Mercury is so near the Sun, that it cannot often be seen. It is visible at the time of its greatest Elongation, when it may be about 13 hours before or behind the Sun, being a morning star from the Inferior to the Superior Conjunction, and an evening star from the Superior to the Inferior Conjunction.

Moon's Place.—When the Moon is in the summer signs, viz:—♈, ♄, ♀, ♁, and ♃, it is more than 12 hours above the horizon, and consequently gives more light than it can while it is in the winter signs, when it shines less than twelve hours in the twenty four.

The influence of the Moon upon vegetation is not now much thought of, but is well known that light is as necessary to plants as heat; grass which grows in the shade, appears to be composed mostly of water, not making half as much hay as that which grows exposed to the sun; nor is it unreasonable to suppose that plants which have moonlight at their first coming up, may have more substantial leaves than those which have dark nights at their first coming up, and may, on that account, be more hardy, and more capable of supporting the inclemency of the season.

Prognostics of the weather.—Sir Humphrey Davy states the following facts. Red clouds, or red tinged with purple, in the west at sunset, portend fine weather, because they show that the air is dry, for the air when dry refracts more red rays. The most certain indication of wet weather is the halo or circle around the moon, which is produced by water, and the larger the circle, the nearer the clouds are to us. Rainbows are always in clouds opposite the sun; and in climates where rains are usually brought by west wind, if a rainbow appears in the west it indicates that the rain is coming, but if it appears in the east, it proves that the rain is passing away. The old proverb is often correct:—"A rainbow in the morning," &c.—When swallows fly high, fine weather may be expected; when they fly near the ground, rain is approaching. They are in pursuit of flies and gnats, which delight in warm air; warm air is moister and lighter than cold air, and when the warm and moist air is near the ground, the cold air flows down into it and produces rain, but when the warm air is high, there is less chance of its mixing with cold air, and throwing down moisture.

For the Bowel Complaint.—Take from a gill to a gill and a half of molasses, mixed with a half a glass of Rum or Brandy, at a draught. Children above four years old may take a quantity in proportion to their age. This will generally succeed, if taken the first or second day. They who have long had the complaint, should use a Decoction of Logwood and live upon very fat broth and toasted Bread. Children from one to three years old should not have this complaint checked, until it has continued 24 hours, unless it is very violent or attended with vomiting, after this time has elapsed, give a drink made by boiling the twigs of oak till the liquor tastes as rough as strong tea, mixed with an equal quantity of milk, in which the powder of bones burnt white has been boiled; it may be sweetened. If they have had the Complaint a long time and their common food brings it on after it is checked, feed them if you can, upon broth made from very fat mutton or beef, seasoned only with salt, and bread toasted and crumbled fine.

To raise cabbage plants.—Choose a situation that is shaded in the afternoon—the insect that destroys them will not sit on damp ground. Sow as early as you can work the ground; make the bed very fine and leave no chips or stones that will be quickly dry on the surface, as they would be occupied by the insects. If you must sow in an open situation, sprinkle a pint of fine salt on a bed, 12 feet long, after your seed is raked in, and water your plants at their first coming up for 4 or 5 days so frequently that the top of the ground may never appear dry. Do not plant Cabbage often in the same ground—the worm which makes it club-footed or turnip-rooted will soon occupy the ground and continue there, as it never becomes a winged insect, like the maggot which eats the roots early in the season. The injury done to Cabbage by the maggot may be in a great measure prevented by watering with a mixture of 5 parts of water, and one of brine in which fish or flesh have been pickled; a pint should be given to each plant within a week after they are transplanted, and the watering repeated the next week. The maggot is produced by a fly which deposits its eggs about the roots of the plants the first warm evenings in June and thenceforward; the salt prevents them from hatching.

ECLIPSES in 1850

There will be five Eclipses in the year 1850, in the following order:
 The first will be of the Sun February 28d at 9h. 22m. in the morning, not visible in this Province.

The second of the Moon March 9th, at 10h. 10m. in the morning, invisible here.

The third of the Sun March 24th, at 10h. 30m. in the morning, invisible here.

The fourth of the Sun August 18th, at 7h. 39m. in the morning, invisible here.

