AND FIXING THEM UP.

A Montrealer's Diary, in the Herald, says: "The is never a fine week end but some children are lost on the eastern slopes of the mountain. They are nearly always recovered before the day is out, however, because some

PIMPLES ON FACE AND HEAD
 Itching and Burning Terrible. Cuticura Heals.

"My trouble started by little pimples coming out on my face and the back of my head. After a few weeks the pimples scaled over and the itching and burning were something terrible, causing me to scratch. I lost rest at night because of the irritation.

"I heard about Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it a few times I got relief so purchased more, and after using about four cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Dorothy Welch, Dora, No. Dak., July 16, 1924.

Use Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum for daily toilet purposes. Get relief so purchased more, and after using about four cakes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Miss Dorothy Welch, Dora, No. Dak., July 16, 1924.

kindly person usually comes along and takes them to the police sub-station, handing them over to Sergeant Detmers to be held—and consoled, if possible—until called for.

On Sunday last fourteen children were lost in this way and brought, crying, to the station; refusing to be comforted for some time. In several cases the children were kept waiting for hours because it did not occur to the parents to call at the "wee house upon the hill" which—fortunately for the wails in question—is the nearest thing to a farm or managerie, these being dogs, cats and birds to interest the children.

Another problem furnished by the children, this time of school age, that keeps Sergeant Detmers busy in his capacity of first aid expert, results from their attempts to climb the rocky face of the mountain, dislodging boulders and chunks of rock, and often falling themselves with the loosened foothold and injuring others below as well.

Often there is only one constable on duty to cover the wide area of Mance Park, from Esplanade to the mountain top and from Mount Royal to Pine Avenue; and considering the tens of thousands who swarm over this wide tract, the marvel is that accidents are as few as they are.

THE SMOKING HABIT AMONG WOMEN.

The continued spread of the cigarette habit among women, from the smart and peppy co-ed, to the mature matron and from the hotel lobby to the ice cream parlor and the open car in the city streets, causes one to wonder whether the fashion has now reached the height and may be expected to decline or whether it has only "got started." Being one of those problems that have their aesthetic as well as moral and medical side, the course of the habit among women will be interesting to watch. The average medical practitioner seems to be agreed that a cigarette now and then does no harm to women; but of course the start is always on a small scale, and women to-day who pant like fury over five or six cigarettes at a sitting started two years ago with only one a day.

A WARNING TO CARELESS CAMPERS AND OTHERS.

The Star, under the heading of, "Forest Fires," says editorially:— "Summer time has come with startling swiftness and the stage is again set for the conflagrations that rob the country of millions of dollars annually, bring suffering to many settlers and too often result in loss of life. Modern methods of fire fighting have done something to decrease the heavy bill of costs and the enlistment of the aeroplane and all the inventions of modern times on the side of the guardians of our wealth have in some degree minimized the damage. Men and women must be on guard all day and every day in order to retain it. They must take no risks where the price of failure may mean the loss of thousands of dollars to some one. The man who tosses the lighted cigarette stub in the woods, the fool who lights the camp fire with gasoline and the imbecile who leaves fires burning when he breaks camp should be restrained in strict waistcoats with the man who rooked the boat, and the fellow who didn't know it was loaded.

IT PAYS TO BE CHEERFUL.

Dear Friends.—Don't go through life tearing down. Don't go through life with a hammer knocking people, conditions, things, everything in sight. Instead of knocking, learn to praise. Get a reputation of being a booster, a lifter, a helper, a server, an inspirer, an uplifter, an encourager.

Just think what a difference it would make to others, and, above all, to yourself, to go through the world as a booster, instead of a knocker. If you are a booster, people will like you, will be glad to see you, will always have a good word for you.

But no one has any use for the knocker, the chap who is always hitting somebody, passing along unfortunate gossip, making insinuating remarks about others, being jealous of others' success, who is always grumbling about hard luck and unfortunate conditions. He eats a shadow wherever he goes. The booster makes the sun shine a little brighter. The knocker draws a cloud over it.

The words of the cheerful man are like music of which Longfellow says:

"Such songs have power to quiet
 The restless pulse of care,
 And come like the benediction
 That follows after prayer."

Dodge Brothers Set New Record

Deliveries and Production Exceed Best Previous Week in History.

Dodge Brothers have been establishing new high records continuously for several months, as compared with similar periods for previous years, but the record of the week ending April 11 is the best in the company's history. With retail deliveries aggregating more than 7,000, an average of more than 1,300 each production day, the best previous week was surpassed by several hundred cars. New retail orders exceeded the corresponding week of 1924 by 1,000, or approximately 15.7 per cent.

Although Dodge Brothers Motor Cars are now being built at the rate of 1,100 a day, both deliveries and new orders are some 200 a day in excess of production.

