HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries dedicated to tired Mothers as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

THE OLD HOME.
The old home stands serene and stanch as in the days of yore,
But gone are all the voices, and the welcome at the door.
No footprint marks the paths within its garden desolate,
To-day its memory takes my hand and leads me thru the gate.
Till in my fancy blooms again the garden row on row,
The larkspur and the marigold—sweet flowers of long ago—
The roses grow beside the wall as in forgotten June,
The iris and the lavender distill their rich perfumes,
The while I picture other days, and shadowy forms appear,
Dream faces smile 'mid candle light, and sweet old songs I hear.
The bride upon her wedding day comes softly down the stair,
An old man dreams of youth within his fire-side chair.
The picture changes and a boy with manhood in his eyes
Goes forth to seek his fortune—oh the years that make us wise!
Dear house, long since is stillness left to-day you seem to wait
To welcome home the boy again, grown now to man's estate.
I pick a rose beside the door in tender reverie,
Thankful for all the past holds dear in precious memory.
—Esther Trowbridge Catlin.

There is no more unfortunate thing than loveless marriage. The sacred relationship is only hallowed by affection, and without love it is worse than mockery—truly the irony of fate. But let the unloving and the unloved be very sure that a worse fate does not await them before taking radical steps to change their condition. There are few wives who will not respond to attentions prompted by a self-sacrificing spirit, and it is an easy matter to repay devotion in kind. Few husbands but are susceptible to sweet and gentle influences, when the guiding spirit is the one whom they promised to "love, honor and protect," the mother of their children.

ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN.

Don't mistake notoriety for fame.
Don't let others spend the money you earn.
Don't do work unworthy of you if you can avoid it.
Don't say "I am a gentleman," it is never necessary.
Be loyal to death to those who have befriended you.
When you assist the needy, don't do it ostentatiously.
Silence is the best weapon to use against a vulgar and spiteful tongue.
In ninety-nine cases in a hundred the man you wish dead outlives you.
Don't introduce a lady's name where you wouldn't introduce the lady.
Don't count much on friendships formed in cafes. They never turn out well.

Circumspection.

"My boy," said the editor of the Billsville Bugle to the new reporter, "you lack caution. You must learn not to state things as facts until they are proved facts—otherwise you are very apt to get us into libel suits. Do not say 'the cashier who stole the funds, say, 'the cashier who is alleged to have stolen the funds.' That's all now, and—ah—turn in a stickful about that Second Ward social last night."
Owing to an influx of visitors it was late in the afternoon before the genial editor of the Bugle caught a glimpse of the great family daily. Half way down the social column his eyes lit on the following cautious paragraph: "It is rumored that a card party was given last evening to a number of reputed ladies of the Second Ward. Mrs. Smith, gossip says, was the hostess, and the festivities are reported to have continued until 10:30 in the evening. It is alleged that the affair was a social function given to the ladies of the Second Ward Cinch Club, and that, with the exception of Mrs. James Bilwiger, who says she comes from Leavitt Junction, none but members were present. The reputed hostess insists that coffee and wafers alone were served as refreshments. The Smith woman claims to be the wife of John Smith, the so-called 'Honest Shoe Man' of 315 East State street."
Shortly afterward a whirling mass, claiming to be a reporter on the Bugle, flew fifteen feet into the street, and landed with what bystanders assert was a dull, sickening thud.

Major R. E. Leonard, of St. Catharines, former Chairman of the National Transcontinental Railway, and Major E. J. Chambers, Deputy Chief Press Censor at Ottawa, have been promoted to be Lieutenant-Colonels. Both are officers of the Corps of Guides.

The many friends of Miss Marguerite O'Hara, of Smiths Falls, a young lady well and popularly known, will be sorry to learn of a serious accident which befell her last Friday, while she, with some lady friends, was returning from Kemptonville in her motor car, as a result of which she sustained a broken arm. The car was upset by coming in contact with an obstruction, and it is most fortunate that the occupants escaped as well as they did, Miss O'Hara being the only one injured. She is now at her home here and progressing most favorably.—S. F. News.

Remember impertinence isn't wit, any more than insolence is brilliancy.
If young men will not believe in themselves, no man or woman can believe in them.
Don't indulge in the luxury of strong opinions in the presence of your elders and betters.
If you haven't the moral courage to laugh at sneers, then you are another of nature's mistakes.
Don't talk about what you are going to do, then, if you fail to accomplish it, nobody will know.
If you learn that people say spiteful, wicked things about you, and untruthful things at that, be silent.
It isn't a very nice thing for a young man, or anyone for that matter, to smile in a superior way at ignorance.
Do not be afraid to go near your enemy. The nearer you get to a kicking horse, the less damage is done to your person.

Courtesies are indications of refinement and costing nothing, they help to make the wheels of life move more smoothly. It is not an elaborate attempt at politeness that true gentility consists, it is the simple homes expression of the genuine feelings of welfare of others. Our company politeness is generally superficial, because we are little or nothing to those we try to be polite to; but if we are interested in those at home and are anxious to make their lives pleasanter, we will give expression to that interest, and in doing that we will be doing a really polite thing, for such things can not be expressed in an impolite way. The cultivation of this expression will be the best possible education in true politeness.

Men are often found at places of amusement spending time in loafing, when they might find profitable employment at home, and be making themselves useful, if not ornamental—at the same time, they would stand higher in the estimation of their wives and every one else.

GOOD SUGGESTION TO CARLETON PLACE PEOPLE.

It is surprising the amount of old, foul matter the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler-I-ka, drains from the system. This remedy became famous by curing appendicitis and acts on BOTH the upper and lower bowel so thoroughly that ONE Dose relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation almost IMMEDIATELY. We are mighty glad we are Carleton Place agents for Adler-I-ka. W. J. Hughes, druggist.

The cup offered by Mr. Archibald Rosamond to the highest winner in the whole class in the children's exhibit at the Almonte Fair, was awarded to Miss Annie Mullett, of Carleton Place. The cup is a very handsome silver one, and becomes the property of the pupil winning it three times. In making the award first prizes count 4 points, second 3, third 2 and fourth 1 point.—Almonte Gazette.

FARM CO-OPERATION.

In Ohio in some of the wide awake counties farmers have united to retain, by law, officers whose business it is to spray all orchards every spring. This is wholly preventive. They spray when the trees are driest, and they never spray on a sunny, hot day with a liquid spray since it burns the plant to do so. This officer knows how and when to spray and which sprays are effective for each kind of insect. For instance, poisons which are effective for one sort of pest do not hurt stinging or boring or sucking insects. In this way a competent or expert man earns his salary and the farmer need not trouble his head with these details.

THE HESSIAN FLY.

Do Not Burn Wheat Stubble or Straw to Destroy It.

Don't burn your wheat stubble or straw stacks this summer for the purpose of destroying the Hessian fly. The burning of the stubble or wheat straw in the stacks not only fails to destroy the fly, but will lead to the destruction of organic matter and plant food.

The Hessian fly would not be eradicated by burning because the fly passes its resting stage in the summer not only in the straw and stubble above ground, but also in the crown of the plant, so low that it could not be destroyed by burning. The parasite which preys upon the Hessian fly passes the summer in the fly located in the straw and the stubble above the ground. If the wheatfields are burned the parasite preying on the fly will be killed.

There is no danger of increasing the injury from the Hessian fly by spreading straw as a top dressing upon the field. The top dressing of straw upon the field does not furnish winter protection to the fly. Wheat which has been infested with the jointworm and the greater wheat strawworm in large numbers should not be spread on the field. These insects make their presence known by the large number of white heads in the field. If there was a large number of white heads of wheat in your field do not spread straw on the field. This infested straw, however, may be used as a top dressing on corn ground if the straw be worked into the ground early in the spring.

The best method of controlling the Hessian fly is to prevent the growth of volunteer wheat in summer and fall and to delay the seeding of the wheat until most of the flies have deposited their eggs. The best method of handling wheat ground is to disk the stubble as quickly as possible after harvest and to plow the ground deep after the volunteer wheat starts.

Liquid Manure.

Liquid manure is a stimulant and not a substitute for manure of a more solid character. It is taken up by straw or other bedding material.

Solid manure on heavy soils should be applied liberally in the autumn and turned under. Liquid manure is beneficial when applied while the plants are making growth or in early stages of flowering or fruiting. Flowering plants receive the greatest benefit from liquid manure before the buds show color, vegetables when about half grown, foliage plants when new growth has become well advanced and fruit trees when the fruit is half developed. Plants that are to receive treatment with liquid manure should first receive an application of pure water.

Liquid manure is prepared from the excrement of horses, cows, sheep, pigeons or chickens or from commercial fertilizers. The first two are generally used. For use in the garden a supply of this useful liquid can be had by arranging a barrel as shown in the illustration.

The barrel is placed on a platform or table high enough to permit a pail or watering can to be set under the spigot. A metal pail is placed on the side and bottom, and the fertilizer placed in the pail, which is suspended in the barrel with rope or wire, and the barrel is then filled with water. A bag can be used in place of the pail and will permit of stirring somewhat by turning the bag and raising and lowering it until the water has extracted the fertilizer material, when it will be ready for use, first diluting the liquid with water until it is of the color of weak tea. Chicken and pigeon manure is very strong, and only a peck should be used to thirty-two gallons of water.

Always apply liquid manure directly to the roots of the plants, being careful not to wet the foliage or flowers. Pot plants should not be treated oftener than once a week.

Woman's World

Sister of the Kaiser, Who is Exceedingly Pro-German.

QUEEN SOPHIA OF GREECE.

Queen Sophia has made it quite clear to the members of the reigning house and to the statesmen of Greece—has, indeed, publicly announced to the people of the land of her adoption—that she will leave it forever in the event of its joining the powers of the triple entente against her brother, the Kaiser, and his allies.

Her name will be commemorated at Athens by one of the strangest of memorials, for whereas King Constantine's mother, Queen Olga's, name is identified with the magnificent Evangelismos hospital, founded, endowed and managed by herself, that of her German daughter-in-law is associated with the principal slaughter house of the Greek metropolis.

Some years ago Queen Sophia's attention was attracted to the shockingly insanitary condition of the then existing abattoirs and to the needless cruelty attending the killing of cattle, sheep and swine. Accordingly she caused to be built at Athens at her own expense a great central abattoir, equipped with all the most up to date appliances, and presented it to the city. The municipality of Athens naturally accepted the gift with gratitude and by way of showing its appreciation of the kindness of the royal donor called the great slaughter house in question "the Sophia."

