

IMAGE EVALUATION TEST TARGET (MT-3)

Photographic Sciences
Corporation

CIHM/ICMH Microfiche Series.

CIHM/ICMH Collection de microfiches.

Canadian Institute for Historical Microreproductions / Institut canadien de microreproductions historiques

The Institute has attempted to obtain the best original copy available for filming. Features of this copy which may be bibliographically unique, which may alter any of the images in the reproduction, or which may significantly change the usual method of filming, are checked below.

Coloured covers/
Couverture de couieur

Covers damaged/
Couverture endommagée

Covers restored and/or laminated/
Couverture restaurée ot/ou pelicule

Covar title missing/
Le titre de couvarture manque

Coloured maps/
Cartes géographiques en couleur
Coloured ink (i.e. other than blue or black)/
Encre de couleur (i.e. autre que bleue ou noire)Coloured plates and/or illustrations/
Planches et/ou illustrations en couleur
Bound with other material/
Relié avec d'autres documents

Tight binding may cause shadows or distortion along interior margin/
La re liure serrée peut causer de l'ombre ou de la distortion le long de la marge intérieure

Blank leaves added during restoration may appear within the text. Whenever possible, these have been omitted from filming/
II se peut que certaines pages blanches ajoutbea lors d'une restauration apparaissent dans le texte, mais, lorsque cela était possible, ces pages n'ont pas été filmées.

Additional comments:/
Commentaires supplémentaires:

L'Institut a microfilmé ie meilieur exemplaire qu'il lui a été possibie de se procurer. Les détaiis de cet exemplaire qui sont peut-etre uniques du point de vue bibliographique, qui peuvent modifier une image reproduite, ou qui peuvent exiger une modification dans ia méthode normale de filmage sont indiqués ci-dessous.

Coloured pages/
Pages de couleurPages damaged/
Pages endommages

Pages restored and/or laminated/
Pages restaurées et/ou pelliculées
Pages discoloured, stained or foxed/
Pages décolorées, tachetées ou plquées
Pages detached/
Pages détachées
Showthrough/
TransparenceQuality of print varies/
Qualité inégale de l'impressionIncludes supplementary materia!/
Comprend du matériel supplémentaire
Only edition available/
Seule édition disponible
Pages wholly or partially obscured by errata slips, tiasues, etc., have been refilmed to ensure the best possible image/ Les pages totalement ou partiallement obscurcies par un feullet d'errata, une pelure, otc., ont óté filmes à nouveau de façon à obtenir ia meilleure image possibie.

This item is filmed at the reduction ratio checked below/

 Ce document est filmé au taux de réduction indiqué ci-dessous.

The copy filmed here hes been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

National Library of Ljanada

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche shall contain the symbol $\rightarrow$ (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol $\boldsymbol{\nabla}$ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Bibliothéque nationale du Canada

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par ia dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernidre page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivents apparaitre sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole $\rightarrow$ signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole $\boldsymbol{\nabla}$ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lersque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

A N RATION Ln MEMORYor:

 General MONTGOMERY; ANDOFTHE OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS,- Who FELL with Him, Digengeit $31,1725{ }^{\circ}$

Q, U E B E C B DRAWN UP' (aND JELIVERED FBbkvARY gith, 1776) ATTHEDESIREOTAE
Honorable CONTINENTAL CONGRESS!

©BY WILLIAM TMITH, D, D.

 OF PHILADELPAIA

O thon, who bad't them fall with hanor cro thid
Soon muke the bloody pride of war to ceffe!
Moy there the only focificice be found
To fublic freedom, and theít councry's puce.
(PHILADELPHIA, PACHE

In CONGRESS,

c January 25, $\mathbf{1 7 7 6}$.

RESOLVED, Tbat Dr. Smith be defired to prepare and deliver a Funeral Oration " in Honor of General Montgomery, and of thofe "Officers and Soldiers who magnanimoufly fought and "fell with bim in maintaining tbe Principles of Ame". rican Liberty.

Extract from the Minutes,  CHARLES THOMSON, Sec.".

IN purfuance of this appointment the following Oration was drawn up; and as the Autbor knew that be was to addrefs as great and refpectable an audience, perbaps, as was ever convened in America, be neither wifh'd to trifle with their cbaralter or bis own, but ufed évery effort in bis power to revider the compofition wortlby of the occafion, and now cbeerfully fubmits it to the public judgment. He forefaw the diffculties incident to the undertaking; and (upon the principles mentioned p. 12, 13,) was prepared to encounter them.

Two or three Quotations bave been transferred from the text to the margin; a few fmall alterations, cbiefly verbal, bave been made, upon the recommendation of fome friends, and a paragraph, (p.42) which was forgot, in the delivery; is printed in its place. Upon the wbole, the Auibor bopes be bas done juftice to the memory of thofe brave men whe are the fubjects of the Oration; and with respect to tbofs reflections upon public affairs wbich muft rife out of public characters, and are intimately conneEted with them, be is fo far from wi/bing them retrencb'd, that (on a careful review) be is willing to reft, upon them, whatever claim be may bave to the appellation of good Citizen, or Friend to Liberty, fo long as it may be remembered tbat be citbet ilvod or wrote in ammerica!

A $\mathbf{N}$

ORATION, &c.

Fatbers, Bretbren and Countrymes!

AN occafion truly folemn has affembled us this day; and, that your attention may be alike folemn and ferious, hear, in the firft place, the voice of eternal Truth-" It is better to go to the Houfe of " Mourning than to the Houfe of Featting;" for" None of us liveth to himfelf, and no man dieth to "himfelf."-

But there are fome men, illuminated with a purer ray of divinity-Patriots of the firft magnitude-who, in a peculiar fenfe, may be faid to live and die, not to themfelves, but to others; and confequently to him who is the author of all goodnefs. Endow'd with that fuperior excellence which does honor to our whole fpecies, the virtuous of every nation claim kindred with them; and the general interefts of humanity are concern'd in their character.

In veneration of fuch men, to exchange the accuftomed walks of pleafure for the Houfe of Mourning; to bedew its facred receffes with tears of gratitude to their memory ; to Arive, if poffible, to catch fome portion of their etbereal Spirit, as it mounts from this earthly fphere, into perfect union with congenial Spirits above -is a laudable cuftom, coeval with fociety, and fanctiGed to us by the example of the wifeft nations.

It was the manner of the Egyptions, the fathers of arts and fcience, not only to celebrate the mames, but to embalm the bodies, of their deceafed heroes, that they might be long preferv'd in public view, as examples of virtue ; and although " dead, yet fpeaking."

Bur this honor was not eafily to be obtain'd; nor was it beftow'd indifcriminately upon the Vulgar Great. It was decreed only by the public voice-a venerable alfembly of Judges, before whom the bodv of the deceafed was brought for trial, and folemnly acquitted or condemned upon the evidence of the people.

Even Kings themfelves, however much fpared when alive. for the fake of public trariquility, had ftill this more than fiery Ordeal beiore their eyes ; and, by the example of fome of their number, who had been refufed fepulchre in thi,fe very tombs which their pride had prepared to their own memory, were taught both to venerate and to dread a law, which extended its punifhments beyond the ulual times of oblivion.