The fifth of the Moon September 2d. partly visible.

Beginning of the Eclipse . . . . . 4h. 36m. afternoon
 Beginning of total darkness . . . . . 5h. 33m.
 Ecliptic conjunction . . . . . 6h. 28m.
 Middle . . . . . 6h. 24m.
 End of total darkness . . . . . 7h. 14m.
 End of the Eclipse . . . . . 8h. 12m.

Digits eclipsed  $21^{\circ} 40'$  from the northern side of the Earth's shadow.
 The sixth will be of the Sun September 16, at 10h. 14m. afternoon, of course invisible here.

Venus will be the Evening star until the seventh of March; from that time morning star to the twentieth of December.

The Sun's Declination is for Noon at the Meridian of Greenwich, consequently it is the declination for 7h. 46m. in the morning at Halifax.

JANUARY hath 31 Days:

1820

There lives and works,
A soul in all things, and that soul is God.
The beauties of the wilderness are his,
That makes so gay the solitary place,
Where no eye sees them. And the fairs forms
That cultivation glories in, are his.
He sets the bright procession on its way,
And marshalls all the order of the year.

Married Life.—Connubial happiness is of too fine a texture to be roughly handled. It is a delicate flower which indifference will chill, and suspicion blast. It is a sensitive plant, which will not even bear the touch of unkindness. It must be watered with showers of tenderest affection, expanded with the glow of attention, and guarded by the impregnable barrier of unshaken confidence. It must be kept ensouled by the hand of carelessness, unobscured by selfishness, unconjunctured by neglect. Thus nurtured it will bloom with fragrance in every season of life, and soften the pillow of declining years.

Improvement of Candles.—Steep the cotton wick in lime-water, in which has been dissolved a considerable quantity of nitrate of potassa (chlorate of potassa answers still better, but is too expensive for common practice); and, by these means, a purer flame and superior light is secured, a more perfect combustion is ensured, snuffing is rendered nearly as superfluous as in wax candles, and the candles thus treated do not "run." The wicks must be thoroughly dry before the tallow is put to them.

The wind is bitter keen—the snow o'erlays
 The hidden pits, and dangerous hollow ways,
 And darkness will involve thee—no kind star
 To night will guide thee Traveller,—and the war
 Of winds and elements on thy head will break
 And in thy agonizing ear the shriek,
 Of spirits howling on their stormy car
 Whose ring appalling.

Full Moon, 7th day, 8h. 18m. afternoon; Last Quarter, 15th day, 8h. 14m. afternoon; New Moon, 23d day, 0h. 22m. afternoon.

Men raised by Merit.—That industry and application will accomplish almost any thing, is beautifully exemplified by the success of some of the greatest men in the civilized world, who have obtained to eminence from obscurity and indigence. Hutton the great geometrician was a Coal heaver. Haddart the machinist and mathematician was a shoemaker. Brinley the Civil Engineer, who planned and executed the immense Canals of the Duke of Bridgewater, was an untaught and common labourer. Arkwright who invented the machinery of the Cotton mill, which eventually established the manufacturing pre eminence of England, was a barber. The United States too is prolific of instances. Franklin was a journeyman printer; Rittenhouse was a plough boy; Fulton the discoverer of the power of Steam in propelling vessels and thereby the donor of one of the greatest gifts bestowed upon man, was a poor youth; John Q. Adams and William H. Crawford spent the first years of manhood in "teaching the young idea how to shoot," and Henry Clay, Daniel Webster, and Martin Van Buren spring from poverty.

Prevention of Suffocation.—In an English Miscellany we find the following fact stated. The danger of being suffocated by smoke to which persons are exposed who enter premises on fire, may be effectually obviated by tying a wet silk handkerchief over the face.

Contentment is not procured with riches, but by mastering our desires.

APRIL hath 30 Days.

How calm, how beautiful comes on
The early hour, when storms are gone;
When waning winds have died away,
And clouds beneath the glancing ray,
Melt off and leave the land and sea
Sleeping in bright tranquillity.

Maxim.—Know the secrets of your estate, how much you are able and how much you ought to spend. But live not at the utmost; save something to pay for misfortune.