RADISH ROSES.

Radish roses are not hard to make, and they are very attractive when served as a salad garnish or with celery and olives. Make two deep cuts at right angles in the radish, but leave the ends intact. Then loosen the red skin and place the radishes in ice water. The water makes the skin curl back like rose leaves. A tiny bit of the green stem left on the radish heightens the rose effect.

Pakenham Mill Burned.

Fire which broke out mysteriously Sunday night week, as the wind was blowing a gale, destroyed the flour mill at Pakenham, owned and operated by the Renfrew Flour Mills Co. The mill which was a stone structure, and modern in every way, was totally destroyed, together with 5,000 bushels of wheat and several hundred bags of flour. The elevator and office also burned, as well as the residence of Mrs. Joseph Case, located near by. An estimate of the loss cannot be given as yet, but it is heavy. Insurance is carried in different companies.

For Damp Basements.

If your basements, or cellars are damp, fruits and meats, or, in fact, many other articles of food, will not keep. Get a bushel of unsalted lime and set lumps of it about in pans or old kettles or boxes, and this will sweeten the atmosphere and absorb the moisture. The lumps of lime will "slack" and fall to pieces as it is doing its work. Leave the lime in the damp corners for some time. The lime can be used after it has sufficed in the damp places, to sweeten the soil of your garden beds, or as a wash for walls and fences. The lime is not expensive, and is worth all it costs in guarding against sickness which comes from dampness about the house.

A London Opinion of Sir Sam.

The London World says: Everyone is pleased with the Knighthood conferred on Gen. Sam Hughes, though no personality has ever puzzled people so much. He is variously described on the one hand as a military genius, and on the other as a pushful political amateur. He has extraordinary characteristics. He discussed war matters with Lord Kitchener with a soul-stirring breadth of expression and energy; he is credited with having telegraphed long since to Sir John French and at very great length, telling him the way to dig trenches. The old-fashioned military men snort violently if you mention Sam Hughes' name; the up-to-date combatant likes him and admires him. If he says he is going to do anything he does it. His story as how he attended the military manoeuvres in 1913 would make amusing reading. Even his own Canadians can never agree about his precise value. But Hughes is an asset. He possesses all the bulldog characteristics and you can rest assured that, if he says he will, he will infallibly "deliver the goods." In these days such a man is a godsend, even if he somewhat rasps our finer sentiments at times.

Windows Bear Honor Badges.

It is impossible to dissociate yourself from the effects of the present war wherever you go, even in this peaceful little town (Arundel, Eng.). Even in the cottages it was recalled to your notice by an emblem in the shape of a card with a cross printed in red, white and blue, displayed in the windows.

This was a novelty I had not seen elsewhere, and was on view in both the finest houses and the humblest cottages. I think it a splendid idea, as it shows at a glance who has taken the King's shilling from that house and also notifies the recruiting sergeant that his services are not needed there. It was no unusual sight to see a row of cottages with at least one card in each window; some had two, three, even four.

At one house that had three cards in the window, I was told, the husband and two sons had gone. At another with four the mother told me that they were all sons and she was proud of it. I remarked to one lady in mourning and who had three cards in her window that her neighbor had four sons in the service. She replied: "So did I a few months ago, but one was killed in action last October."—James H. Hare in Leslie's Weekly.

No Suffragette.

A teacher in a Winnipeg school is much interested in female suffrage and is working hard to assist in securing the franchise for the women of Manitoba. She brought a copy of the petition, which was circulated last week, down to the school to secure the signatures of the other teacher.

"I am surprised that you should ask me to sign such a petition," indignantly exclaimed one young lady.

"What is your objection to it?" queried the other.

"It is only a step from signing petitions to breaking windows," said the young lady sternly, "and I could never permit myself to become so undignified."

AGRICULTURAL INSTRUCTION COACHES.

The Canadian Pacific Railway and the Ontario Department of Agriculture are co-operating in running a couple of demonstration cars over the C.P.R. lines in Ontario. The route will be about the same as that followed two years ago last spring, and nearly all the points to be visited were included in the former itinerary. The results following the instruction of two years ago, and the appreciation shown by the farmers, leads us to anticipate a very successful series of meetings, especially since plans have been made to hold evening meetings at most places, when a leading feature will be moving pictures.

The work will begin on October 4th and continue until November 15th. Thirty-seven places will be visited, a whole day being spent at each point. At most places the car will be open for inspection from 10 o'clock until 5 or 5.30. Please see special announcements as to the time to be spent at each place. Not only the farmers, but the women and children will find much of interest in the exhibits and literature to be distributed. All should be deeply interested in the evening meetings.

The Live Stock Coach will contain animals exhibiting desirable characteristics of our heavy horses, beef and dairy cattle, poultry, swine and sheep. Arrangements will be made at points to have some stock belonging to the farmers in the locality concerned brought to the train to be compared with that furnished by the Department. Placing before the farmers typical animals of our leading breeds and comparing them with the best to be found in the local herds should prove very instructive. One coach will be devoted to exhibits illustrating seed selection and improvement, identification of weeds, testing of seed, drainage, and soil moisture, growing of alfalfa, corn, insect pests, protection from lightning, dairying, poultry raising, etc. All farmers should find much of interest and value in this demonstration car as well as in the judging of stock.

Capable, experienced men will demonstrate the judging of live stock each afternoon from 2 to 5 p.m. Raised seats will be provided, and, if the weather demands it, a tent will be erected so that the work can be carried on with comfort to both instructors and audience.

Trustees and teachers are requested to allow pupils of the High school and the larger pupils of the Public school to visit the demonstration cars, say, in the late forenoon, or at such other time as may be arranged with the instructors in charge. All children are invited to view the moving pictures to be shown at evening meetings, where electricity is available.

The horse-breeder, the beef-producer, the dairyman, the sheep farmer, poultryman, and especially the general farmer, will find much of interest on the train and in the lectures given. They should prove more attractive than a regular exhibition, because we will not have so much to see that the visitor will become confused, and besides there will be no counter attractions. The date for Carleton Place is October 13, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. with afternoon meeting in the town hall.

Hallinan-Pennett.

The marriage of Miss Clara J. Pennett, daughter of Miss L. Pennett, and Mr. Peter Hallinan was celebrated in St. Francis de Sales church last Wednesday morning by Rev. Father Rheaume, assisted by Rev. Father Fay, Ottawa. The altar was prettily and appropriately ornamented with flowers. High mass was celebrated and during the offertory Miss Mona Shanks sang. Mr. Clint, Miss Albina Legault and Mr. Muldoon, Mrs. Clint and Ed. Droughan contributed solos. Miss Kathleen Hart, of Prescott, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Dan Hallinan, nephew of the groom, was groomsmen. After the ceremony the young couple repaired to the home of the bride's mother, where a wedding-dinner was served, the table decorations being smilax and asters. The bride's wedding gown was of white brocade satin, the bridesmaid's of pink Georgette crepe. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses, the bridesmaid's bouquet being of pink roses. The bride's travelling suit was of navy blue cheviot, military style, with blue velvet hat to match. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl pendant, to the bridesmaid a pearl crescent and to the groomsmen a pair of cuff links. The bride received a large number of costly and beautiful presents. The young couple left on the afternoon train for Port William, Winnipeg, and Edmonton, and on their return will reside here. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mrs. J. Nolan, Mrs. F. McNally, of Newboro; Miss A. Morrissey, Jasper; Rev. Father Fay, Mrs. E. Hallinan, Ottawa; Miss Kathleen Hart, Prescott, and Pte. Fred Pruner, Petawawa. The bride is one of the best known young ladies of Smiths Falls. Her friends are many, and she begins her married life with sincere and good wishes from all the residents of town, every one of whom know her and esteem her. She is a social favorite, and a most energetic worker in St. Francis de Sales church. The groom is a well known C.P.R. conductor, enjoying the confidence of the officials and the good friendship of his fellow employees.—News.

STEFANSSON GOES ON WITH HIS WORK

Explorer Is Ascertaining Extent of His New Discovery.

SEVEN MONTHS OF HUNGER

After Ninety Days of Travel Northwards He and His Companions Turned Back and Later Made Another Trip—He Makes Light of Experience in the Ice Fields.

CAPTAIN S. F. COTTLE, of the steamer Ruby, who brought first word of the safety of Vilhjalmur Stefansson after the explorer had been given up for lost for nearly two years, says that Stefansson is now on Banks Land, east of the Mackenzie, outfitting for continuance of the explorations to the eastward to ascertain the full extent of the new land. He has discovered south-west of St. Patrick's Land. Stefansson discovered a continuation of the continental shelf several degrees west of Banks Land and even determined its southern limits.

V. STEFANSSON.

but was unable to continue his explorations to the north and west. Stefansson told Cottle that, after leaving the supporting party on the ice north of Martin Point, he and his hardy companions set their faces to the north, but after continuing their journey ninety days they decided to return to land. They turned back and landed on the mainland at a point near which the power boat, Mary Sachs, of the Stefansson expedition was wintering. Here the three men outfitting for another three months' trip. They again went upon the ice, going north and west and discovering the continental shelf.

Stefansson spent some time exploring his new find, but at length owing to scarcity of provisions, was compelled to set out on the return journey to land. The men had been on the ice for nearly seven months. The return to shore was accomplished with great difficulty. The men subsisted on the most meagre rations, but kept moving day after day. The dogs were almost famished. Finally the party arrived at Banks Land thoroughly worn out. For seven months they had been on scanty rations, traveling almost continuously.

Stefansson and his companions made their way from Banks Land which is uninhabited, to Bailey Island, which is visited by whalers. Capt. Louis Lane, cruising on his power schooner, Polar Bear, found Stefansson and his companions making their way along the south-western coast of Bailey Island. They were in excellent health and spirits, and eager to reach the southern wing of the expedition, that they might obtain supplies and continue their explorations.

Stefansson had expected to fall in with the Polar Bear just as he did. He immediately chartered the schooner and with Capt. Lane proceeded northward at once in the hope of making further discoveries while the sea was open and free of ice. The season was too far advanced, however, and the explorers reluctantly steered for Herschel Island. The Polar Bear was at Herschel Island when the power schooner Ruby, which had been trying for two years to reach the island, arrived there from Port Clarence with supplies for the Hudson Bay Company.