The Miral of this intitution was truly fublimeconitantly inculcating a moft important leffon-" That whatever diftinctions our wants and vices may render neceffary, in this 乃ort and imperfect period of our being. they are all cancelled by the hand of Death; and, through the endlefs untried periods which fucceed, virtue and beneficence will make the true diftinctions, and be the only foundations of happinefs and re oown!

If from the Egyptians, we pals to the Grefks, particularly the enlighten'd Athenians, we fiall find that they had an exprels law, appointung Orations and public Funerals, in honor of thofe who glorinully lacrificed their lives to their country. And this folemn office was performed befure the great affmolies of the people; 1ometimes for one, and tometiones for bands of heroes together.

Thucydides has recorded a celebrated Oration of this lait kind, delivered by Pericles. The illultrious fpeaker, after a molt animating defcription of the Amor Patria - ihe love ot our country - which he exalts above all human viriues, turns to the decealed-
"Having bettowed their lives to the public, every "' one of them, fays he, hath rectived a praife that will "never decaj-a fepulchre that will always be moft il"luffrious « luftrious-not that in which their bones lie moulders. " ing, but that in which their fame is preferved. This " whole earth is the fepulchre of illuftrious citizens"and their infcription is written upon the hearts of all good men.

[ 3 ]

"As for you the furvivors-from this very mo" ment, emulating their virtues, place your fole hap" pinefs in liberty-and be prepared to follow its call " through every danger." Then, addreffing himfelf, with exquifite tendernefs, to the relicts and children of the deceared, he fuggefts to them that the common wealth was their turband, their father and brother.-
"From this day forward to the age of maturity, " fhall the orphans be educated at the public expence " of the ftate. For this benevolent mied have the " laws appointed to all tuture relicts of thofe who may "f fall in the public contelts.-"

Nor were the Romans lefs careful in this matter. Confidering men in general as brave, more by art than nature; and that bonor is a more powe:ful incentive thian fear ; they made frugality, temperance, patience of labor, manly exercife, and love of their councry, the main principles of education Cowardice and neglect of duty in the field, were feldom punifhed with death or corporal inflictions; but by what was accounted worfe, a life decreed to ignominious expution and degradation from Roman privileges.

On the contrary, deeds of public virtue were rewarded, aceording to their magnitude, with ftatues, triumphs of various kinds, peculiar badges of drefs at public folemnities, and ${ }^{-}$fongs of praife to the living as well as the dead.
Next to the hymas compofed in honor of the Gods, Puetry derived its origin from the fongs of triumph to herces, heroes, ${ }^{\text {© }}$ who tamed the rude manners of mankind, + founded cities, repelled the incurfions of enemies, and gave peace to their country. And this cuftom began when Rome contained only a few fhepherde, gathering. frength by an alluvies of the outcalts of neighbouring nations.

[^0]
[4]

Those firf efforts of poetic eulogy, whether in profe: or verfe (like thofe of a fimilar erigin, which Nature, always the fame, teaches our favage neighbours) although often fublime in fubflance, were yet fo rude in: firucture, that $\ddagger$ Livy forbears quoting them, as having become intolerable to the more refined tafte of their pofterity; however fuitable they might have been to the æra of their production.

What a multitude of compofitions of this kind muft: have exifted between the barbarous fongs of the military upon the triumph of §Coffius, and the selebrated panegyric of Pliny upon Trajan! They are faid to have been fwelled into two thoufand volumes, even in the time of Auguftus. In fhort, the praife of public virtue. was wrought in the whole texture of Roman polity 3 and Virgil, calling Religion to his aid, gave it the higheft finifh.

He divides his Hades, or place of Ghosts, into different regions; and to the gulph of deepeft perdition, configns thofe monfters of iniquity who delighted in the deftruction

- Soliti funt, in epulis; canere convivas ad tibicinem, de clarorum hominum virtute.
$\dagger$ Qui terras hominumque colunt genas, aspera bella Componunt, agros affignant, oppida condunt.

Hor.
$\ddagger$ Carmen canentes ibant, illa tempeflate forfitan laudabile rudibus, ingenniis, nunc abhorrens \& inconditum, fi referatur.
§ Longe maximum triamphi fectaculum fuit Coffins-in eum suilites carmina incondita, xquantes eum Romulo canere.
|| "Full twice as deep the dingeon of the Fiends,
" The huge Tartarean gloomy gilph defcends

* Below thefe regions, as thefe regions lie
". From the bright realms of yon athereal Ayy."

[ 5 ]

deftruction of mankind, betrayed * their country; or violated its religion and laws. There he excruciates them, in company with $\dagger$ " Gorgons and Hydras and Chimeras dire-" Vultures prey upon their vitals, or they are whirled eter-' nally round with Ixion upon his wheel, or bound down with Tantalus, $\ddagger$ whoie burning lip hangs quivering over the elufive waters it cannot touch; or the fury $\tau_{i}$ fypbone, her halr entwin'd with ferpents, her garments red with human gore, urges on their tortures with unrelenting hand!

The Poet having thus exhaufted imagination as well as mythology, in the defeription of punifhments for the difturbers of mankind and foes to their country, raifes his conclufion to 2 height of horror beyond the reach of expreffion-
" Had I a hundred mouths, a hundred tongues, " A voice of brafs, and adamantine lungs ;
" Not half the mighty fcene could I difclofe;
" Repeat their crimes or count their dreadful woes." $$$
Nor has Virgil Atrayed any further through the fields of fancy or fable in this place, than to borrow ftrength of colouring for the garb of truth ; and, I furpect, that he drank from a purer fountain than that of Helicox. when

> - "This wretch his country to a tyrant fold,
> "A And barter'd glorious Liberty for gold:
> " Laws for a bribe he pals'd-but pafs'd in vain:
> "For thefe fame laws a bribe repeai'd again."
> $t$ Milton here borrows his monfters from Virgil
> "- " fammifque armata Cbimara;
> "Gorgones, Harpiaque."-E8'.

See Virgil, B. VI. from line 288, to line 6a7; or Pitt's excellent Tranlation.
$t$ Tantalus a labris, fitiens, fugientia captat Flumina. Hor.
S Milton has taken the fame method of raifing his defeription. by leaving fomething to be conceived beyond the power of worde to exprefs
"Abominable, unutterable, and worfe
!: Than fables yet have feigng'd, or fear coaceiv'd...

[ 6 ]

when he peopled his Tartarus with the ancient Pcourgea of the human race. An authority facred among chriftians has indeed given us a moft awful confimation of his doctrine.

A Prophet and Poet indeed, whofe infpiration was truly from Heaven, the incomparably fublime Isaiah, foretelling the fall of Babylon, has an Ode of triumph, wherein he exults over its haughty Monarch in ftrains of wonderful ircoy and reproach. He reprobates him as a deftroyer of mankind; who had " made the world a wildernefs." He reprefents the whole earth as delivered from a curfe by his fall! The trees of the foreft rejoice, becaufe he is laid low! The very grave refufes a covering to his execrable corfel he is confign'd to the depths of mifery; while the infernal manfions themfelves are moved at his approach, and the ghofts of departed tyrants. rife up, in horrid array and mockery of triumph, to bid hinn welcome to his final abode!