"Had dealers' stocks permitted, the number of deliveries for the record week would have been even greater," said John A. Nichol, Jr., Vice-President in Charge of Sales. "It is not a spur; but a steady, healthful climb."

The Good Example

I live in a corner secluded,
Away from the traffic and dust,
Yet my shanty of paint was decorated
So I said to the miasma "We must
"In haste go procure oil and ochre,
And Harry will lead us a brush;
The house of our neighbour the stoker
Has brought to my temple a blush.
"His residence sparkles with splendour,
Begot of a fresh coat of paint;
And we're just as well off as this ten-
ter,
Of blazes, I'm bloused if we ain't!"
So I painted my shack till its glory
Bedazzled my neighbour next door;
Whose clapboards were sullied and hoary
As mine were a fortnight before.
Then he who is vain of his standing,
Disdained to be bettered by me;
The painter his gear now is landing
To burnish his block after tea.
And so it goes on, all are vying
Each day to enhance his domain;
Each man to the paintshop is fleeing
For ochre and amber and stain.
And now with a few hours of labour
A bucket of tar to complete;
We find that the heart of each neighbour
Is boastful and proud of his street.
Ye who list from mechanic to broker,
Help brighten your city to-day;
Go follow the lead of this stoker,
Who made his locality gay.

Paint Up and Clean Up St. John's City

(I.C.M.)

The suggestion that we have a general "paint up" in the city, is of more than passing interest, and it is deserving the support already expressed. The Telegram is to be congratulated upon its efforts to rouse our citizens to greater civic pride. In this the editor is doing good work, and what is equally important is the fact that the city press generally has strongly supported every measure towards improvement.
But the real success of the movement rests with the citizens themselves. The City Council may do its best, and the press may back it up, but unless these agencies receive the hearty co-operation of the public, it is vain to expect advancement, or to look for a better kept city. There must be a certain amount of public spirit exercised by the people, and more especially by property holders. Some citizens seem to forget this feature of citizenship, and they expect too much from the City Council. It is a mistake which many of us make, not only in civic matters, but also in the wider sphere of public life.
For the seven years that the writer sat at the Board with Mayor Gosling, it was very noticeable that with some people citizenship was all very well until their personal interests were affected, and then it was quite another story—such, however, is human nature.
But to the question. St. John's should look better than it does. Its buildings and homesteads represent the life of the people to a large degree, and a little attention to these in the matter of painting means a lot. Painting, like other things, costs money, and this is where the pinch is felt. Proprietors, trustees, landlords, and small householders generally have felt the depression of the last four years, and they know what a struggle it has been to keep property up. But this depression is mostly past, and a better feeling is abroad, and there is good ground for optimism. Trade is better than it was, the outlook is in our favour, and there is a signal for advance. In no better, no more practical way, can citizens welcome this change than by painting their dwellings, and thus improving the city.
Such improvement is now in order, and should tend to promote the dignity, as well as the value, of the city: the re-built dock, the new hotel, the new educational buildings, the new street railway, the good fishery which we have had, and the good cod-fishery which we are having, all indicate an era of prosperity and all speak of better times. Let us then catch on to the signs of the times, and show that we have faith in our country and pride in our city.
St. John's is our city. For situation it has much that is beautiful. Here, four hundred and twenty-eight years ago, John Cabot cast anchor, and in honour of the day in the Church Calendar he named the place—hence St. John's. Here came our fathers from the British Isles, and here sleep their dust. Here are our homes and all that these homes represent. Here all that has made life worth while about us. The cathedrals and churches and seats of learning, and all our domestic and social comforts meet us here, and they challenge us to our best, and demand from us our most loyal citizenship. A host of memories press upon us at every turn, and all because this is the city of our fathers and therefore our city.

To improve St. John's should be our ambition. Let us then put our shoulder to the wheel, and as citizens do our part in keeping up the appearance of the city. There are various ways of doing this, and among them the application of the paint brush is worthy of consideration. Appearances mean much, and outside improvements make good impressions. This is what the press is endeavouring to do in its campaign for a "paint up"—therefore we support it.

Clean Up! Paint Up!

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—Owing to the evident interest your campaign has evinced, it looks as if a new era of public spirit and progress were dawning upon us. All good citizens should speed its good work.
The Rotary Club in many places should grasp an opportunity of the kind to demonstrate to the public what good they can accomplish by organizing this campaign. It would have the result of widening the Club's sphere of activities and influence, and would certainly add to its popularity and membership.
All advertisers could help greatly by using slogans such as "Paint Up! Clean Up!" etc., etc., and then give a list of goods for sale affected by this campaign, such as paints, tools, carpenter work, plumbing, flowers, seeds, garden supplies, etc., etc.
This idea will cost nothing and if all live advertisers did it we would soon get going. Try it and see!
Yours truly,
BRIGHT AND EARLY.

This Years Bisley—Why Not Newfoundland?