Immediately upon arriving at Herschel Island Stefansson began preparations for continuance of his explorations. He purchased the Polar Bear for $20,000 from Captain Lane, and bought also the power boat Glad-lator, a small vessel engaged in trading along the coast. After fully equipping these vessels Stefansson sailed with them for Banks Land, where he probably is now.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson II.—Fourth Quarter, For Oct. 10, 1915.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, II Kings ii, 1-12. Memory Verses, 11, 12—Golden Text, Ps. xvi, 11—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The first book of Kings ends with a brief record of Ahab's successor, his son Ahaziah, who walked in the ways of his father and mother and of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, who made Israel to sin. There is also the record of the death of Jehoshaphat, as well as a brief record of his good reign. The second book of Kings opens with a record of the sickness and death of the son of Ahab, how he sent to inquire of Baal-zebub instead of the true God, and the Lord sent Elijah to meet the messengers and tell them that because the king had turned from God to idols he would surely die. Then follows the record of the two captains and their fifties who were sent to take Elijah, but were destroyed by fire from heaven. Compare Rev. xi, 3-6, and note that one of the two witnesses of those days will probably be this same Elijah.

Turning to our lesson for the day, we have one of the most interesting and fascinating records in the Bible, the translation to heaven without dying of the man who lay down under the juniper tree and wanted to die. There will be a generation of believers who will not die, but be caught up, changed in a moment, to meet the Lord in the air, and, for aught we know, it may be the generation now living (I Cor. xv, 51-53; I Thess. iv, 16-18). The last walk together of these two men, Elijah and Elisha, is thrillingly suggestive. As they went from place to place Elijah's "Tarry here, I pray thee," and Elisha's reply, "As the Lord liveth and as thy soul liveth I will not leave thee," remind us of the devotion of Ruth and of Ittai (Ruth i, 16-18; II Sam. xv, 21) and also of Paul when he said: "None of these things move me; neither count I my life dear unto myself." "I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus." "Yea, doubtless, and I count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord" (Acts xx, 24; xxi, 13; Phil. iii, 8).

Nothing less than this should be our devotion to the Lord Jesus Christ. The words in verses 2, 4, 6, 8 and 11 are continually with me. So they went down, so they came, and they two went on, and they two stood, they two went over, they still went on. Thus, no doubt, that other translated man, Enoch, walked with God until he went home. The only requisite for such a walk is, first, redemption by His blood and then to be fully agreed with Him about everything (Amos iii, 3). How wonderful that God Himself will dwell in us and walk in us, and how we do fail to appreciate or realize it! (II Cor. vi, 16). As they went on together on the east of Jordan, the waters of the river having parted for them, Elijah said to his companion, "Ask what I shall do for thee before I be taken away from thee" (verse 9).

Wicked men have oft said something like this, at least the first part of it, as the king to Esther and Herod to Herodias. It is not long since we heard the Lord say it to Solomon. Our Lord Jesus said it to the blind man, but what shall we say of John xiv, 13, 14, written for us and being said to us continually, "Whatsoever ye shall ask in my name that I will do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son." Elisha wanted something very definitely, and he asked for it, and he fulfilled the conditions, and he received it. The conditions seemed easy, but they implied intense and unwearied steadfastness.

If we would walk with the Lord and look upon Him and unto Him as intently as Elisha looked upon Elijah that day we would see some desires granted. We must ask expectantly, believingly, persistently, in His name and for His glory. Well, Elisha did not fail in looking. He saw Elijah taken and received what he sought, and others saw that he had received it. He rent his own clothes, suggesting the end of self, took up the mantle of Elijah that fell from him, smote the waters, and they parted hither and thither, and Elisha went over. The sons of the prophets were watching, and they said, "The spirit of Elijah doth rest on Elisha" (verses 14, 15). If we are redeemed we are here in Christ's stead to manifest His life and do His works by His spirit dwelling in us.

The request of the young man to be permitted to look for Elijah test the spirit of the Lord might have taken him to some mountain or valley was finally granted by Elisha, though he knew how vain it would be. When Enoch was taken he also was sought for, but was not found, as we learn from Heb. xi, 5. What a search for the missing ones there will be when the church is taken, but not one shall be found. Yet as truly as Elijah was seen with Christ on the Mount of Transfiguration about 900 years later, so when Christ, who is our life, shall appear we shall appear with Him in glory (Col. iii, 4) when He shall return to the earth to set up His kingdom, fulfilling the transfiguration fore-shadowing. The constant expectation of being caught up to meet the Lord in the air will tend to separate us from this present evil age.

BULGARIA SUBSIDING?

Rodoslavoff's Efforts to Offset Ruler's Greed May Prove Failure.

Now that definite news is at hand regarding the great allied drive on the Western front, and the Russian offensive on the East, it seems likely that Bulgaria will resign the lime-light which she has held when other war news was scarce. It has been amply evident that Czar Ferdinand, whom H. G. Wells dubbed "The Fox of the Balkans," intends to be on the winning side. He wants a large slice of Macedonia, and when it seemed good policy to be pro-German he leaned in that direction. When the victory of the Champagne was reported Bulgaria hastily announced that her mobilization was to resist a German invasion.

The interesting figure in the situation is the Bulgarian Prime Minister, M. Radoslavoff, who, although official adviser to the king, is at heart pro-Russian, and therefore anti-Auton. Radoslavoff, as his name indicates, is a Slav, and during the past few months he has had the difficult task of engineering his country into sympathetic relations with Russia, and, failing that, a safe neutrality in spite of the Teutonic ambitions of his monarch Ferdinand.

Whether or not the Allies will accept Bulgaria's new attitude or will drive into that country remains to be seen. C. F. Bertelli, discussing the situation, says: "Strange though it may seem, everybody in Paris is delighted with the Bulgarian menace against the allies. A Balkan diplomat informed me that Bulgaria made a ghastly mistake, and that the Allies will not allow her to escape the consequences, even though she refrains from attacking Serbia."

Two Kettles of Water.

Sir Robert Hart, speaking of marriage and death customs in the far east, told a story of a great Chinese scholar and high official who said that the foreign way of letting the young people fall in love and choose and the Chinese way of first marrying and then making acquaintance reminded him of two kettles of water. The first—the foreign—was taken at the boiling point from the fire by marriage and then grew cooler and cooler, whereas the second—the Chinese—was a kettle of cold water put on the fire by wedlock and ever afterward growing warmer and warmer, "so that," said his friend, "after fifty or sixty years we are made in love with each other"—Exchange.

Why He Was Careful.

A man who believed in pedestrianism coaxed a friend to accompany him on a little jaunt. Every time they crossed the road his friend looked first one way and then the other and refused to budge if there chanced to be a motorcar in sight.

"It's all well enough to be careful," said the pedestrian, "but you seem to have let automobiles get on your nerves."

"I've good reason to be careful," answered his friend. "The insurance policy I carry is void if I get run over by one."—Judge.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

$35,000 to be Asked for a New High School.
Minutes of regular meeting held in the Council Chamber, Monday, Oct. 4, 1915, at 8 o'clock, p.m.

Present: Messrs. Richards, Findlay, Cornell, Abbott, Muirhead, Warren, Caswell, McNeely, Riddell, McCallum.

Minutes of previous meeting read, approved and signed by the Chairman.

Letters were read from the Penny Bank, Bates & Innes, Hawthorne Mills, Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Principals Wethey and Robertson presented their reports for September. Accounts were read and the Finance Committee reported on them as follows:

Your Finance Committee beg to recommend payment of the following accounts:—

HIGH SCHOOL.

Total..... $37 73

Moved by Mr. Riddell, seconded by Mr. Caswell, that the above report be adopted.—Carried.

The Chairman reported that the Secretary had advertised in two Ottawa papers for a qualified teacher for the Public School but had received no qualified applications and had engaged Miss L. McAllister for the position and asked the Board to ratify his actions.

Moved by Mr. Riddell, seconded by Mr. McNeely, that Miss L. McAllister be engaged as teacher in the Public School at a salary of $500 per annum until the Xmas holidays.—Carried.

A discussion took place on the old question of a new High School or an addition to the present building. The Chairman urged that some action be taken at this meeting.

Moved by Mr. Riddell, seconded by Mr. McCallum, that the Board of Education ask the Municipal Council of Carleton Place for the sum of $35,000 for the purpose of building a new High School.—Carried.

The Chairman with Messrs. Findlay, McNeely and McCallum were named as a committee to support the motion before the Council.

Principal Robertson reported that the teachers of the Public School had received an invitation from the Ramsay township teachers to attend the Ramsay Rural Fair to be held on Oct. 6th and asked for a half holiday on that day.

Moved by Mr. Muirhead, seconded by Mr. Warren, that the Public School teachers and pupils be granted a half holiday to attend the Ramsay Rural Fair on Oct. 6th.—Carried.

The Penny Bank system was discussed for a time and Messrs. Findlay, Riddell and Warren were named a committee to look into the matter and report.

The Chairman drew the attention of the Board to the arrears of fees owing the Board on account of non-resident pupils. The Chairman of Finance Committee asked to have the matter left to that Committee and thought a settlement could be arrived at.

Board now adjourned.

N. D. McCallum,
Secretary.

OFFENSIVE CONTINUES

Further Progress Made in Artois and Champagne.

French in Grand Air Raid Drop Bombs on the Kaiser's Headquarters at Luxembourg—Violent German Counter Attacks Are Repulsed—Allies Are Making Preparations for a New Drive With Vigorous Shelling.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—The headquarters of the Kaiser in the west, recently moved to Luxembourg, the capital of the Grand Duchy, were bombarded by French aviators yesterday. The official communiqué making this announcement does not mention the probable amount of damage done, but merely states that the raid was made.

It was learned some time ago that when the Kaiser moved from the eastern front to the western front on the occasion of the combined French and British offensive, he established his headquarters at Luxembourg. They had previously been at Charleville, which is somewhat closer to the firing line.

The French attack in Artois and in Champagne is being continued without abatement. Last night's communiqué states a slight advance was made in Artois south of the Givenchy wood. The fighting here is in support of the British a few miles to the north. Both forces are gradually drawing around Lens, which, as the key to Lille, is the first objective in this region.

The German rail communications in all of the district north and south of Lens are seriously crippled already by the advances of the British and French forces, the new positions conquered in this vicinity affording the batteries of the allies a pretty clean sweep of the surrounding country. Because of this fact the arrival of supplies and ammunition is greatly hampered, and the defence of the positions affected is rendered just so much more difficult.

Both in Artois and in Champagne the Germans Saturday night and Sunday sought to recover sections of their lost positions, but in every instance they were completely repulsed. In the Vosges, where there has been but little activity since the battle in Champagne and Artois began, Germans yesterday endeavored to throw liquid fire into the French trenches. The attempt failed, however, and the trenches were held. As a measure of reprisal a German mine works was destroyed, a counter-mine being exploded so as to destroy the enemy's works.

