

THE CITY AND VICINITY.

THE DAILY ROUND OF LIFE AND ABOUT TORONTO.

What the People are Doing and Saying and Thinking about—Recent Events Gathered Everywhere by Wide-Awake World Reporters.

NEARER TO THEM.

There is a voice, 'tis in the forest night, It rises in soft cadence sweet and low, And gently comes the echo, clear and bright, 'Tis softly, like the water's rippling flow.

A childish voice, and O! so sad, so sad, So weak, so clear, so plaintive and so mild, 'Tis nearer my God to Thee, so sang the little lad, Then laid him back upon his bed and smiled.

Then once again he sang "Nearer to Thee." Once more my loved one sank upon the bed, And I rose up, my darling child to see, I saw him only by the light of the moon.

The works committee will meet at 3 p.m. to-day.

No prisoners at any of the stations up to eleven last night.

Eighteen prisoners took a drive eastward yesterday morning.

THEY BLACKBALLED HIM.

The Lombardian Benevolent Society Throw Out the Khan for His Views.

The ancient and benevolent society of Lombardians met in Dan Dwan's wood-shed on Saturday night. Bill Fraser, the ragster, acted as chief crank, and McCoberty as door-keeper.

Gilhooley said he had just got out, and he had been assisted in getting out by the khan, who had hung up an alister in order to pay his fine. He therefore moved that the khan be elected an honorary member of the noble order of Lombardians.

McCoberty objected on account of the khan's political associations. He admitted that he was a Lombard, and had lived in Lombardy, and that he had all the marks, but then "yes know he is too thick with Doc Sheppard," whom he knew to be an African and adverse to Lombard interests.

Dwan urged that khan had high literary abilities, and wrote the report of Dr. Wild's sermon in the Yorkville News, and was also the author of the lullaby, "The Man in Search of a Horn."

"We know him well," said Fraser.

"The man inkin for a taste," queried Dwan.

Gilhooley next argued that the khan had always paid his share to the benevolent order, but McCoberty was incoercible.

The chief crank called the vote, and it stood: For the khan, 13; against him, 15. It seems McCoberty has brought down the cool heavers who he employed on his gang, and by the pressure he exercised over them compelled them to vote against their wish, and blackballed the khan.

The meeting broke up in disorder.

A SAILOR KILLED.

In Toronto Harbor This Morning on the Propeller Shockna.

Just before one o'clock this morning, the hands on the propeller Shockna began to unload her cargo. One of the crew named Morin, a French-Canadian from below Quebec, fell down the forward hatchway and was immediately killed by falling over fifteen feet, head foremost, striking his skull on the railway iron that formed the cargo platform. He leaves a wife and eight children, and was of sober habits. Coroner Riddell will hold an inquest.

A "QUEER" YOUNG MAN.

There are some funny people in this world, and we have all heard about the young man who got home late one night, and after fruitfully attempting to unlock the door with his watch-key, crawled over the back shed, undressed himself, carefully placed his boots on the lawn and his clothes in the bed, and then hung himself up on a hook and went to sleep on the floor.

But a case which beats this all hollow occurred on Saturday night.

A young gentleman had a country cousin visiting him, and having waited for him until twelve o'clock, latched the door and fell asleep in the armchair. At half-past two he awoke and investigated the door, which was still locked, and after musing sundry prayers for his cousin's eyes, he wrapped himself up in his night-gown and gently drifted away.

On going down next morning, his paternal governor asked him, "Why did Bob go so early?"

"Why, he wasn't home," was the answer.

"Nonsense," said the head of the house, "he went down stairs in front of me and took his hat of the rack and went out."

The cousin's room was investigated and had not been used, but the bed up-stairs in the spare-room had been slept in, and as the young man Bob says he slept elsewhere, what the people of the house are trying to get at is—was the young man who did sleep there? He was not a latch-key for nothing, and it is just possible that he was a triple thief, and his latch-key fitting the door, he went up-stairs and slept, only discovering his mistake in the morning.

BUSINESS ITEMS.

"The Great Nor-West" is the name of what the promoters intend shall ultimately become one of the largest loan and savings companies in Canada.

The long existing difficulties of Messrs. J. Neil & Son, founders in this city, have reached a crisis. The firm has assigned, liabilities about $10,000, assets $8000.

E. H. Hargrave, a lumber dealer in London, gets rid of about $12,000 liabilities by making a cash payment of one-fifth of this amount, and a promise of ten per cent. additional.

John Mott, a hatter in Scotland, Ont., who failed in April last, has recently been fined for an infraction of the liquor law. The constable is now in search of him, but thus far his search is vain.

A. M. Orsen, a liquor jobber and saloon keeper on Church street, has met his creditors. He claims to have lost heavily by the failure of Gladwell and Mager & Co., who absconded. The creditors need not expect large dividends.

Following the example of Messrs. Thibaudan Bros. & Co., several other Quebec houses are opening branches in Winnipeg, Durand, London, Wm. H. Boufford, Stratford wholesale dry goods, Fyfe, Wright & Leitch, dry goods, and C. Bergvin & Co., clothing.