London, Eng., June. (By Canadian Press)—The annual Bisley meeting will be held this year from Monday, July 6, to Saturday, July 15. As in previous years, Canada will be well represented, and Lieut. Desmond Burke, C.M., Ottawa, winner last year of the great Bisley classic, the King's Prize, will again be a competitor at the Bisley ranges.

The Canadian Bisley team comprising twenty marksmen, who sailed from Montreal on June 18, was announced some time ago by the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association as follows: Commander Col. Douglas R. Street, Ottawa; Adjutant, Major A. G. Styles, D.S.O., Regina, Sask.; Sergt-Major R. Kiddie, Toronto; Major C. W. Gibson, Hamilton; Sergt. G. M. Elmslie, Toronto; Lieut. D. Burke (G.M.), Ottawa; Corporal G. Preese, Guelph; Sergt. H. Ashling, Toronto; Pte. J. H. Gray, Toronto; C.Q.M. Sergt. A. Farnell, Verdun; Major C. R. Crowe, Guelph, Ont.; Sergt. B. W. Beaumont, Victoria; Lieut. E. Rowlands, Hamilton; P. H. Radford, Toronto; Sergt. C. H. Tyers, Britannia, Ont.; Pte. W. J. Irvine, Ottawa; Lieut. A. E. Hunt, Winnipeg; Capt. G. M. Galbraith, London; Lieut. A. J. Harvey, Timmins, Ont.; Sergt. A. F. B. Wilson, Ottawa.

Details of the programme arranged for this year's Bisley meeting were given by Major-General Lord Chylesmore at the recent general meeting of the National Rifle Association at the Royal United Service Institute.

Lord Chylesmore said they had every reason to hope that the attendance of overseas visitors would again be large, and that they would see teams representing Canada, Rhodesia, Nigeria, the Gold Coast, Nyasaland, India, the Channel Islands, and possibly the Malay States, as well as many individual competitors from other parts of the Empire. They hoped also to welcome a team of cadets from Canada. To add interest for the smaller Colonies and Dependencies, which were unable to raise a team of eight, it was proposed to institute a minor Kolarope match for teams of four.

The amount offered in prizes (money and kind) was about the same as last when the figure was about £18,000. The competitions open to each class of competitor had been grouped in such a manner as to entail the least inconvenience and expense to the majority of the marksmen and to afford the maximum amount of shooting in the shortest time. The principal match rifle events would be in the first week, and the sporting rifle events would be confined to the second week, as the National Miniature meeting would occupy the ground during the first week. Service members of the Forces who confined their shooting to the service rifle, would find special provisions made for them during the first five days of the meeting. The events comprised in the Service Rifle Championship, the King's Medal for the best shot in the land's forces at home, and regimental team matches were to be fired during this period.

The Public Schools matches would be on Wednesday and Thursday, July 8 and 9, and a "record" entry for the Ashburton Shield on the Thursday was expected.

The Service Rifle Programme was practically the same as last year. A new competition, the "Barbow," ten shots at 600 yards, with a time limit and without markings, had been introduced. It was hoped to attract many new competitors from Police Force and Royal Naval Reserve Units, and special matches had been instituted for them. At the request of the Civil Service Rifle Clubs, the "Lucas" Match would be shot shoulder to shoulder under Kolarope conditions. Conditions in the classic events like the competitions for the King's prize and Queen Mary's and the Princes of Wales' Prizes were unchanged. Additional prizes were offered in the revolver competitions. The ammunition would be specially selected and should prove equal to that supplied last year. The usual travelling concessions had been obtained from the Southern Railway. Over £400 would be given in prizes at the National Miniature meeting.

Lord Chylesmore also mentioned that the competitions for the Imperial Challenge Shields and His Majesty the King's Shield were both progressing. For the former there had been a satisfactory increase in the entries received from home units this year of over 2,000 boys.

Referring to the association's appeal for funds recently launched by the Prince of Wales, Lord Chylesmore said their hopes of raising £100,000 had not been fully justified, for up to the present only £18,727 had been received. What they really wanted was an assured income of £5,000. If they could only obtain that they should be able to go on without fear of disaster. He hoped they would have raised at least £20,000 before the Bisley meeting began, and he appealed to members to do all they could to obtain further subscriptions. He added that Lord Derby had retired from the council and announced that Admiral of the Fleet Lord Jellicoe had consented to allow

C. L. A. Outing at Smithville

The Columbia Ladies' outing at Smithville yesterday was attended by more than 200 people, and proved most enjoyable. The weather was ideal. The party assembled shortly before 3 p.m., and immediately afterwards a very interesting programme of sports was started under the direction of Messrs. C. J. Ellis, P. Brown, J. T. Power, J. Coady, T. Walsh, J. Byrne. The events and winners were:—

Eligible Race—Won by Mrs. W. Tobin and Arthur Kennedy.