Best White Wash.—Into a common barrel half full of white wash, put one ounce of sulphuric acid largely diluted with water, stir them together, then apply them to any wood work as common white wash is applied. This coating is an artificial gypsum or plaster of Paris. The coating thus formed is whiter, harder, more adhesive and very little more expensive than common white wash. It forms a better protection of wood from fire than common white wash.

Advice to a Bride.—"Hope not for perfect happiness," there is no such thing. Be neither vexed nor ashamed to depend on your husband. Let him be your dearest friend, your only confidant. Hope not for constant harmony in the married state. The best husbands and wives are those who bear occasionally from each other sallies of ill humour with patient mildness. Be obliging without putting great value on your favours. Hope not for a full return of tenderness. You need not be at the pains to examine whether the rights of men be well founded; it is enough if they are established. Pray to God to keep you from jealousy. The affections of a husband are never to be gained by complaints, reproaches, or sullen behaviour.

MAY hath 31 Days.

It is May, it is May
 And all earth is gay,
 For at last old winter is quite away :
 He linger'd awhile on his cloak of snow,
 To see the delicate primrose blow ;
 He saw it and made no longer stay—
 And now it is May, it is May !

Forget me not—There is a very pretty fancy in the present history of the naming of this plant :—" When the heavens and earth had been summoned into being, and man had been called to taste the joys and glories of the celestial Eden, every living thing was brought unto Adam, that it might inherit from him its befitting name. And flowers of every varied hue were among the lovely objects that his eye did rest upon ; and as he named each of them, according to its peculiar form, or fragrance, or colour, he added, " Be ye mindful of the name by which the image of your Maker hath called you." And it was yet but a short time afterwards that a floweret, arrayed in the meek azure of the firmament, spake unto Adam, saying, " Lord ! by what name didst thou call me ? Of a truth, it shameth me that I did not heed it." And the first man answered, saying, " Forget me not !" Then the floweret drooped its head, and went, and hid itself in the lonely shade beneath the bough that waveth over the murmuring brook ; and there it bideth, mourning. And when the gentle hand of friendship, or the eager finger of love, stoopeth to pluck it in its lowliness, it still doth whisper softly, " Forget me not !"

JUNE hath 30 Days.

A voice is heard, that mortal ears bear not
 Till thou hast touch'd them; 'tis the voice of song,
 A loud Hosanna sent from all thy works;
 Which he that hears it with a shout repeats,
 And adds his rapture to the general praise.
 In that blessed moment, nature, throwing wide
 Her veil of opaque, discloses with a smile,
 The author of her beauties—who retired
 Behind his own creation, works unseen.

WASTE.

Oh! waste not then the smallest thing
 Created by Divinity;
 For grains of sands the mountains make,
 And atoms infinity.
 Waste thou not then the smallest time,
 'Tis imbecile infirmity,
 For well thou know'st, if aught thou know'st,
 That seconds form eternity.

Pictures of Father and Son.—An old woman, who showed the House and pictures at Towcester, expresses herself in these remarkable words:—"That is Sir Robert Farmer, he lived in the country, took care of his estate, built this house, and paid for it; managed well, saved money, and died rich.—That is his son, he was made a lord, took a place at court, spent his estate, and died a beggar."

How to do business.—Sir Robert Walpole was asked, how it was possible for him to dispatch such a variety of affairs? he replied, 'by doing one at a time.'

Accidents—One man sucks an orange and is choked by a pip; another swallows a penknife and lives; one runs a thorn into his hand, and no skill can save him; another has the shaft of a gig pass completely through his body, and recovers; one is overturned on a smooth common and breaks his neck; another is tossed out of a gig on Brighton cliff and survives; one walks out on a windy day and meets death by a brickbat; another is blown up in the air, like Lord Hatton in Guernsey Castle, and comes down uninjured. The escape of this nobleman was indeed, a miracle. An explosion of gunpowder, which killed his mother, wife, some of his children, and many other persons, and blew up the whole fabric of the castle, lodged him in his bed on a wall overhanging a tremendous precipice. Perceiving a mighty disorder, (as well he might,) he was going to step out of his bed to know what the matter was, which, if he had done, he had been irrevocably lost; but, in the instant of his moving, a flash of lightning showed him the precipice, whereupon he lay still till the people came and took him down.