The aftonihhing grandeur and fpirit of this paffage, and indeed of the whole Ode, are unrivalled by any - Puet of Greek or Roman name.
"How hath the oppreffor ceafed! The Lord hath " brok $n$ the ftaff of the wicked! He that fmote the -c prople in wrath-that ruled the nations in anger"c is perfecuted and none hindereth! The whole earth " is at reft-they break forth into finging; yea the " Fir-trees rejoice at thee, and the Cedars of Lebanon, " layıng. fince thou art laid down no feller is come " up agalnft us.
"Hell from beneath is moved for thee, to mees " thee at thy coming. It ftirreth up the dead for thee" even the chiefs of the nations! They fay unto thee, " art thou alfo become weak as we? Thy pomp is e: brcught down to the grave-How art thou fallen, "O Lucifer.

[^1]
[ \% ]

"O Lucifer, that didat weaken the nations? All kings,' " [meaning juft and merciful kings] even all of them " lie in glory, every one in his own houfe (or repul"chre); but thou art calt out of thy grave like an " abominable branch," Efc."

Bur although the reward of beroes, in the cbriftian's beaven, be our proper theme on this folemn day; yet the paffing view which we have taken of the perdition decreed to the traitors of their country, in the poet's hell, confirmed allo by the voice of fcripture, is not foy reign to our main purpole.

I know your bofoms glow with foftrong an averfion' to all the foes of liberty in this life, that you will furely avoid every thought and action, which might doom you to their company in the life to come; and therefore, bid-: ding adieu-and may it be an eternal adieu-to thofe dreary regions and their miferable inhabitants, let us now exalt our joyous view to thofe celeftial manfions, where the benefactors of mankind reap immortal triumphs !
"Lo ! the bleft train advance along the meads,
" And fnowy wreaths adorn their glorious heads-
" Patriots who perifh'd for their country's right,
"Or nobly triumph'd in the field of fight-
"Worthies, who live by ufeful arts refin'd,
"With thofe who leave a deathlefs name behind,
"Friends of the world, and patrons of mankind.
"Some on the verdant piains are ftretch'd along,

© Swect to the car, their tuneful Pxans rung-
But here, ye Pagan poets, and thou prince of their quire, we leave you far behind; for your fublimeft B

The excellent Prelate above quoted, hath a further remark on this paffage, which it would be unpardonable to omit.
"What a pleafure mult it afford all readers of an exalsed tafto "t and pencrous fentiments, all erue lovers of liberty, to hear the " prophets thas exulting over iyrants and oppreffors? The fcrip" tures, altho' often perverted to the purpofes of tyranny, are yet " in their own nature, calculated to promote the civil and religious " liberties of mankind. True religion, virtue and liberty, aro "more iatimately conaceted than men cummonly confider,".

[^2]
[ 8 ]

fights are now infinitely fhort of the theme! Your ghomy The ligey gave you tolerable aid in forming a bell, but the utmoft efforts of natural genius could not make a beaven worthy of a sational and immortal foul! The glory of giving fome animating defcription of that blifs "which eve hath not feen nor eat before heard, " nor could the unenlightened heart of man otherwife "s cenceive," was left for a more divine teacher. Fiom mim we learn, that a heart pure and detached from fordid plealures, a foul panting after perfection, ftriving to imitate the goodnefs of heaven, anticipating its approving fentence, and devoted to the fervice of mankind, fhill at laft rife and mix in eternal fellowhip with the beatified family of * God!

Having now, my refpected countrymen-and I hope I do not weary you-laid a wide foundation upon the practice of the wifeft nations-in fupport of the prefent fulemnity; I hall add but little more concerning the public utility of the thing itfelf.

Circumstanced as we now are, and perhaps thall long he, in buiding up a fabric for furure ages, it would be a wife influtution, if in imitation of the Genoete feaft of union, we fould make at leaft an annual paufe, for a review of patt incidents, and of the characters of thofe who nave borne an illuftrious thare in them; thereby anmating our virtue and unitme ourfelve more clofely in the bonds of mulual friendfh.p.

[^3]
[ 9 ]

The world, in general, is mote willing to imitate; than to be taught; and examples of eminent characters have a ftronger miluence than wititen precepts. Men's actions are a more faithful mirror of their lives than their words. The former feldom deceive; but the latter often. The deeds of old coneraft a venerable authority over us, when fanctified by the voice at applauding ages; and, even in our own day, our hearts take an immediate part with thofe who have nobly criumphed, or greatly fuffered in our behalf.

But the more ufeful the difplay of fuch charaeters may be to the world, the more dificult is the work. And I am not to learn, that of all kinds of writing, panegyrick requres the moft delicate hand. Men ieldom endure the praife of any actions, but chofe which their felr love reprefents as pofithle to themlelves. Whatever is held up as an exanifle, if placed beyond the reach of humaniry duly exalced by public fipite, w.ll excite no emulation; and winatever s placed witan the vulgar walks of life, will attrat no attention.

There is a furcher difi uliy, pecular to ceriain times; particalarly thole of cind difflian, when the tempers of men are worked into fement. Whence it happens, that they who have been the fu jects of obloquy in one age, have becone the theme of prate in another. Such was Hanpden-in the days of paffive obedience, branded as a felitious diftuber of his cwin country's peace; ant, at the bleffed ara of the revolution, exalted mino the filt rank of patriots. Such was Sidney-condemned to a ic: iffid in the former period; and, in the latter, immortaized by the del e gated voice of the nation!

What juiggent pofterity will form of the prefent mighty.

110 J

mighty conteft, in which thefe United Colonies are en gaged, I am at no lofs to determine in my own heart. But, while the fame actions are, by one part of a great empire, pronounced the moft criminal refiftance, and by another, the moft laudable effurts of felf. prefervation; no public character can be drawn alike acceptable to all. Neverthelefs, as the faithful biforian is the beft panegyrift of true merit, he will not fafhion himfelf to times and feafons, but exalt himfelf above them; and, confcious of his dignity, as refponfible to fucceeding ages, will take eternal truth as his fupport, which can alone bear the impartial teft of future examination. He knows that the divine colours of virtue, although they, may give a temporary glare, will not blend or mellow into a ground work of vice.

Whatever events, difaftrous or happy, may lie before us; yet fome degree of applaufe even from an eneny, is certainly due to thole illuftrious anen, who, led by conifience and a clear perfonal perfuafion of duty, facrifice their eafe, their lives and fortunes to the public; and from their friends and country they are entitled to a deathlefs renown.
Perish that narrow pride, which will fuffer men to acknowledye no virtue, but among their own party. In this direful conteft, the chief concern of a liberal mind, will be, that fo much perfonal virtue as may be found on both fides, inftead of being united in fome great national point for the common good, fhould be "readfully employed to the purpofe of murual deftruction. And a minan can as foon diveft himielf of his humanity, as refufe the tribute of veneration due to actions truly magnanimous.
When once it becomes criminal to plead the cauie of a fuffering people; when their virtues can no longer be fately recorded-chen tyranny has put the laft hand to her barbarous work. All the valuable purpofes of fociety are frultrated; and whatever other human fate remains will be wholly indifferent to the wife and goed.

There

There are alfo many whofe minds are fo little, that they can conceive nothing great, which does not court the eye in all the trappings of drefs, titles, and external fplendor. An American-Patriot! a Blanket-Hero! a General from the plough! all there are terms of ridicule and reproach among many. Yet fuch was Cincinnatus in the beft days of Roman virtue ; and a Britifh poet, already quoted, hath boldly taught his countrymen this noble leffon
> "Some, with whom compar'd, your infect-tribes :" Are but the beings of a fummer's day,
> ". Have held the fcale of empire, :ul'd the ftorm
> "Of mighty war; then, with unweary'd band,
> " Difdaining little delicacies, feiz'd
> "The plough, and greatly independant liv'd." Thomson.