French aviators made a great raid Saturday on the railway line running at the rear of the German positions and serving as a means of communication between the German armies in Champagne and the Argonne. Sixty-five aeroplanes were utilized in the raid, and over 300 bombs were dropped on the railway station at Vouziers, the aviation ground near Vouziers, and the railway station at Challerange junction, south-east of Vouziers. This railway is the objective for which the French in this region are now fighting.

STILL AT ODDS.

Germany Fails to Satisfy the Demands of the United States.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Germany has failed to satisfy the request of the United States that the sinking of the Arabic with a loss of American lives be disavowed and liability for the act assumed by the Imperial Government. This became known after a conference last night between President Wilson and Secretary of State Lansing, at which the latter submitted a note to the German government.

No announcement was made after the White House conference. Secretary Lansing said merely that it was inadvisable to comment on the situation while the negotiations were still confidential.

While the situation has improved to the extent that there is no danger of an immediate break in diplomatic relations, as the note affords an opportunity for further negotiation, it was stated reliably that final refusal by Germany to meet the American viewpoint on the Arabic case might bring about the threatened rupture.

Operations in Caucasus.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 4.—The following official statement was issued yesterday at the headquarters of the army of the Caucasus:

"Our reconnoitring parties operated successfully Thursday in the direction of Olti and Melazghert. There have been encounters between our cavalry and the Turks near the villages of Moyola and Dondan. In the region of Van our troops are pressing the Turks near Vastan."

A later statement says: "In the direction of Olti Friday an attempt on the part of the Turks to open an offensive between Mounts Duraketa, and Tchilgasor was paralyzed. In the direction of Van our troops continued to press the enemy. We captured their positions west of Vastan after fighting. The pursuit of the enemy continues."

Zeppelin a Failure.

HAVANA, Oct. 4.—Santos Dumont, inventor of the original dirigible airship, passed through here yesterday on his way to New York. He says he believes the German Zeppelins have proved a failure from a military standpoint as in the present war they were known to have destroyed only non-combatants. On the other hand, he said, the aeroplane has been shown to be wonderfully effective in warfare.

THE CARLETON PLACE HERALD.

CANADIANS' SHARE.

They Carried Out a Demonstration to Draw Enemy Out.

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—Major-General Sir Sam Hughes last night received the following cable from Sir Max Aitken, general representative of the Minister of Militia in France:

"Canadian headquarters in France, October 3.—During the latter half of the period, September 20-30, a combined British and French offensive has been steadily developing. Fierce fighting has taken place at various points along the allied line in weather alternating brilliant sunshine and torrential rains."

"Progress has been made on our front. Hostile fire has been somewhat heavier than usual, and the enemy's artillery has been more aggressive, but with little net results. The enemy's aeroplanes and snipers have been particularly active."

"On the morning of Saturday, September 25, a demonstration was carried out by our divisions. The German trenches were heavily manned, and our artillery machine guns and rifle fire are believed to have caused numerous casualties. The enemy's official communiqué stated that an attack had been made by us and had been repulsed with heavy loss. This, of course, is false."

"Reports indicate considerable movement of troops in the rear of the enemy's lines opposite our front. Our working parties have repaired the slight damage to our wire and parapets caused by the enemy's shell fire, and have been continuously employed improving our lines. Our patrols continue to be very active at night."

"Major H. H. Matthews has assumed command of the 8th Infantry Battalion."

TWO TRENCHES RETAKEN.

British Recapture Positions Which Enemy Had Recovered.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The British delivered a counter-attack Friday night on the Teutonic forces south-west of Fosse, France, and achieved their objective, which was two German trenches, according to a report received from Field Marshal Sir John French, Commander-in-Chief of the British army in the field.

The Field Marshal's communication, received under date of 10 p.m., October 2, was given out by the British War Office as follows: "We delivered a counter-attack last night and achieved our objective, which was two German trenches south-west of Fosse, which the enemy had recovered in his counter-attack of the 26th. There have been no other events on our front."

A member of the Canadian emigration staff in the Royal Artillery, writing from the front on Monday, says: "Yesterday we were driving the Germans back with their own guns, which our infantry had captured. I think the Germans are on their last reserves, judging by the prisoners taken. They are either old men or boys, most of them in a bad state, and seem glad to fall into our hands. By all accounts, the Germans were more than surprised, as they thought we had settled down for the winter. We have had heavy rain again and are in an awful mess."

BODY IN OLD WELL.

Mystery of Disappearance of Young Italian Partially Solved.

BURK'S FALLS, Oct. 4.—A murder has, it is alleged, been committed near Whitehall, in the district of Parry Sound. A young Italian, James de George, a lumber jobber by occupation, disappeared about September 14. He had been working for Richard Cassan, a small farmer living near Whitehall, who, with his wife, is now under arrest.

District Constable Stewart had his suspicions aroused by certain statements alleged to have been made by Cassan and his wife. Yesterday Constables Stewart and Johnson returned to Whitehall with a search party, and at 3 p.m. found the body of the murdered man in an old well about forty rods from Cassan's house. The body had been thrown in headfirst. There was a bullet wound, apparently entering the back between the shoulders and passing out through the chest, and a large gash in the head. Cassan and his wife were arrested and brought to Burk's Falls lock-up. Dr. H. L. Barber, coroner, Burk's Falls, left last night for the scene of the murder to hold a post-mortem.

Absinthe for Explosives.

PARIS, Oct. 4.—Stocks of absinthe now are being converted into an ingredient for explosives at a co-operative distillery at Pontoise, which has been supplying clear alcohol extracted from beet roots to Government explosive factories, where it is used in the manufacture of gun cotton. Unable to supply the demand, the managers of the distillery conceived the idea of buying up the stocks of the forbidden beverage which had been sealed in the warehouses of manufacturers. The liquor is transformed chemically into alcohol under the supervision of four Government inspectors.

Spanish Steamer Wrecked.

BILBAO, Spain, Oct. 4.—The Spanish steamer Millan-Carrasco has been wrecked near here, eleven members of her crew being drowned. The Millan-Carrasco was a small vessel, of 667 tons gross. She was built in 1874, and was owned by As Millan, in Cadix.

Six British Vessels Sunk.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The Admiralty announces that six British merchantmen, aggregating 20,727 tons, were sunk in the week ending Sept. 29. In the same period the arrivals and sailings from ports of the United Kingdom totalled 1,387.

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE.

At the beginning of the war some people thought women's suffrage would be one of the issues which would drop out of sight for some time. As a matter of fact, however, the movement is gaining ground rapidly. The Alberta government has announced that a women's suffrage bill will be introduced at the coming session. A similar bill will also be introduced at the first session of the Norris government in Manitoba, and the issue is becoming a very keen one in Saskatchewan with prospects of some action very soon.

When the women of the three prairie provinces have full provincial rights of voting and when, as is likely, this will extend to votes in federal elections, for provincial lists are used in both contests, a great impetus will be given to the movement for women's suffrage in the provinces where success at present does not seem near, for the women of one part of the country will not want to be discriminated against as compared with women in other provinces, in the field of federal as well as provincial politics.

Col. Garnet B. Hughes, son of Sir Sam Hughes, has been promoted to the rank of brigadier-general by General Alderson, and he will command the first brigade of the Canadians in succession to General Mercer.

William Robb, City Treasurer of Montreal for 47 years till about four years ago, dropped dead as he was entering a gathering of elders of Erskine Presbyterian Church, to prepare for the communion service.

The publication or sale of any photograph or drawing of any ship in the British navy will henceforth be a penal offence. An Admiralty order to this effect, to remain in force during the continuance of the war.

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines in Ontario, denied the report that Mr. Albert Grigg, M.P.P. for Algoma, had been appointed to succeed the late Mr. Aubrey White, C.M.G., as Deputy Minister of the department.

The entire Canadian front has been the scene of a vigorous artillery duel for the past ten days. The Canadian-made explosive has proved very effective and the Canadians have suffered only slight losses when the nature of the duel is taken into account.

British forces now in France are estimated at around one million men, which will be increased by 500,000. Daily lengthening of the obituary columns of the London newspapers is beginning to measure the price paid by the British for their recent offensive.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

DISTRICT NEWS.

APPLETON.

Special to THE HERALD. Mr. E. Robertson, of Chapleau, called on friends on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Snedden and sons, of Pakenham, spent Sunday with Mrs. Jas. Wilson.

Dr. N. Guthrie, of Baltimore, spent the week-end with Rev. A. D. and Mrs. Fraser.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Paul, of Carleton Place, spent Sunday with their son, Mr. Frank Paul.

We are sorry to hear that Mr. David Fumerton is on the sick list. Last Wednesday he went to the General Hospital in Ottawa, where he underwent a painful operation on Friday morning, by Dr. R. E. Webster. He was doing well at the last report.

Mr. Lorne Fumerton spent Sunday in Ottawa.

Mrs. Cameron returned on Saturday from a visit with friends in Lanark.

Miss W. Teskey is visiting with Mrs. F. Forsythe at Cedar Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ashman and family motored from Ottawa on Sunday to visit his father.

Mrs. David Fumerton is visiting friends in Ottawa.

Mr. G. Glossop, of Ottawa, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Pye.

The ladies will meet at the home of Mrs. R. M. Baird on Thursday.

Rev. A. D. Fraser, with Masters Edgar and Harold, attended the exhibition at Middleville last Friday.

Anyone willing to give feathers or pillows, for the Red Cross, may leave them at the home of Miss Minnie McGregor.

The anniversary services were held in St. Andrews church on Sunday morning and evening. Rev. Dr. Guthrie preached at both services.

In the morning he took for his text 2 Cor. 5:14: "For the love of Christ constraineth us." In the evening his subject was "Character Building, and the text he chose was Matt. 25th chap. and last verse.

The music was excellent under the leadership of Mrs. A. D. Fraser. On Monday evening the teaming was held.

The following program was given, the choir of St. Andrews church, Carleton Place, furnished the music. Chairman's remarks, Rev. A. D. Fraser; chorus by the choir; quartette, Messrs. Carmichael, Warren, Davis and McGregor; solo, Miss Berryman; chorus, "Men of Harlech"; solo and encore, Mrs. Monds; chorus, "Sweet and Low," choir; solo and encore, Miss Agnes Dunfield; chorus, choir; solo and encore, Miss Berryman; male quartette and encore, "Scots Wha Hae," Messrs. Carmichael, Warren, Davis and McGregor. Dr. Guthrie was then called on to give an address on Phases of the War.