Advice.—Whatever you dislike in others, take care to correct by the gentlest reproof.

Potatoes.—We have heretofore stated, that pinching off the blossoms of potatoes, was very beneficial to the crop. As the season is again approaching when the hint may be useful, we again mention that it has been found by experienced horticulturalists, that pinching off the blossoms not only increases the quantity, but greatly improves the quality of potatoes.

The Devil and the Lawyer.—The Russians have among their popular traditions one that does not indicate much reverence for the respectable fraternity of the law. A Lawyer, they say, had once a quarrel with the arch fiend, on which, Michael was sent to separate the combatants, and in his zeal he cut off both their heads. After this, Raphael was despatched to replace them on their respective bodies, but, making a mistake, he fastened the head of Satan on the carcase of the lawyer, since which time every one of the profession has had more or less of the devil in his physis.

Come Evening, once again, season of peace;
 Return sweet evening and continue long.
 Methinks I see thee in the streaky west,
 With matron step slow moving, while the night
 Treads on thy sweeping train; one hand employed
 In letting fall the curtain of repose
 On bird and beast—the other charged for man
 With sweet oblivion of the cares of day.

MAXIM.—Who cuts is easily wounded. The reader you are to offend, the sooner you are offended.

The Piper and the Parson.—A jolly dame who, not 'sixty year sine,' kept the principal caravensary at Greenlaw, in Berwickshire, had the honour to receive under her roof a very worthy clergyman, with three sons of the same profession, each having a cure of souls; but, said in passing, none of the reverend party were powerful in the pulpit. After dinner was over, the worthy senior, in the pride of his heart asked Mrs. Buchan whether she ever had such a party in her house before. "Here sit I," he said, "a placed minister of the Kirk of Scotland, and here sit my three sons, each a placed minister of the same kirk. Confess, Luckie Buchan, you never had such a party in your house before." The question was not premised by any invitation to sit down and take a glass of wine or the like, so Mrs. B. answered drily, "Indeed sir I cannot just say that ever I had such a party in my house before, except once in the forty five, when I had a Highland piper here, and his three sons; all Highland pipers, and did a spring could they play among them?"—Notes to the New Edition of the Waterly Novels.

Domestic happiness, thou only bliss
 Of Paradise that hast survived the fall;
 Thou art the nurse of virtue, in thine arms
 She smiles, appearing, as in truth she is,
 Heaven-born, and destined to the skies again.
 Thou art not, where false pleasure is adored,
 That reeling goddess with the zoneless waist
 And wandering eyes, still leaning on the arm
 Of novelty—her fickle, frail support.

New Discovery in the Preparation of Flax.—A French paper states, that an inhabitant of Chateau Thierry has discovered a mode of giving to prepared hemp and flax the fineness, softness, and whiteness of cotton, by impregnating these substances with oil, and then exposing them, during fifteen or twenty days, to the action of frost, between two layers of snow. By this means all the inconvenience of the ordinary and tedious process of steeping them in stagnant water will be avoided.

Two whiskered dandies with hair enough under their chins to make a grenadier's cap, went to the British Institution. On reading the inscription over the door, "No dogs admitted," the foremost turned to his friend, and wittily observed, "You must go back, Fred, you see they don't admit you." "Oh don't be frightened, gentlemen," said the door keeper, "you may both come in," adding as he quietly pocketed their cash, "the regulation does not extend to puppies."

Loud rage the winds without—the wintry cloud
 O'er the cold north star casts her flitting shroud;
 And silence, pausing in some snow-clad dale,
 Starts as she hears, by fits, the shrieking gale.

Putrid sore Throat.—They who attend Children in this dangerous disease, should take care to change their clothes before they enter another house where there are children; there is good reason for believing that persons who have neglected this precaution, have communicated the infection after travelling fifty miles.