Hobble Race—Miss Thorburn and F. Murphy.

Thread the Needle Race—Miss Armstrong and R. Redmond.

Flag Race—Miss K. Howlett and T. Dalton.

Donkey Race—G. Foley, driven by Miss Armstrong.

Chunderies Race—Miss Vetch and E. J. Vetch.

Field Regatta (Final)—Won by ladies in the boat commanded by Misses J. Foley (captain), Bartlett, Ellis, Phelan, Armstrong and Mrs. Moakler.

In addition to the above set programme various other sports were engaged in, including baseball and a tug of war between West and East. In the latter the East End were the winners. At 6 p.m. supper was served and all enjoyed the very excellent menu provided. Dancing was begun at 8 p.m. and continued until this morning to music supplied by the Princess' Orchestra. During the interval the prizes were distributed by Mrs. J. T. Power, President of the Association, who in congratulating the winners expressed the regret of Grand Knight J. G. Higgins on his unavoidable absence. C. J. Ellis thanked the donors of the prizes, and all who had helped to make the sports so enjoyable. During the night a pyrotechnic display was given under the direction of Peter O'Mara. The outing was voted the most successful yet held, and the Ladies' Association and the gentlemen who assisted are to be congratulated on their management.

FAMOUS PARISIAN REVUE REPRODUCED IN "DADDY'S GONE A-HUNTING."

Everyone has heard of the Folies Bergers.

This daring French musical revue has been seen by nearly every American fortunate enough to go to Paris.

Now it has been pictured by Frank Borzage in his screen version for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer of "Daddy's Gone A-Hunting," the famous stage play by Zoe Akins.

When it is shown at the Nickel Theatre to-night those who have never been to Europe will have the opportunity of seeing the French Folies in authentic copies of the luxurious settings for which it is noted.

On the stage "Daddy's Gone A-Hunting" made Marjorie Rambeau famous. It is when Julian goes to Paris to study that the scenes of the Folies Bergers and the unusual, gay studio parties are brought in, with Helena d'Algy and Ford Sterling appearing as typical Latin quarter folk, aiding Percy Marmont in his work and play, mostly play. Virginia Marshall, a new child actress is seen in her first important role as Janet, the artist's daughter.

Other members of the cast are Holmes Herbert, Edythe Chapman, Martha Mattox, James Barrows and James MacBarn.

Kenneth B. Clarke is responsible for the adaptation from the Zoe Akins play, which expanding the plot to provide for thrills, comedy and color, does not change in material manner the original drama. This is the first of a series of pictures Mr. Borzage will make for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Radio From Arctic

Quebec, June. (By Canadian Press).—New Arctic radio transmission records will, it is expected, be established when the Canadian Government ship "Arctic" enters the Polar regions on her annual trip this summer. For the vessel will be equipped with a transmitting set especially designed to keep the Canadian Government posted on her movements in the land of the midnight sun.

The vessel holds the present record for receiving and transmitting radio messages from the point nearest the North Pole. The Canadian Government is preparing to start the ship off on her voyage earlier this year, in order to pierce farther into the Arctic ice-fields than it did last. The staunch ship, built especially for Arctic travel, is being reinforced on bow and stern with heavy steel plates to fight its way through the ice to a point farther north than it has been able to penetrate most of the 20 years it has been making annual pilgrimages to the Arctic circle.

Last year the vessel continuously received messages from the Canadian Government transmitted from Station KDKA at Pittsburgh, Pa., on the short wave, and establishing the "farthest north" record when a message from KDKA was received at Cape Sabine, north of Peary's winter base at Etah, and within 11 degrees of the North Pole.

Not all the reply messages sent from the vessel to the Canadian Government were received, however, and in order to insure uninterrupted two-way transmission this year, Commander C. P. Edwards, director of radio service of the Canadian Department of Marine and Fisheries, in collaboration with C. W. Horn, superintendent of radio operations of the KDKA engineers, is having a more powerful set built for the vessel this year.

This set will be operated by Robert McA. Foster, of Montreal, who is a certified operator as well as operator of an amateur station in Montreal, and who was nominated by the Canadian headquarters of the American Radio Relay League as its representative to make the trip with the "Arctic" and carry on for the Government the short wave experiments with Station KDKA. Mr. Foster is assistant in radio work to George A. Wendt, of the Canadian Westinghouse Company, Ltd., and has been given a leave of absence to make the trip with the "Arctic."

It is in line of duty that this vessel regularly visits each summer the polar regions beyond the extreme northern habitation of even the Eskimans. Last year the ship established a post of the Canadian Royal Mounted Police at Rice Strait near Kane Basin, north of Etah where Peary and McMillan wintered, and 600 miles north, by air line, of the Baffin-land territory where McMillan is expected to make explorations on his trip north this summer.