The fame noble leffon is alfo taught, by the well known Atory of the two Spanifh grandeer, who were fent ambaffadors to the Hague. Notwithftanding all the pride of their nation, they did not defpife the Dutch deputies when they met them in a plain habit, and faw them on a journey fit down upon the grafs, to 2 frugal repalt of bread and cheefe, out of their knapfacks. On the contrary, they cried out, "We fhall never be able "to conquer thefe people; we muft even make peace ": with them."

Should ambaffadors honor us with a vilit, upon a like occalion; let us be prepared to meet them in the fame majeftic fimplicity of drefs and manners. I.et us convince them that public virtue is confin'd to no clafs of men; that although it fometimes bafks in the funThine of courts, it frequently lies hid in the fhades of obfcurity, like the latent fire in flint, till called forth by the collifive hand of oppreffion.

Adversity is the lealon which fhews the fpirit of a man in its full vigor; and times of civil calamity never fail to ftrike forth lights, fumetimes fingle, and fumetimes whole conftellations, mingling their kindred rays to warm and to illuminate the genius of their cöuntry.

The

[ 12 ]

The facred fame thus enkindled, is not fed by thefuel of faction or party; but by pure benevolence and Inve of the public. Ie therefore, foon rifes above the felfih principles, refines and brightens as it rifes, and expands itfelf into heavenly dimenfins. Being inextingu:fhabie in :ts ow a natue, the blood of thoufands on the feaffold or in the field, is but as oil poured into a coiflayration, increafing its vehemence, till it confumes all before it; burning fill clearer and ftronger, unto sbe full day of pance and civil bappine/s.

Thase who enjoy a tiue portion of this divine flame, duly called forth into exercie, Atand in no need of further titles or diftinctions, either by birth or gratt. For what can the world prelent greater to the fight of mortals, or even immortals, than a man who knows and courts the bleffings of peace, w'io withes to bieathe out his laft in its arms; and, keeping it ftill as his object, is neverthelefs roufed by the firft pang of his fuffering. comatry; gives his whole illutmous fipit to her relief; rifes above all hu van allurements; never remits his z-al ; fears nothing; *egards nothing-but the fenciments which virtue and mignanimity infpire? What bigher qualities can be required to entite a man to the - metation and eulogies of his country: And thefe too will be his mott durable monument.
The macnfient itruitures raifed by the gratitude. of mankind to their benefactors of old, hail but a local and temporary ule. They were beheld only by one reople, and for a few ages-
*. The Heav'n afpitin' pyramid, the proud as Triumphal arch, and all that e'er upheld

* Tixe wo fhipped name of hoar anciquity
© Are mouldering into dutt-
In vain does the way fariag mas inveftigate the tottering ruins for the d.vinity once enihrined there !

A fcanty:

[^4]A fcanty refceptacle, about fix feet in length and half the breadth, informs him that it once contained fome human duft, long fiace ming'ed with the common mifs. In vain does the prying antiquary dwell upon the fulpcure, or ftrive to collcet and ipill the fcatered fragments of letters. The infcription is gone-long fince gone, effaced, obliterated! And fruitlefs were the fearch, through the whole world, for the Hero's name, if is were not recorded in the Orator's paye, and proclaimed by the taithful voice of biftory

There it fhall live, while the fimalleft veftiges of literature remain upon earth-e ea, till the final diflution of things human; nor fhall it perifh then; but, being the immediate care of Heaven, the great Archangel, when he fweeps funs and fyitems from their place, and kindles up ther laft fres, ftretching forth his mighty arm, fhall pluck the deathlefs froll from the devouring conflagration, and give it a place among the archieves of eternity !

But whether am I borne? to what height have I afcended? I look down with aftonifinment and trembls at my fituation! Oh! Let your friendly arms be extended to fave me as I tall. For in the idea I have of my fubject, I have undertaken to guide the chariot of the fun; and how fhall I fteer through the exalted tract that lies betore me? Confidering myfelf as honored with this day's office by the delegated voice of fome millinns of people through a vaft continent, upon an occafion, wherein their gratitude, their dignity, their love of liberty, nay even their reputation in literature are all in fome degree concerned; what language fhall I ufe, or how hall I accommodate myfulf to every circumftance, in the arduous work?

Truth alone muit guide the hand that delineates a charatter. Should I affet to foar aloft and dip my pencil in the collours of the ik ; I it a uld but endanger my own wings, melt their wax, and be precipitated headlong. Nor is the danger leifs in the other extreme.

[ 14 j

$\mathrm{O}_{\mathrm{H}}$ ! then, for fome better Phoebus, fome prefiding Genius, to guide me through my remaining way; to point out the middle patb, and teach me to unite dignity with eafe, ftrength with perfpecuity; and truth with the unaffected graces of elocution. Or rather, you hall be my Pbabus, my infpiring as well as prefiding Genius; ye delegated fathers of your country! So far will I ftrive to imitate *him, who always animated himfelf with his fubject, by thus accorting himifelf before he went forth to feak-
" Remember, thou art this day going to addrels men born in the arms of liberty, Grectans, AtheniAns !"-Let no thought enter thy heart-let no word fall from thy tongue-unworthy of fuch an audience!

As to that hero, whofe memory you celebrate as a Proto-Martyr + to your rights-for through whatever fields I have ftrayed, he has never efcaped my view-as to him I fay, if any thing human could now reach his ear, nothing but the great concerns of virtue, liberty; truth and juftice would be tolerable to him; for to there was his life devoted from his early years.

Hz had received a liberal education in Ireland his native country, before he went into the army; and was indeed endued with talents which would have led him to eminence in any profeffion. His own he ftudied with a felicity which foon diftinguifhed his military abilities; but war and conqueft having no other charms to him than as the neceffary means of peace and happineis to mankınd; he fill found leifure, in the midft of camps, to cultivate an excellent tafte for philorophy and polite literature. To thefe he added a careful fudy of the arts of goverument, and the rights of mankind; looking forward to that time, when he might defcend into the fill foeres of private life; and give a full flow to the native and acquired virtues of a heart rich in moral excellence.

[^5]
[ 15 ]

Asove eighteen years ago he had attained the rank of Captain in the 17 th regiment, under General Monckton, and flood full in the way of higher preferment; having borne a fhare in all the labors of our American wars, and the reduction of Canada. Ill-fated region! fhort-fighted mortals! Little did he forefee the fcenes which that land had ftill in referve for him ! Little did thofe generous Americans, who then ftood by his fide, think that they were affifting to fubdue a country, which would one day be held up over us, as a greater fcourge in the hands of friends, than ever it was in the bands of enemies !

Had fuch a thought then entered our hearts, we Ihould have ftarted with indignation from the deed of horror. Our heroifm would have appeared madnefs and parracide I The lifted fteel would have dropped from the warrior's arm! The ax and the hoe from the laborer's grafp! America would have weeped through all her forefts; and her well cultivated fields retuled to yield farther fuftenance to her infatuated fons !

But far different were our thoughts at that time.' We confidered ourielves as co-operating with our brethren for the glory of the empire; to enable them to fecure our common peace and liberty; to humanize, adorn, and dignify, with Britifh privileges, a vait Contuent; to become ftrong in our ftrength, happy in our happinefs; and to derive tbat from our affection, which no force can extort from a free people; and which the miferable and oppreffed cannot give!