Timber for Wharves.—The Charleston Courier suggests to those whose business it is to superintend the repairs of wharves, that Poplar timber resists the attack of the worm in a greater degree than any other description, except the Palmetto. An instance is mentioned of a large log of poplar, which had lain for some years in a salt water mill pond, and was found to have entirely escaped injury from the worm, while other kinds of wood in the same water were entirely destroyed by it.

Recipe for the Stone and Gravel.—Take a large handful of the fibrous roots of garden leeks—put thereto two quarts of soft water; let them be very close covered,—simmer gently over the fire till reduced to one,—then strain it off, and drink a pint in the course of the day, properly divided. This is a sufficient quantity for any adult. Children must be managed according to their age. It must be used for many months to carry off the gravel and dilute the stone,

Let Man amid each varied good,
 Be heard above the notes of spring;
 In summers glow his song intrude;
 At harvest-moon his anthems sing;
 Mid winters chill in gayest mood
 From happy home on tireless wing,
 His praise should o'er creations peer,
 To Him, whose goodness crowns the year.

Pedantry and Taste are as inconsistent, as gaiety and melancholy.

Recipes.—The Charleston Courier says, a medical gentleman of high standing in this city, has suggested to us the propriety of recommending persons who may be bitten by a mad dog, or any other rabid animal, to repair immediately to the nearest pump, and cause the wound to be freely pumped on, before applying to a physician, as this operation cleanses the wound of the poison and prevents absorption.

Liquid ammonia is said to be a most efficacious cure for the stings of wasps, or other insects, removing the pain almost instantly. In the cure of bites from venomous serpents it has also been used in America with great success.

Lambs.—Whoever will apply an ointment made of gunpowder, minkstone, and common grease behind the necks of their lambs, will be sure of having them preserved from all kinds of vermin. The quantity necessary to be made use of is so small, that a sixpenny worth is sufficient for 100.

Directions for coming into Halifax Harbour, taken from the printed Directions in the Custom-House at Halifax.

SAMBRO Island and Light House is in latitude 44 deg. 30 min. N and longitude 63 deg. 32 min. W. From the westward, bring the light to bear N. E.; if it bears more easterly stretch to the southward till it bears N. E. and as much more northerly as you please, there being no shoal or ledge to the southward; then keep it open on your larboard bow; give it more than a mile and a half birth, as much more as you please. Note—The western ledges lie from the light S. W. distant two miles, the other W. S. W. about one league; the eastern ledges lie in a range nearly, some above water; the outer most one mile and a half from the light, bearing from it E. N. E. When the light bears north, distant about 2 miles, run N. E. 4 miles, then north will carry you to Chebucto Head, at a proper distance clear of all danger. When a-breast of Chebucto Head, run N.  $\frac{1}{2}$  W. for the south point of George's Island. When within half a mile of George's Island, you may enter the harbour west of it in 12 fathoms, or east of it in 15. In passing between Sandwich point and Meagher's beach, run nearest the point, to shun a shoal which runs off S. W. from the beach. There is also a shoal lying one mile south of Sandwich point. Coming from the eastward, run for the light, and you cannot fail seeing Chebucto Head as you open Halifax harbour; the light being 4 miles distant from the Head to the S. W.

New Light House.—As the Light House on the Tower at the west end of Manger's Beach, at the entrance of Halifax Harbour, is intended only to lead vessels up the harbour, the greater part of the eastern side will be darkened, viz—from N. E. by N. to S. half E.—The following directions published by the Commissioners of Light Houses should be attended to:—"Vessels coming from the Eastward must keep Sambro Light open to the southward of Chebucto Head, and until the Light opens on Manger's beach, which will then bear N.  $\frac{1}{2}$  W.—they will then be to the westward of Thrum Cap Shoals, and may shape a course up the harbour, always keeping the Light on the Beach open, and on the starboard bow. Vessels coming from the westward will see this Light when they are as far to the eastward as Chebucto Head, by keeping it open, and on the starboard bow, it will lead them up to the beach. This Light will appear of a red colour, which will distinguish it from any other on the coast. It is fifty eight feet high from the level of the sea."

Signals made at Fort George when Vessels are coming into Harbour.

One ball close, one square-rig'd vessel	A do under a ball, for six vessels