The party will pick up J. Dowe Soper, a geologist, one of the men left in the polar regions last year. In the intervening time he has been making an exploration of Baffin Island to determine the truth of the reports of vast mineral wealth in this island, which is a thousand miles long and contains more than two million square miles. His reports probably will determine whether the Canadian Government will begin there to exploit the wealth believed to be located in the far northern regions.

ALL DRUGGISTS

Character From Your Food

"STRONG SILENT MEN" SELECT A HEAVY DIET.

According to the latest theory it is quite possible to tell an individual's character from what he eats.

The chief exponent of the new science is the Hon. R. Erskine of Marr. In his booklet entitled "Borology," he gives us various hints.

The "strong, silent" type of man, for instance, invariably selects joints and heavy food.

Those who like plenty of seasonings are usually irritable, but the diner who ignores pepper, salt and mustard altogether is sometimes found wanting in "go."

The lover of pastry is usually a sentimentalist.

Vegetables, we know, are good from a health point of view, but a word of warning should be uttered concerning radishes. Too full a diet of these has been known to develop ferociousness!

Salad lovers possess fresh, primitive natures.

From other authorities, yet more hints may be gathered. Fruit-eaters, it is said, are often sweet-tempered, perhaps because fruit is largely concentrated sunshine.

Man, it is held, was intended to be a fruit and vegetable eater, and it is modern life that has driven him to concentrated food—something that can be swallowed quickly.

All fresh foods are stimulating, just as are tea and alcohol. Consequently, careful attention to eating will prevent disease, as well as develop—and therefore appear to change—character.

Changing the Calendar

A scheme which is being put forward by the League of Nations that the year shall be divided into thirteen months instead of, as at present, twelve, looks like meeting with almost universal approval. The extra month would be inserted between June and July and it is suggested that it should be known as "Sol."

If this scheme were carried into effect it would involve the addition of an extra day, not included in any of the months, known as "Year Day." The extra day in Leap Year would also be additional to any month.

Such a plan would give a fixed Easter and Whitsun, and the idea is approved by Church dignitaries, leaders of commerce, hotel-keepers, and railway officials. At present it is very difficult for railroads, hotels, and other concerns that have to make special arrangements for holidays, to run any sort of schedule when Easter and Whitsun never occur on the same dates two years running.

Other advantages claimed for the thirteen-month year are that pay-days, market-days, and other fixed events would fall on the same date every month, and that each week-day would come on its four fixed monthly dates. Also, permanent dates for racing meetings and other gatherings would be made possible.

Whether Britain will ever be persuaded to adopt such a calendar is another matter. All attempts to introduce the decimal system of coinage here have so far failed. Then, too, what will the superstitious say to thirteen months in a year?

Trooping the Color

Soldiers' "Test of Sobriety" On King's Birthday.

On the occasion of the King's Birthday, many thousands of his loyal subjects assembled to witness the spectacular ceremony of Trooping the Colour on the Horse Guards Parade, London.

This consists in a series of military evolutions, carried out in "slow time," in the course of which the King's "Colour"—or flag—is borne past the saluting troops while the massed bands play the regimental marches.

A tradition of the Brigade of Guards attributes the invention of this parade to the Duke of Cumberland. As a Colonel of the Guards he was disgusted to find that some of the officers and men had been keeping up the royal birthday to such good—or bad—purpose that they showed considerable unsteadiness in the ranks during the review held in honour of the occasion.

He therefore devised the present manoeuvre, which, being carried out in slow time with the legs held perfectly straight and stiff, would result in the slightest unsteadiness being promptly detected.

In short, Trooping the Colour was originally instituted as a test of sobriety, and though, needless to say, the necessity for this test no longer exists, the parade continues to be carried out in the same manner as it was when first established.—Ex.

New Sea Thrills

It might be thought in this age, when every ocean is charted and crossed by ships in all directions, that there was nothing new to discover, but the Arcturus scientific expedition not only found two new volcanoes in active eruption in the Pacific, but also came upon a gigantic tide-race where two great currents meet.

The mass of foam caused by their violent collision extended for miles, and in this foam great numbers of whales and porpoises wallowed, attracted by the immense supply of food. There were also great quantities of wreckage, covered with organisms, and fish of all kinds feeding on them.

For the first time the scientists found the eggs of halobates, the only marine insect in the world. The eggs are being hatched in tanks. Vast numbers of jelly-fish coloured the water purple for many square miles.

The expedition caught more than 150 species of fish, among them being transparent flounders, deep-sea macrurus with blue and yellow lights, many kinds of jelly-fish, and fish which live only on jelly-fish.

IN THE REALMS of SPORT

C. L. B. C. SPORTS BIG SUCCESS.

Jack Bell Winner Of Road Race.