He spoke of the Military, Commercial and Religious Ideals—this is not essentially a religious war, there is no distinctive religious aim of the war, the war is not being conducted by prayer-meetings. Sherman says "War is Hell."

What is the British Army, Dr. Guthrie's definition was most clear and lucid showing that her colonies were with her in her fight for what she believed to be right and all her flag represents. It was not the first Empire. The speaker told of Rome when she was at the height of her splendor and power, also the Mahomedan Empire and last of all the French Empire under Napoleon.

Mrs. Monds gave another solo, after which refreshments were served. Mr. W. Stevenson was accompanist of the evening.

The congregation of St. Andrew's church are to be congratulated on the success of their anniversary services throughout. The sermons of Rev. Dr. Guthrie were especially inspiring.

Mrs. R. O'Connell is visiting with her daughter, Mrs. J. P. Ryan, Ottawa.

Mr. Melo O'Brien, son of Mrs. P. J. O'Brien, of Edmonton, has entered the office of Short, Cross, McLean & Laidlaw, as a law student.

Honor Roll for September in the Appleton school: IV Class—1, Ivan Turner, 2, Eddie O'Brien. Sr. III—1, David Lorimer, 2, Mac Turner, 3, Allan Neilson. Jr. III—1, Lillian Neilson, 2, Grace Reynolds, 3, Bessie Fumerton and Maggie Kellough. Jr. II—1, Ivy Reynolds, 2, Morna Black, 3, Stella O'Brien. Sr. I—1, Earle Kellough, 2, Rosella O'Brien, 3, Harold Turner. Jr. I—1, Yola MacDougal, 2, Harry Fumerton, 3, Elsie Fraser, 4, Edna Baird, 5, Harold Fraser, 6, Ross Turner. Jr. Fr.—1, Edie Paul, 2, Elizabeth Owens, 3, Rachel Baird.

BOYD'S

Special to THE HERALD.

Beautiful autumn weather. Messrs. Lloyd Bolton and Willie Rothwell, of Innisville, are cutting corn here this week.

Mrs. Alf. Hammond returned from her trip West last week, having enjoyed almost two months visiting friends in different parts of Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Mr. W. J. McCall and daughter, Miss Esther, spent most of last week visiting friends around Renfrew, Beachburg and Cobden.

Mr. W. H. Donahue, of Carleton Place, was engaged in the neighborhood last week roofing a silo.

Some from here took in the school fair in Drummond last Wednesday afternoon.

The reflection from the fire near Middleville could be very plainly seen here last Friday evening.

Rev. Mr. Mullen, of Lanark village, exchanged pulpits last Sabbath here with Rev. Dustin.

Mr. Reynor, of the Department of Agriculture, of Ottawa will speak in the Methodist church here next Sabbath, Oct. 10th at 3 p.m., in the interests of the Missionary Society. Everybody is welcome.

Taylor's deliver Good Dry Wood at $1.50 per load.

ALMONTE.

From the Gazette.

The rural telephone lines in the surrounding country were nearly all disabled by the windstorm on Sunday.

Mrs. Jas. McPhail and little daughter go to Carleton Place this week, where they join Mr. McPhail and will take up residence.

Wesley Lawford, son of Mr. S. Lawford, who has been in Toronto for the past three weeks undergoing surgical treatment, returned home on Tuesday.

Miss Emeline Ramsay left for New York this Thursday morning to resume her work as professional nurse.

The high wind dismantled the wings of Mr. J. B. Wylie's windmill and laid Capt. Bell's down flat, frame and all.

Mrs. Gordon Mayhew, of Ottawa, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. O'wird.

The anniversary services of the Almonte Methodist church will be held on Sunday, October 31st, when Rev. Dr. Sparling, of Dominion church, Ottawa, will officiate.

Mr. R. G. Entwistle, principal of the public school, who is taking up extramural work in connection with Queen's University, was in Ottawa this week writing on exams. in mathematics and geology, and was successful in both.

Mr. and Mrs. Holland on Monday received a letter from one of the nursing sisters stating that their son, Pte. J. A. Holland, had undergone an operation for appendicitis on Sept. 12th, but that he was making satisfactory progress.

Mr. J. D. Taylor is the latest add to the string of Ford owners in town. He bought the car that was at the Fair.

Mrs. Shaw, wife of Mr. Shaw, temporary C.P.R. agent here, was operated on at the Rosamond Memorial hospital on Tuesday by Dr. Webster, of Ottawa, who came up for that purpose.

Dr. McGregor's resignation of the office of registrar is timed to take effect on Friday of this week, but up to the present he has received no intimation of its acceptance or of the appointment of his successor. He is expected to leave about the first of October for Ottawa.

Taylor's are the Coal people. See us about your winter supply now.

PERTH.

From the Examiner.

George E. Bothwell, of the 51st Batt has been promoted to be lieutenant.

A freight was off the track for a time at the North street crossing last Saturday morning.

Mr. George Wilson, of the Scotch Line, presented the Exhibitor with a branch of red raspberry canes, last Friday, loaded with ripe red berries.

The Hicks House bus team ran away yesterday morning, from the station, and in their mad career tore across the bridge to the golf grounds. The bus weighs over a ton and the funny part is, the bridge was not considered safe for even a cow to cross.

George Gray, employed at the graphite works at Port Elmsley, suffered painful injury on Monday, when his right arm was caught in some cogs. The muscles and the elbow cap were torn. He was taken to St. John's hospital for treatment.

Two young men from Drummond were summoned to appear before the Police Magistrate in Perth for putting rails across the road, and were fined $10 each and $8.00 costs. They admitted the offence and pleaded hard to be let off with a nominal fine, and the Magistrate and Crown Attorney took a lenient view of the case, at the same time making it very plain to the young men that they had committed a serious offence, and one that might have led to disastrous results.

There were several cases before Judge Scott last week. The Italian peanut vendor, arrested in Ottawa, for forging post office saving cheques on a fellow countryman who had enlisted, was given nine months in the central. Gordon Bunnell, charged with the theft of a bicycle in Almonte over a year ago, admitted his offence, and was given the opportunity of enlisting instead of taking a sentence. He enlisted. Breden, the check artist, with no bank funds, pleaded guilty, and was given suspended sentence provided he enlisted. He was given his freedom here, and rearrested on a similar charge held against him in Kingston. He appeared before Judge Lavell in Kingston, pleaded guilty and enlisted under suspended sentence.

Special despatches from Petrograd all speak of the improvement of the Russian position, although there has been no noteworthy change on the Eastern front for some days.

Most of the hotelkeepers and retail liquor dealers in Ottawa have agreed not to serve men in military uniform on their premises after October 1 with anything stronger than lagers or ales.

BETRAYING HIS PEOPLE

Ferdinand of Bulgaria Determined to Aid Teutons.

Ultimatum Has Been Sent by Russia Backed by the Other Entente Powers Demanding that Bulgaria Break With the Alliance and Send Away Austrian and German Officers now in Command of Troops.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The Russian Minister at Sofia has been ordered by his Government to leave the Bulgarian capital to-day if Bulgaria does not openly break with the central powers and dismiss the Austro-German officers who recently arrived in that country to direct the operations of King Ferdinand's army.

The other powers of the Quadruple Entente are backing up Russia in this demand, and so Bulgaria must within a few hours decide on continued neutrality or be considered definitely committed to the central powers.

From the news received during the past few days from the Balkans it is considered certain that King Ferdinand and Premier Radoslavoff have made their choice, and are only awaiting the completion of mobilization to strike at Serbia and assist the Austro-Germans to open the road to Constantinople, which has been anxiously waiting for many weeks for promised aid from the central powers.

Greece, it is believed, will live up to her treaty with Serbia and come to her assistance if she is attacked by her neighbor, but the attitude of Roumania, which remains as only partially mobilized spectator, is a matter of uncertainty.

A Bucharest despatch says that it is unofficially announced there that Germany and Austria-Hungary have united in sending an ultimatum to the Roumanian Government demanding immediate transit for troops and ammunition through Roumania to Bulgaria and Turkey, where the forces at the Dardanelles are seriously in need of supplies of all kinds.

Great significance is attached to the reported ultimatum. This action is held to be the grounds for an Austro-German declaration of war against Roumania, for it is as certain as anything connected with the Balkan situation can be that Roumania will refuse the demand for transit of German troops. Such a refusal will be the grounds for a declaration of war.

On the other hand, there seems little doubt that Germany and Austria are only waiting for the completion of their mobilization to begin an invasion of Serbia. Knowing well that Roumania will refuse the demands made upon her, the Teutonic powers are apparently planning to strike south across the Danube into Serbia, while the Bulgarian forces, acting in concert, strike north.

A passage will afford the Germans opportunity to send supplies to Turkey, the end towards which they have been striving for the last six months.

The London morning papers echo Sir Edward Grey's words on the gravity of the situation in the Balkans. All the comments express the view that the Bulgarian nation is being made a pawn by King Ferdinand. Nobody believes that he has the nation behind him in his apparent intention to commit an act which is denounced as "insane" and as "dooming Bulgarian independence" if the Teutons should triumph, which is not expected here.

The Bulgarian King's personal ambition and his personal sympathies with the Teutons as a member of the House of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha are held to be the moving impulses in the reckless cast now about to be made.

PRUSSIAN LOSE 63,468.

Eleven Days of Fighting Have Caused Heavy Loss to Enemy.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 4.—The Prussian casualty lists No. 330 to No. 339, covering the period from September 17 to September 28, give the names of 63,468 men killed, wounded, and missing, according to The Nieuwe Rotterdamse Courant, of Rotterdam. The Courant says that these figures increase the total Prussian casualties to 1,916,148.

How the severity of the fighting recently has increased, continues the paper, is indicated by the following figures:

The lists from No. 300 to No. 309 announced 49,705 casualties; the lists from No. 310 to No. 319 contained 53,396 names; the lists from No. 320 to No. 329 gave 58,445 names, and the remaining lists as above.

Besides the Prussian lists there have been published 224 Bavarian, 199 Saxon, 274 Wurtemberg, 49 naval and four lists of Prussian officers and non-commissioned officers in the Turkish service.