And thefe, too, were the fentiments of our lamented Hero; for he had formed an early attachment, aniounting even to an enthufiaftic love, for this couniry! The woodland and the plain; the face of Nature, grand, venerable, and yet rejoicing in her prime; our mighty rivers, defcending in vaft cataracts through wild and higggy mountans, or gliding in filent majefty through ferculs

[ 16 ]

fertile vales; their numerous bianches and tributary fprings; our romantic fcenes of rural quiet; our fimplicity of manners, yet uncorrupted by luxury or flagrant vice; our love of knowledge and ardor for liber-ty-all thefe ferv'd to convey the idea of primæval felicity to a heart which he had taught to beat unifon with the harmony of heaven!

He therefore chole America, as the field of his future ufefulneis; and as foon as the bleffings of peace were reftored to his country, and duty to his Sovereign would permit, he took his leave of the army, and having foon connected himfelf, by marriage, with an ancient and honorable family, in the province of New- York, he chofe a delightful retirement upon the banks of Hudfon's river, at a diftance from the noife of the bufy world! Having a heart diftended with benevolence, and panting to do good, he foon acquired, without courting it from his neighbours, that authority, which an opinion of luperior talents and inflexible integrity, never fail to create.

In this moft eligible of all fituations, the life of a country gentleman, deriving its moft exquifite relifh from reflection upon paft dangers and paft fervices, he gave full fcope to his philofophic fpirit, and tafte for rural elegance. Self-fatisfied and raifed above vulgar ambition, he devoted his time to fweet domeltic intercourfe with the amiable partner of his heart, friendly converfe with men of worth, the ftudy of uleful books, and the improvement of his favor'd villa. Nor from that happy fpot did he wifh to ftray, until he fhould receive his laft fummons to happinefs more than terreftial.

But when the hand of power was ftretch'd forth againit the land of his refidence, he had a heart too noble not to fympathize in its diftrefs. From that fatal day-and Oh ! that it had never found a place in the volumes of Times-from that fatal day, in which the firft American blood was fpilt by the hoftile hands of Britifh brethren, and the better Genius of the empire, veiling her face in anguifh, turn'd abhorrent from the itrife of Death among her Children-I fay, from tha: fatal day, he chofe his part.

Althougn his liberal spirit placed him above local prejudices, and he confidered himfelf as a member of the empire at large; yet America, ftuggling in the caufe of Libercy, henceforth became his peculiar country; —and that country took full poffeffion of his foul; lifting him above this earthly drols, and every private affection! Worth like his could be no longer hid in the fhades of oblcurity; nor permit him to be placed in that inferior ftation with which a mind, great in humility and felf-denial, would have been contented. It was wifely confidered that he who had fo well learned to obey, was fitteft to command; and therefore, being well affured of his own heart, he refigned himfelf to the public voice, nor hefitated a moment longer to accept the important commiffion freely offered to him, and, with the firmnefs of another Regulus, to bid farewell to his peaceful retirement, and domeftic endearments.

Here followed a fcene of undiffembled tendernefs and diftrefs, which all who hear me may, in fome degree, conceive; but all cannot truly feel. You only who are hufbands-whofe hearts have been intimately blended with the partners of your blifs, and have known the pangs of feparation, when launching into danger, uncertain of your fate-You only would I now more directly addrefs. Give a moment's paufe for reflection ! Recall your own former feelings, your inward ftruggles, your virtuous tears! Here bid them again freely flow, while you liften to our hero's parting words-

> Ye fcenes where home-felt pleafures dwell.
> And thou, my dearer felf, farewell!
> "Perhaps the Cyprefs, only tree
> "Of all thefe groves, fhall follow me-*
> But fill, to Triumph or a Tomb, Where Virtue calls, I come, I come!

" I COME,

[^6]ICOME, I come!" Nor were thefe the words of difappointed ambition; nor dictated by any quaden ftart of party zeal. He had weighed the conteft well, was intimately acquainted with the unalienable rights of freemen, and ready to fupport them at every peril ! He had long forefeen and lamented the fatal iffue to which things were haftening. He knew that the fword of civil deftuction, once drawn, is not eafily theathed; that men having their minds infamed and the weapons of defence in their hands, feldom know the jult point where to ftop, even when they have it in their power; and often proceed to actions, the bare contemplation of which would at firft have aftonifhed them.

It was therefore his defire ratier to foften than enflame violent humors, wifhing that America, in all her actions, might ftand juftified in the fight of God and the World. He forefaw the horrid train of evils which would be let loofe by the ftroke which fhould fever the ancient bond of union between Great- Britain and us. It was therefore his with that fuch a ftroke fhould never proceed firt from the hand of America. Nor did it fo proceed.

The refiftance made at Lexington was not the traiterous act of men confpiring agairft the fupreme powers ; nor directed by the councils of any public body in America; but rofe immediately out of the cafe, and was dictared by Self prefervation, the firft great law of Nature as well as Society. If there was any premeditated fchere here, it was premeditated by thofe who created the deadful nect fity, either of reffance or ruim, For could it be expected that any people, poffefling the leaft remains of virtue and liberty, would tamely fubmit to deftruction and ravag-io be difarmed as haves; firipped of their property and left a naked prey even to the iofults of furrounding favages ?

Was this an experiment worthy of Great-Britain? Where was the wifdon of her counfellors? Had their juftice, their moderation quite forfaken them? Cuuld they:

$\left[\begin{array}{ll}{[19]}\end{array}\right.$

[ 20 ]

blood which it may occafion can be chargeable only on thofe who attempe to enforce it; yet I am well affured that when competled at lait by hard neceffity, either to, avert the dagger pointed at our breatt or crouch to unconditional fervitude, our hero's heart bled for the dreadful alternative.
His principles of loyalty to his fovereign (whom hehad long ferved, and whofe true glory confifts in healing thole fteraning wounds) remained firm and unfhaken. Love to our brethren whom we muft oppofe ${ }_{s}$. the interchange of good offies, which had fo intimately knit the bonds of friendifhip between them and us; the memory of thofe better days in which we fought and triumphed together; the vaft fabric of murual happinefs raifed by our union, and ready to be diffolved by our diffenfions; the annihilation of thofe numerous. plans of improvement in which we were engaged for the glory of the empire-dll thefe confiderations confpired to render this conteft peculiarly abhorrent to him and every virtuous American, and could have been outweighed by nothing earthly, but the unquenchable love of liberty, and that facred duty which we owe to ourfelves and our posterity.

Hence, as appears from his papers, even in the full triumph of fuiceefs, he moft ardently joined his worthy friend * General Schuyler in praying that "Heaven " mily fpeedily re-unite us in every bond of affection c: and intereft; and that the Britih empire may again c: become the envy and admiration of the univerfe, and " A. arifh" till the confu nination of earthly things.

This pirt of his character, I dwell upon with particular faisfation; and indeed had he evidenced a contrary fentiment, or gone forth in the rage of conquef: intead of the fpirit of reconciliation; not all his other virtues, nor yec the refpect which I owe to the appointmat ivherewith I am now honored, could have induced me to appear in this place, on this occation.