The C.L.B.C. Sports, held under the auspices of the C.L.B. A.A., took place on St. George's Field yesterday afternoon, and were attended by upwards of 2,000 people. The sports were attended by Lieut.-Col. Rendell and officers of the Brigade, His Lordship Bishop White and many prominent citizens. The Committee in charge, with the officials of the N.A.A.A., under Hon. W. J. Higgins, K.C., carried out the programme in a very capable manner. The different events proved interesting, but were not so keenly contested as anticipated, particularly when a club trophy was to be competed for. In this connection the M. G. track team was well represented in nearly every event, and showed marked superiority over their opponents, when they captured the special team prize by the large score of 58 points, as against the C.L.B.'s 17 points and St. Bon's 11 points. A feature of the meet was John Howlett's performance in throwing the hammer. Howlett hurled the 16 pounder 93 feet 6 inches, or two feet over his previous record of last week. Gordon Long, of the M.G.C.A., featured in both the high and broad jumps. In the latter event he defeated his team mate, Sam Parsons, the title holder, but was four inches short of the record. Probably the most exciting event of the afternoon was the two-mile walking match between Grand Burnell, (the champion) and T. Piercey, Burnell was forced to the limit every inch of the way and it was only in the last 40 yards of the gruelling contest did Burnell manage to haul away and beat Piercey to the tape. It was a pretty race, and both walkers received a splendid ovation. Only two competitors, Stone and Perry, competed in the one and the half mile events. The former won both races, despite the condition of the ground, and is ably upholding his previous honors. The Cadets emerged victorious over B.I.S. in the final football sixes, by 1 goal and 2 corners, to 1 goal and 1 corner.

10 Mile Road Race.

Probably the surprise packet of the day handed out to the spectators at St. George's Field, and the public in general, was the winning of the 10 mile road race, by the ex-champion, Jack Bell. Few in the city were aware that he had come out of retirement to make the long hike again, but the hopes of all were better realized yesterday when he entered St. George's Field, and tucked away another race under his belt. Bell's comeback was received with the greatest enthusiasm, and his victory was a most popular one. Twelve competitors had entered for the race, but only six runners, viz., J. Ralph, Bernard Evans, W. Linegar, G. Stone, G. Kelly and Jack Bell lined up at the official starting point, when Capt. E. Forrest gave the signal at 3.45 p.m., to send them off on the long hike. Linegar took the lead, with the others bunched close together, for the first 200 yards. At the end of the first mile Bell had advanced to the front, with Stone running close to his heels, while Linegar was contented with third position. The first runners were going strong, and gradually moved away from Ralph, who was 4th, Kelt; 5th and Evans 6th. Two minutes later Stone passed Bell and set up a good pace for about 300 yards, then Linegar came up strong from third position and again took the lead. There was very little difference dividing Linegar, Stone and Bell in the order named, when passing Nash's gate, although Ralph was about 60 yards to the rear. Drawing into Donovan's, Linegar gained a slight lead and passed that point in 13 min. 10 secs., full 100 yards ahead of Stone and Bell, who were running side by side. About 400 yards further out Bell was seized with a cramp in the stomach and he was forced to walk for fully half a minute, while he got relief. But by that time Linegar had gone out of sight, Stone running fully 300 yards ahead of him in second place, while Ralph crept up from the rear. Linegar passed Davey's in 22 min. 45 secs., and not another runner was to be seen in sight on a stretch of 400 yards of road. He was running in the form and looked a very likely winner. Brookfield was next passed by Linegar in 32 min. 30 secs., which was considered to be very good going. At this point Bell commenced to gain rapidly and pressed ahead of Stone into second place. The distance between Linegar and Bell was fully 500 yards, when the former passed the Sanitorium, in the splendid time of 36 min. 20 secs., and a few hundred yards further Linegar crossed the 7 mile mark in 58 minutes exactly. From the Road to Lane home, Linegar did not appear to be doing so well, but maintained the lead with a steady pace, while Bell advanced quickly from the rear and restored a considerable portion of lost ground. Albany, or eight miles from the starting point, was passed by Linegar in 44.35. It was after taking Cornwall Avenue that Linegar appeared to feel the strain, and when Lester's Field was passed, Bell was travelling fast about 100 yards to the rear and making a gallant effort to overtake his opponent. Coming into LeMarchant Road great crowds of people lined the thoroughfare. At this juncture only 60 yards divided the two leading runners, with Stone in third place about 300 yards to the rear. Moving into Parade Street, Bell ran well over the grade, and only ten yards separated him from Linegar when the main gate at St. George's Field was entered. Moving into the enclosure Bell passed Linegar and in the last two laps of the field opened up a good lead. Linegar, at this stage of the race, appeared to be tired and failed to challenge the leader. Bell crossed the winning post with a lead of 140 yards, in 58 minutes and 51 seconds, and was given a rousing reception. Linegar finished second, 35 seconds later, to be followed by Stone in 62 min. and 24 seconds, and Ralph 4th in 62 min. 56 seconds. B. Evans was the fifth runner to arrive, and finished the course. Mr. E. Churchill's car, which acted as pilot, did good work with the assistance of Ron O'Toole, in keeping the road clear, while thanks are also extended to Messrs. G. Lester and H. J. Wyatt, for their cars to look after the competitors from the rear. Messrs. H. M. Maddick and A. H. Thomas acted as official timekeepers. The Topesill Road is at present undergoing repairs, and much loose clay had to be passed over by the runners, which handicapped them greatly in their progress. Ron O'Toole was unable to compete owing to a recent injury to his left knee. His non-appearance in the race was regretted by many.