2nd Canadian Division Under Fire. OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—The 2nd Canadian Division, now in the front trenches in France, is evidently getting its baptism of fire. A number of casualties were reported in the 2nd Division Sunday and Monday, while a few names of men and officers of the 1st Division are also filtering in. This indicates that the Canadians are now taking an active part in the allies' offensive movement. The list of casualties, however, so far is comparatively small, with the number killed less than a score. All next of kin have been promptly notified by the department.

Sang Anthem Indoors.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 4.—Baroness Dacrombrughe, a prominent Belgian woman and her son, have been sentenced to a month's imprisonment for singing "Brabanconne," the Belgian national anthem, within doors, according to the Ghent, Belgium, correspondent of the Echo.

The Overseas News Agency (German) says that according to reliable information Bulgaria and Greece have agreed upon the establishment of a neutral zone between these two countries.

Capt. MacDonald and his wife; W. Joyner, Kingston; J. Lavis, Cobourg, and Robert Milne, Port Hope, were lost when the schooner Cheboygan foundered off Amherst Island a week ago Sunday morning.

Chicago clothing workers, numbering 13,000, left their posts in obedience to the call for a strike to obtain higher wages and better working conditions, which was issued by the Union officials last week.

A new Canadian popular loan is expected early in the New Year and Canadians are urged to keep their money for this instead of investing in the Anglo French loan underwritten in the United States.

Thirty-five children were killed in the streets of New York during September. The total number of deaths for the month due to vehicular traffic was 57, of which automobiles were responsible for 43.

FIELD, nestling at the foot of glorious mountains in the heart of the Kicking Horse Valley, is an important stopping place for tourists through the Canadian Rockies. Here, at the foot of the gigantic Mount Stephen, is the delightful Chalet of the Canadian Pacific, called after the great mountain. From this point there are beautiful drives and pony rides. Along the Ottentail road to the valley of that name is where a magnificent view of the triple-headed Mt. Goodwin is to be had. Then, again, the drive along the Yoho road is one of the longest and finest in the Rockies. It crosses the Kicking Horse River and, following the stream, reaches the Yoho Valley; then swinging round the shoulder of Mt. Field, and continuing up the valley, precipitous cliffs are met. The road ends a short distance past the Takakkaw Falls, a splendid cascade falling over a thousand feet. Near this point every year is a camp which the tourist may make before he takes himself upon other urgent business. Should you carry a stick, he then takes no notice of you in his excitement and says things to you which he would not do. We have five different species of this bird of darkness in Canada, who are distributed as follows: Northern Raven, which is found in certain localities all over Canada. American Crow, which everyone knows to be quite abundant everywhere in Canada. California Crow, which is found as yet only in British Columbia. Northwest Crow, also Clarke's Nutcracker, are both birds of British Columbia, and are occasionally found near the border in Alberta. One wonders why the crow is not extinct. True, he is not quite as abundant as a few years ago, but the flocks seen in our meadows or holding Grand Conclave in our woods are as numerous as ever. The crow is not as black as he is sometimes painted. He now and then gets into trouble with the farmer (like the school children) and he or some other unfortunate member of his tribe pays the penalty. The amount of corn pulled up, however, is in very small proportion to the amount of grubs he destroys. The number of grasshoppers it destroys in a single day is enormous. Sometimes in the fall you will see the meadows black with crows, each and all engaged in a grand grasshopper feast, and the ground that had just before been, to use the expression, alive with hoppers, presents a very poor field for a collector of hoppers after that raid by the crows. Again, the crow is as useful as our street cleaners, take in the number of dead carcasses they devour, which if not for the crows, would be, to say the least, a decided nuisance to the vicinity. Great numbers of crows are being poisoned each year by eating dead foxes, which some man was mean enough to poison, and the unburied bodies of which lie throughout our woods. That is where our Knight of Darkness comes in. They may devour a few eggs in the spring, eat a few grains of corn, or carry off a few of your early spring chickens, but can you blame him? They are unable to find food, and cannot very well starve before taking what is not theirs, when among our own human beings, gifted with more wisdom, we also have a class of thieves. Surely in return for its summer service it can be spared a little. But because of their sins, a very small sin too, they are condemned to be exterminated. In later years, when the crows are all gone, then we will be wishing we had not dealt so harsh with the poor crow. As for me, no greater pleasure can possibly equal that derived from the study of its life and from watching amusing actions, and like the Indian of old, I respect the bird that can outdo me in tricks.

America Not So Big.
On the steamer off the west coast of Africa I picked up an acquaintance with an Englishman who had come aboard somewhere along the Gold Coast. After the usual commonplace he drew, "You are an American?" I admitted the soft impeachment. "Did you ever meet an Englishman over there named Jessup?" was his next query.

I always take Englishmen seriously, so instead of rolling my eyes and explaining what a large country America is, I told him the truth about all the Jessups I happened to know. There were only two—one was a steel agent in New York city and the other was a Y. M. C. A. secretary in Summit, N. J. "That's the chap," said the Briton, unexpectedly. "He used to live next door to me in Birmingham." And he did, you know. And I couldn't keep up my pretense that America was a big country after that. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Perfect Lady.

A philanthropic New York woman was entertaining, in the spacious grounds of her suburban residence, a large number of East-Side children. On her rounds of hospitality she was impressed with one strikingly beautiful little girl. She could not have been more than nine years old, but her coal-black eyes flashed with intelligence. The hostess introduced herself and began a conversation.

"Does what you see here to-day please you?" she asked.

The child eyes her host in silence. "Talk away," said the lady. "Don't be afraid."

"Tell me," then said the child, "how many children have you got?"

Astonished at the question, the lady hesitated for a moment, and then entered into the fun of the situation.

"Ten," she replied.

"Dear me," answered the child, "that is a very large family. I hope you are careful and look after them. Do you keep them all clean?"

"Well, I do my best."

"And is your husband at work?"

"My husband does not do any kind of work. He never has."

"That is very dreadful," replied the little girl earnestly, "but I hope you keep out of debt."

The game had gone too far for Lady Bountiful's enjoyment of it.

"You are a very rude and impertinent child," she burst out, "to speak like that, and to me."

The child became apologetic. "I'm sure I didn't mean to be, ma'am," she explained. "But mother told me before I came that I was to be sure to speak to you like a lady, and when any ladies call on us, they always ask us those questions." —New York Evening Post.

Russia after the War.

A member of the Russian Parliament, in an interview with an American press correspondent, said: "The Russian people are on the threshold of a great awakening. They know that they have good officers and that the fighting strength and spirit of the Russian troops are as high as at the beginning of the war. They know also that they have been forced to retreat or stand helpless before the murderous fire of German artillery, while their own guns have had only a few rounds of ammunition that had to be sparingly used. In my opinion, in this present awakening of the army and the people to the criminal neglect and corruption of the officials, there are the germs of the most serious revolution Russia has ever known—a revolution supported by the army. This revolution will come as soon as the war is over."

Great Idea.

A small boy, seated on the curb by a telegraph pole, with a tin can by his side, attracted the attention of an old gentleman who happened to be passing. "Going fishing?" he inquired, good naturedly.

"No," the youngster replied; "take a peep in there."

An investigation showed the can to be nearly filled with caterpillars.

"What in the world are you going to do with them?" asked the old gent.

"They crawl up trees and eat the leaves off, don't they?" asked the boy.

"So I understand," replied the old gent.

"Well," said the boy, "I'm fooling a few of them."

"How," asked the old gent.

"I'm going to send them up this telegraph pole," answered the boy. —Chicago Herald.

The Common Crow.

This much abused and hated individual finds time very dull. Everywhere he goes he is asked to move himself to somewhere else, and is hurried by a shot, but needless to say is not often "hit." For subtlety, we have yet to find his equal. He knows just how near to let a man with a gun approach, before he takes himself upon other urgent business. WHAT CATARRH IS

It has been said that every third person has catarrh in some form.

Science has shown that nasal catarrh often indicates a general weakness of the body; and local treatments in the form of snuffs and vapors do little, if any good.

To correct catarrh you should treat its cause by enriching your blood with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion which is a medicinal food and a building tonic, free from any harmful drugs. Try it.

2. Where do you live? East Hanover.
3. If not yourself, who would you rather be? Edward Hale.
4. What do you think of the tariff? Excessively high.
5. What is your latest fad? Eating horseshoes.
6. Describe your character. Exceedingly hopeful.
7. What is your favorite flower? Early hyacinth.
8. Your favorite book? "Eben Holden."
9. The height of your ambition? Encouraging hoboes.
10. Your chief accomplishment? Etching horseshoes.
11. Your favorite occupation? Epitaph hunting.
12. Your favorite dish? Eggs and ham.

CHAPTER I. The First Step.

I HAD placed the lumber inside the yards, as directed, and was already retreating the traces when the man crossed the street slowly, switching his light cane carelessly in the air. He was forty or forty-five, heavily built, with a rather pasty white face, a large nose, eyes unusually deep set and a closely clipped mustache, beginning to gray. As I faced him in some surprise he looked me fairly in the eyes.

"You are the lad the train hands put off the Atlantic express at Vernon a week ago," he said. "I came in on the same train. Just caught a glimpse of your face in the light of the brakeman's lantern. How did you get here?" "Freight, two hours later."

"You're not a bum or you wouldn't be working."

I put one foot on the wheel. "Wait a minute," and there was more animation in the tone. "I may have something better for you than this lumber wagon. I'm right, ain't I, in guessing you're no regular bum?"

"I've hummed it most of the way from San Francisco. I had to. I was homesick for the east and lost my transportation. I was discharged at the Presidio."

"Oh, I see. The army—foreign service?" "The Philippines, three years; invalided home."

"You don't look it," his eyes on me. "Never saw a more perfect animal. Fever?"

"No, bolo wound."

He looked at his watch, and I climbed into my seat.

"See here, I haven't time to talk now. If you want an easier job than this come and see me at 9 tonight, and we'll talk it over."

I took the bit of pasteboard he handed up.

"All right, sir, I'll be there on time."

"Come to the side door," he added swiftly, lowering his voice, "the one on the south. Give three raps. By the way, what is your name?"

"Gordon Craig," I answered.

"Ever been known by any other?"

"I enlisted under another. I ran away from home and was not of age."

Out of his sight I looked curiously at the card. It was the advertisement of a clothing house, and on the back was written "P. B. Neale, 108 Chestnut street."

Evidently this man Neale had need of a stranger to help him out in some scheme. Well, if the pay was good and the purpose not criminal I had no objections to the spice of danger. Indeed, that was what I loved in life. I was young, full blooded, strong, willing enough to take desperate chances for sufficient reward.

