Soldiers' Comforts

Nothing could be more human nor more affecting in its kindly humanity than the extreme interest taken in every phase of the war as it affects individuals and their welfare.

Officers have testified to the great moral value the reception of gifts from friends or well-wishers has upon the troops. After many days of the severe exertion entailed upon them by trench warfare, after the dreadful hardships of long sustained and unrelenting, after the terrible slaughter of comrades and friends...

Man who are not directly interested in men at the front would like to help in an impersonal way, and it was in the organization of such general gift-making and the donation of supplies to the soldiers, and not covered by the ordinary army supplies, that Miss Arnold and Miss Plummer have rendered such signal service.

The women's organizations of Canada are to be still further organized in connection with the supply of necessary articles, and there is practically no end and no limit to what may be done.

German Infiltration in China

How ubiquitous have been the efforts of the Kaiser and his ministers to establish German influence and authority in all parts of the world other peoples are only now beginning to understand.

The advantages resting with an autonomy which possesses the complete confidence of the governed and inspires unconditional loyalty have been quite as much exempted from the development of German world policy as in the concentrated skill and efficiency displayed in the course of the war.

In the current number of The British Review leading place is given to an article by E. Bruce Mitford on German Infiltration in China and Japan. The part of the Kaiser's ambitious scheme was directed towards the establishment of a strong vantage point in China is made clear by Mr. Mitford.

reasonable, and were really intended to place Japan on an equal footing with western nations and to preserve Chinese territorial integrity. Even after the fall of Kiaochow, the representatives of Germanism in the far east did not abandon hope, but strove to convince the Chinese that the setback was merely temporary and that Germany was bound to win.

Creation of New Industries

Last week The London Free Press published a translation of an article appearing in Die Woche, a widely-circulated German weekly magazine, on the creation of new industries.

In two industries especially, the chemical, which includes dyes, medicines and gas lamp mantles, and the optical so far as field glass, magnifying glasses, telescopes, camera lenses and periscopes are concerned, the Germans have gained pre-eminence.

Pointing the Finger

The Winnipeg Tribune intimates that the finger of scorn is being somewhat overworked. It admits that the rottenness is being uncovered in Manitoba, but thinks the uncovering a matter of congratulation.

It reminds us, however, that a recent investigation in New Brunswick showed startling corruption and led to the retirement of the premier from office. It recalls the saturnalia of bribery that went on at Quebec during the last session of the legislature and led to several gentlemen retiring from office.

GERMANS.

Editor World: I have the pleasure of mentioning a name by which those blackguards now at war with us should be termed in all future reference to them, Germans, except you think it too good.

1915 EDITION OF McKIM'S

"Canadian Newspaper Directory" Now Issued. It is now nearly a quarter of a century since Mr. A. McKim, who established the first independent Advertising Agency in this country, completed the rather ambitious task of publishing the first directory of Canadian publications.

The 1915 edition, of which we have just received a copy, shows that the great war has not seriously affected the newspapers of Canada. While the birthrate of new publications has received a check, and the deathrate of the weak ones has perhaps increased a trifle, most of the leading papers, particularly the dailies, show very healthy increases in circulation.

A census of the papers listed and described in the 1915 directory shows nearly 150 dailies, 7 tri-weeklies, 10 semi-weeklies, over 1000 weeklies, about 40 bi-weeklies or semi-monthlies, 200 monthlies, 3 bi-monthlies and 18 quarterlies—a total of over 1800 publications.

This means approximately one daily to every 10,000 families, and one weekly to every 1500 families. From this it is not difficult to infer that for a comparatively new country, Canada is well-served.

By William Henry Taylor, author of "Canadian Seasons."

Unroll the endless web! Bring on the Play! The Tragedy of Man is on the screen! We are the guests of the actors, must now saturate our souls with eyes intense On passing scenes. The sleepless Press revolves; Each day, each night, its pulpit beats regular. While panoramic tragedy is played Upon its web. Events are painted thick, And seconds count as minutes, minutes hours, And hours as days in this dramatic show.

First see those shadows gliding o'er the stage, Preceded by heavy villains in this play! Sprung from a race of robber Counts there came The cunning Frederick, nicknamed the Great! He had the same brain, the same look and had not, But what he had, no heirs of his partook; The Hohenzollern Madhouse only bred, Conceit, stupidity, hypocrisy and greed; The taint of scoundrelism instantly Marks all their spawn, and William most of all. For he would be the Kaiser-of-the-World— This fool of fools, this curse of Germany.

When Earth was young, and Man was but a child, He told of monsters, Land, and air, and sea, Bred dreadful demons in the outer void; Leviathans and scaly reptiles roamed Thru giant forests and the steaming swamps; Then scorpions, bats and vampires, dragons huge, And hoards flew with vultures thru the sky. The deep, hot waters of the sea were lashed By horrid creatures of vast length and strength; Sea-horses with the teeth and tails of sharks, And slimy, crested serpents then were facts, Not frightful sea-monsters, nor wizard's dreams.

Alas! these myths or legends now are real, Outdone and dwarfed by Science in our time; It re-created hell on earth, for say: What dragons had the jaws of Zepplines? What serpents gave the wings of submarines? What foul octopus gripped like floating mines? What vampire's breath could kill like German gas? Or what primeval beast could match the Man?

See Man at work upon the green-clad earth— The flower-draped theatre, which he defiles; These soldier-ants in millions, lines on lines, For miles by hundreds, paint the trenches red. Like maddened bulls they forth and backward sway, Their gorning horns manes, and their optical so far as field glass, magnifying glasses, telescopes, camera lenses and periscopes are concerned, the Germans have gained pre-eminence.