The following N.A.A.A. officials assisted the C.L.B. Committee:

G.W.V.A. SPORTS.

The Sports Committee, under the chairmanship of Mr. Wm. Clouston, held a very enthusiastic meeting at Dominion Headquarters Tuesday evening when matters were finalized for the annual sports which take place on St. George's Field Wednesday next, July 1st. Suitable prizes are being awarded and will be on display in the window of James Baird, Ltd., in the course of a few days. Entries are coming in already and the general public are guaranteed an exciting afternoon. One of the principal events of the programme is the tug-of-war for the trophy presented by Field Marshal Earl Haig. It is now held by the Methodist Guards Comrades Association. The conditions governing this competition are as follows:

The Haig Tug-of-War Cup.

(1) The Cup shall be known as the Haig Tug-of-War Cup.

(2) It shall be competed for yearly at the G.W.V.A. Sports.

(3) It shall be awarded to the Champion Amateur Tug-of-War team of Newfoundland.

(4) The winning team or some person or persons on their behalf, shall give bonds to the value of two hundred and fifty dollars,

Winner of Yesterday's 10 Mile Road Race

JACK BELL,

winner of the 10 mile road race in the C.L.B.C. Sports yesterday in 58 minutes, 51 secs. Bell, who has not competed in a race since 1923, made a wonderful come-back, and his spectacular finish thrilled the fans. At one time in the race, Bell was compelled to walk owing to a stitch in the side.

$250.00 which shall be returned when the Cup is placed in the hands of the Trustees one fortnight before the annual competition.

(5) Any aggregate of eleven men are eligible to complete.

(6) All entries must be in the hands of the G.W.V.A. Sports Steward one week before the Sports, and each entry must be accompanied by an entrance fee of ten dollars, (10.00) which will be refunded on the full team making its appearance when called upon to do so.

Competitors are undergoing extensive training for the 10 mile race.

The football sixes are to be played for the Sir Charles Harris Cup, which is competed for annually. It is now held by the Cadets who have won it the past two years. Medals will also be given.

An exhibition by the Girl Guides and a tricycle race for the boys are other features of the programme.

The massed Bands will be in attendance. The catering is in the hands of the Ladies' Auxiliary, under the direction of Miss May Furlong, which is sufficient guarantee for the success of this section of the programme.

ST. MARY'S GARDEN PARTY AN UNQUALIFIED SUCCESS.

St. Mary's Garden Party, held at Lester's Field yesterday afternoon, was largely attended and proved a decided success. The committee in charge had all arrangements perfected for the occasion and all are to be congratulated on their efforts. The ground was dotted with numerous tents and side-shows, while the display of hunting, which floated gaily in the breeze, made the surroundings a very pretty sight. Among those present were His Lordship the Bishop, Rev. A.B.S. Stirling and Rev. J. Goodland and many other prominent citizens. During the afternoon the side shows were well patronized, although the most popular event of the evening was the sports programme. The 3 mile race, for the Stafford Cup, was won by C. Stone after a hard race with J. Russell, who finished second. The time was 16 min. 33 secs. Six competitors started, and amongst those who finished were E. Austin and T. Fleming, while G. Crane was obliged to retire owing to a stitch in his side. The events, which took place in the field, proved very interesting. The following is the list of events and winners:—

Football Sixes—Mt. Cashel vs. T.A. Won by T.A., 2 goals to nil.

100 Yards Dash—1st, G. Power; 2nd, J. Vinicombe.

220 Yards—1st, G. Power; 2nd, J. Vinicombe.

Boot and Barrel Race—1st, W. Carson; 2nd, R. Crane.

Blindfold Backward Race—1st, R. Crane; 2nd, L. Couzens.

Football Finals—T.A. vs. B.I.S. Won by B.I.S.

One Mile—1st, G. Stone; 2nd, P. Thorburn; 3rd, S. Russell.

3 leg race—1st, Casey and Couzens; 2nd, Carson and Crane.

Sand Bag Tournament—R. Crane, W. Redstone.

Half Mile (Jr.)—1st, L. Couzens; 2nd, R. Crane.