My father, from whom I had not heard a word in two years, was a prominent manufacturer in a New England village. The early death of my mother had left me to his care when I was but ten years old, and we failed to understand each other, drifting apart, until a final quarrel had sent me adrift. I was in my junior year at Princeton, when the break came. This all occurred four years previous, three of which had been passed in the ranks, yet even now I was stubbornly resolved not to return unsuccessful.

I possessed a fairly decent suit of clothes, now pressed and cleaned after the rough trip from the coast, and that evening I dressed as carefully as possible in the dingy room of my boarding house. It was still daylight, but there was a long walk before me. Chestnut street was across the river, in the more aristocratic section.

It was dark enough when I got there and began seeking the number. I found No. 108. It was slightly back from the street, a large stone mansion, surrounded by a low coping of brick and with no light showing anywhere. I was obliged to mount the front steps before I could assure myself this was the place. I followed the narrow cement walk around the corner of the house. One window on the first floor exhibited a faint glow at the edge of a closely drawn curtain. I rapped on the door three times, my nerves tingling from excitement. There was a moment's delay so that I lifted my hand again, and then the door opened silently.

"Come in," said a man's voice. I stepped within, seeing nothing of the man, and the door was closed behind me. The sharp click of the latch convinced me it was secured by a spring lock.

"Turn on the light," said the voice at my side sharply. Instantly an electric bulb glowed dazzling overhead in a narrow hallway and I blinked, about half blinded by the sudden change.

Neale, appearing somewhat more slender in evening clothes, smiled at me genially, showing a gold crowned tooth, and led the way to a spacious apartment, evidently a library. The high ceiling and restful wall decorations were emphasized by luxurious furnishings. The only light was under a shaded globe on the central table, leaving the main apartment in shadows, but the windows had their heavy curtains closely drawn. The sole occupant was a man in evening dress, seated in a high backed leather chair. With an indolent wave of one hand he seemingly invited me to take a vacant chair to the right, while Neale remained standing near the door.

This new position gave me a better view of his face, but I could not guess his age. He was one of those old young faces, deeply lined, smooth shaven, the hair clipped short, the flesh ashen gray. He must have stared at me a full minute.

"He will do very well, Neale," he decided, with a glance across at the other. "Possibly a trifle young. Have a cigar or a drink, Craig?"

"I will smoke."

"How old are you?"

"Twenty-four."

"Ever been south?"

"Only as far as St. Louis. I was at Jefferson barracks."

"Neale said you were in the army—full enlistment?"

"Yes. Discharged as corporal."

"You would be glad of a job that paid well and wouldn't mind if there was a bit of excitement connected with it, hey?"

"What is your idea of paying well?"

"Expenses liberally figured," he replied slowly, "and $10,000 for a year's work or less if done right."

I half rose to my feet in surprise.

"Sit down, man. This is no pipe dream, and I mean it. In fact, I am willing to hand you half of the money down. See here, Craig, and he leaned forward, peering into my face, "all you have got to do to earn your money is obey orders strictly and keep your tongue still. Do you get that?"

"The proposition looks good. Only I should like to know a little more clearly what I am expected to do."

He slowly lit a fresh cigar, studying the expression of my face in the light as though deciding upon a course of action.

"Very good. We'll come down to facts. It will not take long. In the first place, my name is Vall—Justin O. Vall. I am a lawyer of some reputation in this state, and my entire interest in this affair is that of legal adviser of Mr. Neale. Here is the case as submitted to me: Judge Philo Henley, formerly of the United States circuit court, retired at sixty-four and settled upon a large plantation near Carrollton, Ala. His wife died soon after, and a week or so ago the judge also departed this life, leaving an estate valued in excess of $500,000. Philo Henley and wife had but one child, now a young man of twenty-five years, named Philip. As a boy he was wild and unmanageable, and finally when about twenty years old some prank occurred of so serious a nature that the lad ran away. He came north and was unheard of for some time, living under an assumed name. Later some slight correspondence ensued between father and son, and the boy was granted a regular allowance. Philip remained in the north, led his own life, became dissipated and a rounder and drifted into evil associations. Finally, about six months ago, he married an actress in this city, not of wealthy family, but of respectable antecedents. He married her under his assumed name, and they began housekeeping in a flat on the north side.

"The judge learned of this marriage in some way and began to insist that the son return home with his wife. Circumstances prevented, however, and the visit was deferred. Meanwhile, becoming more eccentric as he grew older, the father discharged all his old servants and lived the life of a recluse. When he died suddenly and almost alone he left a will leaving his property to Philip, providing the young man returned with his wife to live upon the estate within six months; otherwise the entire estate should be divided among certain named charities. Three administrators were named, of whom Neale here was one."

Neale drew a legal looking paper from his pocket.

"Here is a copy of the will," he said, "if Craig cares to examine it."

"Not now," I replied. "Let me hear the entire story first."

"The administrators," Vall went on as though uninterrupted and repeating a set speech, "endeavored to locate young Henley, but failed. Then Mr. Neale was sent here to make a personal search. He came to me for aid and legal advice. Finally we found the flat where the young couple had lived. It was deserted, and we learned from neighbors that they had quarreled, and the wife left him. We have been unable to discover her whereabouts. She did not return to or communicate with her own people in this city. She simply disappeared and, we have some reason to believe, committed suicide. The body of a young woman fitting her general description was taken from the river and buried without identification."

"And young Henley?" I asked as he paused.

"Henley," he continued gravely, "was at last located under an assumed name as a prisoner in the Indiana penitentiary at Michigan City, serving a sentence of fourteen years for forgery. He positively refuses to identify himself as Philip Henley, and all our efforts to gain him a pardon have failed."

"But what have I to do with all this?" I questioned, beginning to have a faint glimmer of the truth.

"Wait. Here was a peculiar situation. The administrators are all old personal friends of the testator, anxious to have the estate retained in the family. Some one must impersonate Philip Henley long enough to permit the settlement of the estate."

I rose to my feet indignantly.

"And you thought I would consent to be a party to this fraud?"

"Now, wait, Craig," as calmly as ever. "This is nothing to be ashamed of nor, so far as I can see as a lawyer, does it involve danger. It will make a man of Henley, reunite him with his wife if she still lives and give him standing in the world. We are merely helping the boy to retain what is rightfully his. Don't throw this chance away hastily. Ten thousand dollars is pretty good pay for a couple of months' work."

I sank back into my chair undecided, yet caught by the glitter of the promise. Why not? Surely, it would do no harm, and, if the administrators were satisfied, what cause had I to object?

"But—but can that be done?" I asked hesitatingly.

GREAT ASSET TO INVENTIONS BOARD

Sir Oliver Lodge Brings Immense Scientific Knowledge.

BROUGHT UP IN POTTERIES

New Member of Central Committee to Assist Lord Fisher in Making New Devices for Army and Navy is Sixty-four Years of Age—He is Deeply Interested in "Spooks."

AMAN of many parts is Sir Oliver Lodge, who has been appointed a member of the Central Committee which will assist Lord Fisher, Chairman of the Inventions Board. Mechanics and electricity, wireless signalling, lightning conductors, educational reform, mathematics for parents and teachers, life and matter—such are the varied subjects he has dealt with in his writings and lectures, not to mention spooks. For Sir Oliver Lodge was one of the founders of the Psychical Research Society, and has always manifested a keen scientific interest in the subject of the life "beyond the veil."

Sir Oliver has known days of struggle. He was born sixty-four years ago at the little village of Penkhill, in Staffordshire, his father being a merchant in the Potteries. The future scientist at first worked with his father, but the latter, recognizing that the boy's heart was not in the business, sent him to London, where he entered University College and laid the foundation of his great success.

Not that Sir Oliver was in any way a brilliant boy. Indeed, he always seemed to be getting into disgrace at the boarding-school he first attended, and has related how the master "kept the cane in his boot, except when he flung it at the class and caned the boy who picked it up and returned it to him. He was always caning some body, and was nicknamed Dick Lar-rup. I used to get on an average about three cuts a day."

Sir Oliver, who is a giant in stature, being much over six feet in height, with a face and head extraordinarily like the late Lord Salisbury, is not the dry-as-dust scientist of tradition. There never was a more unconventional professor, and he is the hero of numberless stories. He is a firm believer in recreation, and when he first began to play golf, a game for which he has the greatest respect, he got Professor Tait to teach him at St. Andrews. "Now remember," said Tait, "you don't play golf with your muscles. You play it with your morals." "But I hope, sir, my morals are not as bad as my golf," said Lodge, cheerfully.

Not Sure of Roumania.

Efforts by Roumania to purchase powder in the United States have failed so far, it is said, because firms approached by the Roumanian Government, having previously received orders for powder from France, had been obliged to pledge themselves not to supply powder to the Teutonic allies. As there has been a possibility that Roumania might swing over to the Teutonic side of the war, these firms are said to have insisted that Roumania convince them that she had no intention of entering the war against the Allies.

Brass Notions Seized.

Hooks and eyes, pins, and buttons made of brass, nickel or tin, must not be sold in Germany by order of the Government, according to a London report. The measure is said to be designed to preserve the dwindling supply of metals. The report adds that members of the Drapers' Association of Berlin have been notified that they must consider as confiscated that part of their stock which includes the above-named articles.

German Officers Lost.

A Rome newspaper says that Germany has lost 43,972 officers since the war began, in killed, wounded, and missing. Included in this total are 123 generals.

Japan Suspends Patents.

Trademark, patent, and other industrial privileges have been taken from Germans in Japan for the duration of the war by the Japanese Government.

ZEPPELIN LOSSES HEAVY.

Germany's Vaunted Dirigibles Have Proved a Terrible Failure.

A despatch to The Daily Express from Geneva says: I learn from a reliable source in Friedrichshafen that the German Headquarters Staff admits the loss of 38 Zeppelins and nine Parseval airships since the war began up to August 1, 1915.

Since that date, a further report states, two Zeppelins and one Parseval are missing.

The majority of the airships were brought down by the Allies' aerial guns, and the rest suffered accidents while landing.

The average cost of these airships is over £100,000 ($500,000), while the newest models cost nearly double this sum. Therefore Germany has lost over £5,000,000 in a year in her airships, bombs from which have killed and wounded 500 persons.

C. G. Grey, editor of The Aeroplane, discussing in The Daily Express reports that Zeppelin sheds are being removed from Brussels to Antwerp, and the fact that Zeppelins are now very frequently seen over Holland, suggests that the activities of British and French aviators have caused the Germans to make a radical change in their plans.