[^7]
[ 21 ]

God forbid that any of the profeffion to which I be: long, fhould ever forget their peculiar charater, exercife a turhulent fpirit, or proftitute their voice to enflame men's minds to the purpofes of wild ambition, or mutual deftruction. I am happy in knowing that nothing of this kind is wihhed from me; nay that the delegated voice of the continent, as well as of this particular province, fupports me in praying for a reforation " of the former harmony between Great Britain "and thefe Colonies upon fo firm a bafis as to perpe"tuate its bleffings, uninterrupted by any future diffen" fions, to fucceeding generations in both countries." ${ }^{*}$

Indeed this matter refts in Safe bands, and is clear in ittelf. If redrefs of grievances, effential liberty, and fecurity againft future oppreffion can be obtained, agreeable to our own defires; then, neither confiftenct, dignity, nor a regard to our illuftrious Britih Friends, who have defended our caufe, pledged themfelves for our fincerity, and hope by our aid to reftore and perpetuate the glory of the wbole empire, can fuffer us to hefitate.

[^8]
[ 22 ]

fitate. To fay, let them look to their own fafety, and we will look to ours, would be unworthy of the liberal foul of any American, truly animated in our prefent caufe, and with the love of univerfal liberty.

But fuppofe thefe terms cannot be obtained? Why ther, there will be no need of further arguments, much lefs of aggravations. Timid as my heart perhaps is, and ill-tuned as my ear may be to the din of arms and the clangor of the trampet; yet, in thar cafe, founds which are a thoufand times more harfh-"even the "croaking of frogs in the uncultivated fen," or the howling of wild beafts on the mountain top, where Liberty dwells, would be "preferable to the nightingale's. " fong" in vales of flavery, or the melting notes of CoReller in cities clanking tbeir chains!

If this be a digreffion, pardon it as the laft, and due to my own principles and confiftency. I now haften to attend our hero through the remainder of his careerfhort indeed! but crouded with fcenes of virtuous activity, which would have dignified the longeft life.

The Canada expedition is one of thofe meafures, which the enemies of American peace having firlt rendered nect ffary, will now ftrive to mifconltrue into bofility and offence. But when authentic proofs were obtained that a people profefling a religion, and fubjected to laws, different from ours, together with numerous tribes of favages were inftigared and preparing to deluge our frontiers in blood, let God and the world judge whether it was an act of offence; or rather, whether it was not mercy to them, to curfelves, to the whole Biitifh empire, to wie the means in our power for fultrating the barbarous attempt.

Indeed there was benevolence in the whole plan of his texpedtion. It was to be executed not fo much by force as by perfucfion; and appearing in the country with fuch a relpectable itrengch, as might protect the inhabitants from the infults and vengeance of thofe; who were ftriving to make them lift up their reluctant arm to the fhedding fraternal blood. It was furthe wihed to kindle up the expiring lamp of liberty amon them; to open their eyes to its divine effulgence; an'u enable them to raife their drooping head, and claim its bleffings as their own.

This was a work, in all its parts, fuited to the genius of a Montgomery. He had a head and heart which equally pointed him out as a fit guide in fuch an undertaking. He underfood and could well explain the bleffings of a free government. Perfuafion dwelt upon his tongue. He had a foul, great, difinterefted, affectionate, delighting to alleviate diftref, and to diffure happinefs. He had an induitry not oo be wearied out; a vigilance not to be impoled upon; and a courage; when neceffary, equal to his other abilities.

Bur till, with a few-new raifed mein, of different colonies, and perhaps diferent tempers ; ill fupplied with arms and ammunition ; worfe difciplined; unaccuttomed to look cannon in the face ; to make or'to mount a breach-in fuch circumftances, I lay, and in the Thort \{pace of an autumnal and winter campaifge, in figorous northern climes, to atchieve a work which con GreatBritain and the colonies che labor of feveral campaigns, and what was a facrifice of infinitely more value--ine pife of the immortal Wolfe-this certainly required a degree of magnanimity beyond the ordinary reach, and the exertion of the highelt abilities of every kind.

The command and conduct of anarmy were but imall parts of this undertaking. The Indianswere to be treáted with, reftrained and keut in temper. The Canadians were likewife to be managed, procected and fupported : And even his own army, in fome degree, to be formed, difciplined, animated, accuitomed to marches, incampmert", danyers, fatigues, and the frequent wan of necelfaric:

Camps, of all worldy feenes, ofen exhibit the givatere pitures of diftrefs. The fick and the wounde- he dying and the deat-as well as the wants and fuffin: of the living-all thele call forth the molt tender techin.s, and require of a General that, to the courage of a fuldere, he fhould unite with the utmoft benevolence of a man!

$\left[\begin{array}{ll}{[24}\end{array}\right]$

Our General poffefid thefe united qualities in theis higheft luftre; of which there are numerous teltimonies not only from his own army, but from the prifoners, Englifh as well as Canadians, now amongft us.

When his men laboured under fatigue, wanted bread and other necefflaties, had their beds to make in fnow or deep moraftes, they were afhamed to complain, finding that he was willing to fhare in the execution of whatever he commanded. And the example which he thus fet to others, did more to infpire patience, obedience, love of order and difcipline, than the moft rigid exercife of power could have done. The influence of this example was ftill ftronger, as it did not appear to be the effect of conftraint or political neceflity ; but the amiable expreffion of a fympathizing foul; leading him to condefcend to all capacities; exact in his own duties, and great even in common things. His letters, confid. ntial as well as official, are a full proof of this.
"Our incampment is fo fwampy, $I$ feel, fays he, ex". ceedingly for the troops; and provifions fo fcarce, it "" will require not only defpatch, but good fortune, to " keep us from diftrefs-Should things not go well, I "" tremble for the fate of the poor Canadians, who have " ventured fo much. What flopuld 1 do with them, " hould I be obliged to evacuate this country? I h ve "" affured them that the United Colonies will as foon " give up Malfachufets to refentment as them."-

These fentiments were worthy of a heroic foul, and of the lainh he had pleceged to thofe people. Nor is he Jefis ar be ver erated for his tender egard towards his own arnv--Infleat ot making a merit of his difficultes (wheh were indeed more than ought to be mentioned in this place) he ofien feeks to conceal them; alcribing any hatle fauls or tardinef, in his young troops, to their want of expenence in forming ; to their hard duty, the constant fucceftion of bad weather and the like-ftill encouragirg them to nobler fforts in future. And if any impatience of dicipline ageaced, he nobly atributes it to $\therefore$ that fipirit of freedom, which men accuftomed to think " for themfelves, will even bring into camps with the m."

His own fuperior miltary knowledge he has been known to tacrifice to the general voice, rather than interrupt that union oil which fuccef's depended; and when a meafure was once refolved upon by the majority, however nuch contrary to his own advice and judgment, he magnanimoully fupported it with his utmoft vigor ; difdaining that work of low ambition, which will ftrive to defeat in the execution what it could not direct in planning.
$H_{\text {is }}$ perfeverance and conduct in gaining poffeftion of St. John's and Montreal, have already been the thene of every tongue, and need not to be mentioned in this place. His abilities in negociation; the precifion with which the various articles of treaties and capitulations are expreffed; the generous applaufe he gives, not only to every worthy effore of his own Officers, but to the Commanding Offece and garrifon of St John's ; his noble declaration to the :nhabitants of Montreal, "that the -. Continental Armies defpife every act of oppreffion " and violence, being come for the exprefs purpofe of "giving liberty and fecurity"-All thele, I lay, da honor to himiclf, and to that delegated body, unger whole authority he acted.