At six o'clock, when time came for tea, the various tables were quickly filled. The ladies in waiting who had made every preparation for this occasional, were fully rewarded for their efforts. The tea tables were overflowing with delicacies and the appetites of all were appeased. The Salvation Army Band was present during the afternoon and rendered pleasing selections, while the C.L.B. Band was also an added attraction at night, when a large number of people engaged in dancing. At the close the prizes were presented by Rev. A. B. S. Stirling, who congratulated the winners on their success. The National Anthem, played by the C.L.B. Band, brought this successful event to a close.

JUNIOR FOOTBALL

Gaelic Defeats B. I. S.

On Tuesday night St. George's Field was occupied by the Junior League, when the Gaelic and B.I.S. teams played before a good attendance of spectators. The game ended somewhat of a surprise when the Gaelic lads trimmed the Irishmen by three goals to nil. There was no scoring done in the first half, although the B.I.S. made several good attempts to do so, with the wind in their favor. Upon changing over, Gaelic had matters practically all their own way, and in less than 5 minutes the first goal was scored from a penalty kick. Fifteen minutes later Stapleton notched up No. 2, and shortly after this Murphy increased Gaelic's lead to three, which proved to be the final goal of the evening. The game ended Gaelic 3; B.I.S. 0.

Mount Cashel The Victors.

The Mount Cashel and C.Y.M.C. teams tried conclusions at St. George's field last night when the former defeated the latter by 4 goals to 1. The Mt. Cashel team played from the western end in the first half, taking advantage of the strong westerly wind, when they netted four goals. In the second half C.Y.M.C. pressed hard to reduce the lead, but their opponents set up a solid defence, and frustrated all attempts on scoring. On one occasion C.Y.M.C. forwards staged a deliberate attack, on the Mt. Cashel goal, but the ball hit the cross-bar and went behind. About five minutes before the close Pomeroy scored C.Y.M.C.'s only goal, on a rebound. The full time whistle sounded, leaving Mt. Cashel the victors by 4 goals to 1.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.

The Cadets and C. E. I. of the Senior League will try conclusions for the points at St. George's Field to-night. A lively exhibition is promised.

STANDARD OIL OF NEW JERSEY.

NEW YORK—Standard Oil of New Jersey is operating its refineries and pressure still installations at 100 per cent capacity. Plants have combined capacity for handling about 400,000 barrels of crude oil daily.

While facilities are being operated at maximum yield of gasoline, demand is so large that even though great manufactured supply is being augmented by deliveries of gasoline purchased in midcontinent and California, Standard Oil of New Jersey is drawing on its stock.

New construction is now going through which will add 20,000 barrels capacity to big Baton Rouge plant of Standard Oil of Louisiana, a New Jersey subsidiary, to bring its capacity to 200,000 barrels a day. Half of this increased capacity will be operating in near future and balance by fall. Standard Oil of New Jersey's profits are running at a higher rate than for this season in any previous year. It has been forehanded in protecting its markets with a sufficient supply for some months it has been the big buyer of domestic and export gasoline in both mid-continent and California.

It is probably the only company which has been able to contract for any substantial supply of California gasoline this year as marketers on Pacific Coast are keeping their gasoline for their own requirements.

ALLIS-CHALMERS.

Production Maintained At Full Blast And Earning Prospect Good.

MILWAUKEE, June 17.—Allis-Chalmers unfilled orders May 1 showed a small gain over previous month with $10,100,000 against $10,140,000 April 1. Unfilled orders have now hovered around $10,000,000 since Jan. 1, 1925. It is necessary to go back to Sept. 1 to find unfilled orders as large as $10,000,000, so that the present total is showing great stability. Officials expect a slight loss in new business as of June 1, as there has been a noticeable lack of large sales of machinery the past 90 days. None has run as large as $200,000 each. There are several big contracts under negotiation, but there seems to be some reluctance in closing these. It is believed the many small orders provide a continued basis of prosperity. They account largely for steady condition of order books. Officials can see nothing but quiet business in sight the next few months, in line with restricted trade in most lines.

Manufacturing is still going on at a lively pace, with 6866 employed May 1, the most for more than a year. For several months the company has been building up forces with expectation that new orders would warrant such a policy. The stable condition of unfilled orders has justified the plan. It means that profits for the second quarter should be fully up to the two previous quarters. Electrical business of the company is well maintained, but there are no pronounced developments in this quarter. Expansion plans talked of some months ago have not materialized.

Star Card Party and Dance

A large number of people attended the card party and dance held on Tuesday night, under the auspices of the Star Ladies Association in the Society's club rooms. One hundred players took part in the card tournament which was won by Miss Martin and Mr. Thos. Walsh. An appetizing supper was served by the Ladies Association after which dancing was indulged in to music supplied by "Our Own" Orchestra. The affair terminated at an early hour yesterday morning.