Recently many airship sheds at Brussels and Ghent have been destroyed, and Mr. Grey thinks the German intention is that the raiding headquarters for Zeppelins shall in the future be established at Liege or some point in Germany. Thence they will fly to Antwerp, where they will descend to renew their petrol supply and take up bombs for raids on England. In this way, too, they would have a better chance of evading the Allies' aviators operating from Flanders.

According to Alfred N. Lawson, the publisher of The Aircraft, the destruction caused in London by the airship raid on Sept. 8 was not due principally to Zeppelins, but to dirigibles of the Schuette-Lans type.

Mr. Lawson says that prior to the war there were three Schuette-Lans dirigibles in commission for the German Government, and several larger airships of an improved type have been constructed since the war began. Mr. Lawson is a representative in this country of the Schuette-Lans Airship Company.

Made a Long Journey.

The name of the Emden, Germany's famous raiding cruiser, bobbed up again when the news came that Lieut. Commander Lauterbach, her executive officer, had reached San Francisco after an adventurous journey from Singapore by way of Sumatra, Java, the Philippines, and China. It is said that Lauterbach was concerned in fomenting the uprising of native troops against the English in Singapore.

No Explanations Needed.

The lady jury was out longer than the importance of the case would warrant.

The judge grew impatient. "What's the trouble in there?" he said to the bailiff.

"I'll see," replied the bailiff.

"Hold on," cried the judge. "Tell 'em if there's any knotty points about the case that bother them they should appeal to me."

"Yes, your honor."

The bailiff goes to the door of the jury room and returns.

"Well?"

"They ain't got to the case yet, your honor. They're still discussin' the plaintiff's clothes."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Volcanoes in New Zealand.

New Zealand's volcanic phenomena are accounted for in the Maori legends in the following manner: One of the first chiefs to reach New Zealand from the ancient home in Hawaiki brought with him a trusted follower, Ngauruhoe, with whom he set out to examine the country. When they reached the highest peak they suffered much from cold, and the chief shouted to his sister on a far distant island to send some of the fire which had been brought in canoes from Hawaiki. This fire immediately came in a southwesterly line, subterraneously burning forth on the summit where the chief and his follower sat freezing. It arrived in time to save the life of the former, but not that of Ngauruhoe, whose name is commemorated in the highest peak of the Tongariro mountains. Geysers, hot springs and fumaroles mark the course of the subterranean passage. Mount Egmont stands in solitary grandeur because he, as one of the three giants, quarreled with the other two, Tongariro and Ruapehu, and had to fly to the coast to escape their wrath.

TEACHERS IN CONVENTION

Large Gathering—Excellent Addresses—A Most Successful Meeting.

The Annual Convention of Teachers connected with the Carleton West and Lanark East inspectorate was held in the Town Hall, Carleton Place, on Thursday and Friday of last week. The weatherman was considerate, and handed out two of the most perfect days of the season and consequently a record attendance was secured.

Promptly at 9 o'clock Thursday morning, Miss Cornell, president, took the chair and called on Rev. Mr. Henderson to open the meeting. Mr. Henderson addressed a few appropriate remarks to the teachers on the importance and responsibility of their profession.

General routine work occupied the attention of the teachers until 11 o'clock, when Dr. J. L. Hughes, of Toronto, spoke on "Modern Tendencies in Education." The Dr. was especially severe on examinations, especially entrance examinations, saying that he hoped to live to see the day when the examination system would be abolished.

At 1:30 p.m. Mr. Fleming, of the Ottawa Normal School, gave illustrations of "Blackboard Decoration and Illustration," showing how the board may be used in the teaching of many subjects.

Miss Fife, of the public school, Carleton Place, gave an exhibition of Physical Culture with a class of twelve girls, which was very highly commented upon.

TEACHERS' PENSIONS.

Dr. J. H. Putnam, Senior Inspector of the Ottawa Public Schools, was next introduced, and gave a very full report on the working of the Superannuation Scheme, now a very live issue with teachers. According to the present bill teachers pay 2% of their salary, School Boards an amount equal to 1% of the teacher's salary, and the government pays 2%. After 40 years' service the teacher would receive forty-sixtieths of the average salary for the last ten years. When the teachers came to sign they broke about even, many claiming that the time—40 years—was too long, and the rate too high. It is expected that the necessary amendments will be considered at the coming session of the Ontario Legislature.

Miss Leach, of Carleton Place, followed with a paper on her work at the summer school, Toronto.

The teachers and citizens generally then assembled at the Central School grounds, where Dr. Hughes reviewed the two Cadet Corps under command of Instructors Wethey and Robertson. The two Corps were afterwards addressed by Dr. Hughes, and many words of good counsel given. After giving three cheers for Dr. Hughes and King George the gathering dispersed.

THE EVENING SESSION.

The evening meeting was a decided success and was attended by many of the citizens of the town. On the platform with the Chairman, Principal Robertson, were Mr. Jas. Richards, chairman of the Board of Education; Professor J. F. Macdonald, of Queen's, and Dr. J. L. Hughes, Toronto.

After a few well chosen words by the Chairman the audience was favored with a recitation by Miss Mary McNeely which was well received.

Professor Macdonald, who received a very hearty reception from many of his former scholars, then gave an interesting address on "The Beginnings of the English Drama." The Professor showed a thorough knowledge of his subject, and kept the attention of the audience for about an hour.

Mr. C. C. Brown and Mrs. (Rev.) J. J. Monds followed with two well rendered solos—"Afton Waters" by the former, and "Sing, Sweet Bird," by the latter. Dr. Hughes paid a high compliment to Mr. Brown for his exquisite singing, and thought Carleton Place was fortunate in having him in their midst, expressed his inability to pass judgment on the lady soloist's exquisite rendering.

Dr. Hughes then gave an address on "Vital Elements in Character Training." He outlined ten of the leading thoughts that every teacher should instill into the mind of the child.

Both lecturers received a hearty vote of thanks, which was replied to by Dr. Hughes, and the chairman on behalf of the teachers thanked all others who had in any way assisted in making the evening meeting a success.

The meeting closed by singing "God Save the King."

THE SECOND DAY.

On Friday morning devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. J. J. Monds, after which the president called on Mr. E. J. Wethey for his paper on "Beginnings in Arithmetic." The paper was historic and most instructive. Miss Mallinson had her class give a few kindergarten songs, much to the enjoyment of all.

This was followed by the report of the delegate, Mr. King, to the O.E.A., Toronto.

Mr. Roy F. Fleming then gave his second paper entitled, "The Use of Plant and Animal Life in Representation and Design." Both papers were well received, and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Fleming.

At the afternoon session Mr. Wm. McNeely gave a paper on "Outdoors," and for an hour kept the teachers interested in his topic. He advised keeping in the schools specimens of woods, flowers, weeds, minerals, etc., found in this locality.

A number of five minute addresses were then given, after which the various committees reported their findings.

The meeting-place for next year is Ottawa, and the officers are as follows: Hon. Pres. W. C. Froats, M.A., B. Paed.; Past Immediate Pres. Miss Mary Cornell; President, Mrs. McVetty, Richmond; Sec.-Treas., Miss Maud Matlack, Almonte.

One of the best meetings of the Institute was then brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

A Red Cross Appeal.

The following telegram has been received by His Worship Mayor Smythe: I beg to inform you that Lord Lansdowne has sent me the following cablegram: I beg to inform you that the British Red Cross Society and the Order of St. John, in view of the great demands on their resources, both in France and in the near east, have decided to make an appeal through the empire by street and other collections, upon the 21st day of October next.

The money received from this appeal will be devoted entirely to relieve the suffering of our wounded soldiers and sailors from home and overseas at the various seats of war. From all parts of the King's dominions we have already received generous assistance in our work, but with the increase of British and overseas forces at the front, there is a corresponding increase in our expenditure, and we shall be truly grateful to you if you will help us by organizing an appeal and sending the proceeds to us for the object which I have named. I shall be greatly obliged if you will kindly communicate the foregoing to your government. Their majesties the King and Queen and her majesty Queen Alexandra are giving us their gracious patronage and I trust that you will also be able to see your way to help. Lansdowne, in view of the urgency and importance of this first appeal that the motherland has made to us, confidently trusts that you will at once organize with a view to getting a worthy contribution from the people of your municipality on October 21st.—John S. Hendrie, Lieut.-Governor.

The Union Bank of Canada begs to acknowledge the following subscriptions to the London Times Overseas Tobacco Fund:

Dr. D. H. McIntosh, Mrs. D. H. McIntosh, J. H. Edwards, R. D. Carmichael, Miss Jessie McGregor, Miss Mary Hooper, Miss Kate Rushworth, W. A. Nichols, Fred Morris, Wellington Hawkins (Almonte), 25c each.

N. M. Cram, Colin McIntosh, 50c each.

Mrs. Jessie McDonald, $1.00.

Total $4.50. Previously acknowledged $73.25.

The merchant who advertises that a man in ill fitting clothes is like a badly-bound hymn book, wins the prize, but one must remember, all the same, that a man is not to be judged by the clothes he wears, for oft times the well-dressed man owes his tailor and everybody else.

Notices are now posted in conspicuous places in the bars of the hotels of Ottawa, stating that lagers, ales, soft drinks, cigars and cigarette only will be served to persons in military uniform on and after to-day. This means that neither officers nor men in uniform will be served at any time with wines and spirits in any of the hotels. The proprietors pledge themselves to observe this rule in an agreement which they have signed.

TORTURING SCIATICA.

A Severe Sufferer Cured through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Fierce darting pains—pains like red hot needles being driven through the flesh—in the thigh; perhaps down the legs—to the ankles—that's sciatica. None but the victim can realize the torture. But the sufferer need not grow discouraged for there is a cure in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills make new, rich, red blood, which soothes and strengthens the feeble nerves, and thus frees them from pain and restores the sufferer to cheerful activity. In proof we give the statement of Mr. Thos. D. Leinster, Wapella, Sask., who says: "I was attacked with sciatica which gradually grew worse until I was confined to my bed; for three months I had to be shifted and turned in my bed as I was utterly unable to help myself. I suffered the greatest torture from the fierce, stabbing pains that accompanied every movement. I consulted several doctors and took drugs and medicines until I was nauseated, but without getting any benefit, and I began to believe I would be a continuous sufferer. Finally I was prevailed upon to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and after taking them for about six weeks I was able to get out of bed. From that on I kept steadily improving until I was free from this terrible and painful malady."

The most stubborn cases of sciatica will yield to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills if the treatment is persisted in. These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