Leaving him, theretore, for a while-alas too fhort a white-io enjoy the nobleft of all triumphs, the applaufe of his country, and the confious teltimony of his own heart, let us inquire after ancther band of brave and hardy men, who are ftemining rapid rivers, afcending pathlels mountains, traverfing unpropled deteres, and haftening through deep morafles and gloomy woods, to asee him in fenes of another iffuc-
Oppos'd their courfe, and diep rapacinus flow,
And montains in whoie jaws dellicuthn garn's,
Hunger and soh-Armenian fnows and Enm:
Gireece in theis view and glory yet urtouth's,
They held their fearleis way-On! tionath of mind
Alnot almighty in fevi:e cxisemes!

[^9]
il 26 j

This praife was paid to ten thousand Heroeg, fiftaining every danger, in a retreal to their own country, and is certainly due, fo far as heroilm is concerned, to lefs than a tenth part of the number, marching through cqual difficulties againgt the capital of a boffile country.
EVen the mach of HanNibal over the Alps, io much celebrated in hiftory, (allowing for the difparity of numbers) has nothing in it of fuperior merit, to the march of Arnotid; and in many circuphtances there is a moft friking timiliture

The former had to encounter the rapid Rhone; the latter, the more rapid Kennebeck, thro an immenfe length of country. The former, when he came to quit the river, fourd his further paffage barr'd by mountains, rearing their fnowy crefts to the fky, rugged, wild, unçultivated. This was alfo the cafe with the latter, whofe troops. cariying their boats and baggage, were obliged to crofs and reciols the fame mountains fundry times. At the foot of the muuntains, the former was deferted by three thoufand of his army, defponding at the length of the way, and terrified at the hideous view of thofe ftuFendous height's, which they confidered as in paffableIn like circumitances, about a third part of the amy of the latter, deterted fhall I fay, or wfe the more coutenus language--"r returned home." *The march of the forner

* When she Oration was delivered, the Autlor did not know that in inquiy 1 ad been made into the reafons of the return of this Paty, ardit af the Cimmardirg Cficer bas ben arquited. But as Wery yeneral cenfure tad teen pefled upon him theouh the Colonieg, $n$ was judged much mo. e benotable for bim to infert as acceurt of his aiquiment, than to fuppe's the paragraph-for ail theit? tanfacterns till be fuliy fortimed ty fusue hatians.

It was at we fout of the Prenies that the $30 c o$ deferted from Wlanilal, and t.e frcely cilaiffec joc more, whofe couage be percened was not iguil to the undertatig. liceed Livy tells us that the fight ct the dips, "sicis fnew-clau teps alar it fenetrating or with crid, the men facage ara neansg lerig beads, cvery thirg 4i. hath arimate ard inanimate llitit with taci,"一ftruck even the ietrander of his aftoy with a comporay raric. It is, net cicar olat pur. Hannibal mave wh tis tcals alter creding the Rhere, whether

l 27 j

Wifer was about twelve hundred miles in five months. The Virginia and Pennfylvania rife-companies, belonging to the latter, including their firt march from their own habitations to Cambridge, and thence to Quebec, marched near the fame diftance in about three months:

Besides thefe rifle companies, Arno!d's corps confitted of about five hundrèd New.Eng!and troops, who fuftained all the fatigues of the worft part of the march by land and water, with the utmoft fortitude. And General Montd'mbry, ever ready to do juftice to merit, having joined them be ore QUebec, gives their commander and them this character $\longrightarrow$
"Thex are an exceeding fine body of men, inured tod "f facigue, with a ftyle of difcipline among them much "f fuperiar to what il have been ufed to lee this campaign, "-He himelf is active, intelligent, and enterprizing."

Having approached thofe plains which the blood of Wolfe hath confecrated to deathlefs fame, our hero feemed emolous of his glory, and animated with a kindred fpirit. The fituation of his army preffed defpatch ! fnows and frofts only quickened his motions. He hoped by one fuccefsful Aruke, before the arrival of fuccours to the garrifon, to complete his plan, and fave the future effulion of much blood: He further flatered himfelf, that his fuccefs, if fpeedy, might have fome influence upon Parliament, in haftering a reconciliation. He underftood that maxim of Folard-" No obilacle fhould break * our refolution, when theie :s but a moment between a " bad ficuation and a worie"-This fentiment he expreffes in his laft letter with a fpirit of modefty, and a fenfe 'of duty, as well as the danger attending it, which ought to be torever recorded to his glory. - "I Shall be forry to "be reduced to this mode ot attack; becaufe I know "t the melancholy confequences. But the approaching "feverity of the Sealon, the wealinels of the garriton, to"gether with the nature of the works, point it out too "itrong to be paffed by. Fortune often biffles the is mult languine expectations of poor morials-I am not " intcx: aned

[ 28 ]

" intoxicated with the favors I have received at her. "hands-But I think there is a tair profpect of fuccefs." Pour mortals indeed, if nothing was to remain of them. after death; for while he was crurting this fuccefs, and clorinufly leading on his troops in the tront of danger, he received the fatal froke, which in an inftant releafed bis great fpirit, to follow and join the immortal fipirit of Wolefe!

O twou fiwift winged meffenger of deftruction, how didft thou triumph in that moment! the ftroke that fever'd Montgomery fiom his army, deprived them of more than a member. It reached the vicals, and ftruck the whole body with a temporary death. As when the forked lightning, darting thro' the fureft, amid the black tempets of night, rends fome towering oak, and lays its honors in the dult, the inferior trees which it had long theltered from the torm, ftand mournful arnund, fo food the aftonifhed bands over their fallen Chieftain !-nor over him alone; but over others, in their prime of glory, proftrate by his fide!

Here, ye Pennfylvanian youths, fecond to tione in virtue, let a portion of your tears be facred to the names of Macpherson! You remember his generous ipirit in his early years, for he drank of the fame lprings of icience with many of you now before me; and we who reached the cup to your lip, rejoice that it contibuted to invigorate both him and you into wildom and public fpirit. Having fin:hed his foolaftic * education, he fludied the laws of his ccuncry, under a lawyer and patriot $\dagger$ of ditingu:fhed [^10]dinirguifhe! name; and animated by his example, as woll as precepts, had beeome eminent in his profeffion, at an age when fone thave fcarce begun to think of bufinefs. The love of liber:y bising his roling pafion, he thought it his duty in the prefent frugele, to offer himpolf to the fervice of his country, and he had foon an opportunity of areaining that military pre-eminence, of whicti ho was lautably ambicious.

Enjoying a heredita:y bravery, joined th a well cultivate! undeiflanding, and an active fpirit, he foon tecame th: bafon frient of General Montgomery, was his Aid de Camp, was entruked with a Share in the management of his moll improtant negociations, flood by his fide ir the attack upon Qiebse, and being, as it were. animated by one common foul, and dear to each other in life-in death, they were not a moment diviced!

Here likewife fell Captain Chersman, of the New. York forcer, covered with honor, and lamented by all who knew him, as an active and gallant officer. His particular merits, as well as the merits of fome others, who fhared his fate, ought to be more fully commemo. rated on this occafion, if proper accounts of them could be crlleeted.