When will it end? Why, only when it must— When God shall say to Satan: "Cease thy work!" As for the cause of this catastrophe, These Herr Professors of the Muddled Press Of cultured Germany may answer best— Or call on Bismarck's ghost, and he may tell. Now, our own Press, the Fourth Estate, shall guard The citadel of English opinion, and give to the World A stage whereon to act a better play— "The Happy Human Moving Picture Show!"

Toronto World, June 21, 1915.

POLITICAL INTELLIGENCE

Manitoba still occupies the centre of the stage. The revelations before the royal commission continue to discredit the Roblin Government. It is, however, quite likely that Premier Norris will lose no time in appealing to the country.

A Winnipeg correspondent of The Orange Sentinel says the Conservative party will be entirely wiped out, and The Sentinel editorially suggests that the "National School Party" be organized to take its place. This may seem strange, in view of the fact that it was the influence of The Sentinel and the Orange Order in Manitoba which brought Sir Rodmond Roblin last summer to the verge of resignation.

The issue upon which the last provincial election in Manitoba largely turned was the change in the school laws known as the "Coldwell amendments." These amendments were said to be merely declaratory of the school act passed years ago by the Conservative Government, but they undoubtedly permitted the Orange Order on religious and language lines. A large section of Conservative Orangemen in Manitoba rebelled, and they have the efforts to get them back on line. Prominent Conservative politicians, members of the Orange Order in the east, were impressed with the idea, and in some way nearly every ultra-Protestant paper in eastern Canada, was induced to believe in the plan.

Unfortunately French-Canadian leadership involves the adoption of French-Canadian ideals for the whole party. It was necessary for Sir Wilfrid Laurier to keep Quebec solid behind him that led to the senate, under his influence, rejecting the navy bill. We believe that the English-speaking Liberals are as loyal to the mother country as any other class of the community. We are expressing the general opinion when we say that the French-Canadian imperial question is an easy matter to arouse them in opposition to any proposal to get men or money to defend imperial interests. Their vision is bounded by the Dominion of Canada; in many cases it is limited by the boundaries of the Province of Quebec. They do not enter into the aspirations of English-speaking citizens who believe that the future of this country is to remain a portion of the British Empire. Consequently, they are responsive to appeals by the Nationalist party, of which Mr. Bourassa is the chief exponent. This makes it difficult, if not impossible, for a French-Canadian leader to carry his own province unless he falls in with the Nationalist idea.

Evidently the government was in a state of panic before the election. In no other way could we account for the coarse work in connection with the Parliament building contract grafting. Hundreds of thousands of dollars had to be raised immediately.

But Mr. Norris was elected on the national school platform as we understand it. Why, then, it may be asked, is it necessary to have a national school party to oppose him? To this The Sentinel gives no direct answer, but hints that the new "premier" may not be proof against blandishments. The Sentinel would have kept him up to the mark on the school question.

Canada seems never to be able to get rid of the school question. The bilingual agitation in Ontario continues.

ITALIANS CAPTURED HEIGHTS OF PLAVA

Two Days' Battle Proves Important Success on Isonzo River.

POSITIONS STORMED

Austrians Suffered Severely and Allies Also Had Big Losses.

Two days and a night for the heights and bank of the Isonzo River, commanding Plava. Village, which is situated at the bottom of a defile enclosed by steep, wooded slopes, between which the river runs deep and rapid. The bridge crossing the Isonzo at this point had been destroyed by the enemy. With patient efforts and boldness we threw bridges across during the night, and at dawn on the 18th our troops began an attack.

The movement was carried out all day slowly by the front companies, enemy's resistance and the difficulties of the ground, increased by serious artificial obstacles and solid entanglements prepared by extensive barbed wire entanglements, strengthened by iron T-bars.

Austrians Used Big Guns. Numerous heavy guns, even 11-inch guns, were concealed in commanding positions which were difficult for our shells to reach. Nevertheless, our troops succeeded by repeated charges in debouching on the enemy's first line towards evening.

"During the night the enemy tried several times with sudden dashes to deprive us of the ground conquered, but always they were thrown back by our machine guns. We made our Italian Success Big Guns. Numerous heavy guns, even 11-inch guns, were concealed in commanding positions which were difficult for our shells to reach. Nevertheless, our troops succeeded by repeated charges in debouching on the enemy's first line towards evening.

"On the 17th our troops completed their success by carrying the heights still in the hands of the enemy. The Italian artillery concentrated on them, and the enemy's machine gun fire, which was followed up by another counter attack by fresh troops. He was decimated and definitely driven back at the point of the bayonet. We made over 150 prisoners, including four officers and a quantity of rifles, machine guns and one machine gun. Our losses were serious, but the results obtained were important.

"On the 18th, who was passed by main force, the enemy's positions naturally commanded and further strengthened by the fire of our artillery, our troops succeeded in assuming the offensive by numerous charges. The enemy's positions were repulsed. On the heights of Plava, our infantry, well supported by artillery, has given a fine example of tenacity and bravery."

U-29 WAS SUNK BY A BRITISH STEAMER

British Government Makes Belated Statement to Silence False Rumor. LONDON, June 20.—The official statement was made public by the British Government yesterday that the German submarine U-29, commanded by Captain Otto Weddigen, which was destroyed two months ago was sunk by "one of his majesty's ships." This belated announcement, apparently was issued at this time to dispose of the report current in Germany that the U-29 was rammed by a British tank steamer flying the Swedish flag.

German newspaper editorials reaching London are all based on the theory that a British merchantman and not a warship, as asserted by the British