Among business changes that have taken place in the assignment of John Landon, a general dealer in Drayton, who was sold by the sheriff in March last, Mr. Joe Storey of Meaford has compromised with his creditors. His present liabilities, which are mostly in Montreal, are to be settled in quarterly payments amounting to 60 per cent., extending over one year.

ASSIZE COURT SATURDAY.

Union insurance company v. Fitzgerald was an action for calls upon the stock of the company. On behalf of the defendant it was argued that the action should have been brought in the division court, and that only such costs as were taxable in that court should go to the plaintiffs. His lordship allowed county court costs, together with a verdict for the plaintiff for $150.

In Exchange bank v. Stinson the facts were as follows: Between the 10th of September, 1870, and the 16th of June, 1881, one A. A. Macdonald of Parkhill, had sold to the defendant, McLean Stinson of Toronto quantities of timber, staves, &c. A balance of $205.40 remained due on the account, and Macdonald assigned his claim for this balance to the Exchange bank, the present plaintiffs. The defendants claim that they had a set off against Macdonald for damages, and that they are entitled to the same defence as against the bank. The case was not finished when the court adjourned.

THE NEW DIAMOND HALL.

Mr. J. Venn, who has been in business in this city for fifteen years, is now located in his new stand, 148 Yonge street—Diamond Hall. The building is new and built especially for Mr. Venn, and is filled up in a handsome manner. The counter is new and consists of jewelry, clocks, watches, electro-plate, fancy goods, &c. The public are invited to step in and see the stock.

—The Toronto Turkish Baths, 233 Queen street west, are open every day from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m.

OUR BOV.

During the academic year it is the intention of its conductors to devote a portion of this journal every Monday to the Student World of Canada and other countries. The contents will be an entertaining one, and will contain a great deal of valuable information. It will be so arranged and numbered that it may form a useful reference. Contributions and communications are invited.

STUDENT LIFE IN TORONTO.

Those who watch the progress of college development must have been struck by the marked tendency exhibited all over the world for special schools, colleges and universities to centre in large cities. It is not a fair-ground stream that learning now delights to make her abode; she seeks the crowded centre of business and establishments herself in more profuse if not more harmonious and poetical surroundings.

Germany has been caused in England by the failure of Mr. Charles Foster, the well-known Oxford wine merchant, whose long suffering in the matter of payment was phenomenal. His trade, of course, was almost entirely with Oxford students.

He has gone under for $500,000.

President Gilman, of Johns Hopkins, defines a university as a society of masters and scholars—"an association, by authority, of masters who are conspicuous in ability and learning and devotion to study, for the intellectual guidance of many subjects of youthful scholars, who have been prepared for the more advanced investigation by prolonged discipline in literature and science."

CANADIAN NOTES.

The army term at McGill opened on September 21st.

Divine service is held in convocation hall, Queen's, every Sunday.

University college lost the Gilchrist scholarship this year by "a fluke."

Professors Pike, Wright, Ellis and the dean were in England this summer.

The fees at University college are much below those of any other college in Canada.

Many colleges are suffering from the reduced rate of interest on their endowment funds.

D. A. O'Sullivan, a graduate in law and arts of Toronto, is getting out a book on conveyancing.

Lectures began last week at University college, Victoria, and the Protestant Episcopal divinity.

Over 750 volumes have been added to the library of the university of Toronto this year at a cost of $2500.

At the last law examinations of Ospeode 24 graduates were admitted, 15 of them being from the university of Toronto.

The freshman class at the university of New Brunswick, Fredericton, numbered 22. Mr. Bridges succeeds Mr. Fletcher who goes to Queen's.

A graduate of the Royal military college, Kingston, has entered the Protestant Episcopal divinity school in this city. He ought to make a fighting champion.

The Munro exhibition and bazaar in Dalhousie (Halifax) stand over anything in the line of scholarships that we have in the west. They are $200 and $150 each, tenable for two years. Eighteen are now being competed for.

An academic outfit, cap and gown costs ten dollars, a sum sufficient to buy large sized Greek and Latin dictionaries. And yet there are lots of students who are flying round in the habiliments of learning, instruction and up their woads out of dollars.

Lexicans they got when they first studied Horace and Homer.

AMERICAN AND EUROPEAN NOTES.

Dartmouth's freshman's class numbers 75.

The freshman class of the University of Pennsylvania has 101 members—it had about 85 last year.

Williams college is prosperous. It has now the largest number of students that ever entered in the history of the college.

Miss Harris, daughter of the late secretary of Harvard college, is to have charge of the secretary's office during the coming year.

Several young women were candidates for the diploma of Bachelor of Science at the recent examinations at the Sorbonne; one of them passed. In the faculty of letters two girls were examined and both passed.

Professor A. Cayley, Sadlerian professor of pure mathematics at Cambridge university, will soon visit Baltimore, and will take a regular part in the mathematical instruction of Johns Hopkins university until the close of the next year.

Considerable excitement of no very pleasant nature, has been caused in England by the failure of Mr. Charles Foster, the well-known Oxford wine merchant, whose long suffering in the matter of payment was phenomenal. His trade, of course, was almost entirely with Oxford students.

He has gone under for $500,000.