I must not, however, omit the name of the brave Captain Handricks, who commanded one of the Pennfylvania rife-companies, and was known to me from his infancy. He was indeed prodigal of his life, and courted danger out of his tour of duty. The enmmand of the guard belonged to him; on the morning of the attack ; bu: he folicited and obtained leave to take a more confpicunus poit : and having led his men through the barrier, where his commanding officer, General Arnoid, was wounded, be long fuftained the firo of the garrifon with unfhaken firmneff, till' at latit, receiving a hot in his breaft, he immediately expired. *

Such examples of magnanimity filled oven adruerfarios with veneration and efteem. Forgetting the foes in the berosi, they gathe:ed up their breathlefs remains, and committed them to kindred duft. with pious hands "and funeral honors meet."-So may your own remains, and particularly thine, o Carleton, be honored, hou!d it ever be your fate to fall in hoftile fields! Or if, amid the various chances of war, your lot fhould be among the priforers and the wounded, may you be diftinguifhed with an ample return of thas benevolence which you have fhewn io others. Such offiees of humanity, foftening the favage feenes of war, will entitic you to an horor which all the pride of conqueft cannät beftow - much lefa a corq eit over fellow fubjects, cortending for the common rights of fresmen.

> Er

[^11]
[ 30 ]

Br luch offices as thefe, you likewife give a gleam of comfort to thofe mournert, who mix their ceara with ours * Schuylkill and Surquehannah ; and to her $t$ efpecially, on Hadfon's river, preheminent in woe! Angels and minitters of grace, complete ber coofolntions! Tell her, in genilef accents, what wreaths of glopy yru have entwin'd, to adorn the brows of thofe who die ior their counsry; and hovering for a while, on the wing of pity, litien so her monrafulatain-:
$ Sweet ivy, twin'd with myrtle, form a thade Around the tomb where brave Montgonary's laid ! Bencath your boughs, thut from the beams of day,
My cesfeiefs tears thod baihe the warpioi's clay;
And irjun'd "Freedom thall ia while repair,"
To dwell, with me, wéping hermit there."
Having now paid the honors due to the memories of our deparfed friends. what need I add more ? Illuttrious, although thort, was their race! "But old age is not that which fandeth in length of time, nor is meafured by number of years-wifdom is the gréy hair to man, and an unfpotted life is old age."

To fuch men, Rome in ali her glory would have decreed hooars; and the refolve of Congrofs to tranimit the memory of their virtueis Is worthy of that magnanimity which oughe to charat: ine poblic bodies. Jealous and arbitrary rulers are fparing of honuris to thole who ferve them, lett their own thould be thus ecelipfed. But your Juftre, Gentlemen, can fuffer no dimunition this way; and the glory you julty beftow upon others, will anly be reffected so entsieafe your own!

- The rivers on which the parents of Major Macpherfon and Capt. Hendricks live.
+ Mrs. Montgomery.
$\ddagger$ The original lines, for which thefe were fubtituted and gorme ed'te mufic, are' well known, viz.
$\because$ Wind gentle Ever-green to form a thade,
"Around the Tumb where Sophocles is laid, &ec.
Part of the two laft lines is from an Qde of collins.

[^0]:    *They are cal!ed "Carmina," as wrought up in the high poctic Ayle; but were not, therefore, always in verfe or meafuce.

[^1]:    - Alcaus himfelf (faith Bithop Newten) fo highly renowned for his hatred of eypanny, and whofe od s are aije animated by the fpirit of Liberiy and Pisetry, his nothing that cas be cumpared with the Prophei in this place,

[^2]:    . Ifa:ah xiv,

[^3]:    - A poet now, as may appear from the following lines of Thompfon, can give us deferiptions of elyfan blifs, far fuperior to thofe of Virgil ; "whife ideas on this fubject (as Mr. Spence obffres) " alcho" preferabie to thofe of Homer and all the otiner aneient " poets, are titll fo very low, that they feem little more than bor" sowed from holiday-iports on the banks of Tiber."-
    " In thef b:ight reginns of celeftial day,
    "Far other feenes, tar other pleafures reign -
    "All b uy here below, to them compar'd,
    " Would like a rofe before the mid day fun,
    "Sherk up its blef $m$-like a bubble, break
    "The piffing poor mapnificence of kings-
    36 For thete the king of nature, in full blaze
    "C ills every iplerdir forth; a ad there his court,
    "Amid athereal powers and virtues, holds-
    "Anzels, a changels, turelary gods,
    "Ot ititis, nations, empircs, and of worlds-
    " But acred be the veil that kindly clouds
    $\because$ A light too keen for mortals

[^4]:    - Nihil extim $\operatorname{rccere}$; oni is humana defpicere; nihil quod hamini aceider: pont antociondan putare. Cic.

[^5]:    - Pericles.
    + Tricauthor did not intend to appropriate this term fo as to detrat from the merit of Dr. Warren, and other brave men who foll before in the fame caufe.

[^6]:    [Tbe foregoing lines were fet and performed to mufic, which gave an -ppertynity of a paufe, in delivering tbe Oration..

    - Hor. B. 2. Ode 14. 1. 2.2-24.

[^7]:    - In his letter of Nov, 8tho

[^8]:    - The above paragraph having been either mifrepre'ented or mifunderflood by fome, the author doen not think himfelf at libertv is make the lealt alte: ation in it, even if he judged any to be neceff ryo The quotation from the laft petition of Congrefs, as well as the ceference made to the inftructions of our Affembly, both print to a paft period; and the author cannot be confidered, from thence, as taking upon him to make the leaft dec'aration concerning the pre-fent fentiments of either of thefe bodies; nor is there a word which can preclade the taking into the terms of accommodation, to far as may be thought reafonable, the redrefs of whatever grievances or loffes we may have fuftained, fince that period. Upor the whote, it is prefumed, that a fingle fentiment is not to be found in the $O$ ration, which is not fully confonant to every declaration of Congrefr which has yet appeared. And to impute to them, or even lulpect. the leaft change of fentiment, before thev themfelves have declar=d it, would not only be indecent but very injurious to our cause. The author is alfo confifent with himfelf, and if the fame drectrines whic'. he has been told, were well received in his late publication, mouid now be difagreeable to any, the fault is not his. Bu: he will pive the render no further trouble on this topic, undefs his own defince in fusure fhould render it neceflary.

[^9]:    - Thamfon.

[^10]:    - He waseducated partly at the college of Philadelphia, and partIy at that of New. jericy. A fav days betore his death, he vified the valy fact on whin (ieniral Wolfe expired; and the refl cthons In his leter a mais occafion, as well as in that which he left feated up, for his la:her, in cafe of tis death in the attack upon Qusbec, were fuch as brcame a cbrijian and a foldier. He bequeaticed what little iortune te had accumblated, to his only brother, an offeer in the reguiar ariay. As a reward for his fervices, he was appainted by the Congecfi, a inajor in a tattalion to be raifed in the DelaWare coutites, but had received no accociat of this prumotich.
    + JCha Dickinfon, Equite.

[^11]:    - Thefe particulars were certified by Gen. Thompfon and Col. Magasu, his commanders in the Pennfylvania rifle-reg'ment, nid hay give me this further charater of him in their leater, viz.' "No tatigutes or " duty ever difcouraged him-He paid the fricteft attention to his "company, and was ambitions that they fould excel in difcipline. " fobriety and oider. His focial and domellic virtues you were " well acquainted vith."-

